Man charged with aggravated assault

The Hereford Police Department arrested a 39-year-old man on parole from the Texas Department of Corrections on charges of aggravated assault, driving while intoxicated, fleeing from a peace officer, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and terroristic threat.

At 1:45 this morning, the man led police officers on a high-speed chase through Hereford after police officer Esreal Silva attempted to stop him for a traffic violation.

The man was charged with aggravated assault for attempting to hit the pursuing officers with his vehicle, stated police reports.

Another man, 25, was arrested on charges of burglary of a vehicle which occurred in the 400 block of Fir Street on April 16.

Police and the Texas Department of Human Resources are investigating a sexual assault case involving a 6-year-old child; a woman at 609 Union Ave. reported that the windshield was shot out on her vehicle causing $300 damage; a woman at the Blue Water Garden Apartments reported that her dining room window had been broken and two cases of dog bites were reported.

Thirty citations were issued.

Mob boss judged innocent of rigging Teamster elections

quittal of mob boss Anthony "Tony" Salerno on charges he helped rig the elections of Teamster Presidents Roy Williams and Jackie Presser strikes a crippling blow to government plans to take over the nation's largest union, law enforcement sources say.

Salerno was convicted Wednesday of racketeering in the construction industry but was acquitted with two other reputed mob figures on charges of fraud in Williams' and Presser's elevations to the Teamsters presidency in 1981 and

A federal law enforcement source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the acquittal by a federal court jury in New York on the Teamsterrelated counts is "a serious setback.

In light of the verdict, he said, the government will have to conduct a "major re-evaluation" of bringing a civil suit to oust Presser and other top officials in the 1.6-millionmember Teamsters union and replace them with a court-appointed trustee

The Justice and Labor departments a year ago began preparing the civil suit under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act to wrest control of the Teamsters from Presser and its 21-member executive board.

Government attorneys delayed filing the suit out of concern that it might prejudice the criminal prosecution of Salerno and a belief that Salerno's conviction would enhance the case for taking control of the union through the RICO statute.

John Russell, a Justice Department spokesman, declined late Wednesday to comment on the outcome of the Salerno case.

Teamster officials, however, said the verdict "shatters once and forever the myth" that Presser's and Williams' elections "had been engineered and manipulated by organized crime elements."

"The FBI and the Department of Justice know that at this time no such influence exists," said John R. Climaco, the union's general counsel. "It's a fiction, pure fiction."

Despite the setback in the Salerno case, some Teamster officials, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said they still fear that Rudolph Giuliani, the U.S. attorney for Manhattan, will pursue a civil takeover attempt.

"They have been extremely adamant and cocky the past 30 days about their intention to file this thing," one union official said. "Even this might not deter them."

Tx school financing may take detours to satisfy court

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's public school financing system could be made to satisfy a court ruling without a constitutional amendment and without requiring consolidation of local school districts, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

Bullock, who has been previewing his plan for state leaders, published his idea Wednesday in a proposal entitled "Public School Finance: A Realistic Alternative."

It suggests that the new system be phased in over a five-year period, and Bullock said it would allow the Legislature to address the problems, something Gov. Bill Clements has said is crucial.

and affordable blueprint for a lasting solution to these problems," the report said.

The state's current public school financing system was ruled unconstitutional last year by State District Judge Harley Clark, who said it failed to provide equality for all the state's students.

Bullock said his reading of the decision, however, indicates that all students must have a "substantially equal opportunity to access the funds needed to provide a solid, quality education."

"Equal access is the key, not equal dollars," it says.

Dukakis and Jackson prepare for small-scale primaries

Associated Press Writer

Democratic front-runner Michael Dukakis and his tenacious rival Jesse Jackson both plotted strategy for the final push of the primary season, and readied for a pair of smaller-scale contests after weeks of big-state battles. Vice President George Bush, meanwhile, says fear of "kiss and tell" books has sometimes kept him from speaking up in Cabinet meetings.

Bush said Wednesday that other times he keeps quiet at the meetings "because I don't want the president to have to be choosing between his vice president and the other

Jackson was vowing to press on Ohio and Indiana on Tuesday.

In recent weeks, Jackson has fallen far behind Dukakis in the delegate race. By the latest AP delegate count, Dukakis has 1,500 to Jackson's 927, with 2,081 needed to

"It's not over really till it's over," Jackson insisted Wednesday in Washington, where he held a series of meetings with advisers, liberal activists and members of Congress. 'We're within striking distance.'

