County votes to support two water amendments

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners voted in favor of a resolution Monday morning to back Propositions 1 and 2 in the Nov. 5 general election.

Rep. John Smithee told the commission that Proposition 1 is a general water bill that will benefit average water patrons and that Proposition 2 would allow the Texas Water Development Board to issue and sell Texas agriculture and water conservation bonds. The water bonds would be the general obligation of the state.

Smithee also added that there is some opposition coming from the more populated areas of the state.

"This bill is critical to the future of the state and the Panhandle," Smithee said. "I am trying to gather support for these bills, we need people here to vote for them to offset the votes down state."

Smithee said that the only argument that he has heard about the bill is that the people of the more populated areas feel that the bill has nothing in it for them.

"Eighty percent of all the water that falls on Texas is never put to productive use," Smithee stated. "If we can control it better we are much more efficient."

Proposition 2 would assist farmers in buying water efficient types of equipment. Through using the state's credit rating bonds could be purchased to provide money for farmers and ranchers to borrow.

The amendment, if passed, would have no direct cost to the state because the individual water districts and communities would secure the loans and be responsible for them.

Proposition 1 would create funds for water conservation, water development, water quality, flood control, drainage, and agricultural soil and water conservation.

The commissioners also heard from county Extension agent Dennis Newton, who asked for permission to advertise for bids for a new pick-up to be used by the extension agency. The commissioners voted to allow for the bids.

The county will be taking bids on a three-quarter ton crew cab pick-up. The current vehicle that is being used by the Extension agency has over 90,000 miles on it.

Commissioners also heard from Sheriff Joe Brown, who was also asking for permission to advertise for bids on two new vehicles. Brown stated that the sheriff's office is in need of a van for transporting prisoners. Currently the sheriff's office uses cars to transport prisoners and in many cases two or more cars must be used at once. The other vehicle Brown mentioned would be a four-wheel-drive.

The commissioners voted to allow Brown to advertise for bids as soon as possible.

In other action the commission voted to drop the position of full time assistant Extension agent for home economics, and make the position part-time. This is due to state cutbacks in the Extension programs and, according to Extension agent Newton, the state has eliminated five positions in the region and over a hundred across the state.

The commission also decided to support the Texas Association of counties in support in the Bush vs. Viterna case. The county will contribute $350 to the case that if won will allow the counties to run jails as they see fit.

Farm bill called 'unresponsible'

The new farm bill passed by the House last week is "unresponsible" and there will be a floor fight on the bill after the Senate considers the legislation, declares Marion Garland of Sunray, president of the American Agriculture Movement.

American Ag, a nationwide farm organization, has been lobbying in Washington since January for its own version of a farm bill that would place mandatory controls on the production of farm commodities and raise loan rates to the cost of production.

The House version, HB 2100, is a revised version of the current farm bill, claim critics. Garland declares that the House bill will be "the most expensive piece of farm legislation ever written." He says it will run $40 billion over the budget in the next four years. The bill carries a $141 billion price tag.

"Farm legislation which AAM has proposed would be $2.8 billion below the budget ceiling," he claims. Garland does not expect President Reagan to sign the farm bill in its present form. He also thinks the Senate will add a series of amendments, requiring action by a conference committee to iron out the differences.

The new farm bill provides for loans to farmers through the federal Commodity Credit Corporation and crop deficiency payments, based on the difference between a target price established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the average market price paid to farmers during a marketing period.

An essential difference, however, is the discretionary power given to the Secretary of Agriculture to lower loan rates as much as 25 percent to bring prices down and make U.S. farm commodities competitive on the world market.

The bill also freezes target prices for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, cotton and rice at the current levels for the next two years. Current target prices are $4.38 a bushel for wheat; $3.13 per bushel for corn, and $2.98 a bushel for grain sorghum.

"House Bill 2100 is worse than what we have now because commodity loan rates can be lowered and there are no controls on production," claims Garland. "This bill adds to the financial problems facing farmers rather than providing a remedy."

Band nets 28th win at contest

The Hereford High School Marching Band garnered its twenty-eighth consecutive superior rating in District contests Saturday at UIL competition in Borger.

The band was under direction of Johnny Martinez.

Judges George Riddell, Phil Anthony and O.T. Ryan, gave critiques which said the band made a "very good first impression... had a nice sound and variety in dynamics and tempo."

Judges also said the band had nice horn carriage, good flag work and fine individual work on a feature number.

The band "displayed a lot of confidence and was very well taught" according to the judges.

Palestinian leader evades authorities, exits Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The whereabouts of a Palestinian leader wanted by U.S. authorities in last week's hijacking of an Italian cruise ship remained a mystery today after Yugoslavia reportedly allowed him to leave the country in defiance of U.S. wishes.

The State Department said Monday it had not been informed officially by Yugoslavia that Mohammed Abbas, 38, had departed the country, but a Palestine Liberation Organization official and the Yugoslav news agency said Abbas had left the country for an undisclosed location.

The State Department also said Syrian authorities had discovered the body of an elderly man that washed ashore near the port city of Tartus. U.S. officials said they were seeking to learn if it was that of Leon Klinghoffer, 69, of New York City, who was killed during the hijacking.

The hijacking of the Achille Lauro on Oct. 7 has left in its wake a series of bitter diplomatic disappointments for the Reagan administration with the apparent decision of Yugoslavia to join Italy and Egypt in rejecting American appeals for cooperation. All three countries are regarded as friendly to the United States.

The State Department said it would be "extremely upset and disappointed" if the reports of Abbas's departure from Yugoslavia were true. The United States had asked Yugoslavia to detain Abbas pending a formal request for his extradition.

"We've not had success in Yugoslavia at this moment, although discussions have continued," FBI Director William H. Webster said Monday.

Webster said the FBI has two teams of investigators in Italy. He said he did not know to what extent U.S. authorities will be able to join Italian authorities in investigating the ship hijacking. The four Palestinians are being held by Italy and face prosecution.

Abbas had flown to Yugoslavia on Saturday from Italy, where there were indications his abrupt departure has provoked a government crisis. The Italian decision has drawn a "firm and severe" protest from the United States.

Attorney General Edwin Meese said "there is no safe haven as far as we're concerned. We'll pursue Mr. Abbas as we would any other fugitive. He is an international criminal."

The Reagan administration's sense of triumph last Thursday over its success in capturing the four Palestinian hijackers has been dissipating in the face of the diplomatic setbacks.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, ignoring U.S. attempts to put relations back on a friendly footing, said Monday he wanted an

Reagan 'mighty proud' of pilots' job

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — President Reagan, making his first political trip since ordering Navy pilots to capture the hijackers of an Italian cruise liner, told Republican supporters today he is "mighty proud of the job" the pilots did.

Setting out to raise money for two Republicans elected to the Senate on his political coattails in 1980 and facing re-election next year, Reagan made only one brief mention of the successful military operation that White House officials said would boost the already-popular president's standing in public opinion polls.

In remarks prepared for a camaign fund-raiser for Sen. Steve Symms, Reagan said Symms, as a former Marine, "understands that the fellas who intercepted those terrorists last week need to know we're behind them all the way."

"And I can tell you, I'm mighty proud of the job they did, as I know you are."

One senior White House official, speaking on condition he not be named, said the administration is trying not to boast too loudly about the in-flight interception over the Mediterranean last Thursday of an Egyptian jetliner carrying the Palestinians charged with killing American tourist Leon Klinghoffer.

"There was an inclination," the official said, "to let the deed speak for itself."

Nor did Reagan's text, laced with political rhetoric about the improving economy, make mention of Palestine Liberation Front leader Mohammed Abbas' getaway from Italy through Yugoslavia to a hideout somewhere in the Arab world.

The United States has formally accused Abbas with masterminding the piracy.

Reagan, returning to Idaho for the first time in five years, said it was "a little like coming home to old friends after a trip through the twilight zone."

Resuming his attack on Washington and its supposed liberal establishment, Reagan scoffed at what he called his opposition's attempt to attribute the recovery to "luck, personality or the celestial effects of Halley's Comet."

"Our program, aimed at private sector growth rather than more government and higher taxes, stood in stark contrast to failed liberal policies of the past two decades," Reagan said. "It was about as popular with the Washington establishment as a skunk at a lawn party."

Boasting about the tax cuts he won but not the record deficits that accompanied them, Reagan called for enactment of the new Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction plan, which mandates a balanced budget by 1990. "The American people," he said, "will not tolerate any attempt to scuttle this last best hope to come to grips with the budget deficit."

Before the president set out from Washington, his chief political adviser, Mitchell Daniels Jr., said Reagan was getting out early to help stuff the campaign war chests of Republicans who expect close races next year, when the party will be struggling to hang onto its majority in the Senate.

Schools celebrate lunch week

"We don't have to serve spinach anymore, so I don't," declares Trudy Gray, director of the Hereford Schools cafeteria.

"You could put french fries on every day and they would think it was really good," Gray said, adding that some variety is needed to keep the plates full of a federal class nutritional lunch.

Hereford Schools are joining other public schools across the nation for National School Lunch Week through Saturday. Regional menus are featured through the week with Friday left as Freedom of Choice Day as part of the "Salute to Freedom" theme.

Mrs. Gray also has arranged for cafeterias to be decorated with balloons and posters this week to lend a festive atmosphere.

When she hears "What's for lunch?" from a student, hamburgers and tacos get the most grins. But, casseroles are the least favored by the students, according to Gray. She said on a "bun day" the bread man delivers enough to feed 3,500 burgers.

However, with help of government commodities such as flour, all other breads, cookies, and desserts served in the Hereford cafeterias are fresh baked daily. Cookies are the most popular dessert (peanut butter being the most often served) and brownies are a hit, too.

