Some of the outstanding representatives for queens, were four youngsters from the senior class with their candidate for queen, Joyce Shirley, singing "Joyce, We Love You". They were Sharon, Moore, Sue Smith, Novella Arrington and Rosey Young.

SANTA COMES TO TOWN...and the kiddies turn out by the hundreds to come see him here Friday afternoon in a parade that officially opened the Christmas shopping season in Hreford. Following the parade Santa went to the Jim Hill Hotel where he gave sacks of candy to his little friends. Staff Photo.

People Jam Street For Parade Friday

Crowds of oldsters and youngsters alike began pouring into town between three and four o'clock Friday for the Santa Claus parade. Cars had the streets blocked to the east and west of Main street as people enthusiastically awaited Santa Claus.

Finally the music was heard and the police car made way through the streets for the parade. Cecil Massey led the parade with a bright yellow Cadillac, followed by the Hreford Junior High band. The band, by the way, sported their new white band covers.

No Serious Injuries Reported As Car, Transport Truck Hit Headon

No serious injuries have been reported in the wreck here Friday afternoon as the 1951 Hudson Hornet sedan driven by Mrs. S. A. Fangman, Rt. 3, collided with a gasoline transport truck driven by Benton Wilson Fillman of Wichita Falls, just across from Piman Grain Co.

Transport Co. of Texas, was loaded with regular gasoline and the driver said that when he saw they were going to collide he slammed on his air brakes to keep the car from hitting the trailer of gasoline. The car hit the cab of the truck.

Kiwanis club pickup preceded the Hreford Riders Club, who wore their new white chaps, levi jackets and white hats.

Frlona Band was here to furnish more entertainment in music for the crowd and jastly but certainly not least came the Santa Claus truck with Santa, himself, his sleigh and a Christmas tree, reminding all the boys and girls to be good -- at least til Christmas day.

Following the parade, Santa gave away some 2,900 sacks of candy and fruit at the Hotel Jim Hill.

Re-Naming Of Lake Park Will Honor Former Mayor

Members of the City Commission Tuesday night passed a resolution changing the name of "Lake Park" to "W. E. Dameron Memorial Park" in honor of Hreford's former mayor, W. E. Dameron. The resolution also specified that a name plate be placed in the park, which is being improved in accordance with plans formulated by the late Mayor Dameron during his terms as mayor.

"Dedication of the park will take place this spring", said Mayor S. O. Wilson. He said the actual date will be set by the council and will probably be around Memorial Day, 1953.

Meanwhile the City Commission reported that the underground sprinkler system has been completely installed in the park and that the water pipes have been recovered. Plans are to plant the Park in Bermuda grass this spring. All labor required for the installation has been done by members of the sewer and street department personnel, Mayor Wilson reported. "This has resulted in a tremendous saving to the City", he pointed out.

Farmers Advised Of ACP Deadline Set December 12

Childress Surprises Floydada In 32-0 Score In Regional Playoff

The Floydada Whirlwinds, winner in football in this district and bi-district over Phillips, couldn't handle the Childress Bobcats in Childress Friday afternoon for the regional title and lost to the Bobcats by the lopsided score of 32-0. The win put the Bobcats in the quarter finals with the winner of the Stamford-Seminole game in the class AA bracket.

Childress racked up 14 first downs to 9 for the Whirlwinds, gained 151 yards rushing to 148 for the Whirlwinds and picked up 136 yards through the air compared to 10 for the Whirlwinds.

Whitefaces Will Have Full Week Action On Court

Hreford Whitefaces basketball squad are in for a full week of play beginning December 9 when they journey to Plainview for a match there in the Plainview gym.

Irrigation Farmers Name Committeemen Here Friday

Approximately 90 irrigation farmers gathered in the county courtroom Friday night and named five nominees for the position of County Committeemen to handle underground water in this county. The election will be held January 20 and three of the five will be elected.

Those named were Ben Carmichael, northeast part of county; John Henderson, northwest part of county; Frank Bezner, Hreford area; Byron Campbell, north of Dawn and Paul Corbett, Ford territory. Other candidates may be written in if voters desire.

Selection of these committeemen is important, Mr. Neal pointed out. "Sometime after Jan. 1, 1953, we do not know exactly when, it will be required to fill out application forms to drill an irrigation well -- and three of these county committeemen will have to sign the application before a permit is granted."

James A. Grimes Dies Friday After Long Illness Here

James Arthur Grimes of 116 Catalpa Street died Friday, December 5, in his home at 12 noon, following an illness of several months.

Mr. Grimes was born July 12, 1891, in Alabama and moved to Deaf Smith County March 18, 1916. He was a carpenter. Miss Davie Grimes became his wife October 17, 1925.

Funeral services will be Sunday, December 7th at 3 p.m. at the First Christian church, with Rev. D. M. Roots and Rev. H. V. Fields officiating. Interment is to be at West Park Cemetery under the direction of the Gilliland Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers are Cecil Wilkins, Ralph Smith, George Hudson, Arch Dobbins, Harry Taylor and Brit Boyd.

Surviving besides his wife, Mrs. Arthur Grimes, are his son James E. Grimes of Hreford; two brothers, Dave Grimes of Hreford and William Grimes of Birmingham, Alabama; three sisters, Mrs. Lueolle Smith of Alexander-City, Ala., Mrs. Gracie Mann of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Fannie Easterwood of Tipton, Okla.

John Aiken reviewed his recent trip to Austin in connection with water legislation. He painted the picture as alarming for this area, declaring that towns, cities and territorial divisions with other problems are seeking to pass legislation for the entire state which would definitely penalize farmers in this area. He also stressed the importance of electing Virgil Dodson to the district committee.

TWO BIG OCCASIONS...for the children with the varied expressions above as they watched the parade...first of all they saw Santa Claus come to town and second and certainly not in the least, they had the opportunity to ride on the City's new big fire truck. Staff Photo.

WHERE'S SANTA...Kids by the hundreds jammed the Hotel Jim Hill Friday afternoon following the parade to get to say hello to Santa and to get a sack of Christmas goodies. It was a big scramble but all the kids saw Santa and that is all that mattered. Staff Photo.

NOW GARY CAN WALK...Little Gary Stewart above, who had the misfortune a short time ago to lose both his legs below the knees in a farm mishap, now has his new artificial legs and he is making good use of them. Gary had his new legs only a day when the above picture was made in the Brand office and already he was able to walk about and play with his little sister. Gary has caused quite a bit of concern in this area with his accident and countless contributions in money and gifts poured in to him and his family. Gary had plenty to get the medical attention he needed and his new legs...so now everything is o. k. for the little fellow. Staff Photo.

New City Manager, Grady Bowdry To Be Sworn In Here Monday Night

Grady Bowdry, newly appointed City Manager for Hreford, will be sworn into office at the regular meeting of the City Commission at the City Hall Monday night, December 8 at 7 p.m. according to Mayor S. O. Wilson.

Bowdry is due to arrive in Hreford the later part of this week and take over the responsibilities of the new office in the city government on Monday.

THE WATER MEETING adjourned around 9:30 Friday night, but folks just wouldn't go home. The picture, taken on the basement floor in the courthouse, shows a large portion of the crowd as they gathered in groups to further discuss Irrigation Wells Permits, Recharge Methods, Water Levels and other items pertinent to irrigation farming in Deaf Smith County. Staff Photo.

Irrigation....

Counties in this district are Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall," Aiken said. "Deaf Smith has more than a 10-to-1 count over the others on wells in use -- and we should be represented on this board."

Carl Luke brought up the question of run-off waste water and answered: "We have to crawl over it."

"For goodness sake," pleaded Aiken, "don't let's start a fight among ourselves. From what I saw in Austin, we have plenty of that on the outside."

Neal reported that experimental tests showed only one-twentieth of one percent of water is wasted by run-off. He said most extravagant of all waste comes from watering crops at the wrong time and from using wrong methods. He quoted tests from experimental plots in the Panhandle.

Recharge of underground water also came in for discussion at the meeting. A cheap, successful method is being sought and will probably be put into operation during the next 12 months, reports said. The water district will probably employ engineers and technicians to determine the logical method. Regarding recharge Neal reported: "Manhattan Island started a recharge program in 1913, using sewerage and other waste water, 70 percent of which is reclaimed. The Bronx failed to adopt such a policy and dumped all waste water in the river. They are now buying water from Manhattan and from New York". He said that El Paso also instituted a recharge program seven years ago.

W. E. DAMERON ... to be honored in Park Dedication

Renaming...

Mr. Dameron in conjunction with city engineers, called for installation of adequate playground equipment, fireplaces, lunch tables and other equipment to make the park into a community center.

"These things will be installed," he declared, but added in order to get the grass started they would not likely be included in the program for 1953.

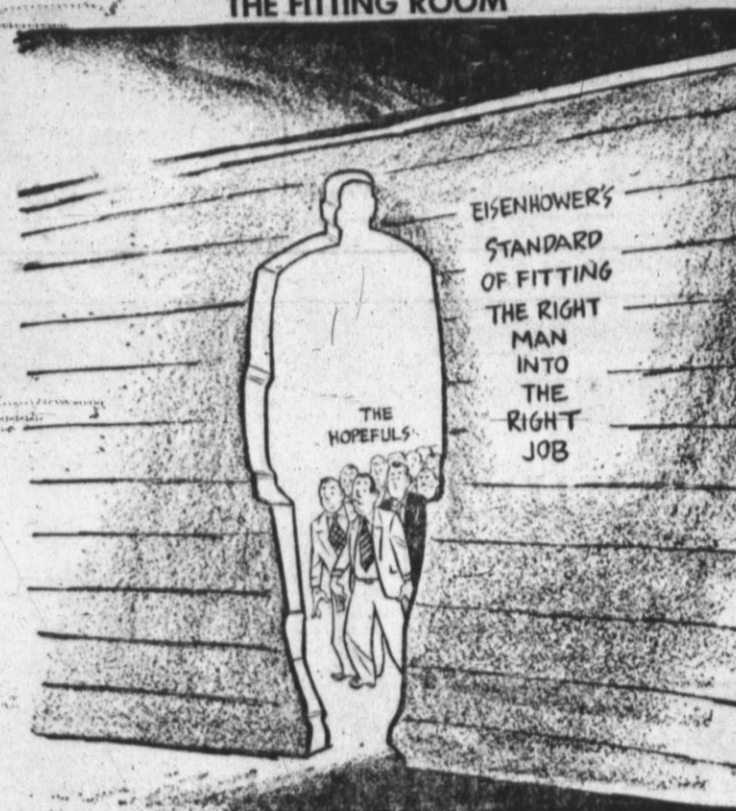

The complete resolution, passed at the City Commission meeting follows:

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS, CHANGING THE NAME OF LAKE PARK TO BE HEREAFTER KNOWN AS W. E. DAMERON MEMORIAL PARK; PROVIDING FOR A SUITABLE NAME PLATE TO BE PLACED IN SAID PARK, AND FOR INCIDENTAL MATTERS.

