

Jail work offer accepted on Monday

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Following months of frustration, county commissioners Monday afternoon accepted a bid for performing renovation and addition work to Deaf Smith County Jail.

Sam J. Smith Construction Company of Amarillo was hired to serve as the general contractor. It claimed it could do the work in a little more than 13 months for $1.56 million, which brings the project's total cost - including architectural fees - to around $1,685,000.

Last fall, anticipating a cost of $1.55 million, commissioners approved issuance of $1.5 million in certificates of obligation to fund the project. Bids received in May, however, all ran at least $300,000 over budget. Gondeck-Poage Partnership Architects of San Antonio, in charge of the project, was ordered to find ways to cut costs in the plans.

The Sam J. Smith offer turned in Dec. 4 was the lowest of the second-round bids, with Perry Cates Construction's $1,649,000 million being the only other figure submitted.

Acceptance of the Smith general contractor bid, which included the $377,000 detention equipment offer turned in Nov. 27 by Southern Steel of San Antonio, was urged by Gondeck-Poage. Travis McPherson, former Deaf Smith County Sheriff, was here Monday afternoon to represent Gondeck-Poage.

Sam J. Smith, contacted by telephone Monday afternoon following the commissioners' decision, said it will be at least two weeks before construction begins.

Money needed for the project beyond the $1.5 million in certificates of obligation can be gathered from within the county's budget, according to Glen Nelson, county judge.

Renovation of the jail, as outlined by Gondeck-Poage last summer, is to involve two phases. The first is adding a 30-by-30-foot recreation facility to one side and an expanded holding area to the other. Remodeling of the now existing structure represents the bulk of the second phase.

The changes have been ordered by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. Failure to abide by the regulations could mean a decrease in allowed jail capacity or closing of the facility.

"Sam J. Smith," Edward R. Gondeck wrote in his recommendation letter to commissioners, "originally bid $1,904,560 and subsequently submitted a revised bid in the amount of $1.56 million. This is a total reduction of $344,560 below the original bid.

"The revised proposal," Gondeck continued, "still provides Deaf Smith County with a jail having the same capacity and space components as originally designed and is one that will be economical to operate and maintain and additionally will be in compliance physically with the minimum standards set forth by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

"As a comparative analysis, a new structure of the same capacity and located on another site would cost no less than $3.5 million. New construction rules would have to be followed rather than the existing construction rules that were followed in the remodeling program."

Gondeck also pointed out that since only two general contractors bid the second time around - as opposed to four in May - it is unlikely anyone would submit offers should bids be requested again.

The vote on accepting Smith's bid was unanimous Monday, with Bruce Coleman being the only commissioner not in attendance.

Storm sewer plan considered

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

State highway department officials have indicated they will match funds provided by the city of Hereford to reconstruct a storm sewer system on North Highway 385.

According to Wes Fisher, Hereford's mayor, the local government would need to fork out about $610,000 as its share of the work. Approximately ninth-tenths of a mile would be reconstructed, he said at Monday evening's city commission meeting.

Though no action was taken, commissioners seemed convinced the project should be pursued. Fisher

State offers to provide matching funds suggested it be primarily financed by the anticipated $500,000 to be in the revenue sharing fund next spring. The additional cost, Commissioner R.W. "Bud" Eades suggested, might be obtained through issuing certificates of obligation.

City Manager Dudley Bayne, who claimed it was "very unusual" for a state department to propose such a project, said a bond election was another alternative. Should that method not be employed for the sewer project, he said, it would probably be necessary for water improvements to be made in about two years.

Commissioners also talked about widening Union Avenue between Highway 385 and Avenue F. Bayne, who called the road "a disgrace," said street residents rejected the proposed renovation work a few years ago.

In other business Monday, it was decided Hereford High School's golf team will not be allowed to host Saturday tournaments this coming spring. School officials requested the switch to a weekend day - tournaments have previously been held on Fridays - due to new state education laws which allow a set amount of days for extracurricular activities.

Mike Horton, manager of the local public course, said he talked with the HHS golf coach at the beginning of the school year regarding the request. At that time, Horton said he would consider allowing a Saturday tourney should the Amarillo and Lubbock public links allow the switch to Saturdays.

As it turned out, the two other golf courses refused to allow weekend play. Even so, HHS scheduled two tournaments here on Saturdays. Horton said he felt this was apparently a case of a conversation where "the person asking for something hears what he wants to hear."

One of the two scheduled tournaments conflicts with a local residents' tourney, of which there are only two or three per year, Horton said. Furthermore, he explained, the city stood to lose $500 to $600 in green fees should it allow high schoolers to play for free.

Four or five street lights are to be purchased for Fifteenth Street between Centre Street and Highway 385, commissioners decided Monday. According to Bayne, such lights now cost the city $7.40 apiece per year to operate.

A second reading of legislation concerning Energas was read and approved Monday. At the Dec. 3 commission gathering, City Attorney Ernest Langley explained the reading was of a proposed new ordinance which amends an existing franchise law enacted in 1980. One more reading is required.

Action concerning a contract about city contributions to county jail expenses was tabled pending completion of the document. According to Langley, the city is to annually pay a percentage share based on total city prisoner days multiplied by the jail's average daily inmate expenses. This should amount to a bill of about $19,000 next year, Fisher guessed.

"I don't know of a better way to handle it," Bayne commented.

Farm workers awarded wages

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Two migrant farm worker families who lost wages when their crew leader skipped town have been awarded those wages and more as the result of a suit settled Friday in U.S. District Court in Amarillo.

Judge Mary Lou Robinson, in what Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney Randall Marshall claimed is a rather unusual move, had ordered the plaintiffs and the grower they brought suit against to reach a settlement amount on their own.

The Manual Nunez family of Presidio County agreed to accept $2,000 while $2,500 went to the Ben Payne Family of Verde County. The judge found Parmer County farmer Max Steinbock liable for the lost wages.

According to Marshall, Steinbock gave the money for several days wages to his farm labor contractor, Johnny Cadena, who then failed to pay the two families. While Cadena was listed as a defendant in the complaint, his whereabouts are not known by TRLA.

After crew leader kept their pay

Steinbock, Marshall explained, was held responsible because Cadena, with whom he had a business agreement, was not registered as a farm labor contractor under the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act.

The judge also found that neither Cadena nor Steinbock maintained the proper records of hours worked and wages owed and that the plaintiffs suffered damages under the Fair Labor Standards Act because they were not paid the wages allegedly owed them.

Federal law requires that any person who engages the services of a farm labor contractor to supply farm workers first determine that the contractor possesses a certificate of registration.

"Defendant Steinbock intentionally violated the FLCRA," TRLA attorneys maintained in the petition, "by failing to request...Cadena's certificate of registration and determine whether he was registered as a farm labor contractor." That same law also requires that any person who is furnished migrant workers by a farm labor contractor must obtain and maintain specified records of the workers employment.

Commenting on the $4,500 settlement, Marshall said Robinson could have awarded $500 per person per violation for each of the two violations under FLCRA, and double the minimum wages owed each family.

The Nunez family was described as Manual C. Nunez, Lidia C. Nunez, Guadalupe E. Nunez, Isela Nunez, Manual Nunez Jr. and Aurora Nunez.

Listed as members of the Payne family were Ben Payne, Teodora Payne, Lidia Payne, Gloria Payne, Eli Payne and Ben Payne Jr.

Steinbock will also be assessed the plaintiffs' attorneys fees, with that amount yet to be determined.

The lawsuit was filed Nov. 24, 1982.

Unemployment 4.7 percent here

Latest figures available from the Texas Employment Commission show the preliminary unemployment rate in Deaf Smith County was 4.7 percent for the month of October.

That figure is down from the final September rate of 5.4 percent, according to TEC. The civilian labor force was calculated at 8,760 last month, with 8,350 listed as employed.

A total of 410 persons signed up for unemployment benefits in October, compared with 486 the month before.

In Castro County, October unemployment was 2.8 percent, down from 3.5 in September. Parmer County, with 215 people signing up for benefits, had a 3.5 percent unemployment rate. In September, the Parmer rate was 3.9.

The three counties are all served by the Hereford TEC office.

Legislators advocate regulation

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Two state lawmakers say they are drawing up a proposal to regulate high-stakes bass tournaments and levy stiff penalties for those who do not comply.

State Rep. Alex Short, D-Textarkana, says he has been working on a hunting-and fishing-contest law since allegations of cheating surfaced more than a year ago during the $100,000 Camp Textarkana Big Bass tournament.

