Breakfast Boosters

Patsy Sparkman and Suzy Wall touted the senior parent football Kickoff Breakfast at today's Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast. Herd fans will meet at 6:30 a.m. Friday in the Bull Barn for a meal and a speech by Coach Don Cumpton. Tickets are $4.25.

Emcees tied by UW posse

Community activities reviewed at Fun Breakfast

Emcees of the Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast were lassoed by a United Way Posse early today to draw attention to the UW drive which kicks off next Tuesday.

John Stagner and Charlie Bell were dramatically tied while UW volunteer Bobby Owen announced that New England Patriot Ron Meyer will be the speaker at a noon kickoff luncheon next Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center. All agencies served by UW will be represented. The public is invited to attend.

Owen predicted that the agency would exceed this year's goal because already 20 percent of the goal has been met.

Part of the posse passed out balloons and pledge cards to illustrate this year's theme of "Up, Up and Away with United Way."

Patsy Sparkman and Suzy Wall dressed out in Hereford football jerseys and helmets to impress upon the Thursday breakfast attendants to rise early Friday also for the "Kickoff Breakfast" for the Herd football season. The 6:30 a.m. meal will be served in the Bull Barn for $4.25. Coach Don Cumpton will be the speaker at the breakfast. Proceeds will go toward senior prom expenses.

The two also touted sales of spirit buttons. A lucky button will be in each batch to win the game ball.

Everybody was invited to play a game at the breakfast — tossing eggs. Tables competed against each other to see which team could pitch an egg from person to person the quickest.

Chamber exec Mike Carr introduced newcomers to the city and new members of the Chamber. Rhonda Simons has opened Hereford Maid Service, Byron Morris has joined Sutter's Inn, James McDowell has joined Pat McGinty's accounting firm, Darrell Stark has moved from Clovis, N.M., to manage the Hereford McDonald's and Kevin King is with Gerhart and Puckett.

Jack Mars introduced the two Rotary Club exchange students Ulf Schoppa of West Germany and Mila Niemela of Finland.

Casey Daniel and Russell Brownlow announced Key Club plans to sell video tapes of Herd football games for $20 each. A season package will cost $200 with a highlight film. Films may be picked up at the Tuesday night Booster Club meetings.

Jerry Brock gave a review of YM-CA activities. The Y is a UW agency.

Stagner told the crowd of over 230 that Saturday is Hereford night at the West Texas State University game against Troy State. Tickets are available at the Chamber office for $4.

It also was announced that the Band Boosters were having a stuffed potato supper from 5-7 p.m. in the Hereford High cafeteria Friday. Proceeds from the $3 child and $4 adult tickets will go toward new band uniforms.

And the Multiple Sclerosis chapter will be "arresting persons" for a $10 fee next Wednesday. Further details will be in the Sunday Hereford Brand.

Pilot Club members invited law enforcement personnel to the breakfast, and introduced them all, as part of the Safety Awareness Month.

State Farm Insurance agents Jerry Shipman and M.D. Gentry sponsored the breakfast and among the prizes were teddy bears with the State Farm insignia. Margie Daniels and Nita Lee won the bears.

Al Daniels and Roberta Last won two lockboxes and $25 in Hereford bucks went to Lela Kemerer. Bud Thomas won the $50 Hereford Bucks prize.

Gene Teeters was not present, and thus did not receive the $200 prize.

Mark Andrews won a State Farm duffel bag.

All Tied Up

John Stanger gets tied up so he will shut up at the Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast today. United Way posse leader Bobby Owen confined Stanger and emcee Charlie Bell so he could tell about the United Way activities coming next week.

Legislators to convene in new session on Monday

AUSTIN (AP) — State legislators, unable to balance the budget during the 30-day special session that ends today, will get another chance beginning Monday, says House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Following a meeting with Gov. Mark White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby on Wednesday, Lewis said White had chosen a date for the next session.

"We discussed when we will be coming back and that will be Monday," Lewis said.

The speaker's press secretary, Tim Conger, said White also told the leaders he would like to address a joint House-Senate meeting on Monday, as he did to open the first special session.

In his first speech, White urged lawmakers to approve a one-year, 1½-cent sales tax increase to help wipe out the $3.5 billion state deficit.

A majority of House members said they opposed new taxes. Since tax bills must start in the House, White's plan went nowhere.

The Senate approved $418 million in spending cuts, while the House cuts totaled $740 million. The conference committee trying to resolve that difference continued meeting into the final day.

Lewis, who led tax opponents during the first special session, said he will support a tax hike only if all other key budget-balancing steps are taken first and still prove inadequate.

"I haven't changed in any way. Our first priority is to try to make cuts in state spending. And try to bring that (deficit) figure down as low as we possibly can," Lewis said.

"If we get the opportunity to do what we want to do in the House the follow-through on various budget cuts, transferability of (state) funds, to run state government in a businesslike way, if that doesn't bridge the gap (then) sure, I'll vote for a tax bill. I'm not about to allow the state to get in bad financial straits."

However, he emphasized, "We haven't gotten there yet."

Throughout the day, Lewis' budget aides briefed representatives on the financial picture under a variety of possible actions, including tax increases next year.

Possible actions being analyzed include delaying payments to state employee retirement funds, some type of sales tax increase and a boost in the motor fuel tax, said House research director Daryl Dorcy.

Asked if a tax increase in 1987 appears likely, House Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said, "It sure looks that way."

But lawmakers should wait until the 1987 session, Berlanga said, because they won't have enough information until then on how much money should be raised and what the state's economy will be like.

One possibility, Berlanga said, is that lawmakers would "look at a major overhaul (of the tax system) and a possibility of expanding the (sales tax) base and lowering the rate."

In the special session that's ending, Lewis said, lawmakers may have heard too much from special interests and state agencies and not enough from those who foot the bills.

"No one has talked about the poor old taxpayer," Lewis said.

"What about him? Have we taken him into consideration yet? I think the House is trying to take him into consideration."

Not all House members agreed that a quick tax increase can be avoided.

"The Texas state budget crumbles while the House of Representatives fiddles, refusing to face up to the need for a tax increase," said Rep. Juan Hinojosa, vice chairman of the Mexican American Legislative Caucus.

"While the House budget proposes more than $730 million in cuts, the proposal jeopardizes the state's future in higher education, highways and related industries and jobs.

"Anti-tax legislators refuse to accept reality, hoping instead that outside forces such as OPEC will force up the price of oil to help.

Campaign stops slated

Two women will be in Hereford within the week campaigning for their husbands who are seeking the governor's post. First Lady Linda Gayle White will be at a reception on Friday at 3 p.m. in the Hereford State Bank Friendship Room to discuss the record of her husband Gov. Mark White, a Democrat.

Next Tuesday, former First Lady Rita Clements will campaign for former governor Bill Clements, the Republican nominee for governor, from 10:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. at Hereford State Bank.

Two arrests made Wednesday

Hereford police arrested two individuals for carrying unlawful weapons Wednesday at Smith Food and Drug. The suspects were reported to have been holding butterfly knives.

Police also heard a report of injury to a child in the 400 block of Ave. G. The child was reported to have been hit in the face with a telephone.

Police also heard reports of a stolen vehicle from the 100 block of East 15th, juveniles fighting, theft of a barbecue grill from the 300 block of 15th, and two cases of criminal mischief.

White leaning to veto betting bill

AUSTIN (AP) — This year's push for pari-mutuel betting seems headed for death on the desk of Gov. Mark White, legislative leaders say.

White, dissatisfied by the legislative deadlock on the budget crisis, has said he probably will veto the betting bill, according to Speaker Gib Lewis, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and bill sponsor Rep. Hugo Berlanga.

Officially, White's staff is saying nothing more than that he has concerns about the bill and has not decided whether to veto it.

"The governor has serious reservations about the pari-mutuel bill itself and about the Legislature passing that measure without dealing with the budget shortfall, the crisis he called the session to solve," Ann Arnold, White's press secretary, said Wednesday.

Flooding causes two drownings

By The Associated Press

Two women died in flood waters that swept over West Texas after more than three inches of rain fell near Alpine and water rushed down a normally dry creek, authorities said today.

The body of a 62-year-old woman was discovered in Alpine Creek Wednesday and the body of a second woman, who was not identified, was recovered along the same creek today, authorities said.

"(The body of the second woman) was found about 8:10 a.m. along the creek in a subdivision north of town," said Brewster County sheriff's dispatcher Jere Madison. He said the woman's identity was being withheld pending notification of relatives.

Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said his private Wednesday meeting with White left a clear impression that the bill was headed for a veto.

"I think right now there's a good possibility it's dead and we're just going to have to come back in January and try to deal with it," Berlanga said.

