One ailing hostage flies to freedom

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — American hostage Jimmy Dell Palmer flew to freedom today, 13 days after he was captured by hijackers of a TWA jet. Shiite militia leader Nabih Berri freed Palmer for health reasons and proposed that the other 39 hostages be placed in a Western embassy until Israel releases 735 Arab prisoners.

Berri said the remaining American hostages might also be sent to Syria if no Western nation would hold them in an embassy and promise not to let them out of Lebanon until the hijackers' demands for freedom of the prisoners in Israel are met.

Palmer, 48, of Little Rock, Ark., flew from Beirut aboard a Middle East Airline Boeing 707 to Larnaca, Cyprus. Wearing a red polo shirt, Palmer smiled as he walked down the steps of the airplane without aid. "I feel fine," he told waiting reporters. "I'm just happy to be out of Beirut and with the American people... I'd like to say, 'Hi,' to my wife and family. I'm so happy to be home."

The scheduled flight was delayed 45 minutes until Palmer arrived in an airport bus, with six Shiite Amal militiamen.

Palmer told The Associated Press as he waited to board the plane: "I can verify that we were very well treated. I don't know of anyone (among the hostages) who has been mistreated."

Before releasing Palmer, Berri brought him to a news conference, where he said he also was studying the medical condition of another hostage, Simon Grossmayer, 57, of Algonquin, Ill., who has only one lung. "If he is not in good condition I will release him today or tomorrow," he said.

The French government today indicated it might be willing to accept custody of the Beirut hostages under the plan outlined by Berri. The Foreign Ministry said in a brief statement: "France is always available when it is a question of protecting human lives and avoiding suffering."

A spokesman, traditionally anonymous, said Foreign Minister Roland Dumas had delayed leaving for Bonn this morning to take personal charge of the situation.

Airport security tightened

DALLAS (AP) — Recent terrorist actions against commercial airliners are the reason security measures have been tightened at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and Houston Intercontinental, officials said.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., on Monday asked the Federal Aviation Administration to examine security at all U.S. airports, especially those such as the Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston facilities, which have expanded international service and are Texas' two largest airports.

At Dallas-Fort Worth, armed guards have been assigned to service entries that previously were covered by an intercom system, American Airlines officials said. Also, freight from Europe is being delayed for one or two days, officials said.

In Houston, Intercontinental Airport manager James Ellingsworth said security agents are using metal detectors and X-ray machines to check items twice as often as the devices are usually used.

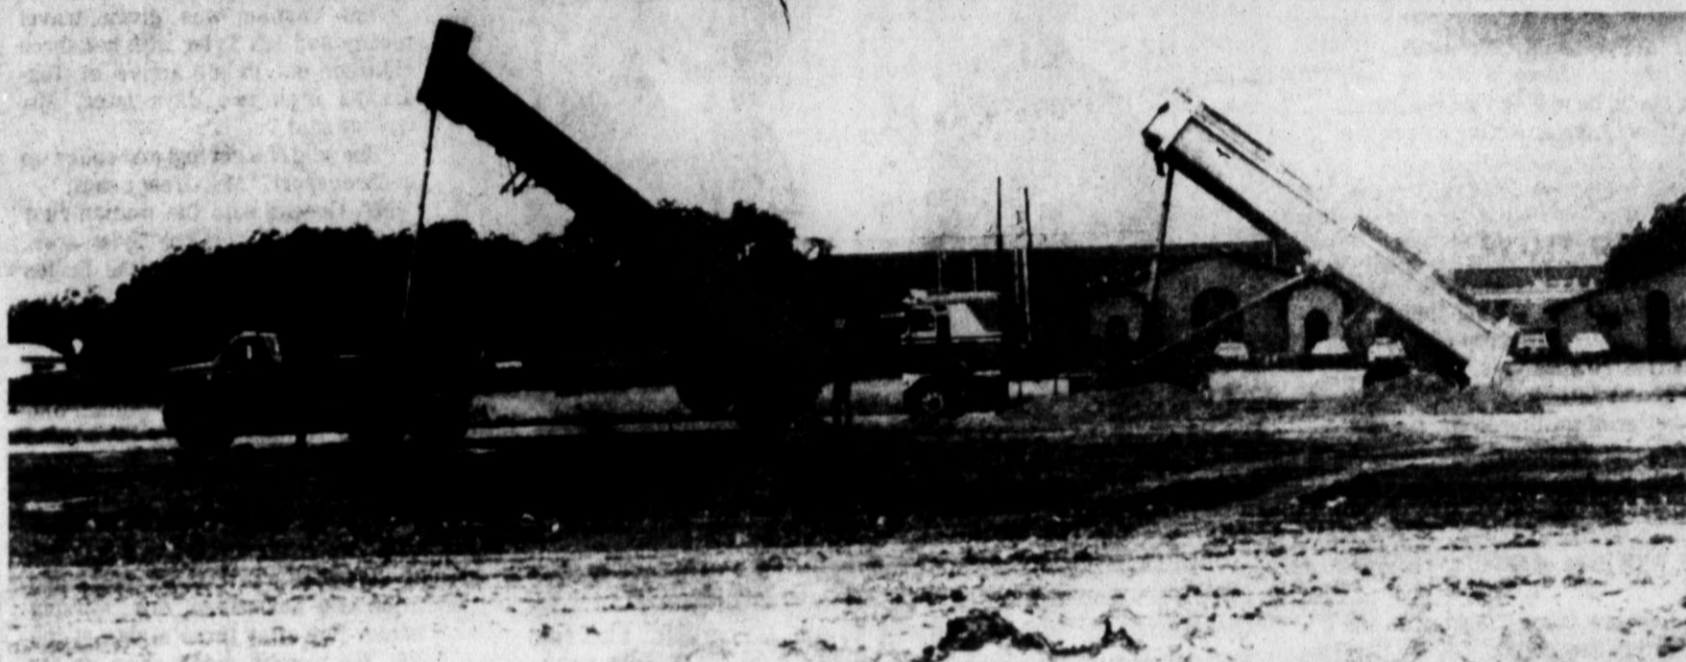

But airport officials said it is too soon to begin extreme safety measures such as checking every piece of luggage by hand or by X-ray, which is done at Israel's Ben Gurion International Airport.

Checking every bag is expensive and would bring flight service "to a screeching halt," said Joe Dealey, spokesman for the Dallas-Fort Worth airport.

An unnamed FAA spokesman in Washington told the Dallas Times-Herald that the agency may require extreme baggage checks if it determines that passenger safety is at risk.

"There hasn't been any serious discussions about it at this point, but who knows?" the spokesman asked. "If we felt like it was necessary, we

Site Smoothing

Work on the construction site for a new grocery store continues on U.S. 385 south of Fifteenth Street. A spokesman from sub-contractors Page and Wirtz of Amarillo said crews are still clearing and leveling the site while awaiting finalized plans for the Save-N-Gain building. Initial plans for the store, announced in April, were for a 64,000 square foot facility which would employ approximately 125 workers.

Two brothers plead guilty to assault

An intended 222nd District Court jury trial was called off Tuesday, after two brothers indicted for aggravated assault decided at the last minute to plead guilty to the charges.

Domingo Garcia, 30, and Ruben Garcia, 21, were sentenced in connection with an alleged shooting incident last July 4 in Hereford.

Sabbath protection overruled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that states generally may not prevent businesses from penalizing employees for refusing to work on their religious sabbaths.

By an 8 to 1 vote, the court declared unconstitutional a Connecticut law that protects workers from retaliation for taking off their religious day of rest.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, in his opinion for the court, said the Connecticut law violates constitutionally required separation of church and state because it "pro-

The pair had originally been charged with attempted murder as well, but the District Attorney's office had decided to go to trial on the aggravated assault counts.

Domingo, who also pleaded guilty to a driving while intoxicated charge and another aggravated assault resulting from a parking lot scuffle a couple of weeks ago, was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections on each of the three charges.

Ruben, being tried for his first felony offense, was given a four-year probation sentence and fined $1,000.

The men are the brothers of the late Henry Garcia, who was shot to death May 9 while seated in his pickup truck. Henry was believed to have been out looking for Domingo, who had been beaten up earlier that night, when the shooting occurred.

Benjamin Garcia, III, 21, was indicted May 16 for Henry Garcia's murder. His brother Anthony Garcia, 19, whom eye witnesses said was driving the car from which Benjamin is alleged to have fired the fatal shot, was no-billed last Thursday by a Deaf Smith County grand jury. Anthony was arrested along with his brother the day after the shooting outside the office of an Amarillo attorney. The two were related to Henry Garcia by marriage.

The charges to which Ruben and Domingo pleaded guilty Tuesday were filed after the pair was accused of firing shots at a car driven by Ben Garcia Jr., father of the murder suspect. Ruben is married to one of the older Garcia's daughters, and Garcia, his wife and another daughter had gone to a house in Hereford to check on their daughter's welfare.

A Hereford police officer, who had followed the Garcia couple to the house because trouble was anticipated, testified he heard two gunshots fired as the Garcia vehicle drove by the house. Evidence of a gun being fired was later found on the car.

Most blast victims were teens

HALLETT, Okla. (AP) — Most of the 21 people killed in an explosion at a fireworks plant were teen-agers apparently hired to meet demand for the Fourth of July, but severe burns make identification difficult, authorities say.

Five other people, including the owner of the Aerlex Fireworks plant, were injured in a series of massive blasts Tuesday which were felt 13 miles away and hurled bodies and debris hundreds of yards.

Reports that victims may have been under 18, forbidden by law to work at plants like the one making aerial fireworks used in civic displays, sent state Labor Department officials to the scene along with other investigators.

The cause of the blast had not been determined, but Bob White of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said authorities were checking reports of carelessness outside the building as a pickup truck was loaded.

The plant had passed an inspection two months ago, he said.

Dr. Joseph Pierce, a Creek County medical examiner, said he believed most of the victims were teen-agers, "but it's awfully hard to tell. They

Horse shooting investigated

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office is investigating the shooting of a horse earlier this week on North Progressive Road.