Short says Rep. Ray Kellar, R-Duncanville, chairman of the house Law Enforcement Committee, also supports the proposal and has indicated he will co-sponsor such a bill.

The proposed law would affect those contests where the prize exceeds $500 in value and would require promoters to get a license from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department before staging the event.

In the last four years, cheaters in fishing contests were subject only to disqualification. Under Short's bill, winners would have to sign an affidavit stating they complied with the contest's rules and state laws.

Mother to remain incarcerated

AUSTIN (AP) — A state appeals court has again declined to order the release of a Houston woman jailed three months ago for refusing to testify against her stepson, who is charged with slaying a female letter carrier.

After reviewing transcripts of a grand jury hearing, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals voted 6-3 on Monday against ordering the release of Odette Port, court spokesman Troy Bennett said. An opinion will be issued later, Bennett said.

A gag order prohibited prosecutors and Mrs. Port's attorney from commenting on the ruling.

Mrs. Port has been jailed since Sept. 12 for refusing to answer some questions about the slaying of Debora Sue Schatz, 23, who disappeared June 7 while delivering mail in the Port's affluent neighborhood on Houston's west side.

Miss Schatz' body was found two days later in a remote, wooded area north of Houston. David Port, 17, was charged with her murder.

David Port, who remains free on $20,000 bond, will be tried in late February in New Braunfels, about 175 miles west of Houston.

Drifter death hearing slated

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Three members of a Mountain Home family and five drifters accused in the March slaying of another transient are scheduled to face a preliminary hearing today on a change of venue motion.

The hearing also is to include a motion to suppress evidence seized at the Mountain Home ranch where the slaying occurred.

The eight defendants are charged with organized crime in the March 3 cattle prod torture-slaying of Anthony Warren Bates. Prosecutors say Bates was tortured to death with an electric cattle prod, doused with gasoline and burned.

Defense attorneys claim charred bone fragments seized when the ranch was raided April 6 were taken during an illegal search and seizure. They want to suppress such evidence as nine machetes, two switchblades, a cattle prod and several firearms.

They are challenging a search warrant issued by District Judge V. Murray Jordan, the judge assigned to the case.

Schroeder still not old self

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Caroling children and a wheelchair ride brightened William Schroeder's spirits, but his doctors and family worried about stroke damage that left the artificial heart recipient having trouble recognizing his family and knowing the day.

A brain specialist said Monday that new tests showed the 52-year-old Jasper, Ind., man suffered three small strokes rather than the one detected on Thursday, and a psychiatrist diagnosed Schroeder as depressed.

Schroeder was moved Monday from his room in the intensive care unit to a private room "so his family can be with him more and also as sort of a psychological boost for him," said Dr. Allan M. Lansing.

The neurologist, Dr. Gary Fox, said complete recovery is possible, "but he may always have some difficulty. I don't know how much recovery he will get."

Lansing, chairman and medical director of Humana Heart Institute International, said the memory problems alone would not prevent Schroeder from leaving the hospital if he otherwise recovered from the Nov. 25 implantation of his plastic-and-metal heart.

South's poverty rate up sharply

ATLANTA (AP) — Nearly two in 10 Southerners — and twice that ratio among blacks — were living in poverty in 1983, according to a study that concludes it's been more than 20 years since the 11 Southern states housed so many poor.

The study of U.S. Census Bureau data, conducted by the Southern Regional Council, said 18.2 percent of the region's residents in 1983 had an annual income below the national poverty level of $10,178 for a family of four.

In contrast, the study released Monday said the poverty rate in the South reached a low of 15.6 percent in 1979, 20 years after the first government statistics on poor people had found a poverty rate of 37 percent in the region.

"I think a fair assessment is that we're losing the war on poverty and we in the South started losing it in 1979 and 1980," said Steve Suitts. He is executive director of the nonprofit council, which was formed in the 1940s to promote equal opportunity in the South.

Gorbachev knocks space wars

LONDON (AP) — Senior Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev visits two of Britain's most historic sites today, taking a break from the high-level talks in which he has stressed Moscow's insistence that a ban on weapons in space precede other arms agreement.

Some Western officials had hoped Gorbachev's string of meetings with British leaders might reveal Moscow's stance next month when U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz meets Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for resumption of discussions on arms control.

But British sources said after Gorbachev's meeting Monday with Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe that the Soviet basically restated Kremlin positions and did not reveal Moscow's tack toward the upcoming superpower talks.

British officials have said they want to show Gorbachev, widely considered to be No. 2 in the Kremlin hierarchy, the history and life of Britain.

His schedule today called for visits to the Houses of Parliament and to Westminster Abbey, where all but two of Britain's monarchs have been crowned since 1066. The church is also famous for its Poets' Corner.

By DAVID ESPO Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring advice to scale back his military buildup, President Reagan will propose a far smaller cut in the Pentagon budget than his top advisers say is needed to meet deficit-reduction targets, administration officials say.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has agreed to cut an additional $2 billion from his spending proposal for 1986, meeting the spending reduction target of $8 billion proposed by the budget advisers for that year, said the officials, who spoke only on condition they not be identified.

But cuts in the two subsequent years will be far less than originally proposed, according to a report published today.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that the three-year savings proposed by Weinberger would amount to $27 billion — less than half the $58 billion sought by a virtually unanimous group of advisers led by Budget Director David A. Stockman.

The defense secretary was expected to discuss the president's Pentagon proposal today at a news conference.

Weinberger had proposed a first-year savings of $6 billion, a level some Republicans in Congress had derided as insufficient to build support for the larger spending reductions in domestic programs Reagan is seeking.

The defense secretary's earlier plan included savings that other administration officials have criticized — a pay freeze in 1986 that would follow a supplemental raise in 1985.

Such a plan would have assured military personnel of the money they expected while giving the defense chief credit for savings against the deficit.

That proposal also drew criticism from members of Congress, where Rep. William Dickinson of Alabama, senior Republican on the House Armed Services Committee, said, "That bird won't fly."

Reagan has announced a goal of reducing federal budget deficits by half over the next three years, to a total of $100 billion.

Reagan already has given tentative approval to about $34 billion in domestic spending cuts for 1986. Both the $8 billion cut in the military buildup in 1986 and Stockman's call for $58 billion in total defense savings over three years would be needed to meet the president's deficit-cutting goal.

Because Weinberger's original three-year savings of $19 billion would leave the president well short of that target, he encountered resistance from many other aides last week, according to several administration officials.

There was no word, as Reagan's decision was reported, whether he would seek additional domestic spending cuts to achieve his deficit-reduction targets, abandon the targets or try to find another way of meeting them.

The president has already said he will accept a tax increase only as a "last resort" after all other approaches have been exhausted.

In Congress, where Republican leaders have been trying to build support for another round of spending cuts, newly elected Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas told reporters Monday evening that Weinberger's original list of $19 billion in cuts "would not be enough" to satisfy many GOP members of Congress.

Dole and other Republicans in Congress have pushed the president repeatedly this year to make significant changes in his defense buildup as part of his overall deficit-reduction plan.

Court restraint against probe wanted

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — T. Boone Pickens Jr., claiming Phillips Petroleum Co. is trying to scare off his takeover bid, has filed lawsuits in an attempt to bar Phillips from delving into the personal lives of his employees.

Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co., also contends Phillips has hired a former FBI agent to delve into his family background.

"This is all part of big oil's way of intimidating someone they're afraid of," Pickens said Monday after suits were filed in federal and state courts.

Pickens heads a group called Mesa partners which announced its intentions Dec. 4 to complete a $9 billion buyout of Phillips, based in Bartlesville, Okla.

Through legal maneuvering, Phillips has so far managed to block the offer.

In response to Pickens' suit filed in state court, state District Judge H.

Bryan Poff signed a temporary restraining order barring two agents of Phillips from delving into the personal backgrounds of Mesa employees.

He set Dec. 26 as the hearing date on a permanent injunction sought in the suit.

According to Pickens, the agents in question are Bill Kish, who was stationed last week at the Amarillo Sheraton Hotel, and Jim Abbott, in Houston, the Amarillo Globe-News reported. Kish checked out of the Sheraton Sunday, a clerk said.

"I can put up with a lot of stuff," Pickens said after the suits were filed. "But I cannot put up with it when they start asking for my children."

In a second suit filed in Amarillo's U.S. District Court, six former associates of Mesa asked the federal court to stay depositions, or written testimony, requested by Phillips about their dealings with Mesa.

