Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson released these composite drawings of the Traveling Rapist during a news conference in Amarillo Monday. The rapist is wanted in connection with an attack on a Hereford housewife on Sept. 2 of last year, in addition to numerous other attacks. He is described as a small framed, light complected black, 25 to 28 years old, with afro style hair, 5 ft. 7 in. to 5 ft. 10 in. tall and weighing 145 pounds. McPherson stressed that information for the composite came through witnesses, not victims, and stated, "it has done no good for this man to take the life of a victim."

Composites Released On Traveling Rapist

Area law enforcement officials turned to the news media for assistance Monday when they released the first composite drawings of a man believed to be the "Traveling Rapist" who has terrorized Panhandle women for two years.

THE BLACK RAPIST is thought to be responsible for at least eight of more than a dozen assaults on Panhandle women during the past two years and is also the prime suspect in the murder of a Borger housewife

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson and Hutchinson County Sheriff Lon Blackmon of Borger revealeds the composites during the news conference in Amarillo yesterday.

Blackmon made public a drawing done by George Turner of Amarillo, which he said was similar to the appearance of a black male wanted in connection with the murder of Mrs. Abbe Dawn Hamilton, a 19 year old expectant mother who was murdered in her home May 3.

"Witnesses provided information and the drawing was made under their direction," Blackmon reported. "A black male was observed walking toward and later running away from the Hamilton house," he added.

THE SUSPECT IN the Borger murder was described as black, in his late 20's, or early 30's, slender and tall. He was believed to be 6 feet to 6 feet 2 inches tall and his weight was estimated at 130-150 pounds.

According to Blackmon, the black suspect had a medium to light complexion and a brush type mustache

The suspect's hair was described as about three inches long, stringy with some kinks. McPherson displayed a frontal composite of a suspect wanted in connection with the rape and stabbing of a Horeford housewife at her home here on Sept. 2, 1976.

ACCORDING TO McPherson, local deputies are seeking a suspect ranging from 5 foot 7 to 6 feet tall and weighing about 150 pounds.

The Hereford suspect was described as black, but with a light complexion, and was thought to be about 25 years old.

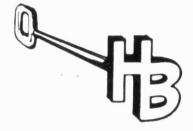

Despite some discrepancies in the composites and descriptions, McPherson is confident that both law enforcement agencies are seeking the same suspect.

One witness may see an individual as 5 foot seven, while another may him as taller. And the Borger composite came after witnesses got only a brief glimpse of the suspect, but I'm sure we're looking for the same man in both the Borger and Hereford attacks," said McPherson.

"I HAVE A real strong feeling about our composite." McPherson continued. 'We got good information for our composites, and they should help turn something up.

Questioned about the possibility of alerting the rapist with the release of the composites, McPherson admitted that the suspect could be put to flight with the release, but quickly added, "I'm primarily concerned with saving lives.

The entire finance committee report was approved for acceptance by the board. The finance committee also decided Thursday to write off a list of "doubtful" accounts and maintain the current premium of approximately $12,000 per year for liability insurance.

The board decided to write off $39,445 worth of unpaid accounts. The hospital, Welty said, presently is collecting 92 to 93 per cent of all accounts.

The administrator earlier in the meeting presented the operating report of the hospital for May, which had 188 patients, same as May, 1976.

This fiscal year's patient total is 1,530. compared to 1,597 for the 1976-77 fiscal

Total patient care days for May was 1,003, bringing the total for the fiscal year to 7,803. There were 997 patient care days in May last year Actual patient revenues for May totalled $147,779, approximately $1,400 above the forecasted total. Gross revenue including taxes and miscellaneous was $149,279 for May. The forecasted figure was $140,784.

Hospital Board Raises Rates

Net loss on accounts in May was $142,050. The projected loss was $10,225 and the net revenue $130,559, more than $10,000 less than the total actually earned by the hospital.

