

Survey shows teachers 'frustrated'

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

About 100 persons waited through a three-hour executive session of the school board to hear results of a recent survey which indicated that more than half of the Hereford District's teachers currently are frustrated with their positions as educators.

The survey, conducted by a joint committee of members of a concerned citizens group and members of the school board, was released only in part. Upon the Texas Association of School Boards recommendation, the local board deleted portions of the survey which mentioned specific names of administrators.

Board president Bill Townsend said the material would be forwarded to the TASB attorneys in Austin for a complete recommendation on the liability of the report in total being released by the board.

"At this time this board will take no position of being a part of any release that has to do with the individual names involved," Townsend told the crowd. "We do recognize that we have some problems that we have to address—that's what we're here for, that's what you're here for as individuals. And we do want to address the problems that affect the children, that affect this district as a whole, and we will do that."

Townsend added that some things could be addressed immediately and noted that the report cards, the grading system, the pre-testing options, and discipline problems would be among items to be discussed.

Kathy Moore, one of the parents who worked on the deleted edition of the survey "will not have as much impact as far as our administration is concerned and as far as the communication gap between the administration and the teachers."

Moore and Dino Barela joined school board members John Fuston and Marilyn Culpepper on conducting the survey.

Moore said she had visited with two attorneys who indicated there would be no problems with a complete release of the survey.

She said she was being cooperative with the school board but added "I still feel like those deleted questions will eventually be released."

The overall survey, published in its deleted form on Page 2 of The Hereford Brand, shows that 76 per-

Rainy Day Wreck

Weather could have been a factor in an accident on U.S. 60 near Big Daddy's Truck Stop early today, according to Texas Highway Patrol investigators. A THP spokesman said it appeared that the truck and trailer rig, driven by Tlaze H. Webster of Amarillo, pulled out onto the highway and hit a westbound car driven by Ruben Dominguez of Hereford around 8:30 a.m. Issuance of any citation is pending a complete investigation.

TRLA probe continues as Legal Services team arrives

An investigative team from the Legal Services Corporation was to have arrived in Hereford today—on the heels of an announcement that the probe will not be discussed until it is completed.

Victor Fortuno, acting director of the LSC's Office of Compliance and Review in Washington, D.C., said a "gentleman's agreement" not to discuss the investigation with the press resulted from a Thursday meeting in his office with Texas Rural Legal Aid Executive Director David Hall.

The LSC is conducting a follow-up to an investigation of the local TRLA office conducted last November by OCR Staff Attorney Wendell Wylie. Wylie published his findings in a report issued last month, which Hall referred to as a "politically motivated hatchet job."

Wylie admitted many of the accusations made to him about the local office were unsubstantiated, and said he and another attorney will be looking for more factual evidence during their second visit.

"We want to complete the investigation as soon as possible," Fortuno said Tuesday. "The media coverage just confuses things."

Fortuno said once a final report is issued, which he guessed would take several weeks to prepare, it would be shared with the media.

The investigative team, which expects to be in Hereford the remainder of the week, was also to include two auditors prepared to go over TRLA's fiscal records.

The LSC first came to Hereford at the request of some 3,000 residents signing petitions critical of the local program. Racial discrimination suits, one of which was settled Monday, have played a major role in making the office unpopular with many of the city's residents.

Meanwhile, petitions in support of the local office have been circulating as well. Those petitions claim that many of Hereford's "poor and underprivileged citizens" would go without legal assistance were it not for the office, and ask that further investigations be "unbiased and thorough."

'Power of President amazing'

Reagan wins MX missile vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decisive Senate victory on spending for the MX missile sets the stage for three other votes he must win before Congress will release $1.5 billion to resume MX production.

The Senate's 55-45 vote Tuesday to free funds to build and deploy a second batch of 21 of the highly accurate MX missiles underscored the president's powers of persuasion and gave Reagan the first major legislative victory of his second White House term.

Senator after senator credited the victory to Reagan's personal lobbying and his adroit use of the argument that killing the MX system would undermine U.S. arms control negotiators and set back both national security and the cause of world peace.

"The power of the presidency is amazing," said Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., an MX opponent.

"I just didn't know how many people were going to be influenced, both by the talks and by the president's efforts," said Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., leader of anti-MX forces on the Senate floor.

Serious doubts remain in Congress about the effectiveness of the MX system, its impact as an arms control bargaining chip and the wisdom of deploying the full fleet of 100 missiles envisioned by the administration.

And even if Reagan prevails in the battle to free the MX funds Congress impounded last year, the future of the weapons system and its place in national defense and arms control is far from secure.

Several key senators said they do not intend to vote to authorize or appropriate the $3.2 billion requested by the president to buy 48 more MX missiles during fiscal 1986.

The Senate, as part of an MX compromise reached last year, now must vote on whether to actually appropriate the impounded MX money for fiscal 1985. That vote is scheduled for today, and the House is set for an identical pair of votes next week.

A key Democratic aide, asking not to be identified by name, said a survey of all House members shows a near even split on the immediate issue of lifting restrictions on MX spending, with about 200 representatives for the MX, about 200 against it and the rest uncommitted.

"I think this is winnable in the House," Hart said of his anti-MX efforts. "But I think it's going to be tough. We'll be working on the swing vote."

Reagan, who already has begun lobbying House members, said Tuesday, "it will be real tight."

The House Appropriations and Armed Services committees both scheduled MX votes today.

Beneficial rainfall covers county, area

Hereford and Deaf Smith County residents were enjoying a "multi-million-dollar" rain this morning with rainfall reports ranging from more than one inch to more than 3 inches.

The rain will "really help wheat crops and allow farmers to shut down their wells on pre-watering crops," according to one ag observer this morning.

The heaviest rainfall report came from Summerfield, where 3 inches was reported about 10 a.m. today. The rain gauge showed 2.75 inches at 8 a.m. and the rainfall continued this morning.

