Body found near here identified

BY ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

The unidentified man found dead 19 miles northwest of Hereford Feb. 4 was identified Tuesday after state highway workers found his driver's license on U.S. Highway 385, four miles south of where the body was found.

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office identified the 61-year-old as Robert Lee Youngblood, who had moved to Amarillo from California only two weeks before he was found dead of a heart attack and exposure to sub-zero temperatures in a ditch near Ford.

Sheriff's deputy Robin Ruland said today that officers still have no clue as to how Youngblood ended up in the ditch, but multiple bruises and scratches were found on the knees, face and wrist.

"If someone did throw him out in the ditch, we have no way of knowing which way the people were traveling. We don't know if he was drinking with other people or what," Ruland said.

Ruland also said the sheriff's office hasn't located any relatives even though it speculates the man has a daughter.

Youngblood's apartment manager also confirmed the man's identification.

Board honors teachers, students

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford school board honored teachers at one school and five recent Hereford High School graduates during the board's meeting Tuesday at the Hereford school administration building.

The board also accepted the retirement of HHS counselor Willie Braddy during an executive session. Braddy has served as a counselor at HHS for 38 years and her retirement will be effective June 30.

Compensatory education teachers at Aikman Intermediate School were honored for being selected to the top 10 compensatory education teaching programs in the state.

The Texas Education Agency began statewide evaluations of compensatory education programs and bilingual/English as a Second Language programs during the 1985-86 school year, evaluated student performance, and evidence from the TEAMS test scores.

Singled out were Aikman teachers Karen Pettiet, Judy Cantrell, Elena Solis, Billie Landrum, Clara Bartlett and Charles Lyles, along with principal John Poindexter.

"We are very, very proud of this group," said board vice president Kathy Moore. "You do an outstanding job."

TEA officials will be visiting the Aikman campus later this year to interview persons involved in the program.

Five former Hereford High School students were honored recently at a state migrant programs meeting in Corpus Christi for outstanding accomplishments.

The students were in the HHS advanced programs and distinguished themselves in several areas.

The students include Rebecca San Miguel, Amalia Soto, Monica Argola, Frances Vargas and Nancy Garza.

The board heard a presentation from curriculum director Alice Lockmiller on learning style inventories that are available for teachers of at-risk students to identify ways certain students learn more easily.

The inventory assesses the effects of climate/environment, emotions, and whether the student tends to learn better through sound, sight, touch or with the entire body, Lockmiller explained.

"Teachers of at-risk students need to be more aware of learning styles than others," Lockmiller said. She told the board that teachers were not required to do a learning style inventory on each student, but materials are available to teachers to perform the assessment.

The board also elected to continue its current policy of allowing on students enrolled in the Hereford public schools to participate in school programs.

In December, officials at St. Anthony's School had met with the board to ask that the Pegasus program for gifted and talented students be opened to allow St. Anthony students to participate in the program.

The policy and personnel committee of Moore, Shirley Wilson and John Fuston met with Ralph Datten, president of the St. Anthony's board, and Sister Aquinas, St. Anthony's principal, to discuss options.

State Top 10 teachers

Compensatory education teachers at Shirley Intermediate School were named to the state's Top 10 compensatory education teachers recently by the Texas Education Agency, and were honored Tuesday by the Hereford school board. Board upholds penalty

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford school board elected Tuesday to uphold a 10-day in-school suspension of an eighth grader at Hereford Junior High School.

Ruben and Susan Gutierrez, the parents of Ruben Gutierrez Jr., had appealed the penalty assessed by HJHS administrators to school superintendent Charles Greenawald, who upheld the decision. The decision was then appealed to the school board, which heard testimony from Ruben Gutierrez Sr., and HJHS principal Raymond Schroeder.

Schroeder reviewed the discipline plan at HJHS, which was strengthened at the request of the board in October. The tougher plan was implemented Nov. 9.

On the sixth referral of a student to the office, a student is given five days in ISS, a strict classroom setting in the school.

On the next referral, the student is sent to ISS for 10 days. A later violation can result in 30 days in ISS, and further infractions result in the child going to the Alternative School program at the Stanton Special Programs Center.

Schroeder reviewed the record of the student, which included infractions such as talking in class, bringing a Walkman to school, playing cards in class during a lecture, spitting some type of drink on another student, and hiding a seating chart from a substitute teacher.

The younger Gutierrez had racked up most of the infractions before the new policy went into effect, but after the card-playing incident on Dec. 1 was warned that the next infraction would result in five days in ISS.

A week later, after he continued to talk in class after repeated warnings, he was referred to the office and given five days ISS.

While in ISS, Schroeder reported, Gutierrez and several other students were referred to the office for "offensive behavior" including innuendoes.

Schroeder said Gutierrez had filled out a "responsibility plan" detailing the reasons for several of his referrals and ways he could avoid further incorrigible behavior.

Earlier this month, Gutierrez was involved in a shoving match with another student, Felix Mendez. Mendez and several other youths had reportedly roughed up Gutierrez at a weekend dance, and were hassling Gutierrez as he sat at a table in the cafeteria.

Gutierrez, according to Schroeder and assistant principal Cuby Kitchens, shouted a profanity at the other youths, and Mendez came over and slapped Gutierrez on the back of his head with an open hand. The youths began to shove each other, but the shoving match was broken up by Kitchens.

The youths involved were sent to the office. Gutierrez was assessed the 10-days ISS penalty. Mendez, who had fewer referrals during the year, was punished with five days in ISS.

Gutierrez's father said he had told his kids "don't steal, tell the truth and defend your rights," and told the board that Kitchens had told them "that if our son had lied to him or Mr. Helms (another assistant principal) and not admitted to having answered this gang's verbal abuse, the circumstances would have been different."

He said his son was being taught "wrong by one of us and he is confused, would you please help me get my son's and my mind in the right order and tell us who is wrong."

"Dear members, something is wrong when parents have to spend part of their normal way of life to plead to the board members because of continuous injustices," Gutierrez said, charging that HJHS administrators were being allowed to "humiliate and dehumanize our students."

Gutierrez said he did not believe that students who are sent to the office "for a minor problem, such as being tardy," should not be punished as harshly as students who "harass and terrorize the other students."

"The severity of the offense should match the severity of the punishment," Gutierrez said. "Not all referrals to the office can be treated as an equal offense."

