Reagan mum about proposed tax plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although he ordered the Treasury Department to find a better way to tax Americans, President Reagan is keeping mum about whether he'll support the newly released plan.

And without that strong backing, congressional leaders say any such overhaul of the tax code is doomed.

"If this is just Don Regan's tax plan, it is the biggest trial balloon since the Hindenburg," said Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., referring to the German airship that crashed in flames in New Jersey in 1937.

"What we must have is Ronald Reagan's tax plan," Jones said shortly after Regan, the treasury secretary, unveiled on Tuesday the long-awaited proposal that cuts tax rates while doing away with a variety of deductions and other tax breaks.

Said Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., co-author of a tax simplification plan, "The question is really going to be whether the president will be willing to take on the special interests and propose a (tax reform) bill."

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., whose House Ways and Means Committee must originate any tax legislation, agreed the White House must use its political muscle to get it through Congress.

"Without quick and vocal support from the White House, the plan will lose its momentum," he said.

But Reagan withheld his approval. "All of us will need time to study the entire document," he said in a written statement. "We are willing to listen to the comments and suggestions of all Americans, and especially those from the Congress, its leaders and members of the tax-writing committees."

Regan made

Indeed, Regan, who spelled out his proposal in a series of appearances around Washington, said the plan "was written on a word processor. It can be changed."

Special interest groups, immediately opening fire, hope it will be.

Lane Kirkland, president of the AFL-CIO, charged the proposal is "unfair to working people and their families." And David Richards, who heads the National Association of Realtors, argued the plan is "anti-savings, anti-investment and anti-homeownership."

The study dates back to January when Regan in his State of the Union address directed the department to come up with a simpler and fairer tax system.

The result: a "modified flat" tax plan that would lower tax rates while scrapping a wide-range of popular deductions and tax breaks.

"We have sought to see to it that all families with a given income should pay approximately the same amount of tax," Regan told reporters.

The Treasury estimated that 78 percent of American taxpayers would pay less or the same under the plan. The rest would pay more.

Service concerned with irrigated water

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

While soil erosion caused by West Texas winds has always been a prime concern of the Soil Conservation Service, conservation of irrigation waters has become a priority for the local office.

The Ogallala Aquifer could be called lifeblood of Deaf Smith County, the major source of irrigation waters for the thousands of acres of grain and vegetables grown here each year. The SCS is not alone in its efforts to slow the rate at which the water table is dropping.

"The SCS has targeted this area of the Ogallala Aquifer to receive additional monies for personnel, training and equipment to assist in water conservation," explained Jaime Neeper of the Hereford SCS office.

From March until September of last year, the local SCS staff conducted 36 pumping plant efficiency tests on irrigation well motors. Results of the testing help a farmer determine how much energy and money he can save by bringing his pumps up to maximum efficiency.

"There were a lot of examples where relatively minor, inexpensive alterations have saved the farmer a lot of money," claimed District Conservationist David Webster. The SCS measures fuel consumption, well yield in gallons per minute and the pumping depth to determine the overall efficiency of a well.

Of the 26 electric and 10 natural gas motors tested, the SCS recorded an average of 366 gallons per minute of water being pumped. GPM ranged from 126 to 704.

The draw-down depth, according to Neeper, ranged from 168 to 675 feet for an average of 275 feet.

An average of the electric motors

Now priority for local SCS office

tested revealed an average of 32.9 kilowatts per hour of electricity consumed. Cost per hour ranged from 79 cents to $3.23, for an average energy cost per hour of $2.48.

The average amount of natural gas consumed was 902 cubic feet per hour for an average cost of $3.65 per hour. Costs ranged from $1.30 to $6.30.

Watering costs per acre inch, Neeper calculated, were an average of $2.96. Potential savings, determined by identifying pumping plant inefficiencies, ranged from $408 to $11,520 per grower per irrigation season.

Ditch evaluations were another summertime project for the SCS crew. While cost-sharing funds are available to farmers who wish to use underground irrigation pipeline instead of open ditches, the irrigator must show that he can save at least 10 percent in water usage to be eligible for the funds. SCS is helping farmers make that determination.

"Farmers with lighter, sandier soils had no problems qualifying," according to Neeper, "but ASCS and SCS information showed that farmers with heavier, pullman soils could not save 10 percent."

SCS workers performed those evaluations by measuring the amount of water needed to fill a 2,100-foot-long freshly-dug ditch, then measuring the amount of water siphoned out to determine how much was lost due to evaporation and infiltration.

The purpose of the testing is primarily to provide the farmer with accurate information, SCS stresses. "We don't make decisions for them, we just give them the information," Neeper said.

"With the pumping plant efficiencies, I don't suggest they switch from gas to electricity," Webster pointed out. "We don't know what the long term trend is on energy costs."

A variety of irrigation, efficiency tests are provided free by the SCS; they can be reached for an appointment between 7 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the office on W. Third Street in Hereford.

"Farmers are doing a better job with irrigation," Neeper claimed. "They are acutely aware of the water shortage."

Jail equipment bids lower than first time

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Detention equipment bids for the proposed $1.55 million Deaf Smith County Jail renovation project were acknowledged Tuesday afternoon by county commissioners.

It marked the second time this year such bids had been opened. On May 31, Southern Steel of San Antonio submitted the only complete offer; it said the work could be done for $487,000 within 435 days.

Commissioners failed to act on that bid when subsequent general contractor offers pushed the project's price well over the budgeted funds. In July, county officials visited with Gondeck and Associates - the San Antonio firm in charge of the project - to see if cost reductions could be made.

Revised architectural plans were formulated and, earlier this month, bids were once again requested for detention equipment and general contractors. The latter cost estimates are to be turned in next Tuesday by 2 p.m., when once again commissioners are to gather for a bid opening session.

Southern Steel submitted its second detention equipment bid for the jail project Tuesday, this one for $377,000 and containing a 345-day completion estimate. Also bidding was Willo Products. The Decatur, Ala., firm offered to do the work in 240 days for $398,000.

Plot reveals U.S. target

ROME (AP) - The foiled plot to bomb the U.S. Embassy in Rome has reinforced reports that the Islamic Holy War terrorist organization may be aiming at American targets beyond the Middle East, a Western intelligence source says.

The source, who has access to secret reports on the case, said the bombing plot indicated that the shadowy organization, known in Arabic as Jihad Islamic, has broadened its target list to Western Europe.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, described the plot as "pretty much the work of amateurs" but praised Italian and Swiss police who cracked the case for "a brilliant Willo made an offer in May, too, though since it did not contain a timetable for embed work it was judged unacceptable. A figure of $588,000 was offered in that incomplete bid, which claimed detention equipment work could be accomplished within 270 days.

