A third-degree felony charge of selling marijuana was levied against Rafael Chavez. Juan Robert Mendoza was arrested on two counts, one for sale of heroin and another for allegedly selling cocaine.

Raymond Samuels was also charged with felony sale of marijuana.

Deaf Smith Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul said the arrests followed a one-and-a-half year investigation by Department of Public Safety narcotics agents, the Metro Squad and an undercover policeman from Pampa who worked with the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department. He said the men allegedly vehicle. sold to undercover narcotics agents. Sheriff Joe Brown said the five men were still in jail this morning, in lieu of bonds ranging from $500 to $15,000. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the remaining six persons named by the grand jury. Terry Colston, county investigator, said he thought at least two would be picked up today.

Also indicated by the grand jury Thursday were David Harold Bennett, charged with burglary of a building, and Cozette Harrelson, charged with burglary of a motor Henry Casias was indicted for aggravated robbery while Eugene Kindrick was indicted on two counts of injury to a child.

Hereford farmer Robert Strain was formally placed on seven years' probation and fined $5,000 Thursday afternoon in 222nd District Court.

Strain had been convicted May 24 of theft over $200 and under $10,000 by a district court jury, which established the formalized punishment of prot tion and a fine.

Strain was accused of operating a fencing ring at his barn northeast of Hereford after the barn was raided last August. He tried last month on one of 17 indictments issued against him Sept. 1 by a Deaf Smith County grand jury.

During the trial, jurors heard

Seven-year probation, $5,000

testimony from farmers whose property sees recovered during the raid s well as statements from the men who claimed they stolen items to Strain and he knew they were stolen when he bought them. During Thursday's proceedings, defense attorney Travis Shelton was successful in his plea to get two of the conditions of probation altered. He asked that Strain be given leeway to incur up to $5,000 debt, instead of the usual $500 stipulated by the adult probation office, without asking for permission from his probationer.

Shelton said that might be necessary "because of the business he's in."

Strain was also given permission to travel to Potter and Randall counties without obtaining an approval from the probation office. The original agreement would have prohibited Strain from leaving Deaf Smith County without first clearing it with his probationer.

Shelton has not mentioned any intention to appeal the conviction, and the district attorney's office still has not said what is to be done about the 16 indictments remaining against Strain.

Jail work bids unexpectedly high

By REED PARSELL

Managing Editor Unexpectedly costly bids for work at the Deaf Smith County Jail have placed the project in jeopardy and added to the county's list of financial frustrations. Prior to opening the general contractor bids Thursday afternoon, county commissioners thought they had established adequate funding for the work by issuing $1.5 million in certificates of obligation. The lowest of the five bids received, however, was for $1,827,000.

"I was hoping it would be less than a million and a half on some of those bids," said an admittedly surprised Glen Nelson, county judge.

Offers are now to be reviewed by Gondeck-Poage Partnership Architects, a San Antonio firm handling the jail project for the county. JAck Smith, bid project administrator, read out loud Thursday the five offers submitted before the 2 p.m. deadline.

Commissioners are to either accept one of the bids or reject all five during one of their coming regular meetings. Since contracts must be awarded on the second Monday of a month, July 9 appears the earliest an agreement can be reached.

Should all offers be turned down. Nelson said, serious punishment could come from the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. A shutdown of the facility is "a distinct possibility," Nelson claimed. An alternatiave is implenta tion of severe restrictions concerning who may be kept in the jail.

Last year, the commission ruled Deaf Smith's detention facility must meet certain requirements in order to continue operations. Outdoor recreation and extended holding areas were the most costly needed changes.

Somehow, Nelson said, costs of the project will have to be reduced. This will be difficult, he admitted, since Gondeck-Poage's architectural plans were to only match minimum requirements established by TCJS.

One solution, he said, may come from the county's intention to satisfy jail needs for the next 10 to 20 years. A slight reduction in the number of new cells may therefore be accepted by the jail commission, Nelson explained.

Regarding the chance of raising more money, Nelson

Democrats are converging on the Sam Houston Convention Center in Houston, while Republican party delegates are meeting in the Tarrant County Convention Center in Ft. Worth.

Deaf Smith County was to send seven Democratic delegates and eight Republican representatives to the conventions, which each expect about 5,000 voting delegates. The delegates were chosen at county conventions on May 19, with the number of allowable delegates based on voting totals from the last gubernatorial election.

Democratic voting delegates from Deaf Smith County are Al Dziuk, James Elliott, Shirley Easterwood, Rumaldo Garcia, N.D. Kelso, Roy Dale Messer and Helen Rose. Kelso was originally voted in as an alternate and will go instead of Bill Cleavinger, who has family and

The Democrats are sending four delegates committed to presidential candidate Gary Hart, two for Walter Mondale and one uncommitted delegate.

James Elliott, a local attorney who supports Mondale, said Thursday, "The most important thing is to try to come up with a unified approach to elect Walter Mondale. We have to start getting ready for the fall."

