Hereford, Texas, Thursday, September 1, 1977 Citizens Group Campaigns Against Pornography certain magazines to a behind-the-counter-with-the-cover-covered proposition.

Thomas Albracht isn't afraid to step on a few toes in his anti-pornography campaign, even if it means calling Hereford City commissioners "immoral.

That was the word he used, directing it to commissioners in a recent meeting after they refused to pass an ordinance regulating the sale of magazines Albracht considers to be Albracht is president of the Hereford chapter of Citizens for Decency Through Law, a national group waging a Puritanlike war on magazines and movies which depict nude or revealing semi-nude bodies.

Frnest Langley, city attorney, and Dudley Bayne, city manager, told Albracht at the aforementioned meeting that an ordinance is unfeasible, that it would be ripped to shreds if somebody ever decided to contest it in court.

The ordinance Albracht wanted passed would have-unless a judge later rules it cannot be upheld-restricted the sale of

I used that word (immoral) but I cannot judge anybody, Albracht said. "But my impression of the city commission is they relied heavily on the advice of their attorney--too much I think. and I don't believe the advice their attorney gave them would

"I do believe we can have a city law." Bayne agrees but says an ordinance "would either lose in court or we'd be tied up from now on.

"I think it's the same thing that Ernest said the other night-it would be contested in court and you don't know what these federal judges are going to do.

Ordinance Unconstitutional

A U.S. district court judge Wednesday ruled that Houston's new antipornography ordinance is unconstitutional. He issued a premanent injunction against enforcement of the ordinance that, retroactively, would prohibit adult theaters and bookstores from operating with 2,000 feet of schools and churches.

The judge said the ordinance was too broad and was not a reasonable regulation of the time, place and manner of handling materials that enjoy protection of the First Amendment. The injunction prompted a Houston city councilman to say, ala

Bayne. "You cannot predict what a federal court will do." Albracht says Hereford should procede with an ordinance limiting the sale of magazines such as "Playboy" then let somebody challenge the ordinance

"It all depends on how many people in responsible positions feel strongly enough about a point. In other words, what are the commissioners' values, what are the attorney's values?

"If the commission is unwilling to take a look at other ordinances and set one up, then about the only avenue we have, because we are an organization that is trying to work through the law, is to try to hold a status quo by working the same way we've been working "

Albracht-to anyone who wants to see-will produce copies of ordinances passed in Rhode Island, covering the entire state, display naked bodies in places frequented by minors. State Has Law

The state of Texas already has a law defining what is pornographic and cannot be sold. For adults, the definition of "obscene" is having as a whole a dominate scene that:

a) appeals to the prurient interest of the average person applying contemporary community standards. b) depicts or describes sexual conduct in a patently offensive

c) lacks serious literarcy, artistic, political or scientific value. For minors, the definition is having as a whole a dominate

MANAGING EDITOR Paul Sims is doing a two-part series on pornography. with the first article in today's issue Sims found the pornography question to be a complex one, partly because of laws defining porno and partly because what is pornographic to a ladies Bible class might not be considered pornographic to a large number of other citizens.

We would guess that most citizens of Hereford don't believe we have a pornographs problem in this community. But, again, each indivudual has a different siew on what constitutes a problem in this area. OUR LOCAL POSTMEN do a great job and we appreciate them, but they have to follow the rules from the higher echelons of the Postal Service. And, many times, the decisions reached in D.C. are not common-sense solutions based on grassroots situations

Recently, for example, Big Brother proposed to charge different rates on first-class mail. The idea falls right in line with rigging income tax pavements to meet socially desirable goals as set out in the confused minds of Congress

The Postal Service proposed a 16-cent rate for business letters and 13 cents for something called "citizen mail." And they were going to be able to tell the difference between the two on whether the envelope contained a typewritten address or a handwritten address

If the Postal Service gets this idea through, publisher James Roberts at Andews has some suggestions to help further the goals of such an edict. For

Wife Claims Cullen Davis Cursed Girl

AMARILLO (AP) - An angry, cursing Cullen Davis once banished his 10-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn from his palatial home and decreed that she not return, his estranged wife Priscilla testified Wednesday.

The key witness for the prosecution tearfully told the jury of the 1974 incident as Davis' capital murder trial moved toward the end of it's second week.

Mrs. Davis, 36, faced a ninth day of questioning today, once again by the defense. In was Andrea, then 12, who was the Wednesday that Andrea was living with her father, Jack Wilborn, Priscella's second husband, when the 1974 incident "He (Davis) told me to call Andrea and tell her to get over there to the mansion this weekend." she testified.

Suddenly, she said, he jerked the phone from her hand and ordered the youngster to his home

"He said, 'Goddamn it, Andrea, I want you over here this weekend,' and then he said, 'I don't give a goddamn what your plans were. I want you over here."" After Andrea apparently refused, Mrs.

Park Indicted By Grand Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tong-sun Park, the South Korean businessman who vows he will not return to the United States and face questions about alleged attempts at influence-buying in Congress, reportedly has been indicted by a federal grand jury.

A congressional source Wednesday quoted a Justice Department official as saying a sealed indictment was handed up last Friday against Park, who fled the country nearly a year ago and was last reported to be in South Korea.

The congressional source did not say what charge was specified in the indictment

A Justice Department spokesman refused to comment about the report.

But the Washington Post reported today that the sealed indictment against Park was filed before U.S. District Judge John Pratt here. It said the nature of the charge could not be learned.

The paper quoted a source familiar with the evidence as saying that the indictment might be used to pressure Park to return to the United States and testify with the understanding that the indictment then would be dropped. The United States has no extradition treaty with South Korea.

Pratt said Wednesday night that he recently had received sealed grand jury indictments but said he did not know what they contained. "I know nothing about it," he said when asked whether Park was named in any of the indictments.

Farm Prices Offset Other Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) , Wholesale prices inched ahead by one-tenth of a per cent in August as a fourth consecutive monthly decline in farm prices nearly offset increases in other areas, the Labor Department reported today.

The small August increase in wholesale prices followed two months of decline in the government's wholesale Price Index.

Farm prices declined another 4.3 per cent the fourth consecutive month of decline, which is a welcome trend for consumers but continuing bad news for farmers, who have seen their farm income steadily eroding in recent months.

Three years ago, we sent two of our children, both 12 year old girls, into some of these stores and they were able to huv any of this type magazine they wanted. They just went in and picked them up. Nobody turned them down.

Tourism Badly Declines in Quebec

MONTREAL (AP) - Tourism is reported down in most parts of Canada this summer, according to preliminary surveys, but the slump seems particularly bad in Quebec, the predominately French-speaking province with a government that wants to

Tourism industry spokesmen blame Quebec's tourist decline on the province's heavy taxes, high labor costs and cold wet,

Laventhol and Horwath, a Toronto-based firm of management consultants specializing in the hotel business, reports that occupancy rates in Quebec hotels are the lowest in Canada, with the exception of

Revenue from room rentals, meals and beverages in Montreal and Quebec City is increasing at a slower rate than in other major Canadian cities, but even this growth is more than offset by the inflation

Queen Elizabeth Hotel, in a recent interview. He added that most hotels are experiencing 15 to 30 per cent less business than last year.

