Johnson testifies in malpractice suit

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Dr. Howard Johnson spent several hours on the witness stand Thursday near the close of a malpractice suit being heard in 222nd District Court.

The Hereford physician, being sued for professional negligence along with Deaf Smith General Hospital and the Hereford Medical Clinic, gave jurors his opinion of what caused the death of Noemi Frausto in April of 1982. The woman's family is seeking damages of more than $1 million from the three defendants.

While a Dallas pathologist testified Wednesday that Frausto died of a ruptured uterus and internal hemorrhaging while in her eighth month of pregnancy, Johnson said he did not think the woman lost enough blood to cause irreversible shock. He said he believed Frausto died of either a uterine tear, accompanied by a massive blood clot in the lung, or of a nearly-always fatal condition that forces amniotic fluid into the mother's circulatory system.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs wrapped up their case around 4:30 Thursday afternoon, ending with the testimony of Antonio Frausto. The dead woman's husband described the events of the morning his wife died much the same as did his oldest daughter, who was the first witness called by the plaintiffs.

Defense attorneys, who cross-examined witnesses called by the plaintiffs throughout the three-day trial, rested their case after reading portions of depositions taken from two witnesses.

The jury was to report at 9:30 this morning to hear the charge, with closing arguments to follow. The case was expected to go to the jury before noon.

The surviving husband, six children and parents of the 39-year-old Hereford woman are claiming that Johnson should have gone to the hospital earlier on the morning of Frausto's death. Hospital records show she was taken to the DSGH emergency room shortly after 3 a.m.

and was pronounced dead at 5:20 that morning.

Johnson said he relied on reports from emergency room nurses that Frausto's vital signs were stable. He testified he did not believe the woman's uterus could have ruptured as early as 2 a.m. because she did not show signs of shock until shortly before her death.

The family also complained that Frausto might have survived had she been taken to her own doctor in Friona. Hospital employees testified they had contacted her doctor and intended to make the transfer before the woman's condition worsened.

Representing Dr. Johnson and the clinic are Mike Worley of Lubbock and Hereford City Attorney Earnest Langley, while Charles Moss of Amarillo is defending the hospital.

Co-counsel for the plaintiffs are Jim Brown of Canyon and Dr. Melvin Morgan of Dallas, who is a medical doctor as well as an attorney.

Foundation after industrial park

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

An industrial park is to be planned and developed this year, Hereford Industrial Foundation directors resolved Thursday.

"We need an industrial park, folks. We all know that," said Rex Easterwood, who stressed he wanted to walk out of the meeting with a commitment having been made to build the business facility.

"I think it's a feasible goal," the local attorney said. "If Hereford grows, we all grow."

"I think it would be a step in the right direction," agreed Jack Mars of Energas. He pointed out Lamesa's industrial park has attracted six firms since it recently began.

Troy Waddell of Southwestern Public Service claimed Hereford offers many attractive features for new businesses, including the proximity of "major metropolis" Amarillo and availability of highways and railroads.

Words of caution were offered by Dick Montgomery, a Deaf Smith County Rural Electric officer who said an effort to build a similar complex five or six years ago failed.

"It takes more than just this group around here," Montgomery said. "You try to go out and sell this, they'll tell you one thing and turn around and do another."

Easterwood, however, later restated his desire for a commitment. "I'm just tired of the Directors pass resolution on Thursday

negativism," he said about attitudes toward the foundation and apparently not about Montgomery. "I'd just like something positive for a change. I'm just tired of it."

It was decided the project would be a joint venture of the foundation along with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce industrial committee. The two bodies are to assemble later this year.

"We don't need a board which meets once a year to hand out a financial report," Mars commented in advocating more frequent foundation gatherings. He said he did not want to be part of a group which did nothing.

In other business Thursday, directors discussed what should be done with the foundation's 150 Pine St. building recently vacated by defunct Haxel Manufacturing Incorporated. The 12,000-square-foot structure still contains about 150 sewing machines and some other equipment, according to foundation secretary Mike Carr.

Though the building belongs to HIF, the sewing wares are property of an eastern finance company. "We're kind of in limbo," president Joe Reinauer said, as to what should be done with the machinery.

"Ideally," he said, "we'd find somebody new from out of town who'd bring in some new workers."

Though he could not say how much the sewing machinery is worth in its present condition, Carr did guess new machines would cost between $750 and $1,800 apiece. There is about $33,000 against the finance company now, he said. Haxel's payments, he thought, were about five months and $8,000 to $9,000 behind.

No action was taken Thursday regarding the machinery. Reinauer, though, said efforts should be made to find a renter who could utilize the equipment. The question of what should be done, he suggested, should be tabled until pressure is exerted by the finance company.

Also Thursday, Carr explained the chamber plans to start a Hereford Leadership Council. The group, to commence operations this spring, would educate around 10 individuals per year - over an eight-month period - about the various aspects of local governmental and business procedures.

Admitting it is a long-term project, Carr commented, "The more people out there with a little bit of knowledge about a lot of things can't but help us."

Carr is executive vice president of the chamber of commerce. Thursday evening's meeting was held in the chamber's conference room.

Nazareth resident Dana Schulte exhibited the overall grand champion hog Thursday evening at the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Schulte, a member of her town's Future Farmers of America chapter, bested the animal shown by reserve grand champion Mitch Brown of Dimmitt FFA. The counties represented at the show are Castro, Deaf Smith, Oldham and Parmer.

Member of Nazareth's FFA

In overall swine competition for just Deaf Smith residents, Robbie Phillips of Hereford FFA was first and second-place honors went to Cory Newton of Deaf Smith County 4-H.

The show, which began Wednesday with steer judging, continues tonight with lamb competition, slated to commence at 5:00. A ladies' lead line exhibition and auction are to conclude this year's show on Saturday.

Of the seven hog categories judged Thursday, Lonnie Huseman of Nazareth FFA garnered grand champion honors for berkshires. The reserve grand champion - and county champion - was Angela Brumley of Deaf Smith 4-H. Keith Kalka, a member of Hereford FFA, was reserve county champion.

In the chester category, Daylen Gallman of Parmer 4-H was grand champion, Cinnamon Cox of Dimmitt FFA reserve grand champion and Chet Bunch of Hereford FFA was county champion. Another Hereford FFA member, Don Meiwes, was the reserve county winner.

Crosses were topped by Schulte in four-county competition, which had Newton finishing second. The reserve county champion award went to Bunch.

Durocs had Phillips, the overall county champion, as grand winner for four counties. Leroy Schulte of Nazareth FFA was judged to have the reserve grand champion while Ricky Yosten of Deaf Smith 4-H was reserve county winner.

