

Hearings on alcohol permits, licenses set

This Thursday, Friday

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Five hearings have been set this week for businesses and proposed businesses which would like to sell bottled alcoholic beverages in Justice of the Peace Precinct 1.

According to Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland, the hearings in front of the county judge are to be conducted Thursday and Friday afternoons. Those applications approved by County Judge Glen Nelson are to be sent to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission in Austin.

Two weeks ago, Deaf Smith County residents passed by 218 votes the first "wet" election in 28 years. The outcome ended a 63-year "dry spell" in the area. Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 encompasses all but a small fraction of the county.

The first hearing is slated for 2 p.m. Thursday, when Holiday Motor Hotel's request for a package store permit and beer retailer's off-premise license is to be considered. The owner of the establishment, located at 915 W. First St., is Maya Parikh, Inc. Kirit B. Parikh is president of the firm.

At 3 p.m. Thursday, Nelson is to examine the wine and beer retailer's off-premise permit requested by Estela Garza. Her business would be located on North Progressive Road and is to operate under the name of Estela's Beer and Wine.

A wine and beer retailer's off-premise permit, desired by Dawn Oil and Grocery, has its hearing set for 2 p.m. Friday. It would be placed at the intersection of Highway 60 and Farm Road 809. Bill Rowland is its owner.

Thirty minutes later, hearings for Handy Hut Grocery and Wil-Mart, Inc. are to be conducted. Glenn E. Galloway heads the corporation which operates both businesses. Both Handy Hut (817 W. Park Ave.) and Wil-Mart (401 E. First Ave.) are asking for wine-only package store permits and beer retailer's off-premise licenses.

As of Friday afternoon, two other groups had announced they were seeking permits and licenses but had failed to have their requests filed in the county clerk's office.

One was B&B Liquor Store, 350 N. 25 Mile Ave., which is to be operated by the partnership of J. Martin Basinger and J.D. Basinger. They would like to be granted a package store permit, local distributor's permit and beer retailer's off-premise license. The other non-filed request is from The Store, which is asking for the same two permits and license as is B&B Liquor. David H. Hutchins, the owner, intends to have his business be placed in the Sugarland Mall, Highway 385 and Thirteenth Street.

Should Nelson fail to approve any of the applications, Ruland explained, appeals may be made through district court. Neither the county clerk nor Nelson knew whether the matter could be appealed to a higher court should the district judge concur with Nelson's ruling.

A reverse decision by the district court, however, could be appealed by the TABC, Ruland said.

This week's hearings are to be held to check for any inaccuracies on the filed applications, according to Nelson. Anyone can contest such requests, the judge added, should the involved permits or licenses be thought to have possible consequences of injustice.

Ruland expected more applications will be made soon. "I've been told," he said, "that most of the (package liquor stores) operating between here and Dimmitt are going to be moving into town. That's just speculation, of course."

Kicking Up Dirt

High winds Friday afternoon did not prevent Ben Reyes, a Clovis, N.M. resident visiting his uncle in Hereford, from spinning around a vacant lot on a motorcycle. Gusts exceeding 60 miles per hour were reported, though by

Saturday morning velocity had subsided a bit.

Agreement might give clear guidelines

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Law enforcement officers in the state may soon be given clear-cut guidelines pertaining to enforcement of the Federal Immigration and Naturalization Act.

That is if a federal district judge approves an agreement reached by attorneys for both sides of a civil rights case involving Deaf Smith County and the local sheriff's office. Filed in January of 1980, the lawsuit stemmed from the alleged illegal arrests the previous August of Pedro Cervantez and Juan Lorenzo.

Cervantez and Lorenzo claim they were detained by Department of Public Safety officers for being suspected illegal aliens—and for no other good reason. The county is named in the suit because Cervantez was held in the Deaf Smith County Jail.

For immigration laws

Texas Rural Legal Aid attorneys, representing Cervantez, Lorenzo and "the class they represent," are asking for both monetary and injunctive relief.

The class is defined as "all persons of Hispanic descent who have been or will be questioned, detained, incarcerated, or charged... for investigation of their immigration status or for alleged violations of the immigration laws, or whose immigration status or alleged violations of the immigration laws negatively affected their rights to release, bail, visitation, or a hearing otherwise available for persons held on other charges."

The "stipulation for entry of judgment and decree," to be entered in U.S. District Court in Amarillo, would satisfy the plaintiff's claims for injunctive relief by setting down specific guidelines governing arrest, detention and incarceration of members of the class.

If the judge concurs, Cervantez would be awarded $1,500 from Deaf Smith County and $500 from former sheriff Travis McPherson. The county would also be ordered to pay $500 for each day of incarceration to each member of the class who could establish a legal claim against the county's actions toward suspected illegal aliens. That amount could not exceed $11,000.

Of that $11,000 McPherson would pay $2,750 and $8,250 would be submitted by Deaf Smith County. There would be a 90-day period for submission of claims, with any of the $11,000 not claimed by members of the class to be returned to the county or McPherson.

Attorney's fees would also be paid by the county and McPherson as approved by the judge, with the county handing over $12,750 and $4,250 to be paid by McPherson.

Costs and expenses would also be assessed under terms of the stipulation, with $2,025 to come from the county and $675 from McPherson.

McPherson was covered by the Law Enforcement Insurance Company at the time of the alleged violations, and that company has agreed to pay $7,500 plus the $675 costs assessed against McPherson.

County Judge Glen Nelson said the county did not have liability coverage at the time but has since taken out a protective policy.

"The making of this stipulation shall in no way constitute an admission on the part of county defendants that grounds exist for the injunctive relief or monetary relief in this lawsuit," reads the document, "or that plaintiffs are entitled to recover attorneys' fees or costs."

Defense attorneys for the county are Jerry Smith of Hereford and Charles White of Plainview. Until last month, Smith also represented the insurance company that covered McPherson.

During that time, Smith said, he provided counsel to the county free of charge. White was hired by the county a few weeks ago when it was determined additional help was needed to proceed with the county's defense of the suit.

Departing from his usual policy of withholding comment on pending litigation, Smith on Thursday criticized the State of Texas for making a settlement on its part of the suit, which he said made it extremely difficult for the county to defend its position.

"The case should have been litigated based on its merits," he claimed. "It would have been had the state of Texas not thrown up its hands and paid the money asked for."

In February, according to Smith, the state settled claims brought against the Department of Public Safety and several of its officers by paying $90,000 in attorneys fees to TRLA, $10,000 in costs, $8,000 to Cervantez, $4,000 to

Guerrero recounts visit to Vatican

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Jesse Guerrero said Friday the scenery was not what he expected it to be, but he "had fun" as one of 50,000 teenagers attending an international "Jubilee for Youth" in the Vatican City.

The 16-year-old Hereford High School junior listed highlights of the April 9 through 18 trip as meeting with the pope, attending a lecture given by Mother Theresa of Calcutta and meeting young people from the rest of the world.

The "private" audience with Pope John Paul II, which Guerrero said wasn't so private considering the number of people in attendance, consisted of a general greeting delivered by the Holy Father in Polish, Italian, Spanish, English, French, German and an Asian dialect for the benefit of the Korean and Vietnamese students who were there.

For the conference, which lasted four days, the young people were divided into groups based on what language they were able to understand. Guerrero said his group, in addition to Americans, included youngsters from England, Scotland, Wales and the Scandinavian countries.

"Mother Theresa spoke on love," Guerrero said. "She told us she was really happy to speak to the youth and had been waiting for such an opportunity."

He said his group attended a marriage of two young Italians prior to Mother Theresa's talk in one of the many churches in the Vatican City. "She talked to us about the wedding we had just seen and told us you cannot say you love God if you don't love your neighbor."

Guerrero said the elderly nun, world-renowned for her work among the poor and sick, told them "God is present in everyone, the beggar, the thief, the cripple, your parents and you."

"It's not every day you get to hear Mother Theresa of Calcutta speak," Guerrero commented.

Guerrero believed the nun to be in her 70s. He said she looked old but appeared strong, as she led the Way of the cross procession on Friday from the Coliseum to the Vatican.

Saw pope, Mother Theresa

Guerrero said his group had made an earlier candlelight procession so opted not to join the five-mile walk on Friday. To illustrate how many persons took part, Guerrero said he and friends were sitting in a restaurant as the participants walked by, and when they left at the end of an hour the procession was still passing in front of the windows.

"I would estimate about 125,000 people made that walk," he said. "They have them every Friday during Lent."

Guerrero said accommodations were usually good except "there was never enough hot water" in the hotels. He said Italian food is better here than in the rest of Italy "and they've never even heard of bacon and eggs for breakfast."

The National Honor Society student, who won the trip through an essay contest, said he also enjoyed a workshop by Father John Bertulucci, an organizer of the Catholic Charismatic Movement. Bertulucci talked about freedom, Guerrero remembered, "and told us that to return to God we must be free from sins and peer pressure."

Guerrero said the rather famous midwestern priest told them slavery in chains is nothing compared to the slavery of sins.

Also attending from Hereford were Sister Rose Winkle, a teacher for the San Jose parish who was sent on the trip as a surprise gift from members of the church. She could not be reached for comment on Friday. Gloria Garcia went as a sponsor.

Guerrero said 19 persons went from the Amarillo diocese, including four sponsors.

Forty-eight high school students in the Amarillo area submitted essays to vie for the trip, with eight selected to go with all expenses paid. The remainder of the participants paid their own way.

The jubilee concluded on Palm Sunday with a special mass on St. Peter's Square. "One thing I learned is that there's no place like home," the young Catholic concluded.

Candidate forum on tap

Candidates for Deaf Smith County sheriff and constable along with state representative hopefuls are expected to appear at a final candidates forum night on Tuesday.

The 7 a.m. event, to be held in Hereford Community Center, will give candidates an opportunity to present prepared campaign speeches and answer questions from a panel of the legislative affairs committee of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce.

Supporters of the various candidates are encouraged to attend and display campaign posters. Questions can be submitted at Chamber of Commerce office prior to 4 p.m. on Monday.

Morgan one of 'Man' finalists

Barry Morgan, a West Texas State University senior from Hereford, was one of four finalists for WTSU's 1984 "Man of the Year."

The award was given to T.D. Hammons, a senior political science major from Lakin, Kan., who was one of 20 nominees.

The finalists were presented recently at the fifth annual All-University Honors Banquet, sponsored each year by the WTSU leadership board. It was hosted by Willie Hunsley of Amarillo in memory of her husband, Arch Hunsley, a Canyon businessman.

Morgan, a biology major, is a member of Tri Beta, the national biology honor society. He has also been a student senator, resident assistant and hall athletic director.

Morgan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Morgan, has also been named to the dean's list honor roll and has served as a student member of several university committees.

Commissioners to gather

Deaf Smith County Commissioners are to conduct a regularly-scheduled meeting at 10 a.m. Monday in the courthouse.

To be discussed are the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee, repairs on the county radio system, a cornerstone ceremony for the jail and pending litigation.

Nell Miller, county tax assessor-collector, is to talk about a $5 optional registration fee and Roland Saul, district attorney, is to address various 1984-1985 budget items. Sheriff's department radios are to be discussed by Ron Sanford of West Texas Rural Telephone.

In addition to a budget work session, commissioners are to also consider two resolutions. One concerns a grant for the Panhandle Regional Crime Unit while the other deals with joining the Panhandle Hi-Plains Agricultural Development Corporation.

Van Halen fans mob ticket office

DALLAS (AP) — Ticket sales for a Van Halen concert turned into a three-hour, beer bottle-throwing melee before about a crowd of about 2,000 fans was broken up by police and an attack dog, authorities said.

Police said off-duty police officers working as security guards were threatened by the crowd, which turned violent before sale of tickets for the July 16 concert was scheduled to begin at 4 a.m. Friday.

No serious injuries or damage were reported, but police said nine people were arrested for inciting a riot and disturbing the peace.

The incident prompted officials at Rainbow-Ticketmaster to suspend sales of the tickets and announce that they would be available only by mail order.

Network chief resigns over call

HOUSTON (AP) — John T. Riley Jr. resigned as operations manager of the Harris County emergency network a day after he was appointed when it was revealed that he made a bogus emergency call as a "practical joke" when he headed an emergency service in El Paso.

Riley confirmed Friday that he had called in a phony report of a shooting at an ambulance dispatcher's residence, meaning the call as a joke. Police were sent to the dispatcher's home before they could be told the call was a fake.

Laverne Hogan, executive director of the new Harris County network, summoned Riley to her office Friday after a published report said he had resigned his El Paso job last year, shortly after he made the prank call, the Houston Chronicle reported.

Twister hits Cooke County

A resident of a housing subdivision says a twister that rumbled through rural Cooke County destroyed mobile homes on two sides of her dwelling and injured her 8-year-old niece.

Cooke County sheriff's officers say four mobile homes were destroyed and 90 percent of residences in the Fred Roy Frank Estate were damaged Friday by the twister, which hit about 65 miles northwest of Dallas. Authorities reported at least four other funnel clouds in North Central and North Texas, but only minor damage resulted.

Carol Jean Smith was treated by the Cooke County Emergency Medical Services for multiple contusions and bruises at the scene and released, said EMS spokeswoman Nancy Watson.

The girl "was just sitting in a field behind where my brother-in-law's trailer used to sit," said Catherine Bowden, whose trailer home was spared by the twister.

Jackson to be a peacemaker

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson is predicting Democrats will have an open — but not fractional — national convention and says he would like to be a party healer rather than launch an independent presidential bid if he loses the nomination.

The Democratic presidential candidate said Friday that his mission is to strengthen and expand the Democratic Party rather than break off to initiate a third-party candidacy.

Fellow contenders for the nomination, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado and former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, are resting in Washington this weekend before hitting the campaign trail for the second half of primary season.

In a television interview late Friday, Jackson restated his peacemaker's theme. Asked if he would support the Democratic nominee, he said, "I certainly expect to."

Empire turns to bankruptcy court

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Charter Co., which only last year was ranked 61st on the Fortune 500 list, has filed for protection from its creditors as it reorganizes the remnants of its crumbling oil and insurance empire.

The conglomerate, which used to have several publishing holdings, filed a 2-foot stack of documents Friday seeking protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Covering mostly oil interests, the filing listed total assets of nearly $3.5 billion and liabilities of $1.8 billion for the Charter Co. and 43 of its more than 180 subsidiaries.

Under Chapter 11, a company asks for an order freeing it from the threat of lawsuits while attempting to reorganize its finances. Management activity must be approved by the court during reorganization.

"The Charter Co. has concluded that it must take prompt and decisive action to preserve its assets," Charter Chairman Raymond K. Mason said in a statement.

Britons may face protesters

LONDON (AP) — Libya has accused the British government of "provocative terrorist actions" against its embassy in London, hinting that the lives of the 8,000 Britons in Libya may be in danger if a standoff at the embassy drags on.

