AROUND TOWN

SIGHTS, FACES
SEEN

Cattle shipments this week were reported steady, but lower in volume than the number of the previous week. Bruce Woodell, animal and hide inspector, reported the daily shippings ranged between 400 and 600 cars.

Booking a big time vaudeville show, Wayne Evans, International Harvester dealer said today that the annual show will be held at the high school auditorium Thursday, March 31, beginning at 8:00 p. m. Among the acts will be: John Ellis, magic and fun; Jerry Jeremiah, accordionist; Wally Sands, singing Emcee; Roberta and Mack, comedians. "Bring the whole family," invited Mr. Evans.

Also attracting wide comment among theatre goers is presentation of "El Paso" at the Star on Monday and Tuesday. The film had its world premier in El Paso, Texas, Friday, and comes to Hereford only two days after release. Manager Francis Hardwick got back to hear the big news, and is all a-twitter. He is already worrying about not having enough room in the recently remodeled Star.

He also reported that workmen will start placing the burnt tile covering on the front of the theatre next week, but said business will continue "as usual."

O. T. Higgins this week announced purchase of the Magnolia Service Station, located on Highway 60, across west from the Bull Bars. He assumed active management Friday, taking the station over from Neill Young.

Morris Easley has also gone into the service station business, and will operate the new station under construction near Highway 60-51 intersection. He plans to handle the Phillips 66 line, and will feature a large selection of sporting goods and equipment.

Blanton Butane has recently remodeled office quarters on Highway 60, and are now using the offices, but will postpone the formal opening for a few days. Lyle Blanton said Saturday. The remodeling included a large display room and modern offices for the firm; all floors are covered with linoleum tile. Mrs. Betty (Continued on Page 8)

ACA Moves To Set Allotment On Base Crops

Proposed Plan Would Set Farm Acreage by Production Surplus

Faust Collier, local ACA head, has announced the Department of Agriculture asked Production and Marketing division of ACA offices to draw up individual acreage totals for farms in each county from 1941 to 1949.

This was announced at the meeting Collier attended in Amarillo Wednesday where representatives of Agriculture Conservation Offices from 17 Panhandle counties met to discuss government agriculture provisions and their work this season.

Although acreage totals will be listed annually for each season, the ACA office will draw up the average yearly acreage dealing only with totals from 1945 through 1949. This will apply to all crops; Collier listed wheat, potatoes, sugar beets, grain sorghums, rye, oats, barley, carrots, lettuce and alfalfa.

Base for Allotments
"Congress has not yet determined what years will be used as the basis in determining allotments," said Collier. "But when they do, the county committee will then determine what the allotments on wheat and cotton will be for the 1950 season and mail the allotments to the farmers."

Secretary of Agriculture Brandon will have his office check current wheat supplies, and if the volume of wheat carried over is above the normal percentage requirement, the secretary will call for a referendum vote from the farmers on July 23 to see if they favor price support, plus allotted acreage, or no price support and planting freedom.

Three possibilities may result from this election. If the farmers favor allotments, and if they (Continued on Page 4)

Golfers To Meet Tuesday Evening

Deward Roberson, president of the Hereford Golf Association has announced a meeting of the members and directors to be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Golf Club House.

The meeting is being called so the members may discuss financial angles and problems confronting the association, and to hear a review of the progress being made on the course, Jim Terry, pro has added.

Discuss New Carillon Tower Chimes

The above group is discussing installation of the new carillon tower chimes to be installed in the Methodist chapel, now under construction. They are Mr. and Mrs. Colby Conkright, donors, Rev. Don Davidson, pastor, and S. O. Wilson, building committee chairman. Of English type, it is estimated that the chimes can be heard for a distance of two miles. —Photo by Cole Studio.

BELLS CAN BE HEARD TWO MILES

New Methodist Church Will Feature Chimes

A set of carillon tower chimes the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Colby Conkright is to be installed in the new Methodist Church chapel Rev. Don Davidson, pastor, announced this week.

The Building Committee of the First Methodist Church met Monday to accept the gift of the chimes. Plans had been in the air for some time, Rev. Davidson explained, but the details were worked out only this week.

"These chimes will be given as a memorial to Mrs. Conkright's brother, Guy Winifred Finney, who was killed in service during World War II. The dedication plaque will read also, 'and to all our other men who paid the supreme price for our freedom.' The use of the chimes will be solely in keeping with the suggestions of the ministerial alliance said Rev. Davidson, but they would be used as a call to worship and for evening vesper services.

Probable range of the chimes, which will be of the English type rather than the Flemish type, is estimated at two miles. They will be played by automatic clock, which sets the schedule so the chimes play as often and as long as one wishes.

The bells will be installed in the spiral atop the chapel on completion of construction. Rev. Davidson said the church hoped to have the structure completed by fall.

He also believed that other companies, particularly California companies, would likely move in after they had watched the results of one more harvest season. Hereford lettuce has a reputation, the trade is asking about it all over the country from Chicago to New Orleans and from California to the Atlantic coast. The lettuce harvested here last year was really delicious and there is a demand for it in the

STILL 1,500 TO GO

License Plates For 1949 Must Be On Cars Not Later Than April 1

The car license deadline draws near with April 1 only five days off and worth Covington, deputy in the office of tax collector, announced that there are approximately 1,500 licenses left to sell. Covington said approximately 2,300 licenses had already been sold for cars, trucks and other vehicles in the county.

"The 1949 licenses have to be on by Friday, April 1," Covington warned. "The office is staying open during noon hours until the first for the benefit of license buyers."

Covington said Friday business hadn't been as brisk as he had anticipated. "We've only sold about 150 today whereas we should have sold about 250," he said.

Bids On REA Lines To Serve 178 Families Will Be Opened Thursday

A bid opening will be held at the REA office at 10 a. m. March 31 regarding construction of additional rural service lines to serve 178 families scattered over the tri-county area, Leo Forrest, manager of the Deaf Smith County Rural Electrification Association announced Saturday.

This line project will be the first construction added since last spring and will increase the number of REA users in Deaf Smith, Farmer and Castro Counties by about ten per cent.

Pointing out this was an "R-Section" contract and would include people who had signed up and were approved for home service before August, 1948, Forrest said 73 irrigation wells could be added to the line that would be re-phased.

This is part of the overall enlargement project which the REA has been planning. At its inception, officials had hoped to add even more to their building at this time. Wire conductors, obtainable only from the aluminum corporations, are still on the hard-to-get list however, and this factor necessitated their cutting their plans.

"They had promised us enough wire to finish this project, way back in 1948. Then we were notified it would be 1949 before we could get all the wire we needed, and now they tell us it will be 1950 or later," said Forrest. "Rather than delay the entire program, we are going ahead and adding as many families as we can."

Guidance pruning should do away with any occasional drastic pruning. Therefore the amateur pruner should consider limb spacing and limb crowding. According to the type of tree, many of their branches trimmed high enough to avoid interfering with street traffic or street safety. Ordinarily lower branches should be 10 to 12 feet above the sidewalk or roadbed.

According to E. P. Peis, former state entomologist of New York this condition is corrected in some cases by cutting lower limbs two inches in diameter or thereabouts. It is much better to raise the head while the tree is still small and the branches mere whips. In ornamental trees the branches may be allowed to develop from the ground up to give a round or pyramidal shape.

Pruning must also be done with the consideration of admitting light and air to tree tops. Too many branches not only spoil the balance of the tree, they destroy the health of the tree as well. But on the other hand, erratic, unplanned and excessive pruning causes too great a wood formation on the plants.

County Paving Program Is Blocked By Location Fuss

Deaf Smith County's proposed 100-mile network of paved roads appeared to have become another shattered dream here Saturday afternoon. The situation became apparent at a meeting of the special roads committee, prior to appearance before the State Highway Commission scheduled in Austin for March 31.

Hereford Area Expected To Grow 15 Cars Lettuce On 3,000 Acres

Predicting big things for the lettuce crops in Hereford, Richard Bush, of Phoenix, Arizona, announced Friday that Bush Brothers were moving into the Hereford area to raise 600 acres of lettuce this year, on the first season of a long-term stay. Bush said an approximate total of 3000 acres would be contracted by all companies to grow lettuce in the Hereford-Dimmitt area.

"We are sure we can sell what we raise," said Bush. "Furthermore we intend to make it available to Hereford people through the stores here, and in the rest of the Panhandle, as well as distant points over the nation."

"Statistics prove the biggest lettuce buying months are October and November. Those are just the months this crop will hit the market. We plan to plant in July and harvest in October."

Bush said contracting companies had reviewed some of their plans, learning from the "bugs" that stymied the growers last year. His company, like several others, is planning to use Jap labor during harvest, or perhaps Philippine men, rather than Mexican workers, because they are used to stoop labor. They will not use pellet seeds which is still in the experimental stage, but will revert to the regular seeding methods.

Irrigation Meet To Feature Four Top Specialists

A day-long irrigation school will be held at the Court House Wednesday beginning at 10 a. m. and sponsors have invited all farmers, pump men or other interested people to attend the meeting.

The four men who will conduct the forum and discussions will speak on planning irrigation systems, the geology of underground water paths, fertilizers, legumes, crop rotations, and irrigated pastures.

Authorities who will conduct the school include Bob Thurmond, extension service member from Lubbock, N. P. Swanson, Don Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock experimental station and R. R. Lancaster, pasture specialist with the extension service.

During the morning session the men will discuss irrigation problems, with Thurmond and Swanson in charge. After dinner Jones will conduct the talks on fertilization, legumes and crop rotation, and beginning at 2 p. m. Lancaster will talk on irrigated pastureland.

Second Call For Quartet Singers

The S.P.E.S.Q.S.A. is going to try again. They called a meeting for Friday night but other social calendar conflicts kept the crowd down way below minimum—six people showed up.

So Eugene Roberson has announced they will try another organizational meeting next Friday night, same time, same place, 8 p. m. at the Lions Rotary Hall. And all male singers are welcome even if they just sing because they enjoy it and not because they can.

Attending the meeting Friday were Jack Cogdill, Dennis Lomas, Reuben Knox, Carl Henington, Bobby Hamilton and Eugene Roberson.

Mile road, and was opposed by residents served by the Ford road, who at a previous meeting had organized to fight proposed location. The group had previously retained a lawyer, contacted Jas. Lott, Highway Engineer, and told the committee through Mal Stewart as spokesman that they would go to Austin, armed with a petition, signed by 130 persons, to fight the plan.

The committee threatened several times to resign, and even voted once to quit, and ask County Commissioners to appoint another committee.

Faced with the fact that other counties over Texas are rapidly securing farm-to-market road approval, members felt that the county would lose a golden opportunity if the project is abandoned. "It is absolute folly to go before the State Highway Department with two factions," A. J. Schroeter, chairman, pointed out. The committee decided, therefore, to delay any action and to cancel their appointment with the Highway Commission for March 31.

At an estimated cost of a little over a million dollars, exclusive of right-of-way, the outlined project would take in 90 and a half miles of paved road in the county.

The group met to decide whether complaints which had been raging during the week could be dropped, or whether the entire project would have to be shelved.

"We've been warned on numerous occasions by George Lott, district engineer in Amarillo and other authorities that unless we have a unified purpose in our own group it is useless to submit our plans to the State Highway Commission. They haven't time to listen to usicker or settle our arguments," said A. J. Schroeter, chairman of committee.