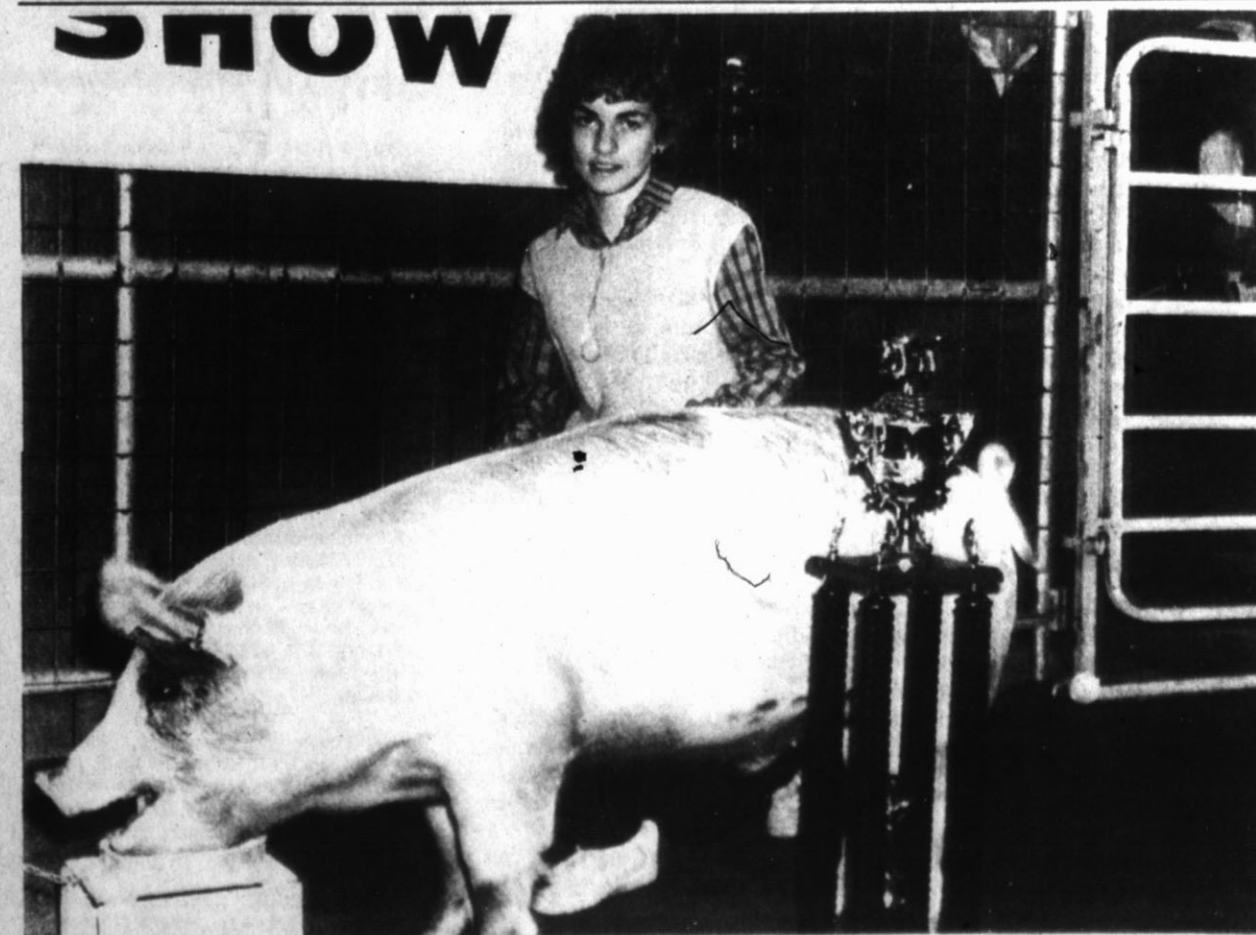

Brown, the overall reserve grand champion, was found to be the four-county leader in hampshire judging. Matt Schilling of Hereford FFA was reserve grand champion and first in the county, which had Kelley Christie of Hereford FFA as its reserve champion.

Polands were topped by Alan Armstrong of Dimmitt FFA, with Monty Joe Adams of Hereford FFA reserve grand and county champion. Patrick Newton, a member of Deaf Smith 4-H, was second in county judging.

The highest yorkshire honor went to Shannon Cochran of Parmer 4-H, with Hart FFA's Mike Malone earning second place in the four counties. The Deaf Smith winners were Chris Grotgeut of Hereford FFA and Deaf Smith 4-H's Thad Hill.

Following are complete details of Thursday's swine show.

State

Prison boss wants more staff

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas may have to spend nearly a half billion dollars before the nation's second-largest prison system is in shape, the chairman of the House Committee on Law Enforcement says.

"Other departments may have to suffer," Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville, warned after touring several state prisons on Thursday.

Keller and members of his committee, which oversees the Corrections Department, along with the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, were briefed by Department of Corrections Director Raymond Procunier, who served as tour guide for the inspection.

Procunier also put in a pitch for an "astronomical number" of staff additions to put his department in order.

Rep. Bill Blackwood of Mesquite said that while the department is "headed toward a solution," Procunier probably would not get his requests granted in a single year. "This is a growing process," Blackwood said.

White 'concerned' about pact

AUSTIN (AP) — Proclaiming that the state would "not rubber stamp some dream" of ideal care for prison inmates, Gov. Mark White said he is concerned that a state lawyer may have gone too far in negotiating a proposed prison lawsuit settlement.

White told his weekly news conference Thursday that he wants Texas prisons to meet minimum standards set by the courts, but he doesn't want the prisons spending more money than necessary on inmates.

"We're not going to be sitting back and rubber stamping some dream or some scheme or whatever it might be to put in place over there, a system that is not required by either the law or the Constitution," he said.

The compromise reached Wednesday between lawyers for inmates and the Texas Department of Corrections called for 500 more single-inmate cells and a 60-day cut in sentences of prisoners who complete educational or vocational programs.

It also called for building a $6.5 million psychiatric hospital at the Ellis II Unit near Huntsville. The money was appropriated by the Legislature two years ago for a 450-bed medical hospital at another prison.

Remains identified as victim

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Human bones found in a field near a railroad track have been identified as those of one of five women missing or found slain over the past four months.

The skeletal remains found Wednesday afternoon by a construction crew were those of Catherine Davis, 23, said James Seaberry, an investigator for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office.

The woman was reported missing Sept. 30 after her tiny garage apartment was destroyed in a fire. Her car was found later in an apartment complex parking lot.

Miss Davis, 23, was one of the women whose disappearances in southwest Fort Worth resulted in the formation two weeks ago of a special police task force.

Authorities said Thursday Miss Davis' remains were found within a 12-mile radius of the southwest Fort Worth area where she and three of the four other women vanished.

The bones were scattered over a 50- to 70-foot area about 50 yards west of the Santa Fe Railway tracks, police said. Identification was made through dental records, officials said.

National

Station silent, backers irked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radio Marti, the Reagan administration's bid to broadcast directly to the people of Cuba, is still on the drawing board 14 months after being authorized, generating impatience, puzzlement, and consternation among its backers.

The delay has angered members of the Florida congressional delegation and other legislators as well as some officials who have been working on the project since the outset.

"We are ready to go on the air six to seven hours a day," said one official at the Voice of America, the agency responsible for station.

Six weeks ago, Rep. Dante Fascell, a Miami Democrat who is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, wrote a letter to President Reagan expressing "deep disappointment" over the delay. He asked the president for an explanation but an aide said Thursday no reply has been received.

Also expressing concern to Reagan have been Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., among others.