The Libyan foreign minister, Ali Abdussalam Treiki, presented a set of "counterproposals and suggestions" for ending the British siege of the Libyan mission in a meeting Friday in Tripoli with Oliver Miles, the British ambassador. No details were disclosed.

British police sharpshooters today maintained their siege of the embassy in St. James Square, where the trouble began Tuesday when a lone sniper in an embassy window opened fire on about 70 Libyan dissidents demonstrating in the square. A 25-year-old British policewoman was killed and 11 protesters were wounded.

The British Foreign Office said Miles' talk with Treiki on Friday was "constructive."

Rejects charges of dumping products

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The national iron and steel industry rejects charges it is "dumping" product in the United States, saying instead that an increase in exports is due to temporary economic conditions.

"It was possible to prove that Mexican exports of steel to the United States and other countries increased temporarily — especially in the past two years — because of the economic and market circumstances derived from the national and worldwide crisis," the National Chamber of the Iron and Steel Industry said in a statement.

"There were reflected in a spectacular fall in internal demand for iron and steel products," it said.

The statement was said to be in response to a decision by U.S. Steel to withdraw its charge that Mexican products compete unfairly in the United States.

Airport bombing may be linked to past violence

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — A bomb explosion that left 22 injured people "lying all over the floor like dolls" at London's Heathrow Airport may be linked to similar attacks on Libyan dissidents in Britain last month, a police official said today.

Two men were being questioned about Friday's blast, which wrecked the customs area at a terminal used by foreign airlines flying between European and Middle East points, said Cmdr. Bill Huckleby, chief of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad.

Huckleby declined to identify the men or to say whether the bombing might be connected to the standoff at the Libyan Embassy across town. Police today maintained their siege of the embassy, which started after a gunman in an embassy window sprayed submachine-gun fire on a crowd of Libyan dissidents Tuesday, killing a British policewoman and wounding 11 demonstrators.

Huckleby said he saw "similarities" between the airport bomb, containing 2 pounds of "commercial or possibly military explosives" and six devices planted in London on March 10. Twenty-three people were injured in the earlier bombings.

All the bombs contained similar amounts of explosives and each was detonated by a timer, he said.

Police have said the March 10 bombs apparently were aimed at Libyan exiles opposed to the regime of Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy.

At least 11 Libyan dissidents have been killed in Britain, West Germany, Greece and Lebanon and scores wounded since Khadafy warned exiles in 1980 they would be "liquidated" if they did not return to their North African homeland.

None of those injured in Friday's bombing were believed to be Libyan. Huckleby described the airport device as "a professional bomb and we suspect from the Middle East. The persons responsible could still be here or could have flown out to Libya or any other of the flights that took off from here."

The bomb was hidden in an unclaimed suitcase, one of six taken off a Libyan Arab Airlines Boeing 727 that landed at Heathrow 4½ hours earlier, airport workers said. It took off for Tripoli, the Libyan capital, an hour before the blast.

Huckleby noted, however, there had been 80 flights in and out of Europe's busiest airport in the hours preceding the explosion. Most of the passengers in Terminal 2 when the bomb detonated were believed to have come off an Air Italia jet from Rome.

The bomb exploded in the baggage claim area on the first floor of the terminal, police said. About 60 passengers and airport staff were in the area.

The blast blew out partitions, brought down the ceiling and buckled metal beams. It fractured water pipes, sending fountains of spray over the crumpled, bloodstained casualties.

"It was complete carnage," said an airport worker who was in the terminal. "There was blood splattered on the floor ... and people screaming ... lying all over the floor like dolls."

Passengers in other parts of the terminal ran screaming with luggage-laden trolleys.

A metal baggage carousel "took most of the blast and shielded the rest of the hall," said Gary May, a British Airports Authority spokesman.

Search resumes for submerged victims

FREEPORT, Texas (AP)

Brazoria County authorities said they would continue today searching the murky waters of East Union Bayou, where four bodies were recovered from their vehicles near a treacherous highway curve.

"The divers quit looking when they found the last car — the one we were originally looking for," Brazoria County Sheriff's Sgt. Harry Stiles said Friday night. "But there could still be more. We'll go back to look."

Divers pulled the bodies of two men and two women from the bayou late Friday after a crab fisherman saw a man's body surface in the bayou, near the Farm-to-Market Road 523 bridge just inside the Freeport city limits.

Stiles identified the victims as Sam G. Hall, 33, and Cathy Jaye Stewart, 36, both of Brazoria; Roma Alexia Gibson, 25, of Freeport; and James Clay, 30, of Lake Jackson.

Autopsies were being performed on the victims to determine the exact cause of death, said Stiles.

"We think they were intoxicated, missed the curve and drove into the water," said Stiles. "We suspect that they were all traffic accidents."

The cars, stacked up on top of each other, were still in gear and keys were in the ignition, he said.

He said three fire department divers began looking a vehicle missing from Freeport and a woman after Hall's body was sighted. But they instead found three other automobiles, two of which also contained bodies.

All the victims were pronounced dead by Peace Justice Roy Knopp of Klute, who ordered the autopsies.

All the vehicles apparently missed a slight curve on the northbound approach to the bayou bridge and went over a three-foot embankment into 12 to 16 feet of water, said Freeport Police Capt. Charles Wagner.

Lake Jackson Police Lt. Robert Turner said divers first found the car containing the body of Clay. He had been reported missing on Oct. 30, 1980, said Police Chief P.C.

Miller. Clay was last seen at a Freeport tavern and was headed toward Surfside on FM 523, Miller said.

Stiles said divers recovered an empty Cadillac that had been in the water for about three years, and then found a sedan containing Ms. Gibson's body. She had been missing since Nov. 27, Stiles said, when she was last seen in a Freeport bar.

The sheriff's officer said the last car found by divers at 8:47 p.m. was that of Hall, and contained Ms. Stewart's body.

Hall was last seen in a Freeport bar March 27 and was heading toward Oyster Creek, Stiles said.

Case probed

Did copter venture into country?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials at the Army's European headquarters in Stuttgart, West Germany, are investigating whether a U.S. Army helicopter on a routine border mission ventured into Czechoslovakian air space when it was fired on by two Soviet-built warplanes.

The U.S. Cobra helicopter was not hit Friday by the rocket and cannon fire fired from the planes of "unknown nationality." It returned safely to its home station in West Germany, officials said.

The Pentagon issued a brief statement about the incident, saying that it occurred at 7:40 a.m. EST (2:40 p.m. local time) and was under investigation.

Whether the helicopter flew across the border into Czechoslovakia or the MiG warplanes entered West German air space was not immediately known.

Bernd Duering, a West German border policeman, said in a telephone interview from Frankfurt, West Germany, that he believed the helicopter was in Czech territory when the shooting occurred, but not by more than six miles.

When asked if it was easy to stray off course in that region, he said, "It depends. If they hadn't been trained in the area, perhaps. But if they knew the territory they wouldn't have made that mistake. It doesn't happen often."

The Pentagon said the incident, his spokesmen said. All questions were referred to the Defense Department.

A Pentagon official said "it's been a long time" since an incident of this sort has occurred along the border separating the Soviet bloc from Western Europe.

Available records suggest that the last such episode took place more than 20 years ago when a Russian fighter shot down a U.S. Air Force RB-66 reconnaissance plane which strayed into East Germany. That plane was downed on March 10, 1964 about 30 miles inside East Germany and the three crewmen survived.

The Cobra is a single-engine attack helicopter which normally carries a crew of two. Some advanced versions of the chopper are armed with TOW anti-tank missiles, 20mm cannon and 2.75-inch rockets.

MiGs are Soviet-built fighters but they are flown not only by the Soviets but also by pilots of Warsaw Pact air forces.

During Easter weekend

Snow, tornadoes make appearance

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

A huge storm blasted much of the nation today with 18-inch snows halting Easter travel in the Rockies, thunderstorms spewing hail and tornadoes from west Texas to Arkansas and heavy rain trapping people in their cars in Missouri.

A tornado killed a camper and injured at least four other people in Lake Canton, Okla., on Friday, and an 8-year-old girl was left sitting in a field where a mobile home had been when a twister ripped through Valley View, Texas.

In Colorado, where ranchers unable to reach young livestock predicted heavy losses of lambs and calves, up to 2 feet of snow was expected before skies began to clear Sunday. But southern Texas was roasting in record heat that hit 106 Friday in Del Rio.

"It's crazy," Bill Sammler, of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said this morning. He called it "a vicious storm" that "spanned the seasons."

Flash flood warnings were up today in Kansas and Missouri as the storm's center moved eastward from central Oklahoma. By early today the rain covered half of Illinois and was spreading into Kentucky and western Indiana. Nebraska had 8 inches of snow at Big Spring, and up to 5 inches had fallen in western Kansas.

Tornado warnings remained in effect for the early morning in western Arkansas. A 76 mph gust damaged nine airplanes and forced evacuation of the control tower at the Fort Smith municipal airport Friday.

Wyoming's highway patrol closed numerous roads, including Interstate 80 between Cheyenne and Laramie, and urged people not to travel today except in emergencies. In one 45-minute period Friday the patrol received reports of seven accidents.

Flights out of Denver's Stapleton International Airport were being delayed three to four hours.

CASE

Lozano and allocating $40,000 to certified members of the "class" who register claims against the state.

"State DPS conduct is what precipitated this lawsuit in the first place," Smith maintained. "When the attorney general's office agreed to pay the plaintiffs, that made it much more difficult for the county to defend its position."

Smith said there were some valid judicial issues, especially concerning the county's liability in the case, that could have been debated in court, "but now everything has been done by agreement."

Despite his gripe with the state, Smith said the agreement is still the best thing for the county. White agreed.

"More defense would mean more attorney's fees, and a chance of losing," Smith explained. "What the state did is not right, so what we're really doing is compromising a wrong."

White said their concern has been to protect the county. "We can't afford to break the county on something we're not immune from," he said.

As for the injunctive issues, attorneys agreed on a stipulation that if accepted in federal court would prohibit county law enforcement authorities from questioning persons (including those stopped, arrested or detained on state charges) about their "nationality, national origin, place of birth, or concerning their right to be or to remain in the United States."

The county would also not be allowed to make arrests for suspected violation of civil or misdemeanor criminal immigration laws. However, it would have the authority to detain anyone suspected of a felony criminal violation of the immigration and naturalization act.

Felony violations, according to Smith, include illegal entry after already being deported one or more times, transporting aliens and smuggling aliens.

The stipulation as drawn up would also keep local officers from notifying the Immigration and Naturalization Service "concerning persons who are in county custody and also suspected of being in the United States in violation of civil or misdemeanor criminal immigration laws."

Again, the county could notify the INS if the person being held was suspected of a felony violation of the act, provided a copy of the message is kept for the suspect's jail booking record and that he not be held longer than 24 hours while authorities wait for an INS officer to show up.

With reference to the alleged incident in August of 1979, the ruling would stop county law enforcement officers from "accepting custody of or incarcerating in county detention facilities persons in the custody of other state or local law enforcement officers if the person... is held solely on charges or violation of civil or misdemeanor criminal immigration laws, unless there is proof that the person is being held pursuant to a valid, federal warrant."

The county would be allowed to hold federal prisoners brought to the jail by federal officers, make arrests under the terms of a valid federal warrant, or arrest or incarcerate a person "without a warrant for felony criminal violations of the immigration laws when there is probable cause to believe that such felonious conduct has occurred and if there is likelihood of the person escaping before a warrant can be obtained for his arrest."

Likewise, nothing would stop the county from responding to requests for assistance from the INS, provided officers do not act as agents or employees of INS, and that they conduct only activities for which they have authority under state, civil or criminal statutes.

Finally, the agreement would set down specific rules governing how people suspected of immigration act violations are treated while in custody and the kind of book-keeping procedures required.

Step forward

The Brand had two big headlines this week on announcements by Hereford Senior Citizens Association and by Hereford YMCA that large "challenge" grants had been approved for them by the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Ok.

That kind of news may be put inside another newspaper, but we think it's important enough to report on the front page in this community. The two grants, providing $50,000 and $75,000 if the organizations come up with like amounts, should help put both building campaigns over the goal.

The campaigns to build these two facilities mark a real step forward for this community. Since its inception in 1976, the YMCA has done a great service in providing many programs with little physical plant from which to operate.

Hereford has always been a generous community in finding money for youth programs, but we've probably overlooked that growing segment of the population we call "senior citizens." Our average age in the United States, and in Hereford, is climbing upward. As these older citizens retire and move out of active job situations, they need worthwhile programs to occupy their time and energies. And many of them need a place to get a well-balanced meal at least once a day.

While the Mabee grants provide a big boost to both building programs, they also provide a challenge for the rest of us in the community to assure that these grants are "made good."

The Senior Citizens and the YMCA get the grants if we show support by raising like amounts. It's a deal we can't refuse; we must make sure that both projects are a success!

The man who plants shade trees and flowers and builds a sidewalk is increasing in value every piece of property in town. Likewise the man who allows his place to go to rack is a hindrance to the town.

The First State Bank of Hereford filed an amendment to its charter changing its name to the First State Bank and Trust Co. of Hereford and increasing its capital stock from $30,000 to $100,000.

The amended charter will enable the bank to transact a certain line of business not heretofore permitted under the old charter and too the increased capital will give a larger credit and enlarge the field of usefulness.

Prospects of Deaf Smith County's having Highway 33 paved were considerably enhanced Tuesday with the announcement from Washington that the relief administration and Texas Highway Department had reached an agreement on expenditure of the $8,900,000 special road fund that has been "lost" since last September.

Official confirmation that Deaf Smith County has been added to the list of counties in which, because of drought or other conditions, the minimum planting requirements of the wheat reduction contracts may be waived was received from Washington Monday.

Between 300 and 400 young baseball aspirants are expected to be on hand for Little League try-outs next week, according to president Earl Stagner.

Bands from Hereford High School and Stanton Junior High School received excellent or better ratings this week at the annual Interscholastic League Region XI band competition at West Texas State College in Canyon. Both bands were under the direction of Charles Bell, high school band instructor.

Las Vegas, N.M. authorities this week arrested two persons believed to be implicated in the burglary of Stanton Junior High School here April 8.

Despite a lack of moisture and ill effects from high winds and dust, there is still plenty of room for optimism on the area agriculture scene, it was indicated by County Agent, Justin McBride.

The new county library, fast nearing completion, will have a "finished" basement area, it was decided by Deaf Smith County Commissioners during a regular meeting Monday.

A safety project aimed at eliminating the danger of discarded refrigerators and freezers will be conducted Saturday by the Hereford Jaycees and the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department.

Former Hereford Mayor Bartley Dowell was awarded the Hereford Bull Chip Award to highlight activities at the Chamber of Commerce bi-monthly fun breakfast this morning at the Community Center.

Calling for a return to "the simple values we learned in this small town," Sen. John H. Glenn returned to his hometown today to declare his candidacy for President of the United States.

Political parties change, principles endure

WASHINGTON - If you walk into a McDonald's Restaurant in New York City or Tucson or Paris and order a Big Mac and fries, you know exactly what you will get. Advertising and the development of brand names for goods and services provide a great deal of information to consumers guaranteeing quality and consistency.

