By low price increases

Outlook on inflation brightened

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose a slight 0.1 percent in February as higher food prices cancelled out fresh declines in gasoline and fuel oil costs, the government said today.

The new decline in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods, coming after a record 1 percent drop in January, bolsters economists' predictions that wholesale inflation might be down substantially from last year's moderate 3.5 percent.

Indeed, one economist predicts the year's inflation rate could be as tiny as 0.1 percent, which would be the economy's best showing since the 0.2 percent decline of 1963.

In the February report, the department said energy costs overall fell 2.9 percent, the third straight monthly decline. Energy prices fell a record 4.2 percent in the previous month.

Fuel oil prices were off 7.2 percent, the new report said, after plummeting 9.7 percent. Gasoline prices fell 5 percent, outpacing the previous 3.3 percent drop.

But natural gas, down a record 2.7 percent in the previous month, rose 3.2 percent in the new report. Those prices had soared 20.7 percent in all of last year, largely as a result of congressional decontrol of new-gas costs.

The energy price calculations reported today were actually for January and do not reflect any drops brought about by OPEC's recent $5 a barrel cut in its base price for crude oil. Energy price calculations always lag a month behind the rest of the index.

In its new report, the department provided these other details on February price changes: —Food prices overall rose 0.6 percent after falling 0.2 percent in January. Prices were up for fish, poultry, dairy products, beef and veal. Lower costs were recorded for vegetables and pork.

—Passenger car prices shot up 1.5 percent after falling 0.3 percent during the previous month.

—Capital equipment costs moved up 0.5 percent after declining 0.1 percent in January. Those costs are for machinery and transportation equipment used by business.

All the price changes are adjusted for seasonal variations.

February's overall price increase of 0.1 percent, after seasonal adjustment, compared with a 1 percent drop on January and a 0.2 percent increase in December.

If prices rose for 12 months straight at the February rate, the yearly rise would be 1.7 percent. In reporting its inflation figures, the department bases its compounded, seasonally adjusted annual rate on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public.

Today's reports said that for the 12 months ending in February, wholesale prices rose 2.1 percent.

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index stood at 283.7 in February, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $28.37 last month.

Donald Ratajczak, economic forecaster at Georgia State University in Atlanta, said rapidly falling oil prices could lead to a scant 0.1 percent increase in wholesale prices for all of this year, the smallest gain since 1963 when those costs declined 0.2 percent.

"A sharp drop in world oil prices dramatically alters the extended outlook for 1983," he said in a newsletter to clients. "Fuel prices now are expected to drop sharply, rather than increase modestly during the year."

As a result, he said, "inflation should return to levels that were not experienced in the decade of the 1970s."

Thomas Thomson, chief economist at San Francisco's Crocker National Bank, agreed that a further break in oil prices, even below the $29 a barrel base price newly set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, could mean a yearly inflation rate of "something close to zero."

Right now, he is forecasting a 2 percent to 3 percent advance, better than the 3.5 percent gain of last year, which was the slowest rise since 1971. Those prices were up 7.1 percent in 1981.

Soil district opposes dump

Directors of the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District have joined Deaf Smith County Commissioners and other groups in voicing opposition to the location of a nuclear waste repository in the county.

Carl Kleuskens, chairman, said Thursday the board went on record in opposing such a site because of the extensive amount of prime farmland to be taken out of production and the general detrimental effect to agriculture in this area.

He said directors were also "concerned with the possible contamination of our underground water supply which is used for human consumption and irrigation."

"We feel that there are better sites, in less productive areas, to locate a nuclear waste repository than in Deaf Smith County," stated Kleuskens.

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, in a regular session Monday, had passed a resolution opposing the location of a nuclear waste dump site in the county. More than 40 persons had attended the session and asked the county to oppose such a site.

Concerned citizens had recently formed a group to resist the site location here. The organization was named POWER, or People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories, and Dr. Tim Revell was elected chairperson of the organization.

The group has scheduled weekly meetings on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Discussion about the proposed Department of Energy project has increased in recent weeks after a wire service report out of Utah indicated that Deaf Smith County may be announced as one of the finalists for the site of a repository.

Sarpalius draws 2-year term

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Senators have drawn numbers for their political futures, with 16 getting four-year terms and 15 half as long.

Avoiding a re-election race in two years came down to a number written on a piece of paper, enclosed in a clear capsule which, in turn, was inside a sealed envelope.

The drawing for terms was held in the Senate chamber on Thursday, after Austin lawyer Steve Bickerstaff had told senators there was no reason to wait longer on negotiations over the 1981 Senate redistricting plan.

Whether the two- or four-year terms will stand, however, may ultimately depend on a court ruling. There is a possibly all senators would have to run again next year.

On Thursday, St. Patrick's Day, No. 13 was lucky, because all senators who drew odd numbers from 1 to 31 got four-year terms, and those who drew even numbers got two years. Sen. Don Henderson, R-Houston, got No. 13.

