County to Appoint Bull Barn 'Task Force'

MANAGING EDITOR

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, beleaguered again with the ever-present problem of how to administer the county-owned Bull Barn, Monday agreed to authorize County Judge Glen Nelson to appoint a "citizen task force" to come up with a workable plan of policies and guidelines for the structure's

About a dozen citizens showed up at the commissioner's court meeting Monday morning, urging the county to reverse a decision made last summer to prohibit dancing at the Bull Barn. The court had also been presented with a petition containing some 400 signatures at their last regular meeting two weeks ago.

Father James O'Connor, speaking for the San Jose Catholic Church Men's Organization, reiterated the church's stand that the policy is "unfair, and biased especially against the Mexican-American segment of the community.

Father O'Connor, who has lived in Hereford four years, wanted to hear the court's reasoning for making the controversial decision, and called for a vote by the court as to rescinding the order.

Nelson, speaking on behalf of the court, explained that the decision was made because "the majority of problems at the Bull Barn came about as a result of dances held there." Nelson also said that adequate control of crowds, including "frequent" outbreaks of violence, is difficult to maintain.

"I would estimate that 80 percent of our problems at the Bull Barn were eliminated when we banned dancing there," Nelson add-

Pct. 4 Commissioner James Voyles, expressing his personal opinion, stated that he didn't "feel that the taxpayers of Deaf Smith County should provide money for a place to hold public dances."

"I have been on the court eight years, and we have rewritten the Bull Barn policy time and time again," Voyles continued. "I think we gave it a pretty good shot when we tried six or seven years to write a policy, and it didn't work."

Father O'Connor told the court that the policy expressly discriminates against the Mexican-American population since they use the Bull Barn for dancing more than anyone else. "It is unjust to not allow dancing there, because there is not another facility large enough in Hereford for us to hold our dances," he said. "Other segments of the community have the facilities and means to do other things."

Garth Thomas, cochairman of last year's inagural Town & Country Jubilee told the court that in his opinion "The Bull Barn should be available to all segments of the community for legitimate functions. "And in my opinion a dance is as legitimate a function as a pancake supper, a fish fry, or stock show.

'The general public, or a significant part of it, interprets the policy banning dancing as being discriminatory against the brownskinned community, and you need to undo that," Thomas continued. "I urge you to recon-main problem is drinking, violence, and destruction that go with dancing," he said. "If you can personally show me a way to solve the problems we've had for the past 17 years with dancing at the Bull Barn I'll change my stand."

After others present made comments during the 90-minute discussion, Pct. 1 Commissioner Bill Bradly moved that the court allow Nelson to set up the ad hock committee.

"We need to come up with something both legal and enforcable," Coleman cautioned. "I'm not against dancing, but am against the problems that always come up."

Pct. 2 County Commissioner Austin Rose will remain in that position for at least another term after results of a re-count in his bid for reelection against challenger Jerry John Reyna were released Monday.

Rose, who held a 394-357 lead over Reyna following tabulation of the votes in the May 1 Democratic Primary, gained a vote in the re-count, finishing with an official victory over Reyna by a 395-357 count. He has no Republican challenger for the county court position.

In Election Re-Count

In another re-count Monday, Rumaldo Garcia and Dean Herring each qualified for a runoff for the Pct. 2 Democratic Chairman's position. Garcia received nine votes, while Herring got two. Eight others got one vote each, and since no candidate got a majority of the votes cast a runoff will be necessary.

Garcia and Herring will be listed on the runoff ballot on Saturday, June 5.

Meanwhile, British warships bombarded targets around the Falklands capital for the second day, and the British Defense Ministry reported a brief naval clash in which an Argentine ship apparently

Argentina retaliated with an announcement that any British ships or aircraft approaching the South Atlantic war zone or considered a threat to Argentine security would be regarded as "hostile" and subject to "consequences."

Britain, which last week extended its 200-mile blockade around the Falklands to within 12 miles of the Argentine coast, said the Argentine threat "will in no way affect" the operations of its task force.

