

Water, Budget Management Fail

Five of Seven Amendments Passed

By SALLY CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer

An 82-year-old farmer won, but some of the state's top politicians lost Tuesday as Texans approved five of seven amendments to the 105-year-old Texas Constitution. Jesse Johnson of Leon County can keep the farm he bought 40 years ago, but the two proposals backed by Gov. Bill Clements — for long-range water development and state budget management — failed to convince those who voted. As of early today, the total vote statewide was 762,223, or slightly more than 11 percent of the state's registered voters. At 1 a.m., 238 of 254 counties were complete and 249 had reported. Also approved were proposals for homeowners' tax exemptions, by 70 percent; livestock tax exemptions, 67 percent; a veterans' land program, 65 percent, and redevelopment tax exemptions, 58 percent.

A whopping 79 percent voted to adopt the proposal that will allow Johnson to keep his farm despite a 140-year-old title defect.

Had the measure failed, he would have been forced to buy the farm again — this time from the state. The amendment permits the state land commissioner to grant titles to land held in good faith for at least 50 years but for which no legal title was obtained. It takes effect immediately and lasts through 1986.

"I feel really good — I sure do," Johnson said after the results were announced. "I thank all of them (voters), too. I was really glad. I thought maybe they might come in and help me out."

He said he will throw a victory barbecue — "the biggest one I can have."

Less fortunate was House Speaker Bill Clayton, who sponsored the amendment to dedicate half the state's revenue surplus to water development. The program, which failed by a 42 percent margin, also would have raised the interest rate on state water bonds and allowed the

After Exemption Passes

Deaf Smith County voters approved six of the seven constitutional amendments in a light turnout at the polls Tuesday, with amendment number three being defeated. The measure called for a state finance management committee to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds, and lost by a 752-637 count in the county. The two amendments which were of major concern to county voters, the water trust fund and the exemption of livestock and poultry from taxation, both passed in Deaf Smith County by large margins.

The water trust fund, amendment number four, was approved 1,310-139 in the county, while amendment number five concerning the livestock tax exemption carried by a 938-503 margin. Statewide, the water trust fund was soundly defeated, however. The measure, heavily supported by Speaker of the House Bill Clayton and Hereford's own State Senator Bill Sarpalus, failed by a 42 percent margin across the state.

The livestock tax exemption measure carried by 67 percent across the state, and the exemptions will take effect for fiscal year 1982.

The passage of the measure is of particular importance to the Hereford Independent School District, which will see 12½ percent of its tax roll taken away as a result.

HISD board president James Gentry said this morning that the school district would lose at least $110,000 with the approval of the amendment.

"If we are able to get some help from the state we will lose about $110,000; if not, we will lose about $350,000," Gentry said.

The Hereford Whiteface football players have selected five co-eds as football queen candidates and attendants to be honored in a pregame show Thursday. Attendants are sophomore Teresa Phibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Phibbs, and junior Allyson Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Thomas. Senior queen candidates are Rhonda Reinart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reinart; Sharon Skaggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Skaggs, and Brenda Garcia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garcia. The coronation will be at 7:10 p.m. before the Hereford-Lubbock High game. (Brand Photo by Kelly Cherry)

Girls Take Advantage Of Studio Surroundings

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

Creata Corina Crox was literally born with a dance studio right under her feet, and the 3-year-old black-eyed bundle of energy has taken advantage of her surroundings.

Creata, adopted granddaughter of veteran dance instructor Lewis Larrymore, crawled into the studio located in the southeast section of Hereford while still in diapers, and her little feet haven't yet stopped moving to the beat.

Older sister Marie, 4, forms an impressive duet with Creata, who made her stage debut as a 19-month-old at the local high school. "I honestly believe that these two could do five or six hours on the practice floor and never repeat a step," Larrymore, a 72-year-old dance master says.

"You've heard of photographic memory? Well, I think they have photographic feet!"

Larrymore, a veteran of 55 years in the dance instruction business, says Creata, who is "a little more outgoing" than Marie, has a near obsession with practice.

"She loves to practice her steps, and she'll watch some of the older girls' classes, and pick up the steps right away," he said. "And, they're both technicians of the art. They don't like to make mistakes, they'll stick with a step until they get it right."

As an example, the girls, who observe Larrymore and their father, Loopy teach adult classes, frequently as-found their elders by picking up steps from those classes.

"We had a class do the 'Cotton-Eyed Joe' a couple of weeks ago, and we caught them doing it the next morning," Larrymore laughed.

The two girls have their "own" class of 2-year-olds, which meets once a week. Creata, who turned 3 just recently, leads the class with help from a watchful grandfather and sister Marie.

"Of course, they don't run the class, but we depend upon them a lot to help the other girls," Larrymore said.

The girls got the chance to keep in practice and get some exposure when Larrymore took a vacation to California last summer. He put together a portable stage and rigged a curtain in a van and it was show time at every stop the troupe made on the westerly trek.

"We drew some pretty good crowds at times," Larrymore said. "And they'd even throw money on the stage now and then."

Larrymore even admits he might be a bit prejudiced as far as Marie and Creata go, but he hastens to add that their natural talent has impressed more than several other dance instructors, many of whom trained under the master himself.

"On our trip I was constantly hearing teachers say 'This is unbelievable,' as the girls danced," he said.

"I've taught so many kinds in my life; literally thousands and thousands," the spry, slender teacher said. "And, I've never taught any that have more talent than Creata and Marie." "And, I think it would be very wrong if I didn't do all I could to help them get some exposure."

So, while he bides his time, his girls continue to practice, using the more than 33 rhythms they each memorized before their second birthday, waiting for that one big break to launch their trip to the big time.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Launch of the shuttle Columbia was scrubbed today after a computer failed to respond in time to a change in the countdown command. The countdown clock stopped just 31 seconds before liftoff.

Another launch attempt will not come until Friday, at the earliest.

Astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly were strapped in their cockpit seats, ready to fly, when the clock stopped at 0:00:31. It was 7:48 a.m. There was an effort to reschedule the launch for mid-morning, but at 9:35 a.m. it was dropped because of a fuel pressure problem.

"We are going to scrub the launch for today," said launch control spokesman Hugh Harris. "A minimum of a 48-hour turnaround will be necessary for another launch attempt."

Columbia, filled with half-a-million gallons of volatile fuel, entered her "terminal countdown" flawlessly as excitement mounted here for the ship's never-before accomplished return trip to space.

Harris said the problem appeared to be in the computer program — "software," but later specialists felt that a message to lower the acceptable pressure threshold in two fuel tanks got to the computer too late.

While efforts were made to correct this problem, a lubricating device in the auxiliary units overpressurized.

A last-minute problem also halted the first attempt to launch Columbia on her maiden mission last April 10; the problem then was with communications between computers. It was fixed quickly and the ship launched two days later.

Shortly before the planned liftoff, astronaut John Young, who commanded Columbia's maiden flight in April, flew in a jet plane over the area to search for potentially turbulent winds. His advice was crucial and he said conditions were adequate for launch.

After the weather determination was made, trouble began on the launch pad — interrupting a textbook countdown. There were low pressure readings on the main oxygen fuel tank and on three tanks that provide oxygen for the power-producing fuel cells.

Those problems were resolved. The countdown clock headed for zero.

Columbia was to orbit at 157 miles above Earth, landing after five days at Rogers Dry Lake in California's Mojave Desert.

Engle and Truly had checked Columbia's communications system and were waiting to fly when the morning sky darkened.

They were up at 2:40 a.m. for their first flight in space. They ate a traditional launch day breakfast of steak and eggs, took a medical exam and donned gold-colored NASA pressure suits.

They walked from their crew quarters, smiling and waving to the applause of NASA workers, and rode in a van to the Columbia. On arrival at the launch pad, they shook hands with technicians, and after a final check of their suits, entered the orbiter.

