Reagan says Mideast talks not American's business

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he would favor a meeting between U.S. negotiators and a delegation of Jordanians and Palestinians to promote Middle East peace, but not if the Palestine Liberation Organization was represented.

Reagan also said he would not permit American diplomats to play a direct role in talks between Arabs and Israelis.

"They've got to understand we are not getting into the direct negotiations," the president said Thursday night during a nationally televised news conference. "That's none of our business."

By contrast, it was then-President Jimmy Carter's personal mediation of the Camp David talks between Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt that led to the signing of the first peace treaty between an Arab state and Israel.

However, Reagan disputed suggestions that he was pursuing a policy of disengagement from Mideast diplomacy, noting that another U.S. envoy would visit the region in several weeks.

Reagan said U.S. diplomats would not deal with the PLO because "they still refuse to agree or admit that Israel has a right to exist as a nation."

"There's a large Palestinian community and I'm sure that there are people that do not consider themselves represented by the PLO," the president said.

Reagan was more upbeat about the possibility of a summit meeting with the Soviet Union's new leader, Mikhail Gorbachev, saying, "I think it's high time that we did this." He said the prospects for a summit should be good.

The president added he wasn't discouraged by the new leader's failure to accept his invitation to attend a summit in the United States.

Texas would lose $444 million

States to lose in budget cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oregon and Wyoming would suffer the largest percentage loss of federal aid going to the states under President Reagan's proposed fiscal 1986 budget, an organization of state governments estimates.

Cuts in federal forest and mineral resource programs proposed in the Reagan budget would hit those states hard, according to the analysis by the Federal Funds Information for States, a joint service of the National Governors Association and the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Oregon would lose $259 million, or 17.9 percent, the study said. Victor J. Miller, director of the organization, said the state's loss was proportionately large because of the money it receives from federal forest service programs to harvest trees on federal lands.

"The Reagan administration proposes to reduce the level of reimbursement to counties substantially," he said. "They're heavily affected by this proposal."

Similarly, he said, Wyoming would lose to cuts in revenue shared with states for federal mineral leasing.

Wyoming's loss would be $54 million, or 10.3 percent, the study said.

Those losses would be small, however, compared to the dollars lost by New York and California. The study said Reagan's budget proposal would reduce federal outlays to New York by nearly $1.25 billion and to California by $736 million.

They would be followed by Ohio, $534 million; Michigan, $468 million; Texas, $444 million; Florida, $380 million; Illinois, $374 million; Pennsylvania, $362 million; Oregon, $259 million; and Georgia, $242 million.

The Reagan proposals for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 were compared with the amount the states would require to continue providing current services. The total money lost to the states in the first year would be $9.2 billion, the study said.

"States can deal with cuts of this magnitude in three ways," said Raymond C. Scheppach, executive director of the governors association. "They can eliminate federal programs. They can eliminate state programs to replace lost dollars in (See BUDGET, Page 2)

School survey showed 71 percent response

The recent survey conducted among Hereford Schools employees reflected the opinions of about 71 percent of the total employees and about 75 percent of the total teachers and teacher aides.

According to Dino Barela, one of the committee members who conducted the poll, said the greatest response was among elementary personnel. Of 150 elementary teachers, 127, or 84 percent responded.

On the junior high level, 47 of 78 replied to the poll. Senior high teachers sent in 44 questionnaires of the 66 distributed.

Barela said that 33 of the returned questionnaires were not identified as to what school or department.

When the questionnaire was distributed to the schools, an envelope addressed to County Judge Glen Nelson was included. Barela said the Judge Nelson kept the responses in a locked box and only committee members were allowed to open them.

Barela added that about 60 returned questionnaires were returned with written comments. It had been decided beforehand that all written responses would be given directly to the school board for review.

He said the judge has received a few more questionnaires since the release of the survey, but noted that the committee only included the responses received by last Friday.

Temporary dump pre-determined, reps say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the federal nuclear waste program has assured Congress that the government hasn't chosen the site for a temporary nuclear storage dump prior to completion of a study on whether the facility is needed.

Ben C. Rusche, director of the Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management, Thursday told skeptical congressmen that while the site has yet to be selected, it almost certainly be in "the area of the southeastern United States."

"We do not have a predetermined choice, we have not picked a predetermined site," Rusche told the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on energy conservation and power. "Let me assure you that any site the president selects will be the result of careful consideration and study."

Rusche's statement came in response to questions from Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., the subcommittee's chairman, and Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore. The congressmen said they suspect the waste management office has already picked a site in a Southern state even though a report on its necessity is unfinished.

"Isn't North Carolina on your list, Mr. Rusche? How about South Carolina? Is Tennessee on your list?" Mr. Markey asked.

Celebrities In Campaign

Among the noted people campaigning at the Hereford Lions Club election party Thursday night were Uncle Sam and Floyd Wierdeaux. Uncle Sam (Charlie Bell) spoke on behalf of presidential candidate Donald Hicks, while Wierdeaux, (Rocky Lee) pled for the opposition candidate, Chris White. About 200 Lions and ladies attended the election party at the Community Center.

Nuclear waste programs office would use no state money

A bill introduced last week by State Senator Bill Sarpalius would provide legislative backing for the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office, a Sarpalius aide said Thursday.

Joel Brandenberger, former Farm Editor of the Amarillo Daily News who joined Sarpalius' staff earlier this year, said Senate Bill 1244 would create an office with statutory authority behind it. He said Steve Frishman, who is the current director of the office and would most likely be appointed to that post if the bill passes, "would represent not just the governor, but the entire state."

Brandenberger said the office could be expanded as a result of the bill, depending on the money available from the federal government. The office is already funded by the Department of Energy, through a clause in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act that says a state can be compensated for any expense it occurs on account of being considered for location of a nuclear waste repository.

A nine-square mile site north of Hereford is considered by the DOE as one of the three best candidates for such a repository.

Three sites are to be formally recommended later this year, to be followed by a five-year period of site characterization. The office would begin operations under its new authority as soon as President Reagan officially designates the Panhandle site for further study.

Along with the bill, Sarpalius filed Senate Concurrent Resolution 76, which would create an interim committee of six lawmakers and three members of the public to study the issues surrounding the DOE's consideration of the Texas site.

