Trial postponed until arrival of attorney

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

The trial of Hereford farmer Robert Strain adjourned for the day at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon after 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley ruled that one of the state's key witnesses should have his attorney present before answering any further questions.

Thomas Martinez Sr., 55, who pleaded guilty in January to selling stolen merchandise to Strain, took the witness stand when jurors were called back after lunch. Martinez had been given concurrent five-year sentences for the two charges for which he pleaded guilty. He is now serving time in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Martinez told of meeting Strain through his cousin, Daniel Martinez, a former employee of Strain's who lived at the Strain farm. He said he had known Strain for about a year when he first asked Strain to buy things from him.

"I told him I went to garage sales and flea markets and had vacuum cleaners, air conditioners, things like that I had bought and asked him if he wanted to buy them. He said 'yeah,' he would."

Martinez said he later offered to sell Strain "tools and things like that. I told him that it might be stolen. He said 'well.' That's all he said."

Martinez said that at an even later date he asked Strain to buy some air compressors and larger tools, and made a point of telling Strain they were stolen. "He said he didn't care," Martinez testified.

"How many times did you sell things to Strain?" asked Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul. "Four times," replied Martinez.

"You mean four times that you want to talk about," Saul suggested.

Shelton objected at that point, and the jury was ushered from the courtroom. "The problem here is that he (Saul) insinuates there are many other instances where he sold items to Strain," Shelton argued. Shelton went on to say that the comment prejudiced the jury and should be stricken from the record.

"In fact," he continued. "It is so prejudicial in nature that an instruction to the jury is not enough. I ask that the court declare a mistrial."

Saul's argument was that Martinez was required by law to testify about those offenses he had already pleaded guilty to, because he no longer had fifth amendment protection in those instances.

"He and his attorney agreed that he does not wish to incriminate himself by testifying about other times that he might have sold stolen goods to Strain," Saul pointed out. "The witness insisted he understood his rights and that he is here of his own free will."

Shelton said, "I have never in my career seen a case where a witness gave a partial testimony and then pleaded the fifth amendment on some questions."

"It's a very sensitive area of the law," Gulley admitted. Martinez, who remained in the courtroom during most of the discussion about his rights as a witness, was questioned a few minutes longer before Gulley announced that the man's attorney should be present.

When Shelton asked Martinez why he was so anxious to testify, he said that he had thought about it a lot and decided it was something he wanted to do. "Me and Mr. Strain had a deal," he disclosed at that point. "He told me 'if they catch me I don't know you and if they catch you, you don't know me.'"

Martinez said after Strain was arrested, "He turned on me, and I decided to testify."

Shelton then changed the subject and asked Martinez a few more questions before Gulley called the jury back in to dismiss them for the day. Shelton again asked for a mistrial, but Gulley denied

Both girls plan to attend West Texas State University, where Kim will major in pre-med and Laura in pre-veterinary medicine. Both took advanced courses in high school to score above 100 on their average.

A complete list of scholarships and other honors will be published in Thursday's Brand.

Changes slated for Walcott

Walcott Independent School District board of education members decided Tuesday to include in the 1984-1985 WISD budget four expenditures for improvements.

The Walcott school is to receive one or two microcomputers, videotape equipment and carpet in one classroom. Also, the water system is to be redone.

The four proposals came from a list of 13 items board members considered at their May 7 meeting. Walcott residents present at that gathering indicated, through an informal poll, they were not in favor of any of the other proposed changes.

According to Earnest Brown, board president, microcomputers cost around $1,100 apiece now. Videotape equipment is to be budgeted at $3,800, he explained, with the carpet cost set at $1,200 and water system renovation at $15,000.

Board members are to begin working on next year's budget in June, Brown said. The current tax rate used by WISD is 73 cents per $100 valuation.

Tuesday, the school board also heard reports from Brown and Superintendent Eddie Derr concerning testimony they gave last week in Austin to the joint House-Senate Committee on Public Education.

Firemen rush to false alarm

Hereford Volunteer Firemen rushed to the Church of the Nazarene at 5:37 p.m. Tuesday only to find the call was a false alarm.

Hereford police, meanwhile, reported they made two arrests Tuesday: one for public intoxication and the other a juvenile in connection with a burglary. Among incidents handled were one apiece of dog bite, hit and run and simple assault.

The only theft police handled Tuesday was of a $120 lawnmower.

Commissioners to gather

Deaf Smith County Commissioners have scheduled a special meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday to conduct a pre-bid conference for proposed jail renovation work.

All those intending to submit bids for either detention equipment or general construction work have been asked to attend the event, to be held in the courthouse. Architects from Gondeck-Poage of San Antonio, the firm in charge of Deaf Smith County Jail renovations, are to be present to answer questions and explain drawings.

Detention equipment bids are due May 31, with general construction bids to be handed in by June 14. Selection of the two primary contractors is to be done during either the June 25 or July 9 regular meetings of the county court.

No plans exist to deploy troops

By MAUREEN SANTINI AP
White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he's not preparing to send American troops to war in Central America or the Persian Gulf, although he is pledging to keep the gulf open to oil tankers despite the brewing crisis in the region.

However, when pressed, the president refused to unequivocally rule out the possibility of sending U.S. forces to either region.

At a nationally broadcast news conference dominated by foreign policy questions Tuesday night, the president also said:

"The Soviet Union may not return to the nuclear arms reduction bargaining table until after the November presidential election, but he is not willing to make any concession to get them back earlier.

Gulf to stay open, Reagan also says

"He doesn't believe the United States and Soviet Union are any closer to a 'confrontation that could lead to a nuclear conflagration' than before he took office.

"He doesn't foresee an impending recession, despite the rise in interest rates. 'There are always some pessimists out there,' Reagan complained.

"The increase in the number of Soviet submarines off U.S. shores doesn't worry him. 'If I thought there was some reason to be concerned about them, I wouldn't be sleeping in this house tonight,' he said.

"I just hope and pray that the Soviet Union will do the humane thing" and allow Yelena Bonner, the wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, to seek treatment of heart and eye ailments in another country.

During the East Room session, the president was asked about the likelihood that U.S. servicemen would become involved in a war in the Middle East, where Iran and Iraq are at war and have attacked oil tankers plying the Persian Gulf.

"I think very slight," he replied. "I can't foresee that happening. As things stand now, no, I don't think so."

In a nearly identical question — this one concerning the possibility of committing U.S. troops to El Salvador if that nation ever appears ready to fall to the communists — the president said:

"We'd lose all those friends and neighbors (in the region) if we did that. They want our help ... But they don't want American manpower there."

Asked if he could be unequivocal, Reagan said, "You're asking me a hypothetical question, and one in which I think that I would be very foolish to try and answer."

At another point, the president was asked why so many people believe the world is moving closer to war rather than peace. "I would say that is because that's all that most of the people have been hearing in political dialogue ... that I somehow have an itchy finger and am going to blow up the world...."

But he said he didn't know of anyone more committed to peace than he.

Reagan began the news conference with a statement urging Congress to approve his request for $62 million in emergency aid to El Salvador, now awaiting action in the House. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., has predicted Reagan will win handily.

"If Congress offers too little support, it will be worse than doing nothing at all," the president said.