Gutierrez also charged that most of the referrals "were only harassment on the part of one teacher," but did not name the teacher, and said that while his son was in the ISS room, "the civil and constitutional rights of my son and of all the other children in the room were violated by the fact that the drug dog was brought to the school to search that room and only that room, constituting a violation that calls for

Farmers get update on forms, unemployment

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

About 30 area farmers and labor contractors received an update about Texas unemployment laws and new regulations from the federal Department of Labor during a meeting Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center.

The worst news of the day: more paperwork for farmers, who have been saddled with several new forms recently from crop sheets detailing pesticides used in fields under the state's "Right to Know" law to various employee certification forms.

Now, farmers are going to have to take care of quarterly reports to the Texas Employment Commission, or make sure labor contractors are filling out those reports and paying the necessary taxes.

"There are going to be more things you have to keep up with, and I'm sure the farmers aren't going to be very happy," said Ron McNeese, area representative for the Amarillo district office of the Texas Employment Commission.

But McNeese unveiled a new form, the ES Verification Certificate, that will certify all persons sent out for a job by the TEC as legal residents.

"Anyone hired from our office for a job that lasts over three days will have an ES Verification Certificate," McNeese said. "The form has been approved by the INS in lieu of the I-9."

"It will be great for a crew leader or a large farmer that has, says, 25 to 50 employees during the peak season. You don't have to keep up with all of that other paperwork, and the TEC takes the final responsibility and liability with this certificate."

Darrel Krenk of the Department of Labor reviewed some of the highlights of the Migrant and Season Agricultural Worker Protection Act, which is designed to protect migrant and season agricultural workers in their dealings with labor contractors, farmers and ranchers.

One of the new forms required by the federal government is a work-day report (Form ESA-92) that must be filled out for all agricultural workers under the SAW program each quarter.

The form must have the worker's name, alien registration number, and the types of crops the worker worked in for four or more hours in seasonal agricultural services.

Clifford Williams, a tax auditor at the Hereford TEC office, explained how farmers are affected by the state unemployment tax.

Farmers must pay tax on the first $9,000 in wages per employee if it has three or more employees for 20 weeks during a calendar year or pays $6,250 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter.

Williams said that farmers need to "erase the concept of 'contract labor' from their minds."

"They're either an employee or an independent contractor," Williams said. "If they perform a service, get remuneration, and you have the right to control the way they perform services, then they are an employee."

Williams also explained that if a labor agent is the employer, then the agent should provide evidence that they have paid the appropriate unemployment taxes. If the labor agent doesn't pay the tax, Williams said, then the farmer must pay the unemployment tax.

Baker to sell holdings

WASHINGTON (AP)--Secretary of State James A. Baker III says he will sell his large stock holdings in a major international lender, after questions were raised about the potential for conflicts of interest.

Baker said Tuesday he will sell his stock in Chemical New York Corp., which has loaned $4.5 billion to Third World nations, as well as all other publicly traded stocks held in a qualified blind trust.

Members of Congress had expressed surprise when Baker's stock holdings were publicized last week, noting that as Treasury secretary under President Reagan he made decisions affecting the Third World debt crisis. The same issue confronts him as secretary of state in the Bush administration.

Baker's promise to get rid of the stocks was hailed Tuesday at the White House, where President Bush's ethics chief had questioned Baker's holdings under a new, stringent interpretation of government ethics rules.

White House Press Secretary Martin Fitzwater issued a statement saying Baker "has gone even further than required to insure there is not even the perception of a conflict of interest."

The controversy revolved primarily around Baker's holdings in Chemical

New York.

While heading the Treasury Department in the Reagan administration, Baker developed the so-called Baker plan, which called on Third World nations to make good on their debts as they restructured their sagging economies. It called for new public and private lending, but it did not attempt to force the banks to forgive the loans.

As Bush's chief adviser on foreign policy, Baker will be forced to deal with the same nagging problem of the indebted nations, which owe billions to Western and other commercial banks.

Restaurant opening a hit

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame Restaurant & Bar had a "smash" opening in New York City Sunday night with a Hereford delegation adding a true Texas flavor to the cafe which bears the name of the local museum.

Margaret Formby, president of the CHOF, and Mayor Wes Fisher participated in the formal opening of the cafe and made special presentations to Sherry Delamarter, co-owner and manager.

In turn, Delamarter presented Formby and Fisher with letters of welcome from Mayor Ed Koch of New York City. Koch's letter to Mayor Fisher stated:

"It's my pleasure to welcome you and your delegation to New York City. Our city prides itself on the diversity of its attractions and we are pleased to have a branch of Hereford, Texas' Cowgirl Hall of Fame in New York City."

The Hereford group of 26 board members, spouses, friends and boosters left Saturday morning and returned Tuesday night. Several former Hereford residents, as well as friends from other cities, boosted the delegation to a total of 45 persons.

Approximately 300 people were invited to the formal opening, which included friends of the owners and members of the New York press. The "Cowgirl" is located at 519 Hudson Street in the Greenwich Village section of NYC.

The "Rodeo Roundup" opening party featured a live performance by Patsy Montana, who sang her 1936 hit, "I Wanna Be A Cowboy's Sweet-

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame Restaurant opened in New York City Sunday night and among the Hereford delegation present were, left to right, Clint Formby; Brenda Formby, his daughter now living in New York City; James Witherspoon, and Margaret Formby, president of the Hall of Fame museum in Hereford. During the opening ceremonies, Delamarter was proclaimed an honorary citizen of Hereford by Mayor Fisher. Speedy Niceman, chairman of the Hereford Hustlers, also presented plaques from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce--one making her an honorary member of the chamber and another containing the traditional "first dollar of clear profit."

The Hereford delegation divided into three groups after arriving in the Big Apple Saturday and were treated to dinner at one of three Delamarter theme restaurants already established. These include Tortilla Flats, Gulf Coast and Sugar Reef--a Tex-Mex, Cajun and a Caribbean restaurant, respectively.

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame will receive a percentage of gross receipts from the restaurant.

Kids say legal age for smoking should be upped

AUSTIN (AP) - Proposed bills that would raise the legal age for buying tobacco products and prohibit smoking in public places represent continued attempts to deny the public access to a legal product, a spokesman for wholesalers told a Senate committee.

On Tuesday, a group of sixth-graders bought several packs of cigarettes in the state Capitol building and then brought them to the Health and Human Services Committee during testimony on a bill that would raise the legal age for buying tobacco products from 16 to 18 years old.

"It was really easy to get these cigarettes," Mark Pulich, 11, of Austin told the Health and Human Services Committee. He and his classmates said they bought the cigarettes from a vending machine located in the basement of the Capitol while a security guard stood by.

