

Borger Blasted, 35-7

Herd Offensive Line 'Comes of Age'

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
Hereford Whiteface head football coach Don Cumpston knew his 1981 version of the "Hostile Herd" was going to be good, but he wasn't about to show too much confidence, especially early in the year with an inexperienced offensive line.

Friday night at Whiteface Stadium, Cumpston may have finally been able to relax a bit as his 'Faces overcame a highly-regarded team of Borger Bulldogs enroute to a 35-7 victory, the third for Hereford in as many tries this season.

"Our offensive line came of age last night," Cumpston said Saturday morning as the coaching staff prepared to view films of the lop-sided Herd win. "They controlled the line of scrimmage when we had the ball."

That's that, enough said. So well did the Whitefaces control the ball that they ran off 81 plays while the troubled

Bulldogs were snapping the pigskin only 33 times. "We had the ball for 36 minutes, and they had it for 12," Cumpston revealed. "We felt that the key to beating Borger and offsetting their exceptional speed was keeping the ball away from their offense."

Hereford, led by senior quarterback Alan Wartes and the running of senior tailback Wayne High, amassed 475 yards in the game, while the 'Dogs managed a mere 68.

The HHS defense played a near immaculate game. "I thought our defensive effort was superb," Cumpston said. "I thought we complimented each other offensively and defensively."

The rugged Herd defense, which has allowed but 16 points in three outings, stifled the Borger speed all night long, allowing heralded HHS quarterback Tony Tillman a minus five yards, and holding standout back Sedrick Love to only eight on the night.

The only Borger score came on the second half kickoff when Tillman squirted through the middle and raced down the left sideline eluding Arnold Villegas and kicker Raymond Martinez for a 95-yard TD romp.

And, High answered Tillman's burst with an 81-yard scamper on the ensuing kickoff for the Herd, but an illegal block below the waist wiped out the six-pointer.

High finished the game as the leading rusher with 161 yards on 24 carries. Alfred Ball added 77 yards on 10 totes, while Jeff Coupe rushed for 68 markers on 11 tries.

Terrence Sheppard led the Bulldog "attack" with 32 yards on four carries, most of it coming in the final five minutes of play against HHS reserves.

Wartes continued to show he's one of the premier signal-callers in the area with a six-for-12 performance passing for three touchdowns, and scoring the

Clements Eases Stand On Illegal Aliens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements emerged from a one-hour meeting with Attorney General William French Smith Friday and said he no longer objects to President Reagan's proposal for granting amnesty and legalization to Mexican workers who have crossed illegally into Texas.

His previous outbursts against the program were because he misunderstood a key element of the plan. The misunderstanding became quickly obvious and was hastily cleared up in their meeting, the governor added. "I'm encouraged we can reach a mutually acceptable and supportable accommodation," Clements told newsmen outside Smith's office.

Government officials had said when the program goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1982, that up to 50,000 Mexicans would be allowed into Texas each year to work on a temporary basis.

Another part of the program provides for allowing all illegal aliens now in Texas, for whatever reason as long as they were in the state before Jan. 1, 1980, to surface and become legal.

Clements had protested that Texas had far more than 50,000 illegal Mexican aliens and that legalizing that many wouldn't touch the problem. After meeting with Smith on Friday, the governor said he became aware his conception was wrong.

"There has been a great misunderstanding on the 50,000 figure, and I want to clear it up. The 50,000 figure in the guest worker program envisions 50,000 aliens not now in the United States being issued guest worker visas," Clements said.

"The 50,000 has no relation to those already in the United States. Those in the United States already, whatever the number may be — and there's been a wide discrepancy on the figure — (See CLEMENTS, Page 2A)

Locals to Attend Tax Law Seminar

AUSTIN — Recent changes in Texas property tax laws will be the topic of a seminar scheduled Monday in Amarillo for officials and administrators of local governments and county appraisal districts.

The seminar is one of a dozen being conducted during September throughout the state by staff members of the State Property Tax Board. Each session is planned to assist local tax officials in understanding amendments to the Texas Property Tax Code recently enacted by the legislature in House Bill 30.

Among those attending from Hereford will be county tax appraisal district chief appraiser Fred Fox and Vance Crume, Cliff Arnold, and Bob Hammond of his office. A group from J.W. McMorries & Co. of Hereford will also be attending the seminar.

The Hereford contingent will join representatives from Dimmitt, Muleshoe, and Friona on the trip.

Signed into law by Gov.

Clements on Aug. 14, the 144-page HB 30 includes a number of changes to the tax code which may require immediate action by many taxing units and countywide central appraisal districts.

For example, county participation in the appraisal district is mandatory and county governments not previously joining the district will be able to participate in the amended process for electing appraisal district directors this fall.

In addition, HB 30 changed certain eligibility requirements for these directors, as well as other matters affecting appraisal district administration, budgets and implementation dates.

In most counties, on Jan. 1, 1982, the appraisal district will assume the responsibility of valuing property for tax purposes of all local governments within the county. Taxpayers will have only one office to deal with when applying for homestead exemp-

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says too many folks have more objections than objectives.

Things ain't what they used to be and probably never was.—Will Rogers

A fellow at the coffee shop this week said he didn't think the businessmen, banks and chamber of commerce seemed very concerned about the closing of the Armour plant. Made him wonder if he knew something about the situation we weren't telling.

Nope, we've reported everything we can get out of Armour or the union. Neither one is talking much. The business community is VERY concerned, but they are unable to make any moves that would get the attention of a giant corporation or a big labor union.

The word from Armour is that they plan to close down Oct. 1. If there is a possibility that the plant will sell to another company, no one in an official position has made a statement.

One of the more pressing needs brought on as a result of inflation and high interest rates is for some solution to the housing problem.

An article in the Dallas Times Herald recently told about a builder in Dallas who is providing houses that can be afforded by younger couples and those who are not in the higher income brackets. The company has sold 142 of these homes this year and have buyers lined up to buy all they can build.

It is a house with only 870 square feet of living space and is the smallest free-standing new home being sold in the Dallas area. It may not sound like much of a house to some folks, but it's probably better than what many present-day parents and grandparents started out with.

Basically, it is a trimmed-down version of the more common 15,000-square foot house, minus a bathroom, bedroom, second garage space, separate utility room and a few inches of space here, there and everywhere. It's built on the site, not pre-fab, and has brick walls.

In Dallas, this small house has two bedrooms, one bath, central heat and air, and carpeting. It sells for $45,000. That is without such things as a dishwasher, built-in range and oven.

Buyers have to dig up $3,000 down payment and then face payments of $592 a month. And they call this low-cost housing? I guess it is, compared to other homes that are larger and have all the extras!

The housing problem is one that is felt worldwide. In the Soviet Union, where the government owns practically all the housing, newlywed couples have to get on a waiting list—usually for several years — to rent an apartment. Until they do, the common thing is move in with parents.

At a coffee-and-cake gathering following Friday night's football game, fans were lavish in their praise of the performance of both the football team and the Mighty Maroon Band.

Reagan Insists His Plan Is Healthy for Country

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as his critics take to the streets in protest, President Reagan has embarked on a campaign to convince the nation his economic plan is "as good as money in the bank."

Reagan delivered one of his toughest attacks yet on critics of his economic policies Friday in Denver, then retreated to Camp David in the Maryland mountains — far from the din of tens of thousands of people converging on the capital to vent their displeasure with his approach.

Directing his remarks at "our friends in the financial markets," Reagan said: "I hope the people on Wall Street will pay attention to the folks on Main Street. If they do, they'll see that there is a rising tide of confidence in the future of America."

He berated "those Chicken Littles who proclaim the sky is falling and those others who recklessly play on high interest rates for their own narrow political purposes."

The president's speech was interrupted more than 25 times by applause from the National Federation of Republican Women audience. Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes said

Public Hearing Monday

The Hereford City Commission will conduct a public hearing concerning a request by the Energas Company for an increase in natural gas rates when they meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night.

Other items on the city agenda include bids on insurance, and matters pertaining to the tax appraisal district.

The meeting is open to the public.

the tough rhetoric reflected an effort to convince a jittery Wall Street — where stock prices have skidded to a 16-month low — that the administration is on a steady course and that Reagan will "keep preaching the gospel" of reduced increases in government spending and a balanced budget by fiscal 1984.

The president promised he would hold "to a firm, steady course over the long run."

"We did not sweat and bleed to get the economic package passed only to abandon it when the going gets a little tough," he declared.

Enroute back to Washington, Speakes said Reagan, who he described as "tired" after a busy week, will review budget options this weekend, without any aides or senior advisers present, and "make some decisions about what he would like to put in his plan."

A senior administration official who spoke on the condition he not be identified indicated that foreign aid, for which $8.5 billion is sought in 1982, would not be cut. He called it "the whipping boy for budget cutters" for years.

Reagan ended his Denver speech by reading a letter from a woman in a small Iowa town who wrote of the empty bedroom of a son who dropped out of college to join

U.S. Stance May Stall Nuke Talks

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S.-Soviet talks on limiting nuclear missiles in Europe may be doomed by Washington's tough stance toward Moscow, particularly allegations of possible Soviet involvement in chemical warfare, Soviet newspapers say.

"The latest barrage of false and absurd charges...are not conducive to paving the way to future negotiations on arms reductions," the Novosti news agency said in a commentary Friday. It referred to the chemical warfare charge raised last weekend by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Haig and other U.S. officials hinted the Soviets and their allies might be using chemical warfare agents called mytoxins in Cambodia, Laos and Afghanistan. The Kremlin denied the charge, calling it "slander."

80 Murders Break

Houston Record
HOUSTON (AP) — The 80 murders committed in Houston in August broke the old monthly record by 15, police officials say.
And officials predict the 1981 murder total will exceed that of any previous year.

"It's kind of frightening, really," said Capt. B.F. Adams of the Houston Police Department's Homicide Division. The old monthly record was set in November 1979.

Police have recorded 494 homicides reported this year, up from 463 during the same period in 1980. The number of homicides may reach 700 this year, Adams said, compared to the record of 664 in 1979.

"Let's face it — if we had a good explanation, someone could work on the problem," Adams said. "It's just human factor involved and each one is different."

Houston, the country's fifth-largest city with a population of 1.6 million, had the highest rate of murders per capita of any of the nation's five largest cities in 1980 with 40 slayings per 100,000 inhabitants.

FAA to Hire 200

Pilots in Southwest

DALLAS (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has offered jobs to 206 laid-off pilots in the Southwest region as part of a nationwide program developed since thousands of traffic controllers went on strike last month.

The airline pilots are among 1,500 across the country to be hired as temporary aides to working air traffic controllers, FAA officials said.

The pilots, many of whom were laid off after members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization walked off their jobs, will be "flight data specialists" with annual starting salaries of $15,193.

"They will provide flight data processing, communications and administrative support when the day's play begins, won three of four bestball matches in the morning and took the lead for the first time in these biennial matches at the Walton Heath Golf Club course.

Four more matches of foursome competition, in which each two-man team plays alternate shots on the same ball, are scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Teen Gets 55 Years

for Girl's Rape

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Robert Chrismon has been sentenced to 55 years in prison for the rape of a high school girl kidnapped last March.

Jurors also handed Chrismon a 10-year sentence Friday, to run concurrently with the other term, for aggravated assault in connection with the March 25 kidnapping incident.

The 18-year-old San Antonio youth was convicted Thursday on one count of a four-count indictment charging aggravated kidnapping, aggravated rape, aggravated sexual abuse an aggravated robbery in connection with the March 25 incident.

Chrismon was found guilty of aggravated assault after prosecutors said he tried to stab a Corpus Christi police officer during his arrest.

The teen-age girl earlier testified that she was kidnapped at knife-point when Chrismon and another companion forced their way into her car while she was driving to class.

She said the two men took her to Corpus Christi, where they contacted her parents and demanded a $4,000 ransom.

Police arrested Chrismon as he attempted to pick up the ransom at a phone booth in Corpus Christi.

Blind Man Awarded

$1 Million in Damages

HOUSTON (AP) — The jury that awarded $1.3 million Friday to a Houston man who was partially blinded when a resealable cap blew off a soft drink bottle and struck him was the first to grant punitive damages in such a case, an attorney says.

Doug Matthews said several product liability suits have been filed against the Aluminum Company of America for injuries inflicted by caps that exploded off bottles of carbonated drinks, but said his client James Alm was the first to win punitive as well as actual damages.

Alm won $305,500 in actual damages, of which Alcoa will pay 55 percent and J.F.W. Enterprises, the firm that owned the 7-Up bottling facility in Houston at the time the bottle was produced, would pay 45 percent.

He was also awarded $1 million in punitive damages after the jury found Alcoa had been "grossly negligent."

Alm lost 75 percent of the vision in his right eye in 1976 after he was injured by a cap off a 32-ounce bottle of 7-Up.

Four HHS Students Named As Scholarship Semifinalists

Four Hereford High School students have been named National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists and will compete for 5,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1982.

Earn Academic Honors

The students from Hereford qualifying are Paula Alexander, daughter of Dr. Earl G. Alexander; Robert Foster, son of Don Foster; Katherine Geiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Geiger; and Glenna West, daughter of Bill West.

Over one million students enrolled in some 18,000 secondary schools nationwide entered the 1982 Merit Program by taking the PSAT-NMSQT in 1980; Semifinalists named in each state represent the top half of one percent of the state's high school senior class. In addition to being honored publicly, Semifinalists are identified to colleges and universities in an effort to increase the educational opportunities of these exceptional students.

To be considered for Merit Scholarships, Semifinalists named today must qualify as Finalists by meeting additional requirements. The Finalist standards include being fully endorsed and recommended for scholarships by their principals, submitting records that demonstrate high academic standing, substantiating high qualifying test scores with equivalent scores on another examination, and supplying a self-description of their activities and extracurricular accomplishments. About 90 percent of the Semifinalists are expected to advance to Finalist standing; all Merit Scholars are chosen from among the highly able group of 13,500 Finalists.

