

Reagan brands summit 'success'

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — President Reagan, having guided the summit through economic differences, is joining other leaders of industrialized democracies in a fresh pledge to reduce high interest rates and large budget deficits. Reagan, preparing to return today to the White House, said the ninth annual economic summit had been "as fruitful and as useful and enjoyable as we had all hoped." In a toast to his guests at a state dinner Monday night, he took brief note of the differences that were sometimes aired in the talks. "Our individual perceptions about particular issues may sometimes differ; but gatherings such as this give us an opportunity to work together on a regular basis to address the problems we share."

Despite European concerns about U.S. interest rates and a dispute over the wording of a statement on arms policy, the summit — which began Saturday — broke up on a harmonious note with the president reading a declaration on economic recovery. "We must all focus on achieving and maintaining low inflation, and reducing interest rates from their present too-high levels," the president recited. (See SUMMIT, Page 2)

Marker Erected

At ceremonies Monday morning, Andrew Ker-shen, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Historical Commission, unveiled a historical marker commemorating the prisoner of war camp chapel. The marker, on U.S. 385 near the Big Daddy Cutoff south of Hereford, was obtained through joint efforts of the Castro and Deaf Smith Historical Commissions. The chapel is the only building, other than a tower, remaining on the 700-acre camp site which housed nearly 7,000 Italian prisoners of war from 1943 until 1946.

Mrs. Buckner is Pioneer of Year

Mrs. Jennie Buckner of Hereford was named Pioneer of the Year at the 60th annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Day celebration held Saturday at the Bull Barn. The award was presented by Buddy Peeler of KPAN Radio, which has sponsored the annual award for 17 years.

Argen Draper, president of the celebration this year, presented awards to Edwin "Goose" Ramey, 93, oldest man present. Mrs. Henry Hastings, 91, oldest woman and Mrs. Lucy Malm Paul of New York, the person traveling the farthest distance for the event. Elected as new officers for the coming year were J.B. Noland, president; Stan Knox, vice-president; and Troyce Hanna, secretary-treasurer.

Members of Pioneer Study Club assisted with registration and Camp Fire Girls and leaders helped with luncheon which followed the program and business meeting.

Court has special meeting

Deaf Smith County Commissioners will meet in a special called session at 10 a.m. Thursday to consider a salary survey for county employees and to discuss the county jail.

The county fathers will meet with George Louder of Amarillo to review his findings as part of a continuing survey of county operations.

The court will also hold a work session on the county's 1983-84 budget during the special meeting.

Negotiations stall

Water plan dries up

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposed state water plan designed to avert geographic bickering when it reached a statewide referendum never got past intrastate rivalry among legislators.

A provision that pitted West Texas lawmakers against their Gulf Coast colleagues stalled House-Senate negotiations on the measure in the final hours of the legislative session Monday.

The water plan, in the form of several proposed constitutional amendments, would have been put to voters in a statewide election in 1984. Like previous water plans, it would have faced scrutiny from interest groups as diverse as drought and flooding.

The package authorized $300 million in bonds for water projects, and put up $250 million in state money to back additional local bonds. Senate sponsors of the package feared Gulf Coast interests would defeat the referendum if the proposal was weighted too heavily in favor of dry West Texas. They purposely designed a measure designed to protect coastal shrimp estuaries from potential damage of upstream water projects. House members, however, did not want an area they see as having an excess of water put above an agriculture industry struggling to survive on the arid plains. They passed the water (See WATER, Page 2)

City sets new low temperature mark

Soggy conditions, along with cool temperatures, were expected to prevail in the Panhandle area for the next 24 hours after a cold front passed through the area Monday.

The front dropped the mercury to a new record low for Hereford early today as the KPAN radio station recorded a low of 43 degrees, breaking the old mark for this date of 46 degrees set in 1964. The high on Monday was 67 degrees.

The city's two-day rainfall total was .42 of an inch, with a 50 percent chance of more rain today and a 40 percent chance tonight. The cold front extended across the entire breadth of the Panhandle and on into the South Plains Monday as it moved to the southeast at about 35 miles per hour.

Tornado watches were in effect over a portion of the Southern Panhandle until 8 p.m. Monday. Other watches, and several tornado warnings, were issued by National Weather Service reporting stations in Abilene, Wichita Falls, and San Antonio.

Other area rainfall reports for Memorial Day included .96 of an inch at Canyon, .54 at Pampa, and .22 in Amarillo.

Sarpalius' filibuster dooms worker's comp measure

AUSTIN (AP) — Quiet-spoken Sen. Bill Sarpalius put on his blue and white jogging shoes for a second time within a week to defeat a House-approved bill to protect farm and ranch hands with workers compensation insurance.

"Farmers can't afford this," the Hereford Democrat said over and over Monday night as he halted almost all Senate business for the final two hours of the 140-day session.

Meanwhile, Mexican-American members of the Senate and House protested that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby had been unfair in letting Sarpalius gain the floor. During his 1982 campaign for reelection, Hobby had endorsed workmen's compensation for farm workers.

"Bill Hobby has spoken. He has told us he does not want the support of Mexican-Americans in his next effort for political office," Sen. Hector Uribe told a news conference called while Sarpalius spoke.

Uribe, D-Brownsville, claimed Hobby should have recognized Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, to propose an amendment to Uribe's bill. Doggett admitted to the news conference that his sole reason for offering the amendment was to try to keep Sarpalius from getting the floor.

Hobby said Doggett's amendment was nothing but "improper parliamentary trickery," that violated an agreement which got Sarpalius to end another filibuster last Friday.

For more than two hours Monday night, Sarpalius strolled back and forth behind his desk talking in low tones about the financial plight of farmers and ranchers. At times, there were only two or three other senators in the chamber.

"Farmers and ranchers are still losing money," Sarpalius said. "If they were making money, this might be a bill we could look into." Under Senate rules, a member delaying consideration of other legislation with a filibuster must remain on his feet, not lean on his desk and keep talking. He cannot leave his desk for any reason, even to go to the bathroom.

Uribe, Senate sponsor of the House-approved bill, got a vote of 21-10 to try one last time for final approval of the measure.

Last Friday night Sarpalius staged his first filibuster against the bill. After almost nine hours, in an agreement with Hobby and Uribe, he sat down and the Senate tentatively approved the bill, 16-11.

The agreement said Sarpalius would get a chance to talk some more when the bill came up for a final vote.

"Farmers cannot afford workers comp," Sarpalius said. "Farmers are losing money. We haven't passed any bills to help them make money. Here at the last of the session comes House Bill 521. What does it do? It costs them money."