British military sources said the liner Canberra arrived Monday night off the Falklands bringing 2,500 British marines and paratroopers. The sources said the liner was accompanied by five landing craft carrying helicopters, the 4,100-ton destroyer Exeter and two frigates armed with French-made Exocets, the missile that set the British destroyer Sheffield afire last

Military analysts in London said troop, tank and landing craft reinforcements due today would give the task force "all it needs" for a major landing to challenge the estimated 9,000 troops Argentina poured into the islands after seizing them April 2.

British military sources said about 100 British commandos have been on the islands for "some time" pinpointing "key targets" on East Falkland, the island where most of the Argentine forces are concentrated.

Writing from the aircraft carrier Hermes, the flagship of the British battle fleet, correspondent Peter Archer of the British domestic news agency Press Association said the bombardment Sunday and Monday "was seen as a softening-up process before an eventual landing by British troops."

Some of the destroyers and frigates of the task force moved closer to shore early Monday to shell positions around Stanley, the Falklands capital, with their 4.5-inch guns, according to reports from both sides. But there were no reports of HUNTSVILLE. Texas the Texas Commission on Jail sion. (AP) - Overcrowded Texas prisons won't let convicts in. and overflowing county jails can't let criminals out.

It's a Texas-sized dilemma pitting orders from a judge named Justice against a criminal detention system bulging from county jail to state penitentiary.

The nine-member board of the Texas Department of Corrections voted Monday to shut the doors to all incoming convicts. Board members cited U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's order to ease overcrowding, and a report that the TDC had not complied with the direc-

"We're already stacking inmates on the floor," Smith County Sheriff B.J. Smith said after the TDC decision. "I don't know where we will put everyone."

Harris County Sheriff Jack Heard, who has more than 3,100 inmates in a jail designed for no more than 2,022, said the TDC decision would cause the county to violate court orders to transfer 82 inmates to state prison.

"This is an order handed down by a board - not a court," Heard said. "They are directing us to ignore all these court orders."

TDC spokesman Rick Hartley said the board hopes to resume reduced admissions within 30 days and to have an admissions plan ready in two weeks.

But the board's announced intention was no consolation to county officials already trying to cope with badly overcrowded county jails.

"There's really not much we can do - except stop arresting people," said Nueces County sheriff's Lt. J.M. Escobar.

"We've got inmates sleeping in rented cots in the hallways," said Galveston County Undersheriff Charles Wiley, whose jail has 364 inmates but only 261 bunks. "If the (state) prison won't take them, I don't know who will."

Texas' county jails have a total of about 16,000 beds, said Jack Crump, a planner with

"We are hopeful that this will resolve the immediate problem of overcrowded conditions in the prison system, provide us time to complete permanent facilities and seek lasting solutions," he said.

TDC officials said Monday 33,917 prisoners currently are held in the 19 unit system of prisons and prison farms. About 4,000 of the prison inmates have been housed in tents in an effort to conform with Justice's order.

Although Justice's order set no specific target figure for the maximum number of inmates in the system, it issued guidelines involving, among other things, how much room each inmate must have and an end to triple celling, or putting three inmates in one cell.

County officials were most concerned Monday about what to do with their prisoners and how they could comply with court orders affecting their jails.

"The worst thing about this in our case is that we've just now accomplished what our own (local) court order called for," said Travis County Sheriff Dovne Bailey. "This really puts us in a bind."

Travis County officials said their jail was only 43 short of its court-mandated maximum of 279.

In West Texas, Lubbock and Midland county officials said they thought they would be able to handle prisoners easily for about a month,

13-Year-Old Given Maximum Sentence

For Murder Conviction

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - An Albuquerque girl convicted last month of second-degree murder just three days before her 13th birthday has been sentenced to spend up to two years in the New Mexico Girls School.

Children's Court Judge John E. Brown imposed the maximum twoyear sentence on Sheryl Trujillo Monday before a packed courtroom. Brown also recommended Miss Trujillo receive intense psychiatric treatment while confined.

The dark-haired, dark-eyed youngster remained impassive for a few seconds after the sentence was imposed and then began to cry, clinging to her mother.

Miss Trujillo was convicted April 6 by a juvenile court jury in the July 1981 drowning of an 8-year-old girl in a city-run swimming pool.

Witnesses testified during the twoday trial that they saw two or three girls repeatedly dunking, holding and sitting on Veronica Rodriguez's head while in 5 feet of water at the swimming pool.