The depositions were sought from former Mesa associates as part of a lawsuit filed in Delaware that, among other things, alleges the men — Dr. Walter Watkins, Dr. Harold Watkins, Edgar H. Selecman, Jerome R. Walsh Jr., Joe B. Wells and Morris Bailey — were privy to insider information provided by Pickens.

Currently, the group owns 8.9 million shares of Phillips stock, and a $60 per share tender offer for another 23 million shares — for about 21 percent of Phillips shares outstanding. Once completed, a leveraged buyout of the rest of the Phillips' stock would ensue.

But an Oklahoma court has temporarily restrained Mesa from making the offer to buy additional Phillips stock. A decision for a permanent injunction was deferred to a Delaware Chancery Court. Phillips is incorporated in Delaware.

Hearings on the case began Monday.

If the injunction is nullified, Pickens said he plans to pursue the takeover bid soon thereafter.

Pickens said he believed Phillips Chairman William C. Douce had full knowledge of a former FBI agent who allegedly has made intimidating inquiries about Pickens and his family.

Bill Flesher, spokesman for Phillips, said the company had no comment on the suit and would not confirm whether Kish worked for Phillips.

The state suit also asked for $10 million in damages against Phillips. Coincidentally, Phillips' suit pending in Delaware also asks for $10 million in damages against Mesa.

According to Pickens, Kish would call friends and former and current employees of Mesa employees and identify himself as a former FBI agent. Then he would say he worked for Phillips and begin asking probing questions about Pickens.

Military engineer to debut on shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A new breed of astronaut, the military engineer, will handle a classified satellite on the next space shuttle flight, a mission considered so sensitive that even the countdown will be secret.

ETHIOPIA — virtually every penny donated to the place it was intended for.

Friday at 6 p.m., the planning committee composed of both clergy and laity are to sponsor a community Christmas carol singing at Park Plaza near Security Federal Savings and Loan. Bill Devers is to direct the singing, after which plans for the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity are supposed to be announced by the committee.

Air Force Maj. Gary Payton is the first person selected for space flight from the Manned Space Flight Engineer Corps, an elite team of military specialists formed to deploy, operate and refurbish defense payloads.

They come from all the services and will play major roles as the Defense Department accelerates its use of the reusable space plane.

Payton, 36, born in Rock Island, Ill., has been working for several months with the satellite which is to be carried on next month's flight. He will join four career National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronauts aboard the shuttle Discovery.

The Pentagon and NASA briefed reporters on the flight Tuesday, discussing Payton's role and outlining new and highly restrictive ground rules for covering military shuttle missions.

The first of these flights is scheduled to start Jan. 23, but Brig. Gen. Richard Abel said the exact launch time would not be disclosed in advance to "deny our adversaries" knowledge about the military cargo.

News stories which "speculate" on the payload will be investigated by the Defense Department as a breach of national security, Abel, Air Force director of public affairs, said in a Washington briefing monitored by reporters here. At least one such investigation already is under way, he said. "The more mission information they (the Soviets) have, the easier it is for them to counter the capabilities of those payloads," he said, adding that defense-related space shuttle missions would be treated "as we do the deployment of air, land and sea forces."

For the first time in 46 U.S. man-in-space flights, the media will not be able to follow the countdown, although reporters will be permitted to view the liftoff from the press site at the Kennedy Space Center.

Payton joined the new space engineer corps in 1980 at the Air Force Space Division in Los Angeles.

Volunteers respond to several weekend calls

Hereford Volunteer Firemen were called to the Ronnie Gilter residence Thursday morning, but did not arrive in time to save his double wide trailer house which burned to the ground.

The fire was one of three during the weekend that resulted from bottled gas explosions.

Hereford Fire Marshal Jay Spain said Gilter's brick home burned just one year ago at the same location, which is 20 miles north of Hereford.

Thursday evening, volunteers went to the Velma Hudson residence where paper in a heat duct caught fire. Damage was minor.

Friday, the department's rescue crew worked two traffic accidents caused by freezing rain. Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard reported this morning that the five people taken to the hospital were all treated and released with only Patricia Traylor of Hereford held overnight for observation.

There was moderate damage to a house owned by Paul Jones when a propane explosion caught the bathroom on fire. Firemen responded at 2:37 a.m. Saturday to that call, going 12 miles northwest of Hereford. Spain said the regulator froze on a propane tank.

Later that morning at 5:24, a smoke detector went off at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Spain said it was set by water leaking through the roof.

Another run to the country was made at 9:05 a.m., when a tenant house belonging to Leo Witkowski was reported on fire. According to Spain, a frozen propane regulator caused that fire as well, which nearly destroyed the house. Tenants had recently vacated the home.

Rubber hoses attached to a gas heater caused a fire Saturday night in the San Jose area, which nearly destroyed a house occupied by David Hernandez. That call came at 9:24 p.m.

Firemen ended their busy weekend at 1:15 a.m. Sunday when smoke detectors sounded at the 124 Oak Street home of Joe Lambert. Spain said firemen were unable to determine what set the detector off.

Entrance was apparently gained by breaking a rear door's window. Included in the pilfered items were five cassette stereos and two equalizers.

Five hundred dollars in cash were reportedly taken from a billfold belonging to Deborah Kirkeby of 901 E. Fifteenth St. She told police the theft occurred at Winn's department store, W. Park Ave., Saturday evening.

Police also said a video cassette recorder worth $382 was taken from Barrick Furniture, W. Highway 60, sometime Monday.

Among the arrests made since Friday were 14 for either driving while intoxicated or public intoxication. Two people were picked up on minor theft charges.

What requires love, a sense of humor and adaptability?

For Barbara Geiger, child protective services specialist for the Department of Human Resources, her job demands all of that and more.

"It's an exciting job, but the whole thing takes a positive attitude and prayer," Geiger said. "It's not exactly missionary work, but I pray a lot for those kids."

"I try hard to not be judgmental and sometimes I have to be firm. I truly believe that there is an art to communicating."

Geiger's experiences prior to moving to Hereford in September increased her interest and helped her prepare for this job. Before coming here, she was employed by High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo and worked on a new program to educate and help diabetics.

She grew up in Amarillo but moved to Greece when she was 16 and then to Liberia in western Africa where she attended Cuttington University for two years. While in Liberia, she received her bachelors' degree in English.

"Living in Africa was really the foundation for everything I'm doing now," Geiger explained. "I worked with the children in Liberia and saw an awful lot of malnutrition."

Also, in 1978 while attending college she was abducted.

"That was a turning point in my life," she recalled. "I learned a lot about abuse and more about legal rights and victims of abuse. That experience planted the seed for my interest in my job now."

While overseas, Geiger also learned to respect other cultures. Consequently, she views working with the Mexican culture as exciting.

"I love other cultures," she enthused. "All my clients are so cooperative and I learn a lot from them. They teach me side things like making tortillas."

For her job, Geiger attended a three-week training session in Arlington where her studies included the law code, how to interview clients and the importance of confidentiality.

To be available whenever she is needed, Geiger has had to give up her time at home and her personal life.

"I miss the time for myself," she said. "I haven't had time for hobbies or anything. I'm ready to be able to rest and socialize."

Despite the hardships, she finds the job extremely rewarding.

"The children are so loving and honest," Geiger said. "Some of them still like to call me. I guess I really like seeing a child who is withdrawn be able to come out of that."

Working with children is a responsibility that she does not take lightly.

"A social worker is really a mediator between that child and the rest of the world," she said. "It's my responsibility to do a thorough job."

Geiger laughingly described the hardest part of her job as handling the paper work. More seriously, she found the most challenging aspect to be building a trust relationship.

"It's hard to work so the clients will trust us enough to know we can help," she explained. "Sometimes it's also hard to get across cultural differences."

Currently, Geiger is half finished with her graduate degree in special education. In the spring she will take conversational Spanish to help her in her job. When she does have time for hobbies, she enjoys the outdoors, and playing golf and tennis. She sews frequently, works with sculpture and plays the piano. Most of all, she enjoys just being with friends.

Citrus picture looks good for consumers

COLLEGE STATION — Despite last year's freeze that wiped out Texas table citrus, the 1984 citrus picture looks more favorable for consumers that what had been predicted earlier in the year, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

Because the 1984 California crop should yield about 28 percent more oranges this year, U.S.D.A. analysts say this should help keep prices from soaring this season, reports Marilyn Haggard.

According to the U.S.D.A., Florida juice supplies for this year also look good. Early concerns of a short crop because of 1983 frost damage and disease in the nurseries have been dispelled.

While juice prices hold stable, consumers may notice a slight difference in quality, says Haggard. Florida processors are augmenting supplies by importing concentrate from Brazil and blending it with their own, she explains.

