Congressmen quick to set battle lines

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP
Political Writer

President Reagan and the Democratic opposition in Congress are losing no time drawing partisan battle lines, with Reagan calling his re-election landslide proof of public approval of his conservative program and the Democrats pledging opposition to "any wild ideas" for new budget cuts.

"People made it very plain that they approve of what we are doing, approve of the fact that things are better, the economy is expanding, and that's what we are going to continue to do," the president told a news conference in Los Angeles on Wednesday.

Reagan, who defeated Walter F. Mondale in an unprecedented electoral vote landslide, vowed to continue fighting for his conservative program and said that if Congress tries to block it "we'll take our case to the people."

However, the election also put in doubt the extent of Reagan's coat-tails.

While he was winning easily, Democrats picked up two Senate seats and held Republican gains in the House to 14 seats with three more to be decided. Republicans were leading in two of those and a Democrat in the other.

Republican Leader Robert Michel of Illinois complained that Reagan could have done more to extend his victory to other GOP candidates, particularly in the House.

"As good a communicator as the president is, he really never, in my opinion, enjoined that issue of what it really means to have the numbers in the House," said Michel, adding that Reagan's campaign concentrated too much on a personal victory.

Mondale also met with reporters in St. Paul, Minn., before flying to Washington, and he sounded some of the themes of his unsuccessful campaign.

He predicted Reagan would be forced to call for a tax increase and said the administration also will "have to go after Social Security and Medicare" in an effort to cut budget deficits.

Mondale called a tax increase "one of the biggest meals of crow this administration will eat."

Mondale and running mate Geraldine Ferraro and their families got together in Washington and for the first time in their political relationship the two publicly embraced.

Throughout the campaign, after his unprecedented choice of a woman as his vice presidential candidate, Mondale, on the advice of aides, avoided any physical contact with Ms. Ferraro — not a hug or a handshake was ever seen.

With the race over, Mondale greeted the New York congresswoman with a bear hug on Wednesday.

Earlier, at a news conference in New York, Ms. Ferraro was asked about suggestions she may have cost Mondale votes.

"Why did more than half of the female electorate go for Ronald Reagan? Because he's a very popular president. It's not that we lost it. It's that he won it and he won it handily," she told reporters.

"No one ever said we'd win an election because there was a woman on the ticket," she said. "Am I disappointed in American women? Absolutely not. We're on our way. We are not monolithic. We have wonderfully independent minds. We assess our votes carefully just like everybody else."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., challenged any suggestion that Reagan had a mandate for his program.

"While there may be a mandate on the popularity of the president of the United States, the people certainly show they want both the Democratic House and Democrats in the Senate to be a safety net against any wild ideas the president of the United States may have out there about Social Security or new taxes," O'Neill said.

"We are going to be very fair with the president," O'Neill said. "He made a tremendous amount of promises and pledges to the American people. We are going to give him the opportunity to keep them."

Vice President George Bush returned to Washington from Texas insisting he's undecided about making a run for the White House himself in four years.

"I have the luxury of plenty of time to make up my mind," said Bush, who borrowed the presidential retreat Camp David to spend four or five days of rest with his wife Barbara.

Final popular vote totals in the presidential race gave Reagan 53,314,171 or 59 percent, to Mondale's 36,862,510, or 41 percent. Reagan received 525 electoral votes, the highest total in history. Mondale had 13.

Democrats dispose of formality

By ANN BLACKMAN Associated

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the end, they kissed. They hugged. And then they kissed again. All the formality and decorum that surrounded the professional relationship of Walter F. Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro went the way of their campaign — out the window.

The defeated Democratic presidential candidate greeted the nation's first female vice presidential candidate at the steps of his chartered plane Wednesday as both returned to the capital.

WALTER MONDALE

Mondale, Ferraro, families embrace

Mondale, who received solmen advice from campaign aides at the Democratic National Convention last July not to get too close to his running mate in public, gave the New York congresswoman a bear hug.

And Ms. Ferraro, who had refrained from giving Mondale as much as a long handshake, returned the favor.

Campaign etiquette, cracked at last.

Until that moment, campaign protocol steadfastly forbid the two from slinging an arm over the other's shoulder or even raising clasped hands in a traditional victory salute.

Reporters and photographers who covered the campaign whistled and cheered; the candidates' families looked on in amusement and then all exchanged embraces and handshakes as well.

There were no tears.

The Mondale children — Eleanor, William and Teddy — hugged Ms. Ferraro's children — Laura, Donna and John. The kids, who all took time off from college or jobs to campaign for their parents, had grown close on the campaign trail.

Joan Mondale, who has campaigned at her husband's side for more than 30 years, reached over to talk with Ms. Ferraro's husband, John Zaccaro, who wore the look of a man happy to see the campaign end.

"On behalf of myself and my family, I want to say how proud we are of Gerry Ferraro," Mondale told several hundred staffers and fans who welcomed him back to Washington. "We are proud that she made history."

Ms. Ferraro returned the compliment: "It is not I who opened doors of opportunity for women," she said. "It was Fritz Mondale."

Texas Republicans optimistic

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Republicans were in a distinctly upbeat mood after trouncing Democrats in the presidential, U.S. Senate and 10 congressional races.

"We are witnessing something historic for Texas, a complete realignment of voting patterns," said Texas GOP Chairman George Strake.

GOP leaders said their party now speaks for the average Texan.

"I think this morning, given those election results, that the Republican Party is the party of the working men and women of Texas," Senate victor Phil Gramm said.

Gramm, 42, a three-term congressman from College Station, referred to those who voted for Republican candidates as "this new majority." He said it is important for the GOP leadership now to include those new voters in party business.

"We want them to come in and be part of the new wave of leadership," Gramm said.

From the top of the ballot down, GOP candidates forged a coalition of Republicans, independents and disaffected Democrats to score their victories. Relying on President Reagan's enormous popularity and appealing to conservative attitudes, the GOP logged its best performance in modern Texas history.

"I think the emotional factor is the new pride, the new confidence in Texas and America. You could see it in the rallies. You could see it in the building momentum," said Gramm, who swamped state Sen. Lloyd Doggett.