The use of trademarks or trade names works well for restaurants, designer jeans and hotels.

But what happens when we walk into the polling booth on Election Day, November 6, 1984, and see before us the names of candidates for federal, state and local office, and they are labeled Republicans and Democrats? Just what do those party labels mean?

Looking at the present Congress we can answer, "very little."

There are Republicans who support higher government spending and feel they should be the tax collectors for the liberal welfare programs, and there are some Democrats who truly believe in limited government and economic freedom and growth. The two parties may have tendencies in one direction or the other, but neither party demonstrates a consistent commitment to one principle.

Perhaps this is why the number of Americans who consider themselves Independents has been steadily increasing for years. Why belong to a party if it doesn't mean anything? That the parties have become ideologically impotent also leads to crossover voting. For instance, voters who wish to vote for low-tax, pro-growth candidates can select politicians of both parties. To vote a straight party ticket only guarantees that some rotten apples will sneak in with the good.

Imagine for a moment that you patronized an ice cream shop, and whenever you ordered vanilla, the clerk handed you a chocolate ice cream cone. Well, that is what has been happening to the American people when they vote for politicians who promise one thing and deliver the opposite. It is time for fundamental reform.

In fairness to American voters, and in the spirit of truth-in-advertising laws, the two parties should decide that one of them will be the low-tax, limited government party, and the other will represent the high-tax, big-government position. The conservatives within the Democratic party and the liberals within the Republican Party should either convert the majority faction of their respective parties or leave and join their philosophical soul mates in the other party.

Which party will become the low-tax party? (And I confidently predict that that party will win future elections hands-down).

The Penultimate Word

THE MOON DID IT

Some scientist announced last week that the moon and the tides have an effect on our mental state. Crazy people are crazier when the moon is full. Science fiction has been telling us this for years. Next thing you know they will discover a werewolf in some swamp and we will be in a heap of trouble.

I have always known there were cycles in life. My problem has always been getting my cycles in sync with the rest of the world. My bio has no rhythm.

When I was a kid, there seemed to be a season for everything. Somehow everyone just knew when to change the seasons. There was a season for spinning tops. As if by a miracle, everyone would show up with a top and the playground became the olympics of top spinning and spiking. Suddenly there would be no more tops and everyone had yoyos. Then the yoyos would be gone and marbles were the rage. I was always out of step. If everyone had tops, I had a yoyo. I thought it was marble time right after the first snow.

I am still out of sync. I am about ready for serious football watching right after the Super Bowl. Now, they have me really confused. I get out of the mood for football before the USFL starts. Now I want to watch snow skiing. Do you suppose I am hooked up to the wrong moon?

One thing this "new" discovery will do for me! It will give me a scientific basis for blame. I have never been too comfortable blaming everything on the Devil. If he causes all of the clitches in my life, he is working overtime just on me alone. Now I can become a new kind of victim. I can say, "The moon made me do it."

I find it funny that science would agree with something that was considered an old-wives tale. Who knows what they will discover next. They may find that asphidity worn around the neck will war off the flue. Or, they may find out that chicken soup is the only cure for whatever ails us. Now that would be a kick.

I heard about a Jewish mother who bought two chickens. When one of the chickens became ill, she did what any good Jewish mother would do. She killed the healthy chicken to make chicken soup for the sick one.

Next thing you know, they will tell us—it worked!

Farmers refined art of 'make-do'

If cave men invented the art of "make-do," it was refined by farmers.

And to this day, nobody more than a farmer knows how to "make-do" with whatever he has. He'll improvise a fence-puller from a hank of wire and a hickory limb, a horseshoe from a hunk of car tire, an ax handle from a persimmon sprout — and he'll make harnesses out of hay wire, feed sacks and shoe parts.

Leastwise, he used to. Farmers, like the rest of us, have lost their genius for improvisation in direct proportion to the availability of store-bought implements and hired mechanics.

But east of Hickman in Lancaster County, Nebraska, is a father-and-son farm of 2,000 acres where Dale and Todd Harlan still know how to make-do.

When they need a farm implement, they invent it. Todd Harlan thought pig feeding with a wheelbarrow and bucket was a tedious waste of time, so he automated it. He invented what he calls a "Choreboy."

On wheels it moves among the farrowing pens, dispensing balanced ration automatically.

Nobody likes to stir manure — yet it has to be stirred to ripen and digest itself. So the Harlans invented a lagoon manure stirrer.

They designed and built their own field cultivator.

During the Nebraska drought of the last two years, just being an efficient farmer was not good enough. Profitable farming required efficiency-plus.

So the Harlans adapted to their 1480 International Combine a 12-row air planter.

"When in the world do you find time both to manufacture and to farm?" I asked.

Todd said, "This is what we do on rainy days."

And this year's long winter gave them time to invent and build "The Amazing Bean Machine."

From scrap iron, propane tanks and an old grain dryer — and 1,300 hours — Dale and Todd built a machine which, right out in the field, cooks soybeans, vaporizes the oil, converts raw beans into more palatable high-protein stock feed.

What's next: A double-crop planter with which the Harlans can combine wheat and plant beans at the same time! I've not heard of more ingenious improvisors since LeTorneau than the Harlans of Hickman, Nebraska. I hope they get rich. But then, in the ways that count, they already are.

Dear editor:

Thank you so much for letting our second graders tour your workrooms and offices. A special thanks to our guides, who were most kind in explaining everything so thoroughly.

The students commented on how interesting it was and how much they enjoyed to learn how the newspaper was printed. Enclosed are a few notes of appreciation from my second graders.

I take this opportunity to wish Mr. Nieman and his staff a joyous Easter.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says nature didn't make us perfect, but at least she had the kindness to make us blind to our faults.

Unless principle restrains selfishness, there is no hope for a person, nation or a world.

The political pot is boiling on the local scene, especially in the races for sheriff and county commissioners.

We believe, however, that some folks are letting their pots "boil over" in the sheriff's campaign. At the newspaper office, we've heard charges and counter-charges; and some of the "flak" we get is ridiculous.

An unidentified lady called Friday afternoon to ask why we didn't have a story on Joe Brown's signs being stolen. We responded that there was such a report in the paper. "Oh, that was just a little mention in the police report with no pictures," she chided. On another day, we'd received a call almost as silly from a Dean Butcher supporter.

Let me be quick to explain that neither the candidates nor the campaign managers have complained to us about the news coverage. In fact, they have apologized for some of the remarks made by supporters.

With the heated races, we've heard some folks around town complaining about their freedom of speech. You can argue with a man about his choice for President, says one local citizen, but if you disagree with him on the choice for sheriff, you might be threatened with a boycott of your business.

It makes for a sad situation when some folks can't agree to disagree. We've noticed that kind of atmosphere with some people on the subject of Deaf Smith County being a possible site for the high-level nuclear waste repository.

No one is going around trying to get public support for putting the repository here, but it's no secret that some citizens think it would be safe and would benefit the local economy.

Personally, we think there are bound to be some isolated, wasteland sites somewhere that would be better for a repository than rich farmland. We doubt that our salt domes are better than anyone else's, but we don't know that for sure. We do know that we should be reasonable while disagreeing.

And, if they should pick our county for that "lemon," we'll just have to resolve to make lemonade!

Bootleg Philosopher Ineffective Congressmen

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm has a good word to say for Congress, sort of.

Dear editor:

Some people are always criticizing Congress. From time to time I've poked a little fun at it myself.

"Congress can't get anything done," some people say, "It's too ineffective, too slow. Takes it a month to do half a day's work."

Anybody who thinks along that line ought to read an article I read last night. According to it, in the 10 years from 1972 to 1982, Congressmen from all 50 states introduced 87,000 pieces of legislation. That's an average of 8,500 a year.

Now that of 87,000 proposed laws, only 3,600 were passed, for an average of 360 a year.

Have you stopped to think that if Congress had been 100 percent effective, we'd now have 87,000 new laws instead of 9,600?

What this country needs is more ineffective Congressmen.

Of course, there's another side to this. Had Congress gone ahead and passed the full 87,000 pieces of legislation, it might have been at a rate faster than lawyers could figure out how you can get around them. Special TV movie honest about faith

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Movies often lampoon religion, conveying uninformed, warped notions about it and its clergy and in general making travesties of its realities. But an unusual, new television drama treats the subject with verve — and honesty.

The reason for that may be because the film is about a specific, living and internationally powerful Christian figure, Pope John Paul II, the supreme pastor of worldwide Roman Catholicism.

Making a movie about a pope, and particularly a current one, is unprecedented for the film industry, but it now has been done in a three-hour CBS television film to be shown Easter Sunday evening.

The production is not a documentary, tied to exact factual details, but it is a sound and vivid dramatization of the life and times of Karol Wojtyla of Poland up to the time of his elevation to the papacy.

While the movie adds some theatrical flourishes and appropriate emotional atmosphere, it adheres closely to the biographical record of the man whose background has plenty of high drama in it without making it up.

The movie is not preachy, but mirrors faith lived in a tough time for it. Also, there seems to be something fitting in making a movie about a pope who once aspired to acting himself and who is such a master on stage.

Producer Alvin Cooperman says scriptwriter Christopher Knopf had guidance for biographical accuracy from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, and thus presumably the approval of the Vatican, possibly a papal reading.

British actor Albert Finney makes his American TV debut in the title role of the pope in his mature years, somewhat resembling him, taking on his gestures and manners, but not quite matching his hardy naturalness.

Young British actor Michael Crompton plays him in the buoyant and also dangerous days of his youth.

The movie shifts back and forth between the Vatican conclave that elected John Paul II and his earlier years in Poland.

They are packed with the tumult and travail of World War II, the terror of the Nazi occupation, the coming of the Soviet army and installation of a communist regime, with which the future pope tangles toughly but astutely.

Generally, the story has authenticity. It is in Wojtyla's ministry that the moving religious elements come into play, first when he was a parish priest, concentrating on shoring up the faith of young people under an atheistic communist government.

The first woman to be elected to the U.S. Senate was Hattie Ophelia Wyatt Caraway, who served from 1932 until 1945, representing Arkansas.

CANCER ANSWER LINE

M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

American Cancer Society

QUESTION:

What is a baseline mammogram?

ANSWERline: A baseline mammogram is an initial X ray of the breast which can be used as a source of comparison for any future mammograms a woman might have. A baseline can enable a physician to evaluate properly any changes in breast tissue that may show up on subsequent mammograms, and which may indicate early breast cancer. The American Cancer Society advises women to have a baseline mammogram between the ages of 35 and 40. Starting at age 40, women should have mammograms performed at one to two year intervals. After age 50, women should receive yearly mammograms.

QUESTION: How soon after a mastectomy can a woman have breast reconstruction?

ANSWERline: The timing of reconstruction will differ for each individual case, based on health considerations as well as the psychological readiness of the patient. A woman should discuss all aspects of reconstruction with her plastic surgeon and general surgeon before a decision is made. In some medical centers, the mastectomy and insertion of the breast implant are combined in one operation. More commonly though, reconstruction is postponed for a period of convalescence—usually three or more months after the mastectomy. If a woman is to undergo radiation therapy and/or chemotherapy, reconstruction is delayed until these treatments are completed.

Public Notice

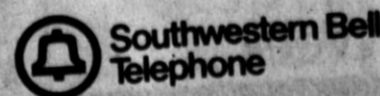

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with rules and orders promulgated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of a public hearing to begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 14, 1984, in the offices of the Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, concerning proposals made by the company to add three optional services and delete two services from the list of local exchange services available to its Texas customers.

Proposed additions to the local exchange tariffs include an optional Local Measured Service under which all residence customers and single-line business customers could pay monthly rates less than flat rate for one-party service, with an additional charge for each completed outgoing call to be determined by the time of day, distance and duration of each call; and a subsidized LIFELINE local service to be made available to qualified individuals, as determined by the Public Utility Commission. The monthly rate for LIFELINE service would include an allowance of 25 outgoing calls per month, plus a charge for each additional call.

Proposed for deletion from the local exchange tariffs are one-element measured service offerings for residence customers and single-line business customers, but current customers would not be affected.

The company does not anticipate that these additional services will result in an increase in revenue to Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Las adiciones propuestas al arancel del servicio telefónico local incluyen un Servicio Medido Local opcional según el cual todos los clientes residenciales y los clientes comerciales con línea única pagarían tarifas mensuales menores que la tarifa fija para servicios de línea única, con un cargo adicional por cada llamada completa efectuada desde ese teléfono, establecido según la hora, la distancia y la duración de cada llamada; así como un servicio local subvencionado de LIFELINE que estaría disponible para determinadas personas, según lo establezca la Comisión de Servicios Públicos. La tarifa mensual para el servicio de LIFELINE incluiría 25 llamadas mensuales con un cargo adicional por cada llamada en exceso de 25.

Se propone suprimir del arancel del servicio telefónico local las opciones de servicio medido de un elemento para clientes residenciales y clientes comerciales con línea única, pero esto no afectaría a los clientes actuales.

Key Club honored at convention

Hereford Key Club members returned this past weekend from the 35th annual Texas-Oklahoma District Convention in Dallas with a number of awards and honors, according to Gene Brock, faculty advisor.

The club won three awards, while individual honors went to Stefan Hacker, Scott Hamby and Kari Maddox.

The Hereford club took a second-place trophy in the Single-Service Project, and a second place in the Activities and Service Report. The club was also rated 7th among the 270 clubs in the district on the monthly report of activities.

The local Single Service Project involved the club's work in helping relocate the Hereford Satellite center. Key Club members spent hours in cleaning the new facility, moving furniture and equipment, building a fence, presenting the center with a storage building, making letters for the front of the new center, and helping with an Open House.

Kari Maddox, club sweetheart, was named first runner-up in the District Sweetheart contest. She was one of 12 finalists chosen to compete in the district contest, where some 2,000 Key Club members were in assembly.

Hacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hacker, was officially installed as lieutenant governor of Division 33, and will serve for the 1984-85 year. He will supervise clubs in Amarillo, Canyon, Dimmitt, Tulla and Hereford.

Hamby, local club secretary, was named to the Top Twenty Secretaries of the district. This is based on promptness in reporting, neatness, and completeness of the monthly reports. He also entered the district talent contest and performed a piano solo. He was named one of the five finalists.

Following the convention Sunday, the group went to Six Flags, then returned to Hereford Monday. Attending were 43 Key Clubbers, sweetheart Kari and her mother, Mrs. Wanda Cobb, and fine Kiwanis sponsors. Kiwanians included Brock, Bill Igal, Roger Eades, R.C. Hoelscher and Wayne Winget.

HHS students receive 'H' awards during assembly

Following is a list of the Hereford High School students who received "H" awards this year. According to Marilyn Leasure of HHS, the recipients were selected by department heads from names submitted to them by all other high school teachers. The awards, she said, have been given for at least 20 years.