Some producers believe the Brazilian concentrate is not up to Florida flavor and quality standards, but they claim the imports are needed to maintain reasonable orange juice prices, she adds.

Since orange juice is such a good source of vitamin C, many consumers are reluctant to cut back unless prices become exorbitant, Haggard observes. But one way to reduce without cutting back on juice is to consider packaging costs, she says.

The most expensive form in which to buy orange juice is typically the convenient, single-serving size aseptic boxes with straws or 6-ounce cans. Generally, frozen concentrate is least expensive, although single-strength juice sold in cartons can be less expensive when on special.

Prices may also vary within price category, with store brands usually costing less than the national brands, except those on special, Haggard notes.

For people who like to squeeze their own fresh juice from Texas oranges, this is a disappointing year, the specialist says. The Texas ruby red grapefruit are also missed by many consumers, who prefer them to the less sweet and juicy Florida or California white varieties.

Many consumers will be waiting for the return of our homegrown Texas citrus next year.

Ann Landers

Poem good reminder

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl who had a happy, carefree life until a very good friend of mine committed suicide. He was good-looking, smart, came from a well-to-do family and had a bright future.

Everybody was shocked. No one could figure out why he didn't want to live any longer. His death reminded me of a poem I once read in your column. It was called "Richard Cory." Will you please run it again?

People need to know that some teenagers who seem to have everything going for them can have terrible problems that no one knows about.—A Canadian Reader

DEAR READER: The poem by Edwin Arlington Robinson (1869-1935) is an excellent reminder that even keen observers can be fooled. The masks people wear — the facades they construct! How little we know about what goes on in the hearts and minds of those around us.

Whenever Richard Cory went downtown, we people on the pavement looked at him.

He was a gentleman from sole to crown, clean favored and imperially slim. And he was always quietly arrayed, and he was always human when he talked;

but still he fluttered pulses when he said, "Good morning," and he glittered when he walked.

And he was rich—yes, richer than a king—and admirably schooled in every grace.

In fine, we thought that he was every thing to make us wish that we were in his place.

So on we worked, and waited for the light, and went without the meat, and cursed the bread.

And Richard Cory, one calm summer night, went home and put a bullet through his head.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister's husband made sexual advances toward my teenage daughter, Maryanne, last summer.

Maryanne told me about it and I promised not to tell my sister. We knew she would be devastated and maybe file for divorce.

Now I find myself hating that man. I'm also wondering if he ever molested my nieces or my sister's daughter by a previous marriage. They are now grown.

Since we live on opposite coasts I don't have to worry about seeing that creep again for a while, but when they come to visit, how should I handle the situation? I don't want to wreck my sister's marriage, but I can't keep all this inside of me or I'll burst. Hurry your advice.—No Name, No State, USA

DEAR N.N.: Say nothing until they come to visit. Then, take that funny uncle aside and make it abundantly clear that if you catch him looking sideways at your daughter you will tell the entire family about his attempt to seduce her. And don't hesitate to keep your word.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, downers, speed? Can you handle them if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Sandies scoring burst fatal to Hereford boys

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Shifting to a full-court pressing defense, the Amarillo Sandies outscored Hereford 11-0 the last 2:00 of the first half and went on to post a 73-67 District 3-5A win Monday in the HHS gym.

Except for those two minutes, Hereford stayed even with or maybe ahead of the taller Sandies, but four quarters comprise a game.

Hereford had taken a 32-27 lead with 2:18 to go in the second period when Bobby Baker hit two free throws before the Sandies began their assault.

When Scott McCown sank a 20 footer to make the score 32-29, Amarillo's Koy Eddleman put in a shot from underneath and a free throw. Eddleman then made a steal with :53 left and went to the line again after a foul. Eddleman canned both ends of a 1-and-1 to give the Sandies the lead.

Greg Hassenfratz bombed one in from 25 feet before Eddleman made another steal. Again he was fouled and hit two shots with :19 to play for a 38-32 halftime advantage.

"We don't normally press full court," Amarillo coach Allen Simpson said. "We didn't want them (the Whitefaces) shooting free throws, and we were fouling when they came down the court. We were lucky that it worked."

Whereas Amarillo, now 10-3 overall and 3-1 in league play, changed its regular mode of play to a full-court press, the Whitefaces changed theirs from a full-court press to a lay-back zone.

"What happened right before the first half cost us the game," Hereford coach Mike Fields said. "We got after them pretty good, but we couldn't pull it out."

"Our press wasn't working — they had such good height. They were just throwing the ball over us."

The Whitefaces were forced to play a zone defense against the Sandies, another factor which hurt Hereford. Fields noted that Amarillo hit some key outside shots.

Eddleman and Hereford's Kevin Redus tied for top scoring honors with 17 points apiece. Chris Solis and Sammy Simpson each added 13 for Amarillo, and Daniel King and Rodney Torres scored 12 for the Whitefaces.

Fields said King may have had his best game of the season thus far.

"Daniel did a good job coming off the bench," he said. "He was eight of eight from the free throw line. Stefan Hacker also played well from the bench."

The score at the end of the first period was 18-16 Amarillo. Baker had 7 of the Herd's points in that initial quarter, which saw the Whitefaces jump to a 3-0 lead and a 6-2 advantage.

In the third quarter, the Sandies kept their 6-point advantage, leading 53-47 to start the fourth.

Hereford pulled to within 2 in the final eight minutes when Mike Scott hit a 14-foot jumper with 2:18 to play. That made the score 63-61, Amarillo.

The game became virtually a free-throw shooting contest from that point. The Whitefaces were forced to foul, and Amarillo responded by sinking 10 of 14 charity tosses.

"It seems we play our best games against the best teams, and our worst games against the weakest teams," Fields said. "The guys on both teams played a good game."

Hereford hit on 17 of 39 field-goal attempts, a 54.1 percent mark.

The ball game was the final scheduled district contest until Jan. 3. The Whitefaces are to play in the Borger Tournament Thursday and Friday, however, and the Clovis Tournament Dec. 27-29.

Rader remembers ridicule of prospect

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers manager Doug Rader, now eager to re-sign a player he once ridiculed and traded to Milwaukee, met for two hours with catcher Jim Sundberg Monday night and said he apologized for the way he treated Sundberg.

"I let him know I made a mistake. I told him I'd never done anything like that to any human being. And I won't do it again," Rader told The Dallas Morning News.

"He still has to think about it. But everything I did and said (in the meeting) was really sincere. Whatever he decides, well, we'd love to have him. ... There's a healing process involved. I just never realized how important he was to this team. And not just his ability on the field, but as a human being."

Sundberg, one of Texas' most popular players when he was traded, declined to comment on the meeting. He left for a vacation in Colorado and said he would make a statement "after the first of the year" about his possible return to the Rangers.

Milwaukee gave Texas officials permission to talk to Sundberg, who has asked that the Brewers trade him.

Against Sandies

Herd fails to get past obstacles

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

When you can't go over an obstacle, you go around — or at least you try.

Monday night, the Hereford Whitefaces may have tried too hard, though.

Plagued with turnovers — a result of trying to force the ball inside against a 6-2 Amy Tollefson — Hereford lost a girls District 3-5A basketball game to Amarillo 58-52 in the HHS gym. The loss dropped the Whitefaces to 3-2 in district play and 4-6 overall.

Amarillo moved to 4-2 and 10-3.

"We've got to be more patient on offense," Hereford coach Larry Sowers said. "We were forcing our passes and just like tennis, we were making unforced errors."

The Whitefaces were guilty of at least 15 turnovers for the game.

On the other end of the floor, the Sandies worked the ball inside to Tollefson for more than half of their first quarter points. Tollefson scored 9 in the opening period, 7 of those during an 11-4 Amarillo spurt.

Tollefson scored the game's opening bucket following an offensive rebound. Her next five points came following passes she took underneath the hoop.

"I'm getting sick of clinics," Sowers said. "And everybody on Amarillo's team gave us one tonight — especially inside."

"We weren't playing together at first. We're going to be a decent basketball team if we'll start (playing together)."

The Whitefaces were ineffective in getting the ball to Natalie Sims in the first half. Sims, who has been the Herd's hottest shooter of late, attempted only four field goals the opening 16 minutes. For the night, Sims was nine of 14 from the field to finish with 18 points.

After Amarillo had taken a 48-33 lead at the end of the third quarter, Hereford began its now-almost-regular comeback attempt in the fourth period. Hereford's Darla Alford started the quarter with two, and Lori Niblet canned a 10-foot shot. Amarillo got three more points before Hereford pulled to 51-48 on five points by Stacie High and four by Sims.