The Easter community had 2 inches early this morning and the rain was continuing; 1.75 inches was reported at Dawn; 1.25 was recorded at Simms at mid-morning, with reports ranging from .60 to .80 at 7 a.m. today; Milo Center reported about 1.25 inches and rain still falling this morning; Walcott had 1.7 inches

Future of Buffalo Lake may lie in hands of Congress

The future of Buffalo Lake probably lies in the hands of Congress, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Rodney Krey, complex manager for the Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge, told Buffalo Lake Water District board members Tuesday that an environmental assessment completed a few months ago by the Bureau of Reclamation is "sitting on the regional director's desk."

Krey said the F&WS is pleased with the EA, which recommends that the Umbarger Dam be repaired to assure the safety of residents located downstream on the Tierra Blanca Creek.

However, Krey explained, F&WS Regional Director Ellis Klett has not signed the EA or taken steps to get dam repairs funded because he has learned that certain members of Congress are not in favor of spending money on the dam.

"Fish and Wildlife has not signed the EA because they're not willing to go against the wishes of Congress," Krey explained. "The whole thing is in their ballpark; we don't know

The British pound rose nearly three cents against the dollar in London on Tuesday, climbing to $1.1360 from $1.1062 late Monday. Later in New York, sterling surged to $1.1615 from $1.1160 late Monday.

Despite its steep slide, the dollar still is 2.73 percent higher than at the end of 1984 and 81.31 percent higher than when the 1980s began, and traders are skeptical about whether it will fall further.

On the New York Commodity Exchange, gold bullion for current delivery rocketed up $35.70 to close at $339 an ounce on Tuesday, the highest finish since the $340 of Nov. 23, 1984. Gold stood at a 5½-year low of $282 an ounce on Feb. 25.

The one-day fall was the largest daily decline in records that go back to Jan. 1, 1971. It eclipsed the 2.01

Ag Week is theme for breakfast

"Agriculture Appreciation Week" is the theme for the Fun Breakfast here Thursday morning in the Community Center with Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and Hereford retail merchants as the sponsors.

The breakfast starts at 6:30 a.m. with Charlie Bell and John Stagner as emcees, and the program including the usual highlights of games, prizes, community announcements and the presentation of a "Bull Chip" award to a person actively involved in helping build the community.

Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber, urges persons who regularly attend the bi-monthly breakfasts to bring a guest who is involved in agriculture. Hereford Hustlers will be helping with the breakfast and serving coffee to those in the breakfast line.

Police arrest two for DWI

Hereford police arrested two persons Wednesday for driving while intoxicated. The lawmen also checked reports of a broken window on a combine, a possible theft of a rented video recorder, and a domestic dispute.

KPAN studios had measured 1.52 inch of rain by 10:15 this morning.

Hospital may attract new physicians here

Deaf Smith General Hospital may soon be rewarded in its efforts to attract new physicians to the city, board members learned during their regular monthly meeting Tuesday.

Hospital administrator Jim Bullard reported that negotiations are underway with an orthopedic surgeon, and a pathologist who would also work as an anesthesiologist.

The purchase of around $100,000 worth of equipment would be necessary for the orthopedist to locate here, Bullard said, but he felt it would be a good investment because of the number of patients who could be treated and hospitalized here. Bullard estimated hospital revenues of about $750,000 a year would result from cases that are now being transferred to Amarillo.

The pathologist would be furnished by a pathology group in Denton, with the company providing the necessary equipment. Bullard told board members the hospital could expect to save about 20 percent on pathology fees, which are now paid to an Amarillo physician who travels to Hereford.

Last month, the hospital paid a pathologist's fee of $10,084, with a total so far this fiscal year of $50,876.

February's operating report showed 218 patients admitted, with an average daily census of 32.5. The average percentage of occupancy was 42.2.

There were 109 surgical procedures last month, and 48 ambulance runs.

Bullard announced that Phyllis Morrison will return to the hospital April 1 to take over as comptroller. Morrison left that post last year and was replaced by Ina Walk, who resigned Feb. 22.

City council approves settlement

HOUSTON (AP) — After eight years, Billie Ruth Webster has finally seen an end to the legal battle that began when her teen-age son was fatally shot by police.

"I'm pleased this is finally over," Mrs. Webster said Tuesday after City Council approved a $428,000 settlement ending a lawsuit over her son's death. "You can't put a price tag on a 17-year-old's life, but I'm satisfied with the settlement."

Randall Alan Webster was shot Feb. 8, 1977, after a high-speed chase that started when he allegedly stole a van in southeast Houston. The shooting was the basis of a made-for-television movie, "The Killing of Randy Webster."

Mrs. Webster and her husband, John, filed a civil suit against the city after learning police had planted a "throw down" gun near their dead son's body.

Mrs. Webster accepted the settlement offer last week. Police claimed officer Danny Mays shot Webster after two other policemen, J.T. Olin and Norvel Holloway, warned that the teenager had a gun.

Mercenary held in Texas slaying

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — A man who advertised himself as a mercenary has been charged with capital murder in the shooting of a Bryan woman and has given Florida investigators statements about two shootings there, authorities said.

John Wayne Hearn, 39, a former Marine with home addresses in Atlanta, Ga., Columbia, S.C., and Gainesville, Fla., was arrested by Brazos County authorities in Huntsville Friday. He was held without bond Tuesday in the Brazos County Jail in the murder of Sandra Black.

Hearn has given statements in two Florida killings, said Florida's Bradford County Sheriff Dolph Reddish. The killings took place in January and February, Reddish said.

Mrs. Black was shot to death in her home on Feb. 21. Her husband, Robert Vannoy Black Jr., 38, was arrested March 10 for capital murder and also is being held without bond in Brazos County Jail. He is suspected of hiring Hearn to murder Mrs. Black, authorities said.

The 6-foot, 240-pound Hearn advertised in this month's "Soldier of Fortune" magazine as a mercenary. Brazos County Sheriff Ron Miller said he believes that Black contacted Hearn through the magazine advertisement.

Bill gets tentative approval

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would double the cost of college tuition for Texans and add $200 million to the state's ailing budget got the House's tentative approval.

The bill by Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, would raise tuition for all students attending Texas colleges and universities. The measure faces another House vote before moving on to the Senate.

