wcomers oust school board incumbents

School District election drew the most interest in polling last Saturday, and voters indicated that they felt some changes needed to be made as two incumbents running for reelection were defeated by newcomers.

Two seats on the HISD board were up for grabs in the election, and 1,504 voters turned out at the community center. Incumbent

Charges leveled at election judge

MANAGING EDITOR Members of the Hereford Independent School District board of directors certified the results of last Saturday's election and welcomed three new members to their fold during a special meeting of the board Monday evening. Marilyn Culpepper, Cal Jones, and Paul Mason took the oath of office from Deaf Smith County Clerk David

Ruland, joining Sallie Strain,

R.C. Hoelscher, Bill Townsend, and Tom Simons as school district trustees. Mason will serve two years on the board, filling out the unexpired term of former board member Bobby Griego, while Mrs. Culpepper and Jones were elected to full three-year terms. They replace James Gentry and Paul Ramirez as trustees. Gentry, a board member for the past eight years, performed his last official duties as president of the board with the canvassing and certification of the election results.

The board, after reviewin election forms, certified the results as following: Mason. unopposed, received 889 votes; Jones got 846; Mrs. Culpepper, 678; Ramirez, 547; Gentry, 302; Trini Gamez, 289; and Dale Pier-

A total of 1,504 votes were cast in the election, with 1,427 persons going to the polls on Saturday, and 76 more voting board members James Gentry, who has served as president of the board for several years, and Paul Ramirez, found themselves coming out on the short end when the votes were counted Saturday night.

Gentry collected 302 votes, while Ramirez got 547, but those totals weren't enough to keep Cal Jones and Marilyn Culpepper off the board. Jones topped the six candidates vying for the two seats with 846 votes, while Mrs. Culpepper received 678.

Other candidates in the race included Trini

Gamez, who got 289 votes, and Dale Pierson, who got 106.

In addition, Paul Mason, who was running unopposed to complete an unexpired term, received 889 votes in the polling.

Thus, three new faces now appear among the HISD board.

Mason will serve two years on the board, while Jones and Mrs. Culpepper were elected to three-year terms.

Turnout for the city of Hereford and Deaf Smith General Hospital District Board of Directors elections was a little smaller than the school district election, with 1,131 persons voting in the city election and 1,154 in the hospital district election.

Wes Fisher is Hereford's new mayor after appearing on the ballot unopposed Saturday and drawing 999 votes. Fisher is the former Place 1 City Commissioner who gave up a bid for reelection to that post to run for mayor.

Melvin Jayroe, also unopposed, polled 930 votes in assuming Fisher's spot on the city commission.

In the only contested race in the city election, incumbent Place 2 Commissioner Ed Coplen withstood a strong challenge by Lynn Jones to retain his seat. Coplen got 572 votes to

Season snowfall at 49-inch mark

Although it's really not that unique in the Texas Panhandle, a spring snowstorm surprised residents in Hereford with more than an inch of snow Monday and ran the season's total to about 49 inches.

KPAN Radio, the official weather station here, reported more than an inch of snow Monday with .11 of an inch of precipitation. The high temperature reading was 34 degrees yesterday and the low was 24 this morning.

KPAN records show about 49 inches of snow since Dec. 26, 1982, and that is believed to be a record for the winter season in Deaf Smith County.

This morning's forecast called for occasional light snow over the Panhandle and South Plains, changing to rain over the entire area through Wednesday. Highs were expected near 30 and lows in the 20s today, reaching a high of

The snowfall was heavier to the north with as much as 8 inches in the northern Panhandle. Drifts up to three feet high stranded motorists in some areas.

Hustlin' Hereford.

Mrs. Jackson calls it 'harrassment'

BY BOB NIGH

MANAGING EDITOR Mrs. Clinton Jackson, a veteran of election work for more than 30 years, and election judge for the Hereford Independent School District for "the past 10-12 years," today labeled charges of irregularities in last Saturday's election as just more harrassment by officials with Texas Rural Legal Ald. Mrs. Jackson, who presided over the school board election at the community center where six candidates were vying for two positions on the HISD board, had been charged with "possible violations of the law and irregularities" that occurred during the election by TRLA attorney Randall Marshall.

Marshall presented his charges to the school board Monday evening. (See story elsewhere on page one).

"I truly feel that this (Saturday's activities and the charges by Marshall) was all planned to harrass us so to make voting so unpleasant for those who come to vote that they will quit coming," Mrs. Jackson said this morn-

"I have been involved with elections for over 30 years, and never in that time has it been so bad," she continued. "I know the election law, and will uphold it ... I don't care who the person is." Mrs. Jackson referred to incidents throughout the day Saturday in which Marshall, a duly sworn poll and ballot count watcher for candidate Trini Gamez," challenged me on every decision I made." Also involved were activities which occured outside of the community center, which caused interruptions to Mrs. Jackson's work.

Mrs. Jackson said that election clerks and officials had a day of problems, including confusion created by persons coming in to vote who

There has been much discussion of late about the possibility of a nuclear waste repository being placed in the county, and two meetings this afternoon will address that question.

A wire service report Sunday noted that the Department of Energy, under a 1982 law, must recommend to the president three sites for further detailed study by Jan. 1, 1985. From among those three sites, the president is required by March 1987 to choose and recommend to Congress one location for the repository.

Some citizens might wonder why all the furor over a question that won't be answered until 1987. The aim of opponents, of course, is to have Deaf Smith County eliminated from the site selection before the government narrows the list to three.

Congratulations to the men and women elected Saturday to serve in the important local governmental bodies. We have always respected people who offer to serve, even when we do not agree with them on some subjects.