Sims hit a 15 footer with 40 seconds to play, and Hereford was within two, 54-52.

Amarillo scored the last points of the game as a result of Hereford's press. Lisa Watson was all by herself underneath the basket with :25 to go, and Darcy Dupriest put a layup in with 1 second to go.

Sowers said the second half was a different ball game for his Whitefaces.

"As bad as we looked the first half, we really played well in the fourth quarter," he said. "I was happy we were able to get back into the game, but moral victories get pretty hollow after awhile."

Sowers said that the Whitefaces were beaten badly on the boards in the first half, and the coach pointed out that Alford was leading rebounder against Amarillo with 12.

In the three games prior to Monday's contest, "Our outside people (Alford, High and Sims) have been the leading rebounders," Sowers said.

"We've had two losses to contending teams (Plainview and Amarillo) now," he added. "The schedule was in our favor the first half of the season, but we didn't take advantage of it. We're going to have to get with it."

Alford added 12 points for Hereford to get into double figures along with Sims. Tollefson had 22 points for the night, and Watson scored 14 for Lubbock.

Hereford has a game scheduled tonight in Clovis at 8 p.m. CST.

Despite fourth-quarter comeback

Dallas' playoff hopes die in Miami, 28-21

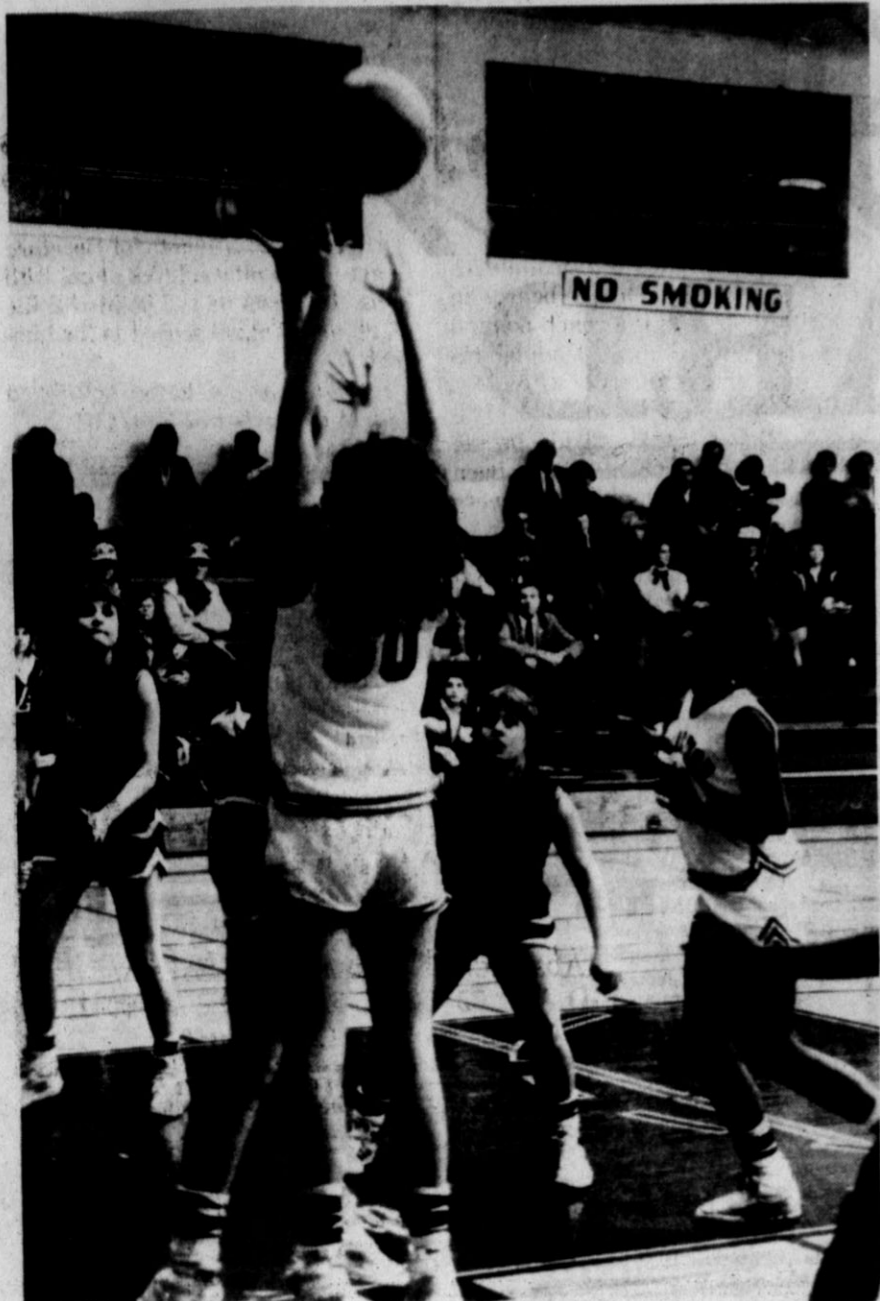

By JOEY HOLLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Ron Fellows couldn't have felt any worse, and Mark Clayton couldn't have been any better.
Fellows and his Dallas Cowboy teammates controlled the vaunted Miami passing attack for 57 minutes Monday night in the Orange Bowl. Then they — and Fellows in particular — watched as Dan Marino connected with Clayton on two long-range touchdowns to give the Dolphins a 28-21 victory and knock the Cowboys out of the National Football League playoffs for the first time since 1974.
Marino finished with impressive statistics — 23 of 40 for 340 yards and four touchdowns. But he picked up four of the completions, 110 of the yards and two of the touchdowns in the final three minutes.

First, Clayton snatched a pass away from a diving Fellows and scooted 39 yards to make it 21-14 with 2:31 to play.
"I was trying to knock the ball down," Fellows recalled in a dreary Dallas locker room. "I got two fingers on it, I just wish my fingers were a little longer."
Fellows said he was the happiest person in the Orange Bowl when the Cowboys tied the score 44 seconds later on a spectacular 66-yard touchdown catch by Tony Hill. He said his heart started fluttering when the ball, tipped by Dolphin defensive back Don McNeal, ended up in Hill's hands and the Cowboy wide receiver raced untouched to the end zone.

"I went back out there thinking how I wasn't going to gamble anymore," Fellows said. "I was going to play it safe."
Instead, he played it on the ground. On the second play after the kickoff, Fellows slipped while shadowing Clayton on a crossing pattern. When he looked up, Clayton had the ball and was heading for a 63-yard, game-clinching touchdown with 51 seconds left.
"I slipped, what can I say," Fellows said. "I messed up all these guys' chances to make the playoffs. I've got to take it all on my shoulders, because it was my guy both times."
"Either you're a hero or you're a goat. I was the goat."

Clayton was the hero. The second-year wide receiver, who also had snared a 41-yard touchdown in the second quarter, finished the season with 18 TD catches, breaking the NFL mark of 17 set by Don Hutson with the Green Bay Packers in 1942 and equalled by the Los Angeles Rams' Elroy Hirsch in 1951 and the Houston Oilers' Bill Groman in 1961.
"It won't realize what I've accomplished until the morning," Clayton said. "This is something that means a lot to me."
A lot was riding on the game — the Cowboys had to win to earn the final NFC wild-card berth and the Dolphins needed a victory to gain the home-field advantage if they reach Hereford's Sarah Fish goes up for a rebound during Monday night basketball game with Amarillo in the HHS gym. Although Fish came down with this rebound, Hereford was beaten on the boards in the game. The Whitefaces are to play a girls game in Clovis tonight, beginning at 8 p.m. CST.

HE'LL MISS IT ALL
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Do pro football players miss the game when they retire?
Jim Plunkett, the quarterback of the Los Angeles Raiders, is in his 14th NFL season and says he dreads the day when it all ends.
"I've thought about it, and I know I'll miss football," Plunkett said. "I'll miss the crowds. I'll miss not being catered to away from the field of play. And, most of all, I'll miss the wages."

AP's All-Pro team

Record-setting backs headline honorees

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Marino, Walter Payton and Eric Dickerson, who among them broke four of the National Football League's most coveted records, form a dream backfield for the Associated Press' All-Pro team, announced today.

Marino, one of four Miami Dolphins on the team, threw 48 touchdown passes, shattering the record of 36 set by Y.A. Tittle and George Blanda in 1963 and 1961 respectively. He also threw for 5,084 yards, breaking Dan Fouts' three-year-old standard of 4,802.