With more than 99 percent of the vote tallied, Gramm recorded a 59 percent to 41 percent win, 3,033,434 votes to Doggett's 2,142,235. Doggett, an Austin liberal, compared his fate to "taking on a tidal wave."

In presidential balloting, Texas gave Reagan a landslide 64 percent to 36 percent win, 3,351,588 votes to 1,897,191 for Democrat Walter Mondale.

The GOP ousted 10-year

Democratic veteran Jack Hightower of Vernon, dumped incumbent Bill Patman of Ganado and defeated first-term Democrat Tom Vandergriff of Arlington, while also capturing the seat held by outgoing conservative Democrat Kent Hance of Lubbock.

The Republicans carried their success to state legislative races as well.

Parents remaining in jail

HOUSTON (AP) — A couple jailed for two months for refusing to testify before a grand jury in their son's murder case will stay in jail until at least Friday, prosecutors say.

Bernard and Odette Port ended 63 days of silence Wednesday and testified before a Harris County grand jury investigating the June 7 slaying of postal carrier Debora Sue Schatz.

John Holmes Jr., Harris County district attorney, told the Houston Chronicle "there has been some progress" in the case, but refused to say whether the Ports might be freed soon.

State District Judge I.D. McMaster must reverse the Ports contempt of court citation - an action that could occur as early as Friday.

Although Holmes refused to disclose the exact nature of Mrs. Port's testimony before the grand jury, he said she was "asked questions and she's giving some answers."

McMaster cited the Ports with contempt for refusing to testify before the grand jury in the case against their 17-year-old son David, charged with murder in Ms. Schatz' death.

Coors funds citizenship books

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — An explanation of the free enterprise system opens a new booklet, funded by the Colorado-based Adolph Coors Co., to be used in citizenship classes that begin next month in Corpus Christi, a Hispanic leader said.

Corpus Christi lawyer Tony Bonilla, executive director of the National Hispanic Leadership Conference which is sponsoring a new series of citizenship classes, said the booklets are written in both English and Spanish and are targeted at Hispanic non-citizens.

"I met with Joseph Coors and proposed he fund the books. He was very receptive and we were in agreement that if you're going to live in this country, it's a good idea to become a citizen," Bonilla said.

Bill Pauli, Adolph Coors Co. media relations manager in Golden, Colo., confirmed that the donation had been made to Bonilla in July.

Bonilla said the classes, like the booklets, will teach more than the Pledge of Allegiance and Bill of Rights.

"We want to bring in business owners to speak about the free enterprise system. We also want to explain how the political system works," he said.

Houston Sikhs mourn deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston area Sikhs are "bleeding with sorrow" after 1,000 of their friends, relatives and countrymen died in violence in strife-torn India, says a priest at the Sikh Center here.

An estimated 17,000 Sikhs have sought refuge from India's Hindus, enraged at the assassination last week of Indian President Indira Gandhi.

Babli Singh said she is worried about what will become of her first cousin, Inderjit, and her son.

"My cousin's husband, Balzinder Singh, was killed on a train coming into Delhi," she said. "The Hindus stopped the train and killed all the Sikhs on it. It was good that they found the body at least. A lot are lost."

One relative, who was an Indian railway engineer, was shot by Hindus last weekend, Singh said.

"We don't know what happened to their families," Babli Singh said.

MiG jets may have been shipped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration's concern over the arrival of a Soviet vessel at a Nicaraguan port is based on intelligence information indicating its cargo included boxes specifically designed for carrying MiG jets, U.S. officials say.

The appearance of the vessel in Nicaraguan waters touched off a public statement of "utmost concern" by the State Department on Wednesday and private warnings to Moscow about the gravity with which Washington would view the introduction of advanced combat aircraft into Nicaragua.

U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified, said the warning was delivered through diplomatic channels on Tuesday, the day before the vessel arrived at Corinto, on Nicaragua's Pacific coast.

Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto said shortly after the vessel docked that the cargo did not include MiGs.

But one U.S. official said, "Nobody's dead sure. It could be toys for tots." He added, however, there was no question that the cargo loaded on to the vessel at a Black Sea port in late September was contained in "MiG boxes."

Discovery shuttle launched today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Shuttle Discovery vaulted spectacularly into orbit today and began pursuit of two wayward satellites that free-flying jet-propelled astronauts are to retrieve in a daring salvage mission.

During eight days in orbit, the crew of four men and one woman also is to deploy two communications satellites for paying customers and conduct crystal-growing experiments that could lead to a major new industry in space.

With tens of thousands watching, Discovery roared away from this spaceport at 7:15 a.m. EST and rose swiftly through partly cloudy skies on 7 million pounds of thrust, darting eastward over the Atlantic Ocean.

Nine minutes after liftoff, Mission Control center in Houston reported the winged ship was in orbit 184 miles above the globe, speeding along at 17,400 mph.

"We look good," said astronaut Rick Hauck.

Restrictions placed on Chileans

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The military government clamped sweeping restrictions on public gatherings and the press today that effectively ban opposition political activity throughout Chile during a 90-day state of siege.

One decree banned six opposition magazines, imposed prior censorship on a seventh, and restricted political reporting and commentary by all other news media to official communiques.

Another measure outlawed all gatherings that lack previous authorization by regional governors, who are all military officers.

Public events such as movies, and family or social gatherings in private homes were exempt from the decree. But the measure said legally registered organizations were required to give five days' notice of meetings among their own members.

The decrees, signed by President Augusto Pinochet and published in the Official Bulletin, marked the end of a political liberalization begun in the late 1970s and accelerated 15 months ago in response to growing opposition to his authoritarian rule. The plan called for legalization of political parties and the possible election of a congress while preserving Pinochet's constitutional tenure to rule until at least 1989.

Of Foreign Relations Committee

Helms wanted to be chairman

By W. DALE NELSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the "New Right," rejoicing in the defeat of long-time Republican moderate Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, are eager for conservative Sen. Jesse Helms to step into Percy's shoes as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The decision is up to Helms, who said repeatedly during his successful campaign for re-election in North Carolina that he would stay on as chairman of the Agriculture Committee instead. Helms was not available for comment Wednesday and an associate said he must be taken at his word.

Percy was one of two Republican senators defeated in Tuesday's election, as Democrats made a net gain of two seats. The GOP held onto control of the Senate by the diminished margin of 53-47.

