

Story Charges Yarbrough Murder Plot Recorded

HOUSTON (AP)—Dist. Atty. Carol Vance of Harris County, saying he has heard tape recordings in which Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough allegedly plotted the murder of a former business associate, has called for Yarbrough's removal from the bench.

"I feel the people of the state of Texas should know what type of person sits on the State Supreme Court bench," Vance said at a news conference Wednesday. "I think action should be taken by the proper authorities to remove him from the bench at the earliest possible time."

The Houston Post, in copyrighted stories last Saturday and Sunday quoted John William Rothkopf, 58, as saying Yarbrough plotted to have Victoria banker Bill Kemp, a former business associate, killed to keep him from testifying before the grand jury. The Post also quoted Rothkopf as saying Yarbrough participated in a forgery of an automobile title.

Vance confirmed that Rothkopf had a special body microphone taped to him during six meetings with Yarbrough from May 12 until June 10.

Yarbrough was not available for comment on Vance's statement but earlier had labeled the accusations "a complete and utter fantasy."

Meanwhile, the Houston Post released excerpts from the alleged tapes in a copyrighted story today.

The Post quoted Yarbrough as telling Rothkopf in the tapes that he intended to declare "open warfare on those son-of-a-bitches" who are trying to get him disbarred or indicted.

"I want Kemp wiped away and Doug Ford wiped away and after that I don't give a cpletive," the Post quoted Yarbrough as saying in the tapes.

The Post said that conversation concerning Kemp and Ford, a former business associate, took place May 13.

"Here we are on Friday the 13th soliciting capital murder," the Post said Yarbrough told Rothkopf, a former business associate, during a meeting in the parking lot of a department store.

The Post quoted Rothkopf as saying Yarbrough was willing to pay a Mexican national $2,500 to kill Kemp and take his body across the Mexican border so it would never be found but Yarbrough later backed out because he could not raise the money.

Vance said his office did not have enough evidence to get conspiracy to commit murder charges against Yarbrough.

"I don't believe we have sufficient evidence to justify solicitation of capital murder charges in that no money was paid or overt act occurred," Vance said.

"I feel the public has a right to know that Justice Yarbrough did along with Bill Rothkopf, try to get Bill Rothkopf, or discuss on a serious basis, this attempt to have Kemp killed," Vance said. "These conversations did exist. It is a fact. I heard the tapes. I feel this man should be removed from office. I feel that way as a lawyer and a district attorney in possession of this evidence."

Vance declined to comment on a Travis County Austin grand jury investigating the alleged auto title forgery. Yarbrough and Rothkopf both have appeared before that panel.

Vance said his investigation began May 2 after a special crimes bureau investigator, Kenneth K. Rodgers, found Rothkopf and arrested him on pending theft charges.

The district attorney said the charges, since dropped, stemmed from a 1975 gold coin deal involving Yarbrough.

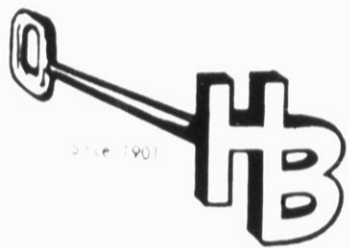

Vance said copies of the tapes, which consist of about three and a half hours of conversations, have been turned over to the State Bar of Texas, which seeks Yarbrough's disbarment in an 84-count civil suit.

The Post quoted Rothkopf as saying he cooperated with the district attorney's office because he felt Yarbrough would continue to put blame on him for numerous alleged misdeeds.

"I thought I could live my life without hurting anybody," the newspaper quoted Yarbrough as saying in the tapes but told Rothkopf that Kemp "deserves to die."

The Post said the tapes show Yarbrough sought vengeance against others besides Kemp, who offered a Harris County grand jury testimony in connection with an allegedly forged $200,000 letter of credit on Commercial Bank of Victoria, which Yarbrough once controlled.

Nuclear Dump Site To Be Researched

By KEITH RIBNICK
Brand Staff Writer

AMARILLO—The construction of a nuclear waste dump site in parts of Deaf Smith county and the Texas Panhandle depends solely on geological research teams finding conducive conditions in the region, said the director of the waste disposal office of the Energy Research and Development Agency at a public hearing Wednesday night in Amarillo.

Up to three fourths of Deaf Smith County contains the deeply imbedded salt layers which the federal government is testing for usage as radioactive waste disposal sites.

AN OVERFLOW crowd gathered in the Amarillo City Commission chambers Wednesday night to hear both sides of the Panhandle nuclear waste disposal question, prepared by the University of Texas' Bureau of Economic Geology. The UT Bureau currently is doing extensive research in the Palo Duro Basin area (near the canyon) to see if the waste disposal site is feasible. Most of Deaf Smith County is located in the Palo Duro geological basin.

State Representative Bob Simpson of Amarillo began the hearing stating the nuclear waste dump plans are only in the research stages and no immediate action will be taken in the Panhandle.

A representative of Governor Dolph Briscoe's office issued a statement concerning the attitudes of the Panhandle residents and why a state official was in attendance at the meeting. The governor's office apparently "wants to feel out the attitude" of the area residents.

John Schreiber, director of the ERDA Waste Disposal Office in Oakridge, Tenn. then explained that isolating nuclear waste "forever" was the objective of his office and of the research in the Palo Duro Basin areas. He said the ERDA will cast the vote in deciding the location of one or more of the $400 million waste facilities in the Texas Panhandle (based on research) or "at any of the other numerous possible site" in the country.

"The federal agency has to make the decision. This informational meeting is the first step to advise area residents of our purpose here," Schreiber said, emphasizing the open-door policy of the project.

Hail Trashed Crops

Beet and corn crops west of the Farmer's Corner community caught the worst of a violent afternoon storm Tuesday as clouds passed over the area, then backed up and unloaded hail and high winds. This beet field, which was photographed approximately six miles west of Farmer's Corner shows the damage which was inflicted on crops in the vicinity of the storm. Beet plants were severely battered and leaves were washed away in a 2.80 inch torrent of rain which accompanied the hail. Thriving corn plants were also stripped of many of their leaves. Bob Ginn, agricultural manager at the Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant reported that there is a good chance of recovery for the damaged beets. "If there had to be hail, one this time of year on the beet crop isn't as bad because the plants have a chance to grow new tops and make a reasonable yield," said Ginn. Corn is also one of the more hail-tolerant crops, and damaged fields should recover, although yields may not be as high, and some of the corn may have to be harvested for silage. Carter Halts Production Of B1 Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter declared today that "we should not continue with production" of the B1 bomber, but that testing and research will go on.

At a nationally broadcast news conference, Carter said he also has decided that the United States should begin deployment of the cruise missile, which he described as a key alternative to the costly, controversial bomber.

The President said the weapons program would go ahead while he assesses progress in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviet Union. The cruise missile has been a point of major controversy in these talks.

Carter had opposed the B1 during his campaign for the White House, but had indicated he was reconsidering the new bomber. He said his verdict against it was supported by Secretary of Defense Harold Brown.

Just over a year ago, Carter declared that the B1 would be a waste of taxpayers' money. Since then, particularly in the last several days, there have been growing indications that the President was having second thoughts about his opposition.

The Air Force says $101.7 million is the minimum price tag for each of the 244 B1s it wants. Congress' General Accounting Office said recently the figure could go as high as $117 million.

That would put the total price tag at $29 billion, $5.2 billion above the Pentagon estimate.

Even at the lower figure, the B1 would be most expensive combat plane ever in the U.S. arsenal.

The craft, about two-thirds the size of the 20-year-old B52 that it would replace, is a fly-by-night, swing-wing plane designed to fly between continents at supersonic speeds and at higher altitudes than that which the B52 is capable of flying.

The B1 could then drop to tree-top levels, penetrating air defense radar at speeds just below the sound barrier.

Three B1 test models are operating and a fourth is in production.

In addition to his 1976 campaign declaration against the B1, Carter said last Feb. 23, in his second presidential news conference, he had "serious questions about whether or not the B1 ought to be in the future the center of our airborne defense capability."

The President said one factor in his decision would be the state of U.S.-Soviet relations.

One White House official acknowledged Wednesday that the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty talks, which have produced no visible success, had been an important factor in Carter's decision.

House Decides To Keep Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of the House of Representatives aren't going to give back that $12,900 pay raise they got in February.

The House easily rejected an amendment Wednesday that would have cut the money to cover the pay raises for fiscal 1978 from a $928.8 million legislative appropriation bill.

The amendment would not only have deleted funds for the congressional pay increases, but would have cut out raises for more than 20,000 upper-level federal employees.

Chamber Singers Destined For Romania For Summer Tour

BY KERRIE STEIERT
Woman's Editor

[Editor's Note—Prior to their Romanian tour, Hereford Chamber Singers will be giving a free concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium. The performance, designated as Hereford Appreciation Night, will include the selections which the group will vocalize in Romania.]

Although it is behind the Iron Curtain, Romania is celebrating its 100th year of independence this year and participating in the Centennial observance will be the Hereford Chamber Singers.

Founded and directed by Bill Devers, the 41-member choir is sanctioned by the Friendship Ambassadors (FA), a cultural exchange program. Throughout the summer months of June, July and August, FA groups will present a wide repertoire of American song and dance to the celebrating Romanians.