Asked to confirm reports that the United States had offered to provide air cover to vessels in the Persian Gulf, Reagan replied: "We haven't specified what we would do but we have told them ... that neither we nor the Western world as such would stand by and see the straits (of Hormuz) or the Persian Gulf closed to international traffic."

The president added, "We agreed not to volunteer to enter, nor have we been asked to intervene ... It seems as if the gulf states want to take care of this themselves. They're concerned, as I think we all should be, about not enlarging the war." Iran and Iraq have been at war since 1980.

Asked if there were any circumstances in which the United States would take unilateral action in the gulf, he responded: "I can't foresee that ... We are in consultation also with our allies — with those nations that would be affected — because we're not contemplating anything unilaterally here. This problem is one that affects all of us."

He said the United States receives only 3 percent of its oil from the region, and acknowledged there were contingency plans in the event the gulf nations seek U.S. help, but he would not be specific.

Separations set for Texas prisons

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas prison officials have filed court papers promising to separate deranged, ill, violent and weak inmates from other prisoners and to improve recreation facilities.

The papers, filed in federal court in Houston, call for separate housing for inmates with medical or psychiatric problems, physical handicaps and intellectual impairments.

A related court filing details the prison system's program for special handling intellectually impaired

Weak, aggressive, insane, ill

prisoners whose IQ is 70 or below.

The system has also promised to improve its recreation facilities.

The steps outlined in the papers will postpone a June hearing on crowding before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, an attorney said.

Crowding in recreation areas is a major unresolved issue in Justice's massive 1981 order to implement reforms in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Donna Brorby, attorney for the inmate plaintiffs whose suit resulted in the reform order, said Tuesday the long-awaited hearing will not take place before September.

"We have always given TDC time to put its own house in order," she said. "They are making a heroic attempt to prove that no matter how overcrowded the prison system is, they can solve it by moving people around."

Ms. Brorby said she is skeptical of such efforts, but said lawyers are pleased TDC has made a commitment to build recreation facilities and increase common areas.

In the court stipulation filed in Houston, TDC has agreed to construct gymnasiums and outdoor recreation yards adequate to serve the capacity of each prison unit by Sept. 1.

The prison system has also agreed to provide enlarged prisoner day rooms with 35 square feet for each prisoner using the facility at one time.

Prison officials have said recently that with a dwindling population of 35,000 inmates, overcrowding is not a major problem. But prisoner lawyers say inmates' recreational areas are jammed.

Four cellblocks in the Beto Unit have been set aside for mentally retarded inmates, according to court documents.

Ms. Brorby said the program should result in "decent, humane treatment for mentally retarded inmates. Those prisoners are natural victims of abuse and tools of amusement for other inmates."

Charged with molesting child

TEGUCIGALPA (AP) — A 41-year-old man suspected of paying a woman to bring him small children has been charged with molesting a 5-year-old, authorities said.
 Leo Reeves, a roofer, was charged Tuesday with molesting a child and held in lieu of $15,000 bond in connection with the abduction of the little girl, the Harris County attorney's office said.
 Reeves was questioning a 13-year-old girl suspected of molesting a 6-year-old cousin and another child to Reeves, the attorney said.
 Reeves' aunt, Gayle Johnson, had told police she thought Reeves had taken the 5-year-old to a nearby store to buy her a soft drink Sunday.
 The girl was found Monday in a northeast Houston neighborhood about two hours after Reeves was questioned about her disappearance.

Physician allowed to practice

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge has allowed a Plano physician to continue practicing medicine until the state decides her competency, but has urged the Texas Board of Medical Examiners to pursue its efforts to permanently bar her from practicing.

Judge Charles Judge Harlan Martin said at a hearing Tuesday that evidence indicates Dr. Ann Bhuket, who used a plastic cone to fight cancer and vitamins to treat heart disease, was a "bad doctor," but "deserves a hearing."

The judge said this board should look into the practice of this doctor, and I wish you would soon," Martin said, urging the board to act as soon as possible.

On April 29, the state medical board suspended Bhuket's license. She is a native of Thailand, has continued practicing medicine by obtaining three temporary restraining orders.

Miley honor student files suit

HOUSTON (AP) — An honor student who dyed a black stripe across the back of his otherwise blond head has filed suit against his school district for barring him from graduation exercises.

District Judge Peter S. Solito scheduled a hearing Tuesday on the motion of Dean Bradley, an 18-year-old senior at Whititz High School in the Houston suburb of The Woodlands.

The student dyed his hair "for the prom" in late April and did not hear any complaints from school officials until Monday.

The principal Jack Welch told him his hairstyle was "unconventional" and said the stripe would have to be removed for him to participate in cap and gown ceremonies.

Casey received Carter documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have concluded that CIA Director William Casey received some of the Carter administration documents that reached President Reagan's campaign in 1980, according to sources familiar with the House probe.

Three sources said that besides naming Casey, a 2,000-page report scheduled to be released today states that the House investigation was unable to identify who in the Carter camp supplied the documents.

The report further says that the year-old probe by the Post Office and Civil Service human resources subcommittee found credible evidence that a crime had been committed in the transfer of the Carter papers, sources said.

Last year, White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III told House investigators that Casey gave him Carter documents, including a briefing book used to prepare Jimmy Carter for a pivotal presidential campaign debate against Reagan.

Lottery winner gives away strike

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Harold Collins is quite happy on the money he earns from his factory job. So, he said, he is giving away the $2.3 million he won in the Illinois Lottery, making good twice over on a 16-year-old promise to a friend.

"Most anybody would think it's weird what I did. I think it's all right," Collins, a 57-year-old engine repairman at Caterpillar Tractor Co. in nearby Pekin, said Tuesday.

"I clear $260 to $300 a week," he said. "I don't need any more. I don't do any running around any more, so I got no use for the lottery money."

"I like to work. I like the way I live. I like to watch sports on TV," he said in a telephone interview. "My God, what could I have possibly done with almost $2 1/2 million? I don't need it."

Guatemalan murder trial begins

GUATEMALA CITY, El Salvador (AP) — Five former national guardsmen go on trial today for the murders of four American churchwomen in a case where a verdict could mean more U.S. aid for government forces in El Salvador's civil war.

The trial, which comes after 3 1/2 years of pressure by the administrations of former President Jimmy Carter and President Reagan, is expected to last no more than two weeks.

Prosecutor Ricardo Randa Murcia, who is in charge of the trial, said the trial would proceed today unless the five defendants were taken out of fear for their lives.

The defense lawyers have told their clients that the evidence for guilty verdicts, and U.S. aid, depends on the defendants may be acquitted.

Global call for peace

PARIS (AP) — Mexico joined Sweden, India, and other nations Tuesday in an appeal to the nuclear powers to stop production and deployment of nuclear weapons.

The appeal, titled "Global suicide must be stopped," was issued here and signed by Presidents Carlos Menem of Mexico and Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, Olof Palme of Sweden, and Andreas Papandreu of Greece.

The appeal is addressed to "the United States and the Soviet Union" and the United Kingdom France and West Germany.

U.S., Honduras and El Salvador

War games begin in Central America

By MONTE HAYES
 Associated Press Writer

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — More than 4,000 American, Honduran and Salvadoran troops begin combat exercises today that will take them near troubled border areas of El Salvador and Nicaragua.

