Fifty-year-old fire station in worse shape than it looks

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

Fifteen years is a long time to stay in a temporary building, especially when the temporary building is nearly 50 years old.

That is the dilemma the Hereford Fire Department has been going through, until last Monday night.

Last Monday during a meeting of the Hereford City Commission, a new $350,000 fire station was approved.

"The main difference in the new building over the existing building will be 59 years. The building we are using now was made in 1926 as a creamery and feed store," said Fire Marshall Jay Spain. "The building has served its purpose, but it is time we move up."

Spain is happy with the new plans, which will include 4,000 more square feet than the existing building.

"Right now our meeting room is too small for all our members, some of them have to stand outside during our meetings," Spain stated.

The new building will be equipped with floor drains and areas to repair and clean equipment, currently firefighters must wash the equipment outside and work on the equipment in the middle of the floor.

Garage doors in the new building will be 14 to 16-foot wide, currently the doors are 9 1/2-foot wide. Most department trucks are 9-foot wide, making for some pretty tight fits.

Being a new building, it will be constructed to be energy efficient. The department usually has to keep the heaters on around the clock in winter to keep things from freezing inside.

"I am not sure this building would have made it through another winter," Spain said. "The roof on the northeast corner is starting to cave in and any amount of extra weight could bring the whole thing down."

There have been some complaints from the people of Hereford questioning the reasons for a new fire station. Spain says that the building may look adequate from the outside, but on the inside and on the southside of the building it is easy to see the problem.

The new fire station will also have a recreation room along with a larger meeting room. According to Spain the new building should last well into the future.

If the city of Hereford ever decided to eliminate the volunteer fire station and implement a full time crew, the building could easily be modified to accommodate.

Firefighters have already started moving out of the building and will be stationed in the old Fullwood building on the corner of Lee and Third Street.

Persons who may be in need of the fire department can still call the same number listed and response time will be the same.

The new building will be constructed on the site of the existing building and should be completed in March 1986.

High Plains Building Co. is in charge of all construction.

Last summer's water rationing downstate may help two proposed water amendments favorable to the Panhandle be more easily passed, according to State Rep. John Smithee.

The congressman visited Hereford Tuesday to discuss the amendments and answer questions concerning the water issue to be voted on in the Nov. 5 general election.

Statewide water issues had little support from urban areas because voters in those areas have considered water problems to be exclusive to agriculture and the western part of the state, Smithee said. Several major cities last summer faced water shortages and instituted mandatory rationing for the first time, and Smithee feels that recent awareness will help pass the two amendments.

Additionally, some major cities are losing new industries because some companies are reticent to build in towns where there is no long range water plan.

Gunmen agree to release hostages

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — Palestinian gunmen who seized an Italian cruise ship with up to 511 people aboard agreed today to surrender the hostages and leave the vessel, according to shipping and diplomatic sources who monitored ship-to-shore radio.

Ahmed Abdul Rahman, a Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman in Tunis, Tunisia, said in an interview the hijackers should end the hostage drama "without any conditions" and would quickly leave the boat, anchored about 20 nautical miles from Port Said.

The PLO news agency Wafa, in a telex monitored in London, said a delegation of PLO officials had already boarded the Achille Lauro and started talks with the hijackers, who say they have not killed any of their hostages.

An Egyptian official said a boat carrying Egyptian, Palestinian and International Red Cross representatives went to the ship for negotiations. "There is no final surrender yet," the official said, who spoke on condition he was not identified.

A shipping source in Egypt said, "It looks like there's an agreement, and they are going to leave the boat. It looks like it's over."

Sources at the Italian consulate in Port Said said ship-to-shore contacts they monitored indicated an unidentified person would take a boat and go to the Achille Lauro to pick up the hijackers.

The Palestinians took over the ship Monday night after the Achille Lauro left Alexandria, Egypt, and demanded that Israel free 50 Palestinian prisoners.

Animal cruelty may be charged

Charges of animal cruelty may be filed on a resident who left a dog tied up and unfed for nearly a month, according to Hereford police.

Other reports investigated by police included theft of weight equipment, theft of letters from a portable sign, a residential burglary, a problem with juveniles throwing rocks, a prowler, some kids firing a BB gun in the city, an attempted break-in and two disputes.

One person was arrested for public intoxication.

Lake board continues clash

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

AMARILLO- Members of the Buffalo Lake Water Board and a representative of the U. S. Department of the Interior faced off last night in a regular meeting of the water board.

Fish and Wildlife representative Rodney Krey stated that the Department of the Interior intends to keep the Buffalo Lake area as a wildlife refuge and not allow for its recreational use. The Department of the Interior would also be the governing board of the lake and the area. The Department of the Interior would lower the existing dam and develop four manageable pools. It would lower the existing dam to a maximum height of 12 feet and construct two dikes.

The Fish and Wildlife Service feels that the four pools impounded by the dam, two dikes, and Stewart Dike would provide flexibility in the management of the available water. These shallow pools would provide better waterfowl habitat than the single, larger, deeper lake.

However, the Buffalo Lake Water Board is pushing to see the lake become a multiple use area. The lake board's plan would be to repair the Umbarger Dam to meet the minimum standards and will also involve constructing a "Glory Hole Spillway," to accommodate excess flood waters.

The Buffalo Lake board feels this plan would not only provide sufficient water for fish, wildlife and recreational purposes, but also provide for flood control and retention of storm water which will aid the availability of ground water.

Krey stated that the only alternative the government will consider is the lowering of the dam and develop four pools. "It is not feasible in my opinion to construct the Glory Hole spillway, and there will not be any funds made available to do so," Krey stated.

The Buffalo Lake board is in the process of soliciting a tax referendum to be placed on the Nov. 5 ballot. The tax would be one cent for every $100 appraised value. For example, a $35,000 homeowner would have $3.50 added to his yearly taxes. The tax referendum has been approved by Deaf Smith, Randall, and Potter (See LAKE, Page 2)

Lawmakers admit farm bill fails to address problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a 1985 farm bill that even its backers concede is at best "a holding pattern" to support farm income while the agricultural economy finds its way out of a serious slump.

Lawmakers voted 282-141 late

Tuesday in favor of the bill, which reauthorizes farm and food programs into 1990 at a projected cost of $141 billion. But they agreed it fails to address many of farming's current problems.

"Our commitment was that we send a message that we cared, that we not reduce drastically their income," said House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Texas. "I think we did that."

"I guess you buy time while you address the other issues," de la Garza added. "There are many issues not addressed in the bill" such as unfair trade competition, high interest rates and the overvalued dollar. "I guess it's a holding pattern."

Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., agreed, adding that the bill makes little fundamental change in traditional farm law.

"It keeps the safety net in place," Madigan told reporters. "I think stability is the key word."

This year's farm bill debate has taken place against a backdrop of the most severe farm financial crisis in decades, concentrated in the grain belt of the Midwest. While lawmakers railed against current farm policy when work on the new bill began months ago, in the end they shied from making radical changes.

"All we did was freeze things the way they are," said Rep. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., who favored a strict production-control approach that was defeated in several floor votes, and who ultimately voted against the bill. "That is going to spell disaster over the next few years for a lot of farmers in the upper Midwest."

Attention now turns to the Senate, which plans to take up its version of the farm bill next week at the earliest. Agriculture Secretary John Block said the legislation "still has a number of problems" that the administration will try to address as it goes through the Senate and later when the two chambers meet to work out differences between their two versions.

Combest not happy with parts of bill

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Congressman Larry Combest of Lubbock says the House version of the 1985 Farm Bill "has some very beneficial sections for farmers of this area" but the main concerns lie with wheat and feed grain producers.

Combest, a U.S. Representative for the 19th Congressional District, said he voted for the final passage although he was not pleased with all sections of the bill. "We need to move on and get the final version hammered out with the Senate," he said in a telephone interview with The Brand this morning.

"The sugar and corn people supported the bill, and I am reasonably pleased with the cotton program—there was much support for it," Combest reported. "Bill Cleavinger and the Holly Sugar people were helpful in getting the votes to sustain the current sugar program," he added. Cleavinger is president of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association.

Combest said the sugar program should have been extended, "because it is one of the few programs that has worked—it has provided stability for the sugar industry and protection for consumers." (See COMBEST, Page 2)

Downstate rationing will help amendments

Amendment No. 1 calls for the state to authorize issuance of an additional $980 million of Texas Water Development Bonds for the creation of special funds for water conservation, water development, water quality enhancement, flood control, drainage, subsidence control, recharge, chloride control, agricultural soil and water conservation, and desalinization. It further calls for a bond insurance program and to clarify the purposes for which the bonds may be used.

In the amendment, $190 million in bonds would be used for financing fresh water supply projects.

Another $190 million is set aside for bonds for water quality projects, such as wastewater treatment plants. Both items would require an entity meeting a hardship criteria. However, the money could be used by developers wanting to consolidate several small plants into one without the hardship requirement.

For flood control, $200 million in bonds are set aside. The amendment calls for $400 million for future water development.

One additional provision sets up a $250 million bond insurance program. Smithee said that there has not been a default since the water

Discussing Amendments

State Rep. John Smithee, at right, discussed with farmers here Tuesday the importance of two water amendments coming up for election Nov. 5. Many amendments which are beneficial to the agricultural economy are thwarted by urban voter turnouts, Smithee said.

Oil company to begin exploring

HOUSTON (AP) — An independent oil and gas company has announced plans to explore an 8.1-million-acre tract in the Parana Basin along the border of Paraguay and Brazil.

The cost of drilling and evaluating an exploratory well will be less than $10 million, said K.S. "Bud" Adams, chairman of Houston-based Adams Resources & Energy Inc., which has an 80 percent interest in the concession.

"Our first efforts in Paraguay will be to conduct seismic operations on the largest feature to further define the structure," Adams said Tuesday. "If seismic evaluations are positive, we'll proceed with drilling operations."

Mobil Oil Corp. of New York retains a 20 percent interest in the concession, acquired in its merger with Superior Oil Co. of Houston, Adams said.

Unlike neighboring Brazil, Bolivia and Argentina, Paraguay does not produce oil and gas.

The Parana Basin is primarily located in Brazil and extends into eastern Paraguay.

Much of the basin in Brazil is covered by basaltic lava ranging up to 3,000 meters thick, which has inhibited exploration. Despite the inability of seismic methods to define structure below the lava, Brazil has drilled some 100 wells, with more than 60 producing oil and gas, Adams said.

Texas officials concerned about rabies

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — Texas health officials are visiting Eagle Pass schools this week urging students to have their pets vaccinated against rabies, a disease that has increased along the border in recent weeks.

Rabies cases involving 60 dogs, a person and a cow have been reported this year in Piedras Negras across the border from Eagle Pass, said Dr. Kathryn Tull of Uvalde, a Texas Department of Health veterinarian.

Four cases have been reported across the river in Eagle Pass. Ms. Tull said officials are concerned about keeping the outbreak from crossing the border.

So they are urging the youngsters to keep their pets away from stray animals.

Tull said officials are concerned the problem will worsen because of lax programs in Eagle Pass and the attitude of Mexican health authorities.

"Unfortunately, Mexico doesn't think they've got a problem," she said. "They don't seem to be alarmed that there are 60 to 80 deaths a year there because of rabies."

"Unfortunately, Eagle Pass does not have an animal control facility," she said.

Senate agrees on borrowing crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, meeting into the early morning hours Wednesday, agreed to end a parliamentary stalemate and allow action on a short-term increase in the government's borrowing limit.

The agreement also calls for a vote Wednesday on the balanced budget amendment that has stalled Senate approval of raising the debt ceiling — and forced the Treasury Department to use some creative bookkeeping to keep the government afloat.

The Senate on Tuesday ended days of inaction with consideration of a series of miscellaneous amendments and debate on a balanced budget plan offered by Democratic leaders.

Previous test votes indicated the Senate would vote down the package offered by Democratic leaders and then move on to consider a plan backed by Republican leaders and President Reagan and offered by Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas; Warren Rudman, R-N.H.; and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.

Interferon effective against arthritis

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Injections of the hormone interferon seem to relieve pain and swelling in people afflicted with stubborn cases of rheumatoid arthritis, an ailment that affects about 6 million Americans, researchers say.

