

County Pays for Courtroom, Rejects Request

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
Deaf Smith County Commissioners approved the payment of a $39,662 bill for the remodeling and renovation work in the 222nd District Courtroom Monday, bringing to a conclusion a lengthy process of getting the courtroom revamped.

The court okayed the payment of the bill submitted by architect M. Howard Ensign and district judge Wes Gulley. The bill included the base bid of $37,150 submitted by contractor Perry Cates

Construction Co. of Amarillo, an additional $2,000 for revision to lighting in the room; and an additional $512 in expenses for minor work not included in the bid. Judge Gulley told the court that he is still not entirely satisfied with noise-limiting work done to the hallway adjacent to the courtroom, however. He said that a runner of additional sound-deadening material might help alleviate the problem. Judge Gulley also told the court that some new furniture in the courtroom would be necessary in the near future.

In other matters Monday, the court turned down a request by the San Jose Organization to use the Bull Barn for Fiestas Patrias festivities, opened bids on a tractor and mower for Pct. 1, and canvassed the results of the local-option bingo election held April 3.

The two men appeared before the court requesting use of the Bull Barn for the four dances associated with the annual Fiestas patrias celebration. The court stood by a resolution passed last summer by turning down the request. The court had decided last year to ban all dancing at the Bull Barn.

Pct. 1 Commissioner Bill Brady asked the court to table action on bids submitted on a used tractor and mower for his precinct until he could examine some of the equipment being bid on.

The commissioners approved the results of the local-option bingo election, and during the afternoon session passed a resolution charging a two percent gross receipts tax on all bingo games conducted within the county.

Some time was also spent on a request by Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal for a part-time helper in his office.

Judge Neal told the commissioners that his office has become behind in its work due to an increased work load, and that he needed additional help as soon as possible. Neal reported that his office had nearly 70 hours of overtime during the past 30 days, all of which was not paid. "I can't keep asking my girls to work overtime without compensation," Neal said. "Besides, we're still falling behind even with the overtime."

AP, Kansas City Star Win Two Pulitzers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press and The New York Times each have won two Pulitzer Prizes, and the Kansas City Star and the Kansas City Times have been cited for showing how and why two skyscrapers collapsed at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, killing 114 people.

"Fantastic! ... It came as an absolute surprise," Detroit News Editor William Giles exclaimed Monday after learning his paper had been awarded the Pulitzer gold medal for public service.

The News won with an investigation that led to a series of stories detailing "a pattern of deception and unresponsiveness" in the way the Navy reported the shipboard deaths of sailors to their families.

Poet Sylvia Plath, who committed suicide two decades ago, won the Pulitzer Prize in poetry for the posthumous volume, "The Collected Poems," and Charles Fuller won the drama award for "A Soldier's Play" as the annual awards were announced for the 66th time.

John Updike won the fiction prize for his best-selling novel "Rabbit is Rich."

AP's Saul Pett was awarded the prize in feature writing for a portrait of the federal bureaucracy, and Ron Edmonds of the AP was honored in spot news photography for his pictures of the attempted assassination of President Reagan.

The prizes were the 32nd and 33rd won by the AP — 17 for reporting and 16 for photos.

"At my stage in life it is profoundly sweet," said Pett, 64. "I can be as cynical as the next man, but I am living pro-

Immigrant Detained For Temple Mount Shootings

JERUSALEM (AP) — Shouting "justice, justice, for national liberation" and flashing the V-for-victory sign, Alan Harry Goodman, a Jewish immigrant from the United States, was brought before an Israeli magistrate today for the shooting two days ago in Islam's third holiest shrine.

The attack Sunday on Jerusalem's Temple Mount killed two Arabs and touched off Arab rioting that continued today for the third day, and the toll rose to nearly 160 injured. Israeli gunfire in the Gaza Strip wounded at least seven more Palestinians, including six children 12 and 13 years old and a woman.

Magistrate Hamaan Shelah ordered Goodman, 38, held for 15 days to allow police to pursue their investigation.

The accused man was not called on to enter a plea. Answering Shelah's questions in English, he said he did not have a lawyer and could not afford one. He added in a firm, low voice: "It doesn't matter. This is a political action rather than just a legal matter."

The judge said he would appoint a defense lawyer.

The immigrant from Baltimore, a soldier in the Israeli army, is accused of emptying his M-16 automatic rifle Sunday in the Mosque of Omar. Also called the Dome of the Rock, it is Islam's third holiest shrine after Mecca and Medina because it is built around the stone from which Moslem tradition says the prophet Mohammed ascended into heaven.

Police said Goodman killed two Arabs and wounded nine before he ran out of ammunition. About 150 people were injured in the rioting that followed Sunday and Monday, including 16 Palestinian Arabs hit by Israeli gunfire Monday.

Israeli newspapers, responding to reports of a probe of possible links between Goodman and Jewish extremist groups, urged the government to crack down on such organizations as Kach, a tiny offshoot of the U.S.-based Jewish Defense League led by Rabbi Meir Kahane. Kach denied any connection.

Haig Works On Clearing Up Falkland Crisis Complication

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. conferred by telephone with Argentina's foreign minister and met again with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher for 90 minutes today, trying to clear up a "complication" blocking his efforts to avert war between Britain and Argentina over the Falkland Islands.

Haig said he would have "something to say later today" but would not be seeing Mrs. Thatcher again. It was believed he was planning another telephone conference with Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez.

The Argentine news agency DYN said Costa Mendez "flatly and energetically rejected" a proposal by Haig for tripartite administration of the Falklands by Britain, Argentina and the United States because it did not include British recognition of Argentine sovereignty over the British colony in the South Atlantic.

The London Times

reported: "The British government has stated it is eventually willing to negotiate sovereignty, given total withdrawal of Argentine forces and authorities. But the crucial catch, which emerged last night, is that no change in the status of the islands would be contemplated by ministers before the end of this year."

"Clearly, the Argentines would be unwilling to give up possession of the islands without tighter commitments from the British on the timing of a long term settlement."

Haig returned to London from Buenos Aires Monday, met for 1½ hours with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and other British leaders, and then "had a number of telephone conversations" with Costa Mendez during the evening, State Department spokesman Dean Fischer reported.

"A complication has arisen at that end," said Fischer. "We are hopeful it will be clarified tomorrow (Tuesday)."

He said Haig and Costa Mendez would talk again this morning.

Haig had planned to return to the Argentine capital Monday evening, but the Buenos Aires newspaper La Nacion said he told Costa Mendez: "I am suspending the trip because the two sides present no possibility of accord. But I will continue working, trying to bring the two countries closer together."

The Argentine navy said in a communique that its 31 ships were "ready to sail" to challenge the naval blockade Britain proclaimed for 200 miles around the Falklands beginning Monday. Apparently at Haig's urging, the Argentine government before the blockade took effect brought home the ships that landed the occupation force in the Falklands April 2.

The British Defense Ministry said Argentine vessels so far have kept out of the zone around the Falklands. Britain is reported to have four submarines in the area equipped with Tigerfish homing torpedoes capable of sinking ships at a distance of 20 miles, and a 40-ship Royal Navy task force headed by two aircraft carriers is scheduled to join them in about a week.

Haig told reporters Monday night after his meetings with Mrs. Thatcher: "A number of substantial difficulties remain. ... Time is slipping away from us on this issue. ... There is no trace, or no hesitation or pause in any of the military preparations as I understand them that are underway."

Feds Use Two Sets of Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is using two sets of figures to estimate the 1983 budget deficit, depending on whether officials are talking privately to a roomful of powerful congressmen or to the general public.

Republican and Democratic congressional sources reconfirmed Monday that in private talks on a budget compromise, administration officials estimate the deficit next year will be about $180 billion without any spending cuts or tax increases.

Assuming Reagan wins all of the roughly $56 billion in deficit-reduction measures he asked for, that would leave a deficit of about $124 billion. But only last Friday, the administration told the American public the deficit for 1983 would be $101.9 billion if Reagan gets all the cuts he wants.

That's $22 billion lower than the comparable figure that White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and other administration officials are using in their private talks about the difference, Office of Management and Budget spokesman Ed Dale declined to confirm the existence of the $180 billion estimate that congressional sources referred to.

But privately, administration officials concede the deficit could go higher than $101.9 billion if the economic recovery is less robust than the administration is predicting. Many private economists say that is what will happen.

The administration's latest prediction included no change in the president's earlier, optimistic assumption about the economy. However, the most recent report noted that the administration can change its economic forecast "should conditions warrant."