The GOP, whose strength fell from eight to five this session, only had Henderson and Sens. John Leedom of Dallas and Bob McFarland of Arlington draw four-year terms.

"Members would be happy to have the luck of the Irish today," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

Doggett, however, drew No. 20 for a two-year term. His drawing was watched with interest because he wants to run for the U.S. Senate in 1984, and a four-year term would carry to 1986.

Another senator with statewide political ambitions, Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, also drew a two-year term with No. 10. Farabee thought of running for state attorney general last year but backed out when his friend, former Sen. Max Sherman, got in the race.

"Anybody want to swap?" quipped Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, after drawing No. 26 for two years.

There has been discussion about those who have so-

Harrelson, Chagra receive long sentences in Wood case

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Charles V. Harrelson, convicted of firing the shot that killed U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., was sentenced today to two consecutive life sentences plus five years.

Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra, who was acquitted of paying Harrelson $250,000 to kill Wood, was sentenced to a total of 20 years on other charges.

Harrelson's wife, Jo Ann, and Chagra's wife, Elizabeth, also were to be sentenced this morning in the courthouse that now bears the slain judge's name.

Harrelson's life sentences, handed down by U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions, were on his murder and murder conspiracy convictions last year. There is no death penalty in federal court, but conviction on a federal murder charge entails mandatory life imprisonment.

Harrelson was sentenced to five years for conspiracy to obstruct justice, to be served after the life sentences.

Harrelson, who already has completed a prison term for another murder-for-hire, currently is serving a 40-year sentence on unrelated state weapons charges.

"This court should consider a charge against itself — rape and murder," Harrelson said before the sentencing. "You have killed the Constitution of the United States and you have had carnal knowledge of every person with rights under that constitution. What's happening in this courtroom is an unspeakable evil."

Harrelson, wearing dark sunglasses throughout the proceedings, added that the "only thing missing" from the court was "the twin lightning bolts of the SS — the Gestapo."

Blaze strikes Dallas hotel

DALLAS (AP) — A four-alarm fire broke out early today at the high-rise Regent Hotel here, injuring four people and forcing the evacuation of 70 to 80 other occupants, authorities said.

The injured occupants were taken to Parkland Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation, said fire dispatcher Mike Roach. He said the occupants, who were not immediately identified, were in good condition.

A fifth person was cut slightly by flying glass, but did not require hospitalization, officials said.

The smoky blaze began shortly before 4 a.m. in the lobby area, authorities said. Smoke filled all 13 floors of the hotel, and firefighters used axes to break out windows in upper floors of the building and ventilate the structure.

All occupants of the hotel were evacuated, said fire operations chief Mike Freeman. Several people were rescued from balconies at the hotel.

"The information we have is that we have everybody out of the hotel," said Freeman.

John Teiple, director of the city Office of Emergency Preparedness, said that the fire "smoked out" 70 to 80 people.

Rescuers in a police helicopter repeatedly circled the building, using a public address system to inform the residents of firefighters' evacuation plans.

Ed Daniels of Houston said that hotel officials ran down

Heart patient prescribed drugs

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors at Texas Children's Hospital will try to treat an 11-year-old girl's heart disease with a drug, rather than performing a heart transplant, the child's father says.

Test results released Thursday show that Sharon Stohler's heart has some inflammation, but doctors will try to reduce it with the drug Prednisone, David Stohler said.

The Stohlers were previously told Sharon would die within eight months without a transplant. Doctors at Stanford University turned the child away, saying she was too small and weak to undergo such an operation.

By contrast, Stohler said, the Texas doctors said they believe the child is a suitable candidate for a transplant, if it is needed.

"It's definitely good news," said Stohler, of Anderson, Ind. "Now we've got two good chances instead of one possibility."

He said Sharon was in the room when doctors told them about their plans. She and her parents are encouraged by the hope the drug offers, but disappointed at beginning another "waiting game," Stohler said.

The family will remain in Houston for a week while treatment begins, then return home. Stohler said they will return in six weeks or two months so that doctors can examine the girl again.

The Stohlers came to Texas Children's Hospital March 9 to determine if a transplant was needed.

The doctors said they found the inflammation through a biopsy of the heart muscle obtained by a heart catheterization procedure.

Spokeswoman Elaine Moore released a hospital statement but refused to identify the team of doctors who made the examination.

The young girl, said Stohler, is fully aware of her condition.

"She's been so good about this, a lot better than I could have been," said the father. "She doesn't ignore it, she just doesn't talk about it."

Stohler said his daughter came down with what was thought to be a cold last November. She was given medication and lost a large degree of blood circulation. Tests revealed the heart disease, he said.

The girl has been in a wheelchair about three months and only recently was able to take brief daily walks.

Hardship license bill approved by house

AUSTIN (AP) — The House sponsor of a bill restricting "hardship" driver's licenses for underage drivers predicts the measure will hit the governor's desk next week, despite House changes in the Senate bill.