Sarpalius said the committee would be responsible for recommending to the next Legislature possible action to hinder the DOE investigation.

The most attractive thing politically about the proposed legislation, Sarpalius said, is that the programs could assist Texans without costing the state a penny.

"Both of these agencies are going to be financed with federal funds," Sarpalius said. "We get money from the federal government for oversight of DOE operations, and we think it's time to put that money to good use. It's kind of nice to know that we can fight this dump without expending any state money."

Since no state money is going to be spent on the project, Sarpalius said he is confident both measures will win legislative approval.

Brandenberger said the bill would allow the office to operate anywhere in the state it chooses, and speculated that the director would choose to locate at least one staff member in Hereford.

this PPV. The light, fiberglass body is mounted on three bicycle wheels. Kim would not estimate how many miles the vehicle gets to a gallon of Gatorade.

Food up, gas down says CPI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The steepest food price rise in six months drove consumer costs up 0.3 percent last month, the government said today. Analysts blamed the devastating Florida freeze as the main culprit.

Gasoline prices fell 2.5 percent in February and were 4.7 percent below the level of a year ago. Industry watchers say, however, that the three-month trend has turned around and prices at the pump will continue rising in the coming weeks.

Coupled with the 0.2 percent overall gain in January, the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index so far this year has risen at an annual rate of 3.3 percent.

This compares with a 4 percent rise last year. Analysts expect inflation will run at the same pace for all of 1985, giving Americans their fourth straight year of moderate inflation.

As for last month, the department noted that clothing prices shot up 0.9 percent as many stores ended the traditional February sales unusually

Two arrested on alcohol charges

Hereford police arrested two persons Thursday on alcohol related charges. One person was jailed for public intoxication and another arrested for being drunk and in control of a motor vehicle, plus unlawful carrying of a weapon.

Police also checked out the theft of a $100 bicycle from 317 Elm, and a burglary at 206 Bennett in which several items were stolen.

Questions need for forum

Questions from the public are being sought by the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, for the candidates forum planned for March 28.

Questions to be asked of candidates for Hereford mayor or city commissioner, school board and hospital district board should be turned in to the chamber office by 5 p.m. Monday.

The candidates forum will begin at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Final arguments begin

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston businessman accused in a multi-million dollar oil fraud scheme was actually just the "funnel" through which the real culprits arranged the deal, defense attorneys say.

Attorneys were scheduled to continue final arguments today in the 11-week-old federal fraud trial of Frederick Soudan, 41, a Houston commodities broker.

A 23-count indictment alleges Soudan stole 200,000 tons of oil from its Italian owner and ordered it delivered to South Africa in the tanker Salem. According to the indictment, Soudan and four other men arranged for the ship to be sunk off the Senegalese coast on Jan. 17, 1980 to cover up the theft.

South Africa was eager to acquire oil because members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries refused to sell to the country because of its racist policies.

Soudan has been jailed in lieu of bond since May. His brother-in-law, Abdul Wahab Al Ghazou, 48, of Syria, is charged with helping Soudan hide his profits from U.S. tax authorities.

Grand jury indicts detective

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A grand jury whose term expired today was expected to end its investigation of state Sen. Carl Parker in connection with an alleged pornographic videotape business, a prosecutor said.

A Jefferson County grand jury last year indicted Parker, a Port Arthur Democrat, on charges stemming from the operation of Happy Times Video, an allegedly pornographic videotape business, at a Port Arthur house owned by the legislator and Daniel Jacob Lee.

A judge in November dismissed the indictments, which included promotion of prostitution, aggravated perjury and distribution of obscene material.

However, District Attorney James McGrath said another panel that expires today is investigating the case and was expected to decide whether to indict or no-bill Parker.

Lee was indicted in the case last April on charges of distribution of obscene material, possession of cocaine, prostitution promotion and delivery of marijuana. He has not yet been tried.

Meanwhile, a Houston private detective hired by Parker was indicted Thursday on charges of witness tampering in an investigation involving the legislator.

Grand jurors indicted investigator Keith William Budd Jr. on four counts of witness tampering after hearing last-minute evidence, McGrath said.

The charge is a third-degree felony punishable by two to 10 years in prison and a maximum $5,000 fine.

Loss affects astronaut safety

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The closing of the National Solar Observatory at Sacramento Peak, N.M., will take away a key part of the "early warning system" that helps protect orbiting astronauts from the radiation of sun storms, according to an Air Force expert.

Richard Altroch, an Air Force geophysicist who works at the Solar Observatory said only "Sac Peak" provides data on the sun's corona, the outer layer that is a major source of radiation.

"We provide data from the corona that is not provided by any other observatory," said Altroch. "If our observatory is closed, it will lower the amount of data available for making predictions."

Sac Peak is operated by the National Science Foundation. Officials have announced that the facility will be closed due to a reduction in funding.

Altroch said the observatory sends its studies to the Space Environment Services Center of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration in Boulder, Colo. This center combines the observations with data from its own telescopes and from those of telescopes at Kitt Peak, Ariz. to make predictions about storms on the sun.

The Air Force scientist said that reducing the amount of solar data available will mean "a lower probability of a correct forecast" of sun storms.

An official at the Boulder center said, however, that the loss of data from Sac Peak will not seriously affect solar storm forecasting.

Countries reach initial agreement

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Foreign Minister Jaime Gama of Portugal said he reached initial agreement with Mexican officials on an extradition treaty and proposed another meeting of foreign ministers of the European Economic Community, Spain and Portugal with officials of this region.

Gama left Thursday at the end of a three-day visit. It was the first visit to Mexico by a Portuguese foreign minister in 120 years of diplomatic relations between the two countries, the official newspaper El Nacional said.

He said the proposed San Jose II meeting, a followup to talks last September in San Jose, Costa Rica, with foreign ministers of the Contadora group and Central American nations, would deal with economic and technical cooperation.

Vice consul abducted

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three men armed with pistols kidnaped France's vice consul this morning as he walked to work in west Beirut, and two other French embassy employees failed to report to work, the embassy and witnesses said.