Rogene Waite, a VOA spokeswoman, said the problem relates partly to getting security clearances for scores of prospective employees, many of whom were born in Cuba.

Secret satellite launch set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's astronauts, their conversations encoded, are ready to deploy a $300 million super spy satellite whose fate depends on a $50 million rocket stage which failed its only other shuttle assignment two years ago.

Sources reported the satellite was to be released today, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Pentagon said they will not confirm it has been deployed until much later in the flight. The reporting delay is one of several measures being taken to confound Soviet tracking efforts during this first classified U.S. manned space flight.

The mission began at 2:50 p.m. EST Thursday after a secret countdown, whose status was revealed publicly just nine minutes before liftoff. Missing as the spaceship arose spectacularly into space were the voices of the astronauts.

Throughout the flight, expected to last until at least Tuesday, reporters will not be able to listen to space-to-ground communications, reversing the practice in 45 previous missions. And even if they could listen in, the conversations are encoded.

Inspectors worry about safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union Carbide Corp. safety inspectors concluded there was "real potential" for the type of toxic gas leak that killed more than 2,000 people in Bhopal, India, to occur at a company pesticide plant in West Virginia.

"A real potential for a serious incident exists," a company safety team concluded in a memo last September after inspecting Union Carbide's Institute, W.Va., pesticide plant where methyl isocyanate was manufactured until the Dec. 3 disaster at a sister plant in Bhopal.

Dick Henderson, a spokesman at the Institute plant, said the safety team — which stated that the problems were not "imminent hazards requiring immediate correction" — plays "a devil's advocate. They take the worst-case scenario."

The report cited the "possibility of a runaway reaction" if water mixed with the chemical and warned that "response to such a situation would not be timely or effective enough to prevent catastrophic failure of the (MIC storage) tank."

Jack Elder

Sanctuary movement worker wants to work

By DAVID SEDENO Associated Press Writer

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Sanctuary movement worker Jack Elder, acquitted of transporting illegal Salvadoran aliens, says he's ready to get back to work at a shelter for Central Americans despite facing another trial on the same charge.

"I expect to go back to Casa Romero and continue working there," Elder, the director of the halfway house for Central Americans in San Benito, said Thursday.

Elder, 41, was charged with transporting three Salvadoran illegal aliens from the shelter to a bus station in Harlingen.

He sat stoically throughout five days of pretrial hearings and three days of trial.

When U.S. District Judge Hayden Head Jr. read the verdict from the seven-man, five-woman jury, Elder bowed his head and his wife, Diane, sitting behind him in the spectator area, placed her face in her hands and sighed.

Stacey Lynn Merkt, another volunteer at Casa Oscar Romero, and Elder face another trial Feb. 5 in Brownsville on charges of transporting illegal aliens. Ms. Merkt, 30, already is on two years' probation for her conviction last May on similar charges.

Elder declined to discuss the next trial because the judge in that case has issued a gag order. But he said he thought his acquittal Wednesday would help.

Elder faces a maximum of 15 years in prison and a total of $6,000 in fines if convicted.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Berg, who prosecuted Elder, said he was "surprised" by the verdict.

Berg had called five witnesses — two U.S. Border Patrol agents and three Salvadorans.

In closing arguments, he urged the jury to find Elder guilty, saying Elder knew that the three Salvadorans had entered the country illegally and that they wanted a ride to the bus station to get to Houston.

That, the prosecutor contended, showed that Elder attempted to help the Salvadorans get into the interior of the United States.

But jurors, deliberating less than two hours, disagreed.

They said the government failed to prove that Elder tried to further the illegal journey of the Salvadorans.

Defense attorney Steve Cooper, who called only four witnesses, said he still believes federal prosecutors singled out Elder.

"There's was nothing wrong with what Jack did ... I think if it hadn't been Mr. Elder they would never have brought these charges. I think these charges were absurd," he said.

Federal officials have maintained that the Central Americans are coming into the United States for economic, not political, reasons as sanctuary movement leaders claim.

Cooper told the jury that Elder should be acquitted because the government did not have a case.

"This is a simple little situation where a man gives a ride three miles down the road," Cooper told the jury.

A victory champagne celebration followed the acquittal as well-wishers gathered at a private residence and toasted the Elders. Cooper and Lisa Brodyaga, the other defense attorney.

Ms. Merkt, in Tucson, Ariz., for a sanctuary seminar, said the verdict was "a window of justice and a glimpse of hope" for refugees.

When asked if he would give undocumented workers a ride, Elder said, "I think we always try to take care of people's basic needs and some folks need rides."

President contending Iran aides Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, pushing for renewed CIA backing of Nicaraguan rebels in the face of congressional opposition, is raising the specter that Iran may funnel arms or terrorists into leftist-ruled Nicaragua.

President Reagan brought up the subject of Iranian aid Thursday, telling a group of legislators from Western Hemisphere democracies: "A new danger we see in Central America is the support being given to the Sandinistas by Col. Khadafy's Libya, the PLO and most recently, the Ayatollah Khomeini's Iran."

Administration officials had previously linked Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy and the Palestine Liberation Organization to Nicaragua, but Reagan's statement was the first suggestion that Iran had joined the radical forces assisting the country's Marxist-led Sandinista regime.

Reagan gave no details, and White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "I don't think I want to go beyond what the president said, at the moment."

A U.S. official, speaking on the condition that he not be identified, said the current Nicaraguan visit of Iranian Prime Minister Mir Hossein Mousavi had created concerns about a possible arms deal and a possible oil deal between the two countries.

"Our third and most serious concern has to do with terrorism," the official said. "Western Hemisphere terrorism has so far not been of the Iranian suicide-bombing style."

Speakes said Reagan's remarks about Iran were based on "other factors" in addition to Hossein Mousavi's visit, but declined to say what the factors were.

Radio Havana, in a broadcast monitored in Miami, said Hossein Mousavi went to Nicaragua after conferring with Cuban President Fidel Castro in Havana about "problems of the area."

Reagan addressed the first Western Hemisphere Legislative Leaders Forum, co-sponsored by the Western Hemisphere Subcommittee of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Boston University, and the Center for Democracy, a newly formed adjunct of the university that studies issues ranging from presidential campaign laws to Central American policy.

Allen Weinstein, director of the center, said the conference was attended by 52 legislators from a score of democratic countries.

Paul Harvey Zaccaro

Once upon a time when the mayor of Chicago was Richard J. Daley he was confronted at a news conference with a challenging question.

The young lady with bobbed hair, horn-rim glasses and a sharp pencil said, "Mr. Mayor, are you aware that street repair contracts have been let to one of your own in-laws without any competitive bids being considered?"

His Honor appeared incredulous. To the reporter he said, "Young lady, what kind of a man would I be if I didn't look after my kin?"

Now the reporter has two choices. She can make a public issue of the paving contracts, criticize the mayor for looking after his kin in a city where that was expected...

Or she can drop the subject. She dropped the subject.

I was reflecting on how far we have not come between then and now when I received the most recent update on the trials of John Zaccaro.

On Feb. 20 John Zaccaro, having confessed to fraud, will be sentenced. The financial shuffle which got him into trouble is not unique.

He and friends wanted to buy some buildings with money borrowed from Prudential-Bache.