House members voted 126-9 Thursday in favor of the bill already approved in the Senate. However, senators will have to OK changes made in the House before the bill goes to Gov. Mark White.

Rep. Gerald Hill, D-Austin, the House sponsor, says senators have indicated they'll go along with the changes.

The bill, authored by Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, takes out the "general welfare" clause under which thousands of underage drivers have qualified for hardship licenses. The Department of Public Safety has not been able to deny a hardship license in any case in which a family said it was needed.

More than 72,000 underage drivers got hardship licenses last year.

The Glasgow bill allows hardship licenses for 15-17-year-olds in cases of family economic hardships, illness or to drive to vocational education programs — if the youth had completed drivers education.

Texans must be 18 to get a driver's license. Sixteen-year-olds who take driver's education can be licensed.

Happy school officials unhappy

WASHINGTON (AP) — When school officials in tiny Happy, Texas, wound up filling out some 50 pages of evaluation forms to justify receiving $354 in federal vocational aid, they were anything but happy.

"I really wanted to throw it (the evaluation package) in the trash can, because I knew it was going to take an awful lot of time," said Harley R. McCasland, superintendent of the Happy Independent School District, which serves 240 students in the Texas Panhandle.

"At the same time, we had accepted the money," said McCasland.

So, following instructions, the district set up two special committees to help evaluate the high school's family relations class, part of the home economics program for which the $354 grant had been received.

Collectively, committee members put dozens of hours into the evaluation effort, sometimes typing up the class's teacher and producing a report nearly a half-inch thick, said McCasland.

"It just seems like it's a little too elaborate," said McCasland, whose district serves Happy, population 600, and the surrounding area.

When McCasland shipped the forms off to the Texas Education Agency, which had asked for the evaluation of the class, he also sent a copy to Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas.

Hance cited the case in testimony Thursday before a House education subcommittee, saying it reflected "a serious problem with the amount of work imposed on our teachers and administrators in the name of the federal bureaucracy."

The evaluation report in Happy, Hance said, "cost more than the $354 grant from the federal government."

In a telephone interview, McCasland said that the $354 in aid was for this school year, and that he had received the evaluation package from the state education agency in January.

"The cover letter and all the instructions plus the terminology were 36 legal (size) pages," McCasland said. He said that in addition there were 17 forms to be filled out, totaling more than 100 pages.

Only eight of the forms applied to the family relations class, he said. But he said such evaluations shouldn't be so elaborate "that it takes away from teaching, which is our primary objective."

Raymon Bynum, Texas education commissioner, said the forms were distributed on a test basis to various school districts to meet federal requirements for evaluating vocational programs.

Bynum said the Happy school district had misunderstood some of the directions with the evaluation and "they did a whole lot more than they were supposed to."

However, he acknowledged that the forms might have been "somewhat burdensome, on especially the smaller districts."

Texas, Oklahoma want murder case

SAYRE, Okla. (AP) — Prosecutors in two states are fighting over who should bring murder defendant Mike Anderson to trial.

Beckham County District Attorney James Garrett has asked to extradite Anderson, 26, from his hometown of Shamrock, where he has been jailed since surrendering in Louisiana on March 3.

Anderson has been charged with first-degree murder in the death of Robert Eugene Hall, 28, of Sayre. Garrett alleges Anderson killed Hall north of Sayre.

But Wheeler County, Texas, District Attorney Guy Hardin contends Anderson killed Hall in Texas. A Texas grand jury has indicted Anderson and he is scheduled to stand trial there on March 29.

Hall's body was found in a grave 16 miles northeast of Shamrock. His neck was broken and he had been shot four times in the back of the head.

Anderson was returned to Shamrock from Lake Charles, La. He surrendered there a day after Hall's body was found. Police theorized Hall's death was connected to drug deals.

Hardin says signed statements from Anderson place the crime scene in Texas.

Garrett maintains he has at least three witnesses, including the victim's widow, who will testify that Hall was killed in Oklahoma just north of Sayre.

Court affirms cousins' right to Hughes fortune

HOUSTON (AP) — Three first cousins of Howard Hughes have been affirmed as the rightful heirs of one-fifth of the late billionaire's estate.

A Texas appeals court ruled Thursday that a group of 400 distant relatives have no valid claim to the fortune, estimated to be as much as $2 billion.

The group of second, third and fourth cousins on Hughes' father's side contended the mother of the three first cousins was illegitimate and not kin to Hughes. They based their claim on a family story that Hughes' uncle, Rupert Hughes, was rendered sterile by a case of mumps.

The First Court of Appeals upheld a Harris County probate court's finding, which said Barbara Cameron, Elspeth De Pould and Agnes Roberts were legal heirs.

The appeals court's decision, written by Associate Justice James F. Warren, found groundless the distant cousins' argument that they were unfairly denied a chance to learn blood types of the first cousins in an effort to establish their kinship to Rupert Hughes.

Warren noted the blood types of Elspeth Hughes Lapp, the first cousins' mother, and of Rupert Hughes are not known, and they are dead.