Romania's President Nicolae Ceausescu has invited the Friendship Ambassadors to again send their musical emissaries to his country, particularly during the Centennial year. The FA program took the first American groups to Romania in 1972. At that time, Romanians' sum knowledge of the United States was gleaned from three television programs shown there: "The Flintstones," "Columbo" and "The Untouchables."

Since that time in 1972 when the Romanian villagers warmly welcomed the Friendship Ambassador groups into their homes, more than 7,000 American musicians have performed there. President Ceausescu has urged Friendship Ambassadors to expand these and other reciprocal exchanges between the two countries.

The emphasis of the cultural exchange, which also brings Romanian performers to this country, is placed on quality and diversity of both the educational experience and the performing opportunities for the chosen ensemble.

Nicolae M. Nicolae, Romania's ambassador to the United States, wrote a letter of congratulations to Bill Devers. In his letter, Nicolae promised "fullest cooperation from the embassy, Romanian officials, and my personal involvement in this magnificent program of international friendship."

Hereford's Chamber Singers have signed a contract with Friendship Ambassadors, who accepted the local choir after hearing a special audition.

According to Devers, his group "is dedicated to enhancing the cultural climate and fostering good human relations through music." Membership in the Chamber Singers is by (See SINGERS, Page 2)

Birth-Control Device Scheduled For 1979

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) - A birth control device that will allow women to use the rhythm method as successfully as the pill and suffer no side effects may be on the market in two years, researchers say.

The device, called an ovutimer, can also be used to tell women who want to conceive when they are most fertile, the developers say.

"There are no side effects," said Dr. Louid Kopito, a research scientist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "It's like putting in a thermometer and taking it out again."

The rhythm method is a birth control technique in which women avoid intercourse during ovulation. However, since the time of ovulation often varies, the method fails about 30 per cent of the time.

The ovutimer is a seven-inch-long plastic device. The researchers says it makes the rhythm method accurate, because it tells women when sperm can get past their natural defenses and make them pregnant.

"Our first market will be women who are trying to get pregnant," said Kopito. "There are six million in the United States who want to have babies but cannot, and they are very highly motivated."

"Another group is those who cannot take the pill but want to limit family size."

Kopito and two physicians have been working on the device for 11 years. They plan to ask the Food and Drug Administration for approval this fall to begin testing the reliability of the method on women who are members of family planning organizations.

If these tests are successful, he said, the device should be on the market in the United States in early 1979. Another version will be available to gynecologists in Europe by the end of this year.

The device measures the stickiness of cervical mucus. Scientists have discovered that during ovulation, the mucus becomes thin and watery so that the sperm can pass through it easily.

Kopito cautioned that no birth control device is absolutely accurate. "We want to be somewhere within the range of the pill about 93 per cent effective," he said.

He said the method would cost about the same as birth control pills. The plastic sampling device will sell for about $10, and a set of two disposable testing plates will cost 25 cents.

Kopito said the device should be acceptable to the Roman Catholic Church, which opposes birth control methods that chemically or physically block conception.

Mother, Boyfriend Jailed After 5-Year-Old Boy Dies

HOUSTON (AP)-A 22-year-old mother and her boyfriend remained jailed on $500,000 bond each Wednesday, charged with murder in the death of the woman's five-year-old son, who was punished because he had trouble learning his numbers, officials said.

Verda Faye Butler and Robert John Ferrante, 25, both of the same Houston address, were charged with murder late Tuesday after Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk ruled the child's death was homicide.

The child, Heath Butler, was reported missing by Miss Butler June 11. She led Houston officers to a ditch in northwest Houston last Saturday where the body had been hidden.

Jachimczyk said he believes the child died of suffocation or heat stroke after being bound in heavy blankets in a hot room. The medical examiner said he based his ruling mostly on statements given to police by Miss Butler and Ferrante.

Jachimczyk said an autopsy on the body was made difficult because only about 10 pounds of bone and flesh remained from the child's decomposed body.

Police said Miss Butler told them in a statement, her son was wrapped in blankets and placed overnight in a non-air conditioned room on June 10. She said the child was found dead the next morning.

The woman also told police in a statement the boy also was made to go without meals and sometimes confined to his room for up to 12 hours to study his numbers.

Juvenile officers Carol McKi-ney and Ed Greenstein, said the child was left alone June 6 and 7 at a former residence. Miss Butler said in her statement to police the child was made to stay alone at the former residence as punishment for crying and complaining about moving.

OPEC Members Maintain Status

VIENNA, Austria (AP)-The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announced Wednesday that nine of its 13 members agreed to abandon plans for a 5 per cent oil price hike July 1 in an effort to end a rift within the powerful oil cartel.

Of the other four members, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates had rejected the increase all along while Libya and Iraq apparently were holding out for the boost.

The decision to abandon the July 1 increase has been rumored for weeks. American oil industry experts have said such a move would mean only a slight savings at U.S. gas pumps. An increase of a dollar in the price of a barrel of crude translates into about 2½ cents at American pumps.

The cartel split last December when 11 members decided on a 15 per cent price hike for 1977 in two stages, 10 per cent on Jan. 1 and 5 per cent more July 1. But Saudi Arabia and the UAR, which together account for one-third of all OPEC exports, opted instead for a one-shot 5 per cent boost.

The division created what became known as a "two-tiered" pricing system, with the majority of members charging $12.70 a barrel.

A brief statement from Secretary-General Ali M. Jaidah said the decision to forgo the July 1 increase was taken "in the interest of unity and solidarity of OPEC."

"The following countries of the organization-Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Kuwait, Nigeria, Qatar and Venezuela-have resolved to forgo the application of the additional 5 per cent increase in the price of oil as of July 1, 1977," the statement said.

Oil sources said that the nine members agreed to forgo the July increase after receiving a written promise from Saudi Arabia, the world's largest exporter, and the UAR to bring their prices in line with the other exporters.

Such a compromise was advocated by Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez during a recent recent Mideast tour. The announcement of the decision to abandon the July 1 hike came as Perez began an official visit to the United States, a major importer of Venezuelan oil.

Even if the Saudis and UAR do raise their prices, the decision by the other OPEC members not to raise their prices again could mean a savings of about $1.1 billion for oil importers. But this figure could be reduced if Iraq and Libya do go ahead with a price increase.

The United States imports about 40 per cent of its oil, and about 20 per cent of the imports are from Saudi Arabia and the UAR.

Hamid Zaheri, the OPEC information department chief, declined to say why Iraq and Libya failed to go along with the majority or what the two radical Arab states planned to do.

But knowledgeable sources said Iraq had notified its customers recently that it will not enforce the July hike.

OPEC's members hold about 81 per cent of the non-Communist world's oil reserves. The cartel has successively raised prices since the Arab oil boycott during the 1973 Mideast war. Before the war, oil cost $3 a barrel.

Presidential Perks Exceed $200 Million

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — According to law, compensation for the president of the United States is $200,000 per annum. He doesn't get it all, however. As is any American, the chief executive is subject to the will of the Internal Revenue Service, and allowing for income taxation Jimmy Carter receives only about $90,000 a year.

But do not weep for the leader. He has other, greater rewards. The U.S. Congress recognizes that the presidency is the most awesome office in the world, and pays its occupants accordingly. Not since Caesar's Rome, perhaps, has any nation bestowed so much in the way of perquisites as has America on its modern presidents. To begin with, there is the White House, a 142-room monument fixed on 18.3 acres in the heart of some of the most priceless real estate in the world. Conventional wisdom has it that the grounds are worth $90 million or more, and the house, with its impeccable decor and history, is valued at not less than $60 million.

Carter is getting $2,178,000 to manage the residence this year. The money goes for everything from light bulbs to state dinners. And whatever is not covered in the budget is quietly picked up by helpful government agencies; the National Oceanic Survey, for instance, bears the cost of seeing to it the mansion isn't sinking.

The president is attended in the White House by 78 full-time employees. He has five maids, one laundress, one seamstress, one linen supervisor, two cooks, three chefs, one pantry assistant, six heavy duty housepersons, and others. As director of the help, Carter has Rex Scouten, an ex-cop who has been chief White House usher since the 1940s.

Two cooks and three chefs? An assistant in Scouten's office says he "can't really explain the difference in their duties." He says they are vital to the kitchen, however, which is an industrious, 24-hour enterprise, capable of turning out anything from grits to goulash whenever the executive or his family has a Big Mac attack.

In addition to the servants, there is also the service personnel. The president has electricians, carpenters, plumbers and painters on his payroll. Besides this there are two dozen workmen from the National Park Service who carefully hide the security alarms on the White House grounds with azalea, rhododendron and hibiscus greenery.

The White House has a library supplied by American publishing companies. It has a projection room that features first run films. At parties in the eventide an Army, Navy or Air Force band provides orchestral background. For relaxation, the executive has a tennis court, swimming pool, sauna, masseur and putting green.

Aside from the White House, there is Camp David (Franklin Roosevelt called it Shangri-La). It is secured in the mountains of Maryland by Marine guards, and staffed by 150 other employees. Real estate observers say it is a million dollar retreat: the salaries and keep of the employees is estimated to cost another quarter million.