CORN PRODUCERS WILL HAVE A NEW ROOTWORM weapon this year, and lose another chemical, due to some unforeseen problems last year. One thing for sure, however, the fight against rootworm will still be on, no matter how many weapons are conceived, introduced or perfected. Chemical rootworm control has come a long way and, in most cases, is effective. But an extension entomologist at the University of Illinois says that the best and cheapest way to control rootworm is crop rotation. Corn following soybeans, he says, rarely needs rootworm control. He points out, however, that fields having more than 5,000 volunteer corn plants per acre in soybeans than the year before will probably require treatment. His research shows in-furrow treatment is less effective than banded treatment.

County Commissioner
VOTE RON CRIST

STRAIGHT TALK TODAY'S ISSUE
In the next few days I'm going to state my stand on a few issues that have been of concern to a lot of people. This question was asked of the candidates running for Commissioner of Deaf Smith County in the forum held April 17th, 1984, at the Chamber of Commerce. This question was asked in two parts, these being:
No. 1. Would you allow dances at the Bull Barn?
No. 2. Don't you think that $1,500.00 is too high for a deposit? Deposits of most activities at the Bull Barn cost $100.00. Dance deposits are $1,500.00.

ANSWER TO QUESTION No. 1
No. I would not allow dances at the County Bull Barn, the reason being: there are very few dances held at the County Bull Barn, and it is not worth the hassle, time and division that they have caused. We have put up with this problem for too long already.

ANSWER TO PART TWO OF QUESTION No. 1
$1,500.00 too high? Why do we think it was set at that amount in the first place? It was because some unruly groups were tearing up the place. This abuse and destruction was being paid for by you, the taxpayer, in man hours and tax dollars. Any group of people, usually 100 or more, can raise $1,500.00, knowing full well, that if the dance is held with order, and without destruction, they will get their money back the very next morning. Furthermore, if these dances can't be held without this abuse and destruction, I would set the deposit up to $2,500.00, and be certain that it would cover the damages, should there be any.

GOOD BUSINESS REQUIRES COMMON SENSE
Let's quit second guessing the actions and decisions of our Commissioners that were hired to take care of these problems for us.

Thank You,
Ron Crist

Supreme Court race takes on nasty tone

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Two Texas Supreme Court candidates who are slugging it out in a nasty campaign say they are not pleased with how the race has developed.

"I really wish it had not come to what it has," said incumbent C.L. Ray.

"That kind of politics is totally inappropriate for a judicial race," said Shelby Sharpe of Fort Worth, a challenger in the May 5 Democratic primary.

Nevertheless, they punch and jab. The Ray-Sharpe race is the loudest in an off-year statewide ballot that has produced little other political noise.

Texans this year pick a railroad commissioner, three Supreme Court justices, including a chief justice, and three Court of Criminal Appeals justices.

The most famous name on the ballot probably is John Hill, former secretary of state, attorney general and surprise loser in the 1978 gubernatorial election. Hill wants to be chief justice of the Supreme Court, Sears McGee, his opponent in the Democratic primary, says he can't "imagine" Hill on the high court.

"I really think he is running for governor," said McGee.

But if Hill wins the seat, McGee won't have to imagine Hill on the Supreme Court. He'll see him every Wednesday when the nine justices are seated to hand down decisions. McGee now holds one of the nine seats, and doesn't have to give it up to make the chief justice race.

Hill denies that his ambitions go beyond the courts building adjacent to the Capitol.

"Let me say this about any future governor's race. If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve," he said when he announced.

The Hill-McGee winner moves to a November campaign against John Bates of Waco, unopposed in the GOP primary. The November winner will replace Chief Justice Jack Pope, who is not seeking another term.

In the Sharpe-Ray race, both camps have invoked the name of Don Yarbrough, a former Supreme Court justice now in prison for perjury. Yarbrough, a political unknown, was elected in 1976, before his legal troubles were known.

Ray brings up Yarbrough when mentioning that Sharpe has no judicial experience.

"The people of Texas have got to know that my opponent from Fort Worth is not the kind of guy we ought to have on the Supreme Court," said Ray. "This man has no experience. If they aren't careful they could wind up with another Don Yarbrough."

Campaign spokesman H. Ross Perot, Dallas businessperson and chairperson of the governor's Texas Select Committee on Public Education, will address the Regional School Board Workshop at West Texas State University, Wednesday, April 25.

The workshop is sponsored by the WTSU College of Education, Region XVI

Richard Jenson said the Ray campaign does not mean to imply that Sharpe is likely to wind up in prison as did Yarbrough.

"We are equating only the fact that Shelby Sharpe is a total unknown and so was Don Yarbrough," Jenson said.

Sharpe also mentioned Yarbrough while talking about the need to do away with elected judges. Ray supports election to the bench, but Sharpe said it is a system fraught with problems.

"There's no question this is not the best way to do it," he said. "You have an electorate that is uninformed. When you have an uninformed electorate the vote is dangerous. That's the way you have somebody like a Don Yarbrough."

Ray opened his attack early. A few days after Sharpe entered the race, Ray said a "small group was raising funds for his opponent to buy a seat on the state's highest court."

"The same group that wants judges to be appointed, instead of elected, is trying to raise funds to gain control of a seat on the Supreme Court," he said.

Despite the charges and responses, Sharpe said the campaign probably has not hit home with many Texans.

"The voters have never heard of either one of us," he said.

El Paso lawyer Texas Ward is the third Democrat on the ballot. There are no Republican candidates.

Supreme Court Justice Franklin Spears, a Democrat, is unopposed for re-election.

The Court of Criminal Appeals races include a seven-man scramble for one vacancy.

The lone Railroad Commission race has no contested primaries. The only contestants are incumbent Democrat Mack Wallace and Republican John Thomas Henderson of Austin.

Lose 21-17 to CHS

Herd knocked out of 3-5A race

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

For all practical purposes Hereford's boys varsity baseball team was eliminated from any chance of entering the playoffs in the District 3-5A baseball race here Friday.

Third-place Lubbock Coronado outlasted HHS, 21-17, in a game tempered by wind gusts which were reported to be 65 miles per hour.

"We're still going to go out and play every game to win," varsity baseball coach Don Long said when asked what he wanted to accomplish with the three remaining games yet to be played.

"I'd like to finish the season winning the next three," Long said.

With the wind, for the most part, blowing hard out to centerfield, hitters had a field day. Coronado banged out 18 hits and the Whitefaces added 15 to account for a score which resembled that of a football game more than baseball.

The wind also created havoc for outfielders who accounted for most of the 14 errors committed by both teams.

"I knew it would be a high-scoring game. It's that way whenever the wind blows that hard in that direction

MARATHON

NEW YORK (AP) - The first mini-marathon exclusively for girls aged 6 and under will be held in Central Park here May 13.

The Little L'eggs run will be over a one-quarter of a mile course.

(straight out to centerfield)," Long said.

There was some irony with the contest. When HHS played Coronado in Lubbock last month, the game turned into a pitching duel and was won by CHS 1-0. Long said there was a strong wind there but it was blowing in instead of out.

But pitchers here Friday had to work hard against the wind and hitters were able to get around on fastballs.

"The velocity (of the pitchers) was way off. I'd bet the wind took 15 mph off of the fastballs," according to Long.

Mickey Stengel started the contest and gave way to Chet Bunch in the fourth with the score 9-7 in favor of the Herd.

The Mustangs erupted for six runs against Bunch to go up 13-9 and did not trail after that. Ronnie Collier came in to pitch in the fifth and finished the game.

"Passed balls and wild pitches were a big factor" in Hereford's loss Long said because "that enabled them to get their runners into scoring position.

Big sticks for the Herd included Robert Martinez, Charles White and J.D. High, who accounted for 12 of HHS' 17 runs.

Martinez went 3-3 and scored three runs. White went 3-4 including two triples, scored three runs and also knocked in two. High had the most productive day as he belted three hits, scored five runs and also had five RBI.

The Herd's district record fell to 7-6 while Coronado lifted its to 9-3. Monterey is 12-0, Plainview is 10-2 in the district race.

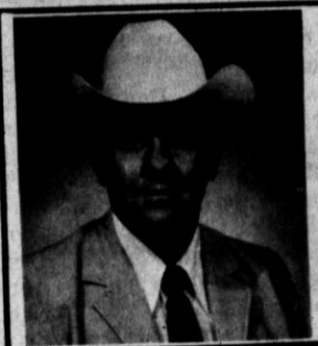

Hereford's junior varsity squad ended its season this week with a 10-8 victory over Plainview.

Rodney Torres pitched the complete game as the JVers went 5-0 in district play, according to JV coach T.R. Sartor. Stephan Hacker, Torres,

Jerry Brown and Curtis Cotten are some of the players who Sartor said played well this season.

Both of these duties are highly complex in administration and must be handled with expertise. Whiteface coach Don Long has a few choice words with the home plate umpire after Charles White was ruled out trying to score from third on a wild pitch in the seventh

Supreme Court race takes on nasty tone

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Two Texas Supreme Court candidates who are slugging it out in a nasty campaign say they are not pleased with how the race has developed.

"I really wish it had not come to what it has," said incumbent C.L. Ray.

"That kind of politics is totally inappropriate for a judicial race," said Shelby Sharpe of Fort Worth, a challenger in the May 5 Democratic primary.

Nevertheless, they punch and jab. The Ray-Sharpe race is the loudest in an off-year statewide ballot that has produced little other political noise.

Texans this year pick a railroad commissioner, three Supreme Court justices, including a chief justice, and three Court of Criminal Appeals justices.

The most famous name on the ballot probably is John Hill, former secretary of state, attorney general and surprise loser in the 1978 gubernatorial election. Hill wants to be chief justice of the Supreme Court. Sears McGee, his opponent in the Democratic primary, says he can't "imagine" Hill on the high court.

But if Hill wins the seat, McGee won't have to imagine Hill on the Supreme Court. He'll see him every Wednesday when the nine justices are seated to hand down decisions. McGee now holds one of the nine seats, and doesn't have to give it up to make the chief justice race.

Richard Jenson said the Ray campaign does not mean to imply that Sharpe is likely to wind up in prison as did Yarbrough.

"We are equating only the fact that Shelby Sharpe is a total unknown and so was Don Yarbrough," Jenson said.

Sharpe also mentioned Yarbrough while talking about the need to do away with elected judges. Ray supports election to the bench, but Sharpe said it is a system fraught with problems.

"There's no question this is not the best way to do it," he said. "You have an electorate that is uninformed. When you have an uninformed electorate the vote is dangerous. That's the way you have somebody like a Don Yarbrough."

Sharpe has trained his attack on Ray's "really questionable ethics," including, according to Sharpe, improper contacts with lawyers who have cases pending at the Supreme Court.

Ray opened his attack early. A few days after Sharpe entered the race, Ray said a "small group was raising funds for his opponent to buy a seat on the state's highest court."

"The same group that wants judges to be appointed, instead of elected, is trying to raise funds to gain control of a seat on the Supreme Court," he said.

Despite the charges and responses, Sharpe said the campaign probably has not hit home with many Texans.

The Court of Criminal Appeals races include a seven-man scramble for one vacancy.

"Let me say this about any future governor's race. If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve," he said when he announced.

In the Sharpe-Ray race, both camps have invoked the name of Don Yarbrough, a former Supreme Court justice now in prison for perjury. Yarbrough, a political unknown, was elected in 1976, before his legal troubles were known.

Ray brings up Yarbrough when mentioning that Sharpe has no judicial experience.

"The people of Texas have got to know that my opponent from Fort Worth is not the kind of guy we ought to have on the Supreme Court," said Ray. "This man has no experience. If they aren't careful they could wind up with another Don Yarbrough."

Lose 21-17 to CHS

Herd knocked out of 3-5A race

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

For all practical purposes Hereford's boys varsity baseball team was eliminated from any chance of entering the playoffs in the District 3-5A baseball race here Friday.

Third-place Lubbock Coronado outlasted HHS, 21-17, in a game tempered by wind gusts which were reported to be 65 miles per hour.

"We're still going to go out and play every game to win," varsity baseball coach Don Long said when asked what he wanted to accomplish with the three remaining games yet to be played.

"I'd like to finish the season winning the next three," Long said.

With the wind, for the most part, blowing hard out to centerfield, hitters had a field day. Coronado banged out 18 hits and the Whitefaces added 15 to account for a score which resembled that of a football game more than baseball.

The wind also created havoc for outfielders who accounted for most of the 14 errors committed by both teams.

"I knew it would be a high-scoring game. It's that way whenever the wind blows that hard in that direction

MARATHON

NEW YORK (AP) - The first mini-marathon exclusively for girls aged 6 and under will be held in Central Park here May 13.

The Little L'eggs run will be over a one-quarter of a mile course.

(straight out to centerfield)," Long said.

There was some irony with the contest. When HHS played Coronado in Lubbock last month, the game turned into a pitching duel and was won by CHS 1-0. Long said there was a strong wind there but it was blowing in instead of out.

But pitchers here Friday had to work hard against the wind and hitters were able to get around on fastballs.

"The velocity (of the pitchers) was way off. I'd bet the wind took 15 mph off of the fastballs," according to Long.

Mickey Stengel started the contest and gave way to Chet Bunch in the fourth with the score 9-7 in favor of the Herd.

The Mustangs erupted for six runs against Bunch to go up 13-9 and did not trail after that. Ronnie Collier came in to pitch in the fifth and finished the game.

"Passed balls and wild pitches were a big factor" in Hereford's loss Long said because "that enabled them to get their runners into scoring position.

Big sticks for the Herd included Robert Martinez, Charles White and J.D. High, who accounted for 12 of HHS' 17 runs.

Martinez went 3-3 and scored three runs. White went 3-4 including two triples, scored three runs and also knocked in two. High had the most productive day as he belted three hits, scored five runs and also had five RBI.

The Herd's district record fell to 7-6 while Coronado lifted its to 9-3. Monterey is 12-0, Plainview is 10-2 in the district race.

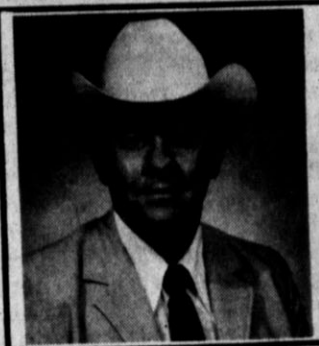

Hereford's junior varsity squad ended its season this week with a 10-8 victory over Plainview.

Rodney Torres pitched the complete game as the JVers went 5-0 in district play, according to JV coach T.R. Sartor. Stephan Hacker, Torres,

Jerry Brown and Curtis Cotten are some of the players who Sartor said played well this season.

Whiteface coach Don Long has a few choice words with the home plate umpire after Charles White was ruled out trying to score from third on a wild pitch in the seventh inning of Friday's 21-17 loss to Coronado. Mike Scott stands between Long and the ump. The loss knocked the Herd out of any possible playoff berth.

Mariners move into first; Orioles last

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Would you believe the Baltimore Orioles in last place in the American League East and the Seattle Mariners in first place in the West?