He also found without merit the argument that Rupert Hughes did not consider Elspeth his child because she is not included in brief biographies in "Who's Who in America" and "Twentieth Century Authors."

"The appellants would have us infer evidence from omissions of facts not recited," Warren wrote. He said the biographies are not admissible as evidence of illegitimacy.

LULAC head calls for minority coalition

ATLANTA (AP) — The time is right for a well-organized coalition of black and Hispanic voters, and such an effort could sway the 1984 presidential election, says the head of a national Hispanic organization.

Hispanic leaders are concerned about the upcoming election because Ronald Reagan received about 40 percent of the Hispanic vote in 1980, but he has not named any Hispanics to top government positions, said Tony Bonilla, a lawyer from Corpus Christi, Texas. Bonilla is national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

About 44 league delegates are in Atlanta for four days of spring executive board meetings. The group plans to discuss such issues as employment, immigration legislation, voting rights and civil rights.

Established in 1929 and based in Corpus Christi, the league is the nation's oldest and largest Hispanic organization, with 100,000 members in 44 states, Puerto Rico and Germany, Bonilla said Thursday.

He said that the organization is meeting in Atlanta for the first time to recognize the growth of the Hispanic community in the Southeast.

At a news conference at the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change, Bonilla said he is convinced the mood was right for a minority voter coalition after meeting with black and Hispanic leaders across the nation, including the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Team to promote U.S. farm products

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team headed by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block will head overseas next week to promote U.S. agricultural products in five countries.

The group will leave March 22 and return April 2. The itinerary includes Great Britain, Tunisia, Egypt, Turkey and Saudi Arabia, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

Block will be accompanied by other U.S. government officials and representatives of three private commodity organizations — U.S. Feed Grains Council, American Soybean Association and U.S. Wheat Associates.

On March 23, Block will speak to a world grain outlook conference in London sponsored by the Financial Times of London and the International Wheat Council.

The five countries bought more than $2.5 billion worth of U.S. agricultural products last year, according to USDA export records.

the halls, beating on doors and warning occupants to leave. Daniels said many residents kicked out windows in their rooms to clear out the smoke.

He and another occupant said that they tried to trigger the hotel's fire alarm without success.

"I learned that you die of the smoke, and not the fire," Daniels said.

Mike Adams of Houston said he discovered a couch on fire in the hotel lobby about 3:50 a.m. He said that he went back to his room and tried to dial out to authorities, then endeavored to sound the hotel's alarm without success.

Adams said that when he returned to the lobby, it was involved in flames. He said that no one was in the lobby, however.

"You wonder how it (the fire) got that good a start," he said.

He said that many people on second and third floors broke out windows in their rooms.

Jack Durham of Roswell, N.M., said that he heard a smoke alarm after he smelled smoke on the second floor. He said that he heard the smoke alarm go off in the room, and ran down a hall. "I knew I had a problem when I could not get out that way," he said.

Roach said the fire was tapped out at 5:15 a.m.

Officials maintained the smoke alarm in the northside hotel functioned properly.

A radio station employee who was buying a newspaper at the hotel said he saw the sofa in the lobby on fire and called authorities.

Firefighters conducted a room-to-room search to determine if aers conducted a room-to-room search to determine if all occupants had been evacuated. Some occupants used wet towels to cover their faces and shield themselves from the smoke.

Deputy Fire Chief Barry Gardner said the fire heavily damaged the lobby area and the building "was charged with smoke from top to bottom."

"Our main job was a systematic floor by floor search," said Gardner.

John Pickett of the Office of Emergency Preparedness said about 80 guests were being relocated to another hotel.

called safe districts swapping four-year terms for two, but senators disagree over the constitutionality of such trades.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said senators raised the question 10 years ago, after the last drawing, and he remembers the parliamentarian saying it could not be done.

Senators normally have four-year terms, but all 31 members were required to run in 1982 after district boundaries were redrawn to reflect population changes revealed in the 1980 national census. As a result of Thursday's drawing, 15 senators would have to run again in 1984, 16 in 1986.

Here are the 16 senators who drew four-year terms: Brooks, Caperton, Henderson, Kothmann, Leedom, Mauzy, McFarland, Parmer, Santiesteban, Sharp, Sims, Traeger, Uribe, Washington, Whitmire and Williams.

Here are the 15 senators who drew two-year terms:

however, that prices for agricultural commodities may increase later in the year as a result of the Reagan administration's payment-in-kind farm program designed to trim price-depressing crop surpluses.

If a large number of farmers take part in the program, he said, "We may have some benefit from lower commodity prices taken away." The crops program will make free surplus wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton available to farmers who reduce 1983 plantings of those crops.

Thomson was looking for no change — or a small decline — in today's February report on the Producer Price Index.

Ratajczak was forecasting a 0.2 percent increase, after seasonal adjustment.

Both were expecting continued moderation in energy prices.

