Gains Shown In Collection Of '36 Taxes

County, City, School District Report Increase In Revenues

Substantial gains in collection of current taxes to December 1 were shown in reports from the county, city and Big Spring independent school district today.

Report of County Tax Collector and Assessor John Wolcott reflected the greatest gain with a total of $36,917.74 collected in first half installments and $17,417.78 in full paid current taxes. This was $5,648.21 more than for the same period last year and a gain of $15,423.80 over the same time in 1935.

Percentage Greater While the city total collection was slightly under the total for last year, the percentage of collections was greater. The difference is accounted for in a 10 per cent cut in the city rate. Total collections to December 1, including a larger number of first half payments than usual, was $14,691.37. The same time a year ago it was $15,016.30.

During the month of November, with a two per cent discount as bait, the school district collected $7,138.50 to bring the total current collections to $37,784.94, a gain of $1,569 over the same period of 1935.

Interest After Jan. 31 All taxes, unless first half or quarterly installments have been made, will be due not later than January 31, if not paid by that time, will draw interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent per month to a maximum of six per cent plus eight per cent penalty in July 1937.

Wolcott's report also showed a record revenue for the county from automobile registrations. With only eight months of the vehicle registration year gone, the county's share of collections amounts to $65,145.72, far ahead of the $60,792.44 at the end of the registration period in April last year.

The money collected from registrations goes to the road and bridge fund, or its designated divisions.

Huskies Send Rose Bowl Bid

Name Of Team Unknown, However, Pending Acceptance Of Invitation

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 3 (AP)—University of Washington officials said today a formal invitation had been extended by them to a team to play the Huskies in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. They said an acceptance to the bid was being awaited.

There was no intimation of the identity of the invited team. Officials indicated the offer to the other school was made this morning.

The announcement that the "acceptance is awaited" caused considerable speculation, since most of the schools believed to be under consideration for the Rose Bowl game were supposed to be looking for the bid with open arms.

Washington, winner of the Pacific coast championship, automatically became the western team to play in the Rose Bowl. The western representative annually selects its own opponent.

University of Alabama and Louisiana State university authorities said they knew nothing about an invitation.

The two schools had been considered prominent contenders for the honor.

Roosevelt Is Given Ovation In Montevideo

Makes Last South American Stop Before Heading For The U. S.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt, returning from his Latin-American voyage of peace, stepped from the cruiser Indianapolis today to the cheers of his republic, into the outstretched arms of President Gabriel Terra.

He made the last stop of his South American trip during which he inaugurated the Inter-American peace conference. A tumultuous crowd, packed behind 3,000 soldiers, greeted and cheered Mr. Roosevelt.

The president said at a luncheon given him by President Terra that "a new era of friendship and confidence among the Americas" was born at the Pan-American conference held here three years ago, adding that the parity "is giving back fruits in terms of achievement in the world."

Going To Mobile Leaving here, the president will start his 7,000-mile voyage home. While his itinerary was not complete, it was thought the Indianapolis would proceed to Mobile, Ala., instead of to Port of Spain, Trinidad, as was originally contemplated.

This was because Mr. Roosevelt wished to take the body of his personal bodyguard and friend, August "Gus" Gernerich, who died yesterday of a heart attack, as directly as possible to Warm Springs, Ga., for burial.

President Roosevelt left Buenos Aires after receiving the greatest popular reception ever accorded a foreigner, in which all shades of political opinion vied to heap honors on the American chief executive.

His last day was featured by a luncheon at the American embassy in honor of President Roosevelt, who urged to visit him in Washington.

"Adios," Mr. Roosevelt urged his Argentine hosts to make his reception as simple and unostentatious as possible, but there was no restraining the multitudes—estimated at a million by police—who turned out to welcome him, and to bid him adios.

He saw in these people, the plain people of the whole world, for whom he wishes to maintain the blessings of peace—and he referred to them in the 2,500-word speech with which he formally opened, with President Justo, the Inter-American peace conference yesterday.

The president attended a private funeral service for Gernerich yesterday at the American embassy, at which Lieut. C. V. Ellis, chaplain of the Indianapolis, officiated. It was the president's idea that Gernerich be buried at Warm Springs, Va.

WPA QUOTA MAY BE FURTHER REDUCED

Quota for the WPA district No. 18 may be in for another slight reduction at the end of this month, R. H. McNew, district director, believed today.

The district has had a quota of 1,490 through the autumn until the figure was whittled to 1,050 for December. The state has been assigned a 6,000 cut which will necessarily be effected in the different districts, the district head explained.

More Votes Are Being Received In 'Mary Christmas' Contest; Plans Completed For Santa Visit Tuesday

Votes continued to come in to the chamber of commerce office Thursday in the contest to name "Mary Christmas"—a young woman of Big Spring who will be honored by Santa Claus on December 22, when he presents her with a gift. It was announced that tabulations will not be released until next week. Entered in the contest are Don Hutto, Jamie Lee Meador, Clarinda Mary Sanders, and Minnie Belle Williamson.

Voting is done simply by clipping coupons which appear each day in The Herald. No cost is attached. As many votes may be cast as there are coupons to be had from the papers. Ballots should be turned in at the chamber of commerce office.

Meanwhile, plans went ahead for a mammoth reception for Santa Claus, when that jolly old fellow pays his first 1936 visit to Big Spring next Tuesday afternoon.

With Santa in his decorated sleigh will be several popular storybook characters in costume, including Little Red Riding Hood and the big bad wolf, Peter Rabbit, and others. Also with Santa will be his two clowns, Laffo and Toto.

The girls entered in the "Mary Christmas" contest will appear in cars in the Tuesday parade with Santa. The high school band and other organizations also will take part.

Edward Refuses To Give Up Throne Or American Friend

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—King Edward of England and his prime minister, Stanley Baldwin, stood their grounds today in opposition over the monarch's affection for American-born Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The king, with his half-presumptive brother and the American divorcee at his side, refused to give up either the throne or the friendship. Baldwin, in an unprecedented hour of commonsense setting, said he had "no statement" on the constitutional crisis. He told Clement Attlee, opposition leader who reportedly sided with Baldwin in the demand that Edward relinquish the American woman, that "the situation is of such nature to make it inexpedient that I be questioned at this stage."

Sees Victory For King The king won in a first show of strength. The laborite leader, Joseph Clement Wedgwood, told the British Press association that "the king is beloved. The thing to avoid is abdication. Any change will tear the country in two. If a general election comes, the outcome will be on the side of the king."

Some sources said, however, that Edward may have to make a pledge to make no arrangement not satisfactory to the government, the church and himself.

For an hour yesterday Prime Minister Baldwin was closeted with the monarch.

Stern and silent, the prime minister had a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on the crisis which has grown to such proportions that some quarters asserted Baldwin would resign unless His Majesty cooled his association with the former Baltimore belle.

Talk An Hour He emerged at the end of the hour, went directly to the house of commons and later to 10 Downing street to confer with Sir John Simon, British home secretary.

Edward still will insist, advisers said, upon his right as an individual to seek personal happiness in his private life, but he is concerned by criticism now directed against him.

The king hopes that with the sympathy of his people, it was stated, to work out a solution of his private actions which will be satisfactory to him and to the realm.

As to reports he had made arrangements for marriage to Mrs. Simpson, those close to him asserted the monarch himself had brand-

Lost Time Is Being Made Up In Work On Postoffice Building

Contractors for the federal post-office building here have reduced the margin of lost time from 21.1 per cent to 16 per cent within the past 30 days, W. S. Johnson, construction engineer for the procurement division of the treasury department, said Thursday.

He anticipated a further gain on schedule time by intensifying building operations for the next few weeks.

With stones being put in place, Johnson said there was a possibility of work starting on the roof by next week.

Contract time for completion of the building is Feb. 21. Most of the time loss resulted from bad weather and changes in the building plans.

HOUSING OFFICIAL TO BE HERE FRIDAY

R. E. Sikes, field representative of the Federal Housing administration, will be at room 204 in the Petroleum building Friday, he said in a letter received here. During the day he will interview anyone interested in modernization, refinancing, or purchase under terms of the federal housing act.

