Representatives of all local baseball programs, under financial pinch from lack of operating funds, are considering the possibility of completely re-vamping the present setup and replacing it with a governing board to handle all youth baseball programs for Hereford.

Officers and representatives of the newly organized Bronco Baseball League, in a meeting Thursday, said their league has discussed the possibility with members of the other leagues and that the general opinion is that a change is needed.

Officials of the Bronco League have set try-outs for April 5-9, excluding April 7, at the former Little League Park. A registration is carried on an inside page of this issue of the Brand for any boy who did not get one but would like to play Bronco Baseball.

John Bunch, president of the Bronco League, said the organization of a new baseball league governing body would solve many of the problems now facing the Colt, Pony and Bronco baseball leagues.

This year the United Fund allocated $5,100 combined to the three leagues, and if you have any idea what it takes to run just these three organizations, you know it is nowhere near enough," he said.

The Pony league hoped to make $1,000 on the area tournament here last year, but lost $1,400 instead. When the United Fund did not allocate what the Colt league requested Bunch said, it suddenly put both leagues in "terrible" financial trouble. The Bronco League, which operated under the slightly different framework of Little League last year, also got less money than it requested from the United Fund.

"I'm not saying the United Fund isn't doing right, but look at what they gave to the Red Cross. The Red Cross is a good organization, but the money given to them does not stay in this community. It goes to where there is a disaster and we don't get the full use of it here in Hereford, unless of course there is a disaster here," he said.

"I'm not criticizing the Red Cross or United Fund, but our kids mean a lot to us and without these programs it is hopeless," Bunch said.

The Bronco League president said a governing body would be the best solution to the problems, although it certainly would not solve all of them. The seven-man governing board would consist of representatives of each of the leagues. All matters pertaining to the operation of the leagues would be handled by the board.

The different baseball organizations also are trying to get several acres of land in Veteran's Park to convert into a lighted baseball field for night games for Colt and American Legion teams.

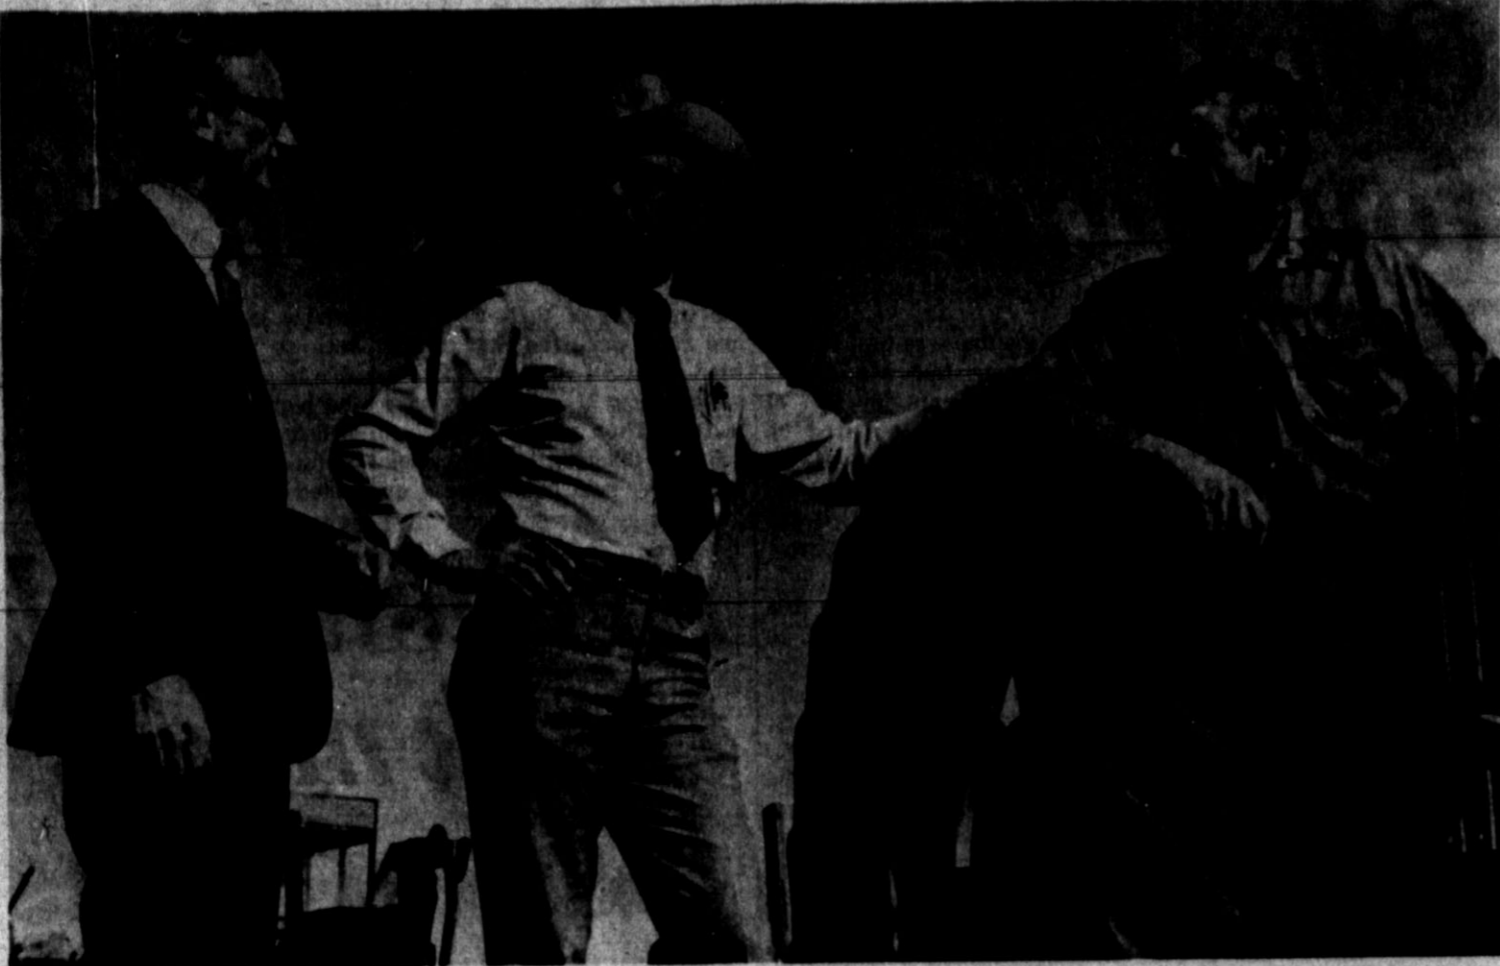

The parks board of the American Legion reportedly is on the verge of making a decision as to whether to donate the land. Bunch said the baseball organization already has gotten the lights that were replaced at the high school football field last year, and old telephone poles will be donated.

Work on the new field, if it is made available, will be done by various interested persons. Bunch and the Bronco League officials have asked the Jaycees for assistance with this project and several others.

The Bronco League has solicited the support of the newly organized Hereford Jaycees to help with the annual candy sales, the collection of money by "passing the hat" at the games, and helping with the officiating at some games.

A member of the Jaycees met with the Bronco League officials Thursday, then presented the proposals to the Jaycees at the extent requested and indicated they would look seriously into providing additional financial and moral support through various means.

"We, and I mean all our Jaycees voted unanimously to see BALL, Page 2

LETTUCE TALK — Three men closely involved with the area lettuce industry talk about hopes of learning from area lettuce growers information they hope will play a vital role in the crop's future. From left they are John Aikin, legal counsel for the Texas Vegetable Marketing Association; Ed Garnett, area farm management specialist with Texas A&M Extension Service; and Bruce Parr, president of TVMA.

Drive starts for data on area lettuce

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Local farm leaders are appealing to lettuce growers — past and present — to determine if a proposed new national policy would be a financial windfall or a disaster to this area's lettuce industry.

They want anyone who grew lettuce in the Magic Triangle area of Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties in the years 1967, 1968 or 1969 to call County Agent Justin McBride and leave their name.

Each one will be contacted later, then, by someone to find out how much acreage and cartons of production he made.

The new policy is under advisement by the Secretary of Agriculture in Washington. Growers in the two leading vegetable states — California and Arizona — are seeking a federal marketing order that would stabilize the production and marketing of lettuce. It would limit lettuce growing to those who grew lettuce, or attempted to, in 1967, 1968 or 1969. The maximum each could grow would be determined by their production in those years, or during a five-year period ending in 1968 or 1969.

Even if a person grew lettuce then and had since gotten out of it, he would be able to sell, rent or lease his base to someone else.

Ed Garnett, of Amarillo, area farm management specialist for Texas A&M Extension Service, and officers of the Texas Vegetable Marketing Association went to a recent public hearing in Albuquerque to give information concerning lettuce growing in this area.

On hand were Bruce Parr, TVMA president; and Charles Schlabs, a TVMA director.

"Neither the extension service or the Texas Vegetable Marketing Association is for it or against it at this point. What we're trying to do is get the best deal we can for growers in this area," Garnett said.

The information from growers about their past production needs to be gathered immediately, with mid-April an absolute deadline for inclusion in the brief which Hereford lawyer John Aikin is preparing.

"What's caused all this chaos is that over the past 10 years, the growers in the Hereford area have averaged losing $151,000 a year, and that includes 1967 when they made a lot of money. Consequently, we've got a lot of inners and outsiders. People will jump in because the price was high the previous year, or get out because the price was low. This proposal would take some of the high risk out of lettuce, because the production and the price would be more nearly the same year after year," Garnett continued.

Even if a past grower never intends to get back into lettuce-producing, the policy could prove a financial windfall to him. "If you've got a base, you can grow and sell lettuce, and if you don't want to, then you could sell this base, or lease it or rent it, just like stock in a corporation. This becomes a tangible asset that belongs to him. At the Albuquerque hearing, for example, it was mentioned that this base might be worth $5 per carton.

"I'm not saying it is worth this or that anyone would offer that, but say a grower qualified for 10,000 cartons of production. The growers in California estimated these bases would be worth as much as $5 per carton, so this base would be worth $50,000 if he wanted to sell it to somebody else."

If the Secretary of Agriculture approves the policy, it would be voted on by referendum, with those qualifying as growers, voting on it.

If there is such insufficient response to indicate that the base in this area would be too low, there is a strong possibility the brief to the USDA would ask that the federal marketing order exclude the Magic Triangle area from its provisions.

"If we don't get the response on this, we could in effect lose the industry for this area. The way we could lose this is to be cut to such a low volume that we couldn't get the labor in to handle it or the sheds to harvest it, as well as other problems associated with such a low volume," Garnett said.

On the other hand, he added, "we could come in on a much more solid basis than we've been on in the past."

Once the information is available, the local farm leaders may find the total is not as much as they have been thinking it would be. Or it could be more. Because of the "in and out" shift in the area lettuce industry, there is no substantial basis on which to make an accurate estimate.

Garnett made "just a guess" that as many as 200 persons have grown lettuce at one time or another. He feels it essential, both for the pocketbook of the individual and the community, that the grower call McBride's office with the information. The lower the overall production reported, the lower the county would be limited to in the future.

If the reported acreage and production were bigger than this area would now be likely to take on, the farmers with the base but not the inclination, could rent, sell, or lease their base to others — either in this state or elsewhere — and reap the profits.

This area's biggest lettuce crop was in 1967 when the production was 615,000 hundred-weight, or about 1.3 million cartons. The lowest was in 1969, when 155,000 hundred weight was harvested.

The Magic Triangle, although it is the source of almost all the lettuce grown in Texas, represents a very small portion (1.6 per cent) of the national total.

The weather plays a part in that.

"We have a unique situation here as far as the weather is concerned. Early freezes, hail, fall rains, and the wind put us in a different position, production-wise, with other areas. We have problems they don't have," Garnett said.

"For example, in this area over the past 10 years, for every one acre we harvested, we had to plant 1.3 acres. We had to abandon about 25 per cent of our crop, while the rest of the United States as a whole had

Kiwanis banquet is near

Kiwanians and their guests are expected to fill the Bull Barn to near-capacity Tuesday night for a reception and banquet honoring their international president, Ted Johnson of Denver.

Ticket sales closed Thursday afternoon, with more than 700 lined up to attend.

The Hereford High School Stage Band, made up of the school's top musicians, will provide entertainment.

The reception is at 6:30 p. m., followed by the banquet at 7 p. m.

Dean Herring, general chairman overseeing plans for the banquet, said Johnson is due to arrive at Amarillo Airport in mid-afternoon. Following a news conference, Johnson will be driven to Hereford.

Johnson is a banking and finance executive in Denver. Kiwanians elevated him to the presidency at their 55th annual convention last June in Detroit.

It is the first time the international president of a civic club ever appeared officially in Hereford, although Johnson himself attended the chartering of the Hereford Whiteface Breakfast Kiwanis Club two years ago, when he was international treasurer.

Johnson will spend Tuesday night in Hereford and fly on Wednesday to Durant, Okla., where he will address another banquet. He is at a banquet in Kingsville on Monday.

Kingsville will mark the first time an international Kiwanis president has officially appeared in a city that size. Hereford is smaller still, and Durant also,

FCA group kickoff meet is Thursday

Adults of the Hereford area who wish to be part of a new Fellowship of Christian Athletes chapter here will meet at the Civic Center Thursday morning for a big kickoff breakfast.

All those desiring to be charter members of the organization should plan to be at the breakfast meeting according to Calvin Gooden, the man-elected to be its first president.

The breakfast, which starts at 8:30 a. m., buffet style, will begin at 6:30 a. m. and the meeting at 7 a. m. It will be over before 8 a. m.

Approximately 45 men officially organized the organization March 11, in a meeting at the high school cafeteria. The chapter's purpose will be to plan and conduct meaningful Christian programs and to promote interest and active participation in the programs.

The FCA is open to any male adult in the area "who ascribes to the purpose of FCA, has an interest in athletics, is a church member and evidences a desire to carry out the mission of the Fellowship by willingly contributing his time, talent and means toward its objectives.

Formation of the adult chapter also made it possible for a student "Huddle" group to organize. The adult chapter's primary goal this spring will be to raise funds to send a number of local high school athletes to a one-week summer FCA conference in Estes Park, Colo., where they will associate with nationally renowned college and professional athletes in a program built on a Christian theme.