Opposition was spearheaded by Ted Rhorbach who submitted a petition to George Lott signed by residents and land owners of the northwest area protesting this proposed plan.

Attending the Saturday meeting were Schroeter, Leo Forrest, Ira Ott, Louis Smith, Cord Hammock, Mal Stewart, Clarence Morrison, Bob Campbell and Fred Baird.

Potato Growers To Elect Officers At Meeting Tuesday

Ed Adams, president, of the Hereford Potato Shippers and Growers Association, has announced the annual meeting of the association to be held Thursday night, March 31 at 7:30 in the County Court House.

"This is a very important meeting and we urge all members to be present. We shall elect officers for the following year and discuss some of our plans for this season," said Adams.

School Ballots Five Names Short At Deadline, Vote Next Saturday

Final date for filling school petitions closed Wednesday with only three names listed to fill the eight vacancies created by expiring terms on boards throughout the county.

Judge Leonard Foster said only two petitions had been filed with him: one submitted the names of Lyle Woodford and Howard Gault for membership on the Hereford Rural School Board, the other included Joe Ponder for the ballot in the Messenger district.

There are five other vacancies, three on the county board and two in common school districts throughout the county. Judge Foster pointed out that vacancies in those places would be filled by write in nominations on election day, April 2.

The men who are serving terms which expire this year, and for which no candidates have announced to compete are: Edwin Morrison, common school district number 6 at Walnut; C. B. Ferrin, common school district number 11 at Sims; N. R. Miller, county board precinct number 1; J. C. Morrison, county board precinct number 2; and C. O. Richardson, county board precinct number 4.

ALONG WITH SOME GOOD IDEAS, HERE'S A FEW

Hints On How To Tell Your Husband 'How To Prune A Tree'

By PHYLLIS RADOVICH

It's getting to that time of year when husbands run around, flexing their winter worn muscles and talking about how they enjoy getting out of doors. Therefore, it's also that time of year when the wily wife pounces on the mate and offers him a chance to do just that—the rugged beating, the grass needs mowing or the trees need pruning.

The average man, being average, scorns the first two with fervor, and picks the latter with the reluctance born of choosing the lesser of three evils. The reason is obvious. Anybody, anybody at all with a minimum of strength and endurance is capable of beating rugs and mowing lawns, but pruning trees demands skill; it requires know-how. Hubby gets a chance to prove how smart he really is.

There are four reasons for pruning trees: to maintain a perfectly balanced tree that is easy to spray, and to train one and from which fruit may be easily picked; also to stimulate new growth in the plants. Pruning is also employed by housewives to give their husbands something to complain about around the house and brag about around town.

To Get Best Results
To get the best pruning job done, one needs a vigorous husband, a steady stepladder, a sharp saw, an elementary knowledge of pruning and faith in nature, both human and otherwise. This article attempts only to provide the fourth little item; however, it is most difficult—if not impossible—to put down on paper exactly how to prune any tree. The major decisions will have to be left to masculine logic and feminine intuition.

Pruning is smart activity because it is designed to economize and divert energy into desired parts of the tree to maintain the shape and growth one needs. For ornamental trees it controls branching and wood production. For fruit trees it is a necessary guide to production.

Nature itself is an inexorable pruner but the horticulturist improves on Mother Nature because his intelligent work is aimed at removing selective branches and employing the best methods to enhance healing of the wound.

Three Pruning Phases
We want to lean briefly over three phases of pruning: transplanted trees, ornamental trees and fruit trees.

The cardinal rule of pruning transplanted trees is simple: Do. The plant will suffer more, most nursery men believe, if it is not pruned at all than it will if it is pruned too much. When the plant is moved many of the roots will be destroyed, therefore the top must be cut back to achieve a balance with the roots reduced in the digging. The usual practice is to remove one half of each branch one wishes to keep and to cut off all others. Trees uninjured when they are transplanted invariably suffer later.

For ornamental trees such as street-bordering elms, Norway maples or yard trees, pruning should be largely a guiding operation in young and middle aged trees. The primary objective is to train a young tree to avoid competing Y-branches in the trunk and to reduce the number of branches so they will not interfere with each other in future growth.

This Branches High
Heading of saplings should be governed by location of the plant. Street trees should have all their branches trimmed high enough to avoid interfering with street traffic or street safety. Ordinarily lower branches should be 10 to 12 feet above the sidewalk or roadbed.

According to E. P. Peis, former state entomologist of New York this condition is corrected in some cases by cutting lower limbs two inches in diameter or thereabouts. It is much better to raise the head while the tree is still small and the branches mere whips. In ornamental trees the branches may be allowed to develop from the ground up to give a round or pyramidal shape.

Pruning must also be done with the consideration of admitting light and air to tree tops. Too many branches not only spoil the balance of the tree, they destroy the health of the tree as well. But on the other hand, erratic, unplanned and excessive pruning causes too great a wood formation on the plants.

Consider Limb Spacing
Guidance pruning should do away with any occasional drastic pruning. Therefore the amateur pruner should consider limb spacing and limb crowding. According to the type of tree, many of their branches trimmed high

Dalhart Winner In Track Meet Here Thursday

By PAT CORBETT

In the invitation meet at Hereford last Thursday, the powerful Dalhart Wolves won the meet with 56 and one-half points to the Whitefaces' 46 and one-half. Dimmitt was third with 23 points and Tulla last with 16. Both of the meets they have entered this year have been in such a terrific wind that the times of the runs have been slow in some races. Some of the highlights of the Dimmitt meet was the 102-100-yd. dash, turned in by Duane Christian and a 2:15-880 turned in by Neely Kim-brough. The Whitefaces went to the Panhandle meet Saturday. The results of the Hereford meet follow:

100 yard dash—Time 11 flat: 1. Hodges, Dimmitt; 2. Ploves, Dalhart; 3. Griffith, Dimmitt.

200 yard low hurdles—Time 26.9: 1. J. Taylor, Dalhart; 2. Reynolds, Hereford; 3. Foster, Dimmitt; 4. Crum, Dimmitt and Wilson, Hereford, tied.

Shistinta Girls Study Etiquette

A lesson in table setting and table etiquette was the high point in the meeting held by Shistinta Camp Fire Girls Tuesday afternoon in the home of the guardian, Mrs. Bob Wilson.

First the girls gathered violets, forsythia, colored leaves and greenery and planned the floral decorations and then they were divided into three groups for setting the tables. Fine china and sterling were used for the formal dinner and for the informal luncheon. Colorful Fiesta ware with the appropriate flowers made up the attractive appointments for quartet tables.

With each demonstration the proper way of serving was stressed.

WHAT ABOUT THE TELEPHONE SITUATION

Patience Is a Virtue Seldom Rewarded With Phones

In The Brand Thursday appeared a letter from Mrs. R. A. Wells concerning her inability to secure telephone service. Mrs. Wells said that she sought a telephone three years ago on an emergency basis, due to extreme illness of her mother, and that a doctor had signed an emergency recommendation. She still has no phone.

With tears streaming down her face, Mrs. Wells further stated that she had been told to move her invalid mother to some other part of town if she wanted a telephone. We have talked with some of Mrs. Wells' friends, and her need does seem to be exceptional.

This is one of many cases now on record in Hereford; some are urgent, some are not. Almost two years ago, telephone representatives came to Hereford and met with the Rotary Club to explain "Why it was impossible to give us telephones" so shortly after the war.

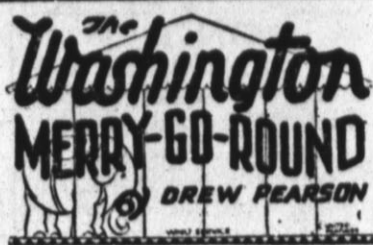

Since this time, Friona and Bovina have been installed with modern, dial telephones. Floyd County has a network of county-wide rural telephones jutting out from Floydada, and similar systems are being considered for the North Plains. Hereford has a few installations—and a lot of promises.

We realize that the telephone company has its troubles, just as Hereford has troubles from growing pains. However, Hereford has done something about paving its streets; a new school building is under construction and the City has already installed new water and sewerage facilities for many people who still cannot get telephones.

It appears to us that a big company like Southwestern Bell should certainly be able to keep pace with a little town like the City of Hereford. Furthermore, we believe the people of this community have been patient and reasonable with the telephone company, and we believe the time has come when they deserve to see some actual construction and improvements toward more telephones and better service.

The Deaf Smith County REA is another public service operation which has expanded during a difficult period, bringing service to hundreds of new customers over the area. Achievements along this line by many other public service utilities would indicate that it is not unreasonable to expect the telephone company to offer more in the way of results—and less in the form of excuses.

Different Twist

ONLY THE PRESIDENT'S inside advisers know it, but he gave a decidedly different twist to the idea they originally put up to him of stumping the country.

Some of Mr. Truman's loyal friends had suggested to him, shortly before the Jackson-Jefferson dinner, that he go on a tour of the nation in order to keep contacts with the people, not to rap congress.

They were frankly afraid that Truman, sitting in the rarified atmosphere of Washington and surrounded by too many yes-men, was losing his perspective. So it was suggested that instead of going to Key West for a vacation, the President go on a trip through the west perhaps to visit some water-power project or the snowbound areas.

Mr. Truman, however, declined to give up his Key West outing, though he had spent two weeks there shortly before Christmas. And at the Jackson-Jefferson dinner, he twisted the original idea around so that his proposed trip becomes a campaign tour against congress—despite the fact that the present congress is overwhelmingly Democratic.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION: Does Hereford Need Youth Center? Opinion Seems to Be Well Divided

Do you think there is a need for a youth center in Hereford?

Mrs. Bess Moore: "I definitely do. It should be, of course, properly supervised at all times. The only entertainment available for the children now is the picture show."

Elizabeth Womble: "No, I do not."

Roy Peet: "There is no entertainment here for the kids. In Amarillo the churches and civic organizations work in conjunction with the youth organization. I think the same arrangement could be made here on a smaller scale—A permanent place for the youth center is the answer."

Bernadette Albracht: "Yes, I do. School age children should have sponsored entertainment. I think the churches should back such a movement."

L. H. (Bud) Bradley: "Yes. Since the school leaders seem to be against dancing, in any form, including square dancing for the younger people, and the law seems to blame all crimes perpetrated in this county (quoted from the radio program 'Mr. District Attorney') I believe that a youth center would serve two purposes: (1) the young people would have a place to have a good time (2) at least a part of them would have an alibi covering the criminal activities that they are usually blamed for. Seriously, I think it is the best thing that could happen to the kids. I am strictly for it."

Ralph Smith: "What is needed is a curfew law, or some such restriction, to keep kids from prowling all night and sleeping all day. When I was a boy we went home when the party was over. It is the responsibility of the parents to provide and supervise the recreation of their children. If they don't, they are falling down on their jobs as parents. I do not think a youth center will work in Hereford."

Rev. Roy Ford: "Definitely. That is, if it is conducted properly. There is a need for an outlet for youth's energy. There should be a change in the present condition of we adults sitting around saying the youth are going to the 'bow-wows' and then doing nothing about it."

Billy Smith: "If the parents cannot see that it is their duty to encourage their children to entertain each other in their homes, they will likely see no need for a youth center."