Restrictions For Area Will Be Discussed

Parley Called For December 3 After Regulated Section Extended

The state department of agriculture today announced a meeting of the bollworm board in Big Spring on Dec. 3 to decide on a policy in view of modified restrictions imposed under an extension of the quarantine area announced by Henry A. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, Wednesday.

Wallace announced revision of the quarantine regulations to include three Texas counties and parts of two others in what was termed a "lightly infested area." Counties involved are Howard, Glasscock, Martin and parts of Dawson and Midland counties not previously regulated.

Worms Found At Gins The revision was occasioned by the finding of pink bollworms at a Big Spring gin and at a gin in Patrick, Dawson county. It was understood that only two bollworms were found at a gin here.

Thus far the only restriction imposed by the extension of the quarantine is the regulation of shipments of seed to oil mills. Seed milled in the area can be trucked only as far as Abilene or sent by rail only as far as Fort Worth. Sterilization of seed and fumigation of lint has not yet been specified.

Many farmers and ginners in the county today expressed the opinion that the bollworms found here might have come from cotton trucked from an infested area in Dawson county. There has been an increased movement of Dawson county cotton to local gins this season.

Baskin To Preside J. D. Baskin, Cameron, chairman of the bollworm board, will preside over the meeting here. J. M. DeCurtis, plant quarantine official, will also attend the meeting. J. E. McDonald, state secretary of agriculture, was en route to Harlingen today and could not be contacted by The Herald for a statement.

County Agent O. P. Griffin today described the pink bollworm which feeds on cotton plants in this area as being a small "red-dish white" worm which bores a ring around the bell, attains a mature length of about three quarters of an inch and accomplishes pupation in the seed.

News that Howard county had been included in the pink bollworm quarantine area was anything but welcome to local cotton producers.

They recalled the time in 1929 when one lone, dead bollworm was discovered in the county and caused it to be included among the 21-county area under quarantine.

Then followed seasons of expensive sterilizing cotton seed and fumigating lint against eggs of the mysterious worm which not one in a thousand farmers had ever seen. This continued until 1932 with rumblings of discontent and little hope of reimbursement.

Association Formed By May of 1933 concerted action was under way to get an act through the legislature to repay See BOLLWORM, Page 8, Col. 2

Dr. Townsend Is Indicted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, co-founder of the Townsend old age pension movement, and two associates, Rev. Clinton Wunder of New York and John B. Kiefer of Chicago, both regional directors in the organization, were indicted by a federal grand jury today on contempt charges growing out of their defiance of a congressional investigating committee.

The indictments charged Townsend with "knowingly and wilfully" absconding himself from the committee and Wunder and Kiefer with ignoring committee subpoenas.

The action came as an outgrowth of developments in the congressional pension investigation last spring, when Townsend, called as a witness, walked out on a house committee, refusing to answer members' questions. A few days later his two aides ignored subpoenas to appear before the committee.

Congressional leaders at first considered taking the cases before the house, later deciding that federal court action would be followed.

TRUCK HEARING TO BE HELD HERE DEC. 15

Mark Marshall, chief of the motor transportation division of the Texas railroad commission, announced today that a hearing on the application of the Texas and Pacific Motor Transportation company to extend service from Big Spring to El Paso would be held here Dec. 15-16.

The announcement was made in the form of an advice from Marshall to G. A. Woodward, Big Spring attorney, who appeared in first hearings for inauguration of the service from Abilene to Big Spring. The hearings will be in the Crawford hotel.

STATE RECOVERING FROM CLOSED BANKS

AUSTIN, Dec. 3 (AP)—The state auditor said yesterday in a report on treasury department that the state would count on recovering virtually all its money on deposit in banks which closed during the depression.

The audit report was for the two-year period ended Oct. 31, 1935. One hundred per cent collections were made from eight of ten closed depositories, the auditor said, before Oct. 31, 1935. These amounted to $1,072,420.52 of the $1,750,929.73 on deposit.

Issue Complaints On Car Interest Rates

Commission Alleges Cost Higher Than Advertised

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The federal trade commission charged 21 automobile manufacturers and financing companies today with claiming a higher rate of interest on deferred car payments than they advertised.

Eight complaints charging violation of the unfair competition section of the trade commission act were issued. The commission said the defendants advertised they sold cars on an annual six per cent interest rate but actually the total was about 12 per cent.

The commission said the following automobile companies had been named in the complaints: Nash motors company, Kenosha, Wis.; General Motors corporation, Detroit, and its subsidiaries which produce Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick, Chevrolet and Cadillac cars; the Chrysler corporation of Detroit, and its subsidiaries, the Chrysler Sales corporation and their firms manufacturing De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth cars; the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, Detroit; Hudson Motor Car company, Detroit; Ford Motor company, Dearborn, Mich.; Reo Motor company, Lansing, Mich.; and the Packard Motor Car company, Detroit.

Financing companies named, the commission said, were: "General Motors Acceptance corporation, New York City, joined with the General Motors group, Commercial Credit company, Baltimore, joined with the Chrysler corporation and its subsidiaries, the Universal Credit corporation, Detroit with the Ford Motor company, and the Commercial Investment Trust corporation, New York City, with Graham-Paige Motors corporation, and the Hudson Motor Car company."

Many Killed The Madrid raids of today, which caused little damage, were vastly different from yesterday's attacks, which left scores, and perhaps hundreds, dead.

While Madrid infantry held their defenses and kept the fascist army from pushing further into the capital, the air attackers dropped at least 70 bombs in the bloodiest bombardment in the city's history.

A British member of parliament visiting the siege area with a group of colleagues, reported: "We saw scores of injured women and children—four women and two children were thrown in one pile."

The parliamentarians reported also that the city was in dire need of food, with little meat and an acute shortage of beans, potatoes and other foods.

The international non-intervention committee, seeking to keep the civil war confined to Spain, authorized letters to the Madrid government and to fascist chief Francisco Franco—asking permission to send observers to investigate reported armament shipments to each.

GOODYEAR PLANT IS CLOSED BY STRIKE

(By The Associated Press) Strikes in industries supplying units for automobile production extended today to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company at Akron, O., where a plant employing 6,000 workers was closed.

CONVICTIONS UPHELD IN 'SALOON' CASES

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (UP) — First "open saloon" convictions under the 1935 liquor act were affirmed yesterday by the Texas' court of criminal appeals.

Previous cases had been reversed because of faulty charges, or faulty evidence.

Losers on appeals decided today by the court of criminal appeals were J. L. Neunes who had been fined $500 each on two charges of operating an open saloon in Harris county, and M. J. Bremillion who had been fined $100 on a similar charge in the same county.

Centennial Well Advertised Through Radio Broadcasts

DALLAS, Dec. 3.—Radio played an unique role in the Texas Centennial central exposition which closed Sunday.

The exposition was officially opened June 6 with an international round-the-world broadcast over a network of 103 stations. This program, produced by the Centennial radio staff, was relayed through the facilities of the Gulf radio studios and the Gulf Centennial network on the exposition grounds. The exposition officially closed Sunday midnight with a radio program which included a broadcast of the actual clicking of the turnstiles when the last visitor went through the gates and a round robin pickup from several points on the grounds.

The significance of the $200,000 Gulf radio and public address facilities as a means of advertising Dallas, the Centennial, and the state of Texas is shown by figures released by Robert C. Coleson, who has been in charge of production at the Centennial studios.

Since the exposition opened June 6, 2513 live talent programs have originated on the exposition grounds and have been made available through the facilities provided by the Gulf Oil to local, sectional and national networks.

Of the 2513 broadcasts, 35 have been transcontinental broadcasts carried over the National Broadcasting or the Columbia Broadcasting chains. One of these was an international hook-up which was carried over 103 stations, and the average number of stations carrying the hook-up programs has been 65. The actual time of broadcasting national hook-up programs has been eighteen and a half hours, two programs being of one hour each and thirty-three, being one-half hour programs.

Work Of NYA Is Outlined In Talk

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3.—The program of the National Youth Administration in Texas for equipping youths to enter private employment prepared to do a full day's work for a day's pay was outlined here Thursday to the American Vocational association by Llewellyn B. Griffith, state supervisor of the NYA program.

