Educational reform plan done

Being sent to Legislature

By SCOTT MCCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - An educational reform plan scaled down to under $1 billion is on its way to the Legislature after receiving final approval from its creators - the Select Committee on Public Education.

The committee voted Thursday to postpone some costly items in its blueprint for a revamped public school system in Texas, but maintained the heart of the package.

If approved by the Legislature in a special session expected this summer, students will spend more time in the classroom and will have more homework. Teachers will be better paid and will work under a "career ladder," but will have to take basic skills tests. Extracurricular activities and sports will be limited. The committee promised teachers an across-the-board 10 percent increase in the minimum salary scale.

"I do believe we have the foundation here for great progress in the education system in Texas," said Gov. Mark White after final approval of the report. "I believe the people of Texas will applaud the work of this committee."

Just to make sure, the governor said he and the state's other top elected officials will tape television commercials aimed at selling the reforms - and the tax hike needed to pay for it - to the public before a special session of the Legislature.

The blue-ribbon committee chaired by Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot, meeting formally for the first time after 10 months of study, scaled its plans back from a package of more than $2.4 billion to one of more than $987 million.

Most of that money is earmarked for teacher salaries and "equalization aid" to poor school districts.

In its final report, the committee left intact reforms approved last month that will not cost new tax revenue, such as limiting extracurricular activities and sports, requiring more homework and giving teachers basic skills tests.

Both White and Perot said they believed that if the program is implemented, it would give Texas one of the finest public education systems in the country and ease the state's transition from an oil and gas state to a high-technology leader.

"The future of the state and the future of our cities - the future of San Antonio and El Paso - is tied to getting this new educational system," said Perot, founder and chairman of the Electronic Data Systems, a Dallas computing company.

To trim its program, the committee recommended that the 175-day school year be extended by five days instead of 10 and that class size limits be dropped to only 20 students in first and second grades. Originally, the committee had recommended class sizes be limited to 15 students in grades one through four.

The committee also put off until 1988 plans to extend the seven-hour school day by two hours for optional extracurricular activities, and tutoring and requiring a full day of kindergarten for 5-year-olds.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said the nearly $1 billion in additional tax revenue needed to fund the Perot committee's plan could be raised through a one-cent increase in the sales tax or a combination of so-called luxury or "sin" taxes.

"We think this is an obtainable figure," Lewis said. White acknowledged that it would be difficult to convince lawmakers to raise taxes during an election year, but added: "The worst thing we can do in an election year is to turn our backs on the real needs of the state of Texas."

White also said he believed the plan would fulfill his campaign promise of a 24 percent teacher pay raise over two years - 12 percent in 1985 and 12 percent in 1986.

The committee did not specify what teacher salaries would be other than to say

Celebration helped by relative

For first 'Deaf Smith Day' Thursday

By LINDA CAUDLE

Lois Hull, the great-great-granddaughter of Erastus "Deaf" Smith, made a guest appearance at Northwest Primary School third graders' "Salute to the county's namesake Thursday morning."

The program was presented to the public in conjunction with "Deaf Smith Day" in Hereford, officially proclaimed by Mayor Wes Fisher at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce fun breakfast earlier that morning.

A portrait of the county's namesake was presented to Deaf Smith County Librarian Dianne Pierson on behalf of the county, to be hung in the Bay View Room of the local library, and historical portraits were also presented to Northwest School Principal Gary Billingsley, to be placed in the school.

The third graders gave facts and anecdotes about the life of Smith, and performed two musical numbers, "Texas is Great!" and "Texas, Our Texas."

Beore introducing Hull, it was noted that Smith's oldest living relative, 96-year-old great-granddaughter Miss Josephine Broadbent, is presently living in a nursing home in San Antonio.

Hull, a San Antonio native who now resides in Canyon, stated that she was pleased to be invited to Hereford for the salute to her ancestor, who is known as the hero of the battle of San Jacinto because he was instrumental in destroying the bridge over Vince's Bayou. That move proved to be a major factor in General Sam Houston's victory over Santa Anna at San Jacinto.

"I was very impressed with the work these students did to stage such a program, and I'm glad that I could be a part of it," Hull noted. "It's a wonderful way to learn Texas history."

She admitted that being related to a famous historical person helped to make history even more fascinating for her personally, and growing up near the Alamo, she became interested in history at an early age.