Several witnesses also said they saw the girls watching a clock as they held the struggling child under water. Miss Rodriguez died at an Albuquerque hospital five days after the incident from what a medical witness described as "the delayed effects of

Despite Brown's sentence, a threemember Juvenile Parole Board will determine the actual length of confinement for Miss Trujillo.

Businessmen To Hear Reagan Lobby

WASHINGTON (AP) -Top business leaders are being summoned to the White House to hear President Reagan lobby for lower interest rates and congressional approval of the Republican budget alternative.

About 100 businessmen were scheduled to see the president over a three-day period starting today. They also are getting pep talks from budget director David Secretary Donald Reagan.

"The major thrust is for the president to appeal to leaders of the business community to help get the budget through the Senate and House," said Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman.

"Also, the president is doing everything he can do to see that interest rates are lower. He believes that is a key element in getting the economy moving."

The GOP budget plan calls for $40 billion savings in Social Security expenses and $95 billion in new taxes over three years.

On today's schedule were leaders of the Chamber of Commerce, the Business Roundtable and associations of wholesalers, contractors and cattlemen. Reagan plans to meet with financial experts Wednesday and commercial bankers on Thursday.

While prime interest rates have declined from 21.5 percent at the start of his administration to the 16-to-17percent range, Reagan said.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Aerobics classes usually happen without incident. You just drag in and do it before you wake up and realize where you are.

But this morning was different.

Someone took my "spot." It's one of those things where you know someday it will happen, but you're never really prepared for it when it Actually no one is assigned to any one place. It's all on a first-come-first-served basis, but you "spot" is "understood" like your row at church or your booth in the restaurant where you eat lunch every day. Mine is the best spot in the whole room. Back row, right next to the door. You get a breeze from the fan, you don't have to worry about bumping into someone behind you and it's right next to the water cooler. I eyed it for months and when the woman who had it before moved to Pittsburgh, I moved right in. College was all "open seating," yet wherever we sat on that first day, we sat for the rest of the semester. No one would have dared take my place in History of Russia (8 a.m., Mon. Wed., and Fri.). They all knew I was working on a tan and needed the Eastern exposure. I promised myself I wouldn't get paranoid about staking off unmarked areas as my own ever since I used to ride the bus. I got on at the Loop and for four years rode in the same seat, left hand side, four back, window. I cannot tell you the frustration I felt when I boarded the bus one day and discovered another person in "MY SEAT!" Of course, I don't get upset about those things now that I'm older and more mature. Someone took "my parking spot" the other day at the grocery and it hardly bothered me at all. What can you expect when you see a bumper sticker from someone who's against the school levy? Hey, I don't own the spot, right?

Besides, it's not really important. It's not like I'm a seal in mating season. If someone doing aerobics in "my spot" for an hour upsets me, then I've got a problem. It's all so silly. I mean, it's not worth getting excited about. And it's certainly not worth doing a whole column on!

Otis Lifts Royals

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Amos Otis is as patriotic as any other American, but you'll have to forgive him if he doesn't go around whistling "The Stars and Stripes Forever" for a while. Leading off the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night, Otis jumped on the first pitch from Milwaukee relief ace Rollie Fingers and sent soaring it in the general direction of Interstate 70. It might have become the first fair ball to be hit out of Royals Stadium, but it hit about two-thirds of the way up the flagpole behind the left-center field fence, giving the Royals a 3-2 victory over the Brewers.

"It's a shame it hit the flagpole," said Royals Manager Dick Howser. "That ball had a legitimate chance to get out of this stadium. That is the hardest ball I've ever seen Otis hit."

In other American League games, Boston downed Minnesota 9-5, Chicago White Sox the Toronto 6-3, California edged New York 2-1, Detroit Tigers beat Texas 3-1, Oakland nipped Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings and Seattle turned back Cleveland 6-4. Otis' homer made a winner of Vida Blue, who scattered six hits. A two-run homer by Kansas City's John Wathan tied the score in the third inning. Milwaukee scored in the first on Robin Yount's double and in the second on Mark Brouhard's homer. Red Sox 9, Twins 5

Jim Rice drove in three runs and rapped out three hits, including a two-run homer, as Boston won its third game in a row and 17th in the last 20. Minnesota has dropped five straight and 18 of 23:

The Red Sox exploded for six runs in the third inning. Rich Gedman opened with his first home run of the season off loser Roger Erickson. One out later, Jerry Remy singled, Dwight Evans doubled and Rice drove in a run with a single. Carl Yastrzemski followed with a double that scored Evans. Trainers, Doctors Urge Leonard to Quit Ring

Washington Post.