In the House, Republicans netted 14 seats, whittling the Democratic majority to 253-182.

Helms is next to Percy in seniority among Republicans on the Foreign Relations panel, putting him in line for the chairmanship.

Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, a middle-of-the-road lawmaker with support among both moderates and conservatives, is second to Helms, but Lugar is a leading candidate to succeed retiring Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee as majority leader.

John T. Dolan, chairman of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, said Helms "is going to have a tough decision to make" if Lugar is elected leader, leaving liberal GOP Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland in line for the chairmanship.

In response to questions in the closing days of his hard-fought campaign against Democratic Gov. James B. Hunt, Helms said over and over that he would stick to his agriculture chairmanship, important to North Carolina, a producer of tobacco, poultry and hogs.

Conservative fund raiser Richard Viguerie said he was "very excited and enthusiastic" about Percy's defeat and believed Helms should take the Foreign Relations post "for the sake of this country and the free world."

Helms, chairman of the Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Western Hemisphere, shares President Reagan's advocacy of a militant stance against communism in Central America, but blocked recommendations of a presidential commission calling for massive economic aid to the region.

He has also held up a number of Reagan's ambassadorial appointments and stalled consideration of a treaty outlawing genocide, which the president endorsed.

Mathias also has often differed with the administration, for example opposing the confirmation of Kenneth L. Adelman as head of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and voting to cut off funds for the B-1 bomber. He supports the genocide treaty, has been critical of administration human rights policy in Central America and supported recommendations of the presidential commission. He is chairman of the subcommittee on international economic policy.

Restaurant shootings trial

Defendant claims affairs with victims

DALLAS (AP) — Abdelkrim Belachheb said he had had affairs with two of his murder victims, a defense witness testified in the Moroccan native's trial.

Belachheb, 39, has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity to six counts of murder and one of attempted murder at a private Dallas nightclub on June 29.

Dr. Gil King, a psychological anthropologist who testified for the defense Wednesday, said Belachheb said he "was engaged in intimate relations" with victims Marcell Ford and Linda Lowe.

On the evening of the shootings, Belachheb told King, one of the women invited him to Ianni's Restaurant and Club to discuss a job as a chauffeur of exotic cars.

"But then he approaches one of the women and is rebuffed in a clear and sharp way," King said.

In an Arab culture where women are considered property, King said, "that's a big no-no." King said Belachheb went out of control in reaction to the rebuff.

In Morocco, King testified, the horror of the Ianni's tragedy would be "blunted at large by the understanding that it was preceded by an insult to his personality."

Witnesses to the shootings testified earlier that Belachheb and Ms. Ford had been engaged in animated conversation and that Ms. Ford had pushed Belachheb away.

On cross examination Assistant

District Attorney Norman Kinne questioned both the liaison between Belachheb and the two victims and the validity of King's findings.

"The only source for this information is the defendant himself?" Kinne asked. "You haven't checked it out in any other way?"

King said the media, defense attorney Jackson, Mrs. Belachheb and examining psychiatrists were also sources of information.

Under further cross-examination, King said Belachheb also may have been in culture shock when he was arrested in Belgium 11 times for assaults between 1965 and 1967.

"Mr. Belachheb spent 1976-78 in a Kuwaiti prison for robbery," Kinne said. "Was that some kind of Kuwaiti culture shock?"

"The mainstream Arab culture is very different from his own," King answered.

Another defense witness, psychologist Kevin Karlson, said Wednesday that Belachheb suffered brain damage that prevented him from knowing the shootings were wrong.

Karlson testified that Belachheb told him he suffered the brain damage at age 10 when he emulated an African rite he had seen by burying an ax in his own skull.

Years later, Belachheb was severely beaten by employees of the Moroccan Embassy in Lucerne, Switzerland, Karlson said the defendant told him.

Karlson said he diagnosed

Belachheb as a paranoid schizophrenic and psychotic personality with organic brain damage and an intelligence quotient (IQ) of 76.

Belachheb's wife also testified Wednesday that her husband "was a powder keg ready to go off," said Joanne O'Brien Belachheb. "I knew this man was sick enough to kill - I was begging people for help ... but I didn't have the money for treatment. That was the bottom line."

In cross-examination by Kinne, Mrs. Belachheb denied she told homicide investigator Paul Lachmitt a week after the shootings that, "He's not crazy. He's a no-good, revengeful son of a bitch."

"I deny that," she said, her voice rising. "I don't know him," she said of Lachmitt. "I don't know who you're talking about."

"But I don't recall much of anything that week."

Mrs. Belachheb also denied Kinne's suggestion that she once told a friend, "I've spent thousands of dollars on Charley (one of Belachheb's nicknames) - for clothing and memberships in private clubs so he could meet rich women."

New York Times

Is there a new New York Times? Heritage Foundation says there is.

For 20 years the Times has been fascinated by communist causes and ultra-liberal politics and tended to make a folk hero of Castro.

The Times and its staffers focused reader attention on anything or anybody red or reddish...

And the strident flirtation with communism was reflected in journalism schools and in newsrooms across the nation where the New York Times was a professional bible.

But under Executive Editor A.M. Rosenthal, the Times has ended its courtship with radicalism, is reestablishing its historic conservative perspective.

Heritage Foundation calls it "a distinctly American comeback."

Abraham Rosenthal had personally interviewed and hired a generation of left-leaning reporters. Gradually he is replacing them. And notable activists still on staff are being more careful not to color the news with their personal views.

This is a significant turnaround.

Of all the evidence that Americans are again falling in love with America, none is more convincing than the conversion of the Times.

And another thing... LEST PARTISAN RHETORIC MISLEAD US...

It sounds good when the politicians urge all nations to agree not to use the big bomb.

But-trick or treat? The Secretary-General of NATO, Lord Carrington of Britain, says please be careful.

In the jungle the strong feed on the weak. And in the human jungle.

But in August of 1945 an all-wise Almighty entrusted first to our God-fearing fraction of the planet's population a weapon big enough to make us-U.S. - as strong as anybody.

Then and since we have been protected against nuclear blackmail by our own potential for nuclear retaliation.

So-even if all nations should make a binding pledge never to be first to use nuclear weapons-they would serve only to make conventional war more likely.