Commissioners Austin Rose and James Voyles, along with County Judge Glen Nelson, Tuesday afternoon all voted in favor of acknowledging the two bids. Commissioners Bill Bradley and Bruce Coleman did not attend the special gathering.

Renovation of the county jail, as outlined by Gondeck last summer, is to involve two phases. The first is adding a 30-by-30-foot recreation facility to one side and an expanded holding area to the other. Remodeling of the current structure represents the bulk of the second phase.

According to Nelson, the general contractor bids submitted by next Tuesday afternoon will not immediately be acted upon. Rather, they will be acknowledged as were the detention equipment offers.

"Gondeck will go back and go over them (the bids) and make their recommendation to us," Nelson explained. Both cost and time estimates are to be considered in the commission's final decision, he stressed.

Last year, commissioners issued $1.5 million in certificates of obligation to fund the renovation project. Changes were requested by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards, which threatened to otherwise close the detention facility or reduce its inmate capacity.

Initial offers for the project were all more than $300,000 above the allotted funds. On June 14, commissioners learned the lowest bid for combined detention equipment and general contractor work was $187,000.

Siamese operation ends today

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Surgery to separate infant Siamese twin girls who were joined at the breastbone was completed early today after an operation of about 20 hours, and the babies were reported in "critical but stable" condition at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

"There was no indication that it didn't go well," hospital spokeswoman Linda Westerlage said at 4:35 a.m. CST, moments after being informed that the marathon operation by two surgical teams had ended.

The twin girls, who also shared a liver, diaphragm and part of their small intestine, "are back in the nursery area, the neonatal area. They have left the operating room."

A news conference was set for "about 9 a.m.," at which time more details of the operation would be provided, she said.

"Needless to say, the doctors are very tired. It was just such a tedious process. I do not know the exact time they finished," Ms. Westerlage added.

Violence costs $300,000-plus

DALLAS (AP) — Inmate violence cost the Texas Department of Corrections at least $319,078 in outside medical expenses during the first 10 months of 1984, according to a report by the TDC staff.

The report, presented to the state Board of Corrections on Tuesday, noted that all of the medical billings for October had not been received. It included costs for hospital care, doctors and helicopter flights of injured inmates from prison units to the prison system's hospital in Galveston.

The summary noted that 207 inmates had received medical care from outside the prison system. At least 366 stabbings and 23 homicides have been recorded this year in a record year for violence in Texas prisons, according to prison spokesman Jay Byrd.

In other board business, it was disclosed that a Dallas consulting firm will prepare a report to be used by the TDC when the agency makes its spending requests before the 1985 Legislature.

State prison Director Raymond Procnunier, speaking at the board meeting at Love Field, said the study would "augment our staff and give credibility" to appropriations the TDC plans to ask for next year.

Aerial spraying rules supported

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A hearing on proposed stricter control of aerial spraying of crops drew support from residents who fear pesticide poisoning but opposition from farmers concerned about the additional red tape and legal liabilities to be thrust upon them.

About 400 people attended Tuesday night's fifth and last hearing on the Department of Agriculture's proposed pesticide rules.

The regulations, which Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said will become law in revised form within two weeks, would require advance notice of pesticide applications by farmers to farmworkers, neighbors and anyone who could be exposed to the chemicals.

The rules also would restrict farmers, farmworkers and other people from re-entering fields sprayed with a few specific, highly toxic chemicals.

Ground applications, plant nursery and urban spraying apparently will be exempted under the rules. In most cases, the notifications will have to be made to a handful of neighbors, said Craig Bryant, the department adviser on farm credit.

Artificial heart still beating

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William Schroeder's eyes filled with "gratitude and hope" as his wife and children gently put their hands on his chest to feel the artificial heart that has beat almost 300,000 times since it was implanted three days ago, Schroeder's doctors said.

"This is the first two to three days in something we hope will be a year or two years," Dr. Allan M. Lansing, who assisted at Schroeder's mechanical heart implant, said Tuesday.

"The thing I see in his (Schroeder's) voice and in his eyes is gratitude and hope — gratitude that he's had another chance, hope that he's made it over the first hurdle," said Lansing, chairman of the Humana Heart Institute International, where the surgery was performed.

Speaking for the first time since Sunday's surgery after a breathing tube was removed Tuesday morning, Schroeder asked for a beer, and Milwaukee radio station WTKI sent a case to the hospital, officials said.

Pacific storm hits Northwest

A Pacific blizzard packing 80 mph winds barged east today after dumping up to 16 inches of snow, knocking out power to 35,000 homes, stranding scores of Oregon hunters, closing interstate highways and sending San Francisco skyscrapers swaying.

Three people died in traffic accidents Tuesday blamed on the weather.

Blizzard and near-blizzard conditions gripped the mountains of Northern California, Washington and Oregon for up to 18 hours on Tuesday, but the storm was trudging east today, aiming at Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Colorado, said Paul Fike, a meteorologist with the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in K City, Mo.

The storm has "still got quite a bit of punch left," Fike said early today. "There's still some good snowfall."

Norden, Calif., had a foot of snow on the ground today, and 3 inches had fallen at Kalispell, Mont. On Tuesday, 10 inches fell in 24 hours at Meacham in northeast Oregon. Up to 16 inches was reported in the Oregon and Washington Cascades. A foot fell on California's Mount Shasta.

U.S. executives leaving Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A fatal bombing outside the U.S. Embassy and death threats from drug traffickers angered by a crackdown have prompted many American executives and embassy employees to leave Colombia.

Authorities believed the bombing on Monday, which killed a Colombian woman and injured six men, was a warning by drug dealers determined to use intimidation to end official U.S. and Colombian efforts to wipe out the multi-billion-dollar cocaine and marijuana industry.

"Kidnappings by guerrillas have always made it touch and go down here, but the threats by drug traffickers and the bomb at the embassy yesterday are the last straw," said an American executive of a major U.S. company's office in Colombia.

"The chairman of the board told me to get the hell out of here right now," said the American, who, like others interviewed by The Associated Press on Tuesday, spoke on condition his name not be used for fear of reprisals.

An AP News Analysis

By JIM LUTHER AP Tax Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department's far-reaching proposal for overhauling the federal income tax would produce little immediate simplification for most taxpayers.