Believe it... for now. "I think we need to take it on a day-to-day basis to the All-Star Game break and then assess the situation."

Jim Beattie said after checking Milwaukee on six singles and pitching the Mariners to a 5-0 victory over the Brewers and into the lead in the AL West, one-half game ahead of Oakland. "We are keeping close and winning the games we used to lose." Meanwhile, the world champion Orioles got a pregame pep talk from owner Edward Bennett Williams and then broke their second four-game losing streak of the young season with a 4-2 triumph over the Minnesota Twins on Eddie Murray's two-run homer in the 10th inning.

"Basically, he wanted us to forget about the past and go from here," said outfielder Gary Roenicke. "He told us to forget about the glory of 1983 and the slow start of 1984."

Elsewhere in the AL, the Detroit Tigers nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the California Angels outslugged the Toronto Blue Jays 10-6 in 13 innings, the New York Yankees downed the Texas Rangers 4-1, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Cleveland Indians 6-4 and the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland Athletics 3-1.

Rookie Alvin Davis cracked a three-run homer to back Beattie's nine-strikeout pitching. Davis' fourth home run of the season came with two out in the seventh inning, gave Seattle a 4-0 lead and chased Milwaukee starter Don Sutton.

"It was a game where we had an opportunity early to score," said Milwaukee Manager Rene Lachemann, whose Brewers have lost all four games against Seattle, Lachemann's former team. "Then Beattie overpowered us. When he has his fastball like he did tonight, he's almost unbeatable."

Orioles 4, Twins 2
Minnesota took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on Tim Teufel's two-run double. But Baltimore's John Shelby singled a run across in the fifth, Murray greeted Minnesota relief ace Ron Davis with a game-tying RBI single in the seventh and homered off Davis in the 10th following Cal Ripken Jr.'s leadoff single.

Murray broke out of a 2-for-20 slump and boosted his lifetime average against

Davis to .440 on 11 hits in 25 at-bats, including three homers and eight RBIs. As for a possible return appearance by Williams, Manager Joe Altobelli said the owner "can come back whenever he wants, whenever he's available."

Tigers 3, White Sox 2
Lance Parrish's disputed single with two out in the bottom of the ninth scored Lou Whitaker from third base with the winning run. Whitaker opened the ninth with a walk off Chicago reliever Ron Reed, was sacrificed to second and took third on a groundout.

Parrish followed with a soft fly ball on which left fielder Ron Kittle attempted a shoestring catch, but umpire Nick Bremigan ruled he trapped the ball and Whitaker scored to give the Tigers their 10th victory in 11 games this season.

"The ball was caught," said Kittle, whose two-run homer put the White Sox on top in the second inning. Detroit's Kirk Gibson singled a run across in the bottom of the second and tied it in the seventh on Larry Herndon's RBI single.

Angels 10, Blue Jays 6
Consecutive doubles by Rob Picciolo, Fred Lynn and Doug DeCinces triggered California's four-run 13th inning that ended Toronto's four-game winning streak. DeCinces also hit a sacrifice fly to tie the game in the ninth and singled a run across in the 11th as the Angels overcame a five-RBI performance by Toronto's Lloyd Moseby, who belted the first grand slam of his major-league career. Brian Downing homered for the Angels.

Yankees 4, Rangers 1
Ron Guidry fired a five-hitter for his first victory of the season and Ken Griffey's two-run single capped a three-run second inning. Guidry struck out seven, did not walk a batter and lost his bid for a shutout on Larry Parrish's eighth-inning home run. After Oscar Gamble's sacrifice fly in the first inning, the Yankees added three more in the second off Dave Stewart. After one-out walks to Andre Robertson and Omar Moreno, Randolph lined a run-scoring single. He and Moreno then worked a double steal and Griffey followed with his two-run single.

Royals 4, Indians 4
Frank White and Hal McRae hit home runs for Kansas City while winner Larry Gura yielded three runs in five innings and Dan Quisenberry pitched two innings of one-hit relief for his sixth save. White hit a solo homer off Neal Heaton in the first inning and McRae belted a two-run shot in the third. The Royals broke a 3-3 tie with two runs in the fourth. Leon Roberts singled, took third when second baseman Tony Bernazard misplayed Butch Davis' grounder and scored on Don Slaught's single. Onix Concepcion greeted reliever Luis Aponte with a sacrifice fly.

Red Sox 3, Athletics 1
Utility infielder Eddie Jurak ignited a three-run fourth inning with a double in his first time at bat this year and Boston went on to snap a seven-game losing streak. Jeff Burroughs' secondinning homer gave Oakland a 1-0 lead, but the Red Sox scored all their runs in the fourth on Jurak's double, Mike Easler's triple and doubles by Tony Armas and Glenn Hoffman. Relief ace Bob Stanley, who pitched 5-2-3 scoreless innings against Texas Wednesday night, blanked Oakland on one hit over the final 3 1-3 innings for his first save.

Brock, Valenzuela

Dodgers catch fire

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda thinks he may have found a cure for the ills of pitcher Fernando Valenzuela and first baseman Greg Brock.

All they needed was one good game, and Friday night, the doctor paid a visit.

Valenzuela earned his first victory in four starts with a five-hit, six-strikeout performance, and Brock, who came in hitting .146, had three hits, including a home run, two RBI and scored three times as the Dodgers defeated the San Diego Padres 8-2.

"It was good medicine for both of them," Lasorda said. Valenzuela said his problems had been caused by poor control, but that wasn't a problem against San Diego as the Dodgers won their eighth game in the past 10.

"I had good location tonight, and that made the difference for me," Valenzuela said. "I put the ball where I wanted to."

The Dodgers also got home runs from Ken Landreaux, his first, and Terry Whitfield, his third, among their 10 hits off four San Diego pitchers. The only runs off Valenzuela came in the fifth when Carmelo Martinez walked and Kevin McReynolds and Garry Templeton hit successive RBI doubles.

"We've just had some great pitching against us the last two nights," said Manager Dick Williams, whose Padres were beaten by Dodgers right-hander Alejandro Pena the night before. "We haven't been hitting like we should, but Fernando looked great throughout the game."

In other NL games, New York defeated Philadelphia 3-1, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 5-4, Atlanta beat Houston 8-7 and San Francisco defeated Cincinnati 6-4.

Following Friday loss

History not with Sixers

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

History is not on the side of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The defending National Basketball Association champions fell into a huge hole Friday night by losing their second consecutive home playoff game to the New Jersey Nets. The underdog Nets blitzed Philadelphia 116-102 to grab control of their best-of-five opening round series. The next two games—Sunday and, if necessary, Tuesday night—will be played on the Nets' court.

The 76ers are trying to become the first championship team to repeat since the Boston Celtics did it in 1968 and 1969. And they are faced with a deficit only one other club, the Fort Wayne Pistons, in 1956 against St. Louis, has ever overcome in a five-game matchup.

Julius Erving, who was held to 12 points by the aggressive Nets defense, surveyed his team's dire situation and said, "We have to get back to doing what we were doing earlier in the season and we have to do it quickly to win three games in a row."

Micheal Ray Richardson scored 32 points, handed out nine assists and made four steals for the Nets, who have won five of eight games against the Sixers this year.

"The 76ers look like a puzzled team," said Richardson, whose career seemed ended by a drug dependency problem prior to this season. "We came out aggressive, hard and solid. They made us shoot our jump shots and fortunately they were going down."

"When I made my first three shots I knew I was really on."

Richardson scored 24 of his points in the first half as the Nets built a 67-50 lead. When the 76ers battled back in the second half from a 24-point deficit to within five, he helped put the game out of reach with his third three-point field goal and followed with a three-point play.

"I really feel good," he said. "It's the best I've played in a long time. I feel that I'm completely back. I haven't played this well in three or four years."

"We're going for a sweep. We don't want to come back here. We want to win it at home."

Darryl Dawkins scored 22 points and Albert King 15 for the Nets. Moses Malone's 25 points and Andrew Toney's 22 were high for the Sixers.

Nets Coach Stan Albeck Albeck, asked if he expected to end the series Sunday, said, "You've got to be crazy. These guys (76ers) are not knocked out. They can come back. This is not over by any stretch of the imagination." In other NBA play Friday night, it was Los Angeles 109, Kansas City 102, and Portland 122, Phoenix 116.

Lakers 109, Kings 102

The Lakers swept two games at home from Kansas City, which has not won in Los Angeles in 10 years. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 26 points, Magic Johnson added 23 points and James Worthy came off the bench to score 18 for the Lakers. LaSalle Thompson led Kansas City with 23 points, and Eddie Johnson had 18.

After trailing 71-54 midway through the third period, the Kings stormed back to pull to within 83-81 early in the final quarter before the Lakers began widening the margin again.

"We'd like to finish it," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "We don't want to let them get back in it. They showed us in the fourth quarter they can come back."

Trail Blazers 122, Suns 116

At Portland, 27 points by Jim Paxson and 26 from Mychal Thompson led the Trail Blazers, who also withstood a furious fourth-quarter rally. Thompson added 13 rebounds as the Blazers dominated the backboards after being out rebounded badly in the series opener loss.

Walter Davis scored 17 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter and sank a pair of free throws with 1:06 to go to slice Portland's lead, once 21 points, to 118-116.

Kenny Carr's basket with 50 seconds to play opened the lead to four and free throws by Calvin Natt and Carr clinched it.

"You don't let up on the accelerator when you're going uphill," Thompson said. "We barely made it over the top."

"We helped them by missing more shots," Davis said. "It's going to be a good series. We're not down, but we are a little unhappy. We wanted to win both games here."

Tulia runs scheduled for May 5

The 2nd Annual Tulia 10K and 2 Mile Fun Run will be held Saturday, May 5. Race time will be at 9:00 a.m. with both races starting on Maxwell St. at the north side of City Hall and ending at the Tulia Health Club. The road race will be sponsored by the Omicron Study Club and sanctioned by the Amarillo YMCA Running Club.

Henry Galpin of the Amarillo YMCA Running Club informed members of the study club that the Tulia 10K and 2 Mile Fun Run has been designated as part of their organization's Grand Prix Circuit. Each year 18 races are selected on the basis of race organization, result accuracy, and course distance accuracy. Members of the running club then compete with each other throughout the road race season. Winners of the Grand Prix are determined according to a total point calculation in 8 of these races.

The members of the Omicron Study Club invite everyone to participate in this fun-filled event. The Tulia 10K and 2 Mile Fun Run is designed not only for the competitive long distance runner, but, also for the recreational jogger or walker. The road race is divided into two separate races: the 10K (6.2 miles) and the 2 Mile Fun Run. Within each race there is a men's and women's division. Each of these divisions are divided into age categories.

Several awards will be presented. Each runner will receive a participant ribbon. A total of 36 trophies will be presented to the overall winners (fastest times) and to the winners of each age category of both races. Seventy-two silver and bronze medals will be presented to the second and third place individuals in each category. In addition, those individuals entered in the 2 Mile Fun Run will be able to participate in a time guessing contest. A trophy will be presented to the male and female who guesses closest to the amount of time that it takes to walk, jog, or run the 2 mile course.

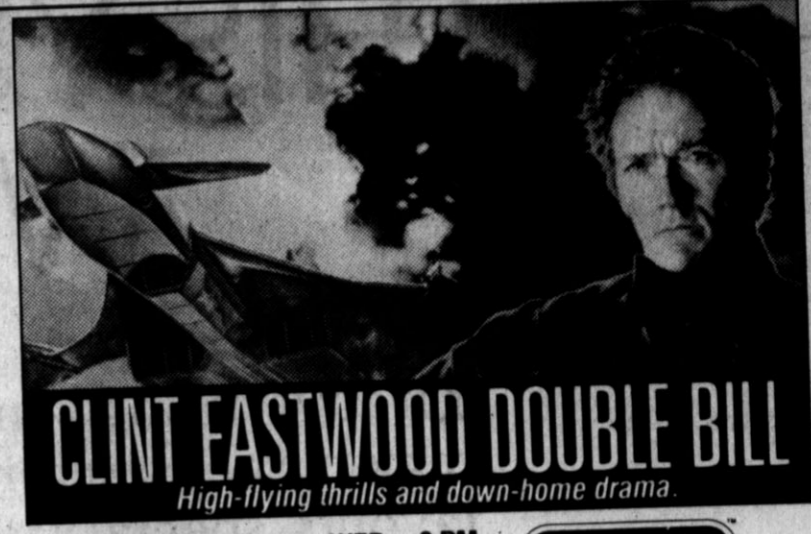

Team competition is also available in the 2 mile event. Any club, civic group, business, etc. may sponsor a team. A team should consist of four women or four men. A traveling plaque will be presented to the men's and women's team compiling the lowest total time.

Entry forms and maps are available from any Omicron Study Club member or contact Joyce Hosch at Box 92, Tulia or call 995-3037.

Registration fee is $6.00 for either race. Everyone is encouraged to pre-register for the race of their choice.

Easter . . . seen through the eyes of a child

“He is not here for He is risen as He said.”

Matthew 28:6

Easter Joy

Easter brings us joy and love
Which God has sent from high above.
So every boy and girl will know a special blessing God bestowed.
It was that Christ died for our sins.
To live in heaven with Him again.
Oh! Easter is a beautiful time
Because Christ has risen!
Oh! Christ has risen!

Alicea Glueck

My Savior

Easter is here and I am, oh, so glad.
Don't you see?
Because Jesus died for you and me.
He carried the cross to Calvary,
Just out of love for you and me.

Mrs. Dwight Brette Elders nee LaDonna Gay Hart

Resident's granddaughter marries Saturday evening

The sanctuary of Paramount Baptist Church in Amarillo was the setting for the candlelight ceremony uniting LaDonna Gay Hart of Amarillo and Dwight Brette Elders of Canyon. The Rev. Shad Rue, pastor, directed the recitation of vows for the double ring ceremony in an all white and brass setting Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Percy Hart of Hart and granddaughter of Mrs. Percy Hart of Hart, Mrs. Marie Garrison of Plainview, and Homer Garrison of Hereford. She is a graduate of Hart High School.

Elders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Elders of Canyon, is a graduate of Canyon High School. Both are employed by Wiley Hicks Construction in Amarillo.

Vows were exchanged before a brass heart-shaped candelabrum holding white tapers. A matching kneeling bench was placed in front of the candelabrum. Flanking the nuptial site were twin brass 15-branched cathedral candelabra decorated with arrangements of white peonies, carnations, and gypsophylla backed with leather leaf.

Hawaiian scheffelaras, Ficus Benjamin, and Norfolk pines placed in brass pots graced the altar area. The unity and family candles were atop a brass candelabrum adorned with white lace bows matching the decor on the sanctuary pews. Mothers' pews featured lighted votive arrangements.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Weldon Moody of plainview, organist, and Mrs. Bill Moore of White Oak, soloist, aunt of the bride.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white chantilly lace designed with a molded bodice featuring a sheer illusion yoke accented with seed pearls and sequins. Double layers of lace formed ruffles extending to a point in the center front and back. The high neckline featured a lace band collar.