He altered a copy of an appraisal of the property to make it appear worth more, to make the loan appear more secure.

His document said the apartments were worth $15.5 million when, in fact, they had been appraised for only $11.9 million.

Further to impress the lender with what a good credit risk he was, Zaccaro, is—he listed his personal net worth at $21.6 million when, in fact, he is worth only about $4 million.

Had Zaccaro been able to get away with these two counts of "scheming to defraud" he would have received a $333,000 commission plus 8 percent ownership in the five apartment buildings.

I'm told that Zaccaro, in a deal with the DA, was willing to plead guilty to this one offense in order to escape jail on other charges.

Scheming to defraud on a real-estate contract in New York is a misdemeanor, nothing more.

That means Zaccaro, Feb. 20, will get off with no more than a $1,000 fine — and perhaps less.

Nor will he necessarily forfeit his real estate license, under New York law.

The grand jury continues to investigate Zaccaro and friends, conceivably could yet find grounds for felony conviction.

But so far he has "beat the rap." (c) 1985, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Both sides claim win in Time-Sharon case

NEW YORK (AP) — Both sides claimed victory after the jury in Ariel Sharon's $50 million libel suit against Time Inc. said the magazine acted "negligently and carelessly" but ruled against the former Israeli defense minister on the crucial issue of actual malice.

The verdict Thursday meant that even though the panel had earlier found the Time article about Sharon's alleged role in the massacre of hundreds of Palestinians to be false and defamatory, it decided the piece did not libel Sharon.

"We find that certain Time employees, particularly correspondent David Halevy, acted negligently and carelessly in reporting and verifying the information which ultimately found its way into the published paragraph of interest in this case," the jury said in an unusual statement released after the verdict was announced. Halevy was Time's Jerusalem correspondent.

"He (Halevy) was careless, and we found him to be careless, but we didn't think he was actually out to hurt Sharon with malice," juror Patricia DeLoatch, 27, said after the verdict.

Another juror, Lydia Burdick, 35, said, "The bottom line was that he believed what he had written was true, which meant he did not act with actual malice."

The verdict gave both sides an opportunity to claim victory. "There's no question we won," Ray Cave, Time's managing editor, said after the ruling ended a 10-week trial. "You can only have one verdict in a legal case — either you win it or you lose it."

"We came in order to prove that Time magazine lied and we managed to prove that they lied," said Sharon, now Israel's minister of industry and commerce.

The jury decided a disputed paragraph published by Time on Feb. 21, 1983, was defamatory and false, but did not show evidence of "actual malice" — that Time published the paragraph knowing it was false, or with "reckless disregard" for whether it was true or false.

Sharon claimed the Time cover story libeled him by saying he reportedly had "discussed" revenge for the assassination of Lebanese president-elect Bashir Gemayel — head of the Phalangists — one day before the Christian militiamen massacred hundreds of Palestinians at two refugee camps in Israeli-occupied West Beirut.

At issue in the trial which began Nov. 13 were the confidential sources of an internal memo from Halevy on Dec. 6, 1982, reporting that Sharon had given the Phalangists "the feeling" he understood their need for vengeance, and how the phrase was turned into a story reporting "Time has learned" Sharon "reportedly discussed" revenge.

Cave conceded Thursday that Time had made "a very minor mistake" in its story, for which it has run a correction, and that "in the short run, there's no question that a certain amount of damage has been done" to Time's reputation. He insisted the substance of the Sharon story was true.

Sharon said Thursday he was not disappointed he failed to win the $50 million.

Musical 'Snoopy' opens

The opening night for the musical "Snoopy," presented by the Good Guys Nazarene youth, is planned this evening at the Community Center with proceeds going to a mission trip to Haiti.

Beginning at 7 p.m., desserts will be served and the performance will start at 8 p.m. The performance Saturday evening is scheduled at the same time.

During the matinee slated at 2 p.m. Sunday, a bicycle, donated by White's Auto Store, will be given as a door prize to a child 12 years or age younger.

Tickets may still be purchased at Thames Pharmacy, Caryn's Hallmark, Frosty's Meat Market or by calling 364-8303. During the evening performances, tickets are priced at $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12 and during the matinee price of admission is $4 and $2.50.

Consider how much more difficult it would be to lug home the work you never expect to do, without the convenience of a briefcase.

There's nothing like the aroma of some gift cigars to make you long for a stroll behind a diesel bus for a breath of fresh air.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Women of the Church are sponsoring a program for the entire congregation featuring Nancy and Charles Ross, missionaries to Zaire, Africa.

The covered dish luncheon is planned to begin at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the church. Everyone is encouraged to attend the lunch and inspirational program.

SAN JOSE CATHOLIC CHURCH

San Jose Catholic Church, 13th and Brevard, is sponsoring a "Day of Forgiveness and Healing" at 3 p.m. Sunday. Special guest speaker will be Father Joseph Stable, C.M., pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in Pampa.

This special day of prayer for forgiveness and healing was originally suggested to Bishop L.T. Matthiesen, Bishop of Amarillo, by Father Ralph DiOrio, internationally known speaker with the extraordinary gift of healing and evangelization who spoke at the Amarillo Civil Center the weekend of June 9-10.

Father DiOrio suggested to Bishop Matthiesen that such days of prayer for healing should continue through the Diocese on a periodic basis. The first of these days was held in September 1984 at St. Vincent de Paul Church with outstanding success.

Bishop Matthiesen then asked Father Joe Bixenman, pastor of San Jose Church in Hereford to host the next day.

This special day is open to everyone, Catholic and Protestant alike. The service will be in both English and Spanish and there will be time during the service for individual prayer for anyone who may wish to have someone pray for them for forgiveness and healing.

Ann Landers

'Never say never'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Over the years, in reading your column, I have seen your recommend counseling many times. Until recently I had the impression you thought this was a cure-all.

My husband and I enjoyed a lengthy, happy courtship. Our marriage seemed destined to become one of the few happy ones. Slowly, however the marriage fell apart. Nothing I did seemed to make my husband happy and I grew more and more aware that I was less than what he had bargained for. I developed a poor self-image and blamed him for it. I decided divorce was the answer.

My closest friend had recommended that I see a counselor time and again. Finally she made a deal with me to try one session with a counselor she had seen during her husband's reform from alcoholism. I went and have been going ever since. The changes were almost immediate. The counselor showed me what a valuable person I was. My husband decided to start seeing her as well. Our marriage has never been better and we've been going for only five months. Among other things we now enjoy an active, healthy sex life (we made love twice in 1983).

My advice to anyone out there who has a problem is GET COUNSELING! What do you have to lose? Even if your marriage cannot be saved, counseling can help you adjust to a new life and regain your self-respect. Ask your gynecologist to recommend a therapist.

Most therapists will work out convenient payment schedules and weekend sessions for those who work and often a work-related insurance policy will cover the cost.

A therapist won't take sides, but he or she can be there to talk to and by doing so will help YOU solve your problems. My husband and I can't get over the fact that we were within inches of divorce and were able to pull ourselves back. You can, too.—Never Say Never

DEAR NEVER: Thanks for sharing your story. So often when I have recommended counseling, I've been accused of copping out. Your letter has said it better than I could. Bless you.