Dickerson, meanwhile, became only the second man in history to rush for more than 2,000 yards, breaking O.J. Simpson's standard of 2,003 in his 15th game — Simpson did it in 14 — and leading the Los Angeles Rams to a wild-card playoff berth. He finished with 2,105 yards.

And Payton, who finished the season with 1,684 yards rushing, raced past Jim Brown's career mark of 12,312 in the sixth game of the season and finished with 13,247 career yards as he led the Chicago Bears to the NFC Central crown.

The other members of the all-pro offense, chosen by a vote of three sportswriters and broadcasters who covered each of the NFL's 28 teams were: wide receivers Roy Green of the St. Louis Cardinals and Art Monk of the Washington Redskins; tight end Ozzie Newsome of the Cleveland Browns; tackles Joe Jacoby of Washington and Keith Fahnhorst of the San Francisco 49ers; guards Russ Grimm of Washington and Ed Newman of Miami, and center Dwight Stephenson of the Dolphins.

The defense is ends Mark Gastineau of the New York Jets and Howie Long of the Los Angeles Raiders; tackles Dan Hampton of the Bears and Randy White of the Dallas Cowboys; nose tackle Joe Nash of the Seattle Seahawks; outside linebackers Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants and Rod Martin of the Raiders; inside linebackers Mike Singletary of the Bears and E.J. Junior of the Cardinals; brothers Mike Haynes of the Raiders and Mark Haynes of the Giants at cornerback, and safeties Deron Cherry of the Kansas City Chiefs and Kenny Easley of Seattle.

The specialists are plackicker Norm Johnson of Seattle; punter Reggie Roby of Miami and kick returner Henry Ellard of the Rams.

There are only eight repeaters on the 27-man team led by White, who made it for the fourth straight year and sixth of the last seven and Taylor, who has been all-Pro in all four of his seasons in the NFL.

The others are Gastineau, who made it for the third time in a row; Dickerson, Green, Jacoby and Grimm. It also was the fourth time that Payton has made the squad in his 10-year NFL career.

Miami had six players on the first two all-pro teams. The Bears, Raiders and Seahawks had five players each on the first two teams.

The second team included wide receivers Mark Clayton of Miami and Steve Largent of Seattle; tight end Todd Christensen of the Raiders; tackles Anthony Munoz of Cincinnati and Bill Bain of the Los Angeles Rams; guards John Hannah of New England and Randy Cross of San Francisco; center Mike Webster of Pittsburgh; quarterback Joe Montana of San Francisco; running backs James Wilder of Tampa Bay and Marcus Allen of the Raiders; kicker Jan Stenrud of Minnesota and kick returner Louis Lipps of Pittsburgh.

The defense was ends Richard Dent of Chicago and Art Still of Kansas City; tackles Dave Butz of Washington and Doug English of Detroit; nose tackle Bob Baumhower of Miami; linebackers Rickey Jackson of New Orleans, Jim Collins of the Rams and Clay Matthews and Tom Cousineau of Cleveland; cornerbacks Dave Brown of Seattle and Eric Wright of San Francisco, and safeties Michael Downs of Dallas and Todd Bell of Chicago and punter Jim Arnold of Kansas City.

COWBOYS

the AFC title game.

Still, the only really thrilling plays before the final quarter came during Miami's second-quarter touchdown drive. During that eight-play, 80-yard march Marino smashed the NFL single-season passing yardage record, set by Dan Fouts in 1981, with a 22-yard, third-down pass to Nat Moore.

But everything in the first 57 minutes was just a prelude to the wild finish.

When the dust settled, Marino had established NFL season records for most touchdown passes (48), most passes completed (362), most 300-yard passing games (nine) and most passing yardage (5,084).

"What more can you say about Marino?" asked Dolphins Coach Don Shula, "and Clayton demonstrated what a clutch receiver he is."

Herd lands pair on 'dream' team

After a 1-3 record in the first four games, the Hereford Whitefaces recorded six straight triumphs and a 7-3 season mark this past season, and two players who keyed the turnaround have been named to the All South Plains team selected by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

David Parsons, 6-0, 205-pound senior, and Lee Brockman, 6-2, 210-pound senior, were named to the 5A defensive team announced over the weekend.

Six players from the Odessa Permian team were picked on the All South Plains squad. Permian quarterback Alton Holloway earned the 5A "Player of the Year" honors, and Coach John Wilkins of Permian was picked as "Coach of the Year."

Both Brockman and Parsons were hampered by injuries during the year, but they still led the Whitefaces to six straight victories, including a 17-16 win over 3-5A champion Plainview. The Bulldogs placed three players on the dream team—linebacker David McAdoo, defensive back Ronnie Bradic, and offensive guard Joe Ky Schultz.

Other 3-5A players who made the team included Coronado linebacker Kyle Allison and Lubbock High and Ken Whitfield. All the players were

Officials announce

Thousands of dollars in grain missing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Officials with the Texas Department of Agriculture said they are trying to trace the whereabouts of $325,000 worth of grain that disappeared from a Williamson County grain warehouse owned by a man who died about two weeks ago.

1,000 bushels of wheat, and 14,000 bushels of corn, said Darrell Ketchum, supervisor of the Agriculture Department grain warehouse division.

This amount is greater than that detected missing from a Bartlett warehouse two years ago. The owner was later convicted of criminal charges.

Wood said he never considered the possibility that Gersbach committed suicide. Wood said his ruling was based on the results of an autopsy performed in Dallas.

"I'm not going to reconsider (the ruling)," Wood told the Austin American-Statesman on Monday. "I don't know anything about money problems. He fell asleep in the car."

Since Gersbach was the sole owner of the firm, Agriculture Department officials said they cannot pursue criminal charges. Ketchum said Gersbach's wife was apparently not involved in her husband's business matters.

Bill Quicksall, director of the department consumer service division, said about 30 farmers from the Schwertner area stored grain at the B-G warehouse.

The department plans to sell the remaining grain and cash in a $42,000 bond posted by the warehouse so the farmers can recover part of their losses. Each farmer will receive money for about 25 percent of the grain he stored in the warehouse, Quicksall said.

"The other 75 percent they'll have to try to recover from (Gersbach's) estate," Quicksall said. Since Gersbach died without leaving a will, his estate will go into probate, Quicksall said.

State officials said they learned of the grain shortage while they were going through the books after Gersbach's death. Quicksall said the Agriculture Department routinely sells or returns the grain in warehouses owned by a single proprietor who dies.

Ketchum said the B-G warehouse passed a state inspection in March and Gersbach turned in a "good financial statement" this year. The warehouse was to be inspected again sometime before May, and the grain shortage would have been detected, Ketchum said.

In 1983 in Williamson County, Victor Marek was convicted of illegally delivering grain from his Bartlett warehouse during August and September of 1982. A state inspection of Marek's warehouse detected a shortage of 6 million pounds of grain sorghum that was worth $150,000. Marek was sentenced to 12 years in prison.

"It's been happening a little more than we like," Quicksall said. "Every two years is too much."

Similar shortages have been detected in counties other than Williamson, Quicksall said.

DEAR POLLY — Colorful, inexpensive wastebaskets in room-blending colors make handy laundry hampers for baby's room. I keep two beside the crib, one for wet diapers; the other for soiled sheets and clothing. It's easier to carry the wastebaskets to the utility room once or twice a day for sorting and depositing in larger hampers than it is to run back and forth with a piece or two of laundry at a time. — MARGARET

DEAR MARGARET — And wastebaskets, especially the plastic kind, can usually be purchased at lower prices than fancier hampers or diaper pails. I especially like the covered, step-on kind. I keep one of these next to the changing table for convenient disposal of disposable diapers, but it would be great as a clothes hamper, too. Your handy Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." DEAR POLLY — Here is a simple idea that helps me save time and re-reading when I pick up a book I'm in the process of reading. I use a bookmark that has a "front" and "back" side. It could be a photo postcard, a real bookmark or even a scrap of paper ripped from a magazine with a picture on one side. I always place the bookmark in the book with the "front" side facing the page on which I must begin reading. This simple trick saves lots of time and gets me back to the pick-up spot immediately.