Hobby and Lewis said White talked to them earlier this week about a possible veto of the bill.

The special session called by White to deal with the projected $3.5 billion budget deficit ends today. The tax proposal pushed by White never even found a sponsor. House and Senate conferees working on spending cuts have not worked out a compromise.

On Wednesday, an Alpine police dispatcher said 62-year-old Jesusita Reyes and her car were swept down Alpine Creek inside the city limits shortly before 9 p.m.

A Texas Department of Public Safety helicopter from Midland had been summoned to aid in the search for the second woman after police had received unconfirmed reports of a body seen in Alpine Creek.

The National Weather Service posted a flash flood watch for a large part of West Texas. Thunderstorms and heavy rains continued over portions of the South Plains, Permian Basin, Southwest Texas and the southeast corner of New Mexico.

Heaviest rains were reported between Marathon and Alpine, the weather service said.

Dallas zoo plans embryo transplant

DALLAS (AP) — No one is expecting a giraffe with stripes, but zoo officials say the implantation of a zebra-like animal into the womb of a giraffe will be a historic experiment.

Dallas Zoo officials plan to implant the embryo of an okapi, an animal which has disappeared from some of its native jungles in Zaire, Africa, although it is less threatened than some species.

Dr. Bonnie Rafael, zoo veterinarian and coordinator of the project, said the zoo hopes to transfer the embryo within two to six months.

If the implantation is successful, it will produce a newborn okapi delivered from a giraffe within 15 months. Officials say that the Dallas experiment, combined with research that other zoos have done in similar efforts, could lead to a nationwide embryo implantation program for endangered species.

"It can be very significant," said Ron Kagan, the zoo's director of mammals.

"That's if everything works, which is a big if," Kagan said.

Embryo transfers have ignited protest from religious groups in at least one U.S. city with complaints that the procedure is unnatural, said zoo spokeswoman Victoria Furber.

Department pays own way, AG says

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney general's department is a money-making agency and could pay its own way if the Legislature would let it operate like a private law firm, says Attorney General Jim Mattox.

"If the Legislature would let me work on a straight contingency fee as I did when I was in private practice, I'd be glad to do that and make a lot of money for the state," Mattox told a news conference Wednesday.

"But I don't much think they will do that," he added.

Mattox said he called the news conference to announce that his office won and saved $1.7 billion for Texas taxpayers and the state treasury during the 1986 fiscal year.

"Despite our state's current economic difficulties in both the private and public sectors, the attorney general's office had a record year of success," he said.

Mattox said that when he took office four years ago, succeeding now Gov. Mark White, "it was an office that had seen crisis after crisis after crisis."

"That is not the case now in this office," Mattox said. "It is running smoothly, doing a good job for the state of Texas."

Fetal monitoring being disputed

BOSTON (AP) — Continuous electronic monitoring of fetal heartbeats, used by most U.S. hospitals during childbirth, is unnecessary for routine deliveries and could lead to unnecessary Caesarean sections, a new study concludes.

The unneeded Caesarean sections could result from the monitoring slightly increasing the chances that doctors will mistakenly suspect fetal distress, according to the study in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The conclusions are based on a three-year study of nearly 35,000 deliveries at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas. The doctors did not question use of the monitors in high-risk pregnancies, but wanted to see whether the monitors would affect the outcome in ordinary deliveries.

"There are no infant benefits that we could detect in low-risk deliveries," said Dr. Kenneth J. Leveno of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School. "The prudent person would interpret that to mean that low-risk women should not be monitored routinely."

But Dr. Henry Klapholz of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital said routine monitoring may still be a good idea because in rare cases it can prevent tragedies.

U.S. bars farm tools for Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is blocking a private relief agency from sending farm tools and other supplies to leftist-ruled Nicaragua, a decision denounced by one critic as "the politics of hunger."

The administration refused an application from Oxfam America, a Boston-based relief agency, to ship to Nicaragua $41,000 worth of donated and purchased supplies, including rakes, seeds, shovels, agricultural books, wrenches, chain saws, hammers and water pipes, Oxfam officials said.

John Hammock, Oxfam executive director, said the shipment to two non-government agencies in Nicaragua was intended to alleviate food shortages in the war-torn Central American country which has been the target of a U.S. trade embargo for more than a year.

"We are dealing with the politics of hunger," Hammock said in an interview Wednesday. "This is a clear example of the government playing politics with the poor overseas."

Soviets threaten smuggling charge

MOSCOW (AP) — The wife of imprisoned American reporter Nicholas Daniloff today refused to go to a customs house where she had been summoned to sign a statement she feared could lead to smuggling charges.

Ruth Daniloff said Wednesday that Soviet authorities were threatening to charge her husband, already accused of spying, with trying to smuggle some heirlooms out of the country.

"They're saying we have smuggled our own things into the country and now we're trying to smuggle them out again," she said. "It's all just so stupid. It may just be part of the harassment against us."

Daniloff, correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, has been held without formal charges in east Moscow's Lefortovo Prison since Saturday.

The newsman, who took the Moscow post 5½ years ago and planned to leave soon for a new assignment in Washington, was arrested by eight KGB agents after a Soviet acquaintance gave him a package later found to contain maps marked secret and photographs.

Mrs. Daniloff said authorities called the magazine's Moscow office on Wednesday to say she should come to the Butovo customs clearing house outside Moscow to sign a statement concerning the jewelry.

Jeff Trimble, another correspondent for the magazine, said the office called customs officials this morning and "told them Ruth is not up to dealing with this matter now because of the difficulty her husband is having, and at this time she does not plan to do anything."

It was not clear what the statement said or what the consequences of not signing would be. Trimble said the customs officials at Butovo had no response.

The Daniloffs listed carpets and a diamond ring as their only valuables when entering the country and when filling out forms to leave, Mrs. Daniloff had said.

Controller doesn't remember small plane

Crash claims 91 victims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The air traffic controller handling Aeromexico Flight 498 doesn't remember seeing the plane that collided with the DC-9 although the small aircraft was visible on radar screens for several minutes, officials said.

The controller was working at another position while directing the landing of the Aeromexico DC-9, said John Lauber, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

An estimated 91 people died in Sunday's crash over suburban Cerritos after the Piper Archer collided with the DC-9.

The controller told investigators he did not recall seeing the Piper, Lauber told a news conference Wednesday night.

The controller also was working a hand-off position in the coastal control radar facility. In the hand-off position, the radar controller transfers incoming flights to controllers in the airport tower.

It is not unusual for one controller to be working both positions, and the controller considered air traffic to be light at the time, Lauber said.

Lauber also said the Piper had been tracked for about two minutes after entering restricted airspace surrounding Los Angeles International Airport, and that if the pilot had seen the jetliner, "two minutes would have been plenty of time" to avoid a collision.

Safety board officials Wednesday used another Piper to repeat the final flight path of the single-engine Archer that collided with the jetliner at 6,500 feet in the Los Angeles Terminal Control Area, killing 67 people in both planes and an estimated 24 on the ground.

The wreckage plunged into a Cerritos neighborhood about 15 miles southeast of the airport, destroying 11 homes.

In Wednesday's flight, the plane showed up on radar screens with and without its electronic equipment operating, Lauber said. This appeared to confirm earlier digital readouts of the computer tapes from the air controller's radar, he said.

Asked how the controller could fail to see the small plane, Lauber said the controller had many other things to do at the time.

Earlier, Lauber said the radar signal emitted by the Piper's transponder showed its location, but did not indicate an altitude. Transponders broadcast a signal that produces an aircraft identification on radar screens and those operating in a certain mode show a controller the altitude.

Thus, even if the controller had seen the Piper's radar blip, he would not necessarily have realized the imminent danger because he would not have known that the two aircraft were at the same altitude.

The Piper collided with the jet's tailfin, then the DC-9's horizontal stabilizer sheared off the small plane's cabin roof, NTSB senior aerospace engineer John White said.

White offered no opinion on which aircraft hit the other, and Lauber said no conclusion would be drawn as to fault until the investigation is completed.

A tire mark from the light plane's nose wheel was found on a piece of the jetliner's tailfin, and pieces of its cabin roof were found in gouges along the leading edge of the horizontal stabilizer, said White.

The Federal Aviation Administration, meanwhile, says there have been more than 400 reports of near misses between aircraft during the first half of 1986. It says 114 were reported in California.

Evidence of POWs eludes officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — A videotape purporting to show American prisoners in Laos continues to elude government officials despite a multi-million-dollar effort from Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot and the intervention of Vice President George Bush.