WHEREAS, the City park located between Main Street and Park Avenue in the City of Hereford, Texas, has for many years been referred to as "Lake Park", although no official designation of the name of said park has ever been made;

WHEREAS, in the past few years improvements have been made to Lake Park and improvements are now being made to the extent that such park will reflect a credit and honor to the citizens of Hereford, Texas.

WHEREAS, W. E. Dameron served the City of Hereford, Texas, as Mayor for more than six years until his death on November 9, 1952, and during his tenure of office and through his services many improvements have been made not only to Lake Park, but to other public places of the City of Hereford, Texas; WHEREAS, in recognition of the services of W. E. Dameron to this community during his lifetime, it is fitting and proper that the Park formerly known as Lake Park should be officially named and dedicated as the W. E. Dameron Memorial Park;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the City Commission of the City of Hereford, Texas, that hereafter the City Park shall be known as "W. E. Dameron Memorial Park," and a suitable plaque inscribed with the official name thereon, "W. E. Dameron Memorial Park," be erected at some suitable point in said park.

Christmas is the cookie season and an especially good Christmas cookie is Angel Wings. This rich oatmeal cookie has a delicate crispness and a flavor that is "oh so good." They're pretty to serve too, with their lacy edges and decoration of nuts, citron and candied fruit. Try Angel Wings with a frosty fruit punch for elegant holiday entertaining.

Angel Wings
Makes 4 dozen cookies
1/2 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening, soft
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract (optional)
1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
Citron, candied cherries and chopped nuts

Sift together flour, sugar and salt into bowl. Add shortening, eggs and flavorings. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Fold in rolled oats. Drop from a teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet, allowing about 2 inches between cookies. Flatten with a knife dipped in cold water. Decorate with pieces of citron, candied cherries or nuts. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) 10 to 12 minutes until cookies are golden brown around the edges. Remove from epoxy sheet immediately.

Muffins

If there is not enough batter to fill all the pans of the muffin tin, fill the empty ones with water. This will make the muffins bake more evenly, and will also prevent burning.

Discoloring

When fruits for salads or dessert are prepared in advance of serving, they can be prevented from discoloring if sprinkled generously with lemon juice. The lemon juice accents the flavor, too.

With Or Without Beans' Book Has Offerings Of Local Talent

"In Texas four things temporal are held inviolate . . . woman, state's rights, a cattle brand, and chili."

Thus Joe E. Cooper eulogizes "a bowl of red" in his recent book, "With or Without Beans". The book sparkles with wit, philosophy, humor, whimsy . . . and yet manages to offer some unusual recipes for preparing chili.

Among the scores of yarns and recipes offered in the volume are two from Hereford, credited to Corinne Jennings and Roberta Campbell.

Quoting from page 21, Cooper says:

"From the Texas Panhandle springs Corinne Jowell Jennings of Hereford, so named when the first herd of registered Hereford cattle ever brought to that part of the country, a project of her famous cowman father, G. R. (Rat) Jowell, remembered by pioneer cowmen as one of the foremost in promoting the breed in a new country. He was long considered the region's top authority on White Faces."

"Mrs. Jennings says, Something different in the way of chili, which is not quite chili, nor yet quite son-of-a-gun stew, nor yet on me by a long-time rancher of the Panhandle country when we were talking of cow-camp cooking many years ago.

"Ingenuity on the part of a Mexican cook, who was always free with the use of chili pods in his cooking, resulted in a chili-son-of-a-gun when he added a few pods of red chilies to his popular stew. The cowboys pronounced it good and it became a favorite when served with sour-dough biscuits or plain dutch-oven bread and hot coffee."

Jackrabbit Chili

The following yarn, page 115, is credited to Roberta Campbell of Hereford, and contains not one crack about the Eisenhower administration:

"Pa musta been makin' about forty when he ran up alongside that big jackrabbit so's he could feel and see if he's fat enough to eat, but the very sight of grey fur had choked me ever since that day Ma first made the jackrabbit chili.

"One evening a stranger rid in to our camp and after swappin' howdies, he set on his horse grinnin' as he remarked:

"I don't have to ask which way yer headed son . . . empty tin cans around of camp would be a shore sign yer going out west to homestead on some o' that New Mexico real estate, but that pile o' rabbit hair over there tells me without a word that you've starved out tryin' to prove up on yer claim and are on yer way back east to yer folks.

"Well, when you get tired eatin' them 'mule years' fried and boiled and stewed and roasted maybe the woman would like our recipe for a batch of rabbit chili."

"If you got a sausage mill with you grind up yer rabbit meat pretty coarse and brown it with some chopped onion in a pretty good-sized pot where you've fried some sow belly. Throw in some salt and chili powder, one or two of them red peppers and some garlic. Put in nigh onto a half gallon of water and let'er simmer slow for a couple of hours."

"What did you say Ma! No thanks. Just help my plate to a few more beans and maybe we'll be back to grandpa's th'orrer night."

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Frost of Abilene announce the arrival of their son Gary Rayburn Frost. Mrs. Frost will be remembered as Glennis Cockrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Cockrell of Hereford.

JUST OUT OF THE CROWD, these youngsters shown above contemplate what to do next now that they have that bag of Santa Claus "loot." Staff Photo.

Q. How is lipstick properly applied?
A. Outline the lips first with a lipstick brush, then fill in the outline with a lipstick in little up-and-down strokes. Now press the lips together lightly. Go over the lips again from corner to corner with lipstick. Then press lips together on folded tissues.

Q. How can I make my eye-lashes curl?
A. Keep them lubricated with lash cream or oil, and brush them each day with a tiny lash brush. This will encourage curling.

Tough Meats
It is always a great disappointment when one finds she has purchased a tough piece of meat. In this case, rub some baking soda into it and allow it to stand for a few hours. Then wash it and cook. A mixture of vinegar and Olive oil rubbed into both sides of a tough steak will make it tender. The steak should stand for two hours.

The Tooth Brush
The bristles of the toothbrush can be prevented from loosening if the new brush is placed in cold water and allowed to stand for twenty-four hours before using.

Return Postage
The best way to send a stamp for return postage is to attach it by a small spot in the center, leaving the glue around the edges untouched.

Shriveled Hands
When one's hands tend to wrinkle and shrivel every time they are in water any length of time, rub them with salt or vinegar, well into the skin. This is very effective in removing that unpleasant feeling from the hands, and the flesh will become soft and fine.

Warmed Over Food
Food that is warmed-over will have as good a flavor as originally if it is served properly. Do not bring the food in direct contact with the heat, but place it in the double boiler and steam it.

Whiter Clothes
When boiling white clothes put a few slices of lemon, with the rind on, in the boiler. This will remove stains and make the clothes whiter.

Cough Remedies
An excellent remedy for relieving coughs is made by mixing honey and lemon juice. To relieve a violent spasm of whooping cough, allow a lump of butter to melt in a glass of warm milk and give it to the patient.

Rust
To keep new tinware from rusting rub the surface with lard and thoroughly heat in the oven before using. It will not rust no matter how much it is placed in water.

Whitewashed Walls
If you wish to paper walls that are whitewashed, wash the walls with strong vinegar before applying the paper. It will make the paper stick.

Color in the Home
Yellow is an enlarging color and will bring brightness to the dark places. Blue is a contrasting color and is liable to make the room appear cold. Gray is a harmonizing color and almost every hue looks well with it. It will also give the room an appearance of space; rose is a warm and cheering color and is excellent for bedroom and living room, as it gives the effect of daintiness in addition to its cheering appearance.

Q. How can I remove the furry lime deposit on the inside of a tea kettle?

A. By putting some vinegar, to which a little salt has been added, into the kettle and allowing to stand for a while. When bubbles begin to appear on the surface, it indicates that the lime is dissolving. After it has been removed, rinse with clear water.

Q. How can I make a dustless dust cloth?

A. Place the cloth in a strong hot suds of pure soap, to which add a few drops of turpentine; let set for two hours. Then wring out dry. Cloths treated in this way will hold the dust and at the same time give a brilliant polish to the furniture. Treat the cloths in this manner every two weeks.

Smart Clothes for Smart Women

By JIMMIE GILLETTE

People really thronged to town for the annual Santa Claus parade. Handling a crowd like that is rough, but the Jaycees did a good job.

Right in the middle of the parade, when traffic was thronged to a fare-you-well, they had an accident down on the highway. Most of the police were handling the parade, but somehow they got out and made it to the wreck in fair time. How, I don't know. This new police chief, Leo Box, seems to be on the ball. The main reason he left the Amarillo force was due to the fact that he stayed on the "graveyard shift" too long. Even a cop likes to be home at night once in a while. He says he likes it here fine and hopes to maintain a good force. He seems fair and reasonable to everyone, regardless of race, color or creed. That's a hard task, too.