One official speculated that the administration could formally revise its economic forecast as part of an overall budget compromise with members of both political parties from both houses.

Negotiations on such a plan, designed to reduce budget deficits and interest rates, appear to be at a critical point, with two private sessions scheduled for today.

Several Republicans have said the negotiators are close to an agreement in the talks, although neither Reagan nor House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., has agreed to the plan.

These sources say the general compromise plan calls for tax increases of as much as $135 billion over three years; a reduction and delay in cost-of-living increases for Social Security recipients and a $35 billion three-year reduction in Reagan's defense buildup.

Sarpalius Urges Stricter DWI Law

State Sen. Bill Sarpalius of Hereford will be using the next two days in Austin to present his proposal for dealing with drunk drivers to the Governor's Task Force. Sarpalius, in a plan outlined at an Amarillo press conference Monday, is calling for stiffer mandatory penalties in an effort to get repeat offenders off the highways.

The senator's proposal calls for stiffer penalties for both the first offender, and repeat offenders as well. He wants a mandatory fine of at least $300 and up to $1,000 for first offenders in addition to a jail sentence of from 72 hours to two years, which could be probated.

The first-time offender would also attend a school for DWI violators and would be allowed to drive for occupational purposes only.

The Senator's plan calls for the offense to be removed from a person's record "if the offender is not convicted of DWI during the next three years."

For repeat violators Sarpalius is calling for a fine between $500-$2,000, a jail sentence from 72 hours to two years, and 90 days to six months suspension of driver's license except for occupational use.

Second-time offenders would receive no probation, however, and would have to spend at least 72 hours in jail under his proposal.

The plan calls for third-time offenders receive a fine of $500-$2,000, a jail term of 30 days and up to five years in prison and suspension of a driver's license for six months to one year.

Under the proposal the third-time offender would be eligible for work release so that he could continue in his employment.

"We have learned through our research that most of the traffic deaths attributed to alcohol as the result of repeat offenders," Sarpalius said. "This legislation is designed to give repeat offenders stiffer penalties."

The proposed bill also requires breath test, blood tests, and other scientific tests within an hour of the arrest, and another test an hour later. It requires larger counties to have videotapes of the defendant after his arrest, with a percentage of the fines collected to go toward the purchase of the video equipment.

Sarpalius also wants to make evidence of refusal to take a breath test admissible in court. Under present law, prosecutors can't tell a jury that the defendant refused to take a breath test. "It is believed that this will increase convictions by as much as 35 percent," he said.

The senator said that legislation for stiffer penalties is part of a national trend to get repeat offenders off the road. "We came out with this bill early to gain support for a sensible DWI proposal and to gather suggestions from interested people all over the state," he said.

"One thing is certain, no DWI law will pass without public support," he concluded. "We need your help, and we need you to ask candidates who are running for public office how they stand on the issue of driving while intoxicated."

No Word On Dead In C-30H Crash

ANKARA, Turkey, (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane with 28 people aboard crashed today in eastern Turkey, the U.S. Embassy said.

It said the plane carried 10 U.S. Air Force crewmen and 18 passengers, all believed to be civilians employed by the U.S. Defense Department.

Reagan Chats With Pulitzer Prize Winner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan met briefly Tuesday with Associated Press photographer Ron Edmonds, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his dramatic, close-up photographs of Reagan being photographed in an assassination attempt last year.

The embassy spokesman said the crash was in mountains about 350 miles east of Ankara and that there was no immediate word on casualties.

Air Force officials in Washington said the Turkish army had located the plane.

According to information reaching the Pentagon, the C-30H transport was on a "routine resupply mission" when it crashed 40 miles west of the town of Erzurum in central Turkey.

The plane was on rotational duty in Europe from its home base at Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, Tex., the Air Force said. It was assigned to the 463rd Tactical Air Lift Wing at Dyess.

Radio Solidarity Airing Again On April 30

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The resistance to martial law in Poland launched its first underground radio station, Radio Solidarity, with an 8 1/2-minute broadcast that accused the country's official media of lying about treatment of jailed union activists.

The station said it would broadcast again on April 30.

"This war had and still has many victims," said the FM station, which went on the air Monday night with an eight-note signature tune taken from a song popular during the Nazi occupation and two announcers, a man and a woman.

The program denied reports by Warsaw radio and television and the government-controlled newspapers that the thousands of jailed members of the independent labor federation Solidarity were receiving better treatment than common criminals.

"It is not true that internment is something different from ordinary prison," said the station. "We still get information about beatings in internment camps."

Family Of Slain Woman, Child Awarded $26.5 Million

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for two trucking firms and two truck drivers have agreed to pay $26.5 million to the family of a marathon runner and a girl killed when a truck struck their car head-on.

Barbara McWhorter, 36, of Houston, had been preparing to run in the Boston Marathon before the April 17, 1981, accident that killed her and her 11-year-old daughter, Suzanne.

The out-of-court settlement, reached over the weekend, was announced Monday.

Attorney Richard Mithoff of Houston, representing the McWhorter family, alleged in the suit that two trucks involved in the incident near Utica, N.Y., were racing and following too close to traffic in front of them.

"We were in a position to prove they were going too fast," Mithoff said.

The suit said the accident occurred when the trucks collided and the tractor-trailer rig driven by Leonard Fleischer of Elyria, Ohio, crossed the median.

Mrs. McWhorter's husband, Richard, suffered "severe injuries to his brain and to his right leg," the suit said. The McWhorters' sons, John, 17, and Andrew, 14, were riding in the car but escaped with minor injuries.

The McWhorter family had sued two trucking firms and the drivers of both trucks for more than $25 million, Mithoff said. The family's suit named Malone Freight Lines of South Birmingham, Ala.; Gateway Transportation of Cornwall Heights, Pa.; Fleischer; and truck driver James Waldrup of Commerce, Ga.

Officials Visit Dallas To Discuss 1984 GOP Convention

DALLAS (AP) — Republican Party representatives say they will use their third visit here to tour hotel facilities and talk to city officials as they plan the GOP's 1984 nominating convention.

GOP Chairman Richard Richards said Monday that members of the party's convention site selection committee unanimously preferred Dallas. But their recommendation must be ratified by the Republican National Committee when it meets in June.

Republican officials will remain in Dallas until Wednesday, when they plan to report to a meeting of the GOP executive committee here.

"We're not looking at any other cities," Richards told the Dallas County Republican Men's Club.

Paul Harvey News The Alternative

There is an alternative to President Reagan's proposed budget.

The alternative to Reaganomics is called "public welfare."

The trouble with the alternative is that it's been tried for 20 years and it didn't work. It resulted in decreased incentive to work or to save or to support families.

It involved income redistribution which created in our inner cities tragic wreckage—a permanently unemployed, demoralized, drugged, enraged, criminal.

In the name of "public welfare" we have destroyed the jobs, lives and families of the poorest Americans.

It is not the fault of the gimme-gimmes.

When taxpayers offer them a package of benefits more than double the minimum wage—of course they are going to take it—and it is addictively. And withdrawal is agonizingly painful.

That's the hollering you're hearing; same as you'd hear in the cold turkey ward of a rehab hospital.

President Reagan did not awaken one morning and decide, "I think I'll be cruel to poor people today."

What he has done throughout his public life is to try to reduce government, reduce taxes, reduce dependency, provide jobs.

President Reagan will reduce all our taxes 10 percent next July, but he is not robbing poor people to do it.

In 1983, the year yet to be, 28 percent of his total budget will aid our elderly. Payments and services, they'll receive an average $7,850 per individual per year...

And 95 million meals per day...

The Reagan budget for Medicare and Medicaid will be increased over what it now is—providing help for 47 million aged, disabled, needy.

What the new budget will try to accomplish is the elimination of waste and fraud and the gradual weaning of able-bodied adults.

I heard from a college student the other day—Dan Drennen, a freshman at Syracuse—who has been receiving student aid from the government. He's learned that aid will be cut off next semester. He says he'll manage.

Dan says, "It is not the role of federal government to see my way through college; I'll work my way through."

Let me interrupt myself: In his efforts to balance our income and outgo, I would like to see this President reduce his projected military budget also.

We have the technology to intimidate any adversary while we reestablish our own economy.

And such a military reduction would moderate criticism of his social programs.

This next may sound irrelevant but aboard our spaceship Columbia were some bees. Those bees learned that in the weightlessness of space they did not have to flap their wings; they could just relax and float around.

Until, lazy and muscularly atrophied, they had to relearn how to fly—or die.

Judge Accepts Plea From Morin

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A state district judge says he would prepare his charge today for the jury hearing the capital murder trial of Stephen Peter Morin, one day after he accepted Morin's guilty plea.