"We just think it's better to bake fresh," Gray said. "And we've got to have our ladies here — we just put them to work."

Cafeteria workers arrive at 7:30 each morning to get lunch on the table by noon. Gray makes all the purchasing of groceries and other items leaving her eight managers to run each campus cafeteria.

After 11 years in the overall manager's post, Gray said planning the menus isn't hard. She has to make sure each lunch is nutritional and appealing to the students two weeks in advance so orders can be made in time.

When school is out, June is the month for her to close out the past year and get ready for the next one. In August she begins to "get down to serious business" of hiring and ordering.

Two burglaries checked

City police are investigating a burglary that took place over the weekend at Green Top Apartments. Reported stolen were a .25 caliber pistol, a stereo, an alarm clock, a 19 inch color television, a wrist watch and $60 in cash.

Another burglary was reported at the Quick Stop Beer and Wine where a door was kicked in and $140 was taken.

Also reported over the weekend were two bike thefts, a theft of hub-caps, two family disturbances, and two reports of a suspicious persons following people.

Police made two arrests for driving while intoxicated, two traffic arrests and two arrests for public intoxication.

Good news, bad news

There's some good news and bad news in the United Way of Deaf Smith County campaign drive for 1985-86.

The bad news is that only 23 percent of the goal of $130,625 has been attained in five weeks of the drive. The good news is that only 23 percent of the prospects have been contacted for a contribution or pledge, reports campaign chairman Roger Eades.

Contributions and pledges totalled $30,000 this week, and just 291 cards were returned to reach that total. "The potential is there to make this a successful drive," said Eades, "but we've got to have our volunteer workers make the contacts and follow up on the calls."

The United Way campaign is striving to raise $130,625 for 10 agencies—Camp Fire, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, YMCA, Senior Citizens, Family Services Center, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Children's Rehabilitation Center and the Hi Plains Epilepsy Foundation.

The fund-raising drive is divided into eight divisions, each with a goal: Agriculture $5,000; General $5,250; Major $47,000; Metro $18,500; Pacesetters $22,425; Professional $10,250; Special $17,500; and Whiteface $4,700.

The general division is ahead on percentage of its goal with 70 percent, according to Wayne Amstutz, executive director. Carla Sargent and June Owen are co-leaders of that

Nobel prize winners announced

DALLAS (AP) — Respect that Nobel Prize winners Michael S. Brown and Joseph Goldstein shared for each other's opinions and intellect was key to carrying out the research that won them the prestigious prize, Goldstein said.

The two University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas faculty members worked together as interns at Massachusetts General Hospital from 1966-68 and were reunited in 1972 at Southwestern Medical School.

"We get along well, and even though we argue about an experiment ... those things turn out to be trivial," Goldstein said. "So in the long run I think we respect one another's opinion and intellect and we made this discovery simultaneously and together 12 or 13 years ago, and it was an exciting discovery."

Monday, Brown, 44, and Goldstein, 45, were announced as winners of the 1985 Nobel Prize in medicine for their discovery of cell receptors that affect the uptake of cholesterol-containing particles called low density lipoproteins (LDL), which circulate in the bloodstream.

The Nobel Institute said the discoveries of the two could lead to new treatment of cholesterol-related atherosclerosis, which can lead to heart attacks and strokes that claim hundreds of thousands of lives each year.

Officials send out AIDS warning

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The local health department has warned residents who have AIDS to refrain from sex, sharing hypodermic needles, donating blood or organs, or any other activity that might spread the deadly disease.

The city-county health department hand-delivered letters Monday to 17 known AIDS victims, warning them they could face criminal charges if they refuse to comply.

Dr. Courand Rothe, director of the San Antonio Metropolitan Health District, said the letters also warn against donating semen or tissues.

Also in the letter is a warning that AIDS victims must notify their physicians and dentists that they have the disease. A violation of the requirements would be a third-degree felony, Rothe said the letter points out.

The doctor said he became concerned about the spread of acquired immune deficiency syndrome in San Antonio after a male prostitute in Houston who has AIDS said he would not refrain from sexual activity.

Rothe said he began hearing reports of at least three people in San Antonio who would not limit their activities.

Rothe said the provisions in the letter can be enforced "only if there is a credible complaint from someone."

Patient aided by winning research

DALLAS (AP) — Two Texas doctors' Nobel Prize-winning medical research was instrumental in saving Stormie Jones, the world's first heart-liver transplant patient and the only one to survive the operation.

Her double transplant on Valentine's Day 1984 was heralded as a major step for science, but scientists agree that it could not have occurred without research at the University of Texas Health Sciences Center at Dallas.

On Monday, doctors Michael S. Brown, 44, and Joseph Goldstein, 45, were announced as winners of the 1985 Nobel Prize in medicine.

The award cited their discovery of cell receptors that affect the uptake of cholesterol-containing particles, called low density lipoproteins (LDL), that circulate in the bloodstream.

An absence of those LDL receptors links the ills of Stormie to others, including the late jogging enthusiast James Fixx.

Brown and Goldstein participated in the diagnosis of the condition of Stormie, a Cumby, Texas, girl who was 6 when the transplant operation was conducted at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Chrysler talks go overtime

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and unions representing 80,000 workers in the United States and Canada bargained today in efforts to avoid strikes in one or both countries at midnight.

Although neither side would give a progress report, a new offer by Chrysler in Canada raised hopes that an agreement could be reached before the deadline and that progress was being made in the U.S. talks.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber, representing 70,000 workers in 32 U.S. plants and depots, has set no formal strike deadline but did say there would be no use bargaining past the expiration of the current pact if talks aren't progressing.

A strike in one country would paralyze operations in the other within days because the U.S. and Canadian parts and assembly operations work as a unit.

The UAW, whose members gave up an estimated $1 billion in concessions to help keep Chrysler alive, want the healthy company to grant parity in wages, benefits and job security with workers at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

The sessions at company headquarters here were in subcommittees, where the master contract is put together piece by piece.

A daylong suspension of talks in Canada ended late Monday night in Toronto when Chrysler dropped its original wage demand and made an offer more to the liking of Robert White, the militant leader of the 10,000-member UAW of Canada.

UAW spokesman David Mitchell told reporters early this morning that the U.S. bargaining hadn't recessed.

Wildfires rages across California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At least a dozen wildfires, fanned by hot, dry winds blowing out of the mountains, raged across Southern California today, charring at least 8,000 acres and 10 houses, forcing evacuations of 2,400 people and killing a man who tried to defend his home, authorities say.

One thousand firefighters from Ventura County in the west to San Bernardino County in the east battled the fast-moving blazes.

Three fires burned at least 5,600 acres near Malibu, 40 miles west of downtown Los Angeles, one of them racing down brush-covered hills to the sea and forcing about 400 residents and 2,000 students at Pepperdine University to flee. The students were allowed to return to the campus, which overlooks the Pacific Ocean, about four hours later, said Mike Adam, a school spokesman.

"There are a lot of moving vans on the highway," said Kathy Brown at her Malibu Realty Co. office. "You usually see moving vans and horse trailers in the area when there is a fire."

Flames were fanned by hot, dry Santa Ana winds, heated over the Mojave Desert and pushed through mountain passes into populous areas by a high-pressure ridge over the southwestern states.

National Weather Service meteorologist Peter Wilensky said the winds were dying down "a little bit" Monday afternoon, but said advisories were expected to remain in effect throughout the night.

Manchee to head state educators

Mal Manchee, director of program development for Hereford Independent Schools, will be installed next week as president of the Association of Compensatory Educators of Texas.

The organization, for persons involved in administration of federal programs in schools, will have one of its bi-annual conventions at the Amarillo Hilton on Oct. 23-25. About 400 members are expected to attend. Manchee will be installed on the morning of Oct. 25.

day evening with John Erickson, author of the Hank the Cowdog series, as guest speaker. Texas Education Agency Commissioner Bill Kirby will speak at Thursday's luncheon and Vaughan Gary, executive vice president of Southwest Foods, is Friday's speaker.

The convention also will include about 22 workshops on federal programs for education.

Manchee said the group's main purpose is to attempt to influence legislation and regulation concerning programs for disadvantaged youth.

Other Hereford educators to attend are Ed McCreary, Ophelia Echevarria, and Dr. Harrell Holder.

Manchee is taking his post after serving a year as president elect and being involved for about four years in committee work with the organization. He succeeds Amy Perkins of Harlandale School District in San Antonio.

He is the first president to be elected from the Panhandle area and said it was also a first for the fall convention to be held in the Panhandle.

Tax overhaul plan fading away

WASHINGTON (AP) — Renewed concern over federal red ink and the prospect of prolonged negotiations between the House and Senate on a balanced-budget plan have left President Reagan's tax overhaul proposals fading from the congressional agenda.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., sent the administration a reminder of that on Monday when he issued a statement saying a lengthy bargaining session over the budget plan along with a crowded Senate agenda could well doom any chances for passing major tax legislation this year.

Dole also fired another shot at the administration for its handling of the situation.

The balanced budget plan passed by the Senate last week is attached to legislation raising the government's borrowing authority — the national debt limit — to more than $2 trillion. The government has reached its current borrowing ceiling of $1.824 trillion and Dole was using the threat of government checks bouncing to spur action on the budget plan.

However, with no cash on hand and Congress delaying the borrowing authority increase, the Treasury Department turned last week, for the first time, to the borrowing authority of the Federal Financing Bank to cover a $5 billion auction of notes.

The bank was created in 1973 to manage the government's debt. The auction last week temporarily eased the crisis, but raised Dole's ire.