Elliott said it is of the utmost importance that resolutions dealing with nuclear waste and agricultural interests be demonstrated. "Sometimes downstate party residents have a tendency to lose their perspective of the Panhandle. Farmers really don't have a clear voice in Congress." The county's Democratic organization sent four resolutions to the convention, the first dealing with the new and rather controversial system candidate.

There was also a resolution against placing nuclear waste dumps in the area, one calling for a nuclear weapons freeze and another complaining about proposals by the governor's select committee on education.

Helen Rose is making her first trip to the convention in a presidential election year. She and husband Austin, a Deaf Smith County Commissioner, were both delegates to the state convention two years ago. She is going as a Hart supporter and said she would like to stay with that committment, but is not totally adverse to the idea of switching her support to Mondale. 'Hart's not out of it yet," Messer said Thursday. 'We're all free to vote our whims when we get to the convention. What we have now is just an indication. It's not over until the final count (at the national convention.)

Messer is also a Hart delegate.

The Deaf Smith County Republican party again submitted a resolution it has drafted several times in the past; it asks that funds be withdrawn from Texas Rural Legal Aid. Fisher did not have high hopes that the resolution would get much at-

'It's hard for us to get much done when the program has the support of the State Bar and the Congress," he said. Fisher said the local party's main objection to TRLA is that it addresses labor disputes by filing race discrimmination lawsuits. He says the job disputes could be settled by the Department of

Allen, making his first trip to a state convention, said he will go "to learn, and to show support for the party." He said the most important activity will be the selection of 109 delegates and the same number of alternates to the national convention.

The party will also choose 29 electoral delegates.

Vice President George Bush is expected to address the Republican Convention Saturday morning. Other speakers will include United States Representative Phil Gramm, Senators Paul Laxalt and John Tower and former Governor William P.

About a dozen people Thursday night attended a public hearing in Hereford Community Center to determine the needs of the handicapped.

The Office of Revenue Sharing has instructed the county to submit the evaluation, along with a transition plan for making changes, by Oct. 17.

Schroeter asked those in attendance to form a telephone committee to solicit ideas from other local handicap copie. "We want to involve as many of you as we can in bringing the public buildings in the county into compliance," he told the group.

Already helping Schroeter with the project are Earlene Cook and Raymond Morrison. Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne attended Thursday night's meeting to express the city's willingness to make its buildings more accessible to the handicapped as well.

Women vote police chief out

LEONARD, Texas (AP) - Things haven't been the same in this small North Texas community since the election two months ago of women to all three vacancies on the town's City Council.

"These three women got elected, incumbents lost out, and they just decided that the people mandated them to come in and change everything," said Mayor B.C. Dun-mon, who quit in protest on Wednesday, along with O.H. Nolen, one of two holdover councilmen.

In the regular monthly council meeting Tuesday night, one of the women made a motion that police chief Bob Morning and the only other paid officer, Doyle White, be relieved of their duties.

One of the other women seconded the motion, which carried 3-2, with the women - Modine Dockery, Billye Piper and Susan Caldwell - in favor and the two holdover councilmen, Nolen and Mike Eubank opposing. By city charter, Dunmon could not vote.

House legalizes farm workers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has moved to grant legal status to the hundreds of thousands of aliens who now risk arrest every harvest season by crossing U.S. borders to work in farm fields.

The action Thursday, which some members of Congress said could jeopardize passage of the overall immigration reform bill now before the House, was praised by agriculture interests but condemned as a form of legalized slavery by opponents, including organized labor.

The bill also for the first time imposes federal penalties on employers who hire undocumented foreign workers. and provides amnesty and legal status for illegals who have been in the country since Jan. 1, 1982.

President Reagan, in his news conference Thursday night, said the bill was needed because "the simple truth is, we've lost control of our borders and no nation can do that and survive."

Reagan claims he'll open door

By MAUREEN SANTINI AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Reagan, softening his tone toward the Kremlin, says he's opening the door to a possible summit with Soviet Konstantin leader Chernenko, acknowledging he's not quite ready to extend an invitation.

"The door is open," the president declared at a nationally broadcast news conference dominated by U.S.-Soviet relations. "And every once in a while, we're standing in the doorway, seeing if anyone's coming up the steps."

But when asked if his remarks could be taken as an invitation to his Soviet counterpart, the president replied: "We haven't reached that point yet."

Reagan also said he hasn't given "a flat no" to Chernenko's suggestion that the superpowers negotiate a ban on anti-satellite and other space weapons. "We're studying that whole situation," he said.

Several times, Reagan spoke positively about his willingness to talk with Chernenko. At one point, the president said, "If they're ready to talk, we are, too." At another: "I am willing to meet and talk any time." And, at still another, "We're ready, willing and able."

COUNTY

The loss of some recent lawsuits, the need for more employees and other unanticipated expenses have placed the county in a poor financial stance, Nelson said. County workers will, for the first time in several years, be asked to accept no raise in salaries. "Of course," he lamented, "we're having some problems with that."

Area Builders Inc. of Odessa turned in the lowest general contractor bid. It claimed it could complete the project within 400 days.

