Senate passes bills to fund, change farm programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - After a three-week snarl heavy with political overtones, the Senate has agreed on an emergency $5 billion infusion for farm programs together with a list of changes in the recently passed 1985 farm law.

The two bills — which promised to be just the first shots in a pitched election-year battle over agriculture won passage on voice votes late Wednesday.

The farm money bill now goes to a House-Senate negotiating committee to work out differences between the two chambers' versions. The farm law modifications go to the House, where similar legislation ran into partisan bickering last week.

Included in the package of farm law changes was a non-binding statement urging the Reagan administration to make advance crop loans to farmers in time for spring planting season. The amendment was adopted on a 65-18 vote.

Such loans would cost farmers only about 8 percent interest, rather than the 13 or 14 percent they otherwise would have to pay, said Sen. Tom After 3-week snarl

But it was unlikely the administration would heed the congressional call. Reagan vetoed a similar effort a year ago, and Agriculture Secretarydesignate Richard Lyng on Tuesday said the idea was "a violation of my common sense."

The action came only a few hours after the Commodity Credit Corpora-

Harkin, D-Iowa, the amendment's tion, the arm of the Agriculture Department that makes crop loans and subsidy payments, ran out of money to operate its programs.

The agency was expecting a surge in demand for money beginning today, as farmers began signing up for price- and income-support programs for their 1986 crops. Under the law, they are eligible for immediate subsidy checks when they sign up, as advances against payments that normally would come after harvest.

Money also is needed for a range of other routine programs, including purchases of surplus dairy products to support milk prices at levels set by

The House last week passed an emergency $5 billion money bill for the CCC that would keep the agency running at least through the summer. But when the measure reached the Senate, it became snarled in a politically charged debate over the proposed changes in farm policy.

As finally passed by the Senate, the money bill was stripped of House language that conservationists said would have endangered a new and ambitious program designed to take millions of acres of highly erodible land out of cultivation in the next five years. It was unclear whether the House would accept the Senate revi-

The package has become the vehicle for a controversial change in how the budget cuts required by the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law will be achieved in the dairy price-support program. The large milk cooperatives, which control the industry, want to achieve the savings through an increased fee on all dairy farmers rather than a price-support

School race uncontested, city in limbo

Monday approved a resolution to change the voting system and provide for four single-member voting districts, two at-large seats, and selecting the mayor by at-large voting.

If the proposition is approved by U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson, the April 5 election would be cancelled and another election date set at least 60 days later. That would probably move it to June or July, the city secretary reported this morning.

In the agreement, four city commissioners would be elected from districts, 1 through 4, and candidates must reside in their district to seek election to those places. Place 1 and 2

He filed against Brownlow, but under the new plans he would be filing for Place 4 if he chooses to enter the race.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says you can judge the age of some folks by the amount of resistance they have to making a change.

It's a well-known fact that Abraham Lincoln had a very difficult time getting an education-but what can you expect from a fellow who didn't play football or basketball?-

A.D. Nieman, my 83-year-old Dad, had hip surgery Wednesday for the third time in two years, and we're happy to report that he came through with flying colors.

We were visiting with him Monday and he got to talking about his early days as a cowboy. We had gone to his sister's funeral in Wilson, south of Lubbock, and he was reminiscing with an old friend. "Your Dad is the only guy I ever knew who could rope jackrabbits," the old man told me.

As we drove back to Lubbock, Dad pointed out an area where he started rking as ranch hand at the age of 13. "In 1916, I was herding about 1,200 head of sheep along here. I had my bedroll and horse and slept on the ground, the boss would bring me food in his Stutz car about every two days. I was 14 and was making 50 cents a day, plus the food they brought me."

In 1917 he went to work on another big ranch herding cattle. "I was making $60 a month then and had a little house to stay in but had to provide my own food. I'd get up about 4 a.m., milk 4 or 5 cows, then ride 10 miles to the ranch headquarters."

He recalled the big snowstorm of January, 1918. "We were feeding about 4,000 head of steers when the storm hit. Many of the steers were frozen to death, and we'd load them in wagons and haul them to Slaton. I was told they made glue out of them. We skinned some of the steers and sold the hides, which were bringing a pretty good price at that time."

Then I asked him about the jackrabbit story. "Well, times were tough in 1918 and Wilson Mercantile was paying 15 cents each for jackrabbits and 10 cents for cottontails, I had a fine horse, named Redwing, and I got where I could rope a few of the big jackrabbits. When there was snow on the ground, I could usually flush some rabbits out of patches of beargrass."