He lashed out again Monday saying, "Like Christopher Columbus discovering the wrong continent, the Treasury Department may be just discovering an unwanted consequence of its unprecedented decision to tap into the Federal Financing Bank to finance the deficit."

Dole added, "By taking the pressure off the House to increase the debt ceiling, Treasury may well doom the tax bill."

Treasury Department officials had indicated that with Congress' failure to pass a new debt ceiling, the bank was the only alternative to a government default.

But there has been some grumbling among Republicans that the Reagan administration is so intent on gaining passage of the tax bill that they went ahead with the emergency auction despite the misgivings of Treasury officials.

Cattle seminar to be held

An intensive study on artificial insemination and pregnancy determination of cattle will be presented in Hereford by the Deaf Smith County Extension Service on Oct. 22-25.

Jack Willie of American Breeder Service will conduct the seminar.

The cost for the two-day seminar on artificial insemination is $200. Class sessions will be from 8:30 a.m. until noon at the Hereford Commuty Center and lab sessions will be held in the afternoon at Caviness Packing on U.S. 60.

The last two days are dedicated to pregnancy determination. The venue will remain the same for those two days. The cost of the seminar is $150 and the insemination seminar is a prerequisite.

For further information, contact the county Extension office.

apology for President Reagan's decision to intercept with F-14 jetfighters the Egyptian airliner that was carrying the four Palestinians.

Instead of apologizing, the State Department referred reporters to Reagan's statement last Friday on Egypt's role in the incident.

Reagan said then, "There is too much at stake with regard to peace in the Middle East for us to let a single incident of one kind or a disagreement of this kind color that relationship."

Implicitly criticizing Egypt, Italy and Yugoslavia for letting Abbas go free, Secretary of State George Shultz said Monday, "When we get our hands on terrorists, we have to prosecute them." Terrorists, he said, are "animals."

Abbas was part of the PLO team that negotiated the surrender of the four gunmen who hijacked the vessel. Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, said Abbas' role in encouraging the surrender of the hijackers helped prevent "a far greater tragedy."

Subsequently, he accompanied the hijackers aboard the Egyptian jetliner on what they thought was a flight to freedom in Tunisia.

These other developments Monday:

—The chief bartender on the Achille Lauro watched as two of the ship's hijackers shot Klinghoffer in the chest, an American passenger said in Newark, N.J.

—The Pentagon issued a statement denying that Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger had disagreed with President Reagan's decision to send Navy fighters to intercept the Egyptian airliner carrying the Palestinians.

Newsweek magazine had said Weinberger repeatedly told Reagan that such a move would "destroy our relations with Egypt."

The Pentagon said Weinberger gave Reagan advice "both pro and con" prior to the decision to intercept, but that the secretary "was in full agreement with the decision and carried it out without reservation."

division. The ag division, headed by Johnny Wall and Ted McWhorter, has attained 36 percent of its goal. Close with 33 percent of its goal is the Pacesetters, headed by Buddy Peeler and Dee Ann Trotter.

Amstutz urged persons and firms who have been contacted to call their volunteer when their cards are ready to return. Persons who want to join the "Be A Winner" campaign of the United Way and have not been contacted can call the UW office, 364-5220, or send a contribution to the United Way, Box 206, Hereford.

Preview of SAT offered

Hereford High School students will be able to preview the exam process for the Scholastic Aptitude Test on Oct. 22 by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Approximately 200 HHS students are expected to take the test, according to Betty Mercer of the school guidance staff.

Through the test students are selected for the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying program which enables students to compete for scholarships. Students can also use the test as a guide to see how they rank nationally among other students.

PTA to meet

Northwest PTA will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the school.

A representative from Amarillo Planned Parenthood will give the program "Parents Are the Facts of Life."

Ann Landers Ann celebrates

DEAR READERS: Today is my 30th anniversary as Ann Landers. I have written seven columns a week, 365 days a year, since Oct. 16, 1955. This adds up to 10,950 columns. Never has there appeared in this space a notice saying, "Ann Landers is on vacation."

It was my dear friend, Will Munnecke, then vice president and general manager of the Sun-Times, who suggested that I go to see Larry Fanning about entering the Ann Landers contest. I was green as grass, never had held a job before, never written a line for publication and in fact, had never been inside a newspaper building.

My daughter, Margo, was 15, a freshman at Francis Parker. I desperately needed an outlet for my time and energy. I wanted to be in a helping profession but had neither the training nor the experience.

Larry was overwhelmed by my credentials. (I was a wife and mother and enjoyed writing letters to relatives.) I confessed I didn't need the money but if they wanted to pay me it was OK.

Neither Fanning nor Munnecke was optimistic about my chances of winning the contest. In fact, I suspect they were appalled at my chutzpah. But they cheered me on and wished me luck. Miracle of miracles, I won. ("Good morning, Ann Landers!")

Larry Fanning was my mentor. He taught me how to write. He also edited every word I wrote for 10 years—every column, every booklet, every book, every magazine article, every speech. I couldn't pay him a dime. He wouldn't accept it. "It's part of my job," he said. We both knew it wasn't.

Months before Larry moved to Anchorage, Alaska, he told me, "If I get hit by a bread truck, Trez is your man." And so he was. Dick Trezevant, another Fanning protege, became my editor. For 14 years this brilliant, tough but tender guy kept the Landers copy on course. When Trez left I was lucky again. Ralph Otwell, the executive editor of the Sun-Times, took over. A few years later, when the paper was sold, Ralph left. He suggested Virginia Van Vynckt, chief of the features copy desk. I'd never met her. She turned out to be a gem.

I could never have made it without my devoted and competent staff. They keep my office running smooth as silk, handle the phones that never stop ringing, arrange my travel schedule and speaking dates, and save me from myself at least a dozen times a week.

My column is sold all over the world by News America Syndicate Rick Newcombe, the chief, is the brightest and most energetic man in the business. As you can see, the success of the Landers column goes far beyond what limited talent I may possess. I have had every break in the book.

I could not let this day pass without a word of thanks to my dozens of consultants all over the country who give so generously of their time and counsel. For the price of this paper my readers have access to the most distinguished physicians, dentists, psychiatrists, lawyers, geneticists, business executives, judges, clergy—experts in every field.

These last 30 years have been incredibly rewarding. I cannot imagine a job that could have provided me with more satisfaction or a better opportunity to touch the lives of so many people.

I wish to thank you, my 85 million readers, for your loyalty. You've stood by me in my time of trouble and rejoiced in my triumphs. I consider you my friends.

I have no plans to retire. I intend to crank out this column as long as you find me useful and the good Lord gives me strength to do it. On this special day, I send love and thanks to each and every one of you.

SHARES THE WORK

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide air cargo system has shareholders in the company delivering pouches, packs and letters.

As an employee incentive, John C. Emery Jr., chairman of Emery Worldwide, gave five shares of company stock to each of its 2,000 truck drivers.

Emery says, "The shares let the drivers know I consider them partners."

Manning has been the pastor of Baptist churches in Oklahoma and Texas including First Baptist Church of Hereford. Since 1982 he has given lectures and programs on various family issues. He is president of In-Sight Books, Inc. and the Family Growth Center of Hereford. He conducts seminars on pre-marriage, divorce, grief, dynamic listening and self-esteem.

As a lecturer, Manning has spoken with student groups in over 30 states and he has talked at many national and state conventions. His articles have appeared in several national magazines and he writes a weekly column in The Hereford Brand entitled The Penultimate Word.

Compassionate Friends is a self-help non-denominational organization offering friendship and understanding to bereaved parents and siblings who have experienced the death of a child from birth on up.

The purpose of the group is to aid in the positive resolution of grief through listening, sharing and understanding. There are no dues or fees.

For additional information on the meeting call Elaine Scott at (806)374-1123 or Wanda DeVoll at (806)352-5683.

Junior high school contests

Volleyball matches go to three games

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Volleyball fans were able to see a great deal of action Monday night when three junior high school matches each went three games.

In ninth grade action, La Plata lost game one to Levelland 15-4, won game two 17-15, and lost game three and the match to Levelland, 15-5.

La Plata and Stanton played each other in seventh and eighth grade matches.

La Plata defeated Stanton in the eighth grade match, 8-15, 15-10, 15-1. In the seventh grade match, Stanton beat La Plata 9-15, 15-11, 15-12.

Monday's matches were the season finales for the Stanton Junior High School teams.

La Plata Junior High School closes out its volleyball season with seventh and eighth grade matches at Levelland next Monday. There will be "A" and "B" team matches for each grade.

The La Plata ninth grade girls, after losing game one to Levelland 15-4, came back to defeat Levelland 17-15 in game two which was tied eight times.

La Plata led 1-0 in game two on a spike by Shey McGinty. Levelland then built up a 6-1 lead.

Wisty Mars and McGinty each hit spikes for points as La Plata closed the gap to 6-4 before Levelland scored for a 7-4 lead.

A dink by Mars, and service aces by Jamie Victor and McGinty helped La Plata move into a 7-7 tie.

The game was then tied 8-8, 9-9, 10-10, and 11-11. Kendra Tisdale blocked a Levelland spike for La Plata's eighth point, and a service ace by Maricella Ramirez gave La Plata its 11th point.

Levelland moved ahead 13-11, but a service ace by Mars and a dink by Clarisse Marquez tied up the game again at 13-13. La Plata gained a 14-13 lead when Levelland failed to get the ball over in three hits.

Levelland tied the game at 14-14 and went ahead 15-14 before Ramirez tied up the game once more with a service ace.

La Plata then scored two straight points for a 17-15 win when Levelland, on two straight serve receptions, failed to hit the ball over the net legally.

Game three was tied 1-1, 3-3 and 4-4 before Levelland pulled away for a 15-5 victory to claim the match.