GUEST EDITORIAL

"Whose Freedom Is It?" Farm Journal Asks Critics

Last Sunday our Guest Editorial, entitled "The Point of No Return," from the Farm Journal likened conditions in America today to those of Russia. A definite stand was taken against subsidies. Today our guest editorial is from another large circulation farm magazine and presents another side of the question. Both articles offer excellent material for serious contemplation.

WHOSE FREEDOM IS IT?

Arguments are flying thick and fast against high support prices for farm products. Most of these arguments state that farmers will face the possibility of losing their freedom if they submit to these price supports. The folks who think we should have either low or no price supports also wave the danger flag and ask if farmers are willing to submit to Government controls on acreages in order to obtain high price supports. Now, when we say that these folks ask if farmers are willing to submit to acreage controls, what we mean is that they make these statements in speeches they make and the articles they write. We don't mean that they ever go out into the country and actually ask any farmers what they think about it. It might be a pretty good idea if they did ask a few farmers. We believe that they would get some different answers than when they answer the questions themselves.

There is a lot of talk about possible loss of political and economic freedom if farmers accept high price supports. We might ask if any farmer you know lost any of his freedom the past few years when price supports were in effect, when price supports assured enough production so that prices of food remained reasonable. It used to take 30 hours of work each week for a factory worker to earn enough for food to feed his family — in 1914. Today, 12 hours of work each week will buy the family food for a week. Does that sound like farmers are getting too much for what they produce? Doesn't that show that price supports have kept food prices down, at a time when other prices and wages increased? In fact, wages went up about 500 percent when food costs rose only 150 percent.

What freedom would any farmer lose if he accepted high price supports? Maybe the folks who talk against high support prices are worried about the fact that farmers may be told to reduce the acreage of some crops. We wonder if farmers are too much worried about this possible reduction. We wonder if the experts know that a farmer would rather plant 90 acres of wheat, and be guaranteed $2 a bushel, than he would plant 120 acres and have no guaranty of what he would get for his crop when he hauled it to the elevator.

Yes, the folks who worry about farmers losing their freedom should get out and talk to some of them. Then they might realize that most folks are more concerned about prices than they are afraid of losing liberties. It rather reminds us of the story of the fellow who didn't believe in conservation. However, he was a strong believer in grass-hopper control. His land kept eroding, and he continued to fight grass-hoppers. The day he killed the last hopper the last inch of his topsoil washed away. Looking at his lost farm, he exclaimed, "Well, thank goodness, I at least got rid of the hoppers."

We are just wondering if a fellow who believes in freedom so strongly that he didn't care about prices, might not be in the same predicament. As he saw his farm mortgage foreclosed, his bank account gone, and his family in need, he might say, "Well, thank goodness, I at least kept my freedom."

Last December, in the Dakota Farmer, we stated that we believed the law permitting price supports to go to as low as 60 percent would be changed. We also stated that price supports would remain near 90 percent in a new law to be passed by the present Congress. We further remarked that we didn't believe farmers would object to some acreage control if assured at least 90 percent of parity. We still believe those statements are correct and that you'll agree with us. Maybe the experts who are so wrought up about farmers losing their freedom, should be just a little quieter and let the farmers speak for themselves. After all, whose freedom is it? —The Dakota Farmer.

"Thank You," Leo Forrest

Serving on the school board is one of the most difficult tasks an American is likely to face, and leaving the Board of Education this year is one of Hereford's outstanding trustees, Leo Forrest.

As president of the board, Mr. Forrest faced almost every type of difficulty a board member can face. Crowded conditions, consolidations, building programs, and valuations were only a few of the headaches he underwent. Much of the credit for advancement of Hereford Schools in recent years can well be attributed to his capable efforts and tireless work as leader of an energetic group which more than once remained in session almost throughout the night.

A background as superintendent and administrator of public schools, plus the viewpoint of a taxpayer, father and citizen, placed Leo Forrest in a position to fill his job well. Furthermore, his ability and foresight saved the school district much, and will continue to prove of even greater value in years to come, as the district encounters items which the board, under his leadership, saw in advance.

School trustees, as you know, serve without pay—and frequently spend more time at their job than City or County Commissioners. Therefore, we feel that it is only fair to grant Mr. Forrest's request in allowing him to attend his own affairs, which are demanding more and more of his attention.

However, as citizens and taxpayers, we do want to take this opportunity to say, "Thank you, Mr. Forrest, and Congratulations for a job well done."

Security for Servants

President Truman's program to extend federal old-age insurance to an additional 20 million persons will not slide through the house ways and means committee as easily as did the bill to extend reciprocal-trade agreements.

Although chairman "Muley Bob" Doughton of North Carolina agreed to introduce the administration bills on social security, he explicitly did so only "as the basis for consideration and discussion."

When current hearings have been completed, the committee will then sit down in executive session to write its own bill, which will probably bear little resemblance to the Truman proposals.

For example, the President includes 5 million farm workers, 3.5 million hired hands, and 2.5 million cooks, maids and other household servants in the 20 million total to be covered. Yet members of congress from rural areas, among them Speaker Sam Rayburn, are convinced that farmers are opposed to social security. And the prospect of a rebellion from an army of irate housewives, compelled to pay and collect employment taxes on their hired help, makes even the congressmen from the cities shudder a bit.

Old Age Benefits

On the other hand, increasing social security benefits will definitely be approved. However, congress will throw out the benefit payments for both sickness and short duration (up to 26 weeks) and for extended disability. Too many people, the congressmen think, would get sick on purpose.

In addition, old-age retirement for women will probably be reduced from 85 to 90 and a beneficiary will be allowed to earn up to $50 (now $15) per month without losing the right to his government pension check.

Bureaucrats Dug Snow

The army did a great job in feeding snowbound civilians and cattle during western storms, but other civilian agencies did equal pioneering jobs with no credit at all—the interior department's bureau of land management and the agriculture department's forest service.

Inside fact is that the land bureau proceeded with rescue work at a time when the army at first refused to budge.

What happened was that on January 13, Paul L. Fickenger, regional director of the Indian service at Billings, Mont., telephoned Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, army engineer at Omaha on January 12 asking the army for assistance. General Pick, one of the highest officers in the engineers corps and already nominated as chief of engineers, refused to budge.

He said he was most sympathetic with any plan to help snow-bound people and cattle, but he had no authority to act. Also he said he had no funds allocated for this purpose.

Meanwhile, the bureau of land management also lacked funds or authority. Without waiting for word from Washington, however, its officials proceeded to spend money anyway. Figuring that Washington would reimburse them later, they worked round the clock with no figuring in of overtime.

Taking a chance that Washington would pay the bill they contracted for snow-removal equipment, etc. which were not authorized. Later, the money came through. But it was the so-called civilian bureaucrats who had the courage to act when the army hesitated.

ABOUT THE ROAD BLOCK

Hereford, Texas, March 20, 1949
To The Editor of the Hereford Brand and Sunday Brand.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Since reading about the road block in the Thursday issue of the Brand, March 17th, I have been hoping that some comment would be made, hence I was very much pleased and gratified to see and read your editorial in the Sunday issue.

I am wondering if there is any legal authority for a road block under any circumstances? I know of none. Under exceptional circumstances such as a major crime the public will likely co-operate in a block, at least condone it.

If the peace officers have the legal right to arbitrarily set up a road block from eleven o'clock Saturday to four o'clock Sunday, then it logically follows that they have the right to block the highway all day and every day. It is no answer for

Sincerely, W. H. Russell

ABOUT PICTURES

Dear Editor:

The letter of commendation from Rev. Davison to Francis Hardwick praising the showing in the Star Theatre of the picture "An Apartment for Peggy," must meet the approval of all who witnessed it. #### HOMER FOX SAYS:

DID YOU KNOW...?

Henry Cloyd played a lot of baseball back in 1902 and 1903. and he made a pretty fair hand at it.

Henry played outfield and pitched. The team didn't have many places to contest; mostly Canyon and Amarillo, but they didn't lose very many games in that two years. Some of the players were Gens Dyer, Artis Daniels, Ben Hubbard, Dow Mercer, Maple Daniels. Henry tells a pretty interesting story of the blizzard of 1918 and the Spring of '19. He and his two brothers, George and Jim, equipped with a wagon and team, shovels and chains, went out to Mounts and Gordons pastures to skin cattle. They would find a drift, uncover the cattle and drag them out where the sun could hit them and thaw the top layer, then they would peel the legs and neck down to where they could tie onto the hid with the chain and peel the hide off.

Most of the hides were selling for five cents a pound and the skinnners got half. The Cloyd brothers got a little more for their hides, because they were all butchers and did a better job than the average skinner. Henry said he didn't know how many cattle they skinned, but in eight days the brothers collected for their half, $210 each, and they left a lot of cattle out there in the drifts. In 1920 a good dress shoe cost close to $20, wonder what ever happened to those five-cent hides.

G. T. Higgins played football three years with the Hereford High School, then freshman year and three varsity years with West Texas State. G. T. was one of the big reasons that tackle that the much talked of '28 and '29 high school team was undefeated in the two years.

(Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher is about the last one we'd ask if we wanted to know what the farming situation is, but he claims people have been asking him and here's his answer.)

Dear editor:

Every time I go into town about his time of the year, which is every chance I get, the same as any other time of the year, so long as any work is threatening, somebody asks me well how's the farming situation? Gonna have a good year this year? Merchants rub their hands, expectin a good crop year, which means a good business year, and so forth. Seems like they want me to tell m how much money farmers will have to spend with em next fall.

In fact, I been answerin this question so much lately I decided to give my answer in your paper, on the off chance a few people at least would see it and stop asking.

The farming situation is this: Ain't no man alive who can tell you what it is. Just as soon try to tell you what Russia will do or what two women will say about a third one when she ain't there.

Anybody can put corn or cotton or wheat in the ground with a heart full of hope and confidence, but instead of forty bushels or a bale a acre he may be startin a program of goup up one row and down another all spring and summer for a wash tub full of rubbins or smutty wheat or a tow sack full of trashy cotton, about enough to pay for the gas to get to town one Saturday afternoon.

The farmin situation right now at this time of the year, as best I can tell after years of experience, is exactly like it every year I been farmin; so uncertain, so unstable, so likely to end up in a bust, no normal man would allow himself to be taken in by such a way of life. The way it looks this spring, which is the way it's looked every spring since some enemy of mankind invented the plow, is that there ain't but one chance to come out ahead this fall, but there is hundreds of chances to come out in the hole. Everything has to be just right to make a crop, but any one of a hundred things can go wrong to bring you up at the end of the year as busted as Europe. With such odds as that, I can't figure out why anybody would try it. But you can hear tractors running all over the place out here.

On the other hand, also, there is some jobs in town I wouldn't care for. In fact, there's jobs everywhere you look I wouldn't care for.

The next time anybody asks you what the farmin situation is this spring, tell him it's normal, it looks hopeless, but it's goin right on.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Therefore, Forrest reported they had decided to leave off the strictly three-phase lines and re-phase the lines under the current system to improve that service.

After the Thursday morning meet, Forrest said he had hoped he would be able to elaborate on construction plans.