It was interesting to hear him talk about his days as a teenage cowboy. We'd heard him talk about his horse before, but we didn't remember any details about his work on the ranches, or about roping jackrabbits!

DHS says it can't cut 13 percent

AUSTIN (AP) - One of the largest state government agencies says it can only make about half Gov. Mark White's recommended 13 percent cut in spending.

White urged all state agencies and universities to trim spending by that amount to help cover the projected $1.3 billion budget shortfall brought on by falling oil prices. Under the Texas Constitution, White lacks the actual power to require such cuts.

Wednesday, Department of Human Services Commissioner Marlin W. Johnson submitted a spending reduction plan he said will save $125.9 million over the next 18 months - only about half White's target.

The department's total two-year state appropriation was $1.88 billion. A full 13 percent cut would trim $245 million, Johnson said, adding, "We cannot reach that level of reduction without carving away critical, life-sustaining services to people, primarily fragile elderly and vulnerable children."

Compounding problems is that some cuts in state spending would also bring reductions in matching funds supplied by the federal government, officials said.

Although a hiring freeze is being imposed for non-essential vacant jobs, Johnson said no layoffs are being considered.

"For the sake of perspective, it can be noted that even if the entire staff of the department were to be abolished tomorrow, the 'savings' over the remainder of this biennium - including salaries, travel, rent, utilities and other staff-related costs would not meet our $245 million objective," Johnson wrote to White.

Cutting further would "raise the spectre of denying life-sustaining services for destitute and infirm elderly people and needy children," Johnson said.

William Hamilton, White's budget director, said he expected to have a preliminary total today on spending

Teachers' union blasts Clements

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Gov. Bill Clements' claim that teacher pay went up 49 percent during his administration is "hogwash," says the leader of a state teacher group.

"Teachers did receive pay raises in Texas during the time Clements lived in the governor's mansion, but not 49 percent. Neither were the pay raises due to Clements' work on behalf of teachers," said John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of

The 49 percent claim is carried in campaign ads for Clements, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

"Bluntly put, that claim is hogwash," Cole said at a Wednesday news conference. Cole contended that teacher salaries rose at a slower pace and that much of the increase came over Clements' opposition.

"Those who remember Clements' term in office may be somewhat surprised by his claim, since it frequently seemed that his zeal for a war on drugs was second only to his desire for a total war on teachers," Cole said.

Reggie Bashur, Clements' press secretary, said TFT's opposition to Clements stems from more than his TV ads on education issues.

"The whole point of their exercise today is that they don't like Bill Clements. They never have and, unfortunately, they probably never will," Bashur said Wednesday.

Reagan expected to seek shuttle

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reagan administration officials are preparing a multi-billion-dollar request for Congress to replace the lost Challenger and to build unmanned rockets to help launch satellites held Earth-bound by the grounded shuttle fleet, congressional and administration sources say.

These sources, who spoke Wednesday only on condition of anonymity, said the overall price tag for the space shuttle, related equipment and at least 10 new Titan rockets could be as much as $4

It was not clear whether the proposal would seek the full amount immediately or spread the request over several years; one administration official said whether to include some smaller proposals was still being debated.

The sources said an inter-agency task force is expected to present the proposal to President Reagan within the next several days, and decisions on the package are still subject to change.

The administration is under pressure from some members of Congress to move quickly on the proposal, which would represent a comprehensive response to the Jan. 28 accident that destroyed the Challenger and killed its seven-member crew.

Study links Vietnam with suicides

BOSTON (AP) - A study suggesting that Vietnam-era veterans are more likely to commit suicide than those who didn't serve means authorities should weigh all the costs involved in military conscrip-- tion, the author says. "The casualties of forced military service may not be limited to those that are counted on the battlefield," researchers wrote in a study published today in the New England Journal of Medicine. It concludes that Vietnam-era veterans were 86 percent more likely than non-veterans to die of suicide in the years after the war, and were 53 percent more likely to die in traffic accidents.

The study "indicates that before sending young men to war, especially one in which they may have experiences similar to those of Vietnam veterans, those who make the decision should weigh all the costs," the researchers wrote.

The researchers said their work shows a cause-and-effect relationship between military service in Vietnam and the elevated suicide

"I think it demonstrates the experience of being drafted during the Vietnam era had profound, long-term psychological effects on people," said Dr. Norman Hearst of the University of California, San

Answering questions from journalists after his hour-long meeting with Mrs. Aquino, the New York Democrat said he told her: "I intend to do anything I can to facilitate the recovery of these assets."

