Two Parmer County hogs were named grand champion and reserve champion Thursday at the Hereford Young Farmers Livestock show at the Bull Barn.

Nine hours after judging began, Vandi Tarter, Parmer County 4-H, received her grand champion trophy for her heavy-weight Duroc.

Winning reserve grand champion was a jumbo Cross shown by Glenda Ellis, a Friona 4-H'er.

Showmanship trophies were given to Dwayne Smith, Dimmitt FFA, four county, and Chris Kahlich, county.

Deaf Smith County champs were a Duroc and Hampshire. Robbie Christie, took the county grand championship with his medium weight Duroc. Christie was showing through the Deaf Smith 4-H. Shandy Lindley, a fourth grade Future Farmers of America member, took the reserve county trophy with a jumbo weight Hampshire.

Berkshire hog showers winning the four-county breed championships were Chad Rhodes, Parmer 4-H, breed champ, and Donna Ralston, Parmer 4-H, reserve breed champion. Top County exhibitors in Deaf Smith were Rickie Vogel, Hereford FFA, county breed champ, and Walt Tindal, Hereford FFA, reserve county breed champ.

Chester hog winners in the four-county were Gary Cleveland, Hart FFA, breed champion, and Terry Jesko, Lazbuddie FFA, reserve breed champ.

County winners were Becky Christie, Deaf Smith 4-H, champion, and Robbie Christie, Deaf Smith 4-H, reserve county champ.

Vandi Tarter won the four-county championship in the Duroc breed with Robbie Christie as reserve breed champ and county champ. Raymond Martinez, Hereford FFA, was the county reserve breed champ exhibitor.

Kent Kirby, Dimmitt FFA, showed a jumbo Hampshire which won the breed championship, followed by Theresa Jackson, Hart FFA, with a reserve champion medium weight. Shandy Lindley, Hereford FFA, won the county breed champ ribbon and Molly Keating, Hereford FFA, had the county's reserve breed champ.

Jennifer Daily, Parmer 4-H, won the four-county ribbon for her champion hog in the Poland and Spots Breed. Greg Odom, Dimmitt FFA was the reserve breed winner. County winners were Joane Kalka, Deaf Smith 4-H,

Filing Deadline Monday For Primary Election

County Democratic Chairman Robert Strain has reported that he will be at the county clerk's office until 6 p.m. Monday to accommodate any last-minute potential candidates for the upcoming primary election.

Strain said that the deadline for filing is 6 p.m. Monday for the election in which several county offices are on the ballot.

Strain said that last-minute interest in some of the offices has been shown, but that no new filings had taken place as of today. As it now stands there are only two county offices with contested races.

Incumbent County Clerk B.F. Cain will be faced by David Ruland, while Pct. 2 County Commissioner will be facing Jerry John Heyna in his bid for reelection.

Other incumbents who have filed for reelection include Pct. 4 County Commissioner James Voyles, County Judge Glen Nelson, Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal, County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley; District Clerk Lola Fay Veazy; and County Surveyor Kenny Hagar.

District Attorney Roland Saul has not yet filed for reelection, but has picked up an application to do so Strain said.

The party chairman said that no one has filed to replace him in his position since he decided not to seek another term, and that no one has filed for the 12 Precinct Chairman positions as well.

There is no filing fee required for the county chairman or precinct chairman positions Strain said.

Judges Panel to Tackle State Redistricting Plan

DALLAS (AP) — Three federal judges have decided to take on the nasty job of redrawing district lines for Texas legislative elections, pleasing everyone involved in the case — except themselves.

Bemoaning the "chaotic process" that forced the court to intervene in the "legislative function" of redistricting, the three-judge panel Thursday also extended the filing deadline for the May 1 primary from midnight Monday to 6 p.m. on March 19.

"The only way for the elections to proceed without delay — perhaps substantial delay — is for the court to adopt an interim plan" until the Legislature draws permanent district lines, said appeals court Judge Carolyn D. Randall.

She said the court accepted the task "with great reluctance."

"Without question, if (Texas' redistricting process) should be changed," said U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer in a separate statement. He noted that because the Legislature is not in session and the Legislative Redistricting Board no longer exists, only the courts can negotiate Voting Rights Act challenges with the U.S. Justice Department.

The decision came after six days of hearings in a legal challenge of the plan drawn by the five-man, all-Democratic LRB. Opponents of the plan said it violated the Voting Rights Act by diluting minority votes, and on Monday the Justice Department agreed, effectively vetoing the LRB plan.

Republicans said the LRB plan was partisan, that it unfairly helped Democrats and hurt the GOP. Their lawyers urged the court to abandon the LRB lines and accept their proposals, or to devise an entirely new map.

Texas Democratic Party chief Bob Slagle, emphasizing the "confusion" among would-be candidates, joined lawyers representing the state in asking the court to adopt the LRB plan so the many details of running an election won't have to be redone and the election delayed.

The court's decision fell somewhere in between.

"Everybody won," said Joaquin Avila, attorney for the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, one of the plaintiffs in the case.

The judges said that in drawing the new maps they would make "only such modifications ... as may be necessary" in the LRB plans.

Steve Bickerstaff, an Austin lawyer handling the case for the attorney general's office, said he was "very pleased" by the ruling, although "ideally we would have liked for the court to have gone ahead" with the entire LRB plan.

"I would have preferred to see the LRB plan completely out of the picture, but there is nothing here that we intend to appeal or seek review of," said San Antonio lawyer John McCamish, representing plaintiffs who objected to the House plan.

The judges scheduled a March 1 hearing and ordered lawyers to submit their proposals by Feb. 19.

The LRB plan occasioned an awkward split in the state executive branch. Secretary of State David Dean, a Republican, had attacked the plan, but as the state's chief election officer he was named a defendant in the lawsuit.

In Thursday's ruling, the court said that because of the Defendant, Lawyers Surprised

Cauble Guilty on 10 Counts

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Millionaire Rex Cauble said he was "surprised" when jurors found him guilty of financing and profiting from an elaborate drug smuggling scheme.

Cauble was not the only one surprised.

When jurors returned to the courtroom after nearly nine hours of deliberations defense lawyers looked confident.

But their confidence quickly faded when the court clerk read off a guilty verdict on all 10 counts of an indictment charging the rancher with racketeering, conspiracy and embezzlement.

The rancher was accused of masterminding an elaborate drug smuggling scheme that prosecutors said brought 106 tons of marijuana from Colombia to Texas during 1977 and 1978.

The 68-year-old rancher and his attorneys, looking grim and pale, stood quietly as the verdicts were read.

Afterwards, Cauble said, "I am surprised and disappointed, and that's all I can say right now."

Cauble's attorneys weren't even saying that much. They refused comment, citing a gag order imposed by U.S. District Judge William Steger at the onset of the three-week trial.

Steger delayed sentencing until Feb. 22.

Cauble faces a maximum of 95 years in prison and forfeiture of one-third of all his vast business and ranching empire, estimated at between $55 and $80 million.

After Steger released the jurors, defense attorney G. Brockett Irwin walked across the room and shook hands with Assistant U.S. Attorney David Baugh.

"Congratulations," Irwin said.

"I don't think that's necessary," said a solemn

Baugh. "But thanks anyway."

When jurors returned to the courtroom Thursday night, some were smiling and laughing at a quiet comment from one of the panel members.

Defense attorneys apparently interpreted the levity as a good sign while prosecutors looked grim. But the mood on both sides quickly changed when the verdicts were announced.

Spectators, including many Cauble supporters, appeared stunned. Several were teary eyed and a few wept openly.

Carolyn McConnel, a Cauble office manager who testified during the trial, cried softly as she left the courthouse and whispered to a man standing near her, "He's innocent."

Cauble and his attorneys left the courthouse quickly after meeting for a few minutes in Steger's chambers. Cauble remains free on $250,000 bond.

Jury foreman Frank D. Morris told Steger during the lengthy deliberations Thursday the jurors "absolutely could not reach a verdict" without reviewing the testimony of former Cauble pilots Elmer Vogt and Miller Crownover and FBI agent Joe Masterson.

The jury also requested government charts of Cauble loans, handwritten telephone logs from Cauble Enterprises and trip logs from Cauble's private plane.

Three of the 10 counts against Cauble concern violations of the Interstate Commerce Travel Act, specifically aiding and abetting the smuggling operation through airtravel.

The FBI agent's testimony described the smuggling ring's activities during 1977 and 1978 in chronological order.

Pilots who worked for Cauble testified about flying various members of the ring to various places for planning operations and transporting smuggling profits. Both said they were not aware of an Cauble involvement, but they said only Cauble could dispatch the plane.

In his final arguments, Assistant U.S. Attorney Baugh told jurors to "look at the totality" of evidence and convict the rancher.