Embassy spokesman Marcel L'augel said the vice consul, Marcel Fontaine, was abducted. It was the fourth kidnapping of a Westerner in mostly Moslem west Beirut in the past eight days.

L'augel identified the two absent employees as Marcel Carton, 62, protocol officer, and his daughter, Mrs. Danielle Perez, 34, who worked as the secretary for the cultural section.

He said that the father and daughter had left their mid-city home together at 8:30 a.m. and that there was no news of their whereabouts six hours later.

Another French Embassy official, who spoke only on condition he not be identified, said: "People are panicky and because they did not show up, which is not their habit, the alarms have been sounded."

He said there was no evidence they had been kidnapped but that an investigation was under way.

A senior embassy official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Fontaine had worked at offices in both east and west Beirut since late 1982.

Fontaine was walking from his home in the Ras Beirut neighborhood to the French Embassy when three gunmen forced him into a blue BMW and sped away, said the Christian radio station Voice of Lebanon.

Over women's role

Church tensions magnifying

In more ways than one, the Roman Catholic Church is having woman trouble.

A growing number of Catholic women "feel they're being stepped on" by the church, says Catholic Scripture scholar Pheme Perkins of Jesuit-run Boston College.

Strains over women threaded a current Vatican-ordered investigation of U.S. religious communities, an attempt by U.S. bishops to draft a document on women, special pressures on some nuns and driving out of two for holding public office. "Ominous signs are in the air," writes Sister Ann Patrick Ware. In a new book on updated styles of American nuns, "Midwives of the Future," she says indicated papal moves could "undo the work of renewal" by women's orders.

So sharply have church tensions built up about women that several of their leaders are objecting to the propriety of a planned pastoral letter about them by the church's all-male U.S. hierarchy.

Mathematician Mary Leach, a panelist at a recent Washington, D.C., hearing, said that women under the discriminatory, patriarchal church structure "are like Lazarus beneath the table with morsels being flung" down at them.

The Leadership Conference of Women Religious, representing superiors of most of the nation's 120,000 nuns, called for an indefinite postponement of such a letter, saying the church lacks sufficient theological understanding for the effort.

Sister Marjorie Tuite of the National Assembly of Women Religious, said any pastoral letter should be "on sexism, not on women. You don't write pastorals on victims, you write them on issues."

Several other women's group voiced a similar view, and also said admission of women to the priesthood is fundamental to any real moves toward justice to women. However, the pope has ruled out women's ordination.

The women's issue also has loomed in other ways, including the Vatican ultimatum to 24 American nuns to retract publicly their statement about abortion, or be expelled — a case simmering for months.

The nuns had been among 97 signers of a statement that blanket condemnation of abortion in all instances was not the only "legitimate Catholic position," and urging discussion of the matter.

One of the signers, Sister Judith Vaughan, already has felt reprisal.

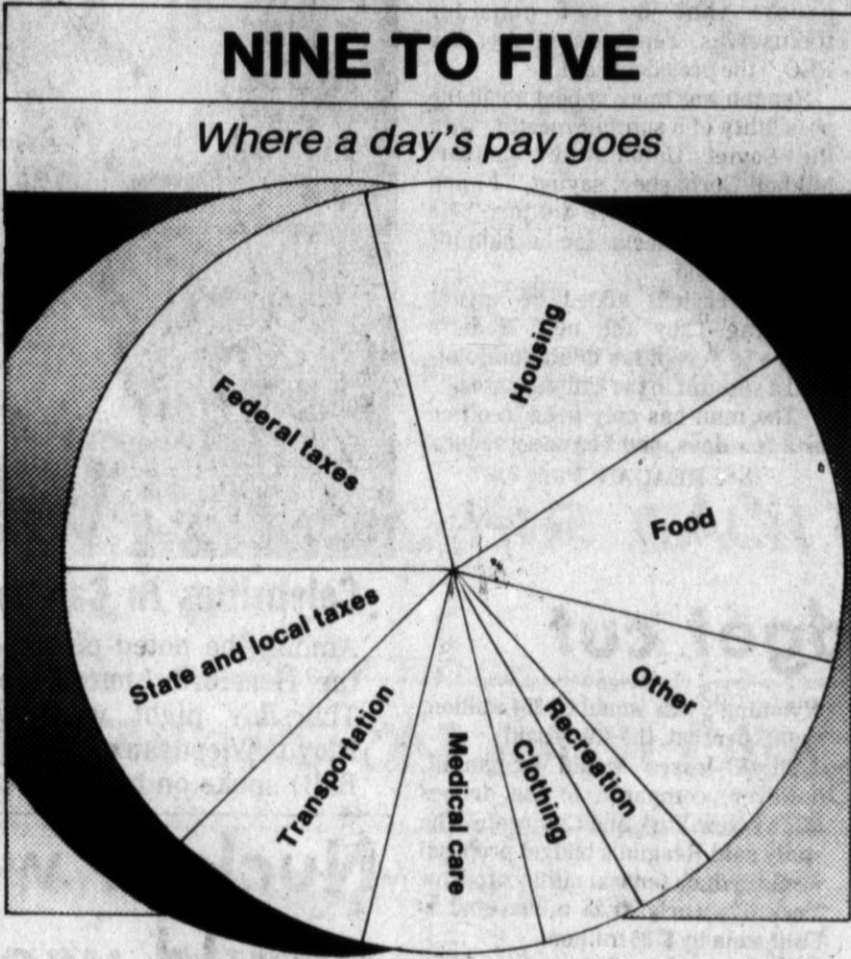

She runs a shelter, the House of Ruth, for homeless, pregnant women and their children in Los Angeles, and the archdiocesan social services director has ordered no more clients referred to the shelter.

She said the archdiocese, which previously provided a small part of the shelter's budget, "is punishing the very women the pro-life people say they are for and are trying to help."

After the ultimatum to the nuns, an organization, Catholics for a Free Choice, reports that a survey of 2,000 Catholic theologians and scholars, in which 498 responded, 49 percent said "abortion can sometime be a moral choice."

Meanwhile, a Vatican-initiated investigation of religious orders, including nuns, is going on. Among other things, the pope says the nuns should return to identifiable habits — a medieval mode of dress most American nuns have abandoned.