Over 1,500 of the awards in 1982 will be nonrenewable National Merit $1,000 Scholarships for which all Finalists compete. As in the naming of Semifinalists, one-time "National" awards are allocated on a state representative basis. A Selection Committee of experienced college admissions officers and secondary school counselors will be convened to choose the winners.

About 3,500 renewable scholarships, most of which are worth between $1,000 and

$8,000 over four years of undergraduate study, will be awarded in 1982. Of these, some 1,500 will be financed by about 420 corporations, company foundations, and business organizations that designate the four-year Merit Scholarships they support for children of company employees, for Finalists from particular geographic areas, or for those planning careers a sponsor wishes to encourage. Additionally, more than 2,000 four-year awards will be underwritten by 180 colleges and universities for Finalists who will attend the sponsoring institutions. In April, names of Merit Scholarship winners will be released by NMSC in three separate nationwide announcements — one for each year of award. In the 26 competitions between 1956 and 1981, over 68,000 students have won Merit Scholarships valued at about $192 million. Twenty-two classes of Merit Scholars have completed their undergraduate study, and 17,500 Merit Scholarship recipients are currently enrolled in over 700 of the nation's higher education institutions.

they will surface, come out from cover and be identified. They would not be illegal any more and, through some type of paper given them, they would be legal."

Under the proposals being studied, an alien could gain permanent status by living and working in Texas for 10 years and then meeting an additional 5-year residence requirement on a flexible basis.

The aliens being given legal status would, perhaps, be allowed to move back and forth between Texas and Mexico each year for some period of time not yet determined, Clements said, with time spent in Texas counting toward the time they would be required to accumulate.

He called the meeting a good one, involving an open exchange of ideas.

"There was an agreement by all that exchanges will continue, that the next move in sequence is to start drafting legislation. Hearings are already underway on the illegal alien issue," Clements said.

The Justice Department The idea of renewable temporary work visas "is new to me, and not the way I understood it before," Clements said.

"I am certainly pleased with the result of our discussion. It's a constructive step forward. We will no longer have this subculture of people who are illegal," the governor added.

torney general, David D. Hiller, told newsmen the differences between Clements and Smith quickly melted away.

"We put the governor's understanding on one side and the president's on the other side to see where any overlap lay," Hiller said.

"We were all pleased to discover our positions were much closer than it had appeared. There was a general misunderstanding about the mechanics of the program. Having that cleared up, we think everything will run smoothly now," Hiller added.

"But we aren't attributing the misunderstanding just to the governor's staff. Maybe we didn't make it as clear as we should have."

"That's before the Fifth Court of Appeals, and it's my understanding that will be decided shortly," he said.

The government recently announced it would step out of suits concerning bilingual education in Texas.

"I told him I totally agreed with his position and that pushing such an issue downstream to Texas is exactly the way he should have handled it," the governor said about his conversation with Smith on that topic.

Whitefaces' initial points on a one-yard run in the second period.

Split end Mike Mason collected two Wartes aeriels for touchdowns. He took in a 24-yarder for six points with just 1:13 remaining in the half to boost the HHS lead to 14-0 at intermission, and hauled in a 13-yard strike from Wartes for his second TD on the Herd's first possession of the second half after the penalty wiped out High's kickoff return gem.

Rudy Hernandez, District 4-5A's top receiver, also added a touchdown catch for the Herd, capitalizing on the loose Borger secondary for a 24-yard scoring play with 2:00 left in the third period to give HHS a 28-7 lead.

Ball tacked on the final points for Hereford in the final stanza on a one-yard dive with 6:23 left. John Phibbs tacked on his fifth PAT of the night and 12th of the year without a miss for the final 35-7 margin.

Cornerback Shannon Ritchie led the stingy Whiteface defense in the game, intercepting two Tillman passes. His first steal set up the first Wartes-to-Mason scoring play as he stepped in front of Borger's Phillip Bailey for the interception at the BHS 30.

Ritchie's second steal came with 1:23 left in the third period on a diving catch of a Tillman pass at the Bulldog 46.

So well did the HHS defense control the game that Borger, which had but one first down in the initial half, got their second first down with only 6:10 remaining in the game. The 'Dogs finished with four first downs to the Herd's 33 in the contest, but their last-minute heroics were drowned out by a stalwart Herd defensive effort.

With 3:10 left the Bulldogs had driven to the HHS four yard-line, and faced a third-and-four situation when HHS' Mike Hill stopped Love for an eight-yard loss. Middle linebacker Ken Cosper put the finishing touches on the drive a play later when he sacked Tillman on the 16 with 2:48 left and the Whitefaces ran out the clock for the win.

Hereford faces a tough Canyon Eagle team next Friday at Whiteface Stadium. The Eagles blasted Amarillo Caprock 32-8 this week, and will test the Herd secondary like they haven't been yet this year.

"Canyon runs the Veer offense very well, and we've got to be able to stop their op-passes. They've probably got the best team they've had in the last four years."

Borger (2-1) meanwhile, faces winless Pampa at home next Friday night. The Harvesters, a 21-0 victim of the Herd in game one this season, have yet to score a point this year, falling to Dumas 7-0 and Lawton, Oklahoma 17-0.

Talks

Minister Andrei Gromyko are to meet at the United Nations Wednesday to set a date for the long-awaited missile negotiations.

Haig says he does not expect the chemical warfare issue to figure highly in the talks with Gromyko, but the Novosti commentary disagreed, saying the timing of the charge appeared to be an attempt "to aggravate these talks and make any agreement even on the time and place of future arms negotiations that much more difficult."

In a related attack, New

Times, a Soviet world affairs weekly, accused Washington of using tactics of "delay and procrastination" to stall the start of the missile talks, after agreeing only grudgingly to hold them.

"Talks have not yet begun but the Americans are already beginning to hedge them with preliminary conditions," the magazine claimed in its latest issue.

It said U.S. conditions include a demand that the Soviet Union "change its conduct in the international arena" and agree beforehand "to all forms of control that might be suggested by lovers of other people's secrets."

The Reagan administration has failed to "prove the seriousness of its intentions" to conduct arms limitation talks "on the principles of equality and equal security," the magazine said.

If Haig and Gromyko can reach agreement, U.S.-Soviet missile negotiations are expected to get under way in late November or early December, Western sources said here this week.

The talks will focus on plans by the NATO allies to deploy 572 new U.S.-made

Pershing-2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe starting in late 1983 to counter a reported buildup of scores of new Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at the West from Eastern Europe.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization agreed to the deployment, but America's allies insisted it must be coupled with U.S.-Soviet missile limitation talks. The NATO allies, particularly West Germany, have been facing growing pressure from peace groups demanding that the missile decision be reversed.

The defense so dominated the game that Whiteface fans had only two things to worry about — the kickoff returns by the speedy Borger quarterback, and the stick-pom-poms being waved in the stands by excited small fry!

Of course, the offensive unit for Hereford wasn't bad. It has been a lengthy spell since a Hereford team racked up 475 yards in total offense. The record apparently was recorded against Tulsa in 1969 when Hereford racked up 375 rushing and 127 passing—a 502 total.

Meals on Wheels Program Ends Here After More Than 9 Years Run

Meals on Wheels, an independent service manned by volunteers, made its final delivery of meals to the sick and elderly here Friday.

It ended a "ministry of love" that lasted more than nine years for Lola Curtsinger of Hereford. She initiated the project in May, 1972, with three customers the first day and had six after one week.

The client list peaked in the 30's, and there were 22 customers being provided meals daily at the close of program Friday.

It was a series of circumstances that caused Mrs. Curtsinger and her advisory board to terminate the program. A major factor was the retirement of the cook, Mrs. Johnnie Davis. There are now more programs for the elderly and sick, points out Mrs. Curtsinger.

It was not a matter of funds. Mrs. Curtsinger said the program was in the best financial condition ever, "with about $5,000 in the treasury at present." She said the money would be turned over to the Senior Citizens Center.

The local program was funded strictly on contributions, with much of the money coming from church groups, civic clubs and individuals. No government funds were ever used. The only paid worker was the cook, who was paid through the Green Thumb program.

The meals were delivered once daily to people who were confined to their homes, elderly people who needed a wholesome meal each day, and similar situations. Customers paid whatever they could afford, usually the price of the plates, but no pay was required.

The current advisory board included Mrs. Curtsinger, the director; Dr. C.E. Rush, Bill Fraser, Eloise McDougal, Laura Fowler, Lucille Guinn, and Schalan Atkinson, legal advisor.

Mrs. Curtsinger said she initiated the program here after reading about one in the Lubbock newspaper. She got information from several sources on the Meals on Wheels project, then met with city officials, doctors and the chamber of commerce to discuss the idea.

Interested people formed the first board of directors and got the program going. On the board were Mrs. Curtsinger, Andy Shuval, former district attorney; Gary Stagner, Laura Gibson, Eloise McDougal and Wales Wyble, a CPA who has since moved from Hereford.

Since the program required a registered dietician, the board started securing meals at Westgate in the beginning. The program was launched "about three months after I started working on it," recalls Mrs. Curtsinger.

"I was very discouraged at the start," said Mrs. Curtsinger. "I had 33 prospects but when we got ready to start serving, the list dwindled to zero. Some had gone to homes for the elderly, four had died, and others decided they didn't want to accept charity."

But the program started with three clients, and increased to six in the first week. "It was God's program from the start - the thing I've learned most of all is that I can trust Him with every detail of my life," said Mrs. Curtsinger.

Working wives

Since World War II, the number of married women in the labor force has skyrocketed, the Conference Board observes. Between 1940 and 1975, the share of married women holding jobs rose from less than 15 percent to 44 percent, a jump of 17 million.

Two Suspects Deny Extradition

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Two people accused of murder in the brutal attack that left two Korean women dead and a third critically wounded say they will fight extradition to Texas even though they voluntarily surrendered to Montana authorities.

Paul Kuck, 22, and Gertrude Small Virts, 20, remained in a Montana jail Friday after they walked into the Big Horn County Sheriff's Department and told officers they were being sought in connection with the Texas slayings, said Sheriff Walt Rider.

A peace justice set bond at $250,000 for both suspects, who are charged with two counts of murder and one count of attempted murder each.

A third suspect named in Texas warrants, Cindy May, remained at large.

Rider said the suspects have indicated they will fight extradition to Texas.

"They did not want to talk to us and we did not pursue it," Rider said.

Rider said Kuck is a former resident of Hardin, the seat of Big Horn County, and that Ms. Virts lives in Billings, Mont., about 50 miles to the west.

The three Korean women were shot and their throats were slashed last Saturday afternoon at the Osaka Health Spa, just outside Corpus Christi's city limits.

Nueces County Sheriff Solomon Ortiz said from $5,000 to $10,000 was taken in the incident, which apparently occurred when the spa was closed.

The bodies of Pong Yon

Forsgren, 34, and Youg Chi Clark, 25, were discovered minutes later by the spa's manager.

Tammy Lynn Lee remained hospitalized in critical condition Friday with gunshot and stab wounds.

Ortiz has said the women fought their attackers, who apparently entered through the spa's back door.

Nueces County officials have investigated the spa, formerly a massage parlor, and similar establishments in the area for possible prostitution operations.

Read Your Constitution

The Daughters of the American Revolution remind us that Sept. 17-23 has been proclaimed by the President of the United States as "Constitutional Week."

This week marks the 194th anniversary of the drafting of the U.S. Constitution. If our nation is to remain vital, it must maintain the spirit of liberty expressed in our constitution.

Mayor Bartley Dowell has proclaimed "Constitution Week" in Hereford and urges all citizens to pay special attention during this week to our federal constitution and the advantages of American citizenship.

The local DAR chapter reminds us that if we become indifferent to the worth of our freedom, we will have lost the right to freedom.

Read your constitution this week.

Don't Shoot Santa

Some 45 years ago the late Al Smith undertook to explain why government benefits, once begun, can be withdrawn only at great political risk.

"Nobody shoots at Santa Claus," said the well known Democrat.

About the same time, Harry Hopkins, Franklin Roosevelt's close advisor, was quoted as saying the operative political strategy of the New Deal was "Spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

There is no doubt that Democratic politicians of that day believed the use of massive federal funds to buy benefits for specific areas and groups paid off in votes.

The overall dominance of American politics by these Democrats for so many years appears to prove that they were right.

Last year, however, along came the "new Right" which is the belief that the American people have become disillusioned with Sugar Daddy government. Those who backed Ronald Reagan in 1980 believe the public is ready, perhaps eager, to give up the benefits of a semi-welfare state in return for less regulation and lower taxes.

However, it now is obvious that when the shoe begins to pinch, many Americans are not so sure they want to give up their benefits.

Some of President Reagan's critics say that as soon as the big federal program cuts take affect, for the most part after the 1982 fiscal year begins this October 1, that Reagan's popularity will drop and the members of Congress who have supported him will be in deep trouble.

To help that along, some anti-Reagan forces are already papering the country with publicity about the meaning of the administration's budget cuts.

AFCME, the big public employee union, ran the Reagan budget cuts in the mental health area through its computer and came up with the information that a mental institution in Illinois will lose so much in federal aid that by next July it will have to lay off 482 of its 1,500 workers.

Other gloomy forecasts about loss of jobs, loss of income for many communities, and predictions by many "economic experts" on the Reagan economic proposals are chipping away at support for the changes that appeared welcomed just a few months ago.

There is a lot of political hardball going on across the country to lay most of the country's economic problems on Ronald Reagan and his harebrained economic ideas.

The Republicans have control of the White House and the Senate and a pretty good coalition working in the House, which gives them a very good chance of translating into reality their long-ignored demands for less government.

It also gives the Democrats an opportunity to find out if old Al Smith was right.

WAGMAN FILE

On being No. 2

By Robert J. Wagman

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — They are like players in baseball's minor leagues. Some are youngsters on the way up. Others are distinguished veterans playing out their careers. Still others have just missed out on making the big time.