Most of these positions are "thankless jobs" with little or no reward except for personal satisfaction in serving the community. And, in most cases, the seats are filled by people who have a genuine interest in the betterment of

Dalhart attorney killed in Panhandle crash

DALHART, Texas (AP) - The body of a 51-year-old Dalhart attorney was found near his twin-engine plane that crashed in high winds south of this Panhandle town, authorities said.

The victim, identified as John L. David, was recovered by an Amarillo search team Monday morning, said Dallam County Sheriff E.F. Byrd.

The Federal Aviation Administration, which blamed the crash on the weather, notified the Amarillo Civil Air Patrol early Monday morning that the plane had not arrived in Dalhart from College Station as scheduled Sunday night, said FAA spokesman Tom Graves

The Cessna 310 was last reported 10 miles southeast of Dalhart at 9:11 p.m. Sunday, Graves said. David, who was alone in the plane, had reported air turbulence at 12,000 feet and was cleared to land at 9:11 p.m, Graves

Rescue efforts were hampered by snow that began Monday morning, Byrd said.

"It was terrible out there," said Peace Justice Yvonne : Whiteaker, who pronounced the pilot dead at the scene. "One minute, you could see the road just fine, the next minute you couldn't see anything."

Hill gets in 1984 race for chief justice

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin attorney John Hill, a former Texas attorney general, says he will be a Democratic candidate for Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court in 1984.

Hill had himself designated Monday as his treasurer in the 1984 campaign. Designation of a campaign treasurer with the secretary of state normally is the first step in making a statewide political campaign.

Hill told reporters he would make a formal announcement as a candidate for the court position, the highest in the state, after the State Bar of Texas Convention in July.

"I just want to start early," Hill said. "There have been people who want to help me and give their sup-

Chief Justice Jack Pope, appointed to the seat by former Gov. Bill Clements, was recently confirmed by the Senate for the term ending Dec. 31, 1983. Pope has said he does not intend to run for another term.

Pope's appointment came after former Chief Justice Joe Greenhill resigned to enter private practice.

Hill, originally a Houston attorney, was appointed secretary of state by former Gov. John Connally and later elected attorney general.

Fired police officers sue community

TYE, Texas (AP) - An opponent of Tye Mayor Jim Snowden says the wounds from a bitter municipal election are healing, but two police officers Snowden controversially fired have named him in a $4.5 million federal lawsuit.

The officers, Don Parrack and John Mauney, claim the mayor, whose supporters won all three city council races Saturday, violated their civil rights in firing them Jan. 25, denied them a chance to defend themselves and made statements that harmed them professionally.

The suit, filed Monday in Abilene federal court, asks for $750,000 each in actual damages and $1.5 million each in punitive damages. Parrack was the West Texas community's police chief and Mauney was his assistant.

According to the suit, Snowden announced Feb. 7 that he was investigating allegations that the officers accepted kickbacks from wrecker operators, made unauthorized purchases, and were involved with $593.33 in missing funds from traffic citation collections.

The officers deny the allegations.

Mrs. Clinton Jackson was the election judge at which the remarks were aimed.

Marshall, who was removed from the polling area by Hereford police Saturday at the request of Mrs. Jackson was assigned as a poll watcher for Mrs. Gamez.

In his letter, Marshall claimed that "Mrs. Jackson impeded or interfered with voters, especially Mexican-American voters, in various ways. She refused to allow a qualified voter the right to cast a ballot because the voter had engaged in conversation with a friend in the Spanish language."

Marshall also claimed that Mrs. Jackson threatened a Mexican-American voter with a possible fine if the voter signed an affidavit and her name did not appear on the computerized voter registration list, and did not make the same threat to any Anglo-American voter who signed such an affidavit.

Marshall further: charged that Mrs. Jackson "misinformed voters about the number of candidates they could or should vote for in the race for the two full-term positions. She repeatedly told voters that they vote for two (2) candidates. She ignored my comments to her that voters could, if they wished, vote for only one candidate; e.g. the proper instruction would be to vote for two or Marshall also charged that Mrs. Jackson "repeatedly and continuously interfered with the duties of the watchers. On several occasions during the day, Mrs. Jackson harassed, intimidated and otherwise interfered with the poll watchers by telling them that they could not do certain things that they were authorized to do. "Mrs. Jackson at times interfered with the watchers in such a manner as to try to embarrass them and created a disturbance in front of the voters.'

Finally, Marshall's letter charged that "Mrs. Jackson finally prevented one watcher from performing his duties by having him removed from the ballot counting room by the police for no valid reason.'

HISD Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder recommended to the board that Marshall's charges be presented to either the Secretary of State or Attorney General's offices.

"Certainly the alleged irregularities should be looked into. I suggest that we refer this to the secretary of state or attorney general's office in Austin for clarification or investigation as they choose," he said.

'There may be a clarification of the law that we need to have made for us."

Upon a motion by Townsend, the board voted unanimously to refer the letter to the state authorities for their consideration.

The meeting concluded with the new board electing officers. Mrs. Strain was elected president of the board, while Hoelscher will serve as vice-president, and newcomer Jones will serve as secretary.

A main topic of the talks between Arafat, who arrived Thursday, and Hussein was the peace initiative presented by Reagan last September, according to sources close to the discussions. The plan calls for Palestinian self-rule in the Israeli-occupied territories in confederation with Jordan.

American diplomats have said Hussein was willing to negotiate the plan with the Israelis - as hoped by the Reagan administration — if the PLO agreed.

But the PLO claims it is the sole representative of the 1.3 million Palestinians in the West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza Strip, and rejects Reagan's plan because it does not call for an independent Palestinian state and does not provide the PLO a role in peace talks. PLO spokesman Abdel Mohsen Abu Maiser denounced what he called "American pressure" on Arab countries to enter "unilateral negotiations with Israel."

By HOWARD BENEDICT AP Aerospace Writer CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.