Raquel Contreras, 11, said, "We think the law should be changed," because, she said, the younger a person starts smoking cigarettes, they will become "hooked easier."

The bill by Sen. Cyndi Taylor Krier, R-San Antonio, would make it illegal to sell or provide tobacco products to a person under 18 years old. Tobacco vendors would face a $200 fine if found guilty of breaking the statute.

Ms. Krier's bill would also require cigarette vending machines be located in places supervised by an adult and that signs be posted where cigarettes are sold warning of the dangers of cigarette smoking.

Jim Ratcliff, executive vice president of the Texas Association of Wholesale Distributors, spoke against the bill, saying it essentially would stop the sale of cigarettes from vending machines.

"The net effect would be nobody could have a machine at any location," Ratcliff said.

Raising the legal age to purchase cigarettes is necessary because the younger a person begins smoking, the more difficult it is for him to quit, Ms. Krier said. "When you're 16, you think you'll live forever," she said.

Nearly 17,000 Texans die annually from smoking-related illnesses, and health-care costs and lost productivity related to smoking amounts to about $3.3 billion per year, according to the Texas Department of Health.

Ratcliff also spoke against a bill that would prohibit smoking in public places and at public meetings, except in designated areas.

The city of Austin has such an ordinance and Austin council member Sally Shipman testified in favor of the proposal, saying Austin's ordinance "enhances the livability of everyone here."

Roulette with Hereford's most prized possessions."

Later in the meeting, during the public comment session, Ruth Fish told the board that she felt an action like the one taken against Gutierrez "ambiters" a student.

She told the board about her own children and things that had happened to them, and their reactions to what happened.

"I don't think you can or should bow down on what you are bound to do, but the policy needs a second look."

Cecilia Garza, who has two children in junior high, said that parents have to take some responsibilities for their children and that "innocent kids are getting punished."

"I'm willing to work with anyone to get something done. I'm more than willing to work with anyone," Garza said.

Board member Shirley Wilson said parents "should keep caring about your kids. Too many expect the school to care for their children, expect the school to be a 'super parent.'"

"The school can't take care of the social ills of the world unless we want to become socialistic."

"I'm proud that the Gutierrez case," said board member Steve Coneway. "Our policy isn't perfect, but we had to start somewhere. But I am really glad they came to support their child."

Mattox urges bank policy meeting

AUSTIN (AP) - Top state leaders need to meet - and soon - to determine what Texas' policy should be for dealing with the troubled financial industry, Attorney General Jim Mattox says.

"I am asking the legislative leadership and the governor whether or not we are going to address in any way the banking and savings and loan crisis in Texas," Mattox said Tuesday after urging a summit meeting in a letter sent to House Speaker Gib Lewis, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Gov. Bill Clements.

"Are the legislative leadership and the executive branch going to address this tragic crisis we've got in the state, or are we just going to allow our laws to be de facto overridden by federal action?" Mattox asked.

Mattox said the banking and savings and loan crisis is of such proportions that the state's economic future is involved. "The banking crisis in Texas is of such great importance that we need a joint effort to formulate a cohesive state policy," he said.

"Our (Texas) Constitution provides for a 'local' banking system, and we need to determine whether or not our Constitution has been 'de facto' abrogated by the conduct" of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. and out-of-state holding companies, Mattox said.

Clements' aides said the governor would be ready "to sit down and talk with the attorney general" about the problem.

"The governor has been concerned for many, many months about the banking community. The governor firmly believes that solutions must be found for the problems facing the banking as well as the savings and loan industries," said Reggie Bashur, Clements' press secretary.

Glenn Smith, press secretary to Hobby, said the lieutenant governor would like to have more details about Mattox's proposed summit.

The attorney general said he had been asked a number of legal questions, including:

- Whether NCNB Corp., which took over the failed First Republic Bank late last year, is acting in a manner allowed by the Texas Constitution.

- What legal remedies might protect depositors and creditors if NCNB isn't constitutionally permissible.

- Whether he would consider legal action to restrain the FDIC and FSLIC, as well as out-of-state holding companies, from operating in Texas.

"The legal point is whether or not they're constitutional," he said. "If they are, is it the best public policy of the state?"

Ross to part-own Motown

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Diana Ross will be takin' care of Motown business, or at least some of it, anyway, now that she has rejoined the label as part owner and performer.

Motown didn't reveal the size of the 44-year-old singer's investment in the company when it announced the deal Monday.

Motown founder Berry Gordy Jr.

sold the company in June to a partnership of MCA Inc. and Boston Ventures, an investment firm, for a reported $61 million. MCA didn't say how the entertainer's investment might fit in with the company's promise to maintain 20 percent minority ownership in Motown, once considered one of the nation's largest and most successful black-owned businesses.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to you in the hope that you can help resolve a problem I have lived with for 12 years. I can best make my point by telling you a story of two families.

In both families one member has lost the function of his kidneys and must be on dialysis to live. In Family A, upon learning that a sibling needed a kidney transplant, all seven of the brothers and sisters took the tissue-type tests to see if they could be donors. As it turned out, four were good matches and as of today, 12 years later, two have donated kidneys to the sibling in need. (One kidney lasted 10 years. The second kidney has been functioning for two years and seems to be doing well.)

Family B presents a totally different picture. In 12 years, not one of the kidney patient's brothers or sisters has even asked to take the test to see if he or she might qualify as a donor. I am a member of the second family and the one who is in need of a kidney.

I would like to know how my brothers and sisters can sit by for 12 years and watch me go through dialysis and not offer help. They say they love me, but when I think about Family A, I wonder.

My question to you is this: What does the first family have that the second family does not have?—Disillusioned in Ottawa

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: The question you have asked is extremely difficult to answer. No one can say for certain why some children turn out to be loving and generous while others turn out to be selfish and mean-spirited.

It cannot be laid to good or poor parenting because it is not uncommon to find a whole range of characteristics, good and bad, among siblings who have the same mother and father.

In Family A, where seven of the children were willing to be kidney donors, there may have been factors that outsiders could not know about. Perhaps one or two of the siblings came forward, and by so doing motivated the others, lest they appear to be less loving.

Ten suffragists were arrested in 1917 when they picketed the White House.

The obvious conclusion (and it may be quite accurate) is that Family A produced loving, generous children and Family B produced selfish brothers and sisters. Why? As I said, nobody knows.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to balance those letters about terrible therapists with a story about a therapist who was wonderful.

My son, from the age of 6, visited a caring, responsive therapist once a week. When the boy was 9, this therapist developed inoperable bladder cancer.