After Engle and Truly okayed their cabin systems, technicians closed Columbia's hatch, sealing the astronauts inside.

Soviet Sub Skipper Refuses to Leave Ship

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The skipper of the Soviet submarine that ran aground in Swedish waters is refusing to leave his ship for further interrogation after two sessions that the Swedes said failed to produce a satisfactory explanation for his penetration of a restricted military area.

"We must stick to a clear-cut and firm Swedish stand and not give in to the Soviet demands to hold all sessions aboard the submarine," said Lt. Gen. Sven-Olov Olsson, the head of the military command in south Sweden.

Olsson said such technical matters as the functioning of the sub's navigation equipment could be sorted out best aboard the submarine, which Swedish tugs refloated Monday and towed to an anchorage in inner Gaesae Bay.

But he said the question of how and why the sub entered Swedish waters south of the Karlskrona naval base should be discussed elsewhere because "to talk about these matters in the cramped quarters of the submarine will be difficult; we would prefer to hold such sessions in private."

There were indications that the Soviet government was growing impatient with the detention of its aged undersea craft. Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Yakovlev called on Foreign Minister Ola Ullstein to "convey Soviet views on the handling" of the incident, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The captain of the sub, Lt. Cmdr. Pyotr Gushin, continued to claim that a "mistake in navigation due to faulty equipment and fog" caused him to run aground eight nights ago in an archipelago off the southeast coast. But Gen. Olsson said this was "unlikely and not a credible answer."

The Swedish government has said the sub and its crew of about 56 men would not be released until it received a satisfactory explanation for the violation of Swedish waters. Swedish officials contend that the ship was fitted with intelligence-gathering equipment for spy missions and that it could have made its way through the islands to the area where it ran aground only by skilled maneuvering.

The Soviet government would not allow Gushin to be questioned outside his ship until Monday. He was interrogated for seven hours then on a Swedish torpedo boat anchored outside the restricted zone and submitted to 45 minutes more of interrogation Tuesday aboard his sub.

Jewett Farmer Thanks Voters

JEWETT, Texas (AP) — If Jesse Johnson had it to do over again, he said he wouldn't have scraped together $800 in the 1920s to buy his 120-acre farm in Leon County.

He said he could have put the money down on another piece of property, rather than wage a battle with the State of Texas 40 years after he finished paying for the land.

But now Johnson, 82, calls the property home, and plans a barbecue to celebrate the passage of the constitutional amendment that gave him title to it.

"I didn't think they ought to have no vote on it," the farmer and retired railroad trainman said. "If I had known that they would have to vote on it, I would not have bought this place. They didn't tell me about it."

The phone rang constantly at the Johnson household late Tuesday, and 20 neighbors arrived to wish the Johnsons well.

"I feel really good — I sure do," Johnson said after the results were announced. "I thank all of them (voters), too. I was really glad. I thought maybe they might come in and help me out."

Texas overwhelmingly approved an amendment to allow the state land commissioner issue titles for land held in good faith for at least 50 years but for which no legal title was obtained.

"They knew what kind of a tight I was in. Everyone who came by said, 'Oh, you ain't gonna lose. We are going to stay with you.' That is what I believed."

He said one of his nine children, 53-year-old Preston, was at the farm when the news arrived. Family members "are all glad, too," the elder Johnson said. "They know they will have a home. They are glad of it. When a fellow gets up to this age, and he is too old to work, that got me in a tight."

But he said his faith was proven. "I kind of thought it ought to happen," he said. "They told me there ain't no need to go worrying about it. 'You will get it back.'"

He said the barbecue is "going to be the biggest one I can have." But the victory will enable Johnson to continue to raise watermelon, corn and peas.

But first, he said, he needs a new mule.

"My old mule died a year or two ago," he said, "and I don't have another one. I can't even find a mule anymore. If I can ever track up with any, I'll buy it."

Businessman Pleads Guilty To Defrauding

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas businessman has pleaded guilty to bilking professional golfer Jerry Heard and six other California men out of $44,000 they invested in a Louisiana oil and gas well that never was drilled.

Jimmy F. Christian told State District Judge Ed Kinkeade he intentionally stole the money from Heard and the other investors while telling them the funds had bought them royalty interests in a non-existent well being drilled by Gary Petroleum Co. of Shreveport, La.

Heard and another investor, Andy Zimmerman of El Cajon, Calif., testified Tuesday that Christian posed as a Gary Petroleum Co. agent and approached them in 1979 about investing $22,000 each in a well that would be drilled by April 30, 1980.

Heard and Zimmerman said they recruited five other friends and relatives and mailed $44,000 to Christian but never received any royalty payments or a refund.

Christian assured them months after payment that drilling on the well was under way but going slowly because of bad weather and various equipment problems, the two men testified.

Heard and Zimmerman said Christian sent them personal checks drawn on a closed bank account when they requested refunds on the investment.

Christian faces up to 20 years in prison and a maximum $10,000 fine. Kinkeade set sentencing for Dec. 4.

Presidio Elects First Mayor

PRESIDIO, Texas (AP) — Herbert F. Myers was elected the first mayor of this newly incorporated far West Texas city Tuesday, beating challenger Richard C. Brooks.

Myers collected 266 of the 410 votes cast in Presidio's first municipal election since residents overwhelmingly voted to incorporate the city last August. Prior to incorporation, Presidio County funded city services.

Voters also elected five aldermen from a field of six candidates, with the top five vote getters winning the seats.

Armando G. Carrasco, Carlos Spencer, L. T. Van Eman, Edmundo M. Nieto and Jose M. Saenz were elected as the city's first aldermen. Charles Valentine was the sole loser.

Manuel P. Manriquez Jr., who was elected marshal, was the only candidate running for the position.

Authorities Net Million In Methamphetamines

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities seized over $1 million worth of methamphetamines in a raid on a major illegal drug laboratory covering the entire second floor of a farmhouse northeast of Dallas, officials said.

Collin County sheriff's Lt. Terry Box said federal agents participating in the raid called the laboratory "the largest they've ever seen."

Officials arrested one man during the raid Tuesday night and said more arrests were expected, Box said.

Box said the laboratory was filled with sophisticated equipment and a large supply of chemicals.

"It was as if you took some rooms in your house and turned them into a pharmacy," he added.

He said the 12 officers participating in the raid loaded a van with 100 boxes of lab equipment that was dismantled by a chemist with the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Box said a tip to police about the location of the laboratory sparked a three-month investigation by the DEA, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the Collin County sheriff's department and McKinney police.

Co-ops Asking To Void Contract

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Pedernales and Bluebonnet electric cooperatives are asking a state court to void a 1974 contract they signed to buy wholesale electricity solely from the Lower Colorado River Authority.

The suit, filed in 98th District Court, also asks that the LCRA pay the cooperatives $138 million in damages and overcharges.

The petition said the two acted under duress because their directors were told LCRA would cut off their wholesale power unless they contract was signed.

If the contract is voided, the two cooperatives have plans to generate their own electricity by the end of the decade with their own lignite-fired power plant.

try said. The help Gentry referred to is in the form of an increase in equalization aid and a lowering of the local fund assignment.

The local fund assignment is a figure placed upon the school district after the state passes an education program Gentry said. "The state passes a program and then says we'll pay so much and you (the local district) will pay so much," he said. "The figure is based on the property on the local tax roll and the number of students in the district."

For the local school district to receive the needed help the commissioner of education would have to declare the district to be in an economic emergency situation.

"We feel good about such an event happening," Gentry said. He added that the Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA) has pledged to help the local district in receiving aid.

"I have a verbal commitment from Richard McDonald (TCFA Executive Director from Amarillo) that the cattle feeders will help us get aid," Gentry said.

McDonald verified that commitment to The Brand this morning. "We will work with the Hereford school district in any way we can to help," he said.

A total of 1,454 voters showed up at the polls yesterday in Deaf Smith County out of 8,100 who were eligible. That figures to 18 percent of those eligible, a fairly low turnout.

