

Mall repair dispute leads to civil suits

Hong Kong owners want Brookhart evicted, merchant files suit claiming negligence

BY KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Eviction proceedings that have been brought against a Sugarland Mall merchant are scheduled to be heard before the Deaf Smith County Court on Nov. 30.

In the meantime, that merchant has filed a civil suit in 222nd District Court asking for punitive damages and attorneys fees from the owners of the mall.

County Court Judge Glen Nelson will hear the case, on appeal from Justice of the Peace court, in which Pak Fan Siu and Edward D.M. Wong are asking that Earl Brookhart, owner of The Brogue, be evicted from the premises. Siu and Wong live in Hong Kong and the business is managed by Colwell Banker Real Estate Management Services of Dallas. The owners claim Brookhart has not paid any rent since April.

Brookhart's attorneys filed papers in county court stating that the rental agreement is null and void because the owners have not made necessary repairs to the parking lot and roof of the structure as outlined in a letter that was part of the initial lease agreement.

Brookhart was not present for the hearing before County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal on Oct. 25, at which time attorney fees were awarded to the plaintiffs. Brookhart's lawyers then appealed to county court.

On Nov. 7 a suit was filed in district court on behalf of Brookhart asking for damages suffered because needed repairs have not been made to the mall. The suit claims The Brogue has lost at least $50,000 in business since Jan. 1, 1981 as a result. It also says there are now six vacancies at the mall, and that all businesses there have suffered because of the vacancies. The suit claims merchants who formerly occupied those vacancies moved out because the alleged disrepair had caused a reduction in customers to the mall.

Brookhart's suit asks for $25,000 in punitive damages and $10,000 in attorney's fees.

One Of Many Obstacles

A car swerves Monday afternoon to avoid running over one of numerous potholes plaguing the Sugarland Mall's parking lot. The shopping center is involved in two lawsuits, one of which is scheduled to be heard Nov. 30 before Deaf Smith County Judge Glen Nelson.

Baca found innocent

Flavio Joe Baca of Hereford was found not guilty of murdering Canyon's Kenneth Twain Friemel, an Amarillo nightclub bouncer, outside the Rodeo Club, 2700 S. Georgia in Amarillo.

The Amarillo jury reached its decision Saturday afternoon. The verdict followed debate between defense and prosecution attorneys whether Baca acted in self defense on Aug. 23, when he apparently stabbed Friemel several times while the two argued in the bar's parking lot.

On Friday, taking the stand were eight defense witnesses who had been involved in scuffles with the bouncer.

Of having killed Amarillo bouncer, described as 'bully'

Some of them, according to the Amarillo Globe-News, testified they had been kicked or punched with little or no provocation.

According to defense attorney Bill Cornett, Friemel "was quick strong, powerful - a bully who has a violent and dangerous reputation."

"...The way he (Friemel) hit and kicked people, it was just a matter of time until he was killed," Cornett reportedly said later. "He ruled it (night club and parking lot) and thought he could do anything he wanted. He thought he could viciously beat anybody that came in." Baca told jurors he had been followed out of the nightclub by Friemel, who "pounced" on Baca when the latter backed into a car. The bouncer reportedly lost his balance during the struggle, breaking his nose in the process.

"This puny Joe Baca somehow had smashed him into a car and broken his nose," Cornett said. "We had eight witnesses who said he became enraged when nothing set him off."

Prosecutor David Hamilton contended Baca's statements did not "correlate with the facts...The pathologist said the nose injury more closely correlates with Friemel's falling on his face (after he had been stabbed)."

Hamilton also pointed out Baca's pants and boots were clean, not scuffed and torn as they should have been after a struggle. Furthermore, the upward path of the knife wounds probably could not have come from Baca being held in a bear hug.

"He (Baca) was asked politely to leave and he refused to leave," Lopez claimed. The co-prosecutor also said Baca shoved his hand in the bouncer's face and swung at him before Friemel reacted by pushing him to the ground.

Baca fled the scene and was soon arrested near Dawn. "He knew he was in trouble so he had to think of something," Lopez said.

According to Hamilton, the state was unable to have character witnesses testify concerning the reputations of both Baca and Friemel because presiding Judge Edward B. Nobles ruled their testimony was inadmissible.

Baca, 30, had been living in the Deaf Smith County Feedyard prior to the incident. Friemel was 23 years old.

Fighting resumes today

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian rebels and their Syrian backers bombarded neighborhoods around PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's headquarters today, ending a brief lull in the fighting.

The prolonged pre-dawn artillery bombardment set several buildings on fire, and state-run Radio Beirut said the rebels mounted hit-and-run assaults on the loyalists' shrinking defense lines in this port city.

However, a spokesman for Around Arafat's headquarters

Arafat said the situation was "more or less quiet" at mid-morning, when shops were open and some traffic trickled onto the streets despite sporadic sniping.

Police in Beirut, 50 miles to the south, quoted reports from Tripoli as saying 30 people were killed and 60 wounded in the bombardment, which tapered off at daybreak.

Arafat's loyalists in the Palestine Liberation Organization fired volleys of rockets from truck-mounted launchers deployed in Tripoli's seaside slums, but incoming barrages were much heavier, according to the radio.

In Beirut, Lebanese troops battled anti-government Shiite Moslem militiamen early today in three southern

Mood optimistic about loan rating

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Area officials were optimistic after returning from a Friday meeting in New York City to help determine Deaf Smith County's loan rating.

The trip was made by all four county commissioners and Glen Nelson, county judge, to help Moody's Investment Services determine a rating for the county's loan on its proposed jail work. On Oct. 11, the commission decided to pursue a $1.5 million, seven-year loan from Kidder, Peabody & Company of San Antonio.

Moody's is expected to release its rating decision before Dec. 12, when the county is to issue certificates of obligation for the jail project. Last week, a Moody's spokesman said he thought the rating would be made shortly after Thanksgiving.

The Deaf Smith County Jail has been determined inadequate in several areas by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. County commissioners consequently hired Gondeck-Poage Partnership Architects - also of San Antonio - to design an acceptable facility. The final $1.55 million architectural plan, approved last week by the commissioners, includes two large additions and much remodeling work.

Nelson and the commissioners attended Friday's session with Bob Davis, a Kidder employee whose works out of Amarillo. The six reportedly met with Robert Stanley, assistant vice president of Moody's municipal department, along with Ben Phillips, also of the investment firm.

Prior to the meeting, Moody's was sent a packet of information regarding Deaf Smith County and its current financial status. Questions about that and related matters were answered Friday by Davis and the county's five representatives.

"We're feeling pretty good about it right now," Nelson said Monday. He claimed Davis thought the meeting "enhanced" the county's position. A good rating, the judge said, could help the county save $40,000-$50,000 in interest charges on the loan.

"All were are trying to do," Nelson commented, "was to get the highest rating we can and the lowest interest rate possible."

Bill Bradley, commissioner from Precinct 1, said, "I was very favorably impressed."

When pursuit of the loan was agreed to in October, an 8.25 percent interest rate was projected. According to Davis, the average annual payment for the loan would be around $290,000.

Chemical meeting set tonight

An organizational meeting for a proposed drug and alcohol abuse prevention group is slated for tonight at 7:30 in the Hereford Community Center.

Jeffrey Hill, local coordinator for national concern "The Chemical People," said he hopes several committees will be formed to help deal with some problems. Among the committees might be ones for prevention and consequences of, along with general information about, drug and alcohol use.

Everyone is invited to attend the gathering, according to Hill.

Lodge to host abuse forum

The Hereford Camp Fire Council plans to sponsor an adult education forum on sexual abuse of children at 7 p.m. today in the Camp Fire Lodge, 903 Fourteenth St.

All adults are encouraged to attend the meeting, though parents are urged to leave their kids at home as the program is reportedly about children, not for them.