They are the nation's lieutenant governors, who gathered here recently to discuss issues of mutual interest: water and their lack thereof, the effects on their states of the Reagan tax and budget cuts and the problems of being No. 2.

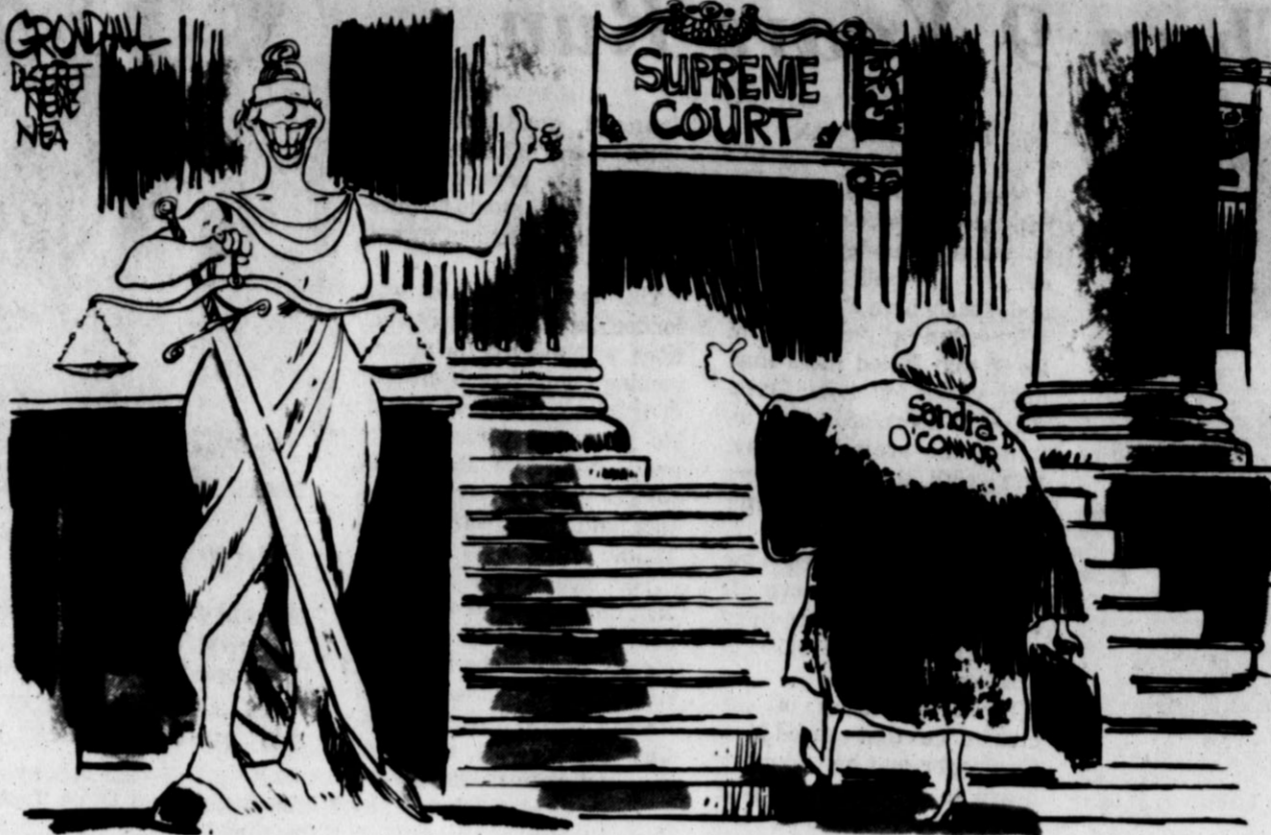

A few states manage to get along without a lieutenant governor. In some states the post is largely ceremonial while in others it carries with it some limited responsibilities, usually legislative. A few — a very few — lieutenant governors have real power, whether because of their official duties or their own political clout or their relationship with their governor.

Perhaps the most powerful of them is Bill Hobby, the Democrat who is serving his third term as lieutenant governor of Texas. His father was governor of the state, his mother was U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare under President Eisenhower and his family owns the Houston Post. Hobby presides over the Texas Senate with an iron hand. In many ways he has more influence in state politics than does the governor.

At the other extreme was Illinois' David O'Neal, who did not attend the Philadelphia meeting. O'Neal resigned from office recently, saying that it was "almost a crime to take taxpayers' money (his salary was $45,000 a year) for doing nothing."

Minnesota's Lt. Gov. Lou Wangberg and Gov. Albert Quie may enjoy the most unusual relationship between the No. 1 and No. 2 officials in state government. They ran for office as a team and have since grown very close — so close, in fact, that Wangberg serves as Quie's chief of staff in addition to presiding over the State Senate.

"This works for us because we are close and have a great

T.V. COMMERCIAL AWARDS

I watched the Dick Cavet show on t.v. the other night. His guests were a couple of t.v. critics who were biting the hand that feeds them. They were blasting the shows.

They, of all people, should know the real t.v. is the commercials. That is where the talent, time and money is spent. A couple of nights later I watched the Emmy Awards. Once again they dealt with the shows and forgot the real talent...the commercials.

I decided to start my own awards for t.v. commercials. Someone should take notice of this display of talent. In order to do my awards, I had to start listening to the things I am not ready to make the awards but I do have some observations to make.

I have decided there must be more money in feeding pets than there is in feeding people. I also decided if we feed pets scraps from the table, like God intended, we might be able to feed the starving children of the world (sermon over).

In the running for my Most Unlike Life award is the current advertising for a soap called "Caress." (The soap companies are using up all the good words to name their concoctions.)

Voice of Business

Disabled Included in Economy

By Richard L. Leshner, WASHINGTON — According to the World Health Organization, there are 450 million physically or mentally disabled persons inhabiting the globe. Thirty-five million of them are Americans. In an effort to focus world attention on the vast and often untapped potential of these individuals, the United Nations has designated 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP).

The observance of IYDP in the United States is being coordinated by David Kearns, President of Xerox Corporation. Kearns reports that more than 50 percent of working-age disabled people in the United States are unemployed. They and their families account for 50 percent of the poor, and the price tag, in terms of medical care, workers' compensation and rehabilitation, totaled $110 billion last year.

The business community, like most Americans, has become increasingly aware that individuals who may be defined as disabled in one sense, often have other talents which could make them valuable employees. Many companies have instituted programs which seek out talented handicapped individuals for productive careers. Sears, Roebuck & Co., for example, has operated such a program since 1947.

Business will expand these efforts, especially as economic opportunities grow as a result of the turnaround in economic policy in Washington. However, the most promising advantage that disabled Americans have going for them is that they live in a society with a rich, dramatic history of individuals overcoming hardships and realizing opportunities.

This heritage is graphically illustrated in the eloquent new book, Ethnic America by Thomas Sowell—the brilliant black economist who has incurred the wrath of many black political leaders by daring to suggest that a rejuvenated private enterprise economy, rather than additional federal spending programs, offers the best hope for the poor. "Nothing has so vindicated the untapped potential of ordinary people as the American experience," Sowell writes. In fact, the ethnic experience in America offers example after example of individuals who have overcome tremendous odds to build secure, prosperous lives for themselves and their children.

This is a lesson too often forgotten today, especially by younger generations who are far removed from the immediacy of the immigrant experience. "Progress is so generally taken for granted in the United States that it is necessary to realize that it is not automatic," Sowell reminds us. "In many parts of the world, people still live at an economic level not much above that of their ancestors."

This is not to suggest that hardships did not exist once immigrants reached the shores of America, or that they did not have to fight the bigotry which has, and still does afflict our society. But what makes the American experience different and has enabled many ethnic groups to overcome prejudice and prosper is the private enterprise system. "The rich economic opportunities of this country," Sowell explains, "make fighting over the division of existing material things less important than the expansion of output for all, and rewarded cooperative efforts so well as to make it profitable to overlook many differences."

I am confident the same will hold true for the millions of handicapped persons struggling to enter the economic mainstream of our country. For America has more than just a "supply side" economic policy; we believe in a "supply side" humanity, a devout conviction that the more free, educated, talented individuals contributing to our society, the more prosperous we will all be. As Walter Lippmann wrote some 50 years ago, "For the first time in human history, man had way of producing wealth in which the good fortune of others multiplied their own...in which, at long last, the golden rule was economically sound."

Thirty-five million disabled Americans are calling upon the rest of us to remember this and include them in our continuing economic success story. As we have learned many times in the past, there is surely enough opportunity to go around.

What Is It That Women Want?

Gloria Steinem says women want control over their own bodies.

Phyllis Schlafly says abortions should be illegal.

Gloria demands an equal rights amendment to the Constitution...

Phyllis says women already have all the rights they need.

What is it women really want?

When the subject of "women's rights" comes up, there is one point on which there is no disagreement.

Politicians, media, crusaders left and right, all agree that women should receive equal pay for equal work.

And the Supreme Court has so stated as recently as last June: Women should receive equal pay for equal work. But they don't.

Women do not get equal pay even on the staffs of United States senators! Women working is nothing new.

The tradition of sharing work between men and women goes back to pre-history when the women kept the cave, cooked and reared the children — while men tended the presumably more dangerous chore of hunting.

Through ancient Egyptian, Hebrew and Greek civilizations women worked as hard or harder than men.

The tradition of mostly women cloth-makers survives to this day.

It was the dream of Charles Dickens that "someday in the remote future married women will not have to leave their children and go out and work..."

Yet when it happened — when the American wife of modern times could do her work at home, then some elected to — or had to — return to outside-the-home employment. And in so doing demanded co-equal consideration.

What is it women want, really? In their fantasies, they want to be Princess Grace or Lady Di.

In the less than ideal real world they want the same freedom a man has — the freedom to choose.

That's why many women, not in the least interested in becoming truck drivers, plumbers or lumberjacks — argue for the rights of the women who do want to do those things.

And for equivalent pay for them when they do.

In our social democracy there remain two privileged classes who have been reaping without sowing.

They include the professional welfare recipients who resist being weaned. They don't want equality, they want special privilege.

And at the other end of the social spectrum are the Phyllis Schlaflys, themselves so "taken care of" that they resist being weaned. They don't want equality, they want special privilege.

It is the have-nothings and the have-everythings who are frightened of the equality which a Constitutional Amendment might impose.

The Bootleg Philosopher

Mandate Is For Taxing Units, Too

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek discusses mandates this week.

Dear editor:

The trouble with a lot of states, counties, cities and school districts is they don't know a mandate when they see one.

President Reagan said his election clearly was a mandate from the people to cut taxes and government spending, and Congress believed it too and as a result the Federal budget has been slashed and income taxes cut.

But now come these other taxing units around the country increasing spending and raising taxes. Balance the Federal budget and unbalance everybody else's.

You mean to say one mandate won't cover the whole nation, we've got to have one for every single taxing unit? If so, even the cost of mandates has gone up.

There is one way to increase government revenue a little without raising taxes! Charge prisoners for room and board while in jail.

Yours faithfully
J.A.

Jesus said people did not put new wine in old bottles. New wineskins have some elasticity, but old ones do not. New wine is still fermenting and giving off gases, which causes pressure. New skins will yield to the pressure, but old ones burst and are lost together with the wine.

"And no man putteth new wine into old bottles: else the new wine doth burst the bottles, and the wine is spilled, and the bottle will be marred: but new wine must be put into new bottles." — Mark 2:22

When the people begged King Rehoboam to be more lenient than his father, King Solomon, he followed the advice of the young men and threatened to chastise his subjects with scorpions. These were probably not animals but rather whips armed with sharp points to make the lash more severe.

"And the king answered the people roughly, and forsook the old men's counsel that they gave him; and spake to them after counsel of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke: my father also chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." — 1 Kings 12:13-14

The name "Jew" derives from the name "Judah." It was first applied to a member of the Southern Kingdom in contrast to a member of the Northern Kingdom. After the Babylonian Captivity all Hebrews were called Jews.

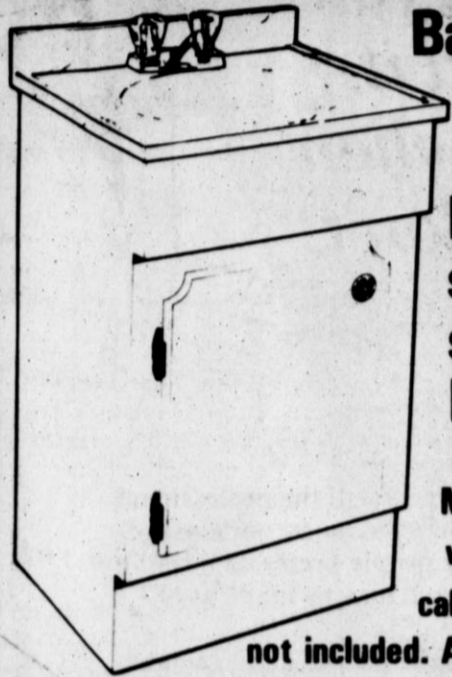

"And Jesus stood before the governor; and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest." — Matt. 27:11

The state of New York has been handing salt to Indians for 187 years. Under a treaty with the Onodagan in 1788, New York is obligated to give a bushel of salt every October to any member of the tribe who requests it. In return New York received 15,000 acres.

The Newspaper BIBLE

HE LITERALLY SWEAT BLOOD!

Jesus asked the disciples, "When I sent you out to preach the Good News and you were without money, duffle bag, or extra clothing, how did you get along?" "Fine," they replied.

"But now," He said, "take a duffle bag if you have one, and your money. And if you don't have a sword, better sell your clothes and buy one! For the time has come for this prophecy about Me to come true: 'He will be condemned as a criminal!' Yes, everything written about Me by the prophets will come true."

"Master," they replied, "we have two swords among us." "Enough!" He said.

Then, accompanied by the disciples, He left the upstairs room and went as usual to the Mount of Olives. There He told them, "Pray God that you will not be overcome by temptation."