Ben Garcia, Jr., who valued the horse at $500, said the animal died the next day after being shot. Sheriff's deputies may have little evidence since the carcass was removed before they were summoned.

The department also received a complaint from a man who said he wrote a check for $750 for an antique car and the car was never produced.

Charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle are pending, after a woman apparently left town in her ex-boyfriend's car.

There were two thefts reported—a video-cassette recorder and tapes are missing from the home of Luis Fernandez, and the Jerry Andrus Roofing Company of Amarillo reported the theft of 12 bundles of shingles.

Hereford police made one arrest for theft Tuesday, after a woman was accused of stealing underwear and two cassette tapes from a local discount store.

A report of indecency with a child was investigated and turned over to Children's Protective Services.

Police also talked to a woman who said her wallet, containing $120 in cash, was taken as she loaded groceries in her van outside a local grocery store. Police have no suspects.

There was also one domestic disturbance, two reports of harrasing telephone calls and an apparent attempted break-in in the 400 Block of Paloma Lane.

Not bitter about own persecution

South African studying U.S. labor laws

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

A South African attorney who suffered eleven years of imprisonment and has since been banished to the small segregated "state" of Transkei says he cannot afford the luxury of being bitter about the injustice he has suffered at the hands of his country's white rulers.

Instead, 46-year-old Fikile Bam looks for ways that legal protection can be afforded to the impoverished blacks who earn their living as migrant farm workers.

Bam was in Hereford Tuesday on part of a four-city tour to study rural legal aid as it is administered in the United States. He told reporters he believes a program similar to Texas Rural Legal Aid could be adapted to fit the needs of his own country.

Bam's travel expenses are being picked up by the Carnegie Corporation, which has taken an interest in South Africa by conducting a Carnegie Inquiry into poverty in that country. He is a member of the Strategies Working Group of the Carnegie Inquiry and has chaired the Inquiry's Law and Poverty Working Group.

A year as a fellow at Yale University's Southern African Research Program has allowed Bam to study our country's legal aid system, which he believes is the best in the world.

Currently, the only free legal aid available to South Africa's poor is in the major cities. Migrants, he said, have no legal recourse whatsoever for problems such as wage disputes, inadequate housing and unfair treatment over pension plans and injury compensation.

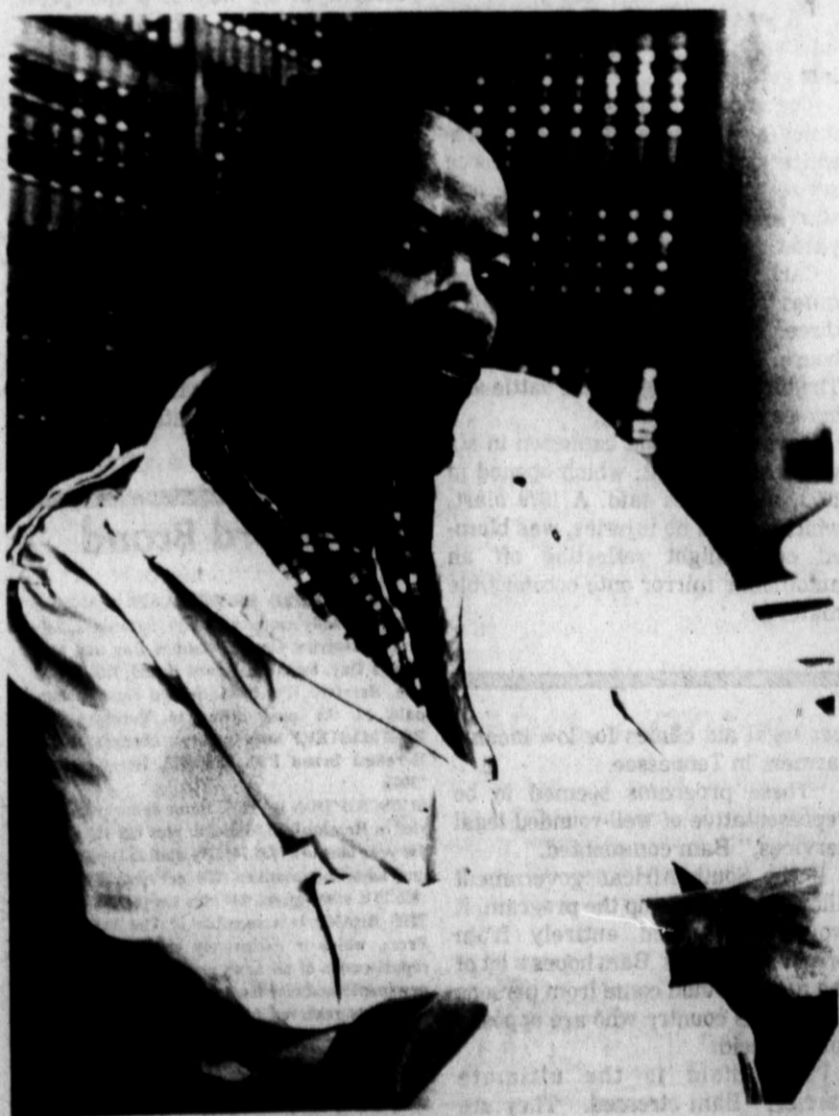

Transkei is one of the 10 or so areas that were once part of South Africa but are now independent states where blacks can rule themselves. Since being denationalized and deported to Transkei, Bam has not been allowed to go to other parts of his country.

Bam had just finished his law studies when he was arrested for distributing political literature. Bam admits the information had to do with guerilla warfare. He said he felt at the time that blacks should be aware of what was taking place in other countries, and he wanted his peers to understand that such tactics had been effective in fighting oppression.

Now, he says, he obeys the law and

Southwest-Muse merger completed

DALLAS (AP) — Lamar Muse says he isn't worried about the changes Southwest Airlines might make in the carrier that bears his name.

"I'm ecstatic," Muse said Tuesday after Southwest announced it had completed its $65 million purchase of rival Muse Air Corp. "I'd say that one of the things they bought was the Muse Air image and I would think that they would protect it."

The merger became effective immediately Tuesday after documents were filed with the secretary of state in Austin, officials with both carriers said.

Both airlines said they hope the sale, completed one day after the U.S. Transportation Department approved the deal, will strengthen both companies financially.

And Muse, whose airline reported a $17 million loss last year, says the sale takes a load off his back.

"I feel 50 pounds lighter today than I did yesterday," he said.

Ironically, Muse was Southwest's first president, a post he held from 1971 to 1978. With the merger in place, he will be vice chairman of the Muse board of directors, but will not take an active role in the company, officials said.

First lady says buckle up now

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas motorists should start using their seat belts now rather than waiting for the state's mandatory belt law to take effect on Sept. 1, First Lady Linda Gale White says.

"The fact is, they need to be wearing them right now, not necessarily Sept. 1. The sooner the better of getting in the habit of putting them on," Mrs. White said.

On June 17, Gov. Mark White signed into law legislation that will require front seat occupants of cars and pickup trucks to wear lap seat belts.

The law takes effect in September, with fines of $25 to $50 beginning on Dec. 1 for violators.

Mrs. White's comments about the new law came Tuesday as she helped launch a "Buckle Up, Austin" safety campaign.

The project, which begins July 1, will offer rewards to Austin motorists who are observed wearing their seat belts. Similar projects are slated for about 11 other Texas cities, officials said.

The safety project — sponsored by the Austin-Travis County Health Department — will reward motorists with six-packs of soft drinks, ice chests, free dry cleaning service and a monthly grand prize of $500, she said.

Hunt debts exceed $175 million

DALLAS (AP) — Hunt International Resources Corp.'s debts, which exceed $175 million, mostly are held by three banks, according to documents filed in federal bankruptcy court.

But the documents do not list the debts of Hunt International's principal subsidiaries, Great Western Sugar Co. and Offshore Investments Ltd. The larger firm's debts would exceed $400 million if the two holdings were added to list, according to previous testimony.

The financially troubled Hunt International is owned by Dallas brothers Nelson Bunker Hunt and W. Herbert Hunt.

According to court papers filed Monday, most of the debts are held by three banks in Chicago, New York and St. Paul, Minn.

The largest debt — $81.7 million — is owed to First National of Chicago, which also is a lender to Great Western and Offshore Investments.

Many want US-Israeli ties lessened

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans continue to approve of President Reagan's handling of the hostage crisis in Beirut, but a growing number want the United States to cut back on its ties with Israel as a way of preventing terrorist attacks in the Mideast, according to an ABC-Washington Post poll.

Of 555 people interviewed by telephone June 20-22, 42 percent were in favor of lessening the U.S. government's ties to Israel, while 41 disapproved of such a move. Seventeen percent were undecided.

The response was in sharp contrast to the results to the same question from an ABC-Post poll of 1,016 people only a few days earlier, June 17-19. In that poll, 32 percent approved of reduced relations with Israel, while 53 percent did not.

The latest poll, released Tuesday, noted the interviews were concluded before Israel announced it was releasing 31 Shiites, and before Moslem leaders said the move would have no effect on the release of the American hostages.

The captors have demanded the release of Shiite prisoners in Israeli custody.

Explosions ignite government depot

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Two explosions apparently caused by bombs ignited a government fuel depot and knocked out a power station today in the black tribal homeland of Transkei, authorities said.

In riot-torn black townships east of Johannesburg, seven blacks were killed and eight were injured in a series of grenade attacks and other incidents, police said.

It was one of the worst nights of violence in 10 months of protests against white minority rule and the racial segregation policy called apartheid. Private groups say more than 400 people have died in the unrest.

The incidents came on the 30th anniversary of the signing of the Freedom Charter, a document calling for a non-racial government that is regarded by many activists as a blueprint for a future South Africa.

The explosions in Umtata, capital of the Transkei black homeland, came only a few minutes apart and plunged the city and its suburbs into darkness, witnesses were quoted as saying. There were no reports of casualties.

Six hours after the blast at the fuel depot a large fire still raged. Firemen stood by watching the blaze burn itself out.