"I wish we could take in all our applicants at this date, but material shortages make it impossible. The aluminum company at present has all the wire conductors sewed up, but we've hopes that a competing company will begin stranding wire soon and enable us to speed up this project later," he said in conclusion.

are necessary, they will be slapped on with quotas for 1950. If they do not, no designation will be given. It takes a two thirds majority to pass a referendum. However, agriculturists may indicate favoring allotments, but after harvest, these allotments may not be as necessary, as pre-harvest surveys indicate, so quotas will not be established.

Collier emphasized the difference in allotments and quotas. "An allotment is a designation of acreage planting allowable but a quota means anyone who overplants their designated acreage must pay a penalty for every extra acre seeded."

Acreage planted under allotments are eligible for price support but extra acres can not compete in the program, he said.

Club Women Feature Friendship Day At Final Session of Year

The 1948-49 club season for the Deaf Smith County Federation of Club Women came to a close Friday with the fourth and final quarterly luncheon program at the First Christian Church.

Ending with a note of good will and appreciation of the wholehearted co-operation of the clubs of the county, a "Friendship Day" theme marked the session. All newcomers to Hereford were given a special invitation to attend the meeting and club presidents gave special recognition to new comers.

A springtime theme was used in decoration for the luncheon tables with Spring's harbingers, daffodils and pussy willow, mingled with greenery and Easter bunnies for eye-catching effect. Hostess clubs were Lone Star Study, Hereford Garden Club, El Nino Study, Bay View, and Sims Home Demonstration Club with Mrs. Vivian Major as chairman.

After roll call Mrs. Harry Seed entertained by reading a bit of verse she had written several years ago called "Friend of Mine," and Mrs. Ray Johnson, president, told of the achievements of the past year and of the federation's plans for next year.

She announced the courtship tea which will be sponsored by the county federation during the District 1, Texas Garden Clubs convention to be held here on April 8-9.

Mrs. Earl DeHart, chairman of the American Homes Department, directed the program for the afternoon and introduced Mrs. Nolle Elliston who introduced a skit presented by the Wyche Home Demonstration Club. Presenting a typical home demonstration club meeting, members answered roll call by demonstrating their project or outstanding accomplishment for the year. Mrs. Raymond Paetzold, secretary, called the roll after Mrs. Ira Scott, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Nolle Elliston told of her project in making 12 housedresses from feed sacks at a cost of 15 cents each, a shirt for a son out of an older brother's, pillows, curtains, a tufted bed-spread, also out of feed sacks, crocheted table cloth and other table cloths.

Mrs. R. W. Elliston displayed a loaf of whole wheat bread, one of 500 made annually. She also showed a dress for one of her daughters and dish mats.

Mrs. W. T. Carmichael's dress form and a dress she had made were displayed and Mrs. Ira Ott told of her work with the 4-H Club girls. Mrs. J. V. Pickens said sewing is her hobby and showed school dresses for her daughter and house dresses for herself.

Mrs. Ira Scott showed dolls she had made and dressed and stated that during the past year she had given fifty home permanents. Mrs. H. H. Caraway was wearing a wine colored satin blouse she had made and showed some Pig-tex gloves recently completed. Mrs. Raymond Paetzold displayed her canning and freezing project, a part of 500 jars preserved last year. Mrs. V. P. Walker spoke of the project participated in by all the clubs in cleaning and re-blockinging hats and pointed to the one she was wearing which she had redone. She also showed beige cape-skin gloves she had made. Mrs. Jim Cross showed gloves she had made and displayed eight aprons. The concluding demonstration was made by Mrs. Truett Johnson who lifted her small son so the group could see his suit made from one of his dad's.

Mrs. DeHart introduced the speaker for the day, Mrs. Tom Draper, CHDA, who chose "Attitudes Toward Homemaking" as her subject. She answered the question "What makes the difference between housekeeping and homemaking" by saying "Re-fueling in mid-air makes the difference and this can be done by making the right contacts at the right time."

"Homemaking was never intended to get stagnant," she said and named four ways of avoiding stagnancy by refueling in mid-air: 1—Taking pride in or appreciating your work, or more accurately speaking, making love visible through word. 2—Through the appreciation of your home and the people in it. 3—Through club work. Club work should make women larger mentally and healthier physically. (Women will be immeasurably broadened if they accept the club "collect" as a philosophy of life" she pointed out). 4—Through some sort of self expression or outlet after the day's work is done.

This, then is re-fueling in mid-air. Finding expression in hand work for yourself or others after the tasks of the day are done. For the pleasure derived gives new energy and impetus for the tasks of another day, she asserted. Examples of textile painting, shell craft, plaques, needlepoint, a steel painting, ceramics and a beautiful afghan made by a 12-year old 4-H Club girl, were shown. In conclusion Mrs. Draper saying "Re-fueling in mid-air should be every woman's daily privilege. The enthusiasm for homemaking comes from attitudes developed through love, and life need not be dull as long as the joy in homemaking may be yours."

Guests in the home of Mrs. Roberta Campbell Wednesday noon were Mrs. A. H. Elliston, Mrs. Burj Elliston, and Mrs. Nona Jowell. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Campbell's mother, Mrs. R. L. Campbell, who left Thursday for Dallas where she will visit her sister, Mrs. T. E. Osborn. Mrs. Campbell will visit other relatives in Fort Worth and Midlothian before returning home.

Ann Sheridan. When good clean pictures like these are shown, pictures with a good lesson and elevating can't help but be appreciated by the picture going public. These pictures were shown at the Star Theatre, and another picture, in colors, showing at the Texas Theatre, "Miraculous Journey" in colors, deserves special mention and should be seen by all children. Comments made by patrons where murder pictures, excessive drinking, fighting and smoking are shown is in disfavor, however, and in as much as such pictures have been shown to excess, it seems time for patrons to show their disapproval. A picture recently shown where two people, a man and woman, must have smoked two full packs of cigarettes between them. Many people, of the better class, seem terribly shocked at the sight of a woman smoking cigarettes. Kansas for many years had a statute forbidding the sale, possession or use of cigarettes, or the smoking of same in public.

Respectfully,

Mr. Jimmie Gillentine
Editor, Hereford Brand
Hereford, Texas.

Dear Jimmie:
I have often considered writing you on this subject, but so far have not been mad enough.

The object of my ire is these trains which run through Hereford. Those going east seem to tie their whistle down in Summerfield and to release them around Dawn, those trains going west reverse the procedure.

It is very disconcerting to find one's blankets hovering 18 inches above the occupant of the bed when one of those screaming demons lets go its banshee wail at 4 a. m. It is also disturbing when talking on the telephone to have a person you are talking to inquire if you live near a wind tunnel. It is impossible to hear.

I believe that anyone who lives or works (I do both) in the 100 or 200 block in Hereford will agree with me. Is there anything that we can do to alleviate this situation?

Yours truly,
L. H. Brady

Birthday Party For Buzzie Gillentine

Buzzie Gillentine celebrated his third birthday Wednesday afternoon at a party given by his mother, Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine. Easter decorations on the birthday cake set the color scheme for the party and yellow bunnies were given each little guest as favors. Mrs. Henry Benson entertained the group, telling stories pictured with slides.

Children attending were Jerry Don and Carl George McCaslin, Bill Jack and Mary Beth Gilliland, Ruth Ann Allison, Nancy Carol Hays of Dimmitt, Bruce Benson, Richard and Robert Neeley, Katherine Nell Barnard, Wayne Hastings, Ann Kirby, Sara Gillentine and the honoree.

Mrs. Emma Anderson left Thursday for Arlington, California, where she will make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Betty Sirkel. Mrs. Sirkel returned also, following a three week's visit with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Woodford Is Hostess For Child Study Group Program Meet

Mrs. Lisle Woodford was hostess for the Child Study Club regular meeting Thursday night. Refreshments were served from a tea table carrying out a spring theme with sweet peas and snap dragons. Mrs. R. P. Conaway poured.

Mrs. Maurice Tannahill was leader of the program and chose the topic "Teaching Your Child Good Manners." She reviewed an article written by Rand McNally for Better Homes and Gardens in which he advocated the Golden Rule as the best code to follow. Mrs. Tannahill said the author stressed the importance of little daily lessons in good manners in the home, and the importance in teaching that good manners spring from kindness.

Mrs. Clinton Jackson reviewed an article in a recent "Home-Life" magazine entitled "Living With Your Growing Children." The central thought of her talk was that in dealing with the adolescent, it is the parents who

Churches Sponsor Radio Net-Work

More than 75,000 churches of nearly every major Christian denomination across the country are uniting Saturday night to present a radio program "One Great Hour." The need of the suffering people of Europe and Asia and the work being done through this country's churches to strengthen and rebuild their physical and spiritual life will be presented on the broadcast which will be heard between 9 and 10 Saturday night, March 26 on every station of the four major networks.

Written under the direction of Robert Sherwood, "One Great Hour" will bring home to America's people the need of those in Asia and Europe, not only for material aid, but for the Christian faith to help them rebuild their spiritual world.

An appeal will be made to the people of America to go to church on Sunday, March 27, to make a sacrificial gift. The majority of churches in Hereford already have full programs connected with the giving of foreign aid, though individual members of the various congregations will be encouraged to make voluntary donations. A special offering for this purpose will be received at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday, it was announced by Rev. Russell Wingert.

If chicken fat is on hand, it may be used as the shortening in pastry for chicken or meat pie or turnovers.

Hereford Lions Donate $1,000 On Scout Camp

Hereford Lions Club closed one of the year's major projects this week in presenting to the Llano Estacado Council, Boy Scouts of America, a check in the amount of $1,000 for the Lions Club Building at Camp Don Harrington. Numerous projects were sponsored by the club to raise money for this subscription, including sponsorship of the Amarillo High School A Cappella Choir program, and the Birch Magician's Show.

In a letter of acknowledgment, W. J. Hiatt, Scout Executive, said: "This building will be a monument to the eleven Lions Clubs of the Panhandle area and in erecting such a building they will serve thousands of Scouts and leaders in the many years to come. It is also a tribute to the unity and purpose of the Lions and Lions Clubs."

Camp Don Harrington, located on Palo Duro creek about six miles north and east of Canyon, and about six miles from the entrance to Palo Duro Park, comprises an estimated 500 acres of land, the original price of which was donated by Don Harrington, Amarillo citizen. The Amarillo Lions Club instigated the idea of erecting the large recreation building, and enlisted the aid of other Lions Clubs within the Llano Estacado area. Plans are being laid to leave about half of the land area in a wilderness state for camping, and to improve and beautify the other part. It is hoped that a swimming pool can be constructed on the site for use this summer. The Lions Club building will house administration facilities, a large kitchen, dining hall, and recreation room. Facilities at the camp will be open to all Boy Scout units within the Llano Estacado Scout region.

"Good progress," Hiatt reports, "is being made in the construction of the Lions Club Building and we hope we will have good weather so this progress can continue. You will be advised when we are far enough along to set a date for the dedication and we want your group to be there with 100 per cent of the Club at the program. You will be asked to have a part in the arrangements and the program."

"We of the Hereford Lions Club wish to take this opportunity to thank all the local people who had a part in contributing to this project," said Wayne Evans, president. "Next major project of the club," he added, "will be raising funds to furnish the Waiting Room at the County Hospital."