A spokesman for Bush confirmed Wednesday that the vice president discussed the mysterious tape with Perot, who subsequently pledged $4.2 million in an effort to obtain it.

Perot said in a telephone interview that "I was asked by our government to pursue this thing, to get the tape if it existed, and I said fine, it's a long shot, but I'll be glad to do it."

It was the first time Perot's involvement in efforts to obtain the tape has been publicly disclosed.

When the Senate Veterans Affairs

Committee held a hearing last month on the effort to obtain the tape, Brig. Gen. James Shufelt, deputy director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, referred to "an individual in the private sector who has agreed to assist in any way he can in helping acquire information to resolve this issue."

Shufelt never identified the individual who apparently was Perot.

The general said he didn't know if the individual "made a decision monetarily to support the effort."

The tape never was produced and the money never was paid.

However, Rep. Bill Hendon, R-N.C., another official who has played a major role in efforts to obtain the videotape, said Wednesday that "I am convinced of its existence and authenticity."

Hendon said he was shown a segment of the videotape by Robin Gregson, a British national who claims to have the evidence of Americans being held prisoner.

Hendon said the segment he saw "does not show any American prisoners" but, nonetheless, he added he remains convinced the full tape would provide such evidence.

"I won't go into the reasons," he said.

Marlin Fitzwater, spokesman for Bush, said the vice president discussed the tape with Perot and asked him to "take a look at the issues there and see if he thought they were legitimate."

But Fitzwater added that "I'm sure he (Bush) didn't ask him to make payments."

Perot said, "The fact that we have one American, a Special Forces major, who says he has seen the tape, makes it more than just some bogus thing floating out there in Asia."

He added that "the basic steps involved were to produce the tape, see the tape and if in fact the tape was what it was purported to be, at that point, pay for the tape and have it available to our government," he added. "So it was a kind of reasonably fail safe process in that you got (a chance) to look before you leaped."

Perot said of the videotape: "Like everything else around the POW-MIA thing, it's a will-o'-the-wisp."

The Dallas computer magnate first became involved in the POW issue in 1969 when he attempted to fly to Hanoi to deliver medical supplies and Christmas dinners to American POWs. He also financed a successful 1979 rescue mission to Iran to free two of his employees from a Tehran prison.

Retired Maj. Mark Smith told the Senate committee last June that he and Hendon went to Singapore in April with instructions from the Defense Intelligence Agency to offer $4.2 million to Gregson.

According to Smith, the money was on deposit in the Bank of America in Singapore when he attempted to obtain the tape.

Smith told the committee that Gregson, who also uses the name John Obassy, rejected the offer.

Smith testified that Gregson told him, "I didn't ask you for $4.2 million in cash. I asked you for support for these people in Laos. I have never asked for money."

The people in Laos were rebel forces fighting the communist government.

The major also told the committee he had seen the tape and that it showed Caucasians being held prisoner and forced to work in timber and mining operations in northern Laos.

Targeting important for fitness

Targeting—both personal and physical—is a key issue when it comes to a total fitness program.

"In recent years, exercise has become a national pastime," Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the Texas Affiliate of the American Heart Association says. "But the fact that we are exercising more—or think we are—doesn't mean that we are achieving our fitness goals."

Many people fall short of their cardiovascular fitness goals because:

1. They have chosen the wrong kind of exercise.
2. They are not exercising enough.
3. They haven't established a lifetime target.

Just any old exercise won't do. You must choose an exercise that will give your heart the right kind of workout, an aerobic (or dynamic) exercise. By definition, an "aerobic" exercise challenges the heart and circulatory system to meet the extra oxygen needs of the body during the exercise.

Why challenge your heart? Your heart, like any other muscle, gets stronger with regular exercise. The stronger your heart is, the less it has to work to pump blood through the miles and miles of blood vessels to every part of your body. Stronger hearts contract less frequently and still get the job done.

Your exercise program should strengthen your heart muscle, as well as improve total muscle tone. Exercises meeting this criteria include fast walking, jogging, swimming and bicycling. A few sports, if played vigorously, also qualify: tennis, racquetball, basketball and soccer.

The AHA recommends that you choose an aerobic exercise that suits your health and physical capability, one that you can enjoy and one that is convenient for you. (Caution: If you have health or medical problems or if you have not exercised regularly you should check with your doctor before beginning any fitness program.)

How Much exercise is enough? Again, targeting is a key. Targeting, in this case, means finding your personal "target heart rate" and exercising to achieve this rate.

Your personal "target heart rate" and exercising to achieve this rate.

Your personal target rate depends on your age and your maximum heart rate. Your target heart rate is 60-75 percent of your maximum heart rate, depending on how far you have advanced in your exercise program.

(For example, for a beginning exerciser, age 35, maximum heart rate would be 220 minus 35, or 185. Target heart rate would be 60 percent of 185, 111.)

Researchers feel that cardiovascular health is improved if you exercise so that your pulse is within this target heart rate for 20 to 30 minutes three times per week.

Staying on target is the final key to your program. You've found the exercise that's right for you. You know how much you should exercise to achieve the desired results. You need commitment to make the program work for you.

Beginning with Day 1, choose a realistic starting date, the day when you know you will have time to begin your program. Establish a regular pattern; try to exercise at the same time each day, so that it does become a regular part of your schedule. (If you miss a day, reschedule on a day when you are not already scheduled; don't "double up" to make up.) Always be sure to allow adequate time to warm-up before exercising and to cool down afterwards.

Other ways to stay on target? Exercise with a friend or group which shares your commitment. If your first schedule doesn't work, try different activities and schedules until you find the one that's right for you.

"Fitness is a lifetime commitment," Dr. Taylor says. "What makes it work, however, is the day-to-day renewal and refinement of your goals."

Ann Landers Domestic violence

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Not nearly enough is written about women who suffer from domestic violence. Here are some facts.

One half of all wives are beaten at least once by their husbands.

Forty percent of the women murdered in this country are killed by their husbands or lovers.

Children who grow up in violent homes believe violence is normal. They think it is an acceptable way to control someone else.

Violence is often part of a pattern of threats, jealousy, an explosive temper and a way to isolate and overpower the other party.

Every woman who is considering marriage or a live-in should beware of the following danger signals:

Does your man try to control your behavior?

Do you need his permission before buying food, clothing, writing checks, etc.?

Does he dictate what you wear, what you say or who you socialize with?

Is he overly critical?

Is he jealous and does he accuse you of things you never did?

Violence escalates both in frequency and severity. Women who were slapped the first time and didn't do anything about it because they didn't think it will happen again soon discover that the slaps become punches. Broken bones and lacerations follow. I advise all such women: Make a flight plan.

1. List phone numbers of friends who can help and will be reliable.

2. Get the phone number of a women's shelter. It can be a lifesaver.

3. Keep ready cash on hand in case of an emergency.

4. Hide an extra key to the car. You may need it for a hasty departure.

5. Remember, the police are your friends. Call if you need help.—BEEN THERE IN ILLINOIS

DEAR BATTERED: Thanks for the blueprint. And now here's a different twist to the same story.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have had several letters in your column from battered wives. I don't think I've ever seen one from a battered husband.

I have been married 16 years. I love my wife and children. I put in 16-hour days at work. My 1985 tax return was for $58,000. My wife gets all my paychecks and in return I get a frying pan over the head and a dinner plate thrown across the room that requires 12 stitches to close.

The woman can be sweet as honey when she wants to be but when she loses her temper she goes crazy. The two injuries I mentioned are for 1986. She has been throwing things for 14 years.

I would never leave her because of the Church. Actually, we get along fine between fights. Can you suggest something that might help my wife control her temper? She is always sorry after an "incident," cries and says she will never do it again, but her promises don't mean much. What do you suggest?—HARRY IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR HARRY: The woman needs counseling, and so do you. Go together and find out what can be done to eliminate the things that set her off. Your wife needs to learn other ways to get rid of her anger. Violent behavior must not be tolerated.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

KEEP AWAY BURGLARS

NEW YORK (AP)—Over 2 million households will be burglarized this year, according to Bureau of Justice Statistics.

In over 40 percent of burglaries, the thief enters through an unlocked door or window. There are some simple things to do to secure the house without spending a lot of money, says Family Circle magazine.

—Install bright outdoor lights and connect them to automatic timers.

—Close drapes and curtains when away and hide all valuables.

—Install wide angle peepholes and deadbolt locks on all doors.

—Use a jamming bar in the lower track of a sliding glass door.

—Connect all interior lights to an automatic timer.

—Install a door or window alarm that will make a loud warning noise.

Noble Grand Glessie Shelton presided as sick members and friends were reported. Twelve visits to the sick, 15 cheer cards, 15 dishes of food and five flowers were reported.