"My grandmother was very involved in historical associations such as Daughters of the Republic of Texas, and she worked to preserve the Alamo," she said. Hull has lived in the Texas Panhandle 35 years, and having a life-long love of music and drama, she has played the part of Aunt Anna in "Texas" at Palo Duro Cnayan for nine seasons, which she thoroughly enjoys. She actively pursues volunteer activities, working with the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation and serving on the boards of the South Randall County Hospital District, Catholic Family Services, Foundation for Fine Arts at West Texas State University, Panhandle Plains Museum Auxiliary, Lone Star Ballet, Session of the Presbyterian Church and Meals on Wheels. She holds a B.A. degree in English from the University of Texas and has three sons.

Cleanup campaign eyed

Plans for a citywide beautification campaign were discussed when directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce held a regular monthly board meeting Thursday at the C of C office.

In other business Thursday afternoon, directors discussed the possibility of setting up a summer rest stop for tourists, made plans for a membership drive, and heard regular committee progress reports.

By chamber

The annual beautification campaign is scheduled to start the first week of May, but some civic groups are already making plans to participate, it was announced by Mike Carr, executive vice president.

The Noon Kiwanis Club and the Golden K Club are making plans to landscape and begin work on triangle tracts of land that are not being cared for at present. The noon club plans to work on the triangle on N. 25 Mile Avenue near the intersection of Park Avenue, while the Golden K Club has picked out some triangle plots on Park Avenue.

Carr said other civic clubs will be asked to participate in the campaign, and an effort made to get as many citizens involved as possible.

President Bobby Owen announced that a chamber membership drive will be launched next Tuesday. Melvin Jayroe, membership chairman, reported that a one-week drive is planned. "Businesses who are not members of the chamber will be contacted, and some firms will be asked to increase their investment in the community," said Jayroe.

Carr reported a businessman had suggested the idea of installing a tourist's rest stop on Hwy. 60 during the summer months. The manned stop would offer tours and display county items of interest. The board approved further study into the project.

An update on the legislative affairs committee included information on the three political forums that have been held. The final forum is scheduled next Tuesday night with sheriff, constable and state representative candidates invited to appear.

Directors present for the meeting were Bobby Owen, Rex Easterwood, John Stagner, Danny Boyer, Steve Nieman, Irene McKinster, John Hays, Rosie Griffin, Charlie Bell, Jim Arney and Arvella Lauderback.

Meanwhile, two amber warning lights on Progressive Road were stolen sometime Thursday, the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office reported this morning.

A department spokesman also said there was one incident of attempted theft of a camper top. That try was foiled when the owner arrived home while the crime was in process.

Embassy barricades bolstered

Prime Minister Thatcher returns for briefing

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) - Police strengthened barricades around the besieged Libyan Embassy today and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, back from a visit to Portugal, drove straight to her country retreat for a briefing on the diplomatic standoff.

Both London and the government of Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy are taking tough stands in the four-day showdown, with Khadafy saying he will settle for nothing less than an end to the siege and London demanding to search the Libyan Embassy and question those inside about the shooting incident which began the confrontation.

Telephone conversations between police and the Libyans holed up in the embassy are "cordial," Scotland Yard spokesman John Miller said today.

Lemonade, candy bars and American cigarettes were sent in before dawn and "talks are continuing as and when necessary," Miller said. He declined to elaborate.

The confrontation began Tuesday after a gunman firing from the embassy sprayed 70 peaceful anti-Khadafy demonstrators with a submachine gun fire, killing a young policewoman and wounding 11 protesters.

Inside the besieged embassy, a Libyan who gave no name told a reporter by telephone: "We're innocent. We have not harmed anyone, nor broken any laws in this country."

"We have no gunmen here in this building and we have no guns or ammunition."

He said he and his 20 to 30 colleagues plan to observe a "holy day" today, but did not elaborate.

Scaffolding and other materials were moved in to strengthen the 20-foot-high blinds of blue plastic sheeting blocking off the six streets that run into fashionable St. James's Square where the Libyan "People's Bureau" is ringed by marksmen.

Spectators who have gathered daily at the entrance from Regent Street, one of London's main shopping zones, can see only police officers and blue-bereted, flak-jacketed Scotland Yard snipers moving in and out of the barricaded area.

Still, the crowds reach up to 100 people at a time, and Scotland Yard said today, "We're expecting larger crowds than usual over the long Easter weekend. We're taking routine precautions."