County jail stays open, temporarily

The Deaf Smith County jail came close to closing last week, but the Texas Jail Standards Commission has given the county 60 days to plan and begin work on compliance to standards.

Sheriff Travis McPherson and Commissioner Bill Bradley traveled to Austin last week to appear before the state commission and request an extension. While in Austin the two toured a newly built $31 million jail which also doesn't meet standards of the commission.

McPherson said the main problems with the county jail were a lack of recreational facilities in side the jail and no area for sun light for the prisoners. Other non-compliances were lack of a 24-hour jailer, lack of a communications system which would allow prisoners to talk to the jailer on an intercom and a non-standard smoke alarm system. He said the jail would also be required to build a juvenile center outside the jail. The county has housed juveniles in separate cells, but within the jail, for the past six years.

McPherson said he told the board that the county was waiting to see what state legislation might change the jail plans. He said the stiffer DWI bill might mean more prisoners, as would the felony work-release bill.

McPherson added that if the jail closed the county would have a tremendous cost of moving prisoners, without having a choice of where to move them or a cost option.

Mudslides claim new territory

By The Associated Press

Mudslides and floods blamed for at least two deaths and six injuries claimed new territory today in Nevada and Utah where 1,300 people were cut off from their homes as cascading rivers of mud smothered cars, homes and streets.

In a rugged area near Carson City, Nev., a 40-acre chunk of dirt and snow slid Monday into a mountain lake, releasing muck that raced three miles down the Washoe Valley. The mud damaged nine homes and 12 to 15 vehicles, killing one person and injuring six others, authorities said.

At least three people were reported missing early today, Washoe County Deputy Sheriff Mike Jack said.

Near Salt Lake City, where thousands of volunteers in sandbag brigades have been battling flooding from a melting snowpack for a week, powerful winds gusting to 75 mph buffeted the Wasatch range from Salt Lake County north to Ogden.

Meanwhile, mudslides in Utah threatened two towns 100 miles apart early today, forcing evacuation of 1,300 people. The only fatality reported so far in Utah was a

White inks water district measure

(AUSTIN)...Governor Mark White this week signed into law a bill, sponsored by Senator Bill Sarpalius, which calls for the creation of the Buffalo Lake water district. The purpose of the legislation is to form the Buffalo Lake water district from three separate counties: Randall, Potter and Deaf Smith.

The Buffalo Lake national wildlife refuge is a federal entity controlled by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service and the Department of the Interior. Currently, the Buffalo Lake refuge, located in Randall County, is badly in need of restoration. Some people consider the dam unsafe in its present state. Sarpalius says the district can serve as a funding vehicle in order to repair and maintain the dam. "This bill sets up a mechanism for the federal government to assist the water district in restoring the lake," he said.

The lake was at one time a refuge for wildlife and a recreational area for people of all ages to enjoy. An estimated 500,000 people live within a two-hour drive from Buffalo Lake.

The legislation now must be approved by the qualified voters in Randall, Potter and Deaf Smith Counties before the Buffalo Lake water district can become a reality. If approved by the voters, the district will consist of a nine-member board selected from the counties involved.

Thief forgets name on stolen check

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who tried to cash an unemployment check at a pawn shop fled when the store owner discovered the man could not remember the name on the check.

Pawnbroker Ted Kipperman said Monday the man ran from his store Saturday after being dumbfounded by the first question on a store identification card: "What is your name?"

"He gave me a blank look and said he was having trouble remembering," Kipperman said. "That made me slightly suspicious, since the check was already endorsed. I told him if he didn't know whose name was on the check, he didn't do his homework right."

The man fled as Kipperman reached for a telephone to call police, the pawnbroker said.

Kipperman said the man presented the $266 check, made out to Richard W. Hartman, Saturday. Kipperman said he went to Hartman's address Sunday and gave the check to the unemployed carpenter's family.

Committee blamed for child's death

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate sponsor of a car safety bill for young children blamed a House committee Monday for the recent death of a 2-year-old girl.

Sen. Carl Parker said Abigail Carnes, a passenger in a car driven by her mother, might have lived had she been in a child safety seat.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, sponsored a bill this session that would have required parents to obtain safety seats for children 4 years of age and younger. The measure passed the Senate early in the session, but Parker said the House Calendars Committee had killed it.

He spoke in the Senate on Monday after reading a newspaper article of the child dying when a car struck her mother's car and threw the child onto the pavement. The mother was in serious condition at a local hospital with massive head and internal injuries.

The 19-year-old driver of the other car, who was not hurt, was charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Parker said Texas leads the nation in infant deaths, "because of a lack of safety seats in automobiles."

He said the calendars committee had caused her death by stalling his Senate-approved measure. "They just dragged their feet and let it smother to death," he said. "I hope it doesn't rest easy on their consciences."

Bill would allocate money for local parks

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White's signature will put into effect a bill that would provide $16.4 million for local parks over the next two years, nearly $25 million less than was originally proposed.

The Legislature completed work on the measure when the Senate voted 21-8 Monday to approve House amendments.

Eighty percent of the money would go to urban areas and 20 percent to rural areas.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said the House voted to suspend a 1-cent levy on the cigarette tax, which would have gone for parks, for two years.

That tax would have raised nearly $40 million for parks.

Some senators objected to an unrelated provision in the bill that sets aside $500,000 to study the possibility of building a state museum for science and technology.

Truan said, however, $2 million had been appropriated for the museum, but $1.5 million was being diverted to parks.

The remainder of the $16.4 million would come from unspent park money in the Parks and Wildlife Department budget, a transfer of $4.2 million from the state parks fund to the local parks fund and federal funds.

Workfare clears just before adjournment

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that might encourage — but would not force — welfare mothers to train for a job cleared the Legislature with just minutes to spare Monday night.

The key to Senate acceptance was an amendment on Saturday that made the program voluntary.

Nevertheless, Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, said the bill was an important step in a different approach to welfare.

The measure was locked in a House-Senate committee until just before adjournment at midnight Monday, when House sponsor Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, said he would reluctantly accept the conference committee report.

Minutes later, at about 11:50 p.m., the Senate approved the report, sending the measure to Gov. Mark White to be signed into law.

At midnight, the 140-day regular legislative session adjourned.

Weather

West Texas — Light rain and showers east of mountains through tonight and continuing Panhandle Wednesday. Otherwise, fair to partly cloudy. Highs 55 Panhandle to near 60 Lower Pecos Valley and 95 Big Bend. Lows 45 Panhandle to 62 Big Bend. Highs Wednesday 65 Panhandle to 98 Big Bend.

