Study indicates opposition to dump

AUSTIN (AP) — A state survey in two Panhandle counties shows half the residents interviewed think there could be a nuclear explosion in their backyard if the federal government places a high-level nuclear waste dump there.

Twenty-six percent said it would be "very likely," and 24 percent said they thought it would be "somewhat likely."

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said an "absurd proposal" by the U.S. Department of Energy to put a nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith or Swisher counties threatens to chase away 44 percent of the population.

Hightower released at a Monday news conference a survey by the Texas Department of Agriculture of 841 residents of Deaf Smith, Swisher, Crosby and Moore counties.

The DOE has proposed narrowing the area in Texas for a possible nuclear dump to two nine-square mile areas near Vega in Deaf Smith County and near Tulia in Swisher County.

Nine other sites are being considered in Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, Utah and Washington, and the DOE is expected to choose the first national high-level nuclear waste dump by 1987 or 1988. The federal Nuclear Waste Policy Act gives a state veto power over the location of a site, but the veto could be overridden by a majority vote of both houses of Congress.

As part of its search, Congress is obligated to help states evaluate the federal government's site-selection methods, and it paid for the Department of Agriculture survey.

Hightower said one claim by the DOE was that "people on the High Plains were good Americans, and therefore they want to do their patriotic duty. This survey finds that the people themselves in that area do, indeed, consider themselves to be good Americans but that their real patriotic duty is to produce the food and fiber that this nation depends on rather than try to raise nuclear waste in that area."

Hightower said the survey showed "intense opposition across the board. They say, in essence, 'We don't care if you wrap this stuff in the American flag — we don't want it on the High Plains.'"

The survey asked, "If it were up to you, would you allow construction of a high-level nuclear waste repository?" Seventy-three percent of those surveyed in Deaf Smith and Swisher counties said "definitely no," and 8 percent said "probably no."

About 80 percent believed a dump would cause farmland values to decline, and 72 percent believed it would cut agricultural production.

About 60 percent said they thought it "very likely" that radioactive wastes would escape into their underground water supply, and 54 percent thought soil contamination is "very likely."

Fifty percent said it was "very likely" the dump would lead to health problems, and 25 percent said it was "somewhat likely."

Asked about the quality of life, 45 percent said it would "go down," and 44 percent said it would "stay the same."

"It will eliminate the need for street lights in some of these towns," Hightower quipped.

Asked if they had thought of moving out of the area because of the dump, 44 percent said they had.

Hightower said a shorter survey was conducted in Moore and Crosby counties, "where opposition also is strong."

"Just by the consideration the proposal hangs over West Texas like a nuclear cloud," he said. "It's creating a dark shadow on the economy out there."

"People are postponing plans to buy land, expand businesses, drill for minerals and pass farms on to their children. They're having to change all their long-range plans because of the threat of having nuclear trash buried in their backyard," he said.

Costume Party

St. Anthony's Camp Fire group, the White Doves, gathered for a Halloween party Wednesday afternoon at St. Anthony's. Each of the children put a lot of thought into their costume as these four illustrate. Back row, from left to right, are Holly Ed-

Officials pleased with survey

By REED PARSELL

Governor's office officials were pleased with the number of responses they received in a telephone survey concerning the possibility of a nuclear waste dump being placed in the Panhandle. Results of the study, performed this past summer by the Texas Department of Agriculture, were released Monday by Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower. Among the study's findings was 44 percent of those questioned have considered moving due to the possibility of a repository being housed in the state.

More details about the study's outcome may be found in the related story at the top of this page.

"We were extremely pleased with the high participation rate," commented Julie Brody, coordinator of the TDOA project, this morning during a telephone interview. "We found the results were very consistent."

According to Brody, 91 percent of those Deaf Smith and Swisher County residences contacted agreed to complete the survey. In all, 605 households in those counties were interviewed after being randomly selected from telephone books.

Another 236 people were questioned in nearby Crosby and Moore counties, bringing the total number of participants to 841.

The survey was performed as part of the governor's office evaluation of the dump search project. Deaf Smith and Swisher counties each contain one of nine sites being considered by the U.S. Department of Energy for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump.

"Overall, we were pleased with the extremely high level of response (in the survey)," said Steve Frishman in another telephone interview this morning. He directs the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office, formed at the request of Gov. Mark White.

Frishman said he was impressed with the substance of the responses, as people seemed to be concerned with several social and economic ramifications a dump might bring to the Panhandle.

"It's an across-the-border thing," Frishman said of the survey's consistency. "It's very clear that large numbers of people know about the issue." That claim is substantiated, he pointed out, by the wide spectrum of class and demography covered in the study.

Both he and Brody pointed out only 8 percent of those questioned had attended any hearings dealing with the nuclear waste dump issue. They said that would indicate the DOE's frequent claim only a small, vocal minority opposes the dump is incorrect.

"Now we have statistical evidence that (the DOE claim) is not true,"

Firemen battle butane gas leak

Hereford Volunteer Firemen dispersed a vapor cloud of butane gas Friday night after valves were apparently turned on by vandals at Hereford Butane.

"It was a dangerous situation," remarked Frie Marshal Jay Spain. "If there had been a spark, it would have exploded."

Spain said the volunteers sprayed water into the cloud to disperse it.

A vacant house was heavily damaged Sunday morning by a blaze apparently started by electrical problems. Firemen were called out at 2:46 a.m. to the house at 115 Kibbe owned by Richard Robles. The department remained on the scene until 7:25 a.m.

Hereford High School cheerleaders have rescheduled a bonfire canceled last week because of wet weather.

The bonfire is now set for 9 p.m. Thursday at the Church of the Nazarene, 1410 La Plata Dr. Chad Fitzgerald, cheerleader scat, reported festivities will include the "Bunny Hop."

The bonfire is held annually to show support for the HHS varsity football team, which Friday night is to host a game against Lubbock's Monterey High School.

Fitzgerald asked that anyone with wood to donate should phone the high school (364-0617) by noon Thursday.

Legislation chided by 4-Hers

Basically, it was just a good way to let off a little steam.

But by the close of the sheep show at the Texas State Fair in Dallas, a letter penned by a Deaf Smith County 4-H member had captured the attention of a Dallas Morning News reporter and won the county a junior exhibit award.

Visitors to the county's sheep pens at the fair, unless they happened by on show day, did not get to meet the young exhibitors themselves. But they were instead handed copies of a letter, written by Hereford High

In letter presented at State Fair

School senior and veteran sheep showman Shawn Rickman, which explained why the local 4-Hers were not spending the usual week at the fair.

"Due to Mr. Perot's unjust recommendations to the governor regarding extracurricular activities," the half-page letter read, "we are unable to be here to greet you and answer any questions that you may have."

Rickman was referring to new attendance regulations based on H. Ross Perot's role in drafting the education reform bill passed during the summer by the Texas legislature. The bill allows no more than 10 excused absences for participation in extracurricular activities.

"Obviously Mr. Perot does not realize the importance of seeing a project through to its completion," Rickman's complaint continued. "As a wise man once said, 'Never let your schooling interfere with your education.'"

Caution urged for Wednesday

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

A few extra precautions by motorists, parents and children could prevent tragedies this Halloween, the Texas Department of Public Safety has suggested.

Major V.J. Cawthon, Region 5 Commander, said adequate visibility of children is of the utmost importance. He urged the use of retro-reflective material as an effective and inexpensive way to make little "monsters" easily seen.