The forum, under the supervision of the State Department of Human Resources, is to be conducted by Bill Holt, child protective services supervisor for the Panhandle. Helping him will be Rev. Charles Threewit, pastor of St. Thomas Episcopal Church and a member of Deaf Smith County's child welfare board.

County fails to receive grant

Deaf Smith County did not receive its requested $157,319 federal grant for pavement of part of Campbell Avenue and Dairy Road, it was announced Monday by Glen Nelson, county judge.

Deaf Smith applied for the grant, offered under the Texas Community Development Program, in early September. It and Hall County were the only two Panhandle counties eligible for $200,000 in the program's jobs bill. To qualify, a county had to have a higher unemployment during the first quarter of 1983 than it did in 1980.

Nelson learned of the turn-down through a letter dated Nov. 14 from the Texas Department of Community Affairs. At a Sept. 20 meeting, the project's Panhandle Regional Review Committee, along with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, rated the City of Memphis' request for $195,000 toward paving above the application made by Deaf Smith.

Fire damages apartments

Extensive damaged was suffered Saturday night when a fire raged in the Blue Water Garden apartments, 612 Irving.

No one was injured in the blaze, which local Fire Marshall Jay Spain said began in the bedroom of Apartment 57. Spain said the fire broke out one window, climbed the outside wall of the building and took one and a half to two hours to put out.

Five units from the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm, with three of them used. Despite no complications, it was 3 a.m. before all the equipment was back in the station ready for another call, according to Spain.

Commissioners take no action

No action was taken by the Hereford City Commissioners Monday during a brief meeting. City Manager Dudley Bayne reported this morning.

The only item discussed was finding a replacement for Gene Ehler on the city's planning and zoning commission. Ehler is leaving for Lubbock to become district manager of the Energas Company.

State lawyer here Monday

A state assistant attorney general was in Hereford Monday, meeting for a little more than four hours with the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury.

Linda Walden was reportedly conferring with the jury about alleged misconduct in the district attorney's office. The grand jury is scheduled to reconvene on Dec. 5, again with a representative from the attorney general's office.

Road to recovery potholed one (Editor's note: This is the second in a two-part series concerning drug and alcohol abuse. Information was voluntarily submitted by Phyllis Bradshaw, an inmate at Deaf Smith County Jail.

Following Bradshaw's recovery from drugs, she then when down a destructive path as an alcoholic. She was eventually admitted one night to the Panhandle Alcohol Recovery Center in Amarillo for treatment.)

By SANDY PANKEY

"The next morning I knew that I had to have help if I was going to make it. I had had counseling before at the Family Services Center and I decided to go back. I was told about the Panhandle Alcohol Recovery Center in Amarillo and the next week they admitted me for a five weeks recovery program," Bradshaw said.

"At PARC I was taught to cope with life. I learned the basic living skills. If I had just applied what I had learned I wouldn't be where I am now."

Knowing there was a warrant for arrest and that she had alluded law officers for several months thus far, Phyllis decided to come to Hereford and turn herself in. "That was a bad period for me. I was really ashamed not only because of the hot checks but because of what I had done with my life. I wanted to straighten it all out."

Bradshaw was put on a year's probation and stayed sober for four months before being plagued once again with personal problems she could not deal with on her own. "I had a job at the Amarillo Public Library but I quit and moved back here. The drinking then was really bad."

"Because I was drinking a lot every day, I would do outrageous things. I started forging checks. In my mind, I did care and was concerned that what I was doing was wrong, but my actions were just the opposite. I was my own worst enemy. I thought everyone was against me; that they were throwing all my previous mistakes in my face."

At one point, Bradshaw forged a check for $900 and headed toward Las Vegas, Nev. "I was in an alcoholic blackout. I woke up the day after I left Hereford on the side of a road and didn't have any idea how I got there or where I was. I asked a man and he said I was 28 miles from Albuquerque, N.M. It frightened me that I couldn't remember getting there but it didn't frighten me enough."

"I got to Las Vegas and stayed four days gambling all my money away. I was broke so once again I came back to Hereford and wrote more checks knowing I would be caught and would probably go to the penitentiary. Ironically, or maybe tragically, I never did get stopped for DWI."

Several days passed and Phyllis was getting deeper involved with drugs and alcohol so she again turned herself in to face the consequences.

This time she was charged with forgery and passing.

She remembers vividly the day of June 28. "I was locked up for the first time. I was scared but I felt safe from myself."

A month before the new jail administrator arrived in Hereford, Phyllis was allowed television privileges. When Charles Satterfield came that privilege was revoked. "He was just doing his job, I was not suppose to leave my cell to go to the office and watch TV. For me, though television was an escape. I could watch it all night and then sleep all day. I didn't have to face myself."

"When the new administrator came he felt he must comply with jail standards so I could no longer leave my cell to go to the office. I was very bitter toward him, for in my mind he was taking away what little was left of a normal world for me."

After a months confinement, Phyllis wrote a note to the new jail administrator telling him how unfair she

Two families caught in court case

HOUSTON (AP) — Ann Kretsinger returned home baffled one summer day in 1982. Her 18-year-old son had called earlier, saying he had car trouble, but she could not find him in the shopping center lot where he said he would be.

Two of Kent Kretsinger's friends, waiting in her living room when she returned, advised her to check her son's room. He was there, with a .38-caliber bullet through his heart.

Kretsinger's death divided two families and left his girlfriend facing trial as the first person in Texas ever to be charged with aiding in his suicide.

In suicide notes to family and friends, Kretsinger said he was happy and offered no reason for taking his life.

But the day he died, he traded his Camaro for an old DeSoto and gave it to his girlfriend, Jean LeeAnn Miller, prosecutors said.

Four decapitated in sawmill accident

CHESTER, Texas (AP) — Four men were decapitated and a fifth injured by a cable they were using to free the works of a woodchip machine which became jammed, authorities said.

Wanda Brasher, justice of the peace in Tyler County, said the sawmill's co-owner and three workers were decapitated sometime before 12:15 p.m. Monday.

"The chipper had been shut down for lunch," Mrs. Brasher said. "They were trying to unstop the shaker (a part of the machine), and were using a cable and stick punching it inside."

"We feel like the cable went into the other side and whipped out and decapitated them all," she said.

The accident happened at the Whitworth Sawmill on U.S. Highway 287 about a mile north of Chester. The small East Texas community is about 100 miles north of Houston.

Kennedys gather at gravesite

WASHINGTON (AP) — On this 20th anniversary of that dreadful day in Dallas, the family that shares his name and bears his heritage gathered to honor the memory of John F. Kennedy at his grave, in his church and in his Massachusetts home.

The very public Kennedy family planned a very private visit to Arlington National Cemetery in the early morning before the gates opened to the public. An aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said it would be the first time outsiders were excluded from family visits to the hillside where the 35th president is buried. A single photographer was to be allowed to record the scene.

John Kennedy, who was assassinated in Dallas at the age of 46, lies between his two infant children only a few yards from the grave of his brother, Robert, who also was the victim of a gunman waiting in ambush.

An eternal flame, requested by his widow, Jacqueline, marks John Kennedy's grave. On granite, lining a circular walk, are chiseled the most prominent phrases from Kennedy's inaugural speech.

Barring a last-minute change, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was to spend the day with the Kennedy's 93-year-old mother in Hyannisport, Mass. John Kennedy Jr., 22, was in India for graduate studies.

Teacher refuses to sign loyalty oath

GROVE, Okla. (AP) — A fourth-grade teacher fired for refusing to sign an oath of loyalty to the state and federal constitutions still thinks "this is the best country in the world."

"Legally, they had every right to do this. Ethically, I wonder if it was needed," Russell Turley said Monday night after he was dismissed by unanimous vote of the Grove Board of Education.