The other bids, in order of their reading, were Wiley Hicks Jr. Inc. of Amarillo, $1,977,100 in 465 days; Monterey Construction Company of Wolfforth, $1,859,000 in 450 days; Page and Wirtz of Lubbock, $1,883,000 in 420 days; and Sam J. Smith Construction of Amarillo, $1,904,560 in 425 days. Included in those offers was detention equipment, which is to be provided by a separate firm. On May 31, bids for the detention equipment work were opened, with only one being found acceptable. It was for $487,000 from Southern Steel Company of San Antonio.

Renovation of the county jail, as outlined by Gondeck-Poage, is to involve two phases. The first is adding a 30-by-30-foot recreation facility to one side and an expanded holding area to the other. Remodeling of the current building represents the bulk of the second phase.

tors be hired, a preconstruction confered is to follow. This will allow Gondeck-Poage to set up rules and procedures as well as give it a chance to review the list of subcontractors.

During construction, a Gondeck-Poage inspector is to make frequent appearances to make certain everything is running as planned. Progress reports from the contractors are to be made every 30 days, with county officials to receive copies.

Inmates are to remain in the jail throughout construction.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST

Vacation Bible School for children of First United Methodist Church and their friends will begin at 9 a.m. Monday, with classes planned for those from 2 years old through elementary school Directors of the 1984 school are Elaine Calkins, Cherri McWhorter and Pat Walsh. The over-all study theme is "The Bible in Our World," with topics for each age group. A staff of adults and teen helpers has been assembled, and Sharon Crawford will be in charge of a nursery for younger children of the workers.

Dee White is director of recreation, with Shaun Moore as teen helper. Mary Van Pelt, in charge of the kitchen, has Lisa Williams as teen helper. Mrs. Calkins will direct music.

Sessions will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. each morning of the week, until Friday, when open house will be held for parents and friends of the children at 10:30 a.m. The school will formally end with balloon send-off on the playground at 11:15 a.m.

FIRST BAPTIST

Vacation Bible School begins Monday and is to continue through Friday at the First Baptist Church. Hours are 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Preschoolers are to be taken directly to their rooms, and other children are to meet in the parking area between the fellowship hall and sanc-

Day camp deadline is June 29. The event is open to children in the first through third grade.

Adult VII and VIII Sunday school classes are planning a trip to Palo Duro Canyon on Saturday, July 7. The activity is scheduled from 4 to 8 p.m., featuring a picnic supper.

The summer schedule for the children's division includes the following activities: July 13 - film night for kindergarten through fifth graders; July 21 - car was (K-5); July 28 - picnic with families; Aug. 9 - family night; Aug. 17 - K-5 trip to ShowBiz Pizza in Amarillo with money raised from car wash; Aug. 31 - last party of the summer.

FIRST CHRISTIAN

First Christian Church will host a community-wide ordination service at 3 p.m. Sunday as an official kickoff to the Cornerstone Christian Community Movement. The public is invited to attend.

Jim Donaldson is to be ordained as the first Cornerstone missionary and Bill Devers will be ordained as the first community pastor, directing Operation Good Shepherd. A number of local ministers of various denominations are scheduled to participate in the service, and special music will be provided by the Rev. Ray Owens, minister of music at First Christian, and the Hereford Chamber Singers. Guest speaker at the afternoon service will be Dr. Robert E. Coleman, dean of the School of World Missions and Evangelism at Trinity Evangelical Seminary in Deerfield, Ill. James Richard Newby will also be a guest from out of town, bringing a personal letter to the community from Dr. D. Elton

To Speak Here

Bob Wieland, who lost both legs in Vietnam and is now walking across America on his hands to raise support for world hunger relief, will speak at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday at 6 p.m. He will also share his extraordinary testimony of recovery and athletic achievement at an 11:45 a.m. luncheon of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship Tuesday at Caison's.

Chapter to host T.V. personality

Al Cooper of Roswell, N.M., will address the Hereford Chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship Saturday evening in the private meeting room at Caison's Restaurant.

The meal will be served at 7 p.m. and the meeting is to begin at 7:45 p.m.

Cooper and his wife, Tommie, left their native Roswell in 1956 and in the process of building and designing electronic systems all over the world, they moved 43 times.

By 1969, Cooper was a Blue Chip electronic corporate manager in Washington, D.C. and had five children, a country estate, money in the bank, prestige in the social circle of the capital city, and a wife who wanted a divorce.

Through an encounter with Jesus Christ, Cooper said his marriage was healed, and after a promotion and transfer to San Francisco, he began to have a dream of a total Christian television station for Roswell.

The couple now host a live 2-hour program each Saturday night in Roswell entitled "Paise the Lord." Their testimony has been shown on CBN's "700 Club" and has been published in the Full Gospel Busineess Men's Voice magazine.

Many tracksters to attend local meet

More than 250 athletes are expected to participate in Saturday's Amateur Athletic Union Invitational Track and Field Meet in Whiteface Stadium.

Competitors from Amarillo, Lubbock, Roswell, Boys Ranch, Wheeler, Odessa as well as Hereford are some of the areas to be represented, according to Hereford YMCA Director Weldon Knabe. The YMCA is sponsoring the event.

Field events are scheduled to get underway at 9 a.m. Running events are to start at 10 a.m.