Parents should also provide children with flashlights, Cawthon said, which serve a dual purpose of lighting their path and warning motorists or cyclists of their location. A last-minute reminder of pedestrian safety rules is also in order on Halloween night, Cawthon said.

Homeowners can also promote Halloween safety, Cawthon suggested, by providing porch and sidewalk lighting where possible and removing items from their yards that could become hazards after dark.

Motorists, the DPS reminded, should be on the alert for children darting into the street from between parked vehicles.

Also in keeping with the autumn season is the annual reminder from the DPS to prepare motor vehicles for the winter season. "Vehicles should be winterized by replacing worn windshield wiper blades, weak batteries, tires with thin treads and leaks in the exhaust system," Cawthon stated. "Motor vehicle condition is of prime importance to traffic safety this winter."

By Texas Department of Public Safety

When temperatures drop below the freezing point, the DPS pointed out, drivers must guard against reduced visibility caused by frosted windows and windshields. To prevent this condition, the car should be idled long enough for it to warm up and for the defroster to become effective before the car is driven.

Many winter accidents and deaths are caused by drivers who go too fast for existing conditions and lose control of the vehicle, the DPS warned.

Selection of jurors continuing

DALLAS (AP) — Jury selection continued today in the murder trial of Abdelkrim Belachheb, whose attorneys say he was insane when six people were shot to death at a nightclub last summer.

On Monday, the 39-year-old man pleaded innocent to six counts of murder and one of attempted murder. He is on trial for the June 29 shootings of Ianni's Restaurant and Club. If convicted, he could spend the rest of his life in prison.

State District Judge Gerry Meier, who had earlier imposed a gag order, banned cameras from the fifth floor of the courthouse Monday. A metal detector framed the entrance to the courtroom.

Several potential jurors were questioned, but none was selected. The trial is expected to last at least three weeks.

Frank Jackson, a Dallas attorney who in two highly publicized Dallas trials built a reputation for successfully using the insanity defense, is Belachheb's defense lawyer.

Belachheb, dressed in a three-piece suit, looked pale and drawn in court Monday. He appeared without a thick, black toupee he had worn in the past.

Parker points to improprieties

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Carl Parker pleaded innocent to four criminal charges, then challenged reporters to dig into the case, promising they would find impropriety in the prosecutors' actions.

Parker, a veteran Democrat from Port Arthur and one of the Legislature's most powerful members, told State District Judge Larry Gist Monday he was innocent of charges of aggravated promotion of prostitution, aggravated perjury and two charges of wholesale promotion of obscene material.

Parker, 50, was indicted Sept. 11 on charges stemming from an allegedly pornographic video operation in Port Arthur at a house owned by Parker and another man. He is free on $15,000 bond.

Outside the courtroom, Parker issued a brief statement to reporters.

"You can find witnesses who have been threatened, they have been accused, they've been promised rewards," he said.

Parker said of an unnamed co-defendant, "an investigator told him that all his problems could go away if he'd tell them what they wanted to know about me."

Girl receives liver transplant

DALLAS (AP) — A 2½-year-old girl, the first liver transplant patient in Texas, is resting comfortably after a 10-hour operation, her doctors at Children's Medical Center say.

"Our young lady is doing very well," Dr. Walter Andrews said of Melissa Lively, who received a new liver Monday. "Her vital signs are looking extremely well. The operation was uneventful and we're looking forward to an uncomplicated recovery."

Melissa, the daughter of Jeff and Denise Lively of Missouri City, suffered from biliary atresia, which did not allow her liver to secrete bile. She was diagnosed as having liver problems as early as 8 weeks old, said Andrews, who was assisted by Dr. Jack Chang.

The girl received the liver from a 4-year-old Texas girl during an operation that began at 6 a.m. Monday and ended at 4 p.m., Andrews said.

He and assistant Dr. Jack Chang extracted the donor's liver at an undisclosed location and returned to Dallas with it, said Andrews, who declined to elaborate how the donor died.

Illinois Senate race brawl

CHICAGO (AP) — The gloves are off as Republican Charles Percy and challenger Paul Simon enter the closing days of their Illinois Senate campaign locked in a fierce political brawl.

With a Senate seat and Percy's chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee at stake, gentle sparring has long since ceased between the two usually mild-mannered lawmakers.

The contest between Percy, a three-term Republican incumbent, and Simon, a 10-year Democratic veteran of Congress, is not only one of the closest and costliest — an estimated $6 million will be spent — but one of the most caustic Senate races in Illinois history.

"This campaign is more personal and passionate than any I've seen on this level before," says Calvin Sutker, state Democratic Party chairman.

"Neither one is standing quite so tall politically as each one wants," adds Jim Nowlan, who managed Percy's 1978 campaign and now teaches public administration at the University of Illinois.

Many killed in dump explosion

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Troops sealed off the Indonesian Marine Corps headquarters today after an explosion at a munitions dump filled the night sky with tons of bombs and bullets. The government said 13 people were killed; other sources said the toll could be twice that high.

The explosion Monday night in south Jakarta lit up the sky with wild bursts of mortar and artillery shells, grenades and other explosives. Thousands of people ran into the streets in panic as their houses caved in, or windows and doors were blown out.

Information Minister Harmoko said at least 13 people were killed and 22 injured in the blast. Reports from hospitals, marine sources and relatives of victims put the toll at least 25 dead and more than 100 injured.

There were unconfirmed reports that some marines were among the casualties.

Harmoko said the explosion was caused by a fire in the munitions warehouse that fire brigades were unable to control. He said the cause of the fire was under investigation.

Canadian car strike settled

TORONTO (AP) — With 36,000 Canadian autoworkers heading back to the job after a two-week strike against General Motors Corp., more than 40,000 U.S. employees laid off because of the walkout may be recalled by the end of the week, a GM spokesman said today.

Workers at 13 Canadian plants on Monday voted 87.1 percent approval for a new contract giving them an average raise of 50 cents an hour in the first year of a three-year agreement, the United Auto Workers union said.

The UAW also said its members had approved a new three-year pact with Ford Motor Co. in the United States by a vote of 33,312 to 18,386, or 64 percent to 36 percent.

Maintenance workers at some Canadian plants were being called in Monday night, with full production expected to resume today or Wednesday, union officials said.

GM spokesman Don Postma in Detroit said early today that callbacks of U.S. workers laid off because of parts shortages created by the strike should begin "by the end of the week."

Congressman Charles Stenholm, appearing at a rally for Don Richards here Saturday, said Congress has to "dedicate itself to a balanced budget and we have to change the agricultural policy in this nation."

Stenholm, a U.S. representative from Stamford in the 17th Congressional District, told an audience of about 60 people that "we can't solve our farm problems without first solving the fiscal problems of our country."

Stenholm was the principal speaker at a fund-raising breakfast for Richards, the Democratic candidate for Congress for the 19th District. The breakfast at K-Bob's was sponsored by ag leaders in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties.

"We need conservative Democrats like Don Richards to help pull Congress back to the right of center," claimed Stenholm. "Don Richards is not running against Tip O'Neill and it makes me wonder about the political savvy of our opponents when they talk about this. There is room for conservatives in the Democratic Party," he added.

Stenholm, who just returned from a trip to Europe, emphasized that "there is not and will not be a free world market for ag products." He pointed out that European countries are determined to have a self-sufficient food policy, "and their consumers will have to pay prices that will assure the farmer a fair price." Stenholm spoke at the World Soybean Association convention in London.