He walked away, perhaps a stone's throw, and knelt down and prayed this prayer: "Father, if You are willing, please take away this cup of horror from Me. But I want Your will, not Mine."

Then an angel from heaven appeared and strengthened Him, for He was in such agony of spirit that He broke into a sweat of blood, with great drops falling to the ground as He prayed more and more earnestly.

At last He stood up again and returned to the disciples—only to find them asleep, exhausted from grief.

"Asleep!" He said. "Get up! pray God that you will not fall when you are tempted."

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 20, 1519, Ferdinand Magellan set sail from Spain on a voyage that took one of his ships around the world, history's first global circum-navigation.

On this date: In 1960, 13 newly independent African nations and the former British colony of Cyprus were admitted to United Nations.

And in 1977, Vietnam was admitted to United Nations.

Five years ago: Sweden's Social Democratic Party was narrowly defeated by a three-party non-socialist coalition.

One year ago: deposed Nicaraguan president Anastasio Somoza, slain three days earlier in Paraguay, was buried in Miami.

Today's birthdays: Fashion designer James Galanos is 57 years old. Actress Sophia Loren is 47.

The HHS cheerleaders had a lot to cheer about Friday night as the Whitefaces swamped Borger 35-7. Handling the spirit-boosting chores this year are (from left) Cynthia

In Dallas-New England Clash

'11 on 33' Patriots' Strategy

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — If the New England Patriots keep "11 guys on 33" and hold him under 100 their chances of being 1-2 should improve says Coach Ron Erhardt.

The Patriots' leader isn't resorting to numerological voodoo to shake his team out of its winless ways. In fact, he's being quite logical in preparing to play the Dallas Cowboys in Monday night's National Football League game.

Tony Dorsett is "33" his uniform number. He is off to his best start in five pro seasons, having gained 132 and 129 yards in his first two games. In the 22 games he has passed the 100-yard mark on the ground, Dallas is 21-1.

So it makes sense that a team has to stop Dorsett to have a better chance of stopping the Cowboys, who are unbeaten after two games.

"You can't let him out at all. Eleven guys on 33," Erhardt said. "Dorsett is running better. He's running more."

He leads the NFL in rushing and has gained 7.1 yards per carry tops in the National Football Conference. He also has caught eight passes for an average gain of 8.9 yards.

"He got married in the off-season and spent more time in Dallas and worked out more," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "This has made him stronger and more confident."

New England will be hard pressed to stop Dorsett. In their two previous games, the Patriots allowed Baltimore's Randy McMillan to run for 146 yards and Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery to gain 137. They also have allowed 103 more rushing yards than any other NFL team.

But Landry doesn't plan to tilt more toward running plays. "We try to really go with what goes good for us, and the running game has been going good. We don't really worry about the opponent," he said.

New England defensive end Tony McGee doesn't think the Patriots are as bad as the 600 rushing yards they've allowed.

"We did a good job last week in a 13-03 loss to the Eagles until we had to gamble and then when you gamble they can add 30 or 60 yards," he said. "We just need to go back and play our defense the way we should. We have to have 10 or 11 men around the ball."

On offense, New England could get a boost from the return of wide receiver Stanley Morgan and running back Vagas Ferguson.

At Sunday's Contest

Oilers' Turn for Dolphin Attack

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The youthful Miami Dolphin defense, which decimated Pittsburgh's once proud offense in its last outing, would like to add to the Houston Oilers' offensive problems when the two teams meet Sunday.

After the Dolphins finished with the Steelers, Coach Chuck Noll called it "total inundation."

Now it's Houston's turn.

"You can't take anything away from our defense and the way we've attacked," safety Glenn Blackwood said. "Everybody is expecting us to come out of our shell and really start shutting people down. I think this is the year."

Blackwood, who leads the NFL with three interceptions, and the Miami defense sacked Steeler quarterbacks four times en route to their 30-10 victory. Miami started the season by whipping St. Louis 20-7.

Sunday, they'll go after Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler, still rounding back into shape after ending a brief preseason retirement.

The Houston offense installed by new Head Coach Ed Biles and offensive coordinator Jim Shofner has been slow getting off the ground. The Oilers have only scored two touchdowns offensively in two games.

Bulgarian Snatches Record

LILLE, France (AP) — Blagois Blagoev of Bulgaria set a world weightlifting record for the 198-pound category with a snatch of 408 pounds in the World Weightlifting Championships.

Blagoev broke the record of Yuri Zakharevich of the Soviet Union, who snatched 403 pounds on June 20 in Ligano, Italy.

However, Shofner said the Oiler offense will continue to improve as Stabler, who retired briefly during the preseason, becomes more familiar with the new offense.

"We'll be able to do more as Kenny grasps more of what we're doing," Shofner said.

The Oiler defense also has been a key factor in Houston's 2-0 start with victories over Los Angeles and Cleveland. The Oiler defense decked Sipe four times last Sunday en route to a 9-3 victory on three Toni Fritsch field goals.

Shofner said the Oilers will continue to use three-time NFL rushing champion Earl Campbell out of the I-formation, when not operating out of a split-backfield.

"Obviously, we never intended to abandon the I-formation," Shofner said. "It would be kind of foolish of us not to give Earl the ball out of the I."

Campbell gained a near record 1,934 yards last season running mostly out of the I-formation. Most of Campbell's success against LA came from the I.

Chiefs, Still Undefeated, Meet High-Powered Chargers Today

Wartes, Cumpston In Conference

By The Associated Press

Are the Kansas City Chiefs for real?

The Chiefs, off to their best start since 1969 when they won their first two games and went on to victory in Super Bowl IV, meet the high-powered San Diego Chargers Sunday in a battle of undefeated American Football Conference West teams.

"It's an experience nobody on this team has ever felt except (center) Jack Rudny," said Chiefs cornerback Gary Green. "And I mean nobody."

"We are learning to win, and that lets your confidence grow like a snowball," added Green. "In the past three years, we played a lot of games that were very close, that we could have won. We didn't."

"Now, we are learning how to win."

The Chiefs opened their season by rallying to beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 37-33, then downed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 19-10.

But in the Chargers, who have beaten Cleveland 44-14 and Detroit 28-23, the Chiefs will be facing the National Football League's highest scoring team.

San Diego's offense is so explosive that it has frightened Kansas City Coach Marv Levy.

Tuesday, he said he had watched films only of the Chargers' defense. "I haven't looked at them on offense," he said. "I'm almost afraid to."

"If anything, their attack is better than a year ago, because they've got more balance to it," added Levy, recalling that San Diego averaged over 400 yards per game — an NFL record — in 1980.

"They are running better. (Chuck) Muncie is a great runner — very hard to bring down...I think they are willing to run more, and the success they've had means they're willing to come back to it more."

In other NFL games Sunday, it will be Miami at Houston, San Francisco at Atlanta, Cleveland at Cincinnati, Tampa Bay at Chicago, Baltimore at Denver, New Orleans at the New York Giants, Detroit at Minnesota, Seattle at Oakland, the New York Jets at Pittsburgh, Green Bay at Los Angeles and Washington at St. Louis.

Monday night, Dallas will be at New England.

In a Thursday night game, Philadelphia defeated Buffalo 20-14.

While San Diego's running game is improved with Muncie and rookie James Brooks, the Chargers' passing attack still is very dangerous.

Quarterback Dan Fouts went over the 20,000-yard career mark in passing last week by throwing for 316 yards against the Lions. Fouts tied his NFL record with his fourth straight regular-season 300-yard game. He has six consecutive 300-yard games, including the 1980 playoffs.

San Diego Coach Don Coryell knows the quick striking power of his offense, but he is concerned about the Chiefs' defense.

He has called Kansas City's secondary "the best we play against," and said he is wary of the Chiefs' linebacking crew, led by Gary Spani and Frank Manumaleuga.

Noting that the Chiefs have forced 11 fumbles in two games, Coryell said, "And those inside linebackers have caused seven of them."

Bird, Cowans Cleared

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Jurors cleared Boston Celtics Larry Bird and Dave Cowens of any wrongdoing and refused to award any damages to a San Antonio Spurs fan who claimed the athletes knocked him down and spit on him during a scuffle after a game.

The state district court jury deliberated for more than three hours over two days before deciding Friday that Johnny Merla was not entitled to any damages for the pain and humiliation he claimed he suffered in a confrontation with the players on Jan. 5, 1980 after a game at the HemisFair Arena.

Rookie Brooks Rejuvenated For 8-1 Victory Over Cards

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

After third baseman Hubie Brooks made two errors against the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night, New York Mets Manager Joe Torre took him aside for a bit of fatherly advice.

"I talked to Hubie privately before tonight's game," said Torre. "You have to do that with a young player. He's very aggressive and he knows there are going to be days when he'll be embarrassed. He's a rookie but he doesn't play like one — he can bounce back from adversity."

The talk paid dividends Friday night as Brooks bounced back to deliver a two-run triple and an RBI single as the Mets took an 8-1 victory over the National League East-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

"After yesterday, I just wanted to produce, to drive in some runs. I'm glad I did," said Brooks, who admitted he was "down" after Thursday night's 3-2 loss to the Phillies.

In other NL games, Montreal walloped Chicago 11-0; Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 5-4; San Francisco beat Houston 5-2; Atlanta blanked San Diego 3-0 and Pittsburgh tripped Philadelphia 7-6.

Brooks' triple highlighted a four-run first inning and his RBI single came in another four-run outburst in the eighth. Doug Flynn also knocked in three runs for the Mets, two with a single in the eighth.

Ed Lynch, 4-3, gained his first victory in four starts against the Cardinals with relief help from Jesse Orosco, who posted his first save of the season. St. Louis starter Bob Shirley, 5-4, lasted just one-third of an inning.

Expos 11, Cubs 0
Gary Carter drove in three runs with a pair of singles to support Scott Sanderson's five-hit pitching and Montreal took advantage of four Chicago errors to trounce the Cubs.

Sanderson, 9-6, struck out eight and walked three in gaining his first shutout of the season. He was able to coast after the Expos scored 11 runs in the first four innings.

Doug Bird, 4-4, was the loser.

Reds 5, Dodgers 4
Johnny Bench slammed a two-run pinch homer with one out in the ninth inning to lift Cincinnati over Los Angeles. Ron Oester opened the Reds' ninth with a single and, one out later, Bench, batting for pitcher Joe Price, 6-1, lined his seventh homer into the left field seats at Dodger Stadium.

The blow came off Dave Stewart, 4-3, who had not allowed the Reds a run in nine previous appearances against them.

Giants 5, Astros 2
Joe Morgan and Enos Cabell, two former Houston players, combined to beat their old team as San Francisco whipped the Astros.

Morgan, who came to the Giants this year as a free agent after helping the Astros to their first NL West title a year ago, pounded out three hits and scored two runs. Cabell, who came to the Giants in exchange for pitcher Bob Knipper, knocked in two runs with a single and a double.

Knipper, in his first visiting appearance at Candlestick Park, suffered his fourth loss in 12 decisions. Doyle Alexander, 9-7, was the winner.

Braves 3, Padres 0
Larry McWilliams notched his first victory of the year with a two-hitter and Bob Horner snapped an 0-for-14 slump with an RBI double as Atlanta beat San Diego.

McWilliams, 1-0, who has been sidelined with arm troubles over the past two seasons, struck out seven and walked four.

Padres starter Rick Wise,

3-7, held Atlanta scoreless until the sixth, when Horner's double put the Braves ahead to stay. The victory snapped a five-game losing streak for the Braves.

Pirates 7, Phillies 6
Pinch-hitter Mike Easler's two-out ninth inning double triggered a three-run rally that helped Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia. Tony Pena opened the ninth with a single off Ron Reed, 4-3, and took second on a sacrifice by Lee Lacy. One out later, Easler doubled to score Pena.

Omar Moreno was walked intentionally but left fielder Gary Matthews dropped Tim Foli's pop fly for an error as Easler and Moreno both scored on the play.

Rod Scurry, 4-5, got the victory in relief and Mark Lee posted his second save after Victor Cruz gave up two runs in the bottom of the ninth on a wild pitch and an RBI single by Larry Bowa, who extended his hitting streak to 16 games with three hits.

Cincinnati processed so many hogs in the early 1800's that it was called "Porkopolis."

Turkey Shoot Scheduled

The Hereford Ducks Unlimited chapter will sponsor a Turkey Shoot at the Hereford Gun Club range at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 26. Proceeds from the event will go to support wildlife conservation projects. All interested parties are invited to enter.

Cuts of pork will be awarded at the shoot, which is being held in conjunction with National Hunting & Fishing Day.

The annual Ducks Unlimited dinner has been set for Oct. 8, according to local spokesman Jim Steiert. The dinner will be held at the Hereford Country Club. An auction of art items and shotguns as well as other sporting goods items will be held at the dinner.

Boxing Program To Begin

Hereford's Golden Gloves Boxing program will begin tomorrow afternoon with the first practice session according to coach Raymond Casarez. The local club is sponsored by the American G.I. Forum, and is open to all boys ages 10 and up at no charge to participate.

The club will practice from 5-7 p.m. Monday-Friday at the Little Bull Barn. All equipment is provided.

Also helping coach the team is Robert Gates. The club had 15 members last year.

'One-Half Game Not Enough'

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

One-half game is never a very comfortable lead for a team in first place, but Milwaukee Brewers Manager Buck Rodgers says it is more precarious than ever because of the split baseball season.

Rodgers says he is concerned because the Brewers are scheduled to play one more game than Boston or Detroit in baseball's second season, and two more than Baltimore.

"One-half game ahead isn't enough," Rodgers said after the Brewers moved into first place in the American League East with a 5-1 victory over Baltimore Friday night. "If we were even with Baltimore in losses, for instance, we'd have to win the two extra games."

Milwaukee leads Detroit by one-half game, Boston and New York by one, and Baltimore by 1 1/2. All five teams have 16 losses.

Rodgers said now that his team is in the lead, the important thing is to stay there.