But the Dukakis people were beginning to talk about being within striking distance too - of the despite bruising losses to Dukakis in nomination. Campaign communications director Leslie Dach said Dukakis could clinch it in the remaining five weeks worth of primaries - a goal that seemed impossible in the muddled contest of a few months ago.

Since the vice president already has secured enough delegates to win the nomination, the main suspense concerns his running mate. Bush said Wednesday he would "absolutely not" rule out California's governor, George Deukmejian. Kansas Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, meanwhile, said she's not interested in the job.

Bush has sometimes been criticized for not saving more about his opinions of Reagan administration policies and his role in developing them. Dukakis, for one, has called him a "blank slate."

On Wednesday, Bush offered an explanation for his reticence, saying it stems from concern about "kiss and tell" books written by former White House insiders.

The vice president cited books like the ones written by ex-White House spokesman Larry Speakes and former chief of staff Donald Regan.

"It inhibits freedom of expression, the vehemence with which people express their views," Bush told reporters in Sacramento. "If you think somebody is there writing a book putting his or her own spin on it, you hold back. ... I hold back sometimes because I worry about leaks."

Reagan says he wonders what would happen if the Earth were invaded by "a power from outer space," and imagines that it would unite all nations of the world in a common defense.

He made the comment Wednesday in Chicago during a question-andanswer session after a speech about human rights and the Soviet Union.

His telling of the story followed one day after the disclosure that Nancy Reagan has consulted an astrologer about the president's schedule and travel plans. Several members of Congress chided Reagan about the use of astrology and a group of scientists complained that it was a discredited practice.

Reagan, asked what he felt was the

"But I've often wondered, what if all of us in the world discovered that we were threatened by an outer - a power from outer space, from another planet," Reagan said.

"Wouldn't we all of a sudden find that we didn't have any differences between us at all, we were all human beings, citizens of the world, and wouldn't we come together to fight that particular threat?" the president asked.

TAKE A BITE OUT OF

The president found an analogy in the threat of nuclear destruction.

"In a way, we have something of that kind today, mentioning nuclear power again. We now have a weapon that can destroy the world, and why don't we recognize that threat more clearly and then come together with one aim in mind, how safely, sanely and quickly can we rid the world of this threat to our civilization and our existence?"

The comment drew applause from the audience, a nonpartisan group that specializes in foreign policy and national security issues, the National Strategy Forum.

Fernandez finds curveball against Astros

NEW YORK (AP) - Sid Fernandez found his curveball and that could be bad news for the National League East.

"I was just concentrating more and getting on top of it," Fernandez, 1-1, said of his breaking ball after he worked the first five innings Wednes-day night in the New York Mets' 8-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

"I just haven't had a breaking ball. You can't get by with just a fastball, maybe in the Little League, but not the big leagues," Fernandez said after allowing only one hit and striking out five before leaving with a slight strain in his right hamstring. "I won't miss a start," he said of Terry Leach pitched the final four innings for the Mets, allowing an infield hit to Billy Hatcher and then retiring the last 12 Astros to pick up his first save.

Hatcher also had the only hit off Fernandez, a leadoff double in the fourth inning. He later moved to third in Houston's best scoring chance on the front end of a double steal with Kevin Bass, who had walk-

"When you get ahead of the hitters, you're not supposed to give up hits," said Darwin, who allowed six hits and a walk in two innings, marking only the second time in 25 games this season a Houston starter has failed to last at least six innings.

"I just never could get my pitch over when I wanted to," said Darwin, who gave up an RBI single to Dave Magadan and a sacrifice fly to Fernandez before Teufel's homer in the Mets four-run second.

Howard Johnson gave the Mets a 6-0 lead in the fourth when he hit his fifth homer, leading off the inning against reliever Dave Meads, and the Mets added two unearned runs in the seventh on Darryl Strawberry's fielder's choice and Kevin McReynolds' RBI single on the first pitch thrown by reliever Ernie

The unbeaten Hershiser won his sixth game, tying him for the National League lead with New York's Dwight Gooden, as Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 8-5 Wednesday night. The pitcher of the month in April, Hershiser had the look of a loser in his first outing of May, allowing 10 hits in 61-3 innings.