B.K. Buske of Friona was chairman of the special breakfast for Richards and David Langston, former Mahon aide, served as master of ceremonies. Bill Cleavinger of Wildorado and Carl King of Dimmitt also made brief endorsements for Richards.

A former member of Kent Hance's Washington staff, Richards told the group that a Lubbock television station recently conducted a poll which showed him leading the Congressional race. Pointing out that his opponent is "outspending me by three to one, I ask for your support and influence in getting our message to the people in this district." He added that he was counting heavily on the rural communities of the district.

Stenholm Endorses Richards

Report shows

United Way's drive now at 60 percent

The United Way of Deaf Smith County funding campaign total hit $77,423, according to a report meeting Monday, and that represents 60 percent of the goal of $128,150.

The drive was scheduled to be completed this week, and James Self, UW president, reported there are still enough prospect cards out to reach the goal. "We urge all volunteer workers to make a real effort to get their cards and pledges returned this week," said Self.

B.J. Gilliland, campaign chairman, reported there are still 717 potential contributors to the campaign. "We have 107 new pledges this year—businesses and people who were not on last year's prospect list, and we can still reach our goal if everyone makes a commitment," said Gilliland.

Persons who have not been contacted and desire to make a contribution can call the UW office, 364-5220, or mail a check to United Way, P.O. Box 206, Hereford.

The United Way of Deaf Smith County provides funds for 10 worthwhile agencies—Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Camp Fire, Boy Scouts, Family Services Center, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Senior Citizens, Hereford YMCA, Childrens Rehabilitation Center, and the Hi Plains Epilepsy Foundation.

DUMP

Brody said.

Frishman, who said he is convinced of the "statistical validity" of the survey, is to send copies of the study to the DOE.

"I don't expect much of any response," he said.

A representative of the DOE offered no comment on the survey's results when contacted by telephone this morning. Linda McClain, project manager for the Texas exploration activities, said she thought it would be "inappropriate" to discuss the study without having had a chance to look it over.

A comment was offered by Tonya Kleuskens, director of the Deaf Smith County group People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER).

"We were really pleased with the state taking the initiative to do the survey," she said this morning. "We were certainly pleased with the result."

The next step in the dump selection process, according to McClain, is narrowing of the Deaf Smith and Swisher County sites to approximately nine-square-mile areas apiece. This, she said, should be done sometime next month.

Environmental assessments of each candidate location, McClain added, should be released by Dec. 20. Several people at DOE are working "day and night" to complete that phase of the search, she claimed.

Frishman said if those dates are met by the DOE, the earliest three sites can be nominated for detailed site characterization studies is the middle of next summer. He thought such an occurrence is unlikely, however, since a "flood of lawsuits" is likely to follow the environmental assessments.

Detailed site characterizations, which are to include an exploratory shaft, are to lead to a final location selection in the early 1990s. Storage operations are to commence in 1998.

PEROT

"In addition to our regular school work, we have spent many hours before and after school, preparing our sheep and ourselves for the State Fair of Texas, as our pictures will demonstrate."

The county's entry in the junior exhibit awards division featured pictures of the four youngsters who attended the show working with their animals to prepare them for competition. A copy of Rickman's message was posted with the pictures.

Attending the competition along with Rickman were his brother John David Rickman, Cheryl Schlabs and Trisha Teel. Trisha's dad, Jerry Teel of Walcott, drove the animals to Dallas, and parent-leader Jigger Rowland took the week off from his job to stay with the sheep.

Parents of the other youth took turns staying in the barns, shuttling the young showmen back and forth from the airport.

State fair rules say the animals must be placed on exhibit for a week, and livestock competition veterans know from experience that the stock must be attended at all times. "People will play dirty tricks if you don't watch your animals," Rickman said. "We're all straight A students," Rickman pointed out, "but we have to follow those rules regardless of how well we do in school."

Besides the fact that showing livestock is an important learning experience and a way to make money that often goes for a college education, Rickman mentioned other benefits to the pastime that can play a big role in the future of those who show.

"There are a lot of scholarships given," he said, "especially when you win at the big shows like Houston. A lot of kids get full-ride scholarships."

Showing livestock is something the whole family can do together, Rickman added. "And we make a lot of friends, meet a lot of important people."

Rickman said he missed fewer than ten days of school last year for shows alone, but admitted he took other days off from classroom work to attend judging contests and FFA leadership meetings. "I probably won't make it to the Houston show this year. It looks like a lot of people will be flying back and forth."

Rickman has already made his future education plans: two years at Clarendon College then on to Tarleton State University for an agricultural education degree. He expects to win a scholarship from Tarleton, partly on the merits of his livestock show experience.

"We had 250 copies of the addresses of State Board of Education members, and we gave them all away," Rickman said. "People were really interested in getting something done about it."

Rickman found one last quote with which to end his message: "How much you know is not as important as what you do with what you know."

Meet Your Neighbor

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

"This is a big, wide world full of problems, but each individual person has the right to try to be the best person they can be."

"And," Paula Kopecky continued, "this job gives me the opportunity to help them in that process."

Kopecky is currently a counselor with Hereford Family Services. She said that with her job she must wear two hats.

"Half of my job," she said, "is an alcohol-drug abuse counselor. The other half is case management."

Case management is a new program and involves helping individuals who have just come out of mental hospitals to function in society.

"I'm real excited about this program," she said in her bubbly manner. "I think it is real important to educate Hereford citizens in this area, too."

Kopecky's experience definitely gives her a strong background for working with people and helping them handle their problems. For one year, she taught English as a second language to Laotian students, for two years she worked in a residential drug and alcohol treatment program, she has also worked with planned parenthood in Seattle, Wash. and did volunteer work with crisis hotlines.

"When I was in school and looked for jobs," she explained, "those were the kinds I was attracted to."

In addition to her on-the-job experience, the counselor will receive her bachelor's degree in May from West Texas State University in general studies with an emphasis in sociology and psychology. Afterward, she plans to start a graduate program in counseling at WTSU.

"It gives me a lot of satisfaction to help people work through their problems," she said. "It's really neat to watch people get back on their feet and see them get control of their lives again."

Kopecky has friends that work in the field of drug and alcohol abuse, and, as a result, she "just got into it."

She said that drug abuse affects an individual's entire life and that it is especially hard on younger people when society is so pro-alcohol oriented.

"Most that are addicted became so during their teenage years," she explained. "And instead of learning how to be mature and independent, their growth was stunted. So, when you counsel them, you must go way back. Most of them never graduated from high school and don't have any job skills."

When counseling with those who have been released from prison, Kopecky said that she has never felt afraid.

"There's not a whole lot that I'm afraid of, and I've never been threatened or hurt," she said.

In addition, she works in an advisory capacity and helps coordinate programs for the Chemical People Task Force.

"The task force is a part of a nationwide movement started by Nancy Reagan to encourage the community to get involved in dealing with local drug problems," she explained. "I'm learning so much from Mike Moon who started the task force here."

The nature of her job requires that she not involve herself in politics—an interest that once consumed the majority of her time.

"My mother always encouraged my brother and I to take an interest in the community," Kopecky said. "Politics has always been a hobby."

While a student at Wichita State University in Wichita, Kan., she lobbied for the student body and was an ombudsman—a position in which she served as grievance officer between the students and administration. She also worked on two congressional campaigns and two gubernatorial campaigns in Kansas along with running herself for the state legislature in 1980.