The federal prosecutor contended Cauble knew he was financing the marijuana smuggling when he made

Economy News Good & Bad

By JAMES PELTZ
AP Business Writer

The first increase since July in the government's key gauge of future economic health lifted hopes that the recession is nearing an end. But other reports showing another drop in productivity and more auto layoffs tempered economists' enthusiasm.

The Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Indicators rose 0.6 percent in December, signaling that the economy should begin recovering before long. The strength of that recovery, however, left economists divided.

Less-encouraging news showed up in four other reports:

—Productivity in private business plunged at an annual rate of 7.2 percent in the fourth quarter of 1981 as the recession clamped down — the biggest drop since the government began keeping such figures in 1947 — and productivity was down 0.1 percent for all of 1981, the Labor Department said.

—The number of U.S. autoworkers on indefinite layoff rose this week to 243,500 from 229,275 last week, while car production slumped 11.9 percent from last week to 80,141 cars, industry reports said. At General Motors Corp., which now is negotiating a new contract with the United Auto Workers union, 139,000 workers were on indefinite layoff this week compared with 126,000 reported last week.

—Preliminary Congressional Budget Office figures show the economy declining 0.1 percent in 1982 — the third straight annual drop — despite the recovery beginning in this year's second quarter that both budget office and White House economists predict. The budget office also estimated that unemployment would average a lofty 8.9 percent in 1982 after rising above that level early in the year.

—The Commerce Department reported that the nation's foreign trade deficit rose about 9 percent last year to $39.7 billion, the third-highest total on record. The 1980 trade deficit was $36.4 billion.

Carr to Address CC Workshop

F. Michael Carr, Executive Vice President of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is among the slate of speakers at the 1981 WTCC Leaders and Office Personnel Workshop to be held in Plainview.

Carr's topic will be "Problem Solving-For the Staff Executive." The Plainview workshop is one of two workshops conducted throughout West Texas. It will be held Feb. 12 at the Wayland Baptist University, Nunn Business Building.

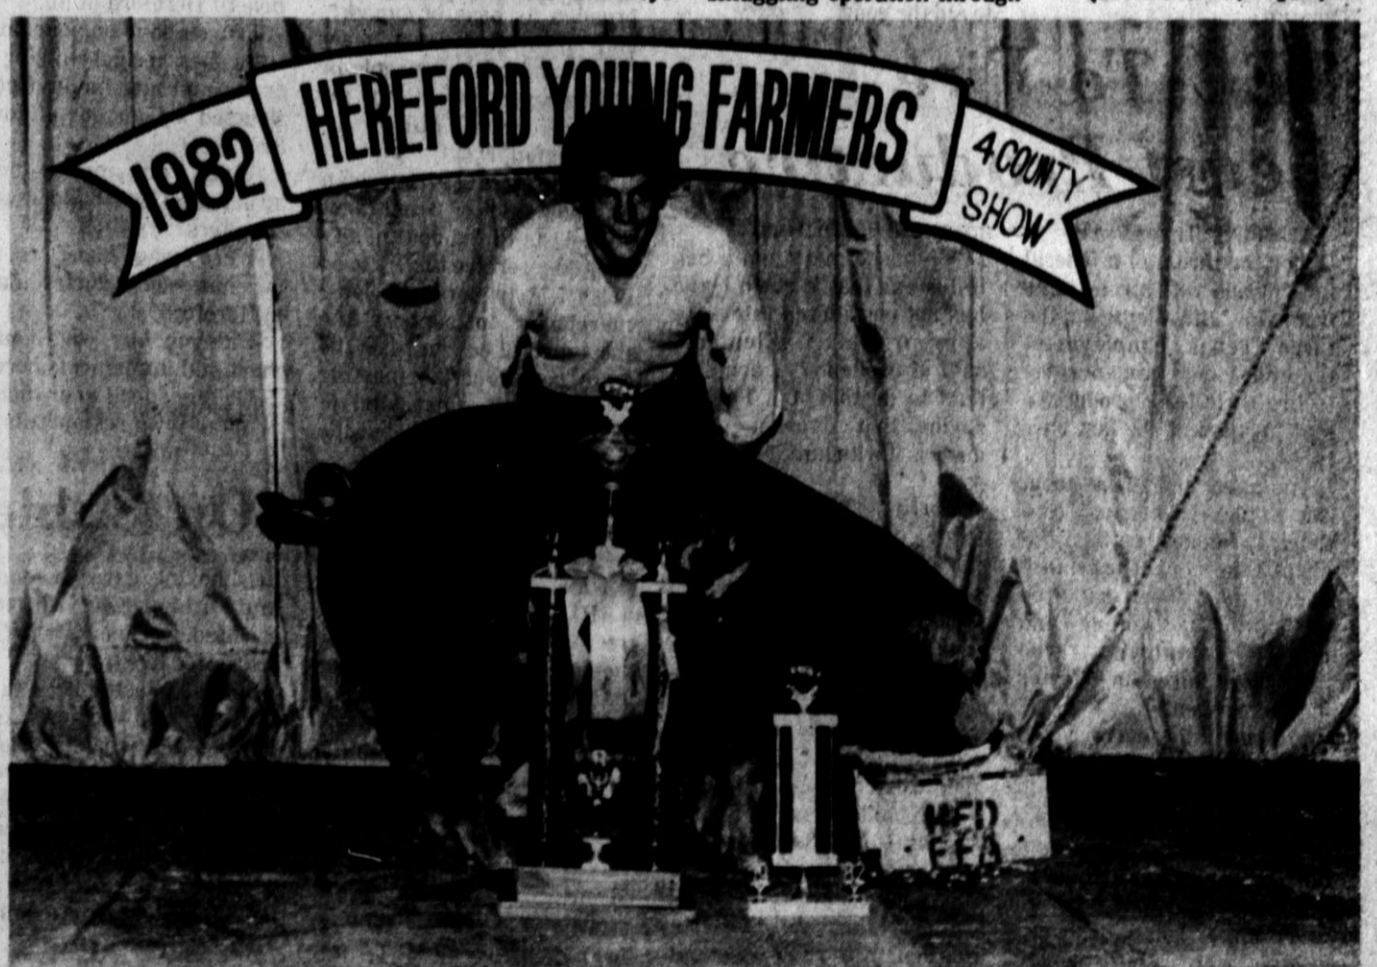

The workshop is designed to assist chamber volunteer leaders and office personnel to learn firsthand about effectiveness of local chamber operations.

The syllabus designed for volunteer and professional chamber leaders includes: What is a Chamber of Commerce? Staff and Volunteer Relationships, The Challenge and Responsibility of a Chamber, Financing the Chamber, Telephone Techniques for Secretaries, and Problem Solving for the Executive. Each session will allow time for questions and discussion of daily problems faced in chamber work.

Art Roberts, Chairman of the WTCC Local Action Committee and Executive Vice President of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, stressed the importance of local chamber of commerce boards making arrangements for their staffs to attend even if it means obtaining volunteers to operate the office during their absence.

The workshop is sponsored by the Local Action Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Take Smoke No Joke, Thanks to Jail Trusty

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — Jail food is never much to rave about but Anderson County prisoners recently looked forward to lunch — and their marijuana cigarettes.

Jail personnel thought they smelled the odor of marijuana coming from the elevator shaft so Sheriff Roy Herrington ordered a search of the second floor cells. A small amount of marijuana turned up.

The smell persisted, and a second, more thorough, search turned up four ounces of the weed hidden behind one light fixture and 10 marijuana cigarettes behind another.

While Herrington was trying to figure out how the marijuana was smuggled into the jail, an informant told him it wasn't a case of it being smuggled into the jail, but rather smuggled within the jail.

It seems a jail trusty got ahold of a key to the evidence room and was distributing marijuana to the other prisoners when he served them lunch. "I didn't even know we had another key," Herrington said.

When that inmate got transferred to the state prison he passed along the key to another.

Herrington ordered all marijuana in the evidence room removed and burned.

He said no charges would be filed against the jailhouse pusher since he already is serving time.

Fish Story Has Quite A Ring To It

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — This fish story has quite a ring to it.

Joseph M. Cross Jr. of Newport News lost his $400 University of Virginia class ring while sailing in Hampton Roads a year and a half ago.

"A storm came up," Cross recounted Wednesday. "The boom swung over and I reached up to stop it. My ring went flying off...I could see the little bubbles come up as it sank in the middle of the channel."

Cross, a 1969 architecture graduate, said the ring fell into about 30 feet of water and about 142 miles from here. He thought it was lost forever.

Now here comes the catch. Cross has his ring back. He said it apparently was swallowed by a fish that ended up at a fish market here.

About two weeks ago, Coleman Maddox was talking to a friend behind a restaurant next to the market. Seeing a reflection, Maddox picked up the ring, recognized its value and started looking for the owner.

Using the inscription inside, Maddox asked at the architecture school and eventually came up with Cross' name. He called Cross and quizzed him about the ring's description and inscription.

GOP Officials Say

Reagan Picks Dallas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top GOP officials say President Reagan has said Dallas would be an excellent site for the 1984 Republican national convention.