Full sleeves of chantilly lace were gathered at the wrists with wide ruffles and satin bows and streamers tied in love knots. A row of ruffled lace highlighted the natural waistline, flowing to a full skirt of chantilly lace accented at the lower bottom with matching tiered lace ruffles forming points at the sides and center back. Satin bows and streamers graced the points. The tiers swept to a chapel-length train.

To complete the ensemble, the bride chose a bandeau cap of chantilly lace with seed pearls and sequins. The double layered silk illusion was gathered to the back of the cap and fell to waltz-length. Chantilly lace and seed pearls outlined the lower edge of the veil.

She carried a white cascade trailing bouquet of roses and gypsophylla and English ivy atop a white Bible, a childhood gift from her parents. White satin streamers tied in love knots complemented the bouquet. Tied in the bouquet was a new handmade handkerchief brought to the bride from Hong Kong by Mrs. Wiley Hicks of Amarillo.

Borrowed was a family traditional lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Marie Garrison, which has been carried by her mother, two aunts and three sisters-in-law. She wore her great-grandmother Livesay's diamond earrings for something old and wore the traditional blue garter and pennies minted the years of the couple's births in her shoe.

Maid of honor was Johnnye Sharp and the bridesmaid was Becky Clawson, both of Amarillo.

They wore matching gowns of blue voile over taffeta. Spaghetti straps on the off-shoulder flounce graced the bodice featuring a slightly raised waistline with a satin ribbon belt. The center back featured a flounce falling from the waist extending into a large flounce at the bottom of the skirt.

Each carried a white chantilly lace fan trimmed with blue roses and blue satin streamers tied in love knots.

Troy Brumley of San Diego, Calif., was the best man. The groom's brother, David Elders of Canyon, was the groomsman. Serving as ushers were Larry Santiff of Canyon and Danny Simpson of Amarillo. They wore blue tuxedos.

Signatures for the wedding were secured by Jan Offield of Amarillo at a white lace-covered table in the church foyer. Flanking the table was a tall brass candelabrum holding white tapers and a white lace bow.

A reception honoring the couple was held in Fellowship Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

Laid with white lace over white, the bride's table was centered with a brass spiral candelabrum with tall white mini-tapers atop a brass mirror. The bride's bouquet graced the centerpiece.

The all white tiered wedding cake featured twin hearts with the couple's initials on the top layer. Topping the cake was a traditional bride and groom standing before a chantilly lace and pearl heart. A brass and crystal punch bowl and matching appointments completed the table setting.

Presiding at the table were Mrs. David Willis of Red River, N.M., and Mrs. Bill Moore of White Oak, the bride's aunts; and Mrs. Carl Offield and Charlotte Morris both of Amarillo.

The groom's table was covered with a navy cloth featuring three silver candlesticks and a white chantilly lace fan. A strawberry cake inscribed with "Love joins our hearts and souls and we become one," which was also on the wedding invitation, was served with coffee from silver and crystal appointments. Serving were Jan Offield of Amarillo and Mrs. Keith Brock of Hart.

Following a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the couple will reside at 215 Arch Terrace in Amarillo.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Suthpens Barbecue in Amarillo on Friday evening.

Pre-bridal courtesies included a bridesmaid's brunch recently in the Hilton Inn

Garden in Amarillo. Hosting the brunch were Mmes. Joe Ed Carson, Bill Rich, and Marsha George, all of Hart.

A linen shower was held in the Amarillo home of Mrs. Carl Offield and Jan and a bridal gift tea was given in the home of Mrs. Keith Brock. Aunts of the bride hosted a lingerie bachelorette party Friday night. Members of the wedding party attended.

The cock-of-the-rock is a bird found in remote areas of South America. It is named for two of its characteristics. The male bird earned the name of "cock" because of its rooster-like appearance and combative behavior. The female added the "rock" to the name because of her habit of nesting in sheltered rock niches.

Off the Runway

By ANNE WINSTON

The Right Stuff may not have been a money-maker movie, but as fashion it's a sure sell. Anything that smacks off the military (especially flying) will sell to the younger set.

Ripstop nylon, parachute cloth and flight satin are in big demand, and the kids want lots of pockets, zippers, D-rings and other hardware.

Where these kids depart from the original is in color. No Air Force ever wore hot lavender or blazing turquoise, but the shimmering silver and day-glo orange are almost as popular.

Next to the flight fabrics, leather seems the most coveted material for fashion forward folk. Yes, despite hot summers, retailers in South Texas tell me their customers want little suede T-tops and mini-skirt in colors from palest peach to deep olive and electric blue.

For even younger folk, summer play clothes will have a distinctively feminine air. Lace and eyelet are favorite trims for little mini-dresses, shorts and clam-diggers.

The tiny tots are delighted with whimsical embroideries and appliques that remind them of their story books.

Summer shapes up as slim with pants more important than in a number of years. Especially pretty will be the soft pants-cut full, almost like a divided skirt, then wrapped and tied at the waist.

Usually ankle length, they feature apron or patch pockets and lots of detailing at the top, which means they look best teamed with cropped tops to show off the-waist area.

AN UPDATE FROM RONALD

Hi! I was 7 months old last week. Mother says I'm really growing. I'm sure getting to where I can entertain myself more easily. I can crawl anywhere and so fast. But it's slow going on that slick floor covering in the kitchen. Sometimes then I seem like I'm getting nowhere fast.

I pulled up two weeks go — on my mama's 41st birthday. Now I'm an expert at pulling up. Surely is nice to see the world at that level. If my arms were a little longer, I could play in the fireplace—all those ashes look like they'd be fun. Mother has pictures of Bryan sitting in the fireplace. He looks so happy.

The dishwasher is another fun place. I've pulled up on the door and overturned the silverware holder. Spoons, knives, and forks went a flying! And someone hollering "He could get cut with a sharp knife." It seems my family is easily excitable!

Mom finally put me on solid food about a month ago. Boy, I can wolf down a 4 1/2 jar of baby food at one meal. The menu consists of rice cereal, carrots, squash, peas, green beans, applesauce, and bananas. I have the vice chair that hangs on the table. I can sit and eat with everyone else.

But the folks don't set me a plate and placemat like everyone else. Kinda hurts my feelings. It seems they keep so many things more than an arms reach away. But I have fooled them a time or two. I just crawled out of my chair onto the table so I could help myself. Now they're threatening to tie me into my seat.

I'm ready for my first Easter. Will celebrate it without my Mother. Daddy is going to fly all us "younguns" to Arkansas a few days before Easter. My brothers and sister get out of school a whole six days. Mom has to work for a few days but will drive to Arkansas to meet us later on in the week. I'll have a happy first Easter. Hope my mom does. She'll be all by herself. Know Allison will have a good Easter. Grandmother has five new dresses she has made for her.

Hope you have a Happy

Easter. See you next month.

Participants currently seeking sponsors

St. Anthony's School students who are planning to participate in the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Walk-a-thon on Monday, April 30, are currently asking Hereford citizens to back their efforts by pledging a contribution for each lap they walk.

"The money the walkers earn will help continue St. Jude's life-saving study of childhood cancer that has become so important to children all over the world," said walk-a-thon chairman Donna Warrick, representing St. Anthony's Elementary School.

"We'll be showing we care about children by helping this cause. Please support your walker with a generous pledge," she continued.

According to Ms. Warrick, St. Jude's is fulfilling the promise and dream of its founder, Danny Thomas, by making a significant contribution to alleviating childhood diseases.

The research hospital is non-sectarian and inter-racial, and treatment is provided without regard to ability to pay. When needed, St. Jude Hospital also provides transportation and lodging for parent and child.

The local walk-a-thon is set to begin at 1:30 p.m. April 30 at Whiteface Stadium. Students will walk as many laps as they can in one hour.

Anyone wishing to sponsor a child may call 364-1952 for further information.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Scientists at UCLA believe that a correlation exists between the behavior of the moon and earthquakes along the San Andreas fault in California, long noted for earthquake activity.

Although the gravitational pull of the moon does not actually cause the earthquakes, they say, it may set off the release of accumulated stress along the fault and trigger the quakes.

TRADING ON A NAME
PITTSBURGH (AP) - An air of mystery surrounds the first trademark used by Gulf Oil. It showed an Indian chieftain with a headdress of feathers and an earring enclosed within two concentric circles.

Company records give no information about who developed the trademark, but the image was first used Jan. 1, 1903, making it the earliest known trademark of the Gulf Refining Co. It remained in use as a company lube oil brand until the late 1920s or early 1930s, when it was abandoned.

HHS students present recent club program

Presenting Book

Two copies of "My Country Tis of Thee," a national VFW publication, were presented to both La Plata and Stanton Junior High Schools recently. In top photo, Rose Goheen, president of VFW 4818 Auxiliary, is pictured giving the book to W.H. Kitchens, assistant principal at Stanton. In bottom photo, Dempsey Alexander, assistant principal at La Plata, accepts the publication. The books feature all aspects of Americanism, including songs, the history of America, the Declaration of Independence and poetry.

Members of Valeda Study Club met recently in the home of Marjorie Lassiter for their regularly scheduled meeting.

Norma Martin introduced Brenda McClellan, sponsor of the Orators Club at Hereford High School. Ms. McClellan explained that the Orators had participated in seven competitions during the school year including UIL competition.

The speaker then introduced Kelly Stokesberry who performed "Wishbones" by Diane Wakoski; Cord Cochran, who read a selection from Art Buchwald; and Chere Barker, who dramatized "Dream Fever" by Ray Bradbury.

Following the program, Joyce Ritter, president, called the meeting to order. The club collect was recited and members answered roll call with a favorite poem or story. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasury balance was given.

Members voted against participating in the upcoming Town 'n' Country Jubilee, and the proposal to change the by-laws moving to the meeting night to the second and fourth Monday of each month was approved.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for elections. New officers include president, Margaret Zinser; vice-president, Donna Lindeman; secretary, Juanita Brownd; treasurer, Marcella McLain; historian, Marcella Brady; and parliamentarian, Joyce Ritter. Installation of officers will be held at the next meeting.

Members present included Ms. Lindeman, Ms. McLain, Jean Ruther, Patricia Weldon, Ms. Zinser and guest, Judy Glueck.

It may be fun to sing about the rain in Spain, but the real thing can dampen vacation plans. Did you know that you can buy rain insurance? It is an option in some tour packages. However more common, and surely more important to vacationers, is insurance that provides funds to help cover the unexpected costs that may result from illness or accident, lost luggage or a trip cancelled by an emergency. Your travel agent can supply you with many of the details about these insurance strategies. However, before duplicating insurance coverage, check to see if your homeowner's, or tenant's, policy already protects you against these losses.

Our entire staff at HEREFORD TRAVEL CENTER, 144 W. 2nd is very knowledgeable in the world of travel and give each one of our clients our personal attention. With each airline ticket purchased through us we provide $25,000 of life insurance coverage for the traveler, at no additional cost. We can be reached at 364-6813. We're open Mon.-Fri. 8:30-5:30, Sat. 9-12.

Be sure to affix ID's to all your luggage when traveling.

Ann Landers Contact center

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read your column ever since I was old enough to open a newspaper. If my letter is printable please give me your best shot.

I was madly in love with a young woman until I finally woke up to the fact that she was just using me. The relationship is over, but she gave me a lifetime gift to remember her by. Herpes.

I am an attractive male in my late 20s, with an excellent job. I am miserable and depressed and feel that my life is over. How can I develop another relationship when I know I have this terrible disease? Will I ever adjust to this nightmare?—Minus 10 In Texas

DEAR TEXAS: This is not the end of the world. You can lead a normal life if you educate yourself and take certain precautions. Write to The Herpes Resource Center, Box 100, Palo Alto, Calif. 94302 and enclosed a self-addressed stamped envelope.

You will receive information about the latest treatment and instructions on contacting a self-help group in your area. The concept is similar to Alcoholics Anonymous—people sharing the same problem giving one another emotional support and informed counsel. Write at once. It can change your life.

DEAR ANN: I just finished reading the letter from "Suffering in Red Bank" and I really feel for that woman because I am going through the same thing.

My mother took her own life several months ago and to this day, I can't believe she really did it. What a shock to discover that someone you love so much could have done such a thing I always felt we were so close but I guess we weren't close enough.

No one will talk to me about it. My husband is no help at all. He keeps telling me to stop thinking about how she died and remember the happy times. My brothers won't discuss it and my children are too young to understand. It's wonderful that you are there for me to dump on, Ann. I feel better already. Thanks for listening.—Lonely In Pa.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a registered pharmacist, I was pleased to read in your column that physicians have the world's worst penmanship. The reason, of course, is because they have had to write so rapidly taking notes in class for so many years. Every pharmacist I've ever talked to has a devil of a time deciphering the hencratching. This can be nerve-wracking because a wrong dosage can make a difference between life or death. Remind 'em, Annie.—Rx In D.C.

DEAR RX: You did—and every person who must depend on prescription drugs thanks you. Actually, they should be typed.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Making Donation

John Stagner, at right, president of the Hereford Noon Kiwanis Club, presented a check from the club to Mary Brinkman and Jerry Hall, clients of the Hereford Satellite Center, Thursday during their regular meeting. The donation will aid in funding all the clients of the Center to the Texas Special Olympics slated for Austin later in May. Observing the presentation is Gene Brock.

Merry Mixers enjoy "after taxes"

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club held an "after taxes" bean and cornbread supper Thursday night before the regular dance. Seven squares danced to caller Freddie McKee of Amarillo. Visitors were welcomed from XYL&M of Amarillo and Good Timers of Hereford. Members came dressed in what they had left after paying their income taxes. Prizes were given to the two best dressed couples, Rocky and Helen Lee and Dick and Linda Thompson.

Citizens reminded to observe National Litterbag Day

NEW YORK (AP) - Keep America Beautiful, Inc. (KAB), the national, non-profit, public service organization that promotes proper waste handling has proclaimed Friday, April 27, as the first National Litterbag Day.

National Litterbag Day will focus attention on each citizen's individual responsibility to keep his city and county a clean and healthy place, and the role of litterbags in that process. The litterbag's effectiveness as a litter prevention tool makes it indispensable to the Keep America Beautiful movement, according to KAB's President Roger W. Powers.

Beautiful Week 1984, April 22-28, National Litterbag Day will receive the same nationwide publicity as KAB Week. Forty-eight governors proclaimed KAB Week in their states last year, and KAB anticipates similar resolutions from all 50 governors this year.

Between the Covers

By DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian
Biographies of Hollywood actresses head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. "Barbara Stanwyck" by Al DiOrto tells the story of one of the last great thirties stars. Barbara Stanwyck has been nominated for the Oscar four times and was the recipient of an honorary award in 1982 for her life-time career achievement. She was born Ruby Stevens in Brooklyn, orphaned in early childhood and raised by an older sister. But she trained herself as a dancer and won a spot with the Ziegfeld Follies. In 1928, Barbara moved to Hollywood, where she began an exceptionally productive career, starring in such films as "Stella Dallas," "Ball of Fire," "Double Indemnity," and "Executive Decision."