"Still, I think we did better than many other counties across the state," County Clerk B.F. Cain said.

Precinct 11 had the largest turnout in the county with 518 voters, while Precinct 1 had 303; Precinct 2, 212; and Precinct 5, 182.

Following is a list of how the votes were cast for each of the seven amendments in the county.

No.2	1,157	251
No.3	637	752

state to guarantee $500 million in water development bonds issued by local governments.

The proposal had divided many of the state's politicians, with Republican Clements and Democrat Clayton behind it and Lieutenant Gov. Bill Hobby and former Gov. Allan Shivers, both Democrats, against it.

Clayton said the low turnout and voter confusion contributed to the amendment's failure.

"I am disappointed because it was a unique opportunity for the people of this state to take care of a crisis they will face in the future," he said from his Springlake home.

The amendment, which primarily would have helped arid West Texas, lost by 59 percent in metropolitan areas, 58 percent in urban areas and 52 percent in rural parts of the state.

The governmental budget panel, similar to a fiscal management committee that failed by 56 percent last year, lost by 61 percent this time.

"You can sum it up on the basis that I am disappointed," Clements said from his Dallas home.

"The passage of the other amendments is important and I was for them, of course, but the two that were really significant were the two that are failing. It just goes to show again that the people of Texas are very discriminating in how they evaluate these kinds of changes to our constitution. As far as I am concerned, the people have spoken and so be it."

But Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said he considers the defeat of the two amendments a "serious personal defeat for Clements. Those were the only two he campaigned for."

Doggett said Texans are for water planning, "but they would like more emphasis on conservation, both water and money. This was nothing but a blank check pushed by Bill Clayton."

The homeowners' tax exemption amendment carries a local option that will take effect Jan. 1. Cities and school districts then can grant homeowners tax exemptions, with a minimum of $5,000, up to 40 percent through 1984, 30 percent from 1985 to 1987 and 20 percent thereafter.

The livestock exemptions will take effect for the fiscal year 1982, although most local governments don't tax livestock and poultry now. An attorney general's ruling five years ago that the animals were not covered necessitated the amendment vote.

The redevelopment tax exemptions are designed for underdeveloped, abandoned or deteriorated areas. As of Jan. 1, 1983, elected officials can freeze taxes in the "reinvestment zones" and could issue bonds to finance new services to the areas.

Under the veterans' land program, $250 million in state bonds will be issued immediately to allow loans for the 13,500 veterans now waiting for them. The maximum interest rate on such loans also will rise from 6 percent to 10 percent.

Shuttle

Space Administration officials decided to load Columbia with half-a-million gallons of volatile fuel at a post-midnight weather meeting and launch director George Page gave the signal to start the five-hour fueling operation at 1:10 a.m.

The astronauts' journey was scheduled for 83 orbits in 5 days and 4 hours — more than double the length of Columbia's spectacular April debut. On launch, landing and in orbit, the crew were to conduct tests designed to further stretch the limits of the ship's capabilities on this second of four test flights.

Engle, 49, an Air Force colonel, and Truly, 43, a Navy captain, are the first to fly a used spacecraft.

Truly said that while the mission is oriented toward the ship's operational capabilities, the primary goal remains the demonstration of a successful launch, re-entry and landing.

"We are still in the front end of a very complicated flight test program," he said. "Our mission rules are very conservative. If we have a failure and our rules tell us we have to come home early, we will do that. In that case I would call it a successful flight if we get the spacecraft home safely with some solid data on the arm and from the experiments."

Columbia and its three successors, Challenger, Atlantis and Discovery, each are designed to make more than 100 trips into space.

In an interview Tuesday, James Beggs, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said these four shuttles will be the main transports for this nation's military, scientific and commercial space activity for the next decade or more.

"Columbia's second launching is significant," he said, "because a successful flight will put us 10 years ahead of the rest of the world in our ability to utilize space economically. It will prove we have a reusable space transportation system that is as economical as any system ever conceived."

The astronauts plan to exercise the vehicle's many systems much more vigorously than John Young and Robert Crippen did in April. And they are to spend several hours testing a 50-foot mechanical arm that will be used in the future to place satellites in orbits and retrieve others for servicing.

The robot operates much like a human arm, with shoulder, elbow and wrist that bend and turn. It is hinged in the shuttle's 60-foot cargo bay and is controlled from inside the cockpit, with Truly slated to do most of the maneuvers during the second, third and fourth days of the mission.

Columbia's cargo bay also will carry its first payload, a 5,347-pound package of earth-monitoring experiments. Among them are devices to scan the globe for geological formations and rock types that might point to mineral deposits and ocean color sensors to search for potential deepwater fishing grounds.

The shuttle will fly upside down, relative to Earth, most of the flight so the experiments will be directed downward.

After circling the globe 83 times, the astronauts are to trigger Columbia's braking rockets high above the Indian Ocean and aim once again for a landing on the wide open Rogers dry lakebed at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Mayor Turns City Upside-Down

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — A radio station owner with a grandfatherly face, a handlebar mustache and an easy smile is turning this border city upside down with his maverick brand of populist politics.

Since taking office Jan. 1, Mayor Jorge Cardenas Gonzalez has closed cantinas on Sundays, donated his $12,000 salary to illuminate crime-plagued neighborhoods and told barkeeps in the infamous "Boys' Town" redlight district to move out or shut down.

His campaign slogan was "Jorge es el cambio" — "Jorge is the change" — and he says he's trying to change everything wrong with this city across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Texas.

"When we started the campaign, we found out that Matamoros was a sick city, politically, morally and financially. It was terribly bad," he said.

Cardenas, 55, challenged the candidate backed by Mexico's establishment party, Partido Revolucionario Institucional — the party of President Jose Lopez Portillo and most elected officials in this country.

Cardenas bolted PRI several years ago to join the opposition PARM, Partido Autentico de la Revolucion Mexicana. Despite his middle-class background and ownership of grocery stores, orange groves, a hotel, a rope factory and two radio stations, he has become a folk hero to many impoverished supporters — "Jorgistas" who helped elect him by a 2-to-1 margin.

His popularity contrasts starkly with feelings about his predecessor, who three years ago was dragged from his office by a mob enraged over the death of a teenager while in police custody.

The mob burned the municipal palace, which houses the mayor's office. Cardenas remodeled the office. He tore out a wall, replaced it with glass "to let everyone see who is here" and removed all door locks.

He promised an open government and has set aside daily "office hours" to meet the public. On a daily talk show on one of his radio stations, he takes questions and complaints from listeners.

"We want them to know how money is invested, what is going to be done with money, what errors are committed in city administration and how we messed up," he said.

Cardenas ran three times for mayor before winning his three-year term. He cannot succeed himself, so he has little to lose politically in his reform projects. Top priorities for the city of 210,000 are street and drainage improvements, he said. Some areas now turn into lakes after a heavy rain.

"We are going to close the redlight district or move it out of town," he said. "The club owners came to see me and I firmly told them that this year we have to make a move or we close it. It is causing a very serious problem where it is now."

Shootings and knifings within the "zona roja" have alarmed the surrounding residential areas.

"We're going to run a socially moral city, that is my aim," he said.

Local leaders learned Cardenas was beholden to no one when police arrested several sons of influential families during raids on a popular drinking and marijuana-smoking hangout.

"I don't care if you are rich or poor. Everyone is going to get the same treatment — jail," he said at the time.

Legendary corruption and favoritism among Mexican officials is another of Cardenas' targets.

"I'm going to tell you the truth," he said, breaking into a wide grin. "If we had to put them (corrupt officials) in jail, we wouldn't have the jail space. They would not fit. That is just the plain truth."

He blames much of the problem on dismal salaries that encourage people to take money under the table.