Other officers, besides Gooden, are Earl Stagner, first vice president; Pat Hughes, second vice president; B. F. Cain, secretary; Harlan Vander Zee, treasurer; Phil Tucker, program chairman; Homer Garrison, membership chairman; Charles Richards, publicity chairman; and Larry Dippel, liaison with the Huddle Group. A second Huddle Group liaison officer will be named later.

Huddle Group officers named in a Thursday night meeting of the athletes, are Eugene Suttle, president; Danny Harris, vice president; Charles Allison, secretary; and Larry Roberts, treasurer.

SPELLING CHAMP — Jeanne Hair, sixth grader at Shirley Elementary, received a rose bouquet from the school's janitor, Ludwig Kovacs, following her winning of the junior spelling bee Thursday. Miss Hair then outspelled six other contestants in the final contest Friday and became county champion.

One 'illustration' is worth 120 words to city's spelling champ

Little Jeanne Hair, who just 24 hours before the County Spelling Bee didn't know if she was even going to enter, outspelled six other contestants Friday to earn the right to represent Deaf Smith County in the district Spelling Bee in Amarillo.

The 11-year-old Shirley elementary School six grader won the contest by spelling "illustration." She defeated D'Lynn Davison, a 13-year-old Stanton student, who missed the word "permitted."

Jeanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hair of 809 Star St. She won the Junior Spelling Bee on Thursday when she spelled "advantageous" and

"asparagus" after runnerup Dee Ann Calson went down on the word "advantageous".

The 14 participants in the Junior Bee went a record 120 rounds before Jeanne won the championship.

By winning the local contest, Jeanne is now eligible to participate April 24 in the Regional Spelling Bee in Amarillo to determine the district champion. The regional champion will go to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D. C. the week of June 7-12.

Director for this year's local bees was County Judge H. C. Williams. Judges were Mrs. George Turrentine, Marvin Coffey and Bill Austin.

Herd cindermen finish 2nd

The Hereford Whitefaces collected points in almost every event in the annual Hereford Relays here Saturday, but had to settle for second best behind a well-balanced Lubbock Coronado team.

Hereford finished the meet with 96 points, behind Coronado's 120. Amarillo High was third with 84, followed by Canyon with 76, Clovis with 73, Levelland with 58 and Muleshoe with 7.

The Hereford JV's finished seventh with 34 points, behind the winning 105 points of Vega, in the nine-team small school division.

Hereford had a slight chance to win the meet with a high finish in the final event, the relay, and a low finish in the mile relay and the 300-yard dash.

Going into that final race, Hereford trailed, 100 to 90.

Making points for the Whitefaces were Wesley High, third in the 120 high hurdles; Larry McNutt, first in the 100-yard dash; Keith Kitchens, third in the 330-intermediate hurdles; John Page, first in the discus, Charles Ross, third in the discus; Jimmy Henson, second in the mile; High, fourth in the pole vault; George Fuller, second in the broad jump; and Richard Sierra, sixth in the shot.

The Whiteface's Larry McNutt ran a preliminary time of 22.7 in the 50-yard dash, but because he ran with the wrong division, he was disqualified. A 22.4 won the finals in the large school division of the meet.

The second place finish by Fuller in the broad jump marked the first time he has been defeated this season. He finished second behind Carlisle of Canyon who leaped 21-7 1/2 feet. Fuller was less than an inch back at 21-4 1/2 feet.

Page's winning toss in the discus event was 143-10 1/2.

The Hereford 400 relay team, comprised of Ricki Ward, Ralph Walts, George Fuller and Larry McNutt, finished third in one of the top races of the meet. The winning time was 43.5 and the fourth place Whiteface team was clocked at 43.9.

United Fund elects officers for 1971-72

United Fund officers met Thursday, named Joe Shollenbarger president for the next 12 months and added 10 new members to fill vacancies and take the place of those whose three-year terms are expiring. Jerry Don George, who handed over the gavel to Shollenbarger, is among those leaving the board. Other new officers are Homer Garrison, first vice president; Rev. C. W. Allen, second vice president; and R. C. Hoelscher, treasurer. Shollenbarger was first vice president the past year, Ivan Block was second vice president and Milton Durham was treasurer. Mrs. Wayland Smith was chosen to complete the two-year unexpired term of Dale Sains, who resigned from the board, and O. B. "Pete" Curtis was remaining in the term of Noe Salinas, who moved from the city. The eight persons named to three-year terms expiring in 1974 are Bobby Owen, Melvin Cordray, John Bunch, Don French, Layne Cushmanberry, Hoelscher, Pat Hughes and Ted Panciera. Others on the board are the Rev. Clifford Trotter, Cleo Corlis, Mrs. Werner Koelzer, Mrs. James Higgins, Ed Lemons and Garrison, all with two years left to serve; and Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr., Calvin Goodin, Mrs. Tommy Carnahan, Milton Durham, Tom Burdett, Shollenbarger and Dick Barrett, all with one year left. Those leaving the board after having served their terms are George, Ed Loerwald, Block, Harold Close, Darrell Rose, Shirley Garrison, Pic Harmon and Paul Abalos.

Funeral is held for aged woman

Funeral services for Mrs. Sofia Barrera, 87, of 331 Ave. E, were conducted Saturday morning in St. Anthony's Catholic Church by the Rev. Aedan Davis, associate pastor. Burial in St. Anthony's Cemetery was directed by Gilliland Funeral Home. Mrs. Barrera died Thursday evening in a rest home at Littlefield. She was a native of Mexico, born Sept. 30, 1883, and married Lucrecio Barrera, who died in 1960. She came to Hereford in 1966 from Rio Grande City. Survivors are five daughters, Mrs. Ercela Pena of Hereford, Eva Barrera of San Antonio, Mmes. Ray Garza, Hasa Lopez and Adela Guerra of Rio Grande City, and a son, Lutano Barrera also of Rio Grande City.

Oops... hold up on that four-lane drive down 60

The state highway department for the second time in as many weeks, threw a monkey wrench into a proposed road project for Deaf Smith County. It notified city and county officials that an additional $15,300 casing project will be needed before work can begin on the widening of U. S. 60 from Hereford west to the county line, near Summerfield. Two weeks ago the state informed the city that funds for the widening of South Main Street would not be available as expected. City manager Dudley Bayne received notification of the casing project last week. State officials said, in a letter to Bayne, that 234 additional feet of a water line from the city to the Wilson plant will have to be cased before final plans can be made on the widening of U. S.

60. When the line was first installed, the state told the county and city that only 100 feet of casing would be required to meet the specifications of the plan. Now, the state says, 324 feet in all must be cased before the project can be approved. The estimated cost of the casing is $15,322, which would be split between the state and Deaf Smith County. The work would involve digging out by hand 224 feet of the pipe, cutting and casing and fitting it around the pipe and welding it back together. The city will be out no expenses on the project, but probably would be required to let the bids, then be reimbursed by the state. The water line to Wilson's is an 18-inch pipe and the state directive calls for a 30-inch casing before work can be done on the widening of U. S. 60. The line runs along the first county road west of the city limits, south across U. S. 60, then west to the Wilson plant. Bruce Coleman, county commissioner, said he foresees no trouble in solving the problem because "we have always been able to work something out with the highway department." None of the three other county commissioners could be contacted for comment.

British wail track meets' loss of fans

By GEOFFREY MILLER Sports Writer LONDON — Britain's worried track and field officials are trying to find ways to win back the fans to the big meets. Fans don't go any more. They just sit at home and watch the running and jumping on television. Eric Kennell, who recently resigned as chairman of the general committee of the British Amateur Athletics Association (AAA), said: "We must not rely on 90 per cent of our income coming from television fees. "That is not a healthy position for any sport to be in. And in any case, much of the entertainment offered on television is not as good as it should be — and that doesn't apply only to Britain." Last year crowds of 2,000 and 3,000 were dotted about the vast White City Stadium in West London to watch the British championships and international meets. What a change from the period following World War III! Track and field was then one of Britain's biggest crowd-pullers.

In 1946 a crowd of 55,000 saw Sydney Wooderson, former holder of the world mile record, race against the Swedish stars Arne Andersson and Gunde r Haag. No more track and field will be seen at the White City. The AAA is moving the big events to Crystal Palace in the south of the capital. It costs less to hire but accommodates only 15,000 people. "Wooderson, now 57, still keeps in touch with the sport by acting as judge or timekeeper for his club, Blackheath Harriers. He thought crowds had dwindled because the sport lacks star personalities. "People want to see top class athletes," Wooderson said. "They don't often get a star-studded meet these days, and I think it is because there is too much track and field going on. Athletes cannot cope with it all." He also wants to see international matches against other countries staged in provincial centers and not always concentrated in London.

A film, "A Weekend of Champions," will be shown at Thursday morning's kickoff breakfast meeting. It is a half-hour testimonial of various professional athletes — such as Paul Anderson, Bill Glass, Roger Staubach, Bart Starr. "This is not a repeat of our other meetings. Everyone who has been a part of our earlier organizational meetings, we certainly want them at this meeting also," Gooden said. Earnest Langley, Hereford attorney, volunteered his services in securing the organization's charter with the national FCA. Gooden said the adult chapter will have "whatever meetings as are necessary to get these kids to camp. We'll announce a project later to send these boys to Colorado." The desire to send boys to the summer conference was the principal reason for organizing now instead of next fall. The student chapter probably will meet on the first and third Thursdays of each month. The next meeting is at the Calson House at 7 p.m. Thursday.

License sales continue to lag

License plate sales for Deaf Smith County are running about 900 below what they were at this time last year with only eight more days in which to purchase them. County tax assessor-collector Nell Miller said Friday that only 5,550 vehicles have been registered out of an estimated 11,300 that need to be. The deadline for registering is midnight March 31. Anyone caught driving an unregistered car after that time will be subject to a fine and a 20 per cent increase in their registration fee. "We've got about a week and a half to go and if they don't get their license plates soon, they will have to stand in line," Mrs. Miller warned.

Tornado alert

Hereford's tornado alert will be tested at 10 a. m. Monday, provided the weather is clear. The long siren will be strictly a test. If the weather is threatening — such that an alarm might be mistaken for the real thing — the test will be postponed until a later date.

Area legislators visit other states

Both of Deaf Smith County's state legislators were out of the state the past week. Rep. Bill Clayton was to return late Saturday from Washington, D. C., where he spent the week working with the Council of Governments on water problems. Sen. Max Sherman left Thursday for Tampa, Fla., with three other Texas senators. They met with the Southern Legislative Conference to discuss air pollution, returning Saturday. Gov. Preston Smith was in Lubbock Thursday and left for Alice Friday. The bill to create a criminal district attorney in Deaf Smith County still lay unsighted in his office.

Adjustment appeals allowed for farm conserving bases

A producer whose farm conserving base is a limiting factor in operating his farm in line with good management practices may appeal for an adjustment of the base through the end of farm program sign-up, April 9.

Three important provisions will be observed by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) County Committees in adjusting conserving bases for changes in farming operations, according to Frank J. Bezner, Chairman of the County ASC Committee. They are:

— Downward adjustment of a conserving base will be made only upon a determination that farm operations have changed from conserving crops to non-conserving crops in recent years, or in the judgment of the county committee, such a change will be made this year.

— Acreage removed from the conserving base will be limited to that determined to be suitable for continuous cropping.

— Downward adjustment will not be made to accommodate a farm's required set-aside acreage under the 1971 farm programs.

"Basically, the rules on conserving bases are being updated in line with modern farming operations," Bezner said. He pointed out today's market-oriented farm policy requires that farmers have more freedom for decision-making about their farm operations. The set-aside farm programs of 1971 provide for this by getting away from the rigid crop limitations of previous programs.

"As for conserving bases," he said, "although adjustments have been made over the years for tangible changes in farm operations, in some instances conserving bases still tended to keep producers locked into types of farming operations that were no longer in their best interests.

"Or they may have had to choose between staying out of farm programs or continuing an uneconomic farm operation."

For instance, a dairy farmer with 500 acres was following the recommended grass-silage feeding program when his conserving base was established. So his conserving base was set on this basis. Since that time he has determined that grain silage would be the most efficient feed for his herd, and he has been growing corn. But he couldn't participate in the feed grain program because he didn't maintain his conserving base. Now his county ASC committee can adjust his farm's conserving base in line with his actual farm operations, if the farmer asks for a downward adjustment," Bezner said.

Bezner emphasized that adjustments cannot be made to accommodate set-aside acres. "By that, we mean producers cannot be given an adjustment in their conserving base simply to make up for the land they must set aside in order to participate in the 1971 farm programs. The county committee will review the entire farm operation on the basis of intended cropping."

He also emphasized that conserving acreage which is recommended only for conserving uses, such as grass cover, must remain the conserving base.

"No authority is given for making adjustment that will result in a conserving base of less than the acreage recommended for conserving uses,"

Cattle producers look for quality

The Deaf Smith County Livestock Committee is sponsoring a program for beef cattle producers at the Community Center Wednesday night.

"During recent years the beef cattle industry has seen much emphasis on increasing the size of cattle. Many of our pure bred producers feel a beef bull must weigh in excess of a ton. We all know that size without regard to production efficiency can set the industry back to where we were 50 years ago," County Agent Justin McBride said about one area the meeting will concern.

L. A. Maddox, beef cattle specialist, Texas A&M University, will discuss research conducted at McGregor Experiment Station concerning this factor.

"Since stocker and feeding of beef cattle in Deaf Smith County is our largest industry, we need to take a look at the influence the increased cattle sizes may have upon our own operations," McBride said. "Our stocker and feeding operations must be geared to efficiency."

Dr. Cal Parrot, Area Beef Cattle Specialist, will discuss these effects upon the feeding industry. Ed Garnett, Area Farm Management Specialist, will give an economic analysis of stocker and feeder operations.

McBride invited anyone interested in beef cattle to attend.

HOLDS TWIN-QUIN MARK

DENVER — The Mile High Kennel Club at Denver holds the record for twin quinnels payoffs among U. S. greyhound tracks with $23,728 in 1968. To win a twin-quin the player must pick the first two dogs in the next to last race, then the first two in the final.

The racing sulkies pulled by triple crown winners Scott Frost, Speedy Scot and Ayres have been added to the Hall of Fame collection at Goshen, N. Y.

Thomas to talk on responsibility in college system

Wayne Thomas, in his role as chairman of the Coordinating Board for Higher Education, will address the annual conference of the Southwestern Business Administration Association in Dallas Thursday.

The conference concerns educational cooperation and responsibility.

Thomas will speak on "Educational Responsibility in our College and University System" Thursday morning and then will sit on a panel Thursday afternoon concerning the same problem.