Total operating expense of the hospital in May was $136,770, leaving a net margin of $6,713. The projected net margin was $481

Other business of the board included a refusal to hire legal counsel on a retainer basis for the hospital. Dr. H.A. Cavness, board president, proposed to hire an attorney in order to avoid situations similar to the one the hospital board is currently involved concerning the Voting Rights Act

The federal act requires political subdivisions to submit a pre-clearance application with the U.S. Attorney's General's office when an election procedure is changed. The hospital district board switched from county appointment to public election this year without seeking pre-clearance.

The Brand learned of the oversight and informed Cavness. Welty submitted a pre-clearance request this week.

"We need to consider the possibility of having an attorney put on some form of retainer or notification to become more familiar with the operation of the hospital board," Cavness told the other board members.

"All other boards here (in Hereford) have people who are up to date on the law pertinent to the operation management of that particular entity. We would have an attorney put on retainer.'

Board member Wanda Hoover voiced disapproval to the request, citing economics as the reason.

"If you give a man a job, he's not going to turn loose. I don't think we need that kind of counsel." Mrs. Hoover said. "We don't have that much involvement and we haven't needed one before."

Cavness responded, "It looks like we did (need an attorney).'

Cavness said the high costs involved in operating a hospital is the reason an attrney may be necessary.

"Anytime you have something that spends $2 million a year, you need somebody to talk to. And there are some times you don't have two or three days to

Decision Won't Hurt Voting Rights Cases

By The Hereford Brand and Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Supreme Court ruled Monday morning that Texas is subject to the requirements of the federal Voting Rights Act and must get federal approval before making any changes in voting or election procedures.

The decision establishes that Texas is not exempt from the coverage issue of the Voting Rights Act. A hearing still will be set probably in mid-July to determine whether the Hereford Independent School District is right in its claim that school districts and cities are not covered by the act.

Hereford, five other school districts and the city of Beeville are consolidated under the heading "Hereford Independent School District vs. Griffin B. Bell". Briefs have been filed in district court for the northern district of Texas in Dallas by both the U.S. Department of Justice and the consolidated entities.

A three-judge panel first must decide whether three judges are necessary to hear the case. Should it do so, the panel then will decide the issue of coverage under the controversial Voting Rights Act. No date has been set for the hearing, which first was reported to be set for late-June or early July. Heavy court dockets including each of the three judges forced a minor postponement.

Had the Supreme Court ruled that Texas is not covered under the Voting Rights Act, there would have been no need for the hearing.

"The cases in Texas are covered under Section 5 of the act," said David Hunter, an attorney in the civil rights division of the Justice Department, in a telephone interview with the Brand.

"Today's decision had nothing to do with this other case. It only determined that Texas is properly covered under the

The Texas ruling was a minor victory for the Justice Department and civil rights groups, but the South Carolina decison was a defeat.

By a vote of 6 to 3, the court said South Carolina is free to implement the senate reapportionment plan enacted by the state legislature on May 6, 1972.

The majority overruled a three-judge district court decision that the plan could not be implemented because the Justice Department had not objected to it.