Republican national chairman Richard Richards said Thursday, "We will, of course, do everything possible to accommodate the president's request to give preference to Dallas."

The comments came during a meeting of the party's executive committee in Washington.

Richards was to appoint a site-selection committee today to consider bids from various cities.

Richards said the president wrote Texas Gov. Bill Clements, "I think that Dallas would be an excellent city in which to hold the convention."

Clements said Thursday in Austin he is "delighted that the president has recommended Dallas."

"I am enthusiastic and pleased that Dallas will be the host city and I am sure our usual Texas hospitality will prevail," said Clements.

All But Governor Deny Investigation of Prison System

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, who says he heard about it from prison Director Jim Estelle, apparently is the only man in Texas who knows anything about a supposed federal grand jury investigation of the special master assigned to monitor state prisons.

Clements insisted Thursday that Special Master Vincent Nathan and his staff are the target of an investigation of their "misbehavior."

Hedges said his office "determined there had been no violations of federal law."

He said an investigation would have been ordered if federal laws were violated.

Nevertheless, Clements, basing his information on what he said Estelle told him, insisted there was an ongoing investigation.

Nathan has demanded an apology from the governor.

In a brief statement, Nathan said it was unfor-fortunate Clements made the remarks without "adequate knowledge or information. Under the circumstances, he owes an apology to me and members of my staff."

According to Hedges, attorneys for the state brought some evidence to his attention regarding Nathan and his prison monitors.

Hedges said his office "determined there had been no violations of federal law."

Nevertheless, Clements, basing his information on what he said Estelle told him, insisted there was an ongoing investigation.

"That master and those monitors we have over there ... have been in a state of misbehavior," said the governor. "One of the reasons that this master now is refusing to comment with respect to some of the controversies is because those monitors and the master himself are under a grand jury investigation."

Clements said reporters seeking further information should talk with Estelle.

"I have no knowledge of any federal grand jury investigation," Estelle said.

"I'm not privy to that kind of information, nor should I be expected to be."

Nathan was appointed by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice to monitor the federal court's order for reforms in Texas prisons. Earlier this week, Attorney General Mark White asked Justice to fire Nathan. The state's request says Nathan has incited prison unrest and has had improper contact with reporters.

"I would say that their state of misbehavior is certainly subject to scrutiny by this grand jury and it could be, and I want to underline could be, that there will be the result of a criminal charge. Certainly withholding information and involving themselves in a conspiracy, so to speak, within the prisons is a criminal matter," said Clements.

Nathan told The Associated Press Thursday that he knew nothing about the grand jury investigation Clements mentioned.

"I am not aware that is occurring," he said. "Grand jury proceedings are secret proceedings. If it's secret, it's altogether inappropriate for the governor to know about it if I don't know about it."

Assistant Attorney General Ed Idar, who has handled the prison litigation, also said he knew nothing of a grand jury investigation.

"I wouldn't want to contradict the governor, but I don't know on what basis he made that statement," said Idar.

Clements said Nathan and his staff have "failed to disclose weapons that prisoners had that they had knowledge of and actually saw."

"They have had conversations with prisoners wherein they were inciting the prisoners to take action and to demonstrate and there is, for your information, a grand jury looking into this right now," he said. "I've probably already told you more than I ought to."

Guilty

loans to his ranch foreman, Charles "Muscles" Foster.

Lead defense attorney Roy Minton hammered away at what he considered the "key question" of this trial — whether Cauble was aware of the drug trafficking.

The sole witness who testified Cauble was involved, convicted drug trafficker Raymond Eugene Hawkins, was an admitted liar, Minton told the jury.

Cauble denied contentions by Hawkins, who struck a bargain for leniency with the government, that he once paid smuggling profits to Foster, who immediately turned them over to Cauble.

When jurors began deliberations about noon Thursday, Cauble said, "I believe I will be acquitted... I hope the jurors can see through the shenanigans that have been pulled."

Testifying for about four hours during the trial, Cauble declared he first learned of the smuggling operation when authorities arrested a group of seagoing cowboys at a Port Arthur dock as they unloaded marijuana from a shrimp boat.

Federal prosecutors contended Foster was mentally incapable of handling an operation the size of the "Cowboy Mafia" and couldn't have used the rancher's property and money for smuggling without Cauble's knowledge.

The ranch foreman, who was targeted by federal authorities as a ringleader in the scheme, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity and was acquitted in 1980.

The wealthy defendant testified he believed Foster's mental problems were disappearing when he loaned his foreman several thousand dollars to get started in the shrimp and restaurant business.

Prosecutors pointed out that the loans, made in 1977 and 1978, coincided with the years the smuggling ring operated and contended the money was to finance the complicated ventures.

The most damaging evidence presented was a series of documents showing Cauble had huge cash deposits during the same two years.

Cauble testified the majority of those deposits were from cash cattle sales, saying the industry experienced a boom during 1977 and 1978.

TEC To Fire Least Productive

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Under the threat of a federal lawsuit and with strong hints from Gov. Bill Clements, the three Texas Employment Commissioners have decided to fire their least productive staff instead of the last ones hired.

The agency is firing about 500 employees because of a federal budget cutback of about 30 percent. The seniority system has been criticized as unfair to women and minority employees, who have been hired in greater numbers recently.

The commissioners voted Thursday morning while Gov. Bill Clements was telling a news conference "someone" might talk to his appointee to the TEC, Richard Mellado, about his vote in favor of the "last in-first out" system, which Clements opposes.

"They're going to have to be terminated on basis of merit, not 'last in-first out,'" said Clements. "If our Texas Employment Commission continues on the 'last in-first out' basis, the Justice Department will file on them. "Someone might put a bug in his ear that it could be he has not considered this issue appropriately," Clements said of Mellado. "I don't intend to do that, but I'm not saying that someone won't discuss it with him."

Earlier this month, the three commissioners voted 2-1 to reduce the staff by firing the last-hired. Chairman Nolan Ward opposed the plan and threatened to join a lawsuit against his own agency.

"I think it's wrong," Ward said at the time. "I think it's illegal discrimination."

But Mellado voted for the proposal and the third commissioner, Ken Clapp, reluctantly joined him.

Before the vote, the commissioners were told by their lawyer that it's a "catch-22" situation, with the discrimination question on one hand and, on the other, the threat of dozens of grievances against the agency, filed by employees fired based on quality evaluations.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor, I attended the meeting last Monday evening at the community center. Obviously this meeting was organized by American Ag, even though it was billed as a meeting of the community to discuss ways we could improve the local economy.

While there are many ideas of the American Ag movement I am in agreement with, it appeared there was intent to deceive local businessmen. Understandably, American Ag failed in the 1977-78 movement principally because it was comprised solely of protesting farmers (and not even a unified stance of farmers).

But this meeting Monday was not for the purpose of improving Hereford's economy. It was for American Ag to broaden its base of support, and to involve local merchants and businesspeople in a concerted effort to influence farm policy in Washington, D.C.

The leaders of American Ag know a lot of resentment still exists in the community over the coercive tactics used in 1977-78 to persuade local merchants to support the movement. I believe all of the farm people at the meeting knew exactly what kind of meeting it was to be, but the local merchants and businessmen were kept unaware of the true nature of the meeting.

I don't know of anyone here who is not sympathetic to the farmers' plight, but American Ag is not improving its cause by misleading people.

Much emphasis was placed on the dependency of Hereford's economy on dollars generated by agriculture. No one who has though it even casually could deny that. But, in all fairness, here are a few things for farmers to think about:

Consider this list of consumer goods and services, and if you have purchased these outside of Hereford, then it follows that the agriculture dollars did not benefit Hereford at all.

-Do you have on your farm or business a steel building or grain storage facility constructed by an out of town firm?

-Was your home constructed by local builders and suppliers?

-Were your most recent purchases of vehicles made in Hereford?

-Did you buy your equipment and implements here?

-Do you spend your money at out of town restaurants?

-Do you patronize discount stores for drugs and sundries out of town?

-Do you spend your money for furniture, appliances, and carpet locally?

-Are your entertainment dollars kept in Hereford?

-Do you buy from clothing stores here or in Amarillo-Lubbock?

-Do you avail yourselves of the medical care and hospital facilities in Hereford?

Those fancy stores and shopping centers in Amarillo and Lubbock are not supported just by the people who live in those cities. They are dependant upon satellite communities such as Hereford to travel to their city and spend their money.

It's no accident that most of the shopping in Amarillo is in the southwest part of town, nearest to Hereford. We help support them. Every dollar you spend out of town makes our community poorer.

If the economic theory as presented last Monday prevails, then for every dollar spent outside of Hereford, we lose $7, considering the power of $1 of raw product.

Sure, American Ag needs the help of local townspeople now. Why didn't you need us when things were going good, water was plentiful, interest rates were low, energy rates were low, prices were up, and bountiful harvests were made?