BALTIMORE (AP) - The flood of get-well messages following Sugar Ray Leonard's eye surgery has included advice from fighters and trainers that the world welterweight champion retire from boxing.

"I wouldn't fight, I wouldn't risk my eye," said Roger Stafford, who had been scheduled to fight Leonard Friday night in Buffalo, N.Y. "Ray's made it, he shouldn't fight anymore."

The 25-year-old champion was listed in good condition at Johns Hopkins Hospital today where he continues to recuperate from weekend surgery performed to repair the detached retina in his left

Get-well telegrams poured into the hospital Monday, where the switchboard was flooded with calls, including one from President Reagan, who spoke with Leonard.

Doctors who performed the two-hour operation on Sunday say it's too early to predict whether Leonard will fulgy regain the vision in his left eye. But Dr. Ronald G. Michels, the ophthalmologist who headed the surgical team, said he was optimistic that Leonard would be fully recovered in four to six mon-

Several fight trainers and doctors, meanwhile, publicly urged Leonard to give up his boxing career.

"I hope and pray that he does retire," said David Jacobs, one of Leonard's early trainers. "He doesn't have to fight to survive and he has time to do something else."

Dr. Bernhart Schwartz, a veteran ringside physician in Los Angeles, said Leonard "would be crazy to fight again."

'He would be in real danger of going blind in that eye," Schwartz told the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. "Outside of brain damage, a detached retina is as serious as any injury a fighter can receive.'

Former heavyweight tinues to fight. Shavers' champ Floyd Patterson also urged Leonard to retire. "Once you have created a weakness in the eye, it could very easily happen again," told the Patterson

"It ain't never going to be as good as God made it," said Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, a sports medicine expert and a boxing consultant for NBC. "The world is full of old fighters who can't see right."

Pacheo said the nature of boxing would prevent a full recovery and increase the likelihood of another detach-Leonard's doctor, however.

said there would be little danger of another retinal detachment if the eye fully recovered from the surgery. Several years ago, Michels successfully repaired a damaged retina for boxer Earnie Shavers, who conretina was more seriously detached than Leonard's,

Mets 'Pinch' Padres

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

For the second straight game, the New York Mets pinched hard — and this time it hurt the San Diego Padres.

"Pinch-hitting is the hardest thing there is in baseball," said Bob Bailor after doubling home two runs with two out in the last of the ninth inning to lead the Mets to a dramatic 3-2 victory over the Padres Monday night. "I've only done it once before this season, and I can't recall the last time I got a hit as a pinch-hitter."

On Sunday, the Mets beat the San Francisco Giants 6-5 on a tie-breaking home run with two out in the ninth by pinch-hitter Rusty Staub.

Bailor hit a 2-2 pitch from Gary Lucas — a slider — down the left-field line at Shea Stadium to drive in Ellis Valentine and Wally Backman. Valentine had singled to open the inning and moved to second on a groundout by Staub. Lucas intentionally walked George Foster, and Backman ran for Foster.

"I wasn't looking for any particular pitch with the count 2-2 on me," Bailor said. "All I was looking for was a ball to hit."

Randy Jones, 4-2, scattered seven hits and gave up only one earned run while beating the team for which he once won the Cy Young Award.

In other National League action, Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 9-8 in 10 innings, Houston trimmed Pittsburgh Phillies 9, Dodgers 8

Pete Rose singled home Greg Gross from third base in the 10th inning to lead Philadelphia over Los Angeles. The game-winning hit atoned for an error by Rose in the first inning that led to two Dodger runs.

With one out in the 10th, Gross drew Philadelphia's 10th walk of the game and stole second. Bob Dernier then singled just past the outstretched glove of Ron Cey at third as Gross stopped at third. Rose then hit a 3-2 pitch off reliever Steve Howe for

Lakers, Spurs Resume Conference Title Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) -The eyes of the Los Angeles Lakers will be on San Antonio's high-scoring duo of George Gervin and Mike Mitchell as they enter the second game of the Western Conference championship series tonight.