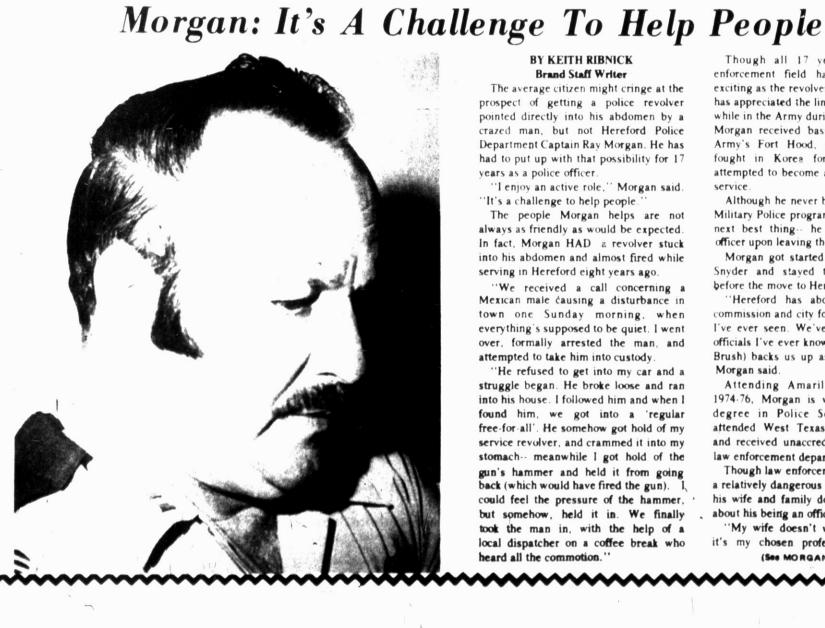

In dissent, Justices Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan said the majority decision will seriously deprive South Carolina blacks of political clout.

"Perhaps out of justifiable embarr assment, the majority never mentions the effect of its ruling," Marshall wrote.

In the Texas case, the court ruled 9 to 0 that state officials cannot go to court to challenge a Justice Department decision that the state is covered by the Voting

The average citizen might cringe at the prospect of getting a police revolver pointed directly into his abdomen by a crazed man, but not Hereford Police Department Captain Ray Morgan. He has had to put up with that possibility for 17 years as a police officer.

"I enjoy an active role," Morgan said. "It's a challenge to help people.

The people Morgan helps are not always as friendly as would be expected. In fact, Morgan HAD a revolver stuck into his abdomen and almost fired while serving in Hereford eight years ago.

"We received a call concerning a Mexican male causing a disturbance in town one Sunday morning, when everything's supposed to be quiet. I went over, formally arrested the man, and attempted to take him into custody.

"He refused to get into my car and a struggle began. He broke loose and ran into his house. I followed him and when I found him, we got into a 'regular free-for-all'. He somehow got hold of my service revolver, and crammed it into my stomach-- meanwhile I got hold of the gun's hammer and held it from going back (which would have fired the gun). I, could feel the pressure of the hammer, but somehow, held it in. We finally took the man in, with the help of a local dispatcher on a coffee break who heard all the commotion."

Though all 17 years in the law enforcement field have not been as exciting as the revolver incident, Morgan has appreciated the line of work he chose while in the Army during the mid 1950's. Morgan received basic training at the Army's Fort Hood, near Killeen. He fought in Korea for two years and attempted to become an "MP" while in service.

Although he never became part of the Military Police program, Morgan did the next best thing- he became a police officer upon leaving the Army.

Morgan got started in police work in Snyder and stayed there three years before the move to Hereford.

"Hereford has about the best city commission and city form of government I've ever seen. We've got the best city officials I've ever known. The chief (Don Brush) backs us up as far as he can," Morgan said.

Attending Amarillo College from 1974-76, Morgan is working toward a degree in Police Science. He also attended West Texas State University and received unaccredited hours in the law enforcement department.

Though law enforcement is considered a relatively dangerous field, Morgan said his wife and family do not really worry about his being an officer.

"My wife doesn't worry. She knows it's my chosen profession. Sure, she (See MORGAN, Page 2)

Amin Disappears Following Shooting

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Uganda Radio made no mention of President Idi Amin this morning, and a spokesman at the Ugandan leader's home said again that he hadn't been seen there since last

A secretary at the ministry of information in Kampala said a cabinet meeting was being held in the Ugandan capital. But she said she did not know if Amin was attending.