Capital Radio, an independent station in Transkei, quoted police chief Gen. Leonard Kawa as saying police had determined saboteurs used a limpet mine in the attack on the fuel depot.

Woman posing as social worker sought

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — A woman wanted on felony fraud warrants in Texas borrowed the 18-month-old son of a woman staying at a shelter for battered women, purportedly to enter him in a beauty contest, but then tried to sell him for adoption, authorities say.

Police have issued bulletins to law enforcement officers in both Texas and Arkansas to be on the lookout for two, perhaps three, women posing as social workers and seeking to place children for adoption.

The adoption scheme failed, police said, when a woman who agreed to pay a $30 "adoption fee" for the young boy called the battered women's shelter Monday to inquire why the child hadn't been delivered to her yet.

When shelter officials learned of the scheme, they immediately asked the woman to leave, shelter director Barbara Greene said.

"In the meantime, she denied all this and left," Ms. Greene added.

Arkansas authorities were called in later, but said they could find no trace of the woman.

"I feel like she's already gone," Texarkana, Ark., police officer Don Johnson told the Texarkana Gazette on Tuesday.

Arkansas authorities said the central figure in the scheme is a slim 24-year-old black woman who used two different names and who is being sought by Texas authorities. They declined to identify her.

Ms. Greene said the woman came to the shelter several weeks ago. Officials at a battered women's shelter at Tyler called and said they had a new resident who said she feared for her safety in Tyler and who requested to be transferred to the Texarkana shelter, Ms. Greene said.

That woman was given travel money and left Tyler with her three children, but didn't arrive in Texarkana until two days later, Ms. Greene said.

"She said she got lost and ended up in Shreveport," Ms. Greene said.

Ms. Greene said the woman first claimed to be from the Tyler area, then said she was from the Dallas area.

"Her story was never consistent after that," Ms. Greene said.

Police in Tyler said Tuesday they had no knowledge of the woman and that no complaints had been filed there about an adoption fraud, the Gazette reported.

Ms. Greene said the woman has a nurse's aide certificate, and upon arriving in Texarkana quickly obtained a job at a Texarkana, Ark., nursing home. But after three nights at the job, the woman didn't show up for work.

Shelter workers believed the woman was still working at the nursing home, because she left the shelter each night at 11 p.m. and returned at 7 a.m., Ms. Greene said.

"She only worked for three days then started this other life," she said.

Police officials said the woman told a woman at the nursing home that she was a "social worker for the battered woman's shelter" and wanted to arrange for the adoption of three children staying at the shelter who had lost both their parents.

A woman at the nursing home told the woman that her daughter wanted to adopt a child, officials said.

The woman then told a shelter resident whom she had befriended that she wanted to enter the woman's 18-month-old boy in a beauty contest, reports said. The woman told the woman she first had to have the boy's picture taken, officials said.

But instead of having the boy's picture taken, the woman took the boy to visit with the prospective adoptive mother, officials said. During that visit, pictures of the child were taken, officials said.

A white, blond-haired woman and a girl about 7 accompanied the woman on the visit, officials said. The woman referred to the blond-haired woman as a "social worker," and said they were arranging for the adoption of the 7-year-old girl also, officials said.

Officials learned Tuesday that a white, dark-haired woman claiming to be a social worker for Arkansas' Suspected Child Abuse and Neglect program tried to seize the three children from a babysitter Monday night. The babysitter refused to give them up when the woman couldn't show proper identification, officials said.

The mother of the three children has now left the shelter, Ms. Greene said.

Formal Greetings

HOSTAGE

The Americans, passengers on a TWA Boeing 727 that was hijacked June 14 on its way from Athens to Rome, are thought to be held in separate groups in and around Beirut.

The Shiite Moslem hijackers let more than 100 passengers and crew go, and killed a U.S. Navy petty officer in the early stages of the 13-day incident. They are demanding that Israel free prisoners it accused of planning or carrying out attacks on the Israeli army in southern Lebanon.

Israel released 31 prisoners on Monday.

Berri made his proposal today after Syria was reported to have joined efforts to secure the hostages' release. Syria is the main power broker in Lebanon.

Berri reiterated his warning that a flotilla of U.S. 6th fleet warships led by the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz must "be far away" from the Lebanese coast, and said there must be no attacks on Lebanon by either Israel or the United States after the hostage situation is resolved.

At the White House, an administration official who spoke only on condition that he not be identified, welcomed Palmer's release, but said the United States sees no reason any hostage should remain in captivity.

The official said the Reagan administration would withhold comment on Berri's proposal for moving the hostages until the Amal leader was able to make the actual transfer.

"I don't think that we can allow ourselves optimism or pessimism," he said.

President Reagan threatened Tuesday to close Beirut airport and impose an economic blockade on Lebanon.

In Jerusalem today a spokesman for Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said Israel is ready to consider any U.S. request to cooperate in fighting terrorism, including taking part in a blockade of Beirut.

Asked if he has the power to release all the hostages, some of whom are thought to be held by the radical Hezbollah, or Party of God, Berri said: "All of them, no. The majority are under Amal and the others under the hijackers."

However, he said all 39 are in Beirut. There had been news reports in Lebanon and the United States that about nine of the hostages were being held in Baalbek in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, a stronghold of Shiite extremists.

The Red Cross said in Geneva that it had recommended Palmer be released. Two Red Cross officials, one a doctor, visited all 40 hostages overnight.

Red Cross spokesman Pascal Grand said in Geneva that the two Red Cross representatives had held private talks with all of the hostages.

Two Frenchmen kidnapped near the Beirut airport on May 23 also will be freed once the hostage crisis is settled, Berri said.

vides sabbath observers with an absolute and unqualified right not to work on their sabbath."

Burger said the state law "thus commands that sabbath religious concerns automatically control over all secular interests at the workplace; the statute takes no account of the convenience or interests of the employer or those of other employees who do not observe a sabbath."

The ruling is a defeat for the Reagan administration, which joined Connecticut and lawyers for a demoted worker — now deceased — in urging the court to uphold the state's law.

The employee, the late Donald E. Thornton, was a supervisor for Caldor Inc., a department store chain.

Thornton, a devout Presbyterian who died in 1982 at age 41, asked to be excused from working Sundays at the company's store in Torrington, Conn. The store required its managers to work one of every four Sundays.

were burned so badly, almost beyond recognition."

Highway Patrol Lt. Jim King said a number of 17- and 18-year-olds had been hired for the holiday crush.

"They worked until late at night, and then started again real early in the morning to make all of the fireworks," said Mary Lewis, whose trailer less than a mile away was shifted off its foundation by the explosion.

"It was a real popular spot for teen-agers to work, and make some good money," she said, adding that the factory, about 35 miles west of Tulsa, had a normal staff of about 10 but had expanded to nearly 30 for holiday sales.

The Tulsa Daily Oklahoman reported today that a 16-year-old and the 18-year-old son of plant owner Alan Johnson were killed. Johnson, 40, of Jennings, refused to talk to reporters. He was in good condition at Hillcrest Medical Center in Tulsa, officials said.

James Aveni, an Aerlex worker who didn't go to the factory Tuesday, said only two temporary workers were under 18, the youngest 16. Aveni said the plant "had about as much precautions as anybody could have."

Authorities searching through the underbrush for victims found "bone fragments and body fragments which were blown apart because of the intense heat and explosions," King said. Four bodies were found about 200 yards away.

Pierce said all the victims died instantly of burns and the blast.

"It was a massive explosion, very intense," he said. "It melted metal into gelatin."

The blasts rattled windows 13 miles away and sent a mushroom-shaped cloud into the air. The force set several automobiles ablaze and started three grass fires about 500 yards from the plant.

Carl Ames Jr., who lives three miles from the plant, said there were three explosions that "lifted our house. They were real rapid and big. The birds quit singing, the cattle and horses started running."

It was the second explosion in six years at the plant, which opened in 1973, authorities said. A 1979 blast, which caused no injuries, was blamed on sunlight reflecting off an automobile mirror onto combustible material.

two legal aid clinics for low income farmers in Tennessee.

"These programs seemed to be representative of well-rounded legal services," Bam commented.

If the South African government allows Bam to set up the program, it would be funded entirely from private donations. Bam hopes a lot of the money would come from persons outside his country who are opposed to apartheid.

"Apartheid is the ultimate barrier," Bam stressed. "They are prepared to grant only a few reforms. It is a barrier that only the time and pressure can overcome."

Brown, Graham makes donation

WTSU — The Board of Directors of Brown, Graham and Co. P.C. recently voted to give $3,000 to further the accounting program in the financial administration department at West Texas State University.

The $3,000 was presented as an unrestricted gift to Dr. Davis, head of the Department of Financial Administration, by Mr. W.C. Russell, president of Brown, Graham, and Co. and vice president, Mr. Johnny Lacy.

Dr. Davis indicated that the gift will possibly be used to assist in the development of data base electronic libraries for faculty research.

SECURITY

would go ahead."

Such checks could become a feasible alternative "with the mood of the times — every kooky group thinking they can pick on tourists to get attention," the spokesman said.

However, officials said that recent cases — such as the hijacking of Trans World Airlines Flight 847 and the crash of an Air-India jumbo jet believed to be the result of a concealed bomb — involved only foreign airports and flights.

Travelers at D-FW's international terminals Tuesday said they had noticed the increase in security, and were pleased.

Karl Muecke, 66, a Salt Lake City resident on his way to a European vacation, said he had coins in his briefcase as he passed through a security checkpoint.

"I had to open it and they looked all through it. I was very pleased they did so," he said.

Hans Schoem, who was returning home to Frankfurt, West Germany, from a vacation in Mexico, said he thought some of the checks he had seen were excessive, but the inconvenience didn't bother him.

"Yes, I am afraid," he said. "Of course, if there are so many things at the same time, it's quite a different problem."

Several Hereford residents attend Owen cousins reunion

An Owen cousins reunion was held recently at the Five Lakes site of the Arbackle Resort near Sulphur, Okla. There were 27 of the 38 living first cousins in attendance as well as a distant cousin, Ruby Gallagher of California.

