Unemployment bill okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House has given its tentative OK to requiring farmers and ranchers to pay unemployment taxes that will be used to pay benefits to out-of-work farm workers.

The compromise bill, which won support from some agriculture organizations, faces a final House vote today. Wednesday's tentative approval came in an 86-54 vote.

"It's a tremendous victory for farm workers. It will stabilize and give dignity to farm workers, as all the other workers in state of Texas have," said Rebecca Harrington, president of the Texas United Farm Workers Union.

Employers pay tax, phase-in planned

Ms. Harrington said approximately 135,000 farm workers would be covered if the bill becomes law.

Since its inception in 1936, the unemployment system has excluded farm workers. In January, State District Judge Harley Clark ruled it was unconstitutional to bar farm workers from collecting the benefits available to others.

"This bill does exactly what Judge Clark wanted done," said Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-Texas City, the bill's sponsor.

The lawsuit was filed by the Texas Civil Liberties Union, which praised the House vote.

"It's not that we're claiming any special treatment, it's just that we're finally bringing farm workers into the same basic, equal treatment that other workers in Texas have enjoyed," said Jim Harrington, TCLU legal director.

"Certainly, it's a historic day in Texas that this can occur after a history of years and years and decades of discrimination," he added. "The House today sounded the death knell of an era of discrimination against workers who are predominantly and overwhelmingly Hispanic and black."

House floor opposition came from Pampa Rep. Foster Whaley, who questioned whether farmers can afford to pay the unemployment tax. He said financial problems have driven two farmers in his district to suicide this year.

Criss later said it's fair for farmers to pay the tax paid by other employers.

"It's time we stopped subsidizing farmers," Criss said. "It's time they paid their way. Their employees are not entitled to any fewer benefits than other employees."

The measure would force farm and ranch employers to pay unemployment taxes if they pay quarterly wages of at least $1,500 or hire at least one employee for 20 days during 20 weeks of a year.

House members approved an amendment to allow phase-in of unemployment coverage during 1986-87. Criss said the state unemployment fund would go broke if the new law was effective this year.

The Texas Employment Commission estimates $17 million worth of benefits would have to be paid this year, while only $10 million in taxes would be collected. If the unemployment fund has a negative balance in November, taxes for all employers would increase — by as much as $280 million, Criss said.

The two-year phase-in will avoid the deficit and resulting tax hike, he said.

IRS blushing at computer foulups

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is embarrassed by computer foulups and angered by allegations that some employees have destroyed tax returns. But, says its boss, don't think it's a good time to skip filing a tax return.

"If they do, they'll do it at their peril," says IRS Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger Jr.

"I am not concerned" that the agency's image as an efficient tax collector might be scarred so badly that people have little fear of getting caught if they cheat or don't file, Egger told a news conference Wednesday.

"This system is doing exactly what we planned it to do," he added, while acknowledging that, due to computer problems, the IRS is far behind schedule in processing individual tax returns.

Through April 5, the most recent figures available, the IRS had received 59.5 million returns but processed only 36.1 million. That is 20 percent behind last year's pace in processing.

Each of the 10 regional service centers is behind schedule.

You have the best chance of getting a quick refund if you live in Ohio or Michigan; you'll have the longest wait if you live in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware or the District of Columbia.

With the Monday deadline for filing individual tax returns approaching, Egger made these points:

—Most of the problems with the new $103 million computer system in the service centers have been solved. "By and large, the returns we get by next Monday midnight will be processed on time" — meaning before June 1. If a return is filed by April 15 and any refund is not paid by June 1, the IRS must pay 13 percent annual interest on the refund.

—Taxpayers should wait 10 weeks for their refund before calling the IRS to check on it. This year, the agency has a new automated system for tracing refund checks; telephone numbers are listed in the back of the instruction booklet that was mailed with tax forms. Although there are a lot of complaints that the numbers are busy most of the time, the system works, Egger said, "because I've tried it myself."

—He fills out his own tax return and has for 40 years. But he has not filed this year because some of the calculations he needs are tied up in a private company's computer.

—He is disgusted that some news organizations are using information from unnamed sources who claim that employees in the IRS service center in Philadelphia have destroyed some tax returns.

"There is no evidence other than unsupported statements by those who won't even show their faces on TV," Egger said.

Police arrest three

Hereford police made three arrests Wednesday; one for driving while license suspended and two for public intoxication.

Officers investigated one report of disorderly conduct, another of criminal mischief and a third of harassment.

Hereford and Dawn firemen extinguished a grass fire this morning, near the railroad tracks one mile east of Dawn.

County investigator killed near Dimmitt

A 33-year-old investigator with the Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney's office died early this morning in a one-car rollover near Dimmitt.

Terry Colston, who had worked for the District Attorney's office since Aug. 3, 1981, was pronounced dead at 3:15 a.m. at the Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt. DPS Trooper Ron Morgan said the accident occurred about 2:10 a.m. on Highway 385 one mile north of Dimmitt.

Colston was alone in his 1983

Oldsmobile, which ran off the road, hit a highway department sign, rolled one-and-a-half times and hit a telephone pole.

A native of Lovington, N.M., Colston had also lived several years in Plainview where he worked as a city policeman.

The body was taken to a Dimmitt funeral home, and funeral arrangements were to be made this afternoon.

Colston was born June 17, 1951 in Ardmore, Okla.

Hi-Plains not creditor of failed firm

Hi-Plains Savings & Loan Association of Hereford will not be affected by the bankruptcy proceedings of a New Jersey government securities dealer, it was announced this morning by a Hi-Plains officer.

News reports in major daily newspapers Wednesday had listed Hi-Plains as a customer of the New Jersey firm, leading to speculation locally that the situation might have an adverse affect on the operation of the association.

The local official said that Hi-Plains is not a creditor of Bevell Brester & Schulman Asset Management Corp. of Livingston, N.J., which filed for reorganization Monday under Chapter 11 of the U.S. bankruptcy code.

In fact, he added, Hi-Plains owes money to the bankrupt company. The New Jersey firm filed for bankruptcy after federal regulators revealed the company owed at least $140 million across the nation. A number of small savings and loan associations were listed as creditors.

Budget writers have $36 million plan

AUSTIN (AP) — After weeks of whittling, House budget writers have proposed a $36 billion two-year budget that would avoid higher taxes by cutting some services.

"This is not a growth budget," Appropriations Chairman Jim Rudd said when the work was done late Wednesday. "The people will feel the cut."

The final hours were spent on public schools (a 10 percent cut for the Texas Education Agency), state employees (a possible 3 percent annual raise) and one last, wide-ranging $42.8 million slash.

It added up to $38.8 million in the black, assuming approval of a $120 million fee hike bill, a $275 college tuition hike bill and several other money-makers.

"It's a very delicate balance," said Rudd, D-Brownfield. "I don't know who we hit the most. Some Department of Human Resources programs were hit. Higher education is going to feel the hit."

A final committee vote on the budget is set for Monday. House debate is scheduled for April 23. The final 1986-87 budget probably will be written by House-Senate conferees.

The 1985 Legislature approved a $30.8 billion bi-annual budget, but last year's special session added $4.8 billion in new taxes.

Major hikes in the proposed budget cover court-ordered improvements in state prisons and mental health care.

Reagan clarifies terms

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan, stepping back from a full-scale superpower summit, is ready to hold merely a get-acquainted "meeting" with Soviet chief Mikhail Gorbachev, probably at the U.N. General Assembly this fall, White House officials say.

In a sudden shift, the administration drew a sharp distinction Wednesday between a "meeting" and a "summit" — two terms that top White House officials had used interchangeably for weeks.

The $38.8 million surplus anticipated the full House will restore funds for the University of Texas of the Permian Basin and Texas A&M at Galveston. Committee members ended funds for both schools, but later changed their minds.

Rudd pushed the bill over the break-even point by winning quick approval for $42.8 million in cuts late Wednesday, including $8.8 million from the UT and Texas A&M system administrations and $21.4 million in interest the junior colleges had been told they could keep.

State employees were the last considered by the panel, which OK'd a 3 percent annual pay hike if six proposed revenue-raisers are approved and raise revenue.

"Everyone's been to the pantry and taken all the groceries," Richardson Rep. Bill Ceverha said of the employee pay hike plan. "Now we're saying, 'Here's the scraps.'"

But Gary Hughes, director of the Texas Public Employees Association, said he was "extremely grateful" for the action.

Farmer called 'organic fanatic'

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

With a dream of total self-sufficiency, Jerry Rawley-Whitaker has taken on the task of formulating his own farming method and designing and building solar homes.

To his knowledge, he is the only person who has combined the French intensive biodynamic method and the Chinese raised-bed approach with modern technology to grow vegetables which are more nutritious than those grown normally.

The French intensive system, developed in the 1600s and brought to the United States by Allan Chadwick, uses horse manure and allows crops to be grown year round. The system was dropped when the automobile was invented since the amount of available horse manure declined.

Using the Chinese raised-bed approach, invented before the time of Christ, Rawley-Whitaker's beds are often two feet above the ground.

With these two ancient theories, Rawley-Whitaker has added drip irrigation and hopes to soon implement a small computer system which will monitor and switch the watering. Combining all of this technology with equi-distant plant spacing and 12 years of research, he says that he hopes to turn organic farming into his only business.

"I've grown over 300 species of vegetables which I've sold to country clubs, restaurants and people who want organically grown food," Rawley-Whitaker said. "I hope to soon start selling to organic food suppliers and just make this my business."

He said that with a 180- to 210-day growing season in this area, he has divided his crops into three seasons with each plant averaging a maturity of 50 to 70 days. Rawley-Whitaker said that with the natural, organic fertility of the soil he is able to produce per square foot three to five times the rate of an average gardener.

"It's taken me four years to get the soil organically certified," he said. "I've actually rebuilt it. I don't use any herbicides or pesticides. Instead, I use flowers as pesticides with marigolds working the best. Everything here is a natural organic compound."

To work the land, Rawley-Whitaker has divided it into beds, each 5x20 feet, and uses only one piece of Italian-made tillage equipment. Presently, he is working with only six and one-half acres.

Rawley-Whitaker said that his approach produces greater quantities than traditional farming methods because he works with nature and the natural cycle.

Woman drops baby from house

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Mike Wolf knew the situation was grave.

He was just glad he was there to lend a helping hand when a Greenville woman was forced to toss her 6-week-old baby and two other children from a second-story window to save them from a fire.

"It sure was getting hot up there, and I felt sorry for her. She was just screaming and hollering and I was worried about the little baby," said Wolf, a self-employed contractor, after he was credited Wednesday with helping save the children.

"Thank God. That's all I can say. He was watching after us," said Lora Hungerford, 22, as she watched firefighters snuff out the fire that gutted her apartment house on the city's north side.

Mrs. Hungerford said she was feeding her baby, Randy, when she became aware of the fire. She said she could not make her way down the stairway.

"I went to the front window and started yelling," Mrs. Hungerford told the Greenville Herald-Banner.

She dropped the baby, the feeding bottle, and her two older children, Chad, 6, and Amber, 2, to Wolf and Reagan Robertson.

Former gas official found guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — The former president of a Houston oilfield equipment firm was convicted after pleading no contest to federal charges of bribing high-ranking officials of Mexico's national oil company.

Al Lee Eyster, 45, of Hunt, was the sixth defendant to enter a no contest plea in the case.