A eulogy was given by Wallace

Shelton in memory of Levita Fitzgerald, a long-time member of Hereford Rebekah Lodge.

Lydia Hopson served as hostess to the Sheltons, Thompson, Ben Conklin, Karrol Rettman, Susie Curtisinger, Ada Hollabaugh, Dora Lea Howell, Peggy lemons, Roberta Combs, Jo Irlbeck, Verna Sowell, Elmer Combs, Anthony Irlbeck, Gene Bishop, Ursalee Jacobsen and Faye Brownlow.

Cheese good for teeth

A word often used to describe cheese is versatile. Leaf through any cookbook, chapter-by-chapter, and it becomes evident that cheese is "adaptable to many uses" in our daily menus.

Cheese is a welcome food at breakfast in an omelet, at lunch in a sandwich or at dinner in a piping hot casserole. It often appears as a dessert served with fresh fruit or as an instant snack on crackers.

Developing a cheese repertoire, so to speak, is easy with cheese and crackers. Start with a few cheeses you are familiar with and like, then add one or two not so well known to you.

Blue cheese makes an excellent snack or dessert cheese because its semisoft consistency is easy to spread on crackers. Caraway seeds add a spicy flavor to hard or semisoft cheese. Try Caraway cheese cut into cubes and serve with crackers, sliced apples or pears. For variety, consider Edam and Gouda cheeses. Their mild, nutlike flavors offer good visual and flavor contrast to these other cheeses.

Ford receives degree

Gerald Herman Ford recently received his masters degree from the Xavier University in New Orleans, La. He took the degree magna cum laude as a nursing anesthesiology degree.

Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ford of Austin and grandson of Mrs. Herman Ford and the late Herman Ford, graduated from Amarillo High School and West Texas State University. He received a nursing degree from Amarillo College and worked at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo.

Ford married Andrea Eddins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eddins, formerly of Littlefield. He will be employed at the Humano Hospital in Abilene as an anesthesiologist. His wife plans to work as a pharmacist in the city.

Ghana

The African nation of Ghana is named after an earlier state that flourished along the Nile River between A.D. 800 and 1076. The modern nation, slightly smaller than the state of Oregon, has a population of 10 million. Ghana was ruled by Great Britain (as the Gold Coast) for 113 years. It was the first British colony to be granted full independence.

Whitefaces host Mustangs Friday night

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
 Sports Editor

The Don Cumpston Era No. 2 is about to officially begin at Hereford High School, as far as actual games are concerned, when the Hereford Whitefaces go against the Andrews Mustangs Friday night at Whiteface Stadium.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. for the 1986 season opener.

The previous Cumpston Era of HHS football was from 1978 to 1982, when the Whitefaces had an overall record of 37-16-1. In one of those seasons, 1981, Cumpston directed the Herd to an undefeated regular season and to three playoff victories before Hereford lost to Richardson Lake Highlands 10-7 in the state semifinals.

Cumpston is a coach who would say this each week: "We consider the most important game the one we're playing this week."

This week's game against Andrews and next week's game against Clovis, both at home, are non-district games in which Cumpston plans to play as many Herd athletes as possible.

"We'll play a lot of kids this week and next week to develop some depth on our team. At all positions we'll try to get some experience for everyone, to get them used to what everything's all about, before district," Coach Cumpston said.

When asked about coaching Hereford teams before and now, Cumpston said, "The one thing about the Hereford players that you feel comfortable about is that they'll play hard and give you a good game."

Cumpston said the Herd will use the I-formation on offense and the 4-3 formation on defense. About the defensive team, he said, "Our defense has been improving every day. It's a different defense than they've played before, and they're playing at different positions than they've played before."

Here is a list of the probable Herd starters for Friday night's game, or at some positions, a list of the players who are expected to see playing time, according to Coach Cumpston:

OFFENSE

SPLIT END: Bobby Baker.
CENTER: Chad Clements.
RIGHT GUARD: Keith Anderson.
RIGHT TACKLE: Walter Brockman.
TIGHT END: Kyle Streun and Casey Daniel.
WINGBACK: Chris Johnson and Bill Ruckman.
FULLBACK: Bobby Medina and Mark Artho.

TAILBACK: Marcus Brown and Vincent Brown.

QUARTERBACK: Todd Shire.

DEFENSE

ENDS: Derrill Page, Richard Castillo, and Kyle Streun.

TACKLES: Brent Berry, Lee Young, and Edward Martinez.

MIDDLE LINEBACKER: Tim Long.

"WILLIE" (WEAK SIDE) LINEBACKER: Michael Phibbs.

"SAM" (STRONG SIDE) LINEBACKER: Trent Bowling, Donnie Rieves, Bobby Medina.

STRONG SAFETY: Ricky Ruiz.

FREE SAFETY: Fidencio Cantu and Rodney McCracken.

CORNERBACK: Robby Collier and Keith Herrera.

SPECIALTY

PUNTER: Bobby Baker.
KICKER: Tim Long.

Andrews, which plays in District 2-4A, has eight offensive starters and eight defensive starters returning from last season. In a pre-season scrimmage two weeks ago, Andrews and Berger both failed to score touchdowns with their first team offensive units.

The only touchdown of that scrimmage was scored by the Andrews second team offense against the Berger second team defense.

Coach Cumpston, noting that he watched the scrimmage between Andrews and Berger, said, "The main thing about Andrews is their two greatest assets—14 or 15 starters back, and their size."

"They're an extremely big team.

In talking with their people, they think they have one of their best teams in a long time."

Some of those "big" players on the Andrews team include 240-pound tackle David Jacobson, and three 220-pounders: tight end and defensive end Mike Moisant, tackle Steve Harris, and offensive center and defensive tackle Kevin Lindsey.

Other 200-plus pounders include 210-pound tackle Jimmy Barrera, 200-pound offensive guard and defensive tackle Cayetano Rios.

Andrews head coach David Visentine uses a wing-T formation on offense and a 5-2 formation on defense.

The Mustangs won three of their last four games of the 1985 season, and tied in the other, to come within one half a game of going to the class 4A playoffs.

The Hereford Whitefaces are in District 1-4A this year because of the 1986 UIL realignments. Other District 1-4A teams are Lubbock Estacado, Lubbock Dunbar, Levelland, Canyon, Borger, Pampa, Dumas, and Frenship.

The Andrews Mustangs have these District 2-4A opponents: Sweetwater, San Angelo Lake View, Big Spring, Monahans, Snyder, Pecos, Fort Stockton, and Lamesa.

Hereford is 24th in the state in the Harris Rating System pre-season rankings, and Andrews is ranked 34th. The Harris Rating System lists Hereford as a six-point favorite over Andrews.

Fearless Forecasters are at it again

The "Fearless Forecasters" football panel will predict the outcome of the Brand's football contest again this fall, in case anyone cares!

The newspaper panel will include Speedy Nieman, publisher; Jeri Curtis, managing editor; Gary Christensen, sports editor; Shawn Cockrum, staff writer; and Rick Castaneda, press foreman.

Nieman rallied in the final two weeks last season to claim the title of "Chief Prognosticator." He was correct 68.9 percent of the time, only slightly better than Castaneda's 68.4 percent and Christensen's 68.2 percent.

Curtis requested that her rating not be released, but she plans to do better this fall! Cockrum will be a new member of the "Fearless Forecasters."

In addition to these five prognosticators, there will be a make-believe one, known as "Predictor Pete." Predictor Pete's picks will be the consensus of the picks by the five Brand forecasters.

Football games to be predicted include West Texas high school football games, plus college and professional football games. See this page for this week's "Fearless Forecasters" picks.

Other football predictions that will be published in the Brand include those by "Major Hoopie," the NEA college football forecaster, and the Harris Rating System, for Texas high school football teams.

Find out for yourself how clear or cloudy all these predictions are!

YMCA 'Health Advancement Night' planned

A "Health Advancement Night" has been scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The speakers will be Gary Ledoux and Ken Adcock, both of Amarillo. Their subjects will include why a person needs to exercise and how to get started exercising.

Ledoux and Adcock will also discuss facts and myths on men's and women's bodybuilding, and how diet and nutrition are part of a fitness program.

Demonstrations will be given on exercise and bodybuilding. For more information on the "Health Advancement Night," call the YMCA at 364-6990.

Red Raiders open against Kansas State

Texas Tech and Kansas State play each other for the third time in history Saturday night. Kickoff is 7 p.m. at Jones Stadium.

Texas Tech defeated Kansas State 6-0 in 1933 and also beat Kansas State 51-13 in 1963.