All the problems of American Ag are not from external sources. The economies of Amarillo and Lubbock are vigorous because we helped build their economy with our money.

Hereford lost the chance to build a vibrant economy because the money was just not spent here. You are courting Hereford now because Amarillo and Lubbock don't care a hill of beans about your problems.

But, you are fickle enough that the glamour of the big city will entice you back when the emergency is over. If the shoe fits wear it.

Sincerely,
B.L. Jones

Weinberger Requests Epileptic Enlistment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger has ordered that enlistment standards of the armed forces be changed to allow consideration of epilepsy victims, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, has announced.

Bentsen appealed to Weinberger last August for such a change after a Texan wrote complaining that "ever since I was little" he had planned a career in the military but was barred from enlisting because of epilepsy.

Weinberger recently notified him of the policy revision, Bentsen said. "I am pleased that the Defense Department has taken this action. Anytime you have people who are both willing and able to serve their country, they should not only be allowed to serve but encouraged to do so," Bentsen said.

"Up to now, any victim of epilepsy who had suffered a seizure since age 5 was flatly prohibited from enlisting for service in any branch of the country's armed forces," Bentsen said.

"Under the new policy, anyone who has been free of seizures for the previous five years will be considered for enlistment on a case-by-case basis."

Weinberger wrote Bentsen his decision to change the policy came after an in-depth examination of the latest scientific information on epilepsy.

"I think this is a significant and appropriate action," Weinberger said.

Host Families Needed For Foreign Exchange Students

Chances are you never heard of Diana Angelina Orsorio, or Pedro Xavier Hildaigo. Pedro is 17, from Guayaquil, Ecuador. He is entering 12th grade and likes sports in general—skating, surfing and tennis in particular. His future plans include computers. Pedro has four sisters, and his father manages an automobile company in Guayaquil; his mother works for an airline. Pedro, as well as his parents and sisters, speaks English. Diana is also 17 and in the 12th grade. She plays the piano and likes basketball, swimming and softball. Following in her father's footsteps, she plans to become an accountant. Her mother is a housewife and there are three brothers.

Diana is from Mexico City, and she has fair English. Both students have been planning on coming to the United States this fall to live with a U.S. family and attend the local High School. Diana has not yet been placed with a family, and sadly, the family that agreed to host Pedro has had a change of circumstances and cannot fulfill their commitment. Area families interested in hosting either of these students, or one from a different country, are urged to contact Wm. R. Smith, Western Director, International Fellowship, Inc., P.O. Box 1212, Sedona, AZ 86336. Telephone collect 602-282-7353.

In hosting a student, the family agrees to provide a bed, three meals daily, and transportation to school and church. Students have their own funds for personal things and are insured against accidents, illness and prescriptions. They are tax deductible. IFI is a non-profit organization, not affiliated with any government, religion or school, and has been a major students exchange program for over thirty years. Green Thumb, Inc. Seeks To Place Older Rural Employees

America's greatest natural and renewable resource - is it coal, our forests, the sun? No, it's our older citizens, says Texas Farmer's Union Green Thumb District Director, JoAn Mahaffey, "and it's a resource we do ourselves an injustice to overlook."

Green Thumb, sponsored by Texas Farmer's Union, is a rural older worker employment and placement program now operating in 107 counties in Texas. Mahaffey directs the program in 31 counties in the South Plains and Panhandle, headquarters in Lubbock.

"Green Thumb's mission is to return mature persons desiring it, to the work force," she says, "and we're able to help both rural employers and persons 55 and older in this regard."

Club Members View Film

The Valeda Study Club met recently in the home of Margaret Zinser. Following a short business meeting conducted by Janice Brownlow, the program was introduced by Norma Martin. Club members viewed a film entitled "John Baker's Last Race," a movie adaptation based on the book, "A Shining Season."

Employers hiring a senior worker are hiring proven experience, usually greater job stability, and a positive work attitude; plus workers in every age group above 50 lose fewer scheduled work days, for any reason, than those in any age group below 50, the U.S. Department of Labor has established.

Sugar Works Club Plans Valentine's Bake Sale

The Sugar Works Cake Decorating Club met Thursday morning in the American Legion Hall with six members present.

It is an inspirational account of a young man's life during the late 1960's. The film recounts events during the time when the young man was a track star winning many honors. When illness prevented him from competing in running events, Baker turned to coaching youngsters in track and other sports.

Green Thumb, Inc. is an equal opportunity employer and has operated in Texas for 11 years. Nationally, it has expanded from operation in four states in 1965 to 45 states, District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico currently. It was the first organization of its kind, tackling employment problems of rural seniors.

The Sugar Works Cake Decorating Club

The program was on marzipan and all members made miniature fruit and vegetables.

His life served as an inspiration to problem children and rebellious teen-agers, helping them to realize their potential through competition in sporting events. It is a story of faith, fortitude, and transcendent courage.

If you are 55 or older and need a job, or are an employer and need a good employee, call or write: Green Thumb, Inc.; 1409 19th St.; Lubbock, Tex. 79401, or call (806) 747-8342. Green Thumb is ready to help.

Members present were

Gene Holden, Carol Odom, Rita Bell, Clara Trowbridge, Deborah Goldsmith and Paula Gamez.

Fosters Named Residential Chairpersons For Heart Drive

Dolores and Boyd Foster have been named Hereford residential chairpersons of the 1982 American Heart Association campaign scheduled for February. The Fosters were also chairpersons for the local Heart Association door-to-door drives in 1980 and 1981 and have been members of the board of the Hereford Heart Association for the past four years.

They will direct volunteers who will solicit contributions and distribute information on how the heart dollar was spent. "Research into the causes of heart disease and stroke has resulted in advances in diagnosis, prevention, surgery, and rehabilitation," according to Foster. "But more needs to be done. Heart disease and stroke kill nearly one million Americans each year."

The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce this early death and disability, and volunteers are a vital part of the Heart Association fight.

Recruitment of volunteers in Hereford is underway, and the residential fund drive will be conducted on Feb. 14, which has been designated Heart Sunday.

Dobson Film Series Begins Sunday At First United Methodist Church

The popular "Focus on the Family" film series, featuring family expert James C. Dobson, Ph.D., begins Sunday at the First United Methodist Church, 501 N. Main. The first film, entitled "The Strong-Will'd Child," will begin at 7 p.m. in the church fellowship hall. Activities for children nursery through sixth grade will be provided.

Dobson is Associate Clinical Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Southern California School of Medicine. He is a licensed psychologist in the state of California, a husband, father, and author of several best-selling books including: "Dare to Discipline" (Over one million copies sold), "Hide or Seek," "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Know About Women," "The Strong-Will'd Child," and his latest book, entitled "Preparing for Adolescence."

Without Breaking the Spirit," and will show Feb. 7. "Christian Fathering" will be shown on Feb. 21.

He also speaks on a radio series, "Focus on the Family," which is syndicated to 134 stations.

The last four films consist of two major topics, "Preparing for Adolescence" and "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Know About Women." Part one of the first topic is entitled "The Origins of Self-Doubt," and will be shown on Feb. 28. Part two, entitled "Peer Pressure and Sexuality," will be shown on March 14.

The film series includes seven of his most popular presentations, all of which were filmed live at family life seminars. The second film is called "Shaping the Will

"The Lonely Housewife." Part One of the second topic will be shown on March 21; and Part Two, "Money, Sex and Children," will be shown on March 28.

Ready for Paper Drive

St. Anthony's School will be collecting newspapers and other non-glossy paper for a paper drive Saturday, Feb. 6 after the 7 p.m. Mass and Sunday, Feb. 7 after the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Masses. Anyone wishing to donate papers may bring them, bundled, to a

Artists, Craftsmen Invited To Participate In Jubilee Of Arts

Hereford is planning its 2nd annual Town and Country Jubilee. An important and popular feature of this year's Town and Country Jubilee will be the JUBILEE OF ARTS.

Hereford artists and craftsmen are invited to participate in the JUBILEE OF ARTS. We will have approximately 150 booths for artists and craftsmen to display and sell their work.

our community a better place to live.

All artists and craftsmen are invited to participate in the JUBILEE OF ARTS and the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee and help to make it a great success! For more information please write JUBILEE OF ARTS, P.O. Box 562, Hereford, Texas 79045, or call 364-5571.

Clark Receives Scholarship

WTSU - Eleven scholarships from the Kenneth Lamkin Fund have been awarded to West Texas State University students.

Holmes Gives Program

Kathy Holmes gave a program on Chocolate Painting at the Thursday morning meeting of the Sweet 'n' Fancy Cake Decorating Club.

Lamkin was a longtime principal in the Bushland Independent School District and now teaches there. The scholarship fund was established in the WTSU College of Education by his friends.

According to Gary Whittington, instructor, "The training prepares individuals for future advancement by teaching them proper food handling, cooked food procedures, store cleanliness and maintenance as well as public relations. It's designed to produce a more professional employee who can better serve the customer and community."