After her film career she was seen on television by millions in the popular "The Big Valley." The great love of her life was the extraordinarily handsome Robert Taylor, whom she married in 1939. Their marriage ended in a shattering divorce. There were other romances, an estrangement from her son, and a reclusive retirement that almost rivals Garbo's for secrecy.

"Barbara Stanwyck" tells the untold story of a great star, a woman liberated before her time. DiOrto is also the author of "Little Lost Girl" and "The Thirty-Seven Years of Bobby Darin." Also available this week is "Katharine Hepburn" by Gary Carey. Independent, often abrasive, Katharine Houghton Hepburn was determined from the start to carve out a career and a life on her own terms. Independence of thought and action came naturally to the Hartford, Connecticut-born actress.

Kate grew up to be a fine athlete and an indifferent student. She did graduate from Bryn Mawr, and then headed for the stage. In 1932 she made her movie debut opposite John Barrymore in RKO's "Bill of Divorcement." The next year she received an Oscar, the first of four, for her performance in "Morning Glory." Her career has been a turbulent one, moving from the early successes to the years when she was considered "box office poison" to the great roles for which she has won enduring fame. She is a living legend.

Other new books available this week are "Lena: A Personal and Professional Biography of Lena Horne" by James Haskins with Kathleen Benson, and "Judy and Liza" by James Spada.

LIBRARY EVENTS: 10 a.m. - Thursday public story hour - Heritage Room. The library staff wants to wish all of you a very Happy Easter!!

Annual convention attended by women

"Nature, Our Heritage" was the theme of the 56th annual spring convention of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., that was held recently in Nacogdoches.

Mrs. Jess L. Robinson, president of Bud to Blossom Garden Club, and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, president of Hereford Garden Club, and Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., district director, attended the event from Hereford. State business was conducted by Mrs. L.G. Clinton Jr., state president. Reports from state officers and committee chairmen were given and new awards and activities for the 1984-85 garden club year were discussed.

Emphasis is being placed on youth communication with essays, posters and speech contests. State youth winners were honored.

Also, in the membership report, it was announced that Texas has 835 federated garden clubs with 22,962 members. The State Fall Convention was scheduled Oct. 31-Nov. 2 in Brownsville with the theme being "On The Border by the Sea."

Following the business session, an informative workshop on "Survival Gardening" was held to instruct gardeners in planning and planting small gardens and container gardens for limited living areas such as apartments.

Other programs included "Historic Nacogdoches" by Ruth Fouts Pochmann, who stated that Nacogdoches dates back to 1617 as a Spanish trading post to the present day bearing the title as "One of the 10 best places to live in the U.S."

"Herb—with Emphasis on Culinary" by Madeline Hill of Hilltop Herb Farms was also on the program agenda as was a floral design program, "Interpreting Bible Quotations with Flowers" by Mrs. Perry Webb, who depicted the events of Easter. A tour of "Millard's Crossing" where eight historic homes had been restored and refurbished, was taken.

The convention concluded with the state awards presentations. Bud to Blossom, in the competitive awards, was presented state certificates for first in state, president's report with a grade of 100 and state honorable mention in yearbook award.

In the non-competitive event, four awards were received by the club including a gold club rating, contributions to National Land Trust, scholarship fund and endowment fund.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Although St. Patrick is the patron saint of Ireland, his feast day has been celebrated more widely in the United States than in his native land, according to Bernard McLane, a University of Rochester historian.

Part of the reason is cultural: "Irish immigrants to this country may have used the celebration to maintain ethnic ties," McLane says. The other part is political: "Before an independent Irish republic existed, British authorities banned St. Patrick's Day marches in Ireland," he adds.

Citizen Of The Month

During the luncheon-business meeting of the Hereford Noon Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Community Center, Mrs. Don Davidson was recognized as citizen of the month of March by the club. Dyeing eggs can be fun, educational

The first Easter trail Peter Cotton tail hopped down was in Pennsylvania, and that first trip took place in 1728, long before commercial egg dyes became popular.

Back then many Pennsylvania Dutch children used natural dyes from herbs and foods to dye the eggs that were then exchanged as tokens of good times to come.

This Easter your children might enjoy making their own dye (with your help) as well as coloring the eggs. They might even learn something about the many uses of foodstuffs along the way, according to Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Louise Walker.

For softer, lighter shades, prepare the dye and strain it to remove the herbs, roots or foodstuff used to obtain the color. Then, dip and turn pre-cooked eggs in the dye until you get a pretty shade. To create a deeper shade, simply make the dye and cook the eggs at the same time, allowing the eggs to simmer for as long as 20 minutes to reach the deepest hues.

Another methods of dyeing eggs is to wrap raw eggs in bits of the dye-making plant and then tie them in cheesecloth. When the eggs are boiled the dye is transferred directly to the eggshell, leaving a unique mottled effect.

Adding vinegar or alum to the dyeing mixture will increase the strength of the dye.

Here are some "recipes" for various colors:

For yellow dye use chamomile tea or dandelion blossoms. Pour boiling water over the tea blossoms, cover and let stand for half an hour. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar before dyeing eggs. Since tumeric does not dissolve, the coloring will be slightly marbled.

A brass-brown shade results from onion skins, even red onion skins. Place the skins in a pan of water and simmer until the desired shade is obtained. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar and the dye is ready.

Lavender-blue eggs can be made with blueberries or grapes. Crush the berries or grapes by hand or in a blender. Add water and simmer for a few minutes. Strain the mixture and add a teaspoon of vinegar to complete the dye. Use a similar method to make robins-egg blue from cabbage.

Mint leaves will make pale green Easter eggs. Pour boiling water over mint leaves, cover and let simmer for half an hour. Strain the mixture and add a teaspoon of vinegar to complete the dye.

Any of the dye-stuffs can be wrapped around or folded against a raw egg and enclosed in cheesecloth and then boiled to obtain unusual patterns of color on the egg.

Getting In The Act

Lauren, age 5, and Spencer, 3, are fascinated by the colorful geraniums which their mother, Kay Lynn Caviness, brought home in preparation for L'Allegra Study Club's plant sale, slated at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 5, in Sugarland Mall. Club members are currently taking orders for geraniums and petunias in a variety of colors, to be delivered on May 5. Mrs. Caviness may be contacted at 364-8060. Proceeds from the sale will be donated to Hereford Senior Citizens.

Lingerie program given by Louise Walker

A program on lingerie was presented by Louise Walker, county extension agent, when members of North Hereford Extension Homemakers Club met Thursday in the home of Judy Williams.

The speaker told of a new swim suit available this year that enables the wearer to tan under the suit. She also explained the new fabric, rami, and displayed some garments made of the material.

During the meeting with Naomi Brisendine presiding, it was announced that a luncheon for all county club members has been scheduled April 30 in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library. Delegates of the district will be meeting to give reports.

Mary Lueb of Boulder, Colo., was welcomed as a guest by those present. They included Brenda Campbell, Evelyn Crofford, Peg Hoff, Marilyn Lueb, Ms. Briendine and Ms. Williams.

West Texas boasts largest pool

By JUDY GIANNETTINO
Associated Press Writer
BALMORHEA, Texas (AP) — If swimming is your idea of the way to beat the heat on a warm West Texas day, Tony Carrillo has just the pool for you — as long as you don't mind treading water with more than a thousand other people.

Carrillo is park ranger at the Balmorhea State Recreation Area, which proudly boasts the world's largest walled-in swimming pool — a 68,000-square-foot hole in the ground that can hold more than 3.5 million gallons of water.

"It's massive, all right," Carrillo said. "People come here and sometimes just stare at it. They can't believe it's a pool. It's the same size as a lot of lakes they've seen."

The pool, which on some sizzling summer days has more than 1,000 swimmers diving into it, is fed by the San Solomon Springs. Carrillo said between 16 million and 24 million gallons of water flow into it daily.

It is the focal point of the recreation area that offers weary travelers a resting spot in the middle of far West Texas. The park is 120 miles southwest of Odessa and about 180 miles east of El Paso.

"The pool is itself a spring," Carrillo said. "The water flow is carried out of the pool by a canal system and from there it goes to Balmorhea Lake."

San Solomon Springs has provided water to this West Texas area for centuries, Carrillo said. Artifacts found in the area indicate the springs were used before Indians and U.S. soldiers came in the 1800s, he said.

The pool was built during the late 1930s by the Civilian Conservation Corps, which also constructed the canals.

With a depth that ranges from three feet to 31½ feet, the pool also is used for scuba and skin diving, Carrillo said.

Small fish, including two rare species, are found in the pool's 72-degree waters.

"That, of course, turns some people off," Carrillo said. "You'd be surprised at how some people won't swim with a lot of fish around them. I hear it all — I'm not about to get in there with a bunch of dirty fish."

"But it beats the heck out of all those chlorinated pools."

Despite its massiveness and lack of chemicals, the pool looks like most others — four diving boards and a slide are scattered around it and steps lead down into the shallow end.

Carrillo said six lifeguards oversee the swimmers.

The park is open year-round but the pool is open only from Memorial Day through Labor Day, he said.

Visitors from throughout the world have stopped at the park, although Carrillo said many people don't know about the pool until they arrive.

"They just come in to camp overnight and then they see it," he said. "It's funny to see their faces because you know, it just sits there right next to the highway — this huge hole and all this water."

Carrillo said people also are surprised at the pool because of West Texas' arid terrain.

"I guess it is sort of weird that the rest of this area suffers from drought and we have this pool here and all this spring water," he said.

"But it's always been that way. And we depend on the rainfall, too, for the springs."

Balmorhea, which is just four miles east of the park, always has been known as the oasis of West Texas, Carrillo said.

"And that's how it should be," he said. "We've got to be known for something. After all, we sit out here in the middle of a good stretch of nothing."

Grain elevator bankruptcies rise

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Grain elevator bankruptcies, while they strike only a small proportion of all warehouses, have continued to increase, according to a new study by the Illinois Legislative Council.

The report, released this month, found that 165 grain storage facilities suffered financial collapse in an eight-state Midwestern region over the 8½ years ending in mid-1982, with the rate rising from nine per year to three times that rate by the end of the period.

But that still represents only a tiny proportion of the more than 10,000 elevators in business in the region, the study found.

Most likely to be affected were small country elevators with storage capacities of less than 300,000 bushels. Risk was heightened for facilities which had recently changed management or ownership.

The study, prepared for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, examined in detail 90 of the insolvent elevators in the region including Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Usually several factors contributed to the elevators' failures, the study found. The most frequent cause was mismanagement, including mishandling of grain accounts; inadequate record keeping; lax credit policies; and inexperience.

Other primary causes included diverting of grain funds to support elevator owners' outside business ventures, to prop up an extravagant lifestyle or to cover speculative losses in grain trading, the report said. And falsified records, commodity futures speculation and cash flow problems also were common problems, it stated.

Farmers rely on the elevators to market their grains or to store them until they can be sold at a favorable price.

Those who had sold their grain to an elevator, but had not yet been paid at the time of the bankruptcy, recovered an average of 30 cents on the dollar of what they were owed, according to the study. Even that level of recovery often required several years of litigation.

Producers who had stored grain in a warehouse, retaining title to the commodity, collected an average of 69 cents per dollar they were owed.

Overall claims for 76 insolventcies on which detailed data were available totaled $58.3 million, with an overall recovery of $23.5 million, or 40 percent.

The study recommended a series of steps similar to the conclusions of a special House task force on elevator bankruptcies that led to a bill now before Congress aimed at remedying the problems. Those include a package of preventive measures to give early warning of financial trouble and to educate elevator managers; remedial action to more closely regulate elevators.

But that measure is stalled because it is part of a package of bankruptcy law changes that includes a controversial labor contracts provision.

Assignment begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration has begun assigning out-of-state review officers in some loan appeal cases so the agency's role of impartiality will not be jeopardized, says the Agriculture Department.

Previously, the FmHA has assigned review officers from within the state in which the loan was made. The change was announced Tuesday.

"We felt that our district officers and state directors were providing fair and impartial reviews of appeals," said Charles W. Shuman, administrator of the agency. "But to remove even the slightest doubt, we now are selecting review officers from a different state than the one in which the appeal was made."

Shuman said that assistant district directors, district directors or officials from state offices — including program loan officers and loan chiefs — are being sent to neighboring states to handle the appeals.

Export trade to stay sub-1970s

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Agriculture Department official says U.S. commodity trade will improve gradually but may never again throb with the export vitality that characterized the decade of the 1970s.

Exports rose in value for 12 straight years before declining in 1981-82 and again in 1982-83 as world economic conditions worsened and demand for U.S. grain and other commodities declined.

"I firmly believe that we're going to have growth in world trade at some point, assuming we manage this problem ... and get the economy going again," said Richard A. Smith, head of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Smith told a meeting of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America on Tuesday that "the bloom of the '70s" to some extent helped buoy the recycling of money generated by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

As some countries imported oil and other products, including food, they took advantage of credit terms, simply going into debt to provide what they needed.

"It made sense at that time because they thought inflation was going to continue ... and to pay back later with cheaper dollars made a lot of sense," Smith said.

By 1980-81, U.S. farm export values rose to a record of $43.8 billion before entering a two-year decline to $34.8 billion in 1982-83. They are expected to gain slightly to about 37.5 billion in the current fiscal year which will end on Sept. 30 — due to higher prices. The actual volume of shipments are expected to be down again.

Smith, asked if the boom times of the 1970s would return, replied, "I don't think you're going to see that for a long time, maybe never again."

One reason, he added, is that some banks that financed credit sales to high-risk countries in the 1970s — a factor in the overall U.S. export surge during the decade — may balk at doing it again.

"So, I don't think you're going to see that kind of a boom, but you're going to see real growth in world markets" because of population increases and rising incomes, which mean improved standards of living and demands, he said.

Dale Hathaway, a former undersecretary of agriculture during the Carter administration and now a private consultant, said that some developing countries with loans guaranteed under USDA's export credit program will have to reschedule them. Those could run into the billions of dollars.

According to USDA, as of March 16 the agency's Commodity Credit Corp. had made good the previous year on $431 million in guaranteed loans from U.S. banks because of non-payment of interest due from just four countries — Peru, Morocco, Brazil and Romania. The common practice then is to reschedule the loans so a country can make payments.

Hathaway said the department's export credit program should have longer-term loans and more flexible interest rates, instead of relying so much on short-term loans, which have produced a heavy debt burden for some countries.

"It's going to be stretched out one way or the other," Hathaway said. "You can either do it up front and in advance, or you can do it after the fact and have it show up in outlays (federal spending) in '85, '86, '87 and '88," he said.

Asked whether it might be bad business to roll over a country's loans into long-term debt that might extend for 40 years or more, including grace periods and lower interest rates, Hathaway said that one should look at the alternatives before deciding.