Annual Senior Play Creates Favorable Comment This Week

By MARGARET BARRETT

Hereford High School's Senior Class presented the Jay Tobias comedy, "The Campbell's Are Coming" Thursday and Friday night at the high school auditorium. Set in Apperidge, a little town in the Ozarks, the play concerned itself mainly with the Brannigans—Ma Brannigan and her three grandchildren, Betty, Dick and Kaye.

Kaye it was who caused the original trouble. Upon returning home from a year's study in a near-by college, Kaye decides to throw over her fiancé, Jeff Scudder, and to marry Kingston Campbell, a sophisticated young man with an aristocratic name.

Since the Brannigans were extremely fond of Jeff and his Uncle Cyrus, and because they were completely appalled by Kaye's newly acquired affectations, they put their heads together to solve the situation by turning hill-billy when the Campbells—Kingston and his mother—came to visit.

Kaye was out of town making preparations for the big visit, so the Brannigans and the Scudders had a free hand to "read the riot act." And the like of those hill-billies you never saw before! Gun-totin, home-brew drinking, skunk-rustin', back-slapping, idiot-jibbering hill-billies raced rampant over the stage, completely horrifying the genteel, neurotic Campbells.

Creditable performances were turned out by every member of the cast: Jo Ann Witherspoon as Ma Brannigan; Earl Smith as Dick; Inez Tucker as Catalpa Tapp, the real hill-billy servant;

Martha Thomas as Betty; Neely Kimbrough as Bildad Tapp; Ronny Durham as Cyrus Scudder; Glenn Hopson as Jeff Scudder; Mary Katherine Carroll as Kaye; Dwight Wilson as Kingston Campbell, and Jane Weleh as Mrs. Augusta Campbell. Directors were Mrs. Elainor Hudspeth and Pat Sullivan. Student director was Sallie Womble. John Sudduth and Norman Walker were stage managers, and Billie Stevens and Doris Jean Smith were in charge of make-up. The play was produced by special arrangement with T. S. Denison and Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota. Attention was called to the attractive blond stage furniture, which is a gift to the school from the senior class.

Hints On

for limbs will vary in distance. Low headed apple trees may place major limbs only 15 inches apart on the same side of the trunk, tall apple trees about two feet or more. On peaches, pears and plums, a foot is about sufficient and on elm and maple shade trees three to six feet is the best.

The pruner needs foresight. It is his job to cut out small branches that will later crowd out major limbs. Long slender branches with few leaves or sprouts are not desirable on either fruit or wood trees. The best time to take a limb off is when it is merely a sprout. Limbs should be cut off as close to the base as possible.

By intelligent limb spacing one can mold trees to have major steady limbs with branches well clothed in foliage. These type best repel wind storms and ice storms.

Incidentally if hubby is still with you on this article, he's probably heaving a heavy sigh for evergreens. As leader type trees they grow symmetrically and little or no pruning is generally necessary except to remove dead or diseased branches.

Prime Fruit Trees
And now for fruit trees: The authorities all say that before any pruning is done it is practically essential to know the exact manner in which trees or shrubs bear fruit or the operator may work against his own best interests.

So as not to leave any stone unturned, we quote from the encyclopedia. This may frighten the unprepared husband. Better not spring it all at once. "Apples and pears bear their fruit upon gnarly twigs called spurs, the plum and cherry usually upon spurs (sometimes also on axial growths) the peach bears usually on axial growth of previous (also to some extent upon spurs which live only two or three years as a rule.) The quince bears upon terminal shoots of the present season; the raspberry and blackberry usually upon shoots of the previous season, the shoots dying after production and the current and gooseberry upon wood one or more years old. Further advantage may be taken of the method of fruit production in preventing the necessity of thinning the fruit buds being removed by the cutting out of the fruit bearing wood."

regarding their plans for this season.

Apparently the biggest consideration in growing lettuce here is hail storms. Bush pointed out that all the crop would be raised on irrigated land so they could water when necessary and that in this altitude hail was a worse problem than early frost.

Bush Brothers announced they would process their lettuce this year at the Neff-Peters shed, and that by the 1950 season they may build their own processing plant in Hereford.

The two brothers, Richard and Ben Bush, have been in the lettuce growing business for a quarter of a century. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bush have already moved to Hereford and Mrs. Ben Bush will move here in the spring when their son gets out of college.

Music Club Fetes Mrs. Parker

Members of the Music Study Club honored Mrs. G. A. F. Parker, who has spent the past several months in Portland, Oregon with her daughter, Mrs. Max Wood and family, at a meeting of the club held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Dameron.

Parker, not only assisted organization of the club as its first president. She has been prominent in music circles in the city for years, but on account of health reasons she has been unable to take an active part in the club work the past year.

A lovely springtime table was arranged with jonquils and blue candles in candelabra for refreshments at tea time. Mrs. C. Ferguson poured and Mrs. A. O. Thompson presented the honoree with a corsage.

The program for the afternoon featured the conclusion of a series on "Women Composers" with Mrs. J. R. Allison serving as director.

The influence of the early Christian era and its many forms of religion on woman's place in the creative world was brought out clearly as Mrs. Allison introduced her subject. When the complex forms of modern music were in the making, professional musicians received their training and much of their experience through contact with the church, and women were barred from musical activities in the church. The woman musician of today is at the crossroads—her relation to music depends on her relation to the society in which she lives and to the religious expression of that society. This relation transcends any specific barriers that may have been erected in the past between given groups of women and their participation in music. In one field only has woman's opportunity and recognized function in music been equal to that of men—the solo performance of the prima donna," she said in conclusion.

MRS. G. A. F. PARKER

Musical selections included vocal solos "At Twilight" (Rudolph Friml) and "The Roses Cup" (Stephens) sung by Mrs. W. E. Stevens, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. McCracken. "Polonaise Heroique" (Julia Rive King) Mrs. J. C. McCracken; "Blue Lagoon" (Velma Russell) played by Mrs. Ellis Coombes and a choral number "By The Bend of The River" (Clara Edwards) sung by the club with Mrs. A. J. Schroeter accompanying. Mrs. McCracken was the director.

Those attending the meeting were Mesdames J. R. Allison, B. F. Cain, W. Y. Carmichael, H. A. Close, Ellis Coombes, C. H. Dyar, C. C. Ferguson, Jeff Gillbreath, Bob Lawrence, J. C. McCracken, J. D. Neill, Earl Phillips, T. W. Roberson, A. J. Schroeter, Glenn Snyder, W. J. Stanford, W. E. Stevens, A. C. Thompson, A. O. Thompson, C. R. Smith, the hostess and the honor guest.

Betty Gilliland, Boulder college student, has been visiting in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Williams, adm with other relatives the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kearns of Los Angeles arrived Thursday night for a brief visit with P. A. Turnbow and family and other friends here. The Kearns are former Hereford residents.

Saint Francis Xavier, 16th Century missionary priest, traveled for 11 years in India, the East Indies and China. He is believed to have baptised more than half a million people.

Choral and Dance Program To Be Seen In Central School Operetta

One of the most beautiful programs of its kind in the history of the school will be presented by first, second and third grade pupils of Central School in the high school auditorium Tuesday night March 29 at 8 o'clock.

The operetta under the direction of Carl Johnson, public school music instructor, will be unique in that, as its name "A Little Bit of Holland" suggests, it contrasts the music of Holland and America.

"The presentation," said Mr. Johnson, "is a culminating activity of a period of study of Holland done by all three grades. The purpose of the study being to increase the knowledge and appreciation of the customs and music of children of other lands."

and the Dutch Boys Dance by Jimmy Bradley and Jan Wallace. Mrs. Elizabeth Bonasio is the musician.

The scenery, which is elaborate and authentic, has been painted and arranged by Mrs. Guy Herd and Mrs. Walter Thompson, teachers. The setting is in Holland where two American twins, Martha Bookout and Dorothy Williams, are visiting their cousins. At first the Dutch children show envy of the pretty little American girls who can do so many nice things, but they soon overcome the shyness of the Dutch children by their friendly manner, and the Dutch children entertain them. The beautiful customs enjoyed by the children of Holland in church, at work and at play, their love for their flag and their country, forms a part of the colorful story as it unfolds in

Featured numbers on the program will be the massed chorus presented by The Tulip Girls, Steve Slagle's Stork Dance, The Dance of the Wooden Shoes

Loerwald-Howard Wedding

The marriage of Miss Pauline Loerwald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Loerwald, and William J. Howard, son of Mrs. Zada Howard of Denver, Colorado, was solemnized Friday at 8:30 o'clock in the morning in St. Anthony's Church Rectory. Father James Salvi read a double ring service before an improvised altar of baskets of blue iris and white tapers in candelabra, in the presence of close friends and relatives.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a suit-type dress of white wool flannel made with round Dutch collar and trimmed with gold buttons. The short jacket effect fitted over a full ballerina skirt. Her accessories were in white and she wore a white straw hat with feather and flower trim. She carried a mother of pearl prayer book topped with a single orchid, and a blue rosary.

Sister is Attendant
Miss Ruth Loerwald, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore an aqua crepe dress made with folds on the skirt to form finger-tip pockets. Her navy accessories were accented with a navy straw hat and her flowers were gardenias. Thomas P. Howard, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's table at the wedding breakfast given in the Loerwald home, was laid in white chosen colors of blue and white in refreshments and appointments. The three tiered wedding cake was served by Miss Frances Young and Mrs. E. Ward Jr. presided at the silver coffee service. Blue irises were arranged with white tapers. Mrs. Dyalthis Brady registered the guests and Mrs. B. J. Lueb, aunt of the bride, and Susie Reinart assisted in the dining room.

Leave on Trip
When the couple left on a short wedding trip to points in Colorado, the bride wore a placid blue suit with pale pink blouse and pink accessories. Her shoes and bag were in black and she wore the orchid from the wedding bouquet pinned to her shoulder.

Mrs. Howard is a graduate of Hereford High School and will continue her work in the local Red Cross offices. Mr. Howard graduated from Gainesville High School and attended Benson Business School in Clovis. After serving two years in the Navy during the war he became associated with his brother in the Howard and Howard Accounting offices here. After the wedding trip the couple will re-

"Bud" Bradley, chairman of the Water Safety Committee of the local Red Cross chapter, tells me that plans are being made to seed the area around the swimming pool in Bermuda grass. This will fill a definite need at the pool, not only in greatly beautifying the grounds, but in keeping the blowing of sand and debris down to a minimum.

Last summer it was necessary to drain the pool and scrub it every time the wind went on a spree. After one particularly bad day in July, the water took on the aspects of a cup of Turkish coffee. A good lawn on the shoulder around the outside of the pool as well as on the small concession stand space inside, should work wonders in keeping the water clean and sanitary.

There are two new bills before the state legislature which are proposed to regulate or even restrict the sale, ownership, and use of firearms in Texas. One of the bills is bad, in my opinion, and the other is somewhat better; if passed it might do some good in consolidating the rather vague laws now in effect in Texas.

House Bill No. 403 is a well intentioned bill badly deficient in one important phrase. It says "It shall be unlawful for any person who has been convicted under the laws of the United States or of the State of Texas or of any other State . . ." This language would cover anyone who has been convicted of a traffic violation or any one of ten thousand "crimes" having no connection with moral turpitude or crimes against persons or property. To clarify the situation, the opening sentence should read: "It shall be unlawful for any person who has been convicted of a crime of violence under the laws . . . to purchase, possess or use a firearm, etc."