Then the next war would be fought with the weapons which lost the last two-armies of marching boys.

In boy-power the West is no match for the limitless legions of Asia.

Lord Carrington says, "I, for one, feel safer when aggression is so costly nobody can afford it."

While many women feel it would be more than a full-time job to raise three children, Ruth Taylor has accomplished more. She has gone back to school and received her bachelor's degree in elementary education.

"I've always wanted to go back to school," she explained. "I've always wanted to get my degree."

While admitting that her family said her going to school had been hard on them, Taylor went ahead and completed her degree requirements from West Texas State University in one and one-half years.

"I've been going to school off and on for 20 years," she laughed. "I went to WT for one year, then to Hardin-Simmons. When we moved to Hereford, I just couldn't pass up the opportunity with WT being so close."

"I was real lucky, too. I didn't really lose any hours and there was just one class I had to retake."

Taylor is currently student teaching at Northwest Elementary. Her degree is with a concentration in reading.

Going back to school, according to her, would be really hard if the person was not committed.

"You have to want to do it," she emphasized. "I liked it. I really wanted to go back."

Taylor said that she is most looking forward to having a job where she can work with children.

"I've always wanted a job," she continued, "where I would have time off when the kids were off."

As any student would say, tests are probably the worst part of school. And, Taylor feels the same way.

"I miss the people at WT," she said. "But I sure don't miss taking tests."

As if the fall were not busy enough for her with teaching and school starting for her children, Taylor has had another dimension added to her life: football.

Her husband, Jerry, is the head football coach at Hereford High School. Contrary to what many might think, football does not control their lifestyle.

"Jerry doesn't bring a lot of it home," she explained. "There's really not that much of a change around here during the season."

"In fact, when we lose and we get upset, it's Jerry who gets us going again."

The biggest difference football makes in the Taylor household is the absence of Coach Taylor. He works from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. most of the time, Taylor said, and gets so tired.

"It makes a difference, but we're used to it. We've never known it any other way."

Since moving to Hereford in May of 1983, the Taylors have joined First Baptist Church where Coach Taylor is a Deacon.

Taylor works in the nursery at the church and has been wanting to join the choir. When they lived in Stamford, she worked as the financial secretary for five years for the First Baptist Church.

The Taylors have three children which makes life a little hectic at times. Mark, 17, likes computers, is in a radio and TV class and is taking flying lessons.

"He really loves that kind of stuff," Taylor said. "He also plays golf."

Tiffne, 16, is a member of the drill team and the basketball team and plays the piano. Shalon, 8, takes piano lessons and enjoys gymnastics. She is also active in G.A. and the children's choir at church.

Coach Taylor, besides coaching, likes to hunt and fish.

"He especially likes to hunt," Taylor said. "He also has a farm in Stamford and he enjoys caring for it."

On his farm, he has cattle, a small cotton crop, and hay for the cattle.

When Taylor has a little time to herself, she likes to read, swim and shop. She also enjoys working in the yard and decorating the house. She has already wallpapered half of their home.

In addition, she loves to cook, especially homemade bread and sweets.

Drug abuse prevention program set Tuesday

"Communities Can Prevent Drug Abuse" will be the topic at the Deaf Smith Chemical People Task Force meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Banquet Room of the Community Center.

Speakers for the evening will be various committee members of the Caprock Chemical People Task Force as well as Barbara Miller, chairman. Parents and their children are invited and encouraged to attend this free program which is scheduled to last one hour.

The Caprock task force was organized in December, 1983, and focuses on preventing drug abuse at seven elementary schools, two junior highs and one high school in Amarillo. The group also provides a 24-hour hot line telephone service and has been instrumental in forming a parents' support group.

The task force has been involved in sponsoring a Haunted House, a drug free recreational facility on Friday and Saturday evenings, and workshops for school counselors.

For more information, contact Paula Kopecky or Mike Moon at Hereford Family Services Center, 364-6111.

Ann Landers

Feeling a little guilty

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this. I've been wanting to write it for a long time. I've named my little essay, "Passed Him Again in Connecticut."

DEAR HITCHHIKER: I'm writing to say I'm sorry I didn't pick you up today. It was raining and you were soaked. I saw the look of discouragement on your face as I passed you by. I felt awful, as I always do when I pass up a hitchhiker.

Maybe you wondered why I didn't stop. You could see I was alone in that big station wagon. Surely there was plenty of room.

Besides the fact that I promised my husband I would never pick up a hitchhiker, my common sense tells me never to take the chance. You may very well be an honest person in need of a ride, but how can I be sure? I have four children who need me. I can't risk losing my car, my money or my life. I hope you understand.—Sorry In Stamford, Ct.

DEAR SORRY: I know exactly how you feel. Many a time I have passed a clean-cut hitchhiker who may have been a college student on his way home. But there is no way to tell for certain. Sometimes the most dangerous people look safe.

I always feel a little guilty when I pass a hitchhiker on the road, but my good sense tells me it is the wise thing to do, and I shall continue to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: By the hour I'm writing (11:30 p.m.), you can see I'm up past my normal bedtime.

I can't sleep because I lied to my mom about being married to someone that I wasn't. Mom was violently against couples living together so I told her we were married at a simple wedding by a justice of the peace.

Sorry to say, Tony and I parted company the first of May. But it wasn't such a bad deal for me. He put me through four years of school (I'm 24), paid to have my teeth straightened and paid for plastic surgery on my nose. (Not bad.) I told Mom we'd been married since January 1980.

Mom is coming to visit me for 10 days. Do I level with her or just let the dead dog lie? (No pun intended).

This is really getting to me. Not the lie but that Mom may have a fit because we were living together. Help! Help! Help!—Tortured In Tampa

DEAR TAMPA: Tell your Mom the truth. You may be surprised. Perhaps she will be less displeased that you lived with the guy without marriage than if you had had a divorce.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice on tipping contained a major flaw. You suggested no tip for inadequate service.

One should always tip when he has had poor service, but it should be less than half of the traditional 15 percent. That really gets your message across. If there is no tip, the waiter or waitress will think you tried to stiff him.

In addition, let your dissatisfaction be known when you leave. Answer truthfully when asked, "Was everything all right?" A person who performed poorly should be told, "No, everything was not all right. The service was terrible."—Durham, N.C.