Interferon has been widely investigated as a cancer treatment and appears to be useful in some kinds of tumors, but the hormone has not proved to be the dramatic breakthrough in cancer therapy that some had hoped.

"We've been so focused on using this in cancer that people have neglected some of the non-cancer uses," said Dr. Seth Rudnick, vice president for pharmaceutical development at Biogen, which manufactures interferon.

The effects of the gene-spliced drug on arthritis was noticed during experiments by Bioferon, a West German subsidiary of Biogen, a Swiss biotechnology company with U.S. operations in Cambridge.

A report on the work will be published in the December issue of Biotechnology.

Snow, rain gust across West

Snow spread from the Northwest into the Plains today and rain moved across broad sections of the Midwest and dipped into Texas.

Snow-prompted travelers' advisories extended over southern Wyoming, northwest Colorado, the mountains of northeast Nevada, the Tahoe Valley of west central Nevada and the Sierra Nevada of eastern California.

By early today, Markleville, Calif., had 6 inches of snow and 5 inches of snow covered the ground along the shores of Lake Tahoe and at Zephyr Cove, Nev.

Snow spread from southern Montana across Wyoming, northern Colorado, the Nebraska Panhandle, western South Dakota, southern North Dakota and northwest Minnesota and was scattered from the Tahoe Basin across central Nevada.

Rain reached from southern Utah over southern Colorado, Kansas, southern Nebraska, northern Missouri, northern Illinois and southeast Wisconsin into western Michigan.

Young wins in Atlanta

Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young, the former U.S. representative to the United Nations and veteran civil rights activist, overwhelmingly won election to a second term in non-partisan city elections Tuesday.

In Salt Lake City, interim Democratic Mayor Palmer DePaulis won an election that pitted a field of eight candidates to two for a Nov. 5 election, with Republican Merrill A. Cook placing second. The winner in November will fill the last two years of resigned Democratic Mayor Ted Wilson's term.

In Albuquerque, N.M., Republican Mayor Harry Kinney lost his bid for a third four-year term by coming in third Tuesday in a field of eight candidates. City councilman Ken Schultz and state Land Commissioner Jim Baca, both Democrats, qualified for a runoff election for mayor of New Mexico's largest city.

LAKE

Counties for the November election.

"If the people will vote for the tax, there will be no way they can stop us from constructing the lake," said Enoch Henderson, Buffalo Lake board member.

Board secretary Charles Johnson told Krey that if the government feels there are no other alternatives, then the Buffalo Lake board will have no other alternative than to fight.

"We will have a half a million dollars per year revenue if the tax referendum passes, along with local donations, for as long into the future as we both can see," Johnson told Krey. "We can and will be able to fight for the lake."

"You can do what you have to and we can do what we have to to block. We should sit down and make a compromise, work together," Johnson said.

The Buffalo Lake board members asked Krey to relay the message that they are willing to talk and reach some sort of mutual agreement. Krey stated that the Fish and Wildlife service will not take any other stand on the matter. "This is our only alternative," Krey stated.

The Buffalo Lake board members also received support from an organization of citizens called "A Lot of People Fighting for Buffalo Lake." Committee treasurer James Paris stated that the committee feels that if the dam is lost, the lake possibilities will be lost forever.

"Buffalo Lake used to provide recreation, wildlife, and flood control. It was a joy to go to," stated Paris. "It makes good sense to conserve and store water at any chance, especially in this area," Paris added.

The support committee will be soliciting funds and votes for the November election.

The next meeting will be November 12, a place and time have not yet been set.

This will be the second time a tax referendum has been placed on the ballot. In 1983 the tax proposition carried Deaf Smith County, but fell short in both Potter and Randall Counties. "In the last election the people felt they were being over taxed. The people will not have to put up all the money needed, if the tax passes it will show that the people do want a nice lake out there, and that will draw funds from other sources," said Henderson.

"We have a right and actually a duty to ask for this tax, we are just asking for money to operate, not to totally finance the entire project," Henderson added.

The estimated cost for the construction under the lake board's plan would be $3 million. If the tax bill passes it would insure the board a triple A credit rating. This would allow the board to borrow funds and pay them off over the years.

The way the tax bill is worded it would guarantee that the tax could never be raised to more than the one cent on every $100.

BILL

and farm income subsidies that has been in place since 1973. But it does make a concession to the Reagan administration and others who believe U.S. agriculture's only salvation lies in increased exports.

Under the bill, the price-support loan rates that in the past have steadily edged upward could instead be lowered by the secretary of agriculture by up to 25 percent if deemed necessary to restore the international competitiveness of U.S. commodity prices.

But for virtually every dollar farmers lose in the quest for competitive prices, the government would add back a dollar in direct income subsidies, called "deficiency payments." That means federal spending for farm programs, which has hit record levels in the past three years, is unlikely to decline much, if at all.

The measure includes price supports for crops such as wheat, corn, cotton, rice and soybeans; a new soil conservation package; money for agricultural extension and research; and new statutory authority for food stamps and overseas food aid.

As it worked toward completion of the bill on Tuesday, the House also:

—Rejected, 230-195, an amendment offered by Rep. Thomas Petri, R-Wis., that would have abolished the system of tobacco allotments and price-support loans in 1986 and opened tobacco growing to any producer who wanted to plant it. Tobacco-state lawmakers argued that the decades-old allotment system supports a network of small family farmers who depend on tobacco income.

—Turned back, 368-59, a last-ditch attempt by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., to include in the bill a farmer referendum on mandatory production controls coupled with sharply higher price support levels for major crops.

—Declined, 227-199, to deny federal farm program benefits to producers with 10 or more employees who fail to provide drinking water, wash water and toilets to their field hands. Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., had sought the action to counter what he called administration reluctance to adopt similar regulations.

WATER

development fund was started. A default would be the only case in which taxpayers would have to pay. Supporters of No. 1 say that time is running out to solve water problems. Opponents say there should be more research done to assure the money is spent properly.

Amendment No. 2 will authorize issuance and sale of $200 million of agriculture water conservation bonds.

Soil and water conservation districts would administer loan funds to farmers for purchase of more efficient irrigation equipment. Taxpayers would be liable for only 50 percent of the loss in case of a default.

Supporters say the bonds will provide funds to assure a healthier agricultural economy by giving assistance to water projects. Opponents say there is no need to spend any more money when there are federal programs available. Also, there is a portion of the bonds in No. 1 which is earmarked for agriculture.

Smithee said agriculture interests use about 70 percent of the water in the state and industry only about 10 percent.

He said that Houston and some other metro-areas will have a bigger voter turnout due to municipal election and urged West Texas voters to turn out for a more balanced representation.

COMBEST

House rejected an amendment to reduce the federal price support of raw cane sugar.

The Congressman was disappointed in the narrow defeat last week of an amendment that would have created a marketing loan program for wheat and feed grains. The provision lost by a narrow 228-221 vote. The plan would have allowed farmers to borrow from the government and pay back those loans at a rate equal to the world market price of the product.

"We managed to do some things that alleviated some of the problems that stock producers had with the dairy program," Combest said. He added that the dairy program had some good and bad parts, as far as the beef producer is concerned.

The Senate has reported its farm bill out of committee, said Combest, and will likely take up its version after Oct. 15. Combest looks for the Senate and House members to confer on the Farm Bill about Nov. 1.

"There is some strong support in the Senate to change some of the payment programs, so there could still be some substantial changes in the final version," noted Combest.

Women's Division president named Tuesday

The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce held their quarterly meeting Monday night at the Community Center with the Animal Action, Beautification, and Welcome Committees serving a salad supper to the members.

Twenty-seven members were present as Betty Drake, president, conducted the meeting.

Chris Artho was recognized as a special guest with Mary Herring giving the invocation.

It was announced that the district meeting will be held Sept. 27, 1986, in Stratford and Drake also announced that 13 members from Hereford attended the Amarillo Council's Fall Festival with Dr. Red Duke speaking.

Suggestions to increase membership and attendance at Women's Divisions' meetings were given by Drake.

Drake said Women of the Year nominations should be made and mailed out or taken to the Chamber of Commerce office. "Make your nominations now so the committee can make a good choice," said Drake.

A committee report was given by the Art Committee, honoring Jean Lyles as artist of the month.

Linda Daniel gave a nomination committee report in which Lanette Leasure was elected as president, and Linda Minchew, Billie Hopson, and JoAnne Hill were elected for the board of directors. Remaining on the board will be Peggie Fox and Linda Daniels with Betty Drake being parliamentarian.

Bill Johnson presented a film on the Sesquicentennial.

"The entire membership can get involved," urged Johnson, "150 people have been working on the Sesquicentennial in Austin since 1981."

Commemorative items of the Sesquicentennial are on sale at Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and the Sesquicentennial wagon train which will travel 2,800 miles and will stop in Hereford in May. The Women's Division, under the leadership of Argen Draper and Garth Thomas, will be working on ideas to celebrate the occasion.

"Deaf Smith has more volunteerism than any other county in the state," announced Johnson after the film, "and I think they'll make it (the Sesquicentennial) work here, too."

"The Sesquicentennial can be as exciting as we want to make it," he said. He further encouraged community involvement.

A Sesquicentennial film is available to be used at clubs or meetings for a limited time. The public is welcome to contact the Chamber of Commerce for viewing of the film.

Lynette Leasure, new president, introduced Connie McGill of Hereford State Bank as one of the guest speakers.

When McGill's youngest child was 13, her husband asked for a divorce so she found herself looking for a job. She got a position with a savings and loan institution in Irving, working with builders on loans.

McGill then became mortgage loan supervisor, managing seven women. She was then promoted to secretary of the association and became assistant city manager of Irving where she met her husband, Darwin, now city manager of Hereford.

After being married, her husband accepted a job at Lewisville where Lewisville National Bank offered her a job as loan secretary, where she worked for six years. McGill then went into marketing and later was promoted to administrative officer.

"Anytime you grow in your profession and you are not stagnant, then that is good," advised McGill.

Being administrative officer, McGill then became vice president of a bank in Lewisville that had grown to $13 million in capital.

When her husband took the Hereford position, she continued her career here, too, at Hereford State Bank. She is now in the commercial loan department under Craig Smith, the bank president.

"I wondered how I would turn out," said McGill, "but with hard work and perseverance, you can make it."

"Turning to the bottle and pills is not the answer," warned McGill.

Doris Morgan was the next speaker presented, asking "Where am I?". She answered, "I really like where I am...I realize it everyday."

"As I observed young mothers with babies on a plane at midnight-I realized I'm glad I've reached middle age in my life."

Despite thinking about age, Morgan said "Now's the time I have it all!" She enjoys watching her children and grandchildren grow.

"I failed at 'goal setting,'" admitted Morgan, "I worried about it...no goal about how much money I'd be making in ten years from now."

"I couldn't say what I wanted to achieve - but I knew I wanted to look back and say I've made the quality of life where I was little better."

"Talent, opportunity, and responsibility are the answers," declared Morgan.

She said something she has learned has been that talents are subtle. "Things I've always thought were flaws in myself were really talents," said Morgan. "Bored, dissatisfied...God said I could give more...my impulsiveness," thought Morgan.

It took her 20 years to get her R.N. and she finished in 1977. "I decided during an 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift..." said Morgan. "I decided I wanted to be a R.N. when I was working as an L.V.N."

Morgan then began her career at Amarillo College. Morgan, at the time, could not drive and her friend that she had been commuting with had just dropped out of school. "I was 35 years old and having my mother drive me to school," said Morgan, "do you know any other 35-year-olds whose mother had to take them to school?"

Two and a half years later Morgan surprised everyone by becoming an R.N. "I don't believe CAN'T be done," stressed Morgan. "One of my biggest lessons was the way to be a leader is to make the people you lead look good," she said.

Morgan was nursing supervisor and went on to become assistant director. "The hospital became a major part of my life," said Morgan. "After five years I realized I knew it was time to get out." "I'll do coronary care in a big hospital, I thought," revealed Morgan. "I found out it was not fun or exciting, so I just quit taking care of one patient at a time."