Reporter claims he was tortured

MCALLEN (AP) - A McAllen newspaper said it will file a protest in Mexico on behalf of a reporter who claims he was arrested and tortured for hours by Mexican authorities following coverage of a strike rally.

Scott Lind, a reporter for the (McAllen) Monitor for about 2 1/2 years, said Thursday he was held overnight Tuesday in a Mexican police office building, blindfolded, beaten on the head and shocked with a cattle prod.

"During the four hours of interrogation I received electric shocks to my testicles, neck, legs and at least one time to my lips, and (they) periodically struck me on the ears and side of my face. At the same time, asking me who I had talked to that day," Lind, 29, told the Associated Press.

Oscar Bravo, commander of the Reynosa municipal police, said Lind was arrested because he was "inciting" supporters of four hunger strikers.

Concentration camp survivor killed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A 54-year-old man remained in Bexar County Jail today in lieu of a $100,000 bond in connection with the shooting death of a Polish immigrant who he claimed had attacked him with a mop and a broom.

Joel Ortega, 54, was charged with murder in the death of Diane Dzanski, prosecutors said. Ortega told police he fired at the woman in self-defense.

Dzanski, 59, who had survived the horrors of a Nazi concentration camp and moved to Texas after she abandoned the search for her missing family, was found shot to death Tuesday night in the B&D Ice House, a bar that she owned.

"She lost her family when Germany invaded Poland," said Dzanski's ex-husband, Bruno Dzanski. "She lived in the work camps. She tried to locate her mother and father after the war. There was no way to know if they were killed or alive."

Governor working on tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White says it will be at least next week before he knows whether there is a "general agreement" among legislative leaders for a one cent sales tax increase.

However, White told a news conference Thursday, there is widespread acceptance now among state Senate and House leaders for doubling the state gasoline tax with a five cent hike.

He said he did not know if an increase in motor vehicle registration fees would be necessary.

White commented Wednesday shortly before the Select Committee on Public Education made its final report in Dallas.

White said he felt there is a "growing consensus around the prospect of a five cents a gallon increase in the gasoline tax" - twice the present tax. He said such an increase would produce an additional $360 million each year.

Reagan will push Chinese

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - President Reagan, preparing for his first visit to China next week, says he will do everything short of displaying a "Buy America" sticker to help sell American products during his talks with Chinese leaders.

Reagan said the United States is now China's third largest trading partner and there are promising opportunities for increasing that trade because China has opened itself up to foreign investment.

"The change that has occurred there, their willingness to collaborate with private enterprise, is an amazing change," Reagan said of Peking's communist leaders.

"I'll go there as something of a salesman, doing everything I can up to the point of putting a 'Buy America' sticker on my bag," Reagan told a group of trade industry representatives at Tacoma, Wash., Thursday.

Video show and tell begins

LOS ANGELES (AP) - With large black earphones clamped over his silver hair, automaker John Z. De Lorean heard himself in a government tape volunteer to use the books of "my private company" to launder money for a convicted drug smuggler.

The words poured from a tape machine in a packed courtroom Thursday as the government opened the electronic show-and-tell portion of its case. One videotape depicted De Lorean calmly assessing a cocaine-based financial proposal as "a good opportunity."

The 59-year-old automaker, arrested in October 1982 in a government "sting," is accused of conspiring to distribute $24 million worth of cocaine to help his now-bankrupt De Lorean Motor Co. in Northern Ireland.

Defense lawyers say the tapes are deceptive, claiming De Lorean was being "set up" to look guilty when he was actually frightened and resisting suggestions of a drug deal.

Evidence looks very good

NEW YORK (AP) - On the strength of new studies in the United States and France, researchers say it "looks very good" that a virus discovered in France last year may be the long-sought cause of the deadly disease AIDS.

The virus, which the French researchers call "lymphadenopathy virus," or LAV, is the most likely candidate yet as a cause of AIDS, according to a variety of researchers interviewed by The Associated Press.

The new evidence casts doubt on a hypothesis of researchers at the National Cancer Institute, which has contended that a human cancer virus is likely responsible for AIDS.

Salvadorans hopeful of move

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Salvadoran officials hope for increased economic and military aid from Israel now that the Israeli Embassy here has reopened and El Salvador's embassy has been moved to Jerusalem.

The Foreign Ministry received the credentials of the new Israeli ambassador, Aryeh Amir, on April 12 in a private ceremony held as Israel announced that the Salvadoran Embassy had been shifted from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem, Israel's disputed capital.

