Rain-swollen Tierra Blanca claims youth

Heavy rains sent the normally peaceful Tierra Blanca Creek out of its banks this week, and the waters swept a pickup truck off a road at one point, causing the drowning death of its driver, 17-year-old Joe Adam Benavidez.

Benavidez left his home about 5:30 a.m. Wednesday and apparently went off Dairy Road with his pickup where high creek waters went over the dirt road and made it indistinguishable.

He was reported missing about noon Wednesday, a spare tire was seen in the water about 2 p.m., and the top of the pickup was seen about 11 p.m. after waters subsided some.

Benavidez' body was found about 200 yards downstream at 9:20 Thursday morning.

The pickup truck came to rest in an ensilage pit in the stream. The right-hand door was open. His body was found by volunteer searchers along the banks of the Tierra Blanca on the property of Texsun Feedyards, just south-east of Hereford. He was on his way to his job at the Three R Feed Yards, which is immediately to the east of Texsun Feed Yards.

His brother-in-law, Margarito Gonzalez, called Benavidez' home when he failed to report to work. His wife, the former Fannie Marquez, officially reported him missing about noon. The couple were married this year. They lived at 910 Irving.

Funeral services will be in Tucumcari Monday, with Dunn Funeral Home of Tucumcari in charge. Gilliland Funeral Home handled arrangements in Hereford.

Besides his widow, other survivors are his father, Adam Benavidez of Tucumcari; six sisters, Mrs. Margarito (Eva) Gonzalez of Hereford, Mrs. Emilia Madrid of Tucumcari, Clara Benavidez of Los Angeles, and Rose, Becky and Doris, all of the home in Tucumcari.

Benavidez was born in Tucumcari. He had been a resident of Hereford for three years.

Benavidez' father and brother-in-law were present when the body was found.

Doctor: TV report about diphtheria wrong

A television report that a 7-month-old Hereford baby died Thursday of diphtheria was incorrect, according to the doctor who examined the child after his death.

The child, Jose DeLuz Cortinez, was reported dead about 8:50 a.m. Thursday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arculano Cortinez of 110 Ave. D.

The doctor said the baby had been suffering from slight malnutrition and severe diarrhea. Police accompanied the ambulance which was summoned to the home.

Graveside services were held in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery at 3 p.m. Friday, with the Rev. Boniface Reidmann officiating.

Local questioning uncovers marijuana plantation

BY CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

The arrests of several juveniles and young adults on drug charges in a six-day period early this month has led to the discovery and destruction of a rich marijuana plantation in New Mexico believed to have been the source for most of the marijuana sold and smoked in the Hereford area.

Local officers declined to say which of the youths blew the whistle on the location of the marijuana crop.

City police and sheriff's deputies cooperated in the raids, which resulted in the arrest of three 16-year-old boys one night; a 21-year-old man and a 17-year-old girl two nights later; a 17-year-old boy, a 16-year-old boy and a 15-year-old girl one night later; and a 23-year-old man and a 21-year-old man, three nights later.

After local sheriff's deputies pinpointed the exact plantation location, at an isolated hippie colony in Placitas, N.M., New Mexico State Police staged a raid and found 700 plants of marijuana growing and 300 pounds already harvested. The plants were so tall—some as high as 11 feet—that officers had to use fire axes to chop them down.

They arrested 11 persons, charging them with possession and cultivation of marijuana. Confiscated marijuana and other paraphernalia amounted to $250,000, New Mexico State Police said. Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson was delighted. He said it is all but certain that the plantation was the source for most of the marijuana coming into not only Hereford but the entire Panhandle.

"We are real pleased, stopping this source," McPherson said. "This is what we have always tried to do. We have been arresting smokers, of course, but the main ones we wanted to get were the suppliers."

"All of our information for the past year had indicated the marijuana was coming from the Albuquerque area but this was the first time we had been able to find the exact location."

Confirmation of the raid at Placitas came via a letter McPherson received Friday from Capt. T. J. Chavez, director of the narcotics division of the New Mexico State Police.

"I would like to take this opportunity to personally commend Detective Arthur Burton of your department for the excellent information given us regarding a marijuana plantation in the Albuquerque area," Chavez said.

"An investigation was initiated and completed resulting in the apprehension of 11 persons charged with possession and cultivating of marijuana. Confiscated evidence amounted to over $250,000 of marijuana and other paraphernalia. Our investigative narcotic agents have nothing but praise for Detective Burton, who furnished Agent A. C. Rodriguez with valuable intelligence information.

"I wish to let Detective Burton know that his cooperation is recognized and highly appreciated by this department and rest assured that we are ready to assist your office in any way that we possibly can."

Hereford fights PRPC 'harassment'

The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission has withdrawn a negative recommendation to the state concerning a $135,300 aid application for sewage treatment in Hereford, City Manager Dudley Bayne said Saturday.

According to paperwork Bayne received from the PRPC, he said, there were two blanks—one "recommend" and one "do not recommend." The "do not recommend" had been checked, Bayne said, because neither the city of Hereford nor Deaf Smith County are PRPC members.

"I talked to them yesterday (Friday) and told them to get that straightened out or else," Bayne said. "They said they would change it to say we are not a member and therefore they were sending it on without comment."

City officials had talked previously with state officials. The state, according to the city manager, "said it really wouldn't make any difference" if the PRPC put the no-comment comment on the application.

A "do not recommend" ruling, however, might have made a difference. The environmental division of the PRPC unanimously approved Hereford's sewage treatment application but the full PRPC committee balked because the city was not a PRPC member.

Several months ago, PRPC executive director Ernest Clark had said cities and counties not belonging to PRPC might find themselves missing out on federal aid, since all applications must go through the PRPC. That new agency would be reluctant to approve things for cities which did not pay dues like other cities whose money is financing PRPC operation, he indicated.

Infant boy's Funeral held

Funeral services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Davis Sorrells, 201 Hickory, were conducted Thursday afternoon in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home by Dr. Gerald Mann, pastor of First Baptist Church. Burial was in Rest Lawn Cemetery.

The baby, who died Wednesday night in a local hospital, is survived by the parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Sorrells of Hereford and Mrs. Rachel Watson of Levelland.

Hereford Mayor Jim Sears fired off a letter to Gov. Preston Smith about that, and an exchange of letters back and forth from Austin to Amarillo to Hereford resulted in a meeting at Hereford, where several PRPC officials said there would be no discrimination against non-member cities or counties.

In the PRPC's meeting in Amarillo Wednesday, however, its officials said when they got to the sewage treatment equipment application that they could not include Deaf Smith County or Hereford in their regional plan.

While trying to discover what a negative recommendation or even a "no-comment" recommendation would mean to the application, Sears, Bayne and City Attorney Earnest Langley were huddling in a meeting to contemplate possible retaliatory action.

At one point, they talked seriously of filing a civil suit of several thousand dollars, the amount that might be lost if the PRPC action resulted in rejection of Hereford's application for state and federal aid in the project.

They took the point of view that the PRPC action was harassment. They had rather not even go through the PRPC, they said, but if they were required to, then the PRPC should consider their application on its merits instead of trying to make a power play to force the city and county to join the PRPC.

SUSTAINS DRIVE — Fullback Larry McNutt grounds out five yards for a first down at the Clovis 36 during the Whitefaces' only successful touchdown drive Friday night. Three plays later, a pass went 28 yards to the Clovis 5, was fumbled and Alan Cornelius (85) recovered in the end zone.

Tackling McNutt is No. 22, Billy Jones, who gave Clovis all the points it needed with an 88-yard opening kickoff return. The Wildcats won, 16-6. Other Hereford players in the picture are tackle Wayne Moton (70), center Dale Hollingsworth (50) and tailback John Page (44).

Kick return foils Herd

BY MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Clovis' Billy Jones hauled in the opening kickoff and raced 88 yards Friday night to start the Wildcats on their way to a 16-6 win over Hereford in a game in which the heralded Whiteface offense sputtered around the field and never threatened to close the gap.

It was the third straight game in which the Whitefaces were stung in the early moments of play with a score by the opposing team.

"We played very poorly," said head coach Larry Dippel. "Our defense didn't play bad, I don't think, but I know we should have had five interceptions last night."

"We dropped four of them we should have had and stuff like that have to be remedied if you are going to be very good." The Wildcats scored on the opening kickoff and on their third possession of the game came back with their second score on a four-yard plunge by Joe Calvert. David McPherson booted both point after and the Wildcats held a 14-0 lead with 4:30 remaining in the first quarter.