Stanton won the first game of the eighth grade match, 15-8, but La Plata rallied for a 15-10 win in game two and beat Stanton 15-1 in game three.

Stanton built up a 13-0 lead in game one when Daphne Roddy served 13 straight times. Two of her serves were aces.

La Plata closed the gap to 13-8, with the last five points served by Nikki Self, who had three service aces.

Stanton won the game, 15-8, on a service ace by Chandra Brown.

Game two was tied at 1-1, 2-2, 3-3, 4-4 and 6-6 before Stanton built up a 10-6 lead.

Veronica Briceno of La Plata served nine straight times as La Plata won the game 15-10. Briceno three aces among her serves.

Briceno continued her successful serving in game three. The score was tied 1-1 when Briceno began serving the ball.

She served 14 straight times as La Plata won the game, and the match, 15-1. A spike by Stacy White led to La Plata's 13th point of the game.

The seventh grade match was the opposite of the eighth grade match, according to which school won which games. La Plata won game one, 15-9, only to have Stanton come back to win the next two games, 15-11 and 15-12.

Four straight serves by Stephanie Fox helped Stanton jump out to a 4-0 lead in game one. La Plata then scored 11 straight points, all coming after serves by Jennifer Betzen.

La Plata later led 13-9. One service ace by Doenna Torres and three service aces by Leslie Billingsley helped keep Stanton close.

La Plata won game one on a service ace by Brenna Reinauer.

Stanton held a 4-0 lead also in game two, with the first three points coming on service aces by Gloria Perez. Moments later, the game was tied 5-5.

Fox served nine straight times as Stanton went ahead 14-5. Three of Fox's serves were aces.

Reinauer served six straight times for La Plata as she and her teammates rallied to move to within three points of Stanton, 14-11.

The rally fell short, however, and Stanton won the game 15-11.

Game three was tied four times before La Plata built up an 11-4 lead. Among those seven straight points for La Plata were two spikes by Betzen and a service ace by Patricia Martinez.

Stephanie Fox served seven straight times, with three service aces, as Stanton tied the game at 11-11.

The game was also tied at 12-12 before Stanton went on to take the game and the match, 15-12.

La Plata Coach Marsha Fowler, commenting on her ninth grade team, said, "The freshman team is the most improved team at our school. They've been playing experienced teams, teams that have been playing three to four years."

"They've been using some sophisticated maneuvers. I was excited to see them experience some success and to begin to believe in themselves."

"We call the eighth grade team the Rally Kids or the Cardiac Kids," Fowler said.

"Our kids are doing more sophisticated moves than any other eighth grade teams we have played. Many of our players haven't been able to test their potential because we're in the basic stages," Fowler continues.

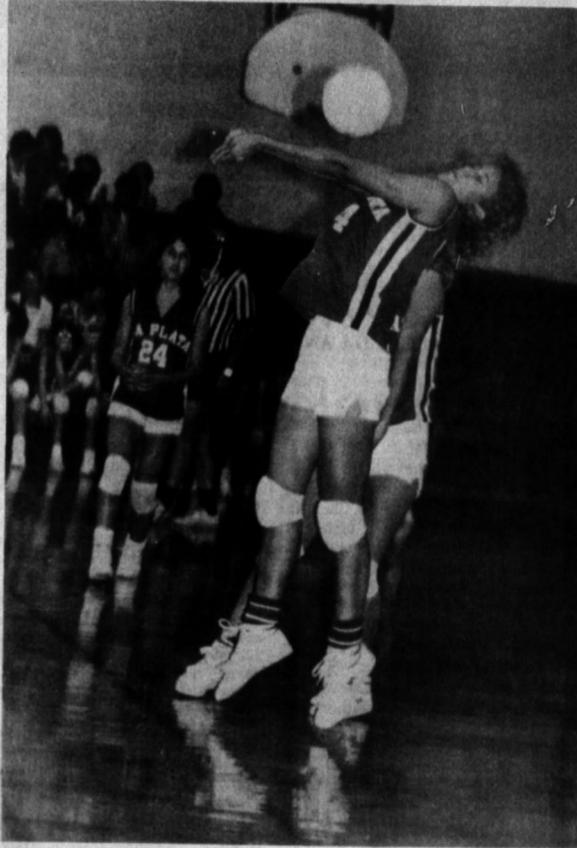

La Plata Coach Brenda Reeh, also the Hereford High School varsity volleyball coach, said, "Our eighth grade girls controlled the tempo of the game."

About the junior high school teams playing their first season of volleyball, Coach Reeh said, "As the high school head coach, I appreciate the effort the kids are putting in during their first year."

"This is the first major step of furthering the Hereford volleyball program. It's all due to the work and enthusiasm of the players, parents and administration."

Coach Fowler said, "The support of the public has exceeded anything we had foreseen."

HHS girls run to 3rd place finish in Lubbock meet

Hereford High School placed third in the varsity girls' division of the Lubbock Invitational cross country meet last Saturday, and the HHS varsity boys placed 26th.

This week the Hereford High teams will run in the Dumas meet, which starts at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Three Hereford girls placed in the top 15 at the Lubbock meet. Selmo Moreno finished in second place with a time of 12:27, eleven seconds behind race winner Isabel Perez of Tascosa.

Nancy Garza was fifth in 12:46, and Francis Flores was 14th in 13:26.

Other placings and times for Hereford runners in the varsity girls' division were: Delia Rodriguez, 39th, 14:01; Elia Hernandez, 103rd, 15:32; and Esther Del Toro, 105th, 15:37.

Hereford had 149 team points, third behind Tascosa with 79 points and El Paso Burges with 93 points.

In the varsity boys' division, the top three teams were El Paso Bel Air with 45 points, El Paso High with 60 points and El Paso Burges with 124 points. Hereford was 26th with 391 team points.

Placings and times for the Hereford boys were: Craig Waddell, 67th, 18:20; Ishmael Castillo, 95th, 19:07; Lupe Pena, 133rd, 21:01; Darrel Blevins, 136th, 21:16; and Jolby Springer, 137th, 21:18.

Benny Carrasco, a La Plata Junior High School freshman, placed third in the junior varsity boys' division with a time of 17:52.

Cardinals defeat Dodgers, 3-2

Ozzie Smith hits game-winning homer

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers wish that Ozzie Smith had stayed in character.

The slight St. Louis shortstop, who said that hitting home runs is "not my thing," stepped out of character on Monday with a ninth-inning homer that gave the Cardinals a dramatic 3-2 victory over the Dodgers and a 3-2 lead in games in the National League playoffs.

"I wasn't born to grow 6-2, 200 pounds. If I was, I'd take a few extra swings," Smith said. "I felt all my life I was a better offensive player than I've been given credit for. I've always had 48-49 RBI. This year I had 53."

The homer, on a 1-2 pitch from the Dodgers' hard-throwing right-hander, Tom Niedenfuer, was only the 14th of Smith's eight-year career.

"It's the first time I ever hit a home run left-handed (in 3,002 at-bats), but that wasn't really what I was trying to do," Smith said.

"I was trying to get an extra-base hit. I just happened to get under it. If the ball is hit down the line, it has a chance of going out of the ballpark, and that was it."

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said ... knew instantly that the low drive was gone. Smith said he wasn't at all certain.

"Whitey had a little better view from the dugout than I had. When I saw the umpire go like that (signaling a homer), I knew," he said. "It's a big moment for us. We knew that we had to win."

The victory gave St. Louis a sweep of the three playoff games at Busch Stadium, but now the series shifts to Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles, where St. Louis dropped the first two games of the series. Right-hander Joaquin Andujar will pitch Wednesday for St. Louis against the Dodgers' Orel Hershiser in a rematch of the Game 2 starters.

"Being down 2-0 and now being up 3-2, I feel pretty good," Herzog said. "I don't know who came up with this seven-game format. I'd like to go back to five."

"We're not even thinking about two games in Los Angeles. We know that we have to win one game," St. Louis second baseman Tommy Herr said. "It's important to do that, because if they win Game 6 they'll feel like they have momentum going for them in Game 7."

Herzog credited his bullpen for saving "probably the best ballgame of the series."

"They call them the 'bullpen by committee,' and that's what they really are," Herzog said. "We knew that if we didn't get to Fernando (Valenzuela) early, he'd find his groove, and that's what he did."

Valenzuela, who won Game 1, actually had more problems with his control than with St. Louis at the start.

Walks to Willie McGee and Smith set the stage for Herr in the opening inning. The Cards' top RBI man with 110 during the regular season responded with a two-run double, but that's all his team could get until the ninth.

Valenzuela struck out Cesar Cedeno with Herr at third to end the first inning, then fanned McGee to blunt a St. Louis threat in the second.

Los Angeles rebounded in the fourth to tie the game.

Ken Landreaux laced a high Bob Forsch delivery into center field for a single and, one out later, Bill Madlock blasted his second homer in two games.

Herzog wasted little time in replacing Forsch after the right-hander walked Mike Marshall on four pitches and then had his first pitch to Greg Brock lined deep but foul to right.

"I didn't think he was out of gas. Bobby started getting the ball up," said Herzog, who immediately summoned Ken Dayley to face Brock. "Today's ballgame was important. If we didn't win, I didn't think we would have a chance."

Dayley and Valenzuela matched deliveries through the sixth, with the Dodger left-hander twice escaping two-on, two-out St. Louis threats.

Todd Worrell bailed out Dayley in the seventh after Mike Scioscia walked and Enos Cabell singled. Worrell threw three balls to Steve Sax, who was trying to sacrifice, then stormed back to strike out the Dodger second baseman. He then got Valenzuela on a grounder to the mound and Mariano Duncan fouled out to catcher Darrell Porter.