To get from the White House to Camp David, or from anywhere to anywhere, President Carter has 17 planes at his disposal. Herb Upton, who looks after such things, says his employer has two 707 jet passenger planes, one Jet Star executive craft, a jet cargo ship to haul his armored car, and 13 helicopters manufactured by Sikorsky.

As for that armored car, the president has two of them. They are available to him anywhere in the world. Besides these limousines, the presidential motor pool contains 31 ordinary automobiles. Upton says the size of this motor fleet has been reduced by 21 since Carter assumed office; this saves the public yearly leasing fees of $12,000.

Though bold, the vehicular cutback has not significantly reduced the cost of transporting the president. Estimates are that his air fleet is worth $50 million, and the cost of maintaining the planes and cars exceeds $1 million annually. And too, there is fuel use: some of the helicopters cost nearly $500 per hour to operate.

Finally, the president has his personal bureaucracy. He directly controls nearly 600 people, with functioning expenses of $17 million. And he has more than 1000 additional military personnel on his staff, at a cost that is known only to the Defense Department. For incidentals, President Carter receives $1 million for "Unanticipated Needs."

How much is all this worth? Estimates are that the cost of the president's hardware, including residences, is on the high side of $200 million. His official operating budget is almost $22 million. A broad guess as to related perquisites, including costs borne by other agencies, brings the total to something more than $230 million.

And, oh, this doesn't include the president's expense account. Kick-around cash for Jimmy Carter is established at $50,000 a year; it's just one more thing that makes the burden of the presidency a bit lighter.

Brownwood Has Freedom Week

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — It began when a group of folks in this West Central Texas town decided to get back to "basic beliefs" and ended up with a real red, white and blue flag waver.

"I started studying these rock festivals," said funeral home owner Groner Pitts. "I may not agree with what goes on there but, by golly, they are well organized. I said, by golly, we ought to do something like that."

Pitts' idea took hold and before long a 400-member committee launched Brownwood's first annual Freedom Week — complete with Anita Bryant, flags and a little thing called the brocade crown chrysanthemum.

"We figured it was time that a little town in Texas went back to the basic beliefs," said Pitts. "It may sound corny, by golly, but I'm going to be honest. This week is for motherhood, brotherhood and apple pie." Pitts said. "This is the greatest country in the world. I don't know anyone trying to get out but I know there's a lot of people trying to get in."

To kick things off, Brownwood's Little Leaguers distributed American flags to residents the past week. The festivities will continue through Sunday night and wind up with Miss Bryant's appearance.

Work has also started on a 10-foot hole — make that bomb crater — for the brocade brown chrysanthemum.

OLD HOME WEEK
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams will be facing NFL teams coached by ex-Ram players or coaches in seven of their 14 games in the 1977 season.

Ken Meyer and Leeman Bennett, both Ram assistants last year, are head coaches now, Bennett at Atlanta and Meyer at San Francisco. Both teams will play the Rams twice.

Washington, handled by George Allen, a former Ram head coach; Chicago, tutored by Jack Pardee, an ex-Ram linebacker; and Philadelphia, piloted by Dick Vermeil, who at one time was a Los Angeles assistant are other Ram opponents.

Bob Nigh Nut Collecting

Hereford High School head football coach and Athletic Director Fred Upshaw has been busier than a squirrel in October gathering up nuts for the winter lately. Faced with restoring a coaching staff that seemingly dwindled day by day a few months ago, Upshaw has been very busy filling positions for the school system.

Three head spots at the high school opened up with resignations of basketball coach Barry Arnwine, track coach Robert Priest, and tennis coach Steve Thomas. In addition assistant football and track coach Bobby Anderson and junior high coaches Mike Crawford, Ken Cole, and Harley Lewis made decisions to leave the fold.

To make matters even worse head trainer Larry Walls quit to join the local Sheriff's Department, leaving Upshaw without his right hand man.

The matter of a trainer for HHS remains in question with Upshaw still conducting interviews for the job, but the coaching situation has been resolved somewhat of late. Some jobs have been exchanged within the system and some new faces have been added.

The latest loss by Upshaw was of first assistant football coach Jerry Richburg, who will be recommended for the assistant principal's position at La Plata Junior High by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harrell Holder at the school board's next regular meeting.

Carroll Tucker will take Richburg's place as first football assistant and offensive co-ordinator. Rick Stewart will be the defensive co-ordinator, with Aaron Bourland a varsity assistant and sophomore basketball coach, and Danny Haney a varsity assistant and assistant track coach.

Tucker has also been chosen to take Priest's job of head track coach. In addition, former assistant basketball coach David Ashby will take Stewart's place as varsity baseball coach next season and will also be a sophomore and assistant varsity football coach. Stewart will handle the off-season football program instead of baseball next spring.

In addition to those already within the high school coaching system, Stacy Bixler, head of the La Plata boys' program last year, will move up to the varsity as an assistant and will also coach the sophomores along with Ashby, and Kenny Barnes, an assistant coach at Hart last year, will join the staff as junior varsity football coach and assistant track coach.

Girls' coach Roy Shipp will also get a little more help next year with Martha Emerson from La Plata helping out with the track team and Barnes' wife Gail a student teacher at La Plata last spring, helping with the girls basketball team.

Both Emerson and Barnes will teach at La Plata as well as working with that school's girls' athletic programs.

Replacing Thomas at the tennis coach position next year will be Sheila Watley, who was at Slaton last season and moved to Hereford when her husband was transferred here in his job.

Golf coach Terry Russell will again be on the high school staff next year, but a new junior high coach will be on hand next season. Don Clements will replace departing junior high coach James Self in that position.

The final additions or changes at the high school include the firing of Bobby Decker of Burleson as the new head basketball coach, and the moving of La Plata assistant Mickey Miller up to be Decker's assistant and junior varsity coach.

Changes at La Plata will see Joe Spann taking Bixler's place in charge of the boys' program. Spann, from Dumas, has 22 years of experience. He will be assisted by Eddy Helms and Asher Isaac, a Dalhart native who has been coaching in New Mexico. One assistant's spot still remains to be filled on the Magrick staff.

Stanton will have basically the same staff as last year with Cuby Kitchens, Jeff Smart, and Mickey McCartney returning. Dan Giliuson, from Rosemount, Minnesota, will take Cole's place on the staff. Cole resigned to take a job at Stratford.

A replacement for Lewis in the girls athletic department at Stanton is still being sought.

So, with some "nuts" stored away for the winter, Upshaw has only a few more to find and he can finally get some rest before the cold sets in... Well, maybe just a cat nap; after all, football is just around the corner!

Wade Convinces Evert; Queen Next On List

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — "The Queen doesn't care too much for tennis," Britain's Virginia Wade said of Queen Elizabeth II. "Maybe we can make her like it."

Miss Wade, who impressed Chris Evert, the world's top-ranked player from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the women's semifinals of the centenary Wimbledon tournament, will get her chance to convince the Queen in Friday's final, against towering Betty Stove of The Netherlands. The Queen is scheduled to be among the spectators for the first time since her coronation 25 years ago.

The 31-year-old Miss Wade ended 14 years of frustration in the world's most prestigious tournament, reaching the final for the first time with a stunning 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 victory Wednesday over Miss Evert, the defending champion and the tournament favorite.

The 6-foot-1 Miss Stove thwarted hopes of an all-British final for the first time in 16 years, beating Sue Barker 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in the other semifinal.

The men's semifinals, featuring three Americans, were scheduled today. Jimmy Connors, the No. 1 seed from Belleville, Ill., played John McEnroe, the unheralded and unseeded 18-year-old from Douglaston, N.Y., the first qualifier ever to reach the semifinals, and rapidly rising Vitas Gerulaitis from Howard Beach, N.Y., faced defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

The winners meet Saturday for the coveted title. Other finals Saturday will be the men's women's and mixed doubles.

Miss Wade, playing with a new attitude, provided the most excitement so far for the British fans. To the ecstasy of a packed center court crowd, she thwarted the bid of Miss Evert to capture her second straight Wimbledon title and her third in four years in one of the best center-court duels at Wimbledon in several years.

Displaying composure, confidence and consistency — trademarks that previously had been missing from her game in big matches — Miss Wade outdueled the usually icy cool Miss Evert in the long baseline-to-baseline exchanges and forced Chris into numerous forehand errors.

"I have never played so well," said the delighted Miss Wade, seeking to become only the third Britisher to win the women's championship at Wimbledon in 40 years. The others were Angela Mortimer in 1961 and Ann Haydon Jones in 1969.

Miss Evert, who had beaten Miss Wade in 22 of 27 previous matches, praised the play of her unexpected conqueror and pointed out that Virginia's new attitude was pivotal.

"Her temperament has changed," conceded the teary-eyed Miss Evert. "For 16 years, she has been playing with the same temperament and not getting better than No. 3 in the world. With a changed temperament now, she may feel she can reach No. 2 or No. 1."

Miss Wade agreed. "Wimbledon has been very special for me this year," she said. "I worked hard for it. I knew if I went on the court with a positive attitude, I would have a good chance."

Bosox Drop Sixth Straight

Fidrych, Tiger Fans Have Fun In 7-2 Win

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The last thing the Boston Red Sox needed Wednesday night was to face Mark "The Bird" Fidrych.

The Red Sox and Fidrych continued going in opposite directions last night, Boston losing its sixth straight game while Fidrych won his sixth in a row with a 7-2 conquest of the Red Sox.