DEAR DURHAM: You are right. Thanks for improving on my answer.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Keep track of fats

DEAR DR. LAMB — I never eat the recommended maximum of 300 mg. of cholesterol in a day, so would it be OK to have one glass of regular milk a day?

DEAR READER — The answer depends on your cholesterol level. An individual who has optimal low levels of cholesterol, optimal ratios of "good cholesterol" to total cholesterol and optimal blood pressure need not be so concerned about his or her diet. It is the blood values of cholesterol that correlate with fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries; if the blood levels are optimal, you already have achieved your goal.

Yes, if you limit your cholesterol and fat in other foods, you can splurge a bit and enjoy some of the foods that contain more cholesterol and saturated fat. An 8-ounce glass of milk contains about 25 mg. of cholesterol and 8 grams of fat. Half of its fat is saturated fat. But for people who like to eat meat, chicken and fish (which contain about 70 mg. of cholesterol per 100 grams, or 3-and-a-half ounces), then it is better to use fortified skim milk, which contains no significant amounts of cholesterol.

Another woman wrote to ask me about eggs. She is an 82-year-old "semi-vegetarian," and she wanted to know if she could eat more than three eggs a week. The answer is the same: An individual with optimal low cholesterol levels does not need to be so restrictive, but it is important to keep track of those levels to be sure they don't get high if you do indulge. A single egg yolk contains about 225 mg. of cholesterol.

I have included how to choose foods for your low-fat, low-cholesterol diet in The Health Letter 15-4, Diet to Prevent Heart Attacks and Strokes, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a woman, 62, and in the past year I have experienced bad back pain. A bone scan showed that I have Paget's disease of my skull, pelvic area and spine. My doctor said there is no known cure for it. Could you give me any information on this? Is there any medication to relieve the pain or slow up the disease's progression?

DEAR READER — Paget's disease of the bone is relatively rare and its cause is not known. It is one of those diseases related to degeneration and regeneration of bone, but the degeneration is predominant. It is often first diagnosed by X-rays taken for some unrelated condition. The X-rays show the areas of dissolving bone and new bone formation. The skull is a favorite place to see it. Many patients have no pain with the disease, but others, as in your case, do.

The pain does respond to some of the medicines used for arthritis — the anti-inflammatory medicines such as Indocin. These medicines do not stop the progression of the disease.

But there are three medicines that have been used to help slow the disease or reverse it. They all act differently, but all slow down bone resorption. These medicines are the calcitonins (the Food and Drug Administration has approved a synthetic preparation called Calcimar), diphosphates, such as EHPD or diphosphates, such as Mithramycin. While these may not cure the disease, they may prove to be quite helpful in arresting it.

St. Anthony's organization plans social, shower

St. Anthony's Women's Organization met Tuesday evening for the November meeting.

Doris Morgan, a local registered nurse, gave a program on home health and life-line. She said that life-line is a system in which elderly people can notify the hospital in an emergency. The system should be installed at Deaf Smith General Hospital by December, and applications will be taken soon afterward.

Following the program, the business meeting was held. The food drive for needy families is scheduled for December.

Refreshments were served by Mary Schlabs, Martha Lueb, Linda Briones and Nancy Caperton.

The next meeting will be Dec. 4 during which a social and shower is planned for the Catholic Family Services Maternity House.

Larry Holmes predicts 'Bonecrusher' to fall

By TIM DAHLBERG
 AP Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A testy Larry Holmes, upset with knockout predictions made by James "Bonecrusher" Smith, says he'll dispose of the challenger within five rounds Friday in their scheduled 15-round heavyweight title bout.

"You'll be knocked out; I promise you," an angry Holmes told Smith during a Wednesday press conference. "You can even call the round, but make it before five because you won't last past that."

Holmes, who turned 35 last week, scoffed at Smith's claims that he was too old and would be stopped, vowing to punish the challenger for his pre-fight talk.

"I can get him drunk and dance with him and then when I want to kill him, I'll kill him," said Holmes. "I'm that good at that; I'm a real boxing champion."

Holmes' trainer, the veteran Eddie Futch, said riling up the undefeated

International Boxing Federation champion is not to Smith's advantage.

"I'm with Larry every day and I know the intensity he develops when someone like Bonecrusher comes on like he's done," said Futch.

The talk didn't seem to faze Smith, who is such an underdog that bookmakers in this gambling city have refused to put up a line on the fight. The only bets being accepted on the bout are on whether or not it goes seven rounds.

"He's been a great champion but his time has come," Smith said. "When I knock him down, he won't get up."

Sutter tops player list in today's draft

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

For Sale: One relief pitcher. Credentials: A record-tying 45 saves and a minuscule 1.54 earned run average last season.

Price: More than just money. Oh, Bruce Sutter won't come cheaply in today's free agent draft. Of that, you can be sure. But teams simply waving fistfuls of cold cash under his nose might just get the cold shoulder in response.

That's because Sutter doesn't need the free agent draft to get wealthy. Salary arbitration took care of that a long time ago.

There was a time when the master of the split-finger fastball was just one of baseball's working stiffs, toiling for a merely mortal salary with the Chicago Cubs. In 1979, though, he had the great good sense to win the Cy Young Award at a time when his three-year contract permitted him the right to re-negotiate terms for its final season or go to salary arbitration.

Arbitration is baseball's version of Russian roulette. The rules are simple. The two sides present their figures and their arguments to the arbitrator. He picks one or the other. There is no compromise, no in-between.

The Cubs offered $350,000, a sizeable and, they felt, a generous increase over Sutter's previous salary. The pitcher asked for double that — $700,000.

The gun was loaded. After swallowing hard, the Cubs made their argument and Sutter's side made theirs. The arbitrator listened and decided in the pitcher's behalf.

Bang! Just like that, Sutter was thrust into baseball's high-rent district, hardly a familiar neighborhood for the pitcher who grew up in Lancaster, Pa., surrounded by the simple way of life in Amish country.

The shellshocked Cubs lived with the arbitrated terms for one year and then shipped Sutter to St. Louis where Whitey Herzog had a blank check to spend Gussie Busch's brewery money in constructing a winner for the Cardinals.