"When I started, a policeman was making 3,250 pesos ($130) a month. Now a policeman makes 7,350 pesos ($294), which is above the minimum wage, with all kinds of benefits," he said. "I don't doubt that some of them would be corrupt. But I can sincerely say that 95 to 99 percent of public officials here are honest."

Cardenas knows Matamoros depends on tourism for revenue and has exempted tourist-oriented bars from the Sunday closing law. Tourists are not, however, exempt from random gun searches the Mexican army conducts in restaurants and bars. The pistol checks are aimed at reducing the number of bar-room shootings.

The mayor doesn't worry that the checks might drive tourists away: "On the contrary, this will help tourism. I've never said it's the tourists who carry pistols. It is other people, residents of Matamoros and others who are armed and I am certain by the end of the year, things will be back to normal."

The joyous frenzy that filled Plaza Hidalgo when Cardenas won the election last December has an opposite, frightening side. The mayor says he continues to receive death threats that started during the campaign.

But he is philosophical. "There is a saying in Spanish. 'Pero que ladro no meurde (a barking dog doesn't bite),' he said. "While they're barking, there's no concern for me."

Officials Knew Of Defrauding

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Two Mission school officials charged with defrauding a school lunch program knew of irregularities in the central cafeteria two years before the FBI started investigating, a former school worker has testified.

Juanita Ochoa, who was fired in June 1979 as a secretary in the central cafeteria, testified Tuesday that her boss, Michael Jon McCarthy, and Assistant Superintendent Robert Wicks were told of the problems.

Miss Ochoa said she was present when McCarthy, food services director, learned of a phony milk delivery invoice scheme in November 1978.

"Mr. McCarthy asked a few questions and then he just walked away, said Miss Ochoa, who testified as a government rebuttal witness in federal trial.

She said another former secretary, Margarita Moreno, told McCarthy how school workers asked the Golden Jersey Creamery in Edinburg to make up fake tickets for half-pints of milk.

Miss Moreno and other witnesses have testified that the school district would pay for the fake tickets but would get credit for the payments in a "special account" kept at the dairy. The school system would purchase ice cream, cottage cheese and other dairy products with the credit balance.

Indictments returned this summer charge the school district with receiving $488,000 in federal reimbursement for meals that did not contain the necessary half-pints of milk. The phony invoice scheme, prosecutors contend, was designed to prove the district had purchased enough milk when it had not.

McCarthy testified Tuesday under cross-examination that he did not learn of the fake tickets until late 1980 although he said he learned of the "special account" in March or April 1980.

Adjustment Needed For Winter Driving

"Driving on icy, snow covered, or wet roads takes skill and patience. Drivers need to adjust their driving habits to weather conditions and winterize their vehicles," said Mayor C.W. Bell, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Major Bell stated, "Many accidents and deaths are caused by driving too fast for existing conditions and losing control of the vehicle. Allow yourself more time to arrive at your destination since winter driving requires more following and stopping distance than normal driving. If a skid occurs, do not panic and hit your brakes, ease off the accelerator and turn into the skid. If the rear end skids right, turn wheels to the right; if the rear end skids left, turn the wheels to the left. Tap your brakes lightly, don't lock them."

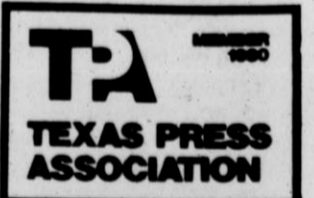

Vehicles should be winterized by replacing worn windshield wiper blades, weak batteries, tires with thin threads, and repairing malfunctioning heaters and leaks in exhaust systems.

Major Bell emphasized getting in a hurry will not get you to your destination any faster, but slowing down and taking your time will get you there safely.

History Book Sales Continuing

Book sales are continuing for "The Land and its People." It is possible that this will be the only book published containing the history of your family and friends as told by those people living today. Copies of the book will be available to your family only if they are purchased now. Only the number of books ordered prior to publication will be printed. Therefore your children and grandchildren, who will someday have a household of their own, will not have a book unless it is purchased for them at this time.

The office is open from 1-5 p.m. Tuesday thru Friday.

Books must be paid for at the time they are ordered.

Checks may be mailed to Box 2297, Hereford, or you may call 364-7349, or Sue Coleman at the E.B. Black House (364-3454) to order your books.

Ann Landers

Embarrassed?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell your readers that they should never ask country people how many acres they own.

It is the same as asking, "How much money do you have in the bank?" Just call me - An Embarrassed Rancher In Monterey, Calif.

DEAR RANCHER: Why are you embarrassed? Too few or too many?

Actually, I don't think the question is in poor taste. But what do I know - me in my Chicago apartment? How about it, folks who own property-am I wrong?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 26 years old. After my child was born I had a tubal ligation. Is there a way a doctor can untie the tubes? I would love to have one more child, if possible.

I hope you will print your answer in your column, because I have no one to discuss this with. I would be ashamed to admit what I did.

P.S. Please tell your readers that a woman who is pregnant is not in the proper frame of mind to decide whether or not she wants more children. Sign me-Very Sorry In California

DEAR SORRY: Some tubal ligations can be reversed.

Others cannot. Only your gynecologist knows for sure.

I agree: No woman should make such a decision when she is pregnant-and at 26, after only one child! Please tell me your doctor tried to talk you out of it.

DEAR ANN: I hope you will allow me to share my story with your readers. I am a compulsive overeater but, thanks to the support and love of Overeaters Anonymous, I am now able to limit my eating to three balanced meals a day. I like myself for the first time in my life, and my world keeps changing for the better.

Before I joined OA I was out of control. I devoured half pounds, pounds, layers, boxes and bags of junk food in addition to my regular meals. I learned through OA that compulsive overeating is a disease like alcoholism and gambling. Will power is not enough to make a compulsive stop stuffing his face. I tried for 15 years and it didn't work.

Many diets and diet groups can help you lose weight, but OA offers a spiritual and mental approach that will teach you how to handle life's challenges without turning to food.

Please, Ann, urge your readers to hunt up the nearest OA chapter. I've gone from a size-22 to a 16. Size 14 is my goal (I'm 5-6) and I'm going to make it by Christmas. God bless you for the service you render.-M.S., Flint, Mich.

DEAR M.S.: Thank YOU for reminding me that it's time to plug OA again. They do a remarkable job.

Business Failures Up Sharply From Last Year

By ROBERT BURNS AP Business Writer
Towering interest expenses and sluggish sales are pushing U.S. businesses into collapse at a faster pace than during the recession year of 1980, according to the latest federal government and private economic figures. Dun & Bradstreet, the economic information service in New York, reported Monday that there were 459 commercial and industrial failures in the final week of October, or 51 percent more than in the comparable week last year.

For the year through Oct. 29, business failures are up 41 percent from the corresponding 1980 period, Dun & Bradstreet said.

The government's latest economic reports indicated more bad news ahead for business despite a reduction

Monday in prime lending rates at major U.S. banks.

The Commerce Department said orders for new manufactured goods fell sharply in September, while manufacturers' inventories rose. In a separate report, the department said the value of new construction in September declined 0.4 percent, hitting the lowest rate since October 1980.

The department said orders for new manufactured goods fell 0.9 percent in September. That was better than the revised drop of 1.5 percent in August but it would have been worse if not for an 18.1 percent rise in defense orders.

More significantly, the department said the value of non-defense capital goods in September plunged 8 percent from August after being unchanged between July and August. That represents a steep drop in corporations' spending on plant and equipment, a key to the nation's manufacturing system.

Meanwhile, the department said the value of manufacturers' inventories rose 1.1 percent in September, the biggest jump since last February and a sign manufacturers will cut production to compensate for lower demand.

Meanwhile, banks and savings institutions will be paying lower rates starting today on six-month money market certificates sold in minimum amounts of $10,000. As a result of the Treasury Department's latest auction of bills Monday, the rate financial institutions may pay on the six-month certificates falls to 13.659 percent from the previous 13.869 percent.