The changes might bring slightly lower taxes for some, put taxpayers with equal incomes on more nearly equal tax footing and eliminate some provisions that discourage productive investment. And it would make things simpler for some upper-income taxpayers.

But most Americans would see little difference in how they file their tax returns.

That's because for most people, the federal tax system is not nearly as complicated as the picture painted of it.

Consider these facts:

—Of the approximately 96 million returns filed in 1983, 16 million were the one-page Form 1040EZ. Filing out this form requires nothing more complex than adding income, subtracting the $1,000 exemption, subtracting up to $75 for charitable contributions and looking at the tax tables to figure out how much tax is owed.

—Another 19.8 million returns were on the two-page Form 1040A, which also requires completing parts of Schedule 1 for interest and dividend income, the child-care credit and the special deduction for two-earner couples. It is not nearly so simple as 1040EZ but it is not complex.

—The remaining 61 million filed the long Form 1040, but fewer than 33 million of those itemized deductions.

Of those 33 million, as many as 15 million itemized only to write off the interest on their home mortgages, local property taxes or charitable contributions. The fatter standard deduction and exemptions and less-generous deductions proposed under the Treasury plan might induce 11 million or so to stop itemizing.

That leaves perhaps 18 million couples and individuals who might be considered to have complicated tax returns. But in most cases, the complexity arises from those taxpayers' choosing to get involved in complex investments and other financial arrangements.

The Treasury plan might, however, lead to real simplification for the average taxpayer sometime in the future. The Internal Revenue Service is working on a long-range proposal that eventually might allow most people to forget about the annual chore of filing a tax return.

Computers at the IRS would simply scan the reports it already receives from employers and banks on wages and interest paid and taxes withheld. If the taxpayer went along, the computer would calculate the tax liability and mail a refund check or a dun.

Treasury says a test of that ultimate simplification could begin before 1990.

EDITORS NOTE: Jim Luther covers the Internal Revenue Service and tax legislation on Capitol Hill for The Associated Press.

Tax plan outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, are the key elements of the Treasury Department's plan to overhaul the tax system:

INDIVIDUAL BRACKETS: The current 15 to 16 tax brackets, ranging from 11 percent to 50 percent, would be trimmed to 15 percent, 25 percent, 35 percent.

For singles, the first $2,800 of taxable income would be tax free. Between $2,800-$19,300 would be taxed at 15 percent; $19,300-$38,100, 25 percent; over $38,100, 35 percent.

For couples filing jointly, the first $3,800 of taxable income would be tax free. Between $3,800-$31,800, 15 percent; $31,800-$63,800, 25 percent; over $63,800, 35 percent.

CORPORATE RATES: A flat 33 percent would replace the graduated system that now goes up to 46 percent.

PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS: Would double to $2,000 from the current $1,000.

ZERO TAX BRACKET AMOUNT: Would climb from the current $2,300 for singles to $2,800; for $3,400 for joint filers to $3,800; and from $2,300 for heads of households to $3,500.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS: The maximum contribution to a tax-deferred IRA, now $2,000 for a worker and $250 for an unemployed spouse would be raised to $2,500 each. A couple could put aside up to $5,000 a year in an IRA.

HOME MORTGAGE INTEREST: Current deduction would be retained.

OTHER INTEREST PAYMENTS: Would limit to $5,000 the writeoff for other kinds of interest.

MARRIAGE PENALTY DEDUCTION: Would be repealed. Currently, the law allows a deduction of up to $3,000 for two-earner couples.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION: Would become fully taxable.

CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS: Would be retained for only the amount that exceeds 2 percent of adjusted gross income.

HEALTH INSURANCE: Employer-financed premiums exceeding $175 a month for a family plan would be taxed, $70 a month for singles. Other worker fringe benefits, including group term life insurance and education aid, would be taxed as wages.

STATE AND LOCAL TAXES: Deduction would be repealed.

Desegregation efforts won't halt, officials say

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston school officials say a federal judge's decision to dismiss a desegregation lawsuit against their district will not lessen their efforts to ensure integration.

U.S. District Judge John Singleton, the fifth federal judge to hear the 28-year-old lawsuit, dismissed the suit Tuesday after approving a settlement reached among the Houston Independent School District, the U.S. Justice Department, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

"I don't think things will be that much different," said school board President Tina Reyes. "We're going to continue to do the kinds of things right for kids. There's a commitment already on the district's part to provide equal access and quality education."

The lawsuit was filed in 1956 on behalf of two black students, Delores Ross and Beneva Williams, seeking to attend all-white schools nearest their homes.

Kelly Frels, a lawyer for the school district, said the judge's action was the "only thing left in the case."

"It's a very positive step for the city that we've reached the point where this litigation is ending after 28 years," Frels said. "This is just the end result of a long process."

Representatives of all sides said enforcement of the settlement is now their main concern.

Black community leaders said they will closely monitor the 22-page settlement, set to expire in 1990.

"I am basically pleased," said Frank Burns, local NAACP director. "We labored very hard to reach the terms in that agreement."

Burns said the NAACP will appoint its own committee to monitor the district's compliance.

The settlement provides for a seven-member committee to monitor student achievement and to receive an annual report on the district's compliance.

He also said the planned attack was "like in Beirut" but declined to say specifically that it involved a truck bomb, the trademark of Islamic Holy War's attacks.

An eighth Lebanese man was arrested in Switzerland, allegedly with explosives, and the intelligence source linked him to the other seven.

Islamic Holy War, believed to be linked to the Shiite Moslem regime of Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has claimed responsibility for a string of attacks against U.S. installations in the Middle East in which hundreds of Americans have died.

The deadliest was the October 1983 bombing of the U.S. Marine compound in Beirut, Lebanon, and the most recent was the Sept. 20 truck bombing of the U.S. Embassy annex north of Beirut that killed 16 people.

Some investigators believe Islamic Holy War is a code name for a variety of Shiite Moslem terrorist groups.

An anonymous telephone caller claiming to represent the group told a Western news organization in Beirut on Nov. 4 that "our young men are always ready to attack U.S. interests wherever they may be."

Big Cities

If you have any tears to spare, please note: Some people are going to have to live all their lives in New York City...

...and then go to hell, besides!

Crime in Chicago is such that vast areas of the city are a no-man's-land for outsiders.

Columnist Roger Simon will have moved to Baltimore by the time you read this, but he lived long enough in Chicago to develop a tolerance for society's antibodies—you'd think.

Yet, his recent visit to New York City made Chicago seem civilized.