But the Dodgers' bats were booming again, getting 16 hits for the se-jams, was a big part of the game." As were Pedro Guerrero's four hits and three each by Danny Heep and Steve Sax, who also had three stolen bases. Kirk Gibson had a two-run homer to get the Dodgers going in the opening inning. Reds 3, Phillies 1

Two nights after Ron Robinson nearly threw a perfect game and wound up with a two-hitter, Danny Jackson allowed two hits for Cincinnati. Jackson, 4-1, yielded an RBI single to Lance Parrish in the fourth inning and Juan Samuel's double in the ninth.

The Reds, who won their second game with one loss under coach Tommy Helms while manager Pete Rose is recovering from arthroscopic knee surgery, scored their runs in the sixth, chasing David Palmer, 0-1.

Chris Sabo, who had three hits and three steals, singled and stole second. He went to third on a single by Kal Daniels, who also stole second. Eric Davis doubled in two runs, stole third and scored on catcher Parrish's throwing error.

Bliss unsure of UNM's interest in him as coach

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist University basketball coach Dave Bliss said he spoke with University of New Mexico athletic director John Koenig by telephone Wednesday concerning the vacant Gary Colson resigned as New Mexico's head basketball coach on April 26. He compiled a 146-106 record during his eight seasons at New Mexico.

"We talked, but I'm still not sure how interested they are in me," Bliss told The Dallas Morning News. "There hasn't been anything set up, and I'm not sure there will be. He may call me back, or he may not call me back."

Bliss told the Dallas Times Herald he is "very interested" in the New Mexico job.

The parents of Bliss' wife, Claudia, moved two years ago to Albuquerque, N.M., from Wheat Ridge, Colo., for health reasons. His wife's sister also lives in Albuquerque.

"I'm still one of the finalists. He (Koenig) wouldn't have called if I wasn't," Bliss told the Times Herald. "I don't know if I'm necessarily the leading candidate. I know they're pushing awfully hard for Gene Keady, but I know they are in-

Koenig said earlier in the week he had narrowed his search to four candidates. Koenig asked SMU athletic director Doug Single Monday for permission to talk to Bliss about the job. Koenig said he would like to choose a coach by the middle of next week.

Purdue coach Gene Keady told The Associated Press on Wednesday that he also had a preliminary discussion with Koenig about the opening.

"I've visited with him over the phone after he got permission from our athletic director," said Keady, who was in Las Vegas, Nev., for a coaching clinic and a golf vacation.

But I haven't talked with about a week," Keady said.

He said Koenig left some messages for him at the Las Vegas hotel where Keady is staying, "but I haven't had time to speak with him."

"I've been real busy with the clinic and I'm trying to enjoy my vacation," Keady said.

He said he would welcome further contact from Koenig.

"If that's a better job for Gene Keady, I'll consider it," Keady said. "I've always liked New Mexico." Keady has a 178-69 record during eight seasons at Purdue. SIREQUIN STOCKADE

No Texas agency has authority or funds to deal with prison babies

GATESVILLE, Texas (AP) - A record number of babies are being born in Texas prisons and no state agency has the authority or funds to deal with these "children in limbo," officials say.

Gatesville warden Susan Cranford said Tuesday a record 65 babies were born to women serving time in Texas prisons last year.

Legally, these newborn victims of crime are nobody's baby.

The infant can wind up as a ward of the state unless a relative or friend volunteers to rear the child. If the babies become wards of the state. mothers who want to regain custody after they get out of prison must first prove in court that they are fit parents.

State officials say they don't know who should decide where the baby is kept while the mother is in prison and no state agency has legal authority or funding to handle the judge will take into account her 1980 conviction for injury to a child. The woman told The Dallas Morning News she plans to tell the judge she wasn't responsible for the death of her infant daughter when she was 17.

Department of Human Services officials say they lack both the legal authority and the funding to accept responsibility for prison-born infants.

In the past, they have done cursory investigations and made placements "as a courtesy" to the Texas Department of Corrections.

But child welfare officials say they have been overwhelmed by a steady increase in the number of women in prison and the spiraling increase in the number of prison births and may want out of the prison baby business.

The number of women in Texas prisons rose from 760 in 1975 to 1,240 in 1980 and almost 1,800 last year.

In 1983, 29 babies were born to Texas inmates. That number jumped into the 50s a year later and into the 60s in 1985. Last year, according to Cranford, a record 65 children were born to inmates.

The numbers are growing quite a bit," said Jim Marquart, assistant commissioner of protective services for the Department of Human Services. "The Legislature gave us a clear message of the kind of cases we should be involved in, and that's abuse and neglect."

