Doggett camp says lead solid

AUSTIN (AP) - Aides to state Sen. Lloyd Doggett say they are confident Doggett will hold his lead over U.S. Rep. Kent Hance as the recount in the Democratic U.S. Senate primary nears an end.

"We feel very comfortable in thinking the gap at the end of the recount will be about 1,000 votes," Doggett aide Paul Begala said Tuesday.

Doggett, of Austin, won the June 2 runoff by just 467 votes, according to results compiled by the secretary of state.

counties recounted on Tuesday and 13 more were to do so Wednesday, he said.

Camille Burger, primary director for the Texas Democratic Party, said the party intends that the recount be completed Wednesday.

Bexar County, which is scheduled to recount on Wednesday, is the largest county in which the results haven't been rechecked. Doggett won Bexar County in the June 2 voting.

Most of the remaining counties are small and rural, Begala said, adding that he doubts there will be anywhere near enough vote changes in them for Hance to close the gap.

"There'll be a little change up and down, but we don't think the total will change very much. There just aren't that many votes that will switch. The (original vote) were counts

Deficiencies in the design and construction of the spillway at Buffalo Lake were explained Tuesday night during the monthly meeting of the lake's water district board.

Jerry Moore, civil engineer with the Bureau of Reclamation, reported the results of his study to board members and a small crowd gathered in Hereford Community Center. Moore used a slide show, consisting of old and new photographs and topographical drawings, to explain why the bureau considers the spillway inadequate and beyond repair in its present condition.

Moore said uneven elevation around the entrance to the spillway would cause the water to bounce off one side, creating an eratic flow and what he called a "hydraulic jump." Using photographs taken during floods in the 1940s, Moore pointed out that turbulence in high waters flowing through the spillway was created by design pro-

Settling and deterioration of the foundation and walls and the lack of reinforcement bars were other problems considered by the bureau in making its decision that the spillway should not be repaired. Moore said his suggestion would be to tear the spillway out and start over again, replacing it with a more "homogeneous" one.

The Bureau of Reclamation study was completed at the request of the Fish and Wildlife Service, which now has control of the dry lake and surrounding area as a wildlife refuge.

The board also heard from Rodney Krey, a Fish and Wildlife employee stationed at the lake's refuge office. He announced that construction of the first nine picnic areas should begin later this week and be completed within a month. The sites will include concrete slabs completing with cooking grills, he said.

Fish and Wildlife has plans for 30 camping sites as well, to be built in three phases of 10 in each phase.

Three of the nine board members were named to a committee to study the general management plan devised for the lake area by Fish and Wildlife. Carolyn Waters, Charles Johnson and Terry Cooke will serve on that committee, designed primarily to recommend changes the board would like to see made in the plan.

The plan includes five management areas, all of which could be used whether the lake is filled or dry. Krey pointed out that unless the lake is turned over to the National Park Service to once again be designated as a recreation area, it will be first and foremost a wildlife refuge and recreational facilities will get second consideration. Krey said the first management area is the public use of the land, which plans calling for the picnic and camping areas, a visitors' center and Boy Scout camp.

The preservation of pheasant, deer and other game animals is the second area of management, with waterfowl being the third area of consideration.

Krey said the fourth area will consist of a walking trail to be built north of the lake bed, while a prairie dog town and natural research area is planned as the remaining management area.

Board chairman Ted Abrahamson suggested that the board's major objection to the plan would be that it does not include as many recreation areas as the board would like. "You still don't

Administrative hiring examined

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Concerns about methods used to select Hereford Independent School District administrators caused an impromptu, hour-long closed session at Tuesday evening's school board meeting.

In other matters, the board agreed to allocate $20,000 to pay those teacher's completing unit planning needed for the implentation of a mastery learning system. Robert Amar, school board member, said he would like the board to be more familiar with applicants for administrative posts before approving recommendations. Tuesday, four administrative changes were proposed to the board by Dr. Harrell Holder, HISD superintendent.

"The thing is, it would be for protection more than anything else," Amar said. We are brought a recommendation for approval. Therefore, when we say 'yes,' we (imply we) have full knowledge of what is going

Bobby Decker, who this past year was assistant principal and activities director at Hereford High School, was approved to replace Robert Priest as full-time assistant principal. Selected as administrative assistant to the principal was Marilyn Leasure, previously a math teacher at HHS.

Holder's recommendation Alice Lockmiller, a secondgrade teacher, be assistant principal at Northwest Primary School was approved by the board. She is to take the place of Leslie Paschel, who is to become full-time curriculum director after handling the job on a parttime basis this past school Amar was the sole board member to object to any of the hirings; saying "no" on the Leasure consideration. Jo Garcia abstained from all four decisions.