Herd battles for playoffs

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

The regular season for District 3-5A football teams winds up this weekend, Hereford and Tascosa today at 7:30 p.m.

Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo is the site where the 6-3 Hereford Whitefaces meet the 2-6 Tascosa Rebels. The Herd still is battling for a playoff berth but can control its own destiny only to a certain extent.

The Herd must win in order to have a chance at post-season play, but Palo Duro, which hosts Coronado Friday, must also lose.

Hereford football coach Jerry Taylor his players would have their hands full with the Rebels and couldn't afford to think about what might happen on Friday.

"We're out of it anyway if we lose," Taylor has said.

Tascosa football coach Duane Huey knows his team already is out it, winning only one league game this fall. However, that league win came at the expense of Coronado last week as the Rebels ground out 244 yards on the ground in a 28-10 win.

In Tascosa's game against Coronado, senior running backs Arthur Guerrero and Wood Norvell ran the ball for 135 and 121 yards, respectively.

Hereford countered that total by last week turning its second-best rushing game, 131 yards.

Taylor said Tascosa may be a much better football team than people think. The Herd boss pointed out that three of the Rebels losses were to district champ Plainview, Palo Duro and Amarillo. He pointed out Plainview beat the Rebels by 14 points, Palo Duro by eight and Amarillo by 14.

In last week's game, Tascosa did not yield a first down the entire second half.

Taylor said a tremendous challenge in front of the Herd would be to move the ball tonight. Tascosa's defense is very strong, he added.

The playing status of Hereford noseguard David Parsons was questionable as late as Tuesday. The 199-pound senior reinjured his ankle last Friday against Monterey and was not to workout Tuesday, Taylor said.

Taylor said Wednesday, however, that Parsons would play. Just how long or how much, Taylor wouldn't say.

Regular Season Ends

Senior Doug Owens, a backup quarterback for the Hereford Whitefaces, takes a snap from center during workout Wednesday afternoon at Whiteface Stadium. Regular season play ends tonight for the Herd at Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium when Hereford meets the Tascosa Rebels in a District 3-5A ball game at 7:30.

YMCA to hold volleyball meet

A consolation volleyball tournament is to be sponsored by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA Nov. 15-17 at the Church of the Nazarene, 1410 La Plata Drive.

According to an announcement by YMCA director Weldon Knabe, matches will begin each evening at 6:30 p.m. in three divisions: Coed A, Coed B and open women's. If not enough teams enter the coed divisions, all teams will be combined into an open division, Knabe said. Six teams must enter for a division to make.

Fee is $20, and deadline is Nov. 13. Entries should be mailed to Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, Sugarland Mall, Hereford, TX, 79045.

Admission at the door for players and spectators is $1. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

For more information, contact Knabe at 364-6990.

In a 1906 game between the Reds and Phillies, Cincinnati won the game, 10-3, without any player in the infield or outfield getting an assist.

Dickerson grabs offensive honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Running back Eric Dickerson of the Los Angeles Rams is the National Football Conference Offensive Player of the Week and defensive end Richard Dent of Chicago took defensive honors for games played last weekend.

Dickerson, who led the National Football League in rushing with 1,808 yards as a rookie in 1983, took over the league leadership last week when he carried 21 times for a career-high 208 yards in the Rams' 16-13 victory over St. Louis.

Dent, an eighth-round draft choice in 1983 out of Tennessee State, was credited with 4½ sacks in the Bears' 17-6 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders. Dent's 12 sacks lead the NFC.

Can employees be forced to work?

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a case pitting freedom of religion against separation of church and state, the Supreme Court is being asked to uphold laws protecting workers who want to observe their religious Sabbath as a day of rest.

The court is expected to announce by July whether it will reinstate a Connecticut law that had barred businesses from demoting or firing employees who refuse to work on their Sabbath.

The case is among several on the current court agenda dealing with sensitive church-state issues.

The Reagan administration and the state of Connecticut are supporting two religious groups that on Wednesday defended a state's right to forbid on-the-job retaliation for observing the Sabbath.

"You're doing something cruel to the individual to deny him a religious day off," said Nathan Lewin, a lawyer for the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs and the American Jewish Congress.

The groups are financing a Supreme Court appeal on behalf of the estate of the late Donald E. Thornton, who was demoted by Caldor Inc., a New England department store chain, when he refused to work on Sundays.

Lewin argued that the invalidated Connecticut law imposed a legitimate economic burden on Caldor Inc. in protecting the worker's right to practice his religion.

Thornton, a Presbyterian who died in 1982 at age 41, was told in 1979 he could not be excused from working Sundays as a supervisor in the Caldor Inc. store in Torrington, Conn. The store required its managers to work one of every four Sundays, although lower-level workers were exempt from Sunday work under their union contract.

Caldor first offered to transfer Thornton to another store, an hour away in Massachusetts, that was closed on Sundays. Then it said it would demote him from his job as manager and cut his hourly pay from $6.46 to $3.50.

Thornton filed a grievance against the company with the state board of mediation, which ordered him reinstated with back pay and benefits.

But last year, the Connecticut Supreme Court said it was unconstitutional to force businesses to honor the Sabbath.

The Jewish groups that appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court are concerned that the Connecticut court ruling might threaten Jews in their traditional Saturday observance of the Sabbath.

Before 1975, Connecticut prohibited stores from being open on Sunday.

When it repealed the Sunday closing law, the Connecticut General Assembly also passed a law declaring that employees may not be forced to work on their Sabbath.

The state law goes further than the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which requires employers to make accommodations to allow workers to observe the Sabbath if it can be arranged without "undue hardship" to the business.

DEAR POLLY — I bought an old house in which I've started to remove wallpaper, but there are five layers! What can I use to take all the wallpaper off? — MRS. P.Q.

DEAR MRS. P.Q. — The easiest way would be to rent a wallpaper steamer. Check with a paint and wallpaper store, hardware store or local equipment rental outlet for a steamer and follow their instructions in its use. If you can't find a steamer or would rather not use one, try this method:

Score the wallpaper with a matte knife at six- to 10-inch intervals in long diagonal lines. Try to cut through all the layers of paper, but be careful not to cut into the underlying wall. Then soak the paper with hot water. A sponge is handy for this, and a sponge mop with a long handle will make the tops of the walls easy to reach without a ladder. Scrape and peel the paper off after the water has softened it. The scoring allows the water to penetrate to all layers of paper.

