News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig

WASHINGTON (By George Durso) Keynoting—When General Johnson warned a recent meeting of business men that "you ain't seen nothing yet," he must have been talking about the coming political campaign.

It is axiomatic that a President must not interfere in a Congressional election but there are definite indications Mr. Roosevelt plans to lay on a gentle helping hand nevertheless.

Don't think it will take the form of a direct appeal to the country to re-elect a Democratic Congress this fall. That was proven too dangerous by Woodrow Wilson. Plans in the making are far more subtle.

Watch for instance, the cruise President Roosevelt intends to make to Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, through the Panama Canal and thence to Hawaii in June and July. If Congress adjourns as expected, this voyage will start from Boston harbor on June 23. This would get the President back to the American mainland around the middle of July—docking at Seattle.

Obviously the outward journey will be one of recreation and inspection. What worries the Republicans is what will happen from Seattle back to Washington. They think they foresee the making of a transcontinental tour, that will enable the President to get off three or four well-chosen keynote speeches for the campaign and any number of personal appearances.

The White House is doing every thing possible to take the political aspect of this trip. Right now newspaper men are battling over how many of their craft will be permitted to go along. Mr. Roosevelt insists there'll be room aboard his cruiser for only one man from each of the three principal press associations. Representatives of metropolitan papers have been making a stiff fight to be included but so far they've got exactly nowhere.

G. O. P. strategists are convinced the President intends to swing into action at Seattle with the least possible advance ballyhoo and parade triumphantly across country to the tines of brass bands.

Former Utilities Czar Jailed When Bond Is Not Met

CHICAGO (AP)—Samuel Insull was placed under $200,000 bond by a federal judge Tuesday, and, unable to furnish it, was led away to jail.

With his eyes tearful and his steps lagging, Insull trudged silently between guards, a prisoner in a city where he had risen to greatness among financial and utilities potentates of the nation.

Gaping crowds met his train at the station. He faced them impassively. At the United States marshal's office he heard the charges read: using the mails to defraud and violation of the bankruptcy act.

He collapsed when his heart became overtaxed by the physical and emotional strain. Reviving, he was fingerprinted, then led before the judge. District Attorney Green asking a heavy bond. Green said the government spent a vast sum chasing Insull around the world and wanted the assurance he would be on hand for trial.

Shortly after 1 o'clock, five hours from the time his train arrived in Chicago, Insull was dressed in at the county jail and assigned to a cell.

U.S. Rents Land To Cut Yields, Not To Shift It

U.S. Rents Land To Cut Yields, Not To Shift It

COLLEGE STATION—Misunderstanding of government regulations as to what may and may not be grown on contracted cotton, wheat and corn has resulted in confusion in some places, reports to the Texas A. and M. college extension service indicate. The corn-hog rulings about permitted pasture plantings have been misinterpreted by some, it is reported.

It is not true that any and all grazing crops may be planted on contracted corn acres, declares E. M. Regenbrecht, extension agronomy specialist. The AAA listed certain pasture crops which might be sown, but that list does not include grasses and legumes the can normally be grazed during the first year they are planted. Thus it is that lespedeza or rescue grass, for instance, may be sown on retired corn acres, but sudan grass is forbidden. Sudan could be grazed this year and if permitted would not help the national reduction program.

Farmers should get in mind the fundamentals of the adjustment program to understand what the contracts will permit in the way of seedings on contracted acres, extension officials say. During the present emergency, and until international trade can be built up again to take farm products in large quantities, it has been decided wise national policy to take 43 million acres of good farm land out of production. Farmers are being paid good money to do this. Insofar as this retired land can be used to help the farm family live at home, where they have not previously had enough land to do this, the government is willing that it be done in the case of the cotton and wheat programs. The administration also knows it to be sound national farm policy to swing cultivated land to pastures, and therefore encourages that land be sown to permanent pasture crops that normally do not furnish much grazing the first year after seeding.

The agricultural adjustment administration has brought millions of dollars to Texas farmers and in return asks cooperation in restricting all farm production during this year for the next period. The administration is generous but it has never at any time given permission to plant acres to anything and everything.