It is the first time that El Salvador's government, locked in a 4 1/2-year war with leftist rebels, has sent troops to participate in military maneuvers here.

The war games, to last until June 30, are the second phase of Granadero I, the latest in a series of exercises that critics of the Reagan administration charge is creating a semi-permanent U.S. military presence in this strategically located Central American nation.

Washington says the exercises are aimed at increasing the defensive capacity of troops of friendly nations in the region.

A U.S. diplomat, who spoke on condition he not be named, said the maneuvers are more than a training exercise.

"They have two fundamental purposes — to apply psychological pressure on Nicaragua and to reassure our allies in the area," he said. "There are some training benefits, but that is not the main objective."

Another U.S. diplomat said at the start of the first phase of Granadero I that the maneuvers were intended to intimidate both the leftist Nicaraguan government and Salvadoran rebels.

"It's a poker game," he said. "The stakes are going up, but it's still under control and I think it will stay that way."

The Reagan administration accuses Nicaragua's Sandinista government of supplying arms to Salvadoran rebels and says it poses a threat to Central America's security because of its ties to Cuba and the Soviet Union.

In the first phase of Granadero I, which began April 1, Army engineers from Fort Lewis, Wash., constructed two dirt runways large enough for C-130 transport planes. One is at Cucuyagua, about 25 miles from the Salvadoran border; the other at Jamastran, about 20 miles from the Nicaraguan border area where CIA-backed rebels are fighting Sandinista troops.

Col. James Strachan, spokesman for U.S. forces in Honduras, said American troops are under "rigidly enforced" orders to stay five miles from either border to prevent incidents like the Jan. 11 downing of a U.S. Army helicopter by Nicaraguan soldiers after it crossed into Nicaraguan airspace.

A U.S. military officer, speaking on condition he not be identified, said pilots will have to use extreme caution because of lack of good maps and frequent cloud covers in mountainous regions.

One thousand U.S. troops, 1,800 Honduran soldiers and 1,300 Salvadoran infantrymen will take part in the second phase of Granadero I.

The U.S. contingent includes Green Berets from Fort Bragg, N.C.; Army Aviation units from Fort Hood, Texas; and observation aircraft from the Illinois National Guard.

A counterinsurgency exercise involving small-unit field operations, helicopter-borne maneuvers and artillery is scheduled Monday near Cucuyagua, a longtime rebel stronghold 25 miles north of El Salvador's Chalatenango province.

The exercise is expected to put pressure on guerrilla groups that use pockets of territory disputed by El Salvador and Honduras to elude pursuing Salvadoran troops.

In June the combined forces will conduct a field training exercise at Jamastran involving helicopter-borne troops and paratroopers.

The number of American troops in Honduras peaked last November at more than 5,000 during the six-month Big Pine II maneuvers. Those exercises ended in February, but at least 1,700 Americans remained at Palmerola air base, the U.S. task force headquarters 50 miles northwest Tegucigalpa.

For military aid

Duarte pleads to Congress

By W. DALE NELSON
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dramatic appeal to Congress by Salvadoran President-elect Jose Napoleon Duarte is brightening the prospect that the lawmakers will approve emergency military aid for his war-ravaged Central American country.

President Reagan, congressional leaders and the newly elected Salvadoran official himself indicated Duarte's stint of more than 10 hours on Capitol Hill Tuesday appeared to be bearing fruit.

"I have great hopes that after President Duarte's visit here and meeting with as many in the Congress as he did that there is some reason for optimism," Reagan said in a nationally televised news conference Tuesday night.

Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., made a similar assessment from his perspective as an opponent of Reagan's Central American policies.

"I think he (Duarte) has sold enough people in the House," O'Neill told reporters. "I think the votes are here overwhelmingly, despite my opposition."

O'Neill said he expects the Democrat-controlled House to vote this week on the Reagan administration's Salvadoran aid package.

The Republican-dominated Senate, which has already approved the funds but must act again, would probably move quickly in an effort to send the measure to Reagan's desk before the Memorial Day recess begins Friday.

"I think the United States is going to stand by El Salvador," Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said.

Duarte told reporters, "I have faith that the people of your country understand the dreams that the people of my country have. I believe the Congress will approve the aid."

During a round of seven separate meetings with members of the House and Senate, which began at 8:30 a.m. and extended past 6:30 p.m., Duarte disclosed that he is replacing a key Salvadoran official who has been linked to right-wing death squads.

Sep. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., and three members of the House said Duarte told lawmakers he would not retain Col. Nicolas Carranza as chief of the Treasury Police.

Duarte, who will be inaugurated June 1 as El Salvador's first elected civilian president in 50 years, pleaded with the members of Congress to put their trust in his administration and back it up with money.

"Fundamentally, it is faith — based on faith," he said.

Asked what it would mean if Congress adopted conditions, favored by some liberals, tying further military aid to human rights reforms, he answered, "I would say it would mean that they don't give me the trust that I need."

Lawmakers said Duarte, who winds up his talks here today, punctuated his remarks with sweeping gestures of his left hand, which bears the marks of physical abuse he suffered after being arrested during political strife in El Salvador in 1972.

"All you have to do is look at his left hand to know he is sincere," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., an opponent of administration policy. Nevertheless, said Obey, "I vote 'no.' That's how I vote." He said he believes Duarte will try to seek a political settlement, but doubts the Reagan administration's commitment to such a course.

Reagan reiterated at his news conference that he has no plans to send U.S. troops to Central America.

his request.

Earlier in the day, Shelton achieved a victory when the judge ruled that testimony pertaining to a gun stolen from White Auto Store could not be presented to the jury.

Former Chief Deputy Dean Butcher and Sheriff's Deputy Luis Liscano, again with the jury out of the room, told how they had two separate occasions asked Strain if Joe Angel Martinez, later convicted of the burglary, had tried to sell him a .45-caliber handgun.

Strain allegedly told both law enforcement officers that he did have a pistol but he did not get it from Martinez. Martinez, a 27-year-old Hereford man and son of one of Strain's former farmhands, testified Monday that he had indeed sold the gun to Strain and that he told Strain it was stolen when he sold it to him for $200.

Shelton said the conversation occurred months before the raid and should not be counted as "recent, prior activity" as spelled out by the statute. He claimed the testimony was "an attempt to show that the defendant made some false statement to law enforcement officers, and does not serve as proof of the charge being tried."

Gully at first said the testimony was admissible, but came back from a mid-morning recess to announce that he had changed his ruling.

"The statute is far-reaching anyway," he explained. "The preferred testimony does not go to the issue of participation, it just goes to his intent with regard to the alleged transaction. If I admitted this it would be going a little too far. I'm going to strictly apply this statute."

Testifying briefly on Tuesday was Wayne Williams, vice president and cashier at Hereford State Bank. Williams said Strain has a checking account at the bank, and identified the defendant after briefly looking around the room.

Saul then produced microfilm copies of two checks drawn by Strain on the bank and asked Williams to identify them. Shelton asked to approach the bench at that point, and the checks were never introduced as evidence.