Solarz, chairman of the House of Representatives subcommittee on Asian affairs, arrived in the Philippines late Tuesday to sound out Mrs. Aquino and other officials on the amount and type of assistance her government needs from the United States.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Aquino's executive secretary, Joker Arroyo, told a news briefing that resistance to Mrs. Aquino from key national officials appointed by Marcos during his 20-year rule was crumbling, with nearly all members of the Supreme Court and the entire Commission on Elections handing in their resignations.

Solarz said he handed Mrs. Aquino a letter from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., inviting her to visit the United States and address a joint session of Congress later this year.

Swedish television added extra newscasts to broadcast the picture and interviewed officials who appealed for help finding the man.

"This man may be dangerous," police spokesman Ulf Abrahamsson told Swedish television. "If anyone recognizes him, call the police. Do not take any action yourself."

Members of the Coryell County Historical Museum Society learned in early January that a wagon they were storing for a proposed museum had disappeared.

After following clues given to them by people who thought they saw the wagon, they say they found what they were looking for - in parts - on the wagon train.

No one has been charged with the reported wagon heist, but an investigation is continuing, said Carroll Duke, a Coryell County assistant district attorney.

It was through the detective work of retired school teacher Roberta Powell and her husband, Sam Powell, that the Coryell County Sheriff's Department secured the wagon when the trail drivers made camp at a Christine-area ranch in Atascosa County, south of San An-

The wagon's running gear and some of the side boards were found in the possession of one of the train's wagon drivers who said he had bought the wagon for $200, Duke said.

Coryell County is in Central Texas. The wagon train began its journey Jan. 2 at Sulphur Springs in East Texas and it has been several hundred miles since.

The parts were retrieved Feb. 25 while the wagon train camped at the ranch, Duke said. The rest of the wagon was found on a piece of land formerly leased by the wagon driver in McLennan County, Duke said.

The missing wagon first was spotted Jan. 30 by three "little old ladies" - Mrs. Powell and two of her friends - who followed the train to Giddings, Mrs. Powell said.

"I was trying to sneak around and examine it without being too obvious," she said.

The wagon belongs to the museum society, a group soliciting funds and equipment for a proposed county museum. It was willed to the society by the Voss family, who asked Powell to care for the wagon until a museum could be built.

"Sam had done so m it," Mrs. Powell said. "He saved it and preserved it for the museum and I was just really upset."

The wagon had been fenced inside a former lumber yard but was discovered missing in early January. Mrs. Powell issued a plea for clues in area newspapers, and through the response, managed to track it down.

People can change

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the woman who asked if she should give her lovely home to a daughter and son-in-law in return for their promise to care for her in her old age was correct but not nearly strong enough.

Suppose the daughter is killed in an accident or dies of natural causes and her husband remarries. Will her son-in-law and his new wife feel an obligation to care for the lady in her old age? What if the daughter and her husband are killed in an accident and leave everything (including the house) to their children? Will they take care of Grandma? What if they simply get tired of caring for her or they and Grandma have a serious falling out? When all these possibilities are considered, the right answer becomes evident.

In my long years of legal practice I knew many people who trusted too much and regretted it deeply. The moral of the story is that time changes people and people change their minds. Sign me-E.V.B. (BUF-FALO N.Y.)

DEAR MRS. C.M. — Many of the Crystallized honey is very easy to reliquify. Simply put the jar of honey in a pan of warm water (about 97 degrees) for an hour and it will return to its natural consistency.

Pierce leads Bucks over Nets 119-106

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Basketball Writer

Ricky Pierce wanted to prove that Sidney Moncrief wasn't the only reason the Milwaukee Bucks have the third-best record in the NBA this

Pierce, making only his third start of 1985-86, gave Moncrief's sore ribs a rest Wednesday night and scored a career-high 32 points as the Bucks won for the 12th time in the last 13 games, 119-106 over the New Jersey

"The big guys were setting picks for me and I was in my rhythm," said Pierce, whose previous high of 30 points came when he was with the San Diego Clippers in 1983-84. "With Sidney out, I knew we all had to pull together, work a little harder and execute well to make up for those 20 points we were missing."

