The establishment of a junior college district for our area appears to be a little nearer reality today. The Hereford School Board of Trustees made formal application Wednesday to the Texas Coordinating Board for Colleges and Universities and the climate appears to be favorable.

The local Citizen's group gathered more than 900 names on the petitions that will be presented to the Coordinating Board, although certainly some of these names will not be valid. And this is a strange twist. It seems that one must have declared his property for taxation for his signature on the petition to be valid, and that's not out of the ordinary. However, when it comes to the eventual election, everyone who has property "subject to taxation" will be eligible to vote, provided of course, that he or she has registered to do so. Almost everyone, it seems, has property subject to taxation, If you own a car, or furniture, etc., that property is "subject to taxation," although you may not now be on the tax rolls.

Anyway, we've had lots of favorable comments concerning the proposed college. There is also some opposition.

In talking to people around town, we find that those most enthusiastic for the college district are the younger couples with children in the grades and high school, who can see the definite financial advantages of having a college in our city. There are also a number of adults who would further their education, either academically or vocationally, if the facilities were available here. A recent survey by the local Citizen's Committee indicated strong support in this area. Those opposed are generally those with fixed incomes who can see the additional taxes taking away a little more all the time. And these people certainly have a valid argument.

.The only thing that we can say in defense of our position in this respect is that we sincerely believe the time is approaching when we, the taxpayers, will be paying for a junlor college anyway, and we would most certainly hope that it will be in Hereford.

The trend now is to the establishment of junior colleges all over the state. The Texas Coordinating Board has indicated that they want 80 such institutions scattered throughout Texas, an addition of 40. They do not want to expand the present number of 4-year schools. It's going to take money to support these institutions and we're going to pay the bill. If a college is located in Hereford, we at least have the opportunity of lower cost education for our own youngsters, plus the added advantage of bringing additional revenue into our local economy.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is getting ready to expand their operations in Hereford and although we do not know the extent of the expansions, we understand that they are making room for the addition of 1000 new numbers.

We should have an announcement on the expansion program in time for the Sunday Brand,

—HB— Gaston Baer says that he recently experienced what some of us would refer to as "life's most embarrassing moment." Returning from the Amarillo store recently, Gaston, in an effort to avoid some bumps in the road, was weaving his car a little. He was immediately stopped by a highway patrolman who made him "walk the white line."

"He never accused me of being intoxicated," Gaston said, "but he sure did look me over closely." Not being a drinking man. Gaston thought the whole thing a little amusing. after it was over. "It was a little embarrassing at the time," he said.

Believe it was Louis Woodford who made the remark that he moved to Texas from Kentucky to "make a million." That didn't materialize, so he decided to try to "make a living" and now, he says, we're trying to 'live on what we make."

He's got a point there.

(Continued from Page 1) seeds were planted for what was to become the nation's number one two-piano team,

In the heginning, of course, they only did duets at one piano. Then they began to realize how much more could be done with two pianos. They received considerable encouragement but when they graduated from Juilliard it was to discover that there was little work for piano teams. Thus a long and sometimes bitter struggle that was to last for twelve years began and carried them across the length and breadth of the United States before they finally gained their recognition, -

Their recording of the theme music from the motion picture "The Apartment" lifted them for relative obscurity to the first plateau of their popularity as performing artists. United Artists backed them with a full orchestra and they really hit it. This was something of a precedent shattering experie n c e. Many so-called experts warned "Two pianos? It'll never sell!" But this record brought about a startling change among recording executives, "The Apartment" sold 750,000 records in the first three weeks alone.

Today, nearly every jukebox the nation features popul a r singles by Ferrante & Teicher. They have sold over 20 million records and have won eleven gold record awards (eight gold LP albums and three millionseller singles).

Naturally, there are many people today still amazed at the seemingly big over-night success of the two piano team. Trouble is, few people know that 'that night' was many years in the making. After graduating from Juilliard as piano majors under the late renowned Carl Friedberg, both accepted professorships to teach theory and composition at this famed music institute. While both enjoyed such instruction and the subsequent honor of being the youngest members ever appointed to Juilliard's esteemed faculty,

1. Extend the school bus system to Canyon so these students can attend WTSU.

2. Use the present facilities of Hereford High School after hours (from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. on weekdays and on Saturdays) for junior college level classes.

Of course, both of these proposals have the disadvantage of not spending much money.

In case someone thinks I am prejudiced against junior colleges, let me assure them, I am. My experiences in transferring from a junior college to a 4 year college are such that you'll never hear me bragging about my alma mater, good old Grand Rapids Junior College.