U.S. District Judge John Singleton on Tuesday found Eyster guilty of one count of conspiracy and 43 counts of violating the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which prohibits American businessmen from paying bribes to foreign government officials.

Singleton delayed setting a sentencing date for Eyster, who faces up to 220 years in prison and a $440,000 fine.

Four other men, along with Crawford Enterprises Inc., pleaded no contest last week and were convicted of similar charges.

They were accused of paying almost $10 million in bribes to officials of Petroleos Mexicanos, or Pemex, to obtain more than $225 million in oilfield supply contracts. Their trial was scheduled to begin Monday.

Prosecutors said the scheme was engineered by Houston businessman Donald G. Crawford, 50, chairman of Crawford Enterprises Inc.

Gramm: Guard needed in Honduras

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm says he would have preferred that the Texas National Guard had gone to Brazil or Argentina for maneuvers rather than Honduras.

But the Texas Republican said the need was in Honduras for the 450 guardsmen who are conducting war games there currently.

Speaking at a meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club, Gramm said he talked at length with Pentagon and Texas National Guard officials about the exercises.

The trip "was a reward to them for their progress in combat readiness."

Gramm said he supports President Reagan's aid to Central American nations, where he claimed the Soviets have outspent the United States in aid to Nicaragua.

"I'm tired of all this covert aid business," Gramm said. "There's nothing covert about it. I want a straight up and down vote on providing a small amount of money so these people can preserve their freedom."

"If El Salvador goes communist, it will become a staging area for Mexico and we're going to have millions of refugees coming across the border," he said.

"And I assure you they're not going to Massachusetts," he said. Gramm said he decided not to go to Honduras, but does not "criticize those who did," referring to Gov. Mark White.

"If I went down there in my khaki uniform I wouldn't be serving a purpose," he said.

Communist leader dead at age 76

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Enver Hoxha, whose 42 years as Albania's Communist Party chief made him the world's longest-ruling communist leader, died today at age 76, the Albanian state-run ATA news agency reported.

The cause of death was officially reported as complications brought on by heart failure two days ago.

Hoxha had suffered from diabetes since 1948, ATA said in a medical communique. The disease caused extended damage to blood vessels, heart kidneys and other organs, the report said. He suffered a heart attack in 1973 and "in later years the grave heart insufficiency developed," the report said.

Hoxha had apparently been kept alive artificially for the past two days.

The report on his death was signed by the party's Central Committee, the government and the Presidium of the People's Assembly, or parliament.

Army pulls back, prisoners freed

NABATIYEH, Lebanon (AP) — Israel's army staged a pullback from seven mostly Shiite Moslem towns and released 32 Lebanese prisoners held in Israel today, the Israeli military command announced.

The command said Israeli troops withdrew from about 115 square miles around the Lebanese town of Nabatiyeh, scene of hundreds of guerrilla attacks on the Israeli army in recent months. The troops

The withdrawal was completed within two hours, when the last Israeli military vehicle rolled out of the compound that served as headquarters of Israel's intelligence branch, reporters at the scene said.

From Nabatiyeh, an inland market town, the Israelis moved to a new front line in the foothills of Mount Hermon.

Criticism of Japan hints of bigotry

WASHINGTON (AP) — "They are sucking the world dry," complained the Republican senator from Missouri, John Danforth.

"In category after category they are slicing us neatly and thinly off like a piece of sashimi, which they so elegantly do," said Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa.

"This is only the first shot," said Rep. Beryl Anthony Jr., D-Ark. "After this passes, I think we are going to have to load the gun and put some real bullets in it."

In the halls of Congress and commerce, the debate over trade with Japan has recently taken a harsh rhetorical turn, and some Japanese-Americans think they are hearing undertones of bigotry in the discussion.

Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., who as a child was one of 110,000 people of Japanese descent interned in relocation camps during World War II, notes that in times of economic pressure many groups have been made scapegoats. It has happened to Jews, Roman Catholics, Irish immigrants, blacks, Hispanics.

"Any criticism against Japan cannot dip into racial stereotypes or epithets," says Mineta. "I think I have noticed some of that."

Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, one of four Americans of Japanese descent serving in Congress, says there is "so much emotionalism" in the trade debate that the rhetoric sometimes reminds him of the pre-Pearl Harbor atmosphere in the United States.

Other Japanese-Americans disagree and the San Francisco-based Japanese Americans/Citizens League said it has not received any information about overt racist acts stemming from trade frictions.

Almost everyone acknowledges that there's been tough talk in recent days by American legislators and government and business leaders frustrated by the $37 billion trade gap between the United States and Japan and by Japan's reluctance to open its markets.

But Floyd Shimomura, a law professor at the University of California at Davis, said some politicians tap into latent anti-Japanese fears when they draw analogies between a trade war and World War II.

The issue broke into the open last month when Rep. Robert Matsui, D-Calif., criticized Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee A. Iacocca for a speech Iacocca gave to a conference of Democratic members of Congress. Matsui, who is of Japanese descent, said the speech contained a "great tinge of racism."

Iacocca, among other things, used the word "sayonara" — Japanese for "goodbye" — in a way the Japanese find offensive, Matsui said.

The Chrysler chief also said, "I'm no communist, folks, but it's not Russia that's laying waste to my business and to most of the rest of business in this country. It's Japan, our friend. While we stack the missiles up in the front yard, all aimed at our enemy, our friend is taking over the backyard."

ORGANIC

"It's all part of being a good steward and taking care of the land that God gave us," he said.

He hopes that all of his work will lead to better soil for the farmer, better health and a longtime investment in the future. With the land becoming more fertile each year, Rawley-Whitaker believes that his children's children will be able to use the same land he uses rather than inheriting barren land.

"I want to become monetarily self-sufficient," he said. "I want to show that all systems and technologies can be put together in a modern way. I guess you could say that I have a combined lifestyle that is working toward making me totally self-sufficient."

The other aspect of his lifestyle which combines with farming for self-sufficiency is building solar homes — a project his Hereford High School Building Trades class currently is working on.

Two three-period classes, with a combined enrollment of 11 students, are working on a passive solar super-insulated structure with windows calibrated to heat the house. When complete, the house will have almost four times the amount of insulation of an average home.

Rawley-Whitaker and two other men designed the house to have the majority of the windows on the south, where the primary sun comes in. The strength of the house will be 50 percent greater than a conventional house.

"We want to develop a house that we can fine tune so that it needs no mechanical heating," he said. "It should heat and cool itself for $30 to $35 a month."

"This project contains the most current technology in residential-type homes. By the end of the century, this is the only way a house will be built."

Rawley-Whitaker said his students primarily learn a sense of self-discipline since they must teach themselves to work and think sequentially.

"I'd rather they learn a trade than work in the fields," he said. "Being a skilled craftsman can pay well."

Prior to this school year, students built houses for people who wanted their homes constructed as school projects. This year, however, the school board financed the entire project to ensure the course covered all of the essential elements mandated by the State.

Rawley-Whitaker thinks his two occupations of teaching and farming tie together well.

"I see so many benefits (of his work) to the family as a whole," he said. "They could have a solar home and use the land around their house to be involved with their own food production. Just a 6- to 12-square foot section out of a yard would be enough to feed the family."

"I don't see how anyone can maintain his identity without having contact with nature. I guess that's because, as my cousin says, I'm an organic fanatic."

Surprise Birthday Greeting

Craig Smith, president of Hereford State Bank, expected coffee and cake at a surprise birthday party hosted by employees and directors Wednesday, but he got much more. A "happy hooker" showed up at the party to present a "Capergram" to Smith, complete with a party hat and balloons.

Vet service officers meet here

Veterans Service Officers from 28 Texas counties met in Hereford earlier this week for a regional conference.

The group met all day Tuesday and Wednesday morning at the Hereford Community Center, for instruction on such topics as the state land and housing programs for veterans, Veterans Administration medical programs and compensation and pension claims.

James Jesko, Deaf Smith County's Veterans Service Officer, said Texas was the leader after World War II to set up a sound Veterans Affairs Commission. He said most counties in the state have a Veterans Service Office, which assists veterans and their surviving family members who are eligible for Veterans Administration programs.

Jesko said those in attendance also learned of new legislation that will affect their programs. One administration idea, which Jesko opposes, is to combine all the nation's regional and state Veterans Services offices into just three multi-regional offices, one in Kansas City and the others on the East and West Coasts. Another would direct the VA to evaluate veterans age 50 or younger receiving disability benefits, to determine if those persons could become employable through training programs.

George Marnell, assistant director of the VA Hospital in Amarillo, told the gathering that the hospital is to be increased in size and a 40-bed nursing home built nearby. That construction should begin this fall, Marnell announced.

Joe Kelley from the VA Clinic in Lubbock explained the VA's plans to offer transportation from between the hospital in Amarillo and the outpatient clinic in Lubbock.

Other state officials attending the conference included Aubrey Bullard, Executive Director of the Texas Veterans Commission, John McKelvey, chairman of the state commission, Jack Flynt, State Commissioner of Veterans Affairs, and Adjudication Officer Jimmy Shepherd.

Singles to meet

Hereford Agape singles will meet for a hamburger cookout Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Leona Miller's home on west Harrison Highway. Babysitting services will not be provided.

VA Officers

Among those attending a Veterans Services Officers meeting in Hereford earlier this week were (from left) Jack Flynt of Dimmitt, State Commissioner of Veterans Affairs; John McKelvey, Electra, Chairman of the Texas Veterans Commission; Aubrey Bullard, Executive Director of the Texas Veterans Commission and James Jesko, Hereford, Deaf Smith County Veterans Services Officer.

Students to attend state convention

Six junior high students, two from Stanton and four from La Plata, will attend the FHA/HERO State meeting Friday and Saturday at the Albert Thomas Convention Center in Houston. The group will fly to Houston and stay at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

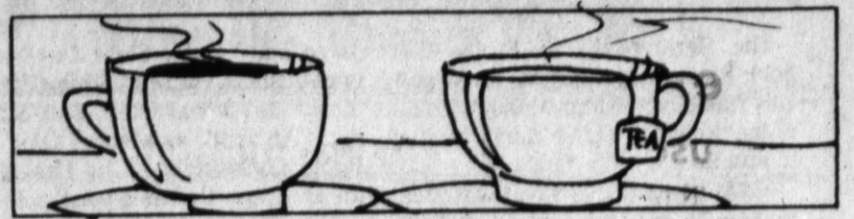

Manisay Sisamouth, Elva Vasquez, Christie Gragson, Sally Tijerina, Marie Perez and Yolanda Barrientez were selected to attend the meeting because of their attendance and participation in regular FHA and FHA/HERO chapter meetings. The girls have also participated in chapter, area and state projects including Youth Against Cancer, Child Abuse, Teen Parenting Concern, projects to benefit Hereford Day Care Center and the Amarillo Ronald McDonald House.

The Stanton Junior High FHA/HERO chapter will compete in the chapter manual/display proficiency event, having placed third in this category at the Area I FHA/HERO meeting in Lubbock in February.

The objective of this meeting is to enrich each individual by focusing on yesterday's accomplishments, today's experiences and tomorrow's opportunities.

Beryl Burelsmith, La Plata FHA chapter advisor, will also attend the meeting as will Louise Witkowski, La Plata FHA/HERO chapter advisor. From Stanton FHA/HERO chapter, Karleen Moore will go.