The Whitefaces only score came early in the fourth period. Barry McNutt grabbed an interception on the Hereford 13 and returned it 27 yards to the 40. Eight plays later, quarterback Keith Kitchens drilled a 27-yard pass to end Bruce Barrett over the middle. Barrett broke into the open but was hit hard and fumbled on the 5. Hereford's Alan Cornelius, also out on a pass route, followed the bouncing ball into the end zone and covered it for the score.

Clovis got another two points with 2:15 left in the game when defensivemen John Ramsey and Dennis Tebbets caught Kitchens in the end zone on a questionable safety. Kitchens, being dragged down at the back of the end zone, made a vain attempt to get rid of the ball, and one official threw a flag indicating intentional grounding of the ball.

Another official, however, ruled Kitchens was down and awarded the Wildcats the safety. The 88-yard kickoff return for a touchdown marked the third time in as many games the Whitefaces have given up a quick score. In the first game of the season, Pampa blocked a quick kick on third down, then used three plays to get in for a score.

Against Palo Duro, the Dons went 73 yards on their first offensive play of the game for an easy score.

The second Clovis touchdown was set up when defensive guard Steve Cyrier recovered a Wesley High fumble on the Hereford 36 after the Whitefaces had run only one play after getting a Clovis punt on the 35.

Clovis quarterback Jon Thomas, subbing for injured starter Woody Jones, then guided the Wildcats in for the score. He hit end Britt Mathwich for seven yards, running back Ronnie Hubby got one then added three, Calvert picked up four and Hubby again added four before an interference call on Hereford gave Clovis a first down at the Hereford 13.

Hubby ground out two more, Phil Mills got three and Calvert got five to the Hereford four. Calvert scooted over on the following play for the score.

The Wildcats stopped a Hereford drive in the early minutes of the second period by throwing Kitchens for a 9-yard loss on a fourth down attempt. The 'Faces got the ball when Clovis was forced to punt from its own 15.

John Page pulled down the punt on the Clovis 43 and raced back to the Wildcats' 28. Larry McNutt picked up five yards then added three more to the 20. High was stopped for no gain. See KICK RETURN, Page 3

Approximately 2,000 Tactical Air Command aircrew members and support personnel are taking part in the exercise.

For those who cannot buy expensive carpeting, the best buy in the medium price range is all-nylon, she advised. Wool, the traditional carpet material, is expensive and shows spots, but lasts many years, she added.

She gave advice on care of carpets, said proper pads are important in the life of floor covering and so is a good vacuum for cleaning.

Mrs. Ted Panclera, president of Pioneer Study Club, has received the request for women of the Panhandle to join in the campaign in behalf of East Texas' Big Thicket, a virgin forest area threatened by plans for industrial development.

In addition to Texas Senators Lloyd M. Bentsen and John G. Tower, and Rep. Bob Price, chairman of interior and insular affairs committees of the senate and house, Rep. Wayne N. Aspinwall and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, respectively, and a Texas member, Rep. Abraham Kazen, are those who may act on this matter, the announcement says.

Junior high grid teams have trouble

Both Stanton and La Plata Junior Highs stumbled through another disastrous week in football warfare, losing in each of their games and putting only 14 points on the scoreboard in five games.

The La Plata ninth was the only team that did not play prior to the weekend. That team met Dumas in a game Saturday.

The Stanton Dugies of the ninth grade played Pampa Lee in the mud Thursday in what head coach Cuby Kitchens called a "pretty good" ball game.

The Pampa team won 12-0, but the game was closer than the score indicated. The Pampa team ran the opening kickoff back for a touchdown and a 6-0 lead which stayed that way until the game was almost over.

The second score came with less than four minutes left in the contest, when the Pampans pushed across another score.

"We had two great scoring opportunities," Kitchens said. "We were on their five-yard line just before the half ended and we got down to their one-yard line in the fourth quarter."

The Stanton eighth lost, 9-0 to Borger North Tuesday in what was called another close game. Borger scored one touchdown and a safety for the only scoring in the game.

"I thought we played a pretty good ball game even though we lost," said eighth grade coach Jeff Smart.

The Stanton seventh grade fared no better against the Borger seventh, losing 44-14. Ricky Taylor scored both Stanton touchdowns on runs of 40 yards each and Michael Reyes ran across a two-point conversion for the only scoring.

The La Plata eighth lost 8-0 in a game played in Dumas and the La Plata seventh also lost to a strong Dumas team, 38-0.

The seventh and eighth grades of both Stanton and La Plata have an idle week coming up and do not play again until Oct. 5. The Stanton ninth grade hosts the Borger Red Pups here Thursday and the La Plata Mavericks travel to Pampa on the same day.

Harris' 4 TDs leads JVs to win

James Harris ran over four touchdowns and an extra point Thursday afternoon to account for all the scoring in a 26-0 victory by the Hereford junior varsity over the Palo Duro JV's in Amarillo.

Harris scored on runs of 40, 9, 7 and 2 yards during the afternoon. He marked up 207 yards rushing, in 39 carries, and also returned a punt for 30 yards.

The scoring was scattered, with touchdowns coming in each quarter.

Duane Davison gained 79 yards in 19 carries to supplement the Longhorns' attack. Terry Poindexter carried twice for four yards. Randy Alexander carried once for five yards. James Higgins carried three times for six yards and Joe Sheffy carried three times for five yards.

Higgins completed one of three passes for 25 yards, with the completion going to Danny Paetzold.

The Longhorn defense shook the PD ball carriers loose from the ball three times. Alfred Sanders, Twig Rose and Richard Schlabs came up with the ball on three occasions.

Sanders also was leading tackler, with 10. Davison had 7 tackles, Paetzold 7, Sheffy 7, Tony Ohlig 6, Joe Coleman 6, Jim Marsh 5, Paul Timberlake 4, Alexander 4, Willie Glass 4, Harris 2, Schlabs 2, Roland Perez 2, Poindexter 2, Ronald Johnson 2, Wendell Bain 1 and Kenny Brown 1.

James Davis led an offensive line that coaches praised for doing a good job blocking.

Couple at home after marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Schneider are at home in Carrollton after their recent marriage in Cocho Baptist Church at Coleman, and a New Mexico honeymoon. The bride is the former Kathryn Byerly of Coleman.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. J. H. Byerly of Coleman and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Schneider, 505 West Third. The Rev. Paul Smith officiated for the wedding and the bride's brother, James Byerly of Fort Worth, gave her in marriage.

Her attendants were her sisters, Mrs. Roy Harrison of Fort Worth, Mmes. Bobby Jones and Gene Wehmyer of Austin. Andrew Reddick of Dallas was best man, James Wiggins and George Bolt groomsmen.

With her formal gown of white peau de soie the bride wore a veil which extended into a chapel train, a silver necklace which was the bridegroom's gift and as heirloom pieces, her late father's ring and a handkerchief belonging to her great grandmother.

Bridesmaids dressed in pink and wore heart necklaces, gifts of the bride.

A reception in the church annex followed the ceremony.

The bride attended Tarleton State College after graduation from Coleman schools. The bridegroom, a graduate of Hereford High, holds the BBA degree from North Texas State University.

Painter to show technique

Monthly programs of Hereford Art Guild in a new season will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the art room at Community Center, with a demonstration of watercolor painting by Dr. John English, who is beginning a term as Guild president.

Painting as a hobby has been an interest for several years of Dr. English, who is executive director of Kings Manor retirement home here. Landscapes are his favorite subjects in both oils and watercolors.

Membership in the Art Guild is open to painters and workers with creative crafts; those interested are invited to the meeting Tuesday. Regular meetings are on fourth Tuesdays.

For programs this year, demonstrations in various media will be presented by members or guests. A workshop and demonstration in oil painting is scheduled for the October meeting. The annual Guild art show and sale will be held Dec. 4.

Mrs. Charles R. Schneider and Kathryn Byerly

CARD OF THANKS

Rice bags are tied at luncheon

Twenty friends met Friday at noon in the home of Mrs. A. T. Mims, 609 E. Fifth, for a rice luncheon honoring Patty Nobles, Oct. 16 bride-elect of William Watson of Midland.

Hostesses with Mrs. Mims, Mrs. L. W. Combs, Mrs. Paul Coneway and Mrs. Dick Barnard, served at individual tables laid with white linen cloths.

Arrangements of gold chrysanthemums with blue net in small glass bowls centered each table. Blue burning tapers set in crystal holders amid an arrangement of gold mums and blue net decorated the background.

Bells invited to 3-day convention

For outstanding service in representing Southwestern Life at Hereford, Charles Bell Jr. and his wife have been invited to be guests of the company during a three-day convention next month at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nevada.

The meeting will include sessions on new products, effects of the wage-price freeze on business-type insurance, and other timely subjects intended to help serve policy owners and the public.