Groome, who is also president of Hilton Canada, Ltd., said a "horrendous" number of United States conventions have been canceled this year because of new U.S. tax legislation limiting the number of tax-free conventions Americans can attend outside their country.

The sag in the tourist industry is largely a reflection of a sluggish Canad'an economy, Groome said, but he emphasized there are as many problems that are peculiar to Quebec.

The province's 10 per cent food and beverage tax is the highest in North America, he noted, and the 8 per cent room tax is one of the highest. Hotels in Montreal and Quebec City also pay a business real estate tax that far exceeds the North American average, he At $3.15 an hour, the province's minimum wage is the highest in North America and drives up labor costs, Groome continued. Finally, he said, there is a feeling among tourists that it "may not be the wisest thing" to come to Quebec while the province is in the throes of political and social unrest. "There is an impression that

Today In History

English-speaking people are not welcome here," he said.

John Fisher, a former head of the Canadian Tourist Association, has blamed "silly anti-Americanism" for driving U.S. tourists away from Canada and said Quebec in particular is not regarded as highly as it once was as a tourist destination.

He said a special campaign advising tourists to "come to Quebec and see for yourself" might help dispel negative feelings about the province.

The Quebec Tourism Department launched such a campaign this year.

But Richard Pouliot, Quebec assistant deputy minister of tourism, said no advertising campaign will change the "bad over-all perception" that he claims outsiders have been given of Quebec through the media.

He agreed that industry costs are prohibitive, but said the province's 10 per cent meal tax was not a major element in discouraging tourism. Families may find restaurants too expensive, but "there are always snack bars," he said.

Weather has been an important factor this summer, he added. Quebec has had an unusual amount of cold, rainy weather since the beginning of June.

Pouliot said no figures were available for the number of tourists visiting Quebec this summer and Statistics Canada, a federal agency, had only the number of outsiders that have visited Canada during the first three months of 1977.

Despite advertising efforts aimed at getting Quebecers to stay home, many still prefer places like Ogunquit, Maine, where Quebec Premier Rene Levesque recently spent several days.

Although exact figures were impossible to obtain, Pouliot said more Quebecers every year seem to be heading to the United States for their vacations.

Once-popular vacation spots such as the Gaspe region are not doing as well as in the past, Pouliot said, blaming the area's 'really high" prices for meals and accomodations.

The Laurentian Mountains, another popular resort area north of Montreal, are also suffering this year and Pouliot said his department is still trying to find out why.

Fred Draper, a spokesman for Canadian Pacific Hotels, blamed the Quebec government and the tourist industry in general for not selling Quebec as a tourist attraction.

He said there had been "quite a large drop" in the occupancy rate at the Chateau Champlain Hotel in Montreal. The hotel usually fills 80 per cent of its rooms, but now the occupancy rate is "running in the name of competition, says its critics, the Securities and Exchange Commission is seeking to establish a monopoly in the securities industry's recordkeeping or settlement-clearance function. "In my long experience as a state and federal legislator I can remember no other instance where competition was fostered by creating a monopoly," says Rep. John Moss, D-Calif. The concept, he says is "somewhat bizarre."

The Justice Department has expressed doubts about the plan. And Bradford National Corp., which handles paperwork functions for the over-the-counter market and Pacific Stock Exchange, has sued to prevent the monopoly.

If put into practice save Pater DelCol, chairman of Bradford, it would soon muscle his company, which designes, installs and operates sophisticated computerized record-keeping systems, out of stock clearance and settlement.

His company's business, he continues, then would go almost wholly to the National Securities combining the clearing operatthe National Association of ions of the New York and American stock exchanges and the end regional exchanges, out Securities Dealers.

That, says Del Col, would mean a noncompetitive, government regulated monopoly, that would fix fates for most transactions and force competing clearing associations, and in the end regional exchanges, out of business.

Daughters Care

For Parents COLLEGE STATION -- Mid dle-aged daughters usually care for their parents, reports Dorthy Taylor, family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Although most older parents do not want to burden any of their children, they may be forced to turn to a family member at some time in later life. It is often an only daughter, or the oldest daughter, rather than a son, Miss Taylor says, It is older female relatives, particularly daughters, who normally makes contacts for sources of outside support--family or community agencies:-in parent care. "When older parents are. fairly self-sufficient, daughters usually keep in closer touch than sons do. Sons are more likely to get involved on special occasions or with major decisions and financial arrangements." the specialsit says. One chlid may be prepared to look after the parents from a long-time family "understanding" or the decision may result from a change in heart in the parents' old age because another child has more financial resources or appears to be more interested in the older parent. No matter which mature child cares for parents, older adults seek the support of children first to meet their needs in later life.

Airman To Make Trip On Unicycle

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Airman Frank Williams plans to go to Waco Labor Day the hard way atop a unicycle.

Williams, 20, said the 100-mile trip from Bergstrom Air Force Base will break the world record of 83 miles in one day. He also says he will pedal the one-wheel cycle 50 miles without stopping to set another record.

The United States Coast Guard was founded in 1798.

"It means," said another ting costs of regulation can Bradford spokesman, "that New York brokers, with the help of the SEC, have already seized control of an emerging national securities market by capturing its underlying transaction processes."

Del Col says this was never the intention of Congress in passing the Securities Act Amendments of 1975. Those amendments, he and others point out angrily and with frustration, were intended to bring competition to the industry

"The theory of the SEC is that they'll form a monopoly and watch it closely," says Del Col. But, he continues, the proliferaproduce skyrocketing government expenditures and ruin innovation. Almost all innovations in clearing and settlements during the past 20 years have come from clearing corporations not affiliated with the American or New York exchanges, Del Col observes. That's the nature of competition, he says.

"It's what I call competitive free enterprise," he says. "I start from the basic premise that this country is built on competition and that it runs better that way than with monopoly."

What the SEC wants, he says. Lance Says Bill Has Incentives

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -President Carter's budget director Bert Lance, told Southern governors Wednesday that the Administration's energy bill does provide incentives for development of new energy sources.

Lance appeared before the Southern Governors conference which approved 10-2 on Tuesday a resolution opposing continued regulation of natural gas prices. The Carter plan sets a $1.75 ceiling per thousand cubic feet on both interstate and intrastate gas prices.

"Sure, we want to see more production, and a good the legislation and the plan there is ample encouragement for development of new energy sources," Lance said.

He said that Carter felt he had to take a first step toward a national energy policy and determine that conservation had to be dealt with first and foremost.

Lance said that part of the problem was convincing the American people that there is an energy crisis. He declared that he was "not sure that people believe even now that there is a shortage."