"When Fidrych puts on a uniform, he has fun," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer, whose team's lead in the AL East has dwindled to one game over the New York Yankees. "He puts on a uniform to have fun."

Fidrych and 51,745 fans at Tiger Stadium had all the fun as Jason Thompson drove in three runs with three hits, including his 15th homer of the season, a wallop into the third deck in right field.

It was the Tigers' third consecutive triumph over the Red Sox and their fourth victory in a row, the team's longest winning streak of the year.

In other American League contests, California shut out Kansas City 7-0 behind Nolan Ryan. Milwaukee blanked Minnesota 1-0. Cleveland beat Baltimore 11-8 in the opener before losing 5-3 in the nightcap of a doubleheader. Seattle topped Chicago 3-1 and Texas beat Oakland 4-0 in the opener before dropping the doubleheader's second game, 4-1.

Angels 7, Royals 0
Ryan, 10-7, pitched a five-hitter and fanned 12 to reach the 200-strikeout mark for the season. It was Ryan's 13th complete game in 19 starts.

Rookie Thad Bosley was the hitting star for the Angels in his first major league game, collecting a triple, single three runs batted in.

Brewers 1, Twins 0
Rookie Lary Sorensen, 2-1, gave up just six hits to the high-powered Twins, although he needed relief help from Bob McClure and Bill Castro in the ninth.

The only batter to solve Sorensen was Rod Carew, who went 2-for-2 to raise his batting average to .411.

Indians 11-3, Orioles 8-5
Duane Kuiper amassed seven hits in the doubleheader for Cleveland, which could manage only a split.

Cleveland won the opener as Rico Carty drove in five runs and hit his fourth home run. The Orioles took the nightcap with Eddie Murray going 4-for-5 including his ninth homer of the season. Murray scored the winning run in the 10th inning on Doug DeCinces' single.

Hitter Sutton Bombs Braves.

Don Sutton didn't have a good fastball, curve or slider, but he showed the Atlanta Braves something anyway — with his bat.

The Bumpers defeated the Spikers 15-12, 15-8 and the Diggers knocked off the Mavericks 15-3, 14-16, 15-8 as the YMCA Coed volleyball league continued its playoffs Monday night.

The Bumpers moved into the best position in the double elimination tourney, and will sit back Thursday evening as the Diggers and Spikers fight it out. The winner of the Digger-Spiker game will test the Bumpers for the league crown.

If the Bumpers lose the first finals match a second final will be played immediately following. The first game Thursday will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the finals set for 8:30.

13-7 victory.

"I've never gotten three RBI in a major league game before," said Sutton, who had a two-run double and a run-scoring single.

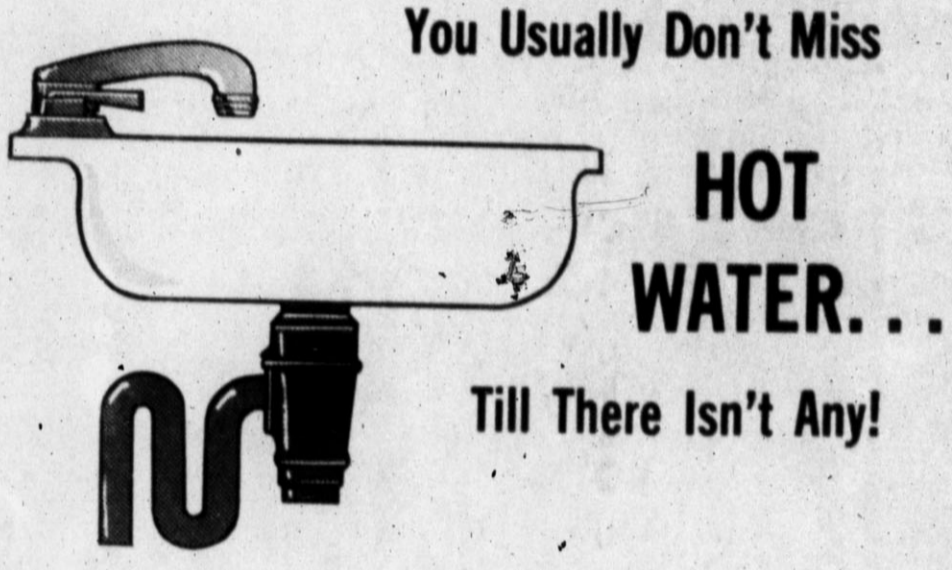

The double was an inartistic bloop to right field in the fourth inning, but it gave the Dodgers a two-run lead that they never relinquished.

"I'd have described it as a 'shank wedge,'" laughed Sutton. "If I'd have been playing golf, I'd have teed it up again and shot it over."

Although Manager Tom Lasorda thought that Sutton "hurled an outstanding game," the pitcher was unimpressed with his five-hit, seven-inning performance.

"It wasn't a night when I could say I had a good fastball, or a good curve or a good slider," said Sutton.

In other National League action, the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Francisco Giants 5-4 in 11 innings; the Montreal Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 5-0; the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the St. Louis Cardinals 9-1 and the San Diego Padres trimmed the Houston Astros 7-4.

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — The only member of the Shaner family who has not carded a hole-in-one in the last two years does not play golf.

This week, 16-year-old Mike accomplished the feat on the 135-year second hole at the Fort Collins Country Club, the fifth ace for the family in two years.

The family streak started in 1975 when Tim, now 18, scored a hole-in-one, also at the second hole. Last year Bill Shaner, father of the fairway wizards, had an ace on the fifth hole, and his wife Vickie got one at the 14th.

Paul, 13, registered the fourth hole-in-one last winter, the third for the family on the second hole.

Becky, at 21 the oldest of the Shaner children, did not take up the game.

ATLANTA (AP) — Outfielder Brian Asselstine has been recalled from the Atlanta Braves' Richmond farm team to replace Barry Bonnell, who suffered pulled abdominal muscles in a game Monday night.

Bonnell went on the 15-day disabled list Wednesday, a team spokesman said.

The Braves also announced the signings of pitchers Tim Cole and Tony Brizzalara, their top two choices in the June free agent draft.

Cole, 18, a left-hander from Saugerties, N.Y., High School, was Atlanta's first choice in the draft. Brizzalara, 20, a Connecticut native, is a right-handed pitcher.

Farm Price Index Has Sharp Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's farm price index, which includes major crops and meat animals, dropped 5 per cent between May 15 and June 15, the sharpest decline in 20 months.

Lower prices for soybeans, grain, beef cattle, vegetables and fruits were the main factors in the decline, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Higher prices for hogs and milk helped moderate the over-all decline. The decline was the first since farm product prices dropped 3 per cent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 and began climbing for six consecutive months.

According to USDA records, the May-June price drop was the sharpest since the index declined 5 per cent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, 1975.

As of mid-June, farm prices averaged 6 per cent below a year ago, the Department's Crop Reporting Board said. Meanwhile, prices which farmers pay to meet expenses also declined .5 per cent from May 15 but still averaged 5 per cent more than on June 15 last year.

The report said that the farm price of wheat was $2 a bushel, down from $2.29 on May 15 and $3.42 a bushel a year ago.

Corn was $2.09 a bushel, compared with $2.21 on May 15 and $2.74 on June 15 of last year.

Soybeans, which had set near-record prices earlier, were $8.18 a bushel at mid-June against $9.40 on May 15 and $6.16 a year ago, the report said.

The price of meat animals as a group declined 3 per cent during the month, although hog prices at $41.90 per hundred pounds were up from $40.70 on May 15. Beef cattle were $34.10 per hundred weight against $36.10 in May.

The index of vegetable prices dropped 9 per cent during the month, and fruit prices were 5 per cent below their May 15 average.

The department's parity ratio, which relates farm prices with cost, was 67 per cent on June 15 compared with 70 per cent in May and 74 per cent on June 15 of last year.

There are now about 900 fewer daily flights in the U.S. than there were in 1973, according to the Air Transport Association.

Paul Harvey News

Less X-Ray Recommended

Medical X-ray. Further research tends further to indict X-ray as a potential hazard.

Responsible radiologists who are able to study these reports objectively and evaluate them in perspective are frequently, quite properly, resentful of the news media tendency to synopsize research with a hit-and-run sentence or two which add up to "medical X-ray is dangerous."

They know that too much of almost anything is dangerous.

They know that how much is too much X-ray has not been established.

They know that this diagnostic and treatment tool must be handled with respect.

And that it must be used when it is "the lesser of evils"—a calculated risk accepted in exchange for a known benefit.

Now having said that, let's examine the newest research and recommendations relating to X-ray.

At long last, albeit reluctantly, the National Cancer Institute has decided it is not a good idea for women routinely to receive X-ray examination for breast cancer.

Especially, the NCI now says, women under 50 should not casually subject themselves to these examinations. X-radiation is cumulative. That means it "builds up" in the human body over the years, with each additional exposure adding to the odds—that X-ray examination for cancer might itself cause cancer.

So now the NCI decides that, for younger women especially, the risks outweigh the benefits.

The next will be challenged but deserves to be considered.

Diagnosticians, with a tremendous investment in X-ray, might be inclined to overuse it, to pay for it.