The inquiry also was looking at the new constitutions of the orders, developed in the wake of the reforming Second Vatican Council, allowing greater freedom and diversity of service and participatory governance.

Crime rate in Texas rises

AUSTIN — Increases were noted in both the crime rate and the number of major crimes reported in Texas last year, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"The crime rate in Texas last year rose 2.1 percent to 6,029.2 crimes per hundred thousand population," said

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director. "The total number of major index crimes reported by law enforcement agencies was 964,014, amounting to an increase of 3.8 percent.

"These are relatively small increases," Adams said. "However, they are disappointing in view of the reductions reported in 1983 and demonstrate the necessity of keeping the pressure on the criminal element through maximum enforcement efforts and increased citizen participation in crime prevention programs. With our continuing population growth in Texas, we must anticipate increases in opportunities for crime and keep working to create the most inhospitable environment for the criminal."

Two of the four violent crime categories were down in 1984. Murders decreased by 6.6 percent and robberies declined by 4.1 percent. However, the number of rapes were up 15.9 percent while aggravated assaults increased 1.3 percent.

Motor vehicle thefts led the property crime categories, posting a 6.4 percent increase. Thefts rose by 5.1 percent and burglaries were up by 1.5 percent.

Twenty-one percent of the index crimes were cleared by arrests in 1984.

federal programs, or they can raise taxes."

By percentage of loss, California wouldn't be among the 10 biggest losers, and New York would be only the eighth biggest loser, according to the analysis.

Other big losers by percentage would be Florida and Ohio, 9.8 percent each; New Mexico, 9.6 percent; Maryland, 9.4 percent; North Carolina, 9.3 percent; New York, 9.2 percent; Michigan, 9.1 percent; and Iowa, 9.1 percent.

REAGAN

of what is confronting him now," Reagan told reporters.

The president defended South African police who shot into a crowd of demonstrators Thursday, killing 17 people, and Israeli forces that fired on and killed a Lebanese camera crew working for CBS News in Lebanon.

Reagan was asked if he was considering changing his policy of using diplomacy to oppose the white South African government's segregationist rule in the wake of the shootings.

He said to suggest that all the violence was coming from the police side was to ignore "the fact that there was rioting going on." He said some of the police involved were black and that there is "an element in South Africa that do not want a peaceful settlement of this — who wants a violent settlement, who want trouble in the streets, and that is what's going on."

There are conflicting reports from South Africa as to whether the demonstrators, who were marching to protest earlier deadly clashes with police, were carrying sticks, stones and gasoline bombs — as officials said — or whether the police attacked without provocation.

Reagan also declined to criticize Israeli troops who fired on a CBS News crew in southern Lebanon, saying, "I'm quite sure... this was not a deliberate killing." He called the incident a tragedy but said, "These things can happen" in a war in which one side wears no military uniforms.

INFLATION

early. It was the steepest rise for any of the major components of the index.

Food costs, paced by a 2.9 percent gain in fruit and vegetable prices, rose 0.5 percent in February. The fruit and vegetable gain was more than double January's rise.

Tomato prices shot up 18.7 percent. Apple and banana prices also rose dramatically as these fruits were often substituted for citrus.

The department gave these other details of February price activity:

—The food price gain was the steepest since August's 0.5 percent jump. Egg prices were up 3.1 percent, after declining 13.6 percent in January. Prices also rose for poultry while declining for fish and beef and veal.

—In energy costs, home heating oil costs fell 1.5 percent while natural gas prices rose a slight 0.2 percent.

—Housing costs rose 0.4 percent, their biggest gain since September. Household operating expenses were up 0.6 percent, with the Feb. 17 increase of 2 cents in first-class mail rates largely responsible.

—Overall transportation costs fell 0.1 percent despite big gains for new and used car prices. New car prices rose 0.8 percent; used car prices were up an even steeper 1.9 percent.

—Medical care costs rose 0.4 percent.

All the changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

If last month's 0.3 percent overall increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 4.2 percent. The annual rate reported by the department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly prices than the monthly figure made public.

In all, the Consumer Price Index stood at 317.4 in February, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $31.74 last month.

A companion index, the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers rose 0.4 percent last month. The annual change in this index is used to figure cost-of-living increases in many wage contracts.

The news on consumer prices followed an even better showing for wholesale prices in February, which actually declined 0.1 percent in February.

In a statement, CBS protested "what eyewitnesses call an unprovoked and deliberate attack by Israeli forces."

Reagan opened his third news conference of the year by warning that U.S.-Soviet arms talks could be doomed if the House fails to follow the Senate's lead in voting to release funds to produce 21 more MX missiles.

"No request by an American president for a major strategic system deemed vital to the national security has ever been denied by an American Congress," Reagan said. "And unless that tradition is maintained next week in the House, there's little prospect of success at Geneva."

Reagan also declined to criticize Israeli troops who fired on a CBS News crew in southern Lebanon, saying, "I'm quite sure... this was not a deliberate killing." He called the incident a tragedy but said, "These things can happen" in a war in which one side wears no military uniforms.

There are conflicting reports from South Africa as to whether the demonstrators, who were marching to protest earlier deadly clashes with police, were carrying sticks, stones and gasoline bombs — as officials said — or whether the police attacked without provocation.

The quarterly Fellowship Dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the church. During the covered dish supper, the program will be presented by Bill Devers, Jim Donaldson, Ray Owens and Ed Wandling. Everyone is asked to bring a meat, vegetable and dessert or salad. A nursery will be provided.

DAWN BAPTIST CHURCH

HAROLD SCARBROUGH

The Rev. Harold D. Scarbrough of Amarillo and John Q. Daugherty of Hereford will lead a week-long revival at the Dawn Baptist Church. The meetings will begin Sunday evening, March 24, and conclude on Sunday afternoon, March 30.

The Rev. Scarbrough, a native of Carlsbad, N.M., is presently the pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Amarillo. He became the pastor of Temple in April 1978. A graduate of Sul Ross State College and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Scarbrough has also served churches in Fort Worth, El Paso, Kermit, and Abilene. From 1970 to 1972 he served as the director of missions for the El Paso Baptist Association. He has preached in several states and in England and Germany.