Session

4, since he said he understood many lawmakers plan vacations in June. In fact, White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis also have travel plans during the month.

House and Senate members spent the final day of the regular session taking final votes mostly on minor bills and passing congratulatory resolutions.

Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, criticized the 140-day meeting as "non-thinking and lethargic. Some people are calling it the Valium session."

Other legislators, however, praised themselves for passing a stronger anti-drunken driving law, a no-new-taxes budget and a prison reform package that sets up community centers where low-risk inmates can live "on the outside" while they work to pay back their victims.

Lawmakers also passed consumer-oriented changes in the way utilities are regulated and a bill to lower credit card interest rates. White praised the Legislature for that and for creating an ethics commission, raising welfare payments from $43 to $48 a month per child, and passing several other bills.

Some legislators who responded to an informal survey listed as the major achievement a new fund for state universities outside the University of Texas-Texas A&M systems.

Disappointments of the 68th session, some members said, included the failures of parimutuel wagering, nursing home reform, a statewide water program, a brucellosis control bill, mandatory child safety seats in cars, and, the one most frequently cited — the lack of a big pay raise for schoolteachers.

"That was by far the biggest failing of this House," said Rep. Arves Jones Sr., R-El Paso, a freshman in the House. "That should have been the No. 1 priority when we began the session."

Hobby said, "There was not the recognition that I thought there ought to be for the needs of education, both higher education and public school education."

White met with Hobby and Lewis late Monday and agreed to resurrect a special committee on education that Hobby had chaired previously. The committee would meet during the summer to draft a plan for funding public education.

Most of the major battles had already been fought and won or lost before the last day of the session.

But a few major issues waited until the last day to be declared officially dead, including a statewide water plan and a bill that would have extended workmen's compensation to farm workers.

The water plan died in conference committee when lawmakers from different areas of the state failed to agree on its terms.

Workmen's compensation for farm workers failed when Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, staged a talkathon against it beginning at 9:50 p.m. CDT. He talked until adjournment at midnight, killing the bill without a vote.

The bill that would have continued existence of the TEC failed because of a deadlock between the House and Senate over an amendment.

Summit

"We renew our commitment to reduce structural budget deficits, in particular, by limiting the growth of expenditures," the declaration said.

Reagan was flanked by French President Francois Mitterrand, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani, and Gaston Thorn, head of the European Common Market. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher left early to return to campaign for the June 9 parliamentary elections.

Trudeau and other leaders praised Reagan for his handling of the summit.

From the outset, the president had insisted that the talks be more informal than those at previous summits. He didn't want a rigid agenda or a final statement prepared in advance of the meeting.

"He was taking a very big gamble that we could have an unstructured summit and still produce results," said Trudeau. "And I must say I had to congratulate him for having won that gamble."

The 10-point summit declaration also called for greater stability in monetary exchange rates and raised the possibility of an international monetary conference in future years.

It urged a halt in protectionist trade barriers and expressed concern about the debt problems of the developing nations. It said economic relations with the Soviet Union "should be compatible with our security interests."

At one point, the allies set aside their economic talks to discuss arms control in what Secretary of State George P. Shultz called "a free-flowing, honest-to-God exchange."

They eventually agreed on an arms control statement supporting NATO policy, promising to pursue negotiations while maintaining "sufficient military strength to deter attack."

Still, it was the economic talks — the purpose of the summit — that drew the most discussion.

The foreign leaders apparently presented a united front in expressing their concern about the U.S. interest rates and enormous budget deficits.

Kohl observed that was "an important experience for our American colleagues."

U.S. leaders were forced, Kohl said, to see themselves "as being clearly opposed by everyone from the Japanese to the Canadians to us Europeans and that will certainly not fail to have an impact on American policy."

Water

package but changed the bays and estuaries provision to make it difficult for downstream interests to challenge an upstream project.

"In our judgment, it is more important to quench the thirst of people and industry," said Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, at the panel's final meeting. "If we have enough water, then we can take care of the bays and estuaries."

"While agriculture up river is important, this is agriculture, too," argued Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, referring to the shrimping industry he said could lose billions of dollars if upstream projects choked off the flow of fresh water needed by the shellfish.

"I don't see a real crisis," said Geistweidt. "We have a crisis in West Texas."

Geistweidt offered a compromise measure that would have made a court bond apply to both parties in a fight over a water project, but Sharp said because the bond would apply only to cases involving bays and estuaries, it would be ruled unconstitutional.

Sharp said the Senate might accept the bonding provision if another House provision — unseverability — were removed. Under the House language, one section of the measure could not be severed from the rest, so if the bonding section were ruled unconstitutional, the whole water package would be thrown out.

Removal of the unseverability clause would mean only the bonding section would be thrown out of law.

"If the bonding authority is not in the bill, we don't want the rest of the bill," Geistweidt said.

Potassium may halt kidney disease

DETROIT (AP) — A new study suggests that more potassium in the diet could prevent a serious kidney disease that often results from high blood pressure, especially in blacks, a scientist says.

While blacks are twice as likely as whites to suffer from high blood pressure, or hypertension, they are 19 times as likely to get what is called end-stage renal — kidney — disease that is directly attributable to high blood pressure, Dr. Louis Tobian of the University of Minnesota Medical School said Monday.

Blacks' diets are generally lower in potassium than those of whites, Tobian said. The presumption is that the shortage of potassium in blacks' diets is responsible for the kidney disease.

"I certainly think it's worth the trial to attempt to end some of this end-stage renal disease by increasing the potassium" in the diet, Tobian said.

The increased kidney disease "could possibly be reversed if young hypertensive blacks doubled or tripled their intake of potassium," Tobian told a symposium at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

However, increased potassium alone will not lower blood pressure, another speaker said.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
A letter to the Public:

Our Commissioners goofed—Horribly!
The Mid-Plains Pioneer Association has for many years held our annual reunion at the Bull Barn. We have always been pleased with the facilities—until this year.

The planners of the event for this year went at 8 A.M. to get things ready for registration only to be greeted with a scene that was utterly unbelievable—absolutely indescribable. In spite of the fact that two county employees were already on the job, there were barrels of cans and paper cups littering the floor, gallons of spilled drinks on the floor, and signs hanging from the ceiling.

I was told that there had been a Mexican Senior dance there the night before. I can't believe that persons or groups of persons would leave either public or private property in such condition. Nor can I figure out how anyone could possibly dance through that litter or could have stood up with that much liquid on the floor. Maybe that is why the table tops were so dirty—they had to dance on the table tops!