Among those awarded $100 scholarships for the spring 1982 term is Carla Clark, a graduate student in science education from Hereford.

The next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. on Feb. 11, and Valentine's ideas will be discussed.

Other members present were Evelyn Crofford, Jan Salazar, Margaret Gamez, Hope Torres, Janie Mejia, Martha-Lytal, Nancy Carlisle, Isabel Cervantez, Betty Henson, and Elida Balderaz.

Ann Landers Afraid Of Strict Rules

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is making plans to marry a very nice man. He is respected in the community and has a fine job. The problem is this: He is much more strict than Mom. When they get married, I just know he is going to set down a whole new set of rules for me to follow.

Upheaval

I realize in some ways he is right about the life I should lead, but I am almost 16 now and have always done things my own way. I don't think it would be fair if he just stepped in and took over.

DEAR CALIFORNIA UP: What you are saying is this: "I have been able to do as I please all my life because Mom is a pushover. Now she is getting married to a man who has some backbone, and he's going to set up some guidelines that will mean a lot less freedom. I know he is right, but I hate being disciplined. What should I do?"

My mother has always been easygoing, and this is what I am used to. I don't want to have my life turned upside down. Please tell me if you think he should have the right to do this.—California

My answer: Thank the good Lord that you will no longer be allowed to do as you please. Your mother's marriage is probably the best thing that has happened to both of you in a very long time. Be grateful.

Trevino Receives Diploma

Sally Trevino recently received her diploma for successfully completing the Allsup's Assistant Store Manager Training Course. Held at the company's home offices in Clovis, the class is a requirement for all Allsup's assistant managers.

Medic Alert

Medic Alert bracelets, like the ones shown above, are invaluable possessions to those with diabetes or other special medical problems which should be known in an emergency. Many lives have been saved through the use of the toll-free number engraved on the bracelets, by means of which the doctor and hospital are quickly given vital information about the patient's medical condition in case of an emergency.

Medic Alert Emblem Aid To Diabetic

A young man found unconscious outside a library at a midwestern college late at night last month, was at first thought to be a victim of a mugging or drug overdose until a fellow student noticed the emblem on his wrist.

The twenty-year old college junior wore a bracelet with the words Medic Alert and the symbol of the medical profession on its face in red. On the reverse side was engraved an identification number, a phone number for Medic Alert's twenty-four hour emergency medical information center and the words, "diabetic-takes insulin."

Paramedics arrived and quickly transported the youth to a nearby hospital emergency room where a physician began treatment and simultaneously, a collect call was placed by a nurse to Medic Alert.

When the call came through to Medic Alert's operator at the emergency information center, the victim's essential medical information was retrieved and given to the hospital emergency room within a few seconds.

Medic Alert provided the hospital with the student's name, phone number of his parents and family physician, type and dosage of daily insulin, blood type and insurance carrier.

Teen Dance Saturday

Teen Leaders will sponsor a teen dance from 8:30-12:30 p.m. Saturday night at McConnell's Barn. Music is by Glenn & Colby.

61 Pints Of Blood Given Wednesday

A total of 61 pints of blood were given at the Hereford Community Center Wednesday afternoon when the Coffee Memorial Bloodmobile was there. Those working with the Blood Bank were very pleased at the amount received, and want to encourage everyone to help keep donations at this level or higher in the future.

Breakdowns were as follows: insurance, 22 pints; Hereford Blood Donor Club, 14 pints; Ann Kershner, 1 pint; Charles Threewit, 9 pints; Mary Gonzales, 6 pints; Oliver McPherson, 1 pint; Masonic Lodge No. 849, 2 pints; Knights of Columbus, 2 pints; personal credit, 3 pints; and Blood Bank, 1 pint. The Bloodmobile will be in Hereford again on Wednesday, Feb. 24.

"The student was a victim of a diabetic imbalance," said Everett H. Johnson, M.D., Chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee of Medic Alert.

"Later information received from the family revealed that he had been studying late for an exam and had neglected to take the prescribed insulin. The lack of insulin was apparently combined with some marginal eating habits that day which contributed to the imbalance. Fortunately, the youth was treated quickly and recovered virtually overnight," Johnson said.

"We strongly recommend to people who have diabetes and take insulin that they wear a Medic Alert emblem at all times. This is true of others who have a special medical problem which should be known in an emergency," Johnson added.

Medic Alert, founded twenty-five years ago, is a nonprofit, charitable and tax-exempt organization which receives no state or federal funding. It is totally supported by memberships and private donations from individuals, philanthropies and corporations.

Estimates by the organization indicate that as many as three out of every ten Americans has a special medical condition ranging from allergies to medicines such as penicillin, sulfa and local anesthetics, as well as hidden medical problems such as diabetes, heart disease, hypertension, and epilepsy. These are all conditions which should be readily known in a medical emergency.

Medic Alert, with currently over 1.2 million members in the United States, also issues a wallet card every year that contains pertinent medical data and serves as a reminder to update other information if necessary.

"Wearing the Medic Alert emblem," says Johnson, "is not only a sign of strength and maturity, but it provides peace of mind for the wearer and his or her loved ones," he added.

For information, write Medic Alert, Turlock, Calif. 95381 or call, toll-free 800-344-3226, or in California 209-668-3333. Regional offices are located in New York, Chicago, Orlando and Salt Lake City.

Whiteface Cagers Host Strong Plainview Teams Here Tonight

By BOB NICH
MANAGING EDITOR
 Hereford head basketball coaches Larry Sowers and Bobby Decker find themselves with their squads in identical positions as the Herd cagers face off against the Plainview Bulldogs tonight in District 4-5A cage play.

Sowers, his team owning a 17-3 record overall and a 2-1 loop mark, is looking for the Whiteface feds to build some momentum as they end the first half of district action tonight against the Bulldog gals, also 2-1 in the loop.

Decker, meanwhile, has seen leaner days this season as the Herd has posted a 4-17 overall mark this year, and opened District 4-5A play with a 76-52 loss to Coronado Tuesday.

The Bulldogs, 16-10 and 2-0 in the loop, are coming off an impressive 68-47 win over Monterey, a team which surprised Coronado only last week.

Sowers' charges must aim at peaking in the second half of district play if they hope to unseat defending champ Monterey. The Plainswomen took it to the Bulldog feds by an 83-45 count Tuesday, and are rolling in pursuit of their second straight Class 5A state title.

The Whitefaces need to post an impressive win against Plainview tonight and then tune up for a rematch with Monterey in a game against Lubbock High next Tuesday.

The Herd and Plainswomen will meet at the La Plata gym in a crucial second-half tilt next Friday evening.

But, before that the Herd must contend with the Bulldog feds, who have lost much of their shine since the departure of star Gay Hemphill. Plainview's girls have fallen to a 14-11 ledger this year since Hemphill departed, but are still considered dangerous by Sowers.

"They are still a good basketball team," the coach said this week. "They have good quickness and we'll have to play well to beat them."

Decker, meanwhile, must contend with a Bulldog bunch which has only a 16-10 season record, but is considered to be the favorite in the district race, especially after rolling over the Plainsmen Tuesday.

The girls' game begins at 6 p.m. tonight, with the boys game to immediately follow.

La Plata Boys Fall 9th Grade Cagers Win 3 Out of 4

Three of the four Hereford teams in the Canyon 9th grade Basketball Tournament came away with wins Thursday, but the La Plata freshman boys saw a 10-point halftime lead disappear in a tough 68-67 loss to Canyon Purple.

Stanton's boys and girls both collected victories with the Dogie feds rolling over Bushland by a 49-20 count as Stacey High scored 19 points and Lisa Redmon added 11. The Dogie boys also claimed a win with a 71-61 decision over Canyon as Kevin Redus led the way with 27 points.

La Plata's frosh girls took the measure of Plainview by a 46-42 margin as Daria Alford scored 12 points.

The Maverick boys, however, saw a 36-26 lead at intermission slowly dissolve as Canyon took the one-point win. Blair Rogers scored 24 points in leading the Mavs, while Mike Scott had 20.

Action today had La Plata's boys playing Bushland at noon; the Maverick girls playing the Dimmitt-Canyon White winner yesterday at 4:30 p.m.; Stanton's boys testing Borger at 6:30; and the Dogie girls meeting either River Road or Canyon Purple at 7:30.

Newcomers Add Spice to Pro Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — A number of newcomers to the Pro Bowl will see action in Sunday's National Football League all-star match, including six rookies.

On the 40-man NFC squad are first-year cornerbacks Ronnie Lott of San Francisco and Everson Walls of Dallas, New Orleans' running back George Rogers, and New York Giants' linebacker Lawrence Taylor.

Running back Joe Delaney of Kansas City and Cincinnati wide receiver Chris Collinsworth are the two rookies on the AFC squad.