One day, I received a telephone call from this man. His voice was so weak he sounded very close to death. He was calling to give me the phone number of another therapist who he felt would be able to pick up where he had left off.

When I hung up the phone I was in tears. To think that this dear man, on his deathbed, was so concerned about my son that he taxed himself to the limit to call me. He died two days later.

I am sure everyone who knew him had a story like mine to tell. He was what all therapists should be: warm, concerned and caring.—J.M.F., Annandale, VA

DEAR FRIEND IN VA.: The man sounds angelic. How fortunate your son is to have had someone like him in his life. Your letter was a great tribute.

Are you having a problem finding a gift for the person who has everything? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send $4 plus a self-addressed stamped No. 10 envelope (65 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. How important is a fiber-filled diet?

The news is flooded constantly with claims that Americans must eat more fiber, but how realistic is this information?

Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a registered dietitian and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said total dietary fiber is a new term for what used to be known as bulk, roughage, bran, fiber or unavailable carbohydrates.

Sweeten said current research indicates that many studies have been done to evaluate total dietary fiber and decide what physiological effects fiber has on humans.

She said the most widely recognized effect of fiber in the diet is increased intestinal bulk and regularity, resulting from eating water insoluble dietary fiber sources such as bran, beans, and cellulose.

"The fact that fiber has the ability to lower serum cholesterol is important to today's health conscious lifestyles. The research showed that such soluble fibers as guar gum, locust bean gum, oat gum and pectin have significantly reduced total serum cholesterol levels," she said.

Sweeten said that insoluble dietary fibers are able to bind bile acids that force the body to synthesize more from available cholesterol.

The research cited scientific problems that occurred when the fat content of a diet was reduced, making it impossible to tell if beneficial results are from increased fiber or from the corresponding decrease in the fat intake.

Sweeten said fiber is beneficial for diabetics. Studies show improved control of blood glucose levels and reduced insulin requirements when high fiber diets are consumed.

Research data also suggest that eating a diet high in fiber may reduce individual risks against colon and rectal cancer.

"Finding the right foods to eat each day to meet the recommended daily intake of fiber should not be too difficult for most people," Sweeten said.

The amount recommended by various health organizations of 25 to 30 grams per day can be obtained from foods such as whole wheat bread, oatmeal or bran cereals, fruits and vegetables, especially the skins of apples, pears, peaches and potatoes. Popcorn, seeds and dried fruit also are good sources of fiber, according to the report.

Texas seeks help in SWC stretch run

By The Associated Press

Arkansas and Texas remain tied atop the Southwest Conference with 9-2 records heading into this week's action, but in terms of the SWC post-season tournament, the Hogs are first.

If the two teams tie for first during the regular season, the Razorbacks get the first seed by virtue of their two regular-season victories over the Longhorns.

So Texas is looking for help as the SWC race enters the stretch run. It might come this week as Arkansas plays road games at Southern Methodist on Wednesday and Texas A&M on Saturday.

Two of the Razorbacks' last three games are at home.

Texas will attempt to stay close when it plays host to Houston on Wednesday before playing at Texas Tech on Saturday.

Texas Christian has lost its grip on the SWC top spot. The Horned Frogs, now two games behind the frontrunners, have lost four of their past five conference games, most recently a 100-60 loss at Arkansas on Saturday.

"The crowd put pressure on the officials and it went from there," said TCU Coach Moe Iba. "When you run out of players, what can you do?"

Texas' Lance Blanks and Travis Mays scored 33 points each in a 116-74 victory over the Rice Owls, who are 3-8 in SWC play.

"We tried zone and man-to-man and if you have any other defenses to try call them out to me and I'll listen," said Rice Coach Scott Thompson.

"When both Lance and Travis are tracking, we are an awfully tough team to beat," said Texas Coach Tom Penders.

TCU is third in the league race with a 7-4 record followed by Tech at 6-5, Houston and SMU each at 5-5, Texas A&M at 3-7, Rice at 3-8, and Baylor at 1-10. Every team is eligible for the post-season tournament except the ninth-place team.

In other games Wednesday Texas A&M is at Baylor and TCU travels to Rice.

Also Saturday, Houston is at TCU and SMU is at Rice.

Oklahoma fighting for grid dignity

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The University of Oklahoma football team, a perennial power accustomed to battling for national championships, now is fighting for dignity during an outbreak of criminal allegations that won't seem to go away.

Preliminary and detention hearings were scheduled today for starting quarterback Charles Thompson, who was arrested Monday night by FBI agents on a Jan. 26 federal complaint of selling cocaine to an undercover agent.

The governor of Oklahoma says he's disgusted, the other players say they're shocked. And the second largest newspaper in the state is calling for Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer to resign.

"Nothing less than a new start under new leadership can restore confidence and pride in OU football. Nothing less, in fact, can save the University of Oklahoma from becoming a national laughingstock," said a Tulsa World editorial in today's editions.

Switzer listed the players who recently have been arrested and said: "Barry Switzer should resign because of what they did? No more than I think their mothers and fathers should go to prison to serve their sentences," Switzer told the Oklahoma News Network.

Media, friends and spectators crowded into the courtroom Tuesday. Thompson, wearing an orange jumpsuit, was attentive and quiet. He looked at his mother briefly.

Norman police say the investigation of drug trafficking will continue, but no other athletes reportedly are involved.

While Thompson remained jailed, bail was reduced for three other players: Nigel Clay, Glenn Bell and Bernard Hall, who were charged last Friday with first-degree rape stemming from a Jan. 21 complaint in the athletic dorm.

In Fort Bend, Texas, starting cornerback Jerry Parks is home on bail awaiting a preliminary hearing for a shooting with intent to injure charge in which he allegedly wounded teammate Zarak Peters on Jan. 13 in the same dorm.

Not to be forgotten is a three-year probation handed down in December by the NCAA that bars the Sooners from live television next season and bowl games for the next two years. It also limits recruiting.

Five players have been suspended since the NCAA announced its sanctions on Dec. 19. The NCAA also chastized Switzer for failure to "exercise supervisory control" over the program.

"I've never been too lax on them, but I've given kids a second chance," Switzer said. "There have been a lot that I gave a second chance and they graduated and did well. No one knows about that."

Switzer said he had heard rumors about Thompson's alleged involvement.

"I confronted him and he denied it," Switzer said. "Do I fire him on the basis of rumors?"

Missouri is upset by Iowa State, 83-75

By The Associated Press

Just when Missouri thought its troubles had peaked, the third-ranked Tigers got leveled by a Cyclone.