JOHN DAUGHERTY

John Daugherty is the associate pastor of Temple Baptist Church here in Hereford. He has held that position since October 1983. Among other responsibilities Daugherty directs the music ministry of the church. He will lead the music for the revival at Dawn.

Daugherty graduated from Eastern New Mexico State University and from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest, N.C. In 1975 he was a member of the resident ensemble of the Vienna Music and Youth Festival held in Vienna, Austria. He has conducted music for revival services in North Carolina, New Mexico, and Texas.

A native of Artesia, N.M., Daugherty lives in Hereford with his wife, Janet, and their daughter, Rebekah.

Jim Hickman, pastor of the Dawn Baptist Church, stated, "The annual revival is an important event in the life of a Baptist church. Our people anticipate a great week of preaching and singing. We would like to extend an invitation to everyone to come."

The Dawn Baptist Church is in Dawn, 13 miles east of Hereford on Highway 60. Services will begin each weeknight at 7:15.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. Weldon Butler, pastor, and the congregation of First United Methodist Church invite all area residents to hear a noted preacher, Dr. Robert E. Goodrich of Dallas, in a series of Spiritual Enrichment and Renewal services Sunday through Wednesday.

The opening service will be at the Sunday morning worship hour, 10:55, and Dr. Goodrich will preach again at 7:30 p.m. when members of Wesley UMC and San Pablo UMC have been invited as special guests. A group from the Wesley Church will present musical numbers.

Before the evening service, Dr. Goodrich will be a guest of the Youth Fellowship for a snack supper at 5:30 and a program. He and Mrs. Goodrich will be welcomed at an informal reception in the church fellowship hall after the preaching service, with the United Methodist Women as hostesses.

On the weekdays, there will be early morning meetings at 6:30 a.m. Breakfast will be prepared by the Methodist Men at that time. Evening meetings will continue at 7:30 p.m. through Wednesday.

FRIO BAPTIST CHURCH

Simnacher speaks to cafeteria employees

Pat Simnacher, RN employed in the Hereford schools, spoke to Hereford Independent School District cafeteria employees at their monthly meeting and salad supper held Monday evening at Northwest Elementary cafeteria.

She spoke on safety and first aid in the kitchen and also informed the group of different hazards and accidents that could happen through carelessness and by not taking the necessary safety precautions.

Following the supper, Bea Knabe, manager of Northwest cafeteria, extended birthday greetings to Trudie Gray and presented her with a birthday cake. Also, door prizes were won by Betty Jones and Nancy Mitchell.

Northwest cafeteria employees served as hostesses to the 55 members in attendance. They included Mary Garza, Shaundelle Beavers, Knabe, Lupe Lopez, Karen Schmidt, Kelly Metcalf, Bertha Talley, Rosie Hernandez, and Alicia Jimenez.

The April meeting will be hosted by employees of the junior and senior high school cafeteria.

La Afflatus members studied trends of former first ladies

Members of la Afflatus Estudio Club continued the study for the year Tuesday afternoon when they met in the Hughes-Montgomery home.

Emily Suggs gave the program in two parts. During the first section, Women in the Whitehouse, she told some trends of the former first ladies. She said that Mamie Eisenhower said "I think all women over 50 should stay in bed until noon. When Calvin Coolidge got so tired of Mrs. Coolidge talking, she made an entire speech in sign language. Mrs. Kennedy would often go into the play area and play in the sandbox with Caroline.

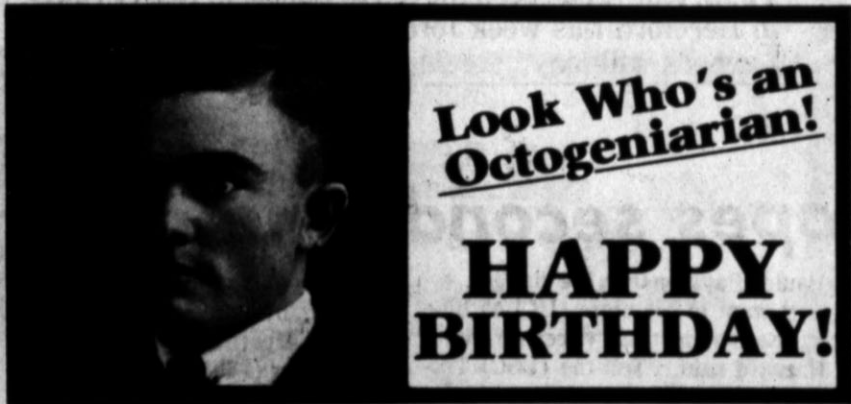

The second section of her speech concerned a traveler who was in the area where Suggs had recently vaca-tioned. Don Watson travelled and wrote a book on his 21,500 mile voyage alone in a canoe. This book should be made into a movie soon.

The club will meet on April 16 in the senior citizens building at 12 noon for lunch and a tour of the building and then later a tour of the YMCA. The next meeting will be in the Heritage Room of the library with Alberta Higgins as hostess.

Those present were Mary Williamson, Allyne Johnson, Opal Elliston, Pet Ott, Alberta Higgins, Teresa Hale, Bea Hutson, Jennie B. Terrell, Lola Jewel and Della Stagner.

Program on development of babies to air Sunday night

The mysterious world of babies, from tiny grasping hands to chubby legs risking their first shaky steps, will be highlighted in a new prime-time special premiering at 8 p.m. Sunday on CBN Cable Network.

Everything from reaching to rolling over, from sitting and crawling to standing and falling is featured in the show, "A Journey Through the First Year of Life."

Produced by American Baby Cable TV Programs, this prime-time special is a video interpretation of American Baby's The First Year of Life publication which highlights the major steps in infant development from the helpless newborn to the active one-year-old.

Containing dramatic footage of infants' developmental milestones, the special is hosted by American Baby magazine editor Judith Nolte and Dr. Burton L. White, educational psychologist and author of "The First Three Years of Life." Dr. White is also director for the Center for Parent Education in Newton, Mass. Both he and Nolte will help interpret the meaning of each stage and explain how parents can enhance their infants' growth patterns.