No wonder that there had been so much debate about holding dances out there! And no wonder that Jack Nunley and Bill Bradley left town for the weekend! Maybe they wanted some of the rest of us to see the destruction some of the dances can cause.

Ann Landers No reminder, please

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 13-year-old girl who was raped not long ago. I am trying hard to forget about it. This is about the most terrible thing that can happen to a girl.

So many people have asked me, "What was it like?" When I hear this question, I fall apart. Horrible memories start racing through my head. Also it reminds me that the man who raped me is still out there.

Please help me, Ann. I am sure other girls who have been through the same horrible ordeal don't know what to say, either.—Call Me Tammie

DEAR TAMMIE: Such a question shows no concern whatever for the victim. These clods have a sick curiosity and are insensitive beyond belief.

Simply say, "I would rather not talk about it." Then change the subject. The only person you SHOULD discuss this with is your counselor, and I hope you are seeing a good one regularly. If not, your local mental health center can help you. Look in the telephone book.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to address myself to the woman who wrote that even though she is an excellent driver, she is scared to death to drive over a long bridge. You turned to the National Safety Council for an answer. Apparently they are not aware that thousands of people suffer from "bridge-phobia" and it is such a common problem a national organization has been formed to help them. It is called TERRAP and the address is 1010 Doyle St., Menlo Park, Calif.

Please print this. I know you want to give your readers the best information available, and your first response missed the mark by plenty.—Faithful Reader USA

DEAR FAITHFUL: Thanks for helping me to help others. I should also tell you I received many letters from various parts of the country informing me of this organization. It's a good one.

DEAR ANN: This is for "Embattled in New York." I was 18 once and, just like those headstrong, selfish daughters, I thought I should be allowed to do whatever I wanted.

After some major hassles my parents said, "OK, you're an adult now. Do as you please." I did.

At the end of the month my father presented me with a bill for rent, food, my share of the utilities and telephone, along with a "service charge" for laundry, dry cleaning and housekeeping. When I added everything up, my attitude changed in a hurry. Sign me—Chastened In Edmonton

DEAR ED: How nice that your parents were smart enough to teach you a lesson in a way that made you grateful rather than resentful. I trust they have earned your respect.

DEAR ANN: A while back you ran a fine quote about gossip—how it robs a man of his good name. I need it NOW. Please help.—macon, Ga.

DEAR GA.: Here is a slightly abbreviated version for "Othello" by Shakespeare: "He who steals my purse steals trash. But he who filches from me my good name enriches himself not, but makes me poor indeed."

Cockroaches present health problems

Their repulsive appearance, fetid odor and mindless scamperings in kitchens and bathrooms make cockroaches the number one public pest, says entomologist Sherman A. Phillips.

"It may seem that there's a big increase in the number of cockroaches and other insects in homes this year," the Texas Tech University entomologist said, "but that isn't necessarily the case."

Bugs, including roaches, have moved concurrently from winter dormancy to activity due to the warm weather which followed a cold spring. Normal spring temperatures bring insects gradually from their winter dormancy, with the slow invasion of pest less noticeable.

Seeking a dark, damp home, roaches emerge from such spots as water meters and doghouses to take refuge under sinks and in garbage bins.

"Even the most fastidious homeowner may find roaches in the kitchen and bathroom," Phillips said.

There are not many predators of roaches, he noted. Ants have been known to feed on the insect, but, "you don't want ants in the house either."

Phillips said the cockroach, a term applied to approximately 3,500 species of flat-bodied, oval insects, dates back about 350 million years.

The ancient cockroach is believed to have been the first flying animal. Many species today can fly, although not the varieties associated with the home.

"A highly developed reflex system, a system more developed than most other insects, enables the cockroach to run from predators," Phillips said.

Unlike other species of insects, worldwide extermination of the roach would probably not affect the balance of the ecosystem, the entomologist said.

The only positive plug Phillips could give the roach is its usefulness in medical and scientific research. Compared to other experimental insects and animals, scientists find the roach inexpensive, reproduces well and requires little care.

"Water bug" is the common moniker attached to the household roaches—Oriental, American—because of their love for water.

The German cockroach, commonly found in restaurants and supermarkets, ferrets out food, not water.

"The German cockroach is smaller than the Oriental and American and is generally not found in houses," Phillips said.

Hiding in the bottom bindings of a snack the German roach, as other roaches, seeks security in close quarters during the daylight hours—preferably touched by a concealment on all sides.

"It is believed that cockroaches do carry diseases," the entomologist said, adding that there is no definitive research to prove this to date. Scientific speculation holds that typhoid fever, diphtheria, entamoeba dysentery, cerebral spinal fever, tetanus and tuberculosis might be transmitted by the insect.

Sanitation and an insecticide of organophosphates are the best roach-ridding remedies, Phillips said. However, apartment dwellers need look past their own kitchen sink to guarantee roach control.

"If you live in an apartment complex you can't get rid of roaches by yourself and just in your apartment," Phillips said. "When the insect senses an insecticide it will migrate to another apartment until the poison wears off. The whole complex has to be treated to guarantee control."

Astros nip Cubs, 9-7

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer
The Lumber Co. is back in business at Three Rivers Stadium, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Pirates hit four homers, two by Dale Berra, to beat the Atlanta Braves 8-6 Monday, and Manager Chuck Tanner says he never gave up hope.

"We haven't been hitting, but I've known all along we were going to," Tanner said. "I've been looking for this."

The Pirates' bats, suffering from a severe case of termite infestation, had produced a team batting average of only .255 coming into the game. But they pounded out 14 hits Monday, including eight in 42-3 innings off Braves rookie ace Craig McMurtry.

Jason Thompson and Dave Parker hit Pittsburgh's other homers on consecutive at-bats in the fifth inning to help make a winner of Jim Bibby, 2-5, who missed all of last season with a torn rotator cuff. Bibby worked five innings and got relief help from Rod Scurry and Kent Tekulve.

Dale Murphy and Bob Watson homered for Atlanta, ending a string of 13 straight homerless games, but it was not enough to make McMurtry, 7-2, the first eight-game winner in the National League.

In other NL games Monday, St. Louis pounded Cincinnati 9-1, Houston defeated Chicago 9-7, San Francisco blanked New York 5-0, Los Angeles turned back Philadelphia 5-2 and San Diego edged Montreal 5-4.

Cardinals 9, Reds 1
Darrell Porter drove in four runs with a two-run triple and a home run, and John Stuper scattered nine hits to lead St. Louis to its sixth victory in seven games. Stuper lost his shutout in the ninth inning when Dan Driessen scored on Duane Walker's groundout.