Six percent of all health care expenditures in the United States are for diagnostic X-ray examinations—and that number has been increasing 8 percent per year.

The American Medical Assn., which must also consider the radiologists, has been reluctant to take an official position.

However, the June issue of the AMA Journal included a report that diagnostic X-rays performed on pregnant women can cause genetic damage to their babies and increase the risk of certain childhood diseases—including leukemia.

These Roswell Park scientists say that even "low doses" of radiation can cause genetic damage to the offspring.

And they are pretty definite about it, using such dogmatic phrases as "clear prima facie evidence" and "a 50-fold increase in the risk of leukemia."

And this article says, "These findings refute a dogma that is often cited by radiologists who claim that diagnostic radiation is harmless."

It is not harmless.

The overuse of X-ray can be blamed largely on the malpractice lawsuit threat. Now, however, with these new public warnings, the physician who recommends X-ray may be liable.

So, because he is often "durned if he does and durned

if he doesn't," it behooves the patient himself to decline X-ray exposure except where it is urgently recommended.

Kidnaped Girl Phones Parents

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Charlotte Grosse's parents waited for a telephone call and word today that the man who dragged the 15-year-old girl from a tent at a remote campsite had kept his pledge to free her.

Clad only in underclothes and a Mickey Mouse T-shirt, the slightly-built girl was dragged by the hair by a heavy-set man at dawn Wednesday as her sister and a friend looked on in horror.

Her sister ran from the tent screaming, "Charlotte's been stolen!"

Charlotte called her parents at home in nearby Nakomis late Wednesday, saying she was all right and that her abductor promised to set her free, said Sarasota County Sheriff Jim Hardcastle.

"He is going to get rid of her at a telephone booth," said Hardcastle, adding that Richard Grosse was positive the caller was his daughter.

Charlotte told her father that she was in Bradenton, about 30 miles north of Oscar Scherer State Park where she had gone on a Girl Scout camping trip.

The girl told her father the abductor "just wanted to get rid of her," said Cpl. Ray Pilon.

The abductor apparently listened as Charlotte made her call but she and her father were able to work out a hasty code, the sheriff said.

"Through her saying 'yes' and 'no' her father found out it was an old blue car" that the abductor was driving, Hardcastle said.

Charlotte told her father the abductor was wearing sneakers and blue jeans and had a mustache, the sheriff said.

Prints of sneaker-clad foot were found at the rear of the tent where Charlotte had been sleeping with her sister, Eleanor, 14 and Virginia Wallace, 15.

Their bright red tent was one of four clustered in a clearing in the park. The sisters had been part of a group of 44 scouts at the park for a day camp. Eight scouts and two adults stayed the night at the camp.

Deputies said they knew of no motive for the abduction, but Hardcastle said the "odds are pretty good" that Charlotte's abduction was sparked by the incident earlier this month at a campsite in Lucust Grove, Okla. Three Girls Scouts were beaten and sexually assaulted at the camp. Authorities have charged 33-year-old prison escapee Gene Leroy Hart in the June 13 slayings and are still searching for him.

if he doesn't," it behooves the patient himself to decline X-ray exposure except where it is urgently recommended.

Kenyan Ki Somali Solo

NAIROBI, Kenya—Kenyan security forces seven regular Somali and wounded 35 other border clash with a large force of Somali regular troops government-controlled.

News Agency said Wedne day.

The agency said the clash came after Somali troops crossed into Kenya and mounted a surprise attack on a police post.

It said six Kenyan policemen were killed and four others were wounded during the attack by 3,000 regular Somali troops on the police post at Rhamu near the Kenya-Somalia border on Monday.

Kenya expressed the "most serious concern" over the attack, "which undermines the good relations existing between the two countries."

In a protest note, Kenya told the Somalis it views the attack as "aggression against the territorial integrity of Kenya," and warned it is entitled to "take any measure to repulse such aggression and protect its peoples and territory from any further incursions of a similar kind."

Meanwhile reinforcements have been rushed to the arid Mandera district of northern Kenya bordering on Somalia where the attack reportedly occurred. But Wednesday night the region was reported calm.

Campfires Site Of Indian Diggings

LOS EBANOS, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Joel Shiner is trying to rekindle the flame from campfires which burned more than 1,000 years ago.

The archaeologist has spent the last two summers on a hill near this border village sifting through soil and gravel in hopes of reconstructing the campsite of an Indian tribe which roamed the Rio Grande Valley "probably around the year 1000 A.D."

Shiner, a professor at Southern Methodist University, is aided by 12 students from Pan American University.

"We start with the idea that this was a community of people," he said Tuesday. "We hope to be able to describe the life of that community."

To attain that goal, Shiner and his students much check out everything—watch and listen for every clue.

Obviously, 1,000-year-old Indians don't do much talking.

"The rocks talk, even the dirt talks to you," explained Shiner.

"We map-eath item we find around the campfires. We'll take the items to the lab and put them under a microscope to determine their use. A rock used as a tool to scrape deerskin, for example, has different striations on it than one used for chipping arrowheads.

Shiner theorizes the Indians were known as "Cohuiltecan" based on old Spanish letters and documents.

"But you might as well call them 'Brand X' for all we know for sure," he added.

Let's Cook

Children Dominates Homemakers Interest

By DIANNE BANNER
Staff Writer

"My hobby is children", Mrs. Ronnie Wood of 619 Stanton warmly replied when asked if she had any certain hobby or interest. Throughout the interview her two children Melissa, 7, and five year old Kelly, giggled with her, were affectionate and showed respect for their soft-spoken, but disciplining mother.

Dianne Wood is the first grade bilingual teacher at Bluebonnet Elementary School. She is teaching migrant summer school at West Central Elementary until July 15.

Her husband Ronnie, teaches biology at Hereford High School. He was recognized as one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America" and received an award for his "contribution and care about helping the young people gain more knowledge of conservation."

He too is a person that is fond of children. He teaches Sunday school at Frio Baptist Church while his wife is in charge of the church nursery. Both husband and wife share the task of being the church youth director.

"Because of school, housework, church activities and the children. I don't have any time to belong to clubs, much less paint or do crafts," the busy homemaker replied, "but I do love to play the piano when the spare time comes along."

Her children have no trouble keeping themselves busy. They enjoy playing cards, house, games, riding their bikes, and "just enjoying one another's company."

Melissa proudly stated that she would be a second grader at Bluebonnet this coming fall, while Kelly shyly admitted that he too would be attending school. HE will be in the kindergarten class next year at Bluebonnet. Kelly also confessed that he likes to play house with his older sister, but that he did insist on being the "daddy."

As far as joint-family projects go, the Woods do everything together. On summer nights they like to go bicycle riding or to the park. Mrs. Wood also said that wherever they go, whether church or shopping, they always take the children with them.

Mr. Wood will be attending a Classroom Teachers Association meeting in Dallas and his family will make the trip with him and go to Six Flags for their vacation.

Mrs. Wood stated "I really do like my job at Bluebonnet, everyone there is so nice. I guess it's because we all share the same interest in a profession-children."

Mrs. Wood recipes for an easy evening meal:

ROAST BRISKET

Ann Landers Bedroom Problems

DEAR ANN: I have been married 12 years to an attractive, intelligent man. We have two children and love one another very much.

We have no real problems except in the bedroom. My husband is a lousy lover. It seems unimportant to him that he doesn't arouse me. In fact, I'm not sure he is aware of the situation. Some of the fault is mine. I've faked it for so long he thinks everything is fine.

Please don't say "Tell him." I can't. His manhood would be insulted. I've asked him what HE likes, but he has never asked me, except once. When I told him, he was annoyed that I would suggest something different from what he had been doing. (I didn't suggest anything weird, I just want more than a tap on the shoulder.)

I dread the thought of "another tap" and another night. This is no joke. I need help and there is no one I can ask but you. -- The Fake

DEAR FAKE: If you tell him in a playful, non-judgmental way, he won't feel insulted and he WILL get the message. If not the first time--try again.

You'd be surprised what can be accomplished with a light touch. Don't use a chain saw to cut a pound of butter, honey.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Did you ever hear of a father taking the word of a five-year-old baby over an 11-year-old lady? Well, this is what happened, and I want to know what you think.

I was in the living room watching television when my brother Clifford, who is a show-off and a pest, kept running in front of the TV screen. Three times I asked him politely to quit. Finally, I tapped him very lightly on the head.

At that very moment, my father walking into the room. Clifford screamed as if I had fractured his skull. My father then told me, "No allowance for two weeks."

When I tried to explain that Clifford had been annoying me like that for weeks and I had tapped very lightly, Dad asked Clifford, "Did it hurt?" Clifford said, "Yes, I'm dying."

Now I don't get any allowance for two weeks. Besides that, Clifford stuck his tongue out at me when he walked out the door, but Dad didn't see THAT! Is this fair?--Despised By My Family

DEAR DESPISED: Sorry, dear, but I wasn't around to see whether you tapped Clifford lightly or if you gave him a hefty crack on the dome, so I'll have to take a witness's word for it. The witness is your father. Maybe two weeks of poverty will teach you to keep your hands to yourself.

DEAR ANN: I'm engaged to marry a wonderful guy who is at present unemployed. Art was driving his cousin's car last night and was arrested for speeding and running a red light. His driver's license had not been renewed, which made it worse. He doesn't have the money to pay the fine so he is faced with spending five days in jail.