"I believe that our relations, and aid, will increase," President Alvaro Magana of El Salvador said in a telephone interview.

Magana said a security agreement and aid from Israel was an "interesting possibility" in light of the latest developments.

Mondale's looking on

Hart's bid undetermined

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Gary Hart insists his latest loss hasn't dented his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, but Walter F. Mondale is starting to ignore the Colorado senator as he aims his words at President Reagan.

Hart and Mondale were both back in Washington today for an Easter weekend break from the campaign, while the Rev. Jesse Jackson pressed on in Ohio, seeking support in his May 8 primary.

Mondale campaigned in Ohio and Michigan on Thursday, mentioning Hart only once in an entire day of events while describing Reagan as incapable of coping with the nation's future.

"We have everything we need for our future except a leader to take us there," Mondale said in Cincinnati.

As Mondale spoke, Reagan departed Washington for the West Coast and the first leg of his election-year trip to China, a mission of foreign summitry and sightseeing that may take some of the attention away from the three Democratic contenders.

While Mondale was at a fund-raiser in Dearborn, Mich., Secret Service agents overpowered an armed union official and led him away from the candidate when they noticed he was carrying a gun.

The man, identified as William Polakowski, a United Auto Workers international representative, was released after questioning and after agents determined there was no threat to Mondale, said Secret Service spokesman Jack Smith.

Hart, who suffered another large defeat to Mondale in Missouri's caucuses on Wednesday, campaigned in Texas and North Carolina on Thursday and insisted he still can overtake Mondale on the nomination - and go on to beat Reagan.

"There is no state, the loss of which is going to drive me out of this race," Hart said.

"Nationally, I run much stronger against Mr. Reagan than Mr. Mondale does ... There are too many people in this party who are not at all pleased by Mr. Mondale."

But with Missouri's results, the odds grew longer for Hart. Mondale won 50 delegates in Missouri's caucuses to 18 for Hart and seven for Jackson. That means Mondale now has 1,130.8 of the 1,967 delegates it takes to win the nomination. Hart has 624 and Jackson has 166.2.

The next state picking delegates is Vermont, which holds caucuses Tuesday.

Jackson campaigned across central and eastern North Carolina on Thursday and criticized that state's runoff primary system, which he said hurts black candidates.

While in the leading flue-cured tobacco producing state, Jackson said he opposed the federal price support system for the crop.

"We take the position that we do not support a subsidy program for tobacco because it serves no socially useful purpose," he said.

Meanwhile, John B. Anderson, the unsuccessful independent candidate for president in 1980, went into seclusion to make a decision on whether to run for president again this year as a third-party candidate.

Pacific storm bringing floods, winter repeat

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

Winter made a comeback in the Rockies today after snow fell 10 inches deep in Nevada, while rain-swollen rivers in Idaho and Oregon forced 45 families from their homes and left one town "looking for a little Dutch boy" to plug a leaking dike.

Heavy thunderstorms that spawned a tornado in Reelton, Ala., late Thursday, destroying a game arcade but causing no injuries, raced into Georgia early today and dumped an inch of rain on Atlanta in two hours.

And the tail of a huge Eastern storm that has spent the week edging into the Atlantic Ocean brought yet another day of rain from northern Virginia through most of New York.

Snow and rain fell today from western Montana through Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and northern New Mexico. Two people were killed and five were injured in an accident Thursday on a rain-slicked road in Point of the Mountain, Utah.

Utah's mountains, already buried under a record snowpack, had 8 inches of snow by late Thursday and were expected to get another 16 today, with half a foot in lower elevations. The temperature dropped from 56 to 37 degrees in just four hours at Cedar City as the storm moved in Thursday.

"We're going from summer to spring to winter in just a matter of a few days," said Jim Weismuller, a National Weather Service forecaster in Denver.

The storm was expected to hit northeastern Colorado and southeastern Wyoming full force today, cutting highway visibility as the Easter weekend began.

In the Northwest, 10,000 sandbags were being installed at spots on the rain-swollen Snake River along the Idaho-Oregon border to contain the water. The Snake was at 12.8 feet Thursday at Ontario and expected to hit 13.2 feet sometime this morning, sheriff's deputies said. Twelve feet is considered flood stage.

Four families were evacuated from an eastern Oregon trailer park Thursday when leaks sprouted in an earthen dike at the confluence of the Snake and Maulheur rivers.