Registration was held at the five Lakes Pavillion where the Frank Owen branch prepared hot dogs for 90 people.

A basket lunch was spread for 118 people in the park the next day. Photo albums were viewed during the visitation. The main attraction was held in the National Guard Armory in Sulphur that evening with a catered meal being served to approximately 125 guests.

During the meal, master of ceremonies, Tom Owen, recognized Tom Stemm as the oldest man present. He was escorted to the king's chair. Homer Lee Owen, youngest son of Donnie Owen, (Mrs. G.P. Owen) escorted his mother to the queen's chair. Her daughter Anna Jo Wilson presented her with a corsage given by a step-daughter, Jewell Hargrave.

The different families entertained with skits. The final skit was a 'shotgun wedding' and a surprise reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dubois' golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Dubois was the former Anna Bea Owen, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owen.

Preachers in the family conducted the services during a Sunday morning worship held in the park. The reunion was concluded with a friend chicken dinner.

Attending from Hereford were Donnie Owen, Warren Owen, Bobby and Bettye Owen, and Tom and Jewell Hargrave.

Fruit butters

DEAR POLLY — What is the difference between jams and fruit butters? — MRS. B.N.

DEAR MRS. B.N. — Jams are made of crushed fruit, sugar and fruit pectin. The pectin thickens the fruit mixture. Butters, such as apple butter and peach butter, are thickened by cooking them until enough moisture evaporates to give the mixture the desired consistency.

Butters contain no pectin. You can use much less sugar in fruit butters than jams, because most commercially available pectins for home jam and jelly making require the use of a particular proportion of sugar to work. Fruit butters, on the other hand, can be made with about half the sugar of jams, or they can be sweetened with honey, fruitose, fruit juice or artificial sweetener.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Canning Fruits, Tomatoes and Pickles" which has a recipe for making and canning fruit butters, as well as general directions for boiling water bath canning. Others who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have a long-haired gray cat that has the run of my house. I also have dark-brown, nubby-textured living room furniture. 'Nuff said? Here's how I solved my problem. During a work break, while wearing rubber gloves, I idly rubbed my hand over the cushions of the sofa and came up with a handful of cat hair that the most diligent vacuuming had failed to dislodge. Now I just collect all the cat hair from the furniture by rubbing with a rubber-gloved hand. — M.B.R.

Terrified of discovery

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 32 years old, considered attractive, have two degrees and hold an excellent position.

Jerry and I have been dating for almost a year. The relationship has become serious.

The problem: At age 23, I developed a serious gum infection. I was sent to an oral surgeon. He extracted all my teeth and scraped the gums.

The oral surgeon cut so much of the gum away that my dentist was afraid I might never be able to wear a lower denture. After much hard work he made me a set that fits well and looks very natural.

The problem: Every time Jerry kisses me I am terrified that he will discover my teeth are false—or worse yet, that my dentures will slip out. How can I overcome this fear?—"PEARLY WHITE" IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR PEARLY: Jerry is going to find out sooner or later. Save yourself a lot of anxiety and tell him NOW. It will not matter to him and you will be greatly relieved.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the mother of a 21-year-old son who has not left the house in three years prompted me to write. Only a person who has been in a similar situation can understand what she is going through.

Your advice was excellent as far as it went. Now will someone please tell her how to get her son to the doctor? Many people mistakenly believe that a mentally disturbed person will go willingly. My guess is that he will turn up his stereo and say, "I'm not going. There's nothing wrong with me." It will probably take an officer of the law to drag him from the attic.

Since he isn't violent (yet), her pleas will probably fall on deaf ears. He may become violent or suicidal if he is forced from his fantasy world. That mother has a right to fear that her son is potentially dangerous.

Getting help sometimes involves filing charges, a jail cell, and begging a judge to make a commitment. The woman is fortunate if she lives in an area where a judge is willing to commit her son to the proper facility.

I would like to say to the mother: Whatever you do, don't give up. It may take a long time to bring your son back to the real world. If the problem is depression, you may see results a lot sooner with proper medication. I will be among those who will be waiting to hear about his young man's improvement.—WEST COAST SYMPATHIZER

DEAR SYMPATHIZER: Thanks for a knowledgeable letter. You've honed in on one of the most frustrating aspects of helping a psychotic. It is getting that person to accept treatment.

Often a parent must file a complaint to enable the police to force the patient to go to a psychiatric hospital for evaluation. Well-meaning civil libertarians, in an effort to protect the rights of the mentally ill, have in some instances prevented such action.

Medication has been a godsend. In the old days, it was a major hassle every four hours to get a mental patient to take his medicine. Today, one shot of Prolixin can keep a psychotic under control for approximately two weeks. Enormous progress has been made, and it's the drugs that have produced miracles.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell The Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Old-fashioned melodrama to be presented

Sunday at 8 p.m., the Caprock Amphitheatre will again come alive with a stage production entitled "Dark Deeds at Swan's Place", an old-fashioned melodrama featuring the Stage 66 players under the direction of Hugh Riley of Tucumcari.

This comedy, sponsored by the New Mexico Outdoor Drama Association, operators of the amphitheatre, follows on the heels of the highly praised Celebration Show which formally opened the outdoor theatre two weeks ago to a capacity crowd.

Tickets for the show will be available at the Caprock Amphitheatre's box office that Sunday evening beginning at 5 p.m. Admission is $4 for adults, $2 for Senior Citizens and children under 12.

All proceeds will go toward funding the major historical New Mexico drama planned for next summer. A catered meal for $5.50 will be available starting at 6 p.m.

The Caprock Amphitheatre is located 11 miles south of San Jon, N.M. on Highway 39. It is approximately 30 miles southeast of Tucumcari and 49 miles north of Clovis, N.M.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

See doctor for chronic pain

DEAR DR. GOTT — For several months I've had pain in my upper-right abdomen, just under the ribs. At first I thought it was a pulled muscle or a bruised rib. Now I notice that something under the ribs — maybe the gallbladder — is slightly swollen and tender. Is this worth seeing a doctor about?

DEAR READER — Any kind of recurring abdominal pain merits medical attention, especially if the discomfort is associated with a lump. It is beyond the scope of this column to speculate on the many possible causes of your symptoms. An inflamed gallbladder is certainly at the top of the list, but there are a lot of complicated organs crammed into that space; your doctor is the most qualified person to investigate the problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My fingernails break and split easily. Is there any kind of vitamin I can take to help strengthen them?

Barbecuing time is here

Texans enjoy backyard barbecuing and eating as much as anybody in the U.S., and chicken barbecue is an all-time favorite.

A few simple steps will enable you to enjoy mouth-watering chicken barbecue to your heart's content, says Dr. James Denton, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Chicken barbecuing involves four basic steps. First, split the birds in half and sprinkle each half generously with salt and black pepper before placing on the pit, advises Denton. To shorten barbecuing time, cut halves into parts.

Second, make sure coals are white hot before putting the chicken on the grill. Any type of cooker can be used, but keep the coals 8 to 12 inches from the cooking rack for best results, says the specialist.

Another basic step for top-notch chicken barbecue is to use a basting sauce during the cooking process which contains no tomato product or sugar because such sauces burn easily. A basting sauce will keep meat moist and juicy and add a desire flavor. Apply basting sauce and turn chicken halves frequently.

Denton suggests these ingredients for a basting sauce: 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 stick butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce and a few drops of hot sauce or red pepper. Heat the mix over a low flame until the butter or oleo melts; then add the juice of one lemon (vinegar may be substituted). Next fill the pan with water and heat but do not boil. Spices such as garlic salt or lemon pepper can be added to suit personal preference.

To top off the barbecuing process, apply a finishing sauce to the chicken about the last 20 to 30 minutes before cooking is complete. This is the most critical time during the entire cooking process, emphasizes Denton. Check the meat carefully and turn it frequently to avoid burning the finishing sauce.

Several types of finishing sauce are available and vary from mild to hot. To prepare your own sauce (for 10 chicken halves), use the following: 1 cup cooking oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup water. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce, hot sauce, garlic and other seasonings to taste.

Chicken barbecue should be complete in about 1½ to 2 hours. Cooking longer with less heat usually results in the most flavorful, juicy and tender barbecue. Placing the cooking rack closer than 8 inches to the coals will reduce barbecuing time, but the meat will be drier and less tender, Denton points out.

A test for doneness is to twist the drumstick which is connected to the thigh. If the joint between the thigh and drumstick is loose, the chicken is ready to eat. Another test is to cut into the meat at this joint. The moisture in the joint will run clear if the meat is done.

The fun part of chicken barbecuing is to develop your own secret recipe and cooking style, says Denton. The four basic steps outlined can be varied to suit your style and taste.

One variation is to debone the breast and thigh meat and marinate it overnight in the refrigerator in a mixture of 16 oz. herb-seasoned Italian dressing and 8 oz. picante sauce. Cook in the same manner as before while basting with the marinating sauce.

For another type of marinated chicken barbecue, Denton suggests using a soy-teriyak (or Worcestershire) sauce marination for two-to-four hours before cooking.

Most of all, let your imagination be your guide and have fun, says the specialist. Who knows? The world's greatest barbecue chef may be in your own backyard.

National League roundup

Braves capitalize on Houston errors

By JONATHAN VITTI Associated Press Writer

The Atlanta Braves found some loopholes in the Houston Astros' defense, as the left side of the Houston infield committed six errors that led to four unearned runs in a 6-4 Atlanta win in the Astrodome.

Houston's stream of errors Tuesday night was just one short of its club record for errors in one game.

Third baseman Phil Garner and shortstop Craig Reynolds both had three errors, with each being charged with a pair of miscues in a three-run Braves' sixth inning.

Atlanta shortstop Rafael Ramirez drove in two runs with a triple to center field that scored Ken Oberkfell and Glenn Hubbard.

"It was a fast ball that I hit as hard as I could into the alley," said Ramirez, who has produced 19 RBIs in his last 20 games.

The triple and the errors victimized Houston starter and loser Bob Knepper, 7-4, who has dropped four of his last six decisions.