The only other witness to take the stand was Thomas Martinez Jr., the 35-year-old Lubbock man who earlier this year pleaded guilty to delivering a pickup load of stolen merchandise to Strain's farm.

He said he drove the truck for his father and knew his destination only as "Bob's farm," Martinez, a father of four, was given 10 years probation under terms of a plea bargain agreement in 22nd District Court.

Martinez testified he had an idea the planter boxes he delivered were stolen, although his father, Thomas Martinez Sr., told him he had bought the items.

Martinez said he made two other trips to Hereford, once with his dad who dropped him off at a local cafe before going to see Strain. The other time, he said, his father sent him to the Strain farm to try to borrow money, but Strain was not at home.

The younger Martinez said that Strain paid his father $500 for the planter boxes and that he cashed the check himself in Lubbock.

The jury was to report at 9 a.m. today with Patrick Abeyta, attorney for Thomas Martinez Sr., expected to be present.

Strain is being tried on one count of third degree felony theft.

Ray Procuier

New prison chief named

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Ray Procuier, named this week as director of Texas prisons, will be taking over a department under a strict federal court reform order and under investigation for its financial dealings.

Trouble is nothing new for Procuier.

When Utah's state prison had a riot in 1966, officials called in Procuier to clean up the mess. When a series of strange deaths plagued California state mental hospitals, the governor called on Procuier. When Virginia's prisons were the subject of scandal in 1982, officials hired Procuier to restore the system's image.

The 60-year-old Michigan native told the Houston

Chronicle on Tuesday he doubts he'll stay in his new, $64,400-a-year job more than two years.

"That's about as long as it'll take," he said. "I can maintain my enthusiasm in a complicated job for about that long. Texas has some people who can do this job once it gets straightened out."

Procuier hopes to move from Taos, N.M., to Huntsville by June 10 to take over the nation's second-largest prison system. He has been second-in-command in New Mexico's prisons.

He said his main concern is drooping morale among prison employees.

Procuier rose through the ranks of the California prison system, where he hired on as a guard in 1948. During his eight years as head of the system, he gave reporters lots to write about.

"I can remember when we had six people killed at San Quentin, including three officers, in 1971," said Phil Guthrie, assistant information director of the California Department of Corrections. "A gun had been smuggled into the high-security lockup and a lot of the people there were black revolutionaries."

"I remember walking around with Procuier, personally passing sack lunches out to inmates through the bars. He went around talking to them and got involved first-hand."

Guthrie also recalled the time an inmate attending a court hearing grabbed a bailiff's gun and took several people hostage.

"Procuier went and talked the inmate into letting himself be taken hostage in exchange for others," Guthrie said. "Then Procuier talked the guy into surrendering to him on the condition that Procuier personally took him back to prison. And it worked."

"I'm the least paranoid person in the world," Procuier admitted.

Drilling ship bodies to be sent home

HOUSTON (AP) — The bodies of seven workers from an American drilling ship are to be shipped home in zinc-lined coffins late this week, seven months after their vessel sank during a typhoon in the South China Sea, an attorney says.

Fred Hagans, who represents 10 families of crewmembers from the wrecked Glomar Java Sea, said Tuesday the remains of six Americans and an Englishman are to leave Hong Kong Friday or Saturday.

They are among 31 bodies divers recovered from the vessel.

Dick Vermeer, vice president of Global Marine Inc., the ship's Houston-based owner, refused to confirm that such a shipment is planned.

"The coroner's report is supposed to be issued" today, said Hagans. "Subsequent shipments will be made next week."

A coroner in Hong Kong has been working since March to identify the bodies, members of a crew of 81 aboard the American ship which sank Oct. 25 when struck by Typhoon Lex.

Hagans said he hopes the coroner's report will "give some indication what the person was doing prior to death. It will tell us if there was any indication of a struggle, any indication of cause of death besides drowning."

"Of the 31 bodies, I believe something like 23 or 24 had on life jackets," he said. Some crew members had the life jackets on properly but others had them only around their waists, he said.

The ship now rests on the floor of the South China Sea, 60 miles south of China's Hainan Island and 200 miles east of Vietnam.

Hagans said those in the first shipment are Jerald T. Battiste, of St. Elmo, Ala.; David P. Clifton of Harvey, La.; assistant engineer Russell E.J. Reynolds of Kennebunk, Maine; David Higgins Jr., hometown unknown; Michael W. Thomas, of Humboldt, Kansas; Christopher J. Sleeman of Great Britain; and Jerry L. Manfrida, hometown unknown.

Vermeer said last week that three of the 31 bodies recovered remained unidentified, but refused to say Tuesday whether that was still the case.

Divers also sighted three other bodies in the wreck, but were unable to recover them.

Ann Landers

Coping under pressure

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father is dying. I take care of them during the day, and my unmarried sister who works stays with him at night. He is bedridden, incontinent, has to be spoon-fed, is demanding and in pain.

During the last six months I have gained 30 pounds. (I eat out of frustration). Sometimes four or five days go by and I don't take a bath or shampoo my hair because I'm too exhausted. I haven't seen a movie or a play in so long I can't recall the last time I treated myself to such a luxury.

Our daughter has dropped out of college and refuses to go to church. My husband is coming home from work later and later. We cannot afford help and I vowed years ago I would never put my father in a nursing home.

So to all your readers who become upset because a store clerk had the nerve to tell you to "have a nice day," to the lady who is worried because she doesn't know who should say "hi" first when entering the office and the woman who is mad at her husband because he won't turn his socks and underwear right-side out before putting them in the clothes hamper, I ask what in the world are you going to do when a real problem comes along? If you can't handle the small stuff you'll be a basket case for sure. Please think about it.—Barely Coping In Chicago

DEAR CHICAGO: What a wonderful sermonette for the moaners and groaners in the peanut gallery. Beautiful. Just beautiful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For years you have shown the courage to speak out on many subjects that were sure to anger some folks, you did it for the common good. Here's another one—chewing tobacco.

My husband feels very pious about having given up smoking, but now he is almost never without a chunk of tobacco in his mouth. He claims it is harmless, but I can't believe a person can soak his gums and teeth in that awful stuff night and day without doing some damage to his system.

I admit I have strong feelings against chewing tobacco because it looks so unappetizing. I can't stand to talk to a person who has tobacco juice running out of the corners of his mouth and spits every few minutes. When the stuff spatters I become nauseated.

What do the doctors say about this? Is there any evidence that chewing tobacco produces undesirable side effects?—Turned Stomach In the Carolinas

DEAR TURNED: The incidence of tongue, gum and mouth cancer is much higher among those who chew tobacco than those who don't. Gastritis is another bonus for chewers of the brown stuff. There is irrefutable evidence that tobacco, in any form, is bad news and anyone who thinks differently is kidding himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read that surgeons should be careful what they say in the operating room because patients who are anesthetized may be able to hear them.

I can attest to this because when I was operated on for a ruptured appendix, I heard a surgeon say, "My God, he's in terrible shape." When I came to, I thought I was going to die. Please, Ann, warn those folks in the operating room to be careful what they say.—Florida

DEAR FLORIDA: You did—in a most effective manner—and I thank you.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Club elects officers

New officers were elected when members of Sugar Works Cake Decorating Club met recently in the home of Carol Odom who gave a demonstration on spray guns.