Ugandan officials reached by telephone Monday said the report was inaccurate but would not say where Amin was. An unidentified man who answered the telephone at his home said the president had not returned home Friday evening, and "we don't know what happened to

During yesterday's news conference. Amarillo Police Department Lt. Keith rerguson reported that there are numerous similarities between the Hereford and Borger cases and several Authorities believe the suspect has struck several times in north and east Amarillo since then, in addition to attacks in the northern portion of Randall County, Canyon, Hereford and Borger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is 31 years old, good-looking and has a very fine job. He told of alcoholics. me yesterday he has $57,000 in government bonds. Buddy is a nice boy but his stinginess is making me crazy. He won't take out a girl because it costs money. He won't go to a movie because he can see it for nothing on TV in a few years. His car is old and I worry because he hates to get anything repaired -- says "all auto mechanics are robbers." He wears his suits till the pants are shiny. When his shoelaces break he ties them together. According to Buddy everybody is "after something," so of course he has no friends. How can I get my son to loosen up and realize there is more to life than the almighty dollar?--I Want Grandchildren

DEAR FRIEND: Anyone who has such a fix on money is sick and needs professional help. But your son wouldn't spend the money on a therapist or the gasoline to take him to an agency that didn't charge.

Ask the last of the big spenders if he has decided which charity or which relative he plans to leave his money to. That might loosen him up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since you write frequently about alcoholism in your column I hope you will correct a common misconception about the wives

So many writers insist that women who stay married to boozers are neurotic shrews who need an alcoholic husband to blame for everything that goes wrong. They also need to by 'martyrs" and love to have friends and neighbors tell them how wonderful they are. Often they are described as "depres-

These women have been done a grave injustice. They are in reality distressed wives who are pushed further and further into grief by increasing losses, which is the nature of chronic alcoholism. Rarely does the word "grief" appear in literature about alcoholism, in spite of the fact that it is the alcoholic as well as his family. Families of alcoholics needs to know they suffer grief which is normal. They are not mentally ill or depressed. Thank you for helping to put the record straight .-- J.L.K. From Charlot-

DEAR J.L.K.: Yours is an interesting point of view--and I buy half of it. Mentally ill--no. Depressed--well, maybe. A person who grieves is in a very real sense depressed. As the grief subsides the depression recent survey of housekeeping tasks may inspire new ideas for cutting down their demand on most homemakers' total time and energy usage, says Lynn White, a family resource management specialist.

Housekeeping Tips For Cutting Down

Mrs. White is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University

Homemakers spend about one-third of their time on laundry-- and another 20 per cent on vacuuming, sweeping, scouring and washing-- accord-ing to the survey by the Market Research Corporation of Ameri-

Based on the report's findings, Mrs. White says that to save the most time and energy, reduce the tasks that take the most--by using the most efficient products and operating procedures.

'For example, dishwashing and laundry are two housekeep ing practices that require a good job the first time around.

"Teaming efficient cleaning products with the cool-dry dishwasher cycle and cool-rinse laundry cycle does the job-- and saves energy."

Although dishwashing is a daily activity, the survey reported that most homemakers perform that task 11 times a week- those with automatic dishwashers use them 42 per cent of the time and wash dishes by hand 58 per cent.

Laundry loads washed weekly ranged from four to nine loads-with 83 per cent machine. washed and four percent of those done in a laundromat.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Strueber of 4312 Hayden, Amarillo, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Brenda Kay to Jeff Sims, son of Carol Rose of 129 Hickory. The couple will be wed Wednesday in the First Baptist Church in Amarillo. Sims is a former resident of Hereford and graduated in 1975 from Lake Brantley High in Forrest City, Florida. At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck A couple at a party the other night were lamenting the fact that they didn't know if their children were old enough to be left alone when they go on vacation.

"How old are they?" I asked.

"Fifteen, 17 and 20," replied the wife. "You have it all wrong," said my husband. "The question is not how old, but how young. Offhand, I'd say you missed it by 12 years. You could have gone when they were three, five and eight, but not now."

"You are too funny," said the woman, "but I'm serious." "So are we," I interrupted. "Did you ever hear of a three-year-old calling up 100 of her closest friends and having a party the minute your car leaves the driveway?"