Los Angeles holds a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series after taking a 128-117 decision over the Spurs on Sunday in the National Basketball Association playoffs. "Gervin and Mitchell are gonna get theirs" as far as points, Laker Coach Pat Riley said.

But, he added, "It's important for us to contain the guys

NEW YORK (AP) -Gaylord Perry of the Seattle Mariners, who notched his 300th career victory last Thursday night, has been named American League player of the week, league

President Lee MacPhail said. The 43-year-old Perry became the 15th player in baseball to win 300 games when he beat the New York Yankees 7-3 at Seattle. Perry scattered nine hits to beat New York in his third complete game of the season. NEW YORK (AP) - Jason Thompson, the Pittsburgh Pirates' first baseman, has been named National League Player of the Week for the second straight week, league President Chub Feeney said. Thompson hit .550 during the week ending on Sunday with 11 hits in 20 at-bats and six RBI.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Filipino flyweight boxer Andy Balaba died after undergoing brain surgery for injuries suffered during a fight, a spokesman for the National Medical Center reported. Balaba was 28.

The Mindanao native had been in a coma since undergoing four hours of neurosurgery for a hemorrhage in the left side of his brain received during a 10-round non-title bout with Korean fighter Shin Hee-Sup in Seoul.

Balaba was knocked down once in the ninth round and twice in the 10th before referee Kim Chae-Keun of Korea, stopped the fight at 2:35 of the last round.

that live off of them." The Lakers couldn't completely contain the Gervin and Mitchell on Sunday, as the two combined to score 59 points. Los Angeles did hold Gervin to eight in the first half and Mitchell to nine in the second, but Gervin finished with 34 and Mitchell with

Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar adds, however, that the Lakers have more than just Gervin and Mitchell to worry about as the Game 2 approaches.

'San Antonio is a very physical team and can score any time they like. If we don't get a good defensive effort from the team, we won't win the series," the 7-foot-2 veteran said.

After whipping Phoenix four straight, the Lakers had some rest time while San Antonio measured Seattle four games to one.

"I feel the layoff really did help us," Riley said. "The first win was important for momentum. We have to win at home to keep our home court advantage. It's going to be an interesting series."

the game-winning hit. Warren Brusstar, 2-1, pit-0-1, took the loss.

7-3, Cincinnati beat St. Louis 3-1 and Montreal edged San Francisco 5-4.

Los Angeles also received a first-round bye, making this series the second time in the championships that the Lakers had a break while their opponents continued to The winner plays in the points for the Lakers in Game 1, but the surprise came from Bob McAdoo. He came off the bench to score 21 and contribute good defense, a part of the game for which he is not noted. "Our inability to contain McAdoo coming off the bench really hurt us," said Spurs' Coach Stan Albeck. "If we're going to do anything in the series, we will have to find an answer to him."

Albeck said he didn't know the answer, but added, "We will find one. We just have to work harder. McAdoo was shooting with rhythm. When we first played here and he was new, I think he lacked some confidence. I think that time has passed."

The Dodgers rallied for six runs in the eighth to tie the game 8-8. Two of the runs came in on a single by Mike Scioscia.

Astros 7, Pirates 3

Ray Knight doubled and tripled in the first two innings as Houston built a five-run lead and cruised past Pittsburgh.

After Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead, Knight's double triggered a two-run first for the Astros that was capped by Art Howe's two-run single. Knight's two-run triple off Rick Rhoden, 1-4, keyed a four-run uprising in the second as the Astros took a 6-1 lead.

Don Sutton, 5-1, went the distance to record his first complete game of the year and only the Astros' second. The veteran right-hander allowed nine hits, struck out six and walked none.

Sutton has beaten Pittsburgh 26 times in his career.

Reds 3, Cardinals 1

Johnny Bench's solo home run capped a two-run rally in the first inning, leading Cincinnati over St. Louis. Frank Pastore, 4-2, Joe Price and Tom Hume combined on a seven-hitter for the Reds, with Hume earning his seventh save.

Bench's homer, the 366th of his major league career, came off John Martin, 3-4. Bench scored his second run of the game in the ninth to nail down the victory. Expos 5, Giants 4

Tim Raines' two-out double off the glove of San Francisco third baseman Tim O'Malley drove in the go-ahead run and capped a three-run Montreal rally in the eighth inning.