WILD GAME SURVEYS MADE
COLUMBUS, Neb. (UP)—Officials of the National Parks service recently have conducted surveys along streams in this section of Nebraska in quest of possible sites for wild game preserves which the government plans to establish in cooperation with the several states. The preserves, which will provide rest and feeding grounds for migratory birds, will be paid for out of revenue from the federal game stamp act, it was understood here.

FARM TALK

FARM TALK
Written For The Daily Herald

J. W. Lowe, Ackerly, reports that it is getting a little dry in that area since only a little more than a 1 inch total of rain fell in that section. His place is about a mile north of the Reece Adams place near Sosh.

H. B. Adams of the Soash community adds an anxious amen to that story. Rain is needed badly in that section and toward Ackerly, in and around Brown, Tarzan and Lenorah in Martin county over most of Dawson county.

Tom Good started one herd Sunday and another one Monday to Lamesa from where he was to ship 3,000 steers to Nebraska. The buyer was Mr. Gilpatrick but what the stuff would be could not be learned here Tuesday.

A bunch of Big Spring folk including Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keating, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Service, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Slaughter and Tom Ashby enjoyed an old fashioned chuck wagon dinner Sunday at his ranch.

H. C. Reed of R-Bar is already making local people impatient. Monday he was in town with a lot of talk about his watermelon patch and when he would bring a million in to his friends. Those vines, he says, are already up. And that sandy land in that area is the best yet for melons.

Mrs. Mary Hubner says that things are getting dry at her place. Planting has been completed but she says it may have to be done over.

Egbert Echols, who grew up around Coahoma, was here Saturday. He is tax assessor and collector for the Pecos Irrigation company at Barstow. Conditions are a little better around Barstow, according to him. In Barstow he is a great boys worker and brought a troop of Boy Scouts here Saturday for the jamboree.

His stuff is coming along fine, says Fritz Hecker who lives near Luther, but so are the weeds.

Walter Lundy was in town Monday after helping Louis Conrad brand 600 calves on the SR outfit over in Scurry county.

Walter Robinson says he thinks his cotton will be up to a good stand and also to give the fields free irrigations to insure crops in dry years.

W. T. Jackson of Fairview is another farmer who practices the doctrine of live at home. Each year he plants a world of garden stuff and canes plenty to run all through the winter and until the stuff comes fresh next spring and summer.

Last year he put up over a thousand cans of peas, corn, beans, okra, etc. His tomato patch was looking just right when a heavy mid summer rain backed a lake up into it and totally ruined it.

His family canned quite a bit of pork too, and it has lasted until about a week ago. About the only can goods the family bought last year was a little greens, and Jack says there wasn't any use in that since they raised plenty of turnip and mustard greens.

Vegetables have already been planted and are up, so he will probably do a lot more canning again. The maize patch came up to a poor stand and he is planning on planting again. His place is near Fairview.

John Curtis has a mighty good stand of cotton on most of his place. The sun Sunday made some of the young plants look sort of sick, he said. However, it wasn't hurt perceptibly.

Grass in southwest Howard county is coming along fine now and cattle are beginning to get some good grazing. Around Garden City and in that section things are looking fine for stockmen and sheep men.

Crenshaw and Hamill sold head of ewes and lambs for D. W. Christian to Mr. Barfield on the Bill Cole place in Glasscock county. In fine fettle, the ewes brought $5.

FALFURRIAS—Cull market hogs fed to a herd of 40 Jerseys increased butterfat production 5 pounds per day and saved two-thirds of the ensilage ration furnished the cows by Clarence Burdett, Brooks county dairyman. He grew a field of beets for market and after picking it over found that many beets remained. The beet ration is good in every respect, the county agent reports.

There are 12,000 students and a faculty of 750 at Temple university, Philadelphia.

For reducing market hogs and corn acreage, 222 Williamson county farmers will receive $48,000 this year in Government benefit checks.

Going in strong this year for farm yard beautification, 20 Young county home demonstration clubs have planted 5 yards each according to landscape plans.

Badly needed feed crops are being planted on rented cotton acres in Morris county, with half the plantings devoted to peas or other legumes which will enrich the soil and at the same time give some feed.

The proceeds from 1.2 acres of sweet potatoes paid the farming expenses of J. H. Gonzales in Jim Hogg county last year, the county agent says. He harvested 465 bushels which sold for 50 cents per bushel, and had several hundred pounds of culls left for pig feed.