Before coming to Hereford six

weeks ago, she worked on Gary Condra's campaign. Based in Lubbock, she travelled from Odessa to Hereford. It was during her trips to Hereford, that she discovered that she really enjoyed Hereford and wanted to live here.

"I like Hereford a lot. I grew up in a small town in East Texas," she explained. "I was tired of the large city and found West Texans extremely friendly. I'm also enjoying the slower lifestyle."

Kopecky also said that she views her political work and social work as being very similar.

"If people would get more involved with situations that concern them, it would give them more of a feeling of control," she said.

She has also been accepted in the Peace Corps, but chose not to go to Nicaragua because of the political situation.

Greenery being sold by local organization

Greenery is being sold by the international Christian organization, Philanthropic Educational Organizations, to raise money for scholarships that the organization awards every year.

The organization furthers women's educations and presented a continuing education grant for $500 to Kathleen Haney who is attending West Texas State University to receive her teaching degree. The group also gives a scholarship to a graduating senior girl at Hereford High School each year for her to use for the college of her choice. Last year, Dallas Phillips received $350.

PEO awards scholarships when a need is found and also presents international peace scholarships.

The fresh greenery, shipped in from Washington, is the only fundraiser for the organization and is sold only at Christmas time. A seven-foot garland is $18, wreath sells for $10, English holly for $3 a bag and kits to make the items yourself are $5.

Orders are being taken at The Vogue, Caryn's Hallmark and from individual members. The last day to order the greenery is Thursday.

La Plata FHA makes food donation

For seven consecutive days, La Plata Junior High School Future Homemakers of America members have collected canned fruits and vegetables for the Hereford Day Care Centers.

This project exhibits the concern of youth for others and promotes the State Future Homemaker of American Project, "Families and Future."

In an effort to provide more leadership opportunities for boys and girls in ninth grade consumer and homemaking education, four FHA mini-chapters have been formed with officers serving each mini-chapter. The four chapter members, 68 ninth grade students, were involved in the collection of canned foods.

Officers in Mini-Chapter I include Michael Phibbs, president; Raymond Romo, vice-president; Tim Long, secretary; and Brent Benny, parliamentarian.

Karyn McCuistan is serving as president of Mini-Chapter II. Melanie Homes is vice-president; Adam Gallegos, secretary; and Manuel Diaz, parliamentarian.

Mini-Chapter III officers are Tiffany LeGate, president; LaGay Carlson, vice-president; Elda Ortega, secretary; Julia Allison, treasurer; and Leslie Burhart, parliamentarian.

Rodney McCracken is president of Mini-Chapter IV; Kevin Hanson, vice-president; Trina Morgan, secretary; and Anjani Wuerflein, parliamentarian.

Other projects for October include insuring children's safety by accompanying them trick-or-treating, Pizza Bash and attending a seminar on child abuse conducted by Sharon Pennington.

The goal of FHA is to help youth assure active rolls in society through home economics education in areas of person growth, family life, vocational preparation and community involvement.

Advisor is Beryl Burelsmith.

Grease and odors

DEAR POLLY — After a bad experience at our house with an overheated pan of cooking oil, I cleaned the kitchen thoroughly to remove the odors. However, I could still smell the burned odor around my exhaust fan's aluminum filter, which is very difficult to clean.

I had tried for years to get the goopy grease off this filter. With the odor so strong, I finally decided to boil the filter. I submerged it in boiling water to which I had added detergent and approximately one cup of inexpensive fabric softener. In a matter of minutes, all the grease came to the surface in pink curdlike masses. After removing the filter, washing it and rinsing it, not only the grease, but the odor was gone, too. — JEAN

DEAR POLLY — I found an easy way to clean my barbecue grill, even when it's been a couple of days since it was used and the grease is really baked dry. When I have dishes in the dishwasher ready to run through the rinse-and-hold cycle, I just put the grill in on the top rack over the cups, etc., making sure there is clearance room for the washing arm. When the cycle is over, I take out the grill, lay it over the sink and scrub with a stiff brush. The burned-on particles come right off and can be rinsed away with hot soap and water, or the grill can be spray rinsed with hot water. Saves a lot of time over cleaning with steelwool soap pads. — DIANA

DEAR POLLY — Don't throw away your socks with the long rib-knit tops. Use the white tops for a rolling-pin cover or fold in half to make new cuffs on insulated underwear (pants or jacket) or any kind of jacket.

Also, my husband burned his arm, and after medication and a sterile pad were applied, we slipped a sock top over his arm to keep the dressing in place. This was so much better than adhesive tape stuck to a hairy arm. — CLEMMMA

When our early settlers struck out for new opportunities, they had to be prepared to handle any problem that came up.

They had to be the surveyors, the carpenters, the hunters, the farmers, the mechanics, and the doctors.

For most of our country's pioneers, it was "on-the-job-training" that provided them with the skills to cope with what seemed like insurmountable problems.

At our bank, we have a philosophy that's based on the pioneer spirit. It means we work hard to provide financial services that will help you cope with Twentieth Century situations.

We offer savings accounts, checking accounts, individual retirement accounts, home improvement loans and a host of other services designed to make your life easier. And we don't stop here. Every day our staff is looking for new services and programs to serve you even better. It's this kind of dedication that makes us the bank with the pioneer spirit.

Moreno wins district

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Despite Selma Moreno's first-place finish, the Hereford High School girls cross-country team wound up in second place Saturday in District 3-5A competition, held at Veteran's Park.

Hereford's efforts to repeat as league champion were thwarted by Palo Duro, which turned in a score of 56. Hereford had 59 total points.

In the boys' contest, Hereford was fifth behind Monterey, Caprock, Plainview and Amarillo. Hereford failed to qualify any boys runners for regional, which is Saturday at Lubbock's Mae Simmons Park.

Hereford coach Martha Emerson said earlier last week that her girls had a good chance at repeating as district champs. She pointed out, however, that Palo Duro would be the team to beat. And she was right.

"If we falter, they will be there to take us," she had said.

Other than the Tucumcari meet Oct. 6, in which Moreno finished second to Michelle Montiega, Saturday's competition was the hardest she's been pushed. Plainview's Becky Remington turned in a 12:29 to take second just three seconds behind Moreno.

"I didn't think I was going to survive it (the two-mile course)," Moreno said after her race. "My legs just went out on me. I hope they're better by regional."

Moreno now has qualified for regional two consecutive years. She also was a state qualifier a year ago.

"Palo Duro wanted it," Emerson said. "They had not gone to regional before. Of course we wanted it, too, but maybe not as bad."

"They (the Dons) ran with a lot of pride."

In taking the title, Palo Duro failed to place any runners above eighth place. However, the Dons top five runners — the runners whose scores count for team points — all were in the top 14.

"This is great," Palo Duro coach Joyce Mims said. "We have really worked and we deserve this."

The entire Hereford team will advance to regional, regardless of the order in which individuals finished.

The top two teams in both boys and girls competition advance, as well as the top five individuals.

Hereford's Lina Esqueda would have advanced anyway, turning in a 13:13 for fifth place. Francis Flores, however, would have missed the Lubbock trip by 14 seconds. Flores was sixth at 13:27.

Other Hereford girls, their order of finish and times were: Irene Serma, 17th, 14:06; Eva Medrano, 30th, 14:53; and Jennifer Bankston, 31st, 14:55.

"It seems like everybody wants to go to regional this year," boys team member Alonzo Martinez said. "They (Hereford's girls) don't know if they got first, second or third. Usually they know how they did. Usually they win."