Letter To The Editor

Editor. This letter is not to be interpreted as a complaint against anyone or any group but is written in the sincere hope of focusing attention on a very real community problem. This Friday the two-piano team of Ferrante ant Teicher will appear at the Hereford High School Auditorium. This particular performance was booked as the feature attraction of the Community Concert series. Many people invested $10 per membership just to hear these great artists. The date has been well publicized and listed in the community calendar published in this paper and listed over radio KPAN. Many of the people who have invested in memberships in Hereford Community Concerts have boys in the Boy Scout and Cub Scout program. They find that the Kwahadi Dancers, a fine group of interpretative dancers of Indian tribal dances. will appear in Hereford on the same night. Many people will be torn between their obligation to their children and their desire to hear Ferrante and Teich-

The point of my letters is simply that groups schedul in g public performances of wide public interest would do well to check more closely the calendar of events. With 365 days in a year in a city of our size it should never be that such conflicts occur, and yet they regularly do. Please check the calendar. Unfortunately because of national bookings of our artists Community Concerts cannot make adjustments of its dates. For that reason we always try to announce our dates and clear the calendar as early as possible. This concert has been contracted and announced since early September. Thank you. W. T. Thompson President Hereford Community Concerts Association

In Deaf Smith County, the fifures indicate, approximately $133 at the local level, What proportion of the local 60 per cent of all public spendbudget goes for school construc- ing is for education. In some in others, quite a bit more.

Nationally, the average is 48 percent. It is 55 percent in the State of Texas.

The analysis of local governmental expenditures, made every five years, is based upon data compiled by the Department of Commerce for its current "Census of Governents". The previous one was in 1962.

The report shows that total spending in Deaf Smith County for public purposes amounted to $213 per local resident in the year. Of this, $127 was for education.

Critical Period For Erosion

Damage from wind erosion has already occured to some fields in Deaf Smith County this year and there will be more if protetion is not given soon. The critical "blow period" is just ahead of us.

There is only one permanent cure for wind erosion on agricultural land. The land must be kept covered with either plant residues or with growing plants at least during the critical blow period. Fields where sugar beets have been harvested may be in a condition to blow.....

If you don't have sufficient plant cover-dead or alive-you can use "emergency tillage as a temporary measure. Emergency Tillage roughens the surface of the soil enough to give temporary protection ag a i n s t wind erosion. Us eit only when there is too little plant residue or too few grwing plants to hold the soil. Its purpose is not the breaking of hardpans or tillage pans although some of this may result. Avoiding as much tillage as possible is important in conser-

According to a survey of 1,200 school districts, made by tion and maintainance, for tea- communities the proportion is School Management Magazine somewhat lower than that and, the average school is depending 13 percent more per pupil this year than last.

The current outlay is $582 per elementary pupil, compared with $516 in 1969, and $757 per secondary pupil, as against $671 previously.

The increase has had little effect, however, on the quality vation because . tillage buri e s plant residues, hastens the loss of organic matter, pulverizes the soil, speeds up loss of soil moisture and in other ways hurt the physical condition of the soil. Emergency Tillage, therefore, should be used only as a last resort, but it should be used if a field is blowing. For the type of soils we have here in this area, chiseling is the best way to turn up the kind of clods that control blowing.

Each farmer knows his own land and knows whether or not it is in a condition to blow this spring. Soil blowing not only hurts the particular land owner involved, but damages adjoining land and pollutes the air.

Games People Play which has a psychological theme and a song based on this idea.

But there is one, apart from any of these, never mentioned or publicized. It is known as the waiting game. It is one in which the stakes are high and the players are in it, not by choice. It is the wives and mothers (or parents) who are one side and the servicemen on the other,

There are no set rules for these players - unless you count those of the military for the servicemen - and waiting and hoping for the best by the other side. The motions involved are many.

In four months, short ones to us but long ones to them the new Red Cross sponsored organization of Waiting Wives and Mothers of servicemen have had many events to occur. The game is an every-changing one.

At the last combined group meeting these experiences were shared: One wife told simply of how that very day she had been filled with fear when she received from her husband a special registered package. Upon 'slowly opening it, happiness returned only when she found small items, except one - the Bronze Star. He had not told her of this! How modest our soldiers are!!

She said, "This has been my good-news day." When his Viet Nam assignment is complete he will be sent to either Germany or Italy. She hopes it will be the latter but it will not matter if only she can be with him.

That this is truly a small world was proved recently when this same wife sadly enplaned for home after meeting her husband in Hawaii for his Rest and Recuperation (R.R). The Waiting Wives group had been told by one wife her husband was soon to be out of service. He was on the same plane with the returning wife but they did not meet until they reached Albuquerque. She recognized him and walked over and spoke to him. Then upon arrival in Amarillo her day was brightened by seeing the reunion of the wife, tenmonth-old-daughter and the serviceman. He had not seen them for seven months.

One of the humorous incidents had been furnished earlier by this reunited wife. Her husband had sent her only one billfold size picture. She now reluctantly, and in a provoked manner, displayed it to the group. No wonder, the handsome young husband had a huge snake coiled around his neck. Imagine having to look at this addition each time you wanted to see your husband's face! The other wives laughed at this one, but in sympathy.