"Or a five-year-old getting your car stuck sideways in the garage?" "Or an eight-year-old leaving the garden hose running for 15 days and finding your trees waiting to merge on the expressway?" chimed in another father. 'You can't leave a seven-year-old," said the woman indignantly. "Listen," said another observer. "My daughter at seven could have run General Motors from a sandbox. She could make a meal, handle major decisions, dress herself and I once saw her move a piano when a Barbie head rolled under it. She knew how to adjust the color on the TV set, walk in the attic without a floor, and could sniff out bananas I was saving through three inches of metal. The only thing she needed me for was to make out her deposit slips at the bank. That's the year we should have gone on a vacation with her home running things. Not ten years later."

What happened ten years later?" we asked.

"According to the police report, it was a 746." "Which was?"

"Blocking off streets for a parade without a permit.

"Illegal parking of two Porta-potties on a carport. "Kidnapping and holding an assistant principal against his will.

"Assault, naming three drums, 12 guitars and a bass as weapons, causing hearing damage to anyone within a radius of 112 miles and sterility in a 34syear-old milkman who left his truck.

"Unsanctioned gathering of 150 people in a house built as a single family dwelling, causing the kitchen to become a health and fire hazard. "There were also charges of neglect to the dog who hadn't been fed anything in three weeks except pizza and space dust, but the testimony was weak.

"But leaving small children constitutes neglect," said the

No South African Pullout For Nambia

WASHINGTON (AP)- A nations reported progress on outh African refusal to other aspects of their talks with South African refusal to withdraw militarily from Manibia is slowing international efforts to win independence for that long-disputes South West African territory by 1978.

And official South African claims to a 105-square-mile enclave around Walvis Bay-the biggest and best Atlantic seaboard port in the region- also peaceful transfer of power to Namibia's black majority.

These were among several difficulties cited Saturday as diplomats of five western the government of Prime Minister John Voester over a Namibian advance toward

The United States, along with Britain, France, West Germany and Canada, already have reported achieving "the basic ingredients of an agreement" with the Vorster government on could threaten prospects for a the future of the one-time Germany colony.

> These relate mainly to political processes by which elections can be arranged for a government to which the South

The State Department said Saturday that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance "was encouraged that momentum is being maintained toward the goal of an internationally acceptable settlement to the Namibian

But several problems remain. Namibia, twice the size of Texas with 750,000 blacks and 105,000 whites living in it, has been under South African management since World War I when Germany was ousted from its colony. The territory is rich in diamonds, uranium and other

A series of United Natio resolutions in the aftermath of World War II canceled the mandate under which neighboring South Africa had run the country. Most recently, the U.N. Security Council ordered South Africa to do something which the Vorster government already had agreed to dotransfer power to the black majority by next year.

Diplomatic sources, including some Carter administration officials, give this list of disagreements and agreements that have thus far emerged from American-led exchanges with

First, the disagreements:
-On security, Voster insists on keeping strong air and land forces in Namibia so long as it is menaced by outside attackers. There have been black guerrilla thrusts mainly from Angola in the North and also from Zambia in the north east. The western nations hope to persuade the black governments and nationalist parties concerned to quit fighting soon, making it harder for Voster to justify the maintenance of South African various base camps.

-On the Walvin Bay enclave,

Vorster says that prized slice of the country originally was taken over from Britain and attached to the old Cape Republic in the 19th century. But South Africa, on receiving a League of Nations mandate in 1919 to run what is now Namibia, attached Walvin Bay to the territory for nistrative convenience.

Namibian leaders know though, that such an enclave would give South Africa rights to keep a presence in a strategic part of their country.