Here are some more candle contributors: Mrs. C. R. Smith, John Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Fat Curt-singer, Daaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs, F. F. A. Boys and Bill Stanford, The Hereford Garden Club, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McRight and Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Evans, David and Zee; Adult Department of Sunday School, First Baptist church; The Cultural Club, Mrs. F. H. Oberthier, Order of Rainbow Girls, Fidelis Matrons Sunday School Class, The Pioneer Study Club, LaPlata Study Club, Mrs. Lee Conklin, El Nino Club, Music Study Club, Mrs. H. H. Caraway's Campfire group, Mr. and Mrs. Art Manjeot, Mrs. Roger Brumley. These came in early and we just got the list. J. T. Gilbreath and Ethel Womble are other donors.

Another order will go out early in the week. Any additional candles or donations should be turned in Monday or Tuesday. Already several thousand candles have been arranged for from Hereford. If every town would do as much we would soon have the lighting problem in Korea under control.

Mrs. Jake Boydston, librarian, says they have been snowed under this week trying to find out where "The Old Gray Mare Ain't What She Used To Be" originated. Many people would like to know. The librarians have asked for books on folk-songs, folk-lore, poetry, English literature and what have you -- without avail. However, they did get all of the musty books dusted off.

"Please," says Mrs. Boydston, "can someone, somewhere tell us where this Old Gray Mare came from? I think she is interested now to the extent she would like to know for personal satisfaction."

Back in Hereford for the Winter is the Cecil Malone family. These folks operate the Drowsy Water Ranch near Granby, Colo., where Hereford's "Good Neighbors", Mr. and Mrs. Waters, spent their well deserved vacation. However, I believe that the Malones had more fun out of the vacation than did the Waters. All they could talk about was what fine people were the Waters, what good sports. However, when you stop to think about it, this isn't at all surprising. Thinking about the comfort and welfare of others is maybe the most important part of being a good neighbor. With the Waters family, it just had to be that way. Maybe the Waters were lucky at that, if the Malones had been here, considering what I have heard about the fine, wonderful reception they gave the Waters, the Malones might have been selected as the good neighbors themselves, thus getting the trip instead of the Waters.

I would say that is was just a case of a couple of "good neighbors" families meeting in Colorado. They leaned over backwards to help make things pleasant for each other. How about this? Do we want to sponsor the good neighbor contest again in 1953? Was it worthwhile? We are willing to go along if people are sufficiently interested -- but we would like an expression. Maybe some cards. Some letters. Some telegrams. Even telephone calls -- or tell on the street. You folks be the doctor. Let us know if it was worthwhile. Especially Earl Hendrick. He furnished the new Buick for the trip -- and of his own free will and accord Earl also paid the gasoline and oil bill.

The Brand intended to pay this but Earl said, "Heck, you're doing enough -- besides a Buick uses very, very little gas and no oil at all". Offhand, I would say that Earl is a pretty good neighbor in his own right.

I have been riding Bob Thompson about this PTA baby sitting deal to boost attendance, also over the fact that he is one of the few male presidents in PTA and often gets mail addressed to "Madam Roberta Thompson, Hereford, Texas". Bob takes it like a trooper, too. The other day he came in with a shy grin on his face and handed me a clipping from which I got a good laugh. The clipping said:

CURRENT STORY: A woman in her mid-40s, whose children had grown up, found she was to have another -- and was worried, alarmed and terrified.

"But", argued her friends, "having a baby is the most wonderful thing in the world."

"No! I just tremble and shake thinking of it," she said.

"But why? For you, a veteran mother, childbirth should be easy."

"Oh, it's not that," she said. "But it's horrible when I think of having to go through those Parent-Teacher Association meetings again."

Earl Plank says not to get excited about that reporter taking a powder. He says it has been happening to him for months and months.

County Socitey For Crippled Children Reports On Activities

The Deaf Smith County Society for Crippled Children this week paid $34.73 to cover transportation charges in sending a boy to the Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas. Bob Lawrence, treasurer, said that this brings the total expenditures for the year to $72.17 and leaves $542.83 in the treasury for future expenditures in connection with crippled children.

Funds for the campaign were secured in the Easter Seal sales last year, totaling $815, plus $141.14 which was paid to the state chapter to be used in actual treatment of cases.

"Any person familiar with cases of crippled children in need of assistance should report the case to one of the officers or directors of the society," he said.

Bob Wear is chairman, Lawrence, treasurer, D. C. Kinsey, Pat Sullivan, Jack Dean, Bessie Patterson, A. J. Schroeter, and Wayne Evans are directors.

"Making Ready For Christmas" Is Theme For Farm And Ranch Club

Farm and Ranch Club held a pre-Christmas session in the home of Mrs. W. B. Nunley Thursday with the program centered around the theme "Making Ready for Christmas". The table for the luncheon held at noon carried out the theme with a yuletide scene and other suggestions.

Mrs. Roy Pruitt, who was in charge of the program, discussed Christmas shopping, baking, and decorating. She stressed shopping early, baking wisely and decorating attractively, allowing the children in the family to have a part in decorating the tree.

Mrs. T. W. Perrin, president, conducted a short business meeting when members packed a Christmas box for Girlstown and voted to pack a box for the Veteran's Hospital in Amarillo at the next meeting.

Those present were Mesdames; Herschel Burrus, Henry Melton, Waldron Melton, T. W. Perrin, Roy Pruitt, Frank Rickels, Jack Weaver, Laverne Davenport and the hostess.

Rebekahs Elect

An election meeting for new officers of the Rebekah Lodge was held at the IOOF Hall Tuesday night.

Those taking offices were: Mrs. Leta Kaul, noble grand; Mrs. Edna Draper, vice-grand; Mrs. Aline Lomenick, recording secretary; Mrs. Ruth Rogers, financial secretary; Mrs. Bobby Meacham, treasurer; Mrs. Ada Hplabaugh, representative to the state assembly; Mrs. Aline Lomenick, alternate; Mrs. Pauline Lady, lodge deputy; Mrs. Earline Manning, team captain; and Mrs. Ola Hacker and Mrs. Leta Kaul were recommended to the advisory board of the Carnation Theta Rho Girls club. Approximately twenty seven members attended the meeting.

Q. How can I keep the hair brushes clean?

A. Make a habit of washing the brushes at least once a week. Soak in hot water with soap powder and ammonia for five minutes. Rub the bristles under the water. Rinse in warm water and dry with bristles downward, preferably in the sun.

A CARE Package For Christmas Suggested

Ten thousand miles away there are ten million persons for whom this Christmas Day will dawn bleak and cold. They are the orphans, the homeless refugees, the sick and destitute of South Korea -- the tragic total of those in urgent need of relief assistance this third winter of war, according to latest reports from CARE's representatives in that devastated land.

Distant though they be in miles, the fate of those ten million war victims is of real and close concern to each of us. As close as our prayers for the safety of loved ones on that far-off battlefield. As real as our persistent faith in, a future that will truly bring "peace on earth, good will to all men".

No gift that glitters under the Christmas tree of a comfortable American home can match the heart-felt gratitude, the dazzling reassurance that a CARE package of food . . . of blankets . . . of fabrics for farm clothes . . . will bring to a hungry Korean child, to shivering men and women. Your contribution to the Korean Program, CARE, 20 Broad Street, New York 5, N. Y., or any local CARE office, means that a special $10 or $7 Korean food or textile package can be delivered to those who need help most. You can send a gift to the needy in any of the many countries CARE reaches of course. But above all, this holiday season, remember the people of South Korea. Let CARE bring the myour Yuletide message of hope and brotherhood.

More than 1,000,000 Texans this year received Christmas Seals by mail, the Texas Tuberculosis Association reports.

The annual sale of Christmas Seals by mail has been rated as the highest type of voluntary participation in community health.

It is not too early to begin developing family plans for Christmas. Plan so each member will have a definite part in the observance.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING... with Mrs. Charles Donald

The Christmas Pudding, Blazed With Brandy, Lends Holiday Note

The Christmas pudding all dressed up with holly to "keep the witches away" lends a delicious festive note to the holiday table.

According to tradition, the Christmas pudding held potent charms for all who tasted it. And the superstition existed that it was unlucky to eat it before Christmas day, and that each pudding sampled in the days following would bring good fortune for a month. That of course, is the source of the old Yorkshire saying "In as many homes as you eat plum pudding in the twelve days following Christmas, so many happy months you will have in the year."

The original plum pudding was very different from the ones we make today. The plums or prunes of the old recipes have been supplanted by raisins and a number of other good things. Then the method of cooking has been changed materially for the pudding cloth and boiler have been completely done away with in favor of modern molds and steamers.

Mrs. Charles Donald, who lived in Hereford for many years and who now lives in New Mexico, was known far and wide as a good cook and one of her favorite recipes was the Old New England Plum Pudding, heavy with fruit and blazed the last moment with a ladleful of brandy. She gave the recipe to special friends in Hereford who use it every year. It gives a pleasant old-fashioned New England flavor to a family dinner. Here it is:

- Old New England Plum Pudding
- 4 slices bread, toasted and crumbed.
 - 1 pound beef suet ground fine
 - 2 cups flour
 - 1 pound raisins
 - 1 pound currants
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 pound dates
 - 1 box candied cherries
 - 1 box candied pineapple
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cup molasses
 - 1/4 teaspoon each of nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves
 - 1 cup sweet milk
 - 6 eggs

Mix bread crumbs with suet, fruit and spices and blend thoroughly. Beat eggs well, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Add sweet milk and molasses. Add flour, mix well and add the crumbs, suet and fruit mixture a little at a time. Fill a 1-lb. baking powder can 2/3 full, cover tightly and place in large steamer. Steam four hours. Serve hot with hard sauce made with 1 pound powdered sugar, 1/4 pound of butter creamed, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice added and beaten well.

The pudding may be made at any time and when ready to serve, cut in 1/2 inch squares and steam - serve hot with sauce.