Lance also told the governors that inflation and unemployment will decline in 1978 and repeated Carter's promise to balance the budget by 1981. "There are no straight lines in forecasting, but I'll hold by our latest assumptions," Lance told the Southern Governors Conference. "Conditions are such that the rate of inflation will drop in 1978. And the rate of unemployment will drop in

The administration has said the underlying rate of inflation now is about 6 per cent a year. Unemployment last month was 6.9 per cent.

President Carter will not tolerate spending of one more dollar than he feels the taxpayers should tolerate.

'I saw just this week a Gallup poll that reported 65 per cent of the people believe it is very important to balance the federal budget." Lance said. "Let me serve to stifle regional competition, such as from the Pacific Stock Exchange and the Midwest Exchange, the presidents of which have been critical of the power exercised by the New York-based institutions. Del Col maintains that a system of competitive clearing and settling organizations not only would result in more efficiency and lower costs, but that it could be implemented sooner than the SEC-endorsed

The NSCC has estimated it would need up to two years to consolidate its systems into one national clearance and settlement organization. Del Col says competitive system of interfacing agencies could be achieved in six to nine months. Moss, chairman of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, has written Harold Williams, SEC chairman that "a number of other options are open to the Commission which are much more in tune with the Congressional charge of fostering comp competing service entities." Del Col, whose company has delayed through court action any implementation of the NSCC for the time being, claims his requests to the SEC to rethink its decision were left unanswered until recently.

Within recent days he says he received a notification from Williams, who took office this spring, that he could meet with the full commission from 10 to 1 a.m. on September 29.

'Mark it on you calendar," says a determined Del Col. The laws says this monopoly shouldn't be, Congress says so, the Justice Department says so,

About three weeks ago. officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals discovered King trapped in the fly-and maggot-infested stall, standing atop a four-foot-high pile of manure in a garage in Plaistow.

beyond their normal length and they curved toward his knees like the runners on a rocking

In Tuesday's operation, at the University of New Hampshire, the grotesquely curved hooves were carefully whittled back to almost their normal size.

Carter took five flights during a three-day swing through April 1975.

Two of the flights were paid for by R.R. "Bobby" Allen on a plane owned by D.R. Allen and Son Inc. of Fayetteville, N.C.

Huron said that Allen was being reimbursed for $271.25 for the plane trips since Allen had previously contributed $1,000 to the Carter campaign, the legal limit for individuals under federal law.

Huron noted that the plane rides Allen paid for were not corporate funds and said Allen apparently failed to bill for the flights because he wasn't aware of the $1,000 contribution limit. A secretary at Allen's construction firm in North Carolina said Allen was out of the office and could not be reached immediately.

Allen became a member of the finance committee for Carter's inauguration and was named to the executive board of the Democratic National Finance Council last January.

Huron said a check would be sent out for $568.73 to reimburse the firm for two chartered flights.

Toye's Dream A Reality

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

It started as the mere germ of an idea in the moonish head of a transported Englishman and it erupted into what we are breathlessly calling today "the soccer explosion in the United States.

Clive Toye, you pulled it off. This is your life.

"Eight years ago when we were operating on a shoestring I said to myself that there was only one way to popularize soccer in this country," the 44-year-old former British journalist said, "and that was to bring in the only player known to American sports fans - the great Pele.

"I made it my personal mission. I chased him all around the world. I badgered, cojoled and begged. Finally, he agreed.

the 77,000 and 86,000 turnouts at the Meadowlands - proved to be justification for this dream."

Nursemaid of the North American Soccer League in its infancy, Toye leaves his post as president of the champion Cosmos Oct. 1 to become president and part owner of the Chicago Sting - a new adventure.

"In 1969, we were a two-man league," he said as he prepared to clean out his desk in his Rockefeller Plaza headquarters. "Phil Woosnam was executive director, I was director of administration and public relations, what there was of it.

"We had five teams - Atlanta. St. Louis, Dallas, Kansas City and Baltimore. Average attendance was around 1,500. Our office was the visitors' lockerroom in Atlanta Stadium. We telephones. Our budget was around $75,000 a year, which included sandwiches, Danish and coffee."

Toye recalls that it was a hardy band of pioneers who kept the sport going in those days.

'Players, who weren't making much money, were jumping around the country, conducting clinics and introducing soccer to kids in grade schools and on playgrounds. The kids loved it. So did the parents. That was our base. But we needed a

That stimulus, Toye recognized from the start, had to be Brazil's Edson Arantes do Nascimento - better known as Pele - the greatest soccer player in the world.

"I began pursuing Pele in 1969 and I intensified my efforts after he led Brazil to the World Cup title in 1970 in Mexico City," Toye said: "In February, 1971, I flew to Jamaica to talk about coming to the United States." The first reaction was not overly optimistic.

Pele listened and was very polite," Toye said. "But he didn't show much interest. He listened to my story and looked at me as if to say, 'Why me?'

"In 1971, he quit the national team and in October, 1974, he announced his retirement from competition. That was a signal for me to go after him. I met him in Frankfurt, later in Santos, Sao Paulo, Rome, Buenos Aires and Toronto

"My pitch was always the same: 'You are the only man who can make soccer a big time sport in the United States.' Finally, his resistance weakened. 'I understand,' he said.

Quarterback Depth Seen

Small, Quick Harvesters Prepared for Whitefaces

"I know the Hereford coaches were disappointed after their scrimmage against Tascosa, but it's hard to tell just how good a team is this early; Tascosa probably has one of their best teams in years."

Pampa coach John Welborn should be an image of confidence after the way his Harvesters crunched Canyon in their scrimmage last week (a 2-0 win) and the way the Herd looked against the Rebels. But, the Harvester mentor knows better than to relax.

"We're really just fair to mediocre right now," the coach said in a phone interview Wednesday afternoon. "I know Hereford will give us a good

Pampa, faced with the loss of two quality backs from a 6-4 team last season in David Caldwell and Ricky Moore, has switched its offense this season moving from the wishbone to the veer. "We just didn't have the personnel to run the wishbone," the coach said. "And we'll have to throw the ball more this year, too."

One spot where Welborn should not have to worry this year is at quarterback where senior Steve Young and junior Rick Dougherty give the Harvesters some depth. Young's best asset is probably his foot speed," the coach said. "He has a good arm but is a little erratic.

Dougherty, on the other hand, is the more accurate passer the coach contends, and

Also scheduled to see some action, although probably limited, is senior Tommy Clark, who will run at the fullback spot some despite shoulder and neck

Vilas Emerging As Top US Open Threat

By CHRISTIE BARBEE AP Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) ships. The faithful, including some of the men he stalks, noticed, but maintained their homage to the obvious contenders - Bjorn Borg of Sweden and

Jimmy Connors of Belleville, III. But today, with the two top seeds suffering aches and pains that kept them out of first-day matches, other players were more apprehensive about the prospect of Vilas, who is seeded

"The way he's playing now, I don't see anyone beating him on clay," said Manuel Santana, the 39-year-old former claycourt giant who was Vilas victim in the first round at the West Side Tennis Club Wednesday. The triumph was the 40th consecutive on clay for the 25-year-old Argentine. Vilas disposed of Santana, the 1965 Open champion from Spain, 6-1, 6-0. It looked effortless.