Mr. & Mrs. R. R. Jackson personally invite you to attend Revival Services at the 1st Church of the Nazarene to hear Ralph West, Evangelist, March 22-28, 7:30 each evening.

Teen-agers give views on one-parent families

By JO ANN KNOUT
Dayton Daily News Writer

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Pity bugs them, remarriage confuses them and a sense of responsibility is their thing.

These are some of the things that make a teen-ager tick in a single-parent household, according to eight teens, aged 13 to 19. The teens, at the request of their parents — all members of Parents Without Partners — agreed to give "teen-eye-views" of single-parent families.

First off they made it clear that they are typical teen agers, and that they are unanimously opposed to parents staying together solely for the sake of their children.

"They would feel it. . . The kids would feel it," declared 15-year-old Greg Mercer. "Me and my dad have been living alone for about five years," he continued. "I still see my mother a lot and I've gotten to know her better since the divorce."

"The thing I hate most is, 'Oh you poor thing!,'" mimicked 18-year-old Lenny Eaton, a student at the University of Dayton. "Some people have some really weird ideas about how a single-parent family affects children."

Turning to a common theme voiced by the group, Lenny said that losing a parent, through divorce or death, makes the children more responsible.

"I think the attitude is different," Lenny said. "When there's only one parent you really want to help, whereas in a two parent home you might help because you had to."

"You learn to pull your own load," Greg chimed in. "You learn you have to help keep the house clean. I help Dad vacuum and wash."

The Hastings sisters, Debbie, 16, and Dian, 14, said they feel more responsible because what they do reflects on their mother, and "might cause her trouble."

Debbie says her "trouble" usually amounts to staying out late, but that she's able to talk things out with her mother. "My father used to travel a lot and my mother was always the one to discipline me anyway," she explained.

Debbie and Dian help with the household chores and with their younger sisters.

"Mom's a nurse, and by the time she gets home we try to have the place cleaned up," Debbie continued. "I feel she should get out once in a while too, so I babysit some evenings and when we both want to go out we hire a sitter."

Talking of going out — dating — the teens are very concerned about whether their parents remarry.

"If I got along with him I'd be a friend, if not I'd ignore him," said 15-year-old Mark Holland.

Mark and his sister Lori, 13, have been living without their father for two years. Mark admits that when his parents were divorced he "tended to resent my mother because I had been close to Dad." He said, however, that he's grown up a lot now and come to understand his parents.

Lenny's 7-year-old brother is her main concern. "He's growing up in a home without a father. I go out and pitch a ball to him now and then, but I can't really take the place of a father," she said.

As to the possibility of her mother remarrying, Lenny said: "I feel my mother has very good judgment. . . she's an angel."

Some of the others were not so enthusiastic about remarriage. Greg confided: "He (Dad) keeps talking about getting married and I keep talking him out of it."

The Woolles children, Lisa, 13, and Kevin, 15, whose father died eight years ago, were also unenthusiastic about welcoming a new father into their home. "There's no father room here," laughed Kevin. "Mom can do everything."

None of the teens thought their parents were exactly swingers but all felt they had a deep understanding of their children's problems and needs.

Both Debbie and Lenny said their mothers now are more lenient and considerate toward dating and curfew hours. Greg proudly tells how his father managed a softball team for him and his friends last summer.

Lenny explained: "They are put into a single, more social atmosphere, so they understand our social needs more. Mother and I are much better friends now. I still show proper respect for her when I talk to her, but we understand each other much better."

Mary Vincent sings with pianist Ray Plagens

Book reviewed at club lunch

A guest reviewer, Mrs. Claude McDougal, was introduced by Mrs. Paul Rudd, program leader for Farm and Ranch Club Thursday. The book review followed a covered dish lunch in the home of Mrs. W. W. Thomas.

Mrs. McDougal told in vivid detail the story of an American woman imprisoned by the communist regime of East Germany when she was suspected, during a visit to East Berlin, of attempting to aid a resident to escape to West Berlin.

Titled All the Walls Shall Fall, the book is the firsthand account of the prison term.

During the business period with Mrs. Thomas presiding, members planned a trip to Amarillo on their next meeting day, Apr. 1, to visit the Garden Center in that city. They will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. M. S. Weber and go together to Amarillo for lunch and the tour.

Lunch was served at a table centered with a wicker basket of daisies and fern. Places were marked with tiny baskets of flowers for the program guest and Mmes. J. B. Odom, G. V. Hall, C. T. Douglas, J. E. Sorrells, J. V. Perrin, Jack Weaver, Weber and Rudd.

Hearers request repeat of show

Requests for a return engagement of Mary Allen Vincent to give another singing review of a musical comedy, were heard by L'Allegria Club members Thursday evening before a delighted audience left First Baptist fellowship hall where she presented "I Do, I Do."

The vivacious Dallas woman gave her one-woman show, with able support from pianist Ray Plagens, for a near-sellout audience which laughed and applauded the comedy and songs she had distilled from the Broadway hit show.

It is a gay version of the story of a marriage from wedding night through such crises as the birth of a first child, the quarrel over another woman, a daughter's marriage and finally the long-married couple's farewell to their bedroom when their house is sold to a younger pair.

The most popular song, My Cup Runneth Over, along with less-known but tuneful pieces caught the fancy of the listeners as Mrs. Vincent styled them. Her uninhibited song and dance version of Swingin' Agnes, a sauce-for-the-gander declaration to her straying husband, brought down the house.

Mrs. Buddy Bloomer, L'Allegria president, said Friday the club will probably arrange for the return of the entertainer since so many hearers were asking for it. Mrs. Vincent frequently makes repeat appearances with her unique reviews.

OEA student wins third in area contest

Seventeen Office Education Association students from Hereford High School, along with teacher-coordinators Mrs. Elizabeth Wills and Pat McDonald, attended Area IV Youth Leadership Conference in Lubbock recently bringing back a third place win in verbal communications.

Rhonda Georing won the honor with a talk on Medical Secretaries and is now eligible to attend state contest next month in San Angelo. She will be accompanied by two voting delegates.

Competition took place in the business administration building on Texas Tech campus.

Transmission, bearing service starts deliveries

An Amarillo firm dealing in bearings and heavy transmission equipment has begun daily delivery service into Hereford.

Charles Canida, a sales engineer who has been in the business for 12 years, said he will be in both Hereford and Friona on behalf of Cottingham Bearing Corp. of 715 Van Buren, Amarillo.

The firm actually has its headquarters in Dallas, but has 22 branches in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. The company began in 1941. Its local phone number is 364-5681.

Hearing probes alcoholism issue

The Rev. Fred Howard, alcoholism coordinator for the Deaf Smith Council on Alcoholism, is a consultant to a regional committee which will conduct a public hearing in Amarillo Tuesday on the possible solutions to the problem.

The Rev. Alan Conley, chairman of a regional committee looking into alcoholism, urged all Panhandle counties to participate in the meeting, which starts at 7:30 p.m.

Information from the hearing will be used to help prepare a regional report which the Texas Commission on Alcoholism requested. The regional data will be incorporated into a "Texas State Plan" for submission to the federal government.

The state plans are called for under recent national legislation providing a massive attack on alcoholism in the United States. The state plan is supposed to show how the state plans to implement a comprehensive program of rehabilitation, prevention and treatment of alcoholism and alcohol abuse.

"We want to give every interested Texan an opportunity to tell us how they see the needs of their particular part of the state," said Ken Beahan of Austin, executive director of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, who noted that a committee of 100 Texans have been named to direct the work of the regional plans.

"This is the reason we have divided our committee of 100 into seven sectional regions of the state and have obtained a knowledgeable person in each of the State's planning regions to serve as a regional chairman."

Conley is vice chairman of the Amarillo Medical Alcoholism Committee of the Mental Health Mental Retardation Board, which has been devising a comprehensive alcoholism treatment program for the Panhandle area.

A grant-in-aid from the National Institute of Mental Health has been approved for the Panhandle project, but the funding has not yet been made. Conley is also a past president of the Amarillo Council on Alcoholism.

Invitations will go out to governmental and voluntary association leaders, but the meeting also is open to the general public.

"We must present the problem, the programs we have underway to meet the problems, the other elements of a massive attack in our regional report," Conley said.

"Unless Panhandle residents are willing to contribute their time and talents to the writing of this State Plan, we cannot hope to have our own 'grass root opinion' reflected."

NEW BISHOP

LONDON — Bishop Patrick Casey, who has been Vicar-General to John Cardinal Heenan, Archbishop of Westminster, for the past six years has been chosen bishop of the Brentwood diocese, east of London, to succeed Bishop Bernard Wall, who resigned earlier this year. Bishop Casey, 56, was chosen after the first survey held by a council of clergy in an English Roman Catholic diocese. Most Brentwood priests opted for a man with "relatively progressive" theological outlook and considerable parish experience.

California Angel first baseman Jim Spencer, in his first full year in the majors, led the American League in fielding during 1970 with a .995 mark.

Hillbilly music is club program

Dawn Music Club members presented a comical hillbilly program similar to that of television's Hee-Haw as entertainment for their monthly Community Night activity Friday evening in Dawn Community Building.

Members' husbands, families, and friends residing at Dawn were guests for the covered dish supper and program.

Skits entitled Love, Country Style and Amos and Andy were presented by Mrs. Jerry Parker and Mrs. Pat Miller as Amos and Andy; Mrs. Clarence Betzen, a southern gentleman; Mrs. Jerry Haley, census taker; Mrs. Edgar Sowell, grandpa; Mrs. Carl Wimberley as Junior; Mrs. Robert Strain, Lulu; Mrs. Walter Lemons, Gordy; and Mrs. Carl Kleuskens, with the "gossip column."

Mrs. R. E. Curtsinger played Elvis Presley and sang the number, Blue Suede Shoes.

Characters later formed themselves into a country and western band, the Dawn Acres Sextet, using washboards, jugs and various other materials to make their "music."

Other members taking part were Mmes. H. V. McCabe and Alfred Smith.

Players dinner reservations are being made

Tickets are on sale for the third annual membership dinner of Hereford Community Players, to be held in Community Center at 7:30 p. m. Apr. 1. Highlight of the program will be presentation of awards to the woman and man who have done outstanding work in the organization the past year.

Reservations for members and guests may be made with Mrs. Orval Watson and Mrs. Vernon Denson, who are co-chairmen of dinner arrangements; Mrs. John Claypool, Mrs. Bobby Byers, Mrs. Warren Owen or Mrs. Bill Gilliland.

Each member is asked to bring one or more guests who may be interested in membership. Also, the dinner is open to any resident who might wish to become a member and take part in any phase of play production.

Exhibits, stage show scheduled at La Plata

An art festival at La Plata Junior High School is scheduled for Apr. 2, when approximately 60 students plus the school choir will present a variety show, and work of art and vocational departments will be on display.

The exhibits by art pupils, shop and homemaking classes will open at 8:30 p. m. and the show in the cafeteria will begin at 7:30. The public is invited.

Mrs. Randolph Thomas, speech teacher, is director of the stage show, which will include skits and one-act plays.

One of the plays is a drama, A Man Called Duddy, with Jerry Brock in the title role. The other, a comedy, is titled A Case for Two Detectives. A short skit, La Belle Telephone, will also be presented, and cuttings from the musical, Oliver, and from Peter Pan.

The flying scene from Peter Pan will be given, with Lee Line as Peter. Billy Gage and Brock are in charge of stage arrangements for the "flight."

Penneys

Your life may not be worth a nickel if your tires flunk the penny test.

The penny test? It's the quickest way in the world to find out if you're riding on unsafe tires. Simply turn the head of a penny upside down and place it in the tread grooves of your car's tires. If you can see all of Lincoln's head, your tire's tread depth is less than 1/16 inch. And you could be asking for trouble. But why take a chance? Ask us to help. We're Shook, the largest tire dealer in Texas. And we have more to offer than anyone else. Like a full line of quality Lee passenger, truck and farm tires. Like four-ply polyester cord tires and polyester/fiberglass belted tires. Like servicing your off-the-road farm and truck tires right at your place. Like a "Road Hazard Warranty" that guarantees all Lee pickup tires against road hazards for the entire life of the tread. Like tire rotation whenever your car needs it. And like 14 stores in 13 cities from Pampa to Odessa to serve you. So go ahead and take the penny test. It won't cost you a cent. And it may steer you to Shook in time to save your life.

Safe-golf reduces birdies, Bermuda resort pro says

By WALTER KING
Pro at Port Royal G. C., Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda — A middle-aged player I've known for years boastfully said the other day, "Hey Walter, my kid broke 80 today!"

"Great," I said, complementing his mood. But I didn't tell him what I really thought about his son breaking 80.

I've played with his son — 16 years old and a sound swinger. He is capable of 74, even better, yet five years from now he will still be knocking around 80.

The boy's real handicap is playing his old man's kind of game. Always safe. I don't buy that kind of game.

For instance, suppose it's your second shot on a par four. The pin is tight behind a big trap. The seven iron is the shot. Do you play the pin? Or do you play right of the trap and hit the fat part of the green?

If you are 16 years old and you play the fat side — the safe side — you may become a good golfer, but never a great one.

Another choice: a wedge to the same green and over the same trap — or a nine iron to "make sure"? If you're going to be better than just good, charge that stick, boy!

Ninety per cent of the game is in your head. They talk about muscle memory, right? The player who grooves his swing so well that he doesn't even have to think about it. Well, I say it's more important to condition your mental attitude. Becoming an aggressive player — and that's what you'll have to be if you care to win silver — is a question of preparing your mental game.

You just think about it. Playing safe — hitting the fat part of the green — will leave you 40 to 60 feet from the pin. Getting down in two is doing well, and three-putting is a real possibility. A bird is only a remote chance.

Charge the pin, and if the shot comes off you're left with a 10-footer, maybe less. Par is sure — birdie is better than 50-50. More important, the more shots you make like that, the better you'll become at the game.

Remember, though, this advice is only for the young golfer. Dad won't go along with it. His mind was conditioned a long time ago.

But he'll never be able to beat you five years from now. I'll bet on that!

Small talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

THIS IS another one of those times of year when things begin crowding in, and it's starting early this year. You probably notice it wherever you are and we certainly do in a newspaper office. It's a matter of cycles.

Seems like it was only yesterday that I was crying about everything happening at once around the Christmas holidays. That's one of the times. Another is toward the end of school and it's the one that is starting now, so early.