Encouraged by the prospect of lower interest rates, the stock market rose sharply Monday while prices in the bond market were mixed. Open-market interest rates were mostly lower.

In another development, a federal judge in Cleveland agreed to reconsider a ruling that temporarily barred Mobil Oil Co. from pursuing its $3.4 billion tender offer for 67 percent of Marathon Oil Co.'s common stock.

Judge Frank J. Battisti, chief judge of the U.S.

District Court for northern Ohio, scheduled a session for 10 a.m. today on Mobil's request that he dismiss a temporary restraining order he issued late Sunday.

The order keeps Mobil and its stock brokerage manager from soliciting stock or pursuing its offer in other ways for at least one week from today.

CBS Offers Psychological Profile of Rape Victim's Husband

NEW YORK (AP) — Rape, of course, is a crime against women, but CBS offers an interesting psychological profile of a secondary sufferer — the husband — in tonight's TV movie, "The Other Victim."

This different perspective is well-drawn by William Devane as Harry Langford. Harry is so confused and haunted by the violation of his wife that he can't function normally. His relationships with his wife, children and friends all begin disintegrating as he becomes obsessed with tracking down the rapist.

The film begins with Harry and Nancy (Jennifer O'Neill) in bed, remembering fondly their night before. They've been married for 18 years and seem to have a solid alliance, two beautiful teen-agers, a pleasant home and two big cars.

When Harry and the kids leave after breakfast, Nancy is alone. There's a sudden knock on the door and a cheerful reply: "Who forgot something?" A man enters and flashes a knife. The rest is left to our imagination, indicative of this classy, subtle production.

Harry's first reaction is to be comforting and reassuring: "You're safe now; I'm here." He wants to call the police; she resists. But Nancy sees her doctor and painfully recounts some details. Harry is listening outside the office, his rage mounting.

Slowly, Nancy begins to move beyond the rape, but it's Harry who won't let go. There's a sharp turnaround in attitudes through poignant portrayals by Devane and Miss O'Neill. Increasingly tormented and paranoid, Harry badgers the police to solve the crime. Impatient with the slow pace of the case, he purchases a gun.

Harry becomes volatile at work, overprotective of his daughter and suspicious of everybody he meets. He and Nancy barely talk, and it's Harry who develops sexual problems. Nancy unsuccessfully tries to force him to look inside. "Maybe the man took something that belongs to you," she says. "Maybe you think I'm dirty."

Nancy goes for counseling; Harry refuses. "I'm fine."

To Hold Enchilada Supper

The Band and Orchestra Booster Club will hold an enchilada supper in the Hereford High School Cafeteria Thursday night.

The supper will be served from 5-7 p.m., and tickets will cost $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. The public is invited.

"You never know what is enough until you know what is more than enough."

William Blake

It takes 10 to 12 inches of snow to equal one inch of rain.

You're the main concern here." It's all one denial. He won't admit any feelings or emotions. He won't be honest to himself or Nancy about how the rape affected him.

One thing about this movie: it takes the high road. Besides not exploiting the sex and violence of the rape, it avoids the obvious. Harry resists the sexual advances of an eager co-worker, even though he tells a counselor, in whom he finally confides, that he considered the affair to improve his manhood, but he has never been unfaithful.

This is a courageous movie, dealing with a sensitive subject in a sophisticated way. Although it gets a bit talky and takes a far-fetched turn at the end, it is an example of television that can be entertaining and revealing without sacrificing its intelligence.

MAKING ADJUSTMENTS

Bob Wear

BY Bob Wear

ONE ESSENTIAL of effective, meaningful living is found in the skills with which we can make adjustments. This does not mean that we are vacillating; that we never have any convictions; that we think and act one way today and some other way tomorrow. It does mean, however, that there is a vast area of living in which we must be flexible; an area in which adjustments must be made. Of course, we must have convictions that are well-established; and these will not be altered by the essential adjustments.

CONVICTIONS, wisely established, will serve as the frame of reference and the strength appropriate to the movement involving the well-made adjustments. There will be no conflict between that which must be fixed and that which must be changed about by making adjustments.

THE MATURATION PROCESS must be a series of very well-indicated adjustments, and when they are not made with reasonable alacrity; we are in trouble.

ADJUSTMENTS MUST BE MADE, when we move from infancy to childhood; from childhood to young adulthood; from single life to married life; then more adjustments, when children are born. In a happy husband-wife relationship, and a happy parent-child relationship, there are many continuing adjustments.

WHEN CHILDREN LEAVE HOME, there are some very critical adjustments for all concerned. They can be made, and must be made so well that everybody is perfectly contented with the new situation and the new relationships.

ANOTHER ADJUSTMENT becomes necessary when loved ones die. This is not an easy one, but it can and must be made. There is adequate help available, if help is needed.

THERE ARE MANY lesser adjustments, but even these are important to us. They are found in our schooling and training experiences; in our work; in our social life; in our general life patterns, such as moving from one community to another, and when our financial condition fluctuates, and when our state of health varies, and in so many other departments of the life structure.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of the fixed values in the successful life, the living experience is a series of adjustments. It is helpful to know that holding fast the fixed values will be a valuable aid in making the essential adjustments.

LIFE IS GREAT, when we hold fast all justified convictions; and, with this foundation, to the best of our ability, we very diligently continue making the indicated adjustments. Skillful assistance is available, when it is needed. We can do it, and do it well.

-Bob Wear

Declining Income To Face Farmers In 1982

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of Agriculture Department experts said today that farmers' net income is expected to decline again in 1982 — perhaps by $1 billion to $3 billion — but there are a few bright spots.

For example, they said, farmers' equity in their operations has continued to grow, averaging $379,000 per farm last Jan. 1 against $303,000 on Jan. 1, 1979, a 25 percent increase in two years.

"Serious cash flow problems over the last two years, however, have forced many farmers to borrow heavily against their equity to finance current-year farm operations," they said.

The analysts — George

Hoffman, Allen Smith and Gary Lucier of the department's Economic Research Service — made their report in a paper for the annual Agricultural Outlook Conference.

"Many farmers have substantial off-farm income," the report said. "Last year over 60 percent of total farm family income was from off-farm sources."

Despite the gloomy outlook for farm income, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block continues to hang tough on new farm legislation.

At a news conference Tuesday, Block criticized a House-passed farm measure as being too costly, too repressive and too much aimed from Reagan administration free-market policies.

The administration prefers the Senate version, which is less costly and has more flexibility. A House-Senate conference committee is scheduled to begin work today to iron out differences.

Meanwhile, a coalition of farm organizations and commodity groups has petitioned congressional farm leaders, Block and President Reagan to support a compromise "at least equal to the provisions" in the House farm bill for grain, milk and wool.

Without substantial changes, the groups said, farmers face "the largest number of bankruptcies ... relatively speaking, than at any time since the 1930s."

Block, who was asked to respond to the coalition's assertions, said that he appreciated that "farm prices are not good" and that many producers are in a bind.

"But the solution to it is certainly not high target prices which could mean a direct payment out of the Treasury," Block said.

Target prices are levels which determine how much subsidy is paid if market prices slump below the targets. Many farm groups want the new legislation to include higher targets.

Block said higher target prices "would do far more damage in the long run" by adding to federal costs and inflation and pushing up interest rates still further.

"The solution is not more money out of the Treasury, and the solution is not government programs that have a great amount of government meddling in farmers' business," he said.

Block said Reagan would meet with congressional farm leaders in hopes of winning their support for the administration's view on the legislation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The use of sweeteners made from corn continues to grow and is likely to rise further over the next few years, says the Agriculture Department.

Per capita consumption of the corn sweeteners — which includes glucose, dextrose and HFCS or high fructose corn syrup — is estimated at a record of 44.8 pounds this year, up from 40.6 pounds in 1980.