"Texas has had a long history of offering many opportunities for education regardless of socio-economic conditions. We tried to be fair and equitable in terms of clear financial crisis," said Mrs. Delco, chairman of the House Higher Education Committee.

Gov. Mark White said he hadn't seen the bill but would support it if a "sufficient number of dollars for otherwise qualified economically disadvantaged students" was included.

Mrs. Delco's bill would earmark 25 percent of the money gained through tuition for need-based scholarships and emergency loans. Of the 25 percent, not less than 5 percent can be allotted for emergency loans, she said.

Report on leak won't assess blame

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — A report on a gas leak that killed more than 2,000 people in Bhopal, India, will not assess blame but will explain how the methyl isocyanate leaked from a tank at a Union Carbide Corp. plant, the company chairman says.

Union Carbide said it would release the report today based on its internal investigation of the leak, which occurred Dec. 3.

Carbide Chairman Warren Anderson has said the document "will be a technical report that relates to what happened in that tank." He said the report would not try to assess blame for what is considered one of the worst industrial accidents in history.

Union Carbide is being sued for billions of dollars in connection with the Bhopal leak.

The company report was to be given to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and to state agencies investigating safety at Carbide's Institute, W.Va., plant.

U.S. F-15 crashes, pilot missing

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A U.S. Air Ff-15a warplane taking part in the major training exercise Team Spirit '85 crashed early today in the Yellow Sea and its pilot is missing, U.S. Air Force officials said.

A search for the missing pilot ended at 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EST), about 7½ hours after the single-seat fighter plane went down off South Korea's west coast, about 50 miles northwest of Kunsan air base, they said.

Identification of the missing man was being withheld until notification of his relatives, they added.

Earlier, a U.S. military announcement said the plane was assigned to the 21st Tactical Fighter Wing at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska, and was deployed to South Korea to take part in the Team Spirit training, which involves about 200,000 U.S. and South Korean military personnel.

Belgium backs NATO missiles

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — After 15 hours of heated debate, Parliament today backed Prime Minister Wilfried Martens' decision to deploy NATO nuclear missiles in Belgium.

The vote of confidence, approved by 116-93 with one abstention, was a major victory for Martens, who had been expected to win by a narrow margin, and a victory for the Reagan administration, which had strongly urged the deployment. On Friday, Martens informed the house his government had deployed the first 16 of the 48 U.S.-made missiles Belgium pledged in 1979 to base on its territory. He insisted the deployment was defensive, not aggressive, and was needed to offset Soviet SS-20s in Eastern Europe.

President Reagan had told Martens during the Belgian leader's January visit to Washington that Belgium's support was needed to bolster the West's hand in the U.S.-Soviet arms talks in Geneva, Switzerland.

Two members of the 212-seat House of Representatives were absent. Martens needed 107 votes. The house is the leading assembly in the Belgian Parliament. Senate approval is considered a formality.

The debate began at 2 p.m. Tuesday, and the vote came at 4:50 a.m. today, two days after a rally in Brussels, where more than 100,000 demonstrators called for the defeat of Martens' four-year-old coalition.

Hereford teacher survey results released

A survey among Hereford Schools educators was recently conducted by a joint committee of the Concerned Citizens group and members of the Hereford School Board. The following results show a composite of the responses from all the schools.

The missing questions were deleted from the public release of the survey by the school board pending investigation of possible liability of the board's release of those questions which pertain to particular administrative employees of the district.

Some percentages may not add up to 100 due to no responses.

percent of the teachers feel the implementation of the curriculum is inconsistent and that 74 percent are unsatisfied.

Fuston said there could be some liability to the school board if the deleted questions were released. He said the board didn't think so, but admitted there was a possibility and thus the board was checking with TASB.

Fuston admitted that if the survey questions had brought out positive responses it would have been likely that those questions would have been released.

"As far as accuracy of the survey we feel like it was an accurate tabulation," Fuston said. "We felt like that it was a fair survey."

Fuston said the board will sit down and study the survey and added that "it doesn't take a lot of studying to see that we've got a lot of opportunities."

"We don't want to tear up the schools, we want it to be a good place for our children to go to school," he said.

"I hope we make some positive changes because of the survey," Fuston said.

likelihood of property damage from flooding.

"I don't want to pay for someone else's car wreck," Cooke proclaimed. "I don't care what Beau Boulter says."

Calls to Boulter's Amarillo office and the regional office of the Fish and Wildlife service in Albuquerque had not been returned by presstime this morning.

In other business, Carolyn Waters was elected interim secretary to fill in for Charlie Johnson Jr. Johnson has taken on added responsibilities and indicated to board chairman Ted Abrahamson that he could not serve as secretary for at least five or six months. He was not present at Tuesday's meeting. The board officially voted to cancel a director's election planned for April 6, and decided to postpone a request for taxpayer funding until the November election. Board member Darrell Carey, an attorney, will meet with Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall counties to ask to be included in the general election and to request financial assistance for election expenses.

An open house at the refuge planned for March 30 was postponed until September. Krey said many of the improvements planned by the F&WS will be completed by then.

The board will not meet again until May.

Lawmakers approve protection plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Legislature passed a bill today allowing 69 savings and loan associations closed by the governor to open and give depositors $750 per month until state officials permit the institutions to resume normal operations.

Gov. Richard Celeste, who on Friday ordered the savings and loans closed for three days to stem a run by depositors and then extended the so-called bank holiday through Tuesday, quickly signed the bill.

"We have achieved a great deal tonight with the passage of the legislation I am signing," Celeste said before making the measure official early today. "We are protecting $4 billion, the savings of 500,000 Ohioans."

Rep. Robert D. Nettle, head of the House Finance Committee, said some of the S&Ls could reopen today, and that the others could resume operations over a period of time because of a series of stipulations in the law.

The governor scheduled a meeting today with the institutions' chief officers to discuss implementation of the bill.

Obituaries

CLAYTON W. SANDERS

Clayton W. Sanders, 62, of Route 5 died at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in Deaf Smith General Hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be Thursday at 11 a.m. at the First Assembly of God Church with the Rev. David Morris, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Bob Huffaker, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Burial will follow in Lorenzo Cemetery in Lorenzo under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors of Hereford.