And the manners, morals and mores of New York City demand ventilation if only because, almost inevitably, they are exported to Chicago and Los Angeles and, eventually to Waxahachie, Kokomo and Cucamonga.

Roger describes Manhattan as "a Third World country," where you don't expect things to work, you don't expect people to be nice and where you don't dare attract attention to yourself.

Look crummy. Never wear jewelry on the street. Going to a party, take your good clothes in a brown paper bag and change after you get there.

After eating in a restaurant, and signing the credit card slip, he was advised to tear out and tear up the carbon paper — in tiny pieces — so that thieves going through the garbage would not be able to steal his number and duplicate his signature.

There are only two places in the United States where Federal Express couriers will not go. Anywhere else, it "absolutely, positively will get there overnight." But they will not deliver to the desolate Mojave desert. And they will not deliver to the crime-ridden Bedford-Stuyvesant asphalt jungle of Brooklyn, N.Y.

A Manhattanite may pay $300 a month just to park his car and even then be required to give the attendant 45 minutes' notice before taking it out. And that motorist still considers himself lucky if the garage is within 10 blocks of home. And if you take a Corvette to New York City, wherever you park it, kiss it goodbye.

Roger found New Yorkers intensely proud of their misery. The month's favorite joke asks, "How many New Yorkers does it take to change a light bulb?"

And the answer is, "None of your blankety-blank business!"

On a parkside deli on 59th Street the sign in the window says, "English spoken here."

Even there, however, there are two words no New Yorker seems to understand: "Good day!"

Cooking program given to Valeda members

Valeda Study Club met Monday evening in the home of Margaret Zinzer for a program by Marcella Bradley on cooking.

Bradly opened by asking each member to give her favorite spice and then read an article on pepper. She concluded her program with a tasting bee in which members judged various dishes including appetizers, main dishes and desserts.

For the business portion of the meeting, members answered roll call with "your wildest cooking experience when you first started cooking." The group agreed to become members as a club of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Ruth Fish was presented and accepted for membership.

Members also agreed to contribute to the Hereford Christmas Stocking Fund as well as to the Foster Parents' Christmas Fund.

The next meeting will be for the Christmas party Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. in

Local girls notch district victory

Defense offsets shooting in win

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

AMARILLO -- The Hereford Whitefaces may not have shot well, but it was good enough.

Good enough to record a District 3-5A victory over the Tascosa Rebels Tuesday night, 45-37, in high school girls basketball. The Whitefaces hit only 37.3 percent of their field-goal attempts, but relied on a 1-3-1 pressing defense to create turnovers and cause the Rebels to take poor shots.

A relieved Hereford coach Larry Sowers said he was proud of his team's defensive effort.

"If our defense doesn't make things happen for us, we're in sad shape," he said. "Our press was really important for us, especially since we weren't shooting well. It was important for us to get ahead early."

The Rebels' field-goal percentage was even lower than the Whitefaces', however. Tascosa hit on 27.6 percent of its shots from the field.

The ball game was within striking distance for the Rebels throughout the night. However, Hereford always led except for early in the game.

With the Whitefaces trailing 2-0, Hereford guard Natalie Sims stole the dribble from a Tascosa player, took off for the Whiteface goal, pulled up about 6 feet short and hit a jumper to tie the game. Sims missed a foul shot, but when Hereford got the ball back, Shelly Edwards hit a 12-foot shot to give the Whitefaces the lead for good.

"Natalie was getting some good shots," Sowers said. "Some of our players are going to have to get adjusted, though. We didn't execute tonight."

Edwards turned in the high-point production of the evening with 14 points. In capping those game-high stats, Edwards hit a blazing 70 percent of her attempts. Sims had 10 points.

Stacey Smith had 11 points to lead Tascosa, the only Rebel to get into double figures.

Hereford led at the end of the first half 24-16, thanks in part to some strong offensive rebounding. The Herd had 12 offensive boards in the first half alone.

"We've had some injuries that hurt us," Tascosa coach Debra Schuelke said. "We were playing with inexperienced people. We played as many as three sophomores at one time, and they had only been working out with us since Monday."

The injuries to which Schuelke was referring were to 5-8 junior Florence Nelson and 5-7 senior Marcia Mitchell. Both underwent knee surgery Tuesday morning. Mitchell may be back this season, but Nelson has been lost for the year, Schuelke said.

Mitchell was District 3-5A Player of the Year in 1983, and Sowers said he had been preparing his team all week to face the Tascosa forward.

"We expected to see Mitchell," he said. "When I found out she wasn't going to play, I was worried about how it would affect us. But I think after getting ready to play against her, our kids were kind of let down."

But even without Mitchell, the Rebels began closing the gap between their score and the Whitefaces' the last half.

"They were bombing us when we were in that zone (the first half)," Schuelke said. "Finally, I went to a man-to-man defense and press."

Although trailing by seven at the end of the third quarter, the Rebels pulled to within three the final period. Smith hit a bucket from inside the lane with 6:33 remaining to cut Hereford's lead to 32-29. In addition, Smith was fouled on the play and had the chance to pull her team to within 2.

Smith missed the free throw, however, and Sims hit a 16-foot set shot at the other end. Hereford extended its lead from there.

The Whitefaces built their 8-point halftime lead on an 8-3 scoring advantage he last 4:40. Edwards hit two buckets in a row, the first one after snatching a blocked shot rebound and the second on an inside hook. Bernice Ross canned an inside shot after grabbing an offensive board as did Lori Niblet, and Sarah Fish put a shot through the cords from the side at about the 6-foot range.

Niblet injured her ankle after Stacie High put Hereford up by 7 in the fourth at the 4:10 mark. Niblet didn't play the remainder of the game, but finished with four points.

"I feel good to be 1-0 in district at this point," Sowers said. "Now we've got three or four non-district games in the Levelland tournament (Thursday-Saturday) before we play a league game again. I hope we can work on some things and be ready for the next district game."

Hereford suffers first loss

Boys victims of Pampa, 59-57

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Despite a spirited late comeback try, the varsity boys basketball team from Hereford High School suffered its first loss of the young season Tuesday night.

Visiting Pampa High School went ahead midway through the second quarter and never again trailed on its way to a 59-57 victory in the HHS gymnasium.

The defeat dropped Hereford to 2-1, a mark now shared by the conquering Harvesters.

By connecting on his fourth straight free throw with 2:33 left in the contest, Jeff Gaines put Pampa up 58-51. Three unanswered HHS buckets by Mike Scott, Kevin Redus and Blair Rogers cut that margin to one point with 1:05 showing on the clock.