Both teams have first-year coaches: David McWilliams at Texas Tech and Stan Parrish at Kansas State. McWilliams was an assistant coach at the University of Texas the last 16 years, and Parrish directed Marshall University to winning season the last two years.

One Hereford High School graduate is on the Texas Tech roster—Aubrey Richburg. Richburg is a 6-2, 250-pound senior offensive tackle who has earned three varsity letters with the Red Raiders.

The 1986 Texas Tech football guide states that Richburg is an "excellent performer who will be one of the big keys to the offensive line's success; started every game the last two seasons; makes up for lack of size with quickness and instincts; smart player; will play beside cousin Nathan."

Nathan is Nathan Richburg, also an offensive guard, from Roscoe. Aubrey's cousin Nathan is a 6-2, 260-pound freshman.

Aubrey Richburg started at the right guard position as a sophomore in 1984 and lettered at defensive end in 1983. He was a member of the 1981 Hereford High School team which advanced to the state semifinals before losing to Richardson Lake Highlands, which went on to win the state title.

Texas Tech will unveil a new offensive for the first time, featuring the "flex" end. That position takes the place of tight end in the lineup.

The flex end is flanked wide of the tackle, but not as wide as the split end. McWilliams notes that the flex end gives the Red Raiders the capability of having five pass receiving threats at any given time.

About playing Kansas State, which opened the season on Aug. 30 with a 35-7 victory over Western Illinois, McWilliams said, "Kansas State will have one more game under its belt and that is a distinct advantage."

"We are both very similar in that we have new coaching staffs and new philosophies. The first game gives you a chance to get some of the bugs worked out. If we were both experienced in what we are doing, them playing earlier wouldn't matter."

"Their coach has an excellent record everywhere he has been.

They are a lot like us in that there have been a lot of exciting things come out about their team during the summer and the pre-season. It should be a great college football game."

The big question mark for the Red Raiders this season is All-America linebacker candidate Brad Hastings, who underwent orthoscopic knee surgery on Aug. 24. Hastings reportedly will not be ready to play Saturday, and starting safety Merv Scurlark has a bruised shoulder and may also miss the game.

In Kansas State's win over Western Illinois, quarterback Randy Williams three two touchdown passes. Defensive player Free safety Robert Easterwood of Kansas State intercepted three Western Illinois passes.

WTSU opens against Troy

The West Texas State University football team opens the 1986 season Saturday night with a home game against Troy State University of Alabama.

Kickoff for Saturday's game is set for 7:30 p.m. at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium in Canyon.

The game is also "Hereford Night," part of the WTSU promotions of area cities and towns. Residents of Hereford may purchase general admission tickets for the game at $1 off the regular price.

The discount tickets are available at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office.

Three athletes from Hereford are members of the West Texas State team—senior running back Wayne High, freshman outside linebacker Brian Lady, and freshman offensive lineman Casey Smith.

Saturday's game is the first ever between WTSU and Troy State. Last year West Texas State was 6-3-1 in Coach Bill Kelly's first season at the school, and Troy State had a 6-4 record.

Troy State, known as the Trojans, lost 17-10 last year to Georgia

Southern, the eventual NCAA Division I-AA national champion. The Trojans also lost 9-7 to North Alabama, the NCAA Division II runner-up.

Troy State averaged 284 yards rushing per game last season, which ranked the Trojans among the leaders nationally. Troy State uses a "no-huddle" wishbone offense and a "50 overshift" defense. That defensive format can utilize both a four-man front and a five-man front.

Troy State returns 15 starters from its 1985 team, including eight on offense and seven on defense.

WTSU's pass-oriented offensive attack last year resulted in 15 school records and five Missouri Valley Conference records. Tod Mayfield completed 296 of 486 passes for 3,432 yards, including 79 of those passes to Stan Carraway for 1,237 yards.

Mayfield threw for 21 touchdown passes, 11 of them to Carraway. Mayfield ranked first in pass completions in NCAA Division I-AA, second in passing yards per game, and fourth in total offense.

This season West Texas State, which will compete in the Lone Star Conference, is ranked No. 2 in the nation by Football News and No. 4 by Sports Illustrated.

Mayfield and Carraway were selected to the Football News pre-season All-America team.

Troy State has two returning quarterbacks who each completed 38 passes last season—Mike Turk and Danny O'Toole.

Troy State had five players with at least 200 yards rushing for the season. The leader among them, Ted Horstead, is back. Horstead rushed for 840 yards last season.

On same hole two straight days

'Arnie' hits two holes-in-one

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Arnold Palmer was the first professional golfer to reach the $1 million mark in earnings. Eighteen years later, he managed another first.

The 57-year-old Palmer thrilled his army of fans Wednesday when he had a hole-in-one on a 182-yard, par-3 at the Tournament of Players Club at Avenel, the same hole he aceed on Tuesday.

Co-ed softball tournament set at Borger

A co-ed softball tournament has been scheduled in Borger on Sept. 19-21, sponsored by the Borger Men's Softball League.

Entry fee for the tournament is $100 per team. The entry deadline is Sept. 16.

First, second, third and fourth place team trophies will be awarded. First and second place team members will receive sweatsuits and bags. A sportsmanship trophy will also be awarded.

A.S.A. umpires will be used in the tournament.

For more information, contact Sherry Moore at 274-3337 or write to her at 101 Second Street, Phillips, TX, 79071; or call Ronnie Chase at 274-6485.

"It was amazing," Palmer, who has 13 aces in his career, said. "This one was unbelievable."

According to PGA Tour records, consecutive aces on the same hole by one player has never occurred in any form of competition. Golf Digest magazine reports that since 1952 two aces on the same hole has occurred five times, once in competition.

Palmer's aces, were made in pro-am competition before today's start of the first Chrysler Cup on the Senior PGA Tour, a $600,000 competition featuring an eight-man U.S. team against an eight-member international squad.

His hole-in-one on Tuesday hit about 10 feet short of the cup and rolled in. His second "carried right down in the center of the cup."

"I think that everyone out there appreciated it because they knew I had made one Tuesday," Palmer, who used a 5-iron for both shots, said.

Palmer, who joined the PGA Tour in 1955, said he was really surprised by the second hole-in-one, but one spectator had confidence in him.

"I was walking down the fairway and a guy said he had come out to see me make another one," Palmer, the captain of the U.S. team, said. "He was as surprised as I was that it went in."

A MATTER OF CHOICE

Texas farmer avoids harvest of red ink

EDROY, Texas (AP) — Down on Bobby Nedbalek's farm, the grain sorghum crop is in. Cotton harvesting comes next. But the one crop that Nedbalek hopes never to harvest is red ink.

To keep that from happening, this 45-year-old San Patricio farmer has his own approach to agriculture. You could call it the Nedbalek Farm Policy.

The centerpiece of the Nedbalek Farm Policy involves spending. He doesn't. Not if he doesn't have the money. Not if he has to borrow from the bank.

In this era of bigger farms barely making it on wafer-thin profits, Nedbalek is a small farmer who manages to get by. He is a survivor of 19 years of Coastal Bend farming — 19 years of the inevitable boom-bust cycles that have plagued farmers since farming began.

Unlike many farm families that have gone under in recent years, including some of Nedbalek's neighbors, he has survived, he believes, because he is frugal and cautious.

"I have never made a payment on an appliance or a car," Nedbalek said last week. If he buys, he pays cash. But in many cases, he doesn't buy at all. When he needed an eight-row planter, for example, he welded two old four-row planters together. It worked. And just as importantly for him, there was no lien at the bank attached to it.

If there is one word to describe Nedbalek, it is careful. His buzzwords are "preventive maintenance," and he always wears a hat and long sleeves in the South Texas sun.

He waxes his farm machinery twice a year. He bought his first tractor the same year he had his first son — 19 years ago. Both still work on the farm.

Nedbalek's caution does not reveal itself as success by some standards. There is no Cadillac in his driveway. The family home is an abandoned house that was renovated. There are no signs of extravagance on their 90-acre homestead.

His natural disinclination against spending money, Nedbalek believes, has given his family a good life in farming.

"We've gotten where we are by being as careful as we knew how. I don't see us doing anything different," Nedbalek said, even though he expects his farm income to drop by at least 20 percent next year.

"The secret is going to be playing the best game you can on the short term — be careful with what you plan in the next year, and don't overextend yourself."

Farm economists are predicting that a new government farm program promises an upheaval for the family farm in the next few years that may leave casualties even in South Texas, one of the last areas to feel the nationwide farm crisis.

Commodity prices are the lowest they have been in 10 years, according to Darwin Anderson, San Patricio County agriculture extension agent. "We're going to lose some people," Anderson said.