To meet the need of fruit twice a day to give an adequate diet, home demonstration club women in Lamar county put out 1380 fruit trees and 1809 grape vines early this spring.

Ninety per cent of the feeder calves produced in Menard county are dehorned in the same manner, as the 4-H club calves that were exhibited in livestock shows this spring. Club boys made an average net return of $71.40 per calf on 27 animals exhibited and sold at 27, Angelo and Fort Worth. The calves averaged 864 pounds.

To develop a supply of high quality turkeys for dressing and selling on the best markets, the county agent of Cochran county has three turkey demonstrators cooperating with him to show what can be done with farm turkey flocks.

MEMPHIS—Three Hall county farmers are reported by James J. Jackson, county agent, to be developing a system of level terraces turned up slightly at each end to catch and hold run-off water from adjoining pastures. Fields are rounded. The idea is to avoid the danger of damage from flood wa-

Warm Weather Having Effect On Howard Crops

Warm Weather Having Effect On Howard Crops

Summer weather before the middle of May is having alternate effects on crops over Howard county. In sections where there has been plenty of moisture and the stuff is just beginning to come up, it has not been hurt.

But in the northwest corner of the county and in north Martin and most of Dawson county the weather is playing havoc with little moisture is already present.

Young cotton, looked mighty peaked Sunday after a beaming sun which ran the temperature to 93 degrees above most of the afternoon.

Warm nights are causing crops to spring up like magic in many parts of the county, especially in the light land section where approximately 10 inches of rain fell during the spring season.

Early planting may be a safe way to play, but those who planted early are reaping the seeds of their hurry. Weeds are springing up along side the cotton and it is going to be mean to work.

However, many farmers who had a sad experience from waiting until usual planting time last year had rather have men working in the cotton patch than no cotton patch at all.

With the exception of the northwest part of the county farmers are getting their stuff up to a good stand. Two timely rains now and a bumper crop will be assured, plagues excepted.

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees went on a hitting spree Monday and with Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey hitting home runs overwhelmed the St. Louis Browns, 14 to 1.

Cincinnati Reds' Losing Streak Goes To Eight Games

CINCINNATI (AP)—The New York Giants, with Carl Hubbell doing the hurling, extended the Cincinnati Reds' losing streak to eight games Monday, rallying in the ninth to count twice for a 3 to 2 victory.

The game was a tight pitching duel between Hubbell and Benny Frey. Frey got out of three tight places but could not survive the fourth and so the world champion took their second straight from the Reds and Hubbell hung up his fourth victory as compared to one setback.

Here is a little campaign which deserves a lot of support. Let pie be restored to its traditional scheme of things!

THIS MACHINE AGE.

How completely a modern city is at the mercy of its machines! Drop a monkey wrench in one comparatively minor set of cogs and you can paralyze an entire community.

Gasoline filling station operators and gasoline truck drivers in Cleveland walked out. So effective was their strike that the city's supply of gasoline was completely cut off. As a result, the whole city was left helpless.

Private cars, delivery trucks, buses—all of these could run until their tanks were empty, and then they had to stop.

Because of a disagreement involving only some 2,000 or so men, a community of a million people was brought to the edge of utter paralysis.

Never before in history has mankind so organized its communal life that such a thing could be true. Could there be a sharper illustration of our complete dependence on our machines?

ON THE WAY UP.

One of the brightest spots in the business picture right now is being contributed by the department stores. During March there was a record-breaking 44 per cent gain in the nation's department store sales, and there are excellent reasons for believing that this reflects a substantial rise in the general level of prosperity.

The gain is coming hand in hand with a rise in national incomes. Figures compiled by the American Federation of Labor show that the workers' total income has risen 43 per cent in the past year—from $1,784,000,000 in March, 1933, to $2,526,000,000 in March, 1934.

These figures indicate pretty conclusively that this nation is rapidly gaining its health. People have more money to spend, and they are spending it. The industrial pump is getting primed at last; the pickup ought to go forward now rapidly.