"These players have been selected by a vote of their peers and by the league's coaches, and that's a very critical eye," said American Conference Coach Don Shula.

"I think the players who are here appreciate that."

"It used to be, before the coaches and players did the voting, that you could make it on reputation. But now a player makes it on the kind of year he had. That's why we have a number of rookies here."

In addition to the rookies, there will be 25 others players making their Pro Bowl debuts in the nationally televised game" at Aloha Stadium.

Among the first-time players in the all-star game are five representatives from the Super Bowl Champion 49ers, headed by NFC starting quarterback Joe Montana.

The AFC first-time list includes Cincinnati running back Pete Johnson and Bengal offensive tackle Anthony Munoz; 11-year NFL veteran wide receiver Frank Lewis of Buffalo; tight end Ozzie Newsome of Cleveland; and Denver wide receiver Steve Watson.

The veteran Pro Bowl players for the AFC include Pittsburgh linebacker Jack Lambert, appearing for the seventh time, and linebackers Ted Hendricks of Oakland and Robert Brazile, each making their sixth appearance.

For the NFC, Los Angeles' center Rich Saul has played in five previous Pro Bowls. Minnesota linebacker Matt Blair, Atlanta center Jeff Van Note, and Dallas defensive tackle Randy White are all fifth-time selections for the game.

Tulsa Rallies to Beat Buffs; Iowa, San Francisco Post Wins

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

It's called the "Hurricane," but that doesn't necessarily mean the University of Tulsa's basketball team blows the opposition away.

"People expect us to beat people to death," says Tulsa Coach Nolan Richardson. "We don't have a team like that. When you juggle the lineup as much as we do, you can't expect us to get any kind of big lead. We just want to win the game."

Thursday night's performance was typical of the 16th-ranked Tulsa team. Richardson used a lot of substitutions, as he usually does, and his players struggled and then sputered to a 68-61 Missouri Valley Conference victory over West Texas State.

The triumph was the 27th straight at home for the Hurricane, which hasn't lost there since Richardson brought most of his players along with him Western Texas' junior college champions two years ago.

"Our margin of victory was satisfactory to us," said Richardson. "We've got some senior kids who are pressing. They're just not playing well right now. But I really praised the kids afterward because there's a lot of pressure on them from me, from the fans and from the polls."

West Texas State got 12 points from Eddie Harris and 10 apiece from Goliath Yegins and Charles Bell.

In other action involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 6 Iowa edged Michigan State 57-56, No. 9 San Francisco crushed San Diego 72-53, No. 10 Minnesota beat Northwestern 61-53 and No. 19 Fresno State defeated San Jose State 63-45.

The Top Twenty

Kenny Arnold and Steve Carfino scored 12 points each to lead Iowa over Michigan State. The triumph, before a sellout crowd of 10,004 in Jenison Fieldhouse, improved the Big Ten-leading Hawkeyes' record to 6-1 in conference play and 14-2 for the season.

It was the first victory for the Hawkeyes in Michigan State's arena after seven straight losses there.

"We were trying to get out of here with any kind of win that we could," said a relieved Lute Olson, the Iowa coach. "The first thing we have to overcome when we come to Michigan State is the Spartans. They normally play quite well. The media plays up this jinx thing to a point where the Michigan State players really believe there is a jinx."

Wallace Bryant and Quintin Dailey combined for 43 points, leading San Francisco to a convincing West Coast Athletic Conference victory over San Diego.

Bryant scored 23 points and Dailey added 20 for the Dons, who raised their WCAC record to 4-1 and their overall mark to 18-2. Forward Gerald Jones paced San Diego with 12 points and a game-high nine rebounds.

Trent Tucker scored 18 points and Minnesota took control in the second half to defeat Northwestern. The score was tied three times early in the second half before Gary Holmes put the Gophers ahead to stay at 37-35.

"I know everyone thinks of Randy Breuer when they think about us," said Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher. "But for us to play well, Trent has to play well. He's the key."

Added Dutcher: "The big difference was we rebounded the defensive boards well in the second half."

Rod Higgins scored 14 points to lead Fresno State over San Jose State in Pacific Coast Athletic Association play. The victory was Fresno State's 11th in a row, its 16th in PCAA play and the 17th straight at home.

The leading scorer for San Jose was Chris McNealy, who

Pro Football Adds 4 to Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Now that Sam Huff's fears of not making the Pro Football Hall of Fame have been dispelled, he has a request of the game's shrine.

"I don't know how they decide where your plaque or your bust goes, but I'd love to be put along side Jim Brown. I think Jim Brown would like it too," said a laughing Huff from his office in Washington.

Brown, as the Cleveland Browns' fullback, and Huff, as the New York Giants' middle linebacker, were famed adversaries in their National Football League primes. Brown preceded Huff into the Hall of Fame several years ago.

Huff will be one of four former football stars selected to be inducted into the Hall on Saturday, Aug. 7, in ceremonies prior to the NFL's first exhibition of the season, matching the Baltimore Colts with the Minnesota Vikings.

He will be joined by two Chicago Bears, lineman George Musso and defensive end Doug Atkins, and Merlin Olsen, the former Los Angeles Rams' defensive tackle and now a national television sports personality.

Olsen, star of NBC's "Father Murphy" series and a pro football analyst for the same network, was the only player in 1982 to be elected in his first year of eligibility, five seasons after his retirement.

Huff, a West Virginia All-American, says he never feared anything in a physical sense in his linebacking days with the Giants and the Washington Redskins.

"But as a player I was afraid of failing, not playing well, not doing my job. And in recent years I started being afraid of failing to make the Hall of Fame. That's how much it meant to me. But, after being afraid of failing to make it, I think that's why finally being voted in now makes it sweeter than if I'd make it right away," said Huff. He retired in 1969.

Musso and Atkins push the Bears' list of Hall of Fame members to 20, counting George Halas, the franchise owner and former coach.

Musso, a $90-a-game tackle when he started his pro career in 1933, had the distinction of playing against two future United States presidents. The Collinsworth, Ill., native, while playing for Milliken College, performed against a Eureka College 175-pound guard named Ronald "Dutch" Reagan. In the 1935 College All-Star game, he was pitted against Michigan's center, Gerald Ford.

At the time of his 1969 retirement, the 6-8, 275-pound Atkins had played longer than any NFL full-time regular, 17 years and 205 games. The Tennessee All-American started his career with the Cleveland Browns, playing two seasons, performed for 12 seasons with the Bears and finished with three years with the New Orleans Saints.

Olsen, a Utah State All-American, joins defensive end David "Deacon" Jones as members of the Rams' Pearsome Poursome to make the shrine. Jones did in 1980.

Olsen was selected for a record 14 Pro Bowls in his 15-year career with Los Angeles, missing only in his final season in 1976. He was the league's Rookie of the Year in 1962 and its Player of the Year in 1974.

Kuhn Says No Club Collusion Before Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says despite Marvin Miller's charge that club owners were acting in concert to thwart the free agent system he found no indication that the clubs were doing business any differently than they did last year, before the strike.

Miller, executive director of the players association, has contended that there is a noticeable difference and he again described it as collusion Thursday.

Attention Registered Voters

Due to a Federal Court order, Deaf Smith County has changed voting precincts two times the past year, and the county clerk's office is now trying to place each voter in the correct voting precinct.

As a result, we have several hundred registration cards that have been returned to this office. These need to be picked up.

In order to help solve this matter, the office of the County Clerk and Voters' Registration Office will remain open during the noon hour, beginning Feb. 1. If you have not received your voters' registration card, please come by the office and let us know.

Knicks Battle to Keep Out of Division Cellar

By The Associated Press

A player named Russell helped a coach named Red reach a milestone, but it wasn't quite the same as the glory days of Bill Russell, Red Auerbach and the Boston Celtics.

The Russell-Auerbach tandem helped the Celtics win nine NBA championships in 10 years from 1956-57 to 1965-66. Red Holzman and Campy Russell, on the other hand, are struggling to keep the New York Knicks out of the Atlantic Division cellar.

And the Knicks' 102-98 victory over the Washington Bullets Thursday night — Holzman's 600th triumph as the New York coach — enabled them to snap a last-place tie and pull one-half game ahead of the New Jersey Nets.

The Celtics are still winning, too. They trounced the Cleveland Cavaliers 116-104. Elsewhere, the Houston Rockets downed the Philadelphia 76ers 109-101, the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed the Phoenix Suns 97-87, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the Kansas City Kings 126-115, the Milwaukee Bucks flattened the Utah Jazz 119-101, the Golden State Warriors edged the Chicago Bulls 111-110 and the Portland Trail Blazers nipped the San Diego Clippers 96-93.

Miller, Zoeller Lead Tourney

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Johnny Miller knew what he had to do.

"You know you better take advantage of this North course," Miller said, "because the South is very tough, maybe three, maybe four shots tougher."