District Judge David Berchmann accepted the plea Monday after both the prosecution and the defense rested. Defense attorneys did Berchmann had refused to accept the guilty plea offered by Morin last week, and ordered prosecutors to present corroborating evidence in the slaying of 25-year-old Carrie Marie Scott in a San Antonio restaurant parking lot.

Reagan, he said, joked that photographers always ask him for "just one more" picture. He could replay the shooting scene, the president said, but this time he'd use a stunt man.

25-year-old woman testified that Morin shot her in the back. Dru Valdes said she saw Miss Scott's legs protruding from an open car door and Morin holding the woman in a headlock when she went to the parking lot to find her friend.

Morin also is charged with shooting Mrs. Valdes.

"I knew that she was in danger, obviously. I said he should leave us alone, just leave, get out of the car," Mrs. Valdes testified. "She said, 'Run. He's got a gun.'"

Edmonds won the Pulitzer Monday for his exclusive series of pictures taken across the roof of Reagan's limousine as Reagan emerged from the Washington Hilton Hotel on March 30, 1981, was shot and was shoved down and into the car by bodyguards.

"I ran three or four steps," she said. "I heard a blast go off. I felt it go through my shoulder. I was knocked down."

Pamela Jackson of Tyler testified that Morin abducted her and held her captive until she was rescued Dec. 11.

Mrs. Jackson, 23, said Morin abducted her about 2:30 a.m. Nov. 30 from the parking lot of a Corpus Christi apartment house where she had gone to pick up her 7-year-old son.

Mrs. Jackson said she, Morin and a companion, 32-year-old Sarah Clarke, arrived in San Antonio on Dec. 3 and moved from motel to motel before ending up at The Sands.

On Dec. 11, Morin followed a woman to a restaurant, returning later and waiting in a car with Mrs. Jackson and Ms. Clarke. Mrs. Jackson testified.

Vandalisms, Thefts, Top Reports

Vandalisms and thefts top the list of reports from the Hereford police department.

A Chesterfield, Mo., man told officers that while he was staying at Red Carpet Inn someone entered his locked vehicle and took about $1,500 worth of camera equipment. The brown suitcase containing the equipment was the only item missing from the car.

A Lubbock man reported that a $350 Winchester rifle was taken from his pickup while he visited relatives here.

Hereford Grain reported that a $55 battery was stolen from a pickup.

The Chandalier Shop in Sugarland Mall had its electricity meter stolen. Value of the meter is about $70.

About $300 in cash was taken from a closet at a residence on East Fifteenth. Police have a suspect in the case.

Two steel ramps worth about $25 were stolen from a residence during the last two weeks.

Two bike thefts were reported. Vandals entered Nard

County History Book Delves Into Ghost Towns, Campsites

Indians used to camp at a spot which is now inside the city limits of Hereford, on Highway 385 near the old Troy Womble home.

That story is one of the many told in the Deaf Smith County history book, "The Land And Its People," which has been compiled over the past 16 months and is now almost ready to go to the publishers.

The late Joe Green, whose hobby was hunting artifacts and other traces of Indians living in this area, wrote about half a dozen campsites he found in the county, and his notes will go into the book. Dozens of others have written and collected stories on subjects they are familiar with.

History buff Ike Graves and his writer-wife Debe have delved into data on ghost towns in the county and come up with some little known facts about places like Kelso, Ayr and Lindley. Also Grenada, which had to change its name in order to get postal service, as did Bluewater and Boom. Those names were already in use by other Texas postoffices so they became LaPlata, Hereford and Summerfield.

Items manufactured in the county, besides beef have included brooms, bricks and Bravos, the latter a tobaccoless cigarette which had crisp Deaf Smith County lettuce leaves as its principal ingredient. Those and other industrial products are the subject of another story, put together by Sue Coleman with material from various sources.

The Family History section comprises more than 1,200 stories, most of them in the words of family members, full of fascinating tales like that about J.D. Frost who at the age of 10 took his five-year-old sister and started to the Panhandle and never went back to Dallas; or about the homes of the very early pioneer family of Elisha Carter, who lived first in a dugout and then in a two-story adobe house; or about Sulphur Park, a part of the G.R. Jowell ranch on Tierra Blanca Creek, later owned by the City of Hereford as part of its park land which totaled more than any other West Texas city at the time. It boasted a spring of sulphur water which gave some residents high hopes of turning Hereford into a health resort.

Dates and statistics have not been omitted in the book, but it is spiced with stories which are amusing as well as factual. Orders are being taken for the book now, and must be in the office of Project County History by the end of this month. Only books ordered and paid for in advance will be published; the histories will not be for sale in book stores.

This will be a book of about 700 pages, printed on quality paper and bound in leatherette in a maroon shade with gold decoration in a design drawn by Hereford artist Marguerite Newell. Numerous photographs will add interest to the pages.

Price of the book is $36.75. Orders and checks may be mailed to Project County History, P.O. Drawer 2297, Hereford, or sent to the project office at the E.B. Black Historical House from 1-5 p.m. weekdays.

Consumer Skills Are Vital

By PENNY REINART
County Extension Agent
In the Deaf Smith County 4-H program consumer education is very important. Some of the consumer skills vital to each of us are taught.

Because we live in rapidly changing society, we need to continuously update our consumer knowledge and skills. Consumer education is a vital lifetime subject.

A recent study of consumer education pinpointed specific knowledge and skills as "essential" for effective consumer-citizenry:

- 1) evaluating choices before making a purchase and coping with the emotional aspects of the marketplace.
- 2) understanding basic economics and individual decisions in a societal context
- 3) questioning, analyzing and asking for redress (to consumer problems).
- 4) conserving resources.

5) participating in governmental and business decisions.

6) influencing improvements in the private and public sectors by developing alternative production and delivery systems.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Club Members Schedule Plant Sale

Plans were made for a plant sale to be held at the Garden Center beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 24 during the Friday afternoon meeting of the Hereford Garden Club. Members met in the home of Mrs. Bernie Riley, with Mrs. R.L. Wilson as co-hostess.

The plant sale will feature day lilies, yarrow, red hot poker, iris, mums, and other perennials grown in member's yards.

Mrs. O.G. Hill, Sr. reported that 25 roses will be planted at the Garden Center, Park and Main, next week. Mrs. J.N. Jacobson reported on the District Garden Club meeting in Odessa, where Bob Thomas, a famous arranger, showed large flower arrangements.

Also at the district meeting, Mmes. R.L. Ethridge, Hill, and Jacobson received purple silk orchid corsages for their service in garden clubs for over 35 years; Mrs. Lee Coil gave the history of the northern district; and Mrs. Hill gave the history of scholarships in the District.

Mrs. Riley, chairman of the May 14 flower show, distributed schedules for the show, which will be held in the Community Center. Mrs. Ethridge explained how to prepare flowers for the show and Mrs. Jacobson told how to prepare artistic arrangements.

Bertha Dettman Elected To Represent Cultural EH Club

Jewel Hargrave was hostess to the Cultural Extension Club Friday afternoon in the Flame Room. Winnie Wiseman presided over the business session, during which Bertha Dettman was elected as nominee for delegate to the state meeting Sept. 14-17 in El Paso.

For the opening exercise, Ruth Gandy gave a reading entitled "Easter." Ms. Hargrave gave a report from a weight control seminar she attended last month in Amarillo.

Vernis Parsons, who had attended a training course on equipment for the 80's, told the club that proper care is important for the many appliances found in modern homes. She said that the homemaker should ask herself whether she really needs a certain appliance before purchasing it and whether she can afford the addition it will make to the gas or electricity bill.

Iza Bell Kinney, Mrs. Dettmann's aunt who resides in Albuquerque, N.M., was welcomed as a visitor.

Other members attending were Carrie Mae Doak, Edith Hunter, Fannie Townsend, Ella Stehr, and Wilma Goettlich.

The next meeting will be April 23 in the home of Tillie Scott.

Today In History

Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 13, the 103rd day of 1982. There are 262 days left in the year.

On April 13, 1961, the United Nations General Assembly condemned the apartheid policy of racial segregation, as practiced in South Africa.

On this date:
In 1605, Theodore II became Czar of Russia on the death of his father, Boris Gudonov.

In 1948, the Romanian constitution was remodeled along Soviet lines.

In 1973, Archbishop Makarios was ousted from the Cypriot Orthodox clergy on grounds he broke church law by serving as president of Cyprus.

And in 1976, a munitions plant explosion in Finland left 45 dead and seven injured.