Morgan then began working herself into doing the 'fun things' at Deaf Smith General Hospital, again. Today Morgan is director of Home Health Care, and she got into this quite by accident. "Our community really needed a home care agency," said Morgan, "I learned so much respect for family, dedication, families taking care of their own, is what I've seen."

"I respect what families can do," said Morgan, "Health Care is moving outside of the hospital."

She is now employed full-time, 60 to 70 hours a week, setting up offices for the agency in other towns. Morgan has now moved Home Health into the hospital. "Starting new health care is 'my thing'," smiled Morgan. "I've gotten back so much for doing a little extra!"

"Responsibility to myself, for all my actions, and using the talents I have to the very best of my potential, help me to see a project through," advised Morgan.

"So many doors opening...I'm going to have choose...I don't know which one to go through," admitted Morgan, "but I'm sure not lost!" she concluded.

Pastor reassigned, new pastor named

The Rev. Patrick Walsh, S.A., has been named new pastor of St. Anthony's Church in Hereford effective Wednesday, Oct. 15.

He succeeds Father Mark Traenkle, S.A., who has been reassigned to St. Christopher's Inn, Graymoor, Garrison, N.Y.

Father Walsh is no newcomer to Hereford, having served at St. Joseph's Mission in the Labor Camp on the southwest side of Hereford from 1964 to 1967. While living at St. Anthony's Rectory, Father Walsh, then known by his religious name of Father Eunan, assisted Father Raymond Gillis, S.A., at the Labor Camp.

Prior to his leaving the area in 1967, Father Walsh also took care of St. Ann's Parish in Bovina for a time.

Father Traenkle was accorded a farewell reception by members of St. Anthony's Parish recently.

After serving St. Anthony's as pastor for the past three years, Father Traenkle was reassigned by Father Carmen Giuliana, S.A., Superior General of the Friars of the Atonement, in order that Father Traenkle could be closer to his seriously ill mother.

Father Joseph Egan S.A., will continue as parochial vicar of St. Anthony's in association with Father Walsh.

In another development, Father Bernard (Cletus) McGorry, S.A., former pastor of St. Anthony's in Hereford, has been named pastor of St. Ann's Parish, Bovina, and St. Theresa's Church, Friona, effective Oct. 1.

STAY WITH THE CAR IN A WINTER STORM

DENVER (AP) — If you're caught in a winter storm while driving, stay with the car. Disorientation during blizzard conditions can happen quickly and being lost in blinding snow and cold can prove fatal.

Only leave the car if you see a nearby safe shelter, a safety council advises. Clear the exhaust pipe of snow. Use the engine for brief periods for heat, and always leave a downwind window open a little to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning.

Scriptwriting program available

"New Horizons for America's Youth" is the theme of the 39th annual Voice of Democracy scriptwriting program being sponsored locally by VFW Post 4818 and its auxiliary.

Deadline for entries in the local competition is Nov. 30. In the 23 years that the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have sponsored the Voice of Democracy program, more than 5,000,000 high school students have participated.

expression.

For the state winners, there is also the broadening experience of a five-day tour of Washington, D.C., and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with other state winners.

National awards in addition to the $14,000 first place scholarship include $7,000, 4,500, $3,500, $2,500 and $1,000 scholarships for second through sixth place winners.

A squirrel has no color vision, it sees only in black and white.

The program, open to all 10th, 11th and 12th grade students, offers local, district and national recognition and awards with the top national award being a $14,000 scholarship.

John Yocum, post commander, and Betty Bogg, auxiliary president, urges students interested in participating to contact Lana Hall, Hereford High School speech teacher, or Marie Goheen, auxiliary chairman.

Participants write and then tape record a three to five minute broadcast script expressing their views of "New Horizons for America's Youth." The tapes will be judged for content, originality and delivery.

Of the fringe benefits, according to Commander Yocum, are increased self-confidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is a letter to a woman who doesn't dream I exist.

Dear Wife of You-Know-Who: Thank you for taking such good care of your husband's health and diet. I wouldn't want him if he was overweight or sick.

Thank you for nursing him through hernia repair, broken bones and root canals. As a career woman, I have neither the time nor the patience for such things.

Thanks for clipping coupons, watching for sales and being a clever shopper. It means he has more money to spend on me.

Thanks for putting up with his bad moods. I know he must have them. All men do. He's cheerful and charming when we are together. I'd dump him if he got grumpy.

Thanks for cooking his dinner every night and keeping him occupied on weekends. I hate to cook, and need weekends to catch up with family and friends.

Thanks for trusting him so completely. It makes our weekly rendezvous very easy.

Please don't feel threatened. I don't want to marry him. I enjoy your husband only when he is clean, healthy, well-dressed, attentive, and with money in his pocket. You can have him the rest of the time.—GOT IT MADE IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAN FRANCISCO: Kwit-cherkiddin'. I've read enough letters from wives of cheating husbands to recognize one when I see it. However, the points you make are worth sharing with my readers, as well as with The Other Woman, so here it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to share a lovely quote that appeared in my alumni bulletin. I hope you will print it.

"It will be a great day when our schools have all the money they need and the military has to hold a bake sale to build a bomb."—U OF C IN IRVINE

DEAR U OF C: Love it. Thanks for sending it on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After 10 years of a child-free marriage, my husband and I decided to have a baby. I am newly pregnant. The prospect of motherhood always frightened me but after six months of psychotherapy I realize that my demanding-perfectionist mother made me afraid to create another child-parent relationship. Now, at age 35, I am ready.

My husband is ecstatic about becoming a daddy. The problem is my parents. I know when I tell them I am pregnant they will insist on coming to "help out" when the baby is born. In view of our tense relationship, my father's denial of his alcoholism and my mother's exquisite martyrdom, it would be emotionally brutalizing for me to have them here—and they would drive my husband up the wall.

Please come to the rescue with some good, solid advice, Ann. We want to do the right thing but I know the emotional havoc my parents can wreak and I am terrified. Do you see

Public invited to meeting

Members of Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room.

Visitors are encouraged to attend. The program will be a help for genealogists who need new ideas on how and where to find family information.

Different society members will describe ways of research that have worked for them. They will also tell why they looked for information in a particular source and will describe what research process got them to the point of finding new information.

DAGEROUS DISEASE

WEST POINT, Pa. (AP)—Reported cases of hepatitis B infection in the United States have increased 68 percent since 1978.

There currently are more than 800,000 carriers in the country, and an estimated 2,000 new cases of the disease occur each year. Hepatitis B can result in death and contracting it can result in other complications, such as cirrhosis and liver cancer.

A vaccine against hepatitis B is available, but only about 650,000 persons, or about 20 percent of those at greatest risk of contracting the disease have as yet been immunized against it, according to Merck, Sharp & Dohme.

a way out?—TURMOIL UNLIMITED IN D.C.

DEAR ULTD: Go back for more therapy. You need to break out of the little girl mold and be your own woman. At 35, you should be able to say to your parents, "Don't come when the baby is born. We'll visit you when we can." The therapist who equipped you to face motherhood should be re-enlisted to help you face adulthood.

As National League team managers

Herzog, Lasorda are back in playoffs

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Whitey Herzog of the St. Louis Cardinals and Tommy Lasorda of the Los Angeles Dodgers, two of baseball's more successful managers, seemed back in their element as their clubs prepared to open the National League playoffs tonight.

"I think it's going to be a tremendous game and a tremendous series," the ebullient Lasorda said

Akers says Longhorns must stop Sooner ground game

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers says his defenders, who have had their eyes skyward in the Longhorns' three wins, are now working toward stopping the Oklahoma ground game. The Horns and Sooners meet Saturday in a Dallas match-up of unbeatens.

"We're going to have to switch gears on defense," Akers said in his weekly news conference. "We're telling them to forget what they've learned in the last three weeks to get ready for the running game."

Texas' three wins have come against pass-oriented Missouri, Stanford and Rice. The Longhorn offense, traditionally a grind-it-out attack, has used a new "run-and-shoot" offense to pile up the points.

Senior quarterback Todd Dodge set a UT single-game passing yardage record against Rice last Saturday, hitting 11 of 19 passes for 359 yards and two touchdowns.

But Akers says he doesn't expect to pass at will against the Sooners' defense, by far the toughest his team has faced. "Balance (between the run and pass) will be essential," he said. "The mixture will be determined after the game starts. It can't be pre-planned."

"It's going to be a different experience, much more demanding, and we're going to have to be much more exact against their defense. People are saying the Oklahoma defense compares to the great ones with the Selmon brothers."

Neither team has the kind of game-breaking running back that fans associate with the game, and Oklahoma's top runner, halfback on the eve of the best-of-seven series. "I think of the thousands who'll be in the ballpark, the millions watching on TV, I don't think they're going to find this boring," Lasorda said. "It's two teams that can do a lot of things."

The two managers, their preparations complete, were in a jovial mood when they crossed paths Tuesday evening at an informal press conference at Dodger Stadium.

Herzog gleefully grabbed the Dodger manager and yelled, "How come you got to work out at 5 o'clock? I wanted to work out at 5 o'clock. Why'd we have to work out at 6?"

Herzog then suggested that he and Lasorda adjourn to one of the Dodger manager's favorite restaurants. As Herzog was looking for the door leading back to the Cardinals' clubhouse, he asked Lasorda, "How do you get out of here?"

Lasorda grinned and pointed, saying, "Right back through there, around that way ... and onto Interstate 5."

Herzog, who has guided St. Louis to the playoffs for the second time in four years, was teasing about the Cardinal workout schedule, but he was serious in questioning why the two playoff games here are scheduled to start in the California twilight.

"It seems a shame to me that you have to come out to play at 5:30," he said. "I know why it's that way, because of TV. But this is not a good ballpark to play in at that time."

"You work your tail off to get here, then you have to play at that time. I don't think it's fair."

Lasorda, who took the Dodgers to division titles three times in five years, scoffed at Herzog's complaint that hitters are at at disadvantage in the dimness of twilight.

"I'd feel bad if they were playing at 8 and we were playing at 5," he said. "But it's the same time for both teams, the same mound, the same plate. I've seen games here at 5 when pitchers got wracked up pretty good."

John Tudor, 21-8 with a 1.93 earned-run average and a major league-leading 10 shutouts, was Herzog's choice to pitch against the Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela, 17-10 with a 2.45 ERA, in the first game.

Tudor, a 31-year-old lefty, stumbled to a 1-7 start, but has been on a roll since by winning 20 of his last 21. The only blotch during that streak was a 3-0 loss to Valenzuela and the Dodgers on July 20.

Valenzuela, on the other hand, has been in a slump, posting just one victory since Aug. 26.

Herzog ended two days of speculation by saying that rookie speedster Vince Coleman, who stole 110 bases during the regular season, would remain in the starting lineup.

The Stanton Junior High School ninth grade volleyball team was the only one from that school in action this week.

Toronto trademark is to get an early lead

By HARRY ATKINS
AP Sports Writer
TORONTO (AP) — It's almost a Toronto trademark. Get the early lead and coast to victory.

That formula — which saw them fashion a 62-20 record when they scored first — worked again Tuesday night when the Blue Jays got all their runs in the first four innings of a 6-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals in the first game of the American League playoffs.

Only this time there was one difference. This time right-hander Dave Stieb, the Blue Jays' best pitcher, was the beneficiary of Toronto's outburst.

"It felt good to get some runs tonight," Stieb said. "I had said that's all it would take. I was glad to see the runs come early."

It was easy to understand Stieb's relief. He went 0-3 against the Royals during the regular season, and that figured heavily in the 14-13 record he posted despite leading the league with a 2.48 earned run average.

"Everything was going well tonight," Stieb said. "I had good control and my fastball was moving well. I threw my changeup for strikes."

Stieb's control, insisted batterymate Ernie Whitt, was the key ingredient in an eight-inning, three-hit performance.

"We kept the first two hitters (Lonnie Smith and Willie Wilson) off base and that's what we need to do," Whitt said. "That way, we don't have George (Brett) up there with men on."

That analysis was borne out by the fact that Smith and Wilson were a combined 1-for-8 and off the bases for two of Brett's three hits.