According to John Walch, outgoing assitant superintendent of instruction, approximately 50 percent of the needed mastery units would be completed should all the $20,000 be used. For each unit finished by Aug. 15, a total of $1,100 will be paid to the person(s) who accomplished the task. Walch said it has been estimated 15 days of work are needed to complete a unit. Board members ananimously approved the request despite Paul Mason's voiced concern other teachers may complain they are not being reimbursed for other services.

Before the meeting ended, Walch said he recommended HISD proceed with plans to have a middle school for seventh and eighth graders.He claimed such a move would, among other things, make it easier to comply with regulations established by recentlyenacted House Bill 246.

Results of California Achievement Tests (CATs) for this spring were released by Walch. In mathematics, all tested grades (first through ninth) achieved results at or above the national norms. All but the second and fourth graders achieved marks equal to or better than their spring of 1983 counterparts, who were fifth graders this past year.

In reading CATs, only fifth graders failed to match the national norm, falling one month shy with a competency level of five years, six months. All results from this spring were at or above those Theologians to serve community

By LINDA CAUDLE Lifestyles Editor

It was almost a year ago when a group of local residents began to have a vision of preserving and renewing the fundamental values which they felt were being left behind in the fast-paced, hectic lifestyle of America's huge urban Sunday at 3 p.m. area citizens, with the support and participation of local ministers from various denominations, plan to come together at the First Christian Church to ordain two Hereford men into the ministry to serve, not one congregation, but the entire community. Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, well-know educator and founder of the one million strong Yokefellows International, has been following the local turn of events closely and recently remarked, "So far as I know this ordination service is unique even in the history of world Christianity.

"I do not know of a single instance in which a whole town has ordained men to the ministry of Jesus Christ for that town. It is certainly new wineskins for the new wine."

The 84-year-old theologian, who has served as an advisor to several presidents, is considered to be "the father of the church renewal movement" by prominent leaders of the Christian establishment, according to the Rev. Mack McCarter, pastor of First Christian Church.

Trueblood has authored numerous publications on the subject and has been instrumental in the ministries of men like Robert Schuller, Billy Graham and Keith Miller, noted the local minister.

The Cornerstone Christian Community Movement was born July 31, 1983, in the 400-member First Christian Church pastored by McCarter. Church members backed the dream with their financial support that day, termed "Miracle Sunday" by the congregation, raising $50,000 in cash over and above regular tithes and pledges to begin this new ministry. With only 183 persons present in the midst of the usual lower summer attendance, and with known economic hardships affecting this rural farming community, the support indeed seemed to indicate a miracle to McCarter. "If we were going to raise that kind of money at all, much less in one offering under the circumstances we were up against, it would have to be by the hand of God," he stated. The name, Cornerstone, was chosen because of the biblical passage, Matthew 21:42, which states: "Jesus said to them, 'Have you never read in the scripture: "The very stone which the builders rejected has become the head of the corner; this was the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eye"?."

America has been away from the small towns where human life has its best chance to grow in depth and quality. It has been toward the huge urban areas where the quality of life is at best supressed.

"The small towns are the stones which the builders of America have 'rejected,' but they are the heart and soul of

"By beginning in the small towns a conscious renewal process of love and hope in human relationships, we believe that these 'rejected' communities will become the cornerstones of the foundation of a whole renewed culture based upon care and compassion. We will re-teach the vast urban areas what it means to really live in joy and hope," he concluded.

Unpacking Books

Bill Devers, left, and Jim Donaldson unload two more crates of books as they begin setting up an office in First Christian Church for operation of the Cornerstone Christian Community Movement. The new ministry is to be officially kicked off Sunday as Devers becomes community pastor and Donaldson is ordained as Cornerstone missionary during a community-wide ordination service.

AUSTIN (AP) - The education reform bill that will go to a House committee is being worked out where Speaker Gib Lewis likes such work to be done - anywhere but the House floor.

On Tuesday, most of the negotiating was done in Lewis' office behind the House. The negotiators included Gov. Mark White, House Public Education Committee Chairman Bill Haley and lobbyists for education interests.

"I think the House floor is the worst place in the world to write legislation," said Lewis.

White said "dramatic progress" was being made toward agreement on an education package - a program he wants to raise taxes to pay for.

"I don't know that anybody said what we'd do here would make everybody happy," White said after a meeting in Lewis' office. "But I do feel like they can come up with a (school funding) equalization plan that can improve the situation we are in today and meet the judicial

White denies torturing inmate

HOUSTON (AP) - Walker County Sheriff Darrell White recounted grand jury testimony in which he denied helping torture a jail inmate, former San Jacinto County Sheriff James C. "Humpy" Parker has testified.