Griffith summarized the extent of construction and service work done by NYA youths since last January on soil conservation, roadside parks, in sewing rooms, carpentry plants, and public school cafeterias, and on playground improvement. Then he explained:

"The average youth worker was 19 years old with no job experience and about a seventh grade education. When he arrived on the job he was unprepared as a worker. . . . He would begin to produce effectively as his morale improved, and after a training period all were expected to produce the results attained in normal private industry."

Griffith said . . . "The employers' viewpoint was taught them along with the other training necessary to equip them for private employment. The usefulness of each unit of work was explained. . . . The foreman showed the youth the proper use of equipment and tools. Material and labor scheduling was illustrated. Coordination of working units was emphasized, and above all, he was made to grasp the value of job discipline."

MONTGOMERY WARD

President Doesn't Have Such Fine Accommodations On Naval Cruiser

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—When the navy takes the president for a cruise on the Indianapolis such as that to Buenos Aires, it supplies him with just what a high ranking navy officer gets—and little else. And that isn't much, on a cruiser.

On the Indianapolis, which is a flagship, with accommodations for an admiral, the president occupies the admiral's quarters. They are forward, one floor above the main deck. He has a bath, a bedroom, and one fairly large room to serve as combination office and dining room. The furnishings are like those in a two-room and bath-apartment at $50 a month in an inexpensive apartment house.

His office-dining room has a desk, table, radio, lounge chair, sofa, and such little odds and ends as a small silver cabinet, a cigar cabinet, and two or three straight chairs. More chairs can be brought in when company comes. The rug is middle grade, no deep plush. There are curtains, and navy china.

Ramps lead from the president's deck up to the communications deck, and down to the main deck. Meals (the navy, of course, calls it mess) are served to the president in his quarters.

Brow Trouble

Methodical and thorough, officers detailed to provide for the president's welfare on the Indianapolis had a list of 154 things to do. They began doing them last July, very secretly, of course, as that was long before the president announced his trip. The 154 items ranged all the way from putting motion picture films on board to arranging dock facilities at South American ports.

Next trip the president takes, the officers probably will list 155 things to do. The extra will be to provide the ship with a brow. It is a sort of swinging gangplank to transfer passengers from one ship to another at sea. The Indianapolis did not have one when it sailed and frantic efforts to have one built in the last few hours were fruitless. It was found the Chester had

FRAMES FARLEY'S PREDICTION

Edwin W. Murphy, ex-newspaperman employed by the Democratic National Committee, is shown holding the pre-election forecast of Chairman James A. Farley, in which the latter accurately predicted that Governor Alfred M. Landon would carry only Maine and Vermont. However, he figured the electoral vote as 7 instead of 8. (Associated Press Photo) one, and as it was going along everybody felt better.

Chester's A Spare

Nominally the Chester went along to take press correspondents and certain aides. But that was not the basic reason, which was not published. It was for safety and expediency. The navy's job is to get the president to his destination. The extra cruiser goes along as a spare, to carry on if the president's ship is disabled. Thus the worry about a brow.

When the navy takes the president over, it cuts him off from the White House to a degree. Personal secretaries are left behind and Charles K. Claunch, brown haired, brown eyed, thin cheeked naval chief yeoman, takes the job. He held it when Hoover went to sea. Now he is Roosevelt's sea-going secretary. The democratic purge didn't reach him, in the navy.

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Perhaps the title of Constantin de Grunwald's new book is misleading. He calls it "Napoleon's Nemesis: The Life of Baron Stein." And Stein was certainly not Napoleon's nemesis, but only one arm of it.

Just the same, the career of the stodgy Baron is a grand one, and Grunwald talks entertainingly about it. This all the more because he is denied some of the favorite material for biographers—amorous intrigue for one. The Baron married in normal fashion, but he (like Pearl Buck's father) submerged the usual urges into an obsession with his career. Largely that is.

Stein was a petty German baron, but one of fine and long lineage. He knew the varied life of the little German courts from experience; he saw early that among these courts lay fame and a life of service for him. Oddly, his family saw the same thing, and considerably got his older brothers to resign their inheritances in his favor. Then, after a period of very hard study at Göttingen, Stein buried himself in Westphalia for 25 years.

He wanted to develop his section, and he did it. He was responsible more than any man for the productivity of the Saar and its connection with Prussia. He opened up mines, and he built roads. He fought implacably the people who would benefit most from his changes, since as usual these could see only about halfway down their noses. He won.

Later he went to Frederick William and became his prime minister at a very difficult time. This was when Napoleon had Prussia by the throat shaking her daily, and with every appearance of glee. Napoleon, with his grandiose ideas of a great European state (ruled of course by himself) and Stein, with his hard-hearted devotion to the theory of nationalism, were as different as two men could be. But to see Stein busily regenerating Prussia, working 24 hours daily to consolidate and direct the opposition to the Emperor, working for the Bourbon restoration, even ruling this whole French departments—to see all this to understand much that is happening today in Germany. The same spirit moves Hitler that moved Stein.

"Napoleon's Nemesis: The Life of Baron Stein," by Constantin de Grunwald (Scribners).

'The Captain's Kid' Is Attraction At Ritz Theatre Today

"The Captain's Kid," new comedy romance, plays Thursday at the Ritz theatre with May Robson, veteran actress; Sybil Jason, able child star, and Guy Kibbee, rotund comedian, heading the cast.

The picture is not only replete with humor, but has some melodramatic thrills and a romantic plot. There are two songs introduced in the picture: "I'm the Captain's Kid," and "Drifting Along."

Little Sybil and Kibbee are pals at a New England summer home on the Sound, owned by the elderly spinster, Miss Robson. Kibbee tries to steal the treasure and in an ensuing scuffle one of them is killed. Kibbee is held for murder, but it cleared in a surprising climax to the story.

Romantic leads are played by Jane Bryan and Fred Lawrence. Others in the cast are Dick Purcell, Mary Treen, Gus Shy, Maude Allen, Victor Potel and George E. Stone.

P-TA Council Awards Round-Up Prize To North Ward School

Reports from two ward schools were heard at the Parent-Teacher Association council meeting Wednesday when Mrs. Hayes Stripling presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. H. W. Smith.

North Ward was announced as winner of the prize offered for the school with best results from the summer round-up and the president, Mrs. R. L. Beale, accepted the award. She also reported the P-T-A was working toward purchasing a radio for the school.

Mrs. James T. Brooks, South Ward head, stated this organization had brought a phonograph and a number of records, also had in furnished clothing for 15 students and at present have 23 paid memberships.

After the reports were given the group held a round table discussion on future radio programs in the interest of the association work. Those participating were Mrs. L. C. Taylor, Mrs. George W. Hall, Mrs. James T. Brooks, Mrs. R. C. Williams, Mrs. R. L. Beale, Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Mrs. W. C. Blankenship, Mrs. Joy Stripling, Mrs. Arthur Hawk and Miss Esta Henderson.

County's WPA Sewing Room Has Used 42 Miles Of Materials In Year

Sewing of 42 miles of material, enough to reach from Big Spring to Lamesa, into garments during a one year period ended Nov. 25 has been accomplished by the WPA sewing room project sponsored by Howard county.

For the one year period, 72,787 yards of materials were fashioned into a total of 45,750 garments and articles of clothing, according to a detailed report released from the district office here.

At the end of the year period 49 persons were employed on the project which had utilized a total of 57,903 man hours of labor.

Cost of the project borne through WPA amounted to $14,865.01, labor accounting for $12,523.67 of the figure. Materials and other costs were responsible for the remaining $2,341.34. The sponsor contributed $1,023.20 in materials, rentals and other incidentals.

The project has transferred 44,262 garments to the surplus commodity distribution unit under WPA and had on hand an additional 1,388 garments.

Plans are underway to launch a second sewing room project within the county in the near future.

Similar projects are being sponsored in Martin, Midland, Dawson, Garza, Terry, Ector and two in Lynn counties. All except one at O'Donnell in Lynn county were begun in 1935.