"They don't have the water coming over the dike; it's coming through it," said National Guard Sgt. Gary Getman. "We're looking for a little Dutch boy."

Authorities estimated 45 families had been chased from their homes in eastern Oregon as a record snowpack - 240 percent above normal - began to melt. The town of Owyhee Junction was "dam near completely evacuated" after 18 inches of water covered Main Street, Getman said.

The Snake's waters broke up a section of Interstate 84 a mile east of the Idaho border Thursday night, sending a truck crashing into the center divider and injuring its driver.

State police said westbound traffic would have to detour around the section for the next three or four days while crews made major repairs on the highway, a link between Portland, Ore., and Salt Lake City.

U.S. Senators talk with Nicaraguan government

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - Two U.S. senators conferred here with Nicaragua's vice foreign minister, and leftist rebels in El Salvador said it was their gunfire that hit and forced down the senators' helicopter two days ago.

Sens. J. Bennett Johnston and Lawton Chiles met with Victor Hugo Tinoco, vice foreign minister of the leftist Sandinista government, soon after their arrival Thursday. Details of the discussions were not disclosed.

Prior to the meeting with Tinoco in Managua, Johnston, a Louisiana Democrat, said he and Chiles, D-Fla., wanted to talk to Sandinista leaders to "see what their intention is regarding the military buildup here."

Chiles said the senators would discuss Nicaragua's alleged support of insurgents in El Salvador. The Reagan administration supports the Salvadoran government in its civil war and opposes the leftist Nicaraguan regime.

Later, the senators attended a dinner at the U.S. Embassy with leaders of a few small opposition parties. They were to return to Washington today.

In Costa Rica, a spokesman for rebels trying to overthrow the Sandinistas said his forces have pulled out of San Juan del Norte, the Caribbean port town they had occupied last week.

It was the first time Nicaraguan rebels had gained control of a town since they took up arms in late 1981, but the government says the town has no economic or strategic importance.

"What interests us is the control of the coast and the mouth of the (San Juan) river," said Orion Pastora, a spokesman for the rebels' Revolutionary Democratic Alliance. "We are still fighting in those areas" and remain in control, he said.

Pastora is a distant cousin of Edén Pastora, the leader of the Costa Rica-based rebel group. Edén Pastora was a hero of the 1979 revolution that put the Sandinistas in power, but he later broke with them over their growing ties to Cuba and the Soviet Union.

In El Salvador, the rebels' Radio Venceremos said Thursday that guerrilla gunfire had hit the UH-1 helicopter carrying Johnston and Chiles as the senators were headed to a U.N.-run camp for Salvadoran refugees in Honduras near the Salvadoran border Wednesday. The helicopter was forced to land, but no one was injured.

The broadcast said the helicopter had flown over rebel-controlled towns on the Salvadoran side of the border on a "reconnaissance mission." Chiles had said it was impossible to tell which side of the border the copter was over when it was fired upon.

The Chicago Cardinals, now known as the St. Louis Cardinals, won the 1947 National Football League title by beating the Philadelphia Eagles 28-21, in the championship game.

More jobs waiting

June graduates: The Conference Board interviewed 1,500 CEOs and got a near unanimous prognosis: this year more jobs are waiting for you than any year in eight.

And communication is where the action is. Some of my recent broadcasts, telecasts and newspaper columns have been prepared on and delivered from a farm in the Missouri Ozarks. And almost nobody knew.

With a dish on the roof and a satellite in the sky the news sources find me and my voice finds you - from anywhere to anywhere - in a hundredth-of-a-second.

What was impossible yesterday is already commonplace. Wait'll you see what's next!

With your next telephone call you'll be able to see who's calling before you answer.

In the next automobiles - there will be no way for you to get lost. Your location and destination will be pinpointed by satellite navigation.

Telephones, already becoming commonplace in cars, will be available shirt-pocket-size.

At home you will enjoy holographic TV in three dimensions. It is functional now; it will be price-practical within five years.

Young Americans wanting to ride the wave should get aboard now.

If your business is worldwide, the new telecopiers will automatically translate our words into any language.

Corporations used to be able to market some new technology, confident it would be in demand for 30 years. Today's state-of-the-art technology comes off the production line already obsolescent.

Yesterday's copper wires and radio signals and ground antennas - even electricity itself - are fast being replaced by glass fibers and microwaves and satellites and laser beams and the pulsating digital language of computers.