Garner, a 12-year veteran, said, "I've had good and bad days in the major leagues, and tonight was one of the worse. I've got no excuses."

Houston, 35-34, remains fourth in the National League West while fifth place Atlanta is 30-38.

Trailing 6-1 with two outs in the eighth inning, the Astros staged a three-run comeback as Jerry Mumphrey launched a two-run homer to right field and Alan Ashby followed with a solo shot to left center.

Mahler gave up 11 of Houston's 12 hits before leaving with two out in the eighth. Coming on in relief were Terry Forster and Bruce Sutter, who registered his 12th save.

Houston, losers in eight of their last 11 games, assessed part of the blame for their lackluster showing to two cross country flights over the last week. After night games the Astros flew from Atlanta to Los Angeles and from Los Angeles to Houston.

"The schedule hurt us more than our defense," Houston manager Bob Lillis said.

Phillies 3, Cardinals 1

Jerry Koosman has done twice what the rest of the National League has only done once this season. And it only took him seven days.

For the second time in a week, the NL's oldest pitcher beat baseball's winningest pitcher as Koosman and the Philadelphia Phillies beat Joaquin Andujar and the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 Tuesday night.

The 42-year-old left-hander pitched a three-hitter — yielding only an unearned run — struck out eight and walked two. Andujar, 12-1 before he ran into Koosman, dropped to 12-3.

Koosman underwent surgery on his left knee May 8. A month later, he was pitching in relief. Last Wednesday he started for the first time since the surgery and hurled six innings as the Phillies hung a 1-0 loss on Andujar and the Cards.

"It's like a broken bone in that I should have given it longer (to heal)," said Koosman of the knee. "But I didn't. I wanted to help."

He pitches with a brace on the knee designed to prevent fluid accumulation.

The Cardinals are leading the league in batting and runs scored.

Mets 3, Cubs 2

Dwight Gooden returned to the only park where he was frustrated in his rookie campaign and went all the way to force a 13th straight defeat upon Chicago. He struck out six Cubs and walked three.

Last Tuesday, Gooden, now 11-3, beat the Cubs 1-0 in New York.

"I was glad to finally win at Wrigley Field, I knew what happened last year," said Gooden, who absorbed losses of 11-2 and 9-3 in Chicago as a rookie in 1984. Working with six days rest, he pitched his seventh complete game of the year.

Chicago's losing streak has tied a team record.

Reds 7, Giants 6

Cincinnati, trailing 6-3, rallied for four runs in the eighth inning. Cesar Cedeno's first home run as an American — a two-run shot — touched off the rally against reliever Mark Davis, 3-5.

"I hit my first home run as an American," said Cedeno, a Dominican who became a U.S. citizen last week. "Now I'm only 754 behind Henry Aaron."

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Tim Lincecum hit a solo homer and Dan Driessen, who had committed a costly error the inning before, drilled a tie-breaking single as Montreal rallied in the seventh and moved into first place in the NL East, a half-game in front of St. Louis.

The Pirates lost their fourth game in a row.

Dodgers 3, Padres 2

Al Oliver's bases-loaded sacrifice fly with one out in the ninth scored Ken Landreaux, ending the Padres' four-game winning streak.

Trailing 2-1, the Dodgers tied the game in the eighth. With two outs, Bill Russell, batting for starter Bob Welch, dropped a single into center field that scored R.J. Reynolds and denied San Diego starter Andy Hawkins his 12th victory.

Close Play

Daniel Carrizales of the Pirates leaps to avoid being tagged out by catcher Dale Madsen of the Cardinals in a Kids Inc. boys' major league playoff game this week. Carrizales scored the run for the Pirates, who defeated the Cardinals 10-3.

Rozier says he's not another Earl Campbell

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier says he hopes Houston Oilers fans don't expect him to fill former Oiler and Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell's shoes.

Rozier was lured from the United States Football League to the Oilers of the National Football League with a $2.25 million, four-year contract.

"I'm just Mike Rozier. I'm not Earl Campbell, and I hope everybody doesn't think I'm going to fill Earl's shoes," Rozier told Houston radio station KIKK Tuesday in a telephone interview from Philadelphia.

Campbell was traded to the New Orleans Saints last year.

Monday, one day after scoring four touchdowns in the Jacksonville Bull's final regular season game, Rozier's agent, Art Wilkinson, announced that his client would jump leagues and join the Oilers.

"This is a chance for him to put a few more critics to bed," Wilkinson said. "It's a chance for him to become the first player in pro football history to put together two 1,000-yard seasons in the same calendar year."

Rozier, who set rushing records and won the 1983 Heisman Trophy while at the University of Nebraska, gained 1,361 yards this year in the USFL with Jacksonville, which tried to retain Rozier with an offer that included $1 million in real estate.

Houston obtained NFL rights to the former All-American in a supplemental draft of USFL players in June 1984.

Negotiations between Wilkinson and Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog broke off in August with a four-year, $3.2 million deal on the table. Rozier signed with Jacksonville in February.

Wilkinson said that he and Rozier walked away three times and said they weren't coming back. But on each occasion, Rozier played well in the next game, "and we got the call the following week," Wilkinson said.

Rozier is expected to be in Houston later this week for a physical examination and to read over the contract, Herzog said. According to the terms of the proposal, Herzog said, Rozier would be paid in full over the life of the contract.

"I'm very pleased because Mike's a talented player who is coming off a great season with Jacksonville, but I'm going to be cautious until his signature is on a contract," Herzog said.

Rozier, 24, of Camden, N.J., won the Heisman, Maxwell and Walter Camp trophies in 1983, when he set Nebraska and Big Eight Conference rushing records. He then signed with the Pittsburgh Maulers of the USFL and played with them in 1984 under a personal service contract with team owner Edward DeBartolo Sr.

He blamed ankle problems for his subpar season with the Maulers, who folded after the 1984 season.

The Oilers finished 23rd among the 28 NFL teams in rushing last season, and Coach Hugh Campbell is trying to beef up Houston's attack.

"We needed to add talent as well as depth to our team and Mike certainly feels that need. I think he's a good back and will come to camp fully motivated. As far as the Oilers are concerned, it's a good deal," Campbell said.

Oilers sign fifth round draft choice

HOUSTON (AP) — The fifth-round draft pick of the Houston Oilers has agreed to contract terms with the National Football League, team officials say.

Kicker-punter Lee Johnson, who led national champion Brigham Young with 74 points last season, will report to the Houston rookie camp July 19 in San Angelo, Oiler spokesman Gregg Stengel said Tuesday.

Johnson, a Dallas native, attended McCollough High School in The Woodlands, a Houston suburb.

Terms of Johnson's contract were not disclosed.

The first National Football League player to rush for 1,000 or more yards in one season was Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears in 1934. Feathers rushed for 1,004 yards in his rookie season.

Changes seen in professional tennis

By KATHY VETTER The Conroe Courier

CONROE, Texas (AP) — Adrian Bey remembers the time Kurt Nielsen, who had made it to the men's singles finals the year before, was eliminated from the Wimbledon field by the English subway system. "I'm not sure if this still happens today," Nielsen, now the pro at Del Lago on Lake Conroe, said. "But when we were playing they would send a limousine to pick us up anytime we required transport. "One year, Nielson ... was on the underground, and I think there was a power failure. He turned up late for his match, and he was out of the tournament, because the rule states that you will be ready to play five minutes after the preceding match is over."

"I'm not sure they'd still do that today." Money has changed what began as a "gentleman's game," according to Bey, who played in six Wimbledon during his career, reaching the final 16 twice.

The 47-year-old Rhodesian now lives with his wife and daughter in Panorama and has spent his days as the pro at Del Lago for the past 3½ years. But, in these two weeks of Wimbledon, his mind will be far away once again — back on Centre Court, where the world's oldest and most prestigious tennis championships are underway.

"I never lost the feeling of being a little boy in a big city playing there," he said. "It does something to you. It's the premier tennis event in the world."

But the Wimbledon of 1985 is not the same game it was in Bey's day, the late 50s and early 60s. Nor is tennis the same game it was during the era of Australians Rod Laver, Lewis Hoad, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle — the men Bey calls true "champions and sportsmen."

"Some of the current players appear to think that Wimbledon is just another tournament. I think that probably comes about because they cannot be bothered with the tradition of the game," Bey said. "Money, while it's been good for the game, has also been bad for the game."

Today's officials, Bey said, overlook bad-boy tactics from players such as John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors because they "bring in the money."

"It appears that the player is far bigger than the game, which to me is a sad state of affairs," Bey said.

Bey had several of his own moments in the sun during a career that began in Rhodesia at the age of 16.

Like many of his classmates in Salisbury, rugby was Bey's passion. But a back injury put an end to that sport, and the tennis court in his yard gave birth to another.

"Tennis was always a Cinderella sport there," Bey said. "Like most kids, I did everything. We had a tennis court at home with a backboard, and I started hitting around and goofing off. I didn't get serious until I was 16."

Bey began touring when he was 19 and helped make history in 1963 when Rhodesia won its first-ever Davis Cup match. He was Rhodesia's No. 1 player for several years, capturing eight closed and three open singles titles from 1968 to 1971.

In 1963, the year he played in the first of five Davis Cups, finished in the top 16 at Wimbledon for the second time and won both the closed singles and doubles crowns, Bey became the first tennis player to be named the Sportsman of the Year for the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

He left Rhodesia, now Zimbabwe, in 1974 and began his United States coaching career at Lakeway in Austin before moving to Houston and then coming to Del Lago.

But his playing career wasn't yet over. He ranked No. 1 in the nation in men's age 35 singles in 1977 and 1978.

Now he is content to share his knowledge of and love for the game with his young students, a couple of whom have gone on to the pro circuit.

"Maybe I wasn't that big a fish, but it's something that never worried me," he said. "Tennis has been such a good game for me. It's taken me around the world several times. I've got friends almost everywhere. That's something that has to be passed on."

Although he is hopeful the pendulum will shift back, Bey said he is sometimes embarrassed by the actions of today's tour brats. McEnroe, he says, wouldn't have lasted long among the players of his day.