Those prices plunged 4.2 percent in January and were largely responsible for the record drop in overall producer prices, Labor Department analysts said.

Record falls were recorded in home heating oil and, unexpectedly, natural gas prices. Natural gas prices had been rising sharply, soaring nearly 21 percent in all of last year, a surge that has been largely attributed to congressional decontrol of new gas costs.

Gasoline prices also were down in January.

Chagra, 39, who also was fined $120,000, told Sessions, "You don't care about honesty or truth. One day you and I will have to stand before a higher judge. If you can live with the sentences you give me, so can I."

Chagra was sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $100,000 for conspiracy to import marijuana. That sentence will begin after Chagra completes a 30-year sentence without parole he already is serving on a continuing criminal enterprise conviction.

The high-stakes gambler received the maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on two convictions — conspiracy to obstruct justice and income tax evasion. Those sentences will run concurrently and will begin after the marijuana sentence ends.

White House families' children are depicted

Marcella Bradley presented a program on children of the White House when members of Valeda Study Club met Monday at the home of Arvilla Lauderback.

President, Donna Lindeman, called the meeting to order and members answered roll call with "Favorite Child of the White House."

Mrs. Bradley selected several White House families. During the 207 years of this country, 185 children have lived in the White House. These have been sons, daughters, grandchildren and nieces and nephews of the presidents.

Of all the presidents, five were childless and three had adopted families. The first child to live in the White House was John Adams' granddaughter, Suzanne, while his son, John Quincy Adams, was the only son of a president to also become president.

Benjamin Harrison was a grandson of a president who later became a president himself.

Andrew Jackson had no blood relatives yet raised six children in the White House. One of the first weddings there was that of President Grant's daughter.

The last child to live in the nation's capitol was Amy Carter.

Mrs. Bradley stated that living in the White House did not insure these children happiness nor wealth and good health. Divorce, suicide, illness and other tragedies often befell them.

Members present during the meeting were Juanita Brown, Marjorie Lasiter, Norma Martin, Marcella McLain, Joyce Ritter, Jean Ruther, Norma Walden and Margaret Zinser.

Ann Landers Parents want 'rights'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today everyone has "rights"—women, minorities, the handicapped, prisoners, refugees...everyone except parents.

My husband works three jobs and I work full-time. We are killing ourselves to keep our two daughters, 18 and 19, in college. We get very little help from one and no help from the other. I don't know where we went wrong, but all the values we tried to instill in our daughters flew out the window the day they turned 18. "We are of legal age," they insist. LEGAL FOR WHAT? Does turning 18 mean:

(1) They don't have to help out at home anymore?
(2) They can come and go as they please? No curfew?
(3) No questions should be asked about where they go and with whom?

(4) Birthdays, holidays and anniversaries are ignored?
Our home has turned into a battleground. We constantly argue about those four points. Please straighten out the girls—or US, if we need it.—Embattled in N.Y.

DEAR BAT: What do you mean by "help out?" Surely the girls should keep their rooms orderly, do their own laundry and assist with cleaning up after supper if they eat at home.

If "help out" means financial assistance, you don't say if they have part-time jobs. If so, do they buy their own clothes?

College girls under 21 who are living at home should respect a curfew, but please be reasonable. Midnight on weekdays and 2 a.m. on weekends and holidays. Parents have a right to know where their children are going and with whom, when they live at home.

As for remembering holidays, it's nice when they do, but to insist takes the pleasure out of it. So lay off this one, Mom.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That empty-headed girl who described her cousin as a straight-A student who looked like a dog-lumping both together as deficiencies—is fairly empty-headed herself. Beauty is an accident. A person with a pretty face didn't earn it. She inherited it from her parents. Beauty without intelligence is a bore.

How ironic that so many adopted children are trying to hunt down their "real parents" and this kid thinks her parents are a problem because they insist that she treat her cousin decently. Sign me.—Disgusted 15-year-old in Ohio.

DEAR DISGUSTED: How'd you get so smart in 15 years?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a friend drops off a plate of goodies, is it correct to assume the plate is part of the gift or should it be returned?—Need Ann's Answer in Lima

DEAR LIMA: Always return the plate, platter, tin, pot or whatever. And it's good manners to have a small treat in or on it, along with a note of thanks.

Stay from home unexplained

HOUSTON (AP) — A teenager has not explained why he left his steer with a veterinarian for two months, an act which led to the animal's disqualification as the grand champion at the 1983 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, a show official says.

Clifton Smith, 18, said only that he had left the 1,255-pound Chianina steer with the Cordell, Okla., animal doctor "much longer than he had intended to."

Leroy Shafer, the show's assistant general manager, said Thursday.

Show rules require exhibitors to feed and care for their animals personally from July 1 of the previous year until the beginning of the livestock show.

Shafer said Thursday's announcement marked the first disqualification in the show's 51-year history. He said Smith, of Lyford, admitted the violation Wednesday night when show officials confronted him in Harlingen.