Parker, a sheriff in a neighboring county, told a federal judge Tuesday he talked with White and two deputies in February 1983, shortly after White had testified to a grand jury investigating Parker.

Parker is now serving a 10-year prison term for conspiring to torture inmates to extract confessions.

Parker said that during the conversation, White recalled a prosecutor asked him if he had participated in the 1976 water torturing of jail inmate Vernell Harkless.

Woman defied odds

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - For five weeks, Patricia Rios stayed in bed and took medicine, struggling to defy the odds against having healthy quadruplets. It apparently paid off.

The Rios quads - two boys and two girls - were reported in stable condition, and breathing without respirators Tuesday at Methodist Hospital.

"We were prepared for the worst. Fortunately, we got the best," said Dr. Carlos Nieto, one of three specialists who helped deliver the eight-week premature infants.

Nieto, two other doctors and Patrick Rios, the father, said Tuesday that Mrs. Rios had stayed in bed and taken medication for more than a month to delay premature delivery.

'We realized there was a possibility of a multiple birth, but we didn't expect four," said Rios, 33, a pharmaceutical salesman.

Residents defeat economic plan

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - A multimillion-dollar plan aimed at creating 60,000 high-paying jobs and increasing wages in the nation's smallest state was "perhaps too bold," Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy said after residents rejected it by a 4-to-1 margin.

The proposal turned down Tuesday, known as the Greenhouse Compact, would have authorized up to $90 million in notes and bonds as the first step in the $250 million revitalization plan.

With 99.5 percent of precincts reporting, 121,079 voters, or 80.1 percent, voted against the plan; 29,994, or 19.8 percent, favored it.

"If Rhode Island really is going to do something with its economy, it will have to adopt something like this in coming years," said Ira C. Magaziner, a business consultant and principal author of the 976-page report that recommended the plan.

Heat comes back to East

Five people were injured in south-central Nebraska Tuesday night when a tornado smashed through four farmhouses near Bruning, authorities said. By early today, nearly 71/2 inches of rain had fallen at Weeping Water, Neb., since Tuesday evening, forcing Weeping Water Creek over its banks and some people from their homes, the National Weather Service said.

In the East, meanwhile, the mercury was climbing back toward the century mark today after a brief break Tuesday from oppressive heat and humidity that has claimed at least 12 lives.

Hispanics concerned about votes

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chairman of the House Hispanic Caucus says the group appears to be losing its fight against a sweeping immigration control measure aimed at sharply curtailing the influx of illegal aliens into this country.

Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., noting several votes Tuesday that indicated a toughened House stand toward illegal aliens, said the caucus faced a "pretty tall task" in trying to strip the bill of the main section it finds offensive penalties against the employers who hire undocumented workers.

"Things don't look very good," he said.

Proponents of the legislation argue that the only way to halt the flood of illegals across the border is to get employers to stop hiring them.

Police rescue thief in time

LIMA, Peru (AP) - Detectives armed with submachine guns and revolvers rescued a suspected thief who was on the point of being lynched by infuriated residents of San Genaro, a poor neighborhood in south

Police said the residents captured 21-year-old Freddy Rosas Meza on Thursday while he was committing a theft. They tied his hands and feet, blindfolded him and buried him up to his neck in a sandy place and were on the point of killing him with machete strokes when police arrived, officers said. Several people were arrested and accused of intent to commit murder, police said.

A similar incident occurred earlier this month in a Lima neighborhood called El Nazareno. Residents there cap-tured a suspected thief named Jorge Yanama Quispe, 17, burned him to death and buried him, police said..

Senate ties anti-satellite weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Senate says President Reagan has to promise he has made a "good faith" effort to negotiate a U.S.-Soviet treaty before the Pentagon goes ahead with its plans for testing a weapon to kill Soviet satellites.

The 61-28 vote late Tuesday capped more than seven hours of debate which included a secret session to hear U.S. intelligence reports about recent Soviet advances in space, the last frontier of the arms race between the two superpowers.

It came only a day after Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko said a treaty should be negotiated "without delay" to ban antisatellite weapons, a call which was publicly rejected by the White House.

Reagan insists an antisatellite ban would be too difficult to verify and says the United States should go ahead with its own antisatellite weapon - known as

The ASAT weapons are different from the successful Sunday test of the Army's missile designed to knock down other missiles. And they also differ from Reagan's call for research into a futuristic "Star Wars" shield against Soviet missiles, although all three systems use some common technologies.

The Senate restriction would ban the next round of testing of U.S. anti-satellite weapons unless Reagan certifies he is "endeavoring, in good faith ... to negotiate the strictest possible limitations on anti-satellite weapons."