Ten years ago: President Nixon flew to Canada for a three-day visit.

Five years ago: Spain's top military leaders agreed after stormy debate to accept a government decision to legalize the Communist Party.

One year ago: Separatist leader Rene Levesque was elected to a new term as premier of Canada's Quebec province.

Today's birthdays: Perennial presidential candidate Harold Stassen is 75 years old. Singer Al Green is 36.

Thought for today: It is not enough to help the feeble up, but to support him. — William Shakespeare, English playwright (1564-1616).

Principal gases in the earth's atmosphere are nitrogen (78 percent), oxygen (21 percent), and argon (1 percent).

Ann Landers

'Diagnosis' Proves Correct

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read your reply to the woman who thanked you for diagnosing her problem as narcolepsy. She said your description of the illness matched her symptoms, so she took your column to her doctor, "who up until then was telling her to take vitamins." Lo and behold, he discovered she had exactly what you said it sounded like.

I want you to know a similar thing happened in our family, and I never thanked you for your help. When you wrote about Tourette's syndrome and described the twitching and jerking and involuntary barking sounds, I knew immediately that our nephew had that illness.

I called the boy's mother in Wisconsin. She immediately brought the boy to Boston, where his problem was diagnosed as Tourette's. The boy is now taking medication and getting along beautifully. So thank you from the bottom of our hearts.—massachusetts Ann Fans

DEAR FANS: From time to time I've been half-jokingly accused of practicing medicine without a license. I try to stay away from specifics but when I recognize the symptoms of a little-known illness, and the writer says, "My doctor says I'm OK" or "He says it's all in my head," I feel compelled to suggest (NOT diagnose) a possibility.

Thank you for letting me know I helped. Letters like yours make all the hard work worthwhile.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A new neighbor has attached herself to me as if she were a Siamese twin. I tried to be helpful to Mrs. Z when she asked where I did my marketing, did I know of a good seamstress, a reliable dry cleaner, and so on, but now I can't make a move without including her.

"Mrs. Z." phones every morning to inquire about my plans for the day. She has a clever way of inviting herself along. After I am trapped into saying "OK," I get mad at myself. I can't have a bridge game without her because she can see everything that goes on over here. "Mrs. Z." is really a good soul and has kept my children overnight a few times when I wanted to go with my husband on short business trips, but how can I unwind without hurting her feelings?—

Kitchener Headache

DEAR KITCH: Stop asking her to keep your children overnight. When you no longer feel obligated, you'll be able to tell her you have plans that don't include her without feeling guilty.

Unlike most other businesses, electric utilities like SPS require large investments in plants and equipment. For example, for each $1 in annual revenues, the Company has more than $2 invested in plants, equipment and other assets necessary for providing electric service. This investment plus a fair return (profit) is recovered through revenues received from customers over the useful life of the property.

Kurt Shaughnessy, Accounting Coordinator, Amarillo.

In regions with relatively mild winters, an investment in six inches of ceiling insulation will pay for itself in fuel savings in only one year. In the heating season, adequate insulation in the ceiling can save up to 20% on your fuel bill. During summer months, this insulation will help retain the cool air generated by your home's air conditioning system.

Bob Spradling, Consumer Services Representative, Roswell.

Our customers' electric bills are lower because SPS sells the byproducts created by the burning of coal. Flyash, the powder-like substance given off during combustion, is sold as a construction material. The ash is sold under contract directly from the plant, with transportation costs paid by the buyer. Profit from the sale of the ash is applied to the Company's fuel costs. This saves our customers money, since fuel costs are passed to customers in the form of adjustments to their monthly bills.

Ronnie Blythe, Envirochemical Coordinator, Harrington Station, Amarillo.

Knowing what electricity is worth is worth knowing. For answers to your questions, call or write your SPS manager.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I've been feeling strange this week and finally figured it out. It's been eight full days since I've seen the entertainment industry award itself.

There's no business like show business for handing out trophies to themselves. I've seen may be 35 or 40 shows this year featuring tear-stained faces giving humble speeches that make monks look like braggarts.

There's the Golden Globes, People's Choice, Critic's Choice, Cannes Film Festival, American Movie Awards, the Oscars, Emmys, Tonys, Grammys, and enough country-Western awards to have Barbara Mandrell changing her dress every 15 minutes and giving an acceptance speech.

At first, I must confess I enjoyed the glitter of the event and razzle-dazzle of all those stars in one room. After awhile, it was like watching "The Wizard of Oz" for the 18th time. You start rooting for the tornado.

I realize I no longer love a winter unless they show up for the award. I used to anticipate someone falling out of her dress like the spectators of the Indy 500 waiting or someone to hit the north wall. I no longer care.

And I can no longer sustain my enthusiasm at 1 a.m. anymore for the man who won an award for laying the sound track on the black-and-white foreign documentary, "Midnight Escargot," and accepts the award in French.

I have begun to analyze why this industry has a curb on achievement and struggle. My plumber never got a "plunger" award for excellence in retrieving an iced tea spoon out of the disposal on Christmas eve.

My druggist was never rewarded with a statuette for interpreting illegible handwriting for 30 years. The school bus driver on our route has never been singled out for orchestrating 60 five-year-olds for 36 weeks...and allowing them to live.

What about the customs officer who is never thanked for shuffling through dirty underwear, and hairdressers who keep the suicide rate down in this country?

The entertainment industry has only one way to go: the ultimate awards show in which statutes are given to the best award show. Who wrote it? Who produced it? Who hosted it? Who came out on time? Who had the highest rate of winners in attendance? Who was bleeped? Who took the longest time to get to the podium? Who got booed for promoting a cause?

Man Kills Three Witnesses

NEW YORK (AP)—A man trying to force a woman into a van shouted "What did you see?" at three men picking up their cars in a parking lot, then chased them down one by one and shot them in the head at close range, killing them, police said.

With the woman slumped inside, the gunman drove the van down a winding ramp and left the lot, police said, quoting a witness who hid under a car. Police were searching for the van early today.

"It was a massacre," said Deputy Police Commissioner Alice McGillion, adding that the victims had come upon an "abduction or altercation."

The witness said the three men, all technicians at a nearby CBS television network studio, were heading to their cars at dusk Monday when they saw a man struggling with a woman in a parking lot, which is atop a pier that juts into the Hudson River, Chief of Detectives James T. Sullivan said Monday.

The three approached and the man asked what they had seen, but without waiting for an answer, he drew a pistol and shot the first victim in the back of the head as the man started to flee, the witness, also a CBS employee, said.

The gunman chased the other two around parked cars and across the lot and killed them by shooting each behind the right ear.

"It appears as though they were coming to the assistance of the woman who was being accosted," Sullivan said of the three victims — Leo A. Kuranuki of Great Neck, N.Y., and Edward M. Benford of Clifton, N.J., both managers of studio maintenance, and Robert W. Schulze of Bergen County, N.J., a technician.

One of the victims lay with his car keys clutched in his hand, the detective said.

Police said the woman, whom they could not identify, may have been injured. There was blood near the spot where the van had stood, Sullivan said, and the witness, who escaped unnoticed by the gunman, reported seeing her slumped inside the late-model van.

A scarf, sunglasses, a plastic headband and a pair of high-heeled shoes were found, left behind after the woman's struggle with the gunman, police said.

The victims had just left work at the CBS Broadcast Center a few blocks away and were approaching their own cars at about 6 p.m. on the roof of Pier 92, which stands in a waterfront area where cruise ships dock.

After the gunman shot the first victim, the gunman chased the two other CBS employees as they fled toward the river end of the pier, which is 75 feet wide and has spaces for 700 cars. It was not known why the victims fled toward the lot's river end, which has no exit.

The gunman caught up with the second victim and shot him, apparently also at point-blank range, about 30 feet from the first victim. The gunman caught the third man near a waist-high concrete wall at the end of the pier, about 100 feet from the first victim. The third victim also was believed to have been shot at close range.

Police also found three .22-caliber shell casings near the bodies, apparently from the handgun used to kill the men.

Boy Still In Coma

HOUSTON (AP) — Irving Mielsch says he was jittery about break-ins in his secluded neighborhood because burglars had hit his house a few years ago.

So when Mielsch heard suspicious noises late one night, he ran outside and fired one warning shot before a fleeing figure slumped to the ground.

His victim — 13-year-old Michael McGee — has been in a coma since that night, March 29.

"We just grab him and tell him he's going to wake up," says his mother, Christine McGee, who says she makes the 45-minute trip to Ben Taub Hospital three times a day.