Mays attends planning meet for Explo '72

Percy Mays, a Hereford student at West Texas State University, was one of a group of WT students who went to Dallas last week to participate in the planning conference of "Explosion '72," a crusade scheduled June 12-17 in Dallas.

Mays, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Mays of Hereford, attended the conference Friday and Saturday to lay out plans for the Cotton Bowl crusade.

The goal for the West Texas area is to get 10,000 persons from this area to register. Those persons from this area will be part of some 100,000 expected to register for the crusade.

While in Dallas, Mays also attended one of the Billy Graham Crusades being held in Texas Stadium.

1972 Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

Caprice Coupe illustrated at Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota.

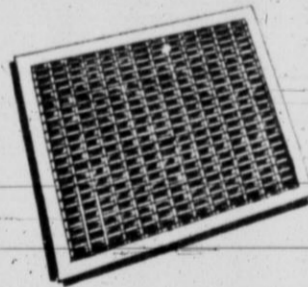

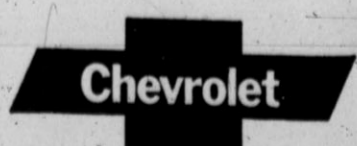

We want your new Chevrolet to be the best car you ever owned.

The best. No qualifications. No reservations. We want it to be the most beautiful, most trouble-free, most comfortable car you ever owned.

So we've given the 1972 Caprice (above) power steering, power front disc brakes, refined power ventilation and an improved front bumper to provide added front-end protection. Plus a 400-cubic-inch V8 engine and Turbo Hydra-matic automatic transmission.

All standard, as you expect with a luxury car. And Caprice is but one of the new Chevrolets. There are 45 in all: pictured below (left to right) are the 1972 Monte Carlo, Chevelle, Nova, Camaro and Vega.

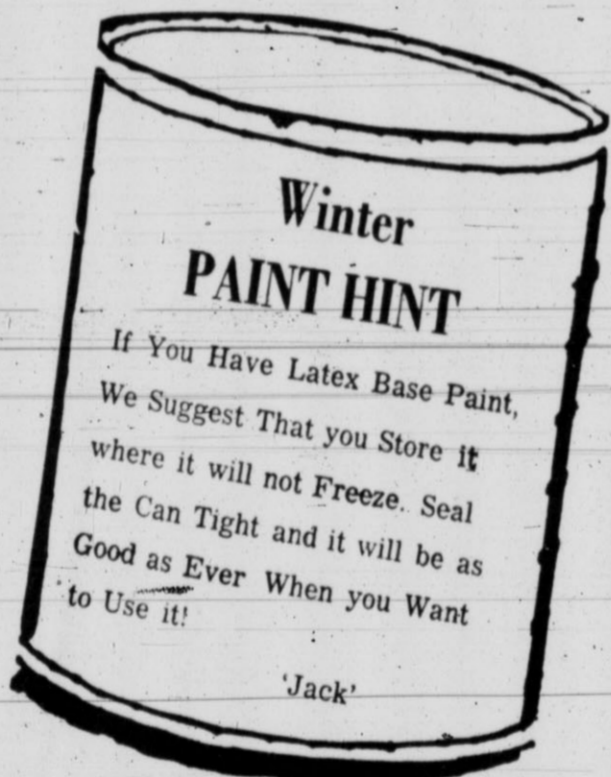

Altogether, a lot of diversity. So there's bound to be a Chevrolet just right for you, your family, your budget and your kind of driving. Whatever your choice, we want your new Chevrolet to be the best car you ever owned. No less.

Fashion show highlight of guest night

A fashion show highlighted guest night activities for Calliopean Study Club members and guests Thursday night when the group assembled at Gaston's in Sugarland Mall with hostesses Mrs. Emil Dettman and Mrs. C. J. Crump.

Mrs. Irving Alexander, member, narrated as fashions selected from both Gaston stores were modeled.

"Fashions now can be described as fashions WOW," said Mrs. Alexander, "because this is a time of variety in clothing. Everything goes with so much to choose from."

Aztec or Indian-style prints and patterns are popular, this season as are boots of all types and sizes, it was pointed out.

Guests present were Mmes. Carl McCaslin, Ben Childers, Jay Boston, Charles Hoover, B. M. Bevis, Mark Benefield, Kenneth McClain, Ted Panciera, H. A. Cavness, Vernon Denson, John Gilliland, Frank Ford, Wayne Barber, W. S. Kerr, Gaston Waer, Pat Green and Miss Patty Nobles.

Members in attendance were Mmes. Clyde Cave, Paul Conaway, J. T. Gilbreath, David Gibson, Roy Grubbs, Sue James, Tom Kendall, Ansel McDowell, D. C. McWhorter, Trow Mims, Millard Nobles, Gene Parsley, D. W. Palmer, Keith Simmer, Jack Wilcox, Hazen Woods and Bob Word.

Small talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

NEVER LET it be said that I'm not willing for somebody else to do my work for me, and when somebody will write this column, it's a nice change for me and both the readers (there are two, I hope!).

Once in a while a club reporter sends in notes that are really more interesting than the story that gets in the paper, with a bit informal for publication.

Calla Mountz wrote in the first person about the Music Study Club's Past Presidents lunch Thursday, and that's taboo for a formal story, but not for a column. Her notes are much more fun than the story which you can find in this issue; here are some of them, and I know most of you know who she's writing about.

"PAST PRESIDENTS met at my home... although my house is small this was something I have longed to do for many years. Jane came first with a large dish of potatoes scalloped with ham and cheese.

"Dessie Mae brought a lovely flower arrangement and a dish of baked rice. Grace came with a sack of tomatoes and a delicious new salad. Charis and Marcella brought red congealed salads, Ruth a tossed salad.

"Ruth Marie made an urn of coffee and brought hot rolls. Linnie Mae supplied pineapple and raspberry sherbet and Tess made a lovely chocolate sheath cake. The others, Frieda, Roberta, Nellie, Marg and Ruby, brought the chicken ready to eat (fried—from Grandma's Delicatessen).

"CHARIS WELCOMED Pat as our new president and told her what a good bunch we are and how we respond to calls for service in the club. Jane gave her another warm welcome and then we confused her by some naughty jokes and talked about Mrs. Parker and how she started us on this downward path."

(Mrs. G. A. F. Parker was the respected early-day resident of Hereford who was the Music Club's first president!)

Mrs. Mountz wound up her notes with a half-page that said, "Oh yes, we voted to..." and then mentioned the important business sort of casually.

Verbally, she said she doesn't know about the guests but she surely did enjoy the meeting and appreciates all the things done by other members to make it a happy day for her. Checking over that menu, I regret again my inability to accept the Past Presidents' invitation to lunch with them that day.

Club votes to change by-laws

Sweet and Fancy Decorating Club met Friday and discussed plans to bake cakes for residents of Kings Manor. They also voted to change club by-laws with the offices of historian, secretary and reporter formed into one position.

A new member, Mrs. Joel Lytal, was welcomed into the club. A demonstration on cake basics, icings and decorative borders, was given by Mrs. Lynn Pittard.

Visitors present were Mrs. John Gilliland and Cathy Smith. Other members present were Mmes. Lloyd Smith, Jim Garner, Leroy Edwards, Jay Kerr and Steve Coneway.

Suspense is main motive in novel

Pentagon by Hank Searls is the daring mystery of a grieved investigator who insists on finding the truth of where and who that certain rifle bullet was meant for. Read this exciting novel today, found at the Deaf Smith County Library on the first floor of Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

PENTAGON
By Hank Searls

The Mysterious rifle bullet did little damage to the world's largest building, and few of the 27,000 employees roaming the 17 miles of corridors would ever know about it. The high-powered slug smashed the window of the Chemical and Biological Warfare Officer; but was it meant for him? Or for an incoming VIP helicopter? Or for whom?

Lee Frost, head of Pentagon security, had to know. A man scarred by many battles and burdened by many doubts and griefs, he was still a tenacious investigator, and he was determined to run down the truth no matter where it led him.

So Colonel Frost began to probe and question throughout the bureaucratic labyrinth of the military complex, upward toward the levels of command and outward, into the halls of Congress and the Executive offices, and at last outside, into the rolling streets of a city inflaming itself to violence.

The trail led from the wheeling and dealing of an industrial spy to the clamor of a congressional probe to the flag-festooned chambers of the mighty, and at last it led Lee Frost to a secret far more devastating than Mi Lai, a secret the whole terrible power structure of the Pentagon was determined to suppress.

And there, in the center of the gathering storm, the trail led him to Laurie, young and incredibly beautiful, and to a poignant, bittersweet love he'd never dreamed could come again.

It had all begun with a single shot, one bullet thrown like a pebble into a deep, dark sea. But the ripples from it grew into breakers that crashed around Lee Frost.