Antique Show, Sale to benefit community

The public is invited to attend L'Allegra Study Club's Antique Show and Sale April 19-21 at the Hereford Community Center. One $2 admission price is good for all three days.

Show hours have been scheduled from 12 noon until 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 19-20, and from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, April 21. Tickets may be obtained from any L'Allegra member or from Deaf Smith County Hospital Auxiliary members at the hospital. They may also be purchased at the Senior Citizens Center or at the door.

On April 20 from 9:30 a.m. until 1 p.m., the group will be selling four inch pots containing red geraniums priced at $2 each. The public is asked to use the west entrance of the Community Center.

Proceeds from the show and sale will be used to help purchase additional transmitters for the Lifeline program. This program assists elderly and disabled persons to be equipped with a wireless transmitter which keeps them in touch with the hospital in case of an emergency.

Jenny Cassels, Lifeline program coordinator, said that some of the people in need of transmitters receive them free of charge due to the assistance of various local organizations.

L'Allegra members in the past have used funds from their annual antique shows to help purchase a fetal monitor for the hospital, make improvements at the Community Center, assist with the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, purchase playground equipment for the Hereford Day Care Center and buy the Grecian ionic columns for the E.B. Black House.

This year's antique show will feature 18 independent exhibitors who will display antiques of various description in every price range. Articles to be on sale include furniture, jewelry, quilts, toys, tools and linens.

Also, of interest will be antique paintings, advertising signs, China, cut glass, silver, Oriental art and authentic Indian jewelry.

Public invited to bean supper Friday

The public is invited to the Camp Fire bean supper to be held from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Hereford High School cafeteria. The event, which is being sponsored by the CF board of directors, will kick-off the Camp Fire Supporting Membership Drive.

Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under. They may be purchased from board and Camp Fire members, at the CF office, and at the door.

The menu will include beans, cornbread, cobbler and all the trimmings.

Proceeds will be used to raise money for new programs, support on-going programs, to expand new areas of concern and to promote educational skills as well as skills for day to day living.

Rebekahs report visits, cards to sick

Twenty-four members were present for the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 Tuesday evening.

Karrol Rettman read "Day By Day" for the Light of Faith altar program. Sick members were reported as Faye Brownlow noble grand, presided at the regular business session. Twenty-nine visits to the sick and 28 cheer cards were reported.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Roberta Combs and Wallace Shelton.

Verna Sowell was the winner of the door prize, a jar of peanut butter and jelly. Helen and Gene Bishop co-hosted the fellowship hour.

Attending were Rettman, Brownlow, Sowell, Combs, Shelton, Dorothy Lundry, Thama Pearson, Kee Ruland, Bessie Lawrence, Glessie Shelton, Peggy Lemons, Elmer Combs, Ben Conklin, Guy Lawrence, Lydia Hopson, Anna Conklin, Fern Durham, Susie Curtsinger, Leona Sowell, Jo Irlbeck, Ada Hollabaugh and Nellie Beauford.

Student musicians perform for Manor

The Hereford Music Study Club held its annual Student Musicians Day Monday at Kings Manor with all of the residents of the Manor invited to attend.

Moderator for this event was Mrs. Wayne Thomas who introduced the students of various members of the music club. Lee Reinauer performed "Sunbird" on the piano and "Musette" on the violin; Camille Betzen, "Ivan Sings" on the piano; Denise Detten, "Prelude" on the piano; Brenna Reinauer, "The Clown" on piano; and Jill Reinauer, "Hoe-Down" on the piano.

And, Stefan Hacker, "Sonatina" on the piano; Brenda Allen, "Firefly" on the piano; Don Carl Tardy, "Sonatina" on the piano; Jennifer Cansler, "Fluttering Leaves" on the piano and "On A Clear Day" as a vocal solo; Missy Sims, "Blue Moon" as a vocal solo; Clay Stribling, "Amarill" as a vocal solo; and Robin Conkwright, "The Lass With the Delicate Air" as a vocal solo.

Also, Clay Stribling and Robin Conkwright sang "With A Song In My Heart"; Scott Shaw, "Etude" on the violin; Jill Reinauer, "Chorus" on the violin; Stacy White, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" as a vocal solo; Jodi Wallace, "Palace Gardens" on the piano; and Jill Walser, "The Magic Man" on the piano.

A short meeting was held to discuss plans for two upcoming senior recitals. One will be in the home of Robin Conkwright on May 5 at 2 p.m. The other will be May 26 at 2 p.m. in the Methodist Church.

Health Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Depression

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 35-year-old male and have been having trouble with my sexual performance in the past few months. Until now, my wife and I have had a very healthy and beautiful sex life. We are very much in love and have been married for 16 years.

Three years ago I had epididymitis and had one testicle removed. I can think of no reason for my impotence.

I have the urge to make love, but often fail before completion. As a result, I do not have the urge as often.

DEAR READER — Anyone who has a problem with impotence should have a careful examination. Impotence often is a symptom of something else, such as diabetes, alcoholism, a pituitary gland disorder, depression or several other medical problems.

The loss of one testicle should not cause impotence. The other testicle usually is able to take over the hormone functions previously supplied by both.

If there really is no medical reason for your problem, it may have a psychological cause. This is less likely to happen in an experienced male, but it can if he loses confidence for any reason. Unsuccessful sexual efforts can lead to fear of failure at any age.

Read The Health Letter 18-6, Help for Impotence, which I am sending you, and then talk it over with your doctor. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Depression often is overlooked as a cause of impotence, and many depressed men are not aware of their depression. When the depression is corrected, the impotence also disappears.

Nothing lowers the pain threshold more dramatically than being asked to give till it hurts.

The ancient Egyptians had a 360-day year, to which they annually added five more days that did not count as part of the year.

Military Muster

Airman Tori D. Self, daughter of Charles J. and Virginia N. Self of Rural Route 5, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the medical services field.

She received an associate degree in 1984 from Amarillo Junior College, Texas.

TERRY SCOLLEY

Airman Terry E. Scolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scolley of Veal, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the transportation field.

His wife, Carole, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Maloney of 1606 Ave. K, Hereford, Texas.

He is a 1983 graduate of Vega High School.

Navy Fireman Dan C. Trevino, a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School of Hereford, is currently participating in exercise Team Spirit 85.

The month-long exercise is a combined exercise involving the military forces of the United States and the Republic of Korea. Nearly 195,000 personnel will participate.

During Team Spirit, Trevino and other members of his command, aboard the aircraft carrier USS Midway, operating from Yokosuka, Japan, will be involved in various naval exercises, which will end in a major amphibious assault on the southeastern coast of Korea.

Exercise Team Spirit 85, is the largest such exercise conducted in the free world this year.

Cancer deaths in Texas increasing

Deaths resulting from all types of cancer increased by 34 percent in Texas during the past decade, according to an article in the journal Texas Medicine.

During the same 1970-1980 period, lung cancer deaths among Texas women increased by 121 percent. Lung cancer has since passed breast cancer as the leading cause of cancer death among women not only in Texas but across the nation.

The article is by Dr. Vincent F. Guinee, chairman of the patient studies department at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston. His story appears in the April issue of Texas Medicine, published by the Texas Medical Association.

"The lung cancer death rate among Texas males is definitely greater than the U.S. rate for males," Guinee writes, "but the lung cancer death rate for women in Texas is only slightly above the national figure."

Studies have shown that smoking is the primary cause of lung cancer. Among Texas women, the number of deaths from lung cancer increased from 669 in 1970 to 1,482 in 1980, or 121 percent.

Lung cancer deaths among Texas men rose by 47 percent—from 2,836 in 1970 to 4,170 in 1980. For all Texans, lung cancer deaths increased by 61 percent. "Furthermore, each year of the 1970-to-1980 decade contributed to the increase," Guinee notes.

Deaths caused by other types of cancer showed these increases in Texas from 1970 to 1980: colon, 33 percent; breasts, 28 percent; prostate, 35 percent; and pancreas, 18 percent.

The earliest known set of dentures was dug up in a field in Switzerland and is believed to date form some time in the 15th century.

Harrington grant to help refurbish 'Texas'

This year, in the musical drama "Texas," the engineer can drive his train along the base of the towering cliff of the Palo Duro Canyon with new confidence. A new engine is under construction for the branch of the "Peavine Railroad", because the engine built by Pete Cowart in 1966 had become old and faltering. There will also be new sets including a more imposing ranch house, many new costumes, revised lighting, and a sense of renewal about the whole show.

These exciting changes are possible through a grant from the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation. It is for $180,000, large enough so that the Director has been able to employ experienced professional designers to direct the refurbishing of the show.

George Petit of Dallas who designs the Marriott theme parks and Knott's Berry Farm has made the sketches for the sets and L. Lynn Hunt, production designer for Disneyland has been here to consult with Director Neil Hess and Sound and Light Director, Pat Jarrett, about the most effective ways to use lighting in the Pioneer Amphitheatre.

It is rare for a Foundation to approve a grant for such a purpose. The interest of the members of the Board of the Harrington Foundation stem from Sybil Harrington's experience in the theatre. Some time ago, she began to help the Metropolitan Opera by financing new productions of old and new operas from her own funds. In a conversation with Beth Duke of the Amarillo Globe Times, she mentioned that she felt that this was a lasting way to help the arts, since the sets and costumes for each production are used for many years. It is also a way to aid the creative people needed in the theatre: the set designers, costumers, scenic artists, etc. Her contributions of this kind in New York have been so significant that she was chosen for the Distinguished Achievement to Music Award for "Outstanding contribution to cultural health and civic endeavors, in particular the Metropolitan Opera" in November of 1982.

When Mrs. Harrington was Woman of the Year in Amarillo in 1980, several of her friends mentioned her interest in making things beautiful and done well.

Following the pattern set by Mrs. Harrington in New York, the Board of the Harrington Foundation made a grant to the Lone Star Ballet last year to purchase new sets, some costumes and new lighting for the "Nutcracker" and the stunning 1984 performance were the result.

Now "Texas" is fortunate enough to receive the same kind of help, and the refreshed production will open on the twelfth of June celebrating its twentieth season.

At the Annual Meeting of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, the association which produces "Texas", Neil Hess, the director, will discuss the details of the refurbishing plans. The meeting will be April 2, 11:30 AM, at the Amarillo Country Club. Members of the Board will be elected then. The public is invited.

The 1985 season will run from June 12 through August 24. For information and reservations write "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2181. It is well to make reservations in advance.

Kingdom Seekers auction gifts

Members of Kingdom Seekers Class of Avenue Baptist Church met Tuesday evening in the home of Trudie Gray with President Coy Tice presiding.

Erma Bain opened with a prayer and members brought homemade gifts that were auctioned to top bidders with money to go into the organization's treasury fund.

Refreshments were served to Tice, Velma Carroll, Juanita Houle, Pauline Landers, Rosie Wall, Dona Mae Barnett, Lousella Thomas, Bain, Shirley Brown, Maxine Coleman and Wilma Bryan.

Roping clinic this weekend

A roping clinic by Sid and Kay Dawn Howard will be Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Vega Rodeo Arena. Cost for the school will be $50.

Boys will be taught calf roping and break-a-way. The girls will learn goat tying, barrels and break-a-way.