The Royals, who will try to even the series today in Game 2 at 3:05 p.m. EDT, were one of only two teams (the Boston Red Sox were the other) to hold an edge over the Blue Jays during the regular season, winning seven of 12 games.

But if the Royals, who managed just five hits, are going to turn the best-of-seven series around, they are going to have to snap a 10-game post-season losing streak that dates back to the final two games of the 1980 World Series.

"I don't think the first game is as important as if it was a five-game series," said Brett. "I think you can bounce back with seven."

"Nobody is hanging their head. I think we can bounce back if we can win tomorrow. If we don't do that, we've got a long road ahead of us."

The Blue Jays, who were only 24-26 against left-handers this season, jumped on Charlie Leibrandt for two runs in the second and chased him with the bases loaded and nobody out in the third.

All three baserunners eventually scored, and Leibrandt, 17-9 and 3-0 against Toronto, was a beaten pitcher.

"I don't think Leibrandt's stuff was bad," Manager Dick Howser said. "They got some seeing-eye hits. They just pinged him to death, that's all."

Howser said he may bring Leibrandt back as early as Saturday because he pitched to only 15 batters.

Today Bud Black, 10-15, takes the mound for Kansas City in a battle of southpaws with Toronto's Jimmy Key, 14-6.

Baylor-SMU battle is 'lost game'

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Ask the man on the street in Dallas what college football game is in town this weekend and the answer most of the time will be Oklahoma-Texas.

The Baylor-Southern Methodist clash, which falls on the Oklahoma-Texas weekend in Dallas every two years, is fast becoming known as The Lost Game for the lack of attention it draws.

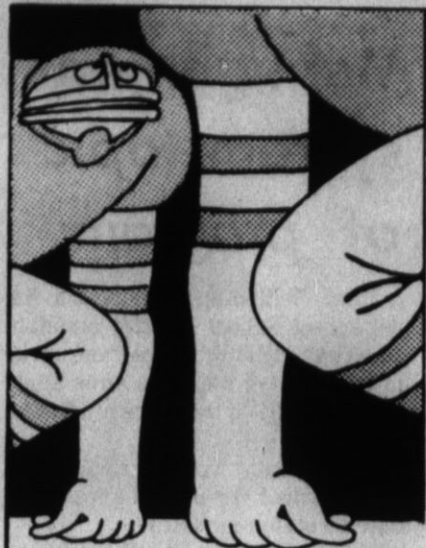

This year it is No. 2-ranked Oklahoma against No. 17-rated Texas in a clash of unbeaten SMU is 16th ranked going against No. 19 Baylor.

"I've been mildly irritated that through the years we have had to play second fiddle to the Texas-Oklahoma game," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "A lot of times we have had the much better game but nobody seems to know it."

Teaff would like for the SWC office to find a solution but isn't sure what it would be.

"We tried playing the game in Waco every year but SMU really didn't want to do that," said Teaff. "Sometimes we have a lot better football game and I'd like to see the game get more recognition."

tion against Oklahoma and Texas, SMU Coach Bobby Collins joked, "Oh, I didn't realize they were playing."

Getting serious, Collins said an example of how Texas-Oklahoma gets top billing was the SWC broadcast log released this week.

"I was amazed that the Southwest Conference radio bill headlined Texas and Oklahoma," said Collins. "Our game with Baylor is a Southwest Conference game. You would think it would have been on top."

Collins said the Baylor-SMU game is always exciting. Teaff said the game was usually wide open and close.

In nine of the last 14 games, the outcome has been decided by less than a touchdown, Teaff said.

The Mustangs nipped Baylor 24-20 in a driving rain last year to take a 35-25-7 edge in the series. SMU has won the last four games.

Baylor is leading the SWC with a 2-0 record while SMU, coming off its worse loss under a Collins-coached team, can't compete for the SWC title. However, games against SMU count in the SWC standings for the team playing the Ponies.

"This is not the best time to be playing a team with outstanding talent like SMU," said Teaff. "We're catching them when they are going to be mighty mad."

Teaff said the rivalry with SMU goes back to the time when the winner could claim it was the church school king of the SWC.

The hope of salvation is clearly presented as the story continues. The antichrist establishes a world government that spells death for those who refuse the Mark of the Beast.

Landry does not think Steelers are jinx

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have lost five consecutive games to the Pittsburgh Steelers, but Coach Tom Landry doesn't consider them a jinx for the Cowboys.

"They were a great team in the 1970s, one of the top teams I've seen since I've been in the National Football League," Landry said. "Now we are both teams struggling for identity."

The Cowboys are four-point favorites over the Steelers on Sunday in Texas Stadium. The last time Dallas won was in 1972, over a Terry Bradshaw-led team, 17-13.

Pittsburgh leads the series 12-10, including victories in Super Bowl X and XIII. In the most recent meeting, the Steelers snapped the Cowboys' NFL-record of 17 consecutive opening victories with a 36-28 triumph behind three Bradshaw touchdown passes.

Pittsburgh is 2-3 this year with two straight losses while Dallas is 4-1.

"I have great respect for (Coach Chuck) Noll," said Landry. "He's wearing four Super Bowl rings. That's all you need to know about him."

Landry said he wouldn't have guessed the Cowboys would be leading the National Conference Eastern Division this early in the year.

"I'm surprised," Landry said about the Cowboys' one game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants, two over Washington, and three games over the Philadelphia Eagles. "There is still a long way to go."

Landry predicted the NFC East "will be even tighter than it was last year. Washington proved it is back

(with a 27-10 victory over St. Louis Monday night.). It's going to go down to the wire."

He said the Cowboys needed the rapid start because "the toughest part of our schedule in the last half of the season. We would like to be in the position of competing for the title when we play those big games in the last part of the season."

Landry said it's still hard to figure the Cowboys.

"We are still having problems scoring once we get inside the 20-yard line," Landry said. "We haven't had the success we want to."

Also, Landry is unhappy with his secondary which was bombed for over 400 yards by Giants' quarterback Phil Simms.

Asked to rate his secondary on a 1 to 10 scale, Landry quipped "What's below one? We reverted back to the way we played back in 1983, giving up the big play. We cut that down in 1984. We just missed far too many coverages against the Giants."

"The defense had been playing well but when somebody brags on you too much you have a tendency to believe it."

Landry said that quarterback Danny White "is doing a good job" despite serving up four interceptions against the Giants.

"Danny gets into trouble when he tries to make the big play but basically his thinking is good," Landry said. "He knows what he is trying to do out there."

Hereford resident receives Ethnic Missions Scholarship

Gerald Gamboa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wally Gamboa, Hereford, has been awarded an Ethnic Missions Scholarship from the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Gamboa attends First Mexican Baptist Church, Hereford, where he is a Sunday School director.

He plans to attend Baylor University, Waco, where he will major in law.

Gamboa is one of more than 1,000 Hispanic students who have been helped to attend a Texas Baptist university through Ethnic Missions Scholarships. The scholarships are $800 a year for students carrying a full load of courses and are reviewed annually.

The scholarships are funded through the annual Mary Hill Davis Centennial Offering for State Missions taken in nearly 5,000 churches and missions across the state.

The offering also helps support many other state missions efforts. This fall, to help reach goal of 2,000 new churches across Texas by 1990, Baptists are urged to triple the amount they gave or the offering last fall.

Under the TRIPLE/TRIPLE goal, churches are then encouraged to triple their gifts in 1986, the year Texas Baptists celebrate 100 years of organized mission work in the state.

When patient died Home cited by state

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The state health department found potentially life-threatening conditions at a Texas City nursing home 21 days before Elnora Breed died there seven years ago, a nursing consultant has testified in a murder trial.

Registered nurse Pauline Kaper testified she was hired by the Autumn Hills nursing home in November 1978 to help the facility correct problems pointed out in a state health department inspection.

The nursing home had been placed on "compliance" for 15 days beginning Oct. 31. Compliance, Mrs. Kaper said, means "deficiencies or of a nature they could be life-threatening to the residents and they need to be immediately corrected," she testified Monday.

Mrs. Kaper is the third witness called by the prosecution in the state's murder case against Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc. and five of its current and former employees.

They are accused of murder by neglect in the Nov. 20, 1978, death of Mrs. Breed. The 87-year-old woman died 47 days after she entered the Autumn Hills home in Texas City. The defense claims Mrs. Breed died of cancer. Mrs. Kaper, who said she was hired as a consultant for five days, said she interviewed nurses' aides at the Autumn Hills facility and found they did not know what their responsibilities were. Aides, she said, are charged with bathing and turning patients.

"It was very haphazard care," she said. Mrs. Kaper said Mattie Locke, a defendant in the trial and a nursing consultant to the nursing home at the time, hired her for the five-day job.

"She (Mrs. Locke) indicated it was an unfair survey," Mrs. Kaper said of the state health inspection. "She just felt like she (health inspector Betty Kordorff) was picking on them and they needed an unbiased opinion on the nursing home," Mrs. Kaper said.

The first thing she did when she began the consulting job, Mrs. Kaper said, was read the health department inspection reports and make a list of priorities.

"My first priority was to check Mrs. Breed," she said. "The patient was comatose, very thin, very frail. She had a foul-smelling odor coming from her. I lifted the sheet and found decubiti (bedsores) on both hips and the coccyx that were draining (pus)," she said.

The bedsores, she said, were as big as her hand. "The one on her left hip, the crown was showing," she said. "There was no mention of her decubiti in the records so I was very shocked when I saw the patient," Mrs. Kaper said.

Mrs. Kaper said she also found Mrs. Breed was being fed about 600 calories a day, which she described as "a very inadequate diet." She said she ordered the nurse on duty to telephone the doctor, and Mrs. Breed's diet order was changed.

Mrs. Kaper said she also found severe bedsores on two other patients. The trial, moved to San Antonio because of extensive publicity in Texas City, began Sept. 9 with jury selection.

Religious drama draws scrutiny

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Human Services is investigating whether a play that was staged at a religious school and that used a hypodermic syringe, a knife and ketchup-covered cotton balls as props involved "questionable content" for children.

laughing, singing and clapping. "I don't perceive any negative effects on the children, though some may not have known what was going on," he said. One parent who agreed with Mixer, Amy Reynolds, said, "The incident has been misrepresented."

Pat Ayala, public information officer for the department's El Paso office, said Monday the drama was performed Sept. 20 at the Community of Faith Christian School.

Mrs. Reynolds said her 4-year-old son, Kirk, has attended the school for a year. She said he came home after the play and told her his teacher "wouldn't praise the Lord and they knocked her in the throat."

The play, which focused on a make-believe surgical operation to remove "sin" from a person who "would not praise the Lord," was attended by children as young as 2 1/2 years, Ms. Ayala said. The oldest were third-graders, she said.

"I checked at the school about what had happened, then talked about it with Kirk," she said. "He said he knew it was just pretend." Mrs. Reynolds also defended the school, praising its "strong discipline and good academics."

"There were people dressed as doctors and a person lying down," she said. "The doctors pretended to inject him with a syringe, minus the needle, and they rubbed a knife on the table, symbolizing cutting his neck."

She said the school includes "prayer, praise and Bible study" in its curriculum. The drama was put on by members of the Jesus Chapel West, a non-denominational church attended by some families with children at the school, which has an enrollment of 133.

Ms. Ayala said the Department of Human Services has sent letters to parents of the children who saw the play, describing the complaint and asking permission to interview the children.

Ms. Ayala said the Department of Human Services, which investigates alleged child abuse and licensing violations at child-care institutions, began looking into the drama after receiving a complaint from a parent who said the play upset his child. She would not release the name of the parent. School director Anthony Mixer said the drama was performed, but said it was done in "an upbeat, happy style."

"The program was one of instruction," he said, adding that the children were shown the play's props before the performance and that they knew it was "pretend." Mixer said that during the drama, children were

She said the agency's investigation probably should be completed by the end of the week. If found guilty, the school probably would be given a citation and asked to comply with standards, Ms. Ayala said. "We believe this is a religious way of teaching children, and there's a fine line between church and state," she said.

Fugitive running aloe vera farms

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — A Texas Panhandle fugitive sought by authorities for a series of indictments in connection with Bethany Trust & Co. is reportedly lining up farmers to grow aloe vera in the Central American country of Belize, officials said.