(AP) - The world's largest and most expensive communications satellite, vital to America's space future, tumbled out of control for several hours today after release from the shuttle Challenger. NASA reported it had regained command, but it was unclear how effective the satellite could be.

The question was whether ground controllers could maneuver the 21/2-ton, $100 million satellite to its planned stationary orbit 22,300 miles high. Trackers estimated the payload was in a distorted orbit ranging from about 14,000 to 22,000 miles high, and it could not be fully effective on that path.

Experts consulted computers to determine if stabilizing gas jets aboard the Tracking and Data Relay Satellite could be used to shift the craft into stationary posi-

"There is some possibility it could be done," said Julian Levine, a spokesman for TRW, which built the TDRS. "The satellite has some onboard propulsion capability and the technical issue now is its ability to move the satellite into the proper orbit."

Challenger commander Paul J. Weitz and his crewmen, pilot Karol J. Bobko and mission specialists Story Musgrave and Donald H. Peterson, who had ejected the satellite from their cargo bay late Monday, were in a sleep period when the trouble began. They were in the second day of the second shuttle's maiden flight.

An hour after the deployed TDRS, the rocket fired successfully to propel the package on its way to the high outpost.

The problem arose about 6 a.m. after the rocket ignited a second time, to try to arrest the satellite in the stationary outpost. The resulting eggshaped orbit indicates an engine misfire which sent the satellite tumbling with the rocket stage attached.

After, hours of suspense. Mission Control in Houston calculated a way to separate the heavy rocket stage from the satellite and then to command the small jets to halt the tumbling motion.

"We have gained control of the TDRS satellite." NASA spokesman Jim Kukowski reported. "We have initiated deployment activity and we are able to confirm it has separated from" its rocket stage.

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Reagan, who will receive the final report of his MX commission later this week, is likely to follow closely the panel's proposal to put 100 missiles into existing Minuteman silos until a smaller missile is developed, his spokesman says.

Reagan will probably announce his decision early next week, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday.

Whatever Reagan proposes will cause controversy in Congress, particularly since his 1981 plan to temporarily put 40 of the giant MX nuclear missiles into Minuteman silos was rejected by Congress.

Two navy jets fly off runway

EL PASO, Texas (AP) -Two Navy jets flying in tandem ran off a runway in a surprise April snow storm, and one plane broke up in a fiery crash after its pilots ejected safely, authorities

The second F-4 Phantom jet Monday night ran off the runway at El Paso International Airport and came to rest safely in mud, officials said.

The first jet was trying to land at the airport at about 7:25 p.m. when it skidded across a four-lane highway and came to rest on the grounds of nearby Fort Bliss, said Pentagon spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Fred Leeder.

An unidentifed motorist escaped injury when the plane's wing clipped his car on a road adjacent to the base. Provencio said.

"The two crew members ejected safely at a low altitude," Leeder said.

Their jet broke into "a million pieces" after crashing, said El Paso Police Officer Eddie Provencio, and two large pieces of the plane's fuselage lay about 1,000 feet from a row of middle-class homes in eastern El Paso.

"landed too late on the runway," said Richard Moya, an employee of Emery Worldwide air freight at the airport.

Thailand claims Vietnamese positioning inside border

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Thailand today claimed Vietnamese troops were digging into positions inside its borders and followed up air strikes against the area with a barrage of artillery fire.

The Supreme Military Command said Vietnamese forces were holding territory just inside Thailand near the border town of Phnom Pan and the settlement of Phnom Chat that straddles the border with Cambodia.

In the first use of airpower during the six-day Vietnamese offensive, Thai air force jets Monday struck the area, about 25 miles north of Thailand's key border town of Aranyaprathet. Artillery was ordered today to zero in on Vietnamese positions, a military spokesman said.

According to reports from the field. Vietnamese crossborder artillery fire frequently has been intense in recent days, with the Thais sometimes returning fire.

The military spokesman said five Thai soldiers have been killed and 16 wounded during the fighting, while the bodies of six Vietnamese soldiers have been recovered over the past six days. Vietnamese weapons, ammunition and gas masks also have been captured, he said.

On Monday, Thailand sent a note to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar protesting what it claimed were Vietnamese intrusions into its territory and "inhumane genocidal crimes" against Cambodian civilians

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Dear school chums, teachers and counselors: Gossip travels fast and by now you all know I am the 15-year-old girl who was raped last Wednesday night.

Please don't treat me any differently than you did before. Don't stare at me as we pass in the halls and elbow your friend in the ribs. I see all of it.

I also know you are whispering behind the back of your hand, "Yes, she's the one who was raped last

I'd appreciate it if you wouldn't flock around me and complain about how lousy the justice system is. Nobody knows better than I how rotten it is that the guy is out there somewhere. Just a few dollars for bail and he was sprung, free to run around and rape somebody else. Funny how many of these guys are repeaters. By the time they come to trial they already have four or five rapes on them.

Don't ask any questions about the psychiatric hospital. It was hell. And yes, I needed it. Your cards and letters did help. I do want to thank you for being so thoughtful.

I hoped I could come back cheerful and hold my head up like nothing happened, but I couldn't hack it. Just for now, until I get used to being back in the swim of things, let me pretend that you aren't feeling sorry for me and that you are not filled with curiosity about what it was like.

And, finally, if I seem to be staring into space and you get the idea that I am thinking about last Wednesday night, you are probably right, so say something funny. Tell me a joke. I need to laugh a little. Just don't avoid me and treat me as if I am a different person. I am the same girl I was before, only a terrible thing has happened to my life and I must get over it. Thirty-three students ranging in age from 11 to 18 have been expelled since the policy was instituted in August 1982, and the school board has backed each expulsion.

Parents and guardians must sign a "certificate of acceptance" acknowleding the policy when their children enroll in the district.