Mothers of school children probably notice it when they hear something like, "Ma, I've gotta have a pirate costume for the class play day after tomorrow." We notice it when there are phone calls to come quick and take a picture of a school program or exhibit.

Like the Christmas rush, it's fun but exhausting, and we do appreciate early notice of these things because there are too many of them to catch at last minutes. Mama would like earlier notice of costume needs, too, I'm sure, but to that I don't know the answer.

SOMEbody else that would like early notice is the committee in charge of scheduling tours at Deaf Smith County Museum. In fact, they would like early tours. They've found that there is a tendency for school groups which want to tour the place — and there are many — to wait until May.

The problem is, there aren't that many days in May and scheduling more than one group at a time even if guides are available, is nothing short of chaos as anyone can plainly see.

Teachers, Scout and Camp Fire leaders and others who would like to bring groups to the museum this spring will be most heartily welcomed as always, but how about setting the time before May, when things will be crowded enough at best?

Of course you know, don't you, that these educational tours are arranged by a committee from Bay View Study Club: Mrs. H. L. Benefield, Mrs. J. R. Allison and Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine?

AROUND and about the town: Ruth Black prowling over a fabric shop with that gleam in her eye which denotes a woman who can sew. . . Marie Sears in a dress of that beautiful shade of purple, real violet color. . . Bea Hutson reminiscing a minute about the square dance clubs of the early 1940's in Hereford and the fun they had. . . Dorothea Prowell in the grocery store, shopping with an efficient air.

WOULDN'T-you-know-it department: Margaret Bloomer, Barbara McCrary and Selay Metz acted as a sort of hostess committee from their club when Mary Vincent and Ray Plagens came from Dallas Thursday night to give the singing musical review, and drove the visitors from the plane at Amarillo to the McCrary home for supper beforehand.

When they got there, the front door was locked tight and there was a lot of blood around. Source of the blood was quickly found; the family dog had been in a fight and appeared to have got the worst of it.

It took some help from the ladies' husbands to get the dog to a vet and effect some sort of break-in, but everyone had a wonderful time when Plagens played the pump organ and they all sang old-time songs and hymns.

H.D. CHATTER Estate plan study ends

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

THURSDAY there were 88 persons at the second session on Estate Management. This is approximately the same number as last week; however, there were some persons who did not attend the first session.

It is amazing how much information can be given in two hours. From a practical point of view it is much professional advice for the asking.

THE WORKSHOP began with filling in the form L-774 Estate Planning for Farmers and Ranchers. We used the items in our prepared situation to help us become familiar with filling in the form.

In my opinion the prize comment was: "I'm going to fill all this in with complete information and then take it to a professional person to help me complete my estate planning."

This complied with the question, "Who should I see first when I get my mind made up on what I want to do with my estate?"

The answer is either attorney or accountant, or insurance consultant, or trust officer. Probably all will need to give advice before your plans are completed.

ANYWAY, folks, thanks for your support in making the workshop successful. The committee is open for suggestions for future programs. Make your recommendations to Mrs. Paul Corbett, Mrs. Joe Peters, Herman Ford, Wayne Thomas, Jack Wilcox, or John Messenger.

THE SMALL fry have been given some consideration. A specialist at College Station wrote this release to parents: Your attitude toward money is likely to influence the attitude of your small child, reminds Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist.

Boys and girls develop their attitudes concerning making and receiving money and its use at an early age. Parental values and goals are most often the ones children will adopt.

Young people must acquire a philosophy and a pattern of spending from experience, Mrs. Myers says. They need money for necessities as well as for extras. By making choices in the way money is used, children grow in their ability to manage it.

IF YOUR child has an allowance or a job that pays some money, he will have the opportunity to learn. Even if you dole money out to your child as he requests it, he should have some freedom in the way it is spent in order to learn to make wise choices.

When a child first begins to handle money, limits should be set on the amount. If he faces situations with not enough money, he will realize when he makes a mistake in judgment.

A CHILD will make many mistakes, Mrs. Myers says, but these are learning experiences. The lessons are necessary early in life to avoid wrong decisions later that could become disasters.

Help your child learn that there are some expenditures he must make, and that he has obligations to himself and others. If you let a child learn through experience, Mrs. Myers suggests, he will grow up to be happy about his money management skills.

A BIT of diet wisdom: Keep your eye on your goal. Your nose to the grind-stone. Your ear to the ground. Your shoulder to the wheel. Your feet on the ground. And in this position Who can eat?

Happy times outweigh bad in memories of pioneer

Mrs. N. A. Brown takes pride in new kitchen

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

SENIOR partner in a family ranching-farming enterprise listed as Mrs. N. A. Brown & Sons, the mother of Eldred, Floyd and Ernest Brown says her position is purely honorary. "I let them take care of the work," she smiles, "and I just help out here at home."

Mrs. Brown's home is a new brick house where neighbors and friends will gather today for a housewarming. It is on the family ranch, straight west of Hereford on the Harrison Highway almost to the New Mexico line. Most of her life has been spent on the grassy plains near that line, until 1940 on the New Mexico side.

WHEN she was two years old her parents brought her from Kentucky to homestead in the Hollene community and she grew up in that New Mexico area just west of Deaf Smith County. The place is still in her family, owned now by her brother.

Remembering the much-talked-of hardships of homesteaders' lives, the sandstorms, blizzards and other extremes of climate that seemed especially harsh to newcomers from eastern states, Mrs. Brown says they are outweighed in her memory by the good times.

"We had no conveniences to make life easy; our houses were not very good ones and we had to work hard, but we were happy. By standards of today we were very poor, but we never went hungry."

"LOTS of the old-timers talk about eating jackrabbits for their only meat; we even had a choice there! My mother was the outdoor type, and she would get out and look for cottontail rabbit nests and get the young rabbits that were very good to eat. We never had tough jackrabbit meat!"

At pioneer reunions, Mrs. Brown says, there is always much talk about burning cowchips for fuel in the homes, but instead of that, she remembers when her father with half-a-dozen neighbors would drive their wagons to the "breaks" — canons, at the edge of the Canadian River valley — to haul back loads of wood.

"They took a day to go, spent a day cutting wood and loading the wagons and another day to come back," she says. "We would watch for the wagons, and Mama would lay her ear to the ground to hear them. When our little dog ran off in that direction, we knew he had heard the wagons and was going to meet them, and Mama would get supper ready."

ONE OF the worst blizzards Mrs. Brown recalls was when she was 10 years old. Her father, who freighted supplies by wagon for the community store, had gone to Texico without noting the warning sign of a low blue cloud across the skies in the north, so he had not cut a large stock of firewood.

The norther rolled in with snow and hard wind which continued all night, and next morning her mother was afraid to go to the barn to milk the cow, fearing she would lose her way in that short distance. She did venture to the nearby woodpile and the family managed to keep warm until her father could get home after three or four days.

Another hard winter was that of 1918-19, when snow remained on the ground for weeks. The wheat was covered, Mrs. Brown says, and when the snow melted the green blades had turned yellow from lack of sunlight.

WHEN THE Potts family moved from Kentucky, the father came first and little Elzora, with her mother and brother who later became Mrs. Brown, came by train to Bovina. Her father, who had built a house for his family, walked from Hollene to Bovina.

He bought a wagon and team there, also a cookstove which he loaded along with bedding and other household effect his wife had brought with her, and the family rode back to their homestead.

The two children went to the Hollene school, which later consolidated with the Rosedale school, so named because a rancher named Rose gave the land. When a postoffice was moved to the location, it could not be called Rosedale because there was another postoffice in the state with that name, so it was called Bellview.

That explains the fact that now Rosedale churches are located in Bellview, the village on the highway between Hereford and Grady, Mrs. Brown says. The Brown family still holds membership in and attends Rosedale Baptist Church.

ELZORA POTTS and N. A. Brown of Vernon were married in 1924, and lived three years on a farm near that north-central Texas city before they moved to her home community. They farmed and ranched, and Brown did custom work for other farmers. Some of the work was in Deaf Smith County and he picked out the land to which they moved in 1940.

The "dust bowl" years of the 1930's they had spent in New Mexico and Mrs. Brown says this spring's sandstorms are mild compared to the dusts that rolled in every few days, leaving dust that hung in the air for days on end.

The Browns had a herd of dairy cows then, and raised hogs and chickens.

"They made us a living," Mrs. Brown says simply; "times were certainly hard but we managed, just as my parents had managed as homesteaders."

THE BROWNS' three sons became partners as they grew up, and when they married they built homes for their own families on the ranch. Since their father's death in 1944 they have assumed management of the business for which he had trained them.

Eldred and Maxine have a son, Tommy; Floyd and Billie are the parents of three sons, Earl, Roger and Sam. The only girl in the family is Barbara, now Mrs. Johnny Hoffman, daughter of Ernest and Loyce. She has two brothers, David and Dennis.

Mrs. Brown enjoys her grandchildren and likes to take them on trips, especially back to her native state of Kentucky where they can learn about her parents and their childhood background.

HEARING her mother's stories of the old home while she was a child, Mrs. Brown says, "I always wanted to go back to Kentucky," but there was no good opportunity until in 1968, when she drove back to visit an aunt, her mother's sister, Barbara, then 13 years old, and Dennis, 9, accompanied her that time.

The next year she took Barbara again, with four of the grandsons, and last year she made the trip with Earl, Sam, Dennis and David.

When Mrs. Floyd Brown became ill a few years ago, care of her sons devolved largely upon their grandmother, who takes pleasure in the duty. At first they maintained the two homes, but it seemed more practical to share a home, so Mrs. Brown suggested that her house be enlarged.

HER PARTNERS decided that the new house should be built instead, and it was planned with boys in mind as well as with housekeeping conveniences for its mistress.

It is in the same location as her old house, with trees and shrubs already established to make an attractive setting.

One room was built and furnished as an office where the Brown brothers do their bookkeeping and maintain records of the family business. But the senior partner is perhaps more interested in the big pantry, where rows of shelves hold fruit and vegetables she cans each year in the tradition of the Plains pioneer women whom she exemplifies.

Among those from Frio 4H clubs winning in last week's Youth Fair at Dimmitt, were Raymond Warrick, first on a cross bred lamb, and Eugene Warrick, second place. Others placing in the show were Earl Behrends, Sue Smith and David Hutchins. The Warrick boys also placed on other entries.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Smith visited his mother and other relatives at Corpus Christi, the weekend of the 7th. His brother, in the Service stationed in Hawaii, was home on leave at Corpus Christi, which was the special reason for the family visit. The Smiths report that Spring has come to south Texas, and was in direct contrast to our weather at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White, Biloxi, Miss., came Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Clark Andrews, and other relatives here and to bring their mother, Mrs. E. B. Berryman home. Mrs. Berryman had visited the Whites since Feb. 14, in Biloxi. The Whites only stayed only a couple of days, as their children remained at home.

Visiting the Fritz Smiths last weekend were relatives Mr. and Mrs. Noble Snapples and sons, San Benita, Tex. Also visiting the group on Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Verle Crick, of Hart, and Mrs. Larry Griffin, from near Dallas.

Visiting the Sam Ogans Wednesday night was Bill Matlocks, of Denver. He was a member of the Ogans' church at Denver when they were there, and was on a business trip in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Schmidt, of Amarillo, visited the Earnest Harders Sunday, and attended church with them at Frio that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Vogler spent last week visiting their son, Leon, and family at Houston. They also attended the wedding of a nephew, Aeron Dragler, son of the John Draglers, of Clovis. The bride was Miss Ginger Teinert, of Houston, and the wedding took place on Mar. 6 in a Houston Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. David Yandell visited his brother, Hugh Yandell, and family at Seminole, Sunday. Hugh Yandell had a light heart attack last week but was able to go home from the hospital on Sunday.

TEMPORARY CAR WASH—People traveling down Avenue C Monday came upon this 100 foot gusher that erupted from a broken water line. Several persons took advantage of the falling water to get a quick car wash.

NOT CLEAN ENOUGH—Several motorists though, seemed to think the first time through the pelting water failed to get their cars clean enough to suit them, so went back through for another wash job.

C. O. D. scheme plagues area

A tricky "C. O. D. package" scheme is currently operating in the Panhandle area, according to information received at the Chamber of Commerce office from the Amarillo Better Business Bureau. It is preying on office receptionists while the "boss" is out.

A youngish man appears at the office reception desk with a package personally addressed to an executive of the company. He claims that the executive ordered some books to be sent to the office C. O. D. and insists on payment even though the executive is away from the office. The amount of the C. O. D. is $12 or $13 plus a few cents.

The package has a printed label with a return address of a fictitious firm in Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, etc. It is marked "C. O. D." in large red letters and will contain two old, used books. It may also contain a handwritten note, such as: "Jack: Hold these for me — ran short at time of purchase. Hence the C. O. D. — Pick up and pay next week. Thanks Bob."

Several local business and professional men report to BBB they have been victimized by this scheme in recent days. Somehow, the con-man knows when they were to be out of the office so the receptionist could not verify the transaction at time of delivery.

Tricky schemes to foist inferior or worthless products on to business firms appear to be increasing. A number of local companies have been fooled by "sob story" telephone solicitors selling office supplies for out of state firms.

Some executives were recently tricked by the phony "Xerox" supply pitch from Rochester, New York. In spite FIRE DAMAGE — A fireman sticks his hand through the open windshield to help steer a car being pulled by chain out of a garage gutted by fire Friday morning. The fire, which firemen called "the biggest fire we've had in a long time," totaled two cars and caused extensive damage to the garage at Dick Miller's Used Cars, 901 E. 1st. The fire reportedly was touched off while welding was being done. —Photo by Betty Koelzer

Productivity regulations to continue with '71 programs

Under both the 1971 and 1972 farm programs, the set-aside acres on each farm must be of at least average productivity for the farm. This announcement from Frank J. Bezner, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, provides farmers with a guideline for next year as well as this year.

"Originally, it appeared that farmers participating in the new set-aside farm programs would be asked to set aside acreage that had been in crop production at least one of the three previous years," Bezner said.

"This would have meant a hardship for some farmers, for instance those with good potential cropland in permanent cover. Also, it would have limited a farmer's freedom to make his own farm management decisions just at a time when farm programs are being shaped to give farmers more decision-making freedom.

"So, the U. S. Department of Agriculture revoked the 1-in-3 rule for set-aside land, and ruled that set-aside acreage must be of at least average productivity for the farm," the ASC Committee Chairman said.

"Now it has been announced that the same ruling will be in effect next year also.