The provision tacked onto a Pentagon authorization bill differed from a House vote last month to ban the tests unless the Soviets break their self-imposed, 10-month-old moratorium on testing the weapons. The two versions will be worked out later by a House-Senate conference committee.

Body's need for iron depends on several factors

COLLEGE STATION -Many shoppers automatically reach for the cereals, breads and other products labeled "iron fortified." But is that really the best nutrition decision?

Whether iron-fortified foods actually have an added nutritional benefit is not a simple yes or no question, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

How much iron you need depnds on a number of factors including age, sex, weight and how well your body absorbs and conserves iron, she explains.

Because an average of 10 percent of the iron in foods is absorbed for use by the body, the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for iron is ten times greater than the body actually needs, says women of childbearing age need to absorb only 1.8 milligrams of iron, but the RDA is set at 18 milligrams.

Interaction of iron with other chemicals is one factor that affects absorption, says the nutritionist. The tannins which are naturally present in the iced tea Texans love to drink, for instance, can combine with iron to decrease absorption.

Yet vitamin C from citrus fruit can combine with iron to increase absorption. Iron naturally present in red meats, poultry and fish can also increase the absorption of iron from plants and plant products such as spinach and other green vegetables, so most people can get enough iron from eating a wellbalanced diet, she says.

If you do buy fortified foods, check the label both for Sweeten. For example, the type of iron added and the percent of RDA, advises Sweeten.

> The chemical form most frequently used to fortify foods is "reduced iron." This pure form of iron is added as a very fine powder which is easily absorbed by the body. "Reduced iron" is typically indicated just by the word "iron" on ingredient, she says. Iron may also be added in the form of iron salts. Some iron salts, such as ferrous sulfate and ferrous fumarate are similar to "reduced iron" in absorption. But those containing phosphate complexes such as ferric phosphate and ferric pyrophosfate are not as easily absorbed by the body,

Preschool children, women of childbearing age and pregnant women are at greatest risk of developing iron deficiency. Adding iron to some foods can help assure that people get adequate amounts of iron, but can also mean that others may get too much, she cautions.

The Food and Drug Administration has established some product standards for iron. However, many products such as breakfast cereals do not have standards and may contain amounts of iron ranging from a trace to 100 percent of the RDA.

Sweeten advises consumers to consider their individual need for added iron, and use the nutrition label as an important shopping tool when buying fortified foods.

Abundant Life

IT IS IMPORTANT for us to realize that we can be the kind of persons we wish to be; we can be the kind of people we like and the kind of people that others will appreciate. This does not mean that we must be two different kinds of people, but 'one' certain kind of person will accomplish this desirable success.

IN SPITE of the presentday permissive climate in which we live and work, "what we are" is still of great significance. It is "significant" to most parents as they try to influence their children; it is of "significance," even if it may be unspoken, in all of the present-day turmoil in the field of public education.

There are other areas of consideration in which the same principle has a prominent place.

WE CAN BE desirable persons, because we have the right and power to choose "what we are," and we have the potential equipment for accomplishing what we choose plus the fact that we have the time and the freedom to attain the goals we choose

WE CAN LEARN the ways of "wise management" of self, and of the "personal life situation" in which we live and function. We can learn to maintain the best kind of thought processes; we can form and preserve the right basic attitudes and we can thus establish the behavior patterns (the habits) which will serve us and others in the best ways.

WE MAY NEVER have all or do all of the things that we think we would like to have and to do, but we can be the person we want to be. In the summation of all things, "what we are" is all that mat-

Although it is the first year for Hereford to have a team represented in the Amarillo Mixed Soccer League, the Dragliners, sponsored by Griego Dragline of Hereford, the squad left a good impression by hustling and playing well as a team despite the obvious lack of experience, according to Rodriguez.

"Most of us are beginners, so I'm glad everyone got after and played the ball well. We can't be disappointed with a tie," he said because the team will improve with every game.

"But I do feel sorry for the girls. We do need more girls so we can substitute. I could see that the girls got tired in the second half," Rodriguez said.

Plagued by miserable shooting, players on the National Basketball Association's most successful franchise pounded the boards, paraded to the foul line and claimed an unprecedented 15th championship Tuesday night.

The Celtics capped a surge from a 2-1 deficit with a 111-102 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in the seventh and deciding game to win the series, 4-3.

"There's no way we were going to lose this game," said Boston hero Cedric Maxwell, who matched his season-high with a team-leading 24 points. "We have leadership, courage, poise, charisma. We have it all."

"Their aggressiveness won it," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley.