Hereford Mutual Concert Association To Present First Attraction Of Season At Auditorium Dec. 12

Nelson and Neal the Australian-American duo-piano team, who will be heard here December 12 at the High School Auditorium, are a remarkable pair with broad accomplishments. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and the concert is sponsored by the Hereford Mutual Concert Association.

Mr. Neal, a Tennessean, was for some years a radio announcer in the United States and did much radio commenting for the Australian Broadcasting Commission. In Philadelphia, he held an executive position and produced television shows for the local CBS outlet, WCAU-TV. This was in addition to the year and a half television series which Mr. and Mrs. Neal presented from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Neal, or Allison Neal, was considered Australia's leading child prodigy. She concertized extensively throughout the country and, in 1944, she became the youngest person ever to tour the ABC Celebrity Circuit, where she played in every major city and with every major orchestra in Australia. On this tour, she played with Eugene Ormandy and the Sidney Orchestra. Mr. Ormandy was so impressed that she immediately arranged for her to obtain one of the coveted scholarships to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. While studying with Rudolf Serkin at Curtis Institute, she did numerous tours in the south and east and appeared twice as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy.

About this time she fell in love with Harry Neal, a fellow-student at Curtis and they became a duo-piano team. Shortly afterwards, they began their Philadelphia television series and were married. Miss Nelson returned to Australia for another tour during 1950. After completing his 1950 American tour, Harry Neal joined her in Australia for a year's work for the Australian Broadcasting Company, including a coast-to-coast broadcast. They returned to the United States last May.

This is the first of the season's concerts to be presented by the Hereford Mutual Concert Association and membership cards are being mailed and will reach members in time for this first performance.

This year the board of directors has made arrangements for each member of the association to bring a guest to one of the concerts. On account of the space problem you are asked to bring your guest only on the evening which you are assigned. For this first program the members whose surnames begin with the letters A through F are invited to bring a guest. The board of directors feel that too many Hereford people do not realize what they are missing when they do not hear these concerts and are anxious that as many people as possible have an opportunity this year to see and hear the fine programs that are being presented. If you happen to attend one program and don't like it, remember that no two are the same. The next one might be just the one that would interest you. It is the aim of the Hereford Mutual Concert Association to bring varied programs that will appeal to all this year. The concerts should interest a wide variety of people.

Wedding Of Miss Ella Mae Wood And Mr. Melvin D. Hall Held In Friona

The marriage of Miss Ella Mae Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wood of Fort Worth to Melvin Dean Hall, son of the late Carl Hall and Mrs. Hall of Friona, took place in Friona on Saturday, Nov. 29, at the First Baptist church. Rev. Russell Pogue, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

An arch of white chrysanthemums arranged with baskets of chrysanthemums and palms marked the altar before which the couple and their attendants stood.

Wedding music was provided by Denise Magness who also accompanied Joyce Ann Miller who sang "Always". The traditional wedding marches were used and soft background music was provided at the piano during the ceremony.

Miss Marilou Rife was maid of honor. She wore a pastel pink ballerina length dress and carried a bouquet of blue chrysanthemums. Hugh Mosley was best man and ushers were Herbert Day and Joe Fallwell.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore white net and lace fashioned ballerina style and finger tip veil of illusion. A white satin tiara encrusted with seed pearls held the veil in place and the lace of her dress matched the lace of her gloves. The bridal bouquet was of white bride's roses and show-ered with white satin streamers.

The bride's mother wore a light blue frock and the bridegroom's mother wore navy. Both wore white carnation corsages.

The reception which followed the wedding was held at the Friona club house. The lace laid table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and a three tiered wedding cake was featured.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Fort Worth, the bride was wearing a navy suit, with a corsage from the wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Denver City High School and attended St. Joseph's School of Nursing in Fort Worth. She is now employed at the Farmer County Hospital.

Mr. Hall attended Friona schools and West Texas State College. He served 36 months in the army with 18 months in Korea.

He is employed in Friona at the Texico Service Station. After the wedding trip the couple will live at the Collier Apartments in Friona.

Youth Conservation Program Is Given For The Summerfield Club

Mrs. Glenn Walser presented the Summerfield Study Club program Thursday afternoon at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Joan Euler.

Mrs. Walser discussed the "Youths Diet of Comics, Radio, television, movies and literature". She said in part "Our children's diet of comics, radio, television, movie programs and literature has aroused the parents and youth leaders of the nation. Equally concerned are the responsible producers and distributors of these media. The answer is not, 'No comics, movies, radio' but a five-fold campaign in each community carried on by a joint committee of representative organizations (youth and adult) to guide the children in discrimination, educate the community, make the best entertainment available to the youth, provide ways for children to participate in programs and to cooperate with responsible producers in eliminating obnoxious features."

During the business session the annual Christmas party was planned. The party will be held in the home of Mrs. Glenn Walser on the night of December 18, instead of in the Lookingbill home as scheduled. Husbands will be honored guests.

Those present were Mesdames: Clara Blakemore, Beatrice Noland, Emma Luell Noland, Rosa May Lance, Glenn Walser and the hostess.

Mr. Al King of Yankton, S. D., surprised his sister, Mrs. Rosa Spear with a visit on his way to visit his children in Los Angeles. Mr. King and Mrs. Spear had not seen each other for several years. He probably will make his permanent home with his children.

Taft Smashes Truce Over Durkin Choice

THE uneasy truce established last summer on Morningside Heights between Sen. Robert A. Taft and President-elect Dwight Eisenhower was shattered this week over the appointment of a Democrat who backed Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson to Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Eisenhower's choice of Martin Durkin, 53-year-old sixth vice president of the AFL, to be Secretary of Labor drew a bitter reaction from Taft who called the appointment "incredible—an affront to millions of union members and officers who had the courage to defy the edict of officials like Mr. Durkin that they vote for Stevenson."

"It has never even been suggested," said Taft, "that a man would be appointed who has always been a partisan Truman Democrat, who fought Gen. Eisenhower's election, and advocated the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law."

This first open, major disagreement between Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Taft clearly forecasts rough times for the new President in Capitol Hill.

It was not clear whether Taft spoke for the majority of his backers who swung their support to Eisenhower after the Morningside Heights conference, but it seemed a safe bet he did. In any event it is likely that there will be greater tension between moderate GOP Congressmen who supported Eisenhower and the more conservative legislators who backed Taft once the 83rd Congress convenes.

A struggle for the balance of power between these two groups will afford a choice opportunity for Democrats to capitalize on the split in Republican ranks. It definitely will make it more difficult for President Eisenhower to get his legislative program through Congress.

Overshadowed in the ruckus over Durkin's appointment was Sinclair Weeks, 59, chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee and prominent New England manufacturer, appointed Secretary of Commerce.

Weeks was one of the first top Republicans to urge Taft to withdraw from the Presidential race in favor of Eisenhower last June.

Europe

Saar Backs French Tie

The Saar is a coal and steel rich area sandwiched between France, Germany and Luxembourg. After both World Wars, it was detached from Germany and economically attached to France as reparation for war damage.

In elections this week to choose a new parliament, the Saar voted decisively to stay that way.

Johannes Hoffmann, the Saar's minister president, interpreted this as a vote for an autonomous Saar within a European community as proposed to West Germany by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had a different interpretation, however. From his viewpoint, the elections proved nothing because they were not a "free expression" of the will of the Saarlanders.

Pro-German parties in the Saar, which had refused to recognize the present constitution, tried to turn the election into a vote for or against the return of the Saar to Germany.

Autonomists in the Saar accepted the German challenge before the elections—and the results.

Adenauer, in refusing to recognize the election results, was clearly voicing a disappointment felt among German nationalists who put on a spirited campaign in the Saar urging voters to stay away from the polls or cast invalid ballots.

KOREA CHALLENGES IKE

SEOUL RECEPTION COMMITTEE FOR EISENHOWER

ON TARGET IN NORTH KOREA

Quotes

Syngman Rhee, President of South Korea: "We don't expect to continue in this stalemate for another year. I don't think we can stand it. Korea would not, however, welcome Japanese troops as comrades in arms against the Reds. If Japanese troops came to Korea, there would be serious clashes between them and our people and this would have serious consequences in the Far East."

Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor, urging the AFL and CIO to unite: "The two mighty federations cannot afford to remain divided. They cannot afford to fight each other, to lose in selfishness and bickering the gains they won through heroic struggle."

Congress

Things to Come

Sen. Wayne Morse intends to stick by his declaration of independence from the Republican party despite his decision to vote with the GOP on the organization of the Senate.

Republican Senators have been reluctant to say if they plan to strip the Oregon Senator of the seniority he has acquired by his eight years of service in the Senate and his assignments on the Armed Services and Labor Committees.

Morse quit the Republican party and declared himself an independent during the campaign, throwing his support to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Vice President-elect Richard Nixon lashed out at Morse this week, declaring "We don't want and don't need Morse's vote."

Democrats have shown no disposition to contest Republican control of the new Senate even though, without Morse, the Republicans will outnumber them only 48 to 47.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, meanwhile, was busy drafting a long list of proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law.

Two Possible Amendments

Aides of the Senator said he was willing to make several amendments proposed by President-elect Eisenhower. One of them would be a requirement that company officials take the non-Communist oath, as union leaders now must do, if they want to use the act. Practically considered, this is nothing more than a palliative.

Another amendment supported by Eisenhower and okayed by Taft would remove the ban on voting in a representation election by strikers who have been replaced in their jobs. Eisenhower has called this a possible "union-busting" section of the Act. Taft doesn't agree but says the revision is necessary anyway.

In general, Taft's list of amendments resemble the 28 changes approved by the Senate in 1949 but allowed to die in the House. Taft says the 1949 amendments died because the unions wanted a repeal or nothing and believed there was a chance of repeal under a Democratic Administration.

Taft reportedly believes the unions will be more inclined to compromise with the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress.

economic and political centralization in Western Europe.