Monday Night Service At First Christian Revival Well Attended; Messrs. Baker, Shaw Sing Duet

The fact that last night's Monday night did not noticeably affect the attendance at the revival at the First Christian church, when one of the best services of the series was enjoyed, Messrs. Baker and Shaw sang a duet, "Won't You Come Back Home?" and one of our leading business men and his daughter came forward to make the good confession and unite the home for Christ.

Dr. Finnell preached on the subject "The Master is Here and Calleth for Thee." He developed his theme under three heads: The Master—Is Here—And Calleth for Thee. He showed how Jesus was Master of every situation that confronted Him from the time of His coming into the world until he ascended to sit at the right hand of God. It was explained how the spiritual Christ is ever present for man's needs. He is in the world today, working in and through the Church, his bride. Christ can not use the "has-beens" nor the "going-to-beers," but depends at all times on the "isers" to carry forward His kingdom. It was God's message that led the children of Israel with the pillar of cloud by day and pillar of fire by night. Christ's presence converted the Apostle Paul on his way to Damascus. It was Christ's presence that changed the future for the Jailer from death unto life. This great master of the souls of men is calling continually for men and women, boys and girls, to become faithful, loyal members of His church.

It is hoped that even more of Big Spring's citizens will hear these great messages and heed the Call

BIG TRUCKS, NARROW ROADS

That traffic accident in Ohio, where a passenger bus sideswiped a heavy truck parked along a country road, caromed off and collided with an approaching truck and trailer, killing six people outright and injuring 14 more, is a fine example of the dangers inherent in the steady traffic of large vehicles over heavily-traveled highways.

The average highway was built to accommodate ordinary cars. Buses and trucks are bulky; they need more room than the ordinary car, and when they come to a tight place in the road there's always a chance that this needed room won't be available.

Motorists who drive frequently on roads infested by trucks and buses are probably inclined to wonder that these juggernauts are not more frequently involved in accidents like this one in Ohio.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
The Mechanism of Recovery

The other day Mr. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, stated that "the drive against unemployment has proceeded upon the theory that it could be overcome only through a reduction in the hours of labor and through increases in wages." Undoubtedly that has been the theory behind certain of the policies of NRA and at times it has seemed to be the theory of the Administration as a whole. Yet, as Mr. Green points out, the theory has not been pressed home as it would have been had the President and his advisers really believed that it expressed the truth of the matter and could be made to work.

The trouble with the theory is that it rests upon the fallacy of supposing that industrial wages earners comprise the bulk of the consumers. The idea is that if they had more money to spend they would buy enough goods to employ everybody. But, as a matter of fact, the industrial wage earners are only a fraction of the whole population. Out of the persons listed as "gainful workers" in the census of 1930 many less than half were in industrial occupations. The rest were farmers, in trade, the professions, in personal service and public service and in clerical jobs. The low purchasing power of the industrial workers who have jobs and the lack of purchasing power of the industrial unemployed is, of course, an element in the general lack of purchasing power. But it is not the only or even the chief cause of the present inadequate demand for goods.

As a matter of fact, if it were possible to raise the earnings of industrial labor to the 1926 level, this new purchasing power would not break the depression. For, of course, industrial prices would have to rise to cover the new costs, and with farm prices and other incomes way below the 1926 level, it would be inordinately difficult to sell what the wage earners produced. If it is not possible to sell what they produce it is not possible to employ them to produce it.

To illustrate what is the real process of recovery and re-employment, we may take some figures comparing prices in February, 1933, with those a year later. Fifteen months ago cow hides in Chicago were selling at 35 per cent of its 1926 price. But a pair of men's shoes was selling at 96 per cent of 1926. This meant that the producer of hides had an income of one-third with which to buy shoes that were almost as expensive as they were before the depression. Obviously he could not buy as many shoes. Moreover, to raise the wages of shoe workers, if that involved raising the prices of shoes, would not only help but would make matters worse. What was needed was that the price of hides should stand still till hides caught up with them.

Now, look at what happened in the following twelve months. The price of hides rose from 36 per cent of 1926 to 78 per cent, which is more than double. The price of the shoes did not rise at all. This meant that the hide, leather, and shoe industry was really recovering; the different prices were coming into balance, and the producer of hides could therefore buy from the producer of shoes.