Francisco Saucedo, Hereford, led the Whiteface team in boys running with a sixth-place finish at 16:31. At the Dumas Invitational Oct. 20, Saucedo had a 15:45.

"It was pretty hard running with this wind," Saucedo said. "But I guess we've run in worse weather." Saucedo missed qualifying for regional by only one second. Caprock's Keith Parr was fifth with a time of 16:30.

Other Hereford runners, their order of finish and times were: Bobby Aranda, 14th, 16:58; Martinez, 18th, 17:10; Frankie Vallejo, 34th, 17:38; Ceaser Castro, 39th, 17:58; and Lupe Rocha, 40th, 18:02.

Boys runners compete on a three-mile course.

The regional meet in Lubbock begins at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Still tied for second

Seahawks move to 7-2

By MARK J. KREIDLER
AP Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — In some other season, Seattle's 7-2 record might place the Seahawks atop the AFC West standings. It certainly would put them in commanding position to gain a National Football League playoff berth.

This year, 7-2 is good for only a second-place tie in the rugged division, and Seattle's 24-0 manhandling of San Diego on Monday night was needed simply to keep pace of its peers.

"We've still got some things to do, and some more games left in the season to do them," said quarterback Dave Krieg, who threw for 282 yards and connected with Steve Largent for three touchdowns. "Seven-and-two in this division doesn't assure you of anything."

Seattle remains tied with the Los Angeles Raiders, one game behind front-running Denver in the division. The Seahawks play the Raiders once more and still have two games left with Denver.

Seattle sacked San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts six times for 47 yards in losses and forced the Chargers into four turnovers. It was reminiscent of the teams' first meeting this year, when San Diego coughed up the ball eight times in a 31-17 loss.

"We just didn't execute the way we should," wide receiver Charlie Joiner said. "It was pretty much the same thing (as last time). They play good defense and are very good on special teams."

"Those things happen. We keep saying, 'We have to rebound, we have to rebound,' and we've just got to keep saying it until we do."

The Chargers, playing without in-

In 1926, outfielder Bill "Baby Doll" Jacobson of the Boston Red Sox went 64 1-3 innings without getting a fielding chance in right field, a major-league record.

A pitcher going on the disabled list in major-league baseball is out of action for a minimum of 21 days. For other players the minimum is 15 days.

jured receivers Kellen Winslow and Wes Chandler and using limping tight ends Pete Holohan and Eric Sievers sparingly, suffered their first shutout since a 7-0 loss to Denver five years ago. San Diego netted 201 total yards, less than half its average.

Fouts was intercepted twice and lost a fumble and running back Lionel James was picked off on an attempted flea-flicker. All three interceptions were made by Kenny Easley, whose feat set a team record.

USEFUL STUFF

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Fiber glass is now one of the most commonly used materials for manufacturing sports equipment, according to a maker of that product, Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp.

Among other things, it is used in pole vaulting, cross bars, pool cues, skateboards, snowmobiles, skis and even motorcycle accessories.

Bob Mathias, a two-time Olympic decathlon champion, was the first to use a fiber glass vaulting pole in the 1948 Games in London.

"There's not much to say," San Diego Coach Don Coryell said. "All of us are embarrassed we played as poorly as we did. All we can look forward to is getting everybody pieced back together and be a spoiler."

Coryell had acknowledged last week that his team needed to beat the Seahawks to retain any chance of making post-season play. The Chargers are 4-5, with all five losses coming to fellow AFC West teams.

While Krieg was chewing up the San Diego secondary, Fouts was struggling to keep his composure as his offensive line collapsed around him. Fouts was hurried into several quick releases besides the six sacks, and finished with 24 completions in 39 attempts for 200 yards. The rushing game netted 48 yards on 23 carries.

Contest features tie last week

For the first time this season, winners in the Brand grid contest tied for top spot, dividing $40 in Hereford Bucks between themselves.

Ronnie Traylor, 212 Elm, and Sherri Casey, 201 Beach, missed four games with a tie-breaker of Plainview. Traylor picked 34 total points to miss by one, and Casey chose 32 total points.

Ronnie Bell, 202 16th, also missed four games. However, he had a tie-breaker of 49 points.

Sixteen contestants missed five games. They were: Mike O'Rand, Chris Johnson, Jennifer Johnson, Violita Valdez, Greg Coplen, Jim Goebel, Sheila Brannon, Bridgett Baker.

Also, Carol Armor, George Loerwald, Rob Chaney, Todd Schroeder, Andrew Krandall, Monica Banner, Norberto Frausto and Jason Jones. Of 247 entries, 20 missed six games.

Panel Picks

Members of the Fearless Forecasters panel grouped closer together at the end of last week.

Brand editor-publisher Speedy Nieman and Louise's owner Betty Martin tied for top spot with a record of 20-6. With her performance, Martin moved back into a tie with Brand sports editor Dennis Ball at 147-59. Ball was 16-10 last week.

Nieman's season record is 144-62.

Helen Higgins, owner of Helen's Youth Shop, turned in a week's record of 19-7 to improve her season mark to 137-69. Boots and Saddle owner Butch White went 18-8 to move to one game back for the season at 146-60.

Hereford golfers finished third Saturday in the Plainview Country Club Invitational with a score of 344, 32 shots behind winner Amarillo.

Matt Albracht shot a 79 to tie with Plainview's Kevin Walker for sixth low score, coach Stacey Bixler reported Monday. No other Hereford golfers placed in the top 10 finishers.

Davenport named Giants' manager today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Davenport has earned the chance to become manager of the San Francisco Giants and is ready for the job. So says his son.

"This place has been a madhouse, but it's pretty exciting," Gary Davenport, a former infielder in the Giants' minor-league system, said from the family's home Monday. "He deserves it."

A team source confirmed that the elder Davenport would be named the team's manager at a press conference today. He would take over for Danny Ozark, who replaced the fired Frank Robinson in mid-season on an interim basis.

Ozark said he did not want to manage in 1985.

Davenport, 51, has been a player, coach and minor-league manager during his 28 years in the Giants' organization. He could not be reached for comment Monday, although Gary Davenport said his dad has been "talking contract" with management.

Davenport was managing winter league ball in the Dominican Republic when Giants General Manager Tom Haller called him to come home last weekend for the announcement.

Club owner Bob Lurie, who is trying to sell the money-losing team to someone who will keep it in San Francisco, said he would attend the news conference.

The New York Racing Association estimates that every Belmont Stakes Day 30 to 40 children wind up in the lost and found department at the track.

Davenport was among five finalists for the manager's job. The others were Felipe Alou, Steve Boros, Joey Amalfitano and Rene Lachemann.

Boros said Monday he was told last week that he was not the Giants' choice. "Going by what everybody else has said, I'd assume it's Jimmy Davenport, and that certainly makes a lot of sense."

"He's an organization guy who has paid his dues, and an excellent baseball man," Boros said.

Davenport started as a minor league player for the Giants in 1955 after playing baseball and football at the University of Southern Mississippi, where he was a quarterback in two Sun Bowl games.

From 1958 to 1970, he was one of the premier fielding third basemen in the National League. Davenport led NL third basemen in fielding percentage in 1959, 1960 and 1961, and won the Gold Glove award in 1962.

He set a league record for consecutive errorless games by a third baseman, 97, from July 1966 to April 1968. He also set a World Series record by starting four double plays in 1962.

Davenport retired in 1970 with a career batting average of .258. He played in 1,501 major-league games.