The 1985 farm bill is supposed to put U.S. crops on the world market by forcing American prices to a level competitive with foreign commodities. This in turn should reduce the amount of surplus crops in the United States.

In the meantime, Anderson said, there will be a "shake-up" in the farm industry — a "realigning of producers and how they operate."

Anderson predicts farmers will be plowing less often and cutting back on the amount of fertilizers and herbicides they use.

"Most people are not buying new equipment — the little things — they drive a worn-out pickup for another year," he said. Nedbalek is the kind of farmer that Anderson points to as an example of small farmers who are making it, or at least surviving.

Bobby Nedbalek measures his words, like his dollars, before he spends them.

"I'm trying to comply with the farm bill," Nedbalek said. Referring to the nation's agriculture, he added, "I look at it as a giant renewable resource, and it has to be managed. Farmers are not in the position to manage a resource of the country, and the government is doing the best it can."

Nedbalek and his son, John David, dressed identically in jeans, long-sleeved shirts and green "gimme" caps, are doing what they do when they aren't in the fields — applying preventive maintenance to their equipment.

Nedbalek holds that he doesn't much hold opinions, except that the best way to keep machinery is to take care of it.

Inside one of two barns on the place are the accumulated odds and ends of half a lifetime of farming.

A worn-out refrigerator holds welding equipment. An inoperable dryer has a new life as a repository for work rags. Along one wall of the sheet-metal building hang neatly lined boxes for tools and such.

For John David, who began driving a tractor at age 8, entry into the business will likely be easier than it was for his father, who started farming some three years after college graduation.

"I wasn't brave enough to take that step, and I didn't know if I could handle getting a paycheck once a year," Nedbalek said. "When I first started farming, we had a car and a little money in the bank and a lot of desire."

After a stint selling farm implements, Nedbalek took out a Farmer's Home Administration loan, bought a tractor and took the leap.

"We made a lot of sacrifices early, but those sacrifices were what made it possible to stay in the business."

On a hot, windy summer day, the smell of "skunk justice" — which the nose judges to be an apt nickname for a cotton defoliant — hangs in the air. You can bet your own farm that Nedbalek's skunk juice wasn't bought on credit.

Medical personnel invited to seminar

A disaster seminar for medical personnel will be held Saturday, Sept. 20, at the auditorium of the Northwest Texas Hospital Pavilion.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. and finish at 5 p.m. The fee will be $10 which includes the cost of books and materials. Pre-registration is required.

The seminar consists of information on disaster health services, effects of disaster on the physical and psychological health of an individual victim, family, and worker; effects of a disaster on the community, health care delivery systems, and ways to supplement existing health delivery systems, expected minimal competencies of disaster health practices, including crisis intervention, and application of disaster health service practice.

Attention will also be given to the specific topics of radiation and hazardous material disasters. For more information call the Red Cross office at 364-3761 or the Greater Amarillo Chapter at 376-6309.

HOT BILLS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When the temperature goes up so do cooling bills. But there are ways to hold those bills down and save a few dollars, according to Suzanne Mahler of Honeywell. One quick way, she says, is to allow the house to be just a bit warmer.

She also suggests:

- Turn down the hot water thermostat. A drop of 20 degrees in water temperature means hot water pipes won't contribute to heat in the house.
- Turn off lamps (they generate heat.) Use fluorescent lights (which don't generate heat) when possible.
- Cut down on using the clothes dryer. Dry clothes outdoors if possible.
- Keep windows closed during the hottest part of the day.
- Replace furnace or air conditioning filters monthly.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Making non-toxic home insect spray

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — You once printed a recipe for making a liquid to spray your vegetable and flower plants for keeping bugs away. Would you please print it again? One ingredient was garlic. — MARIE

DEAR MARIE — Now that we're in the middle of the garden pest season, I think many readers' gardens would benefit from treatment with this easy-to-make spray. It's helpful in keeping a number of pests off your plants and it's safe and non-toxic to humans and pets.

In a blender, food processor or food grinder, grind together four fresh hot chili peppers, four onions, and two bulbs (whole bulbs, not just two cloves) garlic. Place in a deep bowl or pot and add water to cover the ground vegetables by approximately one inch. Allow to stand for 24 hours. Strain through cheesecloth, saving the liquid. Add enough water to the strained liquid to make one gallon. Use this as a general-purpose insect spray over the entire garden. Since this spray only works while it is on the plants, it should be re-applied regularly, and certainly after watering or rain.

Use the ground vegetable mixture to enrich your compost pile. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — One day I needed a sprinkling can. All I had was a small, empty five-quart ice-cream pail. I took a screw driver and poked holes in the bottom of the bucket so water would spray out. Then I just dipped it in a five-gallon bucket of water and moved the small bucket

Ways with Wine

by David Hutchins

RIESLINGS

Most people think sweet when they think Riesling. However, Rieslings from Alsace are brisk, bone-dry wines that are often austere when they are quite young. Alsace Rieslings are fine, with fish, particularly when the fish is simply broiled. They are also good choices to accompany pates and quiche. German Rieslings make charming aperitifs before brunch because they are so light. Many contain as little as ten percent alcohol. California produces early-harvest Rieslings that have a spring-like freshness and crispness. They are fuller-bodied than their German counterparts and are best when quite young. California's late-harvest Rieslings are widely regarded as the best-made anywhere.

We'll be happy to guide you in the buying of wines for gifts or for your own use. You'll find a wonderful selection of wines at THE STORE. We're here for you at 400 N. 25 Mile. Call 364-7802. Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available.

German Rieslings of richer, sweeter levels are labeled "Kabinett," "Spätlese" or "Aulse."

IT'S A BIG WORLD

(Source: United Nations) NEA GRAPHIC

The world's population, which rose by about half a billion between 1800 and 1900, is now increasing by that much every five years. It recently hit an estimated total of 5 billion.

DR. GOTT Inoculations may be necessary

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — As prospective parents, we are trying to make an informed decision as to whether our child should undergo inoculations for diphtheria, polio, etc. We are concerned about links between the DPT vaccine and the high U.S. rate of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, hepatitis and AIDS, and an increase in polio among vaccinated Americans. How can we make an intelligent decision?

DEAR READER — One of the great breakthroughs of modern medicine has been childhood inoculations, because they have prevented much suffering and death. I am not aware of any consistent relation between Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, hepatitis, AIDS and DPT inoculations. Polio is now largely preventable by oral immunization.

I suggest that you follow the recommendations of your pediatrician. Although he or she may not wish to give your child all the infant shots, clearly your child should have some or most. The recommendation about which ones should be given can best be made by a doctor who is familiar with your family and any special health problems that your youngster may have.

Make an appointment with the pediatrician now, before your baby is born, to discuss this and other issues of child care. You will find it easier to have an in-depth consultation without a squirming baby sitting in your lap.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My legs feel stiff and sore most of the time, as if I'm walking on boards. The sciatic nerve is sore when I press it, and going up stairs or up a small grade tires me out. I've been told I have good circulation, and I've had all the tests for multiple sclerosis, since this has been going on for 17 years. Darvon and Valium help. Should I have more tests?

DEAR READER — Possibly. If your condition has remained stable for 17 years but you are still having symptoms, I am sure that your doctor would be willing to refer you to a neurology clinic in a university hospital. Darvon (a pain reliever) and Valium (a tranquilizer) may temporarily relieve the symptoms of many diseases. I believe you need a thorough medical analysis in a teaching hospital where the specialists are familiar with unusual disorders.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have what my doctor calls a sebaceous cyst on my nose. Is there anything to prevent these from forming?

DEAR READER — I do not know of any method that prevents the formation of sebaceous cysts, the oily collections that commonly occur in blocked pores. An occasional sebaceous cyst presents no health problem, but if you have multiple recurring cysts, I think you should obtain an opinion from a dermatologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a lumbar myelogram, and the diagnosis was a combination of "disc herniation and ligamentous hypertrophy, with poor filling of the S-2 root sleeve, right side." Could you explain what this means?

DEAR READER — I think this means that the doughnut-shaped structure (disc) that separates the second and third sacral spinal bones (low in your back) has herniated (shifted position) and may now be pressing on the second sacral nerve as it exits from the spinal cord.

The root sleeve is a short cuff that envelops each nerve that passes from the spine. If the disc protrudes and kinks a sleeve, the nerve covering will not fill with material that is injected during a myelogram. Hence, the doctor will conclude that the disc has slipped to one side and is causing pressure on a nerve; this may give you pain in one leg.

I am not sure how to interpret the comment on "ligamentous hypertrophy"; this would seem to indicate that one of the supporting spinal ligaments has swollen or grown.