Pierce came out firing from the start, scoring 11 points in the first quarter and 12 more in the third period. The 6-foot-5 guard was 13-of-18 from the field for the game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 108, Chicago 97; Los Angeles Lakers 130, Utah 84; Atlanta 122, Philadelphia 114 in overtime; Cleveland 115, Phoenix 100; and Indiana 120, Seattle 112.

Bird scored 15 of his 26 points against Chicago during a 29-6 streak that started with 7:29 left in the second period and ended 11 minutes later.

Bird had 11 consecutive points at one stretch for the Celtics as they turned a 43-41 deficit into a 70-51 advantage with 8:24 to go in the third quarter. The Bulls closed the gap to 97-91 with 4:10 left in the game, but could come no closer.

Cavaliers 115, Suns 100

Cleveland broke an 0-10 streak in Phoenix by outscoring the Suns 22-7 in last 6:12 of the game.

Roy Hinson, who scored 22 points, scored nine points and World B. Free and John Bagley had eight each in the decisive final quarter for the Cavaliers. The game was tied seven times in the fourth quarter before Free, who finished with 23 points, put Cleveland ahead to stay at 95-93 with

The Suns, who hadn't lost to the Cavaliers in Phoenix since November of 1976, got a game-high 30 points from Walter Davis.

Last week, the USFL Players Association - in an effort to collect $600,000 in past due payroll checks seized office furniture, football equipment and vehicles at Gunslinger offices at the stadium.

Ms. Maloney said the equipment and other items seized by the players association last week belongs either to Manges or one of his oil companies and not to South Texas Sports, the defendant in the case.

She said she is seeking court intervention to halt the auctioning of the equipment.

Manges contends the team will play this fall, but he would have to field a team, post a $1.5 million letter of credit with the USFL, clear up his debts to the former players, and win the approval of the other franchise owners and the commissioner before he could do so.

In Wednesday's ruling, the appeals court nullified the lease and also enjoined the team from further use of Alamo Stadium, an aging 24,000-seat

"We're very, very pleased and gratified. It's been a long hard fight," said Harvey Hardy, attorney for the River Road Association and 10 individuals.

The association and the other plaintiffs, representing residents living near the stadium, sued to oust Manges and the Gunslingers from the facility.

A jury trial on the suit was held in February 1984, but the jury was dismissed after visiting Judge Claude Williams of Dallas ruled there were no facts in dispute.

Williams ruled the lease was good. The association and the other individuals appealed, resulting in Wednesday's ruling.

Harvey said his clients objected to the Gunslingers using the stadium because they thought "60,000 screaming fans would die rest and people would be parking everywhere.

The attorney also said the lease was signed at a time when several members of the school board were Manges supporters.

"It was a raunchy deal. They virtually gave it away for 50 years for nothing more than a rug on the

The lease, which contained two 10-year options, called for Manges to make some improvements to the stadium. Manges has placed artificial turf in the facility, as well as additional lighting.

OF GLASSES AND SETTINGS

A full compliment of wine glasses can make a dinner table a visual highlight. It also ensures full enjoyment of the selected wines. Ideally, so as not to mix and dilute tastes, each place setting should have one wine glass for each type of wine to be served. Each glass should be large enough to allow the wine to be swirled inside to force out the bouquet. The sides of the glass should gently curve inward toward the top. This holds in both the wine and bouquet. A six to eight-ounce glass is appropriate. Glassware does not have to be expensive to serve the pur-

Bears make proposal against headbands

CHICAGO (AP) - A proposal by the Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears to directly fine players who wear headbands with commercial messages is "arbitrary, capricious and a violation of free speech," says an agent for quarterback Jim

"My sentiments exactly," says

McMahon and his agent, Steve Zucker, said they learned Tuesday that the Bears had sent their pro-posal to National Football League officials, who fined the Bears $5,000 after McMahon wore an adidas headband during the playoff game with the New York Giants in December.

"I think it's a proposal aimed at one player," McMahon's agent, Steve Zucker, said Tuesday. "I think it (the ban proposal) is totally wrong, and I would certainly check every legal avenue to fight it."

But Bears General Manager Jerry Vainisi said he didn't care what Zucker or McMahon said or did about the proposal.

"If our quarterback wants to challenge it, he's an American and he's entitled to challenge it," Vainisi said. "That doesn't bother me."

After Commissioner Pete Rozelle fined the Bears, McMahon showed up at the next game, the NFC Championship clash with the Los Angeles Rams, wearing a "Rozelle" headband.

During the Super Bowl, the Bears quarterback wore various headbands drawing attention to worthy causes. He also wore one around his neck from adidas.