"I don't know that we can say what he gained by the violation," Shafer said.

Smith told KTRK-TV Thursday he was not aware he was breaking a rule when he left the animal with the vet.

"At the time, we didn't have any rule book. I didn't even think about it, really," he said.

Oil well firefighter Paul "Red" Adair bought the steer at a March 5 auction, paying a record $140,000. He said he planned to donate the meat to a local charity. But Shafer said no payment has been made and that Adair will not be held financially responsible.

At the show, Smith wept as bids mounted. He told reporters afterward he would invest the money in his education and in Chianina cattle.

Smith told officials the animal had a hoof disease and was sent to the veterinarian to have its hooves trimmed, according to Shafer.

Dr. Jerry Bonham, the veterinarian who kept the animal, said he would have no comment until he had spoken to Smith and to show officials.

Shafer said the steer has been butchered and its meat is being analyzed by Texas A&M veterinary officials. He said results of their testing are expected in about two weeks.

He said that he had heard rumors from people at the show that the steer had received drugs, but he added that nothing has been found to substantiate those allegations and he does not believe them. He said if drugs were used, they most likely would show up in the A&M tests.

Smith will be paid a "floor price" of $1.25 per pound for the animal, about 60 cents over the current market price.

Shafer said no alterations would be made in the steer contest standings other than the disqualification of Smith.

The reserve champion was owned by James Henson of Abilene. His entry was also a Chianina steer, weighing 1,260 pounds. It brought $83,000 in the auction.

"While we are extremely sad to have to make and to enforce this decision, show rules clearly have been violated," Shafer said. "We feel this is an extremely isolated incident of impropriety."

The violation had first been called to officials' attention, Shafer said, by "various exhibitors" whom he did not name. No formal complaint was lodged, Shafer said.

Singer indicted in Belushi death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Part-time rock singer Cathy Evelyn Smith, once quoted as saying she injected comedian John Belushi with a cocaine-heroin "speedball," has been indicted on a murder charge in his death, her lawyer says.

Attorney Brian Greenspan said Thursday in an interview from Toronto that he had learned from "sources" that his client, Ms. Smith, had been indicted on murder and possibly drug charges.

Greenspan, interviewed by the City News Service of Los Angeles, refused to identify his sources, but said he had not been officially informed of an indictment by the district attorney or by a Los Angeles County grand jury.

KNBC-TV in Los Angeles also reported that Ms. Smith had been indicted on multiple charges, which it did not specify.

September, spurred in part by a National Enquirer article that quoted Ms. Smith as saying she had injected Belushi with drugs.

Ms. Smith was quoted by the nationally-distributed tabloid last June as saying she had injected Belushi with a final "speedball" — a mixture of cocaine and heroin — at his $200-a-day Sunset Strip bungalow.

But she later retracted the statement, saying she had been under the influence of drugs and alcohol when she talked to the Enquirer reporters in Toronto.

The Enquirer gave police six to eight hours of tape recordings made by the reporters who interviewed Ms. Smith. Deputy District Attorney Michael Montagna, who presented evidence to the grand jury, said the tape confirmed "in substance" the contents of the Enquirer story.

KNBC on Thursday said authorities were en route to Canada to seek Ms. Smith's extradition, but Police Department spokesman Sergio Diaz said, "No one from our department is en route to Canada."

Another of Ms. Smith's attorneys, Milton Davis, said from Toronto after the last grand jury session March 10 that he believed "there is not any evidence that showed Ms. Smith had anything to do with John Belushi's death."

A grand jury has been probing Belushi's death since

Exhibition roundup

Reds rip Birds, 13-10

By The Associated Press
Nick Esasky and Jeff Jones are two of the most promising long-ball hitters in the Cincinnati Reds' minor league system.

On Thursday, they showed off some of that power as the Reds whipped the Baltimore Orioles 13-10 in a spring training baseball game. Each hit three-run homers, including Esasky's game-winning blast in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Jones slammed a three-run homer for Cincinnati in the seventh off Sammy Stewart to give the Reds 9-6 lead at that point. The teams combined for 29 hits on a rainy and wind-blown day in Tampa, Fla.

Baltimore's Cal Ripken and Cincinnati's Gary Redus hit solo home runs in the game.

In other action, Carmen Castillo singled in the game-winning run as Cleveland rallied for four runs in the bottom of ninth to beat California. Philadelphia's Tony Perez drilled a three-run homer and a run-scoring double against the Boston Red Sox — the team that released him last year — as the Phillies won 5-4 in a game shortened to five innings because of rain.

Rookie Kevin Bass homered, doubled and singled, and rookie Bill Doran tripled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth to lead Houston over Atlanta 8-5.

Winning pitcher Pat Zachry capped a four-run fifth with a sacrifice fly as Los Angeles topped Minnesota 5-3.

Mike Davis smashed four hits, including a go-ahead RBI single in the eighth inning, as an Oakland split squad snapped a six-game Milwaukee winning streak by downing the Brewers 4-2.