Turley, a 34-year-old Oklahoma native who has taught in the state's school system for more than four years, maintains the oath isn't needed and the state law requiring it is an "anachronistic piece of legislation that should be taken off the books." School officials say they would be breaking the law if they didn't require it.

Seven die in aborted hijack attempt

MOSCOW (AP) — Seven people were shot dead last Friday after a wedding party boarded a Soviet airliner in Tbilisi and ordered it to fly to Turkey, Soviet sources said today.

The dead were said to have included the chief pilot, flight mechanic, a stewardess, three passengers and one of the hijackers. He was thought to have killed himself, the sources said.

The group boarded the plane in Tbilisi, the capital of Soviet Georgia, for a flight to the Black Sea port of Batumi.

The sources, who spoke by telephone from Tbilisi, said the killings occurred after the pilot evidently tricked the hijackers into thinking he had landed in Turkey when, in fact, he had returned to Tbilisi.

IFC credits for Mexican businesses

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The International Finance Corporation signed agreements Monday that will provide $100 million in credit for private Mexican companies, suffering from a severe recession and currency devaluations.

The corporation, an affiliate of the World Bank that finances private sector projects in developing countries, will extend $34 million of the credit, and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York and Bank of America will loan $33 million each.

Banco Nacional de Mexico and Bancomer, state-owned Mexican commercial banks, will back the loans, to be used to import machinery, equipment and spare parts for production of exports and substitutes for goods that currently are imported.

Hans A. Wuttke, executive vice president of the corporation, said the agreement is "an innovative concept which IFC has put together through the cooperation of five different parties all working to meet a crucial need of Mexican private business."

Speaking at the signing ceremony, Wuttke said such cooperation "demonstrates the imaginative and unique solutions that evolve through the private sector."

Saudi Arabia today came out in support of Arafat. "Capturing a camp or two will never uproot the Palestinian cause from Arab conscience or switch illegitimacy into legitimacy," Saudi Prince Abdullah told the Kuwaiti news agency in an interview in Kuwait.

Abdullah, the Saudi deputy prime minister, described Arafat as "the trusted authority of the PLO" and — in the first open denunciation of the other side — called the rebels "traitors, mean stooges."

A pro-Arafat PLO delegation headed by Farouk Kadoumi arrived in Moscow today for what Tass called a "brief visit." The arrival of the group followed a visit to Moscow by Khaddam, the Syrian foreign minister, that reportedly focused on the PLO war.

Both Arafat and Syria have been longstanding allies of Moscow, and the Kremlin is thought to be embarrassed by the feud between the two PLO factions. Syria has at least 30,000 in eastern and northern Lebanon, including the area around Tripoli.

On Monday, the Syrian-backed PLO rebels routed Arafat's loyalists from several neighborhoods and pushed to within 1,000 yards of his office in Tripoli.

Arafat issued an "urgent appeal" to Arab heads of state to intercede with Syria, saying he would "accept any initiative by any of you to avert Tripoli's bloodbath and massacre being prepared for it."

Parliament plans vote on missiles

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Hundreds of anti-nuclear protesters mobilized for street blockades as Parliament prepared to vote today on deploying new U.S. missiles in West Germany.

The probable approval of the NATO deployment is likely to anger the Soviet Union, but a Reagan administration official said nine Pershing 2 missiles will be readied for shipment to West Germany after Parliament finishes debate and votes.

The missile plan is expected to win endorsement because Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservatives, who support it, have a 58-seat majority. Kohl agreed to a debate on medium-range missiles because of public pressure.

The debate began Monday, and riot police fired jets of water laced with tear gas at hundreds of anti-nuclear activists protesting outside the Parliament building. At least 180 people were arrested, but only one injury was reported.

Kohl said some of the new weapons would be operational in West Germany by the end of the year unless U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Geneva, Switzerland, break their deadlock.

The Soviets have threatened to abandon the Geneva talks if any of the Pershings arrive in West Germany. From the new bases, the missiles could reach Soviet territory in a few minutes.

"We are not wanderers between East and West," Kohl said Monday. "Between democracy and dictatorship there is no middle road. We stand on the side of freedom."

He said the Soviet Union must not be allowed "to intimidate Western Europeans, to limit our political freedom of action and to separate us from the U.S.A."

"A female jailer came in and found me before I could cut my wrist any deeper and I was taken to the hospital," Bradshaw recalled.

"What finally broke the ice between the jail administrator and myself was that one day I asked him why there was no female trustee. He told me to fill out an application."

"After a period of time, I finally gained trust and confidence and was appointed trustee," she stated. "At first I had to be accompanied by a deputy at all times. She would go with me from my cell to the sheriff's office where I helped in the office when needed."

Now Bradshaw can request a grant furlough with specified hours and no longer has to be accompanied by a deputy but if she does not comply with the law, she can have felony escape charges filed against her. Her current duties as a trustee include working in the sheriff's office and in the jail library and commissary.

Bradshaw's sons, ages 12, 11 and nine may visit their mother in the public jail lobby at any reasonable hour.

Bradshaw has many obstacles to overcome but she is determined and confident that she will be able to cope and live a normal life.

"I feel like a new baby just beginning to start life. I know I have my drug and alcohol problems under control and I realize that people have literally stuck their necks out for me. I won't disappoint them."

"I do worry about the future such as whether I can find a job, but I have learned from my experiences. It's now up to me to help other people whether it's warning them of the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse or helping them from getting deeper involved with them."

"I want to make a positive difference in their lives."

Paul Harvey News

"Our country is not a democracy." You will not find the word "democracy" in our Constitution, in our Declaration of Independence or in any of our several state constitutions.

Technically, the United States is a representative "Republic."

In a democracy everybody votes on everything: mob rule.

In a republic we elect men to make decisions in our behalf.

Theoretically, we elect our best men.

So... Socially we are a democracy—"equal rights under the law."

But politically, we are a Republic.

"...and to the Republic for which it stands..."

Then came the autumn of 1983 when we, the people, made ourselves heard—and we prevailed!

President Reagan's public approval rating was trailing that of both Mondale and Glenn.

Politicians, looking to an election year, were sniping at him. Including some within his own party.

Then—when he dispatched American forces to Grenada—politicians, pundits and professors condemned the "hip-shooting cowboy President who was surely leading us into war."

BUT then they heard from you.

You, the people, began to call and wire the White House and the Congress, to respond to television and telephone surveys...

And you supported the President—two-to-one, then five-to-one, then eight-to-one.

And what do you know! Suddenly our nation's leaders became followers; both the elected and the self-appointed.

Until the most recent tally showed you supporting the President two-to-one by then even Tip O'Neill reversed himself 360 degrees to concede, "The United States invasion of Grenada was justified...."

A President with lesser charisma could not accomplish what this one is accomplishing.

For a President to sell an economic philosophy of "less government handouts" and a foreign policy of "intervention" requires a personal magic which our nation has not experienced since FDR.

Our American system of government—whatever its designation and its imperfections—is still able to reflect the good sense of Main Street.

The high and the mighty got humbled when you used Western Union, Ma Bell and the professional nose counters to throw a little democracy at 'em!

"So much of the music of today is happening in churches. You have to be imaginative in using music as a ministry," commented Jeff Wakeley, director of music and youth at First United Methodist Church.

"I feel like there is a movement today towards a reawakening of the worship service. People are concerned about wanting to get more out of the service. One of the roles of music in the church is developing more appreciative worshippers," he added.

Jeff and his wife, Colleen, and 1½-year-old daughter, Shannon, moved to Hereford in May from Colorado Springs, where he did substitute teaching and was involved in the music ministry at the First Methodist Church.

The couple met at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N.J., where Jeff earned a bachelor's degree in music, with an emphasis in choral conducting. Colleen studied a year at the college before the two were married. She is originally from Colorado and he was born in New Braunfels, Texas.