Born April 24, 1922, in Texas, he married Mary Nalls Aug. 1, 1942, in Las Vegas, Nev. She preceded him in death Aug. 22, 1984. He had been a resident of Hereford for 2½ years, moving here from Muleshoe. He was a farmer. He was a member of the First Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include two sons, Kevin of Hereford and Roger of Van Horn; two daughters, Linda Arbeiter of South Dakota and Colleen Nash of Corpus Christi; one sister, Une Faye

Harris of Victoria; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sanders of Idalou; and seven grandchildren.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Virus can cause hearing loss

DEAR DR. LAMB — A year and a half ago I had a sudden loss of hearing. I developed ringing in my ears and dizziness, and within six days I was deaf in my right ear. I have been examined by an ear specialist and nothing was found that would explain it. The deafness cannot be helped with a hearing aid since there is absolutely no hearing at all.

I'm just 27 and am anxious to learn as much about this as possible. Can my condition be helped with surgery? It is a major problem when people speak to me on the right side.

DEAR READER — Your story is unique. The most likely explanation is that you had a viral infection of the inner ear that involved the cochlea. That is the little snail-shaped organ that receives stimuli from sound waves and converts them into nerve impulses. A viral infection can cause a sudden, and sometimes complete, loss of hearing. The involvement of the joining balance canals also can cause dizziness. In that case, little can be done now to correct the damage.

That does not mean that nothing can be done. If your left ear is OK, you can use it to hear on your right side. This can be done with a CROS (contralateral routing of signal) hearing aid. You can wear a small inconspicuous microphone on the right side of your head. You can have the sound it picks up transmitted, via FM to your left ear, where a pickup will relay it to your good ear. Or a fine wire can be run from the microphone to the left-ear receiver.

Talk to an audiologist who dispenses hearing aids to work this out. Don't try this without having a qualified audiologist help you get a model that suits your needs.

No, surgery cannot help you with this type of hearing loss. Cochlear implants are being tried, but at this stage you will do better by using your one good ear, since it will not distort the sound.

To help you, I am sending you The Health Letter 16-8, Your Vital Hearing. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 63, had bypass surgery and takes Inderal. I'm 57 and have asthma. What kind of vitamins should we take? Our family doctor does not believe in vitamins. What is the best daily vitamin you can recommend? Our 15-year-old granddaughter is staying with us. Should she take the same vitamins that we take?

DEAR READER — An excess intake of vitamins will not help you, your husband or your granddaughter. I much prefer that people get their vitamins from good wholesome foods. One purpose of a balanced diet is to provide the vitamins you need.

However, I realize that most people are not happy with that concept, regardless of how sound it is, and some people simply will not eat a balanced diet. For those reasons, I recommend any of the daily all-purpose vitamins as a supplement if you really want to take vitamins. One-A-Day is a good choice, but any other preparation that contains the RDA (recommended daily dietary allowance) without a lot of other items is fine. That will supplement your diet.

Yes, your granddaughter can take them too. However, if all of you follow a balanced diet, you also will get the trace minerals you need.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 11-year-old son was born with a hole between the lower chambers (ventricles) in his heart. He has been seen by several pediatric cardiologists and, until now, all have said that he needs open-heart surgery. When he was 4, a heart catheterization showed that the hole was between 1.5 and 2.0. His father, now my ex, would not sign for the surgery.

Recently my son was seen at a university center and the doctor took a very blasé attitude saying that they never operate on a 1.5 hole. I would rather he not have surgery, but I don't want it neglected if he does.

He is still very healthy and growing very fast. Last year he grew 6 inches and gained 5 pounds.

DEAR READER — Many pediatric cardiologists believe that small ventricular septal defects, which your son has, do not need to be operated on. Many close in the first few years of birth, and some even close much later. As the heart enlarges, the hole gets smaller until it closes completely or becomes so small that it is not important.

Your son's rapid growth suggests that the hole does not seriously compromise his circulation. That is a good sign.

I cannot determine whether he needs surgery or not on the information you sent. The size of the hole and how much blood is shunted from the left side of the heart to the right through the hole are important, as are the other clinical findings.

I can assure you that the medical center you visited is a good one. Large centers usually have more information and experience with such problems. I think that you can trust them, and if you are concerned, you could have him seen there again. He can have an operation later if he needs it.

The word "galaxy" is from the Greek word "galax" meaning milk, so-called because of the Milky Way which resembles a trail of milk across the sky.

Orientation planned for Saturday

Hereford and Dimmitt extension of the vocational nursing program of Amarillo College will have orientation Saturday in Deaf Smith General Hospital classroom. The session will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The next class will begin June 4. Details for the one year program will be presented at the orientation session.

For further information contact Rose Ann Smith at the hospital.

Pioneer Day Celebration set May 25

The Mid-Plains Pioneer Day Celebration was scheduled for May 25 at 11 a.m. at the Bull Barn when the executive committee met Monday at 7 p.m.

During the celebration, the Pioneer of the Year will be named by KPAN radio and will receive a framed certificate from the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. Also, the oldest man, oldest woman and the one who travels the farthest will be recognized.

The Pioneer Association will furnish the meat, bread and drinks. Members are asked to bring vegetables, salads and desserts.

Stan Knox is president of this year's committee and Troyce Hanna is vice-president. The steering committee members include Donald Hicks, Bartley Dowell, Argen Draper, Ursalee Jacobsen, Hanna and Vesta Mae Nunley.

The next meeting to further discuss the celebration is scheduled for April 8 at 7 p.m. at K-Bob's. The meeting is open to the public.

The Pioneer Day Celebration is open to everyone, and those in town for class reunions are encouraged to come.

Ann Landers

'Misery loves company'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to speak my piece for all military wives who feel frustrated and trapped because of their husbands' profession.

I am deeply resentful of the outdated "two-people-for-one" career concept. My husband is doing well as an officer, but the more he excels in his job, the more I am expected to do.

It's a hell of a life for a woman who does not adore making table decorations, serving on committees, attending dull, dull, dull functions, pouring tea and making small talk. The dinner parties are the pits. Those who don't show up are noted by the commanding officer. Often, questions are asked.