In any case, it seems clear that you have a problem with a herniated disc. Surgery to remove or correct it may be your best option.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The AIDS virus has been found in saliva. What precautions do dentists take to sterilize their equipment between patients? I'm especially curious about the little suction hose that's used to remove excess saliva.

DEAR READER — Although the AIDS virus has been found in saliva, there are no documented cases of AIDS infection being spread by mouth contact. Most dentists sterilize their instruments by steam or chemical means. I suggest that you ask your dentist what method he or she uses.

SPS develops new program for area

Spurring economic growth from within this area is the goal of an extensive new program being developed by Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS).

Within the next two weeks, many industries throughout the SPS service area will be receiving a survey designed to provide a base of information about the needs and the services of these firms. Chambers of commerce and development foundations are involved in the program. Rural electric cooperatives who purchase wholesale power from SPS will be seeking participation from their customers.

"The idea is to help cross-match firms in this area with other firms in this area with whom they can do business or otherwise cooperate," said Gary Gibson, vice president of marketing at SPS. "We want to keep dollars and jobs from going outside this region when they don't have to. Working together we can help existing industry spark the internal growth that our area needs, especially now."

Nationally, 85 percent of new jobs are created by existing businesses that expand locally, Gibson said.

"The more firms that participate in this survey, the greater good it can do—for those firms and for their employees and communities," he said.

SPS provides electric service in a 52,000-square-mile area comprising the Panhandle and south plains of Texas, much of eastern New Mexico, the Oklahoma Panhandle, and southwest corner of Kansas.

Our region has a lot of firms—big and small—who may discover with the help of this survey that the markets or services they need are in their own backyards, or not far from it, Gibson said.

The survey asks for information about products, services, employment, transportation and other vital factors, Gibson said. The information about specific firms will be kept in strictest confidence, he said. Great care will be taken that potential competitors do not become aware of details that another firm does not want to be known.

"We're not trying to get into the details of everybody's business," Gibson said. "If we find an opportunity for growth or cooperation, we'll let both parties know that it exists and then step back, letting them carry forward as they wish."

This program is one of many in which SPS is involved that encourage economic growth. The company also works with local chambers of commerce and other organizations to attract outside industry to the region.

Accidents reported

Capt. Bob Russell, District Supervisor of the Amarillo Highway Patrol District comprising of 31 counties said, "For the month of July, our troopers investigated 8 fatal accidents, 92 personal injury accidents, and 106 property damage accidents. There were 9 persons killed and 188 persons injured in these accidents."

Sgt. Billy Don Scott of Hereford stated, "In Deaf Smith County, our troopers investigated 0 fatal accidents, 3 personal injury accidents, and 2 property damage accidents in the month of July. 0 persons were killed and 8 persons were injured in these accidents."

CHEEK TO CHEEK

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancing till dawn — or for at least 30 minutes — can help you get fit, according to Better Homes and Gardens Magazine.

It says Dr. Betty Rose Griffith and her associate, Phil Martin, put college couples through the paces for 30 minutes. After a five-minute cha-cha warm-up, the couples did four minutes each of the Viennese waltz, samba, polka and two sessions of the East Coast swing before cooling down with five minutes of cha-cha.

Students measured their pulse rates for 10 seconds between dances; 44 percent of them maintained their heart rate in the exercise benefit zone — defined as 60 to 80 percent of their maximum heart rate.

Old letters, pictures helped actress prepare for role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eva Marie Saint says that letters and pictures provided by an old warrior's daughter helped her enormously in preparing for her role as Beatrice Patton in "The Last Days of Patton." Miss Saint plays the wife of Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who flew to his side in Germany when he was injured in an automobile accident. Patton was injured the day before he was to return to the United States, and died in December 1945. "The Last Days of Patton" will be shown Sunday, Sept. 14 on CBS. Ruth Ellen Patton Totten, the general's daughter, "sent me many, many photos of her mother when her mother was younger," Miss Saint said. "She sent me pictures of the scene in Boston when Patton briefly returned home. I was able to see the things she wore. Those photos were priceless. It's wonderful when people are so giving in that way. She didn't know me but she helped me so much." The movie, which tells of the last 40 days of Patton's life, wraps up the story told in the theatrical movie "Patton" in 1970. George C. Scott, who won an Oscar for his portrayal, reprises his role as Patton. The general's wife did not appear in the first movie. Miss Saint, who stars with Jackie Gleason and Tom Hanks in the current hit movie "Nothing in Common," has started work on a six-hour NBC miniseries called "A Year in the Life."

The series follows the lives and relationships of members of a suburban middle-class family from one Christmas to the next. Richard Kiley also stars as her husband and Thomas Carter, who was on "The White Shadow," is directing. Miss Saint first gained fame in the 1954 movie "On the Waterfront," which brought her an Academy Award as best supporting actress. She was on the cover of Life magazine. Miss Saint has also starred in such films as "Raintree County," "Exodus," "Hatful of Rain" and "North By Northwest." Her leading men have included Marlon Brando, Henry Fonda, Jason Robards, Montgomery Clift, Gregory Peck, Paul Newman, Cary Grant, James Garner, Warren Beatty, Richard Burton and Yves Montand.

Monks pursue goals in midst of glitz

IRVING, Texas (AP) — They live across the highway from glitzy Texas Stadium, in a nondescript brick building that seems out of place, out of touch and out of time.

Inside the abbey, which lies hidden behind scrubby mesquite trees along State Highway 114 in Irving, a cadre of monks contemplate the spiritual in the midst of the earthly. The post-modern towers of Las Colinas are nudging in from the west and the incessant noise of highway traffic intrudes from the south.

It is an unlikely place to find 27 Cistercian monks, all of whom have taken the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. In a society fueled by narcissistic excess, the men of Our Lady of Dallas Cistercian Abbey have chosen personal restraint and denial.

They own nothing, not the robes they wear nor the pens they write with. Everything is provided for them. Cistercians live a regulated, restrictive life, but they are permitted to leave the abbey one night a week. To that extent, they differ from Trappist monks, who are also Cistercians, but are strictly cloistered.

Some of the monks use their weekly outing to attend Texas Rangers baseball or Dallas Cowboys football games.

"This house lives a much more on-the-go life than other (monastic communities)," said Father Timothy Coble, 27, the youngest of the monks. "We go to the movies, theater, the symphony. We participate in the cultural life of the city."

Father Timothy said that while the official rule allows the monks one night out each week, once a month is fine by him.

"If I went to a film once a month that would be enough," he said.

Father Timothy, a Fort Worth native, attended high school in Mansfield, where his mother operates a tanning salon. He was majoring in wildlife management at Texas A&M University when he became interested in becoming a monk.

When he was a sophomore at A&M one of his friends, who was deeply religious, died. Father Timothy said the friend's death affected him profoundly, and when he visited the abbey during spring break, he decided he wanted to be a monk.

He, as do all those who want to become monks, spent one year living in the monastery. Any time during this year they are free to leave or they may be asked to leave. Following a successful trial period, the monks begin another three-year stay in the monastery, which is usually spent finishing their college work. After that, they begin another three-year tenure, during which most monks will take the final vows.

He took his solemn vows, the final step in becoming a monk, last September. Father Ans Elm Nagy, the abbot, said Father Timothy is only the fifth person to join the Dallas monastery since it was established in 1967.

"We would like to have more," he said.

Father Nagy, 71, came to the United States from Hungary in 1946, because the government was trying to suppress religious orders. He first lived in an abbey near Milwaukee, but in 1955 he and a group of other Hungarian monks moved to Dallas to help start the University of Dallas.

Work started on the monastery in 1957, and five years later, the Cistercian Preparatory School opened. The preparatory school, with a current enrollment of about 300 students, is one of the most academically rigorous schools in Dallas. Many of its graduates earn college credits before they graduate.

"We are a teaching community," Father Nagy said of the Cistercians. "We have monks teaching at the University of Dallas and in the prep school."

Father Timothy, who holds a bachelor's degree in biology and a master's degree in theology from the University of Dallas, will teach science at Cistercian in the fall, he said. He also is a Latin scholar and is learning Greek. All of the monks are encouraged to get their master's degrees so they can teach at the college level.

The daily routines of the monks are similar. Father Timothy arises each morning at about 5 a.m., dresses in his black and white habit and spends a few moments in prayer and reading. At 6:30 a.m. all the monks congregate in the chapel for prayer.

Following this, they gather in the dining room for breakfast. Because of their busy schedules, they hire someone to cook their meals.

Most of the monks leave the monastery by 8 a.m. for their classes at the university or the preparatory school. The monastery has a fleet of 13 cars and vans, which the monks "check out."