There will be about 40 athletes from Hereford Track Club at the meet, according to coach Suzanne Duvall.

Age groups are broken into six divisions. Bantam is the youngest with persons born in 1974 or later put in this group. The Open age group is for older competitors born in 1965

Duvall said she expects Hereford to be strong in boys intermediate sprints and distance running in certain categories. The city will be most represented by 11 and 12-year-old boys and girls, she said.

The meet is a preliminary AAU meet and a qualifying meet for the Texas Athletic Congress. Members of the Hereford Track Club belong to the TAC.

If athletes post good enough times at Saturday's meet, they could qualify for the state TAC meet to be held later this summer.

The AAU rules are somewhat different. To advance, an athlete's performance at certain district and regional meets are taken into account. Whereas, the TAC considers the best time a participant has recorded and there is no need for district

Irwin leads U.S. Open

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The monster that was Winged Foot one decade ago was tamed, and Hale Irwin was one of those with the whip.

Returning to the site of the first of his two U.S. Open triumphs, Irwin shot a 2-under-par 68 and tied 1977 Open champion Hubert Green, Jim Thorpe and Mike Donald for the first-round lead Thursday at the 1984 U.S. national championship.

'Winged Foot is not quite the monster it was," Irwin said. But both he and Green warned it could turn tiger again, if cornered.

Ten years ago, at age 29, Irwin captured the Open with a 7-over-par 287. It was called the "Massacre at Winged Foot," as no more than seven golfers could break par for 18 holes in any of the four rounds.

On the first day this time, 11 players broke par-70 on a course that had been made purposely easier than it was 10 years ago.

"The rough is more manageable, and the greens are intentionally slower." said Irwin, who also won the Open in 1979 at Inverness. Rain that fell Wednesday further slowed the greens and they might stay that way a while longer after a thunderstorm Thursday evening which caused a 45-minute halt in play. The delay forced six players in the 156-man field to finish the first round today.

Temperatures were in the mid-80s with a cooling, clearing trend predicted for today. The large group at 69, one shot back, included Spain's Seve Ballesteros, David Canipe, Lennie Clements, Fred Couples, Curtis Strange, Mick Soli and U.S. amateur champion Jay Sigel. Unlike most of the golfers who competed over this 6,930-yard, par-70 west course at the Winged Foot Golf Club. Irwin found the back-nine easier than the front. He shot par-35 on the front and 2-under 33 on the back with birdies at No. 11 and No. 17, a 444-yard par-4 where he holed a 60-foot bunker shot.

Green, a non-winner on the PGA Tour since 1981, shot 33-35, and Thorpe, one of the few black players on the Tour, shot 32-36. Donald, tied for third three weeks ago at the Kemper Open, had 33-35. A bogey on the 448-yard, par-4 18th cost Thorpe sole possession of the lead. "I think I can win now," said Thorpe, who led the first round of the U.S. Open in 1981 before faltering. "It'll take under par to win." The group at 70 included Greg Norman, Gil Morgan, Morris Hatalsky, Andy Bean, Mike Sullivan, Fran Marrello and Michael Reid.

Norman made the turn at 34, birdied the 10th and 12th holes to go 3-under, then gave it back with a bogey at 13 and a double-bogey on 15.

Norman was in threesome with Jack Nicklaus, who was only three shots back at 71, and Raymond Floyd, who shot 72.

"We walked off the course at 18, and Ray Floyd said to me, 'I felt like Jesse James.' "Nicklaus said. "I said, 'Who am I then?' And Floyd said, 'You're my brother, Frank.'

'Then Greg would have to be the bank, giving it away."

USFL season ending Playoff spots taking shape

By The Associated Press

Playoff hopes and winning streaks are on the line tonight when two of the hottest teams in the United States Football League - the Los Angeles Express and Oakland Invaders - battle at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Five of the eight playoff spots in the USFL have been determined but every team in the Pacific Division -Arizona, Denver, Los Angeles and Oakland - has a chance to qualify for postseason

Led by rookie quarterback Steve Young the Express winners of their last four will try to repel the Invaders a club record for throwing TD who have won seven in a row after an 0-9 start.

The Invaders will secure a playoff berth if they can continue their torrid second half by winning their last two games, both on the road and both in the division, the Express and Denver.

In defeating Michigan last weekend, Oakland received another suberb effort from safety Marcus Quinn. He intercepted his 12th pass of the season to tie the USFL record set last season by Luther Bradley of Chicago.

Also tonight, Washington is at Philadelphia, Jacksonville at New Orleans and Arizona at Chicago.

On Saturday, Denver will be at New Jersey, Tampa Bay at Pittsburgh and Birmgames.

Monday night will find Oklahoma at Michigan, while San Antonio travels to Houston. There are no Sunday games scheduled this weekend. In their first game, the third week of the season, the Express beat the Invaders 10-0 in Oakland. The Express, of course, added Young, who is 7-4 as a starter, including six of the last seven games. The Invaders have been rolling behind quarterback Fred Besana, who completed 17 of 30 for 165 yards and a touchdown last week, setting

Philadelphia-Washington game will send the team with the best record — 15-1 by the Stars — against the team with the worst record — the Federals' 2-14.