Some wives have managed to escape the tyranny of the trivial by taking third-rate jobs. A substantive position (which I would like) is not available because it is known that we could be transferred at any moment.

I gave up a beautiful career so my husband could have his. It was a mistake. I feel used and underappreciated. I wonder how many other military wives feel as I do. Will you print my letter and ask them? Misery loves company.—Killing Valuable Time In Abilene, Tex.

DEAR TX: I would be happy to print some responses. If any officers out there would like to comment, I'll print those letters, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an 18-year-old reader who has something to say about pot. I started to smoke when I was 13. At first it was weekends only. Then it was every day. After a while one or two joints didn't faze me so I smoked four or five. By the time I was 16 I was stoned half the time. Nothing mattered. The weed was a wall between me and everything I didn't want to face, like schoolwork, parents who were always yelling at me to shape up and the disappointment of not making the basketball team.

I was flunking in school and lost my after-school job because I couldn't remember where things went in the shipping room and couldn't even get a phone message straight. My head was really messed up.

Then I met Wanda. She was the greatest thing that ever happened. Wanda made me see that pot was ruining my life. I quit cold turkey six months ago and it was like going through hell. Don't let anyone tell you pot isn't addictive. I had the shakes, couldn't sleep and even had crying spells. But I gutted it out and now I feel like a new person.

I am so thankful I finally woke up that I want to wake up the whole world. Take it from me, kids, pot is a head-muddler. It can waste hours of every day and rob you of motivation. It will aop pick your pockets clean.

If just one kids knocks it off because I wrote this letter I will feel like I accomplished something.—Grateful In Texas

DEAR G: You did. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 11-year-old daughter has pulled out almost all her eyelashes and eyebrows. She looks frightful. My husband says, "Leave her alone. They'll grow back in." I say she needs professional help. Advise, please.—A.A. Cal.

DEAR A.C.: This self-destructive behavior needs investigating. I'm with you.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex - Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Severinsen scheduled to perform in Lubbock

The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra proudly presents the annual "Pop's Nite" featuring trumpeter Doc Severinsen on Saturday, March 30. The one-night-only performance will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Doc Severinsen inherited his love for music from his father, Carl, as well as his medical nickname. Doc had hoped to play the trombone, but his arms were too short to extend the slide, so he settled for a cornet.

Three weeks after he picked up his horn, 7-year-old Doc was playing in the high school band. Two years later he became Oregon's champion junior trumpeter. Incensed when his band teacher said he was too young to play first chair in the high school band, Severinsen vowed to play first chair somewhere else—and he did, as the youngest member, at 13, of an all-star band from four Western States, Alaska and British Columbia.

Doc graduated from high school in Arlington, Oregon in 1945, then joined the Army. When he got out, just over a year later, he played with Tommy Dorsey, Charlie Barnet and Benny Goodman. Then in 1949 he joined NBC in New York as a staff musician, playing for the likes of Kate Smith, Eddie Fisher and Steve Allen until he became Skitch Henderson's assistant on "The Tonight Show" in 1962.

Severinsen has recorded 20 albums and has been voted top instrumentalist in the Playboy Music Poll for 10 years running. He has formed a new group, Xebro, named after a fantasy place suggested by his psychiatrist—a place where problems are easily solved. "It's a group which allows me to expand my musical horizons," says Doc. "Nowadays, it's difficult to make a living just in jazz or just in classical."

Tickets for Severinsen's appearance are on sale now and are priced at $12 and $10. The tickets are available at the Lubbock Symphony Office, 1721 Broadway, 762-4707.

Texas's Perfect Teen Pageant being planned

Applications are being accepted for Texas's perfect teen pageant to be held on Sept. 15th at the La Mansion on River Walk, San Antonio. The pageant is open to girls who are 14 to 19 years of age before December 31, 1985, never married and a resident of Texas.

The winner will receive a beautiful fur jacket, crown, banner, flowers, plus an all expense paid trip to Myrtle Beach Resort, Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. There she will represent Texas and compete for the national title of America's perfect teen with prizes and awards worth over $15,000.00.

Judging will be based on poise, personality, character, leadership, and beauty. There is no performing talent required.

Texas perfect teen, Melanie Garibay of San Antonio will be at the Pageant to crown her successor.

For free entry information write to: Texas Perfect Teen, P.O. Box 5470, Huntington, W. Va. 25703 or call 304-525-3674. Letters must include name, age, address and phone number.

The winner of the Jim Thorpe Trophy, named after the athletic great, is picked by Murray Olderman of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. in a poll of players from the 28 National Football League teams. The award goes to the most valuable NFL player of the year.

Texas Gardener of the Year Contest to be held for 1985

WACO — For the first time ever, "Texas Gardener" magazine will sponsor a Gardener of the Year Contest for 1985 and will award $500 to the first place winner, according to Chris S. Corby, editor and publisher of "Texas Gardener."

To enter, contestants must submit an entry form outlining their gardening experiences for the period between Jan. 1 and July 31, 1985. Four photographs of the garden also must be submitted.

Entries will be judged by a panel of gardening experts and points will be awarded for creativity, gardening knowledge and attractiveness.

Vegetable, fruit and ornamental gardens will be considered. In addition to the first place prize, the second place winner will receive $200; third place, $100. Four honorable mentions will be presented $25 rewards.

Anyone interested in an entry form can send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Gardener of the Year, TEXAS GARDENER, P.O. Box 9005, Waco, Tx. 76714.

Lentils don't need soaking

DEAR POLLY — How long should lentils be soaked before cooking? How are they prepared? — M.F.C.

DEAR M.F.C. — I don't pre-soak lentils at all before cooking. I find they cook up tender and tasty in about 45 minutes without any soaking. If you cook them much longer than that, or if you pre-soak them, they tend to end up mushy.

Lentils are very versatile and can be simmered simply in liquid with whatever herbs and seasonings you like added for extra flavor. Tomatoes, garlic and onions, basil, oregano, and meats, such as sausages and bacon, all go well with lentils. You may want to try my Lentil Soup with Vegetables. It's a warm, satisfying, nourishing soup that should please the whole family.