"There is no way you can win point from him," said Santana. "It seems he has no weaknesses at all."

"I think I played very well," Two days ago Guillermo Vilas he said, noting Vilas had beaten was stalking the big game at the Ilie Nastase 6-0, 6-2 over the on. weekend in a ro tournament in New York.

The top seeds in the men's and women's divisions were to make their first appearances here today. Connors aggravated a chronic back ailment over the weekend and had to default in the U.S. Pro championships. He was to meet Jaz Singh of Grossinger, N.Y.

Borg, who's had tendonitis n his shoulder and suffered an injured chest muscle in a practice session Tuesday, was to face Trey Waltke of St. Louis.

Connors is the defending champion. But Borg, the Wimbledon winner, is seeded first here by virtue of computer rankings.

Chris Evert was to play Sharon Walsh of Mill Valley, Calif., and Virginia Wade, the Wimbledon champion seeded third here, was to face transsexual Renne Richards. Nastase, the tempestuous Romanian, was on his best behavior Wednesday after trouncing South African Frew McMillan 6-0, 6-0. He said Borg, despite the ailments, is the man to beat.

Vilas, seeded fourth, appears to have a clear route in his own quarter of the draw.

If Vilas meets Borg, it would be in the semifinals.

Roscoe Tanner, the 11th seed fought off Matt Mitchell of Palo Alto, Calif., 4-6, 7-6, 6-1, allowed that Vilas has to be considered one of the top four men. He said he is "just one of mose people who have some kind of game that bothers me."

In other matches Wednesday, No. 12 Harold Solomon beat Bernie Mitton of South Africa, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 and No. 13 Mark Cox lost to Butch Walts of Atherton, Calif., 7-6, 7-6.

In a match of 18-year-olds, John McEnroe of New York who met Connors in the Wimbledon semifinals - beat Elliot Teltscher of Palos Verdes, Calif., 6-1, 6-3. McEnroe was penalized one point for misconduct after a 10-minute delay in play over a disputed

Harris Returns to LA Against Ex-Teammates

LOS ANGELES (AP) - James Harris firmly believes he was treated unfairly by the Los Angeles Rams should have continued as their No. 1 quarterback.

Tonight he'll try to prove his point as he runs the offense for the San Diego Chargers in the Los Angeles Coliseum, oppossing the Rams who employed him for three seasons.

This preseason, Harris has completed 27 of his 48 pass attempts for 331 yards and three touchdowns. He's been intercepted three times as the Chargers split four decisions.

Pat Haden, the former Rose Bowl Star from Southern California, took late last season as the starting Los Angeles quarterback and this preseason has hit 22 of 42 passes for 334 yards and three touchdowns, also with three interceptions.

Veteran Joe Namath will play the second/half against the Chargers in his bid to dislocate Haden from the No. 1 position. Namath is 12 for 27 with the Rams with one touchdown pass Another Rams starter of 1976. tight end Bob Klein, will be in a San Diego uniform. The club promises that he'll see service against his former teammates.

Klein announced he was retiring after failing to reach contract agreement with the Rams. Los Angeles then traded negotiating rights to the Chargers, who signed him for a reported $125,000.

Although Harris is slated to start at quarterback for San Diego, Coach Tommy Prothro, formerly of UCLA and the Rams, is expected to use rookie Cliff Olander from New Mexico State in the second half. Olander stand 6-5 and weighs

Los Angeles has been disappointing in the preseason with a 1-3 record, the worst since Chuck Knox took over four years ago. He can be expected to use his veterans and other possible starters much more than in the previous exhibition

The Rams' backfield will have Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti starting at halfback and fullback, the combination expected to start the season. And Rich Saul, the regular center last year who was a holdout this fall, comes back to open at center.

Rookie Wendell Tyler leads the Rams' rushing attack with 166 yards on 30 carries.

Nicklaus, Watson Top Series Golf

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, the current ruler of world golf and the man who would replace him, head an international field of 20 players for Friday's start of the $300,000 World Series of Golf.

It is the last time Nicklaus and Watson are expected to face each other this year, and there is the distinct possibility they could hook up in another dramatic duel, such as the ones that saw Watson win the Masters and British Open.

Porno, Massage Parlor Laws Too Broad, Rules Court

HOUSTON (AP) - Operators of adult theaters and bookstores and massage parlors have received favorable rulings in separate decisions issued in Jederal courts.

U.S. District Court Judge Ross Sterling abruptly halted lestimony Wednesday and ruled that Houston's new antipronography ordinance is unconstitu-

Sterling issued a permanent miunction against enforcement of the ordinance that, retoractively, would prohibit adult theaters and bookstores from operating within 2,000 feet of schools and churches.

Sterling said the ordinance was too broad and was not a reasonable regulation of the time, place and manner of handling materials that enjoy protection of the First Amendment.

Harris County's attempt to control message parlors was postponed 60 days in an order issued Wednesday by another

U.S. District Court Judge Carl O. Bue ordered the county to maintain the "status quo" until he can try a lawsuit which claims newly-adopted county regulations are unconstitutio-

Bue said enforcement of the regulations would result in irreparable injury to the 18 massage parlors, employes and owners who filed suit in his court. He noted the businesses would be forced to close and employes would be out of jobs.

The suit claimed it is unreasonable for the county to regulate massage parler hours, require structural changes and demand that all customers show identification. The provision which forbids a masseuse from giving a massage to a man would uncontitutionally drive women massage parlor employes from their jobs, the suit

The injunction concerning the theaters and bookstores replaces a temporary restraining order Sterling had granted earlier against enforcement of the ordinance the City Council approved June 28.

The court challenge was filed by operators of 19 adult

Clyde Woody, lawyer for the plaintiffs, told Sterling the ordinance was not intended to regulate the bookstores or theaters but amounted to a council conspiracy to run them out of business.

Operators of the stores and theaters contended it would be practically impossible to find a site that is not within 2,000 feet of a school or church.

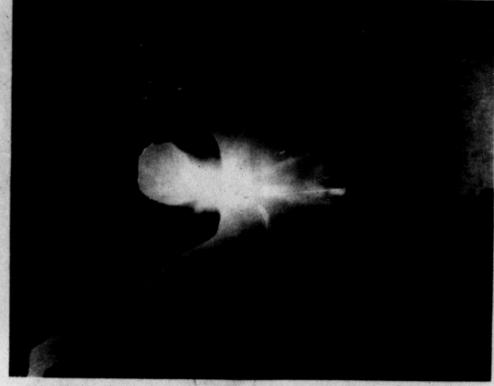

Councilman Frank Mann said the ordinance did not specify what kind of school must at at least 2,000 feet from such businesses. He said it could therefore apply to any type school. Councilman Larry Mc-Kaskle said he thought the ordinance referred to schools attended by small children.