Consecutive throwing errors by Montreal pitcher Charlie Lea and left fielder Terry Francona had helped the Giants to a three-run seventh inning and given them a 4-2 lead. The Expos tied the game with two outs in the eighth on Dan Norman's two-run, pinch single. Raines then hit a shot down the left field line that caromed off O'Malley's glove and brought home Chris Speier from third base with the decisive run.

Celtics Expect 'Different' Philly By HOWARD ULMAN AP

Sports Writer BOSTON (AP) - How badly did the Boston Celtics beat the Philadelphia 76ers in the opener of their National Basketball Association semifinal playoff? The 40-point bulge in Sunday's 121-81 romp was eight more than the total margin of the Celtics' seven previous victories over the 76ers.

There was still 3:11 left in the third quarter when Gerald Henderson's layup gave Boston its 82nd and 83rd points, more than Philadelphia would get in the full 48 minutes.

The 76ers made only five of 27 field goals in the third quarter and 26.5 percent of their attempts in the second half.

How will Philadelphia do in Wednesday night's second game of the best-of-seven series? "I guarantee you, you'll see a different Philly team," said Boston backup center Rick Players from both teams agreed that the blowout would have no psychological effect in the second game, but they said the 76ers would have to make some changes.

"We might have to give up some things in this series, like making sure we keep a man back for their fastbreaks and also helping out more on defense," said Philadelphia's Bobby Jones, who went scoreless in 21 minutes in the

"We went into this (first) game and our strategy was to box out our own men, but it wasn't effective. They were getting offensive rebounds and second shots."

The Celtics had a seasonhigh total of 67 rebounds, including 25 off the offensive boards. Philadelphia's big men, Caldwell Jones and Darryl Dawkins, were handcuffed by foul trouble.

Boston held a 42-27 edge in defensive rebounds, in part because the 76ers' errant outside shooting enabled the Celtics to congregate around Philadelphia's basket.

"They're going to need somebody other than (Andrew) Toney hitting from the outside to make us play outside more," said Celtic forward Cedric Maxwell.

Boston won a physical, slow-paced series against Washington last Wednesday, while Philadelphia didn't finish its series with Milwaukee until Friday. Henderson said the 76ers may have been tired.

"I think that Washington series primed us for the rest of the playoffs, to get our big guys more physical," he said. "That's where our game is won, on the inside." Boston also was able to unleash its excellent fastbreak, which had been kept under a tight rein by the Bullets. The Celtics' starting front line of Robert Parish, Larry Bird and Maxwell produced 56 points, 34 rebounds, 10 blocks and six steals. Philadelphia's big three of Julius Erving, Caldwell Jones and Dawkins had just 19 points, 11 rebounds, two blocks and one steal.

Dawkins played 17 minutes, all in the first half. He said after the game his right leg hurt as much as it did when he broke it during the season.

Dawkins worked out Monday, however, after x-rays were negative, and he is expected to play Wednesday

Aloma's Ruler Projected Back In Preakness Picture

BALTIMORE (AP) - It won't be necessary for Nathan Scherr to take the back door into the Preakness

Stakes this year. The local contractor, last represented by a 93-1 shot in the Preakness, has a legitimate contender in Aloma's Ruler for Saturday's 107th running of the Triple Crown event at Pimlico Race Course.

"It's a different story this time," said Scherr, who admits he was hoping for fourthplace money when Dax S. competed against Triple Crown winner Affirmed and perennial runnerup Alydar in 1978. "We'll probably be the second choice to Linkage."

Aloma's Ruler, sidelined by an ankle injury after winning the Bahamas Stakes on Jan. 27, was projected back into the muddled 3-year-old picture Saturday when he won the Withers Stakes.

Scherr and trainer John. Lenzini Jr. were to make a final decision about the Preakness today, but it seemed to be a mere formality on the basis of the colt's postrace appearance.

"He looks stronger than ever." Scherr said Monday after visiting Aloma's Ruler at his barn at Laurel Race Course. "I'm not saying he's back to where he was in Florida, but he's close to it. He should make Linkage know he's in a horse race."