The Cardinals pounded out 14 hits off three Cincinnati pitchers, including starter Ted Power, who lasted only 21-3 innings. Keith Hernandez had a double and a triple, and Tommy Herr had three singles.

Porter, who came into the game with just one hit in 12 at-bats, hit his triple in the first inning and homered in the second.

Stuper struck out four and walked only one in his third complete game of the year. Astros 9, Cubs 7

Terry Puhl hit a two-run triple with two out in the eighth inning to snap a 7-7 tie and lead Houston over Chicago in the first game of their three-game set. The Cubs led twice, 4-1 and 6-3, but had to rally with a run in sixth to tie the score 7-7 on Bill Buckner's second homer of the game and four this year.

Leon Durham also homered for Chicago, and Jose Cruz hit one out for the Astros, helping to make a winner of reliever Bill Dawley, 3-1.

Giants 5, Mets 0
Darrell Evans hit his 11th homer of the season to back the combined five-hit pitching of Fred Breining and a pair of relievers. Breining, 5-4, allowed two hits in five innings. Andy McGaffigan pitched two hitless innings of relief, and Jim Barr finished up, allowing three hits in two innings.

Evans' solo homer came in the first off Neil Allen. The Giants scored twice more in the second and chased Allen with two more in the fifth, giving them an 18-7 record in the month of May.

Dodgers 5, Phillies 2
Burt Hooton hurled a seven-hitter for his first complete game of the season and drove in four runs with a double and a single in beating Philadelphia for the fourth time in a row and seventh in his last eight decisions against them.

The Dodgers erased a 1-0 deficit in the second inning when consecutive singles by Rick Monday, Steve Yeager and Bill Russell loaded the bases and Hooton cleared them with a double down the left-field line.

Padres 5, Expos 4
Pinch hitter Ruppert Jones drew a bases-loaded walk with two out in the ninth inning from Montreal ace Steve Rogers to give San Diego a 5-4 victory over the Expos. Steve Garvey led off the ninth with a single off Rogers and Terry Kennedy grounded to first baseman Al Oliver, who threw wildly to second, putting runners at second and third.

Sixto Lezcano was walked intentionally to load the bases and Rogers retired Tim Flannery on a pop-up and struck out pinch hitter Jerry Turner before walking Jones on a 3-2 pitch.

Connors, McEnroe last hopes for French Open title

PARIS (AP) — Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe remain the last hopes for the first victory by an American male in 28 years at the French Open tennis tournament.

Connors, the 30-year-old top seed, meets unseeded Christophe Roger-Vasselin, a 25-year-old Frenchman ranked 130th, today to battle for a berth in the semifinals of the first grand slam event of the year. In the only other men's quarterfinal today, hometown favorite Yannick Noah, the No. 6 seed, takes on Czech Ivan Lendl, seeded third.

McEnroe, the second seed, plays again on either Wednesday or Thursday against defending champion Mats Wilander, the 18-year-old Swede who last year became the youngest man to ever win a grand slam title.

McEnroe, 24, survived his quarterfinal match Monday with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 victory over No. 10 seed Eliot Teltscher, a 24-year-old from Sebring, Fla. Wilander moved into the quarterfinals Monday by defeating fellow Swede Henrik Sundstrom, seeded 14th, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Last Saturday, McEnroe was fined a total of $3,000 for physical and verbal abuse during his first-round match against Ben Testerman in the French Open. He has now been fined a total of $5,750 in the last twelve months.

In the other women's quarterfinals settled Monday, Yugoslav Mima Jausovec, who took the French title in 1977, stopped the spectacular advance of Kathy Horvath, a 17-year-old from Florida who had defeated top-seed Martina Navratilova in the round of 16. Jausovec, an unseeded 26-year-old, plays Durie later in the week.

Kittle leads Chicago past Boston, 6-4

By HERSCHEL NISSENON AP Sports Writer
Fenway Park's Green Monster was no match for Chicago rookie Ron Kittle, who is rapidly becoming pretty much of a monster to American League pitchers.

Boston's Bruce Hurst, who blanked Chicago on three hits last week, felt Kittle's thunder when he surrendered a tie-breaking home run in the fourth inning — Kittle's 11th of the season, tying him for the AL lead — and Carlton Fisk added a solo homer in the fifth as the White Sox defeated the Red Sox 6-4 Monday.

Kittle, who also singled and stole a base in Chicago's fourth consecutive victory, had plenty of help from Fisk, who also had two singles and scored three runs.

In Monday's other AL games, Cleveland cooled off California 6-5, Toronto downed Detroit 6-4 in 10 innings, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 6-1, New York whipped Oakland 10-5 and Milwaukee beat Seattle 6-3. The Kansas City-Texas game was rained out.

Kittle is batting a respectable .271 and has driven in 36 runs.

"I'm pretty happy with what I've done so far this year, but it's very early and I have to prove what I can do over an entire season in the big leagues," he said.

Winner Britt Burns allowed three runs, including a two-run homer by Tony Armas, before needing help from Salome Barojas in the seventh. Indians 6, Angels 5

At Cleveland, Broderick Perkins' tie-breaking pinch single with the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth enabled the Indians to end a four-game skid and snap California's seven-game winning streak. Mike Hargrove led off with a single and took second on a wild pitch by reliever Luis Sanchez. After Andre Thornton was intentionally walked, Toby Harrah beat out a hunt to load the bases. Julio Franco grounded into a force at the plate before Perkins came through.

Trailing 5-1, the Angels rallied on Reggie Jackson's two-run homer in the eighth inning and consecutive solo shots by Juan Beniquez and pinch hitter Rob Wilfong to start the ninth.

Blue Jays 6, Tigers 4
At Detroit, Damaso Garcia and Buck Martinez delivered RBI singles in the 10th inning as Toronto snapped the Tigers' five-game winning streak and took a one-game lead over Boston in the AL East. After being held hitless for six innings by Dave Stieb, Detroit rallied for four runs in the ninth, three on Lance Parrish's double, to send the game into extra innings. But Alfredo Griffin led off the Toronto 10th with a double off Dave Gumpert and Garcia singled him home. Lloyd Moseby hit his seventh home run of the season and third in two games in the top of the ninth, an inside-the-park shot.

Orioles 6, Twins 1
At Minneapolis, Eddie Murray drilled a three-run homer and Mike Boddicker scattered five hits over seven shutout innings in his fifth major league start. Murray's homer, his fifth, came with two out in the third inning after a walk to Al Bumbry and Cal Ripken's double. Ripken hit his seventh homer in the eighth inning to seal Minnesota's fifth straight loss.