I believe this is the language intended by Representative Willis. Gun-users of Texas would not be opposed to this bill if the language were changed as indicated.

House Bill No. 409 is a comprehensive, carefully drawn bill which should consolidate Texas firearms regulations in one section of the criminal code. It is rather lengthy, too long to go into here, but it does, at least, give a definite picture of where he stands to the Texan who owns and uses a gun.

After every war, a flurry of anti-firearm legislation breaks out. There is only way to fight it if sportsmen are to keep and enjoy their guns, and that is to keep track of what bills are introduced in both the state and federal houses of congress, and to keep your representative notified as to your sentiments.

If any of my readers (both of you) have any questions about firearms, I will be glad to hear from you, and will attempt to answer, or get them answered, accurately.

Sims HD Club Meets

Sims Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. C. W. Edwards on Wednesday, March 16. Roll call was answered as members discussed "The Rights of the Child," Mrs. A. O. Alexander talked on "The Adolescent—Problems and Emotions." Club recommendations were read and adopted, and a report of the recent forty-two party sponsored by the club with husbands as honor guests was given.

Those attending the meeting were Mesdames V. L. Reese, E. A. Edwards, O. A. Alexander, Cord Hammock, Glen Hetzler, Homer Brooks, Ed Thomas, Claud Bogle, M. W. Blankenship, Clarence Hollabaugh, Zerrell Thomas and J. A. Crofford.

Breaks Own Meet Record

Darrow Hepper (above), North Side High School, Fort Worth, Texas, broke his own record in the shotput division, March 18, at Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet in Fort Worth, Texas. He heaved the shot 56 feet, 3 1/4 inches. His old record for the meet was 54 feet and two inches.

EL Nino Study Club Hears Talk On Democracy

EL Nino Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Sam Nunnally, Monday night with Mrs. Jim Bookout, vice-president, presiding.

Using Webster's definition of Democracy as a preface to her discussion of Democracy, Mrs. Will Graham outlined the broader view of Democracy as its meaning today. Quoting Webster, "Democracy; a form of government in which the supreme power is lodged in the hands of the people collectively," she urged that parents teach the principles of democracy in the home and that teachers plan fully lessons dealing with the rights of others.

A lesson from "Roberts Rules of Order" was conducted by Mrs. F. A. Daniel, Jr., who spoke, for the most part, on procedure for the organization of clubs.

Members present were Mesdames Alton Biggers, Elizabeth Bonesto, Jim Bookout, Ben Childers, T. J. Clay, Paul Coneway, R. A. Daniel, Jr., Will Graham, Stanford Knox, W. H. Patton, W. J. Reeves, Ivan Block, Bruce Wooddell, John Kelly, Bill Smith Jr., and the hostess.

Jaycees Entertain Amarillo President

Charles Woodburn, president of the Amarillo Jaycees, was special guest at the dinner meeting of the Jaycees Tuesday night at the Lions Rotary Hall.

Woodburn, candidate for the vice presidency of Region 1 of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce organization spoke briefly to members of his campaign policies.

Paul Coneway, vice-president, presided in the absence of W. J. Reeves who arrived late, and reported on progress for the Jaycee park south of town. The boys met Sunday week to clean up the area and prune the trees that had received inadequate attention.

During the program session, chairman Gerald Wilson introduced the Barber Shop Quartet composed of Jack Cogdill, Eugene Roberson, Bob Hamilton and Dennis Lomas.

The boys sang "Mandy Lee," "I'm Standing in the Need of Prayer," "Coney Island Babe," and "Down in Arkansas." Cogdill, speech instructor at Hereford High School, concluded the program with piano solos.

In the middle ages, the hour-glass or sand-glass was generally used to keep time.

Even during highly civilized eras of Greece, such as the age of Pericles, men without clocks broke time into loose periods of "dawn," "full market," "noon," and "sunset."

Irrigation Farmers Urged To Specialize For Best Results

For irrigation farmers of the High Plains territory, Bob Thurman, irrigation specialist from Texas A&M College, had a few words of warning when he spoke to some of them in Portales last week.

Illustrating his talk with slides and crayon drawings, Thurman emphasized that every successful irrigation farmer on the high plains would have to become an irrigation specialist himself if he was to compete in this age of scientific farming and mechanization.

After giving the geologists' explanation of the source of the water under the plains section, Thurman discussed the practical workings of irrigation. He said that the geologists agreed that the Pecos and Canadian rivers in centuries past had stored the water here, adding that it was also agreed that the replacement water comes from lakes and from the rainfall.

He went so far as to say that it was his belief that "none of us will live to see" the exhaustion of our underground water supply.

Discussing the cost of irrigation from deep wells, Thurman said that the average here ran from $5.00 to $10.00 per acre on each crop, compared to $1.50 per acre in some sections of Colorado. "This means that we must have efficient management if we are to make irrigation pay here," he warned.

He advised the use of a small test pump for developing all new wells. "Don't put a 2000-gallon pump on a 1000-gallon well," at which point he went on to add that the production of the well must be matched with the proper pump. He also stressed the testing of wells against the lift of the water, and the horsepower of the pump for best efficiency.

"When prices are good, most anybody can make a success at irrigation, but when prices drop things are going to get rough unless the farmer is operating efficiently," he warned.

He laid special emphasis on the preparation of fields before irrigation practices are started and said that land that drops more than one inch to the 100 feet is unsuitable for irrigation.

"Fit your crop acres to your well," Thurman advised and reminded his hearers soils vary in absorption possibilities, also evaporation varies both also the conditions of the weather and the location of the land. Also, he pointed out, penetration of water must vary according to the crops planted, and said that penetration for grain sorghums and wheat should be at least four feet, while alfalfa requires a much deeper penetration of moisture. "You've got to get your water down to the end of the roots of your plants," he said.

The speaker laid most stress on the importance of being sure that the moisture penetration is sufficient. "Don't depend too much on rain, but rather take advantage of what rain you do get."

"When you get a rain, keep pumping; for in this way you will be taking advantage of the rain." And at this point he told of an experience of a plains irrigation farmer who went off on a fishing trip only to return and find his crop almost burned up. The rain, he explained, had failed to penetrate far enough to protect the crop from blistering sun and hot winds that followed the rain.

He strongly recommended the use of test probes determining the penetration of moisture, and cautioned farmers not to be misled by the belief that they had sufficient moisture after making only one or two tests. Exhibiting a moisture probe, he explained that it was nothing more than a four-foot wagon rod with a cross-bar welded across the top.

Penetrators are usually good at the location and the lower end of the rows, but it is not unusual to find dry dirt near the surface along the rows, he explained.

He strongly advocated storing underground seasons in the ground during the winter and during cloudy weather. "When the evaporation period is not so great, he also advocated wetting the soil thoroughly before planting. Cotton should be irrigated 40 days after planting and grain sorghums should be watered when in the boot."

Discussing the sprinkler system at length, he concluded, "if

Cleans Up

Clendenin Ryan, above, multi-millionaire grandson of the late William Fortune Ryan, has so far thrown an estimated $1,000,000 into his campaign to "kick the underworld out of municipal government." New York police are attempting to link him with a plot to tap the telephone wires of top city officials in New York, Chicago and Detroit.

you can irrigate by surface methods, stay with that method," he advised. Granting that some fields were not suitable for surface irrigation, he said that there were many instances where the sprinkler system was being used successfully.

"Keep in mind these four important points as you consider irrigation: (1) slope of your land, (2) type of soil, (3) capacity of your well, (4) penetration of the water, the most important of all," the specialist cautioned.

Kelly Top Man

John Dale Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kelly of Hereford completed his activities as a Martin County 4-H boy by showing the grand champion dry lot calf at the Midland Livestock Show and the reserve champion dry lot calf at the Sand Hills Hereford Show, Odessa last week.

During his six years of 4-H work, John Dale has had nine beef calves, a barrow, five registered gilts and a registered Duroc boar, and has received over 40 ribbons and several hundred dollars in prize money. He is a member of the county livestock judging team, and has won medals for judging, leadership, farm safety, and holds the Danforth Foundation Award for Leadership.

He has put two beef calves on feed to be shown at the Four County Livestock Show in Hereford next spring. As soon as school is out he will join his parents in Hereford to make his home.

Prospective Bride Is Complimented

Miss Pauline Loerwald, prospective bride of William J. Howard, was complimented at a shower given recently in the home of Mrs. Dyalitha Brady. Hostesses for the gift party included Mesdames Bruce Rose, Doyle Rose, Blue Turpin, and Misses Ethel Urbanczyk, Boss Hagar and Frances Young.

In accent of spring, the bride-elect's chosen colors of blue and white were chosen for the decorative theme with a mirrored bouquet of blue carnations centering the refreshment table. Blue tapers burned in crystal holders and a miniature bride and groom gave romantic suggestions. Cake squares were ornamented with tiny sugar spun roses in blue.

Receiving the guests with Mrs. Brady and the honoree were her mother, Mrs. J. A. Loerwald, mother of the bride groom to be,

Mrs. Zada Howard of Denver, Colo., and his sister, Mrs. Paul Daffern of Clovis, N. M. and the bride-elect's sister, Miss Ruth Loerwald.

MRS. TRAVIS DAMERON

French Dishes With Southern Flavor Make Excellent Food for Lenten

Mrs. Travis Dameron, a native of Louisiana, likes to cook and serve creole dinners, and those traditionally southern dishes, reminiscent of the picturesque oyster luggers plying their trade from the Gulf to the busy factories of New Orleans.

Many of the recipes which have been used in her family for years, are excellent for the Lenten season, since they feature the New Orleans favorite, fish, and if one is in a party mood the gay and festive colors of Mardi Gras may be used in the decorative theme, regardless of the season.

Ingredients may all be purchased locally.

Shrimp Creole

- 1 cup shrimp (cooked) may be fresh, frozen or canned
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/2 clove garlic (chopped)
- 1 pint (stewed) tomatoes
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika

Melt butter, add paprika and stir until blended. Add onion, green pepper and garlic. Simmer until tender, then add tomatoes, salt and pepper. Boil five minutes. Place shrimp in this mixture and boil 10 minutes. Serve hot.

With this serve lettuce hearts with French dressing and your favorite vegetables. Cut from a loaf of French bread as much as needed for the meal and slice almost through. Place in the oven just long enough to put on the table piping hot.

Let's Cook Something

Here is an old French recipe with a genuine Louisiana flavor which Mrs. Dameron uses when beef is preferred.

Daube Glace

- 1 thick round of beef (3 1/2 to 4 pounds)
- 4 (or 5) veal shanks or pig's feet, or both
- 1 slice fat pork
- 1 teaspoon allspice (whole)
- 1 teaspoon black pepper (whole)
- 1 teaspoon cloves (whole)
- 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 3 small onions
- 1 carrot
- 1 stalk celery
- 1 (whole) red pepper
- 3 bay leaves
- Salt to taste

Cut up the fat pork into small pieces, insert all through the meat and place in deep iron skillet or pot and sear both sides quickly. Add 1 cup of water and cook slowly until water is nearly gone; do this three times. There should be about 3-4 pin of gravy when done. Put the shanks, pig's feet, vegetables and seasoning in a deep pot and add six quarts of water. Let it boil until thick and until the meat leaves the bone. It should cool down until about 1-3 of the original amount is in the pot. Strain and add the juice of one lemon and one envelope of Knox gelatine which has been dissolved in 1-3 cup cold water. Arrange a mold with thin slices of lemon in the bottom and place the cooked beef and gravy in center.