Hathaway explained that Poland, beset by heavy international debts, has coped by cutting down on consumption and reducing the standard of living by 25 percent or more.

Officials announce

Friona merger called off

FRIONA — Friona Industries, Inc. and Country Queen Foods, Inc. have terminated a proposed merger agreement, officials of the two firms announced Wednesday, April 18.

"At this time, we do not think it would be advantageous to consummate the acquisition of Country Queen Foods, although we are not ruling out the possibility of reinstating acquisition proceedings at some future date," said Ron Davenport, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Friona Industries.

The original announcement of the agreement in principal for the acquisition was made on Dec. 21, 1983. Under that agreement, Country Queen Foods shareholders would have received 210,000 shares of Friona common stock, which is traded on the American Stock exchange under the symbol FI.

Friona Industries is engaged in meat processing and distribution; the manufacture and sale of commercial cattle feeds; the retail marketing of animal health supplies; the custom feeding of customer-owned cattle; the purchase, fattening and sale of cattle owned by the Company, and the operation of grain facilities. The Company reported net earnings of $1.8 million, or 78 cents per share, on sales of $144 million for the six months ended December 31, 1983.

Country Queen Foods, which is privately held, processes egg products for the restaurant industry and institutional users. It has plants in Grand Rapids, Michigan; Bellview, Florida, and a 50 percent interest in Country Queen Foods, Ltd., Brampton, Ontario, Canada.

Hightower announces

Bill hearing slated

Congressman Jack Hightower announced recently that two days of hearings will be held in Amarillo and Vernon to give the public an opportunity to comment on the development of the 1985 farm bill now being planned by congressional committee.

Hightower, 13th District representative, will chair the hearings at Amarillo, April 23, and at Vernon, April 24. Both meetings will be held at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in those communities. The Amarillo hearing is set for 2 p.m.

Farmers, ranchers, agribusiness and all other interested representatives of farm concerns are invited to attend.

Raymond Schlabs of Hereford and Carl King of Dimmitt are scheduled to testify at the hearing in Amarillo.

"I want to give food producers and others in our part of Texas a chance to tell Washington exactly what they believe should be done to make our farm programs work better," Hightower said. "I will be taking the actual transcripts of everyone's testimony back to the full House Agriculture committee, and it will become part of the record for the committee members to review as they develop the 1985 Farm Bill."

"It's very difficult, if not impossible, for most people to take time to go to Washington, so I thought we should try this year to establish more effective, long-term solutions to our problems we now face in our farm communities. It's also essential that the policy makers in Washington hear directly from the people who know the most about the problems," Hightower said.

Much moisture needed after unusually dry spring

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — An unusually dry springtime has Texas crops, pastures and ranges thirsting for moisture. Dry conditions are prevailing over all of the state except north central and eastern sections, with prolonged drought conditions continuing in western areas. Rain is needed throughout the state to boost young corn, cotton and grain sorghum in southern, central and coastal areas and to enable planting in other locations, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Lack of moisture in western areas is causing ranchers to continue with supplemental feeding and to step up livestock sales.

Cotton is still being planted in central counties while grain sorghum planting is active in West Central Texas (San Angelo area), Carpenter noted. Corn planting is under way in the Panhandle and South Plains, where some sugar beet planting continues. Some corn and grain sorghum also are being planted in northeastern counties following recent rain delays. Soil temperatures continue to moderate and should allow good seed germination, Carpenter said. Temperatures at the 4-inch depth the past week in western areas, as reported by the Agricultural Weather Service Center at Texas A&M University, averaged as follows: Big Spring, 69 degrees F.; Bushland, 55; Dell City, 67; Haskell, 69; Lubbock, 63; San Angelo, 71; and Pecos, 68.

Wheat is heading over much of the state and needs rain badly, said Carpenter. Because of light yield prospects, some farmers are cutting wheat for hay or allowing cattle to graze it out. Irrigation pumps are running full blast over much of the South Plains and in the Trans-Pecos area as farmers get ready to plant cotton. Young crops are being irrigated heavily in the Winter Garden of Southwest Texas and in the Rio Grande Valley due to the dry spring weather, Carpenter noted.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions: PANHANDLE: Farmers have started planting corn and are continuing to plant sugar beets and onions. Irrigated wheat continues to look good and is starting to joint. Dryland wheat is in poor shape. Ranges are providing limited grazing and need a good rain. SOUTH PLAINS: Preplant irrigations continue in full swing as farmers get ready to plant cotton. Corn planting is under way while sugar beet planting is nearing completion. Some late onions and potatoes are still being planted. Irrigated wheat is starting to boot. Dryland wheat and ranges are in poor shape due to lack of moisture. ROLLING PLAINS: Small grains are suffering from lack of moisture and ranges need rain. Cattle on graze-out wheat are making good gains. Farmers continue to get cropland ready for planting. First cuttings of alfalfa hay are under way in Wilbarger County.

NORTH CENTRAL: Early corn and grain sorghum are making good growth. Some grain sorghum remains to be planted due to recent rain delays. Wheat and spring planted oats are doing well, and pastures are providing good grazing for livestock. Peach crop prospects look good in some counties.

NORTHEAST: Farmers are finally planting grain sorghum following rain delays and will start planting cotton soon. Cool soils are slowing corn growth. Cattle are getting good grazing from clovers and wheat. Gardening activities are increasing. Most peach trees have set a heavy crop.

FAR WEST: Dry conditions and high winds continue to plague the region. High winds with blowing sand have destroyed some wheat. Farmers are continuing with land preparation for cotton, sorghums, watermelons and cantaloupes. Livestock sales are increasing as drought conditions become more severe.

WEST CENTRAL: Lack of moisture is becoming critical over the area. Wheat is heading but is in dire need of rain as are pastures and ranges. Grain sorghum planting continues but cotton will be planted later according to a uniform planting date to reduce boll weevil problems. Cattle feeding continues and ranchers are moving more and more livestock to market due to drought conditions. CENTRAL: Young corn and grain sorghum need rain. Cotton planting continues in some counties. Most wheat has headed and could also use some moisture along with pastures and ranges. Horn-flies are increasing in cattle.

EAST: Some corn planting continues due to recent rain delays. Oats and clovers are making good growth and providing grazing for livestock. Most vegetables are making good growth although some were damaged by recent hail. Peach trees have set a good crop.

UPPER COAST: Most crops are up to stands and are making good growth; however, all need rain for continued progress. Farmers are flushing rice fields and cultivating other crops. Vegetable gardening is in full swing. The peach crop looks good. Pastures are improving but need rain.

SOUTH CENTRAL: All young crops as well as pastures and ranges need rain. High winds are continuing to dry out the soil. Greenbugs are a problem in some grain sorghum. Most wheat is headed but needs rain to boost yields. The peach crop continues to look good.

SOUTHWEST: Drought conditions continue to plague small grains, pastures and ranges, and young crops. Farmers have turned cattle on some small grains due to poor yield prospects, and ranchers are feeding livestock heavily due to lack of grazing on ranges. Livestock sales are starting to increase in some locations as ranges continue to deteriorate. High winds and sandstorms have damaged some young crops.

COASTAL BEND: A few counties got some rain last week but virtually all of the region remains dry. Young crops, pastures and ranges are suffering from lack of moisture. Wheat is turning color. Livestock are in fair to good shape, with supplemental feeding continuing in some locations. A good peach crop is developing.

SOUTH: Dry conditions are causing farmers to irrigate corn, sugarcane and citrus groves. Some grain sorghum has been replanted due to damage from high winds and blowing sand. Onion harvesting is under way and spring vegetables continue to make good progress. Pruning and removal of freeze-damaged citrus trees continues. Pastures and ranges are providing some grazing but need rain.

Pair seeks output of 'family' movies

Lyman Dayton and Douglas Stewart are two multi-talented film makers who have some very definite ideas on today's motion picture market.

"There's very little 'family films' out there," affirms Dayton, who, with partner Stewart head the Dayton-Stewart Organization, a new motion picture production facility located in St. George, Utah.

"By 'family film,' we don't mean just the stereotypical Disney movie," explains Stewart. "We hope that our films will have very wide audiences because of their intelligence and universal appeal, rather than the current trends towards sex and violence."

Putting their philosophy to action, they have just released the first film from the fledgling company, "Solo" (PG), which is scheduled to open at the Star Theater in Hereford April 27. It stars Randy Hamilton and Sandy Kearns and is based on the book by Patricia O'Brien King (published by Desert Books). It is the true story of a young wife and mother of five who crashes on her first cross-country solo flight, and her family's refusal to give up hope, even after all official air searches are halted five days after she is reported missing.

Helen Keller

Sequel praised

NEW YORK (AP) — It's always risky to do a sequel to a critically acclaimed movie, particularly one that celebrated a miracle. But "Helen Keller: The Miracle Continues" does justice to the original and has its own purposeful and inspirational story to tell.

This TV movie, which takes Helen Keller, who was blind and deaf from infancy, and her teacher, Annie Sullivan, to the years beyond "The Miracle Worker," will be broadcast in 100 markets on the syndicated network Operation Prime Time. Many stations will show the two-hour movie Monday night.

In the 1962 "Miracle Worker," starring Patty Duke as Helen and Anne Bancroft as Annie, Helen's recognition of the world around her begins with Annie spelling the word "w-a-t-e-r" into her hand. That came at the age of 7.

Tonight's story picks up 10 years later in 1898, with Helen studying to enter Radcliffe College. She was essentially an exclusive male domain then, and it was a major achievement for any woman to further her education. For a blind and deaf woman, it was mind-boggling.

Although "Solo" is their first co-production, both Dayton and Stewart have extensive entertainment backgrounds. Both are graduates of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. Dayton is experienced in all aspects of film making and distribution with producer credits on such films as "The Fearmaker," with Katy Jurado and Paul Picerni; "Where the Red Fern Grows," with James Whitmore and Beverly Garland; "Seven Alone," with Aldo Ray; "Against a Crooked Sky," with Richard Boone; "Pony Express Rider," with Stewart Peterson, Jack Elam, Slim Pickens and Dub Taylor.

Douglas Stewart was previously associated with Dayton on "The Fearmaker," and he wrote the screenplays for "Against a Crooked Sky," "Where the Red Fern Grows" and "Seven Alone."

"As family men ourselves, we are trying to make films that the family can enjoy together, rather than the kids going to their films while the parents see their brand. Our films will appeal to all audiences; single people, senior citizens — everyone who enjoys the kind of film that you feel good about after walking out of the theatre," Dayton believes.

Not only did Helen go to school, she graduated and, while there, wrote magazine articles and a book.

The movie examines the special bond between Helen (Mare Winningham) and Annie (Blythe Danner). Essentially, Annie also was enrolled at Radcliffe.

The relationship between the two women dominates their lives, and it satisfies many of their needs. At times, the brilliant and perceptive Helen becomes the teacher.

TV often feels the need to romanticize things, and that's a flaw here. But even if the experiences of the two women are treated a bit too superficially and sweetly, that doesn't diminish the story's devastating impact, made even more forceful by the performances of Miss Winnigham and Miss Danner.

Starts own company

Perryton publisher finds success

When Eastern publishers told Perryton, Texas, author John Erickson that his humor books wouldn't sell, he started his own publishing company, Maverick Books.

That was in September of 1982. When his first book, "The Devil in Texas," sold 5,000 copies in four months, it was clear that someone in New York had made a mistake.

And that was just fine with Erickson.

Since then, Maverick Books has grown and flourished, and John Erickson keeps writing books that are tickling funnybones all over the United States, as well as in Australia, Ireland, and Canada.

In his latest Maverick book, "Alkali County Tales" (Maverick Books, $5.95), he's mining the same rich seam of ore he tapped in "The Devil in Texas and Cowboys Are Partly Human—cattle, horses, ranch folks, and life in the western heartland.

Alkali County is the mythical setting for these stories. "In my mind," says the author, "Alkali County is somewhere between Rosston, Oklahoma, and Canadian, Texas. But it could be anywhere in the West."

One of the citizens of Alkali County is Willie Onthenex-ranch, a grouchy rancher who never stops searching for a way to beat the system and make the cattle business pay off.

Willie's not a bad fellow, but he has a tendency to cut corners, open his mouth when he shouldn't, and scheme up ways of beating widow women out of a nickel.

He's also something of a philosopher. It was Willie who said, "Christmas beats tuna fish sandwiches," and "Having neighbors is a pain in the neck, but having enemies might be even worse."

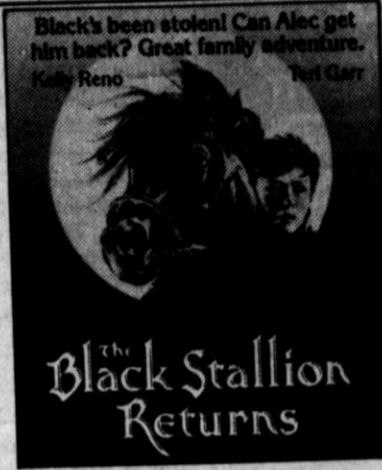

Another citizen of Alkali County is Dr. Barley McOatwheat, a brilliant scientist at the Alkali County Experiment Station. McOatwheat and his faithful secretary, Miss Mattie Sparrow, apply all the powers of modern science to the problems of agriculture.

For example, Dr. McOatwheat has discovered that ordinary tank water is poisonous. If you breathe it for up to ten minutes, it'll kill you.

He has also found an alternative to high-priced beef, a revolutionary new source of cheap protein: stray cats.

It all adds up to another delightful reading experience from Maverick Books and the author Western Horseman Magazine has called "one of the best storytellers in the contemporary West."

NO ONE ESCAPES PRESBYOPIA

QUESTION: I don't wear glasses now but sometimes I have to strain to read the fine print in a book or newspaper. A friend of mine who wears glasses told me I probably have presbyopia. How serious is that condition and what is it exactly?

ANSWER: Presbyopia comes to all of us if we live long enough. It's part of the process of aging. It happens when we lose the use of our near-focusing muscles. They begin to lose their strength when we approach middle age. That's one reason why many people need glasses for reading at that time of life. Many people resist the idea of wearing glasses, but when reading, or working with figures, or even viewing television causes eye strain and headaches, properly fitted glasses bring welcome relief and comfort.

Wally's business has expenses ... so does ours.

When Wally's milk shake business expenses are less than his sales, he earns a profit. At the end of the day, he counts his money and subtracts his costs. If his expenses for ice cream, milk, syrup, cups and straws are less than his total income from sales, he earns money. Otherwise, he loses money.

When you pay Southwestern Public Service Company for your electric service each month, you help pay the expenses of making and delivering electricity. Two-thirds of this money helps pay the expenses of running the power plants that use coal and natural gas as boiler fuel to make your electricity, and the expenses of getting the power to you. Other expenses are taxes, interest and any earnings which help build the power plants, transmission and distribution systems for your electric future and which pay stockholders and other investors for the use of their money.

Letting you know how your payment is spent is another way we're ...