On the Ball

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

The communication medium that probably criticizes officials of athletic departments and organizations more often than any other is the newspaper.

This space has been used at times for that purpose and that purpose alone. But there also is a time to commend those same people, and maybe too often, this space has been guilty of not doing so.

Now's the time, for all of those individuals within Hereford schools.

Just to name a few:

It has been my pleasure to work with Hereford Independent School District Athletic Director and football coach Jerry Taylor. Often in September, the coach found little solace from Whiteface fans when the Herd seemingly was rooted in 1-3 season. But throughout October and November, he was all smiles.

Many coaches would have quit caring about their players and quit caring for the fans, especially since the fans themselves didn't seem to care. But not Jerry Taylor. His team fought back to end the season with a six-game winning streak and the second spot in District 3-5A. I've enjoyed working with Jerry Taylor, who is a credit to Hereford.

There is no coach more faithful in keeping the media up-to-date with her teams than Stanton Junior High Coach Suzanne Duvall. She was glad to fill me in on what had happened even if her team was not a victor.

Suzanne Duvall would call first thing every week to list the activities in which Stanton was taking part. But she didn't limit her talents to Stanton; she worked with the summer track and athletic programs, also.

Like Jerry Taylor, she, too, cared about those athletes that played for her and she spent extra time with them because she cared.

Two coaches of the same sport, but with very different relations with The Hereford Brand, were Hereford High School basketball coaches Mike Fields and Larry Sowers. For questions about the Whiteface boys, Coach Fields would scratch his chin and answer with a yes or no, never making excuses when the Herd would lose.

Hereford was the much smaller team in most games last season, and the basketball boss knew that. Mike Fields is a quiet man. He didn't blame losses on officiating and didn't want to take credit for wins. He gave the credit to the players.

It's nice talking to a coach who doesn't blast the refs for a loss and is proud of his team.

Larry Sowers had said before the season began that his girls basketball team had a strong chance of making the playoffs in 1985. The Whitefaces came close, and one could tell just how close by watching the frustration on Larry Sowers' face.

He wanted so badly to be in the playoffs for the girls. He pointed out just how hard some of them had worked and how dedicated to basketball they were. They deserved to make it to postseason play, he would say time and again (never at a loss for words). Still, the Whitefaces missed the extra games by only a few points.

Larry Sowers was the dedicated coach who deserved to make it, too.

HHS girls physical education coordinator Martha Emerson concerned herself deeply with girls athletics. Although the girls sometimes were overlooked by the media, Martha Emerson felt they deserved coverage in print and did all she could to see they got it.

Martha Emerson is an enthusiastic coach, and it never was hard working with her.

Another girls coach, Cindy McMillin, struggled through some tough times during volleyball season but achieved some success in basketball. Her attitude was, pardon the expression, monotone.

Not monotone in the way that she never was excited about a victory or disappointed about a loss, but she always gave about the same amount of information regardless of an outcome.

Made my job easier. I knew just how much paper to have with me when talking to Cindy McMillin.

I've seen Hereford baseball coach Don Long rake the pitcher's mound at Whiteface Field and struggle for words to say after a Hereford loss. "We just can't seem to hit," he might say. But I've also seen him with nothing but praise for the players following a game.

Baseball is a sport which never gets too much coverage, but that doesn't seem to bother the baseball mentor. Don Long wants what's best for the kids.

Ruben Vargas, tennis coach at HHS. A Hereford High School grad himself, Vargas naturally wants the local school to be a winner every time the Whitefaces take the courts.

The Herd may be beaten soundly, but Coach Vargas just says he was glad for the experience. Unusual? Nice for the media anyway.

There have been other coaches whom I've enjoyed working with—Mark Turner, T.R. Sartor, Plainview's Greg Sherwood and so on.

Including recruitment of 7-footer

Red Raiders make 'big' haul

DALLAS (AP) — Four players, including the school's first 7-footer ever, have signed letters of intent to play for Southwest Conference champion Texas Tech.

The signings came Wednesday on the first day the nation's major college could sign players to letters of intent.

The Red Raiders began national signing day by netting Rodney Henderson, a 7-foot, 200-pound center from Dallas Bryan Adams, and later added 6-7, 227-pound forward Dwayne Chism of Odessa College, 6-10 center Wesley Lowe of West Mesquite and 6-8 Bryan Barrier of Houston Jones.

Henderson averaged 14 points and 9 rebounds.

Chism, who played high school basketball at Dallas Spruce, led his junior college team to a 46-17 record the past two seasons. He averaged 12.7 points and 8.1 rebounds in leading OC to a 27-6 record the past year.

Lowe set the career scoring record for West Mesquite with 1,199 points and was also an academic leader, ranked fourth in his class with an overall grade point average of 3.8.

Barrier was injured the last half of the season, but is regarded as one of the state's most promising forwards.

Tech had hoped to sign 6-7 forward Andrew Kennedy of Amarillo Junior College, but lost him Wednesday to Virginia.

Texas Tech had more scholarships to dole out than other league schools, because the Red Raiders almost had an all-senior starting lineup last season, and Tech still had two more scholarships to hand out.

Houston signed 6-1, 165-pound Gerry McGee, a guard on the Houston Madison team that went unbeaten through 40 games to capture the Class 5A state championship last season.

The Cougars also signed 7-1 Tito Horford of Houston Marian, considered the state's outstanding schoolboy player, last November, along with two teammates, 6-10 Perry Russell and 6-8 Steve Smith.

Southern Methodist also did well, signing Kato Armstrong, a 5-11 guard from South Garland, who picked SMU over Tech. Also, the Mustangs got a promise from 6-6 Randy Jones of Syracuse, N.Y., to sign on Thursday.

The Mustangs also received commitments in November from 6-10 Reginald Muhammad of Wilmer-Hutchins, 6-8 Vernon Perdue of Corpus Christi, and 6-9 John Colborne of Poway, Calif.

Texas A&M signed two out-of-state athletes. Steve Vandiver, a 6-5, 215-pound guard, is a junior at Allegheny Community College of Pittsburgh, where he averaged 14.5 points a game.

John Tresvant, a 6-7, 198-pound forward from City of San Francisco Community College, also signed with the Aggies. The junior averaged 18.9 points and was named Most Valuable Player of the Golden Gate Conference.

Baylor signed Jack Smith, a 6-9, 220-pound center from Denver, to a letter of intent. Smith averaged 15.2 points a game and helped his team to the state title. He is a nephew of former Purdue and National Basketball Association center Joe Barry Carroll.

The University of Texas signed Patrick Fairs, 6-5, of Odessa College.

Rod Jacques, a highly regarded guard, who averaged 22 points a game last season for Class 5A runner-up Conroe, announced his decision Wednesday night, choosing Texas Christian over Texas Tech. The 6-3 Jacques led Conroe to a 34-3 record.

Innocent plea entered

By AUSTIN WILSON AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The first plea of innocence has been submitted in an alleged basketball point-shaving and drug scandal at Tulane University.

Of 10 people involved so far in the case, three have pleaded guilty in an apparent plea bargain, four others have yet to be arraigned and two players have agreed to tell all in return for immunity from prosecution.

The innocent plea was entered Wednesday on behalf of Gary Kranz, identified in court papers as a drug dealer who made the first contact with Tulane basketball players. He was indicted earlier on nine cocaine counts and 13 counts of conspiracy and sports bribery.

The lengthy indictment said Kranz, 21, of New Rochelle, N.Y., sold some cocaine to starting Tulane forward Clyde Eads, 22, of Tampa, Fla., on Jan. 15.

Over the next three weeks, the indictment said, Kranz sold cocaine to Eads five times, and three times to starting forward Jon Johnson, 22, of Columbus, Ga.

Both Eads and Johnson are testifying for the prosecution under grants of immunity.

By Feb. 2, Kranz and another Tulane student, Mark Olenksy, 21, of Fair Lawn, N.J., had begun paying bribes to five Tulane players to control the margin of victory over Southern Mississippi, the indictments say.

The court papers say that one of the players, seldom-used point guard Bobby Thompson, also bought some cocaine from Kranz on March 2, several days after the Memphis State game — the other contest allegedly fixed.

Thompson, 21, of New Orleans, pleaded guilty on Tuesday to a count of conspiracy to commit sports bribery, a count that carries a maximum penalty of 2½ years in jail and a fine of $2,500.

David Rothenberg, 22, a Tulane student from Wilton, Conn., pleaded guilty at the same time to two counts of conspiracy and one count of possession of cocaine, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

The pleas of both Thompson and Rothenberg came in a bargain to cooperate with prosecutors.

Judge Alvin Oser has set July 9 as a sentencing date for the two.

Thompson and Rothenberg, the indictments indicate, are the links to a simultaneous but separate effort to fix the Memphis State game. Convicted local bookmaker Roland Ruiz, 48, and 21-year-old Craig Bourgeois of New Orleans are accused of a $5,000 scheme to fix that game.

The indictments say Ruiz gave Bourgeois $5,000 to pay players; that Bourgeois pocketed half and gave Thompson the rest, and that Thompson pocketed $1,500 and gave the rest to four other players — Eads, Johnson, star center John "Hot Rod" Williams of Sorrento, La. and starting point guard David Dominique of New Iberia, La.

Dominique and Williams will plead innocent, their attorneys said.

Which sports? What risks?

Every so often, sports can take a high physical toll. A widely known example is football. But figures on fatalities and disabling injuries among college athletes during the past two academic years show lacrosse is the riskiest sport. Zero rates were reported for baseball, soccer, wrestling and track.

Masters tees off

Golfer ready for play

By ED SHEARER AP Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw's golf game has gone sour since realizing a lifetime dream — winning a Masters Tournament.

He knows why. "I had placed so much emphasis in my own mind about winning a tournament like this that I got in a mental rut," he said Wednesday.

"There's not a day goes by that I don't think about this tournament (his 1984 title). I've had a mental hangup about it. It's like life was drawn out of me."

"I still can't tell people how much this tournament meant to me. Merely returning is a positive, very nice experience for me."

Crenshaw said he hoped a return to the scene of his greatest triumph would get him going again.

The popular Texan had an afternoon starting time in the field of 77 international golfers who began play in the 49th Masters today.

His record since claiming the title last April prevented him from entering this year's tournament as one of the favorites.

Since donning the green jacket a year ago, Crenshaw has appeared in 21 events — finishing in the top 10 only three times and missing the cut nine times.

"I've put a lot of pressure on myself," he said. "It just hasn't been fun."

Crenshaw said it would only take sinking a couple of putts to get his game going, and in a field without a clearcut favorite, it might be the boost he needs to repeat.

With Jack Nicklaus, who owns a record five Masters titles, and Tom Watson, a two-time winner, having so-so seasons, the favorite's role has gone to some of the game's long hitters — two-time champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain, former winner Fuzzy Zoeller and Australian Greg Norman.

Watson, winless this year, said Wednesday he thought his game was in good shape.

"Overall, I'm ready to win," Watson said. "I just need a good streak."

Nicklaus says he is "looser than I normally am" coming into the Masters. "I usually come in and get worked up over my golf game and the tournament," said Nicklaus, who has a record 17 major professional championships, but none since winning the PGA in 1980.

Four two-time winners on this season's Tour also have to be considered as challengers on the demanding 6,905-yard, par 72 Augusta National layout.