Yankees 10, A's 5

At New York, Dave Winfield's bases-loaded triple highlighted a six-run rally in the eighth inning that gave the Yankees their first four-game winning streak of the season. With one out, singles by Graig Nettles, Andre Robertson and Ken Griffey off Tom Burgmeier produced the tying run and Steve McCatty walked Roy Smalley to load the bases. Winfield then tripled for his eighth game-winning RBI of the season — tops in the AL — and scored on Don Baylor's suicide squeeze bunt.

The A's lost their fifth games in a row despite two run-scoring hits and three stolen bases by Rickey Henderson and Dwayne Murphy's two-run homer. Butch Wynegar homered for the Yankees. Brewers 6, Mariners 3

At Milwaukee, hard-luck Jerry Augustine, who had pitched only 2 2/3 innings since April 14 because of injuries, hurled eight strong innings and Jim Gantner drove in three runs with a homer and a single as Milwaukee snapped Seattle's four-game winning streak.

Charlie Moore singled with two out in the third inning and Gantner followed with his fifth homer, a personal high.

At Minneapolis, Eddie Murray drilled a three-run homer and Mike Boddicker scattered five hits over seven shutout innings in his fifth major league start. Murray's homer, his fifth, came with two out in the third inning after a walk to Al Bumbry and Cal Ripken's double. Ripken hit his seventh homer

76ers not seeking record, just NBA title

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — After years of frustration in the playoffs, the Philadelphia 76ers are thinking more about winning the National Basketball Association championship tonight than trying to set records.

Philadelphia leads the Los Angeles Lakers 3-0 in the best-of-seven championship series going into tonight's fourth game, and a 76ers victory would give them the NBA title with an unprecedented 12-1 playoff record.

"It would be nice to be the first team to make it through the playoffs with one loss," 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham said Monday. "But what would really be nice for a change would be to win the last game of the playoffs."

The 76ers, who last won the championship in 1967, are making their fourth trip to the finals in the last seven seasons. They lost to Portland in 1977 and to the Lakers in 1980 and last year, but their only defeat so far in three rounds of this season's playoffs was in Game 4 of the semifinals against Milwaukee.

But all-star Philadelphia guard Maurice Cheeks said, "We're not trying to make history, we just want to get one more win."

No team has ever come back from a 3-0 deficit to win an NBA playoff series. But Cunningham saw the 76ers blow a 3-1 lead to Boston in the 1981 semifinals and nearly had the same thing happen last year before defeating the Celtics in the seventh game.

"We're so close now but we can't listen to people telling us we've got it won," Cunningham said. "It's very important to win it in four. Too many things can happen."

"I'd rather get it over with in four," said 76ers center Moses Malone, who averaged 26 points and 16 rebounds in the first three games against the Lakers. "The fewer games it takes the better. But it doesn't make any difference as long as we win it."

The Lakers, although they're close to becoming the 14th consecutive NBA champion to fail to repeat, say they haven't given up hope.

"It's possible we can win, not probable, but possible," Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said. "You do yourself a disservice if you write yourself off," coach Pat Riley said. "Pulling this off is the ultimate dream."

Riley said it was the 76ers and Cunningham, not poor play by Los Angeles that has put the Lakers in a hole.

"Billy has exploited every weakness we have — and going into the series I didn't think we had many — and taken away our strengths," Riley said. "I haven't seen any team execute against us defensively as well as they have. We are a running, free-flowing team and we have had that taken away from us."

Meanwhile, Norm Nixon one of four Los Angeles all-stars, is hobbled by a knee injury and key reserve Bob McAdoo aggravated a thigh bruise in Sunday's 111-94 Philadelphia victory.

Both are listed as questionable but are expected to play tonight.

Indy victory worth $2.4 million

Sneva wins record purse

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Sneva waited 10 frustrating years for his first victory in the Indianapolis 500, an unusually long apprenticeship for a first-time winner.

He's not complaining now.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway increased the total purse by more than $340,000 from last year, sweetening its payoff to $2,411,450 — the biggest prize package in auto-racing history.

And Sneva, a former schoolteacher who will be 35 on Wednesday, earned a record $285,886 of that for himself and the rest of the Bignotti-Cotter Racing

Team. "It's quite a relief," the spectacled driver said, feigning seriousness as he accepted the largest paycheck of his career at the annual Victory Dinner Monday night. "After I heard last place paid $50,000 and 32nd place was $45,000, I wasn't sure when it was all over that he wouldn't owe the Speedway money."

Each driver, in the order of finish, was called to the podium to accept his award. The reason Chet Fillip, who finished 33rd, earned more than 32nd-place George Snider was that he received an extra $5,000 in accessory prizes.

By the time Sneva came forward, however, it was obvious his award was going to be considerably more than even he expected; nearly $100,000 more than Gordon Johncock received for winning the race last year.

"It's a lot of money," Sneva said.

Actually, he won't get all of it. The driver usually gets a fixed percentage, agreed to before the race. Sneva wouldn't say exactly how much he'll take home, but he admitted he's "going to end up with 40-plus percent. We'll find something to do with it."

That still would be more than $154,000 — not a bad haul for three hours of driving. His teammate, fifth-place finisher Kevin Cogan, added another $73,756 to the Bignotti team effort.

Sneva stayed up front the entire race, never falling below sixth place. He took a seemingly comfortable lead in the late going but lost it to Al Unser after a lengthy pit stop, and he had to play catch-up for the next 20 laps or so. It was made more difficult by the intentional positioning of Al Unser Jr., the three-time winner's son, between the two leaders.

Twice, Sneva almost caught Al Jr., going high on the track the first time and down low toward the apron the next. Both times, the 21-year-old rookie chopped him off at the first turn, preserving the lead for his dad. Finally, when all three cars, separated by less than one second, overtook some slower traffic, Sneva maneuvered around Al Jr. and then swept by Big Al for a lead he never lost.

Sneva gained about one second a lap after that, finishing some 11 seconds ahead of the elder Unser. Rick Mears wound up third, followed by Geoff Brabham, Cogan, Howdy Holmes, Pancho Carter, Chip Ganassi and Scott Brayton. Al Jr., who was penalized two laps for illegally passing both his father and Sneva during a yellow caution period, wound up 10th.

Sneva, who made his first appearance at Indianapolis in 1974, matched a record held by four other drivers by finishing second for the third time in 1980. The others were Bill Holland, Harry Hartz, Jim Rathmann and Wilbur Shaw.

Unser is now the sixth member of the three-time runner-up club.