"He would have had his teeth knocked down his throat very, very quickly. He would either have had to shape up, or he would have left the game."

"Look at the Davis Cup. Neither he nor Connors will play Davis Cup, representing their own nation, because they don't want to behave."

"To me the champions were the Rod Lavers and the Ken Rosewalls and the Lew Hoads and the Donald Budge, who smiled when they lost. Nowadays, sometimes they don't even shake hands."

Bey did shake hands, many times, over the nets at Wimbledon. While tennis fans everywhere are watching this year's events at the All England Croquet and Lawn Tennis Club, Adrian Bey will remember.

"It must be the same in any sports. You have your idols when you're 10, 12, 15 years old, and you envision being there where your idol is. And then when someday it comes true, it's just ... it's mindboggling."

NCAA Presidents Commission has become powerful group

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Joe B. Wyatt remembers attending the NCAA's annual convention in January of 1984 — when the powerful Presidents Commission was formed — and coming away "simply appalled at the actions there."

What especially gnawed at Vanderbilt University's chancellor was what he called "the overall feeling of ambivalence whether the chief executive officers had the responsibility to act" on matters concerning higher academic standards for athletes.

"It was inexplicable to me that the CEO of an enterprise doesn't have full responsibility concerning athletic matters," Wyatt said. "To me, it was a very simple matter — you shouldn't admit anyone to a college or university if you don't believe, based on his past, that he can complete the course of study he takes."

In the last year-and-a-half, Wyatt has had his eyes opened by some of the goings-on and apparently intends to become a leader in the escalating effort to clean things up.

At this time last year, Vanderbilt and Florida were the only Southeastern Conference schools that had never won the SEC football title. Florida thought it had broken through with a 5-0-1 league record in 1984 and the blessings of the SEC's Executive Committee, which ruled the Gators could keep their title but couldn't go to the Sugar Bowl because of an NCAA probation resulting from 59 rules violations.

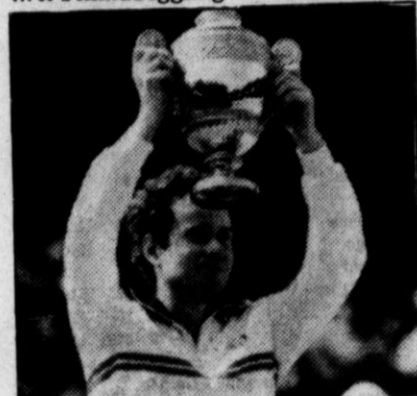

Thanks in no small measure to Wyatt, Florida and Vandy still are officially without a championship. A letter written by Wyatt to Mississippi State President James McComas, chairman of the Executive Committee, was circulated — with Wyatt's approval — among all the SEC presidents and resulted in Florida's being stripped of the title late last month. Wyatt would like Florida to know it's nothing personal.

"This really has nothing to do especially with Florida except that they were found guilty of more than 50 violations," Wyatt said. "It seemed ludicrous in the face of that for them to be recognized as conference champions."

"I didn't lobby against anybody. To me, it was a matter that each institution had to decide. It was a matter of the utmost importance to the integrity of the conference and college athletics."

Wyatt's letter did point out that "the integrity of the SEC is in jeopardy. Indeed, the integrity of college athletics in general is close to an all-time low, from my perspective."

He urged the presidents to reconsider the Executive Committee's ruling on the football championship. They did so at the annual SEC meetings in Destin, Fla., late last month and voted 6-4 — Alabama, Auburn and Mississippi State were in Florida's corner — to take away the Gators' championship.

SEATTLE (AP) — The Texas Rangers have announced that they placed right-handed pitcher Dickie Noles on the disabled list and purchased the contract of right-hander Bob Sebra from their Class AAA farm club in Oklahoma City.

Sebra, 23, was told to fly here a few hours before his scheduled American League debut in a Wednesday afternoon game against the Seattle Mariners.

Noles, 28, was sidelined by tendonitis in his right shoulder. He is 3-6 with a 4.04 earned run average.

Sebra is 6-3 with a 2.60 ERA at Oklahoma City.

Seattle edges Texas 2-1 behind 6-hit pitching

By DICK BRINSTER

AP Sports Writer

After a new stadium lease was renegotiated for the Seattle Mariners, the team gave its hometown good reason to keep it around.

The Mariners, behind the combined six-hit pitching of Matt Young and Ed Nunez, defeated the Texas Rangers 2-1 Tuesday for their fifth straight win, their eighth in their last ten games.

Earlier in the day, the Mariners announced they had reached an agreement with King County in their attempt to renegotiate their lease for the Seattle Kingdome.

"It's a good thing we got this county problem out of the way, so I could concentrate on my pitching," said Young half-seriously.

Young raised his record to 7-3 by allowing Texas just five hits and two walks in eight innings of work. Nunez earned his ninth save of the year by holding the Rangers in check in the ninth.

"Seriously, we are professionals and try not to take this thing out to the field," said Young about the off-field negotiations.

Mariner owner George Argyros had said unless a better lease was granted, the club would consider moving.

Included in the new contract was a greater percentage of revenues from concession stands and an escape clause that would allow the team to leave town if certain attendance figures were not met.

On the field the Mariners continued a recent streak of good pitching and good defense that has raised their record to 33-36. In their last five wins the pitching staff has allowed just seven runs.

Texas starter Charlie Hough, 5-9, had just one bad inning, the first, but with the Rangers hitless offense it was one bad inning too many. The Rangers are 3-6 in their last nine games. In that span the offense has delivered just 25 runs, and eight of those runs came in one game.

Jack Perconte led off the first with a walk. He took second on a balk by Hough and then scored on a single to center by Alvin Davis. Gorman Thomas followed with a double to left. With two outs, Hough walked Dave Henderson to load the bases and then walked Jim Presley to force in Davis to give Seattle a 2-0 lead.

As far as Texas manager Bobby Valentine was concerned, the Mariners need more than a new lease. They need a new pitching mound.

"It's a lousy mound," he complained. He attributed some of Hough's first inning wildness to the condition of the pitching hill. "It's something less than a big league mound, it's flat on the top and has no slope."

Young held the Rangers scoreless until the eighth. Curtis Wilkerson reached on a throwing error by shortstop Spike Owen. He went to second on a single by Alan Bannister and took third on a fly ball by Toby Harrah. He scored on a balk by Young.

Yankees 7, Orioles 4

It would be difficult not to be impressed with Rickey Henderson's major-league-leading .360 batting average, but that's a pittance as far as the Baltimore Orioles are concerned.

Henderson, who had three hits and drove in three runs Tuesday night as the New York Yankees whipped the Orioles for the fifth straight time in a nine-day span, is hitting .700 against Baltimore, whose Manager Earl Weaver has been wondering aloud: "Doesn't he ever make an out?"

Yes. Henderson lined out hard on the one occasion he was retired in the Yankees' 7-4 victory. Henderson, who also swiped his 32nd base in 33 attempts, is 21-for-35 in his last nine games.

Ed Whitson, 3-6, recorded his second victory over Baltimore in seven days.

A's 5, White Sox 4

Pinch-hitter Dusty Baker drew a bases-loaded walk to force in the winning run in a 13th-inning rally that began when Mike Heath homered off Chicago reliever Gene Nelson.

Chicago's Carlton Fisk hit his 17th homer to tie for the AL lead, while teammate Greg Walker hit his 13th. Carney Lansford hit his 12th — and fourth in the last six games — for Oakland.

Angels 7, Indians 3

Ruppert Jones hit a grand-slam home run with two outs in the 13th inning to cap a five-run California rally. Brian Downing's double had tied the game and walks to Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces by Neal Heaton, 4-9, loaded the bases for Jones.

Juan Beniquez walked with two outs before Downing, fighting a 6-for-66 slump, doubled off the left-center field wall.

The winner was Stewart Cliburn, the Angels' fifth pitcher. He's now 3-1.

Tigers 3, Red Sox 0

Hot-hitting Darrell Evans slammed his 11th home run in the last 37 games for Detroit, which got four-hit pitching from Jack Morris. Evans' two-run homer, his 14th of the season, came off Boston's Bob Ojeda, 4-2, and staked Morris to a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Morris, 9-5, who leads the American League with 96 strikeouts, fanned only three.

Blue Jays 7, Brewers 1

AL East leader Toronto laid waste to Milwaukee with a six-run third inning. Tony Fernandez and Lloyd Moseby reached Brewer starter Ray Burris, 4-6, for run-scoring hits, then the Blue Jays took advantage of reliever Jamie Coanower.

An error by first baseman Cecil Cooper, and four walks and a wild pitch by Coanower fueled the big inning.

Jim Clancy, 4-4, fired a six-hitter over eight innings.

Royals 3, Twins 0

Kansas City's Danny Jackson pitched his second shutout of the season and Lonnie Smith drove in one run and scored another. Jackson, 6-4, pitched his third complete game — a four-hitter — while striking out five and walking two.

"Jackson pitched a heck of a game," Minnesota Manager Ray Miller said. "I was actually sitting on the bench hoping they would bring in Quis (ace reliever Dan Quisenberry). That's really something when you hope Quis comes in. It shows what kind of stuff Jackson had."

Tips given on how to control athlete's foot

HOUSTON — Ignoring repeated attacks of athlete's foot can cause infection to spread to the lower leg, where it can lead to inflammation and blood clotting in the veins, a Baylor College of Medicine dermatologist warns.

Athlete's foot is usually a minor infection that can be easily cured by keeping the feet clean and dry, and by using over-the-counter medications, notes Leonard Goldberg, M.D., assistant professor of dermatology at Baylor.

However, Goldberg says, if signs of secondary infection such as swollen feet, infected cracks between the toes, and red lines appear running up the foot, a doctor should be seen immediately.

"If athlete's foot is neglected over a long period of time, it can cause a serious health problem," he said.

"If the infection spreads onto the legs, it can lead to phlebitis, a dangerous inflammation that damages the veins in the legs, and thrombosis, the formation of blood clots," Goldberg adds.