Jeff has served as director of music at churches in Florida and Colorado, and taught vocal music and band at a junior high school and also at a junior college in Florida.

He has sung with many school and church choirs — while at Westminster his choir sang with the New York Philharmonic — and he is a frequent soloist.

At First United Methodist, he directs the adult, youth and four children's choirs, as well as two handbell choirs. Occasionally he conducts a brass choir, as he will for the upcoming Christmas program.

Also in charge of the youth program, he and Colleen work with several other church members in a team ministry planning activities for the senior high department, which recently hosted a district youth rally. Jeff also oversees activities of the junior high department.

"I enjoy working with children and youth," noted Jeff. "I like teaching, but right now I am really enjoying church work. We have a lot of the youth over to our house and feel like we have a good relationship with them."

Colleen and another church member are teaching the senior high Sunday school class. She is also involved in United Methodist Women and is a member of the adult choir and ladies' handbell choir.

Currently Colleen is substitute teaching at Bluebonnet School. As she instructs general music, she has a chance to work with approximately 370 different students. She teaches mainly fourth through sixth graders, and one migrant 4-year-old kindergarten class.

Mrs. Willo Ellison presented a program on the Treaty of Paris at the Thursday afternoon meeting of Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held in the home of Mrs. J.P. Jones.

After an introduction by Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Mrs. Ellison discussed the Americans who negotiated the Treaty of Paris, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and John Jay, and the terms and importance of the treaty.

Mrs. Stanford Knox, regent, led the chapter in the opening ritual and Mrs. Reinauer led the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs. Alfred Smith and the American's Creed was led by Mrs. Arthur Clark.

Mrs. Knox welcomed special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ott and Sarah Aiken Lawson, and Mrs. Reinauer welcomed a new member, Mrs. Brian G. (Lisa) Clark.

Mrs. Glenn Reeve gave the president general's message, encouraging all members to face the new challenges to democracy, promote new dedication for American heroes, and pray for new gratitude.

Following the reading of the minutes, the treasurer's report and the adoption of the 1983-84 budget, Sue James, chaplain, read "Thanksgiving Poem" as a prayer. She also reported on those who are ill or in need of prayers and attention.

Mrs. Smith read a letter from the National Society DAR Library thanking Los Ciboleros Chapter for the gift of a book, "The Rape Family History."

Mrs. Herman Drake thanked the membership for gifts they brought to be used at the Amarillo Veterans Hospital Christmas gift shop and Mrs. V.O. Hennen specifically requested that all members drive carefully and encourage safety during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Luther Norvell spoke to the group about the junior members program of NSDAR and stressed the duties of the pages at State Conference and Continental Congress. Mrs. Norvell also placed the name of a new member, Mrs. Don (Dovie) Cherry, before the group.

The group reminded of the chapter Christmas party, to be held in December at the home of Mrs. Reinauer.

Others present were Beth Clark and Mmes. Austin Rose, W.J. Gilliland, A.L. Jordan, and Leroy K. Williamson. Assisting Mrs. Jones with hostess duties were Mrs. Norvell and Mrs. James.

"This is my first experience with substitute teaching," smiled Colleen. "I'm learning a lot and really enjoy it."

"It's nice living in a smaller town, where we can get to know more of those who live around us. The church people have been very friendly. There are a lot of dinners and something is always happening, which tends to keep us busy," she added.

The Wakeleys will be even busier in about six months, when they are looking forward to the arrival of their second child. That will be a good kind of busy.

Outside the church, Jeff is a member of the Kiwanis Club and said that he would like to sing with the Chamber Singers, but so far his Sunday nights are too busy. As a student, he was involved in Indian dancing through Boy Scouts and made his own beaded costume. Hearing of a similar group in Amarillo, he hopes to maybe get involved in that again sometime.

When she has a little spare time, Colleen enjoys doing needlework, especially embroidery. She often reads to her daughter, who already loves books.

Jets rally to defeat Saints in 31-28 contest

By AUSTIN WILSON AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Kirk Springs surprised the New Orleans Saints with his 76-yard, game-winning punt return, but not his teammates on the New York Jets.

"We needed a big play, and we had a feeling it would come from the special teams tonight," said Jets quarterback Richard Todd.

"I really thought I could break one," said Springs.

Springs' punt return capped a 17-point fourth-quarter explosion that rallied the Jets from a two-touchdown deficit to a 31-28 victory over the Saints Monday Night in a National Football League game.

"We talked before the game about how the special teams were going to figure big in the game — and they certainly did," said Jets Coach Joe Walton.

The Jets had narrowed the gap to just four points on a 37-yard field goal by Pat Leahy 15 seconds into the final period and an 11-yard pass from Todd to wide receiver Jerome Barkum with 4:20 left in the game.

After the kickoff, the Saints had a first down wiped out by a holding call and wound up having to punt on fourth down at their own 36.

Russell Erxleben sailed a high punt 40 yards to Springs, who gathered it in on his own 24.

"I saw someone out of the corner of my eye coming up on my left," Springs said. It was Bobby Johnson, free agent rookie safety for the Saints. Johnson got an arm on Springs, but didn't even slow him down.

"After I got by him, it was clear sailing," Springs said, even though he still had to step through an attempted tackle by John Tice and outlet Erxleben at about mid-field.

"After I got past the 50, I looked at Johnny Lynn (another Jets special teams member) to see if anybody else was coming up on me.

"He motioned for me to take it on."

Springs said the return was carefully set up.

"We kept running right on our returns, so — since this was our last one — I started right, then dipped back into the middle," he said.

"It's not new, but we felt we set it up," Walton said. "We almost broke another one earlier. It finally came through for us. We worked on it last week."

The Jets tied the game at 7-7 midway through the first quarter on a 34-yard interception return by linebacker Lance Mehl and again at 14-14 on a 1-yard run by Marion Barber with just over four minutes to go in the half.

But Springs' punt return gave the Jets the only lead they held all night.

The Saints' George Rogers, who rushed for 84 yards on 26 carries, scored a first-quarter touchdown on a 14-yard run and a third-quarter touchdown on a 2-yard sprint.

Saints quarterback Kenny Stabler, who finished 11-19-1 for 190 yards, hit tight end Hobie Brenner on a 38-yard scoring pass in the first quarter, and Wayne Wilson dived over from the 1 in the third quarter.

The Jets went into the game proud of the fact that no running back had gained more than 50 yards against them in the past seven games. Rogers and fullback Hokie Gajan, the game's leading rusher with 113 yards on 11 carries, broke that string.

Todd was 20-30-1 for 230 yards — 110 of those yards coming on seven completions to wide receiver Wesley Walker.

The Jets Freeman McNeil, expected to see only limited duty because of seven weeks of inactivity with a shoulder separation, carried 20 times for 86 yards.

The loss kept the Saints, now 6-6 for the season, out of a three-way tie with Los Angeles and San Francisco for the lead in the NFC West.

The Jets, 5-7, kept alive their outside chance of a playoff berth.

"We probably still have an inch of a chance," Todd said. "We hung in there, didn't give up and turned the thing around."

"It was the finest comeback win I've ever had," Walton said.

Horns, Aags clash on national tv; UT almost loses with '12th man'

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Longhorns had their own "12th man" last Saturday, and it almost cost them the football game — and a Cotton Bowl bid — against Baylor.

This week No. 2-ranked Texas plays Texas A&M and its non-scholarship kickoff team — part of its "12th man" tradition, which refers to A&M student body support of the Aggie football team.

On Saturday, Texas was leading Baylor 17-0 halfway through the third quarter and had forced the Bears to punt.

A Longhorn player got a sideline shove and was seen charging onto the field just before the punt, and officials penalized Texas 15 yards for having 12 men on the field.