U.S. News recently tried to compute the dollar value of all this communications technology - and couldn't. Sales of hardware alone reached $60 billion last year; next year is incalculable, potentially astronomical.

By the end of this century there is no reason communication cannot replace the classroom with home study.

And now I'm going to tell you a little more than I know: Overseas diplomats and some business executives are being equipped with implanted transmitters. There is no place a kidnapper could hide him.

And this is but the dawn of the information society; it's going to be an exciting day!

Qualifies in regional meet

Moreno advances to State Meet

Sophomore Selma Moreno ran the fastest 3,200 meters of her career to finish second at the Region 1 Girls Track Meet in Lubbock's Texas Tech University Track Thursday.

Miss Moreno's time of 11:33.01 qualified her for the State Track meet in Austin May 4 and 5. She shaved off more than 30 seconds of her previous best time in the 3,200 meters of 12:03.4.

Miss Moreno was reportedly passed on the eighth and final lap by El Paso Jefferson's Claudine Navarro but outkicked Navarro in the final 200-meters to finish second behind Claire Hardy of Midland High.

Moreno becomes the first runner in the history of girls track at HHS to advance to the Girls State Track Meet.

"Hereford has been represented at the State Meet in a field event," before but never in a running event according to girls varsity track coach Martha Emerson.

Suzanne Duvall, Stanton Junior High coach and high school shot put and discus coach placed sixth in the shot at the State Meet in 1977, Emerson reported.

Hereford had entrants in five events but Moreno was the only person to qualify for Junior Lisa Redmon came in third in the 100-meter dash for the second consecutive year and failed to make the finals in the 200-meter dash "although she ran her best time of the year in the 200 in the prelims on Wednesday (25.6)," Emerson said.

Miss Redmon won the District 3-5A 100 and 200-meter dashes.

Senior Bernice Thomas, district champion in the discus threw 111 but did not place at the regionals.

Young issues public apology

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

While Steve Young's mouth has raised the ire of United States Football League officials, his left arm and legs are having the desired effect on the field.

Young, the USFL player of the week after hitting 22 of 34 passes for a club-record 358 yards in a victory over Memphis last Saturday, leads the Los Angeles Express into Chicago to play the Blitz tonight amidst a dark cloud of controversy.

Young, a rookie who recently signed a $40 million contract with the Express, said earlier this week that he expected the USFL to fold "sooner than people think" and that only a few teams would be absorbed into the established National Football League.

His remarks were described as "unfortunate" by league officials, who said in a statement that they were made "by an inexperienced young man who probably had little concept of the impact they would have."

But, after arriving in Chicago Thursday night, Young was apologetic.

"I got involved in league politics and I shouldn't have," he said. "I learned my lesson, and I'll bear the brunt for it. I feel horrible. ... I'm still young and haven't learned yet what you can say and what you can't."

In tonight's other USFL game, Memphis is at Jacksonville, while Arizona is at Houston and Oklahoma at Birmingham Saturday night. On Sunday, Denver is at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Antonio, New Jersey at Pittsburgh and Washington at Oakland.

Young compared his earlier comments to throwing an interception, but he has made few mistakes on the field although the Express, 3-5, have lost two of the three games in which he has played.

The 6-foot-2, 200-pounder from Brigham Young has completed 57 percent of his passes, which has not escaped the notice of Blitz Coach Marv Levy.

"He's been getting better each week," Levy said. "He has a good background from the college passing experience he had. Because he can move so well, besides throw, he's considered the best quarterback ever to come out of BYU."

Young also has rushed for 90 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries, including a 1-yard TD run in overtime to beat the Showboats.

"That kind of effort and determination spreads throughout the team," said Express Coach John Hadl. "Steve's a phenomenal young man. The decisions he makes at his age are unbelievable. He's a born leader."

Meanwhile, Chicago has been playing like one of the teams Young said has little future as a franchise. The team is 2-6, lost its last game 41-7 to Philadelphia and has been on the selling block for several weeks.

Tonight's Showboats-Bulls game matches two 2-6 teams. When they met March 31, Memphis defeated Jacksonville 27-24 with Showboats kicker Alan Duncan hitting a 32-yard field goal as time ran out.

Memphis again will have former Alabama star Walter Lewis at quarterback, while Jacksonville Coach Lindy Infante plans to give rookie signal-caller Ken Hobart of Idaho his first start.