So Miller toured the 6,667-yard North course in a solid, no-bogey, 7-under-par 65 Thursday and tied Fuzzy Zoeller for the first round lead Thursday in the $300,000 Wickes-Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament.

Zoeller also played the North, the shorter and easier of the two layout used for the first two rounds.

Mark Lye, however, had a 66 at the tougher, 7,002-yard South course. "As far as I'm concerned, Mark is the leader," Miller said.

As an illustration of the relative difficulty of the two courses, the North yielded 12 scores of 68 or better, the South only three. The players switch courses for today's second round, with the last 36 holes to be played on the South.

Gil Morgan was one shot off the pace after a 66 at the North. Tom Watson, seeking to regain his position as golf's leading performer, topped the group at 67. Also at that figure were Mike Donald, Calvin Peete, Morris Hataalsky and Bruce Fleisher. Fleisher played the tough South course, the others the North.

Jack Nicklaus opened his 21st season on the tour with a 69, including a double bogey-6, on the South.

Tom Kite, the 1981 leading money-winner, matched par 72 and PGA champ Larry Nelson shot 70, both on the South. At the North, British Open king Bill Rogers and defending champion Bruce Lietzke each had a 71 and U.S. Open champ David Graham had 72.

Miller, who has scored some of his greatest successes early in the season, said he was "quite down" after playing poorly in Tucson and Phoenix, his first two starts this year.

"I was having a terrific let-down," he said, as the result of his 9-hole sudden death playoff in a $1 million tournament in southern Africa in the first week of the year.

"That was such a good win for me, I just had a terrific letdown."

"Now, it's important to get it back in gear, get rolling again."

But he must contend with the free-spirit Zoeller, who has played his last four competitive rounds in 24 under par after starting with a 76 in the first round at Phoenix last week.

And he started poorly here, too.

Zoeller, who scored his first career victory here in 1979, opened his round with bogeys on his first two holes Thursday. But he got a shot back on the fourth, began a burst of seven birdies in an 8-hole stretch beginning on the seventh and played the back nine in a tournament record 30.

"Just one of those things that happen," he shrugged. "This is a crazy game."

Houston Puzzled Over Losing Streak

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — If you encounter that sinking feeling from an air pocket on your next flight and someone yells "spread offense" it's probably Houston basketball coach Guy Lewis.

When Lewis gets the feeling that his Cougars are sinking on the court, that's usually his call, much to the chagrin of growing critics of the slow-motion maneuver.

The Cougars, who recently were ranked No. 10 in the nation, are in the throes of a four-game losing streak and in two of those defeats — Southern Methodist and Arkansas — the Cougars lost trying to protect dwindling leads with the spread offense.

Although Lewis remains a staunch believer in the spread, he also is perplexed at the frustrating turn of events that has put the pre-season favorites far back in the Southwest Conference title chase with a 2-4 league record.

"We've played well enough to win so I can't find too much fault with our game in Fort Worth," Lewis said, referring to UH's fourth straight loss Tuesday night against Texas Christian. "It was a repeat of all the other losses...you look at the stats and wonder how we could have lost."

The Cougars, 11-5 for the season, will try to rebound Saturday night when they host Baylor, fresh from its 69-59 upset of fifth ranked Texas Tuesday night.

Lewis is not certain he will start center Akeem Abdul Olajuwon against the Bears. "I just don't know for sure," Lewis said. "I don't want to tip my hand at some things I might be planning. Not starting doesn't mean he won't play."

Olajuwon has started three of Houston's four losses.

Whatever the Cougars problems, Lewis refuses to blame it on UH's use of the spread offense.

"It's amazing to me the way people react to the spread," Lewis said. "Now you can be in any other offense and get a layup and blow it or get fouled and miss a free throw...and they don't blame the offense."

"But once you go into the spread and clear for a layup and miss all of a sudden it's the offense. I don't understand that."

Tennessee and Missouri tie with each other in being the only states bordered by eight other states.

SPORTS TALK: Don Berns

Don Berns, a spokesman for Monsanto, is an expert on AstroTurf — the artificial playing surface that began a revolution in sports. The St. Louis-based firm originated AstroTurf, which is still the most widely sold synthetic turf.

What was the first commercial installation of AstroTurf?

The AstroTurf field in Houston in 1966. The first college installation was Indiana State in Terre Haute in 1967. The first high-school installation was Seattle Memorial Stadium for the Seattle public schools in 1967.

So far, how many AstroTurf fields have been installed?

More than 400. Counting replacement fields, a total of 23 were sold in 1981 — including the Dallas Cowboys, Buffalo Bills, New York Giants, New Orleans Saints, University of North Carolina, Harvard, University of California at Berkeley and fields in Hong Kong, New Delhi and Melbourne.

What sports can be played on AstroTurf?

Baseball, football, soccer, field hockey, track, softball, tennis, rugby, golf and lacrosse. AstroTurf installations also are used for such varied activities as physical education and intramural classes, Frisbee throwing, band practices and performances, jogging, rock concerts, square dancing, cheerleading and drum and bugle corps competitions.

How much does an AstroTurf surface cost?

The cost varies with the size of the field. A standard football field costs about $400,000.

The benefit of an AstroTurf installation is that it can be used more heavily than grass fields.

For example, the AstroTurf field at Flint High School in Michigan was installed in 1968 and has been used for an average of 322 events a year. School officials estimate their field has been able to handle the same amount of activity as 17 grass fields — with one-third the maintenance costs.

Is an AstroTurf surface hard?

A typical AstroTurf field consists of a nylon grasslike surface knitted into a backing of polyester tire cord. This system is installed over a 5/8-inch shock-absorbing pad.

When an athlete falls, an AstroTurf field will absorb about 20 percent more shock than a good grass field and up to 40 percent more shock than a natural field in poor condition.

How is AstroTurf manufactured?

Nylon polymer from Pensacola, Fla., is shipped to the AstroTurf plant in Dalton, Ga., where it is given its green color and spun into ribbon. The ribbon is knitted to the rugged polyester tire yarn, which forms the backing of the field surface. The pad is made of a combination of rubber and vinyl.

Some changes have been made in the manufacturing process during the years to improve the finished product. The current product has an excellent balance of traction and cushioning properties. It carries an eight-year warranty.

How much time is required to install an AstroTurf field?

A football field usually is installed in about 12 days.

How is AstroTurf installed?

AstroTurf surfaces are laid over an asphalt base. A thin layer of adhesive is sprayed on the asphalt and followed closely by the pad being unrolled off a machine. Rollers follow to insure uniform bonding.

Another layer of glue is applied to the pad.

The AstroTurf in 15-foot rolls is unrolled by a machine that controls tension of the fabric as it moves. Edges of the 15-foot AstroTurf rolls are sewn together and locked into place.

What shoes are worn on an AstroTurf field?

Many baseball players continue to use standard metal baseball spikes when playing on AstroTurf as well as on grass fields. Football shoes designed for synthetic fields generally resemble standard soccer shoes with more, but shorter, cleats. Other sports can be played in rubber-soled shoes.

Benitez Confident As He Meets Duran in World Title Match

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wilfred Benitez has seen film of Roberto Duran's last two fights, but he knows he will see a different Duran Saturday night when he defends the World Boxing Council super welterweight championship.

"He will be better than in his last two fights (10-round decisions over Nino Gonzales and Luigi Munchillo) because he knows what kind of a boxer I will be," Benitez, a 23-year-old Puerto Rican who has won world titles in three weight classes, is confident he will beat Duran and move on to challenge for an unprecedented fourth championship.

"This is going to be my last fight in the weight," said Benitez, who said he has trained well to get down to the 154-pound limit, but that it is difficult for him to fight at that weight.

He hopes to ride the victory into a challenge for the undisputed middleweight title (160-pound limit) currently held by Marvin Hagler.

Duran, at age 30, will be trying to win his third title and force a third fight with undisputed welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard.

Duran bristles when questioned about another Leonard fight.

"Right now, my mind is on Benitez, not on Leonard," he said Thursday. Then, through an interpreter, he snapped "Everybody is concerned about the situation of me fighting Leonard. Nobody asks why Leonard is not giving me a rematch."

"If I win, Leonard will have to come and ask me for a fight."

But Duran said he would fight Leonard at the 147-pound welterweight limit. There is no doubt it is the only class in which Leonard would consider a third fight, something he doesn't feel he will have to worry about after Saturday.

Duran said he was retiring after quitting in the eighth round, blaming stomach cramps, to lose the WBC welterweight title to Leonard Nov. 25, 1980. And, he says he will retire for good if he fails against Benitez, which will be the third fight of his comeback.

"I see Benitez stopping Duran," said Leonard, who will be at ringside at Caesars Palace as a commentator for Home Box Office, which will televise the fight live beginning at about 7 p.m., PST. "I see Duran running on emotion, being frustrated again."

Leonard maintains Duran quit in New Orleans because he was frustrated at being beat, not because of stomach cramps.