"I want to emphasize that the average productivity rule will be closely followed. If a producer designates set-aside acreage which is below average in productivity for his farm, his County ASC Committee will reduce the producer's farm payment by an amount to reflect the difference in productivity of the set-aside acreage and the acreage on which the program crop is produced," Bezner said.

Farmers signing up for one or more of the 1971 feed grain, wheat and cotton programs agree to set aside part of their land — 20 percent of the feed grain base, 20 percent of the cotton base acreage allotment, and 75 percent of the domestic wheat allotment. The program sign-up period is underway now and continues through April 9 at County ASCS offices.

Final dates to make crop certifications in Deaf Smith County are May 15 for wheat and August 15 for feed grain and cotton. Bezner said spot-checks may be conducted by either local or out-of-state ASCS compliance officials.

Winner named for Women's pin play
Winners in team, doubles, singles and all events were announced Thursday for the annual City Tournament of the Hereford Woman's Bowling Association that was held recently at Sunset Lanes.
Hereford Flying Service won first place in the team event with a 2776 total. Members of that team were Bea Rhodes, Geneva Kilpatrick, Eleanor Hudspeth, Margaret Collins and Maxine Lewis.
Second place went to One Hour Martinizing with a 2704 rolled by Ann Cummings, Sandra Combs, Daisy Huntzinger, Lois Turpen and Bertha Arnold.
Third place went to Lone Star Agency with its 2604 total rolled by Lois Turpen, Pauline McDonald, Joy Bunch, Helen Armit and Alice Lueb.
In the doubles event, Carol Dyer and Alice Lueb rolled a 1064 for first place, followed by Margaret Collins and Betty Taylor with a 1069 and Peggy White and Luella Dool with a 1059 and Mildred Payne and Margaret Janssen with a 1069.
Singles event winner was Connie Levering with a 694, followed by Pauline McDonald with 687 and Alice Lueb with 683.
Carol Dyer won the all events with a score of 1670. Connie Levering was second with 1667 and Alice Lueb was third with 1635.
Special awards of pins were presented to the women bowlers who rolled 500 series and 200 games. Those winning awards for 500 or better series were Alice Lueb, 561; Connie Levering, 553; Bertha Arnold, 538. Faye Lamcke, 531; Carol Dyer, 528; Pauline McDonald, 524; Pat Stevens, 524; and Bea Rhodes, 503.
Rolling 200 or better games were Alice Lueb, 213; Connie Levering, 202; Faye Lamcke, 215; and Margaret Collins, 203.
WANTS TO STAY AROUND DENVER - At the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame dinner last February, Billy Martin, former manager of the Minnesota Twins, said if he gets back into baseball, he hopes to get a contract covering several years. "These one-year deals aren't so sincere," Billy commented.
Under the regulations of the International Olympic Committee there is no age limit for competitors in the Olympic Games.

CHURCH RE-ORGANIZED
LONDON - Central London's leading Baptist church, the Bloomsbury Church in Shaftesbury Avenue, has been reorganized at a cost of 74,000 pounds ($177,000). Besides holding normal services it will concentrate on helping students and visitors to London by running a continuous coffee bar.

Bay View tours Day Care Center

Bay View Study Club members enjoyed a tour of colorful rooms at Hereford Day Care Center Thursday afternoon with Anna Jo Wilson, executive director, as guide.

The group observed 38 children, ages six months through eight years of all social and economic levels, and the type of care and development they receive.

Mrs. Wilson spoke concerning the operation of the center and listed, among materials needed for the children, wooden puzzles, block, tricycles, scissors, records and wagons.

Mrs. W. J. Gilliland and Mrs. Howard Gault were hostesses and Mrs. Colby Conkright, presiding officer, for an informal business meeting at the Calson House during which the group voted to give financial aid to a scholarship program at the center.

The scholarships, cash contributions provided by clubs and personal donations, will go for the support of children who cannot afford to pay full price for care at the center.

Others present during afternoon activities were Mmes. Ansel McDowell, H. L. Benefield, Justin McBride, R. W. Eades, James Hull, Si Darling, Wilson Humphrey, R. B. Miller and Jack Wilcox.

Carroll Todd is shower honoree

Mrs. Charlie Holt greeted guests in her home Saturday afternoon during a shower honoring Miss Carroll Todd, May bride-elect of Carl French.

Hostesses with Mrs. Holt were Mmes. Sam Long, Gene King, N. E. Tyler, Alex Glass, Bobby

Guests were received by the honoree with her mother, Mrs. Ray Todd, her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Don French, Miss Todd's grandmother, Mrs. Grace Glenn of Mays, and French's grandmother, Mrs. Sam Thomas of Claude.

Miss Debbie Todd, sister of the bride-to-be, registered guests who were later served punch and ribbon sandwiches by Miss Betty Hodges and Mrs. Lenny Petree.

A white linen cloth covered the serving table which was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations and candelabra holding pink tapers.

For the afternoon the honoree

Jaycee-Ettes are organized

Organization was completed and officers named for the Hereford Jaycee-Ettes at a meeting in Community Center Thursday.

Mrs. Larry Jackson was chosen president of the group, comprising wives of men in the new Junior Chamber of Commerce unit here.

Mrs. Harvey Milton is the vice president, Mrs. Charles Richards secretary and Mrs.

Jerry Tisdale treasurer. Elected to the board of directors were Mmes. Bill McKinney, Mike Solomon, Robert Hay, Larry Knowles and Bill Melugin.

First Tuesdays in each month were set as meeting days for the Jaycee-Ettes. The first regular meeting will be at 7 p.m. Apr. 6 in the home of Mrs. Tisdale.

A constitution for the new organization was approved. Members discussed fund-raising projects and decided on one within the membership to put money in the treasury for the start of activities.

Hostesses Thursday were Mmes. Jackson, Milton and Knowles.

Montand's new film: 'The Confession'

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK — Pacing the small sitting room of his hotel suite, flipping cigarette butts into the waste basket, looking out the viewless window, Yves Montand could talk at the moment about only one subject — his latest film, "The Confession."
"Even for a million dollars, I wouldn't do 'The Confession' over again," he says. "I lost 24 pounds during six weeks while I was making the film. I had to. It was the kind of film you couldn't cheat on."

"The Confession" is the story of Artur London, a former vice-minister of foreign affairs in Czechoslovakia who was forced by the Communist party to confess to crimes he did not commit. He was sentenced to life imprisonment, but was rehabilitated by the party and wrote a book, on which the film is based, about his experiences.

"The film is about how we can destroy someone," Montand says in his French-flavored English. "What was interesting is how we destroy what a man believes in most."

"Playing London was very tough to do," he continues. "I know him well. He came on the set one day, and I was so upset, I asked him not to come back."

Montand's preparations for the film were strenuous. "I took the worst hotel room in Lille, France, where we were filming," he says. "I didn't shave, washed only a little, and, of course, had a strike on eating."

But even with the film finished and released, Montand is involved. Not only is he still thin, but, "it will take a long, long time before it's out of my mind," he says. "It's like a nightmare that happened to somebody else when I think of the film."

Montand stresses that the film is not intended as criticism of Communism. "It's Stalinism, a different thing from Communism," he emphasizes. "But what happened in the film could happen to me or anybody. When you think that this man confessed to crimes he never committed, and that he hadn't confessed when he was tortured during the war by the Nazis," Montand breaks off. "My God, do you know what it means to be tortured by the Nazis," he says after a moment.

Montand was born in 1921 in the Monsummano Alto region of Italy, but when Fascism touched that country, his family immigrated to Marseilles, France. At the outbreak of World War II, he was a popular entertainer there. He went on to Paris, and was discovered by the popular singer and actress Edith Piaf.

His first film was "Star Without Light," and other credits include "My Geisha," "Is Paris Burning," "Z," and "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever."

Montand says he enjoys being in the United States, but is hesitant to judge this country. "I don't like to talk about it," he says. "It is difficult for me to pretend to know. It would be like an American who only saw Paris. He can't pretend to know France."

"It's a mistake for Europeans and Americans to be wanting to compare their countries with each other," he continues. "France is a small country. America is a continent. For instance, if there is trouble in Detroit we say there is trouble in America. Detroit may be bad, but it's just one place."

Montand has been married for 20 years to Simone Signoret, who also stars in "The Confession," and he says they would like to take a car trip through America someday.

After this movie Montand says he has no definite plans but that the film left him with a backlog of thoughts. "We have to oblige our government to give us more freedom, democracy, culture," he says. "But knowing where to put your feet is hard. And also thinking by ourselves. If something is troubling the mind, it is important to think it out by ones self, not to follow like a sheep."

"For us European people, the things in this film are important. And we have to keep talking about them. It was a courageous position we took, but we had to do it. For the rest of my life this film will be with me."

Actress sings for supper, goes on to star in 'Hair'

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK — The first play actress Jill O'Hara appeared in, an Off-Broadway satirical revue, folded after one performance.
The second, a Broadway-bound musical, died in Philadelphia.
"So, in order to eat, I went back to folk singing," the attractive, 23-year-old said. But singing for her supper in the coffee houses of Greenwich Village was nothing new for her. She had come to New York from Warren, Pa., when she was 16, with her guitar and performed in a variety of clubs "one of which paid me in tuna sandwiches."

But the second time around "I really wasn't happy doing folk singing," she said. "It's terrible to do something if you don't really believe in it."
She worked as a hat check girl, as a waitress, and all the while studied acting. "And I kept auditioning," she said. "But it seemed I'd always get close to a role and then lose it. It got to be routine. I'd be in the final audition group but I never seemed to get the prize."
Among the plays she auditioned for was the musical "Hair." "I auditioned for that play a lot of times," she recalled. "The last time I had bronchitis and I didn't want to go, but I did. And I got accepted."

Things began to move after she landed the female lead in "Hair." After a couple of months in that play, she said, she got a part in the musical "George M!" And while acting the part of George M. Cohan's second wife, she said, playwright Neil Simon "saw me and asked me to audition for his 'Promises, Promises.' " She did and landed the female lead in the Broadway musical which proved a hit.

That job led to a movie offer, her first. "I did the movie 'Pigeons' while I still was working in 'Promises.' " she said. "I was working 18 hours a day and getting, maybe, three hours of sleep a night. I would not want to repeat something like that, but I guess I would do it again if I had to."
"Pigeons," recently released has been described as a "tragic-comedy of young adults who fit neither into the Establishment nor the hip subculture." Her female lead part casts as a girl who gets involved with a "college graduate who drops out and becomes a cabbie. I play a typical sweet, little girl whose parents send her to New York for a year, expenses-paid, but she really doesn't know anything about getting along."

The experience of making her first movie was an educational one, she noted:

"There's an enormous difference between plays and movies. In a movie you are much more confined than on stage. For example, in a movie there are tape marks on the floor. You must come in and hit the marks exactly, you must have your feet in a certain position exactly, and at the same time you must try to act and look natural. There you are pretending you're talking to someone and actually you're talking to a camera. The stage is looser."

For the future, she said, there's the possibility of a part in a musical, "film possibility," and "I hope to do a record of my own soon."

JILL O'HARA — This actress had to sing for her supper in Greenwich Village nightclubs, before she had her first real success, the female lead in "Hair." She went on to play the female lead in "Promises, Promises," and has just made her first movie, "Pigeons." (AP Photo)

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER
Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT ARRIVES IN CAMELOT TO FIND HIS SON, PRINCE ARN, AWAITING HIM. "FATHER, THIS SEPARATION IS A TRAGIC MISTAKE!" CRIES ARN. "THERE HAS BEEN NOTHING BUT UNHAPPINESS SINCE THE DAY YOU LEFT!"

"ON THAT DAY MOTHER AROSE SINGING AND ARRAYED HERSELF IN HER FINEST GOWN. THE SOMBER DAYS SEEMED AT AN END."

"CHILDREN, TIDY UP AND LOOK YOUR BEST, FOR TODAY I GO TO BRING BACK YOUR FATHER, EVEN IF I HAVE TO GO DOWN ON MY KNEES. TO BE A PROUD QUEEN IS NOTHING WITHOUT HIS LOVE!"

"SHE RAN ALL THE WAY TO THE PALACE IN THE SLUSH AND MUD AND ARRIVED BREATHLESS AT YOUR ROOM. IT WAS EMPTY. YOU HAD GONE. SHE HAS NOT SMILED SINCE." THEN ARN, LOOKING STRAIGHT INTO HIS FATHER'S EYES SAYS: "TOMORROW, WITH OR WITHOUT YOUR PERMISSION, I GO TO FIND HER."

"FOOL! FOOL THAT I WAS TO THINK HER LOVE HAD FALTERED!" CRIES VAL, AND SMASHES HIS FIST THROUGH A CABINET-DOOR. THIS SENSELESS VIOLENCE CALMS HIS ANGER. "ARN, PREPARE FOR A LONG JOURNEY. WE RIDE THE LONG ROAD TO THE MISTY ISLES!"

THERE IS A HINT OF A GRIN AS ARN ANSWERS: "I HAVE BEEN PREPARED FOR MANY WEEKS. WE CAN LEAVE WHENEVER YOU SAY."

THEY GO STRAIGHTWAY TO THE KING TO ASK HIS PERMISSION TO LEAVE. "GRANTED," SAYS ARTHUR, "AND WE WILL FURNISH SHIPS OR A TROOP OF TRUE KNIGHTS TO ACCOMPANY YOU. BUT BRING HER BACK, SIR VALIANT, FOR CAMELOT IS A DULL PLACE WITHOUT HER."

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I have the urge to share with you some of my inexpensive ideas for gift giving, so here are some good "cheapies"—and aren't those usually the most-liked gifts of all?

For my adult gifts I embroider muslin pillowcases... from the usual flowered ones to "the old lady in the shoe."

For teenagers, it's pillowcases with football players, cheerleaders, band instruments or whatever their interests are, and usually with their school initials on it somewhere.

For little ones I embroider the pillowcase with Jack and Jill or other nursery rhymes.

All these patterns I trace with carbon paper out of ten-cent coloring books.

Moreover, muslin cases wear longer, so no need to go broke on the cases either. Everyone seems to be delighted to receive them.

SUIT YOURSELF
DEAR HELOISE:
Having purchased a three-piece suit to wear in the office, I found that the elastic waistband in the straight skirt was most uncomfortable after hours of sitting.

Removing the elastic, I bound the skirt top with matching seam binding, then bought a wash-and-wear slip and sewed the skirt onto the slip.