Following a PHS timeout with 43 seconds to go, guard Paul Simpson handled the ball for most of the next 20 seconds before being called for traveling. Down 58-57, Hereford took over with what would be its final chance to win.

With 10 seconds left, Scott took the ball on the left baseline and vaulted a 12-footer. It proved to be an errant attempt, as were five of his six other field goal tries in the second half. Gaines pulled down the rebound and, with :04 showing, Simpson connected on a free throw to account for the game's final point.

Hereford's subsequent inbounds pass, intended for Rogers, deflected off his head to a Pampa player.

"The kids didn't give up," HHS coach Mike Fields said over the telephone this morning. "There at the end we just couldn't put the ball in to put us ahead."

Gaines paced the PHS second-half effort, grabbing six boards to go along with 12 points. The Harvesters' leading scorer, though, was Rodney Young. All 13 of his tallies came during the tilt's first 16 minutes.

Sammy Suarez, who sat out the last part of the fourth quarter, threw in a dozen points and had six rebounds. Other Whitefaces hitting for double figures were Redus with 11 and Rodney Torres 10. Redus also latched onto a game-high 12 boards.

Fields said he thought it was the best game his team has played this season. Last year, he pointed out, the Harvesters mauled HHS by 36 points in Pampa.

One factor working against the Whitefaces, Fields claimed, is the absence of star Lee Brockman. The senior forward is expected to be out a couple of weeks with an ankle injury. It is "questionable," the coach said, whether Brockman will be ready for the Amarillo Tournament Dec. 7 and 8.

Tuesday's non-district matchup began well for Pampa, which never trailed in the first quarter. Its biggest lead in that stanza was 13-7. With two seconds left, Suarez drilled a 12-foot jumper from the right side to make the score 16-13.

A flurry of points by Suarez and Torres enabled HHS to boast a 24-21 lead with a little more than four minutes remaining before halftime. Two consecutive 18-footers by Richard Rogers, however, pulled Pampa on top for good.

The half ended with PHS up 34-31. That margin increased to 12 when, 5:05 into the third quarter, Gaines threw in a rebound to make it 46-34. The stanza ended with Hereford scoring seven straight points and trailing 48-45.

That deficit was cut further early in the final quarter when Bobby Baker hit from five feet out in the lane. With 7:33 to go, however,

Suarez missed two free throws which, if successful, would have put HHS ahead.

Prior to the varsity showdown, the HHS jayvee team upended Pampa 43-42.

LANDRY

He cited the challenge of getting the Cowboys back to the Super Bowl as the No. 1 reason.

Normally, Landry waits until the end of the season to announce his plans. But he decided to break with tradition on Tuesday to put down numerous rumors about his departure.

"It's time to lay to rest all the rumors about my retirement," Landry said. "I'll be back next year."

Landry said he could sign a contract for "a couple of years or something like that."

Club President Tex Schramm was delighted and said Landry can have as many years as he wants.

Landry said, "I used to sign contracts in the 10's (of years) and then it was down to the 5's and now it's down to 2 or 3. That's the reasonable thing now."

GIRLS

Hereford players and their point outputs were: Edwards, 14; Sims, 10; High, 7; Darla Alford, 6; Niblet, 4; Ross, 2; and Fish, 2.

Hereford now is 1-0 in district play, along with Amarillo and Monterey. No scores from the Plainview-Palo Duro game were available.

In junior-varsity action, Tascosa downed Hereford 48-35, despite Lana Kosub's 9 points. Felicia Redman had 8 and Tiffne Taylor 7 for the Whitefaces, also.

Landry has a record of 242-139-6. He trails only the late George Halas (325-151-31) in victories.

Only Curly Lambeau, who coached the Green Bay Packers 29 straight seasons, has coached an NFL team more consecutive years than Landry.

"I have always enjoyed the challenge of bringing a team into contention," Landry said. "There is a great challenge with the Cowboys now. We have a great nucleus of players."

The Cowboys, who play in Philadelphia on Sunday, are 8-5 and tied with Washington and the New York Giants for the lead in the National Conference Eastern Division.

Dallas has managed to stay alive in the race although the offensive line has been ravaged by injuries.

Landry said he would like to be around long enough "to see the Cowboys at a high level and back in the Super Bowl. I just made the decision in the last couple of weeks."

He said he didn't make the announcement as a motivation factor against the Eagles.

"Some (players) might not think so much of it," Landry joked.

Asked if he wanted to coach the Cowboys another five years, the 60-year-old Landry said "I'd hate to think about five years from now. Right now I'm just going day to day."

Schramm welcomed the announcement, saying he was discussing details with Landry that will make him among the highest paid coaches in the profession.

"We've never had any problems with contracts," Schramm said.

"A contract has never been a big issue," Schramm said. "Tom and I have always understood each other."

The Cowboy ownership underwent a change last spring with Clint Murchison selling a majority share to Bum Bright.

"It was only human nature for Tom to wonder what was going to come out of it," Schramm said. "It was a hectic time. You could say that indirectly this is a show of confidence on Tom's part that the organization is solid."

Landry also announced on Tuesday that the Cowboys had decided to cut punter John Warren for the third time.

The move made room for free agent guard Syd Kitson, who was cut by Green Bay earlier in the season.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Foot odor

DEAR DR. LAMB — Enclosed is a copy of your column that changed my son's life and made our lives more bearable. John is 26 years old and, ever since high school, he has had unbelievable foot odor. This was a subject of jokes and ridicule in the school locker room.

When I did the laundry, the whole clothes hamper and contents would reek with the odor. You could always tell that he was home from work and had removed his shoes. The entire house smelled. Sometimes his socks were stained with a pale-yellow fluid and the soles of his feet were dead white.

He made the rounds of foot doctors and dermatologists and spent a fortune on special foot powders.

When I read your column, I called our doctor and asked for pHisoHex soap. The first day, he bathed his feet twice in the pHisoHex. He came down at bedtime and said there was no odor when he removed his shoes. That was three weeks ago. He continued using it, and there is no odor or seepage. The dead-white skin is beginning to rub off and the skin of his feet is starting to look healthy.

The clothes hamper has been sunned and aired, as has his bedroom, and all his blankets washed. The upstairs is starting to smell of clean air and not pine oil or aerosol spray. Thank you for all of us.

DEAR READER — I am delighted to hear that your son was able to eliminate his foot-odor problem. All the washing and usual hygienic measures that he took will not eliminate bacteria that live under the surface of the skin. Normal soaps will not remove these. About the only thing that does work is a bactericidal soap that penetrates the skin, such as pHisoHex. Once the bacteria are killed, the odor they create will disappear.