Lanny Wadkins won two of the year's first three events, but hasn't done much since. Mark O'Meara put together successive victories at the Crosby and Hawaiian Open, but he, too, went into a slump the last two months.

Curtis Strange won his second title three weeks ago, but Calvin Peete is probably the hottest of the two-time winners.

Peete, who could become the first black champion in Masters history, scored an impressive victory in the Tournament Players Championship two weeks ago and won at Phoenix earlier this year.

Other players to watch include PGA champion Lee Trevino and Craig Stadler, who has finished second in three events this year.

Cowboys to open season on a Monday

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, a special favorite of the television networks, open their 1985 National Football League season under the bright lights again with the Washington Redskins as their guests.

Washington comes calling on Monday, Sept. 9, to kick off ABC-TV's "Monday Night Football." It's the fourth straight year the Cowboys open the regular season with a nationally televised Monday night game.

The Cowboys also will appear in a Sunday night game Oct. 6 in New Jersey against the Giants and a Nov. 4 Monday night game at St. Louis.

Dallas will host its annual Thanksgiving Day game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cowboys also will play the Chicago Bears in Texas Stadium on Aug. 25 in a game to be televised by ABC — the first Monday night national telecast of an exhibition game.

Two other exhibition games, against San Diego on Aug. 17 and Houston Aug. 31, will be nationally televised.

McEnroe to defend Buick Tennis title

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — John McEnroe, a four-times winner of the Buick World Championship Tennis Finals, begins defense of his title tonight and he has fond memories of how this tournament put him into the professional tennis spotlight.

"One of the biggest things to happen to me early in my career was defeating Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors back-to-back in the WCT in 1979," said McEnroe. "I had played here in the juniors but this was sort of my breakthrough."

"I'll always remember it as one of the best tournaments I've ever played."

McEnroe said his desire to win at the age of 26 is still as keen as it was six years ago.

"Winning is never boring," said McEnroe.

McEnroe defeated Johan Kriek for his second WCT crown in 1981, conquered Ivan Lendl for his third in 1983, and downed Connors last year for his fourth.

McEnroe, shooting for the $150,000 first place prize awarded on Sunday, has mined over $600,000 from the WCT mint, including two gold tennis balls worth some $25,000 for being the best on the WCT tour.

McEnroe meets Sweden's Joakim Nystrom in the second match tonight after Mats Wilander and Tim Bowl champion 49ers on Sunday, Dec. 22.

"As usual, we got a tough schedule," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "At least we open at home."

The schedule:
Monday, Sept. 9, Washington, 8 p.m. Texas Stadium.

Sunday, Sept. 15, at Detroit, noon.

Sunday, Sept. 22, Cleveland, noon, Texas Stadium.

Sunday, Sept. 29, at Houston, noon.

Sunday, Oct. 6, at New York Giants, 7 p.m.

Sunday, Oct. 13, Pittsburgh, noon, Texas Stadium.

Sunday, Oct. 20, at Philadelphia, noon.

Sunday, Oct. 27, Atlanta, noon, Texas Stadium.

Monday, Nov. 4, at St. Louis, 8 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 10, at Washington, 3 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 17, Chicago, noon, Texas Stadium.

Sunday, Nov. 24, Philadelphia, noon.

Thursday, Nov. 28, St. Louis, 3 p.m. Texas Stadium.

Sunday, Dec. 8, at Cincinnati, noon.

Sunday, Dec. 15, New York Giants, noon, Texas Stadium.

Sunday Dec. 22, at San Francisco, 3 p.m.

Several coaching slots still open

Coaching positions within the Kids, Inc., summer baseball programs still remain open, according to an announcement by Robert Ray, president.

Ray said several spots were open for coaches in T-ball league, with a couple of vacancies left in minor and major league baseball.

Registration deadline for prospective participants is Friday. All students need to turn in their cards at school by that day.

Ray added that a coaches' meeting has been called for Tuesday night at West Central Elementary School. Time is 7:30 p.m., and the meeting will include all boys coaches and girls softball coaches.

To get a registration card or for information, contact Ray at 364-3106 or Darlene Cornelius, girls softball director.

according to the schedule released Wednesday.

The Oilers, who compiled a 3-13 record last season, will host Miami Sept. 8 in the season opener in the Astrodome at noon.

The combined 1984 records of Houston's first five opponents was 56-24 last season.

The rest of the Oilers' regular season schedule includes:

Sept. 14, at Washington, noon, CST; Sept. 22, at Pittsburgh, noon; Sept. 29, Dallas, noon; Oct. 6, at Denver, 3 p.m.; Oct. 14, Cleveland, noon; Oct. 20, Cincinnati, noon; Oct. 27, at St. Louis, noon; Nov. 3, Kansas City, noon; Nov. 10 at Buffalo, noon.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective May 6, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Public Utility Commission of Texas has received the application as Docket 6200.

While proposals as to specific rates vary, it is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 10.5 percent increase in the Company's unadjusted test year intrastate revenues or a 9.7% increase in test year revenues as adjusted for test year customer growth and annualization of test year rate increases. The rate application seeks an annual increase of $323.9 million in revenues. All customers and classes of customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company within Texas will be affected by the proposed changes.

Most rates proposed for increase would increase by about 18.5 percent, including local exchange rates. However, there are some exceptions. For example, those customers residing in cities that will be reclassified into larger rate groups will experience local exchange rate increases greater than 18.5 percent. Also, the rate increases proposed for private line services in El Paso, due to a proposal to restructure such rates, are greater than 18.5 percent.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas and with each affected incorporated municipality served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate application. This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for local exchange service, intraLATA long distance, intra-LATA interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for intraLATA long distance and for intraLATA, interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide certain services in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariffs.

Notice to All Customers Concerning Access Charges and Certain New Service Charges

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, as a part of this filing, is also proposing to reduce certain access rates charged such customers as AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI and other carriers. The resulting reduction in revenues is proposed to be offset by revenues from two new service charges, late payment charges applicable to business customers only and for certain operator services such as busy line verification, plus stimulation of access service charge revenues. Since this portion of the filing, if granted, would have essentially a zero net revenue effect on Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is proposing that this portion of the filing be expeditiously handled by the Commission and not await Final Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso Público

En conformidad con las disposiciones de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company anuncia mediante el presente aviso su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel de tarifas telefónicas en Texas, con vigencia a partir del 6 de mayo de 1985, salvo disposición en contrario de la Comisión. La Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas a registrado esta solicitud bajo el Docket 6200.

Si bien existe variación entre las propuestas en cuanto a las tarifas precisas, se anticipa que el arancel tarifario solicitado aumentará en un 10.5% los ingresos intrastatales no ajustados de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company durante el año de prueba, o sea, un aumento del 9.7 por ciento entre los ingresos del año de prueba, después de realizar el ajuste por la expansión de los usuarios y por la anualización del aumento de tarifas para el año de prueba. El objeto de esta solicitud de tarifas es lograr un aumento anual en los ingresos de $323.9 millones. Los cambios propuestos afectarán a todos los usuarios y grupos de usuarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company en el estado de Texas.

La mayoría de las tarifas que resultarían afectadas por el propuesto aumento aumentarían aproximadamente en un 18.5 por ciento, incluyendo las tarifas de centrales locales. Sin embargo, existen algunas excepciones. Por ejemplo, los usuarios que residen en ciudades que se reclassificarán para formar parte de grupos tarifarios mayores experimentarían aumentos mas elevados del 18.5 por ciento. Por otra parte, los aumentos de las tarifas propuestas para servicios de línea privada en El Paso aumentarían en más de 18.5 por ciento, como resultado de una propuesta para reestructurar tales tarifas.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel de tarifas se halla archivada en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos en Austin, Texas, así como en cada municipalidad incorporada afectada que tenga servicio de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa se halla sujeta a cambio toda vez que Southwestern Bell Telephone Company solicite nuevas tarifas. El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de centrales locales, de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada interLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso.

Aviso a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono

El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada intraLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso. Los cambios en dichas tarifas también afectarían a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono, puesto que dichas compañías proporcionan ciertos servicios de acuerdo con las tarifas especificadas en los aranceles tarifarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Aviso a todos los clientes con respecto a los cargos de acceso y a determinados cargos nuevos de servicio

Al registrar esta tarifa, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company también propone reducir ciertas tarifas de acceso que se les cobran a clientes como AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI y otras compañías de larga distancia. El consecuente reducción de ingresos se piensa compensar por medio de dos cargos nuevos de servicio (cargos por pago atrasado que se aplicarán solamente a usuarios comerciales, y cargos por ciertos servicios de operador, tales como verificación de línea ocupada) además de la estimulación de los ingresos por cargos por servicios de acceso. En vista de que, en caso de otorgarse esta parte del arancel tarifario registrado, su efecto real en los ingresos de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company sería igual a cero, esta propuesta que la Comisión tramite dicha parte de la tarifa en forma expeditiva sin esperar la Orden Definitiva.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el presente proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223, o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para personas con impedimentos de audición.

AL roundup

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer
The Toronto Blue Jays spent a lot of time recently finding ways to get into trouble. This season, they've finally found a way to get out of it. Bill Caudill, the relief pitcher Toronto got in a trade and signed for $9 million over five years, pitched out of jams in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings for the victory and Gary Lavelle, acquired in another deal, worked a perfect 10th Wednesday night to preserve the Blue Jays' 1-0 triumph over the Kansas City Royals. "Caudill gets the win and Lavelle gets the save. What a way for both of them to break in," Toronto Manager Bobby Cox said with a smile. Last year, no team in the major leagues lost as many games in which they were tied or leading after seven innings as did Toronto. In other AL games, Detroit hammered Cleveland 8-1, Boston crunched New York 14-5, Baltimore trimmed Texas 7-1, Minnesota downed California 6-3 and Seattle beat Oakland 5-4.

Orioles 7, Rangers 1
Fred Lynn, the $6.8-million free agent signed by Baltimore, stroked his first two hits for the Orioles while Mike Boddicker, the AL's only 20-game winner last season, went six innings for the victory. Boddicker, 20-11 in 1984, gave up six hits, including Larry Parrish's huxth sixth. Sammy Stewart held the visiting Rangers hitless over the last three innings for a save. The only bad news for Baltimore came when Cal Ripken Jr. sprained his left ankle during an attempted pickoff. The team said Ripken, who has played every inning of 444 straight games, may miss the Orioles' next game Friday night against Toronto. Tigers 3, Indians 1
Lou Whitaker drove in Detroit's first four runs with a pair of homers and Kirk Gibson accounted for the final three runs with a monstrous home run. Dan Petry, 18-8 last season, scattered four hits over six innings before Aurelio Lopez pitched three perfect innings for a save. Whitaker unloaded a three-run blast in the third inning off Cleveland starter Vern Ruhle, and then poked a solo homer in the fifth. Gibson's home run bounced off the facing at the top of the right field stands at Tiger Stadium. Red Sox 14, Yankees 5

Tony Armas and Wade Boggs drove in three runs apiece and Bill Buckner belted a two-run homer as Boston again routed New York. The Red Sox broke the game open with a seven-run second inning against Ed Whitson, the big-money free agent signed by the Yankees. Whitson lasted only 1 2/3 innings and gave up nine runs — just three of them earned — on six hits. The game in Boston was the second of the season for both teams. On Monday, the Red Sox beat New York 9-2. Twins 6, Angels 3
Gary Gaetti was the hero of the night for visiting Minnesota. Trailing 2-1 in the eighth inning, Tom Brunansky hit a bases-loaded single to tie the score and Gaetti followed with another single off loser Donnie Moore to put the Twins ahead 3-2. Then, in the ninth, Minnesota loaded the bases against Moore and Pat Clements before Gaetti belted a three-run double off Doug Corbett. Mariners 5, A's 4
Mark Langston, the AL's rookie pitcher of the year in 1984, made a successful 1985 debut with the help of Jim Presley's three-run homer. Langston, who went 17-10 last year and led the league in strikeouts, pitched 7 1/3 innings and gave up six hits. He struck out just one, and left the game after Dave Kingman, who homered 35 times in 1984, belted a two-run shot.