On elections for a constitu tion-writing assembly. Vorster an estimated 60 detainees being has agreed these can be held in Zambia and elsewhere. has agreed these can be watched by U.N. observers to assure fair play but he has refused to permit the world body actually to supervise the

This compromise offer appears to have been accepted by the five western governments but it will amost certainly prove tough to sell either to the United Nations as a whole or to the South West African People's Organization SWAPO. SWAPO has won U.N. recognition as the only true representatives of the Namibians and it controls the guerrillas. Vorster regards SWAPO as a Communist-oriented movement with marginal political backing inside Nambia and therefore expects its leaders to boycott an election it knows it cannot win.

-On political prisoners, Vorster demands SWAP must free tions.

Only then will the South African authorities be ready to release SWAPO followers charged with a variety of political and criminal offenses. The main agreements reached by the five western nations and Vorster: On a caretaker government for Namibia, South Africa has dropped its plans to hand over powers to an anti-SWAPO front of 11 ethnic groups which had outlined a constitution of its own. Instead, South Africa wants to appoint an administrator-general whose job will be to run Namibia until a constituent assembly is elected.

-On working with the U.N., South Africa has agreed its administrator- general will give the United Nations the facilities to watch the Namibian elec-

Mexican Doctors Seek Laetrile Importation

U.S. District Court Judge Luther Bohanon has taken under advisement a request that he allow two Mexican doctors the right to sign affidavits to. permit their terminally ill cancer patients to import the controversial substance Laetrile.

Bohanon had earlier allowed

U.S. physicians that right. After listening to arguments from attorneys representing the doctors and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Bohanon took the matter under advisement. He did not indicate when he would issue a ruling.

In addition, Bohanon indicated he would consider relaxing his order to eliminate the requirement that such patients have a "very thorough medical examiniation." citing the high cost of such examinations.

The request for permission to sign the affidavits was filed on behalf of Drs. Mario Soto and Raul Morales Aceves, both of Tijuana, Mexico. Neither was in

During the hearing the question of the two Mexicans' medical degrees came into dispute and the judge commented he was flooded with "letters and telephone calls all the time' from people who cannot find a

U.S. doctor to sign the affidavit. Bohanon said the stand of the FDA and the American Medical Association against Lactrile as a cancer treatment has made most American doctors wary of signing the forms.

Bohanon on May 10 wrote out the affidavit which cancer patients can use to import Lactrile, which the FDA forbids to move in interstate commerce. He earlier had ruled in a class action suit that any terminally ill cancer patients could import Laetrile by applying to the court for permission to import it. He enjoined the FDA and the Customs Service from interfering with such importations.

During Friday's hearing, Paul Ragan, an FDA attorney. argued that if Bohanon's order is enlarged to permit foreign doctors to sign the affidavit, "it will allow a free flow of Laetrile across the border."

Ragan said Soto previouly had asked Bohanon to allow 24 Americans Soto was treating for cancer to import the substance and in that request were 24

"It's like a production line down there . a fill-in-the-blank system," Ragan said.

Ken Coe, who represented the two doctors, disputed that statement and said the alleged 'mass production' appeared that way because of the "large volume of patients seeking Laetrile."

The affidavit Bohanon wrote out requires each cancer patient to have an American physician swear that a physical examination was conducted and that the patient was terminally ill with cancer.

Bohanon said he also questioned his coice of 'terminally ill," says it is unclear under his order whether someone once determined to be terminally ill and receiving Lactrile could continue to import the substance after getting

Fairy Tales Help Kids Understand Problems

Children need fairy tales to survive because they teach that everyday problems are not unique, says a noted pyscholo-

"The tremendous value of fairy tales is, when exposed to fairy tales a child know "This doesn't happen only to me. It happens all over the world."" says Prof Bruno Bettelheim.

In addition, he says, children who aren't allowed to escape the T-248-2c real world through fairy tales may become addicted in later life to drugs or television in an effort to try to escape.

Bettelheim is a professor emeritus at the University of Chicago and a researcher at Stanford University. He spoke recently at Southern Illinois University here.