"For years we had all American cars," Father Timothy said. "We were really Chevy buyers, but we had a lot of problems with them so we switched to Toyotas."

The switch created a heated debate among the monks, many whom are immigrants and are proud of their American citizenship, he said.

The monks break at noon for lunch and follow that with mid-day prayer. After classes are over at 3:30 p.m., Father Timothy said he usually goes jogging or runs personal errands, such as to get a haircut.

They gather again in the chapel at 5:45 p.m. for prayer, and go immediately from there to eat dinner. The last formal prayer gathering of the day is at 6:40. Nights are spent reading alone in their rooms, watching television — The Cosby Show is their favorite — or taking in a movie, play or symphony.

Father Timothy said he avoids sexually explicit movies, but it is not unheard of for a monk to go to an R-rated movie. Father Timothy, for example, said he saw Sophie's Choice.

The monks sometimes quibble among themselves over what movies are acceptable, he said.

"The movies are tough ones to understand," Father Timothy said. "I think I'm the only one with a chip on my shoulder about that. But there are a million things you can bicker over."

Father Bernard Marton, headmaster of the prep school and a monk, said in today's society it is no longer possible to wall in a monastery to keep out the world.

"The monk lives in the world but not of the world. We don't flee the world," Father Bernard said. "You cannot run from evil and temptation. The hardest thing for all of us is being under a superior. The vow of obedience is the hardest thing. You may be convinced something is wrong, but you have to do it."

Theirs is a spiritual marriage to the Catholic church and the Christian faith that few outside the faith can understand, said Father Timothy.

Their heads are not shaved, and while robes are worn within the monastery, most wear the Roman collar outside. All of them are Catholic priests as well as monks.

Father Timothy said he is proud of his calling, and when in public, he wants people to know who he is — a monk and a priest.

"It (the monastic calling) is a very special and beautiful gift and it would be denying myself if I kept that a secret," he said. "Part of the real joy is to have it known."

Breeders awaiting betting

BRENNHAM, Texas (AP) — Horse breeders in Texas are eagerly awaiting the legalizing of parimutuel betting in the state, a move they say could earn them millions of dollars.

"The part that the state will get from racing is negligible," said Dick O'Malley, who raises horses in this German community 70 miles west of Houston. "The important part is the money spent on stud fees, construction, salaries and income for agribusinessmen."

Horse breeding is already a thriving concern in Brenham, along with North Texas and the Hill Country, where breeders have taken advantage of good weather and favorable terrain to locate in numbers.

The three prime breeding regions will share as much as $712 million in income from horse farms and related businesses if parimutuel wagering is established, said Andy Welch, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The Texas Senate on Monday gave final legislative approval to a bill that could legalize parimutuel gambling on horse and dog racing. The bill now goes to Gov. Mark White.

Citing a report on horse racing,

Welch said the off-track effects of racing would be staggering.

More than 9,000 jobs would be created in industries as varied as ranching, transportation, building horse trailers, horse shoeing and supplying riding equipment, he said.

The three breeding regions already have a natural advantage from approval of a parimutuel bill because the industry and support facilities are already in place, said Bill Thane, Washington County extension agent.

"As tight as dollars are nowadays, it's unlikely someone would start up from scratch just to be near a track," Thane said.

Legalized betting will draw more investors into the horse breeding business and more tourism to the areas where tracks are located, breeders say.

"This area is destined to be the Lexington of Texas," said O'Malley.

MUSEUM AWARDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Institute of Museum Services has announced 260 Conservation Project awards totaling $3,243,401.

The grants allow museums to conduct such projects as surveys of environmental and collection conditions, the conservation of specific objects in their collections, training and research in conservation, and species survival activities.

Lois Burke Shepard, director of the institute, said the awards "reflect concern for the fundamental issues of sound conservation planning, such as surveys of collections and of the environmental conditions in which the collections are maintained."

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING The Board of Directors of the Deaf Smith County Industrial Development Corporation will hold a public hearing on behalf of the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court at 9:00 a.m. on September 22, 1986, at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, 701 North Main, Hereford, Texas, on the proposed issuance by the Deaf Smith County Industrial Development Corporation (the "Issuer") of its industrial development revenue bonds (the "Bonds") in an amount not to exceed $8,200,000 to refinance the Issuer's $8,200,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds, Series 1982 (Swift Independent Packing Company Project) which were issued to finance the cost of the acquisition of approximately 403.46 acres of land and the acquisition of one concrete building, a hide house and three metal storage buildings containing approximately 132,900 square feet located thereon to be used as a beef packing plant designed for the slaughtering of cattle and boxing of meat, together with equipment and other facilities which are functionally related and subordinate to the foregoing (the "Project"), to be owned and operated by Swift Independent Packing Company. The Project is located on Highway 60, three miles west of the City of Hereford, on a tract of land out of Section 151, Block M-7, Certificate No. 1253 issued to Beaty, Seale & Forwood, and lying south of the P. & S.F. Railway ROW in Deaf Smith County, Texas. All interested persons are invited to attend and express any comments they have regarding the proposed issuance of the Bonds and the Project to be financed thereby. 45-1c

Has value of your home changed?

The value of your home may have changed because of a recent announcement by Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) and Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC), which will require real estate appraisers to use a new definition of market value for their appraisals.

necessarily be at the highest point in that range. In the past the real estate appraiser would estimate the highest price the property would bring, but under the new rules the appraiser may select any value within its range. The effect will be a lower estimate of value than under the previous rules.

"A majority of home loans are sold to FNMA and FHLMC, so this requirement will affect the entire real estate industry," stated Marvin T. Deane, President of the National Association of Master Appraisers.

Also changed is the requirement that appraisers must adjust the value of properties used in the appraisal process to reflect any creative financing, sales concessions, seller contributions or buydowns. During the past few years many homes were purchased under so-called "creative financing" which inflated the sales price. Homeowners now seeking to sell or refinance their homes, may find the current appraised value to be substantially less than the purchase price.

More visitors reported

A significant change was made in the definition of market value, by changing the old phrase from the "highest price which a property will bring..." to the "most probable price which a property will bring..." according to Deane.

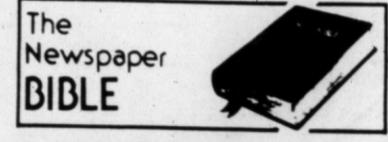

Deane said that the National Association of master Appraisers and many other professional appraisal associations are presenting AUSTIN - Visitors are flocking to Texas in record number, according to Texas highway department officials here. During the first six months of 1986 some 1.9 million visitors stopped for travel information at the department's 12 tourist bureaus and visitor centers scattered around the state.

The change recognizes that the market value of a residence falls within a range of prices and the appraiser's estimate should not

"This represents a significant increase of 17.6 percent in the number of visitors over the same period last year," reported Willis Albarado, the department's tourist bureau chief.

DON'T KILL YOURSELF: THERE'S A WAY OUT!

Trembling with fear, the jailer called for lights and ran to the dungeon and fell down before Paul and Silas. He brought them out and begged them, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

They replied, "Believe on the Lord Jesus and you will be saved, and your entire household." Then they told him and all his household the Good News from the Lord.

That same hour he washed their stripes and he and all his family were baptized. Then he brought them up into his house and set a meal before them. He and his household rejoiced because all were now believers!

The next morning the judges sent police officers over to tell the jailer, "Let those men go!" So the jailer told Paul they were free to leave.

But Paul replied, "Oh no they don't! They have publicly beaten us without trial and jailed us -- and we are Roman citizens! So now they want us to leave secretly? Never! Let them come themselves and release us!"

The police officers reported to the judges, who feared for their lives when they heard Paul and Silas were Roman citizens. So they came to the jail and begged them to go, and brought them out and pled with them to leave the city. Paul and Silas then returned to the home of Lydia where they met with the believers and preached to them once more before leaving town. Acts 16:29-40

"As a matter of fact, our bureaus served more visitors in the first six months of 1986 than in all of 1975--which shows how much the travel industry has grown during the past decade."

Officials believe part of the influx may result from many Sesquicentennial activities throughout the state, coupled with a reduction in overseas travel.

"Tourism has long been a major contributor to Texas' economy," Albarado noted. "In these days with Texas reeling from the oil-industry plight, more tourist dollars are especially welcome!"

"On each average working day from January through June, our tourist bureaus served 10,327 visitors," he added. "That's a flow of slightly more than 1,147 visitors per hour."

Texas tourist bureaus operate along major routes into Texas at Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Gainesville, Denison, Texarkana, Waskom, Orange, Laredo and Anthony (El Paso). In addition to those gateway sites, travel information in Austin, the Judge Roy Bean Visitor Center at Langtry.