The penalty gave Baylor a first down at its 44-yard line, and the Bears scored, later getting two more touchdowns to make Texas sweat out a 24-21 victory that clinched the Longhorns 18th Cotton Bowl berth.

"It's not his fault," Akers said of the extra player. "He was sent out there — just poor communications on our sidelines. ... When you get right down to it, it would be me (who was at fault). It was my fault, not his."

"We gave them a great amount of motivation when had that 12th man out there," Akers said.

He also told his weekly news conference Monday that A&M freshman quarterback Kevin Murray is even more dangerous than Baylor quarterbacks Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke, who threw for 320 yards and two touchdowns against Texas' No. 1-rated pass defense.

"Their quarterbacks did an excellent job of sitting in there and waiting until the very last second, and, of course, they took the physical punishment that came with it," Akers said. "We were on top of them but they kept their poise, and I'll tell you there was some great, great receiving that afternoon."

Texas, 10-0, and A&M, 5-4-1, play Saturday at College Station in a nationally televised game. Kickoff is at 11:35 a.m., CST. Asked to compare Murray to Carlson and Muecke, Akers said, "He's an excellent passer himself. He can put the ball in places that a lot of people can't, but he adds something else — he's got more running ability than those other guys have."

"He's a passer that can really scramble," Akers said of Murray. "He's got speed like the running backs — and agility, but he's a passer. He's not going to come out and try to beat you by running 30 option plays. He's got a legitimate arm."

Akers also said the A&M passing offense "has more variety (than Baylor). One big difference, they go to the tight end and get the ball to their backs probably more than Baylor."

Akers said the A&M defense "pretty much has the same people they had last year, but they've shown a lot of improvement. (End) Ray Childress has really improv-

Weekly winners named

Final grid contest set; winners vie for 'jackpot'

Five contestants missed only two games in the weekly Brand Football Contest this past weekend, so the three Hereford Bucks winners were determined by the tiebreaker game.

Greta Phommyvong, 620 Ave. G, won the $25 first prize by picking St. Louis and 48 points. St. Louis defeated San Diego, 44-14, for a total of 58 points.

Cindy Baker also picked St. Louis and a total of 45 to earn second prize, while John Stagner won third place with a guess of 49 points, but picked San Diego.

Lela Duggan and Marie Cogdell also missed two games but were not close enough on the tiebreakers. The contest pages appear in today's Brand for the final contest of the season.

The regular weekly Hereford Buck prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be awarded to winners in the final contest, and all previous cash winners will be judged separately for the "jackpot" prizes of the season. Those who have won a prize anytime during the season will not be eligible for the regular weekly prizes.

The "jackpot" season prizes are $100 for the winner, $35 for second and $15 for third. Those who are eligible for this contest should mark their entry to facilitate the judging process.

Those eligible to compete in the grand prize contest include: Mel Charest, Teri Morgan, Patsy Hampton, Bill Sanders, John Streun, Nita Shepherd, Rick Casteneda, Isaac Briones, Herman Benavidez, Cal Jones, David Freeman, Oscar Reyna, Chris Johnson, Joy Stagner, Jim McNaney, Frank Cogdell, Tommy Hickman, Wendell Burdine, Carolyn Schumacher, Dorothy Grasmick, Opal Blakely, S.T. Loerwald, Darla Duggan, Sheree Rampley, Greta Phommyvong, Cindy Baker and John Stagner.

In last week's regular contest, there were 21 entrants who missed only three of the 26 games. These included Curtis Ritchie, Keith Anderson, Donna Jones, Jerry Morgan, Jim McNaney, David Spain, Marie Loerwald, Jane Duggan, Bill Sanders, Jimmy George, Gary Duggan, S.T. Loerwald, Herb Grasmick, Violeta Valdez, R.I. Blakely, Opal Blakely, Vicky Veigel, Bobby Baker, Ronnie Traylor, Monty Gilliam and Elvin Davis.

Iowa moves to 10th spot

Top 9 same in college poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Led by 11-0 Nebraska, the top nine teams remained the same today for the second week in a row in the Associated Press college football poll, while Air Force made the Top Twenty for the first time in 11 years and East Carolina cracked the rankings for only the second time ever.

With 59 of the 60 sports writers and sportscasters on the AP's nationwide panel voting, Nebraska, which has been No. 1 in every poll this season, received 58 first-place ballots and 1,179 of a possible 1,180 points. The Orange Bowl-bound Cornhuskers were idle last weekend and close out their regular season Saturday at Oklahoma.

Runner-up Texas, No. 2 for the 10th consecutive week, defeated Baylor 24-21 to earn the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns, who wind up their regular season

Saturday at Texas A&M, received the other first-place vote and 1,118 points.

Third-place Auburn was idle and received 1,052 points. The Sugar Bowl-bound Tigers meet Alabama in Birmingham on Dec. 3.

Illinois, the No. 4 team, clinched its first Big Ten title in 20 years by defeating Northwestern 56-24. The Illini, headed for the Rose Bowl, received 977 points.

Fifth-place Miami, Nebraska's Orange Bowl opponent, completed a 10-1 regular season a week ago. The Hurricanes got 962 points.

Sun Bowl-bound Southern Methodist held sixth place with a 17-0 victory over Arkansas and totaled 878 points. The Mustangs play Houston Saturday in Tokyo.

Seventh-place Georgia was not scheduled last weekend. The Bulldogs, who meet Texas in the Cotton Bowl, wind up against Georgia Tech on Saturday. They received 776 points.

Eighth-place Michigan, Auburn's Sugar Bowl foe, edged Ohio State 24-21 and received 761 points, while the losers dropped from 10th to 14th.

Brigham Young remained No. 9 with a 55-7 rout of Utah. The Cougars, who face Missouri in the Holiday Bowl, got 686 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten, Gator Bowl-bound Iowa moved up from 11th to 10th by crushing Minnesota 61-10 and receiving 647 points.

The Second Ten consists of Florida, Clemson, Alabama, Ohio State, Boston College, Pittsburgh, Maryland, Air Force, West Virginia and East Carolina.

Last week, it was Iowa, Florida, Clemson, West Virginia, Washington, Alabama, Pitt, B.C., Missouri and Maryland.

But Washington was upset by Washington State 17-6 and Missouri lost to Kansas 37-27.

That made room for 8-2 Air Force, a 23-22 winner over Notre Dame, and 8-3 East Carolina, which took Southern Mississippi 10-6. Air Force last appeared in the ratings in 1972. East Carolina's only previous appearance was a tie for 20th at midseason in 1976. The Pirates' three losses have been by a combined 13 points to Miami, Florida and Florida State.

White leads panel; Carr scores high

Mike Carr scored the best weekly record of the season among the Fearless Forecasters this past week, while Butch White continued to hold a commanding lead as the top football prognosticator.

Carr missed only 2 of the 26 games last week, so the final week's contest boils down to a two-way struggle. White and Helen Higgins are vying for first place, but White has a six-game bulge; Speedy Nieman and Mike Carr will be matched to see who lands in the cellar. Nieman is now only two games ahead of Carr.

Carr's only misses last week were picking Notre Dame and the Los Angeles Rams. White and Higgins both had 22-4 marks for the week, while Nieman lost ground with a 19-7 record.

Strawberry named 'Rookie of Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — After his first month in the major leagues, Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets was a lot closer to being back in the minors than becoming the National League's Rookie of the Year.

Yet Strawberry, who spent the first month of the 1983 season in Class AAA, overcame his early problems and on Monday was rewarded when he won the NL Rookie of the Year award by a large margin in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"With all the pressure there was when I came up, I was pleased I could turn it around," Strawberry said. "I never questioned my potential."