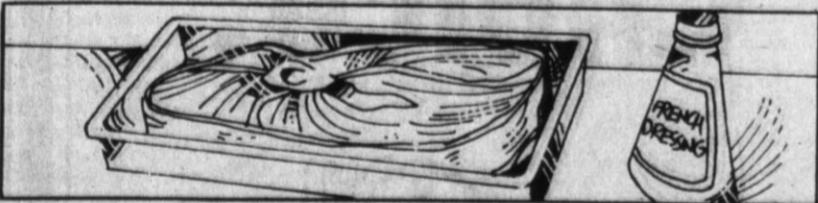

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read about a woman who was taking a shower when her hair dryer fell into the tub. The dryer was plugged in but not turned on. The woman was electrocuted. Another person stepped out of a shower, turned on his electric hair dryer and because he was standing in a small puddle, he too was electrocuted and died.

Every year at least 600 people are electrocuted in their homes. Touching exposed sockets and using appliances and lamps with faulty wiring can cause death. Fires that destroy homes may also result from faulty wiring.

People need to have their homes checked for possible hazards. They also should consider installing circuit breakers. They are very inexpensive when one considers what they may save in the long run.

I don't think I've ever seen this topic in your column, Ann. Will you please print my letter? A life may be saved.—Bessie In The Bronx

DEAR BESSIE: I just did. Thanks for writing.

A tasty way to fix steak is to marinate it in French dressing for a short time, then broil as usual.

Hereford - People Helping People

In 1900, people were coming from all walks of life to Hereford - looking for a better way to live. These pioneers were looking for a small community that would survive the hard times. They wanted to raise their families in a safe environment and be able to retire with their spouses, secure in the knowledge that their children would have the same opportunities for success which they had.

When our bank was chartered, we made a commitment to Hereford and the surrounding community. We still hold that same strict policy. We've set out to become a part of Hereford and a part of the people in the Texas Panhandle. We believe that a strong community needs a strong bank. That's why people have counted on the First National Bank of Hereford for over 84 years. It's this kind of dedicated service that has made us the bank with the pioneer spirit.

Adult, youth programs at YMCA announced

Adult Classes
Coed conditioning, flexibility and strengthening, and aerobicise classes currently are underway at Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, 500 15th St., Susan Marnell announced Thursday.

The new fitness director at the Y listed times for coed conditioning classes as: 7:10 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 12:10 p.m. Monday and Friday; and 5:30 p.m. Monday and Friday. Class times for aerobicise classes are 9 a.m. Monday and Friday, and 4:15 p.m. Monday and Friday. Time for the flexibility and strengthening class is 8:30 a.m. Monday and Friday.

The classes are for persons aged 16 and over. However, an all-senior citizens flexibility and strengthening class is to be offered beginning Feb. 11, Marnell said.

The coed conditioning classes are tailored for men and begin with a warmup stretching exercise. Classes will take a person through muscle toning warmups, aerobic jogging-type routines, abdominal hip and leg conditioning and cool-down stretches. The exercises are to be set to music, Marnell said.

For the aerobicise classes, warmup routines should begin each session. There will be abdominal strengthening exercises and such vigorous activities as jogging, skipping and jumping mixed with simple dance steps.

The aerobicise classes will be choreographed whereas the coed conditioning classes will be set to music only.

The flexibility and strengthening classes are comprised of low-level stretching and muscle toning, set to music.

Fee for the coed conditioning and aerobicise classes is $10 per calendar month for Y members and $20 per month for non-Y members. For the flexibility and strengthening classes, fee is $5 per calendar month for Y members and $10 for non-Y members.

Participants in the classes must wear light-color-soled shoes. They are requested to bring a mat, heavy towel or rug to sit on during the floor exercises.

Marnell is certified through Aerobicise, Inc., in Wichita, Kan., Mary Mayta and Nancy Gabriel in rhythmic activities. She has been in Hereford for three and one-half years, previously teaching classes in Friona.

Marnell said the emphasis of the programs would be on workouts, not dance steps, with participants working at the own rates of speed.

"We want to have fun," she added. A babysitter is to be available from 8:30-10 a.m. and from 4-8 p.m.

For more information, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Youth Gymnastics

Pre-registration for youth gymnastics at Hereford and Vicinity YMCA is to begin at 6 p.m. today at the YMCA, 500 15th St.

Continuous enrollment will be offered thereafter.

Women's artistic gymnastics in the Olympics involve four events, vaulting, uneven bars, balance beam and floor exercises.

The YMCA gymnastics program is designed to include all aspects of gymnastics in four age divisions — 3- and 4-year olds, 5- and 6-year olds, 7-through 9-year olds, and 9-year olds and up. Classes are to begin Feb. 1.

Girls in the program will work on uneven bars, the balance beam, vault, floor exercise and tumbling. Girls also will work on trampoline and mini tramp.

Boys are scheduled to work within the framework of the class until an all-boys class can be formed. Classes will be formed according to age then broken into skill-level groups. They will be progressive in nature, each student working within his skill level.

Pre-school children will work on body awareness, special awareness and motor skills.

Fee is $22 per month for YMCA members and $30 per month for non-Y members. Classes are to be held on Fridays from 2-3 p.m. for the youngest group, 4:30-5:30 p.m. for 5- and 6-year olds, 5:30-6:30 p.m. for children aged 7 through 9 and 6:30-7:30 p.m. for ages 9 and up.

Bob Cowley, of Muleshoe, will be instructor. Cowley is the owner and director of Muleshoe Dance and Gymnastics, coaching both boys and girls competitive teams to compete under United States Gymnastics Federation guidelines. Before he was in Muleshoe, Cowley was manager and coach for Metroplex Gymnastics in Mesquite.

He has been coaching and teaching gymnastics professionally for six and one-half years.

Cowley has taught gymnastics for Southwest Texas State University and West Texas State University. He received his bachelor's degree in physical education from WTSU and is a nationally certified coach under the United States Association of Independent Gymnastic Clubs.

Cowley is a member of USGF and of United States Gymnastics Safety Association.

NCAA makes revisions

Rule change benefits blockers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

College football will have a new rule this fall designed to bring uniformity to run-blocking and pass-blocking. And while it may indeed benefit teams that like to run the ball, the people it will probably help the most are the officials.

In the most significant rules change — none of which should raise the ire of too many coaches — the NCAA has fully liberalized its blocking rule to permit blockers to fully extend their arms on both running and passing plays.

"This will certainly help from the standpoint that officials will be able to call penalties," said Army Coach Jim Young, whose team led the nation in rushing last fall. "It's been a real problem to figure out what's legal and what's not."

Under the old rule, blockers were not allowed to extend their arms "more than one-half of a full extension" unless they were blocking "behind the neutral zone while retreating" — i.e., pass-blocking. They may now legally block with the shoulder, hands, outer surface of the arm or any other part of the body provided the hands are in advance of the elbows, inside the frames of both the blocker's and the opponent's bodies and at or below the shoulder of the player being blocked.

"It's not that big a deal and I don't think it will make any difference," said Pat Dye of Auburn, another team that likes to run the ball. "They're just legalizing something that everyone's been doing."