NL roundup

By The Associated Press
Steve Howe simply "said a little prayer and went to war." "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't nervous," Howe said after getting a save in his first appearance in the major leagues in more than a year Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers held off the Houston Astros 5-4. Howe, who was suspended for the 1984 season by then-Commissioner Bowie Kuhn because of cocaine use, had not pitched in the majors since September 1983. In addition to the suspension, he had undergone elbow surgery last winter. Dodgers Manager Tommy Lasorda summoned Howe in the bottom of the ninth inning after Houston had scored once and had a runner on first with two outs. Expos 4, Reds 1
Bill Gullickson overcame a history of poor April outings as he pitched seven strong innings and also helped himself with an RBI single. Gullickson had lost five straight April decisions since 1983 before scattering four hits in Cincinnati. Hubie Brooks, acquired by Montreal from the New York Mets in the big trade for Gary Carter, drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly. Tim Raines contributed two singles and a triple and stole two bases for the Expos in pinning the loss on Jay Tibbs. Reds player-manager Pete Rose singled and had a run-scoring groundout in four at-bats. Rose's hit raised his career total to 4,100, now 91

behind Ty Cobb's all-time mark. Padres 3, Giants 0
Eric Show tossed a four-hitter and struck out a career-high 11 as defending NL West-champion San Diego won its first game of the season. Show, a 15-game winner the past two years, retired 13 straight batters between the first and fifth innings. He did not allow a San Francisco runner past second base during the game. Dave LaPoint, making his first appearance for the Giants since being acquired from St. Louis, went eight innings and gave up only one unearned run, on Kevin McReynolds' RBI single in the first. The visiting Padres, who lost to San Francisco in a season opener Tuesday, scored twice in the ninth on Jerry Royster's two-run double.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed a tariff with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to introduce a new service offering called ESSX-400 and to limit all rate plans for Centrex services to existing customers. Rate plans for all Centrex services, as provided in this tariff, are applicable only to customers with service as of the effective date of this tariff. Centrex customers will be able to expand existing systems and enhancements will continue to be provided. The net effect of this tariff would be no change in total billing for Centrex customers. The Commission has assigned this matter to Docket 6146. A prehearing to discuss the proposed change is scheduled at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, April 17, 1985, in the Commission offices at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard in Austin, Texas. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company anuncia a los usuarios que ha registrado una tarifa ante la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, con el fin de introducir un nuevo servicio denominado ESSX-400 y de limitar todo plan tarifario para servicios Centrex a los usuarios actuales. Los planes tarifarios para todos los servicios Centrex, según dispone dicha tarifa, corresponden solamente para los usuarios que tengan servicio a partir de la fecha de vigencia de dicha tarifa. Los usuarios de Centrex podrán expandir sus sistemas actuales, y se seguirán proporcionando mejoras. El efecto real de esta tarifa no constituirá ningún cambio en la facturación total de los usuarios de Centrex. La Comisión ha registrado este asunto bajo el Docket 6146. A fin de discutir el cambio propuesto, se realizará una pre-audiencia el miércoles 17 de abril de 1985, a las 9:30 de la mañana, en las oficinas de la Comisión, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, en Austin, Texas. Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el presente proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223, o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para personas con impedimentos de audición.

Texas sculptor makes his larger than life mark

By CATHERINE CANTWELL Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO, Texas (AP) — Artist Robert Wade achieved fame, or infamy as it were, with his larger-than-life sculptures — a fitting tribute to his Texas upbringing.

His cowboy boots, standing 40-feet high, guard the entrance to a San Antonio mall; his 40-foot iguana menaces patrons from atop the Lone Star Cafe in New York; and his dancing frogs entertain passers-by from the roof of the Tango nightclub in Dallas. His Six Frogs over Greenville Avenue have been the subject of legal controversy and a great deal of debate about whether the amphibians are art or advertising, in which case they would exceed the billboard limit.

That's quite a change from the days when his favorite theme was wiener shapes — huge hotdog shapes painted floating in the air or superimposed on photographs. That was in 1966, when he was 23 years old, fresh out of graduate school, and had just been hired by McLennan

Community College to begin the art program.

He moved from Waco in 1970, turned his thoughts from hotdogs and continued to experiment in different media. He attained national attention early in the 1970s as one of five Dallas artists based in Oak Cliff.

Visiting Waco recently for the Art Center's fundraising fashion show, Wade, now 42, talked about the effect his art has on people.

"I sort of enjoy it. You do get involved in the dialogue. But it's a bit of a hassle," he said, commenting about the debate on the frogs. "It's like these things are like children — a son who's calling me in the middle of the night from jail. It's like kids who get in trouble without really meaning to."

His fiancée, Lisa Sherman, who was curating art shows when she met Wade at a party, rolled her eyes. "I don't believe this," she said. "Don't listen to him." He laughed, amused by his own comparison. He divides his time now between Dallas and Santa Fe, N.M. He has a 12-year-old daughter who lives in San Diego.

Most of Wade's artwork reflects his Texas childhood. His father was in the hotel business, so Wade was reared all over Texas, he said, spending the majority of his time in El Paso. Roy Rogers was his second cousin, which accounts for the rodeo and cowboy images that captured his imagination and frequently find their way into his pictures and sculptures.

He uses ordinary objects to create his art. In El Paso, he built a monumental floor piece depicting the city with hot peppers, tortilla shells, cactus and velvet paintings. He has done maps of Texas and the United States in the same vein with unusual memorabilia from cities depicting their spots on the map.

Although he concentrates on sculptures now and not wieners, Wade has kept the offbeat humor and juxtaposition of incongruous objects. His mostly-staged photographs of roadside scenes, enlarged to lifesize prints, depict Texas myths, hunters, folklore, good guys and bad guys. Some photographs depict everyday objects as art, such as a picture of a "Pollito Plate" Mexican meal,

"Juarez at Night" and "Cowboy Boots."

His sculptures include such Texana items as a lifesize bronze of a cowboy riding a bucking armadillo.

Wade says his hotdog days were inspired partly by memories of driving past rows and rows of large butane gas tanks, but he can't remember where. "I kept seeing these things, and they just appeared kind of funny," he recalled. He received further inspiration from late night movies he attended in Dallas. Patrons would blow up long, skinny balloons and release them toward the screen, which was covered by thick curtains.

"They'd let (the balloons) go, and they'd zoom through the air. Eventually they'd hit the curtain. Sometimes they'd get caught in a fold and go up and sometimes they'd go over the top. And the crowd would just go nuts, everyone would applaud," he recalled. Was this perhaps in junior high? Maybe high school? Actually, this was when he was teaching at MCC and traveling to Dallas on the weekends to watch movies, he said.

Since 1976, he has done an average of one major piece a year, he said, some by commission. His latest project, a 20-foot sculpture of an Indian head, was displayed recently in downtown Dallas as part of the Texas Sculpture Symposium. The two-dimensional profile consists of wooden slats and a steel frame.

Describing his work isn't that easy, but he says his art is always "upbeat."

"It's satire, wit, irony, a special kind of humor that comes out of places like Texas — dry humor." Like the iguana, he said, you don't know whether it's scary or funny. But it's art that speaks of the Southwest and its culture. And with its humorous, and sometimes controversial, nature, it involves the people of the community and that seems to please Robert Wade.

City hates Aykroyd script

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — City officials weren't laughing over comedian Dan Aykroyd's latest film project. In fact, they said they didn't want any part of it.

"The scenes are terrible," said Mayor Sam Huston said after reading three pages of the script and deciding not to grant permission for the city water tower and police station to be used as sets.

"I don't think it would do a heck of a lot for the city of St. Cloud. They can do anything they want. They can film here. I can't stop them, but I don't have to facilitate them."

"Datenight," produced by Aykroyd, 32, depicts teen-agers spending a Saturday night in a typical town. Scenes planned include a police officer shining a flashlight on a man's bare bottom in a car and a character vomiting, the mayor said.

"Go Spartans" would be painted on the water tower, said Dan O'Connell, director of the Chamber of Commerce in this city of 42,000.

Sue Wilson, a production coordinator, said filming of the Columbia Pictures movie begins next week in Chicago and no decision has been made on whether to use St. Cloud as a location without cooperation by the officials.

If Russia cheats with radar, U.S. will break nuke missile rules

QUEENSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Reagan administration officials say if the Soviet Union refuses to dismantle a suspicious Siberian radar installation, the United States may consider exceeding limitations on nuclear missiles when a new Trident submarine begins sea trials next fall.

The warning that Soviet retention of the Krasnoyarsk radar was aired at a conference on U.S. arms control policy at the Aspen Institute here on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

American negotiators plan to confront the Soviets about the radar, which many administration officials claim violates the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, in a new round of talks on compliance questions opening today in Geneva.

The talks are being conducted by the Standing Consultative Commission, set up in 1972. They are separate from the negotiations in the Swiss city on limiting offensive nuclear weapons and space-based defense systems.

Former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a speech here Wednesday night, sharply challenged U.S. strategy in the negotiations and urged the administration to put the "Star Wars" program on the table.

"I see little sign the United States is prepared to negotiate," Schlesinger said. "Change may come later."

He said President Reagan has "fallen in love" with the idea of using futuristic technology to try to shield the United States and its allies from Soviet missiles. Schlesinger said the program would cost $100 billion and would not work.

"For the rest of our lifetime we are going to remain vulnerable to the Soviet Union," he said.

Schlesinger said Star Wars "scared the bejesus out of the Soviets" and they may be prepared to cut back their heavy land-based missiles in exchange for limits on U.S. space efforts.

But, Schlesinger said, the administration is urging the Soviets to reduce the offensive missiles the Soviets will want to keep if Star Wars went ahead. He called this approach "inherently inconsistent."

The Reagan administration has tried for two years to get the Soviets to acknowledge the Krasnoyarsk radar violates limits on missile defenses imposed by the 1972 ABM treaty.

When the new Trident submarine, the Alaska, is put to sea with 24 multiple-warhead nuclear missiles, Reagan must decide whether to retire older missiles on other submarines or in land silos.

Otherwise, the United States would exceed the 1,200 limit on multiple-warhead missiles set in the 1979 Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

Although the Senate has not ratified the treaty, Reagan pledged not to undercut its terms provided the Soviets observed the restraints.