The gangly outfielder was the only player named on all 24 ballots — two from each NL city — and collected 18 first-place votes, five seconds and one third for a total of 106 points. That far outdistanced Atlanta pitcher Craig McMurtry, who got the remaining six first-place votes and finished with 49 points, and Chicago outfielder Mel Hall, third with 32 points.

Strawberry's victory broke a four-year Los Angeles stranglehold on the NL rookie award. Steve Sax won it last season, preceded by Fernando Valenzuela, Steve Howe and Rick Sutcliffe.

Strawberry, 21, finished the season with a .257 batting average, 26 home runs and 74 runs batted in for the Mets, who were last in the NL East. He also struck out 128 times.

The 6-foot-6 Strawberry, who was the No. 1 overall pick in the 1980 amateur free agent draft, began the season with Tidewater of the International League and hit .333 in 16 games. With the Mets struggling and the team's attendance sagging, he was called up to the majors May 4.

But in his first 24 games for the Mets, he batted just .161 with three home runs and nine runs batted in.

"At that point in time, I didn't think I'd be in the running," Strawberry said.

Junior high teams open cage season

In total, Hereford's junior high school basketball teams compiled a 6-6 record Monday in their opening games of the 1983-1984 season.

For Stanton Junior High School, the female seventh graders dropped a 21-19 decision at Clovis-Yucca. Radonda Hodge led the Dogies with eight points.

Eighth and ninth grade girls from Stanton downed Yucca 33-32 and 32-30, respectively. Cindy Tice had 10 points to pace the eighth graders while Bernice Ross' nine tallies were high for the older team.

In Hereford, the Stanton seventh grade boys suffered a 37-35 loss to Yucca. Pat Mercer had 18 for the Dogies. Marcus Brown's 10 tallies could not prevent the eighth graders from also falling, 36-34, while Gilbert Tijerina and Todd Weaver led the ninth graders to a 55-48 conquest with 16 points apiece.

No individual scoring was available for the La Plata Junior High School girls in their three contests against Clovis-Gaddis. Seventh graders lost 24-13, eighth graders won 23-21 in overtime and ninth graders were downed 42-35.

Despite 12 points by Jason Scott, La Plata's male seventh graders were dropped 43-30 by Gaddis. Kevin Hansen, Darrell Page and Richard Ramirez each netted 10 points for the eighth grade boys in a 49-33 victory. Completing the Maverick scoresheet were the ninth graders, who triumphed 52-47 behind 15 points from Bobby Baker.

Season tickets now on sale

Season tickets for Hereford basketball games are now on sale at the Hereford Independent School District's business office, 700 Union.

According to Larry Wartes, HISD assistant superintendent, the tickets sell for $18. They are good for all high school and junior high games, excluding tournaments.

Hereford High School opens its home season Friday against Dimmitt. Varsity girls play at 6 p.m. in the HHS gymnasium, with the boys' tilt slated to follow at approximately 7:30. Junior varsity boys and girls are to tip off at 3 and 4:30 p.m., respectively.

All four HHS squads were scheduled to make their 1983-1984 debuts today in Levelland.

The New York Yankees left 20 men on base in a 1956 game against the Boston Red Sox to set a major-league record.

To burn wastes

Governor, Attorney General opposed idea

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — About 2,000 people, joined by Gov. Mark White and Attorney General Jim Mattox, jammed a public hearing to lodge their protests against a plan by an Illinois company to burn toxic wastes in the Gulf of Mexico.

all been identified by government scientists as potential carcinogens and are among the most toxic chemicals produced, experts say. The EPA has already granted tentative approval to such a burning and Monday's hearing, headed by the agency's assistant water director Jack Ravan, was one of three scheduled this week along the Gulf coast. Hearings were scheduled for today and Wednesday at Mobile, Ala.

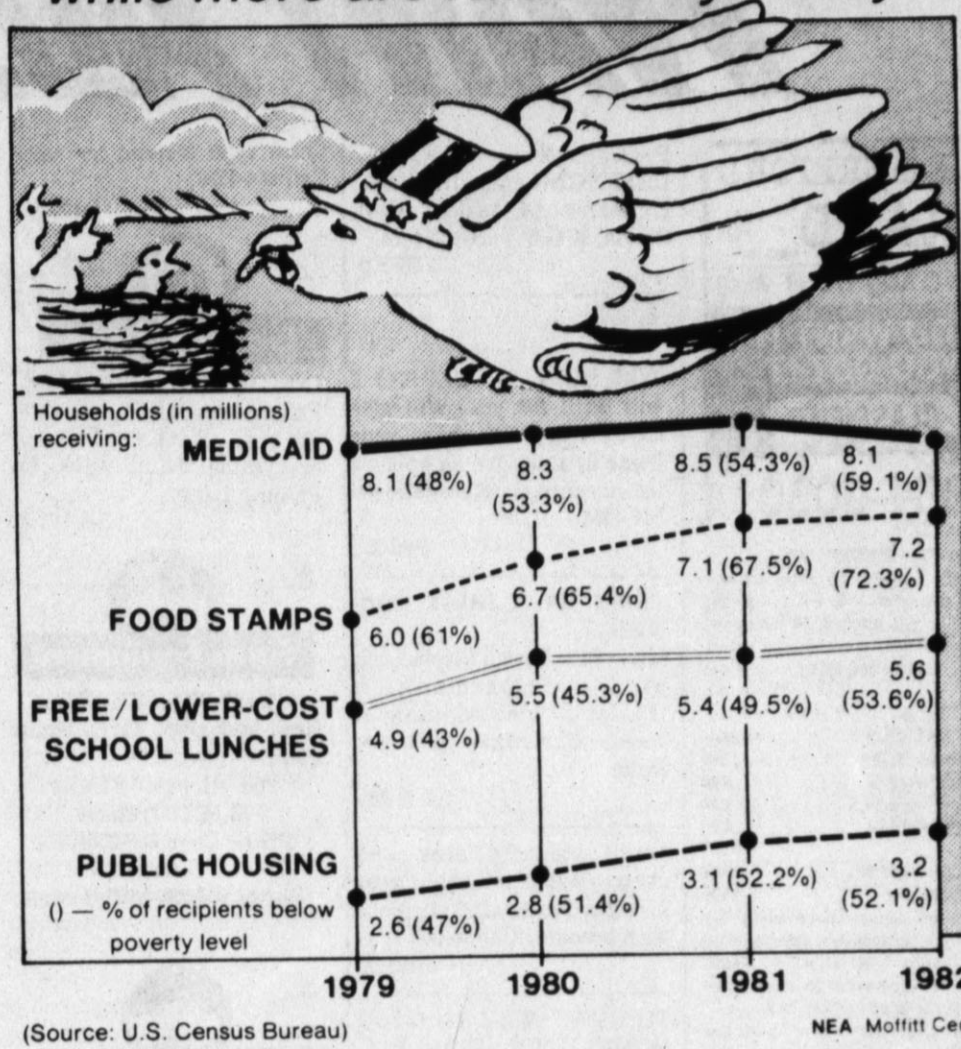

Opponents of the plan in Texas say that similar groups in Alabama and Louisiana have also begun organizing against the plan to burn 300,000 metric tons of toxic waste in the Gulf. The burns are to be conducted at a site 220 miles east-southeast of Corpus Christi and 206 miles southeast of Houston.

EPA panel and a public auditorium filled with placard-waving opponents. White said the "entire proposal to burn deadly toxins in the Gulf poses an unacceptable level of risk to the natural environment and to the people of the region" and complained about a lack of information concerning possible hazards.

precautions for offshore burning were taken. "This issue will not go away. The citizens of South Texas and the coastal area are mightily concerned about the future of their environment and economy," Mattox said. "I guarantee you'll be hearing from me again in court unless and until you set proper standards for ocean incineration."