Linkage, who was kept out of the Kentucky Derby after winning the Forerunner and Blue Grass Stakes, is likely to go off as the favorite in the 13-16-mile Preakness against five rivals.

In addition to Aloma's Ruler, opposition is expected from Laser Light, Reinvested and Water Bank, the 2-3-4 finishers in the Kentucky Derby; and Cut Away, the winner of a race on the Derby Day card at Churchill Downs.

Three other Preakness possibilities, Shimatoree, Conquistador Cielo and Royal Captive, were declared out Monday. But not even a dwindling field could entice trainer Eddie Gregson of Derby winner Gato Del Sol.

"There's no chance he'll run," Gregson said from his barn in New York. "The size of the field and who would be there was never a consideration." With Gato Del Sol being

Aloma's Ruler was rated one of the best 3-year-olds when he won the Bahamas over a field which included Distinctive Pro and Deputy Minister, the champion

2-year-old colt of 1981. But while training for the Flamingo, Aloma's Ruler injured an ankle and did not race again until he lost by a nose in a six-furlong allowance race at Pimlico eight days before the Withers.

The Withers, at one mile, represented the longest race to date for Aloma's Ruler, but Scherr sees no problem with the Preakness distance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was absolutely shocked to read that the highest abortion rate in the United States was recorded in Iowa City, Iowa, according to the Alan Guttmacher Institute researchers.

Iowa City had 150 abortions for every 1,000 women of reproductive age. The second highest was Grand Forks, N.D., which had 103. By contrast, in Chicago the comparable figure was 33!

Since you are an Iowan, maybe you can explain why this rather small town in the heart of the Midwest came up with this dubious honor. I await your response .-- Stunned In

Pound Requirements Weigh Down Police

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. known as the Heart and (AP) - Patrolman Seth Hubbard plays racquetball, works out with weights and often walks the four miles between his home and the police station.

Yet, while his physical training program has built up the muscles on his 5-foot-10, 215-pound frame, the extra pounds have cost him two Hubbard's two-day suspension stems from an unusual and controversial weight requirement clause in the city's contract with the policemen's union. It is designed to fight heart disease and high blood pressure.

It tells overweight officers to take off pounds or be taken off the force.

Four times a year, this central Connecticut city's 56 patrolmen line up for a weigh-in. If in the January session their weight exceeds a standardized level for their height, the men and women face up to a week's suspension. They're required to hand in a weight reduction program. But after that, and although it's never happened, the officers could be out of work indefinitely if they don't lose weight. In the last three years, 32 suspensions have been handed out to police officers who were from two to 98 pounds repeating offenders. "Some of the (suspended) men have been physically fit," police union President James Marshall said recently. "The program does not address the problem." The problem for the city, explained Middletown Personnel Director Thomas F. Malecky, is potential liability under a stringent state law

Hypertension Act. The law assumes that any heart or high blood pressure diseases suffered by police or firefighters is job-related and so municipalities must pay large temporary or permanent disability benefits to those employees or their sur-

Twenty-one states have heart and hypertension acts, while Connecticut is one of three that have an "irrebuttable presumption" built in, according to Connecticut Conference of Municipalities spokesman Thomas Murphy. The other two are Maryland and Minnesota.

Murphy called the law "a costly measure." Between 1974 and 1978, 30 cities in Connecticut paid out $2.4 million on heart and hypertension claims. The cities of Bridgeport and New Haven are responsible for about $300,000 annually. Middletown, with a population of 39,000, has yet to pay out any claims, although two are pen-

The conference of municipalities recently failed in an attempt to persuade the Connecticut legislature to change the law so it would conform with most other states. Those states reason that municipalities can eliminate only those claims that clearly show the illness was caused by something other than the job.

West Haven is another Connecticut city that has instituted a weight requirement for its police officers, but Deputy Chief Michael D'Errio says it has not stirred up any controversy. West Haven's regulation allowed police officers to stay at their present weights - even if they were excessive - when the program began. New officers must meet the weight requirements.

Malecky said Middletown is not just concerned about money. A physically fit officer is prepared for the often strenuous, duties of police work, he said. The city also has a moral responsibility to the officers and their families in ensuring its employees are in good health, he added.