She says Mielsch's daughter, 12-year-old Stephanie, had passed Michael a note across their seventh-grade classroom inviting him and friends to come visit her that night. Michael and Tracy Salazar, 12, were throwing pebbles at the girl's window in an attempt to wake her when the shooting occurred.

Tracy was not injured. Harris County Sheriff's Detective Howard Kimble said the case will be presented to the district attorney's office Wednesday.

Mielsch says he was shocked and stunned when he walked across his yard and found the boy's body. He called authorities. Michael was in surgery for 7½ hours.

Doctors removed two shotgun pellets, but say they were afraid to move another lodged in the boy's brain. They say his chances of living a normal life are slim if he survives.

Michael was a member of his school's football team last season, enjoyed fishing and tinkering with his small motorcycle.

Pres. Reagan Pushing Tuition Tax Credits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has decided to ask Congress to approve a package of tuition tax credits that could provide up to $500 to parents of children in private and parochial elementary and secondary schools, sources say.

The program would be phased in over three years, probably beginning in 1983, administration sources said Monday. It was not immediately clear how large the initial credit would be, but sources said it would climb to a maximum of $500 when the program is in full force.

The sources, who insisted on anonymity, said the program would be structured to focus its benefits on lower- and middle-income families. The size of a taxpayer's credit would depend on his income.

Reagan is to outline the proposal in an address Thursday at the National Catholic Education Association's annual convention in Chicago, the nation's largest Catholic-school district.

Relay Teams Second

Herd Third At Relays

The Hereford Whitefaces took second in both relay races and wound up third overall at the Amarillo Relays Boys Track Meet Saturday. The Herd accumulated 82 points in finishing behind team winner Palo Duro (117) and Tascosa (103).

The Whitefaces ran a second in the Dons in the sprint relay, and were runners-up to the Rebels in the 3200 meter relay. Palo Duro ran a 43.33 in winning the one-lapper, while Hereford was timed in 43.35. In the metric mile equivalent relay, Tascosa was the winner in a time of 3:21.1, while the Herd ran a 3:24.03.

Individually the Herd got silver medal performances from Wayne High in the 330 IH (39.61), and Fernando Carrasco in the 1600 (4:41.790). Placing third were High in the 110 HH (14.92), Ted Ramirez in the 400 (51.08), and Armando Rodriguez in the 1600

(4:42.84), while Rudy Hernandez was fifth in the 100 (11.43) and Carlos Garcia was fifth in the 800 (2:02.45).

Tascosa's John Patterson turned in the most impressive individual performance at the meet, winning both the 100 and 200 meter dashes, and anchoring the winning 1600 meter relay team for THS. Patterson set a new meet record in the 400 with a 47.5. The old mark of 48.2 had been set in 1963 by Mark Yarbrough, also of Tascosa.

Patterson also won the 200 in a time of 22.48, and was clocked in 47.2 for his anchor leg of the mile relay race.

River Road came off a strong showing in the field events Friday to coast to the small school division at the meet with 116 points. Dalhart was a distance second with 76 points.

The Whitefaces will take this week off before hosting the District 4-5A Track Meet April 23 at Whiteface Stadium.

Herd, Lubbock Split Twinbill

The Hereford Whitefaces used the long ball to wash away an early Lubbock High lead, and clipped the Westerners 9-7 in the first game of a District 4-5A twinbill at Whiteface Field Saturday. The visitors turned the tables in the nightcap, however, taking a 3-1 victory to gain a split.

The split leaves the Herd with a 1-3 loop mark, while the two-game set was the league opener for LHS, which now stands at 1-1.

Hereford found itself behind 7-3 in the fourth inning of the first game, but triples by Mickey Stengal and Matt

Collier fueled a rally which saw the contest tied up. After two scoreless frames, the Whitefaces took advantage of two Westerner errors to score twice in the bottom of the sixth, and hurler Mike Mason shut the visitors down for the win.

In the second game Collier had a homerun, but it was all the offense the Herd could muster in a 3-1 loss. Collier also took the loss on the mound as the Whitefaces fell to 10-8 for the season.

Hereford continues district play Saturday in Lubbock against the Monterey Plainsmen.

Ward Leads Rodeo Team

Hereford High's rodeo team placed in four events at the Stratford Tri-State High School Rodeo Saturday and maintained standings in the events.

Mike Butcher scored a 46 to place fifth in barebacks and Scott Wilcox came in sixth with a 44.

Shawn McConnell got third place in steer wrestling with a 16.52.

In the girls' division Rita Ward won second in pole bending with a time of 21.285 and a second in breakaway roping with a time of 7.327.

Butcher remains fourth in barebacks; Steve McConnell first in steer wrestling; and Wilcox first in bullriding in the Tri-State.

The next competition is in Dalhart, Friday through Sunday.

Dempsey Said Still Critical

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Dempsey, one of boxing's all-time great heavyweight champions, remained in critical condition at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, according to a hospital spokesman.

"There has been no change," the spokesman said, since Dempsey, 86, was hospitalized on Sunday.

Hospital spokesmen, apparently at the request of Dempsey's family, were reluctant Monday night to elaborate on the former champion's illness or discuss his condition beyond the terse, "critical... no change" comments.

Dempsey, known as the "Manassa Mauler," fought several memorable fights. He won the heavyweight title July 4, 1919 when he knocked down 6-foot-6 1/2 Jess Willard seven times in the first round and stopped him after three rounds.

In a defense against Luis Firpo of Argentina, "The Wild Bull of the Pampas," on Sept 14, 1923, he was knocked out of the ring in the first round, then knocked out Firpo in the second.

His most famous fight was the "Battle of the Long Count" Sept. 27, 1927 in a rematch with Gene Tunney, who had taken away his title. In the rematch, Dempsey failed to go to a neutral corner after scoring a knockdown in the seventh round in accordance with a relatively new rule. Referee Jack Barry would not start to count until Dempsey went to a neutral corner, and Tunney might have gotten a few extra seconds to get up. Tunney won a 10-round decision.

Dempsey also knocked out Georges Carpentier, "The Orchid Man" from France, in four rounds July 2, 1921, and outpointed Tom Gibson on July 4, 1923, in the fight that bankrupted Shelby, Mont.

Seven Faces New

'New' Rangers 'Feel Good'

By JOE STROOP AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — If the Texas Rangers had won just one more game in the first half of the strike-split 1981 season, they would have been in major league baseball's playoffs as first-half division champions.

Going into spring training this year, Ranger brass had just one personnel change to make — trading disgruntled second baseman Bum Wills.

So, when the Rangers took the field Monday for the 1982 home opener, seven of last year's nine starters were not in evidence.

Only third baseman Buddy Bell and catcher Jim Sundberg — perennial Gold Glovers — were still in place from the previous season's starting lineup.

So, Executive Vice President Eddie Robinson, why take a contending team and shake it from top to bottom? "I don't like wholesale changes, particularly when they come as late as most of these did. But I feel good about this team, I really do," said Robinson, the man behind the facelift.

New to the Rangers are left fielder Lee Mazzilli and second baseman Doug Flynn, from the Mets; right fielder Larry Parrish, from the Expos, and first baseman Lamar Johnson, from the White Sox.

Shortstop Mark Wagner beat out last year's starter, Mario Mendoza, and Monday's starting pitcher, Frank Tanana, was signed during the off-season as a free agent.

Two of the new starters are rookies — center fielder George Wright and designated hitter Mike Richard, and two other rookies made the final roster, backup catcher Bobby Johnson and infielder Wayne Tolleson.

"We didn't have to take these kids," said Manager Don Zimmer. "They're here because they earned the right to be here."

"I'm not an excited guy but, darn it, I'm excited," he added. "I don't know yet if this is a better team than last year's but I know I like it better. We're going to have some fun."

Mazzilli, long a fan favorite in New York, is a proven outfielder who "can help us now," Zimmer says. But Parrish, a third baseman for Montreal, was asked to move to right field since the Rangers needed help there and, with Bell, needed none at third.

"It's going to be awkward for a little while," said Parrish, a 6-3, 215-pound slugger who is battling cleanup for Texas this season. "It's different and I'm still adjusting to a new position, new pitchers a new league. It's a challenge. But I'm not having any problems and Zimmer is an easy guy to play for — he doesn't demand anything except that you go out and do your job the best you know how."

Zimmer is the man who has to put the pieces together, but Robinson is the one who wielded the jigsaw that

Jazz Hands 18th Straight to Clippers

By KEVIN McCULLEN Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Jazz Coach Frank Layden says he remembers the sting of losing 18 straight games.