FEDERAL NON-CASH BENEFITS

Number of recipients is curbed, while more are rated 'truly needy'

(Source: U.S. Census Bureau) NEA Moffitt Cecil. Last year 24.1 million households received non-cash U.S. aid — the same total as in 1981. That makes 1982 the first year in which the total failed to grow. However, a greater percentage of these households are now ranked below the poverty level — a trend that has grown markedly since 1979.

Trial in bombing begins

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Two suspects, both with limbs amputated, staggered into a courtroom today and were charged with murdering 19 people in a terrorist bombing attack on a group of visiting South Korean officials.

where top South Korean leaders were gathered for a wreath-laying ceremony. Among the victims of the blast were four South Korean Cabinet ministers and other senior officials. South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan, on a state visit to Burma, was on his way to the mausoleum when the blast occurred.

The suspects also were charged with attempted murder for wounding police and civilians during their capture. Another murder charge was placed against the captain for killing three soldiers with a grenade before he was captured Oct. 12.

Scientists say

'The Day After' was optimistic

NEW YORK (AP) — For those who were shocked and disturbed by "The Day After," it will be no comfort to learn that some scientists believe the movie was overly optimistic.

The aftermath of a nuclear attack would in all likelihood be much, much worse, they say. In the television movie, shown Sunday night on ABC, any crops at all, I would think," Turco said. The theory of the nuclear winter was publicized last month by Paul Ehrlich of Stanford University and Carl Sagan of Cornell University, among 100 scientists involved in a two-year study of the effects of nuclear war.

These nuclear fireballs would suck smoke, debris and vaporized matter into the atmosphere, the report said. Temperatures might drop to about zero degrees Fahrenheit for at least a month or two — longer, if more bombs were exploded.

"People who didn't receive any radiation or fallout might be dramatically affected by the nuclear winter," said Richard Turco, one of the authors of the upcoming report.

"Even countries way out of the war zone, in the Southern Hemisphere, would be considered possible victims," he said.

Thus the advice to the movie's farmers — that they could scrape off a few inches of topsoil and plant again — was hopelessly in error, according to the report. "There would be no hope of having

Changes imminent in new council

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Parliamentary sources say major changes are imminent in the Cabinet of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, whose government has received new powers from the legislature to crack down on dissidents.

Without debate, Parliament on Monday unanimously approved legislation creating a new national defense council with sweeping powers previously confined to martial law.

Parliament's appointment of Jaruzelski as head of the new council was expected today, and sources said the legislators also would approve a shakeup in the Cabinet.

The Communist government's actions come at a time of public displeasure with announced plans to boost food prices. Lech Walesa and fugitive leaders of the outlawed Solidarity trade union have called for protests of the price increases, scheduled for January.

Some Western and Polish analysts say Jaruzelski, who is Communist Party chief, prime minister and defense minister, hopes the Cabinet changes will shift blame for Poland's ailing economy away from the leadership.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column with the letter from the lady who commented on the fat in lean hamburger meat. We also try to purchase lean meat to avoid fat as much as possible. We enjoy meat loaf and have found that the leanest of all ground meat is turkey.

We buy it in the supermarket and the packages state "extra lean." I asked the butcher about the fat content in the extra lean turkey and he said it ranged between 4 and 6 percent fat and beef hamburger between 25 and 30 percent fat. You may want to pass this information along.

DEAR READER — His figures for lean hamburger are too high. It is not that fat. And I would caution you that saying any meat product is 4 to 6 percent fat usually means by weight. In percentage of calories, that is usually still about a third fat. Nevertheless, it is a definite improvement over many meat products in terms of limiting the fat content.

The way to get really lean beef is to buy a lean piece, take it home and cut away all the visible fat. Then grind the lean meat to use for your meat loaf. The separable lean of round steak is only about 5 percent fat by weight too, but that is still about 30 percent fat in terms of calories.

About the leanest meat you can get is the breast of chicken or turkey. If you remove the skin and use only the meat, it will be less than 3 percent fat by weight. The skin and dark meat contain more fat. About half the fat in chicken is in the skin. You can make low-fat sausage and other tasty foods using poultry and seasoning it with sausage seasoning. Often the seasoning has a lot to do with the taste we really want.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can anything be done to make the hair on one's head grow really fast? I have heard that by rinsing hair in egg white and eating lots of eggs, you can make it grow faster. Is this true? Is there really anything I can do? My hair grows really slowly and I want it to grow out fast.

DEAR READER — Remember that the hair shaft is really dead tissue, in the same way that the tips of your fingernails are dead. What you put on the hair shaft will have no effect at all on the growth of the hair. Growth occurs at the root of the hair and is controlled by genes you were born with, nutrition, and sometimes by disease.

It makes sense that the way to affect hair growth is by affecting the hair follicles and roots inside the skin. Nutrition becomes important.

This is for the birds!
DEAR READERS — What to do with stretchless elastic, beef suet and chipped painted woodwork? Our readers offer their ideas in today's Pointer roundup! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Plastic mesh bags (such as some produce comes in) make great containers for suet for birds. Fill the bags with suet and fasten them to a tree, bush or clothesline. Birds can sit on them and pick the suet through the mesh. — LUCY

DEAR POLLY — Your Pointer landed on my desk at precisely the right moment! A couple of weeks ago, I rendered down a quantity of beef fat, poured it into a half-gallon milk carton, added as much birdseed as I could and let the entire mixture harden. However, I have been undecided as to how I can best serve this treat to the many birds that visit my feeder every year. You've just solved my problem with your Pointer of the Week. Hope you enjoy your autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. My birds thank you, too! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — For chipped or worn painted cabinets, furniture or paneling, try painting the marred areas with artists' acrylic paints. These mix and clean up with water and can be purchased in tubes for under $2 for most colors. The exact shade needed for a fixup may be available or you can purchase several tubes and mix the correct shade. Once dry, the acrylics can be varnished. Leftover acrylics, kept tightly secured from the air, last for years and will be available for more touchups. — NICKI

DEAR POLLY — Try this whipped breakfast spread on bread or your morning toast. With an electric mixer, whip one stick of soft butter until fluffy. Add one teaspoon honey, then slowly add one-fourth cup safflower oil, one-third cup buttermilk or plain yogurt and one-third cup instant nonfat dry milk. These ingredients should be added bit by bit while continuing to whip. It is very important to blend all ingredients completely. Spoon the mixture into a container and cover with a tight lid. Refrigerate. — MRS. G.L.

Your gift will be remembered all year long when you give your own homemade almond cream liqueur. The easy recipe is in Polly's idea-packed newsletter, "Polly's Gift Ideas." MEXICO CITY (AP) —

The Newspaper BIBLE

"BUT LORD, AREN'T YOU MAKING A MISTAKE?"

There was in Damascus a believer named Ananias. The Lord spoke to him in a vision, calling, "Ananias!" "Yes, Lord!" he replied. And the Lord said, "Go over to Straight Street and find the house of a man named Judas and ask there for Saul of Tarsus. He is praying to Me right now, for I have shown him a vision of a man named Ananias coming in and laying his hands on him so that he can see again!"