And at last, like a tidal wave that had been building in some hidden place, the secret broke and rushed through those maze-like miles of corridor, sweeping into the very nerve center of the Pentagon and out into the strifetorn streets.

A daring, controversial novel in the tradition of Fail Safe and Seven Days in May, Pentagon is the first authentic, inside look at the world's most awesome concentration of power and influence, and how that power may be used—and abused—in a moment of crisis.

TREGARON'S DAUGHTER
By Madeleine Brent

Excitement, drama and suspense were only part of Cadi Tregaron's new life. It had been a sunny afternoon when she glanced from the cliff where she sat reading and saw below her in the sea a sight that would change her life.

Set in England and Italy in 1910, this is the story of a young English girl who by accident starts to unravel the unknown elements in her grandmother's past and is brought by the mystery to the faraway city of Venice.

There, among the gondolas and canals, she slowly comes to comprehend the meaning of two strange and puzzling dreams—dreams that seem to hold an eerie and menacing prophecy of the future.

Here is all the grandeur and excitement of the ageless glory of Venice and the handsome beauty of the English countryside combined in the romantic and suspenseful story of a young

Women invited to Federation fine arts tea

A silver tea with the annual fine arts program of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs will begin at 3 p.m. Thursday in Community Center, with all women of this area invited.

Dr. John English will be speaker on the subject, Painting for Fun, and will show some of his own paintings. As a Methodist minister and now executive director of Kings Manor retirement home, he has found painting a pleasant hobby and a change from his demanding work schedule for a number of years.

He will discuss informally the pleasures rather than the technical aspects of his avocation, girl's confrontation with the past.

and the circumstances under which some of his work was done.

Other members of Hereford Art Guild are to take examples of their work to their meeting Tuesday to be on display at the tea also.

Paintings by Dr. English, who likes to picture landscapes, have been seen in several art shows here since he came to the administrative post at Kings Manor.

The Federation's fine arts tea has customarily been held in spring, but board members decided to make it the fall meeting this season. The county organization, with which nine women's clubs are affiliated, holds quarterly meetings.

Money received in the silver contributions made by guests is used for projects including the continuing work of maintaining kitchen equipment, table service and other furnishings of Hereford Community Center.

Hostess clubs for the tea are Lone Star Study, with Mrs. Jim Bookout as president; Pioneer Study, headed by Mrs. Ted Panciera, and Garden Beautiful, of which Mrs. Garland Solomon is president.

County Federation meetings are open to all women of the community, and those who are not in member clubs are invited to become individual members for a nominal fee. Mrs. C.D. Kelton is president this year.

PLANES DOWNED during World War II, in three different countries, claimed the lives of these women's sons. Mrs. Henry Hastings, left, is the mother of Lt. Roy Hastings, a U.S. Navy flier whose death came in a plane crash in Florida. Lt. Richard Parsons, son of Mrs. Grady Parsons, center, was one of the eight men lost in an air corps plane shot down near Lisieux, France, and now resting in Zachary Taylor National Cemetery in Kentucky. Mrs. A. R. Rogers' son, S/sgt. Leo C. Rogers, was bombardier on a plane shot down near Sanza in the province of Salerno, Italy, in 1943. His body was later returned to Hereford for burial; Lieutenant Hastings is also buried in the cemetery here.

GOLD STAR Mother's Day

TODAY AMERICANS HONOR the courage of mothers across the nation whose sons have died in military service, and through these Gold Star Mothers pay tribute again to the memory of the men whose lives were given in defense of the country. Those pictured here are representative of the many Gold Star Mothers in Hereford and over the United States. On their day, the fourth Sunday in September, it is appropriate that the sacrifices of all servicemen's families be remembered with gratitude.

STILL IN COMBAT, American soldiers are losing their lives today and Deaf Smith County families mourn recent deaths in Vietnam. Mrs. James Jesko is one of these younger Gold Star Mothers, whose son, Stephen fell in action about a year ago.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

The flight to Wichita, Kan. last Sunday was delightful. I think I have never seen the sky so intensely blue or clear. Just small whiffs of floating white clouds. As I looked down upon the earth, it seemed to me that I was seeing a massive slab of beautiful Florentine marble. The blocks of red soil, the graduation of colors in the reds, the darker coloring of the Kansas soil (almost black) with the green patches, most of them being divided either by roads, paths or windrows. Reminded me of the intricate veining of marble, and how gorgeous it can be in its rich colors. I guess one never out-grows the fancies of childhood, in imagining shapes, forms, and what can be detected from them. I just let my imagination run wild, as I relaxed and enjoyed the vista of beauty, which we so swiftly passed over. Fall has come to the Sunflower State. Cool, cloudy, calm. Beautiful sunshine, colorful birds swiftly flying from one tree to another, children hurrying to school, falling acorns as we pass by the oak trees on our evening walks. Yes, that's autumn, no matter whether the calendar marks it that way or not. Splashes of golden colors, along the streams, some tinges of red on the pretty and unusual strawberry shrub, all those elements combined to give the air a feeling of serene expectancy—like a leaf resigned to its fall, despite the fact that winter is not too far away.

It wasn't either, as the temperature dropped to 40 degrees Tuesday the furnace turned on, winter coats and sweaters gotten out of storage and extra covers thrown on the bed to help us sleep warm. Always with changes comes some good, and so the rain came to give the thirsty lands a good drink, and to make harvest time easier and better.

Prepare Garden For Winter
It is good gardening to aid the plants, trees, shrubs and lawns to be ready for winter. Many are lost by winter drying, and lack of proper nutrients. In a Horticulture seminar the instructor cautioned us to be sure to foliage feed in late September. This is done to protect against winter kill. To foliage feed select a plant food that has high phosphate content. Mix according to directions. Spray all foliage well. (Carl Pool's phosphate preparation was recommended, from experience I know it is good.)

Continue to spray roses for black spot and mildew. To assist in making the spraying effective, remove diseased leaves. Collect them and burn. After removing the diseased parts, then spray thoroughly. The foliage feeding is very good for roses. This past season I have used this method for feeding, and have had the loveliest roses I have ever grown.

Many complaints have been phoned in, when evergreens were lost this past year. Some of this was caused by lack of moisture, so be sure that all the evergreens, both broadleaf and needle are thoroughly watered. Soak carefully, mound the soil so that the water will not run off, and let the water slowly trickle into the area around the plants. If this is done then in the spring when the warm weather starts, and the strong winds blow, the plants will be fortified with added moisture to fight the drying. It will be necessary to continue this watering during the winter months also.

Check trees for webworms.

They create a gossamer shroud that to some is attractive, but it is harmful to the trees. Webworms are destructive and the webs should be removed and burned. If branches or foliage have been effected, then prune this away and also burn it. As a preventive, spray with arsonate of lead mixture.

In preparing the gardens and plants for winter rest, the dry, and old foliage should be removed. Plants pruned if ragged in appearance.

Peony foliage has perhaps completely dried, and this should be cut off. The cut should be made close to the ground. To aid in winter care, dig a trench about two or three inches deep completely around the plant, place in this bonemeal (I know this has almost become 'old-fashioned' but I have found it good gardening) approximately 1/2 cupful to the plant. If it is an old, and large plant then increase feeding. Cover with loosed soil, water it thoroughly, and slowly.

Cut stems of parsley, sage and dill, for drying. Lay the stems loosely on paper or screen (or hang in bunches) in an airy location for drying. When dry, (should take about a week of hot sunshine), shred leaves from stems, crumble fine, and place in jars then on herb shelves for use.

Take care of the iris plants. Clean around the top soil, removing all dried leaves, and any other collected debris. Trim iris tops, to approximately five inches in length, clean well with water spray and give them a deep watering for winter.

Same process should be used on the day lilies. Do not cut them back until completely dried down. If plants need to be divided, then lift clumps, divide and transplant. Don't forget to place name plate on those replanted.

Soon it will be time to gather in the matured pumpkins. Do you know how to tell when the pumpkins should be cut and stored? First of all remember the main key in harvesting pumpkins is to let them MATURE on the vine. If pulled too soon, they will spoil quickly. Mr. Frank Good, a Kansas Horticulturist, gives this as a good hint in checking the pumpkin for storage. He says "Give them the thumbnail test." When the rind is firm enough that it cannot be easily punctured with the thumbnail, then maturity is very close. He also cautioned to never remove a pumpkin from the vine by pulling and breaking loose the stem. The stem should be cut with a sharp knife, leaving several inches still attached to the pumpkin.

Cure pumpkins by storing in a room for two weeks, with temperature kept at 80 to 85 degrees. Then store in a dry room where the temperature does not reach higher than 60 degrees, and not lower than freezing. If storage room has excessive heat the flavor of the pumpkin is harmed. Small scratches or bruises will usually heal if properly cured and stored, pumpkins should keep approximately five months.