Rozelle threatened action against McMahon, but it appeared the two men had smoothed things over at the Pro Bowl in Hawaii.

Vainisi said that the Bears submitted their proposal to the league late last month. He said the idea was his and that he was upset with the league's fining the team instead of the player for an equipment rule violation.

"We felt that puts the club in an awkward position of trying to win a game, yet not upset the players' psyches," the general manager said.

The Bears, however, passed the $5,000 fine on to McMahon.

Kelvin Bryant

files suit against USFL

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) -Baltimore Stars tailback Kelvin Bryant has filed suit asking to be relieved of his contract with the United States Football League team and seeking permission to begin contract talks with the NFL's Washington Redskins.

Bryant, the USFL's leading career rusher, alleges in the suit that the Stars and the USFL breached the terms of the five-year contract he signed in 1983 by not maintaining minimum standards required of a professional football league. In addition he is asking more than $1 million in damages.

Vainisi said he assumes McMahon passed it on to adidas. "No comment," Zucker said when asked if the sportswear company paid the fine.

NFL owners are expected to tackle the issue at their meetings next week in Palm Springs, Calif.

"It's entirely possible we'll get ome new language as far as the headband controversy is concerned," said NFL spokesman Joe Browne.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP -George Wright's two-run single broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth as the Texas Rangers' "Ollie's Bunch" defeated the "Artful Rangers" 5-2 Wednesday in the American League teams first intrasquad game.

"Ollie's Bunch," the team managed by Dave Oliver, won over coach Art Howe's group behind the combined two-hit pitching of Edwin Correa, Rich Surhoff, Dwayne Henry, Don Welchel and Al Lachowicz.

Counting the ways 'Cosby Show' helps

NEW YORK (AP) - A successful 30-minute sitcom can rub off on the full hour of programming. A phenomenal comedy, such as "The Cosby Show," can spread its magic for all three hours of prime time.

"'Cosby' has put a halo over the whole night," said John Sisk, senior vice president for the J. Walter Thompson ad agency.

Last week's ratings, which NBC won by one-tenth of a point over CBS, illustrated the audience draw of "The Cosby Show" in several ways.

According to A.C. Nielsen Co. figures released Tuesday, topranked "Cosby" and its three Thursday companion sitcoms all cracked the Top 10 last week.

"The Cosby Show" had a 39.0

rating, its series high, and the best performance for a series episode since the "Who Shot J.R.?" resolution program on "Dallas" recorded a 53.3 in 1980. The "Cosby" rating was the highest for a sitcom since "All in the Family" registered a 40.0 in 1972.

Last week, NBC used "Cosby" as a springboard for the debut of Jack Klugman's series, "You Again?," which received overwhelmingly poor reviews but, following "Cosby" on the schedule, ranked second with a 34.6 rating:

"Cheers" was third on NBC's Thursday lineup and in last week's rankings with a series-high 26.0 rating. It was followed by No. 8 "Night Court" and No. 21 "Hill Street Blues." For the night, NBC averaged a 26.6 rating, better than ABC's and CBS' combined rating for the night.

To a lesser extent, NBC's Saturday comedies, keyed to No. 5 "Golden Girls" and a No. 14 ranking for the debut of Valerie Harper's new "Valerie" sitcom, performed in a similar way. NBC's average rating Saturday was 17.6, nearly the combined rating of ABC's and CBS' Saturday lineups.

Those two nights gave NBC its razor-thin Nielsen edge over CBS, which was the leader on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Sunday last week. ABC won Wednesday, led by No. 14 "Dynasty," the network's only show in the Top 15.

For Feb. 24-March 2, NBC had an

'CBS Evening News" won for the 200th consecutive week. Dan Rather's broadcast, which emanated from farm country in the Midwest, had a 13.4 rating. Tom Brokaw's "NBC Nightly News," which came from New York and Washington, averaged a 12.6. ABC's "World News Tonight," with anchor Peter Jennings reporting from Moscow for the Soviet Party Congress, had an 11.6.

Cole, Kerr slated to speak Sunday

The Independent Scholar's Network will feature the topic "How to Produce News-letters and Directories" at their monthly meeting 3:30 p.m., Sunday 9, at Amarillo Central Library, 4th and Buchanan.

Stephen Cole, who produces "For Your Eyes Only," a newsletter with a national mailing audience, and Robert Kerr, who is currently compiling a national directory of animal exhibits, will be the featured speakers. They will discuss the technical problems related to producing the publications, as well as target audiences and computer based mailing networks.