The Celtics, who were to visit President Reagan at the White House today, hit only 39.5 percent of their field-goal attempts, their second poorest performance in 23 playoff games, while Los Angeles connected at a 48.8 clip. But the Celtics' 52-33 rebounding margin was its second largest of the playoffs and marked the fifth time in the series that they outrebounded the Lakers.

Fans go crazy . with Celtic win

BOSTON (AP) - Exuberant fans danced, screamed and kissed in the street in front of Boston Garden after the Celtics won an unprecedented 15th National Basketball Association championship, beating the Los Angeles Lakers 111-102.

In the seventh-game climax to a see-saw playoff series, the Celtics came from behind and put the series away Tuesday night despite posting their poorest shooting percentage in 23 playoff games - 39.5 percent. The Lakers hit 48.8 percent.

"There's no way we were going to lose this game," said Celtic Cedric Maxwell, who matched his season high with a team-leading 24 points. "We have leadership, courage, poise, charisma. We have it

"Their aggressiveness won it," said Los Angeles coach Pat Riley.

Trailing by two points in Game 2, Boston found a way to win on a steal and gametying layup by Gerald Henderson with 13 seconds left in regulation. Boston won in overtime, 124-121.

In Game 4, the Celtics trailed by five points with less than a minute left in the fourth quarter, but a threepoint play by Robert Parish and two free throws by Larry Bird forced the game into overtime and they won 129-125.

In Game 7, the team that couldn't shoot straight won with rebounding and foul shooting, in which it enjoyed a 43-18 scoring advantage.

"What has been our Achilles heel has been rebounding and countering their aggressive play," said Riley. "Their strength is size and power inside. That was the difference. They are a great rebounding team."

Nowhere was it more evident than late in the third quarter when Boston seized control of a tight game.

With Maxwell scoring 17 points, Boston took a 58-52 halftime lead.

"Before the game started, Maxwell said everyone get on his back because he's going to carry us and that's exactly what he did," said Hender-

Boston ended the third quarter by scoring nine consecutive points. Kevin McHale and Danny Ainge hit jumpers, then Parish sank one of two free throws after being fouled while hustling for an offensive rebound with 59 seconds to go.

He was fouled again 30 seconds later while fighting for another offensive rebound and made both shots. Finally, with two seconds left, McHale was fouled on a fastbreak and hit two free throws.

"It seemed like everybody played with a little more character then," said Maxwell, the playoff MVP when Boston won its last title in 1981. "We dropped down deep. We got all the rebounds. We pushed the ball up."

"We built the lead. We had things in our eyes that said we're not going to be denied," McHale said.

But the Lakers, whose last lead was 32-30, weren't dead yet. A 17-6 rally brought them to within 105-102 with 1:15 remaining in the game. Boston, which had just three field goals in the fourth quarter, finished the scoring with two free throws by Dennis Johnson, who had 22 points, and four by Bird, who scored only the third team in 12 years to win the title after getting the best regularseason record, had more foul shots in five of the contests. In the finale, their aggressiveness on the offensive boards, where they enjoyed a 20-9 advantage, led to Los Angeles fouls and the 25-point

"We didn't hit a lot of outside shots and we didn't control the boards," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who led the Lakers with 29 points. "I think we could play better. You're only better if you prove it on the court."

The Lakers' fastbreak. responsible for a 33-point rout of Boston in Game 3, was absent. Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who controls it, had 16 points and 13 rebounds but sank only five of his 14 shots. James Worthy added 21 points for Los Angeles, and Michael Cooper had 16.

Boston's victory keeps intact a number of trends. The Celtics have now won their last 14 championship series after suffering their only setback in 1958, and are 7-0 in seventh games of final rounds. Los Angeles is 0-5 in seven-game finals and the Lakers, dating back to their days in Minneapolis, are 0-8 in championship series against Boston.

Rangers, Astros both win games

By JOHN KEKIS Associated runs, George Bell contributed Press Writer

Rangers 6, Twins 2 Buddy Bell hit a two-run double off former teammate Mike Smithson and Larry Parrish drilled a two-run homer, carrying Texas over Minnesota behind the pitching of Danny Darwin and Odell Jones.

Astros 7, Reds 0

Joe Niekro went the distance for the first time this year, hurling the sixth threehitter of his career, as the Astros won their third straight and handed the Reds their 10th loss in the last 13 games.

Niekro, 5-7, struck out three and walked one.

Blue Jays 12, Tigers 3 Damaso Garcia socked four hits and scored a pair of three hits and Ernie Whitt walloped a three-run homer as Toronto routed Detroit and snapped a five-game losing streak.

The Blue Jays shelled Detroit starter Jack Morris, 11-3, for six runs on eight hits in the first three innings in the earliest exit for the Tiger right-hander in two seasons. The loss was Morris' first on the road in six decisions this season and prevented him from posting his 100th career victory.