Rance Mulliniks doubled in two runs during a four-run second inning against Tom Seaver, pacing Toronto to a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets. Seaver yielded six hits in his five innings.

Mel Hall's third hit of the game, an eighth-inning single with two outs, drove in the go-ahead run to lead the Chicago Cubs past a Seattle Mariners split squad 8-7. San Diego battered Mike Krukow for five runs in the second, aided by triples from Tim Flannery and Gene Richards and a double by Terry Kennedy, to give the Padres a 5-2 decision over San Francisco.

Jerry Mumphrey drove in four runs with a bases-loaded triple and an infield single, pacing the New York Yankees to an 8-5 victory over the Montreal Expos. Rookie Luis Quinones tripled and singled, driving in three runs and scoring two to lead the Oakland A's to a 9-5 victory over the Seattle Mariners in a game called after six innings because of rain.

Rain washed out the Detroit-St. Louis, Chicago White Sox-Pittsburgh and Texas-Kansas City games. It was the fourth time that the Royals have been rained out this spring.

NCAA continues probe of SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's athletic director says the NCAA's investigation into the Mustangs' football recruiting practices has ruined a Hawaiian vacation for him and members of the coaching staff.

"It hasn't been a vacation," Hitch told The Dallas Morning News in a telephone conversation from Honolulu.

"We feel totally lost. Our hands are tied. We have to sit and wait until we hear from the NCAA, while other people have the freedom to check on things and attack us. We can't interfere or they will think there is a coverup."

At the heart of the NCAA investigation are allegations that SMU alumni offered cash and a car to two widely sought Texas high school wide receivers — Marquis Pleasant of Dallas Kimball and Ronald Morris of Cooper — both of whom signed with the Mustangs.

"The only thing we can do is keep our fingers crossed and hope that everything is okay," Hitch said. "It is hard to control everything and everybody. To expect an athletic director to do that — it is an impossible task."

Rice assistant coach Tony Sexton told NCAA investigators about an alleged offer of a car to Pleasant, The News said.

The Dallas Times Herald quoted unidentified sources as saying a Southwest Conference assistant coach and a Cooper High School official told the NCAA that an SMU booster offered cash to Morris.

The offer of anything but a scholarship is a violation of NCAA recruiting rules, even if the offer is turned down. "Marquis told me that in late December, an alumnus came to his house with a (Chevrolet Camaro) Z-28, parked in the driveway and said that if you come to SMU, that car is yours," Sexton told the News Wednesday. "He turned it down, he said, and that's from his own mouth. He said he didn't want anything for himself."

Sexton said he reported the alleged offer to NCAA investigator Robert Minnix in January.

Garden Club Spring Round Up deemed successful

The District I Texas Garden Clubs Inc. Spring Round Up was held in Hereford Monday and Tuesday at the Community Center, hosted by the Hereford Garden Club and the Bud to Blossom Garden Club.

Registration began at 9 a.m. Monday and continued until 1 p.m. During this time the qualified judges from District I were assembling their designs for the National Judges Flower Show.

The flower show, which began at 1 p.m., was used as a judging practice for the participating arrangers. There were three different sections with three classes in each: "Sandstorm," "A Place in the Sun" and "Texas."

In Section I all dried plant material was used, with no accessories permitted. Section II arrangements were to be made of all fresh material, and again no accessories were allowed. Designers in Section III could choose to use fresh and/or dried materials. It was also a creative design which could be free form, abstract, or a combination of both.

There were a total of 26 entries and all scored well. Mrs. W.L. Sparkman of Odessa was chairman of the judges flower show.

The District I Board of Directors meeting was held Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Charles Ice Jr., District I director of Odessa, presiding. The minutes from the last spring board meeting were read, followed by the treasurer's report.

The proposed budget for 1983-84 was presented, and the report of officers and chairmen followed. Unfinished and new business were discussed and announcements were made.

At 6:30 p.m. that evening, a pre-convention buffet was served. Mrs. Robert McCoy, the state president of Texas Garden Clubs Inc. from Goldswaithe, Texas; Mrs. Ice; and Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr. of Hereford, the incoming district director, made up the receiving line and were greeted by garden club members.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Jess Robinson and the invocation by Mrs. Gaylon Bryan, both members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club, Hereford. After the meal, many of the out of town guests were taken on a tour of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, which the women thoroughly enjoyed.

On Tuesday, registration began at 7 a.m. followed at 7:30 by a country breakfast served by Savage's Hickory Pit. Mrs. Omar Herring, District I treasurer, gave the invocation and Mrs. L.C. Lacefield, northern zone chairman, presided.

The district officers and zone chairmen were honored at the meal. Mrs. C.L. Sparkman of Odessa introduced Mrs. O.G. Hill Sr. of Hereford, who gave a program entitled "Quiet Crisis," based on a book by Steward Udall dealing with the vanishing natural resources in the United States.