JUDITH GUEST WINS FICTION PRIZE

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) Judith Guest, whose first novel was published this year, has been given the Janet Heidinger Kafka Prize in Fiction by an American Woman.

The award, presented by the University of Rochester Writers Workshop and the UR Department of English, was for "Ordinary People."

Honorable mention went to Helen Yglesias for "Family Feeling" and Alice Walker for "Meridian."

DIAMOND IN THE SKY was a rewarding find for Dan Allyn. The combination of his own hand, camera and the sun won the 14-year-old Bellevue, Wash., photographer an honor award in the 1977 Scholastic Magazine/Kodak Photo Awards. Prizes went to more than 200 junior and senior high school students with the results of their work going on display at New York City's Kodak Gallery. The 1978 competition, offering $6,000 in awards for black-andwhite and color photography, opens in September.

While shuffling along a La-Grange County road near her home one day, young Florence decided that she would become a teacher and a lawyer. Both ambitions became realities.

She taught for a while in a one-room schoolhouse, then returned to the classroom, in her 30s, to study for her second career. Florence Thacker Bradley continues to practice law, as she has for 46 years.

"I suppose that nature's eventually going to retire me," she muses. "But as long as I can drive a car, I'll come on down to my office." The attorney is 83 years old.

Carter's Wheat Cutback Plan Won't Dent Nation's Surplus

WICHITA. Kan. (AP) . (Carter) had announced a 50 per cut wheat production next year will hardly make a dent in the nation's grain surplus, breadbasket farmers say.

The wheat surplus has grown steadily while the price per bushel has declined from $5 three years ago to less than $3

Carter proposed on Monday a 20 per cent reduction in planting next spring. Some farmers would have prefered a 25 per cent reduction. Still others say that a greater reduction would be needed to decrease supplies enough to raise prices.

Richard Theurer, a grower in Sumner County, near the Oklahoma bordero calls the 20 per cent cutback a "very small reduction" in light of the huge surplus of wheat.

'It's something for the speculators to play with on the Board of Trade," he says. "If he

First Corn Harvested

The county's first load of corn for the 1977 harvest season was delivered to Pitman Grain's Hereford elevator late Wednesday afternoon by Virgil and Dwaine Walker.

According to Walter Seed of Pitman, the load arrived shortly before 5:30 and tilted the scales at 18,700 pounds.

The Pioneer 3780 variety corn had a test weight of 56.6 pounds per bushel and moisture content of the first load was 15.89.

Seed reported that the Walkers are expected to resume harvesting their plot of early corn today. The county's corn har-

> "It may take four years to set-aside programs to get the supply back in balance with demand before the state's wheat growers see prices get back where they were three years ago," says John Armstrong, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau.

"We have enough wheat on hand now to keep bread and Wheaties on grocers' shelves for four years without planting any wheat at all next month."

Armstrong says he would have preferred a 25 per cent set-aside figure but speculates that "20 per cent is likely all the Carter administration figures it can sell the nonfarm public on supporting."

Earl Hayes, president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, says the 20 per cent figure is "the absolute

Shortage of Wheat Straw Plaguing Dairy Farms

LANCASTER, Pa-The low prices for wheat are causing gloom among Midwest farmers. but dairy farmers in the Northeast aren't smiling much about it right now either. of the buyers represent race Dairymen need straw for bedding for their cows and the low price for wheat has caused tracks. less grain to be planted in this area.

Many farmers have switched usual grain acreage to corn for silage. An early winter and dry spring have meant a lighter crop on the acreage that was planted. In the heavily dairy-oriented areas, like Lancaster County, farmers are looking for alternatives to straw. In many cases cornstalks are being used for bedding.

The switch has caused a demand for more heavy-duty baler that can accommodate the tougher, hard-to-bale corn fodder. Area farm equipment dealers say there's more interest in cornstalk baling this year than they have seen for many years.

"With straw bringing as much as $95 a ton, there's no alternatives," says Paul Martin.

owner of a Leola auction where hay and straw are sold. Local farmers say buyers are coming from hundreds of miles searching for good straw. Many tracks in Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey, as well as local

"We can't afford to compete with prices like the race track people pay," said a young farmer watching the auctioneer and crowd moving from truck to truck in the huge lot.

Max Smith, the county extension agent in Lancaster County, says the central Pennsylvania area has suffered from a straw shortage for the last several years and this year's dry weather and reduced wheat tonnage has compounded the problem. He says in some cases straw for bedding is bringing a higher price than hav for feeding cows.

"Chopped corn fodder makes a good substitute where the farmer doesn't have a liquid manure system," Smith said.

Again, the self-sufficient Amish farmers may have an wonder farmers are looking for sedge on their mechanized neighbors. The Amish still use thresh their grain with steampowered threshing machines. They save virtually every piece of straw blown into a huge stack during the threshing process. But, this year's lighter grain straw harvest will probably affect the Amish as well. They will be baling even more corn fodder for bedding. Horsedrawn balers, rigged with engines for powering the balermechanism, are being readied for the difficult job of baling fodder.

"You need a tough baler to handle fodder. Some dealers may have underestimated the demand for balers, thinking the weather would reduce the hay crop. But, now we see an increasing demand for good balers to handle the corn fodder." said Mac Reeves. baler product manager at Sperry New Holland, a baler manufacturer in Lancaster County.

At the New Holland Sales Stable, a dairyman with 50 milking cows on his farm south of Blue Ball, was successful bidder on a 9,000 pound load of straw that had been shipped in from more than 90 miles away.

He paid $86 a ton.

'My brother in Ohio has all the straw I could ever use just going to waste. But it would cost me more than that to have it shipped in from his place. My straw mow looks pitiful. I just have to have it and I have to pay the price to get it." he said.

An Amish farmer, drawing a map to his farm near Intercourse, so the truck driver could deliver a load of $83-a-ton straw, summed up the situation in a few words. "I need straw and these folks have it. I have to pay $1 more than what the man I'm bidding against thinks it's

Again the old story of American agriculture's dependency on weather is pointed up in what may happen to consumer prices. Wheat, in abundance in the Midwest, could bring lower consumer prices for wheat products. On the other hand, in the Northeast, the shortage of straw from wheat is forcing dairy farmers to pay more for one of their important inputs. And that eventually will have to show up in milk prices.

'Improvement in cattle prices during the fourth quarter, plus lower feed ingredient costs. made it profitable to market company-owned cattle." -said John G. Carrothers, President. During the total fiscal year, custom feeding was the leading income producer for the company and was only slightly below the 1976 level for this line

'Animal health supplies would have done even better if it had not been necessary to take a sizable non-recurring inventory write-down at yearend." Carrothers commented.

The combined loss from transportation and grain operations was about the same as in fiscal 1976. These two lines of business are instrumental in assisting the company's com-mercial feed and custom feeding operations in achieving a better financial performance.

"Even though income from the sale of company-owned cattle in the fourth quarter was the best in 11/2 years, it was still not sufficient to offset cattle sale losses in the first nine months of fiscal 1977 when prices were extremely depressed," explained Carrothers.