Four the strained sauce over the meat and gravy, cool and put in refrigerator until firm. Serve cold, sliced and garnished with parsley and ripe olives. A fluffy bowl of steamed rice, fruit salad and French pastries for the sweet course, may be added to make the menu complete.

IS MY DOCTOR GIVING ME THE TRUE FACTS?

Misrepresentations by Political Powers of Organized Allopaths (M.D.s)

THEY SAY: Dr. Miller, President of Texas Medical Association: "Under the laws of Texas today you have no legal guarantee that this man treating you is qualified to do so."

ANSWER: Why should the proponents of the present Basic Science Law make a ridiculous, unfair statement of this kind. Have they never read the Medical Practice Act operating since 1907?

IN THEIR PROPOSED Minimum Standards Bill they state that it is not too much to ask anyone practicing the healing art to be examined in the Basic Sciences. Dr. Miller says technically the Basic Science subjects are these: "Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Bacteriology, Pathology, Hygiene, and Public Health."

ANSWER: Are they so uninformed that they do not know the present State Medical Board examines in Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Bacteriology, Pathology, Hygiene, AND ALSO Histology, Diagnosis, Surgery, Obstetrics, Gynecology and Medical Jurisprudence?

WILL THE MEDICAL DOCTORS Please explain how the patient's health will be better protected by requiring a young qualified doctor to take the same examinations twice by two boards? Who is going to pay this unnecessary expense for him?

THE SPONSORS of the so-called "Basic Science" of Minimum Standards Act say they want the Public to be sure that all practitioners of the Healing Arts have at least a minimum education.

ANSWER: Are they so uninformed that they do not know that the present law requires two years of College work plus four years of eight months each in a Reputable Medical School?

THE SPONSORS of Basic Science or Minimum Standards have advertised in the public press that this will be a fair bill because no Chiropractor, Naturopath or Osteopath will be a member of this board.

ANSWER: Why didn't they also exclude Allopaths (M.D.s)? For the perfectly clear reason that they will have two M.D.s from the faculty of a medical school on this Board, although they are not in active practice.

THE ALLOPATHS (M.D.s) state that the Minimum Standards Law (Basic Science) will control the practice of unlicensed Doctors in Texas.

ANSWER: It is absurd to contend that a new law with less police power could be enforced as well as the present medical laws, which have protected the public health of Texas for over 40 years.

Dr. Tate Miller, President of the Texas Medical Association, stated in a recent broadcast that all he could say of other types of doctors or branches of the Healing Arts studying the Basic Sciences was that their catalogues say they do.

Here is a comparison of the Education Background of Osteopathic and Medical Physicians. Schools approved by American Osteopathic Association must require: Minimum of 2 years premedical college work (as must all approved M. D. schools). We list a comparison of Osteopathic education as required by the Six approved Osteopathic Colleges and Harvard Medical College (M. D.s) in their required subjects:

TOTAL HOURS required by Osteopathic Schools 4,400.
Total Hours required by Harvard Medical School (M.D.s) 3,877.

The Osteopathic Schools Are Inspected Yearly by the Bureau of Colleges

DO THE M. D. SCHOOLS have similar requirements for inspecting colleges? NO!

Every Osteopathic Physician and Surgeon in Texas has a license to practice Medicine and Surgery which is identical to the license under which the Medical Doctor practices.

HOW LONG WILL THE PEOPLE, whose generous subscriptions and gifts have built the big hospitals of our state, allow the M.D.'s to dominate these institutions and bar QUALIFIED OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIANS and their patients from these tax-free institutions? M.D.s. do you want Educational Standards or Monopoly?

Can an M.D. get a license in the State of Texas without being examined by an Osteopathic Physician and Surgeon? NO! - Every applicant to practice Medicine and Surgery in Texas must be examined by a board composed of six Allopaths, two Eclectics, one Homeopath (All M.D.s)—a total of nine M.D.s—and three Osteopaths.

Can the Legislature create special privilege for any school of practice?

The answer is NO. The Texas Constitution says: "The Legislature may pass Laws prescribing the qualifications of practitioners of Medicine in the State, and to punish persons for Mal-practice, BUT NO PREFERENCE SHALL EVER BE GIVEN BY LAW TO ANY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE."

THE MINIMUM STANDARDS OR BASIC SCIENCE BILL SHOULD BE OPPOSED FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS

The composition of the board would be Monopolistic in favor of the M.D.s. No other school is represented on the proposed board.

It would restrict the licensing of qualified physicians between states by reciprocity. The Medical Board during the last two years has licensed over 700 Doctors who had qualified themselves in other States. Under the proposed Basic Science Law none of these men could have been licensed in Texas.

It would place qualified Doctors in double jeopardy — they would have to take the same subjects by two Boards.

MEDICAL PUBLICATIONS HAVE REPEATEDLY PLUGGED FOR THIS BILL AS A SCREEN TO KEEP OUT OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIANS.

It is the first step on the part of the M.D.s to change the present Medical Practice Act to one they can control for selfish reasons.

Only a very limited number of qualified physicians (M.D.s.) realize what the Minimum Standards Practice Act is, nor do they realize what the Minimum Standards Act will do for the Health of the Public in the Future. As a matter of fact, the chances are that not 5% of the M.D.s in Texas have ever read the new proposed Basic Science Law. As a clarification, ask your own Doctor if he has ever read the proposed Basic Science Law.

Young Mother's Club Makes Plans To Organize New Child Study Group

Spring flowers decorated the home of Mrs. Pat Robinson Monday evening when she was hostess for the Young Mother's Club meeting.

During the business session plans were made for a joint meeting with El Nino Study Club on March 28 in the home of Mrs.

Paul Conaway, Mrs. Carl Perrin will be guest speaker and will present a program on "Children's Literature." Mrs. Earl Stagner and Mrs. Neill Young were named to a committee to make arrangements for the annual Easter egg hunt on April 11.

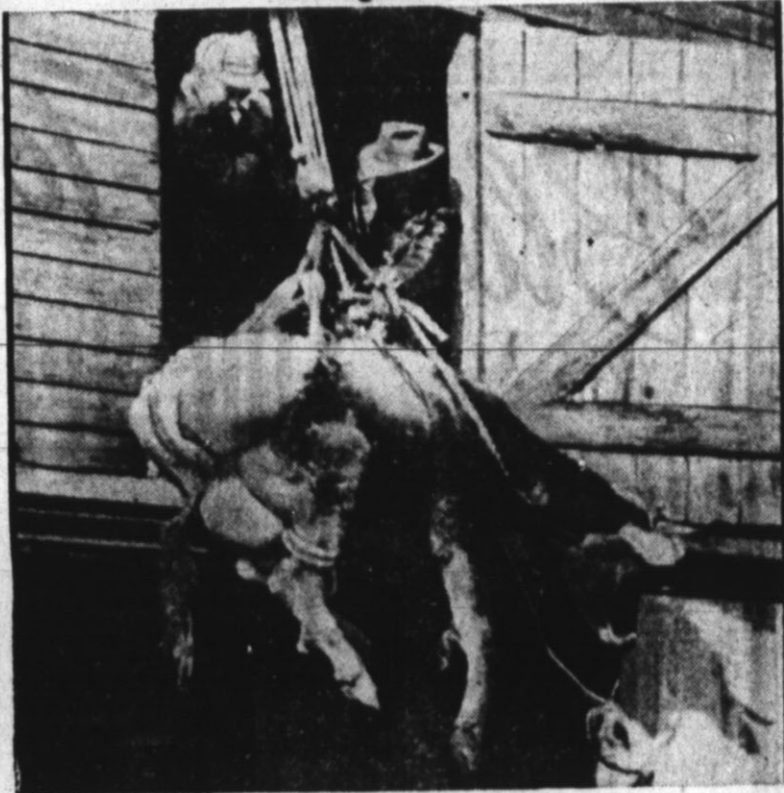

Members voted to assist in organizing a new Child Study Club and an organization meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Joe Reinauer, 801 W. Fourth St. on April 18. Mrs. Richard Barnard, president of the club, announced that all persons interested in becoming members in such a club are invited to attend the meeting.

The program for the evening was directed by Mrs. G. W. Edwards who spoke on "Is That Spelling Them?" She stressed the thought that coddling and making a child know that he is safe in love, does not mean spoiling him. "Firm discipline can be combined with affection," Mrs. Edwards said.

During the social hour a shower of gifts was presented to a member, Mrs. Charles Hill.

Those present were Mesdames Delbert Balnum, Dennis Baker, Richard Barnard, G. W. Edwards, Raylan Evans, Preston Hagans, Charles Hill, William Hull, Don Martin, Cecil Malone, Joe Reinauer, John Winkler, Neill Young and the hostess, Mrs. Leroy Aven was welcomed as a new member.

Going Down

"Hot Shot", a cow belonging to farmer Ray Kaufman, upper right, of Halstead, Kansas, just couldn't stand the indignity of her first experience with a mechanical milker and bolted into the hayloft. Kaufman and two assistants added insult to injury by hobbling the incensed animal and lowering her back to the ground via block and tackle.

Bob Poage of Waco. Clinton expects to go to Texas soon and take his bar examination. He looks forward to law practice in his home state.

The House Folding Room employs a large number of young men and women who attend one of the local colleges. They wrap parcels of all description for mailing.

Calvin Kimbrough of Sherman, a cousin of the famous Texas A&M football star, John Kimbrough (now with the Los Angeles Don Professional team), works in the folding room when he isn't in accounting classes at Southeastern University. His wife, the former Lorraine Mumford of Fort Worth, works in the office of Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham.

The majority of these young men are studying law or preparing for the diplomatic service.

Incidentally, Rep. Poage recently heard from the young man who held the first patronage position he filled after entering congress in 1937. He is now Dr. Clyde Halley of Temple. He has completed an internship in a West Virginia hospital and now plans to begin practice in Texas.

ATTEND LUCAS REBURIAL

Darrell Blanton and Raylan Evans returned Tuesday night from Brownwood where they served as pall bearers in reburial rites held for F. L. Lucas, Pharmacist's Mate, first class, who was killed in action on Okinawa in 1945.

Rev. Roy Ford, pastor of the First Christian Church of Hereford who conducted the service, and Lyle Blanton who took the group to Brownwood in his plane, also returned Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lucas, F. L.'s parents, expect to return home next week.

Couple Observes 54th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Williams held a surprise observation of their 54th wedding anniversary Sunday. Seven children assisted in celebrating the event at a dinner given in the Williams' home.

Four sons included Jim and family of Clovis, N. M., Quince and his wife of Amarillo, Altus of Adrian and Hoby and his family of Hereford.

The three daughters included Mrs. Florence Caper, Pampa; Mrs. Euniter Ware of Littlefield; and Mrs. Estelle Burrell and family of Hereford. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ivy and daughter of White Deer.

Rebekahs Entertain

Members of the Rebekah Lodge entertained the Odd Fellows Lodge in the IOOF Hall recently with a forty-two party. Mrs. Merlin Kaul gave an appropriate welcome to the guests and prizes in the games were won by George Springer and Johnny Cockerham.