Saute one-fourth pound diced bacon with one large chopped onion and three or four minced cloves of garlic until bacon is crisp and vegetables are soft (don't allow the vegetables to get too brown). Add one cup washed lentils, four cups water, one 28-ounce can whole tomatoes with juice, one and one-half teaspoons salt and one and one-half teaspoon basil. Simmer 45 minutes. Add about three carrots, sliced; two cups corn; and one 4-ounce can of drained mushrooms. Simmer an additional 20 minutes or until the carrots are tender. Serve with hot biscuits or homemade bread for a truly wonderful, filling meal.

I'm sending you a copy of my new newsletter "Hot and Hearty Soups" which has this recipe as well as others for delicious homemade soups. Other readers who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR READERS — Do you like green beans? Love to sew? Enjoy feeding the birds? Have we got a Pointer for you! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's one of my family's favorites. I brown a little bacon in a pan, then add a drained can of green beans. Finally, I add a few eggs and scramble everything together. Delicious!

When I'm ready to discard my double-knit pants, I cut the fabric into quilt blocks. These make good throws, pillows and other items. — MILLIE

DEAR POLLY — I like to feed the birds in winter, but the seed falling on my lawn gives me many weeds in my grass each spring. To prevent this, I place my bird seed in a shallow pan and sterilize it in my oven when I'm heating the oven up to bake something else. This prevents the seed from sprouting when it falls to the ground. — DOREEN

DEAR POLLY — Here's different use for an old shoulder bag. Take out all the compartments and use the bag to hold clothes pins. Put the bag on your shoulder when hanging out clothes. It's a handy way to keep pins available where you need them.

And here's a Pointer for coupon and refund buffs. Place your coupons and proofs of purchase in plastic bags. You can see easily what's in the bag without a lot of digging for the right coupon or form. — R.L.D.

DEAR POLLY — My family loves hot peppers. To take the burning sensation away when eating them, we've had excellent success with milk. We drink milk if food prepared with hot peppers proves to be too hot. We rinse our hands in milk after touching hot peppers. — BONNIE

First United Methodist Church of Hereford will be host to Dr. Robert E. Goodrich of Dallas four days next week for services designated as a Time of Spiritual Enrichment and Renewal. Dr. Weldon Butler, pastor, and the congregation are inviting the public to hear the widely-known preacher. Dr. Goodrich will be in the pulpit for the usual Sunday services, each weekday evening through Wednesday at 7:30, and will speak at breakfast meetings each morning at 6:30. He will also be a guest of the church youth at their Sunday evening sessions.

 A retired bishop who served in the Missouri area, Dr. Goodrich is now bishop-in-residence at First United Methodist Church of Dallas, where he was pastor many years before his election as a bishop in 1972. He has preached on television programs and on radio broadcasts including seven series on The Protestant Hour, as well as in churches over Texas and other parts of the nation.

Former Houston Baptist coach

Bears name Haller's successor

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

WACO, Texas (AP) — Gene Iba of Houston Baptist will be the new head basketball coach at Baylor University. The Associated Press has learned.

Iba, who posted three consecutive 20-victory seasons as the second coach at Houston Baptist and took the team to the NCAA playoffs a year ago, will succeed Jim Haller, who resigned last month.

Iba, 43, a member of a prestigious basketball family, will be formally named as Baylor coach at 3 p.m. today by Athletic Director Bill Menefee at a news conference called by the Southwest Conference school.

A Baylor source told the AP Tuesday that Iba won out in a close battle with Don Eddy of the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Iba's teams are well drilled on fundamentals much like those of his uncle, Hank Iba, who turned Oklahoma State into a basketball power. His father, Clarence, coached at Tulsa and a cousin, Moe, coached at Nebraska.

Houston Baptist has already sent one coach into the Southwest Conference, Gerald Myers of Texas Tech.

Myers was the first coach of the Huskies. His Tech team won the SWC regular season and tournament titles this year.

Haller resigned after nine seasons at Baylor effective with the end of the season after a player hid a recorder in his windbreaker and taped a conversation.

In the tape, Haller gave the player permission to use a $172 meals expense check for a car payment. Haller admitted he violated NCAA rules and resigned.

The AP source said one of the biggest chores ahead of Iba was to keep the discontented team at Baylor on the campus. The Bears had as many five freshmen starters late in the year.

"He'll have to recruit the dormitory before he hits the recruiting trail on national signing day," the source said.

Iba has coached at HBU the past eight seasons and got the Huskies into the NCAA Playoffs last year for the first time.

The Huskies were 21-8 this year, their third straight 20-victory season under Iba. However, HBU lost to Mercer in the second round of the Trans America Athletic Conference and failed to make the NCAA playoffs.

HBU led the nation in field goal percentage at 55.2 per cent last season and set 25 university and TAAA records.

Iba had a 128-96 record over eight seasons.

"Bruce Douglas is the heart of the team and the leader."

Loyola, ignored the past two seasons by both the NCAA and National Invitation Tournament selectors despite 19 and 20 victories, hopes it's not in over its head against the No. 1 Hoyas, who have beaten every opponent decisively since their two narrow losses to St. John's and Syracuse at midseason.

The Ramblers counter with their top player, Alfredrick Hughes, who finished the regular season tied with Wichita State's Xavier McDaniel for the top spot on the Division I scoring list at a 27.1 clip and is the fourth-leading NCAA Division I career scorer with 2,906 points.

In the Midwest doubleheader at Dallas, Louisiana Tech will continue its effort to rise from obscurity and the shadow of a successful women's program.

The Bulldogs were only seeded fifth among the original 16 Midwest Regional teams despite their gaudy record. But Tech crushed Pittsburgh 78-54 in the first round and breezed by Ohio State 79-67 to advance to the semifinals, while the highly touted Sooners had tough games with North Carolina A&T and Illinois State.

Boston College, the sixth-place team in the Big East, and Memphis State face each other in the second Midwest semifinal after surviving close calls in the first two rounds.

The Eagles edged Texas Tech by two points and Duke by one.