It is not so simple, then, to say this country should expend the enormous effort it undoubtedly would take to drive the Chinese Communists out of Korea. It certainly is desirable, but U. S. military officials have to make sure everything is in ship-shape order in back of them before they smash ahead in front.

This is what makes Eisenhower's desire for a South Korean army strong enough to take over frontline positions in Korea attractive. It would tie down Communist forces there. It would mean the South Koreans might someday be capable of driving the Reds back themselves. Above all, it would be matching the Moscow strategy of putting satellite armies into the field to tie down a major enemy without committing Russian troops.

Chances for Truce

President Syngman Rhee says the development of the South Korean army in the past year is "unbelievable." Eighth Army Commander Gen. James A. Van Fleet declares a South Korean army strong enough to hold alone at the front is definitely possible.

It is likely that Eisenhower decided to undertake the trip to Korea to see for himself if his plan for Korea was practicable, and to find out how long before it could be effected.

PRESIDENT-ELECT Eisenhower has made it clear he does not expect his personal tour of the Korean war zone to produce any miracle solutions.

Public sentiment naturally favors any scheme which might pull the U.S. out of the stalemate in Korea. Americans do not like to be tied down in wars of attrition. But Dwight Eisenhower warns there is no easy solution in Korea.

Advice on how to break the Korean stalemate has been plentiful. It has included suggestions that Chinese Nationalist and Japanese troops be introduced at the front and Western forces withdrawn. Others have urged the bombing of Communist supply arsenals in Manchuria, an invasion of the China mainland, an all-out U. S. offensive to drive the Reds back across the Yalu.

Eisenhower would like to see South Korean troops take over the frontline assignment once they were sufficiently trained.

Merits of Ike's Plan

Considered in relation to probable Kremlin motives in Korea, this would be an ideal solution, if it could be worked out in time.

It is plain that Moscow gave the signal both for the North Korean invasion of South Korea in June, 1950, and for Red Chinese entry into the war in December of the same year. The obstinacy and recalcitrance of Communist negotiators at Panmunjom makes it equally plain Russia intends to tie down United Nations forces in Korea as long as possible. If an excuse for starting World War III happens to present itself in the meantime, there is no reason for believing Russia would not jump at the opportunity.

Global Strategy

In planning Korean strategy, Western officials have to keep in mind that the Communists are able to start trouble in other hot spots at any time. The volatile situations in Southeast Asia and the Middle East offer fertile ground for Communist adventures. The Western powers, therefore, are not able to launch any big scale action that might expend more than the effort is worth without first considering whether such action will leave them exposed in another part of the world.

In other words, the war in Korea is only a part of the global struggle against Communism still in a "cold war" stage. As long as it stays that way, Western nations have a chance to pull themselves together and prepare for a hot war. That is the fundamental concept behind the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Mutual Security Agency and the plans for

IN terms of frustration and indecision, the roughest fight against communism is not in Korea but in Indochina.

In almost seven years of guerrilla warfare, Communist-dominated rebels there have sapped France of 160,000 military casualties and cost the French almost 11 billion dollars. The United States has helped foot the financial bill.

To date the French have been able to accomplish little, either militarily or politically, in the fight against rebel chief Ho Chi-minh. French Union and Vietnamese armies have fought to a virtual standstill. The people still distrust French colonialism and look with favor on promises of reform by Ho Chi-minh although France has admitted the three Indochinese states of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos into the French Union.

Land Reform Needed

There is resentment over French-sponsored Emperor Bao Dai who spends much time away from his country in French resorts. There is resentment over the French High Commissioner in Saigon, who outranks all native government officials, including the emperor. Most important, there is resentment that there is no elected legislature.

Peasants are badly in need of some kind of land reform. Farmers pay high rents, with interest, to work on large privately owned land holdings. They look on Ho Chi-minh as a deliverer whose avowed purpose is to root out all vestiges of French control and institute reforms.

The reason the U. S. has backed France in this frustrating battle to save Indochina from communism is basic. With her neighbors, Thailand and Burma, Indochina comprises the rice bowl of Asia. In an area where rice is vital, Communist forces would be in a commanding position if they could gain control of the chief producers.

Red China Aids Rebels

Despite the effectiveness of Ho Chi-minh's guerrilla tactics, the Vietminh would stand little chance of being anything but a bothersome, if earnest, rebellion except for Red China's strategic location and help.

Vietminh strongholds all are in the north. Rebel headquarters reportedly are in a small town right on the Red China border. Across this boundary has poured a relentless stream of ammunition, carbines, machineguns, small artillery and mortars for Vietminh forces. Russia undoubtedly follows the practice used in China—of sending military instructors to train Vietminh fighters.

DOGGED INDOCHINA WAR SAPS FRENCH STRENGTH

The Western Allies have been faced for more than a year with the threat of a full-scale Red Chinese invasion of Indochina on a signal from the Kremlin. That would tie the free nations down to another Korea. It would mean Russia once again had maneuvered free nations into a war without putting a single Soviet soldier into the field.

Any major letup in Korean action, while it would be welcome in the West, could be a prelude to a Red Chinese undertaking in Indochina.

Vietminh Appeal

The Vietminh's biggest support, however, comes from a dissatisfied peasantry which takes the practical view that Ho Chi-minh offers the best chance for more food, better living conditions and independence from the French.

As in other critical areas—the Middle East for example—the Communists have made headway by capitalizing on hunger, fear and hatred of foreigners. It is difficult to make dents in such appeals with mere anti-Communist propaganda.

The crisis in Asia—and in the Middle East—cry out for democratic social reforms astutely and promptly administered. These are things communism cannot tolerate. If they exist, Communists have nothing to work with.

In a last analysis, a poverty-stricken farmer does not trouble himself about the evils of authoritarian communism and the loss of individual liberty. He thinks only of the quickest way to bring better times. He thinks about individual liberty when it is too late.

FINAL success for the Indian compromise plan to end the Korean war was doomed when the Communists demanded nothing less than full, forcible repatriation of all prisoners of war. The Western nations pushed for a vote anyway.

In this negative atmosphere, 55 members of the Political and Security Committee approved the Indian plan. Five nations of the Soviet bloc voted against it.

In view of the Communist attitude, there was no chance the Indian plan actually would break the armistice bottleneck, but the Western powers lined up behind it in order to show who was blocking a truce in Korea. Asian and Arab delegates on the Political and Security Committees voted solidly with the United States and the Western powers—the first time they had done so on the Korean issue since the Security Council recommended the use of armed force in Korea to repel aggression.

Includes Red Demand

The Indian resolution accepted the Communist demand that after an armistice all prisoners of war be repatriated, but it barred force "either to prevent or effect their return to their homelands."

Thus, repatriation would be voluntary and prisoners not repatriated 90 days after an armistice would be referred to a political conference which would be in session under terms of the armistice. The conference, at which both sides would be represented, would have 60 days to decide what to do with the POW's who were not yet repatriated. After that, the United Nations would take responsibility for their care and disposition.

Many Western delegates regarded the final Indian resolution as a good compromise between the divergent stands of the Communists and the United States. The Communists, however, showed no signs of doing anything to dispel the prevailing opinion that they do not believe, in compromise.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that if the Reds turned down the U.N. peace effort, the U.N. would have to re-examine its strength and means of getting a victory in Korea. The U.N. Economic Commission, meanwhile, came up with the gloomy report that Western Europe's economy slipped downward in the second quarter of 1952 and was in a definite state of recession.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley

AP Special Washington Service WASHINGTON — That lull before the storm in Texas Congressional offices these adjournment days gets interrupted occasionally with such light incidents as the receipt by Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin of a letter simply addressed:

"The Embassy of Texas, Washington, D. C."

Tom Brashear, one of Thornberry's staff, ripped it open with amused interest after noting that the writer was "Joe Dean Shaffer, School Bell Lane, Dear, Delaware."

The penciled note read:

"Dear Sir, Would you send me some information of Texas such as how the cowboys rope the cows and such as social, political, commercial and standing of Texas. And send me some pictures of the wild horses and cattle and rattlesnakes. Thanks you sir."

Tossing the letter aside temporarily, Brashear grinned and said:

"I guess I had better get of some letters to our constituents first. Then I reckon I'll write him that we're still pretty independent people in Texas, but the United States government doesn't admit it to the extent of letting us maintain an embassy here."

Curious how the letter, which bore a Dover, Del., postmark happened to come to their office, Brashear checked and learned that postal officials sent it to Capitol Hill post office. A clerk there knew Brashear personally, so sent it on to Thornberry's office.

Two Texas congressional secretaries who have been with voluntarily retiring members have been hired by newly incoming legislators.

Doris Mae Crewe, formerly with Tom Pickett of Palestine, now is secretary to John Dowdy of Athens. Dowdy already has taken over as congressman, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Pickett.

Nell Walker Hight, formerly of Corpus Christi, has been working in the office of Rep. J. M. Combs of Beaumont, who did not seek re-election. She is going to work now for the New East Texas congressman-elect, Brady Gentry of Tyler. Her husband, Jack Hight, is on the staff of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson. Hight is formerly from San Angelo.

Here visiting Rep. Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls have been his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ikard of Henrietta. The elder Ikard is a rancher, and proudly points to the fact that his own father, W. S. Ikard, brought the first Hereford cattle to Texas back in 1876.

William S. Henson of Dallas, publisher of the new book on chili, "With or Without Beans", enroute to New York business conferences stopped here to visit with friends. Henson called on Gene Cooper, former Dallas newspaperman and brother of Joe E. Cooper of Dallas, author of the book.

On Capitol Hill Henson was greeted by Rep. Olin E. Teague, acting as president of the Texas State Society.

MOST HEARTENING SIGN YET WAS WHEN Eisenhower Opposed Party Machine In Appointments

President-elect Eisenhower is already on the "pan". We refer directly to the appointment of Martin P. Durkin as Secretary of Labor and to the Republican rebellion led by Senator Robert Taft.