Jeff Lahti, the third St. Louis reliever, picked up the victory after retiring the Dodgers in order in the ninth.

Niedenfuer came on in the bottom of the ninth for Valenzuela, who allowed only four hits but walked a playoff-record eight batters. Niedenfuer got McGee on a pop fly and had two strikes on Smith before surrendering the game-winning homer.

"It was not that bad a pitch," Dodger catcher Mike Scioscia said. "It was the last thing we really expected."

"Naturally I'm dumbstruck," Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda added. "In all my years in baseball, you learn to expect one thing — never expect the expected to happen. If Ozzie had 25 or 30 home runs, you could understand it. But this is what makes baseball so great."

Hall of Fame southpaw Eppa Jephtha Rixey pitched for 21 seasons in the National League and was with only two teams, the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds.

HHS spikers lose matches to Caprock

Hereford High School's varsity volleyball team struggled last Saturday when it lost to Caprock 15-2, 15-4 in a match played in Hereford.

The HHS junior varsity lost game one of its match, 15-4, but battled hard in game two before being edged by Caprock, 16-14.

The Hereford teams play at Palo Duro High School tonight, beginning at 7 p.m.

The Hereford varsity has an 0-17 record, including an 0-8 District 3-5A record, and the HHS junior varsity is 0-13.

On Saturday, Hereford meets Lubbock Coronado in varsity and junior varsity matches at the Hereford High School gym. The junior varsity match starts at 2 p.m.

The Hereford varsity fell behind Caprock 5-0 and 11-1 in losing game one, 15-2. In game two, the score was tied 1-1 and 2-2 before Caprock built up a 6-2 lead enroute to a 15-4 win

Carol Armor is winner in weekly football contest

Carol Armor missed four games to claim first place in last week's Brand football contest.

John Streun and George Loerwald tied for second place with five missed games each, but Streun won the second place prize according to the tie-breaker.

Four other people missed five games. They were Lani Ritchie, Cookie Tarr, Russell Evers, and Dorothy Schumacher.

Six games were missed by nine other people—Chad Clements, Melvin Kalka Sr., Larry Wartes, Joy Stagner, Jennifer Scott, Jim Hillwig, Cuby Kitchens, Karen Marsh, and Richard Ellis.

There were 170 entries in last week's contest. Look for the Brand football contest pages in today's issue for this week's games.

A.L. championship series resumes tonight at Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Mark Gubicza was a starter. Then he was a reliever. And then he was a starter again.

Tonight, the Kansas City Royals hope that last switch can shift their luck at Exhibition Stadium and keep them alive in the American League playoffs.

The Royals, a team that seems to thrive on adversity, trail the Toronto Blue Jays three games to two going into Game 6 tonight. One more victory in the best-of-seven series will give the Blue Jays their first pennant and bring the first World Series to Canada.

"Maybe it's the experience of losing so many playoff games and the one World Series we were in. It could help," Kansas City's George Brett said. "No one's uptight."

That goes for Gubicza, a 23-year-over Hereford.

In game one of the junior varsity match, Caprock held a 5-0 lead before Hereford scored three straight points. The second Hereford point came on a service ace by Rita Valdez.

Caprock then outscored Hereford 10-1 the rest of the way for a 15-4 win.

Hereford moved out to a 4-0 lead in game two, with Rachel Coleman serving an ace for the second point and Christine Wells recording a kill for the fourth point.

Caprock closed the gap to 4-2 before a service ace by Vickie Padilla increased the Hereford lead to 5-2. Hereford also led 6-2, 7-4 and 9-5.

Caprock moved to within one point of Hereford, 9-8, but a save by Padilla helped lead to a Hereford point for a 10-8 lead.

Caprock then spiked the ball out of bounds, and Jean Diller had a service ace, giving Hereford a 12-8 lead.

Caprock tied the game up at 12-12 and gained a short-lived 13-12 lead. The score was then tied at 13-13, and Caprock moved ahead again by a point, 14-13.

Wells served an ace to tie the game at 14-14, but Caprock scored two straight points to win the game and match, 16-14.

HHS White JV suffers 34-0 loss

The Hereford High School White junior varsity football team was shut out by the Lubbock Coronado sophomores 34-0 on Saturday.

The contest was played Saturday morning in Lubbock. Hereford White has an 0-5 season record.

Next action for the White junior varsity team is in Lubbock at 10 a.m. Saturday against Lubbock High.

The Hereford High School Maroon junior varsity play at home Saturday at 10 a.m. against Lubbock Monterey.

old who made his last start on Oct. 4.

"I'm confident," he said, speaking the way all of the young and talented Royals pitchers speak. "If we get a couple of runs, I think we have a pretty good chance of winning."

Toronto won the previous two games at its home park, and tonight the Blue Jays will start Doyle Alexander.

Alexander and the Blue Jays held a 5-2 lead midway through Game 3 in Kansas City before the Royals rallied to victory behind the performance of Brett, who went 4-for-4 with two home runs.

Gubicza, 14-10 during the regular season, was the odd man out in Kansas City Manager Dick Howser's pitching plans for the playoffs. Howser, hoping his left-handers could neutralize the Blue Jays, set up a starting rotation with three of them.

Jackie Robinson, a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, retired from the game when the Brooklyn Dodgers attempted to trade him to the New York Giants in December 1956.

'Moonlighting' does black, white episode

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don't touch your set. That really is ABC's "Moonlighting" coming at you in black and white.

Maddie and David become intrigued by a 40-year-old murder as the show turns into a tongue-in-cheek re-creation of a 1940s B&W movie. You know, the kind that used to star Lana Turner or John Garfield or George Raft and always ended with someone being led down a long, shadowy passage to the electric chair.

Tonight's episode is called "The Dream Sequence Always Rings Twice." It will have a humorous introduction by Orson Welles, who calls it "a giant step backward." It was Welles' last job before his death last Thursday. The show will be dedicated to him.

"It was something I've always wanted to do," said executive producer Glenn Caron. "I wanted to do a black-and-white show that captured that 1940s feeling. The last three to four years I've been looking for an excuse to do something in black and white.

"In television you turn out so much product that it becomes like college. You say, well, let's try this this week."

In the show, detectives Maddie (Cybill Shepherd) and David (Bruce Willis) visit a client at an old night club and learn of an old murder. A singer and a cornet player were executed for killing the singer's husband.

Maddie and David argue over who was responsible. Maddie dreams a version — in black and white — in which the singer is the innocent accomplice. David's dream is that the musician was lured into it by the singer.

"I believe when Eastman Kodak invented color film they didn't mean for it to replace black and white," said Caron. "Francois Truffaut (the French director) said black and white is closer to dreams. It's more artful, more graceful, more dramatic."

Caron found that doing a black-and-white show was not easy. Hollywood converted to color years ago and is no longer technically equipped to handle black-and-white film. Few people knew how to light the set for black and white or how to photograph it.

"The Eastman people made a strong argument for photographing it in color and printing it on black-and-white stock, he said. "I didn't want to do that. I was afraid the network might get cold feet about it and run it in color."

Only a few contemporary American films have been done in black and white, including "Raging Bull" and "Manhattan," and nearly all of those were done in New York. Finally, Caron was able to round up people who knew how to work with black-and-white film.

"Moonlighting" is a funny, romantic adventure with two performers whose prickly relationship produces sparks. It also has some of the brightest dialogue in TV. At ABC, when the episodes are screened for the executives, there is standing room only.

"I feel so lucky, I keep waiting for someone to tap me on the shoulder and say we're on to you," said Caron. "I used to be known as the king of the six-week series. This is the first show I've created that's stayed on the air."

"I did 'Good Time Harry,' and Fred Silverman, who was then running NBC, hated it. The only show he hated more was 'United States.' He put our shows on where no one could find them."

Caron also produced the first 10 episodes of NBC's "Remington Steele," although he did not create the show. "I was surprised when people started comparing 'Moonlighting' to 'Remington,'" he said. "I can't see that."

"Moonlighting" came about when Lew Erlicht, president of ABC Entertainment, took Caron to dinner.

"He said, 'You've got to get into the mainstream of television,'" he recalled. "The joke was that I was doing art films for ABC. Erlicht said he wanted me to do a detective show. I groaned.

"Then I said, 'What if it's a romance, a man and a woman?' I started writing and by the time I got to page 50 I realized it was Cybill Shepherd. I showed the unfinished script to her and she said, 'You're trying to do Howard Hawks.' She said, 'If it stays this good, send it to me when you're finished.'"

Finding David was much tougher. Three thousand actors were interviewed, and Caron personally saw 300 before unknown Bruce Willis was cast.

Christmas ideas, decorations presented to extension club

Edith Hunter was hostess to Cultural Extension Club Friday when members met for a program given by Louise Walker, county extension agent.

Walker presented her annual Christmas program by showing gift and decoration ideas and distributing patterns for the items.

Members answered roll call with "what I like about autumn." Mary Lou Spinhrne gave a reading entitled "The County Official" to open the meeting.

During the business session, a nominating committee was elected. They include Jewell Hargrave, Virginia Sumner and Winnie Wiseman.

The family Thanksgiving dinner was discussed and it was announced that it will be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov.

15 in the Energas Flame Room.

The next regular meeting was scheduled Oct. 25 in the home of Virginia Sumner.

Others attending included Betty Brooks, Vernis Parsons, Nell Pope, Bertha Dettmann, Byrdie Fellers, Fannie Townsend, Jewel Rogers and Carrie Mae Doak. Ana Werlien was welcomed as a guest.

CHINESE TECHNOLOGY IS ON THE RISE

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — The licensing of technology internationally will continue to grow significantly over the next five years, predicts John McPherson.