"That certificate marks one big difference between Northside and other districts in the state," Ms. Ellison said. "It shows they absolutely knew what the penalty was for these infractions."

Northside, a middle-class district with 35,000 students and four high schools, cuts through Bexar, Medina and Bandera counties.

"A lot of people think this is a silk-stocking district, affluent, but it's not," Ms. Ellison said. "We have 45 percent minority population.'

Phi Slama Jama dunked, 54-52

Heart Attack Wolfpack rule as college basketball's national champions today, unlikely winners of a crown that had been all but conceded to Houston's Phi Slama Jama

Beaten 54-52 in the NCAA finals Monday night, the men of the tallest fraternity in the land learned a couple of important facts of basketball life.

When you live by the dunk, sometimes you can die by the dunk, too. And you also can perish at the foul line, where soaring above the basket simply isn't allowed.

The irony of it all was that N.C. State did Houston in with a dunk by Lorenzo Chares at the final buzzer after Phi Slama Jama failed Elementary Basketball 101: Foul

State was a longshot in this tournament after a mediocre 10-loss season. But Coach Jimmy Valvano, a street-smart New Yorker who took his wise-cracking act to tobacco country, sold his kids a dream and saw them deliver it against the top-ranked Cougars.

It was not an easy victory, but little of what the Wolfpack did in the tournament was easy. Why should the title game have been any different? So when Charles grabbed Dereck Whittenburg's lastgasp air-ball and stuffed it through the basket for State's winning points with one second remaining, it was almost routine for the Cardiac Pack.

"That's just the way it's designed on the blackboard," deadpanned Whittenburg, who in three years of playing under Valvano has learned to place his tongue in his cheek every bit as well as his coach.

"You think that's a freak play?" asked Valvano. "It's part of my Emergency Scoring Series, triple credenza play, unbalanced coach around left end.'

It set off a wild celebration in the University of New Mexico's Pit, where State eliminated first Georgia and then Houston to capture the second NCAA title in the school's history.

It was a crown N.C. State almost didn't have a chance to win. They were the longest shots to win this tournament since 1966 when tiny Texas Western upset No. 1 Kentucky in the championship game.

The Wolfpack struggled through a mediocre season and was a so-so 17-10 going into the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. It was there that State beat North Carolina and Virginia on consecutive nights to win an automatic invitation to the NCAAs.

Then there were pulsating wins by two points in double overtime against Pepperdine, by one point over Nevada-Las Vegas and by two over Virginia again to reach the Final Four.

All the while, Valvano was selling a dream, telling his kids they were a team of destiny. And the Pack bought the Valvano said. "But I've been dreaming about this for a long time, ever since I got into coaching.

All State had to do to make the dream come true was beat the No. 1 team in the country, a dunk-drunk squad riding the crest of 26 consecutive victories. Houston had put on a clinic destroying second-ranked Louisville in the semifinals and figured to destroy Valvano's dream.

But it didn't quite happen that way. "Our goal was not to give them a dunk, to make them beat us outside," Valvano said.

The Wolfpack scored the game's first three baskets and for the first 15 minutes, Phi Slama Jama did not manage a single stuff shot as State's dreamers charged into a lead on the fine inside work of 6-11 Thurl Bailey.

"We played great," said Valvano. "We were up 6-0 and it could have been 10-0."

Eventually, 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon soared over the rim for one of Phi Slama Jama's specialties with five minutes left in the half. It was to be the only dunk all night for the team that had stuffed 13 in the faces of Louisville's Cardinals just two days before. State's tenacious 2-3 zone defense controlled the area under the hoop.

At halftime, Bailey had 15 points, Houston's Clyde Drexler was tied to the bench with four personal fouls and the Wolfpack was sitting on a 33-25 lead, 20 minutes away from a national championship.

It turned out to be the longest 20 minutes of Valvano's

"I felt we were in a better position eight down to North Carolina State at the half than we were five down to Louisville at the half (in the semifinals)," said Houston Coach Guy Lewis. "I just had the feeling we hadn't played a lick. I felt if we go out and play at all, we win the game."

North Carolina State came out ice cold in the second half and Houston went on a tear, outscoring the Wolfpack 17-2 over the first 91/2 minutes. It was reminiscent of the 21-1 Cougar spurt that had buried Louisville on Saturday. The only difference was that Phi Slama Jama still wasn't stuffing. But the fraternity did have the lead, 42-35.

"We were stone cold," said Valvano.

It was beginning to look like the dream was over. Then, though, Houston helped revive it. The racehorse, run-andgun Cougars, slowed to a walk. The slowdown that N.C. State was expected to play arrived from an unlikely source - Houston.

"We went to that because I have a lot of confidence in that offense," said Lewis. "I felt we could pull it out and get some layups."

Valvano admitted he was surprised to see it. Not sorry, you understand. Just surprised.

"They were on a roll and there was quite a bit of time left," he said. "It wasn't like there were four or five minutes. They hadn't exactly been lighting it up, either. Maybe they were trying to get us extended and further from the basket to get some layups."

The ploy did not work. Suddenly, State's perimeter game came to life. Whittenburg and Sidney Lowe, the backcourt partners who had played together for eight years through high school and college, began bombing from long range and hitting. They got help from Terry Gannon, another outside shooter, and slowly Houston's led Olajuwon, the tournament's most valuable player and high scorer in the game with 20 points, tried to keep Houston in control but the Wolfpack kept coming. When the clock got inside five minutes, Valvano went to his last bit of strategy. He started sending Houston to the foul line.

They don't allow dunks from there and Houston has had problems with free throws all year, managing just 61 percent for the season. The shortcoming doomed the Cougars this time.