There are several ways to look at this situation and your final conclusion will depend, inevitably, upon the "ax you have to grind". Sen. Taft found the appointment "incredible" -- because Sen. Taft feels that Durkin was a "partisan Truman Democrat". Sen. Taft also has the feeling that appointment of Brownell as Attorney General is a personal affront, chiefly because Brownell is allied with the Dewey wing which did much to defeat Taft at the convention.

Actually, this whole question has been settled twice. First at the Republican Convention in Chicago, where Eisenhower was nominated over Taft; second, at the polls in November when the people of the United States elected Eisenhower.

Perhaps it is strictly "grass roots" thinking, but the people who elected Eisenhower were not voting for the Republican machine. Many of them were voting for an honest American with a clean record; others were voting against continuation of ANY political machine. Had Senator Taft been the Republican nominee, Adlai Stevenson would unquestionably have been elected President of these United States.

About the qualifications of Durkin and of Brownell, we are not qualified to say, but we do feel that the most heartening development in national politics since the nomination of Eisenhower in Chicago is the fact that President-elect Eisenhower has the fortitude and determination to oppose Sen. Taft and the Republican political machine. The people voted for a man they believed would stand up against party politics and pressure. They voted for a man they believed would place the welfare of the United States ahead of political patronage and personal gains for a man who would, in short, take machine politics out of Washington.

Chief opposition offered Eisenhower's nomination by Old Guard Republicans was the fact that Eisenhower was not an integral part of the party machine. The political system based upon the slogan, "To the victor belongs the spoils" means much to party followers. It means jobs, contracts, appointments and patronage. You can hardly blame these Old Guard Republicans for wanting their share of the spoils, particularly after twenty years of Democratic plunder which reached an all-time climax during the Truman administration.

It just happened, though, that the people were fed up with the whole system. They went to the polls and said so in no uncertain terms. They elected a man to clean up Washington.

ton. The way things are developing, it looks as if they might have elected the right man.

Eisenhower will, undoubtedly make mistakes. Plenty of them. However, if he makes them honestly and in a sincere effort to put the welfare of the nation above all else, he is the man we need for president. Actually, this independence shown by Eisenhower in naming the man he feels best qualified, rather than some Old Guard Republican for political patronage is, in our opinion, the most encouraging development this country has seen in many months.

Phones To Make Farm Life Happier

What will rural telephone service mean to the territory?

The answer to this question will probably vary just as many times as there are connections and families along the proposed 575 miles of line. Some people will not even apply for telephones. Others have had their applications and deposits for several months.

In the long run, however, the rural telephone installation will mean a lot. Not so much, perhaps, as rural electrification, but much in the way of convenience, social contacts and emergency usage. Calling the doctor, for instance, will be a major item; checking on availability of repair parts will save many long trips into town and perhaps rush deliveries. There are many, many more.

The telephone is an item most anyone can do without, but, even though it is a luxury, it has come with many people to be considered a necessity. People used to get as clean in those old tin wash tubs as they do in modern bathtubs -- but now days everyone wants a bathtub.

As one of the early areas in the country to install rural telephones, this territory is setting the pace for a movement which will sweep the country. Rural telephones are an asset and a convenience which will do much toward making life on the farm more pleasant and comfortable. It is, in part, an answer to a song that appeared shortly after World War I. The title was, "How Are You Gonna Keep 'Em on the Farm?"

Park Improvements Tribute To Dameron

The City Commission this week adopted a resolution which changes the name of Lake Park to W. E. Dameron Memorial Park.

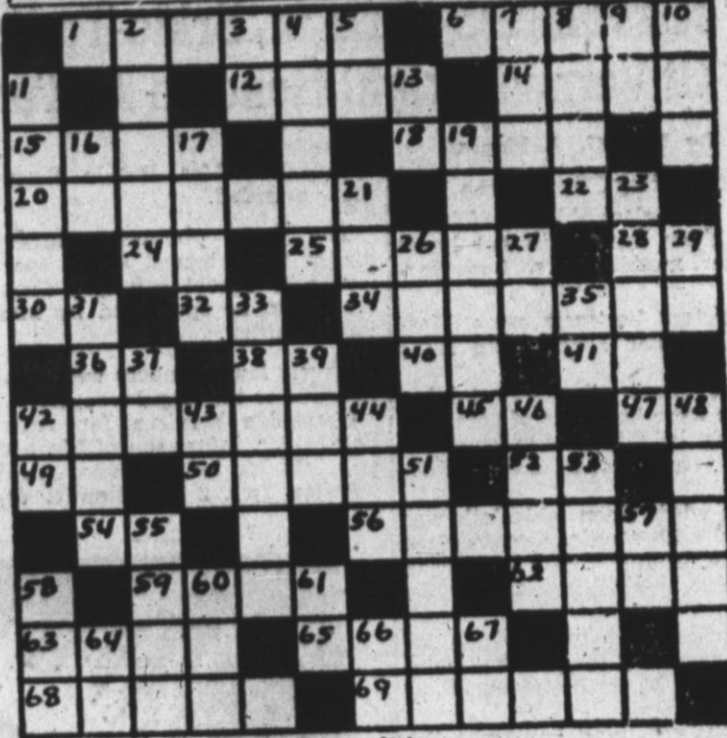

The Commission took this step in honor of a great citizen who contributed much to the park system of the community, and who did still more toward the progress and advancement of Hereford.

In many ways, the action is fitting. For many years the name of Lake Park was applicable, chiefly because after each heavy rain it described the park. Even during Mr. Dameron's tenure as mayor, the park was several times flooded into a lake of huge proportions. Under Mr. Dameron's direction, larger drainage systems were installed and the park has, in recent years, taken on a new aspect. Our point is that it was Mayor Dameron, himself, who really made the name Lake Park obsolete.

Drainage was only the initial step in Mr. Dameron's plan. Since Hereford was fortunate in owning property which could never be bought today, Mr. Dameron visualized the park as a community center. Surveys were carefully made by engineers and plans were laid toward this end. This Spring (1953) these plans will be largely realized and, as Mayor Dameron visualized, the park will become a community center.

Mayor Dameron did not live to see this dream come true but, never-the-less, it is a tribute to his foresight and vision. It is, therefore, entirely fitting that the City Commission should change the name from Lake Park -- in honor of the man who truly changed the plot from a lake and made of it a wonderful park.

I'll Never Forget

Dr. Price, my three children and I came to Hereford in 1907. My husband had already come to find us a place to live. Our former home was in San Marcos, which at that time was an aristocratic college town. Imagine our feelings when we came here to find only a few store buildings and plank sidewalks and muddy streets.

We arrived on Sunday and I stopped at the old Snyder Hotel. Our first acquaintances in Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Black, Nell and Jim. Jim was just a baby in his mother's arms then. These new friends began to make us feel at home in this strange new country.

My doctor husband was one of six doctors in Hereford at that time. All the doctors had cars when we came except Dr. Price. Although they had cars, they employed a man named Frank Tucker to go with them on their calls which carried them anywhere from a few miles out in the country to 100 miles away from home. Frank was familiar with all the roads and the ranch houses. I remember when Frank married Estel Patton, who is now Mrs. Cobb of Canadian.

In those days we had really hard winters and many a time the doctors would leave home with Frank and get on a road to find themselves in a blinding snow storm. They would just have to sit covered with their car robes until the storm would clear or morning would come where they could again find their way to the patient. It was too dangerous for one to travel alone or without a guide.

There were very few telephones at that time so when someone became ill in the country they generally had to send for help; then the party would act as guide to the doctor.

Amarillo was the nearest hospital available to Hereford and surrounding territory. There was only one train a day and dirt roads, which were often muddy, were the only other way of reaching Amarillo. In case of an emergency, the patient might die before reaching the hospital there therefore other facilities had to be provided.

In case the patient's home could not be cleaned or sterilized for surgical use, often a neighboring home or the doctor's house had to be used for this.

I shall never forget the first time my kitchen and dining room were turned into a hospital room and sterilizing room.

The nearest available trained nurse was at Amarillo and often it would be from 12 to 24 hours before one could be secured, due to train schedules. Often the only assistant the doctor would have in an operation was a member of the patient's family, or in many cases the doctor's wife would be his willing assistant. This is where I felt I really belonged -- beside my doctor husband. I loved medicine and studied with my husband.

In 1914, Mrs. A. D. Godwin realizing the great need of a hospital in this area, converted her home into a little hospital. She completely furnished it with equipment and beds; and she could care for four patients at one time. The building is still standing just a little way out of town toward Canyon. Later she moved to 118 Bradley Street and enlarged her home to care for from five to 13 at a time, depending upon the nature of the illness of her patients.

By 1921, this was entirely too small for a hospital and the old Carl Hotel, now the Savoy Hotel, was purchased. It had to be completely renovated and remodeled then equipped and furnished. Mrs. Godwin took charge of that as superintendent in the fall of 1921. There were four doctors on the staff: Doctors Hicks, Gabbert and Price.

Much to everyone's sorrow Mrs. Godwin resigned in 1922, leaving the hospital without a superintendent. Adding to the community sorrow and much to my personal sorrow, my husband, Dr. Price, passed away in July of 1922. His death shattered the hospital and it was closed.

On his death bed, Dr. Price said to me that he hated to go, because he felt that his work was still unfinished here. He wanted to have a Deaf Smith County hospital and he felt that the people wanted it and had the money for it. He asked me to carry on and to see that the county had a hospital complete and large enough to serve its people.

I went to work planning and studying on the ways to start such a project. I felt that the load was too great for me to bear, but I also realized there would be a way.

One day as I sat in my living room studying, I looked out the window to see two doctors (Continued on Page 5)

The BOOTLEG
Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm hits another peak in laziness this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editor:
I was in town yesterday lookin over the Christmas displays, lots of merchandise on hand it seems to me, lots of buyin, lots of people with arms full of packages, lots of sellin goin on.