A Navy wife is now counting the days -and the group counts with her - until her husband will be on leave. She will go with him to the East coast where he will be located a few weeks before his next orders.

Still another one of the group, whose husband had only recently gone into service announced she will be having her second child before he returns. She had just learned of this fact. She lives with her parents as do some of the wives, while one has her own apartment with a sister staying with her. Two of the wives work while they wait.

The mothers group meets once a month only with the wives, as they have their families and other interests. But the wives meet more often, socially, or for planned tours, rograms, business or shopping tris.

Under projects they have made and sent cookies to the servicemen at Christmas and Valentine. The mothers will send pre-Easter goodies to the servicemen and serve refreshments at the next joint meeting.

They all send special food requests to the men which may be canned or dried Mexican food, cheddar cheese or even fresh tomatoes in season. Air mail makes many unusual food requests available to the servicemen.

The group of wives are learning other home-making lessns too. They exchange recipes, learn about home decoration-even on a temporary basis; crocheting of current popular apparel. And will develop others as the need arises or as they see fit, Both wives and mothers write daily or diary-like letters regularily. These they try to keep cheerful, newsy and affectionate. They also send amusing little articles or gifts. Such requests for Texas flags are filled. The women at home have maps of the far East and know location of their men. They follow the news and watch results of battles, both large and small.

The boys write that on American holidays the US flag is seen everywhere. They fly where spots can be found for flying, or cover walls and hang out of windows.

Evidently the American mother and wife |consider Bob Hope our best commedian as do the boys, Recent surveys show that his Christmas show broke all records for viewers. Those of the Waiting Mothers and Wives group frankly admitted they watched eagerly, just hoping they might see for an instant, their man.

Little spots of happiness brighten the meeting such as one wife modeled her beautiful Viet Nam costume. Informal talks, questions and answers usually end all get-togethers.

If any one is interested in joining the club, you may call the Red Cross office, this writer, or the officers of the organization. Mrs. Jerry Curtsinger, chairman, Mrs. Jerry Curry, news reporter, Mrs. Ronald Long, chairman of projects and membership and Mrs. Bryan Baum, chairman of entertainment, Saint Valentine's Day et's make St Valentine's Day unanimous. Let's say "I love you" to at least one other person. It is a bright and good day in the Christian calendar. Every one of us is the better man because he dares to love. The heart and the cross belong together. You cannot truly love without honoring the principle of sacrifice. Saint Valentine was a Christian martyr, beheaded by Claudius, emperor of Rome about the year 50 A.D. He loved enough to surrender his life in the service of God. The heart and the cross tell us that God is love, that he loved enough to give all for us. Will St. Valentine succeed in winning you and me to a genuine love for God that will not count the cost? The best text for St. Valentine's Day is John 3:16.

Jack Tompkins and Charlie Bolls explore outdoor activities in our area

If there is anyone on the Pro News team who must endure more torment than Van Dyke, it would have to be Channel 7's Weatherman, Bill Stone. This affable man-of-the-elements faces the formidable task of predicting the behavior of Nature's most unpredictable phenomenon. But Stone stands square to the odds, draws deep from nearly thirty years experience, and fires his forecast. I've checked up on the results: his aim is good.

Take Jim Pratt, for example. As KVII's Managing Editor, Jim must put his twenty-two years of broadcasting experience on the line before each newscast: it's up to him to determine which of the thousands of daily happenings will be of greatest interest to area viewers. It's the kind of job that would make a lesser

Tompkins Keeps Tabs on Rapidly Growing Cattle Feeding Industry

In response to viewer requests, KVIT's programming department has made several changes in the Spring line-up that should win approval of TV fans.

The most notable new show is MAJOR ADAMS with Ward Bond at 10:45 following Pro News Monday through Friday.

The morning line-up sees the much acclaimed "SESAME STREET" series at 8:00 already proving to be a children's favorite.

Famous TIMMY AND LASSIE find a home at 10:00, just before GALLOPING GOURMET at 10:30.

JUDD FOR THE DEFENSE, who's been keeping late hours on Channel 7, moves to 3:00 each weekday afternoon, followed by DARK SHADOWS, THE MUNSTERS, "F" TROOP, and GILLIGAN'S ISLAND.

Movie fans get another night on KVII with the addition of FRIDAY CINEMA SEVEN at 11:45, following MAJOR ADAMS. the cattle industry has become a prime support to the economy.
Jack Tompkins, KVII's Farm and Ranch Director, keeps Channel 7 viewers abreast of the changing influences on the cattle market. Through his many contacts with key people in the industry, Tompkins is able to provide immediate information on fluctuations in the market.
In addition to cattle news, Tompkins also features grain and hog prices on his daily reports at 6:45 a.m. and noon on KVII.

It's all part of the $6-billion and still-growing cattle feeder-packing industry in the Texas Panhandle. With over a million head of cows being finished out in area feedlots,