"We do not want someone else to decide the outcome of the game," explained Valvano. "We knew we had to get them to 1-and-1, so we had to foul. We don't care who we foul. If someone makes it, we don't foul him again. If we foul Drexler and he knocks in two, we don't foul Drexler again. If we foul (freshman Alvin) Franklin and he misses, we tackle him the next time."

Drexler was the first candidate and he hit both of his free throws, extending Houston's lead to 52-46 with 3:19 to go. Valvano did not shop at his stand again, choosing instead to foul Michael Young, who had missed both of his free throws in the first half. Young obliged by missing

In the meantime, Whittenburg and Lowe were playing bombs away from the outside. First, Lowe hit a pair of 20-plus footers and then Whittenburg connected from the same territory. With 1:59 left, the Wolfpack had caught Houston, tying the score at 52.

Valvano's next customer at the foul line was Franklin, the freshman. When Whittenburg hacked him, he applauded himself, happy he had fouled the man he wanted to foul. Franklin missed his free throw and Cozell Mc-Queen dragged down the rebound.

Now State could control its own destiny. The Pack called a timeout to plot the last shot.

"Usually in that situation, we go with Dereck and Terry on each side and Sidney in the middle," said Valvano. " tell him, 'Go to it. Nobody does it better.' But we got bent out of shape and didn't know how much time was left."

Drexler barely missed an interception but Whittenburg recovered the ball. With time running out, he launched a rainbow that never got near the basket. It didn't have to, though, because Charles was under the rim, waiting for it. And Olajuwon, who had 18 rebounds until then, was missing in action.

"He wasn't supposed to be that far from the basket," said Lewis. "I told him, 'Don't leave that bucket.' I don't know where he was to tell the truth."

Charles leaped high, grabbing the ball and driving it down through the net for the winning points as time ran out. It was over that quickly.

"It feels awful," said Lewis, a loser in the Final Four for the fourth time in 27 years at Houston. "I never lost a game that I didn't feel awful. But this has a special meaning. I feel terrible. You throw it up, you take your

Wolfpack fans howling

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) -They hung from the balconies of their dorm rooms. They smashed beer bottles in the street. They hugged each other and poured gallons of beer over each other's heads. They howled.

North Carolina State fans went wild after after the Wolfpack took a 54-52 victory over Houston to win the NCAA basketball champion-Thousands screamed "N.C. State, N.C. State," as they paraded along Hillsborough Street in front of the N.C. State campus.

Police estimated 20,000 fans turned out for the celebrations. Minutes after the game, police were trying to keep about a thousand fans waving beer cans off the street, which was already bumper-to-bumper with cars honking their horns.

One police officer, who asked not to be identified, estimated there were about 60 or 70 officers there.

'We could use about 600," he said, adding "there's only going to be just so much we can do."

"We've got injuries and we've got arrests, but I couldn't tell you how many of each," a police dispatcher said shortly before 2 a.m. "We've got a pretty big mess out there right now.'

Wake County Magistrate Charles Baker said eight people had been brought to the magistrate's office by about 2 a.m. on charges ranging from assault to being drunk and disruptive.

"We've had about 10 in the emergency room, and there's an EMS unit at the door and another on the way," Ms. Mary West, nursing supervisor at Rex Hospital, said three hours after the celebration began. Other hospitals farther from the campus also Police closed off a fiveblock stretch, and then several more blocks as the street crowd increased. Car traffic stopped and a mile of headlights could be seen leading from downtown.

About 8,000 fans rushed to a campus area called the Brickyard where they were greeted by a bonfire, toilet paper, bottle rockets whizzing through the air and beer. Lots of beer. Many revelers were carrying six- and twelve-packs of beer, hanemergency cases from the ding cans and bottles out to all takers.

'It's my first year here but feel great about it, just great," said Zhao Jianghong, jumping aside as a pack of firecrackers went off at his heels.

Most of the talk was on the final, electrifying dunk shot by Lorenzo Charles that iced the game. "On that last shot, I jumped so high I knocked the lights out," said Stan McDonald, 22. an student from Holly Spr-

"He knocked the power out and we didn't know if they made the last shot," shouted one of his roommates standing nearby. "So we just ran into the streets."

In front of a fraternity house, a girl paused after spraying a can of beer at a crowd of passers-by and said speaking of Lorenzo Charles.

"God gave us that last shot," said Darius Barnett, 22, a N.C. State student from Miami carrying a cooler of

Makes fools of experts

College game wild, unpredictable

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) - College basketball is still a game played by kids in their underwear, and a game that makes fools of the experts.

It isn't a game of coaching wizards, dominant giants who can drive and shoot the eyes out of a basket, something that can be drawn up on a blackboard and sent to Las Vegas for a killing by the guys in the back rooms.

It's spirit. It's guts. It's a never-say-die determination, a conglomeration of intangibles all wrapped up in a marvelous team from North Carolina State, the new champions of the college world.

It's wild and it's unpredictable. That's its fascination. That is what sets it apart from the professional game that is so stereotyped in its near perfection that it generates dullness and boredom.

That's the reason N. C. State, a seven-point underdog and 16th-rated nationally after 10 defeats, was able Monday night to upset a Houston team that had been hailed as "awesome" and maybe the most overall talented team ever to play in the NCAA.

Houston had lost only two games all year. It was ranked No.1. And it was so devastating in its dunking destruction of Louisville Saturday that experts saw no way the team could lose in the final.

But it did.

And college basketball, with the madcap scene shown to untold millions on network TV, must have added to its growing legion of supporters.

Already the NCAA Final Four has grown into a sports spectacle approaching baseball's World Series and football's Super Bowl in public and media attention.

And it's still growing.

The professional National Basketball Association has never found a format which comes close to matching it in excitement and frenzy.

The ingredients meshed here Monday night in New Mexico's subterranean "Pit." They included a young coach, N. C. State's Jim Valvano, fresh, uninhibited, a maverick in the looseness of his discipline, and an overmatched bunch of young men who believed in miracles and made them come true.