Iowa State upset Missouri 82-75 Tuesday night, hours after Coach Norm Stewart underwent surgery for colon cancer and a diseased gall bladder.

Stewart, who had been hospitalized last week with a bleeding ulcer, is listed in satisfactory condition.

"I don't think we can use Norm being gone as an excuse to losing," center Gary Leonard said. "It is up to us to get ready to play each game. They told us about the surgery at pregame meal and I thought everyone had gotten over it."

Missouri, 21-5, lost for the second time in three games with Stewart absent. The Tigers fell into second place in the Big Eight at 7-2, one-half game behind Oklahoma.

"We never found a way to play the way we wanted to," said assistant coach Rich Daly, who guided Missouri. Daly is running the Tigers because top assistant Bob Sundvold was suspended recently amid allegations of NCAA rules violations.

Victor Alexander and Terry Woods scored 19 points each for Iowa State, 12-9 and 3-6 in the conference. The Cyclones beat Missouri for the fourth straight time at home.

"It's a terrific thrill to beat the No. 3 team in the country," Iowa State coach Johnny Orr said. "I still hold a lot of respect for Missouri, but we were better tonight. It was the night for us to win. This is one of the great victories in the history of Iowa State."

In other Top 20 games, No. 8 North Carolina beat Old Dominion 87-77

NOSET PLAYS

DENVER (AP) — Coach Doug Moe of the Denver Nuggets freely admits it: there are times when even he can't tell what offense his players are running.

"One thing for sure is that we never run any set plays," Moe said. "If anybody should know what we are running, I'm the man. But I'm telling you, we ain't running anything, we're free-lancing. My players have told me the other coach is diagramming our plays. That's impossible, we don't have any."

and No. 11 Duke defeated Harvard 98-59.

Missouri led 50-49 with 14:18 left, but Woods made a 3-pointer that put Iowa State ahead for good. The Cyclones increased their lead to eight, Missouri rallied within 66-65 and then Woods and Alexander made consecutive baskets.

Sam Mack added 15 points and reserve Marc Urquhart had 13, including five in the final two minutes, for the Cyclones.

Byron Irvin and Doug Smith scored 16 points each and Lee Coward had 14 for Missouri.

No. 8 North Carolina 87, Old Dominion 77

Rick Fox scored 24 points and North Carolina pulled away from Old Dominion to reach the 20-victory mark for the 19th straight season.

The Tar Heels, 20-5, led 72-70 before Steve Bucknall got five points during a 7-0 run with 2:30 remaining.

Fox scored six points in the final minute.

Scott Williams, who was not expected to play because of a recently separated shoulder, had 15 points and 11 rebounds. But Jeff Lebo did not play for North Carolina because of a broken bone in his left foot suffered Sunday.

Bucknall finished with 13 points and J.R. Reid, playing before a hometown crowd in Norfolk, Va., had 12 points and seven rebounds.

Anthony Carver scored 21 points for the Monarchs, 14-9.

No. 11 Duke 98, Harvard 59

Greg Koubek scored 19 points and led a 15-0 surge in the second half that carried Duke over Harvard.

The Blue Devils, 18-4, led 46-35 at halftime. After Harvard made a foul shot at the start of the second half, Koubek got six points as Duke made it 61-36.

Danny Ferry added 16 points for Duke, which won its fourth straight game after losing four of five. The Blue Devils are 12-0 in games outside the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Herd loses 62-52 game at Levelland

The Hereford Whitefaces could never quite recover from a 9-point first-quarter lead established by Levelland and fell to the Lobos, 62-52, in a District 1-4A game Tuesday at Levelland.

Levelland ran up a 17-8 lead by the end of the first quarter, but the Herd outscored the Lobos 18-17 in the second period to cut the Levelland lead to 34-26.

Levelland ran its lead back up to 10 points, 44-34, at the end of the third quarter. The team stayed even during the fourth period to give Levelland the 10-point win.

Pat Mercer led Hereford with 20 points, while Clint Cotten had 12 and Jason Scott 11 for the Herd.

In the JV contest, Hereford took a 57-56 win.

The Herd will close out its season with a chance to help decide who goes where in the playoffs as the Whitefaces travel to Borger on Friday to meet the Bulldogs.

El Paso seeks NFL preseason contest

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — It's first down and thousands to go for a group of El Pasoans trying to land a National Football League preseason game Aug. 19 in the Sun Bowl.

El Paso Sports Productions wants to sell as many tickets as possible in the next couple of weeks to convince the NFL El Paso can play host to a professional football game, company spokesman John Hyman said Tuesday.

A sellout of the 51,000-seat stadium isn't expected by March 1, but the promoters plan to get as close to a sellout as they can by then with a ticket-selling drive among large businesses in El Paso, Ciudad Juarez, West Texas and southern New Mexico.

"The NFL has given us a preliminary indication it will hold a game here if we can show we have enough support," Hyman said, adding that other cities are trying to draw an NFL preseason game.

El Paso Sports Productions spokesman Tom Lemon said the NFL "wants to see movement on sales by March 15," and the company wants to be able to report strong sales by March 1.

Three games are available: Philadelphia vs. New York Jets, New England vs. Seattle or Minnesota vs.

Kansas City. So far, Hyman said, it appears the Eagles-Jets game seems the most likely, partly because former Jets quarterback Don Maynard lives in El Paso and is boosting the preseason game.

Hyman acknowledged Dallas, Houston, Phoenix or Denver probably could draw more fan interest than the three matchups available, and he said many people would be buying tickets before they knew who would be playing.

"We hope by the fact that it's the first NFL game to come here that we can draw the people," he said.

The promoters plan to push the preseason competition from Midland to Tucson, concentrating most heavily on El Paso, Juarez, and Las Cruces and Alamogordo, N.M. They expect a good response from Juarez.

"We've visited various maquilas in Juarez," said Martha Tovar, who is helping promote the plan in El Paso's Mexican twin city. "They've been impressed; they've received us with a lot of interest."

Hyman said he and the NFL would like to come to an agreement by mid-May.

If other cities in the running show they can sell tickets faster, they would be chosen before El Paso, he said.

AT&T ANNOUNCES PRICE CHANGES FOR LONG DISTANCE CALLS WITHIN TEXAS

AT&T announces April 1, 1989, price changes for Long Distance Service (MTS) within Texas. AT&T's prices for long distance calling within Texas will be increased by two cents per minute for calls under 82 miles in distance and one cent per minute for calls that are 82 miles or greater in distance. AT&T's current discounts of 25% for evening calls and 40% for night and weekend calls will remain in effect. The price increases are expected to produce approximately $22.8 million, which is nearly 2.9% of AT&T's annual revenues for Texas Long Distance Service.