The meeting, postponed from February, will be preceded at 2:30 p.m. by a "Works in Progress" roundtable session for anyone interested in sharing information on current projects. The Independent Scholar's Network is an informal group of persons who meet to discuss their work and hold educational workshops. Most members are not formally affiliated with any academic institutions, but welcome all new participants interested in researching different subjects, according to spokesman J.R. Hollingsworth. Research conducted on small Panhandle town

The German Catholic influence prevalent in many turn-of-thecentury Texas settlements is still flourishing in many areas, including the small Panhandle town of Nazareth.

Texas Tech University German Professor Meredith McClain said the own was originally founded as Wynne by two Irish families named McCormick, but drought forced all but the two original families to leave

"The nearest Roman Catholic community to the McCormicks was the German community of Rhineland," McClain said. "The priest renamed the town Nazareth and agreed to help recolonize the town with German settlers."

Begun in 1902 with sons and daughters of German immigrants, Nazareth remains the oldest surviving German Catholic settlement in the Panhandle, McClain said.

Today Nazareth encompasses an area of approximately 14 square miles with a population of 700, approximately 95 percent of which are of German Catholic heritage, she said.

McClain said while the German ethnicity of the town is dwindling, the catholic influence is not.

She points to the strong anti-German feelings during World War I and II as possible reasons for the decline of the German influence.

"During both wars, hostilities towards German immigrants were " she said. "Because of Nazareth's isolation, its citizens felt more vulnerable than German Americans grouped together in larger cities. To prove their Americanism, the citizens dropped German from public use and were constantly over their war bond sales quotas."

The continued strong catholic influence in the town is demonstrated by a close relationship between church and school.

The first school in the new town was a parochial school consisting of grades one and two. The Benedictine Nuns from Arkansas were brought in to teach the classes, she said. When the parochial school was absorbed by the public school system in 1939, the nuns remained as part of the teaching staff and were paid by the state, a tradition that continues today, McClain said.

The school-church relationship was taken a step further in 1975 when the school was granted release time by the state allowing an extra hour each week so all students could attend catechism class, she said. The extra time is made up by expanding the school day.

Because of the isolation of the town, McClain said the church and its social orders became a vital part of the town's social life that continues today.

"While the town is not as isolated as it once was, the church social clubs continue to be a major part of town life," she said. Through these clubs the value of the religious community are further solidified and instilled in each new generation.

The importance of the social clubs and the heavy involvement of religion in the school system have worked to guarantee that the beliefs and principles of the Catholic Church are reinforced every day.

Retailing, merchandising program scheduled merchandising program is sponsoring "Your Image: A Powerful Impact!" featuring a lecture and demonstration on wardrobe strategy by Suzie Woodward-Morris March 13 at 7 p.m. in the Amarillo College Concert Hall Theater, Washington Street Campus.

The two-and-a-half-hour program will emphasize both men's and women's wardrobes where Mrs. Woodward-Morris' system will teach participants to invest clothing money for maximum return, to dress beautifully while making sure to have the right apparel item for the right occasion, with purchases staying in fashion for as long as five

She will demonstrate how to create the positive image everyone wants

Amarillo College's retailing and others to have of them, to predict fashion cycles to increase the life of clothing investments, to budget wardrobe money and to spend wisely, and to update present wardrobes with subtle changes in accessories and combinations.

The program is open to the public with advance tickets priced at $5, those at the door costing $8. Tickets can be obtained from any Amarillo College Fashion Club Member. Information is available by calling 371-5265, 352-4054, or 374-8877.

Virgil Slentz to speak at world Day of Prayer service

Church Women United of Hereford extend an invitation to the public to come to St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 9:30 a.m. Friday for the World Day of Prayer celebration.

Virgil Slentz will be speaking on

"Choose Live."

World Day of Prayer began in 1887 through the Women's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Soon after, other denominations joined this day of prayer and the offer-ings started to aid minority groups in the United States.

In 1890, two Baptist women visited the Orient and saw the need for foreign missions. From this visit came the support through offerings to foreign missions. The first interdenominational mission study book also came from the women's trip to the Orient.

In 1919, two separate national days of prayer for home and world missions were combined into one day of prayer for all missions.

The women of CWU encourage everyone to attend the World Day of Prayer observance.