Nine out of ten people suffer from athlete's foot at one time or another. Athlete's foot occurs when sweat and poor air circulation cause the growth of a fungus which is naturally present on most people's feet.

Athlete's foot appears as cracked, scaly and itchy feet mostly on active people's feet during the summer months, but can develop at any time.

"Athlete's foot is actually catching," Goldberg said. "You can get it from walking barefoot on the floor after someone who is infected and shedding scales from their feet."

Athlete's foot is most often caught in gyms and public showers, where Goldberg recommends wearing sandals or flip flops.

Other ways to prevent getting athlete's foot are: (1) wear ventilated shoes; (2) wear cotton or wool socks and change them daily; (3) keep the feet clean and dry; (4) use foot powder; (5) dry the feet thoroughly after bathing, especially between the toes; and (6) air shoes well when not wearing them.

Goldberg notes that once athlete's foot infection is caught, it can usually be cured by doing all of these things and using an over-the-counter, anti-fungal medication.

If athlete's foot does not clear up, Goldberg advises going to a doctor for a skin test and using more powerful topical medications.

Athlete's foot can also be spread by the hands or a towel to other parts of the body such as the groin. Goldberg said a fungal infection in the groin or any place else on the body can be treated with the same medications used for athlete's foot.

Research hopes for answer for systemic lupus

That feeling of constant fatigue and various aches and pains prompted friends to joke that she was just getting old. To the patient it was no joke and she seemed to feel worse every day. Some days it was hard to drag out of bed. Making it until 5 p.m. took everything she had. She repeatedly was told she had a bad case of the flu. She knew it was something else.

The something else was systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE), often misdiagnosed due to its similarity to other diseases. The cause is not known and, although in most cases it can be controlled through a maintenance program, there is no known cure.

The hope to find out more about the causes of lupus, along with the observation that there are a high number of lupus patients in the UTMB referral area, have prompted a research program by Jeffrey Lisse, M.D., assistant professor in the department of internal medicine. Many areas will be investigated but of primary interest to Dr. Lisse is what role, if any the environment plays in causing lupus.

For example, could the many petrochemical plants in this area of the state be a factor? Are petrochemicals in the air exacerbating in the disease and making it more active? Could our direct sunlight here for many months of the year be a major problem?

All medical information suggests that lupus victims have a reaction to the sunlight. Some have a reaction to fluorescent light. This can actually cause physical problems and worsening of the disease.

Lupus patients are often seen in sunglasses, hats, and long sleeves even in the summer heat as they race in and out of buildings to avoid the harmful rays.

Lupus is a confusing disease. It commonly affects women. It is more common in people of darker skin, such as Negro or Mexican-American, and people of lighter skin have a higher survival rate. Why?

These are some of the many questions Dr. Lisse will be looking at in his research.

One of the first steps is to take all the lupus patient's histories available at UTMB and feed this information into a computer. Is there a pattern? For example do the majority live in the same type environment? Do they have similar backgrounds? What is their occupation exposure to chemicals?

Lupus is a complicated disease with many symptoms. Basically the way it works is that the body normally produces antibodies to fight infection. With lupus the antibodies don't turn off and begin attacking the wrong things. Your body begins to reject its own organs. Your body may decide, thanks to the disease, that the perfectly fine kidney you had is a dud and rejects it.

You can get real sick, real fast. Some of the signs and symptoms include extreme fatigue, fever, aches in the joints, weight loss, hair loss, anemia, and butterfly rash on the face.

A recently published medical book describes the disease as "characterized by marked and varied immunologic abnormalities, including a variety of autoantibodies which participate in immunologically mediated tissue injury."

The Lupus Foundation describes the disease as "a chronic inflammatory disease affecting connective tissue. It may affect the skin in some people; in others virtually any organ in the body, including skin, joints, kidneys, brain, lungs, heart, blood and the immune system. Lupus can present in varying degrees of severity, from mild to severe; in some cases the systemic form may be fatal."

Many people have never heard of lupus or know little about it, yet it appears to be all around us. For example, it affects more people than does muscular dystrophy, cystic fibrosis, rheumatic fever, pernicious anemia, Hodgkin's disease or leukemia.

A number of triggering factors have been identified, including infections, stress, and exposure to the sun. The literature further says "with lupus...a patient struggles against pain, dizziness, nausea, and fatigue to maintain a relationship with the world on even a minimal level: At work one lives with the constant fear of possibly losing employment. There is a need to understand the illness, to know why one feels that way, and to find ways to deal with one's plight."

Tragically, the cause or causes of lupus are unknown. Current research suggests that in systemic lupus inflammation, the body appears to become allergic to normal components of body cells, forming antibodies against one's own tissues. It is believed that triggering environmental factors combined with an inherited susceptibility may bring about the development of Lupus.

Dr. Lisse hopes to determine if patients had a predisposition to the disease. He said, "We hope to gain information that will be useful and at the same time to provide help in providing medical care for the Lupus patients."

In his search for why this all happens, Dr. Lisse wants as many lupus patients as he can find. Anyone interested in the program may call him at (409)761-2863.

The Lupus Foundation estimates there are over a million diagnosed cases of Lupus in the US. Dr. Lisse says we are averaging 39 new cases at UTMB a year.

He wants to know why and what can be done to cure it.

Congressman says of spies

Texans would 'string 'em up'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death penalty might deter spies, but it should be used in any event as "retribution," says Congressman Joe Barton, R-Ennis.

"Regardless of whether you believe capital punishment is a deterrent or not, we have to have retribution as a just society," Barton told a Tuesday news conference attended by a group of other members of Congress supporting a proposed amendment to the defense authorization bill to restore the death penalty for espionage.

Similar legislation has been introduced in both houses of Congress in the wake of the Walker family spy case.

John A. Walker Jr., a former Navy warrant officer, is accused of being the ringleader of the spy network that authorities say included his brother Arthur, his son Michael and a close friend, Jerry A. Whitworth. All have pleaded innocent to spying charges.

"Where I come from what we'd do about it would be take 'em out and string 'em up," Barton said, drawing laughter. "We wouldn't go through the legalities that we have to because of our due process."

Eldon Rudd, R-Ariz., sponsor of the amendment, got more laughs when he responded, "Though 'law west of the Pecos no longer applies, it's obvious that the Texans understand what the law is all about."

Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis., accused the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member, of "obstructing" death penalty bills.

"We in Congress were elected to lead, we were elected to make decisions, and that means vote on important bills rather than shuffling them away to a committee that never acts on them," Sensenbrenner said.

Amendments are offered directly on the floor without going through committees.

Several members said the death penalty is needed because it would deter a "new" type of spy, the one who betrays for money, not because of ideology.

"The only way to get the attention of people who will sell out their country for a few thousand dollars because they have a marriage problem, an economic problem, or they just want to buy a new water-ski boat, is to have capital punishment applied," said Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif. "That gets the attention of greedy people."

Town hall meetings popular trend

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — The Texas Attorney General's Office will investigate claims officials in the Northeast Texas town of Domino are breeding contempt and disrespect among residents by issuing multiple traffic citations and imposing maximum fines to residents, authorities said.

Neal Birmingham, Cass County district attorney, wrote the attorney general's office this month asking for assistance in probing Domino's police department and city court, the Texarkana Gazette reported today.

The city issues multiple traffic tickets and imposes maximum fines to the point where it appears "to be the rule rather than the exception," Birmingham said in his letter.

"Their actions are causing public contempt and disrespect for all law enforcement and all courts in the area and outright oppression to the general public," the letter said.

But despite complaints outlined in the letter, Birmingham told the Gazette that "as far as I know right now, Domino officials haven't done anything unlawful. I'm not really at liberty to discuss the subject, because a grand jury is still considering the matter."

Joe Max Hensley, a spokesman for the state attorney general's office, told the newspaper, "the the Cass County District Attorney's Office has requested our assistance in the matter, and we will look into the case."

"It's our job to investigate for any criminal wrongdoing in the state, and since they asked for our help, we're going to check it out," Hensley said. "At the present time, we haven't seen any evidence at all.

Solar greenhouses becoming popular additions in homes

A solar greenhouse is becoming a popular home addition in Texas, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

Most homeowners install solar greenhouses off the living room, but more are used adjacent to kitchens, bathrooms and bedrooms, says Dr. Peggy Owens.

An increasing number of greenhouses are being used as spa enclosures for hot tubs or whirlpools, she adds.

Kits of pre-fab greenhouses are available in a variety of sizes and shapes, but may be too complicated for the average do-it-yourselfer, cautions the specialist. For that reason, many homeowners prefer to deal with an experienced greenhouse contractor.

If you're thinking of installing a solar greenhouse, Owens offers the following tips:

• Check on summer shading or screening for greenhouses that used sloped glass.

• Double-pane glass is recommended in most cases, and if the greenhouse is part of the living space, find out how to insulate the glass on winter nights.

• If the greenhouse is a separate structure, add a door to close off the unit from the main living space.

With an average cost of $10,000 for an 8 by 13 prefab solar greenhouse, homeowners should carefully plan for this addition, she says.

But adult collectors

Comic attract not just kids

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Move over, Archie and Veronica. Comics aren't just for kids any more.

Companies that gave kids of the 1930s and '40s adventures such as "Superman" and "Captain Marvel" now produce flashier funnies designed for an older — and wealthier — generation.

"There's no money in selling comic books for kids," said Trip Reynolds, 31, of Arlington, a comic book collector for 25 years. "Adults are the serious collectors."

Local experts estimate that between 50 percent and 60 percent of all comic books are purchased by people aged 15 to 25. The majority of those readers are men.

"Ninety percent of all comic books on the market today are super hero," said Craig Miller, 25, manager of Lone Star Comics in Arlington. "There aren't too many women interested in super hero comics."

Not only are more adults buying comics, more adults are collecting comics. Reynolds and Craig both said they have thousands of comic books in their private collections — such as "The X-Men," "Tales of the Teen Titans" and "Six From Sirius."

"I buy everything that comes in," said Tim Nolen, a comic book collector for 10 years and a back-issue employee at Lone Star Comics "We usually get 10 to 20 titles (comic books) each week."