Now I wear an overblouse and the suit jacket and have a neat, comfortable outfit.
Mrs. F. T. B.

A SNEAKY TRICK?
DEAR HELOISE:
The boy who sits next to me in school makes use of the wide rubber bands that go around the soles of his beat-up tennis shoes... His mother cut the bands up in sections and let him bring them to school to use as erasers. They're super!
Brenda Knox

MOMMY'S GALLERY
DEAR HELOISE:
Here is a nice idea for all young mothers... Some coffee cakes come in square boxes with a look-thru window. Use these to put your kindergartner's drawings in and just set them anywhere. Or you could even hang them. It looks so much nicer than just taping the drawing to the wall. I cover the front with that wide tape (which comes in many colors) to make a "frame."

Mrs. L.

QUICK CLIP
DEAR HELOISE:
I usually spread the newspaper out on the kitchen table to scan the "specials."

On the windowsill next to the table I keep a "stout" pin (large T-pins are wonderful). I scratch around the coupons with this pin and out they come. It's much easier than using scissors and neater than tearing.
Mrs. A.

ON EITHER SIDE?
DEAR HELOISE:
I needed some book ends but, as you know, you can stretch money only just so far, so I hit on an idea... I took two one-gallon cider jugs and filled them with colored water (with

A GOOD CLIP
DEAR HELOISE:
Everyone knows how annoying it is when a sweater that you place across your shoulders keeps slipping off.

Well, here at the office, I've just discovered that a quick and easy way to avoid this is to link four or five paper clips together, slip one end over the top button on one side of the sweater and the other end hooks onto the top button-hole on the other side. Sweater stays put.

BE SEATED!
DEAR HELOISE:
We use our bolt-on-type boat seats attached to a wooden kitchen chair for small visitors who are too short for regular dining chairs. They're really been a lifesaver!

BET YOUR BOOTS!
DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that if you have a hard time putting on cowboy boots or English boots, you can take your wife's hair dryer and blow warm air into the boots before you put them on, and they will go on twice as easy?

one ball into a sandwich-size plastic bag. Then I shaped it in the bag.

No greasy or sticky fingers, and no burned hands from too hot a mixture. If it's extra hot, you can use a towel over the bag to protect your hands.

When shaped, just pop the ball out to let it harden and refill the bag for ball No. 2... or you can leave each one in its own bag.

Now if I can just perfect my recipe, I'll be all set!

THE BRIGHT BULBS

I'm sorry to admit it, but popcorn balls are definitely not one of my specialties. But today I did discover a fantastically clean way to shape them.

HERALDING the annual senior class play at Hereford High School, Daphne Reed, Gwen Davis and Brenda Brock of the backstage crew work on a sign during a rehearsal. The three act comedy directed by Wayne Hodgson will be presented in the school auditorium next Saturday evening, with the public invited.

FAMILY HUMOR is the keynote of the play, based on experiences of the big Gilbreth family which were later turned into a best-selling book, a Broadway hit and a successful movie when two of the dozen children, grown up, penned their recollections. Time of the action is in the 1920's, with a conservative father determined that his daughters will not fall into the "flapper" pattern and the lively girls opposed to his old-fashioned ideas which forbid them to wear silk stockings and high heels to school.

SECTION TWO

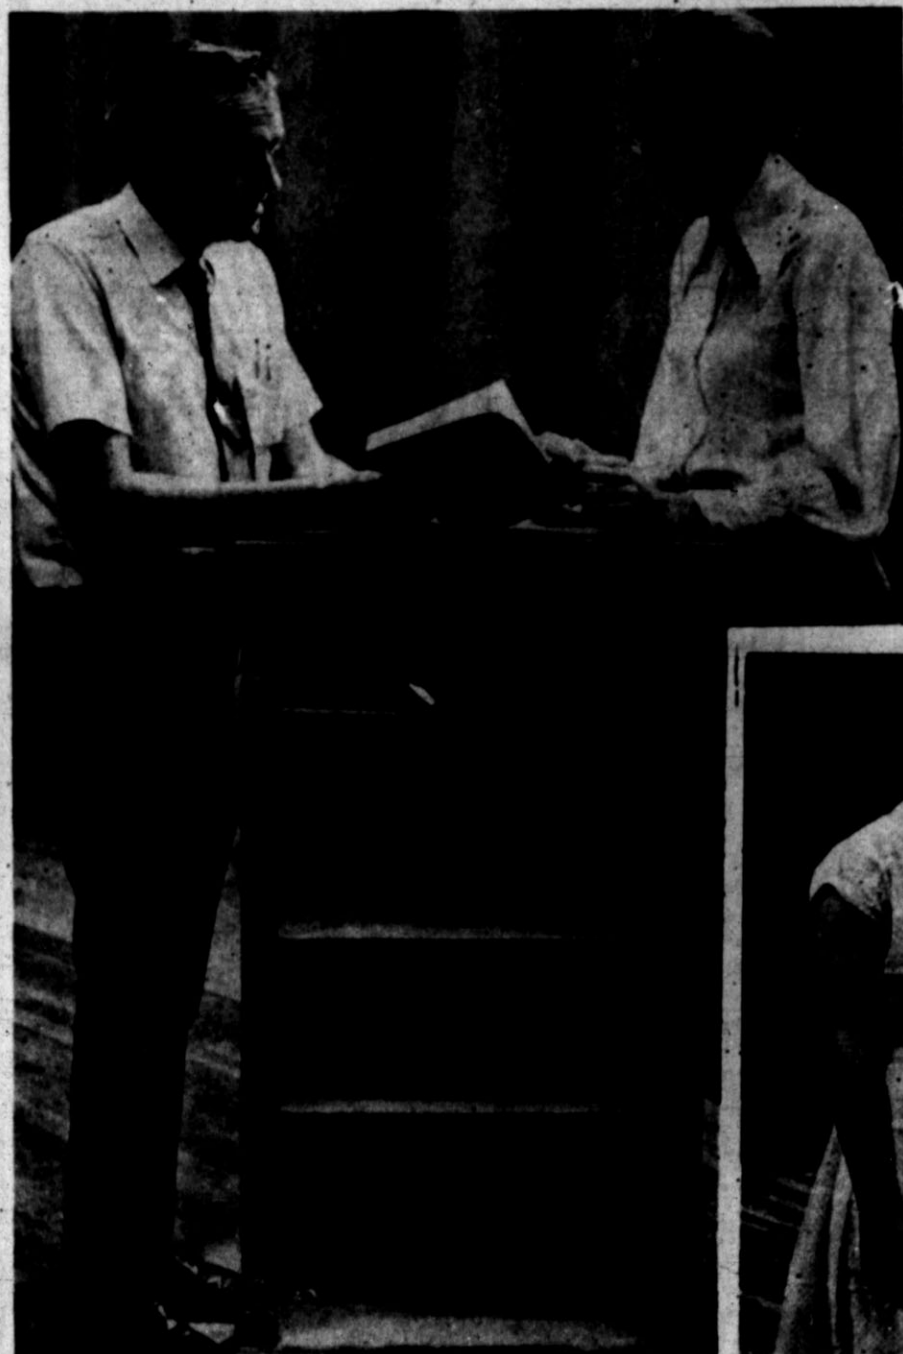

HEREFORD, TEXAS, 79045, SUNDAY, MARCH 21, 1971

LITTLE SISTERS are no help to adolescent romance, and Susan Balden as Joanne in this scene gets a chilly reception when she discovers Anne, played by Mona Gail Gibson, holding hands with an admirer, Chip Formby.

REMEMBERING family happenings, Frank and Ernestine, enacted by Alan Wagner and Martha McBride, serve as narrators to introduce scenes in the play, then take their places as actors when the curtain rises.

DIRECTOR Wayne Hodgson talks over the scene with Sara Bell, who appears as Miss Brill, the prim and unsympathetic teacher.

CONSULTATION in a household crisis is held by Gaby Lotner as Mrs. Fitzgerald, the housekeeper, and Kima Marsh as Mrs. Gilbreth, while the five daughters in the background show varying degrees of interest.

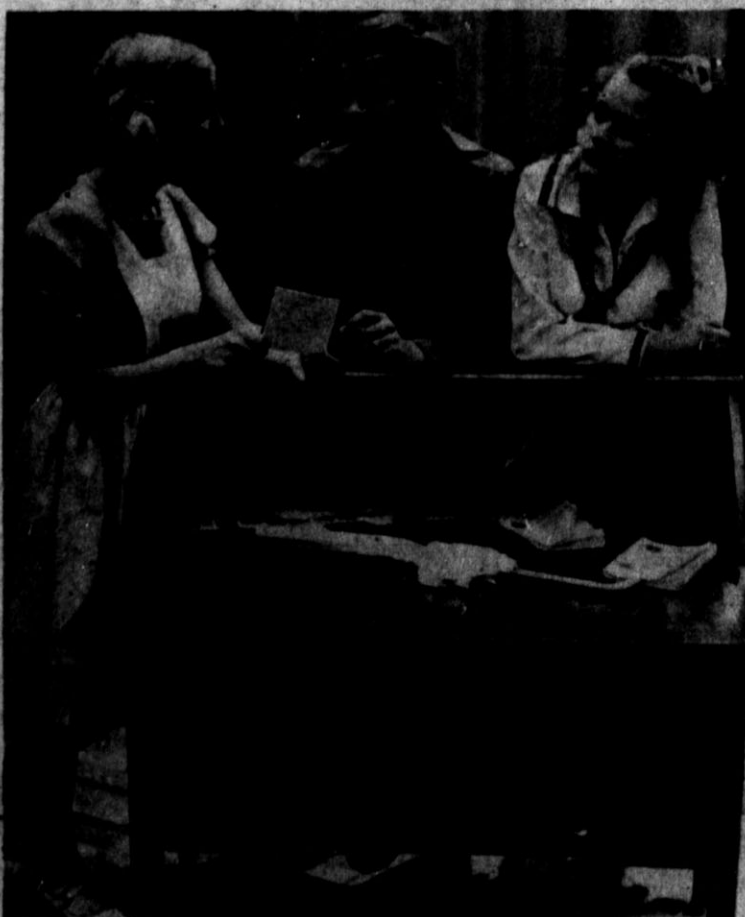

VITAL INTEREST is shown by Steve Cavness and Kima Marsh as the parents, the Drs. Gilbreth who were widely known as pioneer efficiency experts in American industry, watching as the teacher, Sara Bell, checks a test paper of one of the girls.

CONSTERNATION is the reaction of her father when Anne displays a purchase in lingerie. Costumes in the play are not the extreme styles of the 1920's, but schoolgirl dress of an earlier time deemed suitable for his daughters by Gilbreth.

EXPRESSIONS on the faces of Sherry White as Jackie, Donnie McDermitt as Fred and Dee Dee Walden as Martha indicate their interest in a note. Other younger members of the Gilbreth clan, not pictured, are Chris Dziuk as Dan and Cheryl Cole as Lillian. Wendell Albracht plays the family doctor and Greg Chisum a high school cheer leader.

SCENE BUILDING is the important role of the stage crew, which includes Mike Wartea, Mike Aruwine, David Meyers and Alan Ralley.

MANOR AUXILIARY OFFICERS — Leaders of the volunteer workers who make up Kings Manor Auxiliary were elected for a new year at the semi-annual membership meeting this week. From left they are Mrs. Robert Strain, who succeeds Mrs. Hilton Higgins as president; Mrs. Carroll McDonald, secretary, and Mrs. Clark Andrews, treasurer. Mrs. Jim Perrin, not pictured, will serve as vice president. The Auxiliary is made up of women from over this area who give time for services to residents of Kings Manor retirement home here.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

IN MEMORY OF AET MANJEOT

The storm clouds rolled upon our beautiful Garden of Life, and felled a strong and beautiful part of the garden at 383 Westhaven.

We cannot and will not question His wisdom, and heart-rendering decision. In our own way we will continue to tend the garden, and strive all the harder to make it one of lasting beauty, colorful and heart warming.

Someday the sun will shine all the brighter, the sky will be beautiful azure blue, the birds songs sweeter, and even the flowers will lift their lovely faces to brighten our days, and create beauty. He will lighten the garden paths, and sweet memories will be our companion.

I know that one of the best remedies for those who sorrow, and are lonely, is to go outside, in the garden, alone with the heavens, nature and God, because He is the Master Teacher for tending Life's Garden. As long as this exists, and it certainly always will, I know that then there will always be comfort for our sorrow, and sustenance for the tomorrows.

L. T. C. & Mrs. Lloyd Howton Manjeot, Beverly Manjeot, and Lloyd Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Pink H. Gilliland, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Simpson, and other members of the Manjeot family, with other of our loved ones, want to say to you:

No words can adequately express the deep and heartfelt thanks to each and everyone for the many deeds and kindnesses shown during Art's illness, and all the expressions of sympathy and understanding extended. May God richly bless and bestow you with blessings physical, mental and spiritual today, and in the tomorrows. Give your Garden Tender Loving care, and enjoy all the beauties of nature along life's pathway. They are short and fleeting.

Mr. & Mrs. Bill Hodges personally invite you to attend Revival Services at the 1st Church of the Nazarene to hear Ralph West, Evangelist, March 22-28, 7:30 each evening.

FTA question teachers in form of skit

Questions of four future teachers from Hereford High School concerning the teaching profession were answered Monday evening by teachers experienced in various fields of teaching, in a skit at a Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma meeting.

Future teachers were Souad Malouf, Shella Lind, Lynette Mercer and Patty Nowotny. Mrs. T. E. Braddy, high school counselor, was moderator.

Teachers answering the students' questions were Mmes. Tandy Legg, Shirley Vineyard, Tolbert Painter and O. Z. Golden.

Slides illustrate student's talk

Mrs. T. E. Braddy, program chairman, presented American Field Service Student, Samim Aydin of Turkey, a small gift of appreciation from Hereford Study Club for bringing a program of color slides and question and answer session to their meeting Thursday evening.

Aydin, a senior student at Hereford High School, is Hereford's 1970-71 male foreign exchange student. His home is in Istanbul. Scenes from that large city and from other parts of Turkey were shown in the program of slides, illustrating facts about the country given by the guest speaker.

Mrs. Art Stoy, hostess, and Mrs. Matrice Tannahill, cohostess, served refreshments to Mmes. N. D. Bartlett, Braddy, S. L. Garrison, W. H. Gentry, Bob Posten, Don Robinson, Garland Solomon, Merlin Kaul and Miss Gladys Settiff.