Analysts at the annual Agricultural Outlook Conference here this week said projections indicate the per capita use of corn sweeteners will increase to 47.4 pounds in 1982, 49.9 pounds in 1983, 52.3 pounds in 1984, and 54.6 pounds in 1985.

Per capita use of refined sugar, by comparison, is expected to average 79.7 pounds this year, down from 83.7 in 1980. Projections show a continued decline through 1985 when the average is expected to be 70.5 pounds per capita.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says world production of pistachio nuts is expected to set a record of 89,700 metric tons, led by a sharp rebound in the size of Iran's harvest.

U.S. production, meanwhile, is down sharply from 1980, the department said Wednesday.

Officials said the new world estimate compared with 56,100 tons harvested last year, 43,000 in 1979 and the previous record of 74,700 in 1978. The weights are on an unshelled basis.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Iranian production is estimated at 50,000 tons.

Deterioration Seen In Cotton Seed

LUBBOCK — Wet and relatively warm fall weather in the Texas High Plains has increased the possibility that the seed in early-maturing cotton fields has suffered some deterioration, cautions a cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cottonseed exposed to such conditions or subjected to poor storage conditions after harvest often undergoes fairly rapid deterioration in quality, said Dr. James R. Supak, Extension cotton agronomist. This deterioration is frequently reflected by an increased free fatty acid content of the seed, he said.

"Basically, these acids are both the building for—and the breakdown products of—cottonseed oil," Supak explained. The cotton plant is able to convert the sugars it produces into fatty acids and eventually oil. This oil serves as a major source of energy that keeps the seed alive during storage and that enable the seed to germinate and establish a strong, healthy seedling.

Cottonseed always contains some free fatty acids in the tissues. This is due to the presence of fatty acids that were not synthesized into oils or to fatty acids that result from breakdown of oil needed to keep the seed viable during storage. The concentrations of free fatty acids in well matured, properly processed cottonseed are generally well below one percent, the agronomist said.

"Higher levels (greater than 1 percent) are common in immature seed where the fatty acids were not formed into oil and in deteriorated seed where warm, moist conditions triggered a faster than normal breakdown of oil into fatty acids," Supak said.

He noted that many seedsmen and delinting plant operators use the free fatty acid test in conjunction with germination tests to assess seed quality. If free fatty acids exceed two to three percent, the seed are usually not suitable for planting purposes.

"Seed with free fatty acids in the 1 to 2 percent range are considered questionable whereas seed with less than 1 percent free fatty acids usually make acceptable planting seed," Supak said.

"There are exceptions," he admitted. For example, high free fatty acid levels may be due primarily to the immature seed in a given seed lot. If these seed can be removed during the delinting-grading process, the overall quality of the seed lot may be acceptable.

"Likewise, a few badly deteriorated seed, such as might occur near the bottom of a module formed on wet ground, can contain up to 30 percent free fatty acids while the rest of the seed are sound. A few such badly deteriorated seed in a test sample can give a false impression of the overall condition of the seed lot.

At the other extreme, seed can be dead and not have a high free fat acidity content, he noted. Seed can die from causes other than the high humidity-high temperature condition normally required for free fatty acid development.

"If seed die or deteriorate under dry conditions the free fatty acid levels may be quite low but the seed will be useless for planting purposes," Supak said.

Hence a free fatty acid test, by itself, does not provide all the information needed to make a judgement about how the seed will eventually perform in the field, he cautioned. The overall analyses should also include consideration of how well the crop matured in the field, how much exposure to weather the crop endured before harvest, conditions during storage (especially moisture and temperature levels in modules), the appearance of the seed after ginning and performance in laboratory germination tests.

Some seed lots may have acceptable germination percentages but still contain more than 1 percent free fatty acids. If there are no (or very few) immature or badly deteriorated seed present, these seed would be suitable for planting but only under near optimum conditions, the agronomist said.

"Such seed lots tend to have slight but uniform deterioration in all seed. They would not (in all likelihood) have high vigor and would be apt to perform poorly if adverse planting conditions were encountered," Supak said.

Such seed should not be "carried over" as additional deterioration will occur in storage and the vigor and germination will tend to decline rapidly, he stressed.

Free fatty acid levels can serve as a rough guide in determining the extent of seed deterioration, the Extension agronomist said. Many delinting plants and private laboratories are equipped to conduct both the free fatty acid and germination tests.

Government To Decide On Set Aside Program

COLLEGE STATION — With a lot of cotton being produced this year, prices are down. This dilemma may lead the government back to agriculture to create a cotton set-aside program—a program in which farmers would be paid not to grow cotton on a certain amount of their land.

"Interest in set-aside programs always increases when production is up and prices are down," says Dr. Ron Knutson, economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Since Secretary of Agriculture Block recently announced a 15 percent wheat set-aside, interest has grown regarding a similar program for cotton."

Such a program would be optional for cotton farmers, explains Knutson. If they opted to participate, they could not plant cotton or any other crop for harvest on the deferred acres. Failure to set aside the acreage specified once in the program would result in the farmer losing any benefits from farm programs, including target prices and loans.

How much would a set-aside program help cotton prices?

"Based on past experiences with set-aside programs, a 15 percent set-aside would result in only a 3 to 5 percent decrease in production," points out Knutson. "This reduced production would roughly increase cotton prices by 5 percent."

One reason why production would not be reduced more with such a set-aside program is that only one-half to two-thirds of the farmers normally participate. Also, those who do put their poorest land into the program and increase inputs on the remainder of their land to boost production.

Fingers Named AL Cy Young Award Winner

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Rollie Fingers says every pitcher who has ever won the Cy Young Award will tell you the same thing, "that everything went right during the whole year."

Fingers, cagey 13-year veteran with a handlebar mustache, was voted the 1981 Cy Young winner in the American League by the Baseball Writers Association of America, the BBWAA announced Tuesday.

The Milwaukee Brewers right-hander said he was surprised because he was a reliever and "being a relief pitcher, it doesn't happen that often. It makes winning even more gratifying."

Sparky Lyle, then with the New York Yankees, was the only other AL reliever to win the award, in 1977. Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs in 1979 and Mike Marshall of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974 won it in the National League.

"I feel this was my best season ever. Very few guys get a chance to have a year like I had," Fingers said when he learned of the award after arriving in Las Vegas, Nev., for a visit. "Every guy on the ballclub played great behind me, that's one of the main reasons I won."

"I gave up 10 runs all year, and every one of them was earned," he said. "The defense didn't give up a run when I was out there."

Fingers paid special tribute to shortstop Robin Yount and second baseman Jim Gantner for "getting me out of several jams."

He also said he was helped by the experience of catchers Ted Simmons and Charlie Moore, especially on "how to pitch to hitters I didn't know."

Fingers, 35, won six games and had 28 saves with a 1.04 earned-run average in 47 appearances for Milwaukee. He worked 78 innings, striking out 61 and walking only 13.

He finished well ahead of Oakland's Steve McCatty in balloting by a special panel that consisted of two writers from each of the BBWAA's 14 franchise cities.

Fingers received 22 of 28 first-place ballots and finished with 126 points. He was the only pitcher named on every ballot. McCatty had the other six first-place votes and finished with 84½ points. Jack Morris of Detroit was third with 21 points.

Milwaukee won the second-half title in the AL East but lost to the New York Yankees in five games in the miniplayoffs.

"Awards at the end of the season are fine, but it's playoff wins and the World Series that really matter. We were shooting for a World Series and I sure would have liked to have gotten there," said Fingers, who broke into the major leagues with Oakland in 1969.

Fingers was an essential part of the A's World Series victories in 1972, '73 and '74. He was the Most Valuable Player of 1974 Series against Los Angeles, winning one game and saving two with a 1.93 ERA.

Fingers left the A's in the first free agent re-entry draft in 1976, signed with San Diego and worked four seasons for the Padres. San Diego traded him to St. Louis last December during the winter baseball meetings, and St. Louis sent him to Milwaukee two days later.