The Stars will try to better their 15-3 regular season mark of a year ago.

Arizona, 8-8, is tied for second in the Pacific Division and can still reach the playoffs, while Chicago is in last place in the Central Division with a 5-11 mark.

Jacksonville is trying to snap out of a six-game losing streak, while New Orleans also is out of the playoffs and Tampa Bay Bandits are DEPARTMENT vying for first place.

Red Sox lose slugfest in 10th, 12-11

By JONATHAN VITTI Associated Press Writer

The Boston Red Sox died by the sword they live by in Fenway Park - the late-inning home run.

Willie Randoph drilled Bob Stanley's first pitch to him in the 10th inning Thursday night for a home run and a 12-11 New York Yankee victory. The 10th inning was necessitated after Don Mattingly tied the game with a three-run homer with two outs in the ninth.

After two late-inning losses to the Red Sox earlier in the four-game series, the Yankees took it all in stride.

"Strange things have been happening this season," Randolph said.

"Runs disappear in a hurry in this park," New York Manager Yogi Berra said. "We can come back, too."

In other American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-2, the Oakland A's edged the Cleveland Indians 7-6, the Seattle Mariners bested the Kansas City Royals 4-1, the Minnesota Twins outscored the Texas Rangers 3-2 and the California Angels downed the Chicago White Sox 9-3.

Stanley's offering over the Boston bullpen, giving him five RBI on the night.

Ray Fontenot, 2-5, replaced reliever Clay Christiansen in the eighth and was credited with the victory. Dave Righetti pitched the 10th and earned his ninth save.

Lou Piniella, who announced his retirement effective Sunday earlier in the day, was 3-for-3 and scored three times for New York.

Angels 9, White Sox 3 Seldom-used Rob Picciolo drove in a pair of runs and Gary Pettis tripled in two more for the Angels against the visiting White Sox.

Ahead 4-3, the Angels added five runs after two were out in the eighth. Three singles and Chicago shortstop Scott Fletcher's error on Dick Schofield's grounder made it

Frank Viola scattered six hits over 7 2-3 innings and Tom Brunansky homered as the Twins handed the Rangers their first loss after six wins at home.

Viola, 5-7, allowed hits to three of the first five batters, then settled down, striking out five and walking one. Ron Davis gained his 11th save. Mariners 4, Royals 1

Pinch-hitter Al Cowens broke up a pitching duel in the Kingdome with a two-run single in the sixth inning and Barry Bonnell hit a two-run homer in the eighth to carry the Mariners to victory.

Royals starter Bud Black, 6-5, after walking two batters with one out in the sixth, dropped a throw at first base to load the bases.

Cowens, hitting for Ken Phelps, then lofted a single down the right-field line to give the Mariners a 2-0 lead.

Seattle's Jim Beattie, 5-7. lost his shutout in the seventh when Jorge Orta homered into the right-field seats.

A's 7, Indians 6

In Oakland, Davey Lopes' two-run bases-loaded single in the seventh inning brought the A's back from a 6-5 deficit over Cleveland.

Lopes drove in three runs and scored two while Dave Kingman hit his leagueleading 16th homer and Carney Lansford added a two-run homer for the A's. Keith Atherton improved his record to 4-3 with the victory and Bill Caudill picked up his 13th save. Ernie Camacho, 1-7, took the loss.

National League

Although Len Barker was pitching a one-hit shutout through seven innings, Atlanta Manager Joe Torre knew that he'd had enough.

"He just ran out of gas tonight," Torre said Thursday night after Donnie Moore completed the last two innings of a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. "I think he's got to get used to the heat. He was getting away with some high breaking pitches late."

Barker, 5-6, said he was breathing heavily in the seventh inning, then stumbled going to the dugout. Torre said that when pitching coach Bob Gibson asked Barker how he was feeling, "he said he was about on empty."

"They probably didn't have to ask," Barker said. "They kind of realized it. When I came in there (the dugout), I almost fell on the ground. I'm here to keep us in games. It doesn't matter to me who

Moore retired all six batters he faced for his third save of the year. He extended his scoreless innings string to 17, including the last five without a baserunner.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco beat San Diego 5-2, Philadelphia bombed Chicago 11-2, Pittsburgh edged Montreal 3-2, New York blanked St. Louis 6-0 and Houston tripped Los Angeles 3-1.

Barker retired the first eight Reds before walking opposing pitcher Jeff Russell, 2-8. Then Eddie Milner got Cincinnati's only hit, a twohopper up the middle, to open Atlanta, which ended a five-game losing streak, lifted its record to 9-1 this season against Cincinnati with its seventh straight triumph over the Reds.

Mike Schmidt had two RBI with two doubles for the Phillies, while Gary Matthews knocked in two runs with a single in the eighth for the first-place Cubs, whose half-game over New York and one game over the thirdplace Phillies.

Giants 5, Padres 2

Jeff Leonard drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Johnnie LeMaster added a solo homer to help visiting San Francisco snap San Diego's five-game winning streak.