There have been numerous complaints in recent years that offensive linemen were holding on almost every play. The uproar reached a peak following national champion Brigham Young's 24-17 victory over Michigan in the Holiday Bowl when BYU Coach LaVell Edwards claimed it was a misconception that passing teams do more holding than running teams. He cited run-oriented Michigan and Ohio State as two of the principal offenders. Michigan's Bo Schembechler replied that BYU, the nation's top passing team in seven of the last nine years, "should be outlawed, absolutely outlawed" for its alleged holding tactics.

"I don't think this (new rule) will help anybody (i.e., running teams)," said David M. Nelson, secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Football Rules Committee. "We're just getting into the flow of the game the way 75 percent of the teams are playing. The American Football Coaches Association's rules committee asked that this be done."

The rules committee met this week at Point Clear, Ala., and the changes were announced Thursday at NCAA headquarters in Mission, Kan.

In another key change, the committee abolished after one year the rule that gave the receiving team the ball at its 30-yard line when a kickoff carried beyond the end zone on the fly. It went back to the old rule which puts the ball at the 20 on all touchbacks.

Among other changes, goalpost uprights must extend to at least 20 feet above the crossbar by 1987 to help officials rule on field goal tries and quarterbacks will have an unlimited amount of time in which to get a play off if crowd noise is too loud.

NBA roundup

Coach's gamble pays off for Bucks

By The Associated Press

Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson is a gambling man — and it paid off against the Kansas City Kings.

"We took a gamble playing (guard Sidney) Moncrief in the second half with four fouls," Nelson said. "He didn't get his fifth until late in the game, and I didn't think we could win without him, so I left him in."

Moncrief scored 28 points, while Terry Cummings led Milwaukee with 34, including the game-winning basket, as the Bucks edged Kansas City 120-119 Thursday night in their National Basketball Association game.

"I'm playing an up-tempo game," Nelson said, talking about another gamble. "I'm not sure it was the right decision, but we won. I was afraid that if it got into a low-scoring game, it might end up who had the best shooters."

In other NBA games, Detroit clobbered Golden State 137-118. Washington nipped Dallas 93-92. Cleveland edged Utah 110-109 and Denver defeated New Jersey 119-110.

After LaSalle Thompson sank two free throws, Eddie Johnson hit a basket to give Kansas City a 119-118 lead with 48 seconds left. But Cummings sank a jump shot from the top of the key eight seconds later to give Milwaukee the victory.

"Our game plan was to run them," Cummings said. "We know that they are a running team, but at times they tend to tire near the latter part of the game. But what we tried to do was run them and maybe wear them down, and I think it kind of worked in our favor."

Kansas City had one last chance at the victory, but Reggie Theus' shot from three-point range was short and Otis Thorpe's tip-in was discounted, the officials ruling it came after the final buzzer.

"Anyone got an extra second? We could have used one," said Kings Coach Phil Johnson.

Bullets 93, Mavericks 92

Darren Daye's field goal capped a five-point Washington streak as the Bullets overcame an early 17-point Dallas lead to edge the Mavericks.

The Bullets played without injured frontcourt players Jeff Ruland, Rich Mahorn and Cliff Robinson. Tom McMillen, Washington's biggest player at 6-foot-11, fouled out with 4:04 remaining.

Greg Ballard, at 6-7, was forced to play center, and he responded with a career-high 20 rebounds.

Gus Williams led Washington with 31 points, while Dallas was paced by Mark Aguirre with 28.

Pistons 137, Warriors 118

Isiah Thomas scored 15 of his 21 points in the third period and Bill Laimbeer finished with 26 to lead Detroit over Golden State. It was the Pistons' sixth straight victory, while the Warriors lost their 13th in a row.

Purvis Short scored 28 points to lead Golden State.

Thomas broke a Piston record for assists in a quarter when he had 11 in the first period. He leads the NBA with 12.5 assists per game and had 19 for the game.

Nuggets 119, Nets 110

Alex English scored 14 of his 31 points in the third period and Dan Issel led a fourth-quarter surge, finishing with 20 points, to lead Denver over New Jersey.

The Nuggets' fourth straight victory increased their lead in the Midwest Division to 1½ games over Houston and three over Dallas. It was New Jersey's fourth straight loss.

Buck Williams, with a season-high 30 points, led the Nets.

Cavaliers 110, Jazz 109

A short jumper with eight seconds remaining by Johnny Davis lifted Cleveland to its victory over Utah.

World B. Free, who had a game-high 35 points, missed a layup, but Davis grabbed the rebound and scored the game-winner. Utah's Rickey Green missed a jumper from the top of the key at the final buzzer.

LENDING STRENGTH FOR FIFTY YEARS

At Madison Square Garden

Millrose Games begin tonight

By BERT ROSENTHAL AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Eamonn Coghlan will be chasing Glenn Cunningham, who hasn't run in 40 years, tonight in the Wanamaker Mile in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

Carl Lewis and Mary Decker will be chasing their own world indoor marks.

Coghlan, nicknamed "The Chairman of the Boards" for his skill in negotiating the tight, banked turns of indoor tracks, has five victories in five appearances in the Wanamaker Mile, having won in 1977, 1979, 1980, 1981 and 1983. The meet record for the event is six — in eight races — by Cunningham, a member of the National Track and Field Hall of Fame and the most dominant middle-distance runner during the 1930s.

Coghlan, who missed the entire 1984 indoor and outdoor seasons with stress fractures of the right shin, has run the fastest indoor mile in history — 3 minutes, 49.78 seconds — the only sub-3:50 clocking ever on boards — in 1983 at East Rutherford, N.J.

The 32-year-old native of Ireland has run twice this season — and won twice. He opened the year with a leisurely 4:11.07 clocking at Ottawa Jan. 11, then followed with an impressive 3:56.34 victory at Los Angeles last Friday night, beating American indoor and outdoor record holder Steve Scott by one-hundredth of a second.

"It's not how you win, but whether you win," said Coghlan, winner of 42 of 54 indoor races at a mile or 1,500 meters (a metric mile) during his career.

In the women's mile, Decker, unbeaten in an indoor race since 1976, will be shooting to crack her record of 4:20.5, set at San Diego in 1982. She is coming off a scintillating victory in her season opener, having smashed the world indoor best by some nine seconds in the women's 2,000 meters last week at Los Angeles.

She has vowed to break marks in all three indoor events she races this season, being spurred by her unglamorous fall — and subsequent injuries — in the 1984 Olympic 3,000 meters after a collision with Zola Budd and criticism from some runners for her failure to apologize to the 18-year-old South African native.

One of Decker's severest critics has been Ruth Wysocki, who upset her in the U.S. Olympic 1,500-meter trials. Decker got some revenge last week, beating Wysocki by about 11 seconds in the 2,000.

Wysocki, contending that she was fired at Los Angeles following a flight from Japan, requested another shot at Decker tonight, after originally being entered in the 800 meters.

"I can't wait for my next race," Decker said after her sizzling 2,000. "I feel great."

Meanwhile, Lewis, winner of Olympic gold medals in the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, 400-meter relay and long jump, will be competing for the first time this year.