There is no other way that recovery can take place. Trade is an exchange of goods. If some products fall violently in price and others do not, the exchange can not take place. If men have been buying two dollar shoes with 15 cent cotton, they can not buy as many shoes with 5 cent cotton. Either the shoes have to come down to the cotton or the cotton has to rise to the shoes.

That is why the monetary policy, and not NRA, has been the really effective instrument of recovery. The monetary policy has raised those very prices which had fallen most completely out of line and it had not raised much those prices which had remained firm. There have been particular commodities in which the situation is peculiar and there the policy has had little effect. But taking the mass of commodities it is fair to say that few materials which were most depressed in price have had the greatest rise, semi-manufactured articles which had been moderately depressed in price have risen moderately, and that finished goods and monopolistically controlled products which never cut prices much have raised prices very little.

This is reflation, the re-building of the price structure. While it is by no means completed, very great progress has been made, and to it we owe what recovery we have achieved.

Advance! Not Retreat!

A DELAWARE BEER PARTY
A few days before the Delaware election, a business house located within one block of the police station in Wilmington, sent an invitation through the United States mails. We have a copy of it addressed by a boy fifteen years of age. The invitation reads:
"The Company invites you to come to their store and bring a boy friend for an evening of entertainment of moving pictures, of motorcycles, sports, thrills and spills, hill climbs and races.
"Refreshments: 32 right out of the keg. It is our treat."
A friend of one of the boys who received an invitation asked a young man to attend this "party" as an observer. We have his affidavit of what he saw there. The following quotations are from it:
Extracts from an affidavit report of the beer party:
"Thirty or more boys were present, ranging from fifteen to twenty-two years of age. I would judge from their appearance. The majority of them were minors. A keg of beer, advertised to be 32 per cent alcohol, was mounted on the side of a motorcycle and wheeled into the open. The boys were invited to step up to the spigot by the host, who added "If any of you fellows are minors, there is some Cocco-Cola for you!" This announcement was greeted in the spirit with which it was made—with a Bronx cheer.

"There was no restriction on the number of times we could have another shot at the faucet, as nearly as I could keep track, one boy in his teens must have gone at least eight or ten times.
"After about fifteen minutes of drinking the party began to liven up and finally it became quite noisy, so as to attract the attention of some half dozen people who walked over a high wooden fence.
"After the flow of suds was underway, the boys became talkative. This makes six for me," boasted one lad. "Don't say anything about this at home," said another. "I see you are getting to be quite a drinker," one boy greeted another. "I am getting on to it," the other replied.
"One young fellow moved over to me, where I was munching a pretzel. He timidly admitted that he did not like beer. "Look, he drinks Coke!" said a jeering voice, and some four or five of us who did not drink beer were placed in the category of "blanks."
"Out in the open lot were six powerful motorcycles, which some of these boys were expecting to ride home after the party.
"A boy of about sixteen years, dressed in a Western Union uniform, was making frequent returns to the keg and belching frequently. He would go on duty afterwards," he said, "if he were able. He was the owner of one of the wheels parked in the open.
"I noticed two young fellows drawn off to a dark corner of the lot and drinking from a flat bottle which contained, evidently, more kick in it than the 32 beer."

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

Jim Tucker, Austin insurance local agent, has written the following letter to The Austin Statesman:

"Attached you will find a clipping from The Statesman of April 23rd.

"I do not know whether this article was written as malicious propaganda, or was due to gross ignorance of the subject, but I think some investigation should be made and then the public should be correctly informed."

The article dealt with the policy of insurance companies in proposing, and the policy of the state insurance commission in approving changes in rates and regulations as to fire, hail and tornado insurance.

Information as to the changes was given by a local insurance agent and confirmed by Raymond S. Mauk, state fire insurance commissioner.

Commr. Mauk said the changes were justified, and in the judgment of the insurance commission, were not prejudicial to the public of Texas.

For Congress

CLARK MULLICAN

Judge, 99th District Court, Lubbock. Candidate for Congress, 1934 District.

To the people of the 19th congressional district:

For nearly a year you have had before you my announcement for congress from this new district.

Believing that the people generally have grown weary of the many-wounded, time worn, inflated structures in American politics, we call "platforms" that so often become the funeral home of numerous forgotten promises. I formally submit my candidacy to you in four simple sentences:

"To keep faith with my fellow man.
To ever be mindful of my trust.
To remain loyal to those I represent.
To do, always, the very best I can."