Paula Gamez will serve as president; Ms. Odom, vice-president; Sue Rogers, secretary-treasurer; Sherry Davis, reporter; Barbara Edwards, parliamentarian.

Ms. Odom opened the meeting with "Talking with God" and it was announced that Ms. Rogers will make a cake for the Satellite Work Training Center for June.

Installation of officers will be held June 1 at K-Bob's Steak House.

We're Backing The Hereford Senior Citizens Building Fund

I am for the Senior Citizens' movement in Hereford because of the good, a fine building and grounds will be for our Senior Citizens. We owe them the respect that this small accomplishment will tell them we have for them. All Hereford citizens can be proud that we have contributed to a worthwhile project that is needed and will be appreciated. Hereford has never failed to meet a need. As a city, we have always been the leader of all our Texas cities in accomplishing whatever we conceive to be good for us and our people. This project is no exception. We are proving again that by working together we can do the job. I am proud to be part of the accomplishment of the people of Hereford and that which we have done, are doing and will surely continue to do in the future.

Semi-pro football team

Local Warriors complete roster

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor
There are reported to be 27 men on this town's new semi-pro football team, the Hereford Warriors. Team general manager and coach Matt Morgan said Jerseys were ordered Tuesday for the players who made the team after eight weeks of try outs. Aside from physical ability, Morgan said other things were taken into account as to who made the team. "Team participation, helping with (fundraising), and showing up at practices," were other things considered with regard to making the grid squad, according to Morgan. The Warriors will be competing in the Texas Panhandle Semi-pro football league. The league is in its third year of existence and may include teams from Amarillo, Wellington, Pampa, Dumas, Borger and Perryton. The team's first exhibition game is scheduled to be against the West Texas State University junior varsity squad sometime this summer, said Morgan. The first regular season contest is a home game against Wellington Sept. 2.

Game site is yet to be determined. The team has expressed interest in renting Whiteface Stadium if that can be arranged. Team colors are to be silver and black. Size on the offensive and defensive lines are not expected to pose a problem since five men reportedly weigh 220 lbs. or more. Greg De La Paz is the biggest on the team, tipping the scales at 255 lbs.

There will be five captains on the roster: Rob Chaney, Manuel Estrada, David Mungia, Felix Mungia and Morgan.

Although the roster is complete, most starting positions are still up for grabs. Regular season games will be played, for the most part, on Sunday's. Special efforts are being made to schedule the games before or after the Dallas Cowboy football games in order to avoid a conflict of interest.

The team's helmet will feature a medieval-looking warrior. It was designed by one of the players' wives.

Ready To Sack

Manuel Estrada, a defensive lineman for Hereford's new semi-pro football team, prepares to sack an unidentified quarterback during Sunday's full-contact practice.

Rockets anxious for today's coin flip

NEW YORK (AP) — This was finger-crossing day for the National Basketball Association teams in Portland and Houston.

The Portland Trail Blazers, hopeful of a strong center to fill out their otherwise potent lineup, and the Houston Rockets, looking for a dream front line, flipped a 100-year-old silver dollar today for the right to take All-American Akeem Olajuwon in the NBA draft.

Both teams say they would use the first selection to take the 7-foot Nigerian from the University of Houston in the June 19 draft if they win the flip made by Commissioner David Stern.

The Rockets won a flip with the Indiana Pacers last year and selected 7-4 Ralph Sampson, a three-time collegiate player of the year, but they are back again because they still finished last in the Western Conference.

Indiana finished last in the Eastern Conferences this season, but Portland will flip because it acquired Indiana's 1984 first-round pick in a 1981 trade that sent journeyman center Tom Owens to the Pacers.

"I never thought we would be back in last place after winning 29 games, but we're going to try to get lucky again," Rockets owner Charlie Thomas said Tuesday. "Even though we already have Sampson, I don't see us trading Olajuwon if we get him. It would be something to have Sampson and Olajuwon playing side-by-side."

Sampson, like Olajuwon, is a center.

So desperate are the Trail Blazers to add Olajuwon to their full stable of guards and forwards that they made indirect but illegal contact with him and fellow All-American Patrick Ewing of Georgetown to discuss NBA draft procedures. For that, Stern fined them $250,000 on Monday, the largest fine in league history.

General Manager Stu Inman said if the Blazers lose the flip, they would probably take Kentucky 7-footer Sam Bowie with the No. 2 choice.

"Our thinking at the moment is Olajuwon, Bowie, in that order," Inman said from Portland.

In 1974, Philadelphia incorrectly called "heads" and Portland was able to choose Bill Walton, who led the Trail Blazers to an NBA title three years later.

Thomas said he would again rely on his daughter, Tracy, to give him the correct side of the coin.

Cooper blasts Brewers past Rangers, 7-1

By HERSHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

Cecil Cooper is back in the swing of things because his back is finally letting him swing at things.

After sitting out 11 games with back spasms and driving in only four runs in the 26 games in which he appeared, Cooper snapped out of his RBI doldrums Tuesday night. He drove in five runs with two singles, a double and his first homer of the season and powered the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"I'm a lot better, but I can't say I'm 100 per cent," said Cooper, who drove in more runs (535) than any player in the majors over the past five seasons, including a club record 126 last year. "I haven't been concentrating. It's been a combination of things, worrying about hitting home runs and my back. Hopefully, I'm back in the groove. I finally got a hit in a key situation. It's nice to finally drive in some runs."

Elsewhere in the American League, the amazing Detroit Tigers stopped the California Angels 3-1 for their 15th consecutive road victory, the Toronto Blue Jays edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Chicago White Sox 7-6, the Oakland Athletics downed the Baltimore Orioles 6-4, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Cleveland Indians 7-1 and the Seattle Mariners beat the New York Yankees 5-.

Cooper delivered run-scoring singles in the third and fifth innings, ripped histolo hom in the seventh one out after Rick Manning homered and doubled across two more runs in the ninth. Winner Chuck Porter scattered seven hits over six innings. Texas' Pete O'Brien tied a major-league record shared by five other first basemen by starting three double plays.

Tigers 3, Angels 1

Juan Berenguer hurled three-hit ball for six innings as Detroit won its seventh game in a row and boosted its over-all record to 33-5. The Tigers are within one game of the AL record of 16 consecutive road victories set by the 1912 Washington Senators. The 1916 New York Giants hold the major-league mark of 17.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead against Mike Witt in the first inning when Kirk Gibson singled, stole second, continued to third on catcher Bob Boone's throwing error and scored on Lance Parrish's single. Rod Carew's homer tied the score in the bottom of the first but Detroit went in front again in the second on Dave Bergman's double. Boone's passed ball and Chel Lemon's grounder. The Tigers added a run in the eighth on Larry Herndon's sacrifice fly.

Blue Jays 3, Twins 2

Pinch-hitter George Bell singled home the winning run with one out in the eighth inning as Toronto remained eight games behind Detroit in the AL East. Lloyd Moseby drew a leadoff walk from

Mike Smithson and, after Pete Filson relieved, Willie Upshaw sacrificed. Pinch-hitter Cliff Johnson was intentionally walked before Bell greeted Mike Walters with his game-winning single. Trailing 2-1 in the sixth, the Blue Jays tied it when Dave Collins hit his first home run of the season. Minnesota had taken a 2-1 lead in the sixth on Tom Brunansky's two-run homer.