A key ingredient in fairy tales such as Cinderella, says Bettelheim, is that the hero or heroine emerges from the experience as a changed person.

That is where many of today's children's tales fail, he said. The hero remains the same after going through his trials.

Bettelheim, author of several books on rearing children, said television soap operas are distorted fairy tales for adults in which people experience tre-mendous problems but are not changed.

Bettelheim believes it is unfair that many young people do not know how to live" because they did not experience fairy tales in their childhood to help them figure out problems. 'To grow up well, to be able to master life, we need hopeful images... all that you'll find in the traditional fairy tales." After the U.S. Executive Mansion was burned by the

Gilmore, Though Dead, Still Puzzling

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)- Gary estate by his victims' widows. Gilmore was killed by a firing squad five months ago. But his life remains both a puzzle and a valuable commercial property.

Gilmore, 36, gained worldwide attention when he said he would rather die than spend his life in prison. His execution was stayed three times before it was carried out on the chilly morning of Jan. 17- the nation's first execution in nearly 10 years.

At least three books and a play about Gilmore have been started. A movie is planned. And sales continue on T-shirts bearing his final comment to the warden, "Let's do it." .

Two $1-million suits have been brought against Gilmore's those close to him at his death.

Stanger, attorney Robert Moody, Gilmore's uncle Vern Damico and promoter Lawrence Schiller witnessed the execution at Gilmore's request. It was a duty Stanger says "shouldn't have been part of my watch." Moody says the experience "still just sickens me."

DAmico, Gilmore's uncle says 'He was a completely mixed-up man. He wanted the same things you and I wantmarriage, a home, a job and love- to live like an average American." DAmico and his wife, Ida, took Gilmore into their home when he was paroled from prison in April 1976.

"What he did was beyond me, and I think, beyond him," DAmico said the two murders his nephew admitted.

Relatives said Debra Bushnell is living in Los Angeles and gave birth to a daughter, her second child, within weeks after Gilmore was shot. The relatives refused to say where she could be reached. Her attorney said, 'She doesn't even want to talk with me most of the time. It's been a very traumatic thing for Nicole Barrett, 21, Gilmore's former girlfriend who joined him in an unsuccessful suicide pact last November, was committed to the state mental hospital after the suicide attempt but was released shortly after the execution. Her mother, Kathryn Baker, said her daughter is working as a couple, but she declined to say where she and her two children are living. "That's all I'm going to tell you. She Nicole is doing well and working. She's in a good frame of mind. She's Schiller, who paid $112,000 for the rights of Gilmore's life story, said he has conducted 116 interviews for the book that is to be completed in about two years by a writer he has yet to sign.

He said a two-character play based on "the concept of the inquisitor and prisoner" similar to a Gilmore interview that appeared this spring in Playboy magazine was being written by an author whose name he would not disclose.

He said if successful, the play, book and movie- to be filmed after the book is published- could gross around $500,000.

Author Norman Mailer. contacted as he left an interview with DAmico last week, said he was at work on a book about "violence in America," and that "Gary Gilmore will occupy a prominent chapter." He said

"I don't like to give interviews about the books I'm working on. I'm suspicious of writers who do that, and I'm also superstitious enough to believe it brings bad luck." Mailer said.

He said Schiller had provided access to certain people." Asked if he had signed to write Gilmore's story, Mailer said. 'not at this stage, but I don't know what might happen six months from now." Schiller. who has produced two books written by Mailer, said, "I would be honored if Norman would consider it."

Meantime, James K. Bozony. 23. of Amherst, Mass., marketing the T-shirt emblazoned "Let's Do It," said he has sold about 1,000 at $5.95 each.

At his request, parts of Gilmore's body were donated to medical research, and his cremated remains were spread over Utah County, site of his crimes and Mrs. Barrett's

Dennis Boaz, who for a time was Gilmore's agent and attorney, said he is writing a novel based on his experience.