He managed the Giants' Triple-A team in Phoenix for three years, leading the team to two second-place finishes and a third, and was a Giant coach for nine years.

In addition to his jobs with the Giants, he served two years as third base coach in San Diego — his only two seasons away from the Giants' organization.

Landry cautions Cowboys about player criticisms

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry has warned his players that any more public criticism of their teammates or the coaching staff will be punished by $1,000 fines and suspensions, a newspaper reported today.

Landry's speech Monday during a team meeting was prompted by remarks some of the players made last week after Landry announced he would start Danny White instead of Gary Hogeboom at quarterback against the Indianapolis Colts, The Dallas Morning News said. Landry referred to a comment made by running back Ron Springs, without mentioning his name, the News said. Springs, who has supported Hogeboom over White, was quoted last week as saying he was disappointed that Landry was starting Hogeboom, but that, "People must realize this is coach Landry's team, and he does what he wants to do. If I had the opportunity to express myself truthfully, I could say a lot more strong stuff. But I don't want to get fined."

One player told The News he may challenge Landry's stand. "This is all pretty silly, isn't it? I mean, isn't there freedom of speech? If coach Landry fines me for something I say, I will take him to court. Well, at least I'll file a grievance. It's gotten so players are going to be afraid to say, 'No comment,' " said the player, whom the newspaper did not identify. "I don't want to get fined $1,000 or suspended," the newspaper quoted one player as saying. "I don't think I'll be saying much the rest of the season."

Dorsett No. six to gain 9,000 yards

By DENNEH FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Lost in all the hoopla of Danny White's return as starting quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys was Tony Dorsett's first 100-yard rushing game of the year.

Dorsett rushed for 104 yards in the 22-3 victory over Indianapolis on Sunday — the first time in 12 games he reached the plateau dating back to last year.

Dorsett has 9,034 career yards. He is the sixth player in NFL history to rush for 9,000 yards.

The others are Walter Payton, Jim Brown, Franco Harris, O.J. Simpson and John Riggins.

"We haven't been getting many rushing yards but I haven't panicked," said Dorsett. "A lot of situations have dictated the passing game. When we fall behind, we have a tendency to go up top."

Dorsett said "I'm confident we can do some fine things running the ball. I'm just happy to go over 100 yards. It's the start of the second half of the season and hopefully it's contagious."

White learns today whether Coach Tom Landry will keep him as the No. 1 quarterback.

"I guess I'm the starter until he (Landry) changes," said White.

White completed 21 of 32 passes for 262 yards including touchdown passes of 38 yards to Tony Hill and 5 yards to Doug Cosbie in his 1984 starting debut.

Gary Hogeboom had started the first eight games of the season for the Cowboys, taking them to a 5-3 record. However, White relieved Hogeboom in his last three outings.

"I've said all along that I have two starting quarterbacks," said Landry. "I will use 'em when I feel like using them. If I feel like using Gary next week I'll use him."

Landry said he would love to be able to name a permanent starter.

"You'd like to be able to settle on one quarterback for the season but like I've said before this is a different kind of season," Landry said.

White was happy to be in charge again.

"I hope I didn't have anything to prove but maybe I did to some people," said White. "It was fun doing it."

Landry was peppered by quarterback questions after the game.

"I don't like having to answer questions about it all week," Landry said. "I'd rather not have to worry about it. But it's important to do what we have to do to win games."

Texas still undefeated

Longhorn boss reflects on game, call

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas coach Fred Akers says the Longhorns played with "incredible intensity for 60 minutes" in defeating Southern Methodist but that his team was far from perfect.

Akers was asked if the 13-7 victory on Saturday was Texas' best game of a 5-0-1 season, and he said, "I guess because it was the last one it might be. They seem to get a little better each week. As far as playing without mistakes — no."

"We played a good football team, and to me it was a great win any way you want to cut it," Akers told his weekly news conference Monday.

Asked if SMU was the best team Texas has played, Akers said, "I don't think we've played anyone with more talent."

The Texas victory before a sellout crowd and regional television audience kept two streaks going. Texas has won 23 straight regular season games and 17 Southwest Conference games in a row since losing to SMU on Oct. 23, 1982.

The Longhorns go on the road Saturday to play Texas Tech, 4-3, and Akers said, "They play tough out in Lubbock. It's a pretty big happening when Texas comes to town."

Kickoff is at 2 p.m., CST, with a capacity crowd of 50,000 expected.

Akers was asked about a controversial play in which Texas cornerback James Lott collided with SMU receiver Marquis Pleasant in knocking down a pass in the Texas end zone.

"I thought it was a pretty normal play. ... That's a judgment call," said Akers. "It looks like most of them that you see that that involve one-on-one coverage and hanging the ball up."

Asked what films showed, Akers replied, "I'd have been disappointed if they had called it (interference) but on most plays like that down in the end zone you have some contact. Whether it's determined it's interference or not is strictly up to the official."

Asked if he had said there was contact, Akers replied, "Yes, there was contact — not very much. The contact didn't affect anything, I'll tell you that."

Akers said offensive guard Paul Jetton, who has missed four games with a severely sprained left big toe, is still out, and cornerback Eric Jeffries dislocated his right shoulder against SMU and will miss the remainder of the regular season. Quarterback Todd Dodge has a "pretty good bruised back" but may not miss practice.

Asked if he was bothered by television sportscasters' comments that Texas has been lucky this season, Akers shook his head, and said, "Are they pronouncing all the names right and all that?"

He acknowledged, however, that "if you isolate some (plays), yeah (Texas has been lucky). We've been unlucky on a lot of others that they don't isolate. It tends to have a leveling out effect."

Texas tied Oklahoma 15-15 on a field goal on the last play of the game, edged Arkansas 24-18 with an Arkansas receiver getting to the Texas 4-yard-line on the last play, and held off SMU, which threw three straight incomplete passes into the Longhorn end zone.

Texas Christian cracks Top 20

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — For the first time since 1962, Texas Christian joined the Associated Press college football Top 20, replacing Penn State as the nation's No. 20 team.

"It's a great honor for the school and the players," TCU second-year coach Jim Wacker told the Dallas Morning News. "but frankly, I'd rather wait until the season is over and see us ranked in the Top 20. Then it would stay there forever."

Southern Methodist University, suffering its second straight loss in a 13-7 decision to Texas, dropped to 19th place. Washington remained No. 1, followed by Texas and Nebraska.

TCU, now 6-1, hasn't cracked the top 20 since a 6-4 campaign in 1962. And then, they did not make it to the season's final poll. The Frogs last placed in the final rankings in 1959 when they finished seventh in the AP poll.

in setting a record for National Football League scoring with 176 points in 1960, Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers made 15 touchdowns, 41 points-after-touchdown and 15 field goals.

"Any time you win a ball game playing teams as gifted as we've played, I don't care what the score is, you need to be thankful and grateful and proud that you won," Akers said. He said Texas had been playing "aggressive, reckless football on both sides of the ball. It's just you don't know where they're going all the time but you know they're going ... with a lot of effort."

Bubble boy protected by neighbors

HOUSTON (AP) — The love and care of neighbors and friends helped prolong the life of David, the young boy who spent most of his life inside a plastic sterile bubble to protect him from the germs his body couldn't fight.

David, whose last name was never revealed, was born without natural immunity against disease and lived in a plastic bubble filled with sterile air. He died last February, just 15 days after a serious illness forced doctors to remove him from his bubble.