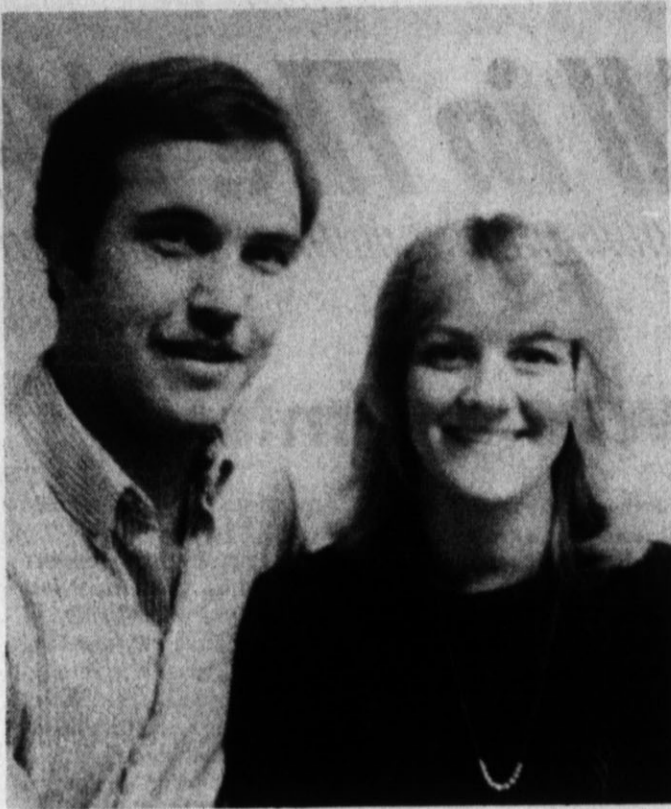

"But Lord," exclaimed Ananias, "I have heard about the terrible things this man has done to the believers in Jerusalem! And we hear that he has arrest warrants with him from the chief priests, authorizing him to arrest every believer in Damascus!"

But the Lord said, "Go and do what I say. For Saul is my chosen instrument to take My message to the nations and before kings, as well as to the people of Israel. And I will show him how much he must suffer for Me."

So Ananias went over and found Saul and laid his hands on him and said, "Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus, who appeared to you on the road, has sent me so that you may be filled with the Holy Spirit and get your sight back."

Instantly (it was as though scales fell from his eyes) Saul could see, and was immediately baptized. Then he ate and was strengthened. He stayed with the believers in Damascus for a few days and went at once to the synagogues to tell everyone there the Good News about Jesus—that He is indeed the Son of God! All who heard him were amazed. "Isn't this the same man who persecuted Jesus' followers so bitterly in Jerusalem?" they asked. "And we understand that he came here to arrest them all and take them in chains to the chief priests."

"SCTV" to start settling the score

NEW YORK (AP) — It didn't take long for "SCTV," the Emmy-winning show canceled by NBC, to start settling the score.

"SCTV" is the madcap, fictitious TV network that sticks needles into everything au courant on television and in movieland. With the on-air declaration that SCTV is again "beaming its two-cents worth across the nation," the first of 18 new programs begins tonight on pay-cable's Cinemax, a more artsy movie channel that is adding some original programming.

After that introduction, Guy Caballero, SCTV's sleazy owner-president, discusses the various channels available on cable. There's a sex network, a sports network and a fluffy network called NBC. Why watch them, Guy asks, when SCTV has sex, sports, fluff and everything else?

How true. Who else has the dirt on Momm Mabley but SCTV's movie, "Mom's Dearest?" Nobody else has the "Soren-Weiss Report," two droll movie-critic types who review the news: "Central America is boring. I give it a two."

Then there's "New Wave Shmunge," an MTV of the polka set, starring those frisky fogies, Stan and Yosh Shmunge. You haven't lived 'til you've heard Michael Jackson's "Billie Jean" on the accordion.

More than 1,000 4-H'ers from every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico will gather for the 62nd National 4-H Congress, Nov. 27 through Dec. 1 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. Forty-eight Texans will be in the delegation.

With the theme, "4-H: Building on Experience," the week-long educational program focuses on the continued development and growth of 4-H members and features workshops, assemblies, field trips and recognition events.

Delegates were selected by the Extension Service for outstanding achievement in 4-H projects. Most won expense-paid trips as state, sectional or national winners in awards programs sponsored by private-sector donors. During the week, 290 scholarships totaling 280,000 in educational grants will be awarded in some 40 4-H project areas.

One of the featured speakers at this year's congress will be Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block, who will address the final assembly on Dec. 1.

In workshops focusing on personal development, delegates will discuss with experts such topics as computers, grooming, handling emergencies, health and nutrition, stress, positive thinking, decision making and selling one self. Delegates also will meet with 700 leaders of business, industry and education who will be attending the annual event in the Windy City. In addition, eight outstanding 4-H alumni will be honored in the National 4-H alumni recognition program.

Delegates will tour the Museum of Science and Industry, the Chicago Board of Trade, Sears Tower, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Chicago Tribune, Chicago City Hall, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Chicago Fire Academy, International Academy of Merchandising and Design, Playskoll Inc., and Continental Illinois Bank and Trust.

Young men and women from 49 states and Puerto Rico will model their ensembles at the National 4-H Fashion Revue hosted by Simplicity Pattern Co., Inc. on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m., in the Hilton's Grand Ballroom. On Thursday morning, delegates, leaders and guests will participate in jazzercise and recreation sessions.

The 10th National 4-H Photo Exhibition sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company will be on display throughout the Congress in the Continental Room of the Hilton. The show features 250 black-and-white and color prints by 4-H members. Also on display will be 100 posters from members in 40 states.

The Congress will conclude Thursday night with the naming of the six presidential award winners, the annual banquet and a farewell dance.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Teaching a parrot what to say is no trick at all — shutting the creature up is what takes real ingenuity.

Ann Landers

Young bride to old woman

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please warn young girls against marrying men who are much older. Here's what happened to me:

At 21 I married a man, 42. I was madly in love with him. He looked much younger than his years. People would have guessed he was no more than 30.

When the honeymoon ended, I wanted to go dancing on Saturday nights and he wanted to stay home. Sex was once a month. It took us nine years to have a child.

Now I am 50 and he is 70. I'm going through menopause and the heat bothers me. He wears a sweater and keeps telling me to turn off the air-conditioning. I'd enjoy a little social life, but he doesn't feel up to it. I am tied down at home, the same as if I had an aging parent to look after. We haven't slept together in 12 years. My sex life was over at 38.

When I was young, age didn't matter, but now I realize I went from being a young bride to an old woman because of the man I married.

I am not much of a writer,

The Welland Canal between lakes Ontario and Erie has eight locks to detour the 326-foot drop of Niagara Falls and the rapids of the Niagara River.

Early, bow-shaped harps with four strings weighed less than a pound, while today's 46-string concert harps weigh 80 pounds.

Ann, but I hope you will print this letter anyway. It's a warning to the young girls who can't see what's down the road.—Blaine As A Bat And Paying For It

DEAR PAYING: Not all May-December marriages turn out as disappointing as yours, but you have written an honest and sad letter, and I thank you for it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a compulsive eater. Everything else in my life is on track. I am a recent college graduate, have a good position, a nice place to live, a loving family and am otherwise a stable person.

I am not terribly overweight, but food is beginning to take over my life. It's my major interest. I do not binge and make myself vomit. But I look forward all day to pigging out at night. Alone.

It is not unusual for me to buy a half gallon of milk, a big box of cookies, a bag of corn chips and a container of avocado dip, go home and eat it all in one sitting.

When I am full I promise myself that tomorrow I will begin to eat like a normal person, but when morning comes I am thinking of stuffing myself again.

Yesterday I bought a load of junk food for the weekend. I wrote a check knowing full well I didn't have enough in the bank to cover it. I'll borrow some money on Monday so the check won't bounce.

Don't suggest professional counseling, Ann. It is not feasible. Thanks for your help.—Worried In Springfield

DEAR WORRIED: What help? I can't do one thing for a person who says, "Don't suggest professional counseling" when it is the only solution to the problem.

Compulsions are difficult enough to treat WITH counseling. Without it you don't stand a chance. By now you know you cannot depend on your will power. You need to find out what in your life is driving you to be so self-destructive. Only when you learn what is making you behave so irrationally will you be able to stop. CONFIDENTIAL to Married to a Workaholic in Seattle: Of course, he is right when he says, "Hard work never killed anyone," but ask him if he has ever heard of a person who rested to death.