Lint Burned On Border In Pink Boll War

Federal - State 'Clean-Up Gang' At Work In Presidio Area

PRESIDIO, Dec. 3.—A "cotton field clean-up gang" of federal-state men here burning old cotton stalks and field litter to help in the hard-fought war against the pink bollworm. There are seven or eight men in the crew and they are burning the left-over crop trash on the farms most severely effected by the ruinous pest and on other farms as they get to them.

The little pink worm has done damage to an extent as yet unaccounted for it is declared. Considerable of the cotton ginned here this fall showed damage by the worm which does its work not only in growing plants but in the bell as it ripens.

Some cotton here was bought, it was said, without close inspection. When the bolls reached the export town of Galveston the damage was discovered. Now the fiber here is closely examined. Some is said to be "chewed up" by the worm, other than those burning trash in the fields, in an endeavor, at the present time, to find a parasite that may destroy the pink worm.

The pest is said to have come from Egypt to Mexico to the United States. There is understood to be some desire on the part of American citizens to co-operate and establish with Mexico a "cottonless zone" for a few years in an attempt to stop the worm along the border. Mexico, it is understood, has done less toward eradicating the evil than has the United States, but that there is some evidence in the way of co-operation now, on the part of Mexico. It is said that somewhere along the Rio Grande a fumigating plant has been established.

Fumigating Methods Used

To prevent the pest getting away from infected regions alive fumigating and crushing methods are said to be used by Americans—crushing fiber and seed by running them between stout rollers under terrific pressure. Cottonseed from which larvae have lived is said to be considerably less in weight than sound seed.

"State and federal authorities are due genuine appreciation and thanks," a citizen declared. "For the effort being made to help the cotton farmer down here, and to prevent the spread of the pink bollworm to other cotton areas. In the big cotton states of America it could work tremendous havoc."

Excellent cotton is raised here, cotton-wise men assert. A bale and a half to the acre is common. Aside from floods in occasional years on farms close beside the river, the pink worm is the greatest pest that has to be contended with.

WORKER IS KILLED IN N. MEXICO FIELD

HOBBES, N. M., Dec. 3 (AP)—Bradford Valentine Ward, 25, an employe of the McQueen and Clevenger Drilling Company on a well in the Eunice field, was killed almost instantly yesterday when an oil filter fell from a height of 75 feet and struck him on the head.

The former Claybourne, Texas, man was engaged in his work on the derrick floor when the heavy object struck him without warning. Physicians at the Eunice hospital where he was taken by co-workers reported Ward's skull was fractured.

TEXAS FARMERS IN FT. WORTH SESSION

PORT WORTH, Dec. 3 (UP)—Texas farmers, hoping for a "come-back" after five lean years, were gathered here today as members of the Texas Agricultural Association to discuss their problems.

High on the list of important subjects were those of crop insurance, high taxes on farm property, and low holiday prices for turkeys.

H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, president of the association, indicated that these three subjects would be discussed by the 2,000 delegates. Lucas, who comes from one of the nation's leading turkey shipping cities, discussed low prices and charges of price-fixing at a business session.

The Texas Cooperative Council also is meeting here today. It may discuss the price question also.

Thirty members of the Wisconsin Cranberry exchange produce 90 per cent of that state's crop.

American Business Club Auxiliary Honors Members On Anniversary With Banquet

One of the cleverest affairs of the season was given by the American Business Club Auxiliary Wednesday evening when the women entertained with a banquet at the Settles Hotel for the club members in honor of the first anniversary of the club organization.

Using a "first birthday" theme, the men were greeted by the women who sang "Happy Birthday" as the honored guests filed into the banquet hall which was lighted by a single candle.

Little Misses Joan Cornelison and Joleen Campbell, pupils of Mrs. Frances Youngblood, sang songs and Joleen gave a reading appropriate to the theme.

At the end of the program the closing song, "Rock-a-bye Baby" was sung by the group. Later games of bunco were the diversion.

Bollworm

Farmers and producers for losses sustained by reason of the quarantine. On the 29th of the month the Texas Pink Bollworm Quarantine Refund association was duly organized in Midland with L. J. Ivey of Fabens as president, H. P. Davis, Pecos, as secretary, and C. T. Watson, Big Spring, as one of the directors.

It was Watson and Davis who were to lead the fight from that time until the day in July, 1934, when farmers should be reimbursed in part for their losses.

These two, speaking for more than 10,000 producers and farmers in the area, carried the fight at once to the legislature and with the aid of Sen. Ken Reagan, Pecos, late Sen. Arthur Duggan, Littlefield, and Rep. Penrose Metcalfe, San Angelo, presented it for action before the lawmakers.

At first the proposed repayment gained little favor. Later it seemed assured of passage, but Senator Holbrook of Galveston succeeded in attaching an amendment for tick control payments. By October, 1933, the campaign was warming to the extent that the senate, in a special session of the legislature, passed a bill but the house delayed too long.

However, this was close enough that in March of 1934 an act prepared by Senator Duggan was approved and signed by the governor (Miriam A. Ferguson), appropriating $500,000 for reimbursing farmers and producers for losses.

Midland county producers were first to receive deficiency warrants issued against the claims with 250 warrants for approximately $30,000. A total of 819 Howard county farmers listed claims through the local chamber of commerce and were given warrants in the approximate amount of $98,280. Some 20 of the warrants were never called for. Many farmers involved in the quarantine never submitted claims, having moved from here or preferring to believe that nothing would ever come of it.

In the quarantined area, around 10,000 claims were submitted to the pink bollworm commission for consideration.

Edward

ed the reports untrue. The news magazine Cavaleade, in an article for publication today, said Baldwin told Edward in a conference a week ago that he had received "representations" from Australia, Canada and South Africa on the king's friendship with Mrs. Simpson.

"In this time of crisis when Britain must be strong and united," the prime minister was quoted as having told Edward, "a wrong move and the empire will fall."

The magazine said Edward then reminded the premier "he was king."

Reviewing the government crisis, it was pointed out that Baldwin could call a cabinet session in commons, if he wished, to test further the sentiment of His Majesty's ministers on a romance between the monarch and a commoner.

Baldwin's visit to Edward was the second of the week. As the highest and most influential persons in the empire sought a solution for the unprecedented crisis, King Edward himself early in the day with apparent unconcern inspected the new blue "walking out" uniforms which soldiers are to wear for his coronation—an event which some circles insist will not take place if the king should defy the wishes of his subjects and government and declare his intention of marrying Mrs. Simpson after her divorce decree becomes final next April.

Largent and Sons, Merkel, first; three bulls, Largent and Sons, first; cow calved between May 1, 1933, and April 30, 1934, Largent and Sons, second.

C. M. Largent and Sons also won first for bull calved between May 1, 1933, and April 30, 1934; second for bull calved between May 1 and August 31, 1935, and second for bull calved between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1, 1935.

E. J. Holde, manager of the exposition for 30 years, said the "price trend is upward and holds a very bright future for stock breeders."

Reports On Westex Crude Distributing Areas Distributed

MIDLAND, Dec. 3.—Distribution of a report of investigations, "Petroleum Engineering Report, Big Spring Field and Other Fields in West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico," just published by the department of the interior, United States bureau of mines, John W. Finch, director, at Washington, D. C., was started this week by the Midland chamber of commerce, the report containing a mass of data on all fields of West Texas and southeastern New Mexico.

The petroleum engineering report was compiled by Charles B. Carpenter and H. B. Hill, in cooperation with the Midland chamber of commerce, and consists of 223 printed pages, with tables, maps and photographs, and supplemental cross-section of the Howard-Glasscock field and structural maps of the Yates and Big Lake pools.

Other producing areas on which valuable information is given are the Hendricks field in Winkler county, the Church-Fields-McElroy in Crane and Upton counties, the Penn pool in Ector county, the Westbrook field in Mitchell county and the Hobbs field in Lea county, New Mexico. Forty illustrations are contained in the report.

AMERICAN AIRLINES SERVES BALTIMORE

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—American Airlines, Inc., will inaugurate air mail, passenger and express service into Baltimore, Friday, with twin-engine Douglas airliners having a speed of 200 miles per hour, C. R. Smith, president of the air system, has announced. This addition follows the company's partial completion of its $3,250,000 re-equipment program, he said.