It's a messy job, but care and persistence will pay off! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's a Pointer

for using those empty bread bags and miscellaneous plastic bags people save. Use them for picking up small garbage and emptying ashtrays when cleaning house. Saves time and trips to the kitchen wastebasket. — KATIE

DEAR POLLY — It was between paydays when a disaster struck our carpeting. It was necessary to rent a steam cleaner, but in an attempt to cut the cost of a defoamer (it usually takes two bottles at $3.25 each for our entire home), I came up with this substitute. I removed the old box of baking soda from my refrigerator, mixed one-fourth cup soda with one cup cool water and poured it into the defoamer tank. It worked and cost me nothing! For spot cleaning, I added white vinegar to the cleaning water to help deodorize and clean better. — ROBERTA

Solidarity leaders urged new controls

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leaders are urging Poles to demand that the Communist government clamp down on the secret police in an effort to curb "political terror."

A statement signed by 18 senior officials and advisers of the outlawed labor federation was made public Wednesday, a day after government officials said three secret police officers were charged with murdering pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko.

Popieluszko, a popular 37-year-old Warsaw priest, was abducted Oct. 19 and police pulled his body from an icy reservoir in northern Poland 11 days later.

The Solidarity statement was dated Saturday — the day of Popieluszko's funeral in Warsaw which 250,000 mourners turned into a pro-Solidarity rally.

The statement said the detection of Popieluszko's killers was not enough to curb "the terror used by the authorities' apparatus of repression against Polish society."

The appeal called on the public "to exert constant pressure by all legal means on Polish authorities to suppress political terror and bring the whole Interior Ministry apparatus under social control." The Interior Ministry operates the secret police.

Food airlift for victims underway

ASSAB, Ethiopia (AP) — The four-engine Royal Air Force Hercules lumbered to a stop, the back door already open like the jaws of a whale.
In seconds, a team of Ethiopian stevedores, most wearing only shorts and no shoes, sprinted through the swirling dust to the back of the plane. A truck loaded with Canadian wheat pulled up at the gaping maw of the aircraft's cargo hold.
Five stevedores scrambled atop the truck and began piling the 110-pound sacks onto the backs of about 25 fellow workers who ran up a ramp into the belly of the plane.

It was 8:45 a.m., and RAF Hercules No. 186 was on its first run of the day. Its job was to bring food from this Red Sea port to the towns of Mekelle and Axum in Tigre Province, where people are suffering from drought and famine.
By 9:05 a.m., the four-turboprop transport, in camouflage green and gray, was roaring down Assab's dirt and gravel airstrip with 11 tons of wheat lashed to the floor of its hold. It headed northwest to Mekelle.

"From doors open to doors closed — 14 minutes," Warrant Officer Gerry Hynes, the loadmaster, shouted over the engines' noise. "We spent more time taxing."
Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union are among countries taking part in an international airlift to speed food to an estimated six million people pushed to the brink of starvation in this communist nation.

On the 40-minute flight to Mekelle, some of the young RAF crewmen, perspiring from helping heft the sacks of grain, stripped down to shorts and olive-drab undershirts.
At Mekelle, the capital of Tigre Province, the drill was much the same.
Seconds after the plane's wheels were down, the crewmen unslashed the heavy nylon netting that secured the three piles of sacks and had the wheat ready for unloading when the plane rolled to a halt on the desolate airstrip.
While the plane's engines were kept running, to avoid any problem with a restart, Ethiopian teams clambered aboard and began transferring the sacks, in the screaming noise and heat of the engines' backwash, onto a truck donated by West Germany.
Within 30 minutes, the empty Hercules, trailed by a plume of dust, lifted ponderously into the sky and headed back to Assab for another load of grain. This time the Hercules would ferry around 15 tons of grain to the town of Axum, an ancient capital where Menelik 1, son of the Queen of Sheba, established the Ethiopian empire.

At Mekelle, a group of journalists who flew with the RAF Hercules rode to a collection of emergency feeding centers atop a truckload of Canadian powdered milk which had just arrived at the airstrip on a vintage Ethiopian DC-3.
Relief officials estimated that 36,000 people have gathered at Mekelle for food, driven from their small farms in the countryside by two years of crop failures.
Tesfay Kidane, supervisor in Mekelle for the government's Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, estimated that, for the past six months, 50 people a day — or a total of 9,000 — had died of starvation there.
After its trip to Axum, RAF Hercules No. 186 flew back into Mekelle at around 3:20 p.m. with a second load of wheat for the feeding centers. This time it was able to carry 18 tons because much of its fuel load had been consumed.
"It's been like clockwork," said the pilot, Flight Lt. Nigel Watson, as the plane headed back to Addis Ababa, the capital about 325 miles to the south.
As the Hercules circled Addis Ababa's Bole Airport in the slanting rays of the late afternoon sun, the 12 RAF crewmen, tired from their 5 a.m. start, declared themselves pleased with their day's work.

Help a friend get through the day without a cigarette. They might just quit forever. And that's important. Because good friends are hard to find. And even tougher to lose.

The generic share of all U.S. drug sales has increased sharply — from 11 percent in 1978 to nearly 20 percent in 1983. It's expected to keep climbing as patents lapse on many profitable drugs, enabling generic manufacturers to duplicate them at lower prices.

Congratulations sent to Reagan

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Reagan's landslide victory over Democratic candidate Walter Mondale was the top story of the day in Mexico Wednesday. Some news organizations suggested the re-election will lead to increased U.S. involvement in Central American fighting.

The official news agency Notimex said in an analysis out of Washington that "the next four years will be crucial politically for this country and it remains to be seen if the magic and the force of the personality, which secured President Reagan's re-election, will take the country where the voters want."

In a letter addressed to "Distinguished Mr. President and Good Friend," President Miguel de la Madrid sent his congratulations to Reagan on Wednesday. He also sent congratulations to President-elect Daniel Ortega in Nicaragua, winner of Sunday's election there.

"It is my pleasure to send you sincere congratulations from the country and the government of Mexico on your clear election victory," de la Madrid wrote to Reagan.