In other AL games Friday night, New York tripped Boston 6-4, Cleveland beat Detroit 8-4, Toronto defeated California 5-1, Oakland whipped Chicago 10-5, Minnesota stopped Texas 6-3 and Kansas City bombed Seattle 8-3.

Pete Vuckovich won his 13th game in 17 decisions and combined with Jamie Easterly on a seven-hitter in the victory over the Orioles. The triumph was Milwaukee's fifth in the last six games and was one of the few accomplished without the help of reliever Rollie Fingers, who has three victories and 26 saves.

Indians 8, Tigers 4
John Denny won his sixth straight decision, knocking Detroit out of first place for the first time since Aug. 29.

Bo Diaz hit a two-run homer and Alan Bannister scored three runs for Cleveland, which had four two-run innings to snap a five-game losing streak. The Tigers have lost five in a row.

Denny, 9-4, allowed nine hits in eight innings for the victory.

Royals 8, Mariners 3
Kansas City won its sixth straight game and maintained its three-game lead in the AL West as Willie Wilson knocked in three runs and scored twice.

Mike Jones, 5-1, scattered five hits in six innings and got relief help from Dan Quisenberry, who earned his 17th save.

Willie Aikens hit his 15th homer for the Royals.

Yankees 6, Red Sox 4
Dave Winfield, Bob Watson and Lou Piniella homered for New York to halt Boston's four-game winning streak.

Bobby Murcer broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning with a two-out, pinch-hit single off Bob Stanley, 9-7, while Ron Davis, 3-4, won in relief of Rick Reuschel, who gave up a two-run homer to Dwight Evans in Boston's three-run seventh inning that tied the game 4-4.

The Yankees have now beaten the Red Sox nine straight games in Boston dating back to Sept. 12, 1979.

A's 10, White Sox
Tony Armas hit a three-run triple to highlight Oakland's six-run third inning and Dwayne Murphy hit a grand-slam homer to pull away from Chicago in the ninth.

Steve McCatty, 12-6, won the fifth game of his career against Chicago without a loss although he had to leave the game in the sixth with a dizzy spell.

Jim Morrison homered for the White Sox.

Twins 6, Rangers 3
Dave Engle homered in the first and blasted a three-run double in his next at-bat an inning later as Minnesota breezed past Texas.

Pete Redfern, 6-8, allowed three runs and three hits in six innings before giving way to Twins relief ace Doug Corbett, who earned his 14th save.

Blue Jays 5, Angels 1
Toronto handed California its 12th loss in the last 13 games as Otto Velez hit a two-run triple and Lloyd Moseby knocked in two other runs.

Four Blue Jays pitchers held the Angels to six hits.

Suit Against NCAA Put On Hold

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal judge has put the Oklahoma-Georgia suit against the NCAA on hold, urging the College Football Association and the NCAA to reach a compromise at a special convention in December.

U.S. District Judge Luther Eubanks issued a temporary restraining order on Friday, preventing the National Collegiate Athletic Association from starting disciplinary proceedings against the universities of Oklahoma and Georgia.

NCAA spokesman David Cawood at NCAA headquarters in Mission, Kan., said, "Although the exact content of the modified restraining order is not yet clear, our legal counsel was pleased with the manner in which the hearing was conducted and the expression of the court that it would be preferable for the parties to resolve the matter out of court. The special convention affords us an opportunity to do so."

Oklahoma faculty representative Dan Gibbons and the school's chief legal counsel Stanley Ward announced Eubanks' decision Friday night.

Ward said the order also restrains the NCAA from implementing any football television contract purporting to bind the two universities.

The order is to continue until a final hearing on the merits of a class action suit filed by the University of Oklahoma and the University of Georgia Athletic Association regarding the 61-member CFA schools' property rights to televised football games. That hearing is scheduled the week after the NCAA special convention on Dec. 3-4, assuming the key issues are not resolved by then.

Energy Management Selected Project For Young Homemakers

The Hereford Chapter of Young Homemakers was organized in 1961 for the objective of helping individuals develop their abilities, develop a better understanding of the home and family members, and strengthening the bonds between home and community.

Young Homemakers is formed exclusively for educational purposes with particular reference to the area of homemaking.

Each chapter develops a program of work including projects which help achieve the purposes of the association. This year, the state Association of Young Homemakers of Texas, and the local chapter in conjunction with Texas Agri-Business Electric Council have selected the project of electric energy management and will be giving cash awards of $100 to the chapter that implements this project to the best advantage possible for the home and the community.

The Hereford Brand-Sunday, September 20, 1981-Page 1-B

The Hereford Chapter is participating in the state-wide YHT Electric Energy Management Project sponsored by the Texas Agri-Business Electric Council. Greg Black of Deaf Smith County Electric is giving information on electric energy conservation to Marilyn Culpepper and Cara Dearing.

One of the goals of YHT is to support the Future Homemakers of America and other groups working for the improvement of the home. Each year a member of YHT presides over the installation of the officers of LaPlata FHA. Pictured are Teresa Edwards, Julie Gallagher, Jeri Ann Beach and Marilyn Culpepper, member of YHT, who are on the planning committee for the installation.

Mrs. Beryl Burelsmith, chapter advisor, and Tonya Savage, outstanding future homemaker, are looking over plans and programs for the coming year. Miss Savage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Savage, is active in 4-H, band, choir, a third year homemaker and a member of three year FHA, currently serving as president.

'Remembrance of Austin'

By Louise Walker
County Extension Agent
(Dedicated to Kate Bradley, Gayle Carter, Charlene Pinkston, Louise Packard, Cindy Norvell, and Terri Johnson. These Extension Homemakers Club women and I attended the state meeting of Texas Extension Homemakers Association in Austin.)

A Remembrance - yes I'll always remember the week of Sept. 8-11, 1981. Many different emotions filled my body throughout the week. Looking forward and planning the trip created a lot of excitement during the holiday weekend. As I crawled out of bed at 4:30 a.m. on the morning of departure, grief overcame me. A mother shouldn't leave three small children for four days. Will Daddy be able to care for them adequately?

One part of me said, "Louise, you're terrible for leaving the family." The other part said, "Daddy is an adult and surely he can manage and he seems to have no doubts about keeping the house together." Despite the mixed emotions, I lost no time in getting to Amarillo. After all for seven months, I had planned on the trip.

I don't know as I had any emotional experiences during the eleven hour bus trip. Girls, you have convinced me I did fall out of my seat on the bus. It was all the bus driver's fault. He shouldn't have stopped on an incline. Anyone could fall out of their seat if they were on the uphill side and next to the center aisle.

The opening session of the convention gave me a lot of pride. Yes, it made you proud to be an American citizen. We saw people of other nationalities who had become U.S. citizens and they were proud of their United States.

The next day we felt compassion for the less fortunate as we heard an excellent speaker on The Special Olympics for the Handicaps. Another speaker told us some ways we could combat drug abuse. I stayed on a "high" all during my trip but it wasn't from drugs but from the fellowship of so many lovely women.

Oh, and I felt fear that day! How? Well it's a long story. Our bus driver graciously consented to haul us around Austin. On our first outing to the Capital, Deaf Smith just happened to get left. As anything that goes wrong is never my fault, I chose to blame it on the bus driver.

After a lovely visit with Karen Bailey, an employee of Bill Sarpalius, she took us to a quaint and interesting part of town. It seems we started hoofing in the wrong direction and we found ourselves in an area we'd rather not be. So I got just plain scared!

Our own Terri Johnson was on the state citizenship committee and they did an informative workshop. We learned we should get involved at the local level if we want to make things happen in our government. Her committee also had an interesting speaker on the credit bureau.

Our last night was the highlight of the convention - a most interesting motivational speaker. You felt like you could set the world on fire when you left. I need to hear him about once a month. He pointed out that each of us was one of a kind just as each leaf and raindrop are never duplicated. We are important. We can do exactly what we want to. Always be positive. It takes some failures before we can have successes. Babe Ruth held the world's record for a long time on the most home runs. No one ever knew he also had the most strikeouts. Success doesn't come without taking chances.

Excitement - again! For years I've longed to have a pair of jeans that fit. Always thought the cutting machines jammed and locked if they had to cut jeans for a larger than 25 inch waist. Well, I found me a pair of jeans - designer ones no less - on a group shopping tour. And the most exciting part was the first pair I tried on were too big. And in shirts, I had to go down two sizes before I got one to fit.

Oh, people, you'll never know the feeling I had when trying on something too big! It was a first experience. It makes you almost want to buy it just to show everyone that someone manufactures clothes bigger than yourself. My roomies had the emotion of fear - fear that I was going to sleep in my jeans. I was childlike in my excitement over my new outfit!

The convention ended all too soon and we trusted our lives to our capable bus driver for the return trip. Having gotten less sleep in three nights than I sometimes get in one night, I knew I'd spend my time sleeping but I didn't. I was so wide awake and had such a good feeling. It was a great convention and a lot of fun. It goes to prove learning can be fun.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was aglow with candles and the altar decorated with sonya gladiolas, apricot cushion mums and large white juji mums with smaller arrangements of them at the side altar Saturday afternoon as Pamela Joan Mazurek and Jeffrey Mike Shepic were united in marriage. The couple knelt on apricot colored cushions as Father Norman Boyd, associate pastor of St. Anthony's Church conducted the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mazurek, Jr., Rt. 3, Hereford, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Shepic, Canyon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding dress. Her white gown of chantilly lace and bridal satin was fashioned with a lace bodice trimmed with seed pearls and sequins; designed with a petal collar and miniature lace buttons fastened the bodice down the back. The lace sleeves tapered to deep petal points over her hands. Wide tiers of chantilly lace and nylon tulle embroidered with seed pearls and sequins accented the formal length full bouffant skirt of bridal slipper satin that fell to chapel train length. Her finger tip length veil of soft nylon tulle was held in place by a bonnet-brim of fluted tulle with matching chantilly lace, seed pearl and sequin trim. She wore her mother's blue lace garter and heirloom pearl earrings.

Her bouquet was of white crystal mums with baby's breath and english ivy. Lisa Mazurek, Amarillo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Serving as best man was Dave Schuette, Amarillo. Bridesmaids were Tori Mazurek, Hereford, sister of the bride; Mandy Mazurek, Hereford, sister of the bride; Sammee Mazurek, Canyon, sister of the bride. Serving as groomsmen were Joe Shepic, Canyon, brother of the groom; Allen Beghtel, Canyon; and Dave May, Mesquite, Texas.

Ushers were Scott Mazurek, Hereford, brother of the bride and Randy Williams, Hereford, brother-in-law to the bride. Lori Urbanczyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Urbanczyk, Hereford, was flower girl and T.J. Bayless, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bayless, Gruver, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

The bridal attendants all wore formal length cuprashon apricot gowns with flared skirts with attached ruffles. The bodice neckline had an attached ruffle, with puffed sleeves, and a sash of cuprashon tied at the waist.

Each attendant carried apricot cushion mums with baby's breath. The flower girl's gown was fashioned as the other attendants, and she carried a basket of white lace and nylon tulle holding a nosegay of apricot cushion mums. This nosegay was placed at the altar of Blessed Mary by the bride.

Organist was Mrs. Carolyn Evers, Hereford. Chosen selections were "Walk Hand in Hand," "On this day oh beautiful Mother," "Mother at your feet kneeling," as well as the traditional wedding march. Vocal selections with guitar accompanying were "Follow me" and "Wherever you go," rendered by Tim Ohmes, Canyon.

Following the ceremony, a reception, supper and dance were held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Hereford.

At the bride's table the cake was white with apricot flower decorations. The groom's cake was in the shape of a banjo and made with spice and chocolate icing.

Serving the cake was Mrs. Joyce Smith, Amarillo and Patty Harris, Lubbock.

Mrs. Bridget Williams, sister of the bride, Hereford, served tea and coffee.

Nancy O'Loughlin, Canyon, was at the registry table.

Those assisting with the supper arrangements were Mrs. Loretta Urbanczyk, Hereford, and Mrs. Rusti Stengel, Hereford.

For a wedding trip to "Six Flags over Texas" the bride chose to wear a costume of navy corduroy pants with a baby blue knit sweater. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 501 25th Street, Canyon.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1977, and graduated from West Texas State University, Canyon, with a degree in Business, in 1981. She was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity. She is presently employed by Kerr-McGee of Amarillo.

The groom graduated from Canyon High School in 1977, and graduated from West Texas University in 1981 with a Business degree. He was a member of Sigma Nu Social Fraternity and Phi Nu Alpha Sinfonia. Presently he is manager of Swenson's of Amarillo.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A lot of mothers I know are downright meddling when it comes to their children's selection of a boyfriend or a girlfriend.

They want to know how old, how tall, what their father does, where they live, the scope of their education, what their plans are for the future, and how they feel about children.

I don't care about any of those things. All I want to know is, "Is he or she a local call or a toll?"

I don't remember names or faces of old flames. All I remember is their area code. One of my sons once dated an area code 513 for six months. It was marriage by Ma Bell. I figured we were spending $35 a month to share such insights as:

"What are you doing?"
"Nothing, what are you doing?"
"I don't want to interrupt you if you're doing something."
"I told you I wasn't doing anything."
"You sure?"

"So, what's new?"
Another one of my kids showed an interest in a lovely girl who lived just a few miles from us. It was great. I didn't have to worry about a deep involvement because they were never off the phone. He set his alarm to call her in the morning. At night I used to go in and remove the phone from his ear as he slept. It was like hanging up an umbilical cord. As soon as they left one another at school in the afternoon they would shout, "I'll call you when I get home." I offered to feed him intravenously.

The suggestion by my husband to put a timer by the phone with sand running through was ridiculous. However, I did slip a calendar under his door and circle the month.

Panic didn't set in until one day when I was standing near and saw him dial "1."

"Who are you calling?" I asked.
"You know," he said, "The same person I've been talking with for the last month."