I offered to pay the fine but Art said, "No. This is MY problem. I'm going to jail."

I don't want the father of my unborn children to have a jail record. He says this isn't the same as having a jail record. Is he right--Alma

DEAR ALMA: When a person goes to jail, it becomes a matter of record. This is called a jail record. I think Art should accept your help and repay you as soon as possible.

Knights Make Donation

The Knights of Columbus donated $853 to the diocesan Permanent Diaconate Program this week after staging a St. Anthony's parish entertainment evening. The contribution was gleaned from the show's proceeds.

The Hereford parish gained its first deacon recently in the form of Kenneth A. Jo, who was ordained by the Diaconate Program this spring.

Accepting the money gift was the Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, from Kenneth Walterscheid, Grand Knight, and Ray Berend, Deputy Grand Knight of the Fr. Nathaniel Council.

Bottom Level Freezers Back

COLLEGE STATION— Victory for consumers demanding "freezers-at-their-feet" is on the appliance-market horizon, a Texas home economist reports.

Refrigerators with a bottom-mounted freezer compartment are making a comeback— after a 10-year absence from the market, and consumer demand is responsible, Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist, says.

"Industry had thought the side-by-side refrigerator-freezer would be a better design than bottom-mounted freezers, which they phased out in the late 1960's."

"However, recent market research shows that nearly 50 per cent of bottom-mount owners want to replace old units with the same style," she explains.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Looking at reasons for the returning design's popularity, she said a bottom-mount freezer puts all other refrigerator contents at an easy-to-reach level—without the need for bending, and many consumers like that, since most use the refrigerator compartment five times more often than the freezer section.

Still, family lifestyle and budget and space limits should be the major factors in shopping for refrigerators, the specialist advises.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Marge poured me a cup of coffee and said, "Have you noticed how quiet it is around here?"

"Yeah, where are the kids?"

"This morning, I posted the Six Commandments for Summer on the refrigerator door and it's working out great."

On the refrigerator was a page from a yellow lined tablet with the following declarations:

1. THOU SHALT NOT SPEAK THE FOLLOWING WORDS EVER: "There's nothing to do."

2. THOU SHALT NOT WATCH TELEVISION LONGER THAN FOUR HOURS AT ONE SITTING.

3. THOU SHALT NOT COVET THY NEIGHBOR'S BICYCLES, SKATEBOARDS, SWIMMING POOL OR ICE CREAM.

4. THOU SHALT NOT PLAY IN WATER IN HARD SHOES OR CHANGE CLOTHES MORE THAN FOUR TIMES A DAY.

5. THOU SHALT NOT KILL...THY BROTHER, THY SISTER, THY PLAYMATE, THY PARENTS.

6. THOU SHALT MAKE THY OWN GOOD TIMES USING IMAGINATION AND CREATIVITY.

Marge's five-year-old came into the kitchen and said, "Mom, can you go in the crawl space in the attic and get down the sled? I'm using my imagination and creativity."

When Marge returned, her daughter tugged at her slacks and said, "Would you mind turning on the oven and going to the store to get some chocolate chips? We are having a fair and I am keeping busy."

"Mom," said another son, "a dart fell behind the bunk bed and I need it to keep myself occupied."

"Mrs. Roth," said a neighbor child, "I don't want to punch in Ralph's face but he's hogging the skateboard and won't let us have a turn. Tell him to share."

"Mom, would you get the ice water? It's on the top shelf of the refrigerator and I can't get it without a chair."

"Mom, would you take the knots out of my shoes so I can play in the water?"

"Mom, could you call Debbie's mother and see if I could play with her Frisbee?"

I watched as Marge tiredly added another commandment to the list: "THOU SHALT NOT INTERRUPT MOTHER WHEN SHE IS ROCKING BACK AND FORTH HUMMING TO HERSELF."

Canned Items Priced Low Now

COLLEGE STATION— Canned fruits and vegetables— and fresh cantaloupe—have attractive prices in many Texas grocery markets, Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, reports.

Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, summarizes this week's grocery situation as follows:

GROCERY MARKET AISLES—In addition to canned produce "specials," consumers can find low prices on pasta, grapefruit juice and sandwich buns.

In freezer chests, economical prices appear on meat pies, orange juice, potatoes and fish, although some fish prices are "inching upward."

FRESH FRUITS— Cantaloupe quality is excellent at attractive prices and plentiful watermelons have moderate prices. Texas honeydew melons, reflect lower prices, but apricots, nectarines and plums are still relatively high priced.

Varying prices appear on bananas, cherries, oranges, peaches and pineapples, so choose according to budget limitations.

FRESH VEGETABLES— Local truck farms producing top-quality, low-price produce make these items worth considering: yellow and zucchini squash, corn, cooking greens, purple hull peas, green beans, radishes and green onions.

Also look for economy buys on cabbage, carrots, cucumbers and green peppers.

POULTRY— Fryer chicken are a bit lower, and special prices appear on fryer parts.

Medium and large-size eggs have reasonable prices, but jumbo and extra large are bringing "premium prices," since quantities are limited.

PORK— Look for specials on smoked picnics and sliced bacon. Frankfurter and pork liver prices are down. Good buys include rib and loin pork chops, semi-boneless and canned hams.

BEEF— Look for reasonable prices on rib, sirloin and round steaks—and features on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and beef liver.

CONSUMER WATCH— WORDS: Although apricot prices are high, this is their peak season.

ART SHOW— NEW YORK (AP) — "Americas: The Decorative Arts in Latin America in the Era of the Revolution," exhibited last year as part of the Bicentennial celebration at the Renwick Gallery in Washington, is on display at the Center for Inter-American Relations' Gallery through August 7.

The exhibition of over 150 pieces of 18th-century Latin American decorative art reflects the Spanish and Portuguese tradition combined, in some cases, with pre-Hispanic tastes.

Charcoal Cooking Tips Offered in Series

NOTE TO EDITOR: This is the first of a three-part series on outdoor cooking. The series will detail preparation and control of fire, cooking meats, and cooking vegetables.

COLLEGE STATION— Charcoal fire is ready for outdoor cooking once it is a rosy bed of coals covered with grey ash—but if flames are still visible, the fire is not ready.

Achieving the good bed of coals for meal preparation depends on several basic steps, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

PREPARING TO 'FIRE'
Start the fire 30-60 minutes ahead of time so flames can die down and the coals turn gray.

To begin, stack briquettes in a pyramid, soak lightly with charcoal lighter fluid, let stand one minute, and then light. Never use fuel oil, kerosene or gasoline to start a fire—as they are highly flammable, and the smoke leaves an oily taste on the food.

ADD DASH OF HICKORY
Hickory chips add a distinctive flavor to charcoaled meats so if they are in the outdoor cooking plan, prepare them early by overnight soaking in water.

After the fire is lit, drain the chips and place a small mound of them in the fire center—a handful is sufficient.

Long-term cooking of larger meat cuts may require additional chips later.

To keep the fire burning, protect it from drafts that might cause overheating and "hot spots."

If more charcoal is needed, place new pieces at the fire edge and move them into the center once grey ash covers them. For quick extra heat, simply knock the accumulation of ash from the burning charcoal.

To control flames produced by fat drippings onto hot coals, keep a spray bottle of water handy—or a bit of baking soda.

Holly Official Says Environment Hostile For Marketing Of Sugar

COLORADO SPRINGS— If the U.S. continues to be a dumping ground for the world's surplus sugar, a portion of the domestic sugar industry could be forced out of business, President Marlin C. Chenburg told stockholders attending Holly Sugar Corporation's annual meeting here last week.

He said that until the Administration becomes aware of the realities of the international sugar market and protectionism and takes appropriate action, "we look forward to a continued hostile environment for sugar marketing in this country."

Until foreign producers stop dumping sugar in the U.S. at prices below production costs, American farmers and processors can't overcome the effects of artificial trade barriers which protect foreign producers, Chenburg pointed out.

"In short, we will not be looking forward to a reasonable return on stockholders' investment until this situation is corrected," Chenburg said.

He said the Administration had not done its homework when it proposed a 2 cent subsidy, "for all it will do is lower the price of refined sugar to the large industrial user at the expense of the American taxpayer."

"It completely ignores the realities of the market place, the historic relationship of processor-producer contracts, and in fact is a no-support, support program," Chenburg said.

Without a supply management program, he explained that sugar prices in this country could be expected to gyrate unpredictably "and Holly's future will follow accordingly."

He said that "some sort of sweetener legislation is needed for the benefit of the American consumer and the domestic sugar industry."

"This country will have a sweetener policy whether it wants it or not. The issue is whether the policy will be one geared to meet this country's needs or whether it will be one established by default because of the sugar activities and political and economic policies or other nations. The choice should be obvious," Chenburg concluded.

During the business portion of the meeting, stockholders reelected all directors, ratified the reappointment of Haskins & Sells as independent certified public accountants for the current fiscal year and defeated a stockholder proposal calling for cumulative voting.

Directors reelected were John B. Bunker, Marlin C. Chenburg and Russell T. Tutt, all of Colorado Springs; John J. McNally of New York City; Thomas S. Moon of Boulder, Colorado; Ben H. Slothower of Salt Lake City and A. Thomas Taylor of Chicago.