Let's talk.
Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Manager-Community Relations

A look at "local measured service"

Perhaps you've heard about a new optional type of service that Southwestern Bell Telephone is proposing for its Texas customers. It's called Local Measured Service (LMS). Simply put, LMS would give you the option of paying for your direct use of the telephone network.

Southwestern Bell Telephone's LMS proposal to the Public Utility Commission (PUC) includes an option that would lower fixed monthly charges while adding a low usage charge for each completed outgoing call. Those calls would be billed on the basis of distance, duration of the call and the time of day.

Another option would be a "LIFELINE" service at a 85 monthly fee. This service would be targeted to the elderly on poverty-level income. The rate would include a usage allowance of 25 completed outgoing local calls. Additional completed outgoing local calls would be billed at the rate of 8 cents each. Customers would not be charged for incoming calls under either plan.

It's your option

LMS is for residence customers, as well as single-line, one-party business customers. And of course you could keep the current "flat-rate" monthly service if you'd prefer.

These new local service pricing plans would be available within 60 days of Commission approval in 89 offices which currently serve over 2,500,000 customer lines. The company plans to equip the remaining offices within two years after approval.

I think you'll agree there are several benefits to measured service. It would give you options for choosing the plan that gives you more control over your phone bill. You'd also have the option of paying for the service you used, rather than subsidizing those who use their phones a great deal more than you do.

While LMS as a standard service offering would be new to Southwestern Bell Telephone's Texas customers, it isn't new in Texas. Customers of three other companies in the Lone Star State - General Telephone, Continental Telephone and Cent-Tel - are taking advantage of LMS. And like us, other companies - United Tel, Palo Pinto Tel and Mustang Tel - have requests pending with the PUC.

Customer interest

We're proposing the service because we've known there has been a need for optional pricing in Texas. Last summer we conducted a survey to determine customer interest in LMS.

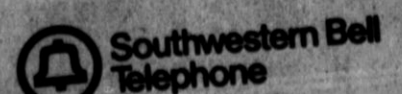

We found that interest was strong, particularly among those customers making fewer local calls or shorter-duration calls. The results also showed that customers want wider choices in how they pay for service by having the ability to match their cost to their calling needs.

At this time, PUC hearings on LMS are set to begin Sept. 24 in Austin. You can look for more information about LMS in the special insert in your telephone bill.

A new brochure, "Services for Disabled Customers," is now available. It has information on disabled services and how to contact AT&T's National Special Needs Center. You can get a copy by writing to:

Herd hosts Coronado today

The boys varsity baseball team has an opportunity to shave a game off the lead of second-place Lubbock Coronado as they host the Mustangs today at 4 p.m. Coronado at 8-3 has a two-game lead over the Herd for the second district playoff berth. Including today's game, HHS has four more games to play. Coronado has five including today's contest. Lubbock Monterey at 11-0 virtually has first place and a playoff spot wrapped up.

Golfers ninth in District 3-5A

The boys varsity golf team finished ninth in the final round of its district golf championship at Amarillo's Ross Rogers Golf Course Thursday. Amarillo High shot 317 on its final round to win district with a 72-hole total of 1,300. Plainview came in second with 327 on the day and 1,320 for the season. Matt Albracht shot an outstanding 78 for the Whitefaces on the day. Michael Drake followed with 87, Robert Valdez and Leonard Nikkel each had 89, and Albert Valdez added 93. Only the top four scorers are used to tabulate team scores. Herford's B team finished 15th out of 17 teams. It was paced by Dean Murphey's 101 score; Scott Folger hit for 102; Glen Backus also had 102; Mike Allred finished with 104; and Mark Paetzold added 112. Thursday marked the end to the golfers season.

Tracksters compete in Lubbock

The boys varsity track team had a rough go of it at its district track meet in Lubbock as HHS finished last with 21 team points. Results of the race show that Herford will not have any representatives at the boys Region 1-5A meet scheduled May 4-5 in Lubbock. Lubbock Coronado won the district meet finishing with 154 points while Palo Duro High captured second with 104 points. HHS senior Craig Jones cleared 13-0 in the pole vault for third place. First place went to Tascosa's John Alexander who also cleared 13-0 and had fewer misses to win the event. Lee Brockman placed third in the shot put with a toss of 50-4 but does not advance to state regionals because only the top two finishers in each event qualify. Francisco Saucedo came in sixth in the 400-meter dash with a time of 53.25.