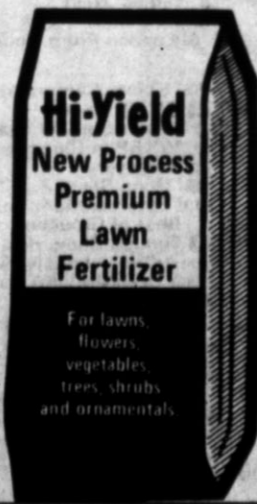

In a report to Congress earlier this year, Reagan said the Krasnoyarsk radar is illegal. The 1972 ABM treaty permits three types of radar installations. U.S. officials attending the conference here said it does not comply with any of the three.

LANDWEIN

Landwein is a relatively new (1982) category of German table wine. It was introduced as a response to the success of the French "vins de pays." It was to be a standard drinking wine but of some local character and with more style and flavor than the relatively anonymous tafelwein (table wine). Fifteen regions of Germany have the right to christen a landwein if the wine in question meets certain simple requirements. The alcohol content, for example, must be 0.5 percent higher than that of tafelwein. Another important regulation is that the sugar content should not exceed the acidity by more than 10 grams per liter of sugar. Landwein is therefore intended as a relatively dry and briskly acidic wine suitable for meals.

Historians recall Roosevelt's death

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — When President Franklin D. Roosevelt died 40 years ago Friday, Lloyd's of London tolled its Lutine Bell and Radio Tokyo broadcast condolences to the U.S. fleet under attack by Japan's kamikaze pilots off Okinawa.

FDR, who had been president longer than any of his 31 predecessors, was honored in death by an ally with a signal reserved for the sinking of a great ship and treated with unusual respect by an enemy.

"We indeed grieve to learn of the death of President Roosevelt," Radio Tokyo broadcast in English. "We didn't expect that he could pass away when the whole world is in such a state of chaos."

Winston S. Churchill, Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin were his peers, the Great Depression, Pearl Harbor, D-Day his challenges. Eisenhower, Marshall, Patton and MacArthur were his generals. Herbert C. Hoover, Alfred M. Landon, Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey were his vanquished Republican foes.

Roosevelt died of a cerebral hemorrhage at the Little White House in Warm Springs, Ga., at 4:35 p.m. Eastern War Time on Thursday April 12, 1945.

American radio began 80 hours of commercial-free news broadcasts. In Manhattan, a woman said she did not need a radio, she could read the news on the faces of passersby. Newspaper editors nationwide added FDR, as commander in chief, to lists of Americans killed in action.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, a man described as having only two emotions, "solitude and anger," wept; Pope Pius XII was awakened; Andrei Gromyko, Soviet ambassador to the United States, called FDR "one of the greatest statesmen the world has ever known."

Farr given Hollywood Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Jamie Farr, the cigar-chomping, dress-wearing Cpl. Klinger on the television show "M*A*S*H," has been given the 1,802nd star on Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

About 200 fans attended the ceremony on Wednesday, including "M*A*S*H" co-star Mike Farrell and members of the more than 20 charities that Farr supports, said Monique Moss, spokeswoman for the

"His ability to project American idealism and to project American democratic feeling led to the deep outpouring around the world at his death," said William R. Emerson, director of the Roosevelt library and museum in Hyde Park.

"I was serving in Okinawa at the time he died, but I think there was a feeling mainly of being stunned because most of the forces ... had never known a president other than Roosevelt, so there was a feeling of there being a great void," said Roosevelt biographer James McGregor Burns.

Emerson, director of the Roosevelt library and museum in Hyde Park, Hollywood Chamber of Commerce. Farr, 38, was originally hired for one day's work as a phony transvestite bucking for a Section 8 discharge, granted by the military to those considered mentally unstable.

But something about the way Farr chomped a cigar under lacey veils and exposed his hairy legs below a skirt clicked with the producers, who eventually signed him on as a regular.

was a fighter pilot in Italy when the news came.

"My squad was the worst collection of retrogrades, all black-hearted Southerners like myself who to a man disliked Roosevelt," Emerson said. "I'll never forget how all that nonsense stopped (when he died)."

"While they reviled him, they counted on him. It was the most striking reversal of form I've ever seen. All that stuff about 'that man in the White House,' stopped because they had come to rely upon him."

FDR was born at his family's Hyde Park home, overlooking the Hudson River, Jan. 30, 1882, and was buried in its rose garden on Sunday April 15, 1945. After serving as governor of New York, he survived an assassination attempt as president-elect on Feb. 15, 1933, in Miami, in which the mayor of Chicago was killed.

Roosevelt was inaugurated 32nd president on March 4, 1933 in the desperate days of the Great Depression. His first 100 days of legislative action formed a yardstick against which succeeding presidents have been measured.

He was the only president elected to four terms; a constitutional amendment ratified by Congress in 1951 now limits presidents to two.

Roosevelt has ranked among the top three presidents in many surveys of American historians taken in the last 25 years.

Exhibit planned

LUBBOCK — The artistic changes and discoveries of Paul Milosevich will be communicated through an exhibit of his recent artwork at The Museum of Texas Tech University April 14 through June 9.

Because of IUDs

80,000 women may be infertile

BOSTON (AP) — Women who use contraception and have never had children should avoid plastic intrauterine devices if they someday want to become pregnant, according to a researcher who published a study today suggesting that IUDs cause infertility.

IUDs — coils or loops of plastic or metal inserted in the uterus to prevent conception — seem to double the risk of infertility in women who have never had children, a companion study found.

"This does not mean that infertility will be caused in all women who use IUDs," said Dr. Daniel W. Cramer, one of the researchers. "It certainly does not mean that all tubal infertility is caused by the IUD."

The study by Cramer, a researcher at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, and another study led by Dr. Janet R. Daling of the University of Washington in Seattle were published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

In an accompanying editorial, Dr. Daniel R. Mishell Jr. of the University of Southern California noted that the IUD is still worthwhile for women who've already borne children but don't want to have more.

The devices, which are used by about 2.2 million American women, are the fourth most common form of contraception after voluntary sterilization, the pill and condoms.

The study suggested that IUDs may have caused 80,000 women to become infertile.

The increase in risk appears to depend on the kind of IUD used. Plastic IUDs were more frequently linked with infertility than were copper-covered IUDs, which are more commonly used and seem to be relatively safe.

"If a woman has to select an IUD who's never had a prior pregnancy, I would certainly opt for the copper IUD," said Ms. Daling, "and possibly I would look for some other method of contraception if I was interested in having children at a later period in time."

Both studies compared the prior IUD use of women who had tried and failed to have children with that of new mothers.

The Boston study found that the risk of infertility was about 60 percent higher than usual among women who used copper IUDs. The Seattle study found a smaller, not statistically meaningful, increase among these women.

The two studies found that two brands of plastic IUDs — the Lippes Loop and the Saf-T-Coil — appear to approximately triple the risk of infertility. The Lippes Loop is still sold but Saf-T-Coil was discontinued about two years ago.

The risk is even higher for the Dalkon Shield, another plastic IUD that has not been sold for a decade.

Manufacturers of the three brands of IUDs declined to comment on the reports because they had not read them.

In ancient Russia, it was believed that a skein of red wool would ward off fevers.

Radial keratotomy receives good marks

At first, the idea of carving up the clear outer surface of the human eye to improve vision no doubt seemed drastic and risky.

Now this medical procedure, called radial keratotomy, is gaining more and more acceptance as research continues. A recent study by the National Eye Institute brought encouraging news about this operation for reducing nearsightedness.

Results from the first year of the five-year study indicate that the procedure may be a relatively safe and effective alternative to corrective lenses.

Researchers from the first year of the five-year study indicate that the procedure may be a relatively safe and effective alternative to corrective lenses.

Researchers warn, however, that radial keratotomy has been performed in the U.S. only since 1978, and long-term problems might not show up for 10 to 30 years. The American Academy of Ophthalmology regards radial keratotomy as an "investigational procedure" whose short-term benefits of better sight should be weighed against the possibility of problems later.

The Texas Medical Association says the procedure involves making eight to 16 tiny slashes in the cornea, a clear, dime-sized covering about as thick as a credit card. The slashes run from a point near the center of the cornea to the edge—like the spokes of a wheel.

The cuts weaken the cornea, allow internal pressure to form bulges at the cornea's edges, and flatten its center. This flattening refocuses the light entering the eye to eliminate nearsightedness, the inability to see distant objects clearly.

The recent study of 413 patients at nine U.S. medical centers consisted of 69 percent who had 20/200 vision or worse in the eye, meaning that the only eye-chart letter they could read was the big E. All but one of the 413 had worse than 20/40 vision, the minimum required in most states to get a driver's license without corrective lenses.

One year after surgery, 78 percent of the 413 had 20/40 vision or better in the eye operated on. The most common problems were "undercorrection" and "overcorrection." But the study's director reported "no severe vision-threatening complications at one year."

Vision in an eye may not stabilize for up to a year after surgery, the study notes, but nearsightedness generally decreases during this period. Radial keratotomy reduced nearsightedness in all eyes in the study but was particularly effective on those with better vision initially.

 Box will help

DEAR POLLY — Is there some way to look at negatives to sort them, other than by holding them up to the light? — VIRGINIA

DEAR VIRGINIA — What you need is a light box. This is a translucent screen with a light behind it that allows you to put negatives or slides on it. The light shines through the film and you can inspect several negatives or slides at one time. These are available at camera-supply places, and some models are quite inexpensive.

You could make your own by laying a piece of frosted glass or translucent plastic over a frame and placing some kind of light beneath it (be sure the light does not touch the glass). However, you'll have to be careful that the light source does not heat the glass or plastic while you're using it. A fluorescent bulb will stay cooler than an incandescent bulb. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have some terrific friends, but one is special. If this letter is printed, the "Polly Dollar" is for her.

I am recovering from surgery and unable to do my regular household tasks. I received a wonderful "bouquet" from this special friend:

She sent a nice woman to clean my house!

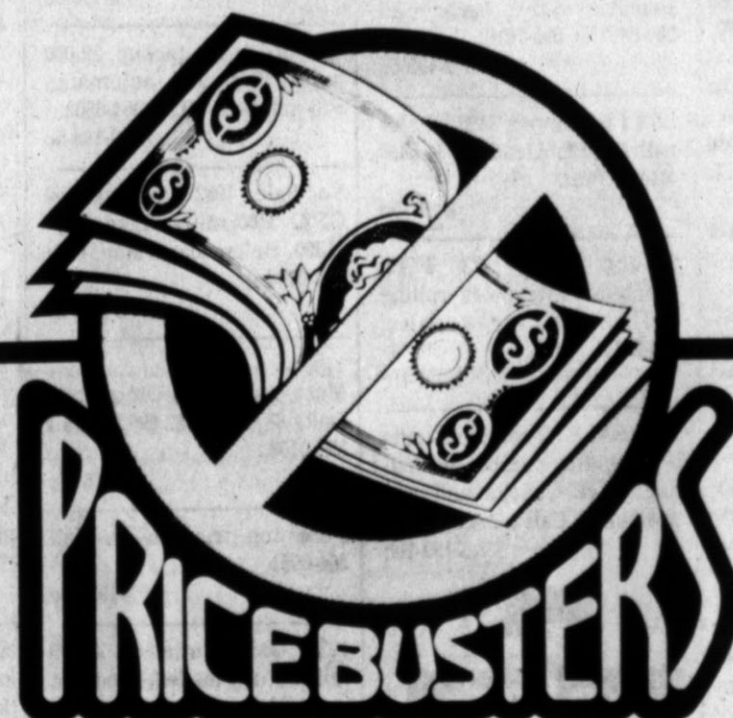

After previous surgery and when I had my baby, she and other friends brought us prepared dinners. I received homemade gift certificates to care for my child, run the errands, drive me to town and even to do my laundry!