Benitez also feels he is capable of stopping Duran. An excellent boxer, Benitez has scored 26 knockouts in compiling a 42-1-1 record, and his punching power seems to be increasing as he grows toward what he feels is his natural weight class — middleweight.

"The stone hands will be me," said Benitez, referring to the nickname Duran earned when he dominated the lightweight division (135 pounds) for most of the 1970s. His record is 74-2-0, with 55 knockouts, but he has had much more difficulty dropping opponents since moving out of the lightweight class.

There also will be another title fight on the card at the Caesars Palace Sports Pavilion.

Lynn "Bullet" Ball of Dallas, ranked No. 9 contender by the WBC, will defend the North American Boxing Federation heavyweight title against Michael "Dynamite" Dokes of Akron, Ohio, ranked second by the WBC behind Gerry Cooney.

The 29-year-old Ball has an 18-4-0 record, with 13 knockouts. Dokes, 23, is 23-0-1, with 12 knockouts.

WHO AM I?

How did I get started? In 1961, I was earning $75 a week at a gas station. Then I won my first Grand National auto race. Now, after more than 100 victories, I've topped $2 million. Not bad for a South Carolina grandfather.

ANSWER: DAVID PERDUE, all-time NASCAR super-stock car champion. He has won 104 Grand National races for a total of $2 million. He was born in 1915.

Prototypes Featured in Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The prototypes are new, sleek, pleasing to the eye and, best of all, they are fast.

There are seven of the GTP (Grand Touring Prototype) race cars entered in this weekend's Daytona 24-Hour Pepsi Challenge. One of them, a Chevrolet-powered March 82-G driven by Bobby Rahal, sped to the pole position during Thursday's round of qualifying at Daytona International Speedway.

Rahal, who co-drove to victory with Bob Garretson and Camel GT champion Brian Redman in 1981, this year will be teamed with Jim Trueman and Bruce Canepa. He grabbed the top spot in the huge field by touring the 3.84-mile course at 133.063 mph.

The International Motor Sports Association, which sanctions the American GT sports car series, brought some additional color to their racing this season by allowing the specially-built, one- or few-of-a-kind race cars to take part in their events this season.

The powerful Porsche Turbo 935s, which have won the last four Daytona 24-hour events and have dominated the GT circuit in recent years, still took eight of the top 10 spots — the only positions locked in after Thursday's qualifying sessions among three divisions, GT, GTO and GTU.

However, the handful of distinctive GTP cars made a fast and colorful impression at Daytona.

The first of the new generation of GTP's, a Chevrolet-powered Lola T-600 in which now-retired Brian Redman won five races on the way to his championship a year ago, was driven to seventh spot on the grid by Englishman Derek Bell. His fast lap was 128.170.

Besides the two English-built GTP cars that wound up among the top 10, a pair of Cosworth-powered, French-built Rondeau 382s were among the fast movers Thursday.

The car co-driven by Bill Koll, Skeeter McKitterick and Irv Hoer was 12th fastest for the day, while the Rondeau of Danny Sullivan, Hubert Phipps and Gary Belcher was 13th quickest.

Another March 82-G, this one powered by a BMW engine, gave the defending GTO champions, David Cowart and Kenner Miller, the 15th fastest clocking of the day. Those two, who were so successful with a BMW-M1 a year ago, will team with Charles Mendez for their first effort at the fastest of the three GT racing divisions.

A pair of modified Chevrons, one with a Mazda power plant and the other pulled by a Buick engine, were well down the line in speed. But all except the top 10 qualifiers had an opportunity today to better their speeds and clinch a place in the lineup for the race, which is scheduled to get underway at 3:30 p.m. EST Saturday.

Leading the parade of Porsche Turbo 935s was Englishman John Fitzpatrick, who turned a 132.767 mph lap to gain the outside spot on the front row.

Right behind, all in Porschs, were Hurley Haywood, 130.707; Bill Whittington, 130.474; John Paul Junior, 130.117 and Frenchman Bob Wollek, 129.785.

Jim Adams put a 935 in the eighth spot at 127.441 followed by Danny Ongais at 127.034 and John Paul Sr., 125.757.

This race, the 21st annual 24-hour event, also is the first in the new 10-race Camel GT Endurance Series.

Craft dough recipe

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - I've lost my salt dough and flour craft recipe. Can you or any readers help? - KATRINA
DEAR KATRINA - Here's my favorite craft dough recipe. It's a wonderful "baker's clay" for fashioning Christmas tree ornaments, little molded figurines, wreaths, wall hangings and more.

Basic salt dough: Combine two cups all-purpose flour and one cup salt. Add one cup water, a little at a time, mixing thoroughly to form a ball of dough. Knead about 10 minutes until dough is smooth. This may be stored in a plastic bag in the refrigerator for three to five days. You can use this dough to hand-mold ornaments or roll it out and cut shapes out with a cookie cutter or knife. Objects made from this craft dough should be baked at 300 degrees until completely dry and hardened, generally from one to three hours depending on the thickness of the dough.

Shaping the objects is a fun and safe project for children, during the holidays or anytime. If desired, the finished items can be painted or brushed with a coat of polyurethane or shellac. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I've just discovered that the screw-on rings from wide-mouth canning jars make good supports for halves of small round squash. The squash won't tip and spill any filling you've put into them. - M.D.

DEAR POLLY - When I freeze stews, chili, soups or anything that can't be put into a plastic bag directly, I put it into bread pans. The pans will hold as much as four servings or as little as one. As soon as the contents are frozen, I remove the food from the pans and put it into plastic bags. This eliminates the need for numerous freezer containers, saving storage space and money, and the food can be stacked, saving space in the freezer. When you wish to use the food, remove it from the bag, put it back into a bread pan and heat it in the oven until ready to eat. I use glass bread pans to reheat the food. - MRS. H.K.

DEAR MRS. H.K. - It really does save space in the freezer and you don't have all those plastic storage containers to wash afterwards. For the combined money-saving, space-saving, time-saving features of your Pointer of the Week, you'll receive an autographed copy of my book, Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints to Make Everything Last Longer. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - To make household fix-it jobs easier, I dip the point of my screwdrivers in hot candle wax. The light coat of wax makes the screwdriver stick to the screw as you're turning it, and the screwdriver won't slip out of the slot of the screw.

Video Evangelism Scrutinized In 'Pray TV'

Los Angeles—ABC is going out on a limb this week, when it presents "Pray TV," a drama which puts TV evangelism under a microscope, so that everybody can see and evaluate the moral and spiritual ramifications of this powerful medium.

John Ritter, in a stark departure from his sit-com persona, tackles the role of a young minister who has been assigned his first flock of congregants. While getting acclimated to his new position, John returns to his hometown for a visit where he meets a TV minister, played by Ned Beatty. Sure enough, Beatty offers Ritter a job: He accepts, thinking that he can spread God's word to a larger audience, but instead he finds himself questioning the minister's motives.

Genesis

Peter Greenberg, a veteran journalist-cum-TV producer, explained why he chose this controversial topic for a video dramatization. "I had an agreement with ABC way back in 1979 when I was first getting settled in the area. One day, I started playing with my cable channel selector and I watched these guys (evangelists). I became obsessed with watching them and then went back to ABC with the idea of doing a movie on them, and got the OK," Peter began to recollect.

"I went around the country for a year to do thorough research, ABC backed me all the way and, let me tell you, this is a standards and practices nightmare. Every item was triple sourced. This is a brave attempt by ABC, considering the advertising climate and the pressure put on the network by them."

Casting John Ritter despite his comedic image wasn't a problem for Greenberg at all. Peter related,

"Remember, before 'Three's Company,' John played a minister on 'The Waltons.' True, this is not what people will expect from him, but that's what intrigued me even more. Besides, Ritter was given a pretty formal religious training when he was growing up, and I think this role meant a lot to him personally."

Greenberg anticipates that he'll be hargued a bit by the evangelists and bible belt viewers, but the veteran scribe who retained creative control over the effort, staunchly defended his project.

"How can these guys criticize this story? It has no sex or violence. In addition to being fair and balanced, I wanted to also raise two points.

"First—to what extent do these ministries ask for money they have no intention of using for specific purposes? You know that's against the law. It's called fraud.

"Also, are some TV ministries manipulating viewer's thinking under the guise of spiritual guidance, like politics? That's powerful stuff for TV."

Peter does take exception to some of his journalistic colleagues' motivations when they pursue an investigative story. "A lot of them sell-out. Some go out to write a piece, motivated that it will be optioned for a screenplay. They are allowing themselves to be exploited. By producing my own work, I retain the integrity."
TV COMMUNIS SERVICES, INC.

John Ritter headlines as a minister caught between the more traditional approach to congregational evangelism and the temptation of TV evangelism in ABC's "Pray TV."

Faith in God can conquer fear.

Fear knocked at the door.
Faith answered.
There was no one there.
— Author unknown

"Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday; A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come near thee."

— Psalms 91:5-7