Royals 7, White Sox 6

Dane Iorg drove in three runs and George Brett doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning. Pat Sheridan singled with two out in the seventh off reliever Salome Barojas and Brett followed with an opposite-field double. Chicago's Julio Cruz tied the score 6-6 in the sixth inning with a two-run homer. Iorg had a two-run double in the first inning and hit his first home run of the year in the third.

Athletics 6, Orioles 4

Carney Lansford put Oakland ahead with a two-run homer to cap a four-run rally in the fifth inning and the A's went on to snap a seven-game losing streak. The A's, 6-17 on the road but 13-6 at home.

Red Sox 7, Indians 1

Bruce Hurst worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the third inning after teammate Ed Jurak captured a rat near home plate and finished with a five-hitter. With two out and two on in the third inning, the rat.

Skills important for both spouses

COLLEGE STATION — After many years of being a two-car family, older couples often settle for one car.

And who drives? Mile after mile, short trip or long, the husband does the driving. Seldom does the wife get behind the wheel except to run to the grocery store or to a club meeting, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Aging Specialist Dr. Judith Warren.

Some wives simply stop driving and fail to renew their driver's license. During those years driving skills and confidence are lost, along with competence to maneuver in freeway traffic.

When their husbands become ill or they are widowed, these wives may become stranded and dependent, although they may remain in good health and have a car in the garage.

"Typically, these isolated widows do not venture out very much unless someone providing transportation insists," Warren observes.

"Neither do they see their physician, hairdresser or friends as often as they should, because they no longer drive."

"Maintaining driving skills may be essential to the wife's independence after a husband dies. Thoughtful husbands will help their wives keep up their driving skills and keep them informed on auto maintenance routines," she believes.

"Knowing how to check the oil level, tire pressure, battery fluid level, and mileage between routine servicing may not convert wives or widows to do-it-yourself minor maintenance. It will, however, help them know what has to be done and how often, says the specialist.

The thoughtful husband will insist that his wife drive at least half the time, even in freeway traffic, so that, if necessary, she can become a competent widow, Warren says.

"And who knows? She may need those driving skills to rush him to the hospital in a medical emergency and thereby save his life," she notes.

Military Muster

Airman Steven D. Collins, son of Darrel H. and Thea G. Collins of Adrian, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the personnel field. He is a 1983 graduate of Adrian High School.

Another New Business

The Hereford Hustlers conducted a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday for the opening of Simpson Radiator, located on East Hwy. 60 in the former Gearn Machine Shop. The new business is operated by Carl Simpson, center

Dealing with age a matter of 'practice'

Every May the public salutes older Americans—their achievements, wisdom, courage and strength—but what really makes a person "old" in this era of increasing longevity?

Time magazine quotes comedian George Burns, now 88, as saying, "A lot of people practice getting old. They start practicing when they're 70, and when they're 75, they're a hit. They've made it. They are now old."

Burns then added, "Who wants that?"

More than 1,000 Texans aged 55 and over who work for the Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb program certainly don't want that. One of the myths accompanying the

"65 is old" myth is that older persons are simply not productive. Yet these Green Thumbs, who work with non-profit organizations in 111 counties, prove daily that their dependability is very good relative to other age groups, and that their capacity to be productive is high.

"Green Thumb workers have decided not to practice being old," said Green Thumb State Director Diane Parrish. "They've decided to practice staying active instead. Medical and social advances have given us longer lives; why waste those extra years when there are so many contributions to be made?"

According to Robert Butler of the National Institute of Aging, there's been a 26 year gain in life expectancy in just the last 80 years, which has given the nation a population of 26 million people over the age of 65.

In previous centuries, a person in his 30s could look old and be old because of disease. Now, people are living longer and looking younger. Experts feel that we have not really extended the inherent life span, which is probably genetically determined—we have simply improved our chances of survival to enjoy the full extent of that life span.

Today, 83 percent of newborn babies will live into their 60's compared with one-third just 150 years ago. What's more, the over-65 age group is increasingly vigorous and healthy. Older people are working longer and taking better care of themselves than ever before.

Square dancers meet

Forrest and Ruth McDowell were hosts Friday evening in their home for the Good Timers Square Dance Club. Members enjoyed hamburgers and ice cream before dancing.

Scott Turner called for the dancing. The evening had been designated as "Amateur Night" so in addition to Turner, calling a tip were Tommy Rosson, Frances Rape and Michele Geiger.

Good Timers will cancel their dance June 1 in order to attend the state festival in Lubbock. The next scheduled dance will be June 15 at which time new club officers will be nominated.

All members were encouraged to attend the Lubbock festival.

Reclaims top spot

CBS claims ratings victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS, after losing to ABC for four straight weeks, reclaimed the top spot in the Nielsen ratings as "Dallas" and "Falcon Crest" sprang their summer cliffhangers and captured the top two positions.

The narrow win for the week ended May 20 was the first weekly victory for CBS since it took the season ratings title in March.

CBS' "Dallas" and "Falcon Crest," both of which left viewers in suspense until the fall, finished one-two for the week.

ABC was only a tenth of a ratings point behind in second place and NBC was third. The Top 10 was fairly evenly split among the networks. CBS took the first three places ("Miss USA Beauty Pageant" was third) and didn't win another spot in the Top 10. ABC had four shows at the top and NBC had three.

There were three other noteworthy events for the week:

—Robert Young's return to his role as Dr. Marcus Welby was fourth (tied with NBC's "The A-Team") in the ratings. The movie, "The Return of Marcus Welby, M.D.," was a pilot for an ABC series in which Young would have a role.

—The ABC miniseries "The Mystic Warrior" won a major victory — in fact, it might be called an upset — over the NBC miniseries "The First Olympics, Athens 1896" on Sunday. The opening chapter of the two-part "The Mystic Warrior," a story about the Plains Indians at the time of the coming of the white man, was in sixth place. The first part of "The First Olympics" was in 52nd place.

—NBC's "Hill Street Blues," a virtual stranger to the Top 10 this past year, was tied for ninth place with ABC's "The Fall Guy" as it ended for the season with the separation of Frank and Joyce. Its rise was helped by the fact that rival CBS's "Knots Landing" has had its cliffhanger and gone into reruns.

Other shows in the Top 10: ABC's "Three's Company," seventh; and NBC's "Country Music Awards," eighth. CBS won the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey with a network average of 14.3. ABC was second with 14.2 and NBC was third with 12.7. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 14.3 percent of the TV homes were tuned to CBS.

The five lowest rated shows were: CBS' "Classified Creatures" special, the CBS movie "Used Cars," CBS' "His and Hers," NBC's "Berenstain Bears" special, and NBC's "Smurfs."

CBS kept its lead among the evening news shows. NBC was second and ABC was third. The ratings: CBS 10.7, NBC 9.0, ABC 8.9.

Today in History

Today is Wednesday, May 23, the 144th day of 1984. There are 222 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 23, 1934, bank robbers Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow were shot to death in a police ambush in Louisiana.

On this date: In 1701, Captain William Kidd was hanged in London after being convicted of piracy and murder.