Certain species of ants live solely on slave labor, enslaving other ants for life. A typical colony of 3,000 western slave-making ants may have more than 6,000 slaves working for it, says Na-tional Geographic. Slave ants forage for food, regurgitate food to their hosts, groom and feed the larvae and queen ant, and defend the nest against attack from other insects. If the colony moves to a different location, the slaves carry their masters, one by one, to their new

COLLEGE STATION --This is the season when homeowners and others get the urge to "top" or "dehorn" landscape trees with the assumption that the trees will be better off. "On the contrary, topping is one of the worst practices that can be employed against shade trees," emphasizes Dr. Mike Walterscheidt, forester with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Topping refers to cutting back branches to stubs and sometimes all the way to the trunk." explains Walterscheidt. "This severethem up for attack by ly injuries trees and sets diseases and insects. Topping can even kill a tree outright.'

"Proper pruning, on the other hand, involves removing trashy side branches in the top of the tree," explains Walterscheidt. "This practice is not nearly as noticeable as topping and therefore often goes unnotic-

Severe topping causes a proliferation of buds at the point where the branch was cut. Shoots then arise from these buds, forming a dense mat at the end of the branch. This dense growth is shallowly attached and subject to easy breakage by wind storms, adds Walterscheidt.

This new mass of growth also puts a strain on a tree's root system since food reserves have to go to support it. Thus the tree's root system is weakened and overall vigor is reduced, making the tree more susceptible to attack from insects, diseases and other environmental conditions, Walterscheidt points out. Sunscald can also be a

Topping also reduces a tree's life expentancy and therefore affects its value in landscape. Knowledgeable appraisers will severely reduce the value of a topped or dehorned tree, the forester points out.

"Good pruining practices will retain a tree's natural form and enable it to be a much greater asset to the landowner," emphasizes Walterscheidt. "Considering how long it takes a tree to reach full size, proper pruning and care should be a top priority for the homeowner."

Community responds after family learns child not eligible for aid

"Now Gov. White is asking us to cut another 13 percent,' she said. "There are kids who are on the program who are being taken off right now. This will probably mean more."

15 percent.

Mrs. Barkley-Booher said the disorder's certain fatality - children usually live no more than eight years - and its rarity have probably combined to keep it off of any list that would make Bubba eligible for state aid.

Except for some temporary local assistance, the policy meant Bubba was having to do without some medical supplies necessary to keep him from getting even sicker. The family receives SSI payments and is eligible for Medicaid, but that does not pay for the numerous medical supplies the child

When Bubba's story first was told last week in the Lufkin Daily News, local citizens responded with many offers of aid ranging from a trip to Six Flags Over Texas to groceries and money for help with medical bills.

"We had people calling us before we got the newspaper down here," Health District Administrator Mike Czepiel said. "It has really been amazing. I had heard of Lufkin's "can do' spirit time I have had a personal Czepiel said when he first became aware of Bubba's case, Mrs. Williams was using the same suction catheter - used to help clean her son's tracheotomy - day after

"In the hospital, they use one of these things once and then throw them away because of the danger of infection," Czepiel said. "She was just having to use them over and over."

Czepiel said workers at the health district took up a collection and bought a case of 30 catheters, which could last up to a month.

"We don't have any money for anything like this, but I just couldn't stand it," Czepiel said. "There was a tremendous danger of staph infection. So everybody chipped in a little to help out."

Bubba and Mrs. Williams. who is divorced from her husband, had also been given other help even before the newspaper story. The Christian Information and Service Center donated a suction machine and recently paid the bill so the gas could be turned back on to Mrs. Williams' small trailer. A local medical supply house has also given Mrs. Williams time to pay for the oxygen and equipment they rent.

When the family's refrigerator went out last month, a worker for the Department of Human Services donated a small one of her own and even put something inside.

When she brought out that gallon of milk, I thought I was going to cry," Mrs. Williams

Since the newspaper story last week, more than $600 has been donated to a special account at Lufkin Federal Savings and Loan, food and medical supplies had been taken directly to the health district and more persons were calling asking how they could help.

The Angelina County Peace Officer's Association, which donated $500, will also provide funds for Bubba to take a special trip, probably to Six Flags.

A Lufkin service station owner has also pledged to give the family $50 per month for Bubba's medical supplies. one free tank of gas per week and do minor repairs on the Williams' car.