NCAA roundup

Tall men nightmares

By The Associated Press
Although Loyola of Illinois has to worry about stopping 7-foot All-America Patrick Ewing, Illinois Coach Lou Henson believes he is in for double trouble against Georgia Tech in Thursday night's other NCAA East Regional game.

"I've been staying up nights thinking about two 7-footers," Henson says, referring to 7-foot Yellow Jackets John Salley and Yvon Joseph, who actually is listed at 6-11. "Georgia Tech is huge, with a good inside attack, and they can intimidate."

Illinois, 26-8, the only one of six Big Ten schools in the NCAA postseason tournament to survive the first two rounds, faces Georgia Tech, 26-7, in

In NAIA championship

Shot at buzzer sinks Wayland

By DOUG TUCKER AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — What could be better than coaching your team to a second straight national championship?

Having your son make the winning shot.

"That makes it even more special," said Bill Morse, whose Fort Hays State Tigers slipped past Wayland Baptist 82-80 in overtime Tuesday night in the title game of the 48th annual NAIA basketball championship. "I'm thrilled it could be Ron."

Ron Morse, a reserve guard for the Tigers of Hays, Kan., went into the tensely played title game when starter Raymond Lee fouled out with 59 seconds left in regulation.

Moments later, Dean Jackson curled in a follow shot at the buzzer to knot the score at 67-67 and keep the hopes alive for Wayland Baptist of Plainview, Tex.

Fred Campbell, the hero of Fort Hays' last-second semifinal victory over Central Washington, became the second starter to foul out early in the overtime period. Nevertheless, the Tigers built a 76-71 lead with 1:34 left in overtime behind Edgar Eason, who led all scorers with 32 points and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

But Michael Parks made a bucket for Wayland Baptist with 22 seconds remaining to slice the Fort Hays lead to two points at 80-78. Then after Eason missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw, Parks managed a bucket with five seconds to play.

The score was tied at 80-80 when, following a time out, Morse brought the ball down court. He stopped at the free-throw line and arched a soft jumper.

Followed by every eye in the arena, the ball rattled around the rim, dipped toward the net and popped out. The buzzer clanged and the ball seemed to rest motionless on the rim, in defiance of time and gravity.

Then, ever so gently, it fell through the net, giving the jubilant Tigers their second straight national title.

"It's a dream come true," said the younger Morse. "With five seconds left I'm sitting on the bench thinking someone had to hit the shot, and it turned out to be me."

Fort Hays, which plays its home opener of the East semifinals at Providence, R.I. Top-ranked Georgetown, 32-2, meets Loyola, 27-5, in the second game.

Also on Thursday night, at the Midwest Regional in Dallas, Louisiana Tech, 29-2, takes on Oklahoma, 30-5, and All-America Wayman Tisdale, followed by Boston College, 20-10, against Memphis State, 29-3, which features All-America Keith Lee.

In the West Regional at Denver on Friday night, it's North Carolina State, 22-9, versus Alabama, 23-9, and St. John's, 29-3, against Kentucky, 18-12.

Also on Friday, Maryland, 25-11, tackles Villanova, 21-10, and North Carolina 26-8, faces Auburn, 22-11, in Southeast Regional semifinals at Birmingham, Ala.

Despite their height advantage, Georgia Tech players believes they will have a physical battle with the Illini.

"This game will be power versus power," Salley said. "It will have to be physical."

"The key to Illinois' press will be me and John, if we can move inside," Joseph added. "They can't guard us inside and outside. It will be a very physical game. If the refs let them, the big men will bang each other up. I like a loose game — not dirty, but tough."

While Henson said he is losing sleep over Salley and Joseph, Georgia Tech's outside attack doesn't give him any relief.

Henson called Yellow Jackets guards Bruce Dalrymple and Mark Price "two of the best guards in the country."

Illinois counters the Atlantic Coast Conference champions up front with 6-9 Errem Winters, 6-9 Anthony Welch and 6-8 Ken Norman, with Bruce Douglas and Doug Altenberger the guards.

"Winters is physical and mean, and he'll eat you alive," Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said.

Golf's richest prize on line this weekend

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The winner of the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational will receive $171,000, the richest prize in American golf.

If that winner happens to be Mark O'Meara, the figure goes up to $421,000.

"That's exciting. Numbers like that are very exciting," O'Meara said.

The sponsors of this unique event, a five-day, 90-hole affair spread over three courses, offered a $250,000 bonus to any player able to couple a victory in Las Vegas with either the Bob Hope Classic or Bing Crosby Pro-Am.

Lanny Wadkins, winner of the Bing Crosby, is not competing in the tournament that got underway today.

But O'Meara, who scored the first of two consecutive victories in the Crosby, is on hand. So, he alone in the field of 144 pros has a chance at the extra quarter-million.

Off recent performances, however, O'Meara's chances are not good. He went into a slump after winning the Crosby and Hawaiian Opens. Since then, he has missed the cut in three consecutive starts. Denis Watson of South Africa, the defending titleholder, also has had recent problems. He has missed the cut in his last two appearances.

Fuzzy Zoeller, however, comes in as a winner his last time out. The current U.S. Open titleholder took a week off after his dramatic victory in the Bay Hill Classic, a triumph that confirmed his comeback from major back surgery.

"Winning that one meant a lot to me, more than I can tell you," Zoeller said. He won this tournament in 1983 but, in severe pain from his back, was unable to defend last year.

The format calls for the pros to play one round on each of three courses — Tropicana, Desert Inn and host Las Vegas Country Club.

After three rounds, both the pro and amateur fields are cut for a fourth round Saturday at the Las Vegas club.

On the Ball

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

National Football League owners in their annual meeting recently think they've found a way to end the decline in TV ratings — keep the games under three hours.

Plans for so doing include cutting the length of time for timeouts and starting the clock after some penalties to name just a couple of ideas.

The owners also decided to experiment with instant replays during the preseason on controversial plays. The owners say the idea is strictly an experiment. The Associated Press reported last week, and there's no chance it will be used during the regular season.

You can be sure, if instant replays did help decide verdicts on controversial plays, games never would be over in less than three hours. That's only one of many advantages, in my opinion, the NFL has over the United States Football League, which decided to use replays this year.