To the Busy Housewife... If you have stacks of dirty dishes, and become frustrated, don't. The stacks of used dishes, with evidence of plenty of food, re-emphasises the fact that God is good to you...to all.

Weakness of bigness

In recent years U. S. protectionists have contended that America could order its foreign trade largely as it pleased. Sure, other countries might not like new import quotas and other restrictions, but what could they do about it?

The U. S. is the world's biggest and richest market, the reasoning ran, and other nations need it. They might complain of restrictions, but they would never retaliate and thus damage their own business interests.

Well, the current period of world monetary bickering should lay that idea to rest. Despite its size, importance—and the rightness of much of its position—the U. S. is unable to command other nations to do as it wishes. This is true even though the consequences could be much more painful for them than for America.

The U. S. does deserve a considerable share of the blame for the current trouble. It sadly mismanaged its finances for many years, thus permitting the deep depreciation of the dollar. An excessively cozy relationship between government and labor unions helped to let labor costs get out of hand. Overly large, and sometimes mistaken, military commitments abroad contributed to the U. S. difficulties.

That sorry record should at least dictate a conciliatory approach as the U. S. talks with other major nations in the search for a way out of the current problems. But conciliation doesn't seem to be exactly what the U. S. government has in mind.

After letting matters drift for so many years, there may have been some justification for a drastic action such as the 10 per cent surcharge on imports. It may even have been understandable that the administration slapped a "Buy American" restriction on its proposal for a new investment credit. But neither the past nor the present justified the U. S. insistence on a swift $13 billion swing in its payments figures, from a deficit at an annual rate of $9 billion to a $4 billion surplus.

Mario Ferrari-Agradi, Italy's minister of finance, was putting it mildly when he said, "It appears that a bla-ance-of-payments turnaround of the magnitude suggested by America is difficult for the rest of the world to accept."

To achieve such a turnaround in a hurry, which is what the administration has in mind, would require more than a realistic rearrangement of exchange rates. It would require extension of the import-surcharge, as well as the various other curbs on U. S. buying from abroad. It would require a thorough dismantling of foreign restrictions against U. S. exports—restrictions that to some extent only parallel American curbs. It would also require a hasty, and massive, increase of defense outlays by other countries, thus easing the burden on the U. S.

Yet Treasury Secretary John Connally bluntly says, at meetings in London, that the U. S. hasn't any intention of "changing its attitude one iota."

While the bickering goes on, other nations impose new exchange restrictions and consider trade moves to counter the U. S. surcharge. This sort of warfare, if it continues for very long, will shrink world trade generally, and the consequences will be more severe for other countries that lean much more on trade than the U. S. does.

Whoever was at fault for what happened in the past, the present need is to prepare for the future. The world must develop a way for its economies to work together to make that future a better one for all concerned.

We're not proposing that the U. S. abandon its insistence on realistic exchange rates, more sharing of defense costs and the like. What we are suggesting is that the U. S. is in large measure responsible for the problems' becoming so severe, and that neither the U. S. nor anyone else is going to solve those problems overnight. Solutions will demand careful negotiations, an atmosphere of mutual understanding that the problems are truly mutual.

Perhaps it's an inevitable weakness of bigness, but the U. S. won't solve anything very soon by telling everyone to do it our way, right away, or we won't play.

Don't get carried away

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has good reason to cool off reports from Saigon to the effect that the U. S. fighting role in Vietnam will end formally next June 30.

"U. S. military sources" are said to have revealed that between 40,000 and 50,000 U. S. troops would be in Vietnam in support and advisory capacities when South Vietnamese command begins then.

The Secretary did the cooling at a news conference during which he said, "I can assure you that there is no basis on which that kind of speculation can go forth at this time." No definite goals have been set beyond the troop withdrawal schedule up to December 1, he said.

Mr. Laird understandably does not want to fall into the traps which caught former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, whose optimistic setting of dates came back to haunt him.

The "Saigon sources," however, are conveniently anonymous, and they do have something to go on. Other "sources close to President Thieu" say South Vietnamese government is prepared for and ready to accept a substantial step-up in U. S. troop withdrawals.

The Thieu government, they say, would be satisfied with the withdrawal of all U. S. troops before the end of next Summer—except for a small "residual force."

This optimism is based on current South Vietnamese assessments of the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong military capability, which apparently does not seem too frightening. However, the assessment comes before an almost certain Communist testing of the South Vietnamese army in the Mekong Delta in late October or early November.

At the same time, South Vietnamese officials are saying that U. S. support will be necessary, particularly in the air, if there is a massive invasion by North Vietnamese troops across the Demilitarized Zone.

Since a "massive invasion" admittedly is possible, perhaps it would be better to wait to see how the South Vietnamese go about meeting it. That seems to be what Secretary Laird has in mind, correctly so.

President's economic program threatened

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Congressional Democrats and organized labor are seeking to torpedo President Nixon's economic program by vetoing the White House order to delay a pay increase for white collar workers of the Federal government.

When the President acted August 15 to freeze prices, wages and rents for 90 days, he called for tax reductions and a cut in government spending. These goals can be achieved only if Congress cooperates. The first test will come on the Federal salary issue and the outcome is more important than the $1.3 billion that will be saved if the pay raise is deferred.

If the first action Congress takes on the Nixon program is to say "no," the entire economic plan will be endangered. Having tasted blood and liked it, the maajority in Congress may shoot more holes in other phases of the program. Also, the psychological effect of defeating the White House may be serious. Nixon cannot succeed in his economic war without public support.

The first battleground will be the House. A resolution by Rep. Jerome Waldie (D., Calif.) would disapprove the Presidential order to defer until July pay increases due civil servants next January. If either the House or Senate adopts such a measure by October 7, the Nixon order will be nixed.

U.S. Pay Raised 21 per cent Since '69
For some years, Congress has been very generous in handing out pay increases to Federal workers. Salaries have been lifted 21 percent since 1969, and two more raises are scheduled in 1972. In addition to the hike Nixon seeks to delay from January until July, another raise is coming in October, 1972.

The president may postpone that October increase for up to six months but in a message to Congress he said it is "highly unlikely" he would defer that raise beyond January, 1973. Nixon has until September 1, 1972, to decide whether to seek a postponement.

Rationale for delaying Federal pay hikes is that the government must set an example for the rest of the nation. Everybody else has been asked to bleed a bit to slow down inflation so Nixon called on civil servants "to make whatever temporary sacrifices in personal gain may be needed to attain the greater good for the country as a whole."

Federal workers have made no great outcry against the White House plan although union leaders have protested. Most civil servants do not belong to a union, however. The most heavily unionized agency is the Postal Service, and its workers are not directly affected since their pay is no longer set by Congress but by direct bargaining with the employer.

Those that are affected by the Nixon order and the Waldie resolution are 1.3 million civilian employees and 2.8 million military personnel. The armed forces may get a raise in another way, if the draft extension act becomes law in its present form.

U.S. Pays Well
Rep. Waldie and other sponsors of the move to cancel the President's delaying action on Federal salaries claim they are not opposing the economic freeze but they won't stand for "sacrificial lambs," as Rep. Thaddeus Dulski (D., N.Y.) put it.

While politicians may shed tears for the poor government worker, informed members of the public will be less sympathetic. Not many outside the government have gained pay increases promised in 1972. To most people, government salaries are highly attractive, particularly outside major cities.

THE BOOTLEG

—Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes up with a new proposal this week.

Dear editor:

It is now pretty well established, at least in the minds of newspaper and magazine columnists I've been reading, that the United States has lost a lot of its prestige around the world, so much so for example that Paris airlines last week began refusing to take U. S. dollars for plane tickets.

This has a lot of people worried, excusing me, as I don't ever remember waking up and wondering what my prestige was that day in the capitals of the world although I have a pretty good notion what it is across my neighbor's fence. I'll return his hoe just as soon as I find out which patch of weeds it is that has grown up around it.

None the less, a lot of leaders are saying we've got to do something about our world standing, we've got to restore our image as the world's most prosperous nation.

They couldn't be wrong. The thing for us to do is to go all out encouraging the notion we're hard up. Paint the picture black and bleak. Why just last night I read that the Chancellor of Austria, reviewing the balance of payment difficulties the United States is having, said "the time has come for European nations to remember the generous help given them by the U. S. after World War II and repay part of their debt."

I've forgotten how many billions of dollars we loaned them, but if we've now convinced them we're in such bad shape they ought to start repaying at least part of it, we're on the right track. Let's fan that fire from all directions. Tell our diplomats abroad to start wearing rumpled suits and carrying their lunches in paper sacks. Have their wives dress in last year's clothes and run ads offering to do baby sitting. Have foreign visitors come by here to see the loose boards on my front porch and go on to Washington to examine the national debt. Get the power company to turn off the electricity in the U.S. Capitol and put out the word it was for failure to pay the bill. Then hit Europe up for a loan to get us back on our feet.