McPherson, a Phillips Chemical Co. executive, says Thailand, a country rich in oil and gas, will be one of the more aggressive licensors as it establishes a niche in the petrochemical market.

STATE CAPITAL

AUSTIN—As Election Day nears, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro is stumping the state asking voters to pass not one, but three proposed constitutional amendments.

Mauro wants voters to 1) continue the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program, 2) establish the Texas Farm and Ranch Finance Program, and 3) facilitate the management of public lands.

The Legislature proposed all three programs last spring, but Texas voters must give final approval on a total of 14 proposed amendments.

Since the Legislature gave the nod to Mauro for three of the 14, he has been criss-crossing the state speaking at public hearings.

He and other supporters have also rounded up impressive endorsements from the community and business sectors.

Veterans Housing Program

Proposition Eight extends the Veterans Housing Assistance Program by providing $500 million in bonding authority, enough to make several thousand partial home loans to veterans.

The program, first enacted in 1983 to accommodate modern veterans, many who live in urban areas, was modeled after the highly successful Veterans Land Program.

The Legislature and voters provided $500 million in bonding authority then, and the popular program has used most of it to make 22,000 loans.

Mauro's point is it doesn't cost taxpayers, and besides providing a benefit to veterans, the program pumps millions into local economies and industries.

Because of the economic impact, not only veterans but realtors and several other homebuilding industry and civic groups are backing this amendment.

Farm, Ranch Program

Last spring the Legislature passed this new program, now Proposition 10 on the ballot, which would provide similar loans to farmers and ranchers.

The goal is to pump new vitality into the agriculture industry, just as the veteran loan programs boosted the homebuilding economy.

And like the vet programs, this would use $500 million bonding authority, not tax money, to provide the original loan money. Several farm and ranch groups endorse this amendment.

DATE BOOK

October 15, 1985

Today is National Grouch Day. It is the 288th day of 1985 and the 24th day of autumn.

TODAY'S HISTORY: In 1965, David Miller was arrested for publicly burning his draft card at a demonstration in New York City. He was the first person arrested under a newly enacted law that made mutilation of a draft card a federal offense.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS: Friedrich Nietzsche (1844); Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. (1917); Mario Puzo (1920); Pent Marshall (1945).

TODAY'S QUOTE: "What does not destroy me, makes me strong." — Friedrich Nietzsche.

TODAY'S MOON: Between new moon (Oct. 13) and first quarter (Oct. 20).

TODAY'S TRIVIA: Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in history for which of the following books? (a) "Russia Leaves the War" (b) "The Age of Jackson" (c) "The Uprooted"

TODAY'S BARBS BY PHIL PASTORET

Those who think that life no longer offers any challenges have yet to try to find a clerk to wait on them in a discount store.

An old old-timer can recall when it was fun to sit and watch the test pattern after the TV station went off the air for the night.

TODAY'S TRIVIA ANSWERS: (b) Schlesinger was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in history for "The Age of Jackson" in 1946.

WILD TYPE

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — What's your definition of a wild type? "The Language of Biotechnology," published by Provesta Corp., defines a wild type as the form of an organism as it is ordinarily encountered in nature in contrast to laboratory mutants.

Asset Management

One of the more innovative measures to quietly emerge from the last legislative session was a program to streamline the way the state manages its various public lands and assets.

One example is the Legislature's discovery that, in many instances, urban growth has raised the commercial value of once-rural state land higher than is necessary to serve the needs of state agencies.

The program was entrusted to Mauro, as land commissioner, to boost revenues from asset management of all state

Governor to Japan

Governor Mark White was set last week to go to Japan to persuade Toyota Motor Co. to pick Texas as the site for its new major production plant.

The American plant would create some 2,000 new jobs, and the five top sites in Texas are El Paso, Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth and the Marshall-Longview area.

Meanwhile, a top White aide predicted that Peggy Rosson, the "housewife" that White picked to serve on the Public Utilities Commission, would be elected as panel chairman. White is also close to filling an expired term on the panel, probably with Department of Community Affairs head Rafael Quintinilla.

Last week he named former Democratic Party director Joe Gagen, now working for White's old law firm, to the Industrial Accident Board.

Sesquicentennial Funds

To help celebrate Texas' 150th birthday next year, the state asked 40 large Texas corporations to contribute $400,000, or $16 million total, but the donations received are much smaller, only $1.5 million.

As a result, the scope of the year-long celebration will have to be trimmed.

Planners hope to attract out-of-state tourists here to spend $1.5 billion over normal tourism revenues.

Rep. McWilliams Honored

State Representative Jim McWilliams, D-Marshall, last month was presented the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association Distinguished Legislator award. Making the presentation was former House Speaker Billy Clayton and W. H. Meischen, executive director of VATA.

THE SMELL THAT SAVES

DALLAS (AP) — The odor of natural gas can be detected by 98 percent of the population, while 2 percent have lost their ability to smell the gas.

In its pure state, natural gas has no odor, so an odor is added to the gas as a safety measure and to detect gas leaks.

Many utility companies say they have found that the money saved from detecting gas leaks covers the cost of the odorization process and is also well spent on public safety.

SMART SHOPPING

Here are some tips on how to save money when you shop for toys:

	Compare prices The price for the same toy can vary by as much as $5 or $10 from store to store. So check advertisements or call a few stores before you buy.
	Test the toy before you buy Many stores don't let you do this, but it can't hurt to ask. Maybe some of your friends have the same toy and will let you try it out.
	Don't buy something just because it looks great on TV Toys rarely work for you the way they do on commercials. So try to get a look at the real thing before you buy.
	Check warranties If a toy has a warranty and it breaks after you've played with it only a few times, you may be able to get your money back. See if there's a warranty on the box or on a leaflet inside. And keep it.

Reagan campaigning for senators in Idaho

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, making his first political trip since ordering a U.S. military operation to capture the hijackers of an Italian cruise liner, set out today to help raise money for two Republicans elected to the Senate on his political coattails six years ago.

Already a sought-after Republican money-raiser, White House officials expected a surge in Reagan's popularity following the successful interception over the Mediterranean last Thursday of an Egyptian jetliner carrying the Palestinians charged with killing American tourist Leon Klinghoffer.

The president's chief political adviser, Mitchell Daniels Jr., said Reagan was getting out early to help staff the campaign war chests of Republicans who expect close races next year when the party will be struggling to hang onto its majority in the Senate.

With a flight schedule like that of a down-to-the wire election campaign, Reagan planned to spend more than nine hours in the air in a single day to campaign for Sens. Steve Symms in Boise, Idaho, and Robert Kasten in Milwaukee, Wis. Both men spent record sums in 1980 and, with help from the Reagan landslide, defeated veteran Democrats.

Daniels, who took over just this month as Reagan's chief political aide, said the fund-raising events in each city, which include private receptions for major contributors, are expected to raise several hundred thousand dollars for each candidate. Reagan has made similar appearances this year in Florida, Georgia, Oklahoma and Alabama.

Symms hasn't formally announced for re-election yet, but Daniels said he expected Symms to face Idaho's popular Democratic governor, 10-year veteran John V. Evans, in next year's Senate race.

It is Reagan's first visit to the state as president. Five years ago to the day, he was in Idaho Falls to address a Symms rally there when Symms was campaigning to unseat Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Frank Church.

Reagan campaigned then on a promise of less government and more profits for farmers, but this time farm groups were planning a "bitter harvest" rally to focus attention on their problems. The credit crunch that has swept the farm belt this year has forced farm foreclosures, particularly in central Idaho.

And the local chapter of the Salvation Army was sponsoring a "Soup and Sass" event to focus attention on hunger and food problems in the area.

In Milwaukee, too, Reagan was expected to encounter demonstrators. Roger Quindel, a spokesman for Jobs with Peace, said the coalition of 20 organizations would picket outside the auditorium where Reagan was to appear and would protest administration policies on military spending, employment and social issues.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — If you think decorating your new office is a headache, consider the task of selecting paint, fabric and furniture for an office the size of about 17 football fields. The huge "office" is R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s new 2-million-square-foot plant at Tobaccolville. It will require more than 85,000 gallons of paint, 492,000 square feet of ceiling panels, 42,000 square feet of quarry tiles, and 33,000 square feet of parquet flooring to decorate the facility. Completion is set for 1987.

The 4-H Bucket Calf Project has begun. At a meeting in the Community Center on Oct. 7, guidelines were discussed and set. It may interest some of you to know that the project has been revised to include from five year olds to 12-year-old boys and girls.

The winter project must begin before Nov. 1, and will end after the Hereford Young Farmers Stock Show. The summer project will begin from April 15 to May 15 and end after the summer progress showmanship clinic in August.

For more information on the Bucket Calf project contact Davy Vestal at the Extension Office at 364-3573.

Ten Deaf Smith 4-H'ers will participate in the State Fair of Texas this week in Dallas. Those exhibitors include Jeff Hicks, Cheryl Schlabs, Susan Rickman, John David Rickman, Kristi Milton, Shelia Teel, Trisha Teel, Angela Brumley, Jim Bret Campbell, and Kinann Campbell. Good luck to all these 4-H'ers in Dallas.

It's time to begin our foods and nutrition projects. Leaders, there will be a foods and nutrition leader training on Wednesday, Oct. 16 at 9:30 a.m. in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library. Foods leaders please come.

Two upcoming big events are the County 4-H Show on the morning of Saturday, November 16. In preparation for the food show, we'll have a countywide food and nutrition workshop on Saturday, Nov. 2 in the ballroom of the Hereford Community Center.

If you're a 4-H'er and want to be in the Food Show, call Louise Walker, 364-3573, and we'll get you lined up to be in a project group.