Soccer Winners

The Orange Crush soccer team, coached by Charlene Sanders and John Faulkner captured the United Way Funded YMCA girls soccer league championship with a 5-0-1 record. Members of the team include Camille Martin, Stephanie Jones, Sheridan Brannon, Crystal Mondragon, Jody Decker, JoD'Lynn Lytal, Taylor Brooks, Lori Sanders, Nikki Lindeman, Cassie Brooks, Jayme Moore, Amber Brooks, Gina Alley, Krystal Sims, Stacy White, Amy Faulkner and Melanie Faulkner.

Corrales Named Phillies Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former Texas Rangers Manager Pat Corrales has been signed to a two-year contract to manage the Philadelphia Phillies, a team spokesman said today.

Spokesman Larry Shenk said the club would hold an 11 a.m., EST, news conference to discuss the appointment.

Bill Giles, who put together a group that bought the Phillies last week for $30 175 million, talked with Corrales Tuesday night to clear the way for the announcement.

Giles and General Manager Paul Owens settled some differences on selection of coaches and came to terms on salary and length of contract.

The Phillies narrowed the field for the job to Corrales and Bobby Wine, a coach with the team the past 10 years.

Corrales, 40, managed Texas the final game of the 1978 season and the following two years.

Corrales originally signed with the Phillies' organization as a catcher out of a Fresno, Calif., high school in 1959. He was in the Phillies' system through 1965, and then played for the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and San Diego Padres.

He was a journeyman catcher, usually a backup type. At St. Louis, he was the favorite catcher for Bob Gibson, now in the Hall of Fame. Gibson requested Corrales because he liked the receiver's strong arm.

Ball Named Player of Week

Alfred Ball, who has the philosophy of 'running in a straight line is boring,' did some straight line running last Friday night against the Coronado Mustangs as he gained 114 yards. For that effort he was named as the Globe News and Avalanche-Journal player of the week.

Ball, who sees considerable playing time despite being the backup tailback for the Whitefaces, scored his fourth and fifth touchdowns last week, leading a tremendous comeback as the Herd secured their ninth win without a loss in a 27-17 win over Coronado.

Along with his 6.75 yards per carry, Ball is also averaging 17.8 yards per catch in the pass receiving corp. In district standings, Ball is ranked fourth in rushing, but has the highest average per carry of any of the top ten rushers.

Cumpton said that Ball had a super game and broken eight tackles for extra yardage. His dip-in-dip-out style makes the defense adjust from the straight ahead running of starting tailback Wayne High.

For the year, Ball has 468 yards on 69 carries. HHS Head Coach Don

Breaking Away

Alfred Ball shows his strength, speed and shifty moves as he gets outside the Coronado defender in last week's game. In the game Ball rushed for 114 yards on 16 carries to lead the Whitefaces to win number nine. For his efforts, Ball was named player of the week by both the Amarillo and Lubbock papers. (Brand Photo by Kelly Cherry)

Skiers Not Known By Public

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

With first snows beginning to fall on the mountain peaks of Vermont, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, the cream of the nation's competitive skiers pour into New York Thursday to plot the new winter season.

Roll the names around on your tongue...Phil Mahre... twin brother Steve Mahre... Tamara McKinney... Heidi Preuss.

Never heard of them? Unless you're a real winter sports buff, they probably mean little. Certainly, the names fail to ring the recognition bells the way, let's say, Reggie Jackson and Fernando Valenzuela do in baseball or Terry Bradshaw and Tony Dorsett in football.

That's what Inez Aimee aims to correct.

"Skiing," says Aimee, the new executive director of the U.S. Ski Team, "has not enjoyed the visibility in this country of other sports, such as football and baseball.

"It's image is largely international, glorified more in European countries such as Austria, France and Italy where there are wall-to-wall mountains. Also it has suffered here because, as tennis and golf once were, it has been painted as an exclusive, snobbish pastime for the affluent."

Aimee was, for 13 years, one of the chief marketers of the National Football League in her role as vice-president of NFL Films and was so successful in her role that she once was named "NFL Man of the Year."

"There is little difference in the status of the U.S. ski team today than that of the NFL 20 or 30 years ago," she said. "The NFL was a struggling enterprise, overshadowed by the college game, which the late Bert Bell as commissioner operated out of a small office in Philadelphia.

"You should see our offices in Park City, Utah, remote ski country. We don't have walls that match. The ceilings have a different level. One day a secretary said she would paint the place if I would buy the paint."

"That's how primitive we are at the moment, but it's going to change — just as the NFL changed."

Aimee's job will be to put competitive skiing in newspaper headlines and on the family TV set until the names of the top performers will be as familiar to the American public as those of Jack Nicklaus, Chris Evert Lloyd, Pete Rose and Earl Campbell.

"It's a whopper. 'I think I have a product to sell,' she said. 'Skiers are all fresh-faced, handsome kids who look as if they came out of central casting in Hollywood.'

"They are world travelers, sophisticated, representing the best of American youth. They don't take drugs. You won't catch any of them in scandals."

Working with E.A. Hammer, president of the U.S. ski team, Aimee is shooting for a broad base market. On the World Cup, starting in Val d'Isere, France, Dec. 1, she plans a series of five-minute radio shows three times a week, featuring race results and vignettes of the leading competitors.

Panthers Coach Sees Ranking Unimportant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Coach Jackie Sherrill carries the nation's No. 1 ranking cautiously. He knows it's meaningless unless the Panthers finish on top at the end of the season.

"You want to be there at the end of the dance, not the beginning of it," Sherrill said Tuesday after Pitt became the sixth different team to hold the top spot in this topsy-turvy year.

The Panthers survived with a 29-24 win over Boston College last week after a less-than-impressive 23-10 victory over Syracuse. Nevertheless, Sherrill figures Pitt is the best team in the land.

"I don't think anyone else deserves it over us," he said. But Sherrill is concerned about what he calls "playing not to lose" in discussing why Pitt was so conservative in its last two games.

"When you play to win, you're reckless and you make things happen. When you play not to lose, things happen to you. It was very evident Saturday. We were playing not to lose," Sherrill said Tuesday.

"The pressure's going to be there. We have to handle the pressure if we're going to keep it rolling. Right now, the pressure is bothering us and we're not playing relaxed football," he added.

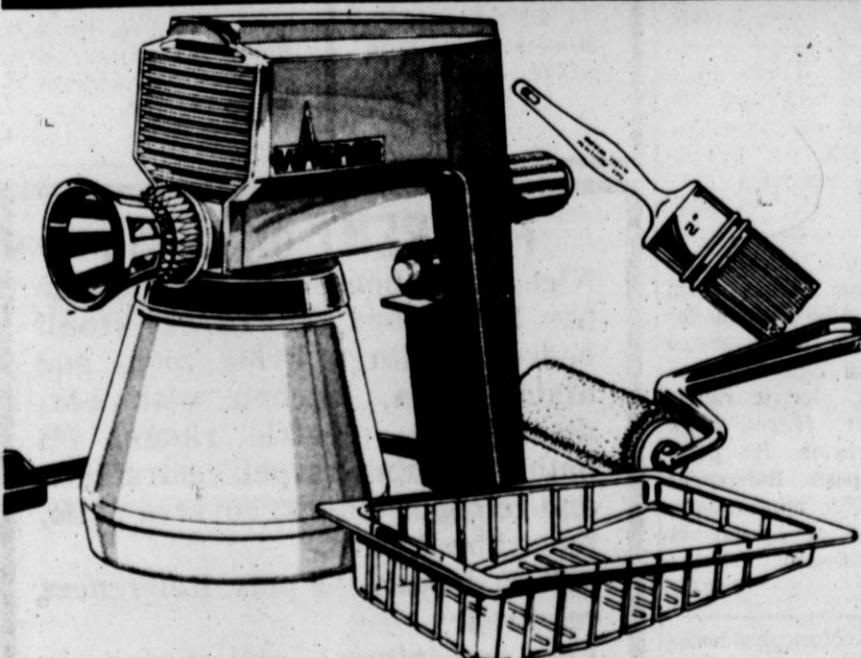

But the Pitt coach discounted any curse or jinx associated with the top spot, even if this is the first time in the 46-year history of The Associated Press poll that six different teams have been ranked No. 1.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Those of you holding your breath waiting for the redistricting issue to be resolved can let the air out now—but be prepared to take a big gulp real soon. The five-member Redistricting Board finished its work last Wednesday, re-mapping legislative districts for the Texas House and Senate, ending Act II of the reapportionment drama in the Lone Star State. However, several officials predicted a legal challenge arising from the El Paso area will send at the least the House plan into federal court, where the congressional redistricting plan already lingers. Many observers have predicted all along that the three of the redistricting tasks will eventually end up in court, where the lines will be drawn by a three-member panel of federal judges. If that becomes the case, it is quite possible that new district lines will not become valid until 1984 elections.