LeMaster got the Giants' first hit of Padres starter Tim Lollar, 5-5, when he led off the fourth with his third home run. A double by Chili Davis and a single by Leonard made it 2-0 in the same inning, and Leonard followed with a two-run homer in the sixth, giving him nine for the season.

Mark Davis, 3-6, who allowed San Diego's only runs on a homer by Kurt Bevacqua in the seventh.

Mike Scott and Dave Smith combined on a five-hitter to lead Houston to a home victory over Los Angeles.

Scott, 3-4, allowed the first four Dodger hits in 5 2-3 innings to snap a personal threegame losing streak. Smith retired 10 of the 11 batters he faced to finish the game and earn his first save of the

By apologizing

Man ends 46 years of guilt

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) -Arthur H. Dauer says he has finally ended 46 years of guilt by apologizing in a newspaper ad for "the worst thing I've ever done" - falsely accusing a 6-year-old classmate of stealing a penny's worth of peanut butter and crackers in 1938.

"Viola, I am sorry," begins the $70 advertisement placed by Dauer, 51, who still remembers how his "very quiet, very meek" classmate didn't return to school for several days after he wrongly named her as the thief.

"I've carried a guilt feeling about this for many years,' said Dauer, who left Trenton after graduating from high school in 1950 and now lives in Jupiter, Fla.

"I've thought about it many times since then," the stockbroker said. "I just wanted to get something off my mind and my conscience."

Viola's vindication comes in an ad prepared for today's editions of The Trenton Times. It reads: "In the Mc-Clellan School in East Trenton in the school year 1937-38, we were in Miss Cunningham's first-grade class. I did not think you were guilty

- and I have always been sorry. Arthur H. Dauer."

Dauer said he was "pressured" into accusing Viola, although he was certain the dark-haired girl had not eaten the sandwich. He refused to say who pressured him into accusing the girl, and he refused to provide Viola's full name, although he still remembers it.

"I remember the incident because she was a little girl and her feelings were hurt," Dauer said Thursday. "I can see her face in front of my eyes like it was yesterday."

Party rules make it difficult

Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson thought the primary and caucus rules were rigged against them, they should take a look at the obstacles in the way of their efforts to strip Walter F. Mondale of crucial delegates.

It's not just Mondale's delegate majority that may stall Hart's "tainted delegates" charge and Jackson's "one-man, onevote" demands a month before the Democratic National Convention.

Once again, it's the party rules that are in the way. They make it difficult for either man to win his case in San Francisco — or to even make it to the convention floor with their presentations.

Whether the arguments are successful or not this year, they could have a big impact on how the 1988 presidential nominee is picked.

Neither man has filed any complaints with the party, the convention Credentials Committee or the convention Rules Committee — and time is growing short as the committees start their sessions in 10 days.

Hart said about 600 Mondale delegates were elected with the aid of illegal committees, backed by political action committee money.

Mondale said the committees were legal - a question now before the Federal Election Commission - and that they have been closed down.

To begin with, such an argument might be thrown out by the Credentials Committee. The party rules say. the committee can consider only challenges based on a state's failure to follow its own approved plan for picking delegates or its refusal to follow national party dictates. And such are not Hart's arguments.

If Hart were to get his challenge past the committee, he might have a chance

WASHINGTON (AP) - If delegates could not vote on their own status.

> That would drop Mondale from about 2,000 delegates to only 1,400 of the 3,400 then eligible to vote on the matter well short of the 1,700-plus needed to win.

But that argument has at least one weakness.

The only way to challenge delegates is state-by-state all 600 can't be challenged at once. The delegates were picked state-by-state and that's how they can be challenged.

So, if Hart challenged Mondale's 96 pledged delegates from Illinois, they couldn't vote on the Illinois challenge. But Mondale's 129 pledged delegates from New York - who also might be under a separate challenge - could vote.

On any one state challenge, Mondale might be short of the majority he would need to win. But he would only be a handful short - with about 200 uncommitted delegates available to give him the number.

Jackson's argument is different, but the problems are similar.

Jackson says he has received more than 20 percent of the popular vote and less than 10 percent of the delegates. This 'disenfranchises' his supporters, Jackson says, demanding a straight proportional, "one man, one vote" allocation system.

Aides to Jackson cite the party charter that says delegations should "fairly reflect the division of preferences expressed by those who participate in the presidential nominating process." If Jackson took such a challenge to the Credentials Committee, it would face the same problem as Hart: it does not deal with whether a state failed to follow its plan for picking delegates. On the other hand, if he took it to the Rules Committee, Jackson might get a hearing - as might Hart on his arguments.

But even if one won in the rules body, it would be too late for 1984.

Because of the order of business at the convention, Mondale's delegate majority would be in place on the floor and essentially impossible to dislodge before the first vote on any rules report.

Fights over rules are part of almost every Democratic convention, and 1984 looks like no exception. But this year, the fights might be important only for the years to

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you printed a piece about Everybody, Somebody and Nobody. It was undoubtedly a sharply edited version of the original I kept under my dresser glass for many years. There is no sign of an author, but I hope you will print it. I believe it's worth the space .- E.J. In Ark.