This represents the first AT&T price increase for long distance calls within Texas. AT&T's long distance prices for calls within Texas have been reduced overall by about 12% since 1986.

The Long Distance Service price changes will also impact AT&T's PROSM WATS Texas offering, which offers subscribers a 10% discount on all long distance calls within Texas. These price changes are expected to produce approximately $661,000, or about 3.5% of the annual revenues for AT&T's PROSM WATS Texas offering.

Prices for AT&T's REACH OUTSM Texas offering will also change. The price for initial hour usage will increase from $12.55 to $12.95; the additional hour price will increase from $11.40 to $12.00. These price increases are expected to produce approximately $364,000, or about 2.1% of the annual revenues for AT&T's REACH OUTSM Texas offering.

AT&T's tariffs implementing these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on March 1, 1989, with an effective date of April 1, 1989. The combined price increases are expected to produce approximately $23.9 million, which is approximately 2.4% of AT&T's annual revenues for all Texas intrastate services.

If you have questions regarding these price changes please call AT&T's service consultants at 1-800-222-0300 for residential customers or 1-800-222-0400 for business customers. Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may also contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas in writing, at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 450N, Austin, Texas 78757, or by calling the Public Information Office at 512-458-0223, or 512-458-0227, or 512-458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Ueberroth meets with five potential buyers of Rangers

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth met with five potential buyers of the Texas Rangers during an eight-hour whirlwind stop in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, then announced that he intends to see that the drawn-out sale is completed before he leaves office at the end of March.

"That's a clear goal," Ueberroth said Tuesday during a one-hour news briefing before catching a flight to San Antonio. "I'm not commissioner past March 31. I see it coming before that. We want to find the best solution for everybody."

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported in today's editions that among those with whom Ueberroth met were:

- Former Rangers minority owner Raymond Nasher, a Dallas real estate developer;
- George W. Bush, the President's son, who has formed a partnership with Cincinnati's Bill DeWitt Jr. in an effort to purchase the team;
- Fort Worth businessman Richard Rainwater.

Most of the meetings were conducted at an airport hotel, but the Star-Telegram reported that Ueberroth left the hotel late in the afternoon for two meetings believed to be in Fort Worth, one of which was with Rainwater.

Also present at Tuesday's meetings were American League president Dr. Bobby Brown; Chicago

White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf, chairman of the powerful ownership committee that has recommended that Rangers minority partner Edward Gaylord's bid to buy the team be disapproved; and Ed Durso, general counsel for baseball, the Star-Telegram reported.

Ueberroth was en route to San Antonio for a speaking engagement today.

Ueberroth would not say whether he would overrule the owners if they should vote down the contract that majority owner Eddie Chiles now has with Gaylord of Oklahoma City, but he did say that he has postponed a special meeting on the subject for a second time. It had been scheduled for next Monday, Ueberroth said.

"I've asked that the meeting that was to be held be postponed because I didn't think it would produce results that would necessarily be good for the franchise," Ueberroth said. "My job is to care about the franchise."

The owners still are expected to meet in special session before their next regularly scheduled meeting in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on March 10.

Nasher, a member of the Rangers' board of directors and minority partner when Brad Corbett owned the team, tried on numerous occasions to purchase the team in the late '70s and early '80s before selling his stock to Chiles. He said he's not ruling out the possibility of making another attempt.

"At this point, I'm not ruling out anything," Nasher said after a one-hour meeting with Ueberroth. "Bobby Brown and I have been friends for a long time but I had never met Ueberroth. They were spelling out the nature of the situation."

Rainwater confirmed his session with Ueberroth but said he would have no comment on the meeting. Bush, first on Ueberroth's appointment list after the commissioner arrived on a mid-morning flight from New York, was unavailable for comment.

"You never know the results of a day like today right away," Ueberroth said.

Spring baseball is back

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

Stop crossing off the days. The long winter is over.

Pitchers and catchers report in less than 24 hours. Spring training is starting and baseball is back.

For Jim Abbott and Pete Rose II, it's all new. For Tommy John and Don Baylor, it might be over.

Most of all, for the fans and those who wait for this day, this means a time of hope and optimism.

Every team is even, at least in the standings. And maybe if those rookies are as good as they say and if the aging slugger can have one more good year and if the injured short-stop returns to form and if the wild pitcher get his control, well, then, maybe this just could be the year.

Why not? It happened, in its own way, to the Los Angeles Dodgers last season.

On Thursday, the Dodgers and half the major league teams will open camp. Eddie Murray and Willie Randolph will be at Vero Beach as the Dodgers begin the quest to do what no team has done since the New York Yankees in 1977-78, to win consecutive World Series.

"For the first time in a long time, we go to spring training with our starting eight pretty set," Los Angeles general manager Fred Claire said.

In Florida and Arizona, new faces in new places abound.

Jack Clark, Bruce Hurst and Walt Terrell are playing in San Diego now. Steve Sax is with the New York Yankees, Mike Moore is with Oakland and Nolan Ryan, Julio Franco and Rafael Palmeiro are with the Chicago Cubs.

Six managers are new. Dallas Green is with the Yankees, Doug Rader is in Texas, Art Howe starts out in Houston, Jeff Torborg with the Chicago White Sox, Nick Leyva joins Philadelphia and Jim Lefebvre takes over in Seattle.

And Bill White is apprenticing in the National League office. On April 1, he'll take over as president when A. Bartlett Giamatti moves up to commissioner.

Among those reporting to camp Thursday will be Abbott, the one-handed wonder of the U.S. Olympic team. Abbott, 21, will likely start the season at California's Class AA team in Midland. But for now, he's a big leaguer.

"I look forward to it, but I'm a bit nervous," he said. "I don't know what'll be involved in starting out."

Neither does the young Rose, son of baseball's all-time hit leader and Cincinnati manager. Rose will be working out with Baltimore's minor leaguers and will probably start the year in Class A.

Baylor and John, two of the older elite, aren't sure if they will end up anywhere. Neither has been offered a contract yet and each is hoping to get one last look-see chance.

So is Steve Carlton, trying yet another comeback. He's been throwing at the Phillies' camp in Clearwater, Fla., although the team isn't too interested.

In Yuma, Ariz., the Padres will prepare to challenge the Dodgers in the NL West. Clark, one year removed from being the National League's most feared hitter, was acquired from the Yankees and pitcher Walt Terrell was obtained from Detroit.