That's why he can sympathize with San Diego Coach Paul Silas.

The Jazz beat San Diego 112-107 in Monday night's lone National Basketball Association game — one played without a scoreboard clock and interrupted by a brawl.

The loss was the Clippers' 18th straight, tying them with Utah for the longest losing streak in the league this season.

"I feel for Paul," Layden said. "I think his team did everything they could tonight."

Utah guard Darrell Griffith, who paced the Jazz with 28 points, agreed.

"I give them a lot of credit," Griffith said. "They didn't take a dive tonight. They came out after us and played hard."

"It's been a great experience having to deal with adversity," said Silas. "I think I've handled it well and the team has handled it well. When you lose, it's tough to stay up."

Tom Chambers, a rookie from Utah, scored 38 points to lead the Clippers before fouling out with less than two minutes to go.

"We're going to keep playing hard," Chambers said. "If we lose 20 games, we lose 20 games. But no one is going to say it's because we didn't play hard."

The game was played without a scoreboard clock. An electrical malfunction forced officials to use a hand clock to time the game.

Meanwhile, Utah's Adrian Dantley and San Diego's John Douglas were ejected after exchanging blows with 5:22 left in the third quarter. The scuffle erupted under the Clippers' basket after Chambers rammed in a dunk to tie the contest at 66.

Dantley, the NBA's No.3 scorer with a 30.6 average, finished the night with 17 points.

Dantley scored 13 points and Griffith 12 in the first quarter as Utah broke to a 39-28 lead. The Jazz were up 58-51 at halftime.

Chambers scored 14 points in the third quarter as San Diego narrowed Utah's lead.

The Clippers' Rock Lee — who was signed as a free agent Sunday — replaced Douglas after the fight. He missed two free throws that would have given San Diego a 68-66 lead, and Utah's Ricky Green scored to spark another Jazz surge that carried them to a 86-76 lead at the end of the period.

Chambers and James Brogan, who scored 24 points, carried San Diego in the fourth quarter. Chambers' basket and free throw with 2:20 to play trimmed the Jazz advantage to 100-95.

But Green, who scored 21 points, rookie Howard Wood and Carl Nicks scored three straight baskets to snuff the Clippers' rally.

Yankees Nearly Blow Lead Over Rangers

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

As they have so many times in recent years, the New York Yankees turned to their bullpen to protect a lead and got a couple of much-needed strikeouts.

But — surprise! — it wasn't Rich Gossage. The Goose was unavailable Monday night, having worked an unaccustomed 31-3 innings Sunday in losing a 12-inning 7-6 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

So the Yankees turned to Shane Rawley, the other half of their 1-2 relief punch since the weekend deal that sent Ron Davis to Minnesota, and Rawley did a job that would have made Gossage proud.

Starter Dave Righetti and relievers Rudy May and John Pacella were seemingly trying to squander a 10-1 lead. The Texas Rangers scored four times in the eighth inning and twice in the ninth and had two long-ball threats waiting in the wings in pinch-hitters Leon Roberts and Bobby Johnson, both representing the potential tying run.

Rawley punched them both out to preserve the Yankees' first victory of the season, a 10-7 triumph that spoiled the Rangers' home opener.

In the only other American League games, the unbeaten

Chicago White Sox made it three in a row by edging the Boston Red Sox 3-2 and the Toronto Blue Jays whipped the Detroit Tigers 9-5.

The Yanks built their big lead behind a 14-hit attack that included Willie Randolph's three-run homer and Dave Winfield's solo shot. Righetti allowed six hits and one unearned run in seven innings before tiring in the eighth.

"In Seattle, it was good to win, but here, you're expected to win," said Rawley, who was acquired from the Mariners less than two weeks ago. "A win here goes to a better cause than it did over there."

He said he struck out Roberts and Johnson on fast balls.

"I mixed in a couple of sliders, but it was mostly fast balls," he said. "I was hoping I wouldn't have to go in, that one of them (the other relievers) would get them out, but I told them I would be ready if they needed me."

The Yankees chased Frank Tanana, making his Ranger debut after signing as a free agent, in 32-3 innings. They scored four runs in the second inning on singles by Lou Piniella, Graig Nettles and Rick Cerone, plus Randolph's homer.

Jerry Mumphrey delivered a two-run single in the fourth and Winfield clubbed his second home run of the season in the fifth off Jon Matlack.

A single by Piniella and a double by Watson gave the Yankees a run in the seventh and they got two more in the eighth on a single by Mumphrey, a two-base muff by right fielder Larry Parrish and Piniella's RBI double.

White Sox 3, Red Sox 2

The White Sox spoiled Boston's home opener, breaking a scoreless duel in the sixth when Kemp doubled, Tom Paciorek singled him home and scored on a double by Carlton Fisk. Carl Yastrzemski hit his 428th career homer for Boston, but the White Sox scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh on an infield hit by Bill Almon, a forceout by Ron LeFlore, who stole second and came home on Tony Bernazard's double.

"I was more than just a little worried in the ninth," said Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa, who had to go to his bullpen twice in the inning to protect the lead.

"It's tough to sweat in this weather (50 degrees), but I sure did. Winning the first three games does build confidence, but we really haven't accomplished that much. The games we won could have gone either way."

Blue Jays 9, Tigers 5

Damaso Garcia drove in three runs, Luis Leal scattered seven hits in 7-3 innings and the Blue Jays erupted for five runs in the fourth. Garcia singled a run home in the second to give Toronto a 1-0 lead. The Tigers went ahead 2-1 in the third, but the Blue Jays chased Milt Wilcox in the fourth.

Garcia singled home the tying and lead runs, pinch-hitter Garth Iorg doubled another run across and Barry Bonnell's two-run pinch double capped the uprising. The Blue Jays increased the margin to 8-2 in the sixth on a walk, Iorg's triple and a single by Alfredo Griffin. Willie Upshaw homered in the seventh.

THIS WEEK IN BASEBALL

Return of the homer duo

The arrival of George Foster at Shea Stadium has the New York Mets' brass drooling over the prospect of displaying the most fearsome one-two punch in the major leagues. With right-handed slugger Foster and Dave Kingman swinging back-to-back, Mets' manager George Bamberger is envisioning a combined home run total anywhere between 80 and 100.

The 100 figure is not as impossible as it sounds. The pair did combine for an even 100 home runs, but their contributions did not come in the same season for the same team. Foster slammed 52 four-baggers for the Cincinnati Reds in 1977, while Kingman reached 48 for the Mets two years later.

Of course, both are somewhat older now. Each is 33, and their best years are probably behind them. But both still pack a lethal wallop. Barring injury, they figure to hit as many or more homers than any other duo in the majors. Each hit 22 homers in last year's abortive season.

What was the most potent two-man force ever in the big leagues?

It may surprise a lot of people to learn that the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig tandem was not the greatest one-two home run punch, either for a single season or a career.

The honor for the greatest one-two home run punch for a single season belongs to a later pair of Yankees, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle. Roger and Mickey combined for 115 home runs in 1961, the year Maris broke Ruth's single season home run record with 61. Mantle had 54.

The most home runs Ruth and Gehrig hit in the same season totaled 107 in 1927 when the Babe hammered 60 to Lou's 47. (It must be pointed out that the M and M Boys hit theirs in a 162-game season, while Ruth and Gehrig achieved their combined total in a 154-game season.)

Tied for third place at 93 are the Chicago Cubs' Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett, and the Philadelphia Athletics' Jimmy Fox and Al Simmons. Wilson set a National League record of 56 home runs in 1930, and Hartnett added 37. Foxx hammered 58 homers in 1932, and Simmons chipped in with 35.

Two duos are tied for fifth at 91. They are the 1965 San Francisco Giants' pair of Willie Mays (52) and Willie McCovey (39), and the 1938 Detroit Tigers' twosome of Hank Greenberg (58) and Rudy York (33).

The duo with the most lifetime home runs as teammates: Milwaukee's Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews. In the 13 years they played together, Aaron hit 442 home runs and Mathews 415 for a total of 857.

Ruth (424) and Gehrig (349) ranked no better than third as clouting teammates behind runners-up Mays and McCovey. In their 12 years together with the Yankees, the Bronx Bombers hit a combined 773 home runs. Mays (430) and McCovey (370) teamed up for 800 homers in 13 seasons together.

The only other teammate duos with more than 700 combined homers are the Dodgers' Duke Snider (384) and Gil Hodges (361) for a total of 745, and the Yankees' Mantle (410) and Yogi Berra (283) for 702.