DEAR E.J.; I've seen at least 10 versions. Yours is the best. Here it is:

SOMEBODY, NOBODY, ANYBODY EVERYBODY

Once there were four neighbors who lived side by side. Their names were Fred Somebody, Thomas Everybody, Pete Anybody and Joe Nobody. They were very odd people and it was difficult to understand them or the things they did. The way they lived was a shame and everyone knew it.

For example, Somebody talked about his neighbor and Everybody was afraid to say anything because Somebody might find out. But Everybody knew that Anybody talked about Somebody too, so he was getting what he deserved.

It wasn't a very pleasant neighborhood. There was the time Anybody's house caught on fire. Everybody thought Somebody had called the fire department. Somebody thought Everybody had done it, so it turned out that Nobody called the fire department and Anybody suffered a terrible loss.

All four belonged to the church. Everybody went fishing on Sunday. Anybody wanted to worship but was not very friendly and was sure that Somebody would not speak to him, so Nobody was the only one who went.

Nobody was the only decent one of the four. Nobody was very faithful. Nobody paid the Lord's tithe. Nobody sang in the choir. Nobody took up the offering. No matter what had to be done, Nobody did it. When they needed a schoolteacher, Everybody thought that Anybody would teach but he wouldn't. Neither would Somebody, so guess who finally did it? That's right Nobody.

Which of the four finally got to heaven? NOBODY!!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your answer to the woman who married a man with four children was right on. You said. "You can count on children from a previous marriage as part of the total package.'

I married a man with four kids. He swore they would never be a problem. They all lived with their sweet, religious mother. When he left her, she had a lovely home, all the bills were paid and he agreed to give her generous child support.

Eight months later, here comes a troubled 13-year-old. 'Mom' couldn't handle the boy, so we took him in. That was three years ago. She calls to see how he is and hasn't found time in months to take him for a day. When I phoned to say the boy needs to see a shrink, and asked her to sit in on the sessions, she replied, "That's YOUR problem."

I have the feeling the end isn't in sight. I've heard rumblings about the younger boy not "doing well." So Ann, keep trying to educate those folks who hate reality. It's like you said, "When you marry a man, you get his whole family, whether you like it or not."-- A Slow Learner In Utah president was meeting with his Texas delegates. Mondale, looking tanned and rested after a week at the beach, on Thursday called his vice presidential choice the "single most important decision made by the nominee."

In his first public appearance since claiming on June 6 that he had enough delegates to win his party's presidential nomination, Mondale insisted that he has not "included or excluded anyone" in his search for a running mate.

At a news conference, he said he would announce, perhaps as early as today, the names of the first three possible vice presidential candidates whom he hopes to meet with in Minnesota.

But he sidestepped questions on whether Gary Hart, his rival for the presidential nomination, or Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas would be on his list

And asked whether he was committed to naming a woman, he responded: "The question is who would be the best vice president and who would be prepared to be president ... I think you have to look at the particular person and the merits of that person and that's what I will do."

Mondale was assured of control of the committee that will draft the proposed party platform next week. Party officials on Thursday decided to give Mondale eight of the 15 seats on the panel, despite calls by Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson for larger representation of their delegates.

Meanwhile, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., head of a special committee that will listen to Jackson's complaints about the party delegate selection process, said the panel will not deal with challenges to delegates to the 1984 convention.

Udall, named as chairman of the panel on Wednesday by Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., said it would concern itself with Jackson's grievances only "as they may relate to the need for prospective rules changes.'

The matter of this year's rules and the seating of the delegates selected under them, he said, will be up to the Rules and Credentials committees of the convention that meets next month in San Francisco.

House Committee votes against appointed board

AUSTIN (AP) - Calling it a "sacred matter" to Texans, a Farmers Branch lawmaker persuaded a House committee to retain the elected State Board of Education blamed for many of the state's school Republican Bill Blanton also won House Public Education Committee approval Thursday for competency testing for teachers.

The appointed board measure, pushed by education reformer H. Ross Perot as vital to improving schools, won a 4-3 Senate subcommittee vote Thursday that moves it to a committee made up of the entire Senate.

Blanton told the House committee that all his mail has been in favor of retaining the 27-member, elected State Board of Education.

"We would be remiss if we try to force something on the people of this state that they don't want," he said. "There are times the state board has not performed as it should. But there are times the Legislature has not performed as it should."

Perot, chairman of the Select Committee on Public Education, has griped about the elected board for months. He has said he would lobby against an education reform package that does not scrap the elected board.

Blanton's amendment, approved 5-3, was to a compromise bill endorsed by Speaker Gib Lewis and Gov. Mark White. The bill would set up a 12-member board picked by the governor. The board would revert to an elected panel in 1989.

Committee member Milton Fox, R-Houston, voted for the elected board Thursday and said he does not fear a battle with Perot.

"That suits the hell out of me," said Fox. "If Ross Perot wants to kill it, let him kill it and explain why he

Rusty Kelly, a Perot lobbyist, and Lewis, who sat through the five-hour meeting, called the House vote "just the first step."

Blanton said the elected board is a "sacred matter to the people of Texas.'