Hurst, the object of an intense free-agent bidding war, signed with San Diego. Now we'll see whether he'll become another former Boston left-hander to win big in the NL, just like John Tudor and Bob Ojeda.

Ojeda will try to recover from a lawn accident last fall that almost cost him a finger and, Manager Davey Johnson thinks, might have cost the New York Mets a chance to beat the Dodgers in the playoffs. The Mets tried to make a move during the winter but didn't, failing to get Dale Murphy, Mark Langston, Danny Tartabull and Ellis Burks.

Oakland, the American League champion, got Moore.

Texas and California made moves in hope of overtaking Oakland.

The Rangers begin spring training as strangers after the most active winter in the majors. Ryan, a Texas folk hero, was taken from Houston in the free-agent frenzy, and 300 hitters Franco and Palmeiro were acquired in trades. As a result, reliever Mitch Williams is now with the Chicago Cubs and Pete O'Brien and Oddibe McDowell are in Cleveland.

The Angels, who failed to sign Hurst or Ryan, wound up with Claudell Washington in the outfield and aging Bert Blyleven on the mound.

Assistants not bitter by shakeup in Cowboy staff

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Deposed assistant coaches Paul Hackett and Ernie Stautner said on Tuesday they aren't bitter about the shakeup of the Dallas Cowboys' staff and plan to help all they can on their assigned "special projects."

Hackett, hired from the San Francisco 49ers at the insistence of club president Tex Schramm in 1985, was replaced as pass coordinator by Jerry Rhome.

Stautner, who had been the defensive coordinator for 20 years, was replaced by George Hill, who was fired as the Indianapolis Colts' coordinator in 1988. Stautner plans to retire next year.

The shakeup of coaches came after the Cowboys' 3-13 season, worst in 29 years.

Hackett has interviewed for several jobs, most recently with the Seattle Seahawks, and still could leave although he said, "I'm willing to do whatever it takes to help."

"The Cowboys have a great organization and I feel that it will get back on top. When you make sweeping changes you immediately turn to the coordinators," Hackett said. "But do I still consider myself a good coach? Sure, I think I can still coach."

"I just have philosophical differences with Paul," Landry said in explaining the move.

Hackett, who called down suggested plays to Landry from the press box, said, "Coach Landry just wants to go in a different direction. He wants to become more personally involved with the quarterbacks. I can respect his decision."

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

The following is a wonderful service for people who have a sight impairment.

Recordings for the Blind (RFB) is a national, non-profit service organization that will provide free cassettes of educational textbooks to people who have a medically certified sight impairment.

RFB is not only for the sight-impaired, nor is it only for students. Anyone, regardless of age or educational status, can borrow the tapes if he has a certified print-handicap. "Print-handicapped" can mean a visual, perceptual or physical impairment that prevents the reading of standard printed material.

They have a collection of 72,000 volumes in a Master Tape Library from which borrowers may order. Also, a recording service is available should a borrower request a title that is not already a part of the collection. Volunteers record approximately 3,000 new books a year. A catalog of recorded books is available, along with a subject reference system which can locate books by subject matter, rather than by title and author.

Anyone wishing further information about RFB may write to:

Borrower Services Department
20 Roszel Road
Princeton, NJ 08540

Our thanks to all the volunteers who read for these recordings. — Heloise

HELPFUL DICTIONARY

Dear Heloise: I work in an office and do quite a bit of typing. Each day I look up a few words in my dictionary to be sure that I have spelled them right.

After I find the word in the dictionary, I then highlight it with a yellow pen. This way if I need to look up the word again, the yellow color catches my eye and makes this chore a little easier. — K. M., San Antonio, Texas

A good hint, but I'm afraid the pages in my dictionary would be all yellow! Thanks for writing! — Heloise

POSTCARDS

Dear Heloise: Postcards are great for short letters, notices, reminders, requests for pamphlets and notes to public officials and congressmen.

They cost only 15 cents and very often will serve the purpose better than a letter, which requires stationery and a 25-cent stamp. — Carol Henry, Wheelersburg, Ohio

You are right, sometimes it seems easier to jot a note on a postcard than to write a whole letter. — Heloise

CHOCOLATE FRUIT

Dear Heloise: I had a get-together with some friends and I was trying to find some special treats for the party when I came up with this idea.

I cut up all of the fresh fruit that I had on hand: oranges, apples, bananas, strawberries and even some grapefruit. Then I got my fondue pot out and melted chocolate in it. The guests dipped the fruit in the chocolate with toothpicks. It was the hit of the party! — Deidra Harrison, Ft. Myers, Fla.

WHITE LIGHTS

Dear Heloise: I hate to admit this, but I still haven't taken down my outside Christmas lights. They are all around the patio and the shrubbery.

Recently on a night out, I noticed that a local restaurant had clear lights still up and they looked nice. That evening when I got home I turned the lights on and they made the patio look so cheerful that I have decided to leave them up. — Jackie Trudeau, Pittsburgh, Pa.

And when Christmas is here, you will already have all your lights out and ready to light up. What a bright house you must have! — Heloise

MY FAVORITE RECIPES

Dear Readers: The 30 years of this column have resulted in a great collection of recipes. My favorites are in my latest pamphlet, Heloise's All-Time Favorite Recipes. For a copy, send $2 and a stamped (45 cents), self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Recipe, P.O. Box 19765, Irvine, CA 92713. — Heloise

EGG-SALAD SOLUTION

Dear Heloise: My brother and I like egg-salad sandwiches. To save on preparation time, I usually boil the eggs and mix up the egg salad on Sunday night. However, by Wednesday, the mayonnaise gets runny.

Is there anything I can do to prevent this? — G.G., Green Bay, Wis.

Try mixing the mayonnaise and the other ingredients you like (except the eggs) in a glass jar, seal and refrigerate. Crumble the eggs and refrigerate them in an airtight plastic container. Each morning, mix a dollop of the mayonnaise mixture with the appropriate amount of crumbled eggs. Your egg salad will be fresh every morning and there will be no problem with runny mayonnaise. — Heloise

OPEN-MINDED CONVICTIONS

By Bob Wear

There are some absolutes, and some specifics, and some fixed values, and some other unchanging things. We are thankful for these, and for the easy way to prove that we do have such truth and fact. These make up the framework of our convictions, but, with these convictions, we must remain open-minded so we can continue to grow, and make corrections, when such are justified.