Tied to the special is a national sweepstakes with a $20,000 scholarship grand prize. Viewers will be asked to send a postcard listing three "word clues" presented during the program. American Baby will provide a $20,000 college scholarship in the form of an educational fund, established now for maturity in the year 2002, plus runners-up prizes from sponsors.

American Baby Cable TV Programs also produces the weekly series, "The American Baby," seen every Friday at 2 p.m. on CBN Cable. A highly informative as well as entertaining show, "The American Baby," also hosted by Judith Nolte, is designed for expectant and new parents.

NCAA roundup

Tigers trip BC

By The Associated Press

The final play was set up for Michael Adams, who already had one buzzer-beater for Boston College in the NCAA Tournament.

But it was Andre Turner who made the game-winning, 17-foot jumper for Memphis State — again.

"I'm never happy to have to take that last shot," Turner said Thursday night after his basket with one second remaining lifted No. 5 Memphis State over Boston College 59-57 in a Midwest Regional semifinal game. "I'd rather be up by 12 points."

The victory in Dallas put Memphis State into Saturday's Midwest final against No. 4 Oklahoma, which dined No. 8 Louisiana Tech 86-84 in overtime when All-American Wayman Tisdale's short jump shot bounced on the rim five times before falling through the basket with two seconds left.

Also on Thursday night, top-ranked Georgetown continued its drive toward a second straight NCAA championship by beating No. 14 Loyola of Chicago 65-53 in an East semifinal in Providence, R.I. The Hoyas, who got a strong second half from All-American Patrick Ewing, on Saturday will face No. 6 Georgia Tech, which used a second-half burst to defeat No. 12 Illinois 61-53 in the other East semifinal.

Tonight, Maryland faces Villanova and No. 7 North Carolina takes on Auburn in the Southeast semifinals in Birmingham, Ala., while No. 16 North Carolina State plays Alabama and No. 3 St. John's meets Kentucky in the West semifinals in Denver.

Turner, who hit a 17-footer with five seconds left in overtime Sunday to give the Tigers a 67-66 victory over Alabama-Birmingham in a second-round game, got his chance after Boston College squandered its final opportunity.

When Memphis State's William Bedford missed the front end of a one-and-one, the Eagles held the ball for two minutes before calling two timeouts with 14 seconds remaining to design the final play.

"We wanted to get the ball to Michael to take the last shot, like he did against Texas Tech," Boston College Coach Gary Williams said. In that first-round game against Texas Tech, Adams sank a 25-foot shot with five seconds left to win it.

But Boston College's play this time went askew when Roger McCready took a pass and dribbled the ball off his leg. The loose ball was recovered by Memphis State's Vincent Askew, who fed Turner.

"There wasn't a lot of pressure, though," Turner said. "I knew we would win or go into overtime."

Bedford finished with 23 points for Memphis State, 30-3, the champions of the Metro Conference. Stu Primus had 14 for Boston College, 20-11, of the Big East.

Next in line for Memphis State will be Oklahoma and Tisdale, a three-time All-American.

Tisdale scored 23 points, eight of them in overtime, and hit the game-winning shot from just outside the lane.

"It seemed like it took forever to go in," said Tisdale. "I had two men on me and tried to shoot it soft so I would get the bounce. I did, a bunch of them."

Louisiana Tech called a timeout after Tisdale's shot, then threw a long inbound pass into the front-court and called another timeout with one second left.

But an attempted inbound lob to Karl Malone hit the rim and bounced away as time ran out. Malone, the Bulldogs' top player, scored 20 points and had 16 rebounds as Louisiana Tech, the Southland Conference champion, finished 29-3.

Oklahoma, the Big Eight Conference winner, is 31-5.

Georgetown won with the weapons it has used all season — Ewing, the three-time All-American center, and a relentless defense.

Ewing, who limped off the court with 1:25 left in the first half with an ankle injury, scored 14 of his 23 points against Loyola in the second half and was his usual dominating self, winding up with 14 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Loyola entered the game with a 19-game winning streak, the longest in the nation, and had been counting on Alfredrick Hughes, a 6-foot-5 senior swingman who was second in the nation in scoring with nearly 27 points per game.

But the Hoyas held Hughes, who had scored in double figures in 94 straight games, to just eight points — partly because he missed the final 10 minutes of the first half after picking up his third foul.

Loyola, 27-6, the Midwestern Cities champion, led 28-26 at halftime and was still ahead 38-36 early in the second half after two long shots by Hughes.

But then Ewing and his teammates went to work, scoring eight straight points to take control.

Georgetown, of the Big East, improved to 33-2 with its 15th straight victory and will now meet Georgia Tech, which got good outside shooting from Mark Price and good inside play from 6-11 Yvon Joseph and 7-foot John Salley in tripping Illinois.

With Georgia Tech holding a 39-35 lead, the Yellow Jackets went on a 13-2 tear to take a 15-point lead with about seven minutes left.

In visit to New York

Bruin boss hopes second time charm

By The Associated Press

In his last visit to New York earlier this season, his UCLA Bruins were embarrassed by the St. John's basketball team. Walt Hazzard wants a second chance in the Big Apple.

"If we can get back to New York, it will make our year," the UCLA coach said as he prepared his team for Saturday night's National Invitation Tournament quarterfinal game with Fresno State.

A victory would send the Bruins into the NIT semifinals next Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden. It was at the Garden that they suffered a humiliating 88-69 loss to St. John's last Dec. 22.

"Trying to win a championship is always difficult," Hazzard said. "You have moments when you're tested, when you can go one way or another. I hope those moments are behind us ... but we'd better be tough."

In another quarterfinal game Saturday night, Virginia plays at Tennessee. On Sunday night, it's Marquette at Indiana and Tennessee-Chattanooga at Louisville.

With the reputation that Fresno State fans have for supporting their team on the road, Hazzard is hoping that more UCLA has more support at

"I want to see more (UCLA) blue in the stands than (Fresno) red," Hazzard said. "Tell the (USC) Trojan fans to put some blue on and show up. Anybody who's wearing red should have to wear a trenchcoat."