"It is the desire of my government and Mexico that, during the next four years, your conduct brings prosperity and good will for your country and that the road to international cooperation and peace is strengthened," the message said.

The presidential office released the texts simultaneously.

Mexico has been one of the staunchest friends of Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government. The Reagan administration is supporting rebels fighting to overthrow it and has denounced the Nicaraguan elections as a farce because of the election boycott by the major opposition to the Sandinistas.

De la Madrid wrote to Ortega that the Nicaraguan elections "reflect the determination to carry forward the nationalist proposals of democratization which inspired the Nicaraguan revolutionary process."

The major Mexico City daily newspaper Excelsior printed a three-panel editorial cartoon hinting that Reagan is now free to involve the United States more directly in the war in Nicaragua.

The first panel depicted a hand raised in victory and the words "The Sandinistas won democratically in Nicaragua."

The second panel also depicted a hand raised in victory, but it was covered by a boxing glove carrying the initials R.R. Next to it were the words, "Ronald Reagan won democratically in the United States."

The last panel showed an empty boxing ring and the words, "Everything is ready for the big fight."

The Reagan administration has provided aid for rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government, saying it is justified because, among other things, the government has close ties with Cuba and the Soviet Union.

In an editorial cartoon predicting the victory Tuesday, Excelsior said, "The large part of the world would vote against Reagan, but the large part of the United States will vote for Reagan ... which goes to show the majority doesn't always win."

The newspaper Novedades said in an editorial Wednesday that, "Many of us hope that Reagan's victory isn't a blank check of power that will be paid by dangerous military adventures."

In a cartoon next to the editorial, Reagan is pictured holding a giant nail-spiked club over the head of Ortega, who won Sunday's election for president in Nicaragua.

Benjamin Lopez Vazquez, head of the Migrant Farm Workers Union, told Excelsior Wednesday that the fight against the so-called Simpson-Mazzoli immigration control bill in the United States will have to continue because Reagan and the laws supporters were re-elected.

But Pablo Emilio Madero, head of the major opposition party National Action expressed optimism over the re-election Wednesday.

"We have had a relationship with Reagan for four years and we hope that his open policies continue to look for solution to the problems that exist between Mexico in the United States," Madero said in an interview with The Associated Press. "We feel also that an effort must be made in Central America to find true democracy."

Madero, whose conservative party is constantly at odds with the ruling Institutional Revolution Party, noted that U.S. election results were known the same night, whereas in Mexico it normally takes a week to get official results.

Reagan's Texas landslide impressive

AUSTIN (AP) — President Reagan has the know-how to make long-lasting political use of his latest landslide win, according to a Texas veteran of a presidential landslide that fell apart not long after the election.

"Reagan is an unusually popular president. He wears well," said George Christian of Austin, who served as President Lyndon Johnson's press secretary. "He got millions of Democratic votes. He will use that popularity. He and his people know how to do it."

With 99 percent of the Texas vote tallied, Reagan led Democrat Walter Mondale 3,395,417 to 1,923,329. That meant 64 percent of the state vote went to the GOP incumbent.

The national result was similar to Johnson's 1964 blitz of Republican Barry Goldwater. But Reagan's mandate had greater "staying power" than Johnson's because Reagan already has had four years to establish his power, according to Christian.

Johnson's win came a year after he replaced President John F. Kennedy. Christian said Johnson moved quickly after his win, aware that his popularity would fall. Eventually, the Vietnam War forced LBJ not to seek re-election.

"He was a wise old political candidate from a long time back. He knew that popularity doesn't last. You've got to do what you want as quickly as you can," said Christian. "He used it very quickly to get most of the Great Society passed in 1965."

A look at Tuesday's Texas vote shows just how popular Reagan is in the state.

— He carried all regions of the state, including the Panhandle with 75 percent, North Central Texas with 67 percent, East Texas with 59 percent, the Upper Gulf area with 63 percent, South Texas with 56 percent, Central Texas with 62 percent, West Central Texas with 72 percent and West Texas with 68 percent.

— He carried three of the eight counties with the highest September unemployment rates. Reagan took 53 percent of the vote in Cameron County, where unemployment was 13.3 percent. He took 70 percent of the vote in Garza County, with a jobless rate of 13.6 percent. Reagan pulled 58 percent of the Terrell County vote, where unemployment was at 13 percent.

"We Serve"

...is the motto of Lions International, and the Hereford Lions Club has made that slogan a reality since it was chartered here in February, 1929 with 24 members.

The club has grown to 150 members and support for other organizations and groups has increased from several hundred dollars a year to $15,000 to $22,000 a year.

The Lions Club Carnival is one of the club's major fund-raising projects, starting in 1935 with a net of $297. That project is now netting about $12,000 a year to be used for worthwhile programs and activities. A Girlstown Auction, Pancake Supper and a weekly charity game are other big projects. Wrestling matches were a major attraction and money raiser from 1949 through 1980, and the club also invested some $40,000 in the Bull Barn during those years.

Hereford Lions Club presented $13,250 to six organizations here yesterday during a "Super Wednesday" program at the Community Center.

Receiving Checks

On behalf of the club, B.J. Gililand, club president, presented checks for $5,000 each to the Senior Citizens Association—received by building committee chairman J.O. Robinson and Hereford YMCA—received by president Rick Brown; $1,800 to the United Way—received by director M.D. Gentry; $500 each to Operation Good Shepherd program—received by director Eloise McDougal and Girlstown, U.S.A.—received by Marshall Cooper, executive director; and $450 to the American Heart Association—received by director Troy Waddell.

The Lions put in 5,100 man-hours during the 1983-84 year and distributed approximately $22,000 to 29 worthwhile groups, organizations or agencies.

A list of organizations receiving Lions Club checks the past year included: Kings Manor, Kids, Inc., American Cancer Society, Leader Dog for the Blind, Boys Ranch, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Texas Lions Crippled Children's Camp, Hereford Day Care Center, Operation Good Shepherd, American Heart Association, Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board, Girlstown, U.S.A., Camp Fire, Inc., United Way, Hi Plains Eye Bank, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Hereford Satellite Center, Hereford YMCA, Boy Scouts, Community Concert Association, Hereford Young Farmers, Hereford Senior Citizens, Hereford Chamber Singers, Camp Wig Wam, Lions International Foundation.