The Bignotti winnings were part of a record total purse of $2,411,450 for the 67th running of the 500, about $343,000 more than the former record of $2,067,475 set last year when Johncock won for the second time.

An increase of about $175,000 in accessory prizes accounted for the bulk of the record purse. The Speedway's share was raised about $167,000.

Unser, who won the race in 1970, 1971 and 1978, took home a second-place share of $179,086. Mears, the 1979 winner, took home $135,086; Brabham earned $108,286; Al Unser Jr., the highest-finishing rookie, won $59,110 for 10th place.

Teo Fabi of Italy, who set track records in qualifying and led 23 laps after starting from the pole position, was named rookie of the year and earned $84,960 for finishing 28th.

TCU wins first NCAA crown in 45 years

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Christian won its first national sports championship in 45 years last week and did so for just the reason the coach of its women's golf team predicted — the Horned Frogs had more good players than anyone else.

TCU coach Fred Warren figured right about the NCAA Women's Golf Championship at Athens, Ga.

"Depth will be important in a four-day tournament," Warren predicted Wednesday when the Frogs teed off in the 72-hole competition. "And I think we've got the best overall five players. If everyone just plays their normal game, I believe we'll win."

The team performance gave TCU a national sports championship for the first time since its football team crushed all opposition on its way to a 10-0 record in 1938.

TCU beat 16 teams, including defending champion Tulsa, to win the title by three strokes. The Frogs overcame a two-stroke deficit they were saddled with entering Saturday's final round over the University of Georgia course.

On the first day, junior Rae Rothfelder, who entered the tournament as the No. 5 player, chipped in with a three-over-par 77. Rothfelder came through the second day with a 76, and her 78 counted the third day when Jenny Lidback stumbled to a 79.

On Saturday's final day Anne Kelly, the senior who fired a 69 the final day of the Southwest Conference tournament to help the Frogs win that title, came through with a one-under par 73, and Rothfelder came through for the fourth straight day with a 74.

Warren, though, couldn't say enough about his freshman Rita Moore. The 18-year-old who had won the SWC individual trophy fired a three-under-par 71 the final day to outbattle two Curtis Cuppers — Kathy Baker of Tulsa and Cathy Hanlon of SMU. The hot finish allowed Moore to finish fourth in the individual race at 294.

However, Moore's accomplishments didn't earn her a spot on either the first two 10-player All-American teams and Warren was steaming about the snub.

Marci Bozarth, a senior who tied for fifth at 295, could understand Warren's feelings. According to her, Warren is responsible for this team winning the championship.

"He taught me how to set goals, and what I had to do to work for them," she told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram at the tournament.

Warren said winning the NCAA title will no doubt help recruiting, but said, "actually the main thing is just having a good program."

Aggie fems capture national softball title

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — They didn't attract as many fans as coach Jackie Sherrill's players and didn't catch the eye of pro scouts, but the Aggie Ladies did what no other Texas A&M team has done in over four decades.

The Texas A&M women's softball team came home to College Station Monday, and they brought an NCAA national championship with them.

Sherrill, the Aggie football coach and athletic director, and Texas A&M President Frank Vandiver were among the approximately 100 back-slapping partisans shouting their approval of the first Aggie NCAA title since the 1939 football team.

"This is the greatest group of young ladies anywhere," Coach Bob Brock said. "Despite our youth, the girls refused to yield to any burden other than bringing home the championship trophy. It is a credit to the character of the young ladies."

The Aggie Ladies' last year's AIAW national champs, won the NCAA title in Omaha, Neb., Sunday, defeating top-ranked UCLA 1-0 in a 14-inning semifinal game and top-seeded Cal State-Fullerton 2-0 in a 12-inning title game.

They won the title on the strength of the left arm of senior Lori Stoll, a four-time All-American.

After losing the opener to South Carolina, the Aggies won five in a row for the title, Stoll getting four of those victories. She set a NCAA tournament record by pitching 40 2-3 consecutive innings of scoreless ball.

Overall, the athlete from Chillicothe, Mo., pitched 47 2-3 innings and struck out 52 batters. She was named all-tournament as were second baseman Pattie Holthus, third baseman Cindy Cooper, catcher Gay McNutt, and outfielder Iva Jackson.

The Aggie Ladies finished with a 40-11 spring record. Including their fall season, they were 72-14 for the year. In the final coaches' polls, they were ranked second behind UCLA.

Stoll was tired but happy, and hungry, after pitching the 26 consecutive innings on Sunday.

"I'm very tired, but it was all worth it," Stoll said. "Our main goal was to beat UCLA."

Two years ago, in the Aggie Spring Tournament, UCLA defeated A&M in the marathon 29-inning match, and Stoll pitched the entire game.

THINK OF ANOTHER
God, help me to listen when I should, And open my mouth when it'll do some good. Teach me to measure the things I say, So as not to hurt someone today. Temper the tone of my voice as I speak, Remembering the thoughts that I must keep. Challenge me to hear my neighbor's plight, And not always demand my right. Keep my tongue still about what I've heard, And help me always keep my word. Let the stand in the other mans' place. Feeling the pain that he must face. Make me reach out and touch my brother:
To make You real, I must think of another!

Cops on overtime, business owners edgy

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Extra police officers patrolled this college town overnight and some worried merchants planned to hire guards after a rash of suspected arson fires, at least three set with paint thinner, authorities said.

Five suspicious fires in a four-day period, most in the downtown area, were among seven such blazes during the past five weeks, officials said Monday. Damage has been estimated at nearly $900,000 to buildings, businesses and two homes, although there have been no injuries. "The more I hear, the more concerned I get," said Dan Viets, owner of Arrdvarx, a novelty shop about two blocks from the site of the latest fire, which damaged a downtown warehouse Sunday night.

"I'm sure everyone's becoming increasingly apprehensive." There are no suspects or motive, but "we do have some leads," Police Chief Bill Dye said at a news conference called Monday to assure residents in the community of 60,000 that extra-officers would patrol streets and work overtime to solve the fires. "We've heard some store owners are going to stay overnight in their store with a shotgun or whatever," Gaebler said. "We don't want our people becoming vigilantes, causing trouble." Several businessmen planned to hire private security guards or spend the night in their stores, said Edward Gaebler, executive director of the Central Columbia Association and the Special Business District.

"We've heard some store owners are going to stay overnight in their store with a shotgun or whatever," Gaebler said. "We don't want our people becoming vigilantes, causing trouble."

The first in the string of fires occurred April 26, when a gallon of paint thinner was poured and lighted in a duplex under construction.