UCLA drew crowds of 4,280 and 7,228 to its first two NIT games, both in Pauley Pavilion. Fresno's first and second-round games, both at home, were sellouts in 10,132-seat Selland Arena.

The Bruins moved into the quarterfinal round with a 78-47 victory over Montana and an 82-63 decision over Nebraska. Fresno State defeated Santa Clara 79-76 in three overtimes and New Mexico 66-55.

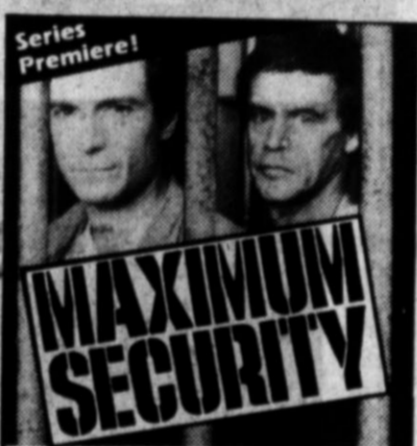

Virginia was a 56-55 victor over West Virginia and also defeated St. Joseph's (Pa.) 68-61, while Tennessee defeated Tennessee Tech 65-62 and Southwestern Louisiana 73-72.

Marquette beat Bradley 77-64 in the first round, then took a 56-54 win over Cincinnati in the second. Indiana's first two victories were a 79-57 beating of Butler and a 75-53 triumph over Richmond.

Tennessee-Chattanooga edged

Red Raiders move into semifinal round

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Top-seeded Texas Tech got 29 points and 12 rebounds from Melinda Denham to defeat Cal State-Fullerton, 71-68, and advance to a semifinal game of the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

Texas Tech will meet Louisiana State at 7 p.m. tonight in a semifinal game. The other semifinal game matches Florida and Drake.

Tricia Clay scored 15 points for Tech. Terri Withers scored 15 for Cal State, which will meet West Virginia in a losers' bracket game today.

Julie Fitzpatrick had 28 points and teammate Wanda Ford had 21 as the Drake Bulldogs held off fast-charging West Texas State 96-90 in another first-round game.

coasted to an easy 69-57 victory over West Virginia, 18-9.

Natalie Randall scored 21 points to lead the Lady Tigers, who were ahead 40-23 at the half. Madeline Doucet was the only other Louisiana player in double figures with 10 points.

Lisa Ribble and Dee Davis reached double figures for West Virginia, scoring 14 and 10 points respectively.

Tammy Jackson had 18 points and Margaret Peters scored 12 in Florida's rout of Montana.

Montana grabbed a brief 7-2 lead in the early minutes of the game, but Florida took a 36-19 halftime lead. Sharla Muralt scored 13 points for Montana, the West Athletic Conference runner-up.

Drake, 24-5, will face 21-8 Florida, which breezed past Montana 70-49, at 9 p.m. tonight. West Texas, 25-5, plays 22-8 Montana in the losers bracket.

Louisiana State, 19-9, jumped out to a 17-point halftime lead and

Texas A&M football post

Sherrill: quit if criticism gets too hot

By DAVID SEDENO Associated Press Writer

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Jackie Sherrill, much-criticized Texas A&M football coach, said Thursday that the day he can't take criticism is the day he should quit coaching.

Sherrill was part of a panel on "What Do Sports Figures Think of Sports Writers" at the annual meeting of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors.

He was joined by Houston Post sports writer Ivy McLemore, Dallas Morning News columnist Randy Galloway and Larry Schmittou, Texas Rangers vice president for marketing.

McLemore criticized Sherrill last year when the Aggies were being roughed up by other Southwest Conference opponents. McLemore said in a column that Sherrill should be replaced.

Sherrill let McLemore try his hand at coaching after the column but McLemore relinquished his temporary duties quickly after the players began booing him while he was drawing play diagrams for an upcoming game against Texas.

"If you're going to let it bother you, then you got a problem," Sherrill told the editors, who are meeting here through Saturday. "The day I can't handle it is the day I need to get another job."

The hour-long discussion also touched on the difference between opinion and fact and whether sports writers editorialize too much in their game stories.

Galloway said news and sports should be covered differently.

"I still think the best sports writers in the country are writing subjectively and not objectively. I don't think you could get away with it in the news side, and that's the big difference between the two areas," he said.

The panelists agreed that when a sports reporter writes something negatively he'd better show up on his beat the next day.

"Anybody in this business doesn't have the guts ... I don't think you need to be in this business," Galloway said.

The News sports columnists criticized the Texas Rangers last year after the American League team barred spectators from bringing food into the stadium. The Rangers management later barred some reporters from the press box for criticizing that move and the Rangers' losing streak.

Sherrill said he thought some sports writers manipulate younger players and that the writers should watch their step.

"I think that he's correct," McLemore said.

Galloway added, "I think 18-year-old or 19-year-old kids are at a disadvantage with writers who have been writing 20 years."

Glasson stays in routine

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Billy Glasson has a set routine after finishing a round of golf on the PGA Tour.

"I go back to the hotel and ice down my knees for about a half hour. Then, if I can walk, I go down for dinner. If I can't walk, I order room service," Glasson said.

Those off-injured knees, four times the objects of surgery, could be a major factor in the closing rounds of the five-day, 90-hole Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational golf tournament.

"I handle four rounds pretty well," the 24-year-old longshot said after a 68 had enabled him to retain the lead Thursday in the second round of this event that offers a total of $1,042,000 in prize money.

"But five rounds is going to be a pretty good haul for me."

Despite his problems, Glasson, a career-struggler now in his third season on the Tour, completed two rounds in 130 and, held a one-shot lead over the formidable figure of Tom Watson, a six-time Player of the Year and five-time British Open champion.

Watson had a 65, 5-under-par, at the Tropicana Country Club, the shortest and easiest of the three desert courses used for this event. Glasson and Watson, who have played different courses, each is 11 under par.

Glasson, who dropped a long-distance putt, 40-50 feet, for birdie on his last hole at the par 71 Las Vegas Country Club, also had an opening 62 at Tropicana. He now goes to the par 72 Desert Inn for his third round. Watson has played Desert Inn and Tropicana and will play his next three rounds at Las Vegas.