Originally designated in the U.S. post office department's air mail contract No. 23 as a stop on American Airlines' southern transcontinental route, Smith said Baltimore promises to become an important point on the company's present coast-to-coast service between New York and Los Angeles.

The first airliner, a 14-passenger sister ship of American's famous 14-passenger flagship sleeper planes, will reach Baltimore from Boston, New York and Philadelphia over the company's southern transcontinental route at 3:20 o'clock Friday afternoon en route to Washington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago. An eastbound plane from Chicago will arrive at 5:02 p. m. en route to New York and the east.

Along with the fast, direct service made possible to and from the major eastern cities, Baltimore will be accorded similar schedules to and from Providence, Hartford, New Haven, Buffalo, Louisville and the southern transcontinental points, Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Big Spring, El Paso, Douglas, Tucson, Phoenix and Los Angeles.

ORDER IS ISSUED TO CURB OIL WASTAGE IN RODESSA FIELD

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 3 (UP)—A drastic program to curb wastage of natural gas in the Rodessa oil and gas field was inaugurated today when Conservation Commissioner William G. Rankin ordered the closing of 53 of the 325 wells on the Louisiana side of the field.

The order issued after a conference with Gov. Richard W. Leche, was described as in advance of proposed regulations being drafted to cover the gas wastage at Rodessa. Rankin said the 53 wells ordered closed were flowing oil at several different sands instead of the single sand at which the crude is being produced by other wells.

A group of conservation department inspectors is on the field enforcing the order. Rankin said the temporary closing of the wells will not result in a decreased production in the field. Other wells will be able to produce the daily maximum of 62,500 barrels of crude oil allocated to the field, he said.

Fight Looms On Oil Laws

Controversial Subject Is Seen Heading Toward Another Showdown

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The controversial subject of oil legislation appeared today to be headed for another showdown in the next congress.

For the first time since the supreme court invalidated the NIRA, one major producing state has abandoned recommendations of the bureau of mines; and the two principal statutes affecting the oil industry expire within nine months.

While Texas fixed its December allowable about five per cent above the bureau's forecast and Oklahoma might offer a resolution similar steps, word reached Capitol Hill that Secretary Ickes, former oil administrator, had drafted a comprehensive petroleum bill similar to the Guffey coal act. A representative who preferred to remain anonymous said the legislation would be submitted to congress early in January.

The Connally "hot oil" law intended to prohibit interstate shipments of crude and its products in excess of state allowables expires July 1. The interstate compact law authorizing states to band together to prevent physical waste and provide a production balance wheel expires Sept. 1.

The possibility has been suggested that Senator Tom Connally of Texas might offer a resolution at the start of the session continuing indefinitely the statute which bears his name. Sentiment in favor of extending the interstate compact law has arisen in some of the affected states.

Texas Would Let Highest Justices Quit Bench At 70

DALLAS, Dec. 3.—Rep. Hatton W. Sumners said today he would introduce a bill in the forthcoming session of congress under which United States supreme court justices will be given the right to retire on full pay at the age of 70.

Sumners is chairman of the house judiciary committee. Sumners said he also planned a bill to permit the United States attorney general to intervene in cases before federal district courts involving the constitutionality of federal laws. He also proposes a measure to set up a tribunal to pass on the fitness of federal district judges to continue in office on the basis of "good behavior."

"Under existing laws," Sumners said, "when constitutionality of a federal law is in question in litigation between private parties, no public agency has the right, as a matter of right, to appear in behalf of the government."

"It is not fair or reasonable to have constitutional questions involving all the people settled in a private litigation without the people being represented in court."

Sumners said the bill would also provide that the question of constitutionality be isolated from other matters and be passed on by the court aside from any other issue.

Explaining the proposed measure affecting the supreme court, Sumners said there is no retirement provision for members of that body now.

Borah Favors Bill Similar To The 'NRA Substitute'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, bitter foe of the National Firearms Act, today said he would support in the next congress a proposal for federal incorporation of industries in interstate commerce.

Borah's statement was made at his first press conference after returning today to the national capital.

He said he favored legislation along the lines of the O'Mahoney "substitute" NRA bill which provides for federal incorporation.

The Idaho senator indicated his interest in the subject was directed toward possibilities of curbing monopolies rather than revival of NRA principles.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP)—The grand champion steer of the International Livestock exposition, owned by Oklahoma A. & M. college, was sold at auction today for $3 a pound on the hoof, the same bid as last year.

Charles Walgreen of Chicago, drug chain owner, was the purchaser.

WORKABLE TENANT POLICY IS FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Confidence that a workable federal farm tenant program would be developed was expressed today by Will W. Alexander, selected by Rexford G. Tugwell to succeed him as head of the resettlement administration.

"But this cannot be accomplished by magic," Alexander told a press conference. His agency has already launched "a tenant security project" for 917 tenants in ten southern states. Texas has 105.

Alexander said resettlement officials now were investigating the individual cases of some 250,000 farmers in drought-stricken regions who have been or will be cut off relief jobs by the works progress administration.

Alexander said each of these had received a pay check when dismissed from his drought relief job which should take care of them and their families for at least three weeks." He said during that time resettlement and local relief agencies would investigate these families and make emergency grants or loans if needed.

LEGAL RULING ENDS CASTOR OIL DOSE FOR CITY DRUNKS

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 3 (AP)—A legal opinion has shattered Police Judge Frank Yuse's plan to punish drunks with castor oil. Assistant Corporation Counsel Louis Conyard, who previously was thought to have been favorable to Yuse's plan, wrote:

"The only lawful punishment that may be legally imposed are those provided by the ordinances of Spokane and the statute of the State of Washington."

Certainly, Conyard said informally, the ordinances do not provide administration of a half-pint of castor oil.

And that, Yuse, remarked, seemed to settle the whole thing.

OBIE BRISTOW, discussing the Texas high school football setup last night with a group of "curbstone" coaches, remarked that he noticed where Blair Cherry, Amabilio mentor, attributed his success to a change of tactics for each game rather than good material. Bristow said he'd like to see Cherry try a change of tactics at Stanton.

THE BENNETT-Dorn football banquet last night, by the way, was one of the best. It was a real feed, and another thing that made it so good was the fact that no speeches were made.

PREXY ANDELFON, writing in the Abilene Morning News about possible changes in the Oil Belt football alignment, lists some of the possible solutions:

"Division of the district into two sections, with a Thanksgiving playoff between the sectional winners.

"Assignment of some of the eastern members to another district.

"Creation of a double AA league, limited to schools with enrollment of 1,000 or more. Abilene is the only Oil Belt school which would qualify for the double AA circuit under such qualifications."

"Stephenville and Coleman expected to play Class A football next season."

MORE DISCUSSION of the "stymie" a hot-rivet in golf circles:

SCOTT HENDERSON, Tacoma, president, Pacific Northwest Golf Association—it's just part of the game and always will be. A stymie is a hazard the same as a bunker. Some clubs have local rules waiving the stymie but not in our tournaments. The Pacific Northwest association never has considered the question one way or another.

CHICK EVANS, Chicago, former U. S. open and amateur champion—Even though I have always been a poor putter, I think the stymie should be retained. It has been part of the game through the years, and with putting growing better and better, it serves as an equalizer. Stymies cost me a lot

SOUTHWEST AND WEST COAST SHARE GRID INTEREST

THREE SW GAMES ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Only the east will be lacking in colorful December football as the gridlers from many of the major colleges in the Southwest and Far West swing into their final games. Weather conditions permit the teams of California and Texas to play longer.

The Southwest conference has three games to attract the fans over the week-end, and are mixing in an inter-sectional classic as the major attraction, while another contender of the Lone Star state will swing into action a week later in California.

Texas A. & M., loser in its last two games but boasting the best inter-sectional record this year, takes on Chick Meehan's Manhattan Jaspers and will be heavy favorite to cop the decision, while Arkansas and Texas tangle in a title mixup in Little Rock and SMU and Rice fight for second division honors in Houston.