This is an opportunity too good to miss. Speaking of balance of payments, I don't quite understand it on the world level but I know what it is on the local level. It means fourteen more payments and that television set is yours.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

SPORTS DAZE—It has been 30 years now since Texans have seen the kind of zany football unreeled one fall Saturday in 1941 against the North Texas State Eagles at Denton.

Their opponents were the Arkansas A. & M. Wandering Boll Weevils, a set of gridiron clowns the likes of which college football hasn't seen since. Their ranks decimated by the World War II draft, the team decided to play football for fun and leave victory to others. And for three years, the annual visit of the Boll Weevils to Texas was a show comparable to Ringling Brothers Circus with the Harlem Globe Trotters in the center ring.

Coach Stewart Ferguson let his Boll Weevils devise their own plays and formations, substitute when and if they wished and join the fans in the stands when they weren't on the field. One of their favorite plays called for the entire team to fall on its face instead of rushing an opposing kicker attempting to boot a point after touchdown.

Sometimes the players appeared on the field wearing top hats and formal morning coats over their uniforms. Substitutes often rode into the game on a bicycle. And on at least one occasion, the team tried a pass by having the two half backs pick up the quarterback and toss him and the football over the line.

Today Arkansas A. & M. has returned to conventional football, and the zany shootout at Denton is only a memory. The fans (and, perhaps, the game itself) are the losers as a result.

REMEMBER WHEN—Every home boasted a window sign notifying the ice man as to the amount he was to deliver that day?

TICKET MAN—Harry E. Bradley, Houston businessman, has spent more than $80,000 taking European children on aerial joy rides.

Mr. Bradley was in Germany in 1961 when he decided that he'd like to take 200 Frankfurt orphans on an hour's flight over Munich, the Black Forest and the Rhine River. He chartered enough airplanes to do it.

Since then, he has arranged similar flights for underprivileged children in The Netherlands, Norway, Denmark and Yugoslavia. He has plans for still others in the making.

He says that he does it because the excitement of the children more than justifies the more than $80,000 he has spent on the project thus far.

THE CHANGING TIMES—The broad expanse of semi-desert in southwest Texas along the Mexican border once was a beautiful forest of pinon pine.

By examining pollen found in microfossils from the area, archeologists have dated the forest era as about 12,000 years before Christ. A warming and drying trend that began about 5500 B. C. changed the climate of the area and gave it the desert-like vegetation that it has today.

50 YEARS AGO—1921

As announced last week a meeting of business men and farmers interested in the establishment of a small Cheese Factory in Hereford was held at the Courthouse Saturday afternoon. It was the unanimous sentiment of those present that the plan should be tried out. It was pointed out that the better part of this investment would remain at home, and that the venture would provide a sorely needed cash market for our farmers.

35 YEARS AGO—1936

Saturday has been selected as Hereford Day at the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo. The high school band will take part in the event on that day, and numerous visitors will go at that time in order to join the Deaf Smith crowd in representing Hereford in the annual delegation contest. Hereford will participate in National Fire Prevention Week, October 4 to 10 inclusive.

20 YEARS AGO—1951

Preliminary plans for building a Woman's Club House in Hereford were formulated here Friday morning when a group of women representing various clubs in town and over the country met. A steering committee was named to further investigate the plan, prior to definite action. Activity increased around Hereford this week as the first two loads of 1951 lettuce came in from the fields to furnish employment for around 100 specialized lettuce handlers and packers from Arizona and California. The quality appears to be good, and the prices are fair, bringing $4.25 per crate.

5 YEARS AGO—1966

Hereford and Deaf Smith County will again be pushed into national news tomorrow when nutritional and health aspects of natural minerals in soil and water in this area are highlighted at an international conference being held in Detroit. As major of the industrial community division of the annual United Fund drive for Hereford Ben Childers will be shouldering a portion of the $30,400 goal for 1966.

1 YEAR AGO—1970

The sugar beet harvest will start in this area Monday, if the weather stays favorable. "Barring too much rain, we plan to start Monday morning," Holly Sugar agricultural manager Bob Ginn said. He said the sugar content for this time of the year, "looks good." Officials of both the Hereford State Bank and the First National Bank were hesitant to speculate on the possibility of cutting the prime interest rate of the two local institutions as have larger banks throughout the country.

Patricia Cassetty weds Tom H. Green of Vega

Miss Patricia Ann Cassetty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cassetty of Route 4, and Tom Henry Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Green of Vega, exchanged vows in a candlelight service at First Baptist Church of Vega Saturday evening.

The Rev. Charles Wyatt, pastor, conducted the ceremony in which Mr. Cassetty gave his daughter in marriage. Tall bouquets of white gladiolas, carnations, pompon mums and gypsophyllia formed a background for the wedding party.

Attending the bride was Miss Lucy Green, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor. Mike Richardson acted as best man.

Guests were ushered to pews by Bobby Williams, Ronnie DeWees, Jerry O'Connor, Larry and Tony Cassetty, Misses Sharon Graves and Linda Robinson lighted candles before the professional.

Miss Karen Hobbs was the vocal soloist and Mrs. Glen Boydston the organist who accompanied her and played other selections.

The bride's satin gown was in A-line silhouette with empire bodice and Alencon lace sleeves gathered to wide cuffs. Lace scallops at the high neckline and on the skirt front were accented with tiny pearl drops.

A Camelot cap of the lace dotted with pearls held her waist-length illusion veil. She carried an orchid circled with white gladiolas and roses.

The maid of honor wore aqua chiffon with gathered low neckline, full sleeves and skirt in peasant style. A laced-up satin insert at the waist added to the effect.

After the wedding the couple and their parents received guests in the church fellowship hall. Charlene May, Susan Browning and Nancy Artho served the cake with punch at a table centered with blue and white carnations. Phyllis Gruver registered guests.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor: Regarding the renaming of our county hospital, it should have been done long ago and I am surprised that none of us thought of it.

Working with the Red Cross as executive secretary and therefore dealing with other health and welfare agencies I had known, as they did, that "county" means free aid to some people. This was because they had known other states or areas which did have free facilities for some.

Though I am a strong believer and I have fought in the past to preserve some historical names in our town and area, there are times and for certain reasons that changes must be made. And this is one of them!

Not only do I think Deaf Smith's name should be dropped (because to some in the past, deaf meant just that too—aid to the afflicted). We will still have many named organizations or agencies named for our Texas hero-scout of the Alamo, Deaf Smith.

In fact, our telephone directory carries 32 names in his honor. While the word "Western," or some form of it, has 20. I think we should branch out on the western theme with something bright and original.

Why not a contest, committee, or such for ideas which could be used or combined? For example the name of our area, "Golden Spread," was found through a contest. Its meaning, as most of you know, is that "spread" meant a ranch and its holdings—either small or large. The "Golden" represents the many beautiful sunny days we enjoy here.

Back in the 40s, I believe, the Business & Professional Woman's Club—with the help of the Jaycees—took on the project of naming or renaming many of our streets, and numbering the houses correctly. But even then we left such unimaginative streets as we now have listed numerically and alphabetically. In the past other such mistakes were made by our fore-

Phone company toughens fight against fraud calls

Southwestern Bell is out to stop people from using fraudulent telephone credit card numbers and fake phone numbers to make long distance calls without paying for them.

"We're making it more difficult for fraudulent long distance calls to be completed," said Mike Patrick, manager for fathers when they built the town of Hereford (or let it grow) on the hedging-down-ground of trail herds, or other cattle moving, on the banks of a lake.

John McCarty once said our town must have made its narrow streets on the cattle trails of the lake and following the railroad.

Now, I am glad our hospital board of directors has taken this step, which will save the taxpayers money, our doctors' overwork and our hospital unfair expense, which we, the rightful users, must pay—not only for our care but for those who could and should pay. And what about those who can and do not?

In the face of ever-rising costs, not only of hospitalization but other essentials, this old-timer doffs her symbolic hat to our new and far-thinking generation as I hope others will and do all we can to help in any way we can.

Sincerely yours,
Corinne Jowell Neely

Southwestern Bell here. "If a fraudulent call is completed, using a fake credit card number or phone number, we have new ways to detect, investigate and prosecute the person responsible."

Highlights of the new plan include: —Changing of the credit card numbering system

—Training of long distance operators to detect fraudulent calls when they are placed —Use of computers to spot fake credit card numbers and phone numbers when long distance calls are billed.

Most fraudulent calling involves illegal charging of calls to Bell System credit card numbers.