I sometimes take this hint one step further and turn the picture upside down facing the right side if I've left off reading halfway down the page. — DIANNE

DEAR POLLY — To neatly store 10 cassette tapes, I use a two-pound processed cheese-spread box. You can decorate the box and label the cover. I cover interesting photos from magazines with self-adhesive plastic covering. It's good cheap art, perfect for framing. — DEANNA

Around the County

By SUSAN RANEY County Extension Agent 4-H CITIZENSHIP PROGRAM OFFERS STRONG FOUNDATION

The 4-H citizenship program gives youth a direction and a strong foundation on which to build their lives. 4-H'ers in the citizenship program become more "in touch" with the world about them and gain a better understanding of their community, state and nation, points out Susan Raney, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Through the 4-H citizenship program, youth can:
-Become aware of their relationship to others: family, peers, state, nation and world.
-Acquire life skills that are essential for an individual to become an active, responsible citizen.
-Demonstrate social responsibility and learn to respect and respond to the needs, rights and responsibilities of others.
-Contribute to community development.
-Gain insights into the principles, processes and structures of democracy.

-Learn how issues affect the people of the world, affect us as a nation, and how the individual can become involved in addressing those issues.

The 4-H citizenship program is supported by the Coca Cola Company, which provides numerous awards to top achievers nationwide. These include medals of honor, an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each fall to one member per state, and nine $1,000 scholarships and two silver trays at the national level. At the state level, the citizenship program is supported by Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.

Youth interested in more information about the 4-H citizenship program should contact the county Extension office, says Raney. Crystal Finley, Deaf Smith County 4-H'er involved in the citizenship project participated in another valuable citizenship-related activity this summer. She traveled to Washington D.C. and the surrounding area with several other Texas 4-H'ers on the Citizenship Focus American Heritage Tour.

Health Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Enzyme can help

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read a report that two-thirds of the people on earth cannot digest milk because they lack something in their stomach. If I drink fortified milk day after day, I begin to feel sluggish and full, but I can drink some. Canned milk that has been heated seems OK. The report suggested using yogurt, as it was already digested.

Do I get any calcium or vitamins from the fortified milk even if I do feel sluggish? My last blood test showed my calcium was fine.

DEAR READER — The percentage of adults in the world who cannot tolerate large amounts of milk may be even greater than the figure you cite. Northwestern Europeans and their descendants are the only ethnic groups that do tolerate milk easily in adult life. Even about 10 percent of these people are deficient in lactase, the enzyme needed to completely digest lactose (milk sugar). In other ethnic groups, as many as 90 percent of adults may not tolerate milk well.
In some regions of the world, the way people avoided calcium deficiencies was by consuming yogurt. Cultured yogurt contains bacteria that form the same enzyme we use to digest milk sugar. And some yogurt does help, or at least can be digested without difficulty. That may not be true of all yogurt you can purchase.

Yes, despite some symptoms, the calcium in the fortified milk you drink is absorbed and used. The fact that you can drink some milk without symptoms means that you probably still produce some lactase enzyme — just enough to digest some milk but not enough to digest a large amount. If you want to increase your milk tolerance, you may want to use an enzyme powder, LactAid, to treat your milk in advance.
I have discussed the problems of milk intolerance and how to manage the problem with enzymes and foods in a recent issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 26, The Milk Question, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a proctoscopic examination and it revealed a small anal fissure. The doctor said it was very small and he would not recommend surgery or cauterization. Anal suppositories were prescribed to promote healing. Meanwhile, I have discomfort and doubt that the suppositories will be that effective. Can a specific diet help to correct this problem?

DEAR READER — An anal fissure is literally a crack in the tissues. It is often caused by trauma associated with difficult bowel movements. Small fissures tend to heal if the cause of the trauma is reduced or eliminated.
You might keep the area well lubricated. The anal suppositories are to relieve pain and you should give them a chance to help, but I do think that you need to consider your bowel habits. You may be wise to increase the bulk in your diet and drink lots of water. That may help soften the stool so it will not injure the area. If that doesn't help, you may want to use a stool softener. Avoid straining when having a bowel movement.

Almost all anal fissures will heal with such management. It is rare that a chronic fissure develops and needs surgery. Moreover, there is always the danger that surgery to relieve anal-sphincter spasm may result in leakage.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You have often mentioned fortified skim milk. We drink pasteurized skim milk with vitamin A and vitamin D-3 added. Is this fortified skim milk?

DEAR READER — All milk products now contain a required amount of vitamin A and D. Fortified, as I use it, refers to adding nonfat milk solids to the milk. Some brands call this "protein fortified." The U.S. Department of Agriculture food-value publications refer to "2 percent nonfat milk solids added." These milk products fortified with 2 percent nonfat milk solids are usually low-fat milk or skim milk. The nonfat milk solids increase the calcium and protein in the milk without adding fat or cholesterol. One of the best food sources of calcium and complete protein for a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet is skim milk fortified with 3 percent nonfat milk solids. You can get your calcium this way without being concerned about increasing your saturated fat or cholesterol consumption.

Camera experiment aids mapmaking

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Earth-scanning instruments aboard the space shuttle Discovery snapped pictures clear enough to pick out streets, buildings and geologic formations that may help in the discovery of oil, scientists say.

Bernard Mollberg of the Johnson Space Center in Houston and Charles Elachi of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in California said their instruments on the spacecraft last October proved that cameras and radar aimed at the Earth from orbit can provide valuable mapping and geologic data much quicker than any other means.

Mollberg, project director of the Large Format Camera experiment, told a briefing Monday that high-resolution film captured images of streets and buildings and even housing developments.

He said the camera "is a significant event" in producing maps and will provide geologic maps of areas in Africa, India and Asia that never before have been charted.

Elachi, project director for an instrument called the Shuttle Imaging Radar-B, said the instrument is able to produce stereoscopic images of major land features and even penetrate up to 15 feet below the surface in desert areas.

An earlier flight of the Radar Instrument discovered previously unsuspected riverbeds in Egypt. Elachi said it is expected that similar geologic features will be found when all of the data of the October flight is studied.

Mollberg said the shuttle astronauts attempted to photograph a site in the Soviet Union where a nuclear accident occurred in the 1950s, but clouds obscured the view.

Views that were taken by the camera clearly show irrigated fields in West Texas; streets, highways and the flight of jets over Boston; the crisscross of downtown buildings in Montreal; and Mount Everest in Nepal, Earth's highest peak.

The SIR-B instrument developed a stereoscopic view of Mount Shasta in California. Elachi said signals from the radar were processed by a computer to develop a precisely scaled model of the Shasta area. Scientists expect these data to be extremely valuable in the search for oil and other minerals.

"We have not examined all of the frames but already are finding things that should be of interest to petroleum companies," Mollberg said.

Group fighting for convicted man

DALLAS (AP) — Several civil rights groups and citizens — including Lenell Geter — are rallying to the support of a black prisoner who claims he is serving a sentence for a crime he did not commit.

Twenty-two-year-old Jerry Wanzer, who was convicted and sentenced to 25 years for the 1983 attempted sexual assault of an 8-year-old girl, hopes the efforts will get him a new trial.

Wanzer claims he was railroaded because he was black and Hurst police wanted to arrest someone quickly in the assault of the white girl.

Art Brender, a Fort Worth attorney handling Wanzer's appeal, agrees. Brender says trial records showed that two witnesses to the incident did not get a good look at the assailant.

The two said the assailant was a black man, 6-feet-1, 170 pounds with short hair and a mustache. Wanzer said he is 6-feet, 140 pounds with medium long brown hair and a mustache.

The police description said the assailant was wearing a blue shirt, but Wanzer was wearing a yellow or greenish-yellow shirt, according to trial testimony.

Wanzer says his problems began when he failed to signal a turn on a Hurst street. "Ever since that happened that day, it's been nightmare after nightmare," Wanzer told The Dallas Morning News.

Geter, an E-Systems engineer who was convicted and later cleared of a 1982 armed robbery, has made speeches on Wanzer's behalf and has given him moral support through telephone calls.

And a group called The Citizens Concerned for Jerry Wanzer recently raised $1,300. The Hunterdon Foundation for Justice, a New Jersey-based group that seeks to help people it feels have been wronged by the criminal justice system, also is holding fundraisers for him. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is considering entering the case.

The assault for which Wanzer has been jailed, occurred on Aug. 8, 1983. The girl was playing at a park near her home when she told police she was offered 75 cents by her assailant to go into a women's restroom to check on a friend of his.

The girl testified at the trial that the man followed her in, forced her to the floor and tried to assault her sexually.

Her cries brought a 10-year-old boy and a 45-year-old man, who later identified Wanzer as the assailant.

Wanzer was picked up about an hour later when a police officer heard a description of the girl's assailant and stopped Wanzer when he failed to signal for a turn.