Toronto right-hander Jim Clancy, 5-6, bounced back from three straight losses.

Orioles 5, Brewers 4

Mike Young and John Shelby homered in the eighth inning to rally Baltimore over Milwaukee.

Essay comforting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The essay you ran on Mother's Day was one I had seen before. It was sent to me when my 14-year-old daughter died. The man who sent it to me had found it comforting when his teenage son was drowned at a parish picnic. I can tell you firsthand that of all human suffering, none can equal the pain of a mother who must put her young child into a grave. In addition to losing my beautiful daughter, I had to suffer the agony of knowing she was misdiagnosed and the hospital care she received was inadequate. My husband did not stand by me during those nightmarish days. And after it was over, I had to face the breaking up of my family, with relatives and friends taking sides. The rage that followed was a second cross to bear-so close on the heels of the first.

God alone knows how I lived through those terrible times. But live through them I did, and now I am realizing that I have much to be thankful for. I have two sensitive and supportive sons, a kind brother and wonderful

The time has finally come when this mother can say, "Thank you, Lord, for the years of joy you gave me with my wonderful child. Fourteen was all I was supposed to have -- and they were glorious. This past Mother's Day was a time of peaceful

My gentleman friend and I arrived at the ticket booth all set to see a fine movie and enjoy the evening. The young girl taking the money looked up at us and asked, "Senior citizen's discount?" I am 57. He is 61.

The discount is a great idea for those who qualify, but that dimwit's question certainly put the damper on the evening. Don't you think a sign in the box office is sufficient? We saw it - in fact it would have been hard to miss. Please comment.-Not There Yet In Portland

Escapee reports he saw Americans

HOUSTON (AP) - An escapee says he saw a crewman from a sunken American drilling ship and five other Americans alive in a Vietnamese prison camp in November, the Houston Chronicle reported today in a copyright story.

Nguyen Hun Chanh, a 35-year-old industrial engineer now in a Filipino refugee camp, wrote a letter to Austin attorney Douglas Pierce saying he saw Pierce's son, John, during his captivity in Da Nang.

Nguyen said he recognized Pierce from a photograph in an Oriental publication. The elder Pierce placed $1,500 in advertisements offering a reward for information about his son's fate.

"This face is exactly your son," Nguyen wrote in a letter which the elder Pierce said was translated by two Douglas Pierce said Nguyen has declined the $100,000 being offered for information about John Pierce.

The younger Pierce was one of 81 crew members of the Glomar Java Sea, an American drilling ship which sank during a typhoon in the South China Sea Oct. 25.

The Houston-based owner of the ship, Global Marine Inc., has issued statements saying officials are presuming dead the 47 men whose bodies were not found in the wreckage of the vessel.

Nguyen's letter contradicts information given to the State Department and the vessel's owner.

Douglas Pierce said he intends to discuss the letter with Coast Guard and National Transportation Safety Board representatives, who were scheduled to resume local hearings today on the sinking. Since the ship was built to withstand rough weather, the cause of the ipated Special Session of the Legislature made its start on Monday, June 4th, and the Governor's shopping list was just as long as expected.

Over the next 30 days the House and Senate will concentrate on the educational needs of the State and strive to find a source of funds for our battered and declining highways.

First things first; the various committees in the two bodies will begin deliberations on public education reform before setting sights on legislation of a tax nature to pay for the increased spending levels being called for in teacher salaries and money to fix the roads.

Unfortunately, given the current estimates of available revenue for Texas, it has become apparent that some sort of revenue increase will be necessary if we are to reach our goal of providing a quality education. At this point it would be a fairly accurate assumption, I think, to see a 1-cent increase in the State's 4-cent general sales and motor vehicle sales and rental taxes, a 5-cent a gallon hike in the gasoline tax, a 5-cent per pack boost in the cigarette tax and a 20 percent increase in levies on liquor beer, wine and mixed drinks. You can be sure that in selecting the appropriate form of revenue raising legislation, I will only support those increases which will prove the least burdensome to the citizens of Texas.

These combined taxes would produce revenue in the neighborhood of $4.8 billion over the next three years. Given these revenue limitations with which to work, the total cost of any educational reform and highway repair authorized by the Legislature must fall within this range.

Network television programmers planning issue oriented movies

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Network television programmers are planning more topical movies of the sort that have not only meant big ratings but have also prompted unprecedented viewer enthusiasm.

Forthcoming TV movies. for example, will explore the kinds of issues viewers are reading about in daily newspapers: police spying, teen-age suicide, wife abuse, aging and AIDS.