Following the meeting, directors elected Joseph E. Fabek as vice president and reelected the following officers: John B. Bunker, chairman; Marlin C. Chenburg, president; Glen W. Yeager, senior vice president-agriculture; John L. Bushnell, vice president-general superintendent; Whitney Newton II, vice president-technical director; Clement H. Roy, vice president-sales; Martin D. Gladem, controller; Melvin A. May, vice president and treasurer and Clarold F. Morgan, vice president, secretary and general counsel.

Various Stresses Cause Bitterness In Cucumbers

COLLEGE STATION— Every year about this time a seemingly serious problem occurs in home gardens in nearly all parts of Texas--bitter cucumbers and oftentimes bitter eggplants.

Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that explanations for the bitter fruits range from old wives tales to seemingly accurate scientific explanations. Commonly heard causes include planting by the wrong sign of the moon, harvesting after noon, improper watering and fertilization, and high temperatures during fruit growth and development.

What is the real reason for this phenomenon?

"It is safe to say that the exact cause is unknown even though numerous tests have been conducted to investigate this problem," points out Cotner. Research has determined that bitterness is genetic and therefore can be inherited. This simply means that some varieties can be more bitter than others, but does not explain how differences within a variety can exist, or how bitterness can vary from fruit to fruit on the same plant. Such differences tend to indicate that bitterness is affected and controlled by other conditions.

"It appears that any conditions that place the plant in stress can lead to bitter fruit," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. "Without a doubt, in Texas these conditions are low moisture, high temperature and low fertility. Any one of these conditions by itself may cause the problem, but generally it's a combination of more than one of these factors.

"Reports of bitter fruit generally occur in Texas during June, July and August but seldom early in the spring or late in the fall," says Cotner. "Young, vigorous growing plants seldom produce bitter fruit. Conditions early in the year are generally favorable for good growth, but as the season progresses, high temperatures, moisture stress and perhaps low fertility conditions occur."

To help prevent bitter fruit, Cotner recommends that gardeners should try to maintain favorable growing conditions during the hot summer months, realizing that in some areas of Texas it is almost impossible to raise some crops during the heat of midsummer. Periodically apply light applications of fertilizer around cucumbers and eggplants to maintain their vigorous growth. Mulching will also help to reduce water loss. Water more often as the temperature increases toward midsummer.

"In spite of the proper care and attention given to cucumbers and eggplants even when growing conditions are favorable, bitterness can still occur," notes Cotner. "If this happens, home gardeners should peel their eggplants and cucumbers a little deeper as bitterness is generally associated with the skin."

An interesting fact, notes the specialist, is that on cucumbers, the stem is always more bitter than the blossom end. One Texas gardener with more than 50 years of experience reports that you should always peel a cucumber from the blossom end toward the stem end. If you don't, the whole fruit will become bitter.

FB Representatives To Discuss Policies

WACO— Producer representatives in the five Texas Farm Bureau commodity divisions will discuss policy development at a statewide Commodity conference July 6-7 at the Convention Center in Waco.

Several prominent agricultural leaders and government officials will address the meeting. These include Allan Grant, Visalia, Calif., president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; David L. Hume, Washington, D.C., administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service; and U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower, Vernon, member of the House Agriculture Committee.

TFB President Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart will preside at the general sessions. Other general session speakers include Warren Newberry, Waco, TFB executive director; Edwin McKay, Waco, TFB national affairs director; and Pat Smith, Austin, TFB state affairs director.

Invited to attend are county presidents and the commodity committee chairmen in the 103 counties that have county commodity organizations in either the TFB's cotton, citrus, dairy, peanuts and rice division.

A number of counties have more than one commodity division. There are 55 counties with cotton divisions, three with citrus, 35 dairy, 18 peanut, and 12 with rice divisions.

Top executives, educators and government officials will provide information that will be helpful in the development of next year's Farm Bureau policy positions pertaining to the various commodities.

Participants will share results of meetings of their respective county commodity divisions which have been held to surface areas needing attention in the FB's policy development activity this fall.

They will be briefed on the mood of Congress on farm programs, and on what may be in store for them regarding regulations by Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and others.

In addition, the conferees will get a first-hand report on agricultural trade prospects, and hear a progress report on agricultural research. They will also get a report on agricultural issues in the current Legislature.

Information gathered at the conference can be used by county commodity divisions in making policy recommendations to county Farm Bureau policy development committees.

The annual summer commodity conference complements one held early in the year dealing with implementation of Farm Bureau policies for the year pertaining to the various commodities. The summer conference is held prior to the beginning of the policy development process to deal with commodity issues that need consideration in that activity.

Individual meetings for the five divisions will be held on the afternoon of July 6 and the morning of July 7.

State Cotton Crop Could Surpass 4.6 Million Bales

COLLEGE STATION— The 1977 Texas cotton crop is off to a good start. With good market conditions, farmers have planted fence row to row, and this year's crop could yield well over four million bales.

Barring weather and insect problem, the Texas cotton crop has the potential of surpassing the 1973 crop of 4.6 million bales.

That analysis comes from Charles Baker, marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Furthermore, prices should be good," says Baker, "because we have a worldwide shortage of cotton. World stocks at the beginning of the August 1 crop year have averaged 40 per cent of world consumption the past 10 years. Beginning stocks on August 1, 1977 will be a low 30 per cent of projected consumption. Low world stock levels in 1972 and 1973 preceded the sharp rise of 1973. Low stock levels in 1976 were accompanied by price increases for the 1976 crop. Yet, those levels for 1972, '73, and '76 were not nearly as low as current levels.

"Prices have been down for the last month because of the expected big crop for 1977," notes Baker. "This big crop is needed badly, but it cannot be big enough to restore stocks to normal. Therefore, prices for this year's crop are expected to average near those received for the 1976 Texas crop."

The villainous slave driver in Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was called Simon Legree.

White Admits To Perspective Change

WASHINGTON (AP)— Deputy Agriculture Secretary John C. White says his "perspective about the appropriate farm programs is somewhat different" now that he is working within the administration.

For 26 years, as Texas commissioner of agriculture, White frequently criticized farm policies of USDA, including occasional swipes at those of Democratic administrations.

"It's very obvious to me that high loan levels and high target prices won't solve the economic problems facing many farmers today," White said Tuesday.

His remarks came in a speech to the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture in Williamsburg, Va. A summary of his talk was issued here by his office. White is the No. 2 official in USDA.

"What will help are programs which give farmers some reasonable expectation of farm policies more than one year in the future, promote expanded worldwide sales of U.S. farm products and let farmers make their production decisions on the potential market for a commodity, not the government price support," he said.

New Cotton Acreage Allotment System Endorsed By Carter

WASHINGTON (AP)— The cotton industry proposed and the Carter administration generally endorsed on Tuesday a new system of acreage allotments for cotton growers.

Allotments determine how much an individual grower would get under federal farm programs in case disasters or a sharply depressed market triggered government support payments.

The National Cotton Council's proposal, worked out in a series of industry-wide meetings this year, would cost the government an average of $109 million a year through 1981 if it were included in farm-program legislation now pending before Congress, the Agriculture Department estimated.

"That's $70 million a year less than the cotton provisions now in the bill, which is to be debated by the House next month. All major farm programs except tobacco and peanut supports expire Sept. 30.

After Cotton Council officials presented the proposal to the House Agriculture Committee's cotton subcommittee, USDA chief economist Howard W. Hjort testified that it "encompasses needed reforms which will provide a fiscally sound and economically beneficial program."

Subcommittee Chairman, David R. Bowen, D-Miss., has already introduced the package as a bill.

Current allotments are based on decades-old planting patterns and favor the southeastern seaboard state over growing areas in the Southwest and West Coast states.

Bowen has said that the Mississippi Delta producers would be least affected by the measure because their present allotments are closest to actual plantings.

Under the present system, a grower could get a cotton price-support or disaster-relief payment even if he planted no cotton—as long as he had an allotment.

Under the industry proposal, a national allotment—now set by law—would be determined by USDA on the basis of domestic and export needs and provide for "adequate, but not excessive reserves."

If a support payment became necessary because prices fell below levels set in the law, the national figure would be divided by the number of harvested acres that season, to obtain an "allocation factor."

An individual farmer's payment would be based on the cotton acreage actually planted, multiplied by that allocation factor. No minimum allocation factor would be set for cotton, as the pending farm bill provides for.

If a farmer had already cut back production as USDA had recommended to bolster market prices, his payment would be based only on plantings without the factor being applied.

The measure also could allow USDA to force sharp cutbacks in cotton growing if supplies became excessive.