"But under our new system," Patrick said, "if a person in Hereford makes a call using a non-existent credit card and the operator doesn't catch it, we can still spot it through daily processing of toll message tickets. This means quick identification—maybe in 24 to 48 hours. It's virtually impossible to escape detection after that. We can identify who made the call with just one call."

Use of an unauthorized or fictitious telephone credit card could violate both state and federal law. Maximum penalties range from a $1,000 fine and 10 years in prison if convicted of a felony under Texas law to a $10,000 fine and five years in prison for felony conviction under federal law.

"There are good reasons for the stiff penalties," Patrick said. "The Bell System may lose $34 million to toll fraud this year. In the five states Southwestern Bell serves, toll fraud losses may top $3 million."

When a person makes a fraudulent call, "we'll be right there to stop him next time—either face to face or in a court of law," Patrick said.

A WORRIED FIDDLER
LONDON (AP) — Tutte Lemkow, starring as the fiddler in the current production of a film version of "Fiddler on the roof" has a fear that does not really fit the job: he hates heights.

The dancer-actor-musician admitted he "shakes with fear" during the rooftop sequences. He said: "I think the fiddler would too. Part of his meaning is to signify survival, a difficult against-the-odds survival, and he would have some fear. He worries about falling but thankfully never did. I still worry because I still could."

Tech museum preserves ranching history of Southwest

LUBBOCK--In the early days of the great Southwest, cattle and ranching just naturally went together—at least as long as the cattle remained on the hoof. However, riding herd on freshly slaughtered beef and other perishables such as butter and milk in those days before blocks of ice could be freighted from neighboring towns, and before electrical refrigeration systems, confronted pioneer cattlemen with a formidable challenge.

A monument to how this challenge was met has become the latest addition to the Ranch Headquarters at Texas Tech University where a growing collection of authentic ranch buildings is creating an outdoor museum to preserve the ranching history of the Southwest.

The milk and meat house from the historic JA Ranch near Clarendon is also a monument to the ingenuity of those who established the region's earliest ranching empires.

Completely dismantled, transported and faithfully restored with painstaking attention to historical accuracy on the Ranch Headquarter's site, the building's historical significance obviously centers on the cooling methods used in the semi-arid plains country before the advent of electrical refrigeration.

According to Ranch Headquarters Director Jerry Rogers, although the original construction date of the milk and meat house has not been confirmed with certainty, it could be as early as 1878.

M.H.W. Ritchie, current owner of the ranch and grandson of the original owner, donated the building to Ranch Headquarters along with $2,000 to be used toward its restoration. The gifts were made in the name of Cornelia Wadsworth Ritchie and on behalf of the JA Cattle Co., in memory of Mrs. John Adair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adair, accompanied by famed pioneer cattleman Col. Charles Goodnight, rode from Pueblo, Colo., and entered the Palo Duro Canyon in 1876. It was then that the JA Ranch was established in partnership between the Adairs and Goodnight.

As described in 1885 by a correspondent for the Galveston News, the milk and meat house in its original state was comprised of a "buttery" where butter was made and milk stored, and a meat house where beeves, hams and bacon were strung up to cure by means of heavy hooks in an immense roof log. Also stored there were large containers of homemade soap made of lard, lye and wood ashes.

Rogers pointed out that the structure of the stone buttery and meat house, or "cooler" as it was called, reveals the pioneer ingenuity credited so often to JA Ranch builder-Goodnight. It was serviced by spring water piped down a grade to the building. The spring was fed into a trough in which crocks of milk and butter were placed and covered with cloths to be cooled by an evaporative process. Open ventilation throughout the building prevented the spoilage of beef and other meat hanging from the roof beam.

In dismantling the structure, Ranch Headquarters technicians stripped it of the stucco shell and wooden roof added in later years. Removal of this secondary roof revealed the original roofing of mud, lending strong evidence that the building was constructed before sawn lumber was readily available in the Texas Panhandle—before 1882.

"The reconstruction and restoration of the JA Ranch building on the Ranch Headquarters grounds here is almost a story in itself," said Rogers, referring to the craftsman most responsible for its re-creation, M.L. Kaiter.

Born in Germany, Kaiter learned the skill of restoration by helping to restore historic buildings bombed out during World War II. Now living and working in Lubbock as a stonemason, he worked shortly after coming to the United States doing some restoration at Old Sturbridge Village in Massachusetts, reputed to be the finest outdoor museum in the nation.

"This job became more than just a job to Mr. Kaiter," said Rogers. "He tackled it with dedication and enthusiasm as a challenge to his skill not just as stonemason but as a craftsman."

Indicative of this dedication was the search for a commercial mortar that could be used in constructing the building to give it an accurate appearance in terms of color and texture. When none could be found, Kaiter simply went to the JA Ranch and brought back a truckload of the kind of red clay used originally in making up mortar to erect the building's stone walls.

Attention to accuracy in restoring the building didn't stop there. When time came to add the mud roof of the type which originally covered the structure, Rogers called in Charlie Steen, retired from the National Park Service and now living in Santa Fe, N.M. Steen is considered the country's leading authority on adobe preservation.

Building donor Ritchie also donated to the Ranch Headquarters an antique ice box used on the JA Ranch and for which blocks of ice were wagon freighted some 30 miles from Clarendon three times a week. In addition, he donated an old wooden cupboard probably built "by the same craftsmen who constructed the milk and meat cooler" and which for some 80 years was in constant use in the JA Ranch mess hall.

The JA, now a ranch of about a quarter of a million acres in the Panhandle of Texas, once was far larger. It belonged to Adair and Goodnight, with the Adair family furnishing the capital to start it and Goodnight managing it, building a herd of native cattle and developing the land.

The partnership between the Adairs and Goodnight lasted for its original contract term of 10 years and then was terminated, with Goodnight receiving his one third share of land and cattle. The Adairs and their descendants have continued to operate the ranch holdings under the JA name ever since.

During the time the ranch was building under Goodnight's direction, 300,000 head of cattle were handled and more than a million acres of land grazed. Several of the buildings built then are still standing and being used today. The JA Ranch Headquarters is registered as a national historic landmark.

MARRIES IN ITALY — The bride of a Hereford man stationed in Italy for U.S. Military service, Mrs. Michael Funk, was Miss Adriana Leoni of Ghedi, Italy, before the marriage in that city Saturday. The couple will be at home in Hereford after Sgt. Funk completes military duty in November. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Funk of Route 3.

Public invited to dance

Posters inviting the public to a dance which Beta Sigma Phi chapters of Hereford will sponsor at the Knights of Columbus Hall Oct. 16, were made by members of Xi Epsilon Alpha and Alpha Alpha Chapters, Chapters, meeting together in the REA Building this week.

A western band will play for dancing. Tickets are on sale by members of the sorority here. Proceeds will benefit the BSP City Council, with which all three local chapters are affiliated.

Mrs. Melvin Fowler and Mrs. Carl Hollingsworth were hostesses for the work session, and served coffee and cake to the poster makers.

XEA Chapter had a short business meeting with Mrs. Fowler presiding, and elected Mrs. Jim Cramer as its candidate for the 1972 Valentine Queen. Each chapter nominates a contestant for the title each year, and the winner is presented at the annual Valentine Ball.

Members decided to combine their meetings this season with those of Alpha Alpha, the precursor chapter, on the second Tuesday evening of each month.

Jaycees establish flag football league, back Golden Glovers

The Hereford Jaycees, joined by young men wanting to participate in a touch football league, laid the groundwork Thursday night for a league that starts the first Sunday in October and runs through mid-November.

Players will be chosen today, starting at 3 p.m., for the four teams which will embrace the Hereford eight-man flag football league.

The Jaycees, in their business:

- agreed to head the annual multiple sclerosis drive in Hereford, probably in early December.
- decided to sell aerosol fire extinguisher cans door-to-door next Thursday evening, at $3 per can, with proceeds going to provide some of the $600 in equipment needed to get the new Golden Gloves boxing organization for young kids underway in Hereford.

—no more than four men may rush the passer and all of them must have been on the line when they started their rush;

- an offensive player may not leave his feet to block;
- a man is down when his flag is removed;
- first downs will be on 20-yard markoffs;
- quarters will be 10 minutes each, with three time-outs permitted each half.

Under eight-man football, five men will be on the offensive line, with three backs.

Jaycees decided to sponsor the league when they received indication Thursday night that more than 50 young men in Hereford wanted such a league.

Selection of players today will be in the form of a draft. The four coaches will choose in order until all the players have been picked.

The season will last for six Sundays. Each team will play the three other teams twice, in a double round-robin schedule.