Thomas C. Etheredge, 31, was indicted during the summer on two separate occasions for illegally selling securities. A Dallas Morning News story on Monday listed him as one of several Texans investing in Belize, a country about the size of New Hampshire that is wedged between Mexico, Guatemala and the Caribbean. "I'd heard he was in the plantation business in Belize," David Hamilton, an assistant district attorney, told the Amarillo Globe-News. The Morning News reported Etheredge was involved in a joint venture with United Farm Industries of Belize Ltd., which plans to plant and process aloe vera, a plant used mostly for medicinal purposes. Bethany & Trust Co., which Etheredge founded in May 1984, was closed April 2 for failing to verify close to $11.75 million in assets at the demand of the Texas Banking Commission. Before it was closed, Bethany officials owed $1.3 million to about 150 investors and creditors, several from the Texas Panhandle. Texas officials believe Etheredge fled the country sometime after April 3, the day after Bethany Trust & Co. was closed by the state. Etheredge has contracted at least three farmers and has "lined up" about 80 more to grow the aloe vera, Hamilton told the Globe-News.

Fourth graders complete study

Fourth graders at St. Anthony's School have recently completed a week of emphasis on the Constitution of the United States.

The following activities were achieved by individuals and/or the class: reports on authors of the Constitution, the National Anthem, The Pledge of Allegiance, the flag and various colonial dress; murals and posters on the Bill of Rights, the national seal and elections; memorizing and interpreting the Preamble; learning vocabulary from the Preamble, the National Anthem and The Pledge of Allegiance; art activities, presentation of Preamble in 'town meeting' form at a Mass; Constitution celebration; letter written and tape made to President Ronald

Abundant Life

LIFE CONSTANCY
By Bob Wear

ONE OF THE MOST important resolutions for all of us is that we determine to keep our on-going life in the constancy of acceptable thought and conduct. The general life experience for all of us will be 'up' and 'down', perhaps; but the 'central portion' of one's life can and should be 'up'. It can and should be firm, fixed, well-established and maintained in the very best way we know. We do have the opportunity to make our knowledge adequate in this area, if such is our wish.

THE MAINTENANCE of 'constancy' for the central portion of life enables us to move along with the sense of well-being we desire and need; the sense of purpose being accomplished; the sense of victorious living; and all else that is in keeping with who we are and what we are. This will work for us, if we work at this very rewarding task.

WE CAN LEARN to see the whole picture, because it is necessary that we be realistic. It must be understood, however, that being realistic does not mean that we dwell on the adversities and the problems. Yes, we must see them and cope with them; but, with this, we must also be looking at and appreciating all of the blessings, the good things that affect our lives. We must keep the whole picture before us, because doing so will help us to maintain the 'constancy' which is so very essential to our personal success.

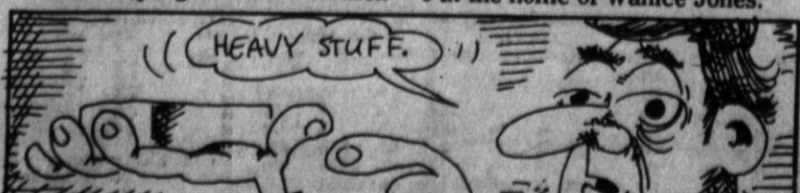

THERE IS NO REASON why the 'central portion' of life should be fluctuating 'up' and 'down' with the happenings of daily living. We can and we must maintain a 'high constancy', and, in doing this, we will be able to cope more effectively with the difficulties which arise now and then.

WHEN THE ESSENCE of a life is formed by the best available value system, the 'central portion' of that life will be a strong constancy.

and Credit."

Those present included Blackwell, Johnnie Messer, Pagett and Toni Vaughn.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 6 in the home of Wanice Jones.

Front brings chill, floods to Panhandle

By The Associated Press

A cold front that drenched West Texas and the Panhandle with flooding rains churned deeper into the Lone Star State today, chilling temperatures and dropping more rain as it rolled south.

Heavy rains hit parts of West Texas on Wednesday and caused flash flooding in the Permian Basin. But only scattered showers fell early today in the region, prompting the National Weather Service to cancel flash flood watches for West Texas.

A flood watch continued in effect this morning for Haskell, Throckmorton, Jones, Shackelford, Wednesday's high temperatures pointed out front's effects: While most of the state basked in 80- and 90-degree heat, Dalhart in the northern Panhandle struggled to a high of 39 degrees.

Today's highs won't be much greater, as the weather service predicts they'll be in the 60s across the Panhandle and North Texas and in the 80s south of the front. The rain, too, is likely to continue and reach up to 13 inches in some areas.

Earlier Wednesday, flood waters approached the windows of automobiles in Midland, and in Odessa some residents were "treading water" as rain-swollen city streets left motorists stranded, a police spokesman said.

"Motorists are being stranded all over because they've drowned their engines trying to pass through high-water areas," Odessa police Cpl. John McAhon said early Wednesday.

The Odessa-Midland area got more than three inches of rain, and Lubbock, meanwhile, had received 1.15 inches of rain since noon Wednesday, the weather service reported.

Rainfall made a pond out of a field at Westway. The rains started during the early morning hours Wednesday and continued through early today, dumping a total of 2.3 inches west of the city. Rain is hanging in the forecast with 40 percent chance tonight decreasing to 30 percent for Friday. (Brand Photo by Shawn Cockrum)

Roads around Tulia were flooded

Taylor and Callahan counties of North Texas. The watch area in Northwest Texas is generally west of a line from Wichita Falls to Abilene.

Roads around Tulia in the southern Panhandle were flooded with up to 8 inches of rain early today. Some farm-to-market roads remained closed in the area.

"Some highways may be impassable but the main roads are in pretty good shape," said Swisher County Deputy Sheriff Norlan Dudley.

Dudley said the Panhandle community was receiving one-tenth of an inch of rain every 10 minutes.

Shortly before midnight, radar showed heavy rain expanding into the eastern half of the Texas South Plains, and streams swollen with rains earlier in the evening could easily overflow, officials said.

No rain-related injuries, however, had been reported by early today, authorities said.

The cold front extended from near Childress to El Paso late Wednesday night, while south of that system, warm, moist tropical air brought mostly cloudy skies to the rest of the state.

The front-spawned rains were compounded by the remnants of Waldo, a Pacific hurricane that limped into West Texas and brought thunderstorms to the Trans Pecos region.

U.S. treasury back on brink of insolvency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a plan to eliminate the government's annual deficits by 1991, but the Treasury is back on the brink of insolvency because Congress can't agree on expanding borrowing authority to cover this year's overspending.

The lawmakers on Wednesday appeared to be speeding toward at least a temporary resolution of the government's financial squeeze. The major hurdle for nearly a week, the deficit-cutting amendment, was passed by a 75-24 vote in the Senate.

"We took the number one issue in America, we brought it to the floor of the Senate and we won it for the American people," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, a primary sponsor of the amendment.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., predicted the amendment victory would be followed by quick approval of an interim hike in the national debt ceiling, to let the government meet its obligations until Congress takes final action on the long-term debt bill.

But Dole couldn't get his colleagues to go along. The Senate instead ratified an emergency $5 billion borrowing that the Treasury, anticipating congressional approval of a short-term increase, had already made Wednesday.

The Senate action apparently was meant to pressure House Democratic leaders, who have been demanding time to study the deficit-reduction plan now attached to the main bill to raise the debt ceiling.

The House refused to even consider the $5 billion measure. The government has used up its cash reserves and its current borrowing limit of $1.824 trillion. The Reagan administration has asked for a hike in the debt limit to $2.078 trillion to cover another year of $200 billion-plus deficits.

Congress' inaction forced the administration to use an obscure federal agency known as the Federal Financing Bank to keep the government solvent.

The bank was set up by Congress in 1973, not as a cushion for periodic disputes over the debt ceiling, but to help independent federal agencies issue their securities. To help with that task, the bank was given $15 billion of borrowing power.

The administration tapped into that $15 billion on Wednesday, a step Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III said "we are reluctant to use." The only previous time that happened was in 1974.

The House also isn't likely to quickly adopt the deficit-cutting amendment proposed by Gramm, Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.

Their amendment would radically alter the budget process by requiring the president and the Congress to meet specific deficit targets that get incrementally smaller each year until there's no red ink allowed in fiscal 1991. Taxes, spending cuts, or both could be employed.

Uncertain whether ship pirates to be tried for killing American PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — An Italian liner docked at Port Said today, carrying more than 500 hostages freed by four heavily armed Palestinian hijackers. An Egyptian official said it was uncertain whether the pirates would be tried for the killing of an American passenger.

The Foreign Ministry said the terrorists surrendered to representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization and were taken to the Port Said Naval Base, ending two days of terror at sea.

However, it was uncertain who had custody of them. Egypt's ambassador to the United States said they had been turned over to the PLO, but the governor of Port Said said they were in custody.

The State Department late Wednesday confirmed that Leon Klinghoffer, 69, of New York, was killed by the heavily armed terrorists who seized the cruise ship Achille Lauro on Monday. About a dozen Americans were on board at the time.

U.S. Ambassador Nicholas Veliotes, who boarded the ship

Wednesday to investigate the incident, insisted that Egypt prosecute the hijackers, and the White House demanded that the pirates be turned over for "appropriate punishment."

Premier Bettino Craxi of Italy said his country would ask that the hijackers be extradited after a preliminary investigation.

The ordeal for passengers and crew came to an end when the Palestinians, who had demanded the release of 50 prisoners held in Israeli jails, gave up Wednesday afternoon while the ship was off Port Said.

Nine hours later, the Achille Lauro steamed into Port Said under government orders for an investigation into the death of Klinghoffer, who was traveling with his 58-year-old wife, Marilyn.

Reports have said the body of Klinghoffer, who was wheelchair-bound, was thrown into the sea while the Achille Lauro was off Syria.

The terrorists had claimed to belong to the Palestine Liberation Front, one of eight guerrilla groups in the PLO that split into three factions during a 1983 revolt against PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat.

Textile issue back on House floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to force sharp cutbacks in textile imports, sidetracked 24 hours as a courtesy to Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, are back on course heading to a showdown on the House floor.

"The thing you want to do is get it on the floor while it's hot — and it's hot now — and get it passed," Rep. Butler Derrick, D-S.C., said Wednesday after abrupt postponement of House action on the measure.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., ordered the delay as a gesture toward Lee, a staunch free-trade advocate who had said in remarks to a joint meeting of Congress earlier in the day that protectionist measures could be "ruinous to all."

The Asian leader's lobbying success proved short lived, however, when O'Neill placed the textile bill on the calendar for today.

"I did this out of respect for the visiting head of government who addressed both houses of Congress today," O'Neill said in a statement. "I do not think it is the right thing to have this vote on the same day that It's getting to be rainy country around these parts! Some farmers are saying we could do without these current rains, but none of them want to be quoted because it could come back to haunt them.

We have a lot of farmers, however, who need several days of dry weather to get their crops harvested. The rains have probably been great for wheat, and many farmers with late milo are happy. The corn harvest was probably close to three-fourths finished, but wind and rain have knocked down much of the remaining corn.

Let us tell you about Freddie... Freddie was a bird, a fat little robin whose mother was a terrible scold.

One day, after she had given Freddie's father a terrible tonguelashing, the abused bird ruffled his feathers and screeched: "You can't talk to me like that! Some day the worm will turn!"

Freddie thought about what his father had said as he went looking for food. Suddenly he saw a worm squirming away from him. "Aha," thought Freddie, "some day the worm will turn. I'll just hop along behind him and catch him when he does."

But this was no ordinary worm. It was Willie Worm whose parents had just lectured him about the importance of being honest. "Always go straight, Willie," they said. "You'll never regret it!"

So Willie heeded the advice. Instead of turning, he kept going straight. Freddie the robin hopped along behind him until he fainted from hunger.

Willie overdid it, however. He kept on in a straight line until he fell off the edge of the world.

All of which goes to show:

- (1) That you can't take things too literally,
- (2) You've got to be careful what you say in front of children, and
- (3) The world is really flat.