The huge audiences for such contemporary films as ABC's "The Day After" (nuclear attack) and "Something About Amelia" (father-daughter incest) and NBC's "Adam" (kidnapped and missing children) have prompted the networks to order more such films.

The intensity of viewer response to the more contemporary programming surprised the networks.

Not since "Roots" has any television program had the outpouring of public response inspired by "The Day After." Anti-nuclear activists organized viewing groups and demonstrations, and the reaction reached from Washington to Moscow.

The reverberations caused by "Something About Amelia" and "Adam" are still being felt.

After "Amelia," childabuse hotlines received a record number of calls and numerous reports poured in of "Adam," during which the names and pictures of 55 missing children were shown, 14 of the children have been located. After a repeat showing April 30, in which more faces were shown, at least eight more children have been found, NBC said.

Since the original telecast

This season has also brought movies about drunken drivers (CBS' "License to Kill"), problems of Vietnam veterans (CBS' "Memorial Day"), unemployment (ABC's "Heart of Steel"), the loss of a mother (CBS' "Two Kinds of Love"), police and media abuse (CBS' "The Lost Honor of Kathryn Beck"), voyeurism (ABC's "Through Naked Eyes") and the question of when seduction becomes rape (ABC's "When She Says No").

Issue-oriented movies are more likely to be found on television than in the theaters. One reason is that the audience for theatrical films is younger and prefers lighter entertainment and more spectacle. Television is a more intimate medium and lends itself better to these issues. These films frequently bring the whole family together for viewing.

'Ghostbusters', 'Gremlins' top weekend movie draws

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - "Ghostbusters" and "Gremlins" scared "Indiana Jones" and "Star Trek III" away from the head of the pack at theater box offices last weekend.

Columbia's "Ghostbusters," featuring Dan Aykroyd and Bill Murray, grossed $13.6 million on its first weekend in release. "Gremlins," the Warner Bros. tale of cute but nasty little creatures, did $12.5 million worth of business at the ticket counters.

Paramount's "Indiana Jones" fell to third at $12 million and last week's No. 1 film, "Star Trek III," dropped all the way to fourth with a weekend gross of $9.6 million.

"Beat Street," another break-dancing picture, grossed $5.2 million for Orion over its debut weekend, and Tri-Star's "The Natural," brought in $2.4 million in its fifth week.

"Romancing the Stone" held on to seventh with a gross of $1.5 million. The 20th Century Fox release is in its 11th week.

Here are the top seven grossing films last weekend, with producer, number of weeks in release, weekend gross and total gross.

Supply-demand analysis shows wheat, corn prices to remain low

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new supply-and-demand analysis by the Agriculture Department shows that wheat and corn prices stand little chance of improving in the coming year if current harvest indications are borne

Looking at the livestock situation, the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday that total meat output is expected to be around 54.1 billion pounds, up slightly from last month's estimate but still nearly 2 percent below the 1983 level.

Poultry producers, however, are boosting output in response to higher market prices this spring, the report said.

One reason for the pessimistic price outlook for wheat is the huge world supply, created in part by bumper - and the 1984 wheat harvest, down from $3.55 in 1982-83.

which is now under way in southern areas, also could be Based on current projections, 1984 total U.S. wheat output could be about 2.53 billion bushels, up from 2.43 billion bushels in 1983. That would make this year's wheat harvest the third largest on

The new projection of 2.53 billion bushels was down slightly from 2.55 billion bushels indicated by a similar analysis on May 10. There was some decline in winter wheat prospects since

Overall, wheat prices at the farm are expected to average $3.20 to $3.50 per bushel nationally in 1984-85, unchanged from last month's prediction. In the wheat marketing year that ended on May 31, prices U.S. harvests in recent years averaged $3.50 per bushel,

When the new wheat marketing year began on June 1, the United States had a wheat inventory of about 1.39 billion bushels left over from previous harvests. That was a decline from the record level of 1.54 billion bushels in the carryover a year ago.

But if the 1984 harvest turns out as now predicted, the wheat carryover on June 1, 1985, could rise again to about 1.45 billion bushels, although still short of the record level.

The 1984 corn crop, which farmers are just now winding up planting, was projected at nearly 7.93 billion bushels, based on trends in yields and a normal growing season. That was up from 7.78 billion bushels projected on May 10 and would be nearly 90 percent more than the skimpy 4.2 billion bushels harvested in 1983.

The Oct. 1 corn carryover was projected at 520 million bushels, down from a record 3.14 billion bushels last fall. But a bumper harvest this fall could replenish part of supply and lead to a buildup to about 1.25 billion bushels by Oct. 1, 1985, the report showed.

Sugar use declining

WASHINGTON (AP) -U.S. sugar use is expected to continue its decline this year despite rising demand for sweetened foods and beverages, the Agriculture Department says.