Almost 55,000 head of company-owned cattle were marketed in fiscal 1977, and resulted in a pre-tax loss of $484,000. In fiscal 1976, about 35,400 head were sold for a pre-tax income of more than consumer should not use the water he needs, it does mean he should make good use of that water without unnecessary The average daily water use for a family of four is 225 gallons for normal domestic uses. including bathing, drinking. cooking and washing. That daily average does not include lawn watering and car washing. According to Texas Water Development Board statistics, 73 per cent of the average daily usage occurs in the bathroom. 11 per cent in the kitchen and 16 per cent in the utility room.

In the bathroom water can be conserved in several ways. For instance, shower times can be decreased. When taking tub baths, use one inch less water than normal. While shaving and burshing teeth, turn off the water faucet instead of letting the water go down the drain.

Additional water can be saved by making adjustments to the commode, whether it means adding a brick to the tank compartment or replacing the conventional five or six gallon tank with a new 31/2 gallon fixture. Avoid using the commode as a garbage disposal by eliminating unnecessary flushing of cigarettes, facial tissue and other trash. In the kitchen, water can be saved by chilling a filled pitcher in the refrigerator instead of letting it cool while running the tap. Installation of faucet aerators will reduce consumption. The homemaker should use the sink stopper as often as possible during cooking and washing chores.

Appliances in both the kitchen and utility room should not be used except when there is a full load of dishes or clothes. In buying appliances, consider those which use less water or match the job at hand with its water needs.

In all parts of the house, water leaks should be stopped. Whether the leak is a dripping faucet of a loose washing machine hose, the drop-at-atime loss is significant. A slow drip alone can waste 170 gallons a day or 5,100 gallons a month. Eliminating such nuisances can amount to a savings of several dollars each month on Conserving energy around the house indirectly saves water for the homemaker. For every kilowatt hour of electricity saved, you are conserving the half-gallon of water it takes to produce that electricity.

Water conservation outdoors is equally important in a semi-arid climate such as the High Plains because of the amount of water required to keep lawns in good shape.

Watering lawns at night or during the cool portion of the day cuts down on evaporation. A slow watering increases absorption and lessens runoff. Fertilizing lawns at least twice a year provides greater root stimulation and reduces water requirements. Also, landscape your yard with grasses native to the area and with plants that, do not require excessive water.

As general manager for the division, Hackett will supervise the company's production activities and sales efforts.

Hackett's appointment, effective August 1, was announced by Glenn Pirrong, president of Searle Agriculture Inc., headquartered in Cary, Illinois. "From his experience in both sales and production, dating since the plant's inception, Bill Hackett will bring a thorough understanding of BioCon's operations to the job of general manager," Pirron said.

Hackett, a native of London, Ohio, is a graduate of Ohio state University, where he majored in English and played on the varsity football team for 1967 and 1969. He also attended the Toledo University Law School. Before joining BioCon, he was employed by the Ohio Youth Commission as a special education teacher and case worker. Hackett and his wife, Judy, live in Hereford.

Tilleez is produced by biologically converting cattle manure into humus that can be applied to the soil without the problems of odor or weeds usually associated with manure. The BioCon facility is the largest such recycling plant ever built. BioCon derives its name from the term "biological conversion" the process by which Tilleez is made.

I don't know what a new bike did for the kid who stole it from my son.

But I know what it is doing to me and I don't like it. I find myself looking with suspicion into the eyes of every child who rides a brown Schwinn 10-speed and thinking if I stare at him long enough he will "break."

I find myself rehearsing speeches in the bathroom mirror that Pat O'Brien as an Irish priest gave to the prison inmates 20 years ago.

I accost perfect strangers in the supermarket and on buses and without so much as an introduction say, "My son had his bicycle stolen," and launch into the entire sordid story of how he got up at 4 a.m. every morning to deliver papers and how he now gets a hernia from carrying them on his back, etc.

But worst of all, I find myself guarding the new replacement bike like the contents of the Louvre. My husband compares it to the new baby anxiety complex where you get up five times a night to see if it is still where you left it. At least three times a day, I check the bike to see if anyone has been tampering with the tires, stolen the light, lifted the gears or swapped the book rack or the basket.

If there is no moon, I bring it into the house and park it by

"And who is going to bike-sit?" I asked. "Maybe the Walthers could keep an eye on things," he offered.

"Hah! They don't even bring their bicycles in when it rains. Not on your sweet tintype.'

"You can't go through life mothering a bicycle," said my husband patiently. "These things happen. You are beginning to regard that bike as something human!" "Don't be ridiculous," I said. "To me a bicycle is just a couple of tires held together by bolts and nuts, rust and chrome.'

"That's better," he said. "Let's go in the house and plan our trip."

As I heard my son drive the bike into the garage, I ran to the door and yelled out hysterically, "DON'T FORGET TO LOCK YOUR BROTHER!'

City to Fight MD In Several Ways

Citizens who are planning to volunteer as solicitors Monday during the door-to-door collection for muscular dystrophy should report to Knights of Columbus Hall at 9 o'clock that morning.

A large number of volunteers are needed in order to adequately canvass the city for donations, according to Robert Diller, drive chairman. Persons interested in volunteering are asked to telephone Mrs. Sam Mazurek, 276-5262

The collection of contributions from residential sectors is in conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, which will begin at 8 p.m. Sunday on KFDA, Channel 10. The telethon numbers in Hereford than $9,000 for the fight against muscular dystrophy last year. It is hoped that that total will be surpassed during the approaching telethon.

Local citizens can also support the Muscular Dystrophy Association by attending the MD Carnival Sunday in Dameron Park. The event is being held again by Hereford Elks.

A variety of carnival games are planned for all ages with the dunking board expected to be a feature attraction. Clowns will be present and a concession stand will be in operation. Kenny and Karren Ruland, chairmen of the carnival, stated that all proceeds will be given to MDA. They expressed appreciation to local merchants for contributing merchandise, which will be given as carnival rizes or sold in an auction.

A layette shower honoring Mrs. Martin Urbancyzk was given in the home of Linda McDowell, 102 Pecan Tuesday evening.

The honoree wore a corsage of yellow feathered mums, babybreath and ribbon.

Centered on a hard wood table was an arrangement of baby paraphernalia sided with yellow punch and an assortment of desserts.

The hostesses alternated serving refreshments.

Those assisting Mrs. McDowell were Nancy Urbancyzk, Linda Woodard, Carol Ann Simmons, and Darla Hale. Approximately 40 guests

Rebekahs Consider Business

Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met in regular session Tuesday evening at 100F Temple.

Noble grand Ola Hacker presided during business. Reports of 36 visits to the sick were made.

The box supper held recently was termed "a big success," although attendance was light. Members cited the publicity provided by KPAN Radio and Kerri Steiert of The Hereford Brand. Members also expressed appreciation to the men who bid for the gaily-decorated boxes of food.