Prison officials say they are even less qualified for the role of child care supervisor.

"We're as poorly suited as anybody to deal with those kinds of problems," said Kirk Brown, an attorney for the Texas Department of Corrections. "We don't have any legal relationship with the child one way or the other."

Women serving time in Texas prisons often have no contact with their children during their incarceration. And the separation may be per-

Despite the Department of Human Service's goal of reuniting families, that is often difficult in the case of former inmates and their children, officials said.

"It's hard for us," said Janice Gammill, an attorney for the Texas Department of Human Services. "If the child has been in foster care for two years, they've become attached to the foster parents."

A Texas inmate may see her children once a month if she has been incarcerated for more than six months and if she is in good standing.

But it is up to the child's custodian to bring the baby to prison on visiting

National Nurses Day Set

Westgate Nursing Home at 400 Ranger will honor the entire nursing staff Friday as National Nurses Day is observed. The nurses will be feted at 9:30-11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. Administrator Joyce Lyons noted that the facility "has excellent nursing care" as LVN Lucille Flesher, left, checks Marjorie Smith's blood pressure. The facility is also gearing up for a full week of activities open to the public as National Nursing Home Week will be observed May 8-14 to acquaint the public with the services of nursing homes and of the longterm health care the facilities provide.

Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met in the home of Pene Copien, 337 Douglas, Tuesday evening with Susan Cardinal serving as co-hostess.

Installation of officers was conducted by outgoing president Connie Matthews. Officers for 1988-89 are: Peggy Hyer, president; Susan Shaw, vice president; Gaye Reily, recording secretary; Pene Coplen, corresponding secretary; and Sharon Bodner, treasurer. Serving on the sorority's city council will be Hyer. Marge Bell, Deann Harris, and Barbara Cochran

Matthews conducted the business meeting. Teresa Peiffer gave the treasurer's report and Shaw reminded members of the May 17 meeting set for 7 p.m. featuring a dinner and birthday party theme. Secret Sisters will be revealed at that time. Secret Sisters were thanked by Denise Hafliger, Coplen, Cochran, Cardinal, and Ruby Sanders. Matthews thanked the entire chapter for her selection as Girl of the Year.

It was decided to present Cindy Meiwes with a donation to help offset expenses she will incur this summer in Europe. The Hereford High School junior was recently selected to The Reily, Hafliger, Shaw, and Cardinal.

Sound of America Honor band and Chorus, which will begin its 1988 European Concert Tour in July. She will join other student musicians selected from across the United States for the 22-day concert tour. Members also voted unanimously to make a donation to the American Cancer Society.

Committee assignments were distributed for the next year, with the new theme of "Pave It With Stars" announced.

It was noted that city council will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the home of Alene Tindal. A salad supper will be held along with election of officers.

The program for the evening was entitled "Growing Up." New members Linda Arellano, Coplen, Cochran, Harris, Reily, and Hafliger each discussed various ages from birth to the golden years. A contest was then held as members attempted to correctly identify other members' baby pictures.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served. Present were: Coplen, Peiffer, Bell, Jimmie Middleton, Bodner, Kay Williams, Sanders, Holly Bixler, Hyer, Matthews, Harris, Arellano, Cochran,

Hints from Heloise

PET POINTERS

Dear Heloise: We have three dogs. and cleaning the matter out of the corners of their eyes is difficult and irritating to them. Our vereuggested a diluted "no tears" formula baby

It makes bath time a lot easier for us and it's certainly easier on our beloved pets. - Marisa Feathers.

I checked with my favorite veterinarian, Dr. Tom Vice, and he said this was fine but to be extra careful when washing around their eyes because it could still irritate them. I'll now use your bint on my Zinfandel. — Heloise

SHOE COLOR

Dear Heloise: If you're like me, you have a lot of different-colored shoes. To touch up scuff marks or heel gouges, keep a set of colored pencils

Wet the lead of the pencil to make it "pasty." then apply a dot to the scuffed area and rub it in with your finger to the right color.

By experimenting with different pressure and moisture, you can match up almost any color with a set of 20 pencils. — D. Batdorff, Grand Rapids.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading your column for years and am well-acquainted with your terminology. Occasionally you will say,"Throw the burn out!" I wish it were that easy.