Medicare hospital deductible going up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders on health care issues are bracing for an expected storm of protest early next year when a little-noticed 23 percent increase goes into effect in the fees Medicare beneficiaries pay to enter hospitals.

The out-of-pocket deductible payment will go up by $92 on Jan. 1, from its current $400, for each Medicare recipient admitted to a hospital. Fees for people hospitalized for more than 60 days and for people in skilled-nursing homes also will go up by 23 percent.

All told, an estimated 8 million people will pay $1.1 billion in higher fees next year. The American Association of Retired Persons says most people don't even know yet that the increase has been ordered.

"My guess is that for the bulk of the people, it's not until they get in the hospital and get socked with that first bill that we're going to hear the cries," said Jack Christy, a lobbyist for the group.

But lawmakers involved in health care already are beginning to brace for protests.

Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., the chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, has introduced legislation to change the formula under which the increase was ordered. Heinz says his bill would limit the increase to $4 or less.

"Why should older Americans be forced to pay a whopping increase out of their own pockets to hospitals when we are told that Medicare hospital costs are under control?" Heinz said in a statement.

The chairman of the Senate Finance subcommittee on health, Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., is said by his staff to be working on legislation. Karen Doyno, an aide, said Durenberger was "very concerned" about the increase. "He thinks it's very unfair to the Medicare recipient to be penalized for improvements in the system," she said.

And the chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging, Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., has cited the boost in urging action on his proposal for a cap on costs to the elderly.

But with the short time left in the congressional session, no action is expected in time to stop the Jan. 1 hike.

The protests are expected partly because more than half the increase, ordered by a law intended to adjust the payment level to reflect costs, is an unintentional result of Medicare payment reforms ordered by the Reagan administration.

Kansas City, Mo., says it ranks second in the country in merchandise store sales per household, $2,513, and eighth in eating and drinking establishment sales, $1,488.

Will the real great pumpkin stand up?

By BERNARD HUNT Associated Press Writer

Gee whiz, Charlie Brown, when the Great Pumpkin visits the pumpkin patch this Halloween, where does he come from?

He comes from far away in the frozen north where the Atlantic gales howl, where the soil is rich and the fertilizer abundant and where the pumpkin seeds return every spring to spawn.

He comes from Nova Scotia.

Maybe.

Or Connecticut.

There's some confusion, you see. The Great Pumpkin isn't cut and dried.

Every year in the comic strip "Peanuts," the characters of Charles Schulz await the arrival of the Great Pumpkin as the nights of October grow colder and youngsters everywhere prepare for Halloween when ghouls and ghosties go abroad in the night.

And every year also, the International Pumpkin Association searches for the greatest Great Pumpkin in all the world. But this year, the World Pumpkin Confederation also staged a contest.

And that's why there are two Great Pumpkins.

This year's International Pumpkin Association Great Pumpkin weighs 531 pounds. The monster, grown in Nova Scotia by Michael Hodgson of River Phillips, earned him $2,000 and a trip to Hawaii during an international weigh-in Monday.

Entrants were weighed at Half Moon Bay, Calif.; Circleville, Ohio; Halifax, Nova Scotia; and Birmingham, England.

Meanwhile, in Topsfield, Mass., Scott Cully, 25, of Sharon, Conn., won the confederation's title, also Monday, with a 515.4-pounder raised at Ellsworth Hall Farm, where he works as assistant manager. He gets a $100 prize.

Cully's pumpkin, an Atlantic giant variety, was grown from a seed propagated in Nova Scotia. It beat out 1,000 other entries at six fairs in the United States, Canada and New Zealand.

Neither of the rival claimants to the Great Pumpkin Title comes anywhere near the 612 pounds of 1984's champion, grown by Norman Gallagher of Lake Chelan, Wash.

"It just seems to have been a tough season all the way around," said Ray Waterman, vice president of the confederation, based in Collins, N.Y. "Truly, up in Nova Scotia—the land of the giant pumpkins up there—about 50 percent of their crops were lost."

Waterman says the International Pumpkin Association split from the confederation in a snit after seeds from last year's Great Pumpkin were lost.

But Terry Pimsleur, spokesman for the rival contest, says it wasn't so.

"It should be made clear that no matter what (Ray Waterman) calls it, he represents himself and not the major festivals that have created and presented the World Weigh Off for the past decade," Pimsleur said.

Despite the squabbles and the rival claims, the secrets to growing huge pumpkins remain the same.

Both Hodgson and Cully say they followed good agricultural practices, tried to keep the bugs off, watched for disease and used good soil.

Last year Gallagher put his heart and soul into it.

He "lived in his pumpkin patch," his wife, Ruth, said at the time. "He talked to the pumpkin, he fertilized it, he kissed it."

Based on a survey of 275 American companies, these 10 achieved the greatest profit, yet paid no federal income tax. According to the same study, International Telephone and Telegraph had the most favorable tax rate. On profits of $815 million, ITT received a federal refund of $178 million, for a tax rate of minus 21.8 percent.

State comptroller seeks re-election

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock says he is seeking re-election to help guide state government over what he expects will be a rocky fiscal road in the next four years.

"Times change and we change with them, but what doesn't change is the fact that the better the comptroller's office does its job, the better the rest of state government can function," Bullock said in announcing his re-election bid Monday.

Bullock, 56, a Democrat, first was elected comptroller in 1974. He won re-election in 1978 and 1982.

Having collected the state's taxes for a decade, Bullock said he believes the Legislature and other officials will be facing continued budget problems.

"Over the next four years, Texas will confront financial challenges in its government like never before in history. It will be more difficult than ever to keep state services up and taxes down," he said.

"While I have served as comptroller, the Texas economy has gone through some powerful changes. But we have come through those changes stronger and wiser. We have never lost sight of the fact that government ... must earn every dollar it gets and stretch every dollar it earns."

Bullock is the first person to enter the 1986 comptroller's race. He said he doesn't know whether he will face opposition in the primary or general elections.

Coming off a banner year in 1984, Texas Republican Party officials haven't decided whether to challenge all incumbent Democratic statewide officerholders next year or target selected races.

"There's an awfully good chance, regardless of which party he's in, that an official on a statewide level will find he has opposition of some kind," Bullock said.

Bullock's announcement followed his decision against challenging Gov. Mark White in the Democratic primary. He said he didn't find much support for such a bid.

"I couldn't do it. I had no support whatsoever that I could find. When I got out, I said I had gotten one $5 contribution. That's the truth," he said.

Bullock, who said his 1982 campaign cost about $1 million, said he doesn't know what the 1986 race will cost.

But he said it should be a better year for Democrats than 1984, when GOP candidates won the Texas U.S. Senate race and made substantial gains in congressmen and state representatives.

"Any presidential year has been a hard year on the opposing party when you have a popular person running for president, like President Reagan apparently is. At this time, I think it may be a little bit easier for a Democrat," he said.

A native of Hillsboro, Bullock was graduated from Texas Tech University in 1955 and the Baylor University law school in 1958.

His political career began in the Texas House, where he served from 1956 to 1959. He was an assistant attorney general in 1967 and 1968, an administrative assistant in the governor's office in 1969 and 1970, and was secretary of state from 1971 to 1973.

FUNERAL PLANNING

NEW YORK (AP) — Through ignorance or a sense of obligation, many people often end up agreeing to services that are either unnecessary or could be provided at a lower cost when the need for funeral planning arises.

Under a recent Federal Trade rule, funeral homes now must provide an itemized list of the goods and services they offer, along with the cost of each item before a customer agrees to any arrangement, reports Feeling Great magazine.

The rule is designed to ensure the consumer is not required to pay for goods or services which are not wanted, and that state and local legal requirements are not misrepresented by the funeral home.

Millions of telephone lines already converted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Equal access conversion of telephone service is moving so rapidly that by the end of the year, an estimated 50 percent of lines will have been converted, the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission says.

Mark Fowler Monday told the 3,000 delegates attending the United States Telephone Association convention that 39.2 million telephone lines already have been converted to offer competitive carriers with equal local exchange access.

"The pace of this 'conversion' has been a lot like a religious experience," he said.

At the beginning of 1985, only 4 percent of the lines were converted. By the end of September, an estimated 40 percent had been converted, Fowler said. By the end of the year, the total is expected to reach 50 percent.

Americans place an "awesome expectation" on telephone companies when they expect to hear a dial tone every time they lift the receiver, Fowler said.

"It puts pressure on you to make the system affordable, to make the system faster, to make the system cheaper, to make the system versatile, to make the system sound better — in short, to make the system work," he said.

The USTA represents about 1,150 of the nation's 1,400 local telephone exchange companies. Membership includes Bell telephone's seven holding companies.

Ward White, vice present for governmental and public affairs for the organization, said a key issue for telephone companies this year is President Reagan's tax plan.

As they stand now, the proposals could cost the telephone industry up to $10 billion over a three-year period.

White said Reagan's plans to eliminate the 10 percent investment tax credit would be costly to the industry.

"Local exchange carriers invested $17 billion last year in their physical plants," said White.

Telephone customers would lose in the long run if that proposal is approved, White said, because companies are required to pass on the savings from investment tax credits.

Telephone companies in USTA also oppose a proposal for a recovery tax on those who took advantage of depreciation tax breaks from 1980 to 1985, White said.

Performers fear fair's sideshow facing end of era

DALLAS (AP) — It's another ho-hum day at the State Fair for 71-year-old Loretta Fulkerson: do a little crocheting, maybe take in a show — then strip down to a bathing suit and parade her neck-toe tattoo for 2 bits a customer.

It's been that way more than 45 years for Fulkerson, who remembers when more than 100 big sideshows crisscrossed the country as featured attractions of local fairs and circuses.