Nomination deadline set for 'Woman of the Year'

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office is now accepting nominations for the Women's Division "Woman of the Year." Deadline for nominees is Dec. 15.

The woman announced as "Woman of the Year" at the division's quarterly meeting scheduled in January must be a member of the Women's Division. Individuals are asked to submit a list of accomplishments and participation in civic activities for the nominee.

However, if persons do not have a complete list of the nominee's involvement, they are encouraged to go ahead and turn her name in as the committee will further research the person.

Bud to Blossom donates books for memorial for one-time member

Bud to Blossom Garden Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Betty Hughes.

A new member, Marcie Ginn, was welcomed by Pat Robinson, president. Tracey Duncan gave the committee report on the memorial to honor Cora Gentry, a member of the club for 20 years who recently passed away. Two books were selected to be donated to the public library in her name. These books are "A color Notation" by A.H. Munsell and Interpretive Design" by M. Benz.

Reports were given by those attending the northern district zone meeting in Berger hosted by the Phillips Garden Club. Programs on poisonous and medicinal plants were enjoyed by Bud to Blossom's delegates. Those attending were Robinson, Donna Johnson, Kim Lappin and Wilma Bryan.

A wreath-making workshop will be held Thursday in the home of Tracey Duncan, 145 North Texas at 9:30 a.m. Those interested may call 364-8010 if they would like to attend. Everyone must bring their own supplies. Instructions will be given.

Public invited to tour homes

The public is invited to tour three Hereford homes during La Madre Mia's Annual Home Tour scheduled from 2-5 Sunday.

Tickets are priced at $2 per person and may be purchased from any club member or at the doors of the homes to be toured. A door prize will be awarded and refreshments will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Gearn.

Georgia Sparks, home tour chairman, explained that proceeds from the event, which has been held annually for approximately 15 years, go to various community projects, local organizations and to assist needy families.

Homes to be exhibited include the Harlan Barbers' house at 110 Rio Vista Drive; the John David Bryants' home at 112 Kingwood; and the Tim Gearn's residence located on West Harrison Hwy.

La Madre Mia Club members participating in the home tour are Joyce

Allred, Carolyn Baxter, Frances Berry, Jeri Bezner, Ruth Black, Francyne Bromlow, Bryant, Janis Faulkner, Sara Hazelrigg, Mary Herring and Sharon Hodges. Also, Gladys Merritt, Bettye

Courthouse Lighting Ceremony set Monday

The Courthouse Lighting Ceremony is scheduled for Monday evening at 6:30.

The annual event, set to last not more than one hour, is sponsored by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce. Betty Drake, president of the division for 1985, will give the invocation and Arvella Lauderbach will welcome those who have come to see the event.

The Chamber Singers will perform and then lead the community in singing Christmas carols. After the songs, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will make their appearance, passing out candy canes to all the children.

Everyone is encouraged to come and get in the Christmas spirit for the holidays.

Two sports that ban left-handers are jai-alai and polo.

Family Keepsakes

Taffeta pillows trimmed in old lace and ribbon are among the many keepsakes which may be viewed at the Harlan Barbers' home, 110 Vista Drive, during La Madre Mia's Annual Home Tour set from 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Helen Barber, at left, looks on as club member, Jeri Bezner, examines one of the pillows made by the Barbers' daughter-in-law Sharon Barber.

Rehearsing

Chamber Singers rehearse in preparation for Sunday's Christmas concert at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Everyone is encouraged to attend the performance which is the organization's gift to the community.

Chamber Singers to perform concert

"For Unto Us a Child is Born" and "Twas the Night Before Christmas" are just two of the songs which may be heard Sunday when the Chamber Singers present their annual Christmas Concert at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The performance is divided into two sections with the first half being religious Christmas songs. The second part will consist of secular carols with solos, ensembles and instrumental pieces. Children of the group's members will appear in the second half along with Santa Claus. Santa will be available after the show for all of the children to visit with.

The concert, scheduled to last one hour, will also include "Gloria," "Away in a Manger," Rhapsody of Christmas, "Jingle All the Way" and "Christmas in the City."

The organization is directed by Bill Devers with Elva Devers as accompanist. Jan Walsler will play a solo on the piano, "Joyful, Joyful," and Ray Jenkins, violinist with the Amarillo symphony, will also perform.

Everyone is invited to this concert which is given at no charge.

Threat of regional war growing

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda said Tuesday the risk of a regional war in Central America is growing and "the necessary balance" to the search for a peaceful solution there could be threatened.

In a strongly worded statement to the Mexican Senate, Sepulveda conceded that negotiations spearheaded by Mexico and the three other countries that form the Contadora group are "experiencing difficult moments."

"The complexity of the process is broadened before the introduction of new elements, which could break the necessary balance," he said in his required report to the Senate.

"In any event, actions contrary to understanding, broadening (of the dialogue) and the failure to follow through increase the responsibility of governments involved in the crisis, which are facing history and the world conscience."

It was a clear reference to the efforts of U.S. allies in Central America to change a proposed Contadora peace treaty for the region that Nicaragua said it would accept.

The Contadora group was formed by Mexico, Colombia, Panama and Venezuela in January 1983. Its peace plan would commit the five Central American nations to hold open, democratic elections, eliminate foreign military bases and advisers, and reduce arms shipments through the region.

Nicaragua surprised most observers by saying it would sign the treaty unconditionally. But the United States, which supports rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist government, said the treaty needs more work, and its friends in Central America — Honduras, El Salvador, Guatemala and Costa Rica — are proposing amendments.

"At no time has the Contadora group permitted inadmissible partialities or suggested disparate or unilateral commitments to any nation," Sepulveda said.

"Generalized war in Central America is a real danger," he said in the report. "The persistence of the Central American conflict implies serious risks that Mexico should not underestimate."

"The warlike escalation might result in the rupture of a regional order of unforeseeable consequences for the sovereignty and independent life of the nations of the continent. Furthermore, it might cause irreparable damages to Central American economies and societies, which the borders of these nations might prove incapable of containing."

Sepulveda said those developments would have repercussions on the Mexican economy as well as bring floods of displaced persons and refugees. More than 46,000 Guatemalan refugees already are in camps in southern Mexico.

Meetings between U.S. and Nicaraguan representatives have been taking place since June in the Mexican Pacific resort of Manzanillo.