Miss USA's mom becomes citizen

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The mother of Miss USA has joined her daughter as a naturalized U.S. citizen and says she's anxious to exercise some of the rights now afforded her.

"I feel like I can get involved in a more patriotic feeling," said Maria Elena Martinez, adding that she was eager to vote and to participate in politics. "I really feel like I belong now."

Mrs. Martinez, 45, was one of 484 people from 30 countries to take the oath of U.S. citizenship Wednesday during a special ceremony over which U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth presided.

The majority of the new citizens are natives of Mexico as are Mrs. Martinez and her daughter, Laura Martinez Herring, who have lived in Texas since 1974 and in El Paso since 1978.

"I had it in my mind and in my heart to do," Mrs. Martinez said of applying for citizenship. "It had just laid dormant. Now, I feel very good about it."

Mrs. Martinez' 21-year-old daughter became a U.S. citizen in 1978 when she was 14. She was crowned Miss USA in May, making her the first Hispanic and the first naturalized citizen to hold the title.

Judge rules against white oil operators

AUSTIN (AP) — State District Judge Harley Clark on Wednesday agreed with the Railroad Commission that "white oil" is not crude oil and may not be counted in classifying wells.

The issue arose in the 1.5 million-acre Panhandle Field, which has oil and gas reserves worth an estimated $27 billion.

White oil operators brought the case to court to overturn a May 13 commission order to retest wells that use refrigeration, or LTX, units to chill vapor to a water-white liquid called white oil.

As a result of those tests, the commission has notified operators of 271 wells that their wells do not meet the definition of an oil well, which is the production of one barrel of oil per 100,000 cubic feet of gas.

Lawyers for white oil interests sought an injunction but Clark denied that motion.

His final judgment declared that the commission had "correctly interpreted the substantive law of Texas as prohibiting the use of natural gasoline as crude oil for well classification purposes."

"Not granting the injunction — that was the big thing," said Joe Cochran, a lawyer for Phillips Petroleum Co.

Asians increasing U.S. population

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asians will likely account for one out of every 25 Americans by the turn of the century, with the country's fastest growing minority heading for the 10 million mark, a new private study reports.

The wave of Indochinese immigrants in the decade following the war in Vietnam, coupled with heavy immigration from the Philippines, India and South Korea, resulted in a 141 percent jump in the nation's Asian population in the 1970s, according to the study published by the independent Population Reference Bureau.

At the turn of the century, just 15 years away, Asian-Americans could total nearly 10 million, according to the study "Asian-Americans: Growth, Change and Diversity."

By the year 2000, Asian-Americans "will comprise almost 4 percent of the U.S. population, up from 1.5 percent in 1980," according to the projection.

From 3.5 million Asians counted in 1980, the study estimated the figure has grown to 5.1 million today, a gain of nearly 50 percent that "reaffirms Asian-Americans' status as currently the U.S.'s fastest growing minority."

AIDS drug being tested on victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-AIDS drug trials, involving hundreds of patients with AIDS and related diseases, are beginning at medical centers nationwide, but experts say no "miracle drug" has emerged from tests so far.

Federal health experts said Wednesday they are moving quickly on many fronts to find a treatment for AIDS patients, but that the job will not be easy.

Dr. James O. Mason, acting head of the U.S. Public Health Service, said acquired immune deficiency syndrome is difficult to beat because it is a viral disease.

Very few anti-viral drugs have been developed and most of those on the market simply suppress the virus until the body's immune system rises to overcome it, he told a news briefing.

"Researchers are trying to do something that has never been done before," he said. "They are trying to develop a chemical to totally destroy a virus that links itself into the body."

Dr. Anthony Fauci, director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said the suspected AIDS virus is unique because it attacks the defensive system itself.

Doctor licensing may pose legal risks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An internal Veterans Administration report concludes the VA may have exposed its patients and the agency "to medical and legal risks" by allowing some doctors to practice while their licenses were revoked, restricted or otherwise impaired.

The interim report of the VA inspector general's examination of VA doctor licenses said it found "a number of VA physicians" have medical licenses that are impaired in some way in one or more states.

The report, which was released to The Associated Press this week in response to a request under the Freedom of Information Act, did not reveal how many VA doctors have been found to have license problems.

The VA previously has said its review, begun in light of similar checks on the credentials of military doctors, had found license problems with 87 physicians either employed by the VA or financially reimbursed by the VA for treatment of eligible veterans.

"This has occurred," the report said, "because the VA has not independently verified physicians' credentials with state licensing bodies or other established professional associations."

Mrs. Gramm appointed to OMB post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wendy Gramm says she is "tickled" about taking on the task of honing down federal red tape in her new job as "regulatory czarina" at the Office of Management and Budget.

Mrs. Gramm, wife of Republican Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, was appointed Wednesday as administrator of OMB's office of information and regulatory affairs.

Her old boss, James C. Miller III, is also her new boss. The former head of the Federal Trade Commission just took over as director of OMB, succeeding David Stockman, who resigned.

Mrs. Gramm had served as director of the FTC bureau of economics since 1983.

the prime minister spoke to us."

The unusual intrusion of diplomatic courtesies into House floor action bought 24 hours for both sides to play whatever cards they still hold in an intense contest for votes that has drawn swarms of lobbyists and a Reagan administration veto threat.

The House version of the measure would force drastic rollbacks — averaging perhaps 35 percent — in imports of fabrics and wearing apparel from 12 nations, including Singapore, as well as lesser cuts in shipments from other textile countries. It would exempt Canada and the European Economic Community.

The administration has denounced the bill as being guaranteed to bring retaliation against U.S. exports and thus cause more layoffs and worsen the projected $150 billion U.S. trade deficit. It also says the bill would raise consumer prices and violate 38 international treaties.

The textile and apparel industries, along with two major labor unions, are pushing for the measure as a means of protecting jobs. They say import competition has caused 300,000 layoffs since 1980.

Textile forces said they protested O'Neill's decision, but to no avail.

"He felt it would be an insult to the prime minister to bring it up just before he got out of town," Derrick said. "I told the speaker I don't have any Singapore people who vote for me. I'm not concerned about their jobs. I'm concerned about South Carolina."

government was ready for a military strike to free the hostages.

"But to put it in action, the Americans needed time, at least until late Wednesday night," Craxi was quoted as saying.

The ship's captain, Gerardo De Rosa, said in a radio conversation with state-run Italian television Wednesday night that a terrorist admitted killing Klinghoffer the day before.

"They told me shortly after they killed him, I think, because the Palestinian who killed him had pants and shoes covered with blood," De Rosa said.

FLOOD

The heavy rains are beneficial for Panhandle farmers in the long run, but for now, the rains are delaying harvest, said agricultural extension agent Paul Gross.

Gross says the corn, grain sorghum, sugar beat, sunflower and peanut harvests all have been delayed.

Corn harvest was well under way when the rains fell with some counties reporting up to 80 percent of the crops harvested, Gross said, but the grain sorghum harvest was just in the beginning stages.

The moisture also has been hard on the cotton, he said.

Farmers planting their winter wheat have been halted with about half their crops in, Gross said, but for those with wheat already planted, the rain is a welcome visitor.

About 600 residences experienced a power outage when a large tree branch fell onto a line in Amarillo, said Bill Crenshaw, a Southwestern Public Service spokesman.

Deaf Smith foster care allotted $1,500 more

Deaf Smith County's program for foster care of children will be allotted $1,500 more during the next fiscal year than last, it was reported to the Child Welfare Board Wednesday.

Last year's budget of $8,500 was upped to $10,000 by the county. However, during the last fiscal year $3,223 was spent for foster child care with the state reimbursing the county all but $165 for the care of 16 children.

Any of the allotted money which is not used goes back into the budget.

Board members viewed a slide presentation dealing with child abuse, one of a three part series, which will soon be shown to third graders in Hereford schools. The board plans to schedule a training session for volunteers who would like to assist in showing the series. Persons interested in the training session should contact Bill Johnson at 364-2232.

Caseworker Rick Lee reported that more foster homes are needed in this county since only one family currently has opened its home. Having more local homes would allow children who are taken from homes to remain in their own schools. Some children are being placed in homes in other towns when the current home is full.

Caseworkers reported to the board that the number of cases are running in the high 20s. More cases are reported in the fall as school begins and teachers report suspected abuse.

Also at the meeting; -The board voted to pay a year-old medical bill concerning a child abuse case.

-Lavon Nieman and Avis White were appointed by Johnson to serve as a nominating committee. Their terms end in January 1986.

-It was reported that three children were in foster care.

-The board praised Earlene Cook, social services director, and her secretary Judy Baker for their outstanding behind the scenes service.

Board members present were Johnson, Nieman, Dr. Ron Cook, and Mysedia Smith. Absent were Bill Devers and Charlie Ruiz. Ex-officio members present were Cook, County Judge Glen Nelson, Colin Weaver, and Lee.

Artists of Month

Winners of an "Operation Wildflower" poster contest at Bluebonnet Elementary will be send their works to the Deaf Smith County Library to be part of the artist of the month display in October. Juston Wright and Robert Brozman, seated, took overall first and second places in the contest. Also winning were, back row from left, Michelle Emerson, third place overall; Donald Gooch, who tied with Emerson in a room contest; Melissa Caraway and Stoni Malone, both room winners. The Bud to Blossom Garden Club sponsored the contest.

The 51-year-old captain said the four pirates took over the ship at about 1:30 p.m. Monday, firing Soviet-made submachine guns and brandishing hand grenades and other explosives. He said they herded the passengers onto a lower deck.

One terrorist came onto the bridge, "first fired some shots into the ground screaming in Arabic, and then told me to head to Tartus."

"I was continually guarded on the bridge with submachine gun," he said. "They hoped to find asylum in Syria," he said, and when the Syrians refused entry "they told me to head towards Libya."

Veliotos, the U.S. ambassador, went to the ship Wednesday on orders from President Reagan to check on American passengers and find out what had happened.

Veliotos said that after Klinghoffer was killed the terrorists showed De Rosa the passport of Mildred Hodes, another American passenger, and told him: "She goes next."

Veliotos said: "She pleaded for her life. They said, 'Okay, but you (the captain) tell those Syrians that we've killed two.' They then kept a gun on them constantly and anyone else near the radio and threatened to kill anyone who told the truth."

Some of the more than 600 passengers who had gotten off the ship at Alexandria for an overland tour and were to have rejoined the cruise at Port Said were sent out to the ship in small motor launches Wednesday night.

Ship company spokesmen have said passengers who left the liner at Alexandria could rejoin it if they wished at Ashdod, Israel, the ship's next port of call. Some had already been flown from Egypt to Rome.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

When we moved to Hereford almost 14 years ago, I felt lonely for one of the few times in my life. Our church and the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce were my salvation, as I had decided not to work until our sons finished high school.

But it didn't take long to get over that lonely feeling as I got involved in this community by working with committees in the Women's Division. Why am I writing this letter? Because the organization now has a nice size membership of about 165 but only 27 came to the quarterly meeting Monday night.

Gee, I'd do almost anything to get away from Monday-night football (especially after a special Sunday-night TV game and several on Saturday). Members and potential members just don't realize the opportunity they are missing to serve the community, and at the same time have fun and make new friends.

If a person chooses to serve on just one committee and give us little time as she can, the Women's Division still offers a challenge. The organization accomplishes so many things for Hereford and I hope present members and interested women who read this will think about becoming active to give a little back to the community.

I can remember the years when more than 100 attended our quarterly meetings. There were times when I debated about going, but I always enjoyed every meeting. I'm just asking women in the community to consider doing their part in making this a better place in which to live. That's what the organization is all about.

Thanks for reading this—that is, if Speedy doesn't throw it in the wastebasket like he has some more of my letters!

Sincerely,
Lavon Nieman

Ann Landers

Same tired plot

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I fell madly in love with my boss. We've been intimate for over two years. Jerry and I have a wonderful time together. He says I am the love of his life but he will never marry me because marriage screws up relationships. Kids are out of the question.

Jerry is still married to his second wife who lives in another state. When we met he said his marriage was empty and meaningless and that he had not slept with his wife in three years.