The best among the most recent active duos are Foster and Johnny Bench, who combined for 528 home runs with the Cincinnati Reds from 1971 through 1981. During that 11-year span, Bench hit 284 home runs and Foster 244. The Philadelphia Phillies' Mike Schmidt (283) and Greg Luzinski (220) combined for 503 home runs from 1972 through 1980.

PUNCHY QUOTE
"The greatest thrill in the world is to end the game with a home run and watch everybody else walk off the field while you're running the bases on air." — Al Rosen, former Cleveland Indians star.

CLOUT CHAMPS: Going into this season, Willie Stargell was the career home-run leader among baseball's active players. He began 1982 with a total of 472 homers — 15th on the all-time list.

Carl Yastrzemski (426) and Reggie Jackson (425) — Stargell's nearest active competition — started the season neck-and-neck in the totals for lifetime homers.

Sutter's Fastball Helps Bucs Over Cards, 5-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Bruce Sutter has been tough enough for National League batters with his "split-fingered fastball." Now he's added something to his repertoire.

"It just makes the other pitch that much better," says the St. Louis Cardinals' reliever in reference to his current reliance on the plain, old-fashioned fastball.

Going to his fastball more often than usual Monday, the bearded right-hander pitched two strong innings in relief to nail down the Cardinals' 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I threw more fastballs than I did any time in my career," said Sutter, whose deliveries usually consist exclusively of split-fingered fastballs, a twisty fork ball which drops. "It seemed like a lot of guys were taking pitches."

Actually, Sutter said, an alteration in his pitching style had been in the process long before preparation for the 1982 campaign.

"I've been around this league for six years," he said. "Everybody knows where the ball starts with the split-fingered fastball. It (the regular fastball) makes me much tougher."

Sutter said he was satisfied with his two-inning stint which was marred only by Tony Pena's triple in the eighth. The hit by the Pittsburgh catcher came with one out. Sutter responded by mowing down mountainous Dave Parker on a swinging third strike and afterward retired the Pirates' last four batters.

George Hendrick's two solo homers, two RBI singles by Keith Hernandez and a two-base error by Pittsburgh shortstop Dale Berra gave the Cardinals the lead before Sutter arrived.

"He's money in our bank," Hernandez said of Sutter following the relief star's first save of the season. "I'm never worried about Bruce Sutter. He knows what he's doing."

In other National League action, the Atlanta Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-1; the Houston Astros nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 in 11 innings and the Chicago Cubs edged the New York Mets 5-4.

Braves 6, Reds 1

Bob Horner and Chris Chambliss smashed solo homers and Bob Walk and Rick Camp combined on a four-hitter to lead undefeated Atlanta over Cincinnati for the Braves' sixth straight victory.

The Braves' fast start topped the five opening wins by the world champion Milwaukee Braves of 1957, previously the best start of a Braves' team since records were kept in 1930. They had won no more than four opening games since moving to Atlanta in 1966.

Walk, 2-0, pitched shutout ball until the eighth inning, when the Reds scored their run on an RBI triple by Dave Concepcion. Camp came on at this point and nailed down the game for Atlanta. Walk helped his cause with an RBI single in the seventh.

"We've been able to cut down on our walks and make people hit the ball," Walk said. "And we're doing well."

Astros 2, Dodgers 1

Phil Garner's 11th-inning single scored Jose Cruz from third base with the winning run as Houston beat Los Angeles.

Cruz opened the 11th with a popup to short center field off losing pitcher Dave Stewart, 0-1. The ball fell in for a double between shortstop Mark Belanger and center fielder Ken Landreaux. Intentional walks to Denny Walling and Alan Ashby sandwiched around Dickie Thon's sacrifice bunt loaded the bases with one out. Stewart struck out Kiko Garcia before Garner rapped his third hit of the game.

Mike LaCoss, 1-0, earned his first victory since joining the Astros. LaCoss allowed one hit and struck out one in the 11th.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the fifth on Steve Sax's RBI single. The Astros tied the score in the eighth on a throwing error by Sax at second base that allowed a run to score.

Torre Enjoying Return

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

ATLANTA (AP) — Among major league baseball managers, it's a short hop from "Who's Who" to "Who's He?" — and vice versa — and Joe Torre is enjoying the fruits of the return trip.

After five frustrating years with the anemic New York Mets, he now has the Atlanta Braves sizzling.

Overnight, the failure becomes a genius. It's the irony of the profession.

"We owe it all to the skipper — he's given us a winning attitude," says Brett Butler, the Braves' sensational rookie. "He's got us all playing our guts out."

"Torre has really turned this team around," adds the hard-hitting Dale Murphy, who is hitting balls out of the park.

Off to their fastest start in at least 52 years, the Braves have been playing the best ball in either league, sweeping through their first six games.

Baseball fever is boiling again in this land of "Gone With the Wind," and it's interesting that one of its stars is a rookie with a name similar to the rakish gun-runner Rhett Butler, played by Clark Gable in the movie of the Margaret Mitchell Civil War novel.

Just coincidence. Brett's mom, we're told, never read the book or saw the movie.

Many of the thousands of fans who descended on Augusta, Ga., for the Masters golf tournament last weekend could hardly wait to get back to the hotel to catch the latest chapter in the exciting serial: "Joe Torre's Comeback."

A Braves star of the 1960s, Torre is finding it an exhilarating experience.

"It all started in spring training," Torre insists. "From the first day, our purpose was to put emphasis on attitude. We were going to get the work done but we were intent on playing every game to win.

"We had a good spring record — 18-7. What we did was carry this attitude and the momentum right into the regular season.

"Frankly, I am pleased with how it's all worked out."

'King of Ireland'

In 1541 England's Henry VIII took the title of "King of Ireland." He proclaimed that area and all the rest of his realm officially Protestant.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

DRINKING AND DRIVING

AUSTIN -- Last Tuesday in Austin we announced a new plan to get drunk drivers off the road. Many people have tried to accomplish the same thing in the past, but we think this plan is different. Drunk driver prevention is a complicated problem. For one thing, a drunk driver's chances of being detected are small. For another thing, drunk driving is a crime, which means the defendant is entitled to all the protections our society offers people accused of crimes.

alties that are strict, but not so excessive that defendants won't plead guilty. Our courts are crowded enough already. If we make the penalties any stricter, our courts and jails will overflow with first offenders demanding jury trials. Our plan for a new DWI bill is just one of a package of bills we want to introduce next session. Space prevents us from telling you everything about the bills in this column. One bill will require those who have a suspended driver's license to display a sticker on their cars so police will know who they are. Another will outlaw open alcohol containers in cars.

For now, we are concentrating on what happens to the drunk driver after he is arrested. In other words, we are not making a big effort to make police arrest more drunk drivers, although we think this will happen also.

Drunk drivers are a problem, but they are a problem we can do something about if we all work together. We need your support. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711, and tell us how you feel about the problem of drinking and driving.

We want to concentrate on the repeat offender. That means the first offender will have to be convicted. That is not happening now. Too many times, the first offender is given deferred adjudication. Then he is arrested again, because deferred adjudication wiped the record clean.

Under what we want to do, this will not happen. We want to get rid of deferred adjudication in drunk driving cases. Police and prosecutors are frustrated because it is so hard to get the evidence needed to convict a drunk driver. A drunk driver can refuse to take a breath test or a blood test. Most of the time he won't lose his license if he refuses these tests. To top it off, the prosecutor can't even tell the jury why such a test wasn't performed. It's inadmissible evidence.

Every criminal defendant in Texas is entitled to a jury trial, if he wants one. We don't plan to change that, but we do plan to help prosecutors have cases so airtight that nobody who is guilty will want a trial. We also plan pen-chronic basis. Vitamin A is extremely important to your health, but it will not cure arthritis. Neither will vitamin D. That is a hoax. Vitamin D is useful if an increase in calcium absorption is desired as to help prevent or treat osteoporosis (which is dissolving bones, not arthritis).

cotton sheets were unavailable and besides the laundry department found the synthetics facilitated their work.

There is even good information to show that an adequate intake of vitamin A is important in preventing some forms of cancer. And there are big changes in how vitamin A intake is calculated. Labels will be switching to retinols very soon.

I checked an outlet store recently and found not one sock with the word cotton on the label. This was all new stock. Just thought you might like to know.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I noticed that you recommend cotton socks for foot problems. I don't disagree but I'm sure that you and other health professionals are unaware of the subtle but progressive phase-out of cotton in the manufacture of clothing and bed linens.