Personally, I wasn't doin any Christmas shoppin myself, I never shop or plow early, and I'm just as opposed to late shoppin and late plowin, but what interested me was the fact people apparently are still spendin money, and I've been wonderin where it's comin from. That is, where do they get the incentive?

As I understand the economists, a dollar ain't worth much these days, after you get one, what have you got? According to experts, a dollar is now worth only 49 cents, a penny post cards cost two cents, if you get a raise it's still not as much as you were makin 20 years ago, money is the cheapest thing there is today, a dollar don't mean a thing, etc.

But I've been thinkin: for a dollar not to be worth anything, there sure are a lot of people still chasin 'em.

Personally, makin money has always struck me as a highly legitimate pursuit, one apparently containin a lot of fun and plenty of rewards, but they never have got a system worked out to suit me. I'd like to chase dollars myself, like to overtake some, but I'd like to do it like fox hunters hunt foxes in East Texas. Under their system, they sit by a camp fire and let their dogs do all the chasin. You can hunt all night and not exert yourself anymore than the amount necessary to get up and throw another log on the fire. Now that's the kind of dollar-chasin system I'm lookin for. This system of havin to get out and sweat for it (it's fine for them that like it, this country would be hard up if most people didn't do it, Europe would be even harder up, but there ought to be an easier way, and while I never have found one, you won't catch me givin up tryin. What's good enough for an office-holder is good enough for me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION Question Of Week Reveals Local Citizens To Be Busy Christmas

How do you plan to spend the Christmas holidays or Christmas day?

Mrs. Dorothy Parker, 107 Catalpa.
It's so far ahead, but I think we'll probably stay at home as usual during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Jack Fambrough, West of City.
The first thing I'm going to do on Christmas day is crawl out of bed and drop to my knees and thank the Lord for Christmas. My family and I plan to go to Lamesa to spend Christmas day with folks on both sides of the family.

O. E. Easley, 711 N. Miles Ave.
We expect to have the children at home. We have two boys, one daughter-in-law and a grandson.

Mrs. Edna Bove, 411-B West 4th street.
As of usual, I'll spend Christmas with my brother and his family at San Saba.

Mrs. Velma Cook, 133 Ave. H.
We plan to go to Magdalena, N. M. to visit our son who lives on a ranch there.

Mrs. C. W. Frye, 210 West 5th st.
We'll have a family get together here first then I plan to go to Fort Worth to be with my mother and sister and Mr. Frye will go to Iowa to be with his mother. Later, then we plan to meet in Dallas for another family affair with our children.

Mrs. Grant Hanna, NW of City.
We plan to be at home with our two children. We have two little girls, one is three and the other is 15 months; therefore, Christmas means everything to them.

We imagine Linda Jacobsen, little daughter of the John Jacobsen Jr., has been lookin forward to the visit from Santa Claus as eagerly as all the other youngsters, we saw her in town with her mother several days ago and her little round cherub face peeking in at the displays at Caves was as pretty and sparkling as any of the dolls in the window. Christmas is indeed the light in a child's eyes.

If you don't believe in fate then please explain what it was that played right into our hand last week when we were huntin for some small magnets to put into gift pot holders. We had already made the dime stores, the lumber yards, and had started a round of the hardware establishments when E. W. Young, radio repairman overheard our conversation with Jean and Urlin Streu and very generously offered us some magnets from the shop at his home at 306 West Seventh.

We don't know what else to call such an incident but just plain luck, because we didn't even know a radio had a magnet.

coming up the walk. They told me if I would take charge of the hospital it would be opened again. Naturally I had to see to the repainting of floors, walls and to the complete renovation and sterilization of the building.

I had been working for one week when I received a phone call from Dr. Gabbert regarding two men badly injured in an accident. I opened the hospital and was initiated as a nurse that night. Dr. Gabbert and the other doctors worked feverishly that night to save the life of the pitifully injured man. Both men had been drinking and when the doctor left that morning about two a.m. I was left alone to keep constant watch on the critical patient and the other patient, not so seriously injured. The men lived and both were so grateful.

I operated the hospital at my own expense and made it pay for itself. I never went in debt for any of the groceries or medicines, although I never made any profit, it was satisfying to have it pay for itself. At times I would have only one patient in the hospital but would have to keep on the entire staff of nurses and the cook. Naturally, at those times it would be hard to pay my bills ... but I did it.

I'll never forget the night when Dr. LeGrand was very ill with pneumonia and in the hospital. It was such a bitter winter that year, and this day was no exception. I had had a ton of coal delivered to the basement of the hospital that evening. The hospital rooms were full to overflowing. All the nurses were busy and everyone else in the hospital had more than they could do. There was a man at the hospital named Gus, whose wife was rather ill. I asked this man to help me by shoveling coal for me that night. He refused to help me and felt highly insulted at the idea of my asking for help. That night I shoveled the whole ton of coal. The reason I say it was a whole ton of coal is that we had to re-order before breakfast the next morning as the basement was empty.

Another instance I vividly remember is when the hospital was full to capacity again and we were short handed. Two nuns in and said they knew I was shorthanded and that I needed help and if they could, they would like to. I didn't know what to say, my heart was too grateful. They stayed and worked all night

Mrs. Ball now of Amarillo is the former Miss Brown, another faithful standby. Laura Gibson Roberts, sister of Mrs. Glen Snyder of Hereford, now lives in Hammond, Ind., and is a nurse in the public school system. Enough nice things could never be said for these nurses.

H. D. CHATTER

During all the planning and working toward the county hospital, I always had the full cooperation of the doctors in Hereford. They were so kind.

The people of Hereford have made Deaf Smith County an institution to be proud of and I watch every addition with great pleasure.

J. P. Slaton passed away in 1947 but I have maintained my home in Hereford.

My children are married and Annie, now Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, lives in Weanacree, Wash. Bernadine married Leon E. Grisot and lives in Los Angeles and Gwendolyn lives in Dunsmeur, Calif., and is Mrs. Ray B. Miller. Gwendolyn was born after Dr. Price and I moved to Hereford. Otho, our only boy was accidentally killed many years ago.

I don't do anything any more but my church work and my club work. I am an active member of the Methodist church, the Bay View Study Club, South Hereford Demonstration Club and the Hereford Garden Club.

Do you have trouble managing your bank account? I once heard it said that many an educated person can figure out a difficult arithmetic or geometry problem, yet when it comes to figuring a bank account to make it balance, the educated person fails.

Maybe you're not in the group of persons with difficulties in managing bank accounts. If you are, however, you'll be interested in the new publication from the home management specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service that gives specific suggestions and directions that may help you.

The publication explains how to open a checking account, how to have a joint checking account and how to make deposits for checking accounts, and even the proper way to write a check. This may sound elementary to many of you who are experienced with your own checking accounts, but the publication may help you too, with some of the problems that you have each month balancing them.

This month the specialists at A & M College feature a revised plan that many of you may be familiar with, a plan for making a picnic table that will serve dual purpose. The picnic table can be made an outdoor table with seats bolted to the table, or it can be made with the seats left off and then you can use it as a work table in the house or shop where space may be limited.

The specialists say the winter months will be a good time to do jobs like making this picnic table that serves a dual purpose. If you are interested see your County Extension Agent. The name of the plan is "Picnic Table" and we have the blueprints directions for building.

attending the patients.

One day in 1922, I called Mr. J. P. Slaton, who later became my husband. He was a lawyer in town and I wanted him to draw up the necessary petition for the township to sign for the county hospital to be built here. He laughed at me, but said he would write the petition for me if I wanted it.

I kept that petition in my desk at the hospital and when any prominent people with city property came in I would ask them to sign and in less than three months, I had 200 names. The next step was for me to present the petition to the court which I did, and after due consideration, which incidentally seemed like an eternity to me, it was accepted to be voted on by the public. On December 20, 1923, the bond for $50,000 was voted on and carried by a good majority. Deaf Smith County was on its way to having a real hospital. Mr. Slaton and I were married October 23, 1924.

The hospital was finished in 1925 and the board of directors did me the great honor of asking me to be superintendent.

I went to Dallas and to Amarillo to their county hospitals and spent three or four weeks in each place learning how to operate a county hospital.

Some of my nurses are still nursing in other towns and I have kept up with a few of them. I wish I had words adequate to express my appreciation to the nurses who helped me so faithfully.