In a copyright story published in the Houston Chronicle Monday, David's parents said friends provided the heat and power needed to keep David safe and comfortable in his bubble when bad weather or mechanical failures arose.

The bubble, built into the dining room of the family's Conroe home, required a constant flow of filtered air. David's parents said they constantly feared a power failure that would cause the air pumps to stop.

If the air flow was stopped for too long a period, David would have to be taken from the bubble and face the threat of infection from outside world.

The boy's parents, David Sr. and Carol Ann, set up a system to guard against an electricity outage. They had a main auxiliary generator, then a series of back-ups.

But even this system failed when Hurricane Alicia roared into Houston in August 1983.

The storm knocked out power over a wide area and blocked streets with fallen trees. The reserve generators failed, one by one, and the air flow stopped.

"We capped David off in one little bubble and he stayed there for hours," the boy's father remembers. "After a while, it was getting critical."

But the family was trapped. "We couldn't transport David either way (south or north). We couldn't get to Conroe or to Houston. The trees were all down," David Sr. added.

"It was beginning to get uncomfortable for David," said Carol Ann. "The air circulation was weak. He was perspiring heavily. He could not have sustained himself in that one bubble for much longer."

A radio appeal was broadcast and soon, two big trucks pulled into the family's front yard. Connections were made and power surged to the pumps. For two days, the trucks stayed there, keeping air flowing for that small boy.

"I guess if they hadn't given us their generators, they could have supplied their own homes with electricity. They could have saved their own freezers. But they didn't. They gave it to us," said Carol Ann.

Hurricane Alicia wasn't the only close brush, but the family always had friends who were ready to help. "I've had periodic champions," said Carol Ann.

Once, the family furnace failed on a cold night. A neighbor who had the same type of furnace dismantled his heater and brought the right part needed to fix the furnace at David's house.

"He fixed ours just so David would be warm," David Sr. recalled.

David lived in the bubble from his birth, Sept. 21, 1971, until last February. Doctors placed him in a bubble at a Houston hospital and the boy received a bone marrow transplant. It was hoped the transplant would give him an immune system. Instead, a serious illness developed.

The boy helped doctors break the seal on his hospital bubble and he was taken to an isolation room. For the first time, his family could hold him outside the bubble, although they still had to wear surgical gloves.

David's condition worsened and, after just 15 days of freedom from the bubble, the boy died.

PRESENTING THE... "HOME OF THE WEEK"

Excellent Design

By Larry Farnsworth

This compact, well planned two-bedroom house contains a surprising number of those extra touches of luxury customarily associated with homes having far more square footage.

Note also how the patio is placed to add its own picturesque touch to the main entrance approach, while at the same time it additionally serves the family's needs, both recreational and utilitarian.

Inside the house, the central entry not only channels traffic, but also preserves the formality of the separate living room — a sunken one for that feeling of extra drama and luxury.

This theme of comfort and practicality, accented with imaginative touches of luxury, is continued throughout the entire house.

Both bedrooms are relatively large and the larger has a walk-in closet too. The kitchen-dining area, a comfortable size to begin with, can expand still further to include the patio just beyond the sliding glass doors at its dining end. And the efficient parallel kitchen section, with its island counter and range, is happily situated and planned to accommodate both inside and outside dining.

This plan is available with a basement option.

Add it all up — not overlooking the centrally placed bath, the carport beyond the covered court and the storage and utility room, and you have a home designed for comfortable living.

Remember all the extras and you know that the living here will also be every bit as gracious as it is comfortable.

You can purchase complete working plans or a 500 plan catalog from Larry Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Staff cut recommended for DPS

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative budget writers, faced with a predicted $460 million deficit over the next two years, have turned a Department of Public Safety request for 492 more workers into a recommendation for 38 fewer employees.

DPS Director James Adams says the Friday move by the Legislative Budget Board will become commonplace.

"All the agencies are going to have to take some hiccups when it comes to trying to balance the budget," Adams said. "We'll take ours."

The Legislative Budget Board will produce a proposed 1986-87 budget for the 1985 Legislature to consider.

Adams' request included adding 150 highway patrol officers, 36 license and weight officers and 40 narcotics officers. The LBB voted to add no new employees, and drop 42 motor vehicle inspection officers. Four positions would be added in motorcycle operator training.

To achieve the cut, the LBB approved its staff recommendation that DPS reduce the number of checks on the 8,000 places that do motor vehicle inspections. DPS now checks stations an average of once every 1.3 months. The job could be done with checks once every two months, the LBB staff said.

LBB staff analyst Bill Campbell said in his report that "research studies have failed to conclusively prove or disprove that motor vehicle inspections are effective in preventing accidents."

But he also said, "The research to date does suggest that motor vehicle inspection promotes traffic safety ... because inspection programs do identify large numbers of defects."

LBB member Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said he was concerned the reduced checks on inspection stations could hurt the program.

"Something not watched closely tends to get a little looser in its operations," he said.

Adams said the DPS officers check to see if inspectors are offering "lick and a promise" inspections that don't meet state standards. The DPS also sends cars to be inspected in order to check inspectors.

Also Friday, Speaker Gib Lewis, an LBB member, won approval of a motion barring state agencies from getting increased money for utilities.

"I don't see any effort being made to conserve energy," Lewis complained.

Also Friday, the LBB also accused the State Board of Public Accountancy of doing a poor job of accounting. And the panel of budget-writers approved a recommendation saying the accountancy board ignores "generally accepted accounting principles."

"The agency is operating under inadequate accounting controls," LBB staff analyst Patsy Henry said in her report.

Bob Bradley, director of the accountancy board, said later Friday that the changes are being made and should be in place in three months. The public accountancy board regulates the practice of accounting in the state and issues about 30,000 licenses a year.

Friday's report noted that the state auditor's review of the agency's "accounting system, documentation and accuracy of its financial reports."

"Another criticism was the agency's disregard for generally accepted accounting principles in preparation of reports," Ms. Henry said.

The budget board approved a motion calling for the accountancy board to "develop in-house accounting expertise to assure accuracy in its financial record keeping and reporting."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, LBB chairman, said, "That would be a very good idea."

Nothing is impossible, but some come as close as can be to realizing it.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Don't ban sweets

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you give me some advice about my mother's diet? My mother is 84 and complains of being weak. She has been an active and physically strong woman. Until last summer, she did her own lawn-mowing and gardening, and she took care of a small orchard. She still tries these activities, but can't do them alone any more.

She does not eat regular meals, but snacks on potato chips, candy and "junk food." Recently she was visiting my brother and brought along a bag of candy, apparently to sustain her energy. She became very upset when the bag accidentally spilled onto the ground.

I have heard some athletes claim that a diet high in carbohydrates helps them to sustain their energy for demanding activities, such as running. Is this valid? Would a diet containing good amounts of protein and carbohydrate, with little or no sugar, be good for my mother?

DEAR READER — Good nutrition is important at all ages. I am not so concerned with your mother having sweets as with the vitamins, minerals and protein she may not be getting if she is not eating a balanced diet.

Many older people develop a craving for sweets and may not care so much for meat and vegetables. Don't fight it — just keep in mind that you want your mother to consume all the nutrients her body needs. A good milkshake may satisfy the sweet craving while providing complete protein from the milk plus important calcium. She may even be willing to let you add protein powders to the milkshake, providing even more protein.

Don't fall into the trap of thinking that just because it's sweet, it's bad — or, put another way, that because it really tastes good, it must be harmful.