He remembers Gilmore as "extremely calculating and with an iron will. At the same time, he was extremely cowardly in the sense of his insecurity with women." Boaz said he things Gilmore purposely did not take a lethal dose of drugs because he wanted to wake up and read that she Nicole was gone."

Of his book Boaz said, "It's not going to have a downer kind of ending... The execution is mportant, but it's not the key to the book. There are other people who go on living in my book. In Schiller's book, there's no way it could have a sequel unless it's going to be a book on

Papers Can Be Sued In Distant Courts

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Supreme Court Monday refused to review a lower court's ruling that libel suits against newspa-pers may be tried in state courts far from the paper's home base and predominant circulation

The justices let stand a ruling that said the Times Mirror Co., publisher of the Los Angeles Times, can be sued for libel in Wyoming by two political figures in that state.

In seeking Supreme Court review, attorneys for the newspaper said the lower court's decision would have a "chilling impact" on freedom of the press.

In a July 5, 1974 article about crime in Wyoming and other western states, the Times reported that Donald Ray Anselmi, state Democratic party chairman, and Raymond B. Whitaker, a former state Democratic chairman, had testified before a federal grand jury. The article said the two had been asked if they bought guns in Wyoming which they knew had been stolen in

The article also said that federal prosecutors were trying to determine if Anselmi and Whitaker were "involved in more serious matters.

In 1974. Anselmi and Whitaker sued the Times Mirror Co. for libel. Information in the Times article was carried on the wires of The Associated Press and United Press International. Both news services were named as defendants in the libel suit, along with the Denver Post and Cheyenne Newspapers, publisher of newspapers in that Wyoming city.

Proceedings in the state libel case, however, have been delayed pending the Times' appeal challenging the jurisdiction of Wyoming's courts.

A federal judge in Wyomi ruled that the state courts could not hear the case but his decision was reversed by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. That court said, in part, that because the information for the article was gathered by Times' reporters who traveled to Wyoming and the article had impact in Wyoming, state courts could handle the libel suit.

Less than 10 copies of the Los Angeles Times are delivered to Wyoming subscribers each day, and the Times maintains no office or staff in the state.

In its appeal to the Suprem Court, the Times said that if it were subjected to suits "in areas of the United States and the world inconvenient for its California location... the financial and time burdens thereby imposed would severely inhibit the ability of the newspaper to perform its function."

Times' attorneys argued that past Supreme Court rulings in freedom-of-the-press cases which protected newspapers from harassing lawsuits which could make them become less willing to cover controversial

Orange Juice Queen May Lose TV Job

BOSTON (AP)- Orange juice commercials may not be for Anita Bryant any more. Arthur Fiedler and Dorothy Hamill may soon become the new symbols of the sunshine drink.

Sunday night, after he stepped down from the conductor's podium at the Boston Pops, Fiedler said he has filmed some commercials for Florida orange juice.

The Florida Citrus Commission has become worried that Miss Bryant's anti-gay campaign has hurt her effectiveness as the orange juice queen.

It is conducting a marketing survey to find out if she should be asked to leave her $100,000a-year job. In the meantime, the commission has made back-up commercials with Fiedler and Miss Hamill.

Douglas Hoffer, the department's marketing director, said the survey will measure whether consumers have come to the homosexual issue than with

The affable, white-haired conductor said he was promoting orange juice and nothing else, an apparent reference to Miss Bryant's involvement the campaign against a Florida homosexual rights law.

"Orange juice I'm all for, but nothing else," he said.

Miss Hamill, the Olympic skating star, was in Greece and unavailable for comment. Arthur Darling, publicity director for the Florida Department of Citrus, said Sunday, "The whole Anita thing is a mess. No matter what we decide, we're only going to lose. I wish she would just resign." Originally, the department had hoped the furor would die down after the Dade County election, but, according to Darling, the department has received a stack of "Anita hate mail," mostly from California homosexuals vowing to boycott Florida citrus.