Serving as hostesses were Mesdames Nannie Mae Mauk, Ursulae Jacobsen and Orpha Nickerson. Refreshments were served to approximately fifty members of both Orders.

Although the word "Yankee" is the most popular national nickname, its origin is debated by scholars.

Alcohol and carbon dioxide are produced by yeast as by-products of the fungi's quest for oxygen to "breathe."

A German alchemist named Georgius Agricola accidentally discovered zinc when, in the 16th century, he was treating ores for lead and copper.

Ancient Babylonians and Egyptians early learned to measure time accurately by the sundial.

Texans in Washington

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Among the unsung Texans in Washington are several clean-cut young men who are getting their start by working more or less menial jobs at the capitol.

Jobs such as operating elevators, wrapping packages, and doorkeeping are given as political patronage. They usually go to ambitious young men who are working their way through college.

Visitors to the Capitol will find, for instance, that the typical elevator operator is a well appearing fellow in his twenties. Nearly all are war veterans; many of them are married and have children.

They have their books with them on the job. It's not unusual to find one of them manipulating elevator controls with one hand and holding his place in a big law book with the other. When he gets a free moment he plunges into such abstract matters as contract law or a history of U. S. Swedish relations. (Some of them attend night school. Others have hours permitting them to attend day classes.)

Average pay for these positions runs between $2,000 and $3,000 a year. Better paying jobs are those of the fellows who sit on swivel chairs at the Senate or House chamber gallery doors and check credentials of those wishing to enter.

Every Democratic congressman gets to fill one such patronage position (the majority party has this privilege). Miss Reba Orr, formerly of Greenville, is a clerk to the House Patronage committee. She says that many of the Republican appointees of the 40th congress are still holding on, but they are being replaced by Democratic selections as the process of organizing the 81st Congress nears completion. Miss Orr herself was off the government payroll during the two years of the 80th congress; she worked then on promotion jobs for radio stations in Washington.

A good example of the patronage job holder is Stephen Preslar of Ranger.

B&PW Club enjoyed a social meet in the home of Mrs. Leroy Aven Monday night. Mrs. Besse Lee Wood was assistant hostess. The first half of the program was devoted to business with members making plans for the forthcoming style show scheduled for April 5. This is Hereford's first organized "Barber Shop" singing group and includes Eugene Roberson, Dennis Thomas, Bob Hamilton and Jack Cogdill. contribution to beauty, humor and romance. Mrs. Phillip Barkley told of the work now being done by the Cancer Society, especially of the work in Amarillo and told of the opening of a drive for funds on April 1. Members of the club attending were Mary Dyer, Ellen Carter, Dyalitha Brady, Cecil Williams, Mary Lou Allmon, Jean Williams, Zula Gilliam, Betty Turpin, Clara Acker, Corinne Jennings, Pauline Burns, Ursalee Jacobsen, Tilly Miller, Virginia Hartman, Bruce Rose, Eunice Mathies, Adeline Koelzer and the hostesses. Presidents vs. Press

One war that has never known a truce is the constant strife between journalists and Chief Execs. Some battles were more hectic than others, but no President has ever escaped unscathed. When Teddy Roosevelt was Chief Exec he sued the N. Y. World for libel. The President of the United States lost the case. After a Boston gazette attacked T. Roosevelt, he ordered the weather bureau to stop furnishing that paper with its forecasts. The paper threatened a civil suit—and the order was cancelled. Reporters resent vicious criticism as much as the targets for such attacks. When one Washington reporter circulated a sordid lie about FDR—the other correspondents voted to expel him from the National Press Club. Andy Jackson also had difficulties with newspaper critics. But he noted: "If newspapers are deprived of their right to criticize a President—the people will lose their right to vote for one." Relations between Herbert Hoover and the Washington press corps were usually tense. He considered it a personal attack and ordered an investigation of the "leak" after one newsmen had reported that some curtains in the White House had been mended.

President John Adams attempted to clamp a leash on critics by pressuring congress into passing a press gag law. Many reporters were jailed or fined. But it failed to put a damper on criticism. On the contrary, Adams' strong-arm tactics intensified the attacks. Voters were aroused by the threats to freedom of the press: The result was that Adams and his party were severely trounced in the next election. Jefferson succeeded Adams and released the newspapermen who had been put behind bars. Jefferson's aid to the press didn't give him any journalistic immunity. Historians reveal Jefferson was the victim of more bitter press attacks than Adams. But Jefferson never made any attempt at suppression. Remember he said: "If a people had to be without newspapers or without government, they would do better without government."

Grant's tipping weakness provided a field day for journalistic barb-pitching. One gazette sarcastically: "Periodical neuralgia is what they call it in Washington now. Grant has it, and he has not been able to see visitors for several days. Parson Newman prayed for him yesterday, and the parson's intimate relations with Divine Providence, backed by continued liberal doses of hydrate of chloral, justify the hope that the patient will get his nerves steadied in a day or two." Charles Dana's N. Y. Sun once published a full page sketch of a tombstone. On it was inscribed: "Sacred to the memory of American Liberty, Born July 4th, 1776. Died by order of Ulysses I on November 28th, 1876. Age 100 years, 4 months, 24 days." The New York Sun's blasts caused editor Henry Watterson to quip: "Grant is suffering from sunstroke. He sees nothing but spots on it."

As we have pointed out before—politicos squawking about a bad press today should be grateful they weren't around when Dana was slugging: Dana accused President Hayes of stealing the election—and he never allowed him to forget it. When Hayes visited New York, Dana's gazette published a photo of the Chief Exec with the word F-R-A-U-D printed across his forehead. Dana published that photo as long as Hayes was in the city.

FDR believed those who descend to abuse harm themselves more than their opponents. He once emphasized this point by telling a classic Chinese yarn: Two Chinese were arguing heatedly in the midst of a crowd. A stranger expressed surprise that no blows were being struck. His Chinese friend replied: "The man who strikes first admits that his ideas have given out." Franklin Roosevelt also expressed his feelings about criticism by spinning the one about the man who was warned by his medico: "If you continue drinking, you'll lose your hearing." The man retorted: "Doc, I like what I've been drinking so much more than what I've been hearing that I think I'll just go on getting deaf." How times don't change: During the last tussle, isolationist editorials dubbed it "Roosevelt's War." During the War of 1812—some gazettes called it "Madison's War."

Of special interest was the lesson for the Pioneer Study Club Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. E. O. Jordan was hostess at her home. Mrs. O. M. Dickey assisted in serving refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. Dickey presented a review of "Civilization on Trial" by Arnold Joseph Townbee, a book composed of 13 chapters, each a separate unit dealing with various problems as related to civilization. "Throughout the history of the world learning was brought about through suffering and we have yet to see a completely civilized society. There have been groups or individuals, however, that have measured to the highest form of civilization," she said. Quoting the author, "The entire solution of this age-old problem lies in the teaching of the Golden Rule. If we are to see the perfect unification of civilization, it will come about by mankind through

"The latest in the way of railroad building is a proposition to extend a line from San Antonio in a northwesterly direction through San Angelo, Colorado City, Hereford and connect with the Rock Island in Dalhart" reports the March 25 Brand for 1904.

Influence of prospectors being brought to Hereford is expressed in this story in the Brand: "That C. L. Talmadge with his large number of prospectors coming into this section, is helping Hereford in more ways than one is evidenced by the fact that a large number of Hereford eggs were eaten here by his first party of prospectors and they were so pleased with the quality and size of the same that the attention of the same was brought to the egg dealers at Chicago, who have, since that time, purchased over 3000 dozen of this staple article and would have purchased more had they been obtainable. That our farmers can raise chickens and eggs goes without saying and with what profit depends upon the manner in which they go into the business.

1904 Editorial

An editorial appearing in the 1904 Brand reads: "Since the time is rapidly approaching when the election for school trustees will be held, it might not be amiss for every patron of our public school to stop and think for a moment and then ask himself this question: 'Is here anything that could be done that would better subserve the interests of our schools?' To this question the Brand answers in the affirmative. For the board of trustees for the Hereford School only has one member, which of course is all right as long as nothing goes wrong; but when trouble does come (which must be the case sooner or later) there are not many men who alone wish to shoulder the responsibilities which attend the trusteeship.

"We do not wish it to be understood that the Brand is attempting to dictate how this matter should be adjusted but at the request of others and because we believe it to be for the best interests of the school, we would suggest for public consideration an advisory board, composed of something like four members whose duty would be to meet with the trustee in power from time to time and advise as to the needs and demands of the school. Our present trustee and county superintendent are heartily in favor of this plan and it should receive the careful consideration of every patron..."

Reburial Service For John Weaver

Word has been received here of the re-burial of Sgt. John E. Weaver in a military service at Blanco, Texas, on March 26, 1949.

Sgt. Weaver, a tank commander in the 193rd Tank Brigade was killed in action on Okinawa, April 26, 1945. He had served in the army four years and had engaged in three major battles in the Pacific theater.

He was the son of Mrs. W. T. Weaver and the late Mr. Weaver, former Hereford residents who moved to Blanco in 1939. Prior to his enlistment he had engaged in farming for several years in Deaf Smith County. Weaver was a member of the Catholic Church.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. W. T. Weaver, five brothers and five sisters. Jack Weaver is the only relative living in Hereford.

The highest achievement of Greek sculptors was said to have been Phidias colossal image of Zeus, 40 feet high and made of ivory and gold.

Your Rexall Druggist talks to you about PRESCRIPTIONS

A PRESCRIPTION is a very personal thing. Not even a member of your immediate family should use a prescription ordered for you without your Physician's full approval. The symptoms indicating a certain illness in your case need not necessarily indicate the same illness in another person. Actually, your prescription could do the other person more harm than good! It is because each of us is an individual that prescriptions are required. Otherwise, out of the great variety of drug preparations available commercially it would even be necessary to go to a Physician for a treatment. Further, because you are an individual, and your Physician deems it essential to order a prescription for you, it is likewise essential that prescription be compounded from fresh, potent ingredients. An experienced Pharmacist, such as we have on duty here at your Rexall Drug Store, should do the compounding to guarantee accuracy in every detail.

The next time you have a prescription to be compounded, remember it is your "Key to Better Health." Bring your prescription to us and we will guarantee accuracy in compounding, potency in ingredients, and reasonable prices made possible by our partnership in the great family of over 10,000 Rexall Drug Stores throughout the Nation.

LADIES, SPRING HOUSECLEANING TIME REMINDS ME THAT MOST ACCIDENTS HAPPEN AROUND THE HOME!

FOR INSTANCE, MY LOVE, LIKE LAST WINTER WHEN I WAS CLEANING SNOW OFF THE WALK AND ACCIDENTALLY SHOVELED SOME ON YOU...

AND THE TIME MA ACCIDENTALLY BACKED INTO HER CACTUS PLANT.

AND WHEN THE LAWN SPRINKLER WAS ACCIDENTALLY TURNED ON WHILE YOU AND MA WERE SUNDING NEAR IT...

NONE OF WHICH WERE SERIOUS, OF COURSE, BUT IT PAYS TO BE CAREFUL.

YES INDEED! NOW MAY WE RETURN TO OUR CLEANING?

I'LL TAKE THIS RUG OUT AND BEAT IT—