"But I thought she was a local call."
"Don't worry," he said. "It only costs about eight cents a minute. Besides, this isn't just some silly kid infatuation. This is a person I genuinely care for and want to spend the rest of my life with. She's important to me. She's special and there isn't anything I wouldn't do for her."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," I said, "because according to the phone bill you owed us $36.86 in long distance charges." I learned something that day. When toll charges enter the room... love goes right out the window.

Big brains

Both orcas (killer whales) and dolphins are mammals that have unusually large brains in proportion to their bodies. Moby Doll, a young Vancouver aquarium killer whale, tipped the scale at slightly more than a ton. His brain weighed 14 pounds. A seven-ton elephant has a brain of only about 12 pounds.

Conference Attended By Glenda West

Glenda West, Rt. 4,
Hereford, returned home
recently from Washington,
D.C., after attending
Citizenship-Washington
Focus-a week-long experience in citizenship and leadership training at the National 4-H Center. Miss West was one of 118 4-H members from Texas and many other youth from the other states who participated.

The program is designed to help young people understand the structure and function of our system of government, study the heritage of our country's development and prepare plans for active citizen involvement when they return home.

Citizenship-Washington
Focus is conducted by the national 4-H Council in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service of the State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Using the nation's capital
as a "classroom," the program included a day on Capitol Hill to meet with members of Congress and see government in action.
Delegates from the 19th Congressional District visited in Congressman Kent Hance's
office.

Field trips to historical and cultural sites as well as to federal agencies and community organizations were among the most exciting and informative parts of the week in Washington.

Most impressive, according to Glenda, was a night tour of the city and passing the U.S.D.A. Building which had a lighted four leaf clover in honor of the delegates to the conference. While in Washington the group saw the Broadway Musical "Annie" at the John F. Kennedy Center of Performing Arts.

In workshop sessions at the National 4-H Center, Glenda attended discussion groups on contemporary issues and concerns, and she served on an Ideas Fair Committee.

The Texas delegation also went on a citizenship shortcourse tour of the southern U.S. as they spent 10 days enroute and returning from Washington.

They visited Vicksburg National Center, Huntsville,
Ala., crossed the James River on a ferry to Historical Williamsburg, Va. On their return trip they visited Operaland USA in Nashville, Tenn. and "Monticello," home of Thomas Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va.

Glenda was selected to attend on the basis of her application detailing her leadership abilities and community involvement experience.
More information on 4-H programs can be obtained by calling Penny Reinart at 364-3573 or visiting the Deaf Smith County Extension Office.

Barrels for Books

The Friends of the Library have prepared barrels to be set up at the First National Bank, T.G.&Y., and M.E. Moses Store, in the Mall, to collect books donated for the library book sale scheduled Oct. 17. The books can also be brought to the Library, or call 364-1206 for them to be picked up. Looking over what is available, and give a helping hand are (shown left to right) Cady Auckerman, Erin Auckerman and Karen Manchec.

Ann Landers In Regard To Handshaking

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I deeply resented your statement in regard to handshaking. "A person who would ignore an extended hand is a hopeless clod..." Well, I do NOT shake hands with anyone, and I am a well-educated, sensitive woman. The problem: I had ichthyosis - a skin disorder that has made my hands extremely rough. Sometimes they get as scaly as a fish. I tried to be gracious until a man (in a receiving line in church, no less) shouted, "Your hands are like sandpaper, woman. Why don't you use a good lotion?"

Since that day I do NOT shake hands with anyone. - Canton, Ohio

DEAR O: I'm putting you on hold. Read on.

DEAR ANN: The Orientals have a more sensible and charming method of greeting - touching their own fingertips together and bowing slightly. - Bay Area

DEAR BAY: Ah-so...

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have hyperhidrosis - excessive sweating of the palms. For no reason whatsoever, my hands become wet. The perspiration drips. No one wants to shake a hand like mine, so I ignore the custom and people can think whatever they please. - Laramie, Wyo.

DEAR LARAMIE: Join hands... er... ahh... I mean stand beside the woman whose letter appears above yours and read on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Get out the wet noodle. I am arthritic. A firm handshake can be agonizing. It's like a thousand needles piercing my wrist and shooting up my arm. During mass we are asked to shake the hand of a neighbor - as a gesture of peace. The pain I have suffered during those "peace" gestures could start a war. Who are you to say that a light clasp doesn't mean as much as a grip like a vice? - Shake And Ache In Long Island

DEAR ACHE: Join the others for a moment, please...

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Years ago I developed tendonitis in my right hand. It aches whenever I lift something heavy. If someone with a firm handshake gets ahold of me, I almost faint from the pain. So, I refuse to shake hands. If I offend someone, that's too bad. - Morehead, Ky.

DEAR MORE: Hang on. I'll get back to you soon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Most people's hands are crawling with germs. If you took a survey, I'll bet you'd find that not one person in 100 washes his hands with soap and water even ONCE during the day. So, I wear gloves at all times and never shake hands. - They Call Me Stuck-Up - So What?

DEAR STUCK: Hold the phone and continue to read.

ANN LANDERS: I don't feel like calling you "dear" today: I do NOT shake hands. I am a well-mannered woman who has a terrible problem called psoriasis. Although this miserable skin disease is not contagious, it looks hideous and I don't blame people for not wanting to get too close to someone who has it. So - I do NOT shake hands. - Ionia, Mich.

DEAR READERS: This is a blanket apology to everyone who has ichthyosis, hyperhidrosis, arthritis, tendonitis, germ phobias, psoriasis - whatever makes handshaking embarrassing, painful or frightening. But, if you make no explanation, you must accept the fact that people whose extended hands are ignored will think you are a clod. If I were you I'd say something, if only, "Sorry, I am unable to shake hands...but I AM glad to see you."

Trade balance

American exports more than tripled between 1968 and 1977, rising from $34.6 billion to $120.2 billion. The Conference Board notes. But the share of world trade accounted for by the United States shrank from 16.1 percent to 11.7 percent, and the nation's trade balance weakened for all products but food and capital goods and all geographical areas but the European Economic Community.

THE NEW ENERGY FRONTIER: Coal. America's new energy frontier. Black Thunder Coal Mine near Gillette, Wyoming, sits on part of 50 billion tons. Tapping this huge new reserve of raw energy is a job that takes a combination of resources and pioneering spirit. The kind that fuels booms of opportunity. And we're here helping.

Last year, 3 million tons of this coal was used as fuel to make electricity at Southwestern Public Service power plants. Coal is being used more now because other fuels cost too much.

In Wyoming alone, there's enough coal that some areas of Black Thunder won't be mined until the year 2013. That's a lot of electricity. Coal. It's good to know there are some things you can depend on.

Discussion, Films At The Library

By DIANNE PIERSON
Monday, September 21 at 7 p.m. in the Heritage Room, the Deaf Smith County Library will begin its series of 6 films, museum exhibits and discussions on "The Great Plains Experience." The first film in entitled, "The Land." "The Great Plains Experience" is open to the public at no charge. The exhibits, which consists of local museum artifacts, have been prepared by Becky Walls, assistant librarian. The selection of the museum artifacts has been supervised by the Director of the Deaf Smith County Museum, Lois Gilliland. Dr. Frederick W. Rathjen, Department of History, West Texas State University, will be the discussion leader for "The Land." Dr. Rathjen is a specialist in the history of

Texas and of the American West. He is also the author of THE TEXAS PANHANDLE FRONTIER and other numerous articles. The project, which is funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, is to promote understanding and appreciation of area history as it relates to the interaction of the land and the people. If you have any questions concerning "The Great Plains Experience," call the Deaf Smith County Library, 364-1206. The new books this week at the Deaf Smith County Library will feature THE LEGACY by Howard Fast. THE LEGACY continues the saga of the Lavette family during the 1960s. Barbara Lavette, Dan Lavette's brilliant and talented daughter, dominates the story. Barbara finds herself deeply involved in the women's movement; she faces the fact that her son Sam is now in line to be drafted to Vietnam, and thereby she is once again caught up in the sweep of history. THE LEGACY covers a time of great turbulence and the Lavettes are at the center of things - a civil rights lynching in the South, the Six-Day War in Israel, the under-cover violence of the Nixon years, Vietnam and riots in the street. Other bestsellers by Howard Fast include THE ESTABLISHMENT, THE IMMIGRANTS, and THE SECOND GENERATION. Other new books available are THE CHILDREN'S STORY by James Clavell, author of SHOGUN and NOBLE HOUSE, THE QUEEN FROM PROVENCE by Jean Plaidy, and RUN, SARA, RUN by Anne Worboys, which a novel of suspense.

Nominated for Degree

Bruce Voyles, Vega, has been nominated to receive the American Farmer Degree, highest degree presented by the National Future Farmers of America (FFA) Organization.

Voyles was nominated for the degree by the Texas FFA Association. The nomination was approved at a recent meeting of the National FFA Board of Directors in Alexandria, Va., virtually assuring the awarding of the degree.

One of 778 FFA members nominated for the American Farmer Degree, Voyles will receive the degree in a special ceremony on Thursday, Nov. 12, pending a final vote of 121 students delegates representing nearly half a million FFA members.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Voyles, Vega, and is currently attending Tarelton State University, Stephenville.

Voyles earned the degree on the basis of leadership activities along with his farming and cattle operation.

Vega High School vocational agriculture instructor and FFA advisor is Frank Kennedy.

To qualify for the American Farmer

Degree, FFA members must have advanced through a system of degrees unique to the FFA organization. FFA members begin as Greenhands and after one year of membership may be advanced by the local chapter to the Degree of "Chapter Farmer." The third degree, that of "State Farmer," is presented by the State FFA Association to two percent of the State's FFA membership in any one year. Only students who have earned the State Farmer Degree are eligible for the American Farmer Degree.

The National FFA Convention is an annual event of the Future Farmers of America and is carried out in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Education. This year over 20,000 FFA members, vocational agriculture teachers, parents, and guests are expected to take part in the 54th National FFA Convention.

The convention is conducted entirely by student members between the ages of 14 and 21. Six National FFA Officers take charge of all business sessions and 121 official delegates represent the membership in voting on all issues of business.

Horse Disease Poses Problem

BY JULIE FOSTER
Farm Editor

Unusually heavy summer rains have caused a particularly large mosquito population, and with it, an outbreak of Equine Encephalomyelitis (EE) in the Texas Panhandle, according to an area veterinarian and the Texas Veterinarian Medical Association.

"We haven't had a case in the last two weeks," said a receptionist for Aaron Hutto, DVM, "but it is a problem in this area."

Aaron Hutto, DVM, "but it is a problem in this area."

Confirmed cases of the disease have been reported in almost every county in the Panhandle, said Dr. Charles Graham, chairman of the equine committee of the TVMA.

He said that despite the high risk of infection from EE, area veterinarians report that the number of cases they are treating indicate many horse owners are not immunizing against the disease. Usually every horse, regardless of breed, age or sex, is susceptible.

Harvey Rowland, operator of Rowland Stables on Avenue F in Hereford, said they had one case of EE at the stable about two months ago. "It gave us quite a scare so we've had everything vaccinated," he said.

"If you vaccinate you don't have a problem, and it's not expensive to have it done," according to Rowland.

Rowland said that in years past EE was a sure cause of death, but now if a veterinarian is notified he can usually save the horse.

"But, they (the vet) have to get on to it," he said.

Incidence of EE is directly related to mosquito populations since these insects are the principal transmitters of the disease. Unusually heavy rains in the Panhandle have produced conditions ideal for rapid increase in numbers of mosquitoes, and consequently the current outbreak of the disease, according to the TVMA.

"Although we encourage horse owners to vaccinate their animals against EE prior to the mosquito season, once EE has been reported, all unvaccinated horses in the area should be vaccinated immediately as the disease spreads very rapidly,"

Graham said.

TVMA's equine committee chairman also alerts horse owners to check their animals daily since prompt treatment is recommended once the symptoms are present. "Not treating the horse increases the chance of death. If fact, if horses are left untreated most of them will die," said Graham.

Once infected, the horse may exhibit various symptoms including fever, extreme nervousness, loss of appetite, blindness and paralysis.

He said, "The horse's head may droop, the knees may buckle forward or the animal may be hypersensitive to noise or excitement."

If any of these symptoms should appear, horse owners are advised to seek attention from a veterinarian immediately, said Graham.

Graham also warns that caution is urged throughout the state.

FARM NEWS AG NOTES

The Hereford Young Farmers are making plans for their second annual spring farm equipment auction to be held in early March.

Auction chairman, Gerald Marnell, requests farmers who feel they may have equipment to auction after the first of the year to keep the consignment auction in mind.

Individuals with consignments or those desiring further information may contact Marnell at 289-5355.

Proceeds from the auction are used by the Hereford Young Farmers chapter in its agricultural scholarship program for Hereford High School seniors. The chapter presented three scholarships totaling $2,000 following its 1981 auction.

WACO - In order to aid and strengthen the family farm system in Texas, the Texas Farmers Union is launching a statewide membership drive the week of September 21-25.

Texas Farmers Union President Mike Moeller called on all family farmers and ranchers in Texas "to work together in protecting their livelihood and preserving agriculture as the backbone of America."

The Texas Farmers Union, now 79 years old, was founded in Point, Texas, in 1902 as the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America. The TFU now has 10,000 family members involving all commodity groups while the National Farmers Union has over 250,000 members in agricultural states.

The Farmers Union represents farmers and ranchers in legislative activities in both Washington, D.C. and Austin.

Nitrogen Discussed At Sugarbeet Field Day

About 40 people attended the annual sugarbeet research tour at the USDA Research Laboratory at Bushland. Visitors were welcomed by Dr. Bob Stewart, Director of the facility.

The tour started with a discussion of nitrogen management, one of the most difficult and persistent production problems of sugarbeets. Dr. Steve Winter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, said that cooperative research with Holly Sugar Corporation and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is designed to define the nitrate problem and test alternative solutions.