Sepulveda said, "It is urgent that these countries reach agreement that generate mutual confidence, reciprocal respect and adhere to the law in the conduct of their relations. The entire region will benefit if these meetings are translated into tangible fruits."

Race is on for share of bonanza

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's multibillion-dollar lottery that starts this spring already has triggered what may be the biggest scramble for riches in the state since the Gold Rush of 1849.

From plush corporate suites to cluttered backrooms in corner grocery stores, the phrase "California lottery" is conjuring up a multibillion-dollar bonanza.

Lottery officials within months will award a multimillion-dollar contract for supplying gaming equipment and materials. Corporations are busy hiring powerful Sacramento lobbyists to help them land that windfall.

The commission also will be selecting thousands of vendors throughout the state to sell lottery tickets. Vendors will receive commissions and bonuses based on ticket sales volume.

Everyone from independent grocers to the biggest names in retailing have flooded Sacramento lobbyists with telephone calls about gaining permission to sell tickets.

Chain stores that have indicated interest include Safeway, with 545 food stores; Lucky Stores, which operates 427 outlets, 77 of them Gemcos; Longs Drug Stores; Thrifty Drug and Discount; Sears; and Southland Corp., the company that established 7-Eleven convenience stores.

Les Howe, of the California Retailers Association, said, "I would assume that every big retailer will be looking at this. If you don't have the participation of the major retailers, you won't have much of a lottery."

William Gass, vice president of the California Association of Independent Business Inc., said, "Obviously, this is something very big. It's of interest to everybody. It would be foolish not to look into it."

The association represents 10,000 small retail, wholesale and industrial businesses.

Public relations and advertising firms also hope to share in the wealth by convincing officials to hire them to promote the lottery, which was approved by voters Nov. 6.

People will have the opportunity to buy numbered tickets that will win them prizes if the numbers are later drawn by lot. Industry insiders say the California lottery may be the nation's largest its first year, with sales of more than $1 billion.

"A lot of folks are interested in a lot of money," said Allen Sumner, an aide to Attorney General John Van de Kamp. "This is generating a lot of new business" for lobbyists.

Sumner and other state officials are running a race of their own.

Sumner is coordinating efforts by state agencies and legislators' staffs to draft "cleanup legislation" aimed at repairing what they call flaws in the lottery initiative.

Officials hope to have legislation introduced when the Legislature begins a new two-year session next week, Sumner said.

Meanwhile, Gov. George Deukmejian's aides are too busy screening the flood of applications for the job running the lottery to provide tallies of the candidates.

They are struggling to meet a deadline in the lottery initiative that requires Deukmejian to appoint a director and five commissioners by Dec. 6.

The appointments start another clock running. The initiative says lottery officials must begin the first game by March 21.

State officials said there is ample evidence of corporate interest in the lottery.

Sumner and Parke Terry, consultant to the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee, both said they have been contacted by several lobbyists seeking information on behalf of clients who want the contract to supply lottery materials.

"All the major players within the industry have called or written letters," Terry said.

Several companies are asking that the lottery initiative be modified in their favor through legislation.

Sumner said some of the companies have lost out on lottery contracts in other states to Scientific Games

Inc., the Atlanta-based firm that financed much of the campaign for the California initiative. Competitors complain Scientific, once hired, usually wins renewal of contracts in future years.

The initiative's critics claimed Scientific Games, a subsidiary of Bally Corp., is the only firm that could supply a system and satisfy financial disclosure requirements by the deadline in California.

Scientific's competitors are hoping the disclosure requirements can be cut back to allow them a better chance, Sumner said.

"We're not going to propose that, but other companies will be asking for that" through amendments to the cleanup legislation, he said. "If you reduce disclosure, it opens the door for those who are not so legitimate to get into it."

"We'll have to roll with the punches once it's in the legislative process," he added.

De la Madrid warns he'll clean up corruption

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — While urging his long-dominant Institutional Revolutionary Party to clean out corruption within its ranks, President Miguel de la Madrid also warned that any land used for growing marijuana will be immediately confiscated.

De la Madrid and cabinet members issued the warning Monday during a working tour of the border state of Chihuahua, Mexico's largest and one of its most prosperous states. The tour was scheduled through Tuesday afternoon.

What is believed to be the largest drug bust in the nation's history took place here earlier this month.

To show he means business in the campaign against marijuana growing and trafficking, de la Madrid presided at a ceremony in Villa Aldama, a town 23 miles northeast of this state capital city.

In Villa Aldama, de la Madrid distributed among peasants 23,831 acres of marijuana-growing land the government had confiscated in the raids two weeks before.

"Aside from other criminal actions that may be undertaken, all land found being used for the illicit growth of drugs will be immediately confiscated and distributed among landless peasants," Agrarian Reform Undersecretary Rafael Rodriguez Barrera said during the rally attended by some 10,000 peasants.

Confiscated land to some 6,000 peasants.

Federal judiciary police, backed by army troops, have confiscated more than 14,500 tons of marijuana this month in a series of busts in Chihuahua and other states, plus a shipment of 760 pounds of pure cocaine worth untold millions of dollars that was being smuggled from Colombia to the United States.

In one operation in Chihuahua two weeks ago, police and government soldiers rescued 7,000 peasants working in what were said to be forced labor conditions at marijuana-growing camps. Authorities seized and burned 8,000 tons of the illegal weed.

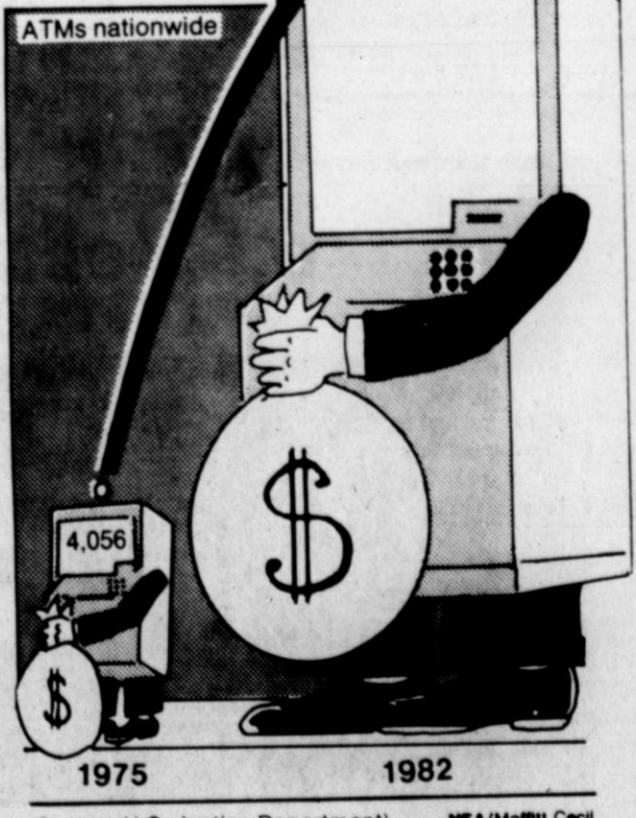

Fifteen people were arrested, but another 140 responsible for setting up the clandestine camps managed to escape, the Attorney General's Office said. Most of the peasants were questioned, identified and fingerprinted by police and then released.