In 1788, South Carolina became the eighth state of the union.

In 1938, oil magnate John D. Rockefeller Sr. died at the age of 97.

In 1971, the death toll was put at 1,000 in an earthquake in eastern Turkey.

Ten years ago: The United States assured the Geneva Disarmament Conference that it would not develop miniaturized nuclear weapons.

One year ago: South African jets bombed offices of the African National Congress in Mozambique in retaliation for a bombing in Pretoria that killed more than a dozen people.

Today's birthdays: Actor Scatman Crothers and band leader Artie Shaw are 74. Actress Betty Garrett is 65. Singer Rosemary Clooney is 56. Actress Barbara Barrie is 53. Actress Joan Collins is 51.

Thought for today: "They who are of the opinion that money will do everything, may very well be suspected to do everything, for money." — George Savile, Marquess of Halifax (1633-1695).

Producers take wait, see attitude on outlook for '84 beef imports

COLLEGE STATION — U.S. beef producers will have to adopt a "wait and see" attitude about beef import levels for 1984 because of several unpredictable factors.

"The outlook for beef imports in 1984 has been the subject of much interest in the past few months," said Mickey Paggi, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The question at issue is what effect expected increases in cow slaughter resulting from the new dairy program will have on the 1984 import trigger level," Paggi said.

Last year U.S. cattle producers generated more than $1.9 billion in exports while U.S. imports of cattle and related products surpassed $1.7 billion. While the balance between imports and exports was close, Paggi said, the product mix was quite different. Exports fall into five major commodities while almost 80 percent of U.S. imports is beef and veal.

Each year the U.S. Department of Agriculture establishes import quotas by adjusting the base level, 1.205 billion pounds. Quotas are imposed if quarterly estimates of annual imports exceed a trigger level designated as 110 percent of the quota level, Paggi explained.

Last November USDA

analysts projected that the 1984 import trigger would be between 1.258 billion and 1.290 billion pounds, a 2 to 5 percent increase over 1983 levels. This predicted increase was based on an expected decline in domestic cattle slaughter.

However, revised estimates, due in large part to expected impacts of the new dairy program, resulted in a trigger of 1.228 billion pounds announced on Dec. 30.

Although cow slaughter resulting from the dairy reduction program has been considerably less than anticipated during the first few months of 1984, the trigger level set last December will stand for the entire year even though some upward adjustment seems warranted, Paggi said.

"Currently analysts disagree as to whether the trigger level will be a critical factor for 1984 beef imports," Paggi said. "Industry sources feel the trigger is too low, yet USDA officials do not anticipate a problem."

From an international trade perspective, the potential need to impose the quota would be "unfortunate," the economist said. In 1982 and 1983, the U.S. negotiated voluntary restraints on imports from its three largest suppliers—Australia, New Zealand and Canada—to prevent quotas from being imposed.

"Such actions are inconsistent with U.S. negotiations to limit the protectionist practice of other countries," Paggi claimed. "But once again conflicts arise between diverse interest groups that make up U.S. agriculture," he added. "For now, U.S. cattle producers will just have to wait and see what develops."

Soviet Union may import 35 million tons of grain in '84-85

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union may import 35 million metric tons of grain in 1984-85, the second largest amount in history and the sixth consecutive year of imports exceeding 30 million tons.

But the department said Thursday that if the Soviet Union's 1984 grain harvest turns out larger than 190 million tons, imports could be less than the 35 million tons now estimated in the international marketing year that will begin on July 1.

The USDA tentatively projected on Wednesday that this year's Soviet grain output will be around 190 million tons. However, the projection was said to be "highly tentative" and subject to revision when the department issues its official estimate of Soviet grain production about midyear.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Last year the Soviet Union produced 195 million tons of grain, the biggest harvest since the record output of 237.4 million tons in 1978.

Poor yields from successive crops forced Moscow to turn heavily to imports in order to feed an expanding livestock sector and to maintain inventories.

Stewardship Week is slated

COLLEGE STATION — High winds have kicked up dust storms this spring throughout much of Texas, and heavy rains that are sure to come sooner or later will rob more lands of precious topsoil. All this points to a greater need for soil conservation.

And calling greater attention to soil conservation is what Soil Stewardship Week is all about.

The annual nationwide observance will be May 27-June 3 this year, with the theme "Conservation: A Common Commitment."

"Commitment is what is needed from everyone to reduce the loss of our valuable soil and water resources," said Dr. B.L. Harris, a soils specialist.

"We must all make a commitment to work toward this common objective, for it is from these natural resources that we reap the food and fiber that enables our very existence," Harris emphasized, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The extension service is joining the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts and the State Board plus the Soil Conservation Service and others in this weeklong observance.

"We must accept primary responsibility as caretakers of God's earth," the specialist said. "We are prepared to eat the fruit, but often we leave the task of caring for the land to a handful of people who sincerely care about perpetuating our forests, preserving our rivers and renewing the topsoil."

Harris emphasized that there is no time like the present to join the commitment to soil and water conservation. "Our long-range food supply may depend on it. Our farmland is under a lot of pressure—from erosion, urbanization and pollution. Everyone can help conserve our natural resources."

"Let's keep America, the beautiful, and America, the greatest agricultural country on this earth," Harris said. "Join in local conservation efforts to protect our soil and water resources."

Fresh vegetables now plentiful in Texas

COLLEGE STATION — The "fresh approach" is the thing again this year. Fresh vegetables are plentiful in Texas now, so make sure you get your share.

"Ask for fruits and vegetables grown in Texas," suggested Tom Longbrake, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "You'll be supporting Texans who earn their livelihood from growing your groceries."

Texas supplies broccoli, cabbage, carrots, spinach, lettuce and potatoes in early spring followed by cantaloupes, cucumbers, honeydews, squash, peppers and tomatoes. Blackberries, plums and early peaches will be available in late May and June along with watermelons, blackeyed peas and okra.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Osteoporosis, arthritis
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 73-year-old with osteoporosis. I had two fractured vertebrae that have immobilized me. I also have arthritis all over my body and a sciatic problem.
How is osteoporosis different from osteoarthritis?
DEAR READER — "Osteo" means bone and "porosis" means porous; you have "porous bones." You lose calcium from the bones, which lose their strength and size. As a result, they break easily. A high percentage of hip and other fractures in people older than 50 occur because the person has osteoporosis.
A young person may fall from a considerable height and it may not hurt, but an older person may miss his footing, stumble and fall, and end up with a broken hip. The difference is in brittle bones.
As the bones soften and decrease in size the involved vertebrae begin to topple like a stack of dominoes. This results in the hump in the back called the dowager's or buffalo hump. Osteoarthritis is a different process. It's not associated with loss of calcium. Rather, the weight bearing joints begin to wear, resulting in the term "wear-and-tear" arthritis. As new bone forms in areas of wear it may form spurs. Some people think osteoarthritis is associated with too much calcium, but that's not true. Taking calcium is important to control or prevent osteoporosis and it doesn't cause osteoarthritis.
Since both problems occur in people as they get older, it's not unusual for a person to have both wear-and-tear osteoarthritis and porous bones or osteoporosis.
To give you more information on osteoporosis and how to prevent and treat it, I'm sending you the Health Letter 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
DEAR DR. LAMB —

Where's the beef?