"I told him that any one of those things would be enough," Czepiel said. "That he didn't have to do all of that. He told me that he could afford it and that it would make him and his wife feel good to do it." Mrs. Williams said her other son's Sunday school teacher brought the family some food and the teacher's husband paid a $125 debt Mrs. Williams owed. "Tell Lufkir thank you,"

Mrs. Williams said. "I wouldn't know how to thank everybody for all they have done. I feel bad that I can't do it properly. There are a lot of people with love in their hearts in Lufkin."

"Last Friday things couldn't have been any worse," she said. "We were wondering how we were going to make it. Now, look at all of this. Look at what people have done.

"Bubba is really happy about all of it, too. All he can do is talk about Six Flags."

The fatal disease has weakened Bubba to the point where he can hardly speak, but he manages to say two words clearly: "Thank you."

The often-smiling Bubba has developed normally mentally through the course of his disorder, but his body has steadily weakened so that he now can no longer hold up his head.

Mrs. Williams said doctors first suspected his disorder when he was 18 months old, but did not finally confirm it until a few months ago.

"We felt like something was wrong from the beginning," she said. "He was slow to do things and he never would put any weight on his feet. The doctors told us he was just developing slowly."

When Bubba could not walk, other than without help from his parents, though. doctors looked for other pro-

"One time he took 13 steps," Mrs. Williams said. "I thought the sky was falling. He never did that again, though."

Mrs. Williams said she wants to work, something she has not been able to do because she has been taking care of Bubba, and eventually go to college, perhaps to become a nurse. She said the constant worrying is one of the most difficult things for her to handle.

Tax Tips

Sixth in a series of "tax tip" articles provided by the Panhandle Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Q. If I am itemizing deductions, I understand all sales tax is deductible. How do I compute and take a deduction for sales tax paid?

A. The optional sales tax tables located in your income tax form and instruction booklet indicates how much sales tax you may deduct (without documentation) based on your family size and adjusted income. The sales tax IRS table accounts only for the statewide rate, so the deducted amount should be increased by local sales taxes. If, during the year, you purchased a car, motorcycle, motorhome, truck, boat or airplane, you may add the sales tax on these purchases to the amount listed on the sales tax tables. You may also add the sales tax on materials to build a new home if: (1) the tax rate was the same as the general sales tax rate and (2) your sales receipt or contract shows how much sales tax you paid.

If you keep receipts that show that you paid more state sales tax than what is indicted in the tax table, you may deduct the larger

This is a frustrating situation, given my own experience. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER — A pessary is a rubber or plastic device that is inserted deep in the vaginal canal to help hold the uterus in a more forward position. Uterine retroversion (bending backward) can be a cause of menstrual cramps when the womb is heavy with congestion during certain times in the menstrual cycle.

Pessaries are a nuisance because they should be removed and cleaned daily. Therefore, many gynecologists recommend using medication to relieve menstrual cramps. Nonetheless, pessaries still can be useful. I don't agree with your daughter's doctor that pessaries are old-fashioned and inef-

DEAR READER - Stress can alter the menstrual cycle. Grief, illness and malnutrition have been associated with discontinuation or irregularity of the cycle. Once the stress is resolved, the menses usually return to normal. As time passes and you adapt to your parents' divorce, your periods will probably become regular again. If not, check with your gynecologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I was in a car wreck and was bruised very badly. Both my arms and legs go numb. The doctor said this is because the muscles in my neck get tense and he gave me Amitriptyline (10 mg.). Is this a muscle relaxer? Will I ever get over this?

DEAR READER — Amitriptyline is ordinarily prescribed as an antide-pressant. Perhaps your doctor be-lieved that your muscle tension and pain are partially caused by depression. If your symptoms are due to the auto accident, healing will occur with time and you will feel better.

Texas eye physicians offer help to elderly

The Texas Eye Care Project Helpline, the medical program to help provide eye care to the elderly, has received 1246 calls in its first two weeks of operation.

Of the callers, 830 elderly Texas residents-24 of whom have no insurance-have been referred to volunteer ophthalmologists for eye care. Other callers have received free information about eye care.

John E. Eisenlohr, MD, president of the Texas Ophthalmological Association, has encouraged US citizens and legal residents age 65 and older to call the toll-free Helpline--1-800-222--EYES--if they think they have medical eye problems but do not have an eye physician. Disadvantaged elderly are eligible for medical eye care at no out-of-pocket cost.

The Texas Helpline is open from 8 am to 5 pm Monday through Friday. Other states will be opening at two-week intervals until July 21, when the Helpline will be operating throughout the country.

The program-supported by volundonations from ophthalmologists and by contributions from corporations associated