Desserts can include puddings, ice cream and even sweetened fruits. Again, you can provide needed milk in many of these.

Sugar or sweets are a good source of immediate energy when one has exhausted one's sugar (glucose) levels, usually from hard work. And it is true that concentrated carbohydrates are helpful for endurance athletes and for people who must do heavy labor.

A major source of energy in the muscles is muscle glycogen. This is "animal starch" and is made up of molecules that are hooked together.

Chili has been named the state dish of Texas.

Baby Fae off critical list

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP)—Baby Fae, off the critical list for the first time since she received a heart transplanted from a baboon, drank water from a bottle after doctors who disconnected her life-support equipment declared, "Every hour is a miracle."

The 18-day-old infant headed toward completing her fourth full day with the animal heart at 11:35 a.m. today, making her the longest-living human recipient of a cross-species heart transplant.

South African accountant Benjamin Fortes, 59, survived for 3½ days after receiving a chimpanzee's heart in 1977.

Controversy continued to surround Friday's experimental operation, in which Dr. Leonard Bailey's transplant team at Loma Linda University Medical Center replaced the infant's fatally defective heart. The baby, whose real name is being withheld, would have died within hours without a transplant, doctors said.

The team was criticized first for the death of the baboon, then when it was confirmed Monday they had not sought a human organ and that the heart of a 2-month-old baby was available the day of the baboon transplant.

Hospital officials took Baby Fae off the critical list Monday afternoon, saying her heart was "working well" as she received an anti-rejection drug. They said she was in serious but stable condition and "breathing easily" after tubes and a respirator were removed.

They then gave her water from a baby bottle to prepare her for formula feedings every four hours, hospital spokeswoman Brenda Pfeiffer said.

The transplant team wouldn't predict how long Baby Fae might survive. Dr. Jack Provonsha, director of the university's Center for Christian Bioethics, said 8 days that "she's already lived longer than she was supposed to. Every hour is a miracle."

Of at least four animal-to-human heart transplants performed previously, all in adults, only Fortes survived more than a few hours.

At a news conference Monday, Provonsha said that even if doctors had known that the heart of a 2-month-old child was available, it would have been too large for Baby Fae.

Dr. Claude Lenfant, director of the National Heart, Blood and Lung Institute, said in a telephone interview from Bethesda, Md., that the size difference would not have been a significant obstacle, but agreed that the doctors lacked adequate time to test whether the tissue was compatible with Baby Fae's.

"Most heart donors are accident victims, and most infants don't drive cars," said Dr. Robert Levine, a Yale University medical ethics expert. "So I can understand why they didn't go out to look for a human heart donor. They knew there was a very low likelihood of finding one."

Dr. Moneim Fadal, a Los Angeles cardiovascular surgeon and a member of the Fund for Animals, called the transplant "another example of human experimentation. It's a disservice to both the baboon and the child."

In Dallas, the American Heart Association issued a statement expressing hope "that Baby Fae will survive and live a long life." The group declined comment on the controversy, except to express support for animal research.

By more than a million Registered voters up

AUSTIN (AP) — More than one million additional Texans have registered to vote since the 1980 presidential election, the secretary of state's office says.

The figures do not include tabulations from four of the state's most populous counties.

The incomplete figures received last week from Secretary of State Myra McDaniel show Texas has 7,841,309 registered voters compared to 6.6 million in 1980. Ms. McDaniel predicts the final tally will be close to 9 million.

Ms. McDaniel said the figures from the metropolitan counties of Dallas; Bexar, which includes San Antonio; Harris, which includes Houston; and Travis, which includes Austin, are not expected until later this week.

The number of registered voters, however, has increased by 713,651 since the May primary without those four counties, she said.

"We've had one of the best organized voter registration drives in the state," Ms. McDaniel said. "The volunteer effort that was made was the best I've seen."

Ms. McDaniel, the state's chief election officer, said since the registration process is non-partisan, it is impossible to tell which political party gained the most from the registration drives.

"I believe this tells us that there's a group of folks out there who have not voted before and may not be as firmly committed to a particular party as those who were already registered and vote regularly," she said.

With the increase in voter registration, Ms. McDaniel forecasts a heavy voter turnout but she said it was too early to predict what percentage of the voters will go to the polls on Nov. 6.

The Democratic primary for U.S. Senate last May showed that one or two voters really do make a difference, she said.

On Matador ranch

Rancher recalls famous roundups

MATADOR, Texas (AP) — It was a cattleman's paradise — springfed range nestled in caprock canyons that formed natural pastures, separated and yet united.

A cow, at the most, had to walk only two miles to water, and the creek bottoms were so solid she didn't bog down when she got there. An exception to the creek-laced range was one appropriately named Boggy.

Canyon walls protected cattle from winter winds. Breezes over water helped keep the temperature down in summer.

"My granddad had traveled all over, and he thought this was the best," said L. Bundy Campbell, looking over range around Mott Creek that moves on to pick up Chimney, Boggy and Salt before ending in the Middle Pease River.

His grandfather was H.H. "Paint" Campbell, a founder and manager of the Matador Ranch in 1879 and first manager for the Matador after it sold to a syndicate in Scotland in 1882.

When 15 corporations were formed to sell the massive Matador range in the 1950s, Bundy Campbell was original purchaser of the Mott Corporation. He retained eight sections and sold the rest to his brother, Harold, and J.D. and W.E. Burleson. The Burlesons took the Mott area.

Campbell recalls the first time, in 1926, that he ever came to Boggy country. The cattleman, son and grandson of cattlemen, was then what he termed a nester, a man who settled a pocket of land inside cattle range and went to raising cattle for himself.

Texas cattle range was in a checkerboard pattern, half of which could be bought from railroads, which got it from the state for surveying or building rails, and half of it school land that could be leased by cattlemen.

"A nester homesteaded a little land, usually on key water inside a range." Though his grandfather had built up the Matador's checkerboard range, the Campbells later became nesters with their nest of land when school land came up for homesteading.

When the Matador wagon came close to a nester's land inside the Matador perimeter, the nester joined the wagon for the sweep around the near pastures to help with roundup while rounding up any of his cattle that might be straying.

"Nothing," he said when asked what he was paid. "They were doing me a favor, rounding up my cattle."

Nesters were allowed to prowl around Matador range before the roundup to pick up strays, and Campbell could point out his own stock in a gathered herd.

Campbell left home about six miles away at 3 a.m. to arrive at the Matador wagon by breakfast and then on to the "splitting-up ground" by daylight.

The splitting-up ground usually was a rise where the lay of the land was explained to any newcomers who might get lost in the canyons. Then two leaders, one for right and one left, spread their cowhands to either side to drive all cattle to the branding site.

"The way the mesquite was then, we had to drive the cattle together into a mesquite thicket where there was a prairie dog town, the most open place for roundup."

Cowboys held the herd while the branding crew worked. Flankers who picked up and threw the calves were spelled now and then by those holding the herd. Those handling the irons, needles, knives and de-horners kept at their tasks all day.

A cowboy at roundup, Campbell said, had 12 horses to make it through the roundup.

The night horse was staked close to where the cowboy spread his bedroll. It was ready for any night work that might arise and on hand for the first pre-dawn ride to the splitting-up ground and the gather.

After the gather, cowboys took turns leaving the herd to catch a new mount from the remuda, brought close to roundup ground by the horse wrangler.

The 12 Matador camps had camp men and their wives at each. The wagon worked each camp in turn.