Lewis, owner of the best indoor long jump ever — 28 feet, 10 1/4 inches, a distance he reached in last year's Millrose Games and which he has equalled outdoors — still is seeking the elusive 29-foot barrier. Only Bob Beamon of the United States, with a leap of 29-2 1/2 in the 1968 Olympics, has surpassed 29 feet.

Smiling Player

Hereford's Stacie High grimaces as she maneuvers between two Plainview basketball players and heads for another during Tuesday night's District 3-5A action in Plainview. The Whitefaces are to be in action today when they host Caprock for four games — the girls varsity and boys junior varsity games beginning at 6 p.m., and the boys varsity and girls junior varsity games starting at 7:45 p.m.

Lanny Wadkins leads at L.A.

Watson's 4-under round off pace

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Watson opened his 1985 PGA Tour season with a 67, 4-under-par on one of golf's better courses.

That's good, he said. But he's four shots off the pace after the first round of the Los Angeles Open.

That's bad. He's four shots back of Lanny Wadkins.

And that's worse. "He's playing really, really well," Watson said Thursday. "Right now he's at the top of his game. And when Lanny gets it on a roll, he can shoot numbers as low as anybody. You never want to overlook Lanny."

"He's dangerous. He's like a cobra in a basket with the lid off."

Wadkins, who opened the PGA

Tour season with a victory in the Bob Hope Classic, scored four deuces, missed only one green and didn't even come close to making a bogey as he tied the Riviera Country Club course record with a 63, a spectacular performance that could have been even better. He missed one putt from about 6 feet and lipped out four others.

"We caught Riviera on a very vulnerable day," Wadkins said. "The greens were soft, the tees were up and there was practically no wind."

Watson agreed.

"It played about as easy as I've ever seen it," he said that ranks among the more demanding the touring pros encounter.

The ideal conditions produced some of the lowest scores Riviera has ever yielded.

Tony Sills, who once caddied at Riviera, chipped in for an eagle-3 on the first hole and used that start as a springboard to a 65 that tied him for second with Pat Lindsey, two shots back.

More baseball players file for salary arbitration

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen major league baseball players, including relief ace Jesse Orosco of the New York Mets and Bill Caudill of the Toronto Blue Jays and Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs, filed for salary arbitration Thursday.

The additions brought to 26 the total of players who have filed, with another day to go before Friday's deadline.

Orosco notched 31 saves and had a 2.59 earned run average and 10-6 record in 1984. Caudill collected 36 saves last season, while posting a 9-7 record and 2.71 earned run average. Boggs hit .325 for the Red Sox and was in the thick of the batting race all season.

Others filing for salary arbitration Thursday were Carlos Diaz and Mike Scioscia of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Charley Leibrandt and Joe Beckwith of the Kansas City Royals, Mike Fischlin of the Cleveland Indians, Marty Barrett of the Boston Red Sox, Gary Redus of the Cincinnati Reds, Jack Perconte of the Seattle Mariners, and Doug Sisk and Ed Lynch of the Mets.

Under the arbitration setup, players and their teams present their cases for contracts before an impartial arbitrator, each submitting a salary figure. The arbitrator chooses one of the figures.

Our new HOMESTYLE FULL MEAL DEAL™

is better than ever.

But it still doesn't amount to much. You're gonna find that our new HOMESTYLE Full Meal Deal™ amounts to a lot of good eating. With a quarter-pound* 100% beef HOMESTYLE Hungr-buster™ that looks, cooks and tastes like homemade. A regular order of golden french fries. A refreshing medium soft drink. And a creamy 5 oz. D.Q. Sundae with your choice of topping. But where it doesn't amount to much is at the cash register. It's still only $2.59. And only at Dairy Queen.

STILL ONLY $2.59

January 14 thru February 24, 1985

Dairy Queen

Girl Scouting comes to Deaf Smith county

Girl Scout Troop 188 and their leaders Mary Riley, Wanda McKibben and Donna McKibben have recently formed a troop and are inviting interested girls in grades 4-6 to join the Junior Girl Scout Troop.

Girl Scouting is a movement dedicated to the development of girls and women from all segments of American life. Based on ethical values, Girl Scouting offers its members opportunities to fulfill their individual potential, make new friends and make positive contributions to the larger community.

The Girl Scout program of informal education features a broad range of activities that allow girls to have fun while they develop skills and self-confidence. Girls are encouraged to participate in meaningful community service projects so that they may acquire understanding of themselves and others.

Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., with a membership of nearly three million, is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world. The Amarillo Girl Scout Council serves girls in Carson, Deaf Smith, Moore, Oldham, Potter, Randall and Swisher Counties and has a membership of over 2,000 girls.

Girls and adults interested in becoming Girl Scouts may contact the troop leaders or the Council Field Director, Susie Garcia, at 806-373-3031. The Amarillo Girl Scout Council furnishes Adult Education Courses in Girl Scout Leadership for adults interested in becoming troop leaders.

Guild to present scholarship

The Hereford Art Guild met in the Art Room at the Community Center Tuesday afternoon with Carrie Mae Doak, president, presiding at the business meeting.

Audrey Rusher read the minutes of the November meeting. Hilda Haven opened the meeting by quoting an original poem. The members then gave the mistakes they make most often in painting.

During the business meeting, members decided to present a scholarship of $100 to an art student at Hereford High School. The student will be chosen by Gala Kimball, high school art teacher, and the art guild committee. Lottie Wertenberger announced a benefit chili supper for the Red Cross to be March 2 from 5 to 7 p.m.

Kimball and Amy Mason, a student at Hereford High School, gave a presentation of students' work from the high school. The works were in water color, pencil and oils. Kimball explained that she started teaching here with a goal of teaching 12 different areas of art.

Refreshments were served to 11 members and two guests by the hostesses, Hilda Haven and Vernia Elliott.

Retirement village open house slated

On Saturday from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. residents of Palo Duro Retirement Village will hold Open House at their new home at No. 9 Hospital Drive in Canyon. All interested persons are invited.

The Palo Duro Retirement Village was developed and built by the Palo Duro Village Cooperative. Members of the cooperative make up the majority of the Village. However, about twelve units of the sixty-seven will be sub-leased to non-members. Residents at the Village must be fifty years of age or older.

The new Palo Duro Retirement Village is unique in many ways. There is no initial endowment fee required. The building is fire-proof and sound-proof. Around-the-clock security is provided. The Board of Directors elected by the Cooperative members runs the business of the Cooperative. Maximum independence of each member is maintained.

There are six different floor plans in the sixty-seven apartment units. Twelve of these units are now for lease and ten are for sale.

Health Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Plaque

DEAR DR. LAMB - Two years ago my husband had what our doctor called a mini-stroke. His right arm and leg became numb and useless, but he didn't feel sick in any way. This lasted about an hour and he recovered completely. The doctor put him on aspirin and Dipyridamole. He said the Dipyridamole would dissolve the plaque that he might have in his neck arteries.

I have heard there is nothing on the market that will dissolve plaque. I don't want my husband taking something that he shouldn't or that won't do him any good.