"Even when we fell behind and they seemed to be taking charge, we never felt we would lose," said senior guard Dereck Whittenburg, who lit the match for the pyrotechnics that won the dramatic game 54-52 at the Houston, having surged into a 52-46 lead with 3:19 left after trailing 33-25 at the half, appeared ready to put the game away behind the impetus of 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon from Nigeria, who rightfully was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

But Sidney Lowe hit from 23 feet and Whittenburg hit twice from 22 and 23 feet to tie the score at 52-52. Only 1:59

Whittenburg purposely fouled Houston's Alvin Franklin. "I was determined not to let them dictate the outcome," Valvano said.

When Franklin missed the front end of his 1-and-1 foul situation, N. C. State's 6-11 center Cozell McQueen seized the rebound.

Forty-four seconds remained. Valvano called time out and that's when they talked about the dream.

As the clock wound down, Whittenburg fired from 27 feet away. The ball fell short. A sophomore, Lorenzo Charles, dunked it as the buzzer sounded.

Dodgers face Astros tonight

Lasorda remains ever optimistic

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Tom Lasorda, who claims he "bleeds Dodger blue," did considerable bleeding in spring training with a Los Angeles team that finished six games under .500 and averaged almost two errors a game.

But Tom Lasorda is, well. Tom Lasorda; ever the optimist.

Carver gains fame through Neiman-Marcus

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) -"It scared the hell out of me. I had heard of Neiman-Marcus and was afraid they'd turn me down.'

But the renowned merchandiser of the ultimate in elegance didn't turn down Perry Holley down. In fact the 12-year working relationship he subsequently had with Neiman's helped make the signature "P.B. Holley" on wood carvings what the name Rolls Royce is to automobiles.

Holley didn't have any carvings on hand when Neiman's contacted him one November day in 1968, so the nine birds he later took to Dallas for an audition had to be borrowed from their original purchasers.

The head buyer for Neiman's took one look at the exquisite detail and the soft, lifelike hues of his basswood creations, Holley recalls, and said: "How many can we get, and how soon can we get them?'

On May 3, 1969, he took 40 birds to Neiman's Dallas store for a scheduled five-day "I worked night and day to get 'em ready," he said in his soft, matter-of-fact manner. By the end of the second day, all but four of the birds had sold for prices ranging from $300 to $1,400. Neiman's was delighted, of course. But it left them with no birds for the show scheduled at their Houston store the following week.

So the birds were tagged and sent to Houston, where Holley took orders for them before they were returned to the people who had bought them in Dallas.

Holley estimates he turned out 360 pieces for Neiman's during the course of the 12 years that followed, years that saw his work sold to buyers worldwide.

That's quite an acomplishment for the 59-year-old untutored product of a broken home. He was reared in a state orphanage at Corsicana from the time he was 6 years old until he graduated from the orphanage high school and joined the Navy in 1941.

"It was a good life," he says in fond memory. "We used to feel sorry for the kids on the outside. There were a thousand kids there (including his brother and sister). It was like a big family. We learned to take care of each other."

It was at the orphanage that Holley also learned to "whittle little dogs and things," and he says his lifelong "fascination with wood" probably derives from a grandmother who used to say she wished she were a man so she could have been a

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

-DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 71-year-old minister in reasonably good health. I have to get up several times during the night to urinate and sometimes during the day I have to go frequently. My doctor has little to say about it other than recommend that I do not drink any liquids after the supper hour and before retiring. This hasn't helped much. It is a bit embarrassing when I am out in public and the urge to urinate comes and it is difficult to hold back. An elderly friend of mine wrote that he used a high potency unsaturated fatty acid capsule and was greatly helped. I have tried these and cannot say that they really helped. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — You undoubtedly have an obstruction to the flow of urine out of your bladder caused by your prostate gland. As the prostate enlarges it squeezes down on the urethral tube that passes through it and drains the bladder. This is quite com-

Frequent urination mon in your age group. The enlargement is really caused by the growth of benign tumors within the gland itself. It is not so important how large the gland is as how much it squeezes down on the urethral tube. Outward enlargement of the gland without pressure will not cause the same symptoms you complain about.

Now the prostate gland can be inflamed or infected, causing swelling and obstruction. This is a different problem. It can often be helped or even cured by medical treatment. The enlargement caused by small tumors common in older people cannot be cured by medicines. At present the only thing that can be offered is surgery. Doctors often delay this if the condition is not too advanced. But in more advanced cases the mechanical obstruction must be removed mechanically, specifically with some form of surgery.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Glazed fruit stays soft

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me how to soften glazed fruit that has hardened? — MARGE

DEAR MARGE - I think the same method used for softening hardened sugar should also work for your fruit, since it is probably the sugar that has hardened. Put the fruit in an air-tight container with a slice of fresh bread for a few days. The moisture in the bread should soften the fruit without making it too sticky. - POLLY

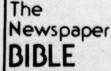

DEAR POLLY - When folding clothes, I keep a piece of masking tape rolled sticky side out attached to the clothes basket. When I come across loose threads or pieces of lint on come clothes, I stick them on the tape to be thrown away

Adding a jar of strained carrots to your homemade chicken soup gives the broth a very rich color, good body, and extra nourishment. — MRS. L.

DEAR POLLY - An easy way for me to use my leftovers from dinner is to give them to my husband for lunch the next day. I use a clean frozen dinner tray and fill it with leftovers before clearing the dinner table. Then he takes the foil-wrapped tray to work with him and heats it in the toaster oven they have there. He gets a nice hot lunch of foods he loves without having to go out for it. If your employee lunchroom has a microwave oven, you can do the same thing with a heavy sectioned paper plate. — PAM

DEAR POLLY — Taping your Sunday morning worship service to share with elderly or ill friends or congregation members will give you a reason for a lovely visit. They'll appreciate it. — L.W.