These are the best gifts I've ever received. They could be used by almost anyone and they are so appreciated. They're remembered much longer than flowers.

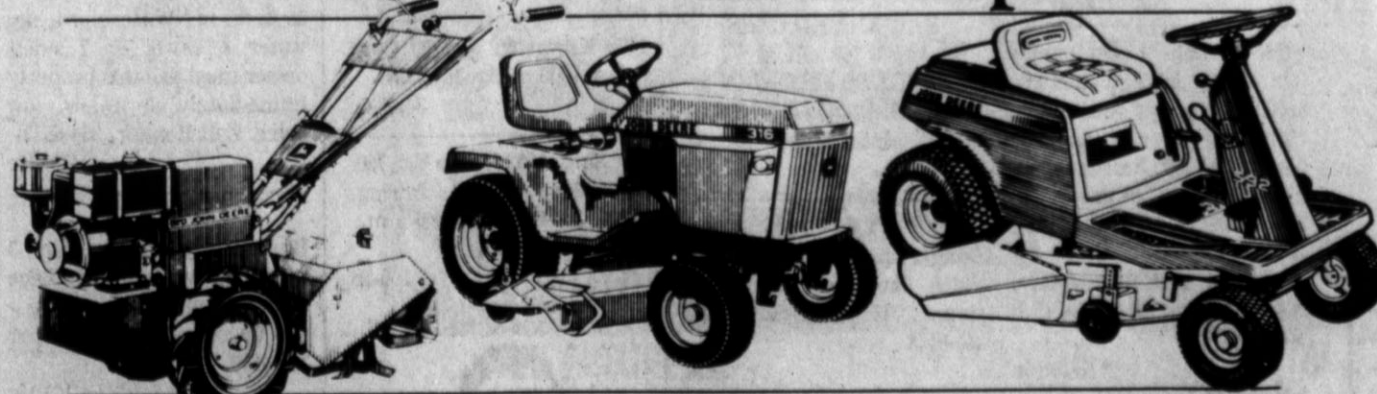

Instead of returning them empty, I plan on refilling all their casserole dishes, to give these thoughtful friends a night off from cooking. This will be my thank-you card to them. — MRS. R.H.

Innkeeper succeeds with non-smoking facility

By ALAN SAYRE Associated Press Writer DALLAS (AP) — Three years ago, Lyndon Sanders opened a motel catering exclusively to non-smokers. He believed it would be successful.

He was right. Today, Sanders' Non-Smokers Inn is making money, but he isn't planning to expand. In fact, he recently turned down an opportunity to take over a small non-smoking inn in England.

He'd rather talk about smoking and help other businesses expand their non-smoking facilities.

"I have restaurants and motels calling all the time asking how we do it," he said. "That's what I wanted to accomplish — not build a chain of non-smoking inns."

"I've divested myself of everything else but this so I can work on the smoking issue," he said.

Sanders, 56, who was "born into the motel business" in Fort Stockton, made 27 speeches last year to various clubs and organizations on the subjects of smoking in the workplace and in public.

Sanders said he has a personal interest in the issue. "Smoking killed my father and killed a dozen of my close friends..." he said.

Many of the 80,000 to 90,000 guests who have stayed at his motel, located on the Airport Freeway in west Dallas near Texas Stadium, have heard of the inn from others, he said.

"We knew we were going to be a success, although some

Flush toilets indicate social status in Georgia

By ELLIOTT MINOR Associated Press Writer TIFTON, Ga. (AP) — For Doug Bachtel, flush toilets are more than a convenience. He uses them to chart progress in a state where people in more than 75,000 homes still trek to outhouses.

Bachtel, a 33-year-old rural sociologist, works for the University of Georgia's Cooperative Extension Service and is the author of the best-selling "Georgia County Guide."

The guide, 6,000 copies of which are printed each year, contains information on virtually all aspects of life in the state — divorce, crime, alcoholic beverage consumption and, of course, "housing units lacking complete plumbing."

"Houses without flush toilets are usually discussed in a lighthearted manner, but interestingly they are correlated with many other social indicators, including low basic skills test scores," he said.

In 1980, Talbot County, in west-central Georgia, led the state in households without indoor plumbing with 621, or 26.3 percent, of its 2,362 homes. Statewide, 75,618, or 3.76 percent, out of 2,012,640 households lacked plumbing that year, the last one for which the figures are available. "From what I understand, the Talbot County officials recognized through looking at the County Guide that they had a problem and were able to secure a federal grant to provide the people with plumbing," Bachtel said.

A native of Colorado Springs, Colo., with a doctorate in rural sociology, Bachtel examines reams of statistics to compile the annual guide.

The guides — "We sell out every year," Bachtel said — are given to state and county lawmakers and are sold for $7 each to Chamber of Commerce officials, public health workers, bankers, Realtors, businesses, libraries, schools and physicians.

One veterinarian, Bachtel said, used the guide to help him pick a county to settle in. The vet found one with an abundance of cattle and no one to keep them healthy.

"I put together information for planning purposes," explained Bachtel, one of 1,500 people employed by the extension service, which claims expertise in 190 specialties ranging from forestry to nutrition. All but two of Georgia's 159 counties have extension agents whose main job is to help farmers grow crops.

Bachtel estimated there are about 1,000 rural sociologists around the country who study problems in rural America such as poverty, infant mortality and low scholastic achievement and recommend changes.

Besides the guide, Bachtel edits a quarterly newsletter that examines problems facing Georgia; in 11 editions to date, he's covered such issues as population growth, unemployment, voter apathy and forestry.

Based on five years of studying problems in Georgia, Bachtel predicts that the major issue for the state in the 1980s will be land usage, followed by education, poverty and health.

Bachtel, who admits statistics can be less than exciting, for the past 12 years has kept black widow spiders as pets in a large pickle jar on his desk.

"They're beautiful to watch and because they're poisonous, there's an element of danger there," he said.

"Statistical data is pretty boring," Bachtel said, "so you have to have something that's a little offbeat to keep your sanity."

Check For Scouts

A local Boy Scout troop was the recipient of a check for $66.50 this week from the Hereford Lions Club. Club President B.J.

Gililand presented the check to Gary Billingsley, and the amount represented proceeds from a weekly fund-raising activity.

From 'Ice Age'

U.S.-Soviet relations must emerge

MOSCOW (AP) — The official news agency Tass quoted Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev as telling a visiting U.S. congressional delegation that relations between the two countries must emerge from a dangerous "ice age."

Gorbachev talked for nearly four hours Wednesday with four congressmen led by Speaker of the House Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill.

Gorbachev, 54, who replaced Konstantin U. Chernenko on March 11, reaffirmed his interest in a summit, the congressmen said afterward. One of them predicted he would be a "very formidable ADVERSARY" IN A MEETING

WITH President Reagan.

Tass quoted Gorbachev as telling the delegation:

"The time is such now that people shaping the policy of the two countries should by all means converse with one another. The world situation is disquieting, even dangerous, and a kind of ice age is being observed in relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States. At least this was so until the most recent time."

Reagan said Wednesday that he was ready to hold a get-acquainted meeting with the Soviet leader but not a summit.

The two leaders are expected to meet at the U.N. General Assembly this fall, but a summit would have to wait and be "the culmination of an extended dialogue which has produced tangible accomplishment."

Robert C. McFarlane, the president's national security adviser, said in Santa Barbara, Calif., where the president is vacationing.

On Sunday, Gorbachev said the Soviet Union was freezing deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe until November. The White House called the proposal a public relations ploy.

One of the visiting congressmen, House Republican leader Robert Michel, said Gorbachev mentioned the cool White House response.

Nursery book gets overhaul

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Father Gander, aka Douglas Larche, says Mother Goose is sexist.

Boys play all the strong roles in Humpty Dumpty, Peter Piper, Peter Pumpkin Eater and Little Jack Horner, Larche said, so he recast the nursery rhymes for a vision of a fairy world without sexism, racism or violence.

"Every person likes to feel he or she is important," Larche said. "One of the goals of this book is to make little girls feel as important as little boys."

In "The Equal Rhymes Amendment," Humpty Dumpty gets put together this time, not by all the king's horses and all the king's men, but by women and men.

Peter Piper, who picked a peck of pickled peppers, is still looking for the peck of pickled peppers he picked.

But now there's Candace Carter, who canned a case of candied carrots. And for every little Mary there's a Larry, just as contrary, watching his garden grow.

But there are other types of messages in these revamped rhymes.

Jack Spratt avoids fat to stay cholesterol-free, and a twinkling little star may lose its sparkle if pollution is not kept in check.

Larche, 36, a consultant with the Iowa Department of Public Instruction, said he began groundwork for the book almost a decade ago ad libbing lines during bedside reading to his two children.

"When my son, Jason, was small he gloried in the exciting adventures of nursery rhymes because he could imagine himself as the hero of almost every story," Larche recalled. "But when my daughter, Elisa, was born, somehow it didn't quite work."

Larche began filling in where the tales left off, to give Elisa new status in what seemed a male-dominated world. He worked to elevate her above the role of seamstress, flower-tender, frightened curd eater or prisoner of the fabled pumpkin shell.

"It seemed every time I read to her I was having to adapt the rhymes as I went along ... so she could be a star," he said.

"On the other hand there is an attempt to give equal opportunities to boys, so they can tend flowers if they want or cry if they want."

Another example: "Jack be nimble, Jack be quick. Jack jump over the candlestick. Jill be nimble, jump it, too. If Jack can do it, so can you!"

Larche's nursery rhyme characters inhabit a world where blacks, Hispanics, American Indians and whites go hand-in-hand, where boys can cry and girls can be tough.

"In these rhymes you'll find people in wheelchairs fishing, you'll find folks using their crutches to get apples out of trees, you'll find blind kids climbing trees," said Larche, who is blind in one eye and impaired in the other.

Elisa is 10 now, and Jason is 12. They are beyond the age of bedside nursery rhymes, but Larche said he hoped his book would win younger generations.

Public hearing held on social promotions

AUSTIN (AP) — Parents and public school officials will tell the State Board of Education today what they think about proposed rules to do away with social promotions in Texas' schools.

The 15-member state board is expected to consider a first vote on the rules at its meeting Saturday, with final adoption of the rules due in June.

The major public school reform bill passed in last summer's special legislative session prohibited advancement of students by "social promotions."

The policy adopted by the Legislature says students must have a grade average of 70 in order to be promoted to another grade or given credit for a course.

The public testimony today will be considered by the state board in adopting rules that put the policy into effect.

The new rules being considered by the board require that beginning in the 1985-86 school year, school districts will establish procedures for students to demonstrate mastery of a subject or course.

The proposed rules will allow school districts to provide alternatives to social promotion for students who are consistently unable to be promoted because of poor achievements.

A district may place a student in a higher grade level if the placement does not disrupt or overly complicate instruction for other students. A student may also be placed in a non-graded continuous progress class where he or she receives specially designed instruction that concentrates on English language arts

There lives here a fellow named Randy,
Who, at farming, is clever and handy.

He shoots baskets at night,
Treats his lady just right,
Overall — he's incredibly dandy!