The group will meet with Mrs. Gentry for the next program April 1.

dy, Jim Bookout, Dorothy Mercer, and Don Shipley.

Wyche Club congratulates member on title

Mrs. Wayne Jones received congratulations from her associates, members of Wyche Home Demonstration Club, for the recent title given her as Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration Woman of the Year.

Mrs. Leroy Bodkin was hostess for the meeting Thursday and Mrs. Ira Ott gave a demonstration on quick master mix cakes and cookies which were later served as refreshments. Subject of the program was Consumer Competence in Foods.

Members joining in the discussion of plans to host a Westgate birthday party were Mmes. L. B. Wortham, C. F. Newsom, Don Coconaugher, Paul Jones Cecil Hart, J. H. Holden, Leo Hellman, Byron Grover, and Charles Packard.

Student demonstrators find little sympathy

Apparently Texas legislators are trying to pass more stringent laws to control violence on campus. The Senate Wednesday unanimously approved a bill to make disruption of college campuses a crime and to ban habitual trouble-makers from all state-supported schools.

The bill by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, would make it illegal to seize a building, obstruct an entrance or hallway or try to prevent a lawful assembly on the campus of a public or private school.

Violators could be fined up to $200

An error corrected

TO JUDGES of the Appellate Division of the Manhattan Supreme Court go cheers for their wisdom in upsetting a weird Family Court ruling of several weeks ago.

That ruling caused eyebrow-raising and other signs of wonderment—including cusswords — at the time. In it, the judge ordered a father to continue supporting a daughter who disobeyed the father's instructions by moving off the University of Louisville campus to take up hippie living, including experimentation with drugs.

The father actually was threatened with 30 days in jail if he did not support her until she is 21, which will be October 20. When she refused to return to New York to attend school, he cut off her allowance and support.

Many a father would have felt his responsibility was to do the same thing. It may be wondered, incidentally why the University of Louisville did not exercise its parietal prerogatives by keeping the young woman where she belonged.

The Appellate Division points out, correctly, that "the father — in return for his maintenance and support — is entitled to set reasonable standards, rules and regulations for his child." If the daughter, the ruling says, "chose not to comply, at her age, that may be her prerogative, but she cannot have her cake and eat it too. . . the father not only has the right, but an obvious duty, to guide and direct his child."

For this slap at soft-headed permissiveness which has infected life in the U. S. so deplorably, the Division deserves a vote of confidence.

and sent to jail for six months. Anyone convicted a third time would be ineligible to attend any state-supported school for two years.

A similar bill is also being introduced in the House.

The move to curb violence on the campus is commendable, and we hope the Texas legislators follow through and eventually see the bills signed into law. We would hope also that the administrators of the various state and private schools will see that the laws are upheld.

However, we suppose we have been laboring under a misapprehension over the years. We've always felt that there were sufficient laws already on the books provided such laws were enforced: the offenders prosecuted, convicted and punished.

Laws, no matter how stringent, can do little for any community if the offenders are not prosecuted. Jurors usually take care of their responsibilities, finding the defendant guilty if sufficient evidence is presented. But arrest and prosecution has to come first.

On the other hand, perhaps the new legislation is being pursued in an effort to plug loopholes in the present statutes. If this be the case, we hope the end result will be positive. We're not interested in persecuting any segment of our society, but are certainly interested in seeing order restored to the campus. It is criminal, we believe, to let such a small percentage of the students enrolled (and a few kooks who aren't on the rolls) disrupt the educational process for the large majority.

There is one solution to the problem which we feel would be much more effective than the jailing of a few rabble rousers. If, for instance, the parents could be held responsible for the actions of those at the universities, we believe a lot of financial support would automatically be pulled out from under the trouble makers. After all, if the income from home ceases, and said student find that he, or she, must go to work to stay in school, there wouldn't be time left to cause much trouble.

Crocodile tears

"One out of every four Americans 65 and over," reports a late AP dispatch, "now is forced to live on a poverty-level income." The dispatch said this was the finding of the Senate Special Committee on Aging. A statement on the "Economics of Aging," as carried in the AP dispatch, says, "A most distressing fact — a disgrace in a nation pledged to an all-out war on poverty — is that there was an increase in both the number and the proportion of aged poor between 1968 and 1969. In 1969, there were approximately 4.8 million people aged 65 and older who were living in poverty, almost 200,000 more than in 1968."

Just why Congressmen or anyone else should profess to be surprised at the rising incidence of poverty among those who are forced to live on a government dole in a country that is sinking deeper into the mire of inflation is a mystery. Crocodile tears from politicians who are "distressed" over the plight of the poor and the aged should fool no one. The same ever-greater government deficits and, wherever possible, hit the most productive and the most enterprising with new taxes or regulations that make it harder than ever to earn a profit or save a dollar.

It is indeed "distressing" that the financial plight of the aged is growing worse year-by-year, but it is not surprising. It is, in fact, inevitable in any country that accepts inflation under a welfare state as a way of life.

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

Barry Goldwater Jr. — He's a chip off the block

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON — Rep. Barry Goldwater, Jr. (R. Calif.) son of the 1964 Presidential nominee, is a chip off the old block. He proved it recently by making a speech in California that his father admired enough to reprint in the Congressional Record, with approving comments by the Senator.

Young Goldwater, only 32 and a second-termer in the House, spoke about the national debt shortly after Congress had voted to raise the debt ceiling by a whopping $30 billion. At the same time, Congress removed the 4.5 percent limit on interest the Federal government is allowed to pay on its long-term bonds.

He pointed out that the American people are paying $40,000 per minute — 12 cents out of every tax dollar — just to meet the interest costs on our national debt.

THE BOOTLEG — Philosopher

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm turns economist this week, more or less. Dear editor:

One of those serious columnists had a column in this newspaper I found out here yesterday expressing righteous indignation over some people who were feeling sorry for the million high-priced white-collar workers who have been laid off recently.

"Why," he asked, "should you feel sorry for them? Here's a man-who's been making $40,000 a year or more, he gets laid off, and immediately has to draw unemployment compensation because he hasn't got a cent in the bank and has a big mortgage on his home and three cars. Why hadn't he been saving his money all along?"

That writer clearly doesn't understand modern-day economics.

Why would a man with three cars still owe on them? Because if he'd paid cash he could have bought only one, what with payments on his boat and his $75,000 home and his trip to Europe, and that means two other cars went un-bought, and you multiply that by a million and you've reduced the nation car output by 3 million, and you figure up how much the economy would lose by not making those 3 million cars, counting all the people and materials it takes to make them plus all the gas and oil and tires and repairs it takes to keep them moving, plus all the work to build and maintain the highways it takes to run them on, and you can see what trouble this country would be in.

It's all right for some people to save their money, look like there's no way to stop it, but if everybody did, if everybody waited till he could pay cash for everything he bought, no telling what would happen to the economy.

Outside of groceries, I don't know of anything that's bought with cash these days. You'd be surprised at how many Cadillacs are bought on the installment plan. Most daily newspapers are bought by the month, and a lot of them by the day. You name it, television sets, cars, clothes, washing machines, air conditioners, political office, everything these days is bought on time with borrowed money.

It used to be said, "getting and spending, we lay waste our lives," but you let enough people get and not spend and see what happens. The only reason I haven't been doing my part to keep the economy humming is that nobody has given me a $40,000-a-year job to fire me from.

Yours faithfully,

al debt. That annual bill for interest is now a staggering $6.8 billion. It will go higher because of continued deficit financing and the prospective increase in the interest rate on government bonds.

"Where will it all stop?" asked Rep. Goldwater in the best tradition of his famous father.

He might have been quoting from the family bible as he added: "We are going to spend ourselves to financial destruction! We are going to destroy the free enterprise system. It will smother in the vast pillow of government spending."

A careless reader of the Congressional Record, noting only that the remarks were by "Mr. Goldwater," might have thought the words were spoken by the Arizona Senator in 1964 and not by the California Congressman in 1971.

Attacks "Washington Syndrome"

Rep. Goldwater charged that the Federal government "has fallen into the Washington Syndrome." This he defined as "the simple-minded theory that problems just disappear when the Federal government throws enough money and statute books at them through new government programs."

He revealed that during the eight years a Democrat occupied the White House, 1960-68, the number of Federal domestic grant programs jumped from 45 to 435, almost a 1000 percent increase. He asked his businessman audience: "What has this meant for you, as individuals and as businessmen?"

Goldwater answered: "It has meant that the Federal government has become your chief competitor — for money, for business, for employees. It has meant you are so hemmed in by regulations that you are probably breaking the law at least once a day without even realizing it. It has meant that you are being taxed out of your very existence."

"It has meant that you must stand by helplessly and watch the very principles of free enterprise that made this country great be thrown out the window. It is time to call a halt to this whole mess. It is time to puncture the great swollen balloon of bureaucracy, let out all the hot air, and get down to business."

Supports Nixon Program

In case all this sounds like Rep. Goldwater opposes the Nixon program, "tis not so. He regards the President's proposals as "the only logical course to get this nation back on the track again."

What about the Nixon spending plans, the new programs, the mounting deficit? Rep. Goldwater explained that it took "eight years of government over-spending" to bring the economy to its present inflationary situation. Nixon's "initial attempt to correct the situation by cutting spending showed the weakness of this inflationary balloon — one session of belt-tightening and it rapidly collapsed," with unfortunate results for business.

So, as Goldwater sees it, a new and more "gradualistic approach" had to be tried. "We have grown too soft as a nation to take our medicine straight." Spending will be phased down "while at the same time applying maximum stimulation to the private sector."

There was more to the speech of Rep. Goldwater, including an endorsement of revenue-sharing, an attack on bureaucratic buck-passing, and even a warning that the Democrats will "turn back down the long road to Socialism."

Attaboy, Barry, Jr. In these days when so few sons listen to their father's message, it is good to know you learned your lessons to the complete satisfaction of your old man, and a good many others as well.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

BIG CHIEF — Quannah Parker, Comanche chieftain and probably the most famous Indian in Texas history, is one of the few red men ever invited to go on a hunting trip with the President of the United States.

In the spring of 1905, President Theodore Roosevelt traveled from Dallas to Quannah (the Hardeman County town named for Chief Parker) by special train. From there, Mr. Roosevelt rode horseback into the Indian Territory to hunt wolves. Accompanying him on the wolf hunt was a company of cavalry, cowboys from ranches in the area and a party of dignitaries that included the Comanche chieftain.

Actually Parker was only half Indian. His mother was Cynthia Ann Parker who, as a nine-year-old girl, was captured by the Comanches when they raided Fort Parker. Later she became the wife of Pete Nocona, then chief of the Comanches, and bore him two sons, Pecos and Quannah.

Quannah Parker's band of Staked Plains Comanches were the last to give up reservation life, and the chief spent his declining years as a respected rancher. He died February 23, 1911.

IT TAKES ALL KINDS — Governor James Stephen Hogg used to keep a small zoo at the Executive Mansion in Austin.

Along with a couple of pet ostriches named Jack and Jill, the governor's pets included a wild goose, a parrot and a black bear.

TEXANS AT WORK — Dallas is home base for a company that will type a business message in the sky for a fee.

Writing messages across the sky with smoke trailed from an airplane is almost as old as aviation, but the new process of "skytyping" is something else. The Dallas firm, using up to five aircraft flying in formation 10,000 feet overhead, produces the signs by punching an electronic "typewriter" that releases little dots of smoke.

The skytypers produce words at the rate of 12 letters per minute and can write 800 letters before returning to the ground for fuel. The message typed in the sky can be as long as five miles from end to end.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — West, McLennan County, is one of the best known Czech communities in central Texas, but it was named for an Anglo.

Originally settled by farmers of English and Scotch ancestry, the community was named for an early storekeeper named T. M. West. In the 1890's, however, Czechoslovakian immigrants began moving into the rich farming area and today about 70 per cent of the residents are of Czech descent.

TEXANS AT WORK — Richard Guthrie of Kermit, Winkler County, turns out hand-tooled miniature saddles in his spare time.

The 66-year-old former cowboy's handiwork is an exact replica of the real thing. He makes only two mini-saddles per day, and has a long waiting list of customers.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

The crisis in public education is worsening month by month. A decade ago, only a few metropolitan centers had blackboard jungles. The vast majority of school systems were free of serious disorders. No longer is this the case. Today, as a result of federal dictates and the emergence of the political power of militants, the nation's public schools are strife-torn.

The root of the trouble lies with the breakdown of local control of public education. In the past, school boards made the decisions regarding pupil and teacher assignment. School authorities were free to administer such disciplinary measures as they deemed wise.

In recent years, federal courts and agencies such as the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, have come to make the key decisions regarding assignment of students and teachers. Children are being bused long distances in order to meet arbitrary formulas. Teacher assignment likewise is a matter of politics, not education. School boards and administrators have been stripped of real power. If a superintendent or principal decides to discipline an unruly student, he may end up in court.

Intolerable conditions have been created in many public schools. Incompatible groups of students have been mixed in classrooms — students with markedly different backgrounds and concepts of behavior. The problems have been aggravated by the refusal of federal agencies to allow principals to allow anything like the so-called "four track" system once permitted in District of Columbia schools — that is, organization of classes on the basis of achievement and ability to perform.

Schools that have been revamped on the basis of rigid balancing formulas are schools with enormous built-in frustrations. Those who can't perform satisfactorily in the classroom are bitter and resentful. If they fail their courses, they are furious with school authorities and those students who pass. If they are passed for social or political reasons, they still know that they have failed. Hence they are angry because of their demonstrated incapacity. And those qualified students enrolled under political formulas are accorded special privileges — discrimination in reverse.

In this situation, classroom discipline breaks down. Gradually, the situation worsens until the school is constantly plunged into strife. The resentful element comes to attack other students in the halls, restrooms, or schoolyard. Sometimes the conflict widens into riots in which school bus drivers are assaulted or knifings take place on school grounds.

Given the political climate of today — and the growing political power of minority groups, school boards and superintendents are increasingly afraid to discipline classroom hoodlums. Participants in school boycotts go unpunished. What's worst of all, police may be politically intimidated and told not to interfere with or arrest gangs rampaging in public schools. The parents of gang participants are likely to be well-organized politically and quick to demand that no punishment be administered.

Two BSP units dine together

Contributions to state and national service projects of Beta Sigma Phi were voted by members of the local preceptor chapter, Alpha Alpha, Tuesday evening. This year's state project is aid to a pediatric hematology research laboratory at San Antonio.