"I know there is a lot of support in places for an appointed board. But I don't think the whole thing is going to sink if we maintain the right of the people to elect their board," he said.

But Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi and sponsor of an appointed board bill, said the vote could be an indication that the special session called by White will fail to approve education reform.

"I think the whole package is in trouble on the (House) floor," he said. "I don't think I can support an education package or a tax bill without some restructuring" of the State Board of Education.

The committee vote is not the House's final action on the board question. Assuming the committee sends some education bill to the House, a floor amendment could revive the appointed board. Any differences between Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 37-year-old mother of three. I've been diagnosed as having diverticulitis. I'm confused about the diet for this. My doctor has pre-scribed a bland diet with little or no bulk. Many of my friends say that bulk is necessary in the treatment of this. I say bulk is necessary for those who have diverticulosis, not diverticulitis, which is an inflammation of the diverti-

Why is there so much confusion over this? Are there newer diets than the one the doctor prescribed for me? How long must you maintain a diet for diverticulitis?

DEAR READER - I'm glad to see you realize there's a difference between diverticulitis and diverticulosis. Many people have diverticulosis, pockets in the colon. Often a person doesn't even know he or she has them until a colon X-ray reveals them.

If one of the little pockets gets inflamed it can behave like appendicitis. In a way, the appendix is a specialized diverticulum.

Fortunately, the inflamed diverticulum may subside without perforating or

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY - Last summer I made a compost of leaves, grass clippings, weeds, kitchen waste, etc. By the end of the summer, the compost didn't seem to have decayed very much. It was very coarse, with the leaves and large weeds still whole, making it difficult to mix in with my garden soil. What did I do wrong? - B.R. DEAR B.R. - You didn't really do anything wrong; eventually the large pieces of organic matter will decompose. However, when you want to make rich compost quickly and efficiently, there are a couple of things you can do to speed

Tricks of composting

Leaves and other organic matter will decompose much more quickly if you shred or grind them first. You can do this with a manual or electric shredder (the electric shredders, while expensive, not only do a wonderful job of shredding soft green matter, but can reduce tree branches and other tough materials to small chips as well), or you can run over a batch of leaves and weeds with your power lawn

Layer organic matter with garden soil and fertilizer or manure. This speeds the composting process and enriches the mixture with vital nutrients.

Moisten the pile periodically; don't soak it. Turn it over with a pitchfork occasionally. Garden-supply stores sell compost starter - a powder containing the necessary microorganisms needed to start decomposition. Follow container directions. Any or all of these tips will help you to produce soil-enriching compost. I'm sending you a copy of "Polly's Vegetable Garden Pointers" which contains directions for starting and maintaining a compost pile plus tips for starting seeds, increasing your harvest, combatting insect pests and other gardening know-how. Other readers who would like this newsletter may send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

> pens to bleed from a diverticulum. There's no agreement on how long one has to stay on a restricted diet. Many of the doctors who favor using bulk in managing diverticulosis think that the sooner a patient can be returned to a diet that provides a reasonable amount of bulk, the better. To many, the bulk is not roughage but "softage" because bran and similar substances absorb water and what a person eats. The same is true if a person hapare soft, improving bowel function. Diverticulitis should be a short-term complication of diverticulosis. So I would question your remaining on a low-residue diet for any length of time. As soon as the evidence of acute inflammation subsides you should follow the diet commonly used by patients with diverticulosis. To help you sort this out, I'm sending you the Health Letter 5-6, Diverticulosis. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

70 years old, in good health and very active. For more than 20 years I've had one or two drinks before dinner. That's the extent of my drinking. Recently, when I have a drink I have diarrhea. I've even tried a glass of wine, which made it

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm

My doctor can find no reason for this and suggests I may have become allergic to alcohol. Is this possible? If so, can anything be done to correct it? DEAR READER: - Alcohol is frequently the explanation for unexplained diarrhea. After all, alcohol is a cellular poison. Many alcoholic drinks contain more than just alcohol. The other ingredients can be irritating to the digestive system. Wine contains as many or more ingredients that can irritate your digestive system as other alcoholic beverages. Vodka is often the least offensive because it's nearly pure alcohol, not adulterated with a variety of chemicals. Of course, the obvious solution is to stop using alcohol in any form. That would be an overall health improvement anyway.

THE RIGHTS OF FREE PEOPLE INCLUDE THE CHOICE OF FAITH

e citizens of a free country never take their freedoms for granted, but have wisely provided a specific list of them in the set of rules by which they are governed. These freedoms include among other things the right of peaceable assembly, to speak and write whatever they see fit, and one of the most basic rights of all: to worship God in any manner they choose; a privilege consistent with the theory that freedom itself is man's God-given birthright. Be ever prepared to defend your your freedom against anyone who would take it away from you, and avail yourself of one of its principal blessings by attending the Church of your choice every week on the Sabbath. And thank God for your right to do so, wherever you are.

"Whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein...this man shall be blessed in his deed." -James 1:25

We owe it to our ancestors to preserve entire those rights, which they have delivered to our care: we owe it to posterity, not to suffer their dearest inheritance to be destroyed. -Author Unknown