No man in this race can say more, nor should he say less.
These four sentences pledge me to support every emergency measure of the president's recovery program consistent with the needs of those who live in this district.

They also pledge me to sincere and profound consideration of every future question of government tending to promote the welfare and happiness of the people who live in this district.

Were I to detail a platform several times as long, I could say no more. The multiple problems of government that are perplexing the greatest minds in the world cannot be properly discussed in a political announcement, nor can they be solved in a political campaign.

Questions of currency, revenue, economy, taxes, tariff, foreign relations, national defense, commerce, banking, pensions, transportation, labor, unemployment, industry, farming, stock raising, marketing, law enforcement, and many others with their numerous related subjects, affect all mankind, and 434 other congressmen will have an equal voice. All my life I have been a student of law and government.

I shall expect to apply the knowledge gained, and my very best thought, to these matters as they arise.

However, if there are some who desire an expression of my views on national subjects, I invite and welcome your inquiry, personally and otherwise, and assure you a courteous reply. Before the campaign is over, I hope in some manner to acquaint every interested person with these views.

So far as I am able to observe at this stage of the campaign, every candidate in the race, regardless of the number of words used, is running on the same platform, which is: "A sincere desire to render a public service to the greatest number of people." This sentiment is the only issue raised or that can be raised is "the personal ability and the power of the individual candidate to put over the things he advocates and undertakes." That is the only question for your determination, and one you must answer if you expect a full measure of representation in your law-making body.

Whether I fill the requirements in meeting this issue is for your determination. If I am not qualified to be your champion in any forum, and to stand man to man with any who oppose your interests, then I do not want to go to congress. That is fair to you, and fair to me.

I am conducting my campaign my own way, and concede the same privilege to the other candidates. I have no controversy with any man, and do not propose to engage in cheap petty, local politics that might lead to one. To me, the congress of the United States as a sacred institution, second only to the flag, and I expect to depart myself with a dignity worthy of the high office I seek.

With an abiding faith in the sincerity and the ability of our democracy to choose for the best interest of all concerned, I humbly submit my candidacy for your deliberation and careful consideration.

Clark M. Mullican
Democratic Candidate for Congress.

There should be a definite upswing in the job printing offices of Texas, what with not less than 50,000,000 campaign cards and circulars being prepared for distribution by 100 state candidates, 1000 legislative and district candidates, and not less than 10,000 candidates for local elective office in Texas.

There were and are four distinct types of election—municipal, school trustee and political primary, on different dates and the general election.

The campaign business is a major industry this year, even if it is an "off year" in the national political campaign.

Many thousands of small trees and miles of small shrubbery, have been set out on the rights of way along state highways. Pleasant green foliage, and shade, will replace the barren, blistering strips of highway ditches. Banks of shrubbery will clothe earth scars in cuts. Hedges will afford the same protection as posts and metal or wood guard rails now, since the safeguard was largely a mental or psychological one anyway, in the opinion of landscape engineers.

In some instances, the placing of trees and shrubbery along highways has been under contract, but the division engineers have carried forward the same work generally in many sections of Texas. Particularly attractive parked areas have been brought at main highway intersections or junctures, under a comprehensive plan worked out by J. C. Gubbels, landscape architect for the highway department.

"I stock up on bargain foods now that I have an ELECTRIC refrigerator"

Three important savings are made possible as soon as an electric refrigerator starts serving you. First, you can save money by "stocking up" on bargain day specials and be sure that the food will be kept fresh until used. Second, you can serve many delicious dishes made from left-overs you would otherwise throw away. Third, you can keep food fresh and wholesome four to five times longer. Wilted lettuce and celery can be made crisp and crunchy again. Fourth, even on hottest days fast-freezing Electric refrigerators keep plenty of large ice cubes on hand. Fifth, the cost of operation is low the year 'round: some models operate for less than a nickel a day.

Considering these really important features, can you afford to be without an Electric refrigerator? Just phone your Electric refrigerator dealer and he will tell you how a budget plan makes it easy to own any model you may choose. New models now on display are priced around $100.