A brief business period was a part of the chapter meeting in the home of Mrs. Delbert Bainum, where members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter were guests for a salad supper. The evening was spent in casual conversation, Mrs. Larry Summers presided for business.

Members of the hostess group present were Mmes. R. J. Cramer, Howard Gore, Carl Hollingsworth, Margaret Johnson, Hicks Roberson, John Schneider, Harold Beauchamp, Max Stripes, Ernest Wade, James Shearer and Ollene Williams.

Those from XEA Chapter were Mmes. Bill McDonald, Max Goforth, Melvin Fowler, Jim Cramer, Cliff Jones, Bob Emery and C. D. Fitzgerald Jr.

Bank puts woman to work helping others to know city

By EMMA LIVINGSTONE RICHMOND — Mrs. Henry W. Black, a Richmond bank officer probably sees more doors open in one year than she does deposit slips.

An assistant market officer for the United Virginia Bank-State Planters, Gloria B. Black, has a comfortable office on East Main Street, but she spends very little time in it.

Each year Mrs. Black makes more than 1,000 calls visiting and welcoming newcomers to Richmond and helping young brides understand family finance.

"I give new families literature about Richmond. I show them how to find their way around, tell them about shopping centers, bank locations, schools and where to get referrals to doctors and dentists in their area.

"The personal contact and my interest is welcome to the women I've found, and it gives them an excuse to stop work and rest a bit," said Mrs. Black who was a stranger here 19 years ago.

In the Richmond area, only two banks have separate programs specifically designed to meet the needs of its women staff members and customers.

Since 1968, Miss Daphne Lowell Dailey, first woman to be appointed a vice president in the history of The Bank of Virginia, has been responsible for its statewide Women's Department.

Although the potential buying power of women has long been acknowledged by business and industry, actual facts and figures are hard to find. In an article written earlier this year for the "Bank Marketing Management" Magazine, Miss Dailey estimates the increase in population will put more women into the job market.

The country will also be an "urbanized nation of better educated young, affluent, mobile people with changing family tastes, new standards and buying habits," she wrote in the publication geared for bank management.

"Finance is a woman's world too," said Miss Dailey. "Women are important as personnel, as customers, as stock holders (in the bankin group system)

Stiff fine faces late tag buyers

County vehicle owners who fail to meet the April 1 deadline for registering their vehicles face the possibility of a stiff fine and an increase of 20 per cent on their registration fee.

Neil Miller, county tax assessor-collector, said residents have only until midnight March 31 to get the 1971 license plates on their vehicles. If the cars are driven after the deadline without the new plates, the owners will be assessed a 20 per cent increase on the regular registration fee.

Anyone who applies for new license plates after the deadline will be required to sign an affidavit that the vehicle has not been driven since the deadline.

Anyone caught driving a vehicle after the deadline without 1971 plates can be fined from $5 to $200 in addition to the late registration cost.

Mrs. Miller said only about 5,500 cars were registered through the last part of this week.

"We are going real slow. By the end of March last year we registered 11,032 vehicles," Mrs. Miller said.

Persons who apply for vehicle registration can do so just by taking their renewal slips to the county tax assessor-collector's office. Most car owners received their renewal slips through the mail if they had the vehicle registered last year.

grams of interest to Richmond women, such as Saturday Seminars, one-day seminars for women, mini-forums and money talks designed to teach money management to young women and the home calling program. In the Home Calling Program, the bank hires young married women who are former employees to visit housewives to explain the services offered to them.

"Our program started out as an experiment," said Mrs. Black, who was a utility teller when she was called in to work with marketing officers Thomas R. Jarman Jr. and William R. Craig to set up the program.

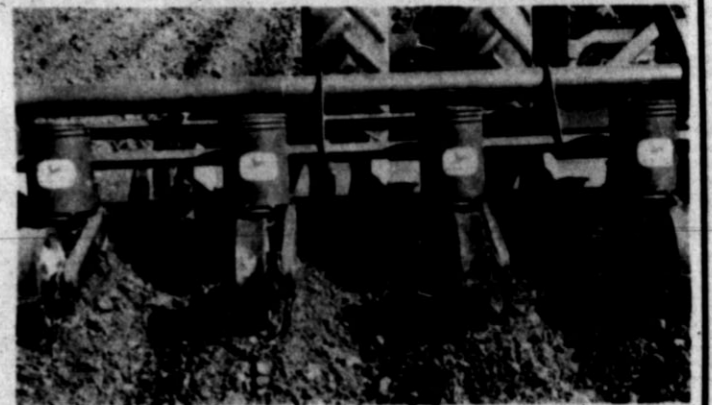

Now when she calls on potential customers her brief case contains brochures and booklets on how to spend money wisely, understand money matters and a quick reference on services available in Richmond. "We help our customers with budgets, tell them how to balance checkbooks and how to understand investments, trusts, wills and endowments."

"Women never know when they might be left alone to untangle their husband's financial affairs," explained Mrs. Black. "And I've talked to many women who simply didn't want to know anything about how to handle money and this is sad."

Rebecca Jesko bride of Douglas Sanderson

Miss Rebecca Jesko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jesko, Highway 385 South, exchanged vows with Douglas Sanderson in a late afternoon ceremony Saturday at the altar of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The Rev. Boniface Riedmann, S. A., read the wedding service. Four vases held giant white chrysanthemums and green foliage as altar decoration.

Mr. Sanderson, son of Mrs.

Truitt McCoy of San Jon, N. M., and Jack Sanderson of El Paso, resides in Apartment 7, 112 Avenue H, where the couple will be at home next weekend after a honeymoon trip in New Mexico.

Sisters of the bride were her attendants. Mrs. George Bullard was matron of honor, Miss Karen, Jesko bridesmaid and Bernadette Jesko junior bridesmaid. The youngest, Jennifer, served as flower girl.

Russell Dee Sanderson of the United States Marine Corps, San Diego, was his brother's best man, Ronnie Reiter groomsmen and Reuben Gonzales junior groomsmen. The ring bearer was Tony Yosten, son of the Gilbert Yostens.

Candles were lighted before the ceremony by the bride's cousins, Dwight and Gerald Jesko.

Music was by Mrs. Joe Reinauer, vocal soloist, and Mrs. Jim Cramer, organist. Selections were "Whither Thou Goest, Twelfth of Never, Wedding Prayer, O Perfect Love and Mother at Your Feet."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in nylon organza over bridal taffeta, with Alencon lace bands circling the empire waist and high neckline and marking the front panel of the A-line skirt. Sleeves were double puffs of the organza, held by bands of lace at the wrist and just above the elbow.

A sweeping chapel train was attached at the back waistline. Her illusion veil, bordered with lace, fell over her shoulders from a coil of lace and seed pearls.

The orchid centering her bou-quet was surrounded by daisies and pale pink baby's breath, carried on her grandmother's prayer book. A gold bracelet, gift of her godmother, and her mother's necklace were other heirloom items in the bridal costume.

Her attendants wore pink crepe empire dresses, floor length, trimmed with daisy motif on the full cuffed sleeves and at the waistline. Their flowers were nosegays of daisies and pink baby's breath, tied with pink ribbons. A dinner in the Knights of Columbus Hall followed the wedding with a dance afterward. The bride's table was covered with cutwork linen and the bridesmaids' bouquets were laid at the base of central candelabra.

Mrs. Alvin Davis and Miss Mary Cantu served punch as Misses Doris and Janette Walterscheid served the three-tiered heart shaped cake, which was decorated with pink sugar flowers and topped with bride-and-groom figurines. For the wedding trip, Mrs. Sanderson wore a pantsuit in deep pink, with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

She was a 1966 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed as a hair stylist. The bridegroom, who operates a service station here, attended West Texas State University after graduation in 1967 from San Jon High School.

DE STUDENT OF THE WEEK — Dennis Clayton Sims, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sims, 112 Avenue I, has been selected Distributive Education student of the week, and is employed by Paul Harvey, manager at C. R. Anthony's in Sugarland Mall. Sims, a senior at Hereford High School, plans to attend a business school in Amarillo in the future. He is in sales and stock at his training station.

Mrs. Perrin of Haskell buried

Funeral services for Mr. S. G. Perrin, 89, longtime resident of Haskell and the mother of three Hereford residents, were conducted in First Baptist Church at Haskell Sunday and burial was in the cemetery there. Mrs. Perrin died Saturday.

She was the mother of Mrs. D. C. McWhorter, Jim Perrin and Julian Perrin of Hereford.

Other relatives here are Mrs. Irene Ballard and Mrs. Ollie Freeman, sisters-in-law; Carl, Dave and Bill Perrin, brothers-in-law; Labry Ballard and Don Perrin, nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoover, family friends, went to Haskell for the funeral.

THE GIRLS IN THE BAND TORONTO — Girls outnumber the boys, 51 to 50, in the Toronto Youth Symphony, an orchestra spokesman reports.

The viola section of the orchestra is made up of all girls and the cello section has 10 girls to one boy. Percussion, on the other hand, is all boys but there are two girls with eight boys in the bass section.

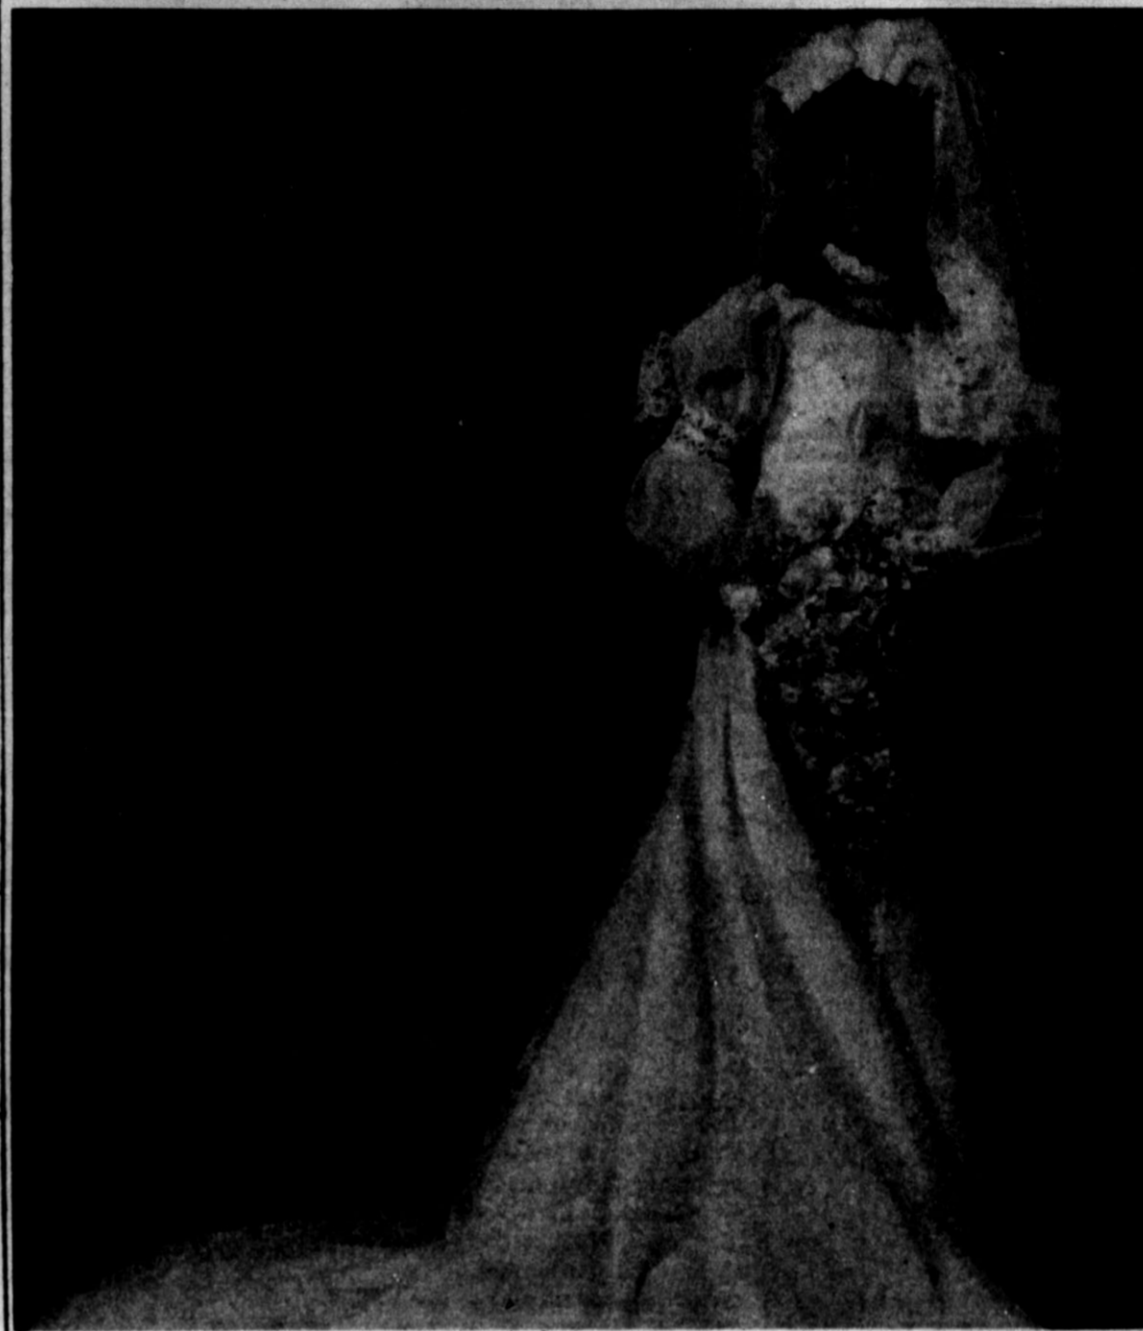

Golf pro Billy Casper will be 40 on June 24. He has been a pro since 1954.

Ford H.D. club plans work day

Work day at Ford Community Building was planned for Apr. 18 at a recent meeting of Ford Home Demonstration Club. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon and the day will be spent in a spring cleaning and fix-up session.

Mrs. Raymond Smith and Mrs. John A. Smith were hostesses in the community building for a business session and a program given by Mrs. Luther Norvell. She spoke of family histories and tracing ancestry, telling of surprises and pleasure she has experienced since she began a study of genealogy.

Mrs. Dan Norvell was welcomed as a guest. Other members at the meeting were Mmes. Frank Brorman, J. Raymond Flores and Joe Gonzales.