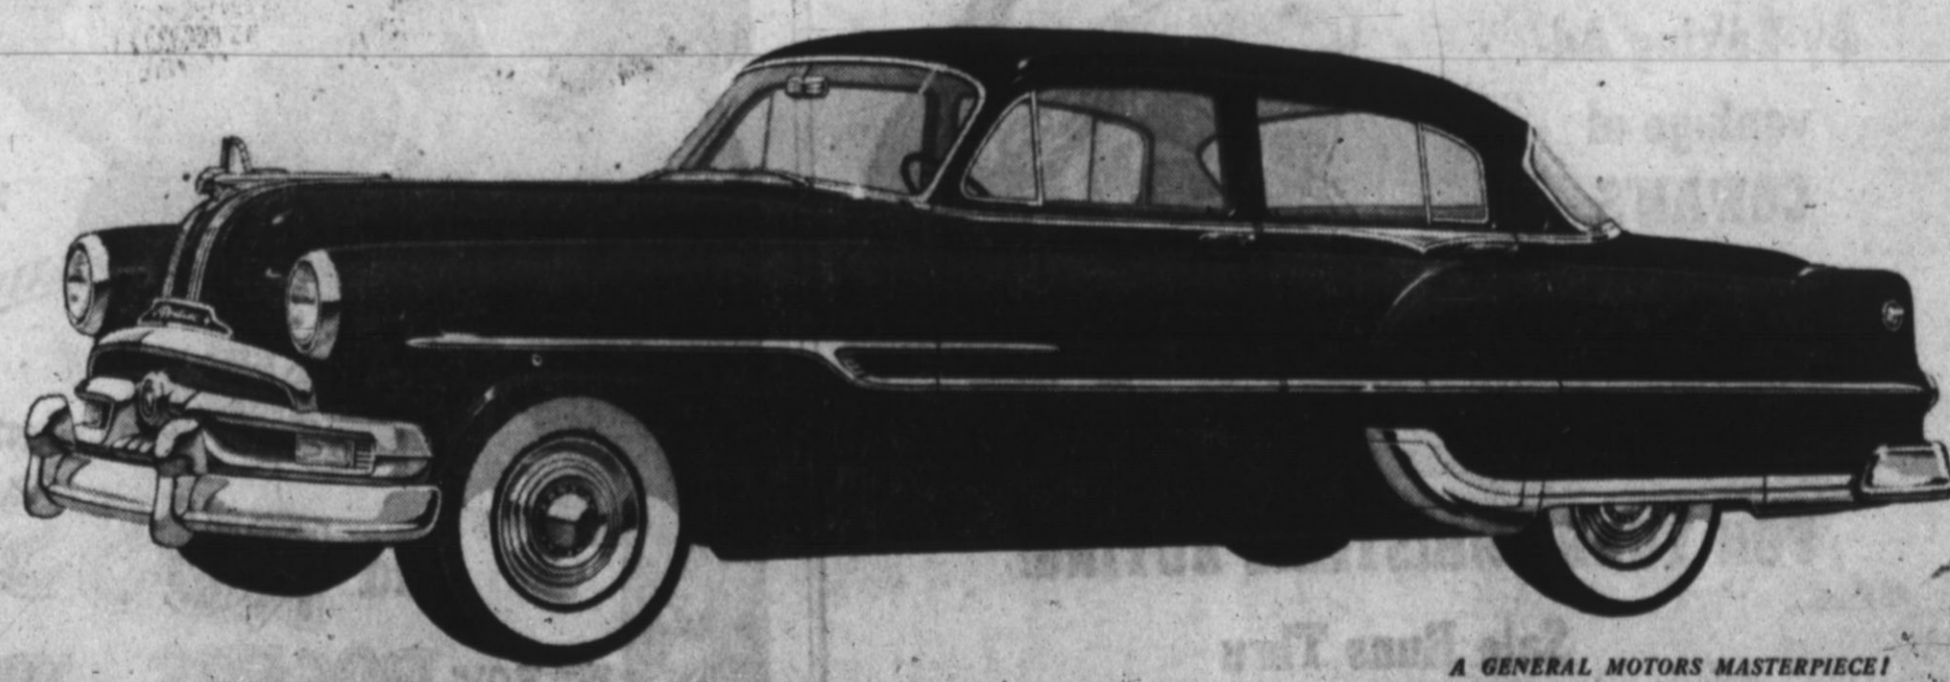

My special thanks would go to a nurse named Jeruse Smith, whom we all fondly called Jerusalem. She is now in Portales.

Streu's Diary

DEAR DIARY:

I fear that my 'Christmas Spirit' is a bit laggardly. I almost had it within my grasp the other day when I learned that a guy had left town owing me some 50 bucks -- then I was hit for 25 simoleons for street decorations and for another 30 beans on a radio auction sale for underprivileged children. Then 110 berries for insurance, found that my paper advertising rate had risen another 12% -- then another notice from the income tax branch of our government -- and to top everything off -- I ran out of beer. So -- no beer to cry into. Nope, I just can't seem to get in the spirit of the season!

You know, these same things happen to me at this time every year -- I have come to expect them, but have never gotten to the point of liking them -- kinda like my left ear -- the darn thing chronically ties itself up in knots and hurts like thunder -- I have come to expect it periodically, but never have liked it. Same difference.

Enough of my woes -- we at Streu's have enough gift merchandise to supply gifts for every woman in the county -- and some to spare -- so you can pick and choose for just the item for that special person -- of course, we gift wrap (items that we sell) and will wrap for mailing (items which are purchased here) and we have a lay-away space to take care of your gifts until you are ready to pick them up.

I suppose I should list all the gift items which we have in stock, but it would take more space than I can afford at present advertising costs -- but -- we do have such nationally advertised brands as RCA Victor, General Electric, Sunbeam, Case, Fostoria, Delta, Lionel, Syracuse, Plumb, Wagner, Walker, Everlast, Winchester, Pyrex, Prestone, Pflueger, South Bend, True Temper, Universal, Kromex, Nesco, Dazey, and dozens of other famous trade named items.

While it is true that most nationally advertised merchandise is good -- and guaranteed -- it is also true that in most cases the guarantees are only as good as the dealer from whom the merchandise is purchased -- it is difficult to obtain adjustments on defective merchandise unless your dealer goes to bat for you -- and there is a point -- Streu's have been rendering service to this community for over twenty eight years -- making fair adjustments and standing behind the fine merchandise with friendly and interested willingness to help.

We are not here for just a year or two -- nor do we just handle the above brands just for Christmas -- we keep them the year around -- year after year.

Surely you can depend upon Streu's to sell you the finest merchandise available -- and to render the finest service possible -- and at nationally advertised prices.

Besides that, we need the business.

Coaches Got Along Just Fine Despite Bad Year For SW Teams

By Harold V. Raliff Associated Press Sports Writer Since it was such a bad year in Southwest Conference football, you might assume that the coaches were given plenty of trouble. But the coaches got along as well if not better than several of them were praised highly for doing what they did with what they had.

There was some grumbling among the fans at Southern Methodist, Rice and even at Texas Christian but they were little more than you'll find any year in the Southwest Conference. There was a time, some years ago, when we encountered fans at the University of Texas who were in favor of firing the coach because his team didn't roll up higher scores. At the time the team was undefeated. But there was more tolerance this year than any we can recall. Every team in the conference lost as many as two games and the record in intersectional play was poor indeed. But when there was grumbling at Rice, Dick Freeman of the Houston Chronicle pointed out just how silly it was to want Jess Neely's scalp since he was a fine coach and had compiled a most excellent record -- and was just as good as a coach this year as he was in 1949 when his team won the championship. The grumbling subsided.

At Southern Methodist, the athletic committee issued a statement that it was happy with Rusty Russell, though he had done a good job, that SMU never had fired a coach and wasn't planning to start now.

There was a humorous little sidelight. Some fellows called on Athletic Director Matty Bell and suggested that he fire Russell. Matty reminded these fellows that they were the same guys who came to him and wanted him to retire from coaching so Russell could have the job. That silenced them.

Coach Ed Price at Texas never worried about ulcers anyway. When he took the job he said folks had ulcers in any kind of business. Price's team lost two games but developed into a real powerhouse down the Southwest Conference stretch. And Ed had many sophomores. We've seen the time when losing two games at Texas would have put the coach on the rack even if he had been forced to use all sophomores. But everybody seems to be very happy at Texas. They certainly should be.

Ray George grew more popular than ever at Texas A & M although his Aggies won only three games. Considering his material, George did an outstanding job. But back when Homer Norton was the coach they wanted to fire him when his team won only three games. In fact, they bought up his contract.

Coach Dutch Meyer at Texas Christian won only four games but if he leaves TCU it will be on his own volition -- he's been wanting to retire for several years. But nobody wants him to retire.

Yes, Sir; the coaches got along better than even the sports writers who got chewed out by the populace for making such lousy predictions and for stirring up a controversy or two. We feel an ulcer coming on.

BETWEEN $1,500 and $2,000 LOSS was estimated when the home of Earl Poarch and his mother, Mrs. Mary Poarch, 121 Kibbe Street, caught fire Wednesday evening around 6 o'clock. Members of the Hereford Fire Department are shown in the above photo as they sought to combat the fire. The fire was reported by neighbors when smoke began boiling out between shingles of the roof. No one was at home when the fire occurred. All furniture was removed by the fire department and volunteers and most of the damage was estimated to have occurred in the roof and attic portion of the house. The fire started in the bathroom from a small stove, firemen believed. A clothes closet was ignited and the blaze went into the attic with the closet acting as a flue and creating a suction. Firemen, unable to locate the blaze at first, finally chopped a hole through the roof and turned hoses through the opening. W. H. Patton Photo.

REAL ESTATE BOARD REPORT

Mark Benefield has just sold his beautiful farm out east of town on the highway. We understand that Mr. Newsom who lives out on the 50 acre tract south of town bought Mark's place. Mr. Newsom also owns a section and a half of dry land out northwest of town.

All the snow is a welcome end to the drouth and perhaps it will help toward a new crop next spring. We only hope we get more of it.

J. B. Snead is getting underway on the construction of his new home. This home is located just south of Jimmie Allred's home on D Street. We predict a good year in 1953 in the construction of homes in Hereford.

Charlie Hood is building his daughter a new home on Knight Street. Charlie has a nice new home on the corner of 5th Street and Schlev and has proven himself a good builder after retiring from a successful career as a farmer.

Mrs. Woolsey has just built a new home on Avenue A. Seems like the building business in Hereford just keeps rolling along.

We notice the new grass has come up around the new Catholic Church. Sure looks nice. Crowe-Gulde has started construction of their plant on the south side of Highway 69 and north of the Railroad. We would like to see them start making concrete pipe. We hate to see anything hauled into Hereford that can be made here. All this sort of thing keeps more people on the payroll.

We would like to see the Chamber of Commerce start an industrial fund to be administered by the City Commission. This fund would be used for the purpose of purchasing property that could be used for industry. This would eliminate the bottlenecks of speculative buying, freeze outs, and other practices that hamper incoming industrial firms, by making suitable locations available at a reasonable cost. A Tribute --- To Friendship

Through the years, as we learn to evaluate people and personalities, we find that enduring friendships are one of life's precious jewels. What is more comforting than a treasured visit with someone to whom you can be just your natural self? Do you know what the definition of a friend is? It is a person who knows all your faults but still likes you, in spite of them. None of us is free from faults. That is only human. So we gravitate to those who like us and who, in turn, we think rather special. Let's cherish our friendships and make the most of them... lest auld acquaintance be forgot!