"They just wanted somebody," Wanzer said. "The incident happened nearly two hours earlier, and they just wanted somebody. I happened to be the first black person that came down that street."

Milling company donates flour

SAGINAW, Texas (AP) — Low-income residents in the Rio Grande Valley will have bread on their table this Christmas thanks to a milling company based here.

The Burriss Milling Department-Cargill Inc. readied 10,000 bags of flour Monday for shipment to the Corpus Christi Food Bank, which will divide it between 17 depressed counties.

Burriss Milling makes Light Crust flour, which is a good seller in the Rio Grande Valley, company officials said.

"We know there are some needy and hungry people down there. We thought we'd return what they had done for us down here and help out as much as we can," said company spokesman Gary Murray.

The valley is still trying to recover from last winter's freeze which destroyed much of the citrus crop and added to unemployment.

Last Christmas' freeze killed 50 percent to 60 percent of the area's acreage and damaged virtually every tree, according to industry estimates. More than 65 percent of last year's crop, valued at $68 million, was destroyed.

This year's crop is so small it cannot even supply local supermarkets, industry officials say.

A truck from Burriss Milling left the plant Monday afternoon with 9,800 five-pound bags of flour for the Corpus Christi Food Bank.

From there, the flour will be divided between the Harlingen Information and Social Service Organization and the Brownsville Food Bank. The three agencies will then deliver the flour to other social service agencies which will distribute it to needy people.

The counties to be covered included Nueces, Kleberg, Kenedy, Willacy, Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, Zapata, Brooks, Jim Hogg, Duval, Jim Wells, San Patricio, Bee, Webb, Aransas and Live Oak. The truck was to arrive in Corpus Christi today and the distribution is scheduled to begin later in the week, Murray said.

"In terms of the food bank, people are very excited they are coming," Murray said, adding that it was the first time the company had donated the flour.

Earlier this year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture denied a petition from some 18,000 Valley residents for free turkeys or hams.

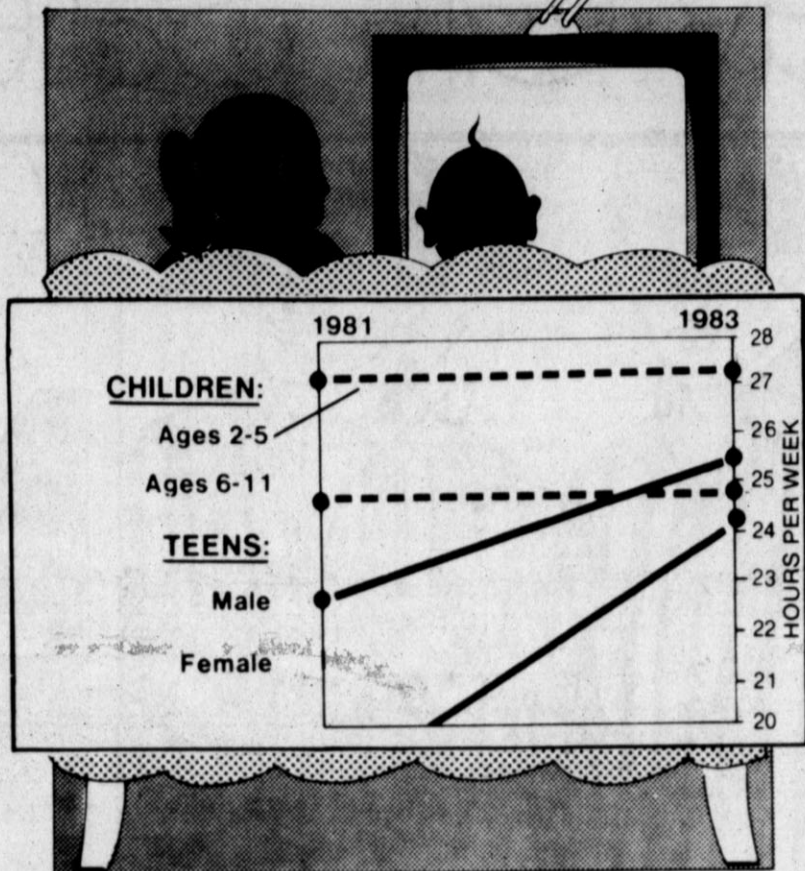

In a 1955 game in Cincinnati, Manager Birdie Tebbets of the Reds and the St. Louis Cardinal skipper, Harry Walker, were thrown out of a game for getting into a fight.

The Boston Celtics won their first NBA championship in 1957 by beating the St. Louis Hawks in double overtime, 125-123, in the title game.

TIME WITH THE TUBE Kids' TV-watching increases

(Source: A.C. Nielsen) NEA GRAPHIC Moffitt Cecil

Watching TV is a favorite pastime of American youngsters. Figures show that children through age 5 watch the most. They average 27 hours, 9 minutes per week — an increase of five minutes since 1981. TV viewing by children ages 6 to 11 rose, meanwhile, by two minutes per week. But teens increased their viewing by an average of nearly three hours per week for boys, and nearly six hours per week for girls.

Electors pick Reagan-Bush

AUSTIN (AP) — To no one's surprise, Texas' 29 presidential electors have unanimously chosen Ronald Reagan for president and George Bush for vice president. The written vote Monday in the state Senate chamber carried out the mandate of Texas voters on Nov. 6, which gave the Reagan-Bush ticket a 63.6 percent winning margin in the popular vote, 3,433,428 to 1,949,276. Fred Gray of Pasadena, chairman of the Texas electors, put a gold seal on the envelope containing the 29 electoral votes and sent them to Washington as Texas' official vote in the presidential election.

Part of the electors' time was given over to signing each other's programs as souvenirs and in filling out vouchers for travel pay.

"What you do here today is not a vain thing," Secretary of State Myra McDaniel, a Democrat, told the electors gathered in the state Senate chamber. "It is not an idle thing, for no act, however small, that fulfills the standards established by our constitution is either vain or idle."

She noted that the electoral college system has been criticized, and said, "Thomas Jefferson and his colleagues devised the electoral college system because they wanted the president to be chosen by electors exercising independent judgment."

"But subsequent political changes have transformed the electors into straight party representatives who simply register the electorate's decision," she said. "To be selected as a presidential elector is a great honor," the secretary of state said. "Only 29 people out of this great state have been chosen to actually cast the vote for the president of the United States."

Janice Rowley of Austin was selected as secretary of the electors. Other electors, whose names appeared on the general election ballot with the Republican president and vice presidential candidates, are Jim Garza, Mt. Pleasant; John Cason, Nacogdoches; Edith Schuler, Richardson; Dorothy Banfield, Whitesboro; Lynne Tweedell, Dallas; Faye Diamond, Cleburne; Maude Smith, Houston; Wilda Lindstrom, Houston; Dr. Paul Cunningham, Galveston; Helen Rutland, Belton; Fred Bleck, Hurst; Malouf Abraham, Canadian.

Also, Robert Hewitt, Victoria; H.L. Cross, McAllen; Kenneth Carr, El Paso; Daniel Orr, Graham; Lane Conway, Houston; JoAnn Steel, Odessa; Mary Jackson, San Antonio; Enoch Duncan, San Angelo; George Otto, Manvel; O'Dell Allen, San Antonio; Ted Martin, Dallas; Mrs. R.W. Wansbrough, Houston.

Protests won't affect South African policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — His second-story office overlooks the stoop where scores of protesters have been arrested, but South African Ambassador Bernardus Fourie says he doesn't pay them any mind.
"I can tell you quite frankly that many days I am not even aware that they have been there," Fourie said Monday in an interview at the South African Embassy, a fortress-like stone building with tight security.

More important, Fourie said, the protests won't have "any effect whatsoever" on the policies of his white-ruled government.
As for five-day-a-week demonstrations that have taken place near the embassy since Nov. 21, Fourie implied they were more for U.S. political purposes than anything else.

"You get the idea it is a way of playing American politics and using South Africa as a pawn in between," he said.

The demonstrations "have had one good effect" in that they have generated interest in his country, giving the government "in a small way an opportunity to put forth our views," Fourie said.
The 68-year-old ambassador, an Afrikaaner, has spent more than 10 years in the United States, including more than two as ambassador. He also has been South Africa's ambassador and delegate to the United Nations.

A few hours after Fourie spoke, three more people were arrested near the embassy door in the continuing civil disobedience against South Africa's racial policies. The group included the 16th member of Congress to be arrested so far, Rep. Katie Hall, D-Ind.

Demonstrators began a fourth week of marching as the three were taken to the police station on misdemeanor charges of protesting too close to the embassy.