The four team coaches, selected by those at the Jaycee meeting Thursday night on the basis of desire to serve in such a ca-capacity, are Greg Chisum, Don Farmer, Terry Hill and Bobby Watts.

Although today's session at the field at Ave. F and Grand is primarily for selection of teams, there probably will be an unofficial game arising out of the players on hand who want to play some.

Anyone needing more information about the league may contact the Jaycee heading operation of the league, Terry Hill at 364-2936.

Swine quarantine is partially lifted

The portions of Hockley and Lamb counties that were operating under state and federal swine movement restrictions for hog cholera no longer exist, announces Gilbert R. Hollis, area swine specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This means that permits are no longer needed for movement of swine in these areas. Inspection of farms in the Hockley-Lamb county area has progressed satisfactorily and is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

The specialist points out that the quarantine area in northeast Lubbock County is still in effect and movement permits for swine are still required. Inspection of farms in this area continues and the quarantine will be removed just as soon as the threat of disease spread has been eliminated.

Even though there is no restriction on movement within the state for swine not under quarantine, Hollis reminds producers that any animals moved must be held at the premises of the purchaser for 30 days and no movement from such premises, except for slaughter, is allowed for the 30 day period. This is the only requirement remaining from the original state-wide quarantine issued in March of this year.

Hollis adds that barrow pig sales are not affected in any way by the federal quarantine remaining on northeast Lubbock County with the following exceptions. Any producer inside the boundary of the quarantine who wishes to consign pigs to a barrow pig sale must have a permit for movement. Also if the sale is receiving consigned animals from inside a quarantined area then a permit for conduction of the sale is required.

The specialist urges any producer who has sickness in swine to notify their veterinarian, county agent or Animal Health Officials at the Ramada Inn in Lubbock at 763-9343. Hollis will also take reports at 763-9451.

Music club exes meet for lunch

Past presidents of Music Study Club, as is their custom at the beginning of each club year, met for a covered dish luncheon Thursday in the home of Mrs. C.J. Mountz, who served as president in the 1935-37 term.

Each made her contribution to the Texas Federation of Music Clubs' scholarship fund before the brief business period in which Mrs. J.R. Allison was elected to head the Past Presidents Club and Mrs. Mountz was re-elected secretary.

Mrs. Wes Fisher, who is beginning a term this month as Music Study Club president, was welcomed to the group by Mrs. Dale Young, immediate past president, and Mrs. W.E. Dameon, a charter member whose presidential service was in two terms, 1924-26 and 1938-39.

The 1972 fall luncheon was set for Sept. 7, the Thursday before the club's initial meeting day, which falls on the second Monday.

Lunch, to which each member present contributed a dish, was served at a table centered with an autumnal flower arrangement made by Mrs. J.C. McCracken. For the invocation the group sang Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow.

Others present to join in the lunch and afternoon hour in informal talk were Mmes. S.O. Wilson, R.P. Conaway, H.K. Fox, T.W. Roberson, W.T. Carmichael, Jesse Stanford, Ellis Coombes, T.J. Keeling and Bill Brady.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I work in a law office, and most everything we type is double spaced. One night we were working late, typing some important papers with many copies that had to be clear and legible. Now, wouldn't you know it... we ran out of carbon paper. I took all the carbon paper, we had and cut off both ends the exact depth of one space on my typewriter. When we used the old carbons we were typing on the "in-between," unused spaces, and it worked beautifully. Since we like to save

IT'S A SNAP!
Our trailer bathroom is small, with a bead chain for pulling on and off the light switch. The small fry couldn't quite reach the chain, so our 8-year-old put a wooden, snap clothespin on the end of the chain, which made it easier for the younger ones to reach it. I removed the clothespin, and with nail polish and a felt-tipped pen decorated it with a face and ruffled effect at the bottom. The children loved the idea, and bring their friends in to see it. Mrs. E. B.

SPECIAL THOUGHTS
DEAR HELOISE:
Choosing a gift for a relative or a dear friend in a nursing home can really be a problem. Their wants and needs are so limited. Have you ever thought of arranging for them to have a permanent, or even maybe just a shampoo and set? You just can't imagine how much this is really appreciated and what a lift it gives them. Mrs. Roy Freed

Now think about that, folks! Oh, what great joy!

TRAILER TALK
DEAR HELOISE:
If you don't have a container other than the carton your milk comes in (or the can that juice comes in) when traveling in your camper, take this precaution — it is especially advisable when traveling over rough roads. Put your opened milk carton or juice can in a plastic bread bag and tie with a twist, then store in your refrigerator. This will eliminate the danger of spills if they happen to topple over. Nancy Adams

SKELETON STAFF
DEAR HELOISE:
If you come across an old umbrella when cleaning out the attic or basement, don't throw it away. You can make good use of it. Just remove all the cloth and keep the metal skeleton. I have used one in an old wooden washing machine tub in my yard as a trellis. I planted flowering vines in the tub and let them creep all around the metal ribs of the umbrella frame. This old umbrella makes a wonderful trellis and is very unusual and attractive. It could be used in any number of ways and in all sorts of containers. Just stick the handle down in the soil so that it is steady and that's all there is to it. Then wait for the vines to grow and train on the frame of the umbrella. Mary Millette

SOUNDS FISHY!
DEAR HELOISE:
Here is an excellent tip for goldfish owners: Have you ever had them jump out of their bowl? We lost several that way and finally got the idea of covering the bowl with a plain ordinary hairnet. The elastic in the hairnet will hold it in place, but if you want to be extra sure just use a rubber band. Mrs. M. E. R.

BELBOTTOM PILLOWS
DEAR HELOISE:
I outgrew a pair of very pretty bellbottom pants, so I cut the legs off and sewed up one end of each leg. Then I took old nylon stockings, outgrown underwear, and even a couple of pairs of leotards and stuffed the two cut-off legs with those. Sewed up the open ends in both legs and gave them to my little cousins. They have had more fun with them. In fact they drag them with them wherever they go. I think they prefer these bellbottom pillows to their stuffed animals, because they are so soft, and cuddly. Pam Beals, Age 11

LETTER OF TRUTH
DEAR HELOISE:
At our dinner table sometimes my sisters and I get mad at each other and say such unkind things. Mom and Dad get tired of hearing these things, and Mom usually ends up saying, "If you can't say something nice, don't say anything at all!" We know it so well we just repeat it along with her. Then, I don't know why, but we always seem to stop squabbling. Anne

THIS WILL FLOOR YOU!
DEAR HELOISE:
If a linoleum floor has become gouged through use or accident, follow this suggestion for repair: Scrape the surface of a matching scrap of linoleum. When there is sufficient powder, mix with shellac to make a paste, and fill the damaged spot. When dry, wax and polish. Renee Lenocker

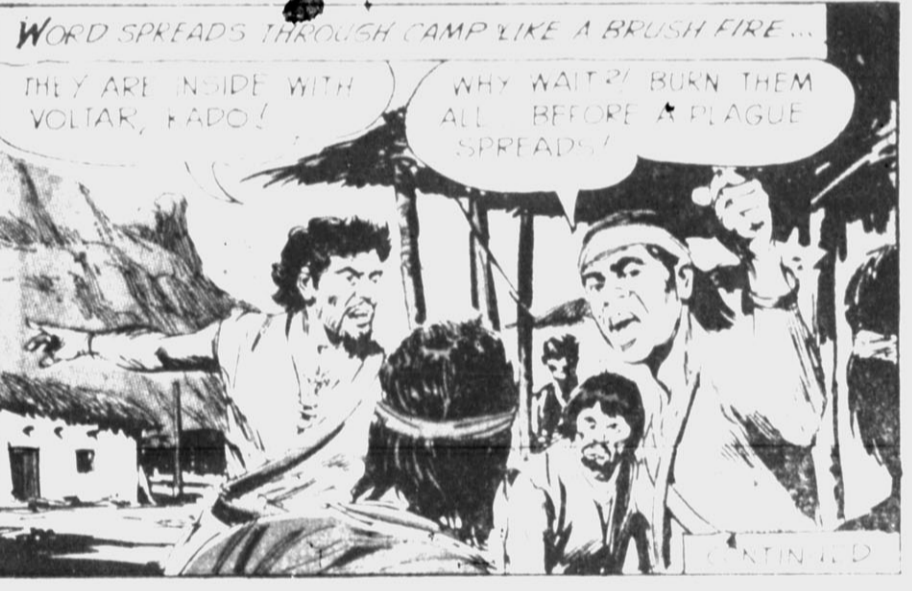

THE COOKIE JAR
DEAR HELOISE:
Frosted cookies are a favorite with us, but they often stick together in the cookie jar and make such a mess. Now I make the cookies a little thinner and put two together with the frosting in between. Home made sandwich cookies! Mrs. H. Mangelsen