Nolen, 21, said he spends "a fair amount of my day" with his head buried in a comic book. Some collectors, like Miller, only read their favorite comics but buy other books for their collections.

"If I've been collecting a certain title since it started, I'll keep buying the title, even if the story has gotten boring," Miller said.

At 75 cents a shot for most titles, comic books still are cheap entertainment — except for the serious collector. In 1983, Reynolds said he spent $1,368.46 — or about $26 a week — on comics. Miller estimates that most serious collectors that visit Lone Star Comics spend between $50 and $100 a month.

Most of those comic books are read once or not at all, sheathed in plastic and stored in cardboard boxes, Miller said.

"I keep them for the fun of it," Miller said. "I like to look through them.... look at old issues."

There is money to be made in comic book collecting. Comic books that are rare and in mint condition — like the first issue of a popular series — can be sold for several hundred dollars, Miller said.

Most serious collectors, however, aren't interested in selling.

"Since comic book collecting became popular again (in the early 1960s), old comic books have been surfacing," Miller said. "Most of my comic books won't be worth a lot of money for some time."

According to comic book fans, today's super hero is nothing like his predecessor. The super hero is "easy to identify with" and deals with "real life" problems, Reynolds said.

Take for instance, Iron Man, alias Tony Stark, a multimillionaire industrialist who has been upholding justice in a solar-powered iron suit since 1962. Stark has become an alcoholic and has been unable to perform his super hero duties for two years, Reynolds said.

Baytown firefighters cherish 'a grand ol' lady'

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — To outsiders, fire truck No. 35 appears to be only a collage of nuts, bolts and hoses; but to Baytown firefighters "she's a grand ol' lady."

"Thirty-five," as they affectionately call the 1947 Mack pumper, was "born" in Allentown, Pa.

The truck was made to specifications of Baytown's fire department and shipped to the southeast Texas oil town on a box car, says retired fire chief L.V. Bailey.

"They had to borrow $7,000 to pay for her," he recalled.

The truck, which bore no unit number in its early days, was housed at the old Goose Creek Fire Department station. The building now houses Baytown Fire Station 3.

Before he advanced through the ranks to become fire chief, Bailey was the only paid firefighter in the department. All other personnel were volunteers.

No. 35 joined the department's only other truck, a 1929 Seagraves.

"She was one of the most up-to-date pieces of equipment," Bailey said. "She drove real good," in spite of the lack of power steering, he said.

No. 35 and Seagraves truck made all of the major fires in Goose Creek. In addition they answered mutual aid calls to Pelly and Baytown — the other two cities in what was called the Tri-Cities before their incorporation into one town.

"We kept the two trucks running at most of the fires," Bailey said. The newer truck carried 300 gallons of water in the booster tank while the Seagraves had only a 150-gallon capacity booster tank.

"There were no radios then, either," he said. "We put those in later on." The trucks were dispatched by telephone and by an alarm, Bailey said.

During those early days, No. 35 was accompanied on most runs by Pudge, a small black dog owned by the Baileys, who lived in an apartment above the station.

When the fire alarm sounded, Bailey would grab his gear and head out on No. 35. He said he would almost be at the fire before he turned around to see Pudge sitting on the back of the truck.

One day at the scene of a fire, Pudge jumped off on the wrong side of the truck and was struck by a car.

"After the fire was over, I brought the dog back to be buried behind the fire station," Bailey said.

In 1957, No. 35 was moved to Station 4 on Ward Road as the front line pumper and was assigned the number 40.

Ten years later, No. 35 was reassigned to Station 3 as a reserve truck and given the number 32. It wasn't until 1978 that the truck was given its present number, 35.

Since reassignment as a reserve pumper, No. 35 is used primarily for public relations.

"Kids relate to her more than a new truck," Capt. Bernard Olive said. "One day we took the new ladder truck and her to Ashbel Smith Elementary, and the kids left the ladder truck and took to her like a duck takes to water."

Olive said one of No. 35's biggest honors came in the 1981 Houston Cease Fire Parade when it was named best antique truck. Grand marshals Ron Stone and Greg Shry, the muscular dystrophy poster child, rode on the truck.

No. 35 has gone on to win numerous awards in area parades. And each year, it has become a tradition for the truck to carry Santa during the Baytown Christmas parade and the parade marshal during the July Fourth parade.

Olive said No. 35 has quite a reputation in the area.

"They call and invite her to attend," Olive said.

In an effort to keep the truck in good running shape, and because it must be driven to out-of-town functions, Olive limits No. 35's travel to a 40-mile radius.

The longest trip No. 35 ever made was at the end of last year when Olive drove it to Huntsville to get a "facelift" — the first since 1968.

"Going to those fires, she suffered heat damage and received some knocks by equipment. We wanted to restore her to her original appearance," Olive said.

Firefighters love the truck so much that several requested in their wills that it be used instead of a hearse to carry their bodies from the chapel to the grave. That duty was faithfully performed at the funerals of captains Henry Rowe and James Thompson.

"A firefighter feels real strong about the truck he serves on. His life depends on it," Olive said.

"It just becomes a part of you. A firefighter gets to know how his truck will respond during a fire simply by listening to the engine," Olive said.

"We are very grateful to city officials who saw fit to preserve her. We are proud to know they care enough about our forefathers to keep a piece of history. And although her firefighting days are over, she has just begun a new era for she is truly the grand ol' lady of the Baytown Fire Department."

Jewish leader urges blacks and jews to unite

DALLAS (AP) — A Jewish leader addressing the NAACP blamed the breakdown of interaction between blacks and Jews on a lack of communication, but he added that it was not too late to rebuild relations and form "a coalition of equals."

When Rabbi David Saperstein spoke before NAACP convention delegates Tuesday, it was the first time in at least 10 years that a prominent Jewish leader had addressed one of the group's national conventions.

Saperstein, representing the Union of American Hebrew Congregations at the invitation of the NAACP, said he came to the group's 76th annual convention in Dallas to shatter some myths and stereotypes involving Jews.

"The breakdown of interaction between the two communities has made us less sensitive to each other's fears and needs, conveying a sense of betrayal and disappointment," Saperstein said.

"Jews have failed to appreciate that affirmative action is as precious to blacks as Israel is to Jews, that pride in Rev. (Jesse) Jackson's successes has little to do with his view on the PLO but everything to do with his ability," he said.

The majority of the six million Jews in America support affirmative action programs, but the very vocal and visible Jewish Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith opposes affirmative action.

"To the black community the ADL represents the entire Jewish community. I am here today to tell you that this stereotype is wrong," he said.

Also Tuesday, a California congressman told NAACP members that they would not be able to change the Reagan administration's stand on civil rights.

"Civil rights, affirmative action and equal educational opportunity are not accepted practices in Washington, D.C., namely in the executive branch," U.S. Rep. Esteban Torres, a Los Angeles-area Democrat, told convention delegates Tuesday.

He said the solution is not a prolonged anti-Reagan harangue "because we're not going to change anybody's mind up there in 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue."

Instead, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People members must prod their congressmen for pro-civil rights action, Torres said.

Embassies to be built to enhance security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department, at a cost of $3.5 billion, is planning to replace or renovate 126 embassies and consulates felt to be vulnerable to terrorist attack.

The program, which will affect almost half of the 262 such missions the United States has overseas, represents the most ambitious effort to date to enhance security at U.S. diplomatic posts.

The recommendations were contained in a report by an advisory panel formed last July by Secretary of State George P. Shultz following terrorist attacks in 1983 at the U.S. embassies in Beirut and Kuwait. The panel was chaired by former CIA Deputy Director Bobby Inman.

Disclosing State Department acceptance of the recommendations, Assistant Secretary of State Robert Lamb told a news conference Tuesday that about 75 of the posts will be rebuilt at new locations.

He said many of the missions scheduled for removal are difficult to protect because they have glass fronts or are located in downtown areas and share a common wall with adjacent structures. Others, he said, face a "serious espionage threat."

An 82-page report submitted by the panel and made public on Tuesday said the current situation at overseas posts "cannot be allowed to continue unchanged."

The countries in which the program will be carried out were not identified.

It's time, Americans, to put your mouth where your money is. You want a simplified tax system. You now have a President proposing a simplified tax system. Yet from all directions, special interest lobbyists have converged on Capitol Hill demanding specific exemptions.

Enough exemptions, of course, and we will be no better off than now. You have more clout than anybody if you will use it. Your Republican President and your Democratic cheerleader, Danny Rostenkowski, are urging you to cooperate with your congressman or congresswoman. Your postcard does matter. For four years a single mosquito, multiplied, blocked the Panama Canal. It was a single snowflake, which stopped Napoleon. "Snowflake," Uncle Sam needs you.

And here is what he needs you to do: Fall in line behind the simpler, fairer tax code which, at least, reduces the present 14 tax brackets to three. Maybe the first-step package is imperfect, but it is a first step-away from a system so complex that nobody understands it and so full of holes that there are junkies, artful dodgers and jillionaires paying no taxes at all.

TaxPAYERS have most to lose if they nit-pick at the new package while NON-taxpayers shout it down. With a Republican President proposing something everybody wants - a simpler, fairer tax system - you'd think Republicans would converge in unanimous support. They haven't. This will sound like a digression, but I learned machine politics under Chicago's Dick Daley. However Mayor Daley divided the spoils of public office, he had his polyglot population pulling together as it never has before or since.

However he favored political friends, the fact that Dick Daley lived modestly and died less than wealthy attests to his first allegiance: "A city that works." Like FDR, his personal idol, he made Democrats out of Republicans. Today's national Republican leadership could use a little machine-oil.

Such is the Reagan magnetism that whole states are switching parties-Texas, Florida, South Carolina. In the Senate, Bob Dole is a strong leader. If he could persuade partisan colleagues to stop their free-wheeling competing in favor of cooperating-to resist compromising away his present best hope for embracing the interests of all Americans of both parties, they could identify themselves for a generation with a system of taxation which we can all understand and afford support.