In San Francisco mighty Santa Clara, unbent and untied, will undertake to triumph over its strongest foe thus far by meeting the Texas Christian Horned Frogs on Dec. 12. If the Texans are clicking just right they're going to be hard to stop.

Friday will see Miami and Georgetown go together in Miami with the latter favored while the West coast has the greatest attractions in inter-sectional clashes between Southern California and Notre Dame, and St. Mary's and Temple of Philadelphia. The Owls and the Gaels meet in San Francisco, while USC and the Irish tangle in Memorial coliseum, Los Angeles.

The South offers clashes between Mississippi State and Florida at Gainesville, Maryland and West Virginia at Baltimore, and Tennessee and Mississippi in Memphis.

Washington State and Gonzaga battle in Spokane in an interesting game with the former favorite, but it should be close.

On the day after Christmas Georgia Tech takes the field in Atlanta against the invading California Bears in a feature inter-sectional tilt.

BEAT OUT M-W TEAM, 52 TO 21

Bert Cramer's Forsan cage crew coasted through the first two quarters of their game Wednesday night with the M-W basketballers and really opened up during the final period to swamp the Holmsmen, 52-21, at the local high school gym.

With Rayford Liles, Bobby Asbury and T. J. Turner clipping in shots from all corners of the court, the Independents from south Howard county collected 28 points in the final 10 minutes of play, outclassing Cy Reid and the rest of the M-W crew.

Reid, scoring 12 of the losers' points, was outstanding for the local quint, but Liles was far in the lead for scoring honors with 20 points, and Asbury was not far behind with eight field goals.

Cramer used eight men during the game, starting Liles and Asbury as forwards, Turner at center, and Scudday and Johnson as guards, and inserted McClain, Brown and himself into the lineup before the final whistle blew.

The Independents will meet the Water Valley All-Stars on the Forsan court next Tuesday night.

Aggie Attack Is Overhauled For Jaspers

Manhattan Gridders Have Had Cadets Thoroughly Scouted This Season

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 3.—Bold Texas A&M, sticking its collective neck out for the fourth time this year in inter-sectional grid combat, plans a bit of hitherto untried skilldiggery for its season's closing game Saturday at Tyler with the Manhattan Jaspers.

Based on reports of Assistant Coach J. W. (Dough) Rollins, chief scout who saw Villanova trim Manhattan 12-0 two weeks past, the Aggies are overhauling their attack and inserting new plays here and there especially for this game. Some of their standby plays also may be dropped because Manhattan has had the Cadets scouted in every game they've played to date in this section.

As Villanova threw few passes, Rollins has little opportunity to see the Jasper pass defense tested. His research showed, however, that Detroit completed 11 of 15 aerials in defeating the Jaspers 20-0 several weeks past. The Aggies, knowing this, probably will have Jim Shoekey uncork his left-handed passes both for yardage and to spread the Jasper defense which averages more than 200 pounds a man in the line.

The Aggies still probably will rely on their running attack, which has picked up a net of 1,706 yards to 781 yards from passes in 11 games. The Jaspers, operating from a single wingback formation, feature Dick Tuckey, Vic Fusia and Ralph DiMartino as first class ball carriers, the cocktail-named back having been nicknamed "Death in the Afternoon" by New York sports writers. The Jaspers, however, also have had much success with passes this year and probably will attempt to show the Southwest its own favorite style of action.

The Aggies are strumming through their plans while the Jaspers, who entrained Tuesday night at New York, are hearing the click of railroad rails that became so familiar to the Cadets while they were winning three and losing two games within 20 days on trips that carried them to California, Utah and Louisiana. The Jaspers will work out today in New Orleans La., and will drill at Tyler, Th. Aggies will complete home preparations today and will leave for the game site Friday morning.

With the exception of Co-Captain Harry Wheeler, Manhattan guard, both teams probably will enter the game in top shape. Wheeler received a broken collarbone in the Villanova tilt but is making the trip. The Jaspers have had no game since November 21. The Aggies lost 0-7 to the University of Texas the past Thursday but had a complete vacation for three days afterwards to recuperate from the strain of five games within 20 days and have travelled a moderately light practice pace this week.

Athletics Due To Stand Pat In Last Place

Mack Is Optimistic, But Team Lacks Power And Pitching

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (UP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, cellar occupants of the American League in 1936 are expected to stand pat next year.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, has said there is not enough trading done in the majors, yet he probably will be the least active of all the managers during the "hot stove" season. This is because of choices and because he has few players to trade. Bob Johnson and "Pinky" Higgins are the only players Mack might be willing to trade.

Mack's own bartering in previous years of such stars as Jimmy Fox, Bob "Lefty" Grove and Eric McNair, stripped his roster of championship talent and dropped his former winners to perennial cellar tenants.

Sink to New Low

Nicknames such as "Towly A's," pitiful remnants and "semi-pros" were hung on the one-time pennant winners.

Only two players bailed over 300 during the past season and a woefully weak pitching staff was unable to hold the enemy in check. Convinced that an impregnable hurling corps is the first requisite in the revival of his club, Mack will concentrate on developing pitchers during the second chapter of his seasoning process.

Mack plans to bring up quite a few strangers and, with 30-year-old rookie, Harry Kelley, as the nub, he hopes to fashion a fair pitching staff. Kelley, drafted from Atlanta in 1936, won 15 and lost 12.

Bookies May Stand Out

Several of the rookies Mack discovered this year have had favorable glances cast at them by other big league clubs. Pitchers Herman Fink and Buck Ross were two who performed well in 1936. Ross was the only Athletic pitcher to win 22 series from the world champion New York Yankees.

Although very club in the league has bright prospects, no manager is more optimistic than Mack, who says his club will be right in the middle of the pennant fight—although if it gets a notch or two out of last place, Mack probably will be well pleased.

Two Funds In Red, But State Holds Plenty Of Cash

AUSTIN, Dec. 3 (UP)—Texas' general fund is nearly $14,000,000 in the red and the confederate pension fund nearly $5,000,000 behind, but the state has had so much other money to care for that it bought certified checks in banks to dispose of it.

The transactions were mentioned and declared authorized in a state treasury audit submitted today. The audit covers the period from Dec. 1, 1935, to Oct. 31, 1935.

Since that time a large gangster proof vault has been constructed under the state capitol to care for state funds.

Certified checks held at one time amounted to $4,500,000. These checks were obtained from Dallas banks and certified by the federal reserve bank. In addition the state purchased cashier's checks properly secured. On Oct. 31, 1935, these checks totaled $1,321,900. All have since been changed into cash.

During the whole period of the audit, nearly two years, the state treasury accumulated a cash shortage of 48 cents, compared with a total cash balance on hand of $85,058,889.

CROP INSURANCE

Poking around in the department of agriculture in agriculture in Washington, Paul Mallon, who supplies a "News Behind the News" column to The Herald and various other papers, has found that the only people taking an interest in crop insurance at present are the wheat farmers of the so-called semi-arid region of the west.

Crop insurance is a measure of doubtful wisdom, especially in a region where the record shows that failures or very short yields are the rule rather than the exception. It would seem to be better for such regions to cease trying to produce a crop that has more than an even chance to fail, and change to something that has at least a possibility of returning a profit.

Any insurance the government undertakes to furnish should be based on the same sound principles that are used by fire and life insurance corporations. Their insurance is sold at rates based on past experience, and should the government lay its rates on the same basis the premiums would be so high that farmers could not pay them and make a profit.

When the government assists farmers in the arid section to make a living its assistance should be based on things that have at least a chance of success. Unless this is done the farmer nor the government will be benefited, for nature cannot be controlled or even influenced by laws enacted at Washington.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Somewhere off Cape Hatteras on a blustery afternoon a big air liner was winging toward New York. The sky was clear and the sea empty with the exception of a few smudges that marked a freighter or so far below.

"Well," said the trim little hostess, "how did you like it?" "Great," I said. "We weren't talking about the trip, or about the weather. We were talking about a motion picture, with sound, which had just been screened while we roared along a mile in the air."

The picture was "The Flying Hostess," a thrilling melodrama about the trials young girls have to go through before they are accepted as hostesses on the big transport planes. It was an exciting occasion and I asked the hostess if the action of the picture could be duplicated in real life.