Jurors return to hear arguments

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors return from a long Memorial Day weekend today to hear final arguments in the third capital murder trial of the only inmate who survived a 1974 prison escape attempt. Ignacio Cuevas, one of three convicts who held 13 hostages at gunpoint for 11 days, is charged with capital murder in the slaying of Julia Standley, 43. Ms. Standley, a prison librarian, was one of two hostages killed when the prisoners tried to escape beneath two blackboards reinforced with law books and hostages used as shields. Attorneys defending Cuevas, 47, rested their case last Thursday after presenting only two witnesses. State district Judge Miron Love recessed the trial until today. Cuevas was convicted twice earlier and twice sentenced to death, but the convictions were overturned on technicalities associated with jury selection. The third trial started March 21. Attorneys took nearly two months to select the eight-man, four-woman jury. Testimony began on May 16. According to testimony, Cuevas and two other inmates, Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rudolfo Dominguez, used guns that had been smuggled to them to seize control of the library on July 24, 1974. The hostages were kept handcuffed in the library for 11 days as the three inmates negotiated by telephone with prison officials. They also constructed the rolling shield. Mrs. Standley, Carrasco, Dominguez and another hostage, Elizabeth Beseda, all were killed. A priest was wounded, but survived to testify three times against Cuevas. Cuevas was in prison at the

Too much relief?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you please send us information about the danger of harming the stomach by taking baking soda instead of prescribed antacids? Also what are the effects of taking three or more Rolaids daily?

The common over-the-counter and prescribed antacids, such as the aluminum compounds, are not absorbed. Sodium and potassium bicarbonate are alkaline. The bicarbonate part of the compound balances the acid elements in your body to keep your body in a very narrow acid-alkaline balance. Too much bicarbonate intake can upset this delicate balance. An occasional bicarbonate is not going to hurt anybody, but chronic use, particularly in large amounts, can become a problem. If that person also drinks lots of milk, he may develop the milk-alkali syndrome with calcium deposits in his soft

High school students to 'try on' careers

LUBBOCK — High school students with track records of top test scores and creativity will have a new opportunity this summer to "try on" careers in engineering, medicine, law, language or business. That is a sampling of offerings in "Shake Hands with Your Future," a two-week residential summer enrichment program offered for the first time to high school students July 24-Aug. 6 at Texas Tech University. The new program is an expansion of a highly successful one for younger students, according to Mary Anne Speck, coordinator of special activities for the Division of Continuing Education. The academic camp is co-sponsored by the DCE and the Texas Tech College of Education. Students can sign up for as many as three classes from almost 40 subject choices. They can take an in-depth look at engineering, architecture, computer science, time and money management, folklore, medicine, language arts and law. And the subjects range on to biochemistry, microbiology, television production, experimental music, acting, film production, photography, meteorology and more. High school students who want to participate must be entering the ninth through 12th grades next fall; be nominated by a parent or educational professional; provide I.Q. scores, standardized achievement test scores and letters of recommendation. Deadline for nominations is June 24. A fee of $396 includes room, board, educational materials, instructions and recreation.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday May 31, the 151st day of 1983. There are 214 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On May 31, 1962, captured World War II Gestapo chief Adolf Eichmann was executed by hanging in Israel. On this date: In 1793, the Reign of Terror began during the French Revolution. In 1889, flooding claimed more than 2,000 lives in Johnstown, Pa. In 1910, the Union of South Africa was founded. In 1970, an earthquake in Peru left 66,000 dead. Ten years ago: The U.S. Senate voted to cut off all money for bombing operations in Cambodia. Five years ago: Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met for five hours in New York, but failed to resolve remaining issues in the stalled U.S.-Soviet strategic arms negotiations. One year ago: President Reagan announced that talks with the Soviet Union to limit and reduce strategic nuclear arms would begin in Geneva on June 29. Today's birthdays: Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington is 71. Actor and former football star Joe Namath is 40. Thought for today: "Debt is a bottomless sea." - Thomas Carlyle, Scottish essayist-historian (1795-1881).

Businesses maintaining support

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) - Despite a difficult economy, American business is maintaining its support of charities, according to the chairman of one firm's contributions and grants committee. More than 270 organizations in 13 states are sharing Emhart's 1983 outlay of $787,555, an increase of 3% percent over grants made by the firm in 1982, says vice president John Budd. The monies will go to support cultural, civic, educational and health organizations nationwide.

Microwave oven saves time, effort when preparing beef

BY LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent

Whether you're preparing a beef roast for company or beefburgers for the family, your microwave oven can help you save time, effort and energy.

Fortunately for today's busy cooks, techniques have been developed that enable them to microwave a wide variety of favorite beef entrees quickly and conveniently with delicious and satisfying results.

A key to the success of microwaving beef roasts and pot-roasts is a medium low power setting of 30 percent (approximately 200 watts). The rapid heat penetration of microwave cooking on high does not allow adequate time for the development to tenderness and flavor in many beef cuts.

However, at a lower power setting, the heat penetration is slowed and more tender, flavorful beef results. While cooking at a lower power setting will increase cooking time, the improvement in overall eating quality is worth the extra minutes.

It should be noted that even when roasts are cooked at medium low power, there is a substantial savings of time over conventional cooking.

MICROWAVING MEMOS
Even cooking is assured when foods are inverted or stirred several times during the cooking period and the dish or rack is rotated 1/4 to 1/2 turn at intervals.

Standing time is usually called for since foods continue to cook when removed from the microwave oven. To allow for this, remove foods when slightly undercooked.

A meat thermometer or temperature probe should be used to accurately determine the doneness of a beef roast.

Ground beef can be easily browned for inclusion in a recipe by forming it in a ring in an all-plastic sieve or small colander set over a microwave safe bowl. Microwave on high, stirring at least once during the cooking period. This method eliminates the necessity of pouring off drippings as the drippings collect in the bowl as the beef cooks.

Tender beef steaks such as top loin, rib eye, Porterhouse and sirloin can be cooked quickly in the microwave oven; however, they do not have the characteristic flavor and browned appearance associated with steaks broiled conventionally.

For more satisfactory results, steaks can be pre-browned using a microwave browning skillet or other special cookware designed for browning.

When estimating cooking times, remember that the larger the quantity of food cooked, the longer time the cooking will take. The temperature of food also affects cooking time.

Cooked beef will retain its flavor and high eating quality when reheated in the microwave oven. Leftover beef can be the start of many speedy, budget-stretching meals.

Plan ahead for fuss-free meals by making family beef favorites such as stews, chili, Swiss steak and spaghetti sauce in quantity, freezing in meal-size portions and reheating in the microwave oven as needed.