My brother, 65, is dying from a stroke caused by plaque in his neck. The doctor said his brothers and sisters should be checked for plaque, since it is hereditary. Is this true? I already have a sister who is headed for a stroke. She is younger than I, and I'm 70. I weigh 105 and am 5 feet tall. What can we do to stop this? I'm very worried.

DEAR READER - Dipyridamole inhibits the formation of blood clots. It works by inhibiting the clumping of blood cells and platelet action, which comprise the first part of clot formation. Dipyridamole is used, often along with aspirin, to help prevent clotting action that may block arteries. Therefore, it is used to prevent heart attacks and strokes caused by clots.

Your husband was very lucky. Short-duration stroke symptoms are called a transitory ischemic attack (TIA). The only difference between a TIA and a stroke is the short duration of symptoms and absence of permanent damage.

The two conditions may have different causes. The fatty-cholesterol deposits that your doctor correctly calls plaque do occur in families whose members tend to have high cholesterol levels. Have your risk factors checked. The main ones are high blood pressure, high cholesterol and smoking. If your risk factors are OK, your outlook is good.

Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall is the first black man to be appointed to the Supreme Court.

New guidelines issued on Caesarean deliveries

WASHINGTON (AP) - Many women who had babies by Caesarean section may be able to deliver subsequent children vaginally without fear of serious complications, according to new medical guidelines released today.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists said it is loosening similar guidelines released three years ago because of greater confidence that vaginal delivery is safe for many of these women.

Women with previous Caesareans may try labor and vaginal delivery when they have no recurring conditions that require surgical delivery, and if they had a low, horizontal incision instead of a vertical one for their prior delivery, according to the guidelines. "We estimate that between 50 to 80 percent of these women who choose a trial of labor can deliver vaginally and still maintain the present low infant and maternal death rates," said Dr. Luella Klein, president of ACOG.

Astronomers share Hawaiian peak with skiers, sightseers

HONOLULU (AP) - From a sometimes snow-capped, extinct volcano nearly 14,000 feet high on the island of Hawaii, astronomers peer into the universe with a vision nearly unequalled anywhere on the globe.

However, sightseers, skiers and others are also using the mountain in growing numbers, and their activities sometimes interfere with the scientists' work.

"The message I like to give is that there are conflicts, but we are working well to resolve them," said Harold Masumoto, spokesman for the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

Six telescopes are now arrayed below the summit of Mauna Kea, a 13,796-foot-high extinct volcano. Earlier this month a record $70 million private grant was announced to build a seventh and what may be the world's largest optical telescope. Surveyors have identified six additional suitable sites for telescopes.

The 13,600-foot ridge is considered an ideal site for telescopes because it is unpolluted, unaffected by city lights, virtually free from cloud cover and high enough to minimize atmospheric turbulence and water vapor.

Mauna Kea's periodic snowcap attracts skiers and others seeking recreation, and their cars often fill the dirt access road.

Tom Krieger, head of the Mauna Kea support services office in Hilo, has estimated that as many as 300 vehicles travel to the summit on snow weekends. A recent consultant's study prepared for the state estimated that by the year 2000 as many as 500 vehicles could be making the trip.

Scientists have expressed their concern about the dust generated by vehicles, vehicular lights at night and other problems associated with visitors unprepared for the summit's high altitude and often-inclement weather.

Dust can clog the telescopes' delicate machinery and reduce the reflectivity of optical surfaces, scientists say. In addition, auto headlights can interfere with the near absolute blackness at the high peak at night, hazing the clarity of astronomical observations.

"With all the observatories, and the tremendous investment they have up there, naturally they want to protect it," said Dick Tillson, owner of Ski Shop Hawaii, which runs ski tours to the summit when conditions are suitable. "It's meant a lot of communication with a lot of people, but we are working it out."

To get to the summit, a paved road leads from either Hilo or Kona, the island's two major towns, to mid-level facilities on the mountain. The 8.3-mile road from there to the summit is unpaved.

There are plans to pave the road from the summit to the mid-level facilities as a means of alleviating the dust problem. Some scientists have proposed erecting a gate on the road to regulate access to the summit, if necessary.

Mauna Kea rises nearly 30,000 feet from the Pacific sea floor, and is one of the world's two most voluminous volcanoes. The other is active Mauna Loa Volcano, also located on the island of Hawaii. For most of the year, the temperature at the summit area of Mauna Kea stays only a little above freezing; along the shorelines of the island, balmy temperatures of 70 to 80 degrees prevail.

Plaintiff thrilled with victory in A&M suit

HOUSTON (AP) - An Air Force officer who sued to force Texas A&M University to let women in its band and an elite corps of cadets unit says she's "thrilled" with a federal judge's action in the case.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling approved a settlement Thursday which orders the school to actively encourage women to join the groups.

Regents of the school issued a written statement complaining that Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox settled the case without their approval. They charged that Mattox "is not a fighter."

Capt. Melanie Zentgraf filed the lawsuit in 1979, when she was a senior at Texas A&M in College Station. Ms. Zentgraf was not accepted for membership in the Ross Volunteers, a group of elite cadets who serve as the honor guard for the state governor.

"It's over, but it's just begun," Ms. Zentgraf said.

Ms. Zentgraf was shunned by many Texas A&M students and faculty members after she filed her suit. At May 1980 graduation exercises, former President Jarvis Miller shook hands with every student receiving a diploma except Ms. Zentgraf.

She said she never learned why her application for membership in the Ross Volunteers was turned down, but assumed she had been blackballed because she had been openly critical of the male-only policies.

As far as she knows, she said, no woman has ever tried to join the band "because they knew they would be publicly harassed if they tried. You lost friends by even talking about it. It will be very difficult for the first woman member."

She said she is still the subject of criticism.

"I'm very proud of what I've done, but I don't announce it to people when I meet them," she said.

Sterling's order became effective immediately.

"I find it fair, just and reasonable," Sterling said of the decree. "I understand the feelings of the alumni and students on this. There is a great deal of tradition, but tradition changes."

Aggie regents were irate. "The fighting Texas Aggie Band is worth preserving as a very distinctive and unique organization unlike any other volunteer organization in the country," the regents said in a prepared statement.

John Tyler, a Houston lawyer and a 1975 A&M graduate, vowed he would appeal Sterling's decision to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Mattox, who decided last year to settle the lawsuit, said Sterling's ruling will "bring the university's band in line with long-standing practices at other Texas universities."

"This settlement upholds our Texas constitution and its equal rights amendment. That is important to all citizens of Texas, no matter whether they are male or female because it says there is equal opportunity for everyone and that persons will be judged upon their own merits and not their sex," Mattox said in a prepared statement.

About 60 women are currently in the 2,100-member corps. Damages are being negotiated.

In the suit, Ms. Zentgraf asked that the corps be forbidden from blocking the members of women in such organization as the Aggie Band; the Ross Volunteers, an elite military honors group; the Fish Drill Team, a freshman organization; and the Color Guard.

A settlement was worked out in negotiations last October between attorneys for Ms. Zentgraf and lawyers from the state Attorney General's office.

Ted Hajovsky, general counsel for A&M, said that at the time the suit was filed, there were no women in the major Corps of Cadets organizations. Since then, he said, only the Aggie Band, the Fish Drill Team and the Ross Volunteers have banned women from membership.