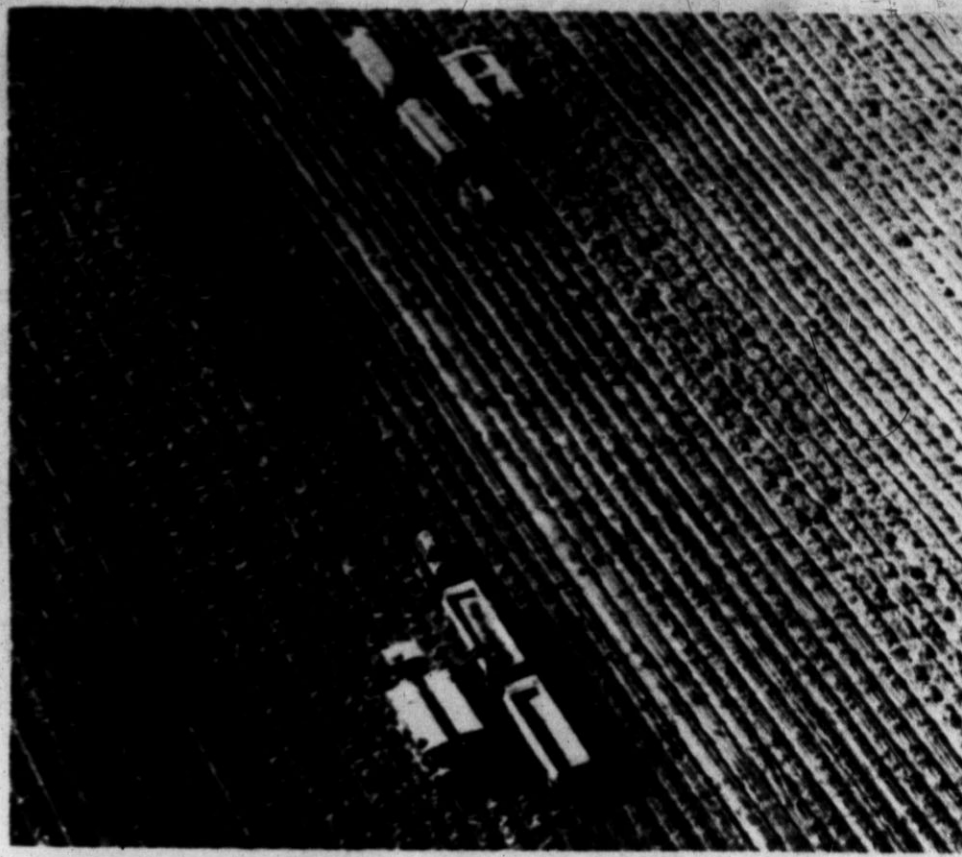

Hjort, who participated in the Cotton Council's final compromise sessions on the package in Dallas, called for several changes in the mechanics of the proposed program.

Bank on Meat

In planning nutritious family meals, there is one thing you can depend on—meat gives you a lot for your money. Meat proves a worthy investment whether selected for food value, flavor or menu variety. There's an assortment of meat cuts for every budget. Check newspaper ads for this week's best meat buys. Then plan weekly menus around anticipated meat purchases before you shop. For double dividends, prepare double recipes and freeze one for future use.

Morning Meat Pies

Are you hung up on "hohum, gotta-run" breakfast time? The answer for those who skip breakfast is to have ready an in-hand eating item. Beef turnovers are just the thing. Cooked leftover chopped beef or cooked ground beef packs a flaky pastry shell with protein power. Simply combine about 3/2 cups chopped cooked meat with leftover vegetables, and enclose in a circle of pastry by folding in two and pressing edges together with a fork. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) until pastry is lightly browned (30 minutes). Serve hot, or prepare ahead to be eaten cold.

Moisture Conservation Encouraged In Gardening

COLLEGE STATION— Drought conditions in many areas mean homeowners and gardeners must decide how to best use irrigation water. Sometimes, certain plants may have to be sacrificed to save others, says Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In general, plants used in the home landscape can be categorized in the following manner: lawn and ground covers, shrub borders, flower beds and trees.

Since trees usually serve a multipurpose role in the landscape, providing enframement, background, screen and shade, they are difficult to replace and should generally receive priority when it comes to watering. Three require years to become large enough to be effective in the landscape where as a lawn or shrub area can be replaced in a season or two if weather conditions are favorable. So, if the water supply is limited, Janne suggests using it to keep in as healthy a condition as possible even if it means sacrificing other choice plants.

The horticulturist also suggests a number of cultural practices to aid the homeowners in reducing water needs and conserving available water:

1. Use a mulch whenever possible. This reduced surface evaporation and keeps the root zone cooler. Good mulch materials include pine bark, wood shavings, straw, hay, gravel, plastic film and mulching paper.
2. Use soaker hoses or flood irrigation if possible. Sprinkler irrigation during the daytime and on windy days will result in high moisture losses due to evaporation.
3. If sprinkler irrigation is the only practical method available, use sprinkler heads that will allow the soil to take up the moisture as fast as it falls so as to prevent runoff.
4. Sprinkler irrigation is most efficient from late evening to early morning when the evaporation rate is the lowest.

This may increase plant disease problem, but proper use of fungicides can keep these problems to a minimum.

5. Water thoroughly when irrigating. Frequent light applications of irrigation water are wasteful and encourage shallow root growth. When watering, soak the soil to a depth of six to eight inches.

Riza Khan, father of the current Shah of Iran, was an officer in the Persian Cossack Division. He came to power after a coup d'etat in 1921. In 1925 he assumed the throne.

Official Praises Council

MEMPHIS— National Cotton Council President Jack G. Stone praised the Council on Wage and Price Stability (CWPS) for its constructive alternatives regarding a proposed new cotton dust standard.

The President's inflation-fighting agency, in a report recently filed with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, cited the cost impact of the proposed industrywide standard. It said a more cost-effective yet protective approach would be to establish different dust levels for the industry's various processing stages.

"The Cotton Council has long maintained that a single industrywide standard is totally unreasonable since cotton dust varies considerably in composition and toxicity from one processing stage to another," Stone said.

The California producer said he was pleased that CWPS recognized the inflationary impact of OSHA's proposal, and recommended approaches which "might more closely follow the instruction and intent of the OSHA act."

Stone commented, "OSHA seems to think anyone suggesting consideration of costs is putting money over human health and safety. This is not true, of course. No one would deny that worker safety must have prime consideration, but workers should be afforded protection in the most cost-effective way."

He also noted that CWPS calls for more emphasis on identifying the unknown agent that causes byssinosis, and describes the disease as being "imperfectly associated" with cotton dust.

"We in the cotton industry question the wisdom of imposing a dust standard throughout our industry when nobody yet knows exactly what causes byssinosis or whether the disease actually exists in all sectors," the Cotton Council president said.

Stone pointed out that the industry has been giving the byssinosis program top priority since 1972. He said extensive research programs have been stimulated in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, state universities, textile trade associations, and individual textile mills. In addition, cotton producers themselves have invested millions of dollars in byssinosis research.

"Testimony presented during public hearings on the proposed standard encourages us to believe that within two years or so a fraction of the dust that contains the byssinotic agent or agents may be identified," Stone said. "If so, we would have a far better basis for deactivating the dust or—at the very least—for establishing a more reasonable, less costly standard that would provide worker protection."

"We will continue to give this effort top priority, and I know we will succeed if we are given the time to do so," Stone added. "When that is accomplished, an intelligent standard can be developed."

In U.S. political slang, a mugwump is an independent voter. The term was first used for a group of independent Republicans who refused to support the 1884 candidacy of James G. Blaine for President.

Toxic Fumes Even In Pillows

WASHINGTON (AP) - Like the 42 persons who died Sunday in a Tennessee jail, millions of Americans face the threat of death from noxious fumes given off by any number of household items that burn easily.

Put a match to the cushy throw pillows that decorate your sofa and the smoke could quickly kill you.

Ignite any of the home furnishings made of foam plastic or the insulation in your house or the decorative beams in your living room and the same thing might happen.

Or your mattress. In Sunday's fire, burning mattress padding made of polyurethane foam produced the fumes that quickly filled the Maury County jail in Columbia, Tenn.

Items made of polyurethane and polyvinyl chloride are the most dangerous. So much so that the federal government is now studying what happens to the two plastics when they burn.

The danger from the fumes is the subject of studies being conducted by the National Fire Prevention and Control Administration.

Polyurethane is best known as the soft, foamy filling in pillows and some mattresses. Polyvinyl chloride is harder, often used as a flexible covering.

Dr. Merritt Birky of the fire prevention administration said these plastics are used extensively in upholstered furniture, carpet padding and the interiors of automobiles and airplanes.

These plastics are also widely used in home insulation and furnishings, said Henry Spies, an assistant professor with the small Homes Council of the University of Illinois.

Most residential building codes ignore this danger, Spies added.

Unprotected polyurethane is being used less for insulation now, but is still used as padding in chairs, sofas and mattresses and in decorative items such as simulated wood beams.

"It's a very good, comfortable foam but very dangerous if you set the thing on fire," Spies said.

When polyurethane burns, hydrogen cyanide is given off. Polyvinyl chloride fires can result in another dangerous gas, hydrogen chloride.

"If you get very highly toxic gases such as hydrogen cyanide, it takes a very small amount to be lethal," said Dr. Joseph E. Clark of the fire prevention administration.

Spies said urethane was used in spray form to insulate metal buildings, but flames were found to spread with fantastic speed once a fire was ignited.

"I remember a chicken house in Southern Illinois that went from an electric spark to a total loss in two minutes flat," he said.

As substitutes to the potentially dangerous materials, Spies recommended rubber foam for padding and fiberglass or rock wool for insulation.

"Synthetics are nice, clean, easy and cheap and nobody is worried about a fire in their house," he said. "It only happens to somebody else."

"What we have here is a total lack of respect for the law!"