Ursalee Jacobsen, district deputy president, reported a visit to Dimmitt Rebekah Lodge #54 Aug. 25 when she presented the State President's program for the year. She was accompanied by Helen Sowell and Susie Curtsinger.

Mrs. E.L. Ivey of Dimmitt presented the "Gift of Life" program produced by the Kidney Foundation. The organ donor program is being sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Texas.

noteworthy interest to local citizens. It's a task to remember all of them, so jot them on your calendars: The Muscular Dystrophy Telethon has always received generous support in this community and it will probably be the same story this year. Mrs. Sam Mazurek, mother of an MD child, is urging people (particularly youths) to volunteer for the door-to-door campaign on Monday and, in order to collect residential contributions, a volunteer must report to the Knights of Columbus Hall first to receive necessary packets.

In addition to the individual donations residents will have the opportunity Sunday to support the fight against MD and have a merry time--all at once. The Elks are again staging an MDA Carnival in Dameron Park and a multitude of valuable items will be given as prizes. Also, fun activities such as a dunking board and frizby throw are planned.

Neighbors Share Creative Hobby

By DIANNE BANNER Brand Staff Writer

Not too many people in Hereford have taken up the hobby of creating stained glass items as have two homemakers who reside north of town.

Mrs. Arliss Edwards and Mrs. Mark Hicks have been making stained glass swag lamps, table lamps, window decorations and windows during the summer in preparation for an art show in Lubbock which will take place Sept. 10 at the Garden and Arts Center there. The two hope to sell some of their work and begin making special orders for individuals.

Since Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Edwards are neighbors, they took lessons together in Amarillo from a studio in Dallas. Pattern books are available for intricate designs so that the hobbyist can make a number of things ranging from a tiffany lamp, which Mrs. Hicks has fashioned for her dining room, to colorful patterned windows which Mrs. Edwards created for Asked why they picked the hobby Mrs. Edwards replied that "Old stained windows are expensive. We both wanted to have some pieces to go in our homes and when we heard about the classes last year, we homemakers are farmers.

for ourselves."

The homemakers do all of the work themselves. They buy the stained glass and cut it to fit the patterns they want, then they piece the creation together using a soldering iron.

Mrs. Hicks commented that cutting the glass gets dangerous at times and that they have learned to keep a "large supply of band-aids around the house.

She also said "We have had to take time out many times to pull splinters of glass from our children's feet because they sometimes come around where we work barefoot."

When the homemakers aren't making lamps or windows they are giving attention to their families.

Mrs. Edwards has two children. Her six-year-old son Hud, is a first grader at Bluebonnet Elementary and his sister Jaci is four years of age and is attending kindergarten at First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Hicks is also a mother of two and has a seven year old son, Jeff who is a second grader at Bluebonnet and three-yearold Jenifer stay at home with hard to find and are very her mother and keeps her

CCA Appeals To Family Sector

"Make it a family affair" is the advice of Hereford Community Concert Association, which initiates its annual membership drive here Monday.

CCA volunteers are putting emphasis on the new cut-rate for family memberships, which can be bought for $30 this year. A family membership includes all family members who reside in a household.

Individual memberships will be sold at the price of $12 for an adult and $6 per student. Membership in Community Concert provides admission to at least ten performances in Lubbock, Hereford and Clovis, N.M. Only CCA members are admitted to these special presentations.

Memberships for the 1977-78 season will be sold from Sept. 5 through Sept. 17 and it will not be possible to acquire tickets after this period has ended. Headquarters for the membership drive will be the Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main, telephone 364-3333. Office hours are from 9:30 a.m. -5 p.m. weekdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Walden and Virginia Holmes are serving as chairmen of the membership campaign in cooperation with president of the concert association. They urge interested persons to purchase (or renew) their season memberships as soon as possible after Sept. 5.

CCA presentations to be presented this year in Hereford High School include Rostel and Shafter, duo pianists from Britain; The New Christy Minstrels and the Hungarian Folk Ballet of Budapest and Gypsy Orchestra. In addition to the three local attractions. Hereford CCA members will have the opportunity to attend seven other performances in Lubbock and Clovis.

Ann Landers Can't Buy Love

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husban and I invited out two sons and their wives on a 6,000-mile trip. We bought their airline tickets, paid their hotel bills, bought meals and rented cars everywhere we wanted to start sightseeing early, we had breakfast out of the hotel. Both times the older son told the waitress, "Separate checks, please." (He and his brother are in the $20,000-ayear bracket.)

The last night of the trip, the boys and their wives "made other plans" and could not find time to have dinner with us. My husband was furious and told them off. Needless to say, the "vacation" ended on a sour note. I'm ashamed to sign my name, but would appreciate your comments on the ingratitude of this generation .- N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: It isn't THIS generation-it's every generation from the beginning of time. Remember "Sharper than a serpent's tooth..."?

Six thousand miles of togetherness for three grown couples in the same family is a bit much, unless it's a super-special tribe. If it's advice you want, here it is: Don't try to buy the companionship of your children. If you think I'm being hardboiled, ask yourself this: Would your sons and their wives have accompanied you on that trip if they had to pay for it themselves?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an exhausted mother who needs help. Our older boy is brain-damaged and cannot do many things for himself that most nine-year-olds can do. We had our younger boy (age six) tested three months ago and his is "hyperkinetic." I had never even heard the word before. I thought he was just overly energetic. (His teacher suggest-ed we get him evaluated.)

We can't afford help and my mother is not well enough to give me a hand with these two children. Can you suggest some reading material that might help me cope? If I understood more about my children's problems I would do better by them as well as myself. Thanks, Ann.--Hav-

Yesterday, on my way to work, I saw a car in a parking lane trying to get into the flow of traffic. I slowed down and let him in ahead of me. The car pulled away without a nod or a wave of thanks. The driver was about 50 years of age.

For the last three months I've been doing a private survey. My findings were completed this morning. Here are the results. The middle-aged and older drivers are about six times as unlikely to show appreciation for any small courtesy. Younger drivers (especially teenagers) are much more courteous and friendly.--Test From The Mid-

DEAR TEST: Thanks for the clue-in. Let's hear it for those considerate and friendly drivers, folks. Statistics also show they live longer.

Introducing Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia.

Recommended by American Library Association Booklist Review*

The best way to get information is to go to the source.

And that's exactly what Funk & Wagnalls has been doing since 1876, when they began publishing reference books.

Their sources for this new Centennial Edition include hundreds and hundreds of prominent people. Each a recognized authority in his, or her, field of knowledge. Many with Nobel and Pulitzer prizes to their credit. And while they're too numerous to list here, you'll find they're all listed in Volume 1.

The result is a comprehensive, accurate home reference center with over 193,000 indexed subjects. (That's as many subjects as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more contain.)

And each article is written in clear, simple English that gets to the heart of the subject without going over your head.

That's why the experts recommend Funk & Wagnalls.

To introduce you to Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia, we sell Volume 1 at the remarkable introductory price of only 49c.