I was surprised and gratified to learn that the feat was perfectly feasible. "After all, in an emergency like that, it's a chance one has to take. Then, too, everybody on the ship is familiar with the controls. This picture is technically 100 per cent correct."

Sparkling Heroine

This was the real hostess talking. When she went to talk with one of the motion picture operators, I glanced up at the make-believe hostess, who played the part in the picture. But there wasn't anything make-believe about Judith Barrett, of whom you know little now but of whom you'll know a lot later on.

She sat there, eyes flaming with excitement, heroine of the party, heroine of the picture, and, I hope, a heroine to herself. Judith Barrett is a Texas girl, very slim and dark and with a wonderful smile and a fine sense of humor.

She was on a whirlwind journey to New York for a fortnight of plays and campaigning. Then she departed for quick personal appearances, flying, of course, in key cities between here and the coast.

She told me: "The only time I ever flew before I made this picture was something of a tragedy. I became air-ill. But that was a long time ago. You won't catch that happening to me again. I guess I'm air-minded. My company has another story with flying in it and I'd give anything to get the part. It's called 'Wings Over Honolulu.' It's about those big clipper ships. Oh, OH, how I'd love to play it!"

And So To Earth

Miss Barrett is about five feet two and just 22. She is, above all, one of those persons you tell good-bye and then say to yourself: "What a pretty girl; I'm sorry she isn't going to be here longer." Then we were circling over Newark airport like a lazy condor. We settled comfortably into the runway and taxied up to the administration building. Everybody got out and rushed to an al fresco party at the Robert Treat hotel. Later, we bid adieu to the Flying Hostess and motored to Manhattan.

BEHIND THE NEWS

Politics taboos war debt settlement talk. Token payment from France held there possible. Garner in fight to make Rayburn house leader. Pennsylvania caucus to indicate administration stand.

Taboo Topic

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Acting State Secretary Moore rumped upon the French government propaganda feelers for war debt settlement with more vehemence than diplomats customarily employ. Moore is a gentleman of the old congressional school which teaches that war debts is a topic taboo in all political aspects.

These opinions are so deep rooted that even the president himself, still riding the crest of his recent electoral wave, probably could not successfully combat them if he chose to.

Consequently, you need not lie awake in expectation of any debt settlement or any alignment of constitutional governments.

Note—No authority here believes France will make an acceptable offer or that serious negotiations will be undertaken, although some talk of token payments for December 15 may develop out of the present situation.

Debut

Mr. Garner has not taken a public stand on anything since he has been vice president. That is, he had not until he announced himself the other day in favor of his trusted friend, Sam Rayburn, as house leader.

Behind that statement was a two-year-old repression which even the habitually repressive Mr. Garner could no longer stand.

It is still a matter of unpublished inside history that, two years ago, the vice president came up here to put Rayburn over as speaker at the suggestion of the White House. This may be denied now, but when the parties involved get around to telling all in their biographies, they will confirm it.

However, Guffey might reasonably expect to get the selection of a whip of the house; Congressman Lea of California would naturally be chosen to succeed Rayburn as chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

Fixing

Some say Mr. Garner's indorsement of Rayburn was a matter of personal friendship. Rayburn was his floor manager at the 1932 convention in Chicago. Also he groomed Rayburn for this fight by helping him into campaign headquarters as head of the speaker bureau during the last campaign, after a senator had been selected for the job.

A conclusive tip on how the administration stands, however, should be available today. Senator Joe Guffey's Pennsylvania delegation was supposed to caucus before its grand victory ball tonight. A public indorsement of Rayburn would furnish just about all the proof anyone needs of what the White House wants.

Power

These leadership fights do not catch the public eye. They usually are settled by trivial political deals for the appointment of benches to important posts of honor and

Lost Shield

Gus Gennerich was more than a bodyguard to the president. He was two strong legs, a human shield and a completely unselfish devotee.

You have often heard of loyal subjects who would be glad to lay down their lives for their leader, but you may not have seen very many. Perhaps there are a dozen or more around here who would do it, if they had to, but none would have been glad to do it, except Gus.

That was his job. He always thrust his barrel chest in front of the president on any occasion which might possibly be construed as dangerous, and he gloried in doing it.

Inside the White House, he was the unofficial ruler of the secret service, a friend of all the family, including the children, a watchful eye which recorded everything and reported it. Others will take his place, but not replace him.

His passing will strike the president hard.

Presidential Secretary Early will probably not go with that movie outfit on January 1, but may take a job with a nationally known news service at a salary reputed to be $40,000 per annum.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter 44 STRUGGLE

"Are you threatening me?" Lawson asked in a cold, quiet tone. "Do you think that is wise? I have my own ways of dealing with people who threaten me, you know."

It was quite the wrong thing to say, and Lawson realized it almost as soon as he had spoken. He ought to have calmed Lee-Ramsden down, reassured him, and then dealt with him swiftly and unexpectedly.

There was no hope of that now. Lawson's tone of cool contempt had added fuel to Lee-Ramsden's rage, destroying any hope of even a temporary reconciliation. The old man's face became suffused with a flush of violent rage; that little vein, which betrayed his temper, was beating strongly in his forehead.

"Deal with me, will you," he said thickly. "You'll deal with me, you bound. I'll damned soon deal with you."

His eyes had become slightly bloodshot. For a moment he gazed around the room wildly, as if seeking something. His glance encountered a bronze statuette standing on a small table. He sprang forward, snatched it up in his right hand, and hurled himself at Lawson.

The statuette came down in a vicious blow aimed at Lawson's head, and it was only Lawson's swiftness which saved him.

He dodged quickly, sprang out of range, and then, as the old man lumbered after him, he sprang forward to meet him, snatching at the wrist of the hand that held the statuette.

For a few seconds the two men struggled at close quarters, Lawson trying to push the old man over and pin him down in an arm-chair, the old man striving vainly to brain Lawson with the statuette.

Actually the struggle should have been quite unequal, for Lawson was by far the younger and immeasurably the stronger of the two, but rage lent the old man strength, and, try as he could, Lawson could not master him.

A sudden spasm of fierce impatience seized on Lawson; he felt he must end this struggle quickly. Shifting his grip, he released Lee-Ramsden's wrist, clutched at it statuette, snatched it out of the old man's hand, and brought it crashing down on his head.

That ended the struggle all right. The old man's body suddenly went limp; he staggered back a pace, and then fell crashing to the floor. Lawson, breathing heavily, was left standing in the middle of the room.

Lee-Ramsden lay quite still. The flush had faded from his face, and his complexion had taken on a curious grey tinge. From the left side of his head ran a small trickle of blood.

"Oh, damn!" said Lawson. He threw the statuette down, stepped quickly across the room, poured out a glass of brandy, and bent over the old man. But one moment's inspection showed him that brandy could do no good at all. Lee-Ramsden was dead.

Lawson crept slowly to his feet. All his impatience and anger had left him; his mind was cool and alert to deal with this new situation which had arisen.

The chances were that his house was being watched by some of Mahony's friends; Lee-Ramsden would have been seen arriving, and it would be impossible to explain Lee-Ramsden's death.

Lawson frowned, and meditatively slipped from the glass of brandy which he was holding in his hand. Lee-Ramsden's car was outside the house; his hat and overcoat were in the hall. He slipped his brandy again and nodded slightly. He knew what he was going to do.

He finished the brandy and rang the bell for the butler. The man entered and stood waiting; he betrayed no astonishment whatever at the sight of that still body lying on the floor.

"I've got a job for you," said Lawson curtly. "Mr. Lee-Ramsden's hat and coat are in the hall. Put them on, and then make your way quickly out to his car and drive away. If anybody's watching, I want them to think it's Lee-Ramsden driving away."

"Go on driving about until you're quite certain you're not being followed, and then abandon the car in a quiet place, and bring the hat and overcoat back here in a parcel."

"Very good, sir," replied the man, and left the room.

That was that, thought Lawson; if Lee-Ramsden had been seen entering his house, he would also be seen driving away from it. So far as the body was concerned, that could detain in the house for the time being till a convenient opportunity occurred to dispose of it.