This effort has shown that many fields have excessive nitrogen as deep as 12 feet. Often there is more nitrate on the lower than the upper end of furrow irrigated fields. The problem is how to make fields uniform in nitrate, by removing excessive shallow nitrate and all nitrate below six feet. Removing deep nitrate is hampered by the fact that corn, milo, and wheat only root four to six feet deep while sugarbeets root 10 to 12 feet.

Winter is testing various crops to remove deep nitrate and make fields uniform while still producing profitable yields. Previous research indicates that alfalfa will remove up to 450 pounds per acre per year of nitrogen from as deep as 15 feet. Being a legume, it will produce its own nitrogen to maintain profitable yields when soil residual nitrate is exhausted.

Another tour stop featured an experiment to determine how anhydrous ammonia placement and sulfur application affected Rhizoctonia root rot on three sugarbeet varieties. Winter said five gallons per acre of flowable sulfur broadcast and incorporated with a rolling cultivator prior to planting has reduced root rot. The variety HH-32 is more tolerant of root rot than Mono-Hy D2 and Mono-HT TX9.

At another experiment, use of fuel as well as sugarbeet response to four tillage methods is being determined. Tandem disking is being compared to using a hipper-ripper one time, cross chiseling two times, and cross chiseling two times followed by the hipper-ripper one time. Winter said in 1980, sugarbeet yield with the hipper-ripper one time was as good as other tillage methods, but fuel use was only half as much.

At another stop Winter told visitors about a four-year experiment on the effect of harvesting sugarbeets at two week intervals from Sept. 1 to Nov. 9. Sucrose content and root yield increased with successively later harvest.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Alarmed at what may happen to their $9.1 billion industry, 11 poultry trade associations want the Reagan administration to pressure the Common Market into eliminating chicken export subsidies which they say are cutting into U.S. foreign sales.

The associations filed their petition on Thursday with U.S. Trade Representative Bill Brock, asking relief from

Land Bank Loans

Interest Rates Go Up

HOUSTON - Interest rates on all Land Bank variable rate loans will be increased to 11 percent on farm loans and 11 1/2 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans, Dale C. McEachern, manager of The Federal Land Bank Association of Hereford announced today.

These rates become effective October 1, 1981.

"There continues to be substantial upward pressure in the bond market with no relief from the record high interest rates anticipated in the near future," McEachern said.

"The September bond issue carried a face rate of 17.85 percent on nine-month bonds and 17 percent on 2 1/2 year bonds," he continued.

"The Bank's average cost of funds prior to the issue was in excess of 11 percent."

McEachern said that marketing conditions and a ceiling cost earnings spread prompted the increase in the variable interest rate.

"Certainly we regret this action is necessary," he said. "However, even with the increase, our rate remains substantially below market."

LUBBOCK - Besides causing allergy symptoms usually associated with spring, pig weed or red root, can pose insect and maturing problems to cotton, sorghum and corn, according to Dr. Richard E. Zartman, Texas Tech University soil specialist.

"Pig weed can grow tremendously," said Zartman. "It competes with crops for available water, soil and sun." The new weed growth also attracts feeding insects.

Already he has noted the plant creeping up in area crops and urban alleys with growth potential of anywhere between one to six feet.

Recent rains causing pig weed growth could have proven beneficial six months ago, Zartman said. However, the only crop which might excel now because of the moisture is wheat.

"Sorghum, cotton and corn are all maturing around this time. Wheat is planted the end of September or October," he said. "The wheat will benefit greatly from the moisture, provided it dries up enough to get the crop in the ground."

Certain cottons have proved more resistant to wet weather wilt diseases, but a week to 10 days of evening temperatures below 50 degrees could prove disastrous, regardless of the cotton strain.

"It's not so much the quantity of rainfall as it is the cool temperatures," Zartman noted. With prolonged low temperatures, the maturing of cotton terminates, resulting in a low-strength product.

"It seems that the season have shifted up one month," he said of early spring plantings and abundant September rains. The usual wet weather period arrived earlier than normal this year although the moisture was badly needed on drying crops. Farmers hoping the present moisture conditions might help the quality of next year's sorghum, corn and cotton should be warned that weeds will use the water before those crops can, Zartman said.

Dr. Donald Ashdown, Texas Tech entomology professor, said the rains are not only increasing the weed population, but also the number of insects on the High Plains.

"There are going to be more cockroaches this fall because of the cold weather and moisture," he said. A detriment to many fields may be the increased slugs, worms, snails and sow bugs which feed on plant growth.

But, to area crops, the weather conditions have brought both the good and the bad in insect numbers. Down from normal counts this year are mites, cabbage loopers and grasshoppers.

"Really, we can't complain about the overall general moisture," Ashdown said. "If we get some dry weather into November it would be beneficial for the crops. We're losing a lot of quality in the cotton with the low temperatures and rain."

Smolder-Proof Cotton Coming

NEW ORLEANS - A treatment process imparting smolder resistance to cotton upholstery fabrics is ready to be submitted to the industry for evaluation, a Cotton Incorporated research scientist said here Tuesday.

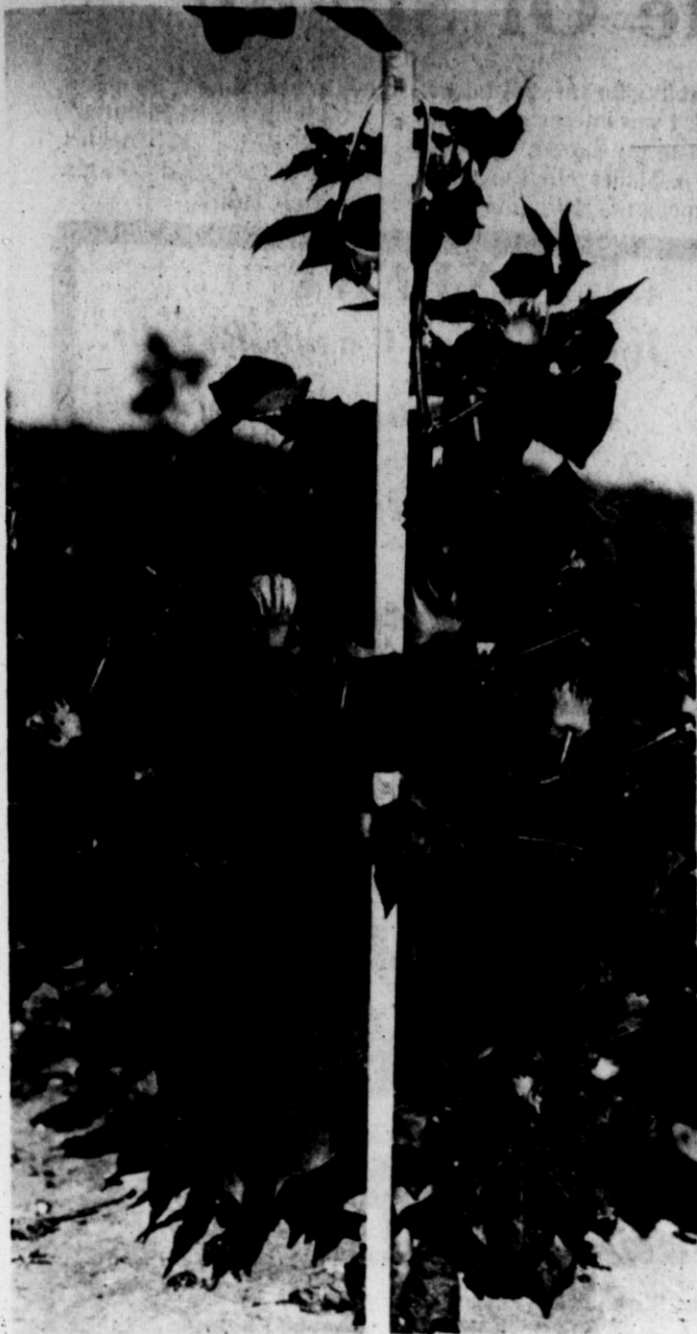

Dr. William F. Baitinger, director of product safety research, said both the new boric acid process and equipment developed for possible commercial use of the treatment have passed all preliminary tests with flying colors.

The next step is to convince the furniture industry and textile mills supplying upholstery fabrics that the process can be adapted commercially. Toward this end, Baitinger said, manufacturers will be invited soon to submit samples of various fabrics for trials.

Baitinger reported on the status of the development program in a report presented to the fourth annual natural Fibers Textile Conference.

The basic treatment concept used, Baitinger said, was developed initially by scientists at the Southern Regional Research Center, a U.S. Department of Agriculture facility in New Orleans, La.

Moisture Delays Harvest, Seeding

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Scattered rains continue to keep crop harvesting at a standstill in many areas of Texas, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In his weekly crop report, Pfannstiel said cotton is open in Central and South Central Texas and along the Upper Coast, but the rains have kept pickers out of the fields. Some cotton has already declined in quality due to several weeks of exposure to wet weather, particularly in the Coastal Bend where up to 1,000 bales were lost to recent flooding, he said.

Cotton is also opening in the Rolling Plains and across West Central Texas and in parts of the Trans-Pecos region. Bollworms remain a problem in cotton in the Rolling and High Plains, and recent cool, wet weather has delayed the maturity of the cotton crop on the High Plains, he said.

Corn and sorghum harvesting is getting into full swing in the High Plains while sorghum harvesting continues active in parts of the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas.

Harvesting of an excellent peanut crop continues in Southwest Texas (Uvalde area), Pfannstiel said. Some yields are running more than 2,700 pounds per acre, and market prices for high quality peanuts are strong at about $750 per ton.

Wheat planting continues throughout the plains and North Texas, with seeding complete in some counties. Good fall moisture in many areas should get wheat and other small grains off to a good start, he said. Planting of winter pastures is active throughout East Texas.

Vegetable planting and transplanting continues in full swing in the Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden, and fall gardening is active throughout the state.

Forage and livestock conditions are good to excellent over most of Texas for this time of year, Pfannstiel said. Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions:

PANHANDLE: Cool, rainy weather is delaying cotton maturity. Bollworms also remain a problem in some cotton. Corn and sorghum harvesting are getting under way, with prospects for above-average crops. Wheat planting is in full swing and is up to 70 percent complete in some counties. Ranges are in excellent shape.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton is in dire need of hot, open weather to mature properly. Corn and sorghum harvesting are active, with generally good yields. Some vegetable harvesting continues. Cattle and ranges are in excellent condition.

ROLLING PLAINS: Some early cotton is opening while late fields are suffering from moisture stress in some areas. Bollworms continue to damage some cotton. Limited small grain seeding has started, but most farmers are waiting for rain. Some fourth cuttings of alfalfa are being harvested. Sorghum harvesting continues in some counties, with fair to good yields. Range grass is short.

NORTH CENTRAL: Farmers are defoliating cotton to get it ready for harvest. Generally good yields are expected. A good sorghum harvest is nearing completion. Planting of wheat and oats is under way although additional planting moisture is needed in some counties. Rain is needed to boost fall grazing. The pecan outlook remains good.

FAR WEST: Farmers are getting ready to harvest cotton in some areas. Recent rains have lowered quality in some areas. Small grains and hay crops are making excellent growth. The pecan crop is heavy and is maturing; hickory shuckworms and black aphids are heavy in some locations. Fall forage is plentiful. Some sheep have been lost to blue tongue in Reeves and Loving counties.

WEST CENTRAL: Sorghum harvesting continues, with generally good yields. Cotton is opening; boll weevils continue to increase. Land preparation continues for small grains, with some wheat being planted. Ranges generally look good due to recent rains although broomweed is a problem in some areas. Pecans continue to look excellent.

CENTRAL: Some cotton is being harvested where field conditions permit. A few peanuts are also being harvested although the crop is late. Small grain planting has started, with good soil moisture over most of the area. Pecan weevils and third generation casebearers are causing some loss of pecans.

Franciscus and Smith get hitched.

SNEAK PREVIEWS—ABC has announced its intentions to beam the much awaited bio-pic "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy," starring Jaclyn Smith and James Franciscus on Sunday, October 14. Jackie must consider Franciscus a good luck charm since she worked with him on her last movie project, "Nightkill," where she found her newest husband, Tony Richmond, on the set. Jackie makes a beautiful bride, doesn't she?

CHARTBUSTERS—Soundtracks from major motion pictures and TV series have taken command of the record charts during the last few months. All summer long "Endless Love" was doing battle with the theme from "The Greatest American Hero." Now we have the theme from "Arthur" climbing the charts with "Hill Street Blues" also beginning its ascent. Insiders predict that "Endless Love" is already a lock for an Oscar.

Mackenzie Phillips kicked the habit.

COMEBACK—Mackenzie Phillips looks like she's kicked her expensive drug habit once and for all. CBS execs were so impressed with her sobriety that they gave her a chance to appear in a two-part episode of "One Day at a Time" (tentatively scheduled for November 1 and 8), as Julie Cooper Horvath. Mackenzie was obviously ecstatic and proceeded to tell her father the good news. But papa John had his own headline-making event to announce—the re-emergence of "The Mamas and the Papas" sometime in 1982.

George C. Scott—a Nazi?

ODDITY—The Movie Channel recently showed an uncut version of "Patton" starring George C. Scott. Their public relations department though, made a colossal boo-boo when they sent out a photo of Scott wearing a Nazi uniform.

EXPOSE—Nobody but nobody remembered that the U.S.S. Nimitz and its crack F-14 Tomcat fighter squadron were featured in a major movie, "The Final Countdown," last year. Some critics felt it was a wonderful exercise in Navy propaganda. In "The Final Countdown," Commander Kirk Douglas sent out his super-sophisticated fighters to "splash" two outdated Japanese Zeroes. If Moammar Khadafy had only seen the faces of those pilots when they went into the drink!

Anthony Thomopolous in trouble?

TV TIPS—ABC might be in a bit of trouble with its new fall schedule. Only two series show signs of promise—"Best of the West" and "The Fall Guy." This means that network programmer Anthony Thomopolous might end up on the unemployment line with Fred Silverman. But Tony has maintained his sense of humor. At a recent Hollywood party, he quipped, "Only two things could really cripple Hollywood. A strike of the Mercedes-Benz repairmen and a strike of the diet doctors!"