Frank Conner, with a late 68 at Desert Inn, was third alone at 134.

nine under par. He now goes to Tropicana under the format that requires the pros to play one round on each of the three courses, each day with a 4-man amateur team, before the field is cut for the final two rounds at the Las Vegas Country Club.

Tied for fourth at 136 were Tom Kite, Tim Simpson, Mike Smith and Fred Couples. Kite and Simpson each shot 69 at Las Vegas and were 5-under-par. Couples and Smith had 69s at Desert Inn and were 7 under.

Tennis partners to duel tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova is heavily favored to win her second consecutive $500,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Championships, but you can't blame her if she's looking at the past.

Tonight, the No. 1 seed meets her doubles partner, Pam Shriver, in one semifinal at Madison Square Garden. The other semifinal pits third-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia against No. 7 Zina Garrison.

On Thursday, No. 5 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia and young Kathy Rinaldi grabbed the other semifinal berths, Sukova stopping Sweden's Catarina Lindqvist 6-4, 6-4 and Rinaldi ousting Kathy Jordan 6-1, 6-3.

Navratilova holds a 19-3 career record over Shriver, but two of Shriver's victories have come at the U.S. Open, the last one in 1983.

Mandlikova, who would face Navratilova in the semifinals if the seedings hold, upset the world's No. 1 player in the Virginia Slims of California in January, while Sukova, a possible foe in the title match, halted Navratilova's 74-match winning streak in the Australian Open in December.

Sukova, for one, doesn't want to look that far ahead.

"I'm not there. I'm still in the semis," she said when asked about the possibility of meeting Navratilova in the final.

Ann Landers

Letter reprinted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have misplaced the most helpful column you ever ran. The date was Aug. 1, 1980. Can you find it and print it again? - Hoping In Idaho

DEAR IDAHO: I'm glad you liked it. Thanks for requesting a rerun. Here it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: So many parents feel helpless these days. They say peer pressure is much more important than parental guidance. They feel they are losing the battle to bring up their children to be law-abiding, morally decent human beings. I know the feeling because I had it when our children were teenagers in the early '70s.

I read that parents in Palo Alto, Calif., are doing something about the problem instead of sitting around wringing their hands.

It all started when a mother of a teenage girl was shocked to learn of the pressure being put on her daughter to drink alcohol and smoke pot. This mother and 16 other parents formed a group called Parents Who Care. They held a series of kaffeeklatches and meetings at Gunn High School and have reached more than 500 parents.

The founder of the group said when she first started to talk to teenagers about what they did at parties, they all said they drank booze and smoked pot. When they got to talking in a more honest way, it became obvious that they weren't having much fun.

The parents decided to draw up guidelines to create a healthy atmosphere and show the kids how much more fun they could have if they weren't stoned or bombed. It has worked wonders.

Please, Ann, share these guidelines with other parents who are probably as frantic as the Palo

Alto crowd used to be. Here they are: Teenagers are required to stay home on school nights except for school or community events. (No running the streets or driving around aimlessly.)

Weekend curfews for ninth-graders between 11 and 11:30 p.m.; 10th-graders 11:30 and midnight; 11th-graders, midnight and 12:30 a.m.; 12th-graders, midnight and 1 a.m.

Parents should feel free to contact parents who are hosting parties to find out if there will be adult supervision and whether drugs and alcohol will be permitted.

For their own children's parties, parents should be visible and feel free to ask anyone with drugs or alcohol to leave.

Parents should get to know their children's friends and their parents.

The results of these guidelines have been very gratifying, according to the Palo Alto group. Parents report much less hassling, better cooperation and a feeling of relief, knowing that their teenagers are not smoking dope and getting drunk.-A Midwestern Mom Who Likes The Idea

DEAR MID: I like it, too, and hope it catches on. Parents who fear their teenagers won't approve of the guidelines are in for a surprise.

Teenagers want and need discipline. It shows that their parents care enough to lay down some laws.

Big traders making worrisome waves

NEW YORK (AP)—To the casual onlooker, something inexplicable happened in the stock market the other day. In a quiet Friday session, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a net loss for the day of less than a point with 30 minutes to go before the close. Many Wall Streeters' thoughts were turning to the approaching weekend. Then, without any dramatic news developments to explain it, a sudden barrage of selling hit the market. By the close, the venerable "Dow" was down almost 13 points. Perplexing as it might have seemed, market analysts had a ready explanation for what had happened. It was, they noted, the third Friday of the month—the standard day for expiration of some options and futures on stock-market indexes. And professional traders who had been engaged in a complex strategy involving options or futures and individual stocks were scrambling to close out the deal by selling stocks. Stock index futures and options are relatively new vehicles, which permit investors with the means and inclination to speculate for large gains or to hedge against other investments. Since they require a lot of knowledge and expertise, there is a natural tendency for the layman to ignore them. But if trading in them can influence prices of the biggest blue chip stocks in the market the way it evidently did on March 15, it becomes a matter worthy of note for all investors. Prices of stock index options and futures rise and fall, in relation to the indexes on which they are based.

Newspaper Bible

HOW TO STAY HAPPY ALL THE TIME
 Happy are all who perfectly follow the laws of God. Happy are all who search for God, and always do His will, rejecting compromise with evil, and walking only in His paths. You have given us your laws to obey—oh, how I want to follow them consistently. Then I will not be disgraced, for I will have a clean record. After You have corrected me I will thank You by living as I should! I will obey! Oh, don't forsake me and let me slip back into sin again. How can a young man stay pure? By reading Your Word and following its rules. I have tried my best to find You—don't let me wander off from Your instructions. I have thought much about Your words, and stored them in my heart so that they would hold me back from sin. Blessed Lord, teach me Your rules. I have recited Your laws, and rejoiced in them more than in riches. I will meditate upon them and give them my full respect. I will delight in them and not forget them. Bless me with life so that I can continue to obey You. Open my eyes to see wonderful things in Your Word. I am but a pilgrim here on earth: how I need a map—and Your commands are my chart and guide. I long for Your instructions more than I can tell. Psalm 119:1-20