The land was confiscated. In a speech at a dinner in the state capital, de la Madrid warned that "political hypocrisy ... and corruption had infiltrated" the Institutional Revolutionary Party, also known as PRI, and urged party leaders to "clean it out."

He warned party leaders he will pursue the "moral renewal" campaign to weed out the long prevailing corruption in successive Mexican administrations, a campaign he launched when he took office Dec. 1, 1982, for a

Automated tellers take over

High-tech banking is a boon to banks and to customers. This explains the popularity of Automated Teller Machines (ATMs). Banks use ATMs to speed transactions, reduce staff costs and lure customers. Many people use ATMs to shorten waiting times.

More than 37 million American adults are believed by medical scientists to have high blood pressure, the "silent killer." Nearly 32,000 deaths resulted from this disease in 1981, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

More frozen egg rolls are produced in Russellville, Ark., than anywhere else in the world, according to Chung King Oriental Foods, which makes more than 100 million egg rolls there each year.

According to Rand McNally, 74 percent of all households in the United States have a road atlas. The company adds, however, that the road atlas owned by most Americans is about three to four years old, which limits its accuracy and value as a travel and vacation aid.

In China, newly hatched silkworms are tickled with feathers to prod development. A dog's bark, a cock's crow, or a foul smell, the Chinese believe, can upset the freshly hatched worms.

Ann Landers

Consult lawyer first

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few years ago, when we lived in Chicago, a neighbor lady was struck and killed by a car. She was a lovely person and we were sick about it. The police never found the driver.

Since then my family has moved to another city. Within the last year my oldest daughter has turned into a chronic alcoholic. She has been fired from several jobs, stolen money from us, and refuses to take care of herself. A few weeks ago I caught her with pills.

I finally decided to have a heart-to-heart talk and try to find out why her life had taken such a bad turn. I was shocked when she confessed to me that she was the driver of the car that had killed our neighbor.

The girl wants to get help, but my husband will not allow it. He claims that under the law, the psychiatrist must turn her in for what she has done.

We love our daughter, but we don't want to be responsible for making her a defendant in a murder trial.

I am a faithful reader and never miss what you have to say. Please hurry and print this letter. I can't give you my name and address for obvious reasons. The last thing we need is a dead daughter.—Desperate For Help

DEAR DESPERATE: I consulted with one of Chicago's most knowledgeable and respected criminal attorneys, Edward M. Genson. He said:

"Since the laws regarding privileged information between patient and psychiatrist vary from state to state, it would be wise to consult a lawyer and learn what the law is in your state. (No—the lawyer is not obligated to turn her in.)

"In many states, subject to certain carefully circumscribed exceptions, information given to a duly licensed psychiatrist by a patient is considered privileged communication and need not be disclosed to anyone."

I hope for your daughter's sake and for yours that she will be able to confess what she has done and get right with her conscience. I am sure she did not intentionally kill the woman. Her big mistake was fleeing from the scene of the accident and keeping silent all these years.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you're fine. I am miserable. I went with "Hank" for eight years. Last December he took up with a stripper. (He has a breast fetish, as well as a weakness for dirty magazines.) After she slept with all his friends, stole money from his wallet and lifted his wristwatch, she dumped him. He came back to me.

Now (a year later), I still can't forget the hurt. Every time Hank and I have an argument, I bring up her name. I know I shouldn't but I can't help it. She has destroyed my life and made me miserable. How do I deal with these emotions?—Suffering.

DEAR SUFF: No one can make you miserable unless you permit it. Why do you give that little tramp so much power over you? Think it over.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What word is there to describe a female wimp? Surely there are women who deserve the title. But what is it?—Stumped In Va.

DEAR VA: I am stumped in Chicago. Any ideas out there?

Abundant Life

Bob Wear

THE ATMOSPHERE of competition is very real and will probably continue to be and, in some aspects of living, must be taken into consideration and dealt with. We can handle this so that it will not be hurtful to us and, in some instances, we may even turn it to our benefit.

On the other hand, if we are not very wise and understanding, it can just about overwhelm us. Some folk have a distorted view of themselves, because they are always feeling inferior to those who seem to be doing better than they. Then, there are others who are egotistical and overbearing because they are always feeling superior to the folk who seem to be doing worse than they.

Neither of these postures are desirable, because there is a better way.

YES, WE DO LIVE in a climate of competition; however, it is not wise to be evaluating ourselves solely on this basis. In our personal concept and personal evaluation, we must use another consideration. In the most important view of self, we must not make the evaluation from the measurement of ourselves by others.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT is the key to wholesome and productive personal behavior. If we insist upon some kind of competitive attitude, we should let it be competition with self. We must test and examine our own work and our own conduct, all along doing our honest best. Then, we can find the personal satisfaction and joy of doing something worthwhile, in itself alone, without resorting to the undesirable boastful comparison with our fellowman.

WE CAN IMPROVE, we can succeed bit by bit, day by day, a little as we move along until the accumulated whole will amount to a very satisfactory personal success, better than some, not as good as others but it is our own, and quite respectful and commendable.

If you like to tell people where to get off and want to be thanked for it, become a train conductor.

Are You Ready For Retirement?

Our early settlers had one common denominator -- they all worked, and they worked hard! Everyone from grandma right down to the kids worked -- and worked -- and worked.

For all it's worth, the word "retirement" couldn't have been in the vocabulary of many of our forefathers.

Today, that word, "retirement", holds a very special and deep meaning to a lot of folks.

At our bank, we offer the new Individual Retirement Account. It's a plan that helps make your retirement years all you've worked for and more. You can deposit $2,000 a year as an individual to this program, without paying any federal income taxes on the principal or the interest, until you retire. Married couples who are both working may deposit $4,000, and one-paycheck couples may deposit $2,250.

The I.R.A. program from the Bank that's pioneering new ways of service and security for you, your family and your retirement.