We can know, and know that we know. This is commendable, if our general attitude is wholesome and maintained in an atmosphere of good balance. We can be right in our convictions, and we have the responsibility to do so; to the extent that we can do so; however, if we hold these convictions with a 'bad' spirit, we are wrong even when we are right. The spirit of humility and wise understanding is recommended.

If we have prejudices, and most of have some, we must see them for what they are and learn to handle them with the greatest degree of discretion. There is a great difference between prejudices and wisely-held convictions. Justified convictions are some of the essentials of an effective and meaningful life; but we must never try to pass off our prejudices as our convictions.

Here is a warning: "None are too wise to be mistaken, but few are so wisely just as to acknowledge and correct their mistakes, and especially the mistakes of prejudice." Barrow, Although our prejudices are realities with which we must learn to deal, it is a fact that we can be intelligently sure about some things, about the important things. This requires great effort and continuing self-examination within a wholesome framework of openminded pursuit of dependable knowledge.

The dogmatic spirit must be discouraged, because it will derail truth, disrupt desirable human relationships, discourage altruistic endeavor, and discolor the whole vista of human possibility for betterment.

Open-minded convictions will survive all testing, with increasing usefulness.

Farmworker families eligible for refund

Low-income working families with children should apply for a recently expanded income tax credit by filing a federal tax return, said a spokesman from Texas Rural Legal Aid, Inc.

Most migrant farmworker families with children are eligible for the income tax credit because of their low income.

Recent tax law changes broadened the 13-year-old Earned Income Credit (EIC). Under the EIC benefit scale, working families with at least one child living at home, and incomes of less than $18,576 in 1988, can receive a tax credit of up to $874.

For example, for families with earned incomes of between $6,000 and $10,000, the credit is worth at least $840. And since EIC is a "refundable credit," those at the lower, neediest end of the income scale--those who earn too little to owe federal income taxes--will automatically receive a check from the government in the amount of their credit, but only if they file a federal income tax return.

Families may also apply for the Earned Income Credit going back three years.

"We want the farmworkers and other poor people in this area to apply for and receive the money that Congress has decided they are entitled to receive," said TRLA staff attorney Stephen C. McIntyre.

"Poor people who need assistance in filling out the forms should contact their local legal aid office, church, or community center for assistance," said McIntyre.

The first ship to pass through the Panama Canal was the Alex Lavelley on January 7, 1914.

Global Awareness Fair to feature local Girl Scouts

Local Girl Scouts will be among the youngsters who will participate in a Global Awareness Fair Saturday morning in Amarillo.

The Tri-State Fair Coliseum will be the site of the event, which will lead off with a parade of international flags and a ceremony and singing to follow.

Individual troops will have booth displays depicting the culture and life of various countries in which Girl Guides are organized. Exhibits will be on display from 10 a.m. -1 p.m. and the public is invited with tickets costing 50 cents per person.

The girls of Texas Plains Girl Scout Council observe Girl Scout "Thinking Day" in many different ways as Feb. 22 is the annual designated day for "thinking" about Girl Scouts and Girl Guides around the world as every one strives toward the same ideals.

Hereford Girls Scouts are learning about their friends in India. One of the four World Centers supported by Girls Scouting and Girl Guiding is located in India. It is called Sangam. Some of the traditions and cultural differences have been explained to the girls by Hema Gajiwala, a junior at Hereford High School. She has taught the girls how to wear a sari, and she will accompany the girls to the Global Awareness Fair where they will perform an authentic dance from India.

The World Association of Girls Guides and Girls Scouts has a proud record of co-operation with other youth and women's organizations sharing its objectives and with the United Nations in the search for peace and a better world. Its challenge is to strengthen this co-operation, in such areas as the promotion of health, the rights of children, the advancement of girls and women, and ecology and conservation, recognizing that the world is interdependent.

Here's An Idea That Can Strengthen Your Family

Tonight at the dinner table, read something out loud to your family. Tomorrow night, let another member read something. A news story. A Bible verse. A Robert Frost poem. A cereal box panel. History. Humor. Anything. Each night a different family member can read a selection. Imagine the wide range of subjects your family will read in 365 days. What a stimulating way to have your children develop good reading habits. We have 23 million illiterate adults in America. We wouldn't have one, if each of them had been served reading as part of their nightly diet. It's non-fattening, but enriching. And it doesn't cost a dime.

BASKETBALL TOPS

MISSION, Kan. (AP)—Basketball is the most popular sport for both girls and boys in the nation's high schools. The National Federation of State High Schools Associations released figures covering a study of the 1987-88 basketball season.

In all, 16,769 high schools had a basketball program for male students. The girls were not far behind with competition at 16,196 schools.

Outdoor track and field was the second most popular sport at both boys and girl schools.

A person traveling the 93 million miles to the sun would take 21 years if flying at 600 miles per hour.

Prices Effective Tuesday, February 14, 1989.

If We Ran This Ad On TV, You'd Only Have 30 Seconds To See It.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line again or pause (19...18...17...) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement—and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. In fact, if we tried to say just this much in a 30-second TV commercial, throwing in only a brief mention that newspapers offer coupons, give you great flexibility of size, and can leave a lasting impression on your customers, we'd run out of...

"We Reach Thousands Everyday."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 15-year-old female, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 98 pounds. I want to know if there is something I can do about being so short. I've gone to the doctor, but he said there was nothing to do about it, maybe some vitamins. I think there is something, because I have heard they have given some medicine for it. What would you advise me to do about my growth problem?
 DEAR READER: I'm not convinced you have a problem. Not everyone was meant to be tall. You may not have finished growing either. The best way to tell if you are still growing is to have X-rays that determine your bone age. If your long bones have fused so that the growth plates of cartilage have calcified, you are through growing.

 You are so close to the average height for your age that no doctor is likely to want to give you growth hormone. Yes, the hormone exists, but it is for people who really have a deficiency in growth hormone. Vitamins won't help unless you have a vitamin deficiency that has delayed your growth.

HEREFORD'S FUTURE lies in HEREFORD'S YOUTH

There are four local FHA organizations in Hereford High School and Hereford Junior High, involving over 150 local young people. These young men and women are learning everyday life skills through classes such as Foods, Apparel, Housing Design and Furnishing, Family Living and Parenthood, and Child Development.

Local leaders Stacy Lea, Martha Layman, and Kris Dollar lead the three clubs at the high school, and Louise Witkowski leads the junior high group.

In 1989, the theme for FHA/HERO is "A New Attitude" we applaud these young men and women, as well as the leaders, for their involvement in FHA/Hero.