Characters Chosen For Senior Comedy

"Hold Everything" is a three-act comedy to be presented by the Senior Class of the Big Spring high school as the annual senior play this spring. "Hold Everything" recently finished a run in the "Little Theater" of Times Square in New York City; those who have seen the play or read it say it offers unusually good entertainment.

The Seniors have an all-star cast picked for this play out of fifty try-outs. Misses Dorothy Jordan, Clara Pool and Nell Brown of the faculty selected the cast.

Miss Jordan, recognized as one of the outstanding high school directors in this section of the state will assist Miss Pearl Butler in directing the play.

The play will be presented Friday evening, May 18th, at the Municipal Auditorium.

HERALD ELECTRICAL SCHOOL STARTS WITH A GOOD CROWD

Mrs. Ethyl J. Warren Greets Big Spring Again And Introduces Many Summer Recipes And Menus

A large crowd of appreciative home-makers assembled at the Settles Hotel in the crystal ballroom Tuesday afternoon to hear Mrs. Ethyl J. Warren give her first talk on preparation of summer foods.

Mrs. Warren is directing a free electrical cooking school for the Big Spring Daily Herald, to which the Herald invites every woman in Big Spring and in the surrounding communities. The sessions will continue Wednesday and Thursday.

The lecture Tuesday centered around menus for hot summer days, which could be prepared in advance and kept in the refrigerator until just before serving time. Mrs. Warren's recipes will be published in Wednesday's Daily Herald. Hereafter each day's recipes will be published on the following day.

Wednesday's Lecture: Party dishes will be the piece de resistance of Mrs. Warren's talk Wednesday afternoon. She has a menu that is perfect for a guest meal—one of those menus you try to think of when you need it most and never call to mind. This is one to preserve in the family file.

In addition there will be many dishes suitable for summer parties. These foods can be prepared and placed in the refrigerator hours before the guests arrive. They eliminate that last-minute rush in the hot part of the afternoon that make so many hostesses look like a wilted lettuce leaf.

These suggestions are especially appreciated by the hostess who enjoys sitting down with her guests to a game of bridge. Only ten minutes, said Mrs. Warren, would be necessary to reach into the refrigerator and take out this party menu and place it on the table.

Cold, quivery consommé, appetizing salads attractively served but substantial enough to satisfy, along with dainty desserts made from seasonal fruits—one can not imagine a more summery meal. It needs only a bread easily baked in a few minutes time with modern equipment, or dainty sandwiches and, of course, an iced beverage. This is a perfect type of meal and certainly one to be appreciated by guests on a hot day.

Mrs. Warren suggests that each homemaker plan and keep among her files recipes of cold foods and complete menus that appeal to her family. Then she need never be at a loss for something to serve.

What to Cook: A question that shows up insufficient attention on the part of the housekeeper in food preparation is too often asked husbands: "What shall we have for dinner today?"

It never brings forth an appropriate answer and yet wives continually ask it. The truth is men like surprises. And women who are on their toes, culinary speaking, don't ask such silly questions. They take meal planning with the seriousness of a profession. Like good doctors who attend clinics at every opportunity, they take advantage of cooking schools.

Evening bridge snacks and picnic menus are also on Mrs. Warren's list for Wednesday—in short everything in the way of summer entertaining, which is a little world of all its own and decidedly different from winter guest meals.

Many organizations are competing for the attendance prize of ten dollars which the Herald is giving away. Women are asked to inform themselves beforehand in regard to their favorite organization and register for it.

Cosden Takes Settles Team In Camp, 16-7

Solid Hitting By Cosden Spell Defeat For Settles Group

Settles Hotel famed defense cracked wide open in the first inning and no amount of plugging could stop the leaks before Cosden batsman had scored 16 times. The hotel inhabitants managed to scratch 7 times, 5 of their runs coming in a fourth inning rally.

The first two men were safe on successive bobbles by Wilson, Settles short stop. Then the whole Settles team turned the affair into a soccer game to let three runs in before Wolcott went out.

Graham grounded out for Settles and Fowler and Burke took three swings and a drink of water. Cosden went down in order in the second and Settles followed suit.