In Virignia, if the bum owns half the house and you don't want to live with him anymore, YOU have to go. There is no other way to get rid of

The tension around this place is so thick you can cut it with a knife. My husband has a foul dispositon. We can never have a conversation. It's always a fight. His manners are atrocious and his demands unending. We have absolutely nothing in common except our three teenage

For nearly a year we had his brother (a drunken sot) living with us and there wasn't a darned thing I figure out how I might make it on my own (I have a fairly decent job) I knew it was not financially possible. So I am stuck. And so is every other unhappily married woman who lives in Virginia. Please don't print my name. Just-Trapped and Miserable

DEAR T AND M: Obviously you have not talked to an attorney. I have and the situation is not as hopeless as you think. In Virginia, and most other states, you can go to court and ask for a separation or a divorce. If you and your husband cannot reach an agreement, the court will decide your rights in the home. It just may be that you can throw the burn out.

The next letter may be of interest to you. Read on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I missed your column on the advice to a single mom, but I did catch the response.

I raised four children alone and it. was the best time of my life. I worked three jobs and got very little sleep. but I would not trade that time for anything in the world. I bought my own house and camper, took summers off, and away we went. Yes, single moms, if you handle your money right, you can take summers off. Not easy to do but I was determined to have an annual vacation with my kids and we planned for it. We had no telephone, no TV and lots of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. I learned to fix my own car, repair the washer-dryer and do a lot of carpentry.

On winter weekend mornings, we'd get up early, dress warm, and go ice skating on any pond we found frozen. I bought the kids skates at a church thrift shop for 50 cents each. My sister knitted us matching hats and sweaters and we really did look like a

My children are grown now and they treat me like I'm gold. Not one of them has ever been trouble or shown me disrespect. When they are going somewhere, they swing by the house and say, "C'mon, Mom, we're going to the beach (sledding, skating, shopping)." And you'd better believe, I'm, gone.

Recently my youngest commented on how much of my life I had sacrificed for them. I told her it was not a sacrifice, it was a joy. I guess the point of this letter is that being a single parent has lot of advantage over staying in a lousy marriage. Just ask me. I proved it .- In Long

DEAR L.L.: What an upbeat letter! You certainly are a master at accentuating the positive.

Thanks for letting other mothers know that there are alternatives to staying in a miserable marriage. Bravo! My laugh for the day: Anyone who looks like his passport photo is not well to travel.

ASK DR. LAMB

husband had a heart attack three months ago. He has done very well, lost some weight and started on an exercise program his doctor recommended. He has always been a very impatient person. He has never been able to relax. He is the take-charge type. From what I have read, he is a typical type A personality. That worries me as I don't see a lot of improvement in that department since his heart attack.

I have talked to him about this and he simply brushes me aside by saying that there isn't a bit of evidence that having a type A personality has anything to do with having a heart attack. He thinks that staying physically active and watching his diet is the real key. I would like your opinion about getting him to slow down and relax so he won't have another heart attack.

DEAR READER: I'll have to agree with your husband. I have watched the type A versus type B and even an earlier type C concept unfold from its inception. There have been a lot of heated words exchanged, but the truth is that when the coronary arteries have been studied directly, there were no more changes in the type A individuals than in the type B individuals.

But the risk factors of a high total cholesterol, high blood pressure and cigarette smoking do correlate with the amount of disease in the coronary arteries. It is these risk factors, not personality type, that count. I have discussed why the type A and type B concept really doesn't have much to do with the risk of having a heart attack in THE HEALTH LETTER 31-08 which I am sending you. Others PAPER CHASE who want this issue can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/31-8, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The incidence of heart attacks in successful men is well below that in less successful men. And you will be happy to know that a recent study by Drs. David Ragland and Richard Brand of the University of California, reported in the January 14, 1988, issue of the New England Journal of solid waste problem were introduced Medicine, showed that in men who survived 24 hours after an acute heart Pro-Environment Packaging Counattack, the type A men had about half cil, an association of companies that

DEAR DR. LAMB: My 59-year-old subsequent years. So perhaps you should be happy if your husband has a type A personality.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Is there any preparation which can be used to soften toenails? I am 74 years old, do some walking, but my toenails are becoming increasingly difficult to trim — especially the ones on my large toes.

DEAR READER: There is a tendency for toenails to get hard as one gets older. And there is always the possibility that one has a fungus infection of the toenails as well. These are sometimes difficult to treat. You should ask your doctor to look at your toenails to see if you do have a fungus infection.