In a corner of the room stood a big cupboard containing unimportant books and papers. Lawson cleared them out, piled them in another corner of the room, thrust the body into the cupboard and locked the cupboard door.

Fatty Basset was very worried. Things were happening which he did not understand in the slightest. He sat frowning, staring at the fireplace, and occasionally drinking beer from a large tankard.

Dorothy Flynn, who was with him, noticed his preoccupied air. "What's the trouble with you this evening, Fatty?" he inquired. Fatty shook his head. Ordinarily he was not a communicative person, but on this occasion he felt the need to confide in someone.

"It's the guy'n'er," he answered. "I'm thinkin' he's gone ort 'is locker. But you know wot 'e's like; it's no use arguin' with 'im."

"And what's he after doin' now?" asked the Irishman.

"E's made an appointment to meet Miss Little in a lonely 'ouse in Clapham in an hour's time. E told me 'isself 'e reckoned there was a trap in it—that that Blake Lawson was layin' for 'im with some dirty scheme. An' 'e's gorn off on 'is own, and when I asks wot I was to do abart guardin' 'im, or settin' an ambush to catch Mr. Ruddy Lawson, 'e says, 'do nothin'."

—now play a part in banking policy.

- Public psychology has lost those elements of fear which produced such uncertainty during critical periods in recent years. Public confidence has returned, particularly in respect to the banks throughout the country. As a result bankers know that their deposits will be stable, subject only to the normal currents of inflow and outflow. These changed conditions have enabled banks to return to a broader loaning policy toward their customers.
- This return to normal sound banking conditions has been fortified in several respects by provisions in newly enacted banking laws. Without going into the technicalities, we might say that they create facilities which give the banks more "elbow room" in respect to utilizing their resources in granting sound loans to their customers.

gone with him at all?" "That's what I mean," answered Fatty grimly. "I tried to talk it out of 'im, but 'e wouldn't listen. Don't worry about me, Fatty, 'e says, I know wot I'm up to, an' orf 'e went."

"And you let him go like that, all by himself?" said a voice just behind them.

Ruth Fraser had just entered the room and was standing, pale and indignant, looking at the two men.

"You let Terenes go off by himself, knowing he was going into a trap?" she repeated.

Fatty had an uncomfortable air. He fidgeted uneasily in his seat. "There was no stoppin' 'im," he protested. "E told me particularly 'e didn't want any of my blokes mixed up in this, an' 'e didn't want to be followed. I tried to argue with 'im, but it was no good."

"Tell me exactly what happened—the whole story," said Ruth imperiously.

Fatty hesitated. He looked more uncomfortable than ever. It seemed that he did not know what to say. "Well, Miss . . . it's a bit awkward like, because 'e particularly told me I wasn't to say nothing abart it to you," he blurted out.

"Oh, did he?" said Ruth. "Then you can just forget that. You've already told me something about it, and you're going to tell me the rest. He's gone to meet Elsa Little. I think I heard you say."

Her expression was set and determined; it was evident that she meant to learn all Fatty knew. Had she been a man, Fatty would have had no hesitation in telling her to go straight to hell.

But he was unaccustomed to dealing with young society women; he did not know how to begin to argue with her. Also, in a way, he sympathized with her. He did not approve of Mahony chancing his life in order to see a beautiful young film star who was probably setting a trap for him.

Not that he disliked Elsa; he had admired her immensely in "The Silent Stranger." But he disapproved of Mahony getting mixed up with film actresses when he could have a real woman for the asking.

"Ort right," he said in a resigned tone. "But there'll be 'ell to pay when 'e finds out I've told yer. This was 'ow it was." (Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevely)

PLAN FOR PORKERS
AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (UP)—Rain and mud hampered the University of Texas Longhorns yesterday in their final scrimmage before they hopped a train for Little Rock, Ark., to meet the University of Arkansas Saturday.

"The Longhorns' enthusiasm knows no bounds. They think they know a way to stop Jack Robbins and keep out of the Southwest conference "cellar."

The way they propose to stop Robbins is with the pass defense that proved effective against the Texas Aggies.

Added confidence was due to the entire squad being reported without injuries.

EVENLY MATCHED
DALLAS, Dec. 3.—Tackling the Rice Owls in Houston this Saturday, the Mustangs will close their season against tough opponents. Pre-game forecasts give the Rice and S. M. U. winning nine and losing six.

of matches, but they also gave me thrills—watching an artist jump a stymie or spin around it. I think any stymie can be negotiated—if the player is skillful enough.

Against—CHARLES KOCSIS, Detroit, national collegiate champion—I never did see why the stymie was retained, but it's never hurt me, and last year at Cleveland it helped me in the national amateur.

BEN RICHTER, St. Louis south-paw pro and organizer of the national association for left-handed golfers—I've always been against the stymie except when a man lays one himself. The scratch division of the recent first national south-paw tournament played U. S. G. A. rules but the "vacation" division for high handicap players waived the stymie and lifted it.

COLEMAN WILL be forced into Class A football next year because of the increase in number of pupils in its high school, which will add one team. Other teams are demanding Class A schedules, including Stephenville, Weatherford and Lamesa, according to reports.

The location of the towns makes it impossible to place them in any other district, and the Oil Belt will likely be divided into an eastern and western division, with Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Coleman and Stephenville in the eastern division and Breckenridge, Brownwood, Abilene, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Big Spring and Lamesa in the western division. This would give each district seven teams.

IF THIS is done another district will have to be formed by mergers of other districts, it is believed, because the league row has 18 districts, and the division of the Oil Belt would make an uneven number of districts which would be unhandy in working out state races.

Another alternative was suggested by Roy Henderson. The high school teams of the state could be divided into Class AA and Class A, with schools having 1,000 students or more going into the Class AA division and those having less than 1,000 going into Class A. This would not, of course, do away with the present Class B division, but would form a higher bracket for the larger schools. Whether or not the championship would be played off between the winner of the state title in Class AA and Class A has not been determined.

SAN ANGELO and Abilene are the only teams in the present Oil Belt that would be placed in the Class AA division, while all others would be in Class A. The Class AA group would likely include Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock, and Amarillo, with other Class AA districts around the larger towns such as Fort Worth, Dallas, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Waco and Austin.

No decision has been made, as yet, on which of the two plans will be worked out, and the opinion of district committeemen has been sought by Henderson to determine which plan would meet with the approval of the members of the various district committees.

Famed Stars Are Honored In Story Of 'Great Ziegfeld'

Thirty-five famous stars, past and present, are honored one by one in the M-G-M's presentation of "The Great Ziegfeld," showing for the first time in Big Spring the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday, with a Saturday midnight matinee preview. The film dramatizes the life of Florenz Ziegfeld with William Powell playing the part of the great impresario; Myrna Loy as Billie Burke and Luise Rainer as Anna Held.

The film to be shown here is the same full story treatment that was presented in many cities at advanced road show prices. It takes three hours to screen.

A few of the famous stars linked with Ziegfeld shows appear as themselves in the picture. These include Fannie Brice, Harriet Hoctor and Ray Bolger. Some of those who appear through impersonation are Anna Held, Sandow, Bert Williams, Nat Willis, Lew Dockstader, Will Rogers, Eddie Cantor, the Fairbanks Twins, Joseph Urban and Irving Berlin.

"The Great Ziegfeld" is not only a dramatic biography, but is also a spectacle picture, introducing some of the colorful stage settings which the showman made famous

YOUR SAFEWAY MANAGER TALKING: I HAVE SOME REAL NEWS FOR YOU—WE'RE HAVING OUR BIG STOCK-UP WEEK

You know what unfavorable weather conditions did to most food crops this year. Many foods having half their normal yield have depleted canners' stocks. We feel sure practically all foods will continue to advance until next year's crops are harvested.

But here is good news: Safeway contracted for foods last Spring . . . had them shipped before the strike took effect, and that's why we can feature canned goods at the low prices quoted in this advertisement.

Good business judgment calls for buying while prices are low . . . we've done just that. Now, Mrs. Housewife, is your opportunity to show good business judgment by stocking your pantry shelves . . . you'll be happy if you do.