The decline reflects the increasing use of substitutes, including corn syrup, as a sweetener in beverages, the department said in a situation report Wednesday. Deliveries of sugar for beverage use fell 23 percent during the first quarter of this year, and domestic consumption of sugar for the year is expected to be down 3.4 percent to 8.7 million tons.

The department noted that on May 15 the Coca Cola Co. began allowing as much as 100 percent corn sweetener in its fountain syrup, up from a previous limit of 75 percent. That step alone could mean a drop of nearly 100,000 tons a year in sugar consumption.

Corn syrup use, meanwhile, is expected to grow to 4.1 million tons this year, up from 3.6 million tons in 1983.

World sugar production is expected to rise 5 percent in the 1984-85 year, with global use up 2 percent. That means stocks will expand, keeping downward pressure on prices, the department said.

King George IV of England was crowned in 1821, but his wife, Caroline, was locked out of Westminster Abbey during the coronation.

Dallas Cadillac feud brews

DALLAS (AP) - There's a feud brewing in Texas and it doesn't concern oil or football. This feud is between two competitive Cadillac-dealing clans and dates back to 1969.

The two families are fussing over the relocation of a dealership in Dallas, the second-largest Cadillac market in the country.

The trouble was stirred up when Lee DeSanders sold his downtown location for Lone Star Cadillac to real estate developers and set out to move to a new site in lucrative north Dallas. The new lot, however, is about 10 miles from Rodger Meier Cadillac.

"We're happy with the new site," DeSanders said. "We looked all over Dallas and considered 20 different Rodger Meier was not happy. He filed a protest with the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission in Austin, throwing the proposed move into lim-

In 1969, when Meier was first setting up his dealership, Lee DeSanders' father unsuccessfully protested the new "This has nothing to do with that," said Meier's son, Todd, who now is vice president and general manager of Rodger Meier Cadillac. "The protest in 1969 had nothing to do with Dad." Said DeSanders, "At the of Dallas would not support a new dealership." The Meiers and DeSanders do agree on one thing -Dallasites buy a lot of time, my father felt the City

Cadillacs, and a good location can help sell even more. DeSanders said picking another downtown site would not be feasible because of the price of land and zoning ordinances. He was confident, EVER envy your neighbors he said, that the Cadillac division of General Motors would approve the new location. It > was approved. But, because of Meier's complaint, the motor vehicle commission has scheduled a July 17 hearing on Lone Star Cadillac's request for a license.

The commission contacted all dealers near the proposed market and alloted them 15 days to file a protest, said commission executive director Robert Harding. Of the four dealers notified within the required 25-mile radius, only one - Meier did so, Harding said. Meier contends the area is competitive enough, and that there is no reason the move would be in the public interest. He says he can prove that, but won't elaborate before the hearing.

Harding said he will listen to arguments and then give a written recommendation to the nine-member commission, which will make its own. decision. That could take two to three months, he said.

DeSanders' grandfather, Neil James DeSanders, founded Lone Star Cadillac in 1934 and it is the oldest Cadillac dealership in Dallas. In its 50 years of existence, the business has moved twice within the downtown area, Lee DeSanders said. Lone Star has been in its current location since 1953 and he hopes to move to north Dallas in spring 1985.

More than one anemia

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 65-year-old man. I recently had a physical that included a cardiogram and blood when the reports came back my doctor told me I was anemic

I'd appreciate your opinion on this matter. What causes anemia? What kind of tests are made? Is medication prescribed for anemia? Most of all, is it serious? DEAR READER - With the type of examination you probably had the two tests that were most likely used to find your anemia were the hemoglobin and the hemato-The hematocrit simply measures how much of your blood is made up of blood cells and how much is fluid (plasma). If there aren't enough red blood cells present the value will be low. It's literally a way of counting how many red blood cells you have. The hemoglobin test simply measures the iron pigment present in the hemoglobin pigment in your red blood cells. Again, if you don't have enough red blood cells the value will be low.

But even if you have enough red blood cells, if they don't contain enough iron, the test will indicate this.

Finding the anemia is just the beginning. Then you have to find the type of anemia. Some are from a deficiency. An anemia may be quite important if it's caused by some unrecognized problem that causes bleeding, such as an ulcer. Or it could be less serious if it's in a woman who loses iron from menstruation.

The anemia may be from a vitamin deficiency, such as a deficiency of vitamin B-12 causing pernicious anemia. Your bone marrow may not be producing enough cells for several different reasons. You really don't know how serious it is unless you know what causes it. I've discussed the causes and diagnosis of anemias in the Health Letter SR-13. Why Anemias Occur, which I'm sending you.