If you don't, moisturize your toenails, just as you would dry skin. Soak your feet well. Dry them and then cover the toenails with Petrolatum or Vaseline. Rub it in and remove the excess. You can also leave them well covered with Vaseline and wrap them for an overnight moisturizing technique. Do this once a week or as needed.

If the nails are really difficult to trim, soak your feet in warm water for 15 to 30 minutes so they will soften. Trim immediately, then use Vaseline on them after trimming.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers v th health questions. You can write whim at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Brewers edge 'pesky' Texas Rangers, 6-5

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee pitcher Mike Birkbeck was eager for his first victory since 1987 but was willing to wait in the dugout while his teammates scored four runs in the second inning against the Texas Rangers.

"Texas is a pesky ballclub. They keep coming at you. We were fortunate to get a few runs ahead," he said after the Brewers extended their winning steak to five games with a 6-5 victory Wednesday.

"If we're going three, four or five runs, I'll take a long inning anytime," he said.

Glenn Braggs, who drove in three Brewers runs with two singles, noted the club has done much of its scoring in the early innings recently.

"It just seems that when we get a big lead, we just play out the rest of the game. But the pitchers have been tough too," he said.

Texas began closing the gap in the sixth inning, getting within 6-2 on singles by James Steels and Pete Incaviglia and shortstop Dale Sveum's throwing error.

"We had a better offensive effort." Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "We had some good at-bats mixed in. We were just maybe one magic hit away."

A misplay in the fifth inning gave the Brewers a run on a double-steal when catcher Geno Petralli's throw went into the outfield because no one was covering second base.

Milwaukee's Robin Yount scored from third and B.J. Surhoff made it from first to third.

It was a play in which Petralli was supposed to throw to third and pick off the runner, Valentine said, "and that's why no one was on second. Robin was dead. We had a play on him.'

It gave Milwaukee a 6-1 lead. Birkbeck, 1-2, won for the first time since April 26, 1987. He held Texas to two runs on four hits in 5 2-3

A crowd of 21,401 saw Oakland win for the 14th time in 15 games. The Athletics' 20-7 record is the best in baseball.

"Oakland is tough. They've got tough pitching," Blue Jays manager Jimy Williams said.

Welch, 4-2, gave up two runs on six hits in seven innings. Honeycutt got two outs and Eckersley retired all four batters he faced for his major league-leading 11th save in 11 opportunities.

Jim Clancy, 1-3, took the loss. Orioles 4, Twins 3

Larry Sheets doubled home Cal Ripken from first base with two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning as Baltimore beat Minnesota for the Orioles' third victory in 27 games this season.

Ripken doubled and later scored on Sheets' sacrifice fly for a 3-3 tie in the ninth. Ripken led off the 11th with a walk from Keith Atherton, 0-1, and came home when Sheets' double eluded right fielder John Moses.

Kent Hrbek hit his fifth homer, all against Baltimore.

White Sox 6, Red Sox 2

Greg Walker and Ivan Calderon homered as Chicago defeated Boston's Roger Clemens for the fifth straight time.

Rookie Jack McDowell, 2-2, pitched three-hit ball for seven innings. Bill Long finished with three-hit relief.

Walker's three-run homer, his second, put visiting Chicago ahead 3-1 in the fourth. Calderon hit his eighth homer, a two-run shot, in the sixth. Tigers 1, Angels 0

Jack Morris pitched a two-hitter for his first shutout since 1986 as Detroit beat ex-Tiger Dan Petry on Alan Trammell's home run.

In the ninth inning, Mark McLemore drew a leadoff walk from Morris and took third on Chili Davis' two-out single, but Johnny Ray grounded out to end the game. McLemore singled in the third for the Angels' other hit. Yankees 4, Royals 3

Rickey Henderson's sacrifice fly broke a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning as New York won in Kansas City.

John Candelaria, 3-2, got the victory despite being ejected after the seventh inning in an argument with home plate umpire Durwood Merrill about balls and- trikes. Yankees manager Billy Martin announced he was playing the game under protest.

Tim Stoddard relieved Candelaria

George Brett hit an inside-the-park homer, capping a three-run third. Mariners 5, Indians 4

Mark Langston struck out 10 in eight innings and host Seattle sent Cleveland to its fifth loss in six Langston, 2-3, gave up six hits, including second-inning home runs by Brook Jacoby and Ron Kittle.

Jim Presley tied the game with an RBI groundout and Dave Valle followed with his third home run of the season.