Nevertheless, the all- Democrat board staunchly went about its job last week, amid much political dealing. In the end, the board voted for a House plan that regained probably seven seats from the jaws of the Republican party. The Senate plan, too, was more Democratic, but no unusual pairings were drawn. Clayton, White, Bullock After Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby pushed through his Senate plan 4 to 1 over Comptroller Bob Bullock's plan, the Board turned to the House and the action began. Time after time, the Board met in the Senate chamber only long enough to recess into the back rooms. As predicted by many all along, Atty. Gen. Mark White provided the swing vote which eventually passed a compromise House plan 4 to 1. The Board accepted Speaker Bill Clayton's map for the rural areas of Texas, and took Bullock's plan for the urban House districts. Bullock couldn't take all the credit for deciding the metropolitan seats, however. State Rep. Paul Colbert, a Houston freshman legislator, drew the Harris County plan; Speaker candidate Rep. Carlisle Smith of Dallas shaped the Dallas map; and Rep. Tommy Adkisson negotiated the San Antonio plan.

Bullock's plan for El Paso held up when the Board voted final approval, perhaps his only victory in the hardball remapping. The week wasn't the best for the Comptroller, who came back from a California alcoholism clinic in time to vote on the Board. On the very day he was losing in the Senate, a former Travis County sheriff, Raymond Frank, announced he planned to run on the Republican ticket against Bullock. Frank charged that Bullock couldn't manage his own personal finances, much less the state's tax office, and the ex-sheriff disclosed three court judgments in which Bullock has been ordered to pay on defaulted loans, totaling more than one million dollars.

White To Announce Mark White, the man who played the middle perfectly in the redistricting action, is expected to announce sometime this month that he will run for governor. Already announced is Tyler State Sen. Peyton McKnight.

The pair might find a third Democrat in the fight for the privilege to run against Republican Gov. Bill Clements: outgoing Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong. Armstrong put off his intended announcement last week to sit on the Redistricting Board. Although Armstrong was not the heavyweight on that panel, he has received considerable encouragement from Democrats who felt Mark White neglected them in his search for campaign backing.

White's vote appeared carefully designed to protect conservatives, even Republicans, and he sometimes confessed abhorrence to the thought that his plan might be considered "liberal." Still, on the final night he worked with a representative from organized labor, John Rogers, at his side constantly.

Yarbrough's Passport Former Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough, who avoided a prison term by fleeing to Granada, may be extradited to the United States. Yarbrough resigned from the Court in 1977 during an investigation of charges he lied to a grand jury and allegedly tried to set up the murder of a South Texas banker. The former Justice is now unable to leave Granada, unless he returns to the United States, and he is considered to be living there illegally. 364-2030 Classified Advertising Department

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Individualize your diet

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR LAMB — Recently you agreed with the person who asked about eating poultry and fish rather than red meats to avoid saturated fats. Well, I have been told that half the fat in beef is unsaturated fat and that more than half of the fat in pork is unsaturated fat. What is wrong then with red meat for a diet? I always thought a good healthy diet should include some good red meat, that it was good for your blood and gave you a lot of good protein. Are some cuts of beef better than others? Which is better, pork or beef? Should you leave organ meats alone? DEAR READER — I have no objection to people eating red meats if their system can handle it. If you read my column often you know that I usually advocate individualizing rather than generalizing. If you happen to have a high cholesterol level, then it is wise to lose weight and to limit fat. If these measures are not adequate it is important to limit saturated fat and cholesterol. A severe problem might even be benefited by a vegetarian diet. It depends upon the patient and his problem. Now, good lean red meat — such as round steak with all the fat removed — is a good food. It is a good source of complete protein. And it is a low calorie food if you don't fry it in grease or add fat gravy to it. A whole pound of raw lean round steak only contains about 600 calories. You are right that about half of the fat in beef is unsaturated. But almost all of that is monounsaturated fat, which is not much better than saturated fat. Beef fat is very low in the polyunsaturated fat that many heart specialists believe is better for you. In general, the organ meats, except lean heart (which is really muscle, not an organ), are high in cholesterol. Brains are the highest cholesterol food available. I suspect avoiding brains will not create a dietary hardship for many. DEAR DR LAMB — I have recently found out that I have a leaky valve in the heart. To my knowledge I have never had rheumatic fever. I am allergic to penicillin. Is there any other antibiotic I can use? I am interested in the heart exercises and I would like any information on these. Also I have rheumatoid arthritis and take gold shots and Indocin. Is there any connection between the arthritis and the leaky valve? DEAR READER — People can and often do have more than one disease. It is possible that you have had rheumatic fever and never knew it. However, people with rheumatoid arthritis can have heart disease complications. The valves can be affected. You didn't say which joints were involved but about 10 percent of patients with involvement of the spine will have involvement of the aortic valve at the outlet of the heart. Only about 0.2 percent of patients with rheumatoid arthritis of the other joints develop this complication. Nodules and other evidence of rheumatoid involvement of the heart also occur. Yes, you can use other antibiotics if you cannot use penicillin and anyone with heart valve damage, from

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher
Pie crust problem solved

By Polly Fisher DEAR POLLY — I would like to know how to prevent pie crust from shrinking. It shrinks when I make it from scratch and when I use a package mix. Do you have any solutions? — MRS. J.S. DEAR MRS. J.S. — Try putting the unbaked pie shell or unbaked filled pie in the freezer for 15 minutes before baking it. Also, be sure to have your oven preheated before you put the pie in the oven. The idea is to get the pie crust baked enough to make it firm before the butter or shortening in the crust has a chance to melt and make the crust sag and shrink. If you're baking a pie shell blind — that means unfilled — you should line the bottom with waxed paper (after the freezer treatment described above), then cover the bottom with dried beans, rice or lead pellets before baking. This keeps the bottom of the shell from buckling up. The beans or rice can be reused or cooked normally after baking with the pie shell. — POLLY DEAR POLLY — Defrosting my refrigerator used to be the most hated job around my house until I discovered how to turn my refrigerator into the "self-defrosting" kind. Since my refrigerator has a drip pan under the freezer compartment, this method works out beautifully for me. First of all, I purchased an appliance timer. I set the timer so that it turns the refrigerator off at 1:30 a.m. and back on at 3:00 a.m. During the 1 1/2 hours the refrigerator is off, the freezer defrosts itself. By the time the family gets up in the morning, the freezer is ice-free and running again. All I have to do is empty the water in the drip tray. I have another separate freezer so I keep any frozen food in that while I'm defrosting the freezer in my refrigerator. — C.B. DEAR POLLY — When giving a pretty box of stationary to a special friend, I carefully take the envelopes out of the box, put stamps on them and then return them to their proper place in the box. — EVELYN DEAR POLLY — To perk up your old lampshades and lamp bases when redecorating, try spray painting them. I've used this method successfully a number of times. You can also brush oil-based paint on paper lampshades. — BARB