FORGIVENESS, FIDELITY—YOU ALL!

"There will always be temptations to sin," Jesus said one day to His disciples, "but woe to the man who does the tempting.

If he were thrown into the sea with a huge rock tied to his neck, he would be far better off than facing the punishment in store for those who harm these little children's souls. I am warning you! Rebuke your brother if he sins, and forgive him if he is sorry. Even if he wrongs you seven times a day and each time turns again and asks forgiveness, forgive him."

One day the apostles said to the Lord, "We need more faith; tell us how to get it."

'If your faith were only the size of a mustard seed," Jesus answered, "it would be large enough to uproot that mulberry tree over there and send it hurltling into the sea! Your command would bring immediate results!

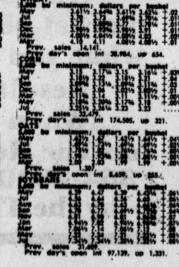

"When a servant comes in from plowing or taking care of sheep, he doesn't just sit down and eat, but first prepares his master's meal and serves him his supper before he eats his own. And he is not even thanked, for he is merely doing what he is supposed to do. "Just so, if you merely obey Me, you should not consider yourselves worthy of praise. For you have simply done your duty!" Luke 17:1-10

Sixty years a star; mourned by Hollywood

NEW YORK (AP) - Entertainers mourned perennial glamour queen Gloria Swanson as a "wonderfully vibrant lady" who was a "thorough professional" during six decades on stage and screen.

Miss Swanson died in her sleep at New York Hospital early Monday, less than a month after her 84th birth-

House committee debates utility bills

members following the Senate's lead on reform of the Public Utility Commission seemed more interested in increased scrutiny of utility company finances than in election of PUC members as they began debating their proposals.

Last week, a Senate committee rejected Gov. Mark White's call for election rather than appointment of the PUC. The Senate bill is scheduled for floor debate Wednesday.

The House State Affairs Committee heard testimony Monday night on 36 proposals, all of which were to go to subcommittees.

Rep. Jim Turner, D-Crockett, who had sponsored the House companion measure to a Senate bill calling for election of the commission, instead substituted a bill identical to the one approved by the Senate commit-

Rep. Elton Bomer, D-Montalba, a member of the Sunset Commission which voted last year to abolish the PUC, presented a bill which would leave the commission appointed and create a public counsel - but in the Department of Community Affairs instead of at the PUC. The proposal also would require regular audits of utility companies and abolish the fuel adjustment clause in the current law.

Consumers groups had complained that the PUC was automatically passing on to consumers the cost to the utility company of buying fuel. Bomer proposed including fuel cost in the rate base from which rate increases are determined.

Bomer also favored disallowing contributions to charities as a cost to be considered when utility companies ask for higher rates and proposed cutting back on the advertising expenses companies could claim.

Another measure sponsored by Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, would provide for six elected commissioners and place the public counsel in the attorney general's office.

Bomer argued against election of commissioners, contending many candidates would falsely claim they would reduce energy bills.

"The Railroad Commission has been elected for a long, long time and we haven't seen gas rates go down," Bomer said. He gave former Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough, now serving a prison term for perjury, as an example that "proper elections don't always mean proper selections."

Smith, however, dared his colleagues to say "that your constituents or my constituents are not wise enough to choose" among candidates.

"Mr. Bomer gave the example of Don Yarbrough. Well, I can point out the dead person that Governor (Dolph) Briscoe once appointed to a commission,' Smith said.

Smith said he thought many lawmakers were opposed to placing the public utility counsel position in the Attorney General's Office out of "fear of (Attorney General) Jim Mattox and what he might do if he had this authority."

"We should not make any decision on public policy because of personality," he said

Mattox had testified before the Senate committee in favor of placing the counsel in his office. He also has sought, so far unsuccessfully, to intervene on behalf of consumers in a rate case before the PUC.

PUC staff members said they feared Mattox' office would be subject to a conflict to court, since his office could find itself representing the

Dating service appeals to disabled

MOUNT LEBANON, Pa. (AP) - Richard Crosby says people apart," said Karen being blind makes it hard to Staver, who with Cynthia Van get dates. He can't drive. He Horne established Specializhas fewer opportunities to meet women and people often refuse to see beyond his handicap.

So Crosby, 26, joined Specialized Dating, believed to be the first dating service catering to people with physical handicaps.

"I just figured that service addressed the issue, and none of the others did," Crosby said. "I hope it will bring disabled people and ablebodied people together."

Disabled people are often reluctant to date and when they do try, the results can be disappointing, said Al Con-deluci, adult program director at the United Cerebral Palsy Center in Pittsburgh.

"A gal on our staff went to one of the dating services and they turned her down," Con-deluci said. "They felt she would have had a hard time getting dates because of her disability. The real message is, 'No one's going to want to date you, so we really don't want to serve you." Some people have criticiz-ed Specialized Dating for contributing to society's segregation of handicapped people.

"The entire disability movement has been one of integration," Condeluci said. "This goes against that grain." But he praised the attempt to offer the handicapped a social life, citing a 1980 study the Pittsburgh area in which physically disabled said their greatest socialization ed Dating. "It's our thing to get these people out of their houses and into the bars and restaurants and theaters where you really don't see anybody handicapped." Ms. Staver, who is not disabled, and Ms. Van Horne, who has a mild case of cerebral palsy, have been friends since they went to suburban Bethel Park High School. "You just look around you and you know problems exist," said Ms. Van Horne who gets around with two wooden canes.

"I've run across problems a couple of times," she conceded. "Even me, as well off as I am. And I figured, what about people in wheelchairs, what do they go through?"