Marshall said the police union agrees with the city in its aims and that's why the membership has approved the weight requirement three times since 1976. But following the staggered suspension of 15 officers this spring, the union has been clamoring for a change in the requirement.

Thirteen of the officers have filed grievances with the city Personnel Board. Marshall said the union will carry the fight to state authorities, if necessary.

"They're denying me the right to stay physically fit," said the 36-year-old Hubbard, who is 15 pounds over the contract's "maximum acceptable weight" of 200 pounds for men of his height.

"Every year I get a physical from my doctor. He has yet to tell me I'm overweight," the muscular patrolman said.

Officer John Labbadia, who at 6-foot-1 is 37 pounds over the 221-pound limit, said he would like to get down to 200 pounds but doubts if he could because of his big-bone structure. Labbadia has tried losing weight in several ways, including acupuncture. A pin in his ear, he said, restricted his appetite until it came out and "I pigged out."

But, the officer said, "I'm physically fit to do the job."

Marshall is concerned about the officers who are not in shape. But he contends that the way to find them may not be on the scale, but in the gymnasium.

Pruett Denies Blades Hidden In His Shoe Were For Escape

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) - Confessed "mad-dog killer" Marion Albert Pruett denies planning an escape even though officers reported finding cuts on his cell bars and parts of a hacksaw blade in his shoe, his lawyer disclosed.

Attorney P. Zeb Jones of Jackson said Pruett called him Saturday night and reported that deputies had found the cell bars cut but "he denied any knowledge of

He added, "Pruett said, 'They just found a bar in my jail cell cut just about all the way through.' He said the window pane was also cut."

Sheriff Gene Walters disclosed Monday that officers found that bars on Pruett's cell had been cut. and that two halves of a hacksaw blade were found in Pruett's shoe sole.

"We don't have the slightest idea how he got the blade," he said.

Walters said officers discovered Friday hight that Pruett had been sawing at two bars on his third floor cell window at the Forrest County Regional Jail.

The sheriff said that while Pruett had made "a good bit" of progress in cutting through the bars, he also would have had to maneuver through unbreakable glass covering the Pruett's cell. Pruett has been moved to another cell in the jail, which houses about 170 prisoners. Walters said officers would be keeping close watch on Pruett.

'We've beefed up our security because we don't want to lose that dude," he said.

Pruett had been held in the Jackson City Jail but was transferred to the jail at Hattiesburg to await a June 21 trial in Biloxi on federal bank robbery charges.

A state court jury last month convicted Pruett of murder in the Sept. 17 kidnapslaying of Jackson savings and loan officer Peggy Lowe and sentenced him to die in the gas chamber.

Pruett, 32, admitted shooting Mrs. Lowe and also has said he has killed four people in Arkansas, Colorado and Georgia. He also is wanted in New Mexico in the beating death of his wife. He has said he went on a crime spree while high on cocaine.

"We had his jail cell raided and found no evidence," the sheriff said.

Officers didn't place much confidence in the escape report after uncovering nothing Thursday night, Walters said.

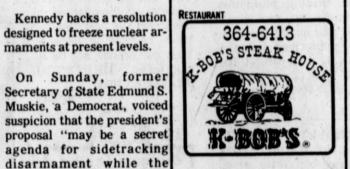

"But another little rumor was floating around and Chief Deputy Joe Hopstein decided it was time to go up and do a thorough check," Walters said.

The sheriff said Pruett was removed from his maximum security cell, which he occupied alone, and eputies then found where the bars had been cut. He said Pruett had tried to disguise the cut marks.

Walters said he figured that Pruett "had been sawing a pretty good period of time"

Typically, heating and cooling account for more than 60% of your home's energy consumption. Selecting the correct size of air conditioning unit can help reduce this consumption. You also can conserve energy by placing outside air conditioning units away from shrubbery or other obstructions which could block the flow of outside air to the unit. When using an air conditioner, keep blinds or draperies closed against direct sunlight and keep all outside doors closed. Conservation efforts like these can help you "keep your cool" this summer.

We at SPS applaud those customers who reduce their monthly electric bills by using electricity more efficiently. One such customer, Amarillo College, recently voted to remove 94 lighting fixtures from a classroom building. This action allowed the school to meet engineering standards for lighting levels, and is expected to save the college about $5,628 a year in electricity costs.