They have two daughters and Jerry is crazy about them. The girls live with their mother. He goes to visit them once a month for a long weekend and on holidays, stays at their house and sees nothing strange about it. He claims he does it for the girls and doesn't want his wife to feel left out.

His wife and daughters wear designer clothes and live first class. I work and pay my own way. He never buys me anything, which is OK. All I want is him.

If Jerry loves his wife why doesn't he go back to her? If he loves me why can't he make a commitment? I've given up everything for this man. My family is concerned that I will end up alone and sorry. Please help me sort this out.—DEPRESSED IN DIXIE wife nothing and hopes no one fills her in. Or maybe wife knows and doesn't give a hoot. Meanwhile Boss is having a ball and secretary is having birthdays.

My advice is to look for another job at once. Give the guy the deep six and find a man who doesn't believe marriage screws up relationships.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Should a 9-year-old be able to decide which parent he wants to live with?

My husband and I split up over a year ago. He left the state. My son and I stayed here. We agreed that I would get custody of Kenny and my husband would get visitation rights: Three months every summer and two weeks for Christmas.

Now that Kenny is back with his dad he wants to live there. His dad says we should think of the boy's happiness and abide by his decision. I feel this is a heavy burden to place on the boy. He loves both of us.

I suggested that Kenny spend six months with his dad and six months with me. That way no one would feel cheated. We both want him so it's a very difficult situation. Please give me your views on this.—SAD MOTHER IN NORTH HOLLYWOOD

DEAR MOTHER: I am unable to give you an informed opinion since I have no facts. With whom does the boy get along better—and for what reasons? Does Kenny prefer to be with his father because Daddy is more permissive? Or does Daddy provide a more male environment, such as ball games, boxing, track meets?

A 9-year-old is old enough to know what he wants, but he should not be allowed to have it unless it is in his best interest. Meanwhile, how would this child manage his education if he spent six months with each parent?

How to—and how much? Find out with Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." For your copy send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

In Hereford-Clovis football clash Friday

Whitefaces must stop 'Kelley & Hall show'

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Stopping the Darren Kelley-Anthony Hall show will certainly be a major objective of the Hereford High School varsity football team when the Whitefaces play at Clovis, N.M., Friday night.

Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m. Central Time, or 7:30 p.m. Mountain Time at Leon Williams Stadium.

The contest brings together a Hereford Whiteface team with a 2-3 season record and a Clovis Wildcat team with a 5-1 record. Clovis has won the New Mexico class 4A state championship the last four seasons in a row, and is ranked No. 1 in the state this year.

Hereford and Clovis have had one common opponent this season—Palo Duro, which beat Clovis 31-14, and shut out Hereford 38-0 the next week of the season.

"This week our degree of opposition will be greatly advanced," said Hereford head Coach Jerry Taylor. "Clovis has a fine team. They are big!

"Kelley, the Clovis tailback, is an elusive and fast back. But their fullback Hall can also beat you. We must be at our best to win. We must gang tackle, and block well."

The running back combination of Darren Kelley and Anthony Hall has certainly frustrated Clovis' opposing defenses so far this season.

For example, in the Wildcats' 32-8 victory over Pampa on Sept. 20, Kelley had 223 yards rushing, including touchdown runs of 76 yards, 53 yards, and 39 yards.

Clovis had 519 yards rushing in its season opener, a 54-14 win over Portales on Aug. 31. Kelly rushed for 157 yards and two touchdowns, and Hall rushed for 115 yards and three touchdowns.

Clovis defeated Canyon 36-0 on Sept. 13. The Wildcats totaled 373 yards rushing, with Hall carrying for 129 yards and two touchdowns and Kelley for 107 yards and one touchdown. Clovis' other wins this season were 25-20 over Albuquerque Highland on Sept. 27, and 28-3 over Albuquerque Del Norte last Friday.

Blue Jays carve out 2-0 lead over Royals

By HARRY ATKINS AP Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays, with surgical precision, have carved up Kansas City in the first two games of the American League playoffs.

The job has been so skillful and exact that the Royals can't even see the blood.

The Blue Jays' 6-5 victory in 10 innings Wednesday had the same characteristics as their 6-1 triumph Tuesday night.

Toronto hit no home runs in either game, but the Blue Jays got solid pitching and air-tight defense while taking advantage of every Kansas City mistake — and there were plenty.

"We have our work cut out for us," Royals third baseman George Brett said. "But we've got Bret Saberhagen going for us at home, so we've got to be confident about Friday's game."

Today was a travel day and both teams scheduled workouts in Royals Stadium in advance of Friday's third game of the best-of-seven series.

The Royals will throw the 21-year-old Saberhagen, 20-6 during the regular season, against Toronto veteran Doyle Alexander, 17-10.

"We definitely need a win Friday night," Saberhagen said. "It puts a little pressure on me. Going home makes it a little easier, though."

But no matter how well the Royals do back in front of their own fans, they'll have to come back to the shores of Lake Ontario if they hope to keep the Blue Jays from becoming the first Canadian team to appear in the World Series.

"The off-day is going to help us more than them," Brett conceded. "They want to go out and play right now. Going to Kansas City may slow down their momentum."

Momentum didn't seem to mean a thing to the Blue Jays on Wednesday. They fell behind twice and had to overcome what could have been a crippling call by the umpires — but still they won.

"It seems like this is a team that comes back from adversity," said Al Oliver, the designated hitter who drove in the winning run with a two-out, two-strike single in the 10th. "I'd say this is pretty typical."

"This team has a lot of talent and character and it has the ability to come back. It's been that way ever since I've been here."

Valenzuela hurls Dodgers to 4-1 victory over Cardinals

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela made Tommy Lasorda look like a baseball genius — again.

Asked why he'd chosen the recently struggling left-hander to open the National League playoffs for Los Angeles against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Dodger skipper smiled and replied: "Fernando has helped make me Manager of the Year three times."

Valenzuela, who hadn't won a game in almost a month, shut out the Cardinals for 6 1/3 innings Wednesday night as the Dodgers took a 4-1 victory in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

In tonight's 8:35 p.m. EDT second game, Los Angeles' Orel Hersheriser, 19-3 and winner of 11 straight, faces the Cardinals' Joaquin Andujar, 21-12, at Dodger Stadium.

In the opener, the Dodgers beat the Cardinals at their own game, scratching out runs with timely hits and alert baserunning — including a two-out bunt for a run in a three-run sixth inning that gave the Dodgers a four-run lead.

Valenzuela allowed seven hits, two walks and struck out six before yielding to reliever Tom Niedenfuer in the seventh. They succeeded in keeping Cardinal speedster Vince Coleman and Willie McGee off base. McGee, the NL's top hitter at .353 this season, struck out three times.

Los Angeles third baseman Bill Madlock, not known as a threat on the bases, scored the Dodgers' first two runs off loser John Tudor. Madlock reached first in the fourth inning on an error by St. Louis third baseman Terry Pendleton, stole second, then raced home on Pedro Guerrero's bloop single to right field.

In the sixth, Madlock started things off with a one-out double off the left wrist of the Cardinals' fielding whiz at shortstop, Ozzie Smith. After Guerrero was walked intentionally, Mike Marshall flied out. But Mike Scioscia laced a single to center to score Madlock as Guerrero alertly took third.

Then Lasorda noticed that Pendleton was playing deep at third and yelled "Toque" — Spanish for bunt — at Candy Maldonado as the Puerto Rico native stepped up to hit. And Los Angeles first base coach Manny Mota, from the Dominican Republic, made sure that Guerrero, also from the Dominican Republic, was aware of the strategy.

Maldonado then laid down a perfect bunt that hugged the third-base line as Guerrero broke for home. Pendleton, nearly step-for-step with Guerrero, fielded the ball with his bare right hand, but his throw to the plate struck a surprised Tudor in the back and fell harmlessly to the infield grass as Guerrero scored the Dodgers' third run.

"I knew (St. Louis catcher Darrell) Porter and Pendleton didn't speak Spanish," Lasorda said with a sly grin.

Steve Sax, the next batter, hit Tudor's first pitch up the alley in left-center for a double to give the Dodgers a 4-0 lead.

That hit chased Tudor, who allowed seven hits and was charged with all the Dodgers' runs.

"I've been in baseball for a long time and I've never seen that bunt play before," Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog said.

The Cardinals' only run came in the seventh on a run-producing single by pinch-hitter Tito Landrum.

Cardinals steal no bases in Game 1

By JOHN NADEL AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Updike could have had the St. Louis Cardinals of 1985 in mind when he wrote the novel "Rabbit Run" 25 years ago.

The Cardinals stole 314 bases this season in winning 101 games, best in the major leagues. Leading the way were Vince Coleman with a rookie-record 110 thefts and National League batting champion Willie McGee with 56.

Coleman and McGee, the first two hitters in the St. Louis batting order, the switch-hitting catalysts, stole no bases in Wednesday night's opener of the NL Playoffs.

Fact is, they never had a chance, going a combined 0-for-8 and failing to reach base against Los Angeles pitchers Fernando Valenzuela and Tom Niedenfuer.

So it wasn't surprising that the Cardinals dropped a 4-1 decision to the Dodgers.

"They not only kept our speed off the bases, they kept everyone off the bases," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said. "Fernando pitched very well. ... We rarely do much with Fernando and we didn't tonight. He gives us fits.

"Overall, they did everything very well."

McGee, who collected 216 hits while batting .353, had an especially long night, striking out twice and flying to center against Valenzuela and fanning in his one appearance against Niedenfuer.

"I had a bad night. I'm human," McGee said. "All I can do is go out there and do my best. He (Valenzuela) pitched well. He won. There was no secret to it. They played better than we did."

Coleman popped out twice, struck out and grounded into a double play to end the Cards' seventh, when they scored their only run.

"All we can do is wait until tomorrow and try to establish something early," Coleman said.

Royals are frustrated team

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer
TORONTO (AP) — The Kansas City Royals are frustrated.

Not so much because they've lost the first two games of the American League playoffs to the Toronto Blue Jays. But because of how they've lost.

"We didn't play very well. Why? I don't know," said George Brett, who went 0-for-4 as Kansas City stumbled 6-5 in 10 innings Wednesday. "You just can't go out and play every game real good."

The fact is that the Royals have played poorly in the first two games of the best-of-seven series. The Blue Jays, meanwhile, have been aggressive, opportunistic and better.

In the opener Tuesday night, Toronto breezed 6-1.

Wednesday's game saw Kansas City blow an early 3-0 lead before rallying to force the game into extra innings. Then, after scoring a controversial run in the top of the 10th, the Royals watched Toronto strike for two runs against Dan Quisenberry in the bottom of the 10th to win.

"This is the most painful kind of loss," Brett said. "This one's going to be hard to forget about. When you make that many mistakes, it hurts."

Said Quisenberry: "I'm not a believer in luck, but I think sometimes things go your way and sometimes they don't."

"We just gave the game to them," said catcher Jim Sundberg, whose throwing error on Lloyd Moseby's stolen base in the eighth helped Toronto take a short-lived lead.

Ways with Wine by David Hutchins

FORTIFIED WINES

Through the natural process of fermentation, the sugar in a freshly squeezed grape undergoes a chemical reaction that converts it to alcohol and carbon dioxide gas. The fermentation process is triggered by yeasts. These micro-organisms are killed by the very alcohol they create, thus halting the fermentation process. This generally occurs when the alcohol level rises to approximately 12 to 14 percent. Unfortified wines, therefore, rarely contain more than 14 percent alcohol. In some parts of the world, it was discovered that wine traveled better and lasted longer when brandy was added to it. The addition of the brandy raised the alcohol level of the wine beyond what the yeasts could produce, thus fortifying it.

Brynner, quintessential 'king', dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Yul Brynner, whose more than three dozen movies were dwarfed by a record 4,625 stage performances as the bald, autocratic monarch of Siam in "The King and I," died today at the age of 65, his spokesman said.

His wife, Kathy Lee, and his four children were with him when he died at 1 a.m. at The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said spokesman Josh Ellis of Solters Roskin Friedman Inc. The agency handled the publicity for the most recent Broadway production of the classic musical, which ended in June.