So instead of going through a salesman's sales pitch, you just go through Volume 1 and let it convince you to buy the rest of

That way, you find out it ir's the right encyclopedia for your family before you pay for the whole set. And you save two ways. First, because Funk & Wagnalls sells their encyclopedias through supermarkets instead of through salesmen there's no commission to pay. Second, because supermarkets can sell in great volume, Funk & Wagnalls can afford to charge you less per volume.

So stop by the Funk & Wagnalls display in any of our supermarkets and pick up Volume It's one of the smartest purchases you can make these days.

advances in the field. John A. Murphy, in his book, "The Home Owner's Energy Guide," tells how he got interested in solar energy and designed a house that would cover all his heating and cooling costs. The only trouble was that, when the drawings were completed, the solar collector was twice as large as the Most of us have been bombarded with information about the economic benefit of extra insulation in our houses. The savings are real, especially if someone in the family can do the installation work himself. It is a phase of do-it-yourselfing that requires virtually no skill, only a strict adherence to the manufacturer's directions.

The list of energy-saving features that can be built into a new house is a lot longer than you might think. For instance, in a program developed by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation under contract to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the specifications for a demonstration house listed 56 energy-saving features. In addition to the usual increased insulation, weather-stripping, double and triple-glazed windows and doors, and many other measures about which most of us have some knowledge, the list included such things as 7foot, 6-inch ceilings to reduce interior volume; surfacemounted electrical outlets with wiring in the floor to avoid penetrating the walls; a water heater set back to 120 degrees Fahrenheit; and heat circulator fireplace units with glass door enclosures to utilize outdoor combustion air. A three-bedroom, 1,200square-foot house built to these specifications is being tested in Mt. Airy, Md. Additional construction costs were about $3,-000, but are expected to be cost-effective: that is, they will pay for themselves within a reasonable period of time because of the savings in energy

It will take about a year to pinpoint the energy performance of the house compared to a similar conventional house. Meanwhile, all kinds of meters are keeping tabs on the energy

Fashions Infiltrate Hungary

Communit Hungary, there is a dictatorship of fashion.

We follow the Paris style absolutely, said Lilly Schleifer, one of three women who have run Budapest's Salon Clara since the death of the legendary Clara Rothschild several months ago.

Clara Rothschild was the "gig woman" of Hungarian fashion although she was tiny and frail.

In 1950, shortly after communism came to power in Hungary, she gave her business away to the state with the understanding she could conti-

The Salon Clara is still state-owned, but Mrs. Schleifer made clear that the trio running it would have little if any interference from the Communist government.

The other two women are Susan Toeroek and Magdalena Russai

They said the Budapest women buying dresses at the Salon Clara had no opportunity to tone down the new Paris style, if they should think perhaps it was too extravagant of even daring.

There is no compromise in hauts couture," said Mrs. Schleifer, who said business was very good.

Customers include women from the United States, Britain, BUDAPEST (AP) - In Canada, West Germany, Switz- which 80-90 per cent are erland, Italy, Holland and Austria, among others.

Why should anyone from the West travel to Budapest to buy a haute couture dress there instead of at Paris or the top Italian fashion centers?

Because of the salon's lower prices and the first-class workmanship. Mrs. Schleifer

Though she refused to disclose any prices, she said, 'For the money a woman spends in Paris for one dress, she can get two-and-a half

The salon employs "far more than a hundred first-class dressmakers. Our embroidery department is one of the finest in the world," Mrs. Schleifer declares.

Vaci Utca, where the salon is located, is Budapest's main business street. It is in the center of the city, not far from the big hotels.

There is no way such a threat come to any agreement under

Senators and diplomats who want us to give control of the canal to Panama are insisting that we have to-that guerrilla warriors may destroy it if we

The Panama Canal is one of the world's all-time great engineering accomplishments. Including a preliminary effort by the French, it took 44 years to build that ditch, it cost $400 million in the days when they were hundred-cent dollars--and it cost 25,000 lives.

What the Panama Canal's six sets of locks do is to lift ships over a mountain and lower them to sea level on the other side.

Every year some 14,000 ships are thus moved from one ocean to another.

Fringe benefits to the Panamanians are enormous. This construction project transformed a pestilence-ridden jungle into one of the healthiest areas of the world.

So effectively did we combat yellow fever and malaria in the Canal Zone that, by the time the canal opened in 1914, the annual death rate in that country was less than half the United States rate.

Panama was properly appreciative until the early 1960s when U.S. involvement in Vietnam invited the accusation outdated colonial power--and anti-American rioting erupted in the Canal Zone.

That is when the United States promised to negotiate an eventual return of the canal to Panamanian administration.

United States of Americans generally are disinclined to submit to intimidation or blackmail.

Recently, public opinion surveys show Americans threeto-one against ceding control of the canal.

But the Carter Administration savs we must.

The Administration denies that it is yielding to threats in so doing; Ambassador Bunker explains that failure to give up the canal would "be looked upon by other countries in Latin America as evidence the United States has not given up imperialist notions.'

Perhaps it is anachronistic in 1977 for the United States to maintain a zone of authority across any other sovereign

Perhaps defending that authority would cost more than it would be worth.

If the new treaty does in fact protect the neutrality of the waterway, I suppose we have little to lose.

But bothersome to the conscience of historically generous Americans is the lopsided nature of this all-give, no-take

And the fact that our government insists this is not what it so obviously is:

that the United States was an See Jimmy's Neck Throp

WASHINGTON (AP) - If a friend, lender and budget vein in President Carter's neck has been throbbing lately, reporters haven't noticed it.

The state of the President's vein becomes a matter of potential interest because. according to his mother, "Miss Lillian" Carter, a throbbing neck vein is a dead giveaway that the chief executive is angry. But why, you might ask, would Carter be angry? For starters, consider the mixed notices that have accompanied disclosures of the former banking practices of Bert Lance, the President's old director. Although Carter now stands squarely behind Lance, the White House acknowledged that incoming mail is critical of the hulking Georgia moneyman by a two-to-one margin

Such problems are not calculated to contribute to presidentail serenity.

Even so, no throbbing vein was evident last week when Carter, holding his 14th formal news conference, was besieged with Lance questions, many of them as pointed as any as he has faced.

But three days later, at a private, informal question session with a group of visiting editors and broadcast news directors. Carter gave at least a hint that the persistent questions about Lance were getting under his skin.

Carter told his visitors, for example, that all their questions had been substantive and important adding:

Quite often, in the national press conference here, the major emphasis, almost exclusive interest, is on a transient question."

The President did not cite an example but there was at least a suspicion in some quarters that he had the Lance affair in mind. The suspicion was not lessened by the fact that the visitors asked not a single question about Bert Lance.

But who can be sure?

The self-contained Carter is hard to read. With reference to the Lance controversy, we have the testimony of Carter's press secretary. Jody Powell, that there are no outward manifestations of presidential emotion.

"He has not appeared to be noticeably concerned or disturbed. "I've seen no signs of exasperation, paranoia or stomach upset."

The sunlight streaming through a window left the surface of the sun only eight minutes earlier.