Trainer to race Derby hopeful soon

By ED SCHUYLER JR. AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1975, trainer Leroy Jolley used the Wood Memorial as a springboard to a Kentucky Derby victory for Foolish Pleasure. Saturday, Leroy Jolley Jr. will try to win the Wood with Derby hopeful The Wedding Guest. "I want to be the best, like my father," says the 19-year-old Jolley, who this past winter saddled eight winners from 19 starters at Hialeah. Two of those victories came from Charles E. Harris III's The Wedding Guest, one in a maiden race and the other in an allowance.

The Wedding Guest became a Derby hopeful with a 5½-length victory in the six-furlong Swift at Aqueduct, a solid second in the Aqueduct's Bay Shore and a good third in the 1 1-16-mile Jim Beam April 1 at Latonia. Saturday he can clinch a start in the 1¼-mile Derby to be run on May 5. The Wedding Guest, who will be ridden by Angel Cordero Jr., was entered Thursday with seven other 3-year-olds in the 1½-mile Wood, all of them nominated for the Derby. Each of the will carry the Derby weight of 126 pounds. With eight starters, the winner will get $180,000 from a purse of $300,000.

carried 126 pounds in finishing second to Secret Prince, 114, in the Bay Shore, is the early 5-2 favorite. Second at 3-1 is Jeanne Vance's Bear Hunt, the upset winner of the Gotham at Aqueduct on April 7. Bear Hunt, who will be ridden by Don MacBeth, won two of three starts as a 2-year-old. This year, after finishing third in a 1 1-16-mile allowance race and 14th in the 1 1-16-mile Dade County on the grass, he won an allowance race over a mile and 70 yards March 18 at Aqueduct, then won the Gotham.

Three other Wood contenders are Ogden Phipps Counterfeit Money, second in the 1 1-16-mile Fountain of Youth and seventh in the 1¼-mile Florida Derby; Irwin Feiner's Raja's Shark, fourth in the Jim Beam, and Cesar P. Kimmel's On The Sauce, third in the Gotham. The field in post position order is Counterfeit Money, Jerry Bailey; On The Sauce, Robbie Davis; Raja's Shark, Rick Wilson; The Wedding Guest; Restless Meteor, Ruben Hernandez; Bear Hunt; Groom's Image, Jimmy Miranda, and Leroy S. Jean Cruguet.

Ann Landers Financial blackmail

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please help me. I have nowhere else to turn since all my friends are my husband's friends, too.

This is my second marriage. My husband treats my children beautifully and I would like to have a good relationship with his children also. But they are so grabby it makes me angry.

His two teenage daughters live in another state with their mother. He sends child-support checks in the mail regularly. (We never see (or hear) from them except when they want something, which is quite often.

The children and the ex-wife are well aware that I am much better off financially than my husband. And this is where the trouble comes in. Although we send gifts on appropriate occasions, requests keep coming for $400 gadgets, trips to Europe and the most expensive brand-name items imaginable. These teenagers want clothes in a price range I seldom buy for myself, let alone for my own children.

My husband cannot afford the things these girls ask for, but they know I can afford them - so they keep pressuring us.

I don't want to cause additional friction between my husband and his children, but I hate to be conned into buying their affection.

Please offer some words of wisdom. I need help. -Between A Rock And A Hard Place

DEAR B.: It is up to your husband to put an end to the financial blackmail. He must tell his daughters that he cannot afford the items they ask for. If they continue to ask, their requests should be ignored.

If this puts the dead hand on their relationship, your husband hasn't lost much, and he should recognize it:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We nearly lost our only son to drugs by waiting too long to get help. I don't want the same thing to happen to the 16-year-old daughter of "Desperate Mom."

Those of us whose children have been involved with drugs recognize the signs-sloppiness, new far-out friends, loss of interest in school, lies and the mysterious disappearance of money from purses and wallets.

After spending thousands of dollars on counselors, we learned that a person on drugs doesn't need "a counselor"-he needs a DRUG counselor.

I'd like to urge "Desperate Mom" to learn as much about drugs as fast as she can. She should call hotlines, county and state agencies concerned with drug abuse, chemical dependency units of local hospitals and crisis intervention centers.

Every day she waits puts her daughter in greater danger. I hope that she passes the information on to the parents of the young man her daughter is going with. We must all care for each other if we are to do battle with the drug culture and put an end to the agony it is causing so many victims and their families. -Been There In Santa Ana

DEAR B.T.: Thanks for sitting in my chair today. You've given all parents of drug abusers excellent advice. I hope they take it.