A Different Side Of Simon

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Husbands of America, Neil Simon is unfair! While the rest of us give our wives flowers, his gift to Marsha Mason is an Academy Award-caliber movie role.

He did it before with "The Goodbye Girl." He does it again with Columbia Pictures' fall release, "Only When I Laugh."

It's a role that almost makes awards obligatory. Miss Mason plays a Broadway star on the skids, just out of a sanitarium and trying to stay on the wagon against desperate odds. Much more serious than most Simon works, it affords the actress a wide range of dramatics, from drunk scenes to emotional bouts with her long-neglected daughter (impressively played by Kristy McNichol).

Marsha Mason, whose life is as composed and orderly as actress she portrays is not, fends off the early Oscar talk: "I would just like the picture to be successful, for everyone's sake."

The title of "Only When I Laugh" stems from the old, old joke about the Britisher with a native's spear through his chest who is asked, "Aren't you in terrible pain?" The movie derives from the Simon play, "The Gingerbread Lady," which starred Maureen Stapleton on Broadway. It was the exception during a period of the playwright's smash hits.

"I don't know why it wasn't a success," Miss Mason remarked. "I guess because it was a departure to Neil's darker side and audiences didn't know how to deal with that."

"I never saw Maureen in the play. After Neil and I were married, I saw Elaine Stritch do it in Windsor, prior to the London opening. I thought it was good, but I never thought of it as something for me."

"Three years ago, (producer) Ray Stark suggested 'Gingerbread Lady' as a possibility for me, but I don't think I was interested at that point in my career. Besides, Neil had other things to do."

Among the other things for the tireless Simon: the plays "I Ought to be in Pictures" and "Fools," the movies "Chapter Two" and "Seems Like Old Times."

ABC Miniseries 'The Manions of America'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The scene that sold Linda Purl on a role in "The Manions of America" had her pounding laundry on a rock by a stream bed.

She was in Canada filming a horror movie called "Fright" when the script arrived. "When I got to the scene where I'm doing the washing, I read it and decided I wanted to do it," she said.

"It was so earthy. Think of doing laundry in a stream. And her accent was so evident in that scene. And she was feisty. I'd never played that kind of person before and I wanted to do it."

Miss Purl plays Dierdre O'Manion, one of the fiery and proud O'Manion clan of Galway, Ireland, who become caught up in rebellion against their English overlords. (The name doesn't become Manion until they immigrate to America.)

The six-hour miniseries, which ABC broadcasts Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, also stars Kate Mulgrew, David Soul, Steve Forrest, Anthony Quayle, Pierce Bronsnan, Simon McCorkindale and Nicholas Hammond.

It follows the fortunes of the Manions during the potato famine, from poverty and scorn in Ireland to power and wealth in America. The series is beautifully photographed in Ireland and is most effective in capturing the contrast between the starving Irishmen and the arrogant indifference of the landlords.

But the story struggles along like an Irish cart on a rutted backroad, lurching from contrivance to coincidence. It has enough of both to keep a soap opera going for months.

The housefly beats its wings 330 times each second; by comparison, the buzzard's wings move only three times per second.

Natalie Cole Not Relying On 'Dad'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Grammy for best new artist of the year has to be one of the most curious awards in show business, carrying as it does an implied promise of great things to come that is sometimes fulfilled, sometimes not.

Such past recipients as Carly Simon, Marvin Hamlisch and Bette Midler have certainly become fixtures in the music industry firmament; the verdict is still out on Christopher Cross, but Rickie Lee Jones' second album "Pirates" is currently in the Top 10.

On the other hand, when was the last time you heard the Starland Vocal Band on the radio? And more than three years after winning the award, Debby Boone still is best known for the 1977 hit "You Light Up My Life" — and her famous father.

Natalie Cole, who in 1976 collected the best new artist honor — as well as the best rhythm and blues Grammy for "This Will Be" — also had a famous father. But five years, two platinum and three gold albums and yet another Grammy later, no one can accuse her of resting on old laurels or the family name.

"Most of my fans don't know much about my father," says Miss Cole, 31. "They look at me as Natalie Cole and they don't know that much about Nat King Cole. And those are the people who I've established my own image with. But I also have fans that are of my father's generation as well. It's really a nice blend."

A tall woman known to friends as Nat, Miss Cole's considerable stage glamour softened to a girl-next-door accessibility during a recent chat at a Sunset Boulevard rehearsal hall.

"When I first started, it was, 'Why don't you do more songs of your father's,' — like the whole show would be just my father's stuff. Well, there's no way for me to establish my own identity, had I done it that way. And I also like different types of music."

Miss Cole has changed her musical course somewhat on her new album, "Happy Love." Forsaking gowns for almost punk-like "John Travolta leathers" on the cover photo, she's got a new producer, George Tobin, and a more mainstream pop sound. "There's no jazz or anything on this album," Miss Cole said. "This is less rhythm and blues oriented, more rounded out, more lively."

"On every album or every other album I used to do standards, oldies — you know, 'Good Morning Heartache,' 'Stairway to the Stars.' This time we chose, 'When a Man Loves a Woman,' 'These Eyes' and turned them around, and I like that idea."

Country Sound

From French Lick To Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The road from French Lick, Ind., to Nashville was filled with lots of near misses, but a trio of bearded country-style musicians called the Wright Brothers finally arrived.

After years of playing restaurants and motel bars in the Midwest, the three boyhood friends from southern Indiana — brothers Tom and Tim Wright and Karl Hinkle — are scheduled to release their first single in September on Warner Brothers.

And they've already made two guest appearances on the Grand Ole Opry.

"We started out playing in restaurants, then we developed ourselves into a show band and worked around the Ramada Inn chain and in college concerts for about six years," says 32-year-old Tom.

About two years ago, after a change in managers, the good things that all struggling musicians dream of began to occur, and it's been a steady climb upward since then for the Wright Brothers.

"We've worked our way into the showrooms," Tom says. "There's a big difference between Ramada Inn showrooms and dinner theaters, Las Vegas lounges and Harrah's at Reno and (Lake) Tahoe."

The Wright Brothers want to be known as a country group, but their close harmony blend of blue grass, folk, Beatles, gospel and rock 'n' roll qualifies their sound for more than one music chart.

"I think we were doing cross-over country sound before people started putting their finger on cross-over country," says brother Tim, 29. "Our sound has been like that since we started. It's a positive cross-over country sound."

The Wright Brothers began as a five-member group in 1971, although the Wrights and Hinkle had been playing together since childhood. They trimmed down to the trio, plus a drummer, and now say they're better friends, almost like three brothers.

"We feel that we've had a lot of chances before," Tom says. "Over the years, we feel like we've been close (to success). We did warmups for everybody from Mac Davis to Bob Hope, Waylon Jennings, Dolly Parton and all kinds of people.

"In 1975 and 1976, we thought we were right on the verge of making it, but it just wasn't meant to be back then.

We weren't going in the right direction, and we probably weren't together enough to handle it. So all this is happening at the right time, we think."

By Jennifer Wood

Superstar Robert Redford (in Brubaker on HBO this month) doesn't bask in the public spotlight — in fact, it makes him pretty uncomfortable. Speaking of the constant demands for interviews and photos that sometimes disrupt his private life, the thoughtful actor muses, "I suppose it's part of the price of success in this business. But I'll never get used to it. I'd like to live like a human being."

Redford divides his living between two home bases — a spacious apartment in New York City, and a solar-powered home in Provo, Utah, where he also owns a ski resort. He laughs good-naturedly, "I keep hoping these interviews will demonstrate how really dull I am as a conversationalist. Then perhaps people would stop writing about me!"

She first came to fame as TV's daffy "Laugh-In" girl. Since then, irrepressible Goldie Hawn has emerged as a gifted comedienne in her own right, making America laugh in a string of comedy hits. Among her latest (and she's been a busy funny lady) is Seems Like Old Times, on HBO this month. (Next month she stars in Private Benjamin.)

Comedy king Neil Simon, writer of Seems Like Old Times, ranks giddy Goldie among Hollywood's greatest comediennes. Katharine Hepburn, Carole Lombard and Rosalind Russell, he says, all had qualities that Goldie shares. "Like Goldie, those legendary screen comediennes could be wonderfully funny and totally sexy at the same time. Audiences respond to them on both levels."

"Independent woman" is the role label most often attached to Jill Clayburgh, and understandably, most of her fans probably think the typecasting applies to her real life, too. Not so, says the star of It's My Turn (on HBO this month). "People probably think I'm self-sufficient. I used to think so, too," she admits. "but ha! That was a great myth. I've had a lot of problems in my life thinking I'm somebody I'm not." Still, her success has unleashed a new assertiveness that surprises this strong but vulnerable "new woman." She finds herself "doing things I'd never imagined I'd do," confesses Clayburgh. "Like calling studio heads if there's a role I really want. I have a very clear picture of what I want out of life."

For Robert Stack, there's no escaping the rough-tough image he created in the old "The Untouchables" TV show. So rather than fight his macho mystique, he pokes fun at it — with a straight face and a fine sense of parody in the comedy smash Airplane! (on HBO this month). On-screen and off, the veteran actor reveals that there's a lot more to him than his Mr. Mean reputation indicates.

He was raised in Europe, so for starters, "I spoke French and Italian before I ever learned to speak English." And the things he says — in English — about his wife of almost 25 years might surprise those who still think of him as Elliot Ness. Says Stack the loving husband, "When I married Rosemarie, I told her I was doing so not because I wanted to, but because I couldn't help it."

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS

The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock.

To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded.

The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference. B.F. CAIN, County Clerk Deaf Smith County 40-29

Medical Students Flock to Mexican Schools

By STEVE BREWER Associated Press Writer EL PASO, Texas (AP) — For three years, Ralph Mayberry tried to get into dental school in the United States. Each year, he was turned down. The fourth year, he went to Mexico.

"I decided I didn't want to wait any more," Mayberry said. "I had two friends in Chihuahua already and I went down there and changed from dentistry to medicine. I haven't regretted it at all."

Mayberry, 32, attends the medical school at the Autonomous University of Ciudad Juarez. The Juarez school is in the downtown section of the bustling Mexican city across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

"I transferred here from the school in Chihuahua in a January," he said. "This school has got a lot of advantages for Americans. For one thing, you can live in El Paso. For another, you can do your last three semesters at a hospital in the United States and get credit for it."

Mayberry's story has become a common one in Mexico, where thousands of American medical students go to complete their education.

Because of the difficulty in gaining admission to the U.S. medical schools, more and more Americans are going elsewhere to reach their goal of becoming physicians. Many Americans study in India, Pakistan, the Philippines and the Caribbean. But most go to Mexico.

The Juarez school is becoming more popular with students because of its proximity to El Paso. About 160 Americans presently pay the $2,000-per-semester tuition at the medical school.

"Most of them have already tried in the United States, but it's so competitive because of the numbers that a lot of qualified students can't get in," Mayberry said. "Because of the way the system is, they just can't accept everybody."

Other students don't even try to enter American schools before heading for Mexico because they know their grades will not stand up against dazzling scholars in the competition for admission.

"I never really tried to get into an American school because my (grade point average) wasn't high enough," said Daniel Scokin, 22. "The student advisers and people like that said, 'You're not going to get in. Don't waste your time.'"

"I really was interested in medicine, so I decided to come here," Scokin said. "It's OK. Of course, it could be much better. I could be going to an American school. But this one is much better than most foreign schools."

The students say there are advantages to Mexican training besides its availability.

"The big advantage of a Mexican school is that they give you a lot more liberty," Mayberry said. "You actually get to do surgery. In the states, because of all of the malpractice suits and stuff, you have to stand back and watch. We also get to do surgery on animals and that's outlawed in the U.S."

The students recognize the shortcomings of the school, but have no qualms about whether they will be properly trained.

"A doctor is a doctor," Scokin said. "You learn the same thing everywhere. The quality of the facilities and the teachers is better in the U.S., but we're using the same textbooks. We take the same tests."

Nelson Blanco, 25, who lived in Chicago and the Philippines before coming to El Paso, said most students experience problems with the language barrier.

"The main problem would be the Spanish during the first year," he said. "After that, you get used to it."

Mayberry, a father of three from Tucson, Ariz., said he can see the differences in curriculum and facilities because he monitored classes at the University of Arizona before going to Mexico.

"In the basic sciences — your first two years — the lecture situation is about the same," he said. "The big difference in the basic sciences is that the laboratory, at least in this school, is not up to par. They just lack the facilities."

"In the clinical sciences, the United States is head-over-heels better than Mexico," he added. "You get more one-on-one training."

Medical school takes five years at the University of Ciudad Juarez, as compared to four years in the United States, and the pace is sometimes irritatingly slow, students said.

"Sometimes, you get kind of depressed because you feel like you're not going as fast as you would like," said Scokin, who is from Dallas.

"They're kind of slow getting things done," Mayberry said. "Some of the teachers are not very demanding. For me, that's bad. Not only do I have to pass the course here, I'm also studying to pass the (Educational Commission on Foreign Medical Graduates) test."

The test, known as the ECFMG, is one of the major stumbling blocks for Americans who study medicine abroad, said Lona Kielman, director of testing for the Texas Board of Medical Examiners.

"If they pass, they get a certificate," Ms. Kielman said. "With that, their medical diploma and their license to practice in Mexico, they are able to take the FLEX and the Texas Medical Jurisprudence Test."

FLEX is the Federal Licensing Examination, a three-day test required by every state for foreign and domestic students.

"The board feels that they don't have any way to evaluate if (the students) are getting a good education in the foreign schools," Ms. Kielman said. "All of the statistics would kind of indicate that they're not."

"We have about a 5 percent failure rate on the FLEX, but the failure rate for foreign graduates is about 40 percent," she said.