"The opportunity to meet people is considerably curtailed when one isn't mobile," said Enny Seabrook, who specializes in sexuality and the disabled for the Family Planning Council in Pittsburgh. "The other issue is the stigma put on physically disabled people as if they were not sexual."

"You take rejection just so many times then you just don't put yourself in that position any more," Ms. Staver

And women, in particular, face difficulties in the emotionally trying world of did not disclose the cause of her death, friends said she entered the hospital a week ago for treatment of a slight heart attack.

"I am big. It's the movies that got small," she pronounced haughtily in the classic film "Sunset Boulevard." And those who knew her seemed to agree.

"She was a wonderfully vibrant lady whose name was synonymous with Hollywood," comedian Bob Hope said in a statement. "She had an aura of glamour that few stars before or since have displayed."

"Absolutely dynamic," said Mousie Powell, the wife of actor William Powell. When she walked in, you knew she was there. She was effervescent and interested in everything and everybody."

"We just keep losing all the greats," said actress Bette

Actor Buddy Ebsen recalled her as "a delight and a thorough professional." An Academy Award eluded her, although she was a contender for one in 1950 for her performance in "Sunset Boulevard." in which she played a former silent film star who kills her younger lover.

Miss Swanson's movie career wound down after "Sunset Boulevard," but she seldom was out of the public eye because of her many marriages, frequent talk show appearances and a sensational autobiography claiming a love affair with the father of President John F. Kennedy.

The star of Hollywood's golden age, whose $25,000-a-week salary paid for a 24-room mansion and lavish life during the silent film days of the 1920s and the early talkies of the '30s, had lived in New York City for many years. Despite advancing years, she frequently was seen at social events until recently.

A tiny woman, Miss Swanson attributed her longevity and well-preserved appearance to a life-long interest in nutrition. In her later years she co-authored with her sixth husband, William Dufty, a book about the harmful effects of too much sugar.

She was once quoted in a Broadway Playbill sketch as saying that she had never had plastic surgery and "name, nose, teeth, bosom, hair, kidneys - everything but the eyelashes - is real."

Miss Swanson was born March 27, 1899, in Chicago, the daughter of an Army captain, and as a child lived in

During a visit to Essanay Studios in Chicago in 1913 she was hired as an extra at $13.25 a week; within a year she moved to Hollywood, and appeared in a series of Mack Sennett comedies.

When she was 19, director Cecil B. DeMille cast her as a sophisticated woman in "Don't Change Your Husband.'

"That was just like having a god come down from Olympus and shake hands with you," she later said. "DeMille was everything in pictures."

She made six films for DeMille; he made her a star, with lavish productions and costumes, including a gown made of ermine tails and a hat modeled on a Chinese pagoda. She left for Paramount in 1921, making 10 films in two years, then formed her own company.

Her first of six husbands was Wallace Beery, the burly character actor of many major Hollywood films. Others were cafe owner Herbert Somborn; the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray; Irish sportsman Michael Farmer and businessman William Davey. She and Dufty were married in 1976 and separated in 1981, according to Celebrity Service.

She had two daughters, Gloria Somborn and Michelle Farmer. A son, Joseph, adopted during her marriage to Daly, died in 1975.

In her 1980 autobiography, "Swanson on Swanson," she said she had an affair with the late Joseph Kennedy in the 1920s, and Kennedy wanted to leave his wife and "maintain a second household with me."

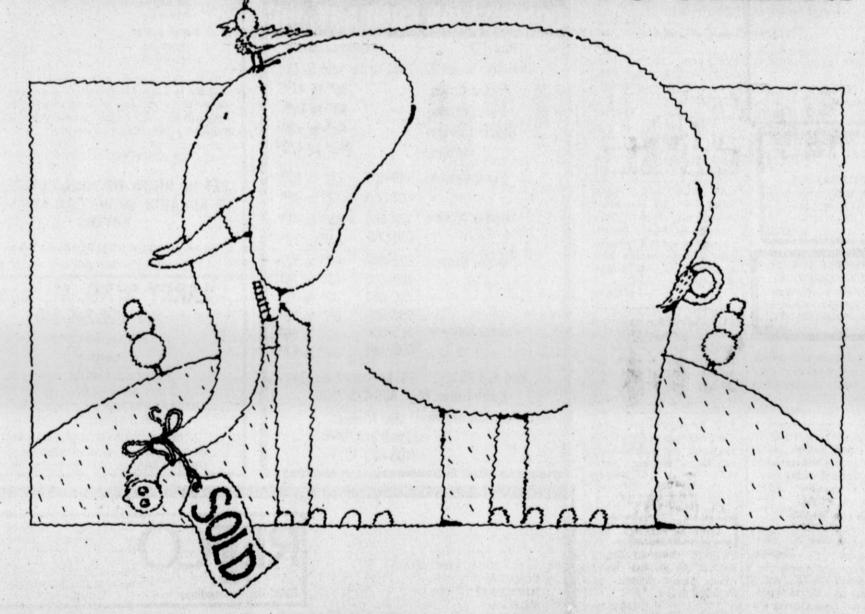

Shortly after autobiography appeared, Eunice Kennedy wrote a let-ter to The Washington Post denying her father had an af-fair with the movie actress.

After her movie career appeared at an end following the 1941 "Father Takes a Wife," Miss Swanson formed Multiprises, a firm that tested and promoted inventions; and produced and starred in "The Gloria Swanson show," a 1948 TV program in which she sat in a livingroomstudio and chatted about clothes, food and household

In 1951 Miss Swanson starred with Jose Ferrer in the Broadway hit "Twentieth Century." She later had parts in "Airport 1975" and a television movie, "Killer Bees." In 1971, at age 72, she appeared on Broadway again in "Butterflies are Free."