"He died of multiple complications that came as a result of what was originally cancer," Ellis said. "He faced death with a dignity and strength that astounded his doctors. He fought like a lion."

"He was a remarkable person," said Charlton Heston, who starred with Brynner in Cecil B. DeMille's 1956 epic "The Ten Commandments." "His work in 'King and I' was beyond compare.

He was a very special talent. I'm very sorry to hear of his death."

Although Brynner made more than three dozen movies, including "The Ten Commandments," "The Magnificent Seven" and "Anastasia," he was best known for his stage and screen portrayals of the king in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical classic.

The role brought him a Tony in 1952, an Oscar in 1957, and a special Tony in June. He played his final performance as the king June 30 at the Broadway Theater at the end of a tour lasting almost 4½ years.

That tour was interrupted in September 1983 when Brynner, who at one time smoked five packs of cigarettes a day, needed treatment for lung cancer. He received radiation therapy at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"I think that the discipline I acquired through 53 years of working in show business has helped me enormously with my own physical problems — whether it was a crash in the circus when I was 17 or the serious illness which I had more recently," Brynner said in an interview last December.

"You have to make a choice — being sick in bed, and that's a fearsome kind of thing — or playing in a theater to standing ovations every night. The choice is obvious. I simply go on playing."

Brynner was born Taidje Khan on Sakhalin Island, north of Japan, which is now a part of the Soviet Union. His office gives the date as July 11, 1920, although Current Biography lists the year as 1917 and Who's Who in the Theater as 1915.

His background was as exotic as his looks. His father was a Mongolian mining engineer who was born in Switzerland and later changed the family name to Brynner. His mother was a gypsy who died at his birth. Brynner's early childhood was spent in Peking but he went to Paris to live with his grandmother and study.

In Europe, Brynner began performing in nightclubs and circuses and later worked as an acrobat until a fall at 17 forced him to give up the trapeze.

He studied philosophy at the Sorbonne and acting with Russian director Michael Chekhov and came to the United States in 1941 with Chekhov's acting troupe.

He made his Broadway debut in 1946 as an Oriental prince in the musical "Lute Song."

"The King and I," set in the 1860s, concerns English governess Anna Leonowens, played originally by Gertrude Lawrence, who journeys to Siam to tutor the country's crown prince and ends up educating his father as well.

The musical opened on Broadway on March 29, 1951, and became one of Rodgers and Hammerstein's biggest hits. Brynner later starred with Deborah Kerr in the movie version, released in 1956.

Brynner shaved his head for the role in 1951 and made that his trademark.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

Allergy causes major problem

DEAR DR. GOTT — I can't watch TV, listen to radio or talk on the phone. It burns my nose, eyes, and the inside of my mouth and makes my chest hurt. The smell of plastic and ink also bothers me. Can you shed some light on this?

DEAR READER — Your sensitivity to plastic and ink products suggests you may have an unusual but severe form of allergy to these substances. Ordinarily this malady is not related to noise stimulation, so I cannot really put all of your symptoms together. Perhaps starting with the more obvious problem would be a good approach. Ask your doctor to refer you to an environmental allergist. In many large cities, there are specialists who deal almost exclusively with unfortunate people who seem to be allergic to almost everything around them.

DEAR DR. GOTT — For the past few years I have had a problem with my varicose veins swelling badly. I've had thrombophlebitis twice and have it now. One doctor put a jelly cast on it. Will I have to live with this for the rest of my life or do you think I should have it operated on?

DEAR READER — Whether or not you should have a vein operation is a decision best made jointly by you and your doctor. Recurring blood clots (thrombophlebitis) would certainly make me swing in favor of surgery, as would the chronic nuisance of various casts. In general, the operation is safe, relatively inexpensive and will probably allow you to live a more comfortable and enjoyable life.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am sure you have a lot of readers out there with fibrositis who do not know much about it and would like to know more. I know it is a form of arthritis and affects the muscles instead of the joints. Would you give me some insight on this medical problem?

DEAR READER — Fibrositis is a troublesome disorder that is characterized by inflammation of the body's fibrous tissue, particularly where muscles attach to the bones. The disease is often difficult to diagnose because nobody knows what causes it and there is no specific method to test for it. Actually, it is not arthritis, because it affects structures surrounding joints, but not the joints themselves. It causes pain, stiffness, tenderness and (occasionally) fever. If muscles are also involved in the inflammation, the condition is usually called fibro-myositis.

The new nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) usually control the symptoms of fibrositis. Aspirin, too, will help. In severe cases, cortisone may have to be considered. The disorder is treatable, but requires periodic medical followup.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 14-year-old son was diagnosed as having Osgood-Schlatter's disease in his left knee. His phys. ed. instructor discovered and diagnosed it. My real concern is that this boy was found to have Legg Perthes' disease when he was 6. Is there any direct relation between the two? What are the chances for full recovery without surgery? Will he develop arthritis? Will it develop in his other knee?

DEAR READER — I believe that your son has two separate diseases, one common and one rare. Osgood-Schlatter's disease is a problem experienced by many healthy, growing adolescents. It is due to partial separation of the growing portion of the lower leg bone below the kneecap. Extension of the leg is painful, so sports that involve running are uncomfortable. The condition heals itself with time; youngsters have only to limit athletic activity until they are pain-free.

Legg-Perthes' disease, on the other hand, is a unusual form of hip arthritis

ARTHRITIS AND PAIN

ATLANTA (AP) — Many Americans with arthritis endure needless pain, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

Some people think nothing much can be done for their arthritis, so they do not consult a doctor or do not follow the treatment plan prescribed for them by their doctor.

Medication, along with a combination of exercise, joint protection, and rest are frequently part of a total treatment plan for arthritis.

Smith, Curtsinger serve as hostesses

Dawn Music Club met at Dawn Community Center Tuesday with Mrs. Alfred Smith and Mrs. R.E. Curtsinger serving as co-hostesses.

Smith presided at the regular business meeting. Past District I President, Helen Caraway, read an invitation from the United Nations for National Federated Music Club members to attend dedication ceremonies to be held at the dedication of the organ donated to U.N. by the National Music Club.

Smith and Curtsinger were elected delegate and alternate to District I Convention to be held in Borger Nov. 9.

"Texas Heritage in Song" was the theme of study presented as Smith read "Get Along Little Dogies", a history of Texas cattle drives and music sung around the camp and the cattle herds.

"The Old Chisolm Trail" was composed and sung with cowboys adding their own verses as time passed.

Ruby Wimberley sang "The Boll Weevil" which was written after the boll weevil crossed into Texas from Old Mexico and spread into other cotton producing states.

"Barbara Allen", a popular ballad of the West, was sung by Curtsinger, accompanied by Wimberley. "Home On The Range," was sung by all present including Mrs. H.V. McCabe.

The next meeting will be held at Hereford Senior Citizens Center Nov. 12 with a program of Bob Will's music.

The earliest known zoo belonged to Queen Hatshepsut of Egypt about 1500 B.C.

Government rushes financial aid

PONCE, Puerto Rico (AP) — The Puerto Rican government rushed emergency money to survivors of this week's flooding and mudslides, and rescue workers pulled more bodies from the debris. Officials said as many as 500 people may have died.

Civil Defense Chief Heriberto Acevedo reported Wednesday that a total of 74 bodies had been recovered or located in the debris on the U.S. Commonwealth island.

Ponce's deputy mayor, Angel Emeterio Aienza, said there may be 500 more bodies beneath mud in the nearby hillside shantytown of Mameyes, the hardest hit community. Other local officials' estimates ranged from 100 to 300.

The New York Times reported today that health officials feared a health threat because of the unrecovered bodies at Mameyes, where heavy rains triggered a mudslide that buried hundreds of homes and some inhabitants on Monday.

The newspaper said officials had asked that the area be sealed with rock and earth as a mass grave.

"It is one of the most difficult and delicate decisions that the Puerto Rican government has ever had to make," it quoted Ponce Mayor Jose Dapena as saying. "But it is a decision that has to be made quickly due to the threat to the rest of the community."

Edgardo Delgado, the southern region's district attorney in charge of identifying victims, said 70 bodies had been sent to the morgue at the medical center in Ponce, including victims from Mameyes, Santa Isabela and other flooded areas.

Governor Rafael Hernandez Colon held an emergency meeting Wednesday night and ordered the distribution of $1 million in $300 checks to families left homeless or with serious damage to their property. The money was part of a $10 million emergency fund approved by the island's legislature.

The governor appealed to President Reagan to declare 40 of the island's 78 municipalities, most of them on the southern coast, a disaster area. He also asked the White House to help with the reconstruction of housing, highways and washed-out bridges.

The American Red Cross operation headquarters in Alexandria, Va., said it has sent a 15-member administrative team composed of experts in damage assessment, mass care, supplies, personnel, health services, family services and other areas.

Approximately 6,200 people are staying at 33 Red Cross shelters.

The governor's advisers estimated 10,000 people are without water and electricity.

The National Guard earlier estimated damage to buildings, agricultural land, schools, public highways and bridges will exceed $100 million.

"This is a tragedy for all of Puerto Rico, not just for Ponce and the affected families," Hernandez Colon told mourners Wednesday at a mass funeral and burial for 23 of the victims, many of them infants, brought to Ponce from several sites including Mameyes.

About 5,000 sobbing and wailing relatives and neighbors jammed the basketball court of the city coliseum for the funeral. Thousands more lined the streets or watched from balconies as the coffins were carried from the coliseum to the municipal cemetery.

Commander Eliezer Barrios, who directed police operations at the Santa Isabel bridge, 20 miles east of Ponce on the main highway to San Juan, said at least 19 people, including four policemen, died when their vehicles plunged into the Paso Seco River.

"The bridge split in two and became a trampoline to death for motorists," Barrios said.

$70,000 spent

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Law enforcement officers spent at least $70,000 in a year-long investigation of state Sen. Carl Parker before a special grand jury refused to indict the legislator in connection with an alleged pornographic videotape business, the Beaumont Enterprise reported today.

However, the estimate does not include travel expenses of dozens of witnesses, the salaries of secretaries, clerks and judges involved in three grand jury proceedings or the special prosecutor who assisted a special grand jury in its investigation.

Jefferson County Auditor Jerry Ware said it would be impossible to get an exact figure for all ancillary costs related to the case because of the county's complex book-keeping system and the number of accounts involved.

The case centered around an April 1984 raid on a Port Arthur house co-owned by Parker and Daniel J. Lee and identified as the site of Happy Times Video Co. Police seized more than 400 videotapes they claimed were obscene, as well as tape duplicating equipment and drugs.

The Newspaper BIBLE

THREATENED BY A STORM AT SEA

The officers in charge of the prisoners listened more to the ship's captain and the owner than to Paul. And since Fair Havens was an exposed harbor—a poor place to spend the winter—most of the crew advised trying to go further up the coast to Phoenix, in order to winter there; Phoenix was a good harbor with only a northwest and southwest exposure.

Just then a light wind began blowing from the south, and it looked like a perfect day for the trip; so they pulled up anchor and sailed along close to shore. But shortly afterwards, the weather changed abruptly and a heavy wind of typhoon strength (a "northeaster," they called it) caught the ship and blew it out to sea. They tried at first to face back to shore but couldn't, so they gave up and left the ship run before the gale. We finally sailed behind a small island named Claudia, where with great difficulty we hoisted aboard the lifeboat that was being towed behind us, and then banded the ship with ropes to strengthen the hull. The sailors were afraid of being driven across the quicksands of the African coast, so they lowered the topsails and were thus driven before the wind.

The next day as the seas grew higher, the crew began throwing the cargo overboard. The following day they threw out the tackle and anything else they could lay their hands on. The terrible storm raged unabated many days, until at last all hope was gone.

Bert Campaneris of Kansas City and Cesar Tovar of Minnesota share the major league record for having played all nine positions in one game. Tovar did it in 1968 and Campaneris in 1965.

At the age of 52 in 1904, Jim O'Rourke caught the entire game for the New York Giants as they clinched the National League pennant.

The hope of salvation is clearly presented as the story continues. The antichrist establishes a world government that spells death for those who refuse the Mark of the Beast.