The Ollers broke loose with a four run rampage in the third and Settles went out one, two, three. Graham, Fowler, Burke, Galbraith, and Sudderth tallied for the hotel in the next frame but Martin, Baker, Redding, Ebbs, and Wolcott did the same for Cosden.

Whittington, Baker, Redding and Ebbs counted in the sixth while Settles went out in a hurry. Wilson and Cosden made scores in a budding rally that petered out in the final frame and left the hotel squad trailing 16-5.

 poll 15,000,000 Americans will turn in brass-tack evidence of how the New Deal stacks up with the public. That question—"For whom did you vote in 1932?"—will be met in many a Congressional district. Returns will be available around mid-June.

Turnover
 A year ago, the G. O. P. was claiming publicly it would pick up 80 House seats in the off-year election. Privately Republican leaders then had high hopes of grabbing an additional 48 seats. Also about a year ago the Democrats were making a public concession of 50 seats.

lunch, sans tips and musts.
Woodie
 A baby's pronounced attachment to a most likable young man is proving rather embarrassing to the U. S. Secret Service.

The baby is Sarah Delano Roosevelt, infant daughter of James, the President's oldest son. The young man is R. S. Operative, Russell Wood, of the White House detail. Wood—who incidentally chaperoned John C. Lodge through College—was assigned to guard the Presidential granddaughter nearly a year ago, when kidnaping was all the rage. Officials here won't like him back on his regular job but word comes from Boston that young Sarah yells lustily every time he's out of her sight.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt spurns Secret Service protection, as do all other members of the family except the President who is forced to submit to it, but it looks as though Woodie is going to remain in Boston awhile.

Notes
 Strong opposition has developed in Congress to reducing the liquor tax notwithstanding the hope of bootlegging repeal.

Suit
 Reports reach Washington that an erstwhile Republican wheelhorse who commanded a high position in the Senate only a few years ago is about to be sued for a federal income tax delinquency in his native central state.

Advice
 Few times in history has a Vice-President been invited to sit in at a caucus of the majority party in the Senate. Ordinarily politicians discard the Vice-President as a mere figurehead.

Thrift
 Wives of House members band together recently to entertain Mrs. Roosevelt at luncheon. A committee on arrangements sought out the management of a nearby Virginia teahouse. They were quoted as luncheon plates at $5, $1.00 or $1.10. By unanimous consent they chose the 75c menu.

Vacations
 Several Exchange firms—including a few of the large ones—have increased their lack of prosperity on their employees by reviving the depression custom of compelling their clerical staffs to take one week's payless holiday out of every four. Of course it's really a 25 per cent pay cut but it sounds much nicer to talk about "vacations." The employees affected don't care for the arrangement at all but they have no comeback.

Depreciation
 The Supreme Court decision in the Illinois Bell Telephone rate case—a dispute which has taken only 11 years to settle—has an embarrassing moment for utilities, what with all this talk of rate reductions. Big charge-offs for depreciation have added plenty to the nation's telephone and electric bills.

NEW YORK
 By James McMillin
A. A. A.
 New York opponents of AAA are elated. For the first time in the brief but controversial history of that collection of initials it has backed down on a major project.

Switzerland
 Local authorities believe the collapse of the Swiss Discount Bank may well turn out to be the straw which breaks the gold bloc's back. The bank wasn't so terribly important in itself—in fact was already in process of liquidation—but its demise may have considerable moral effect on depositors in other Swiss banks. Withdrawals in volume would mean that Switzerland and the gold standard would have to part company soon.

Key
 The key to the New York farmer reaction was shown in the attendance record of two meetings held in Syracuse under AAA auspices. The first drew about 4,000 upstate milk producers—the second less than 700.

Bermuda
 The suggestion has been made—not entirely in jest—that holding companies would be bright to dissolve their American corporations and reincorporate in Bermuda—where there would be no local taxes and Uncle Sam couldn't reach them.

Consolidated
 Local business men are hotter under the collar about the Congressional proposal to abolish consolidated income tax returns for corporations than anything that has come out of Washington for some time.

Private
 Private individual and family corporations are a Wiggins-popular in Wall Street up to now for tax-evasion purposes—are melting like dew before the rising sun since Congress threatened a lavish extra tax on companies controlled by one individual or family or by less than six unrelated stockholders.