DEAR READER -- No, I don't really like to know. It is a polyester world. But if you search there are still some 100 percent cotton socks. I checked Sears catalog and they have 100 percent cotton thermal socks. I recommend cotton and wool because they absorb moisture. Many synthetic fibers trap moisture that causes body odors. That includes synthetic underwear that doesn't breathe.

Several years ago I protested at the nursing home where I work that the patient acceptance of the new synthetic sheets and "Johnnies" was poor. Patients complained they were cold, clammy and nonabsorbent. Some were allergic. By then muslin and alties that are strict, but not so excessive that defendants won't plead guilty. Our courts are crowded enough already. If we make the penalties any stricter, our courts and jails will overflow with first offenders demanding jury trials. Our plan for a new DWI bill is just one of a package of bills we want to introduce next session. Space prevents us from telling you everything about the bills in this column. One bill will require those who have a suspended driver's license to display a sticker on their cars so police will know who they are. Another will outlaw open alcohol containers in cars.

AUSTIN -- Last Tuesday in Austin we announced a new plan to get drunk drivers off the road. Many people have tried to accomplish the same thing in the past, but we think this plan is different. Drunk driver prevention is a complicated problem. For one thing, a drunk driver's chances of being detected are small. For another thing, drunk driving is a crime, which means the defendant is entitled to all the protections our society offers people accused of crimes.

For now, we are concentrating on what happens to the drunk driver after he is arrested. In other words, we are not making a big effort to make police arrest more drunk drivers, although we think this will happen also.

Drunk drivers are a problem, but they are a problem we can do something about if we all work together. We need your support. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711, and tell us how you feel about the problem of drinking and driving.

We want to concentrate on the repeat offender. That means the first offender will have to be convicted. That is not happening now. Too many times, the first offender is given deferred adjudication. Then he is arrested again, because deferred adjudication wiped the record clean.

Under what we want to do, this will not happen. We want to get rid of deferred adjudication in drunk driving cases. Police and prosecutors are frustrated because it is so hard to get the evidence needed to convict a drunk driver. A drunk driver can refuse to take a breath test or a blood test. Most of the time he won't lose his license if he refuses these tests. To top it off, the prosecutor can't even tell the jury why such a test wasn't performed. It's inadmissible evidence.

BIA To Shut Eight Indian Boarding Schools

By PHYLLIS MENSING
Associated Press Writer

WAHPETON, N.D. (AP) — It's the scaling down of a tradition that began more than 90 years ago. In an effort to save money, the Bureau of Indian Affairs has decided to close eight of 11 remaining boarding schools that have helped needy Indian students get an education.

"Off-reservation boarding schools are costing us too much money," says Interior Department spokesman Carl Shaw, adding, "We just don't think you should take children 5, 6 and 7 years old out of their home to a boarding school."

Interior Secretary James Watt has announced that Wahpeton Indian School and Concho Boarding School in El Reno, Okla., the only two off-reservation elementary schools, will be the first to close. They will shut down June 15.

Shaw said the BIA estimates a savings of $892,000 the first year Wahpeton, with its 253 students, is closed and $925,000 when Concho, student population 144, shuts down.

Also slated to close this year is the Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute at Albuquerque, N.M., a vocational-technical facility. Boarding schools for high school students in Utah, Alaska, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Arizona, will close by 1985, under the BIA plan. The BIA says three others, in Oregon, Oklahoma and California, will remain open because those teenagers have nowhere else to go.

The eight schools have a total of 3,900 students and 867 employees. The BIA says the cost per student, all paid by the federal government, ranges from $7,100 a year at Phoenix and Flandreau, S.D., to $19,100 a year in Alaska.

To get into the schools, the students have to be at least one-fourth Indian. They need parental consent and approval of the superintendent for education of their tribe before they can be accepted. Supporters of the schools, which were first started in 1890, say training schools and reformatories are even more costly, and they fear some of the youngsters could end up there.

"You can't argue with the theory that all children should be kept at home," says Ted Weisenburger, who serves as a tribal judge at Fort Totten, N.D. "But what do you do when a mother comes into your courtroom with five kids, singles out one and says 'I don't want that child?'"

Weisenburger says foster homes often don't work out because the children are valued as supplemental income rather than those who need love and care.

Angelita Primeaux, BIA superintendent for education on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation in North Dakota, remembers her first trip to Wahpeton.

"I was sent there in 1959 when I was nine years old," she says. "As I got older, I understood it was for social reasons, because my parents couldn't take care of us. I was the oldest of 10 children."

"But at the time, we didn't know why we were going. My brother and I cried all the way from Fort Berthold to Wahpeton on the bus."

"I remember it was very strict. ... It was very painful for me, and I couldn't imagine sending my own kids away like that."

She was back to the boarding school last May, and found it "totally different." The Wahpeton school today includes 12 one-story buildings, modern dorms and a less regimented atmosphere. It offers a full curriculum, including home economics and shop, for students in grades three through eight.

Mrs. Primeaux still has mixed feelings about boarding school.

"On one hand," she says, "boarding school really got me through my education and did me some good."

"On the other hand, I don't think the answer for our social problems is to send kids away to boarding school."

"Why are we as a tribe not doing anything about it? Maybe we should have a stronger social services program. If we really believe in self determination and community control, then why not give it to us? If we fail, we have no one to blame but ourselves."

Although it already has announced the closures, the Interior Department is holding public hearings this month to give tribal residents a chance to comment. A hearing on the schools at Wahpeton and Flandreau is set for April 15 in Aberdeen, S.D.

Ned Anderson, chairman of the Intertribal Council of Arizona and leader of the San Carlos Apache tribe, told an April 1 hearing that the Phoenix school was built for the tribes, not the BIA.

"If the tribes want to change the status of the school, that is the tribes' decision and theirs alone," he said.

"Secondary kids, they can handle material in public schools," said Concho

Superintendent Arthur Comteveh. "But you've got little kids here — these are the kind you should work with."

School officials and the tribes also accuse the federal government of betraying a trust agreement with Indians, and of trying to cut the federal budget at the expense of the needy.

Army To Cull Poor Performers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, faced with an unexpected increase in re-enlistments, says it has toughened its standards so commanders will now be able to keep only the best soldiers.

"Successes in Army recruiting and retention, to include a significant increase in the number of soldiers who have re-enlisted, make such a quality move possible," the Army told members of Congress in a recent memorandum.

The new rules bar re-enlistment to any soldier who fails to gain promotion at least to corporal or its equivalent, specialist fourth class, during his or her first three- or four-year hitch.

Commanders also have been given broader authority to weed out those soldiers with less than six years of service who are deemed to be "marginal performers or unsuitable," according to the Army.

Although much public attention has been focused on the Army's performance in recruiting new volunteers, officials long have been concerned about problems in retaining quality soldiers beyond their first enlistments.

But the latest available figures suggest to Army officials that their re-enlistment problems are fading, at least for the time being.

Officials credit major pay boosts and bonuses for their claimed successes in re-enlistment, recruiting and upgrading the quality of Army troops.

Grudgingly, they also acknowledge that widespread unemployment in the civilian economy is helping the Army.

According to preliminary figures, a total of 45,660 men and women re-enlisted during the first six months of fiscal year 1982, which began last October.

This was 2,724 more than had been anticipated when goals were set last year.

Significantly, re-enlistments were at a higher level than expected in the combat arms — infantry, armor, and artillery — where the Army has experienced chronic difficulties since the end of the draft nearly a decade ago.

Preliminary figures for the six months ending March 31 showed 12,894 re-enlistments in the combat branches, compared with an objective of 11,654.

Major James D. Weiskopf, a Pentagon spokesman, said the Army had a re-enlistment rate of about 15 percent during the late 1970s.

Last year, 66.7 percent of the eligible personnel re-enlisted, Weiskopf told the Worcester (Mass.) Evening Gazette in a story published Monday.

Largely because of the better-than-expected performance in re-enlistments, the Army has lowered its goal for signing up new recruits this year by about 7,000 to a total of 125,400.

Psychology Prof Shot In Office

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychology professor who was "a sort of guru" to some of his students and often spoke of threats on his life to explain fear during class lectures was shot to death in his office as several stunned students looked on.

The gunman, believed by police to be an ex-student, opened the door to the office, fired four or five shots, glanced at the students and fled.

Dudley Yasuda was hit in the chest and abdomen by gunfire about 11:30 a.m. Monday during a meeting with eight students in his office at the San Francisco City College, said homicide inspector Marvin Dean. He died at San Francisco General Hospital about an hour later.

Dean said police had narrowed their search to three suspects.

"We believe it's an ex-student," Dean said. "But we don't have any names yet."