But now this grandmother of seven, along with the six other performers at the State Fair's Circus Unique sideshow, senses that the end of their era is at hand.

A combination of economics and a shortage of new performers may be dropping the final curtain on the carnival sideshow, say these performers, all middle-aged or older and members of one of only four such shows still touring the country.

"In less than 10 years, it will all be gone," said Ward Hall, owner of the show, while he waited for a big enough crowd to gather Thursday to open for the day. "I feel like the old vaudeville actor who sits and watches them change the marquee and wonder if they'll ever put his name back up there again."

But Hall, 55, a carnival impresario since he was 17, balks at the notion that the audience has grown too sophisticated for the old bed of nails act, the midget snake handler, the sword swallower and the rest.

And when the sideshow begins shortly after noon, the spectators come around. John Trower, who does triple duty as sword swallower, knife thrower and barker, announces Mavis Johnson as the elastic woman and beckons the crowd to step inside.

"She may look like you and me, but the bones in her body have never hardened, they bend like rubber," Trower intones, then attempts to prove the point by loading her into a box and running it through with wide, flat blades.

Then there is tiny Pete Terhune, who handles a snake and moves an anvil with a rope attached to his tongue. Hall does a brief ventriloquist's act. Before it's over, Trower swallows his swords and a lighted neon tube, and Fulkerson is hyped and presented.

"This show is virtually unchanged for the past 14 years," Hall said. "Can you think of a Broadway show that would still bring them in after that long?"

Hall blames rides like the new Texas Star Ferris wheel for spelling the demise of the sideshow. The rides have far more appeal to owners, with their low overhead and high return, he said.

Then, too, fewer young people are interested in taking up the sideshow life, with its constant travel, modest pay and irregular hours, said Trower, a carnival performer since age 14.

The sense of fatigue is evident in the show these days. The bed of nails is rusty now, and bathrobes have replaced most of the sequined costumes.

Still, when Trower eases a 3-foot-long sword down his throat or throws knives just inches from the profile of a fellow performer, you can see some of the cynical smiles of the audience fade and eyes widen.

And this piece of Americana is not disappearing unheralded. From 1979 until 1982, Hall and the others were invited to perform the show at the Smithsonian Institute, where Hall also lectured on the history of sideshows.

Last year, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus re-signed Hall's troupe after an 18-year lapse and featured them as an experiment during their Kansas City and St. Louis shows.

Hall said he hopes the circus will invite them back next year. In the meantime, he and the troupe — most of the current members have been with him 15 years or more — will end their performing year in Dallas and return to their homes across the country.

"After three or four months at home I get a little restless," said Fulkerson, who lives near Shreveport, La. "I'm ready to go. And I'll keep on the road as long as I'm able ... as long as I'm able."

Camper hone revolutionary skills

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — They call them "buds of the revolution," young campers clad in the green of the Libyan flag who are expected to flower into skilled revolutionaries.

As young as eight or nine years old, they can sing their condemnation of American or Israeli imperialism.

"They are learning these skills for the future," explained one teacher of the Barayman al-Fatah, the Libyan equivalent of the scout movement. He gestured toward a display of scale model bombs and rockets in tin he said were made by the youngsters.

At a recent evening performance at a model summer camp along Tripoli harbor, group after group of children in green uniforms — the prophet Mohammed's battle color — as well as Libya's national hue — took to a wooden stage decorated by a painting of Uncle Sam taking a kick in the rear from a green boot.

For five hours, they sang of the accomplishments of Col. Moammar Khadafy's 1969 coup, their defiance of the United States and the "Zionist death wagon," Libya's normal mode of referring to Israel.

"We will not submit to America or its weapons," ran one line in Arabic. "We are ready to do whatever our leader bids us."

Eight-year-old Hania was brought up to a reporter to sing solo.

"She is singing about her hopes that the Arab world will soon be united, without borders," said a camp supervisor, who would identify herself only as Maha. Khadafy has long sought to unify Arab nations, recently vowing to apply force to achieve the goal.

Officials said every child between age eight and 16 attends some 15 days of camp each year — taking classes in music, art, language and elementary military skills — and performs similar activities in school. Several weeks of military training are the high school curriculum.

At the camp, models of rockets and bombs are displayed along with more traditional camp handiwork such as hand-silkscreened T-shirts and handmade afghans. Over a neat row of campbeds hang the slogans from Khadafy's revolutionary manifesto, The Green Book, that appear everywhere in Libya from supermarket to sports stadium.

One oil painting shows female Libyan soldiers peering down the sights of machine guns, while across the enclosure is an enlarged photograph of a small boy cradling a Kalashnikov rifle. "Girls do everything boys do," said Maha.

Truck not ordinary four wheel drive vehicle

HOUSTON (AP) — While talk about Star Wars centers on the Defense Department's ability to stop missiles in outer space, the U.S. Border Patrol is using some far-out technology of its own to stem the flow of illegal aliens along the U.S.-Mexico border.

A $100,000 four-wheel-drive Dodge Ramcharger, now on display at the 92nd annual International Association of Chiefs of Police Conference, looks like any other green-and-white U.S. Border Patrol vehicle.

But then the roof slides open, a periscope-like device begins creeping into the air, a television monitor comes to life in the cab of the truck and infrared and heat-detection devices atop a mechanical arm begin sending out invisible signals.

"All you try to be is a little bit more sophisticated than they are," George Van Horn, a designer of the device, said of efforts against those who would smuggle aliens into the country.

The idea of such programs, Libyan officials say, is to pass the torch of the revolution to the next generation.

The vehicle has been on the job in Arizona in the Nogales and Douglas areas since April, Van Horn said. He and other engineers picked up the truck last September and took more than two months just deciding what they wanted the truck to do before installing the technology.

Now, after successfully using the truck in the field, Van Horn is hoping to be able to build 10 more of them.

Sport Briefs

By The Associated Press
FOOTBALL
CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol just moments after he and the Bears had gotten off a plane from San Francisco, where they defeated the 49ers on Sunday.

Illinois State Police Sgt. Charles Roth said Ditka, 45, was stopped just after midnight on the Tri-State Tollway west of Park Ridge. Ditka posted $100 bond and surrendered his driver's license before being released.

TENNIS
TOKYO (AP) — Third-seeded David Pate beat fellow American Andy Kohlberg 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 in the opening round of the men's singles in the Japan-Asian Open tennis championships.

Sammy Giammalva, seeded sixth, beat American Eric Van't Hof 7-5, 6-3, and No. 13 Vince Van Patten of the United States beat Haruo Nakano of Japan 6-2, 6-3.

TOYOTA, Japan (AP) — With singles victories by Hana Mandlikova and Helena Sukova, Czechoslovakia captured its third consecutive Federation Cup women's team tennis title, defeating the United States in the final.

Mandlikova defeated American Kathy Jordan 7-5, 6-1 in the rain-delayed second singles match at the Nagoya Green Tennis Club. The match was suspended Sunday due to rain with Mandlikova leading Jordan 7-5 in the first set.

ROAD RACING
BOSTON (AP) — Joan Benoit, the Olympic marathon gold medalist, won her third Boston 10-kilometer run, finishing 14 seconds and about 60 yards ahead of runner-up and defending champion Judi St. Hilaire of Boston.

For Benoit, who toured the 6.2-mile distance in 31:49, the race was a tune-up for the American Marathon in Chicago next Sunday.

TRACK AND FIELD
LONDON (AP) — Five athletes, including two Americans, have been banned for at least 18 months for drug offenses by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The IAAF suspended Americans Gary Wilkely and August Wolf from domestic and international competition for two different violations — Wolf for refusing to take a dope test at a meeting at London's Crystal Palace stadium last July, and Wilkely for failing an examination on May 12 at Monaco.

Also banned were Zdenka Silhava, world record-holder in the women's discus, and Resmigius Machura, both of Czechoslovakia; and Mayra Vila, the Cuban women's javelin thrower.

DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas State running back Preston Maddox and defensive tackle Michael Cline have been named Southland Conference players of the week after the Indians' 56-0 rout of North Texas State.

Maddox, a 5-10, 190-pound senior, led the Indian scoring barrage with four touchdowns, scoring on runs of 40, 2 and 18 yards while also adding a 18-yard touchdown receiving.

The Tallahassee, Fla., native picked up 75 yards rushing on just five carries and added three pass receptions for 46 yards.

Cline, a 6-3, 250-pound senior, led the Indian defensive effort that held the Eagles to just 111 yards total offense and caused seven turnovers.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs Monday signed free agent holdout Marc Ivarson and recruited a new point guard, team spokesman Wayne Witt said.

The Spurs, sorely in need of a point guard because of two other free agent holdouts, signed five-year NBA veteran Wes Matthews.

The 6-foot-1 Matthews played last season at Chicago and was a free agent. Witt said Matthews will sign a contract Tuesday and likely will play with the Spurs when they take on New Jersey in a pre-season game Tuesday night in Hershey, Pa.

Matthews, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, was a first-round draft pick by Washington in 1980.

Ivarson, a forward, is a three-year NBA veteran who moved to the Spurs last December in a trade with Philadelphia.

Terms of the two contracts were not disclosed, Witt said. Still unsigned with the Spurs are free agents John Paxson and Johnny Moore.

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Defensive back James Jefferson of Texas A&I and quarterback Rex Lambert of Abilene Christian have been named Players of the Week in the Lone Star Conference.

Jefferson, a 6-1, 180-pound senior from Kingsville, led the Javelina defense in his team's 30-13 win over East Central (Okla.). He had six tackles, including two behind the line of scrimmage, along with a fumble recovery and two interceptions.

Everything else is just a light.