COLLEGE STATION — When it comes to the American diet, that popular question "Where's the beef?" has a simple answer — it's on the dinner plate.
Beef is clearly a staple of the American diet, says Marilyn Haggard, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.
The American Meat Institute estimates that the average American consumes a little under 19 pounds of hamburger per year. Other studies have shown that ground beef is served in 96 percent of all U.S. households and fresh beef other than ground beef is eaten in 97 percent of households, explains Haggard.
Families do, of course, vary in the amount of beef

Ten year reunion scheduled
The Hereford High School Class of 1974 has scheduled its 10 year reunion Saturday.
A visitation session will mark the beginning of the event from 5-6 p.m. that day in the Hereford Community Center ballroom. The banquet is slated to follow from 6-8 p.m. in the center's banquet room and a dance at the Hereford VFW Hall will conclude the affair from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m.
All persons who are or have been affiliated with the class of '74 are invited to attend. Cost for the reunion is $15 for singles and $30 per couple.

they eat, but total beef consumption has stayed about the same since 1981, says the nutritionist.
Heavy users serve beef twice a week or more, moderate to light users serve beef one to three times during a two-week period, and others serve beef only occasionally.
From a nutritional standpoint, beef makes an important contribution to the American diet, says Haggard. For example, a person who has a daily diet of 2,000 calories, gets only eight percent of his calories from a 3-ounce serving of beef, but gets 57 percent of his protein need, 34 percent of his vitamin B-12, 32 percent of his zinc, and 21 percent of his phosphorus.
Many consumers have become concerned about the amount of animal fat and cholesterol in their diets, notes Haggard. However, beef — especially as eaten rather than as purchased at the store — contains less fat, less saturated fat and less cholesterol than many people assume, says the nutritionist.
United States Department of Agriculture studies show that once you trim the fat from your meat, beef is not high in fat when compared to many main dish items in Americans' diets. USDA research also shows that less than half the fat in beef is saturated fat.
While animal sources still contribute the greatest amount of fat to American diets, vegetable sources like oils and margarine account for the increase in fat in the food supply, says Haggard.
Well-trimmed beef is part of a good balanced diet which includes other meats, fish and poultry, fruits and vegetables, cereals and grains, and dairy products, she adds.

Hereford, Vega club members attend convention

Recently attending the Fifty-Fifth Annual Convention of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. in Albuquerque, N.M. were five garden club members from Hereford and Vega.

The delegate from the Hereford Garden Club was Mrs. John Jacobson, who is also the District I president. Mrs. Wayne Porter from Vega was the Bud to Blossom Garden Club delegate. Also representing the Bud to Blossom Club were Mmes. Jack Hughes, Dino Barelo and Joe Spann.

The ladies enjoyed an all-day tour of historical Santa Fe. The first stop was at Santo Domingo Indian Pueblo reservation. There the group enjoyed shopping for pottery and jewelry. Rancho de la Flor de Lis, the Ranch of the Iris, was next on the agenda and was followed by lunch at the Sheraton Santa Fe Inn. During the afternoon they toured through the Plaza area, visited three private and distinguished homes and the Folk Art Museum.

The group went on an Albuquerque city tour, visiting the Garden Center, the campus of the University of New Mexico, the Indian Culture Center and Old Town—the original Albuquerque, founded in 1706.

"Chapparel Country" was the theme for the luncheon held at the Convention Center in the Regent Hotel. Music was by Bino Baca, singer-guitarist of the Gypsy Danch Band and by Sam and Gloria McCoy, Mexican folk dancers. Jerry Rose presented a program featuring his own photography of cacti slides. A membership workshop was attended in the afternoon.

The theme for one of the luncheons, was "Rural Countryside." The national scholarship winners were presented with awards, and the high school speech contest winner gave a program on "Red Alert," her winning speech on water conservation. Singing and square dancing was presented by students from Alameda Elementary School. The choice of workshop for the afternoon was Landscape Design.

"Night On The Town, Ole" was the theme for the banquet. The speaker for the evening was Bob Thomas, floral design consultant. His subject was "nature the Master Sculptor." Music was by The Fiesta Singers.

It was noted by Texans that they were also very interested in Texas. "Do you just hear mooing all night?" and "How do sugar beets grow there when it takes such hot weather for them?" were just some of the questions the group heard. It seems they believe that all Texans own a cattle ranch, and when this theory was denied they insisted that Texans probably have oil someplace.

The group returned on the 16th after many stops along the roadsides for collectable desert foliage.

Poster contest winners announced

Members of the Hereford Firemens Auxillary recently sponsored a fire prevention poster contest. The winners were taken to the convention of the Panhandle Firemen and Fire Marshal's Association held this past weekend in Amarillo.

In the high school division (grades 9-12) Joe Ramirez captured first place; Manuel Mendiola Jr., second place; and Rita Galvan, third place. Amy Faulkner won second place in the intermediate division (grades 3,4 and 5); and Jerry Narry, third place.

In the special education division, Danny Berumen was first place winner; Olivia Guerra, second place; and Hector Saucedo, third place. These posters won trophies at the convention and will be taken to the state convention slated in June at McAllen.

The group went on an Albuquerque city tour, visiting the Garden Center, the campus of the University of New Mexico, the Indian Culture Center and Old Town—the original Albuquerque, founded in 1706.

Abundant Life

Bob Wear

IN OUR day-to-day living experiences, the mind-set makes the difference between a satisfactory life and one that is unsatisfactory. This means that we must keep the whole self, and especially our speech and our feelings under the deliberate control of the mind. With this, we form the mind-set with the many good and positive things which are available to us.

We form the mind-set for triumphant living by being quick to dispel all unpleasant and all destructive thoughts, and filling the mind with pleasant and constructive thoughts. We have this "right," and this "capability;" in view of the best available information, it is our responsibility to do this.

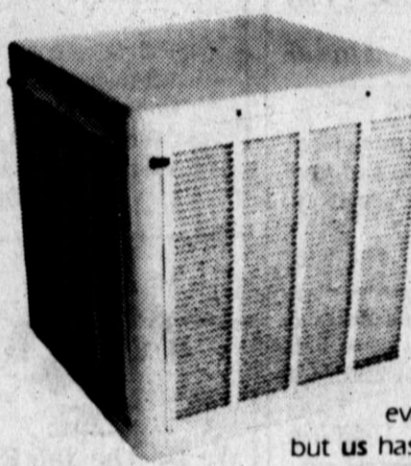

IT IS NECESSARY that we let the things over which we have no control to be as the time which passes in the night. This frees the mind-set so we can give our thought, time, energy, ability and effort to our work, to self-improvement and to other important considerations. We owe this to ourselves and to those who may be dependent upon us, and to those who may love us.

THE MIND-SET must be guarded diligently. It has been said, "Guard riches, property, health, body, everything, in short, in which you have a legitimate interest, or which is advantageous; but before and above everything else, keep a guard on your mind." When and if disturbing and destructive things seem to be invading our privacy of thought, we can usually, by self-determination, put into our mind the stabilizing and constructive information which will give us the victory.

OUR MIND-SET is of our own permission or our own choosing.