After the program, seven door prizes were drawn, which were furnished by the Bud to Blossom Garden Club.

Mr. Bob White of Hereford, co-chairman of the convention, presided over the business and awards meeting which followed. A formal welcome was given by Mrs. Bob Denning, president of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

Mrs. White presented Mrs. Ice, who asked for the reading of the minutes from the previous day's board meeting, along with the treasurer's report and financial statement. She then turned the meeting over to Mrs. McCoy, who stated that the small town garden clubs were the grass roots of the organization, and that they were able to accomplish much due to the love for their communities.

Mrs. G.W. Basham from Odessa was asked to come forward and present the awards and citations for the garden clubs in District I. Plains Dirt Gardeners of Plains and Petal Pushers Garden Club of Lubbock each received six awards, Phillips Garden Club won five awards.

Receiving four awards each were Kermit Garden Club, Mildred Fly Garden Club of Odessa, and Modern Gardeners of Odessa. Three awards were given to Rose Garden Club of Levelland, Spade and Hoe Garden Club in Lubbock, and Rose Garden Club in Levelland.

The Belleglade Garden Club of Lubbock; Borger, Hereford, and Pampa Garden Clubs; Rosebud Garden Club of Big Spring; and South Plains Horticultural Society of Lubbock all received two awards.

One award was presented to each of the following: Amarillo Garden Club, Council of Odessa Garden Clubs, Dawson County Garden Clubs of Lamesa, Lefleur Garden Club of Morton, Pyracantha Garden Club of Midland, Techan Garden Club of Lubbock.

Also to the Levelland, McCamey, Odessa, Ralls,

Tahoka, Wellington, Big Spring, Brownfield, Matador, and Midland Garden Clubs.

The Plains Dirt Gardeners were chosen as Garden Club of the Year.

Mrs. McCoy presented Mrs. White with a life membership into the Texas Garden Clubs at the close of the awards presentation. This gift was given by members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club in appreciation for her leadership as club president during the past two terms.

Mrs. Lee Coil of Lubbock, a past state president, installed incoming officers. She commended the work of the outgoing District I officers, and during the installation ceremony, she presented a copy of the District I By-Laws to each new officer with the suggestion that they be studied carefully.

New officers are Mrs. John N. Jacobsen Jr. of Hereford, district director; Mrs. H.A. Richardson of Plains, first vice-director; Mrs. C.L. Sparkman of Odessa, second vice-director; Mrs. W.H. Braley of Odessa, recording secretary; Mrs. Jess Robinson of Hereford, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E.G. Travis of Amarillo, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Ice Jr. of Odessa parliamentarian.

Also installed were zone chairmen including Mrs. Bayard Sadler of Tulia, northern zone; Mrs. Pat Medford of Sundown, central zone; and Mrs. Bud Wright of Kermit, southern zone. Term of office for chairmen and officers is spring 1983 through spring 1985.

A western style luncheon was served by K-Bob's Steak House. Mrs. Pat Medford of Sundown gave the invocation and Mrs. H.A. Richardson of Plains presided. Mrs. Jess Robinson of Hereford presented Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Ice, and Mrs. Jacobsen each with a ceramic bull as a remembrance of the Spring Round Up. Mrs. Jacobsen, new district director, stated that she would study and try her best to serve the clubs in District I.

At the close of the luncheon, 14 more door prizes were drawn, furnished by the Hereford Garden Club. McLain's Garden Club provided dish gardens, cacti, and house plants for table decorations at the luncheon.

Immediately following the meal, Mrs. Donald Wood of Albuquerque, N.M., gave a program on design entitled "Creative Modern and Abstract Flower Arranging Using Plant Material." As the convention closed

Tuesday afternoon, members are looking forward to the state convention April 26-28 in Dallas, and the 1984 spring convention which will be held in Lubbock.

Convention chairmen, all from Hereford, included Mrs. Jacobsen, honorary chairman; Mrs. White and Mrs.

Clinton Jackson, co-chairmen; Mrs. Joe Spann and Mrs. Alfred Smith, registration; Mrs. Edgar Lemons and Mrs. Jackie Hughes, packets; Mrs. Gaylon Bryan and Mrs. R.L. Ethridge, treasure sale; and Mrs. James D. Hamby Jr., publicity and courtesy.

LET FAITH BE YOUR GUIDEPOST AT THE CROSSROADS

Have you come to a fork in the road? Are you confronted with a major decision which you must make and make wisely, in order to travel the road of greater benefit to yourself and your loved ones? Each of us must at some time decide whether to move, to change jobs, to begin a new life in a different area, or some such question of far-reaching consequences. As others before you have done, let your faith in God give you the wisdom, strength and resolution to make the correct choice. Beginning this Sunday, go to your Church and trust Him to point your footsteps in the right direction for all concerned.

Have you come to the Red Sea place in your life, Where, in spite of all you can do, There is no way out, there is no way back, There is no other way but through? — Annie Johnson Flint

"But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed." — James 1:6