Harry Usher, commissioner of the USFL, said, "Our league is innovative, exciting, fresh and a place where football still is a game. I look at instant replays as something that's there. It makes sense to me (that the league use instant replays to decide close calls), and we're going to use it and see where it goes."

Chalk one up for ABC, though, one network which is airing USFL games.

"We have stated before, and we still feel that way, that it is inappropriate for ABC to be involved with the officiating of a game," ABC officials said.

Pay attention, NFL powers. The USFL surely is destined to lose more money without the media willing to cooperate. Games are going to bog down, and fans aren't going to watch too much of a game that takes 10 minutes between each play.

Therefore, it stands to reason the major networks won't be jumping at the chance to cover games that no one watches. The USFL will fade from view, dwindle and eventually die.

The 10-minute figure between plays may not have been too much of an exaggeration. You see, to appeal a play, the coach notifies the official before the next play. The referee then drops his flag, calls time out and signals an official in the press box to review the play and make a judgement.

Okay, maybe just eight minutes.

In three instances when the replay was called upon this season, the official in the press box upheld the field officials' decisions, anyway.

It's just like a new toy. It'll be fun for awhile — especially when we find out about officials' mistakes — but we'll get tired of it.

(Officials especially may get tired of it when they've made a mistake. They may even decide the job is not what it's cracked up to be and the league will be left without referees.)

There's nothing wrong with experiments, and it's great the NFL is only going to experiment with replays.

That's another advantage the NFL has over the USFL — it doesn't rock the boat too often or too much.

No. 2 seed Lloyd loses

Altered method of play lifts Jordan to win

By BOB GREENE

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When you've only won twice in 11 tries, it's time to change your game plan. Kathy Jordan did just that, and it worked to perfection.

Normally a serve-and-volley specialist, Jordan stayed on the baseline Tuesday and upset second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 in the $500,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Championships at Madison Square Garden.

"She really hit her backhand really well," Lloyd said after her first-round loss. "Usually she'll miss a few backhands. She sliced very well, served very well and didn't make any errors from the back of the court.

"She played a smart game and I give her a lot of credit for that."

Lloyd was the third seed to fall in this 16-player tournament — all in the bottom half of the draw. On Monday, No. 4 Wendy Turnbull of Australia and No. 8 Carling Bassett of Canada tumbled from this season-ending event.

Defending champion and top-seeded Martina Navratilova begins play tonight when she takes on Lisa Bonder. Other singles matches tonight send No. 6 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria against Pam Shriver and No. 7 Zina Garrison against Sylvia Hanika of West Germany.

This week-long tournament, the culmination of the year-long Virginia Slims Series, winds up Sunday with a best-of-five-sets final — unique in women's tennis — with $125,000 going to the winner.

In a second singles match Tuesday, third-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia defeated Hungary's Andrea Temesvari 7-5, 7-5.

"I changed my strategy a bit," said Jordan, who lost to Lloyd 6-2, 6-2 in the Virginia Slims of Dallas last week. "I didn't know what the end result was going to be, but I changed because what I did against her last week didn't work."

"My game is serve-and-volley,"

Jordan, 25, said in explaining the surprising change to staying in baseline rallies against Lloyd. "I just wanted to keep the ball in play as long as I could and not let her have any angles to run me around the court with."

That she did, and with the hard-fought victory, Jordan, ranked 12th on the Women's Tennis Association computer, advanced to a second-round meeting against 17-year-old Kathy Rinaldi, who upset Bassett.

In first-round doubles matches, Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany and Czechoslovakia's Helena Sukova teamed up to defeat Marcella Mesker of the Netherlands and Switzerland's Christiane Jolissaint 6-3, 7-6.

games about seven hours' west of Kansas City, came into the small-college tournament as the defending champion and No. 1 seed. The Tigers were the definite favorite of the crowd.

"They had the winning edge with the fans on their side, the tradition and by being the defending national champions," said Wayland Baptist Coach Mark Adams.

The Pioneers finished their season 30-10.

"We talked about coming here all year long and it finally became a reality," said Adams. "I'm really proud of these guys because they've come such a long way. I had tears before the game and I had them after the game."

Carlin Davis, Wayland Baptist's dominating 6-9 senior center, scored 26 points before fouling out.

"We went out and played our best, but the ball just didn't bounce right for us," he said. "They've got a great team."

Fort Hays' second straight championship season logged 34 victories and three defeats. Coach Bill Morse said son Ron Morse was supposed to dish off to Eason for the final shot unless he was left unattended.

New poultry vaccine being developed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new vaccine may be only a few years away to control coccidiosis, an intestinal disease which costs the U.S. poultry industry $300 million a year, says Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

Block said Monday that scientists have produced "a genetically engineered antigen" or protein which helps produce disease-fighting antibodies in fowl.

Although the protection against coccidiosis is not complete, Block said the results are "highly encouraging" because the new antigen offers the first potential shield against the disease without inducing actual infection in order to develop immunity.

The department's Agricultural Research Service used spleen cells from mice that had been injected with coccidia, the parasites that cause the disease. The spleen cells then were fused with mouse cancer cells to produce antibodies in volume.

In July 1982, the agency competively selected a commercial firm, Genex Corp. of Rockville, Md., to produce genetically engineered antigens using the antibodies. Agency and Genex scientists found that injecting chickens with the experimental antigen stimulated production of antibodies.

Officials said it will be several years but perhaps less than five years before a commercial vaccine is developed.

"The disease does occur in humans, but only rarely," the agency said in its background information. "It is quite common in young dogs and cats. Intestinal infections also occur in rabbits, mink, deer, camels, antelope, buffalo and other wild animals."

Coccidiosis can cause death in poultry or severe weakening and weight loss due to improper digestion of feed. It also can cause the fowl to have a paler skin color. The disease costs the industry an estimated $200 million a year in dead and weakened chickens and turkeys, and an additional $100 million a year for medication.

Net farm income may be slightly up

WASHINGTON (AP) - Net farm income in 1985 is expected to be in the range of $20 billion to $25 billion, slightly improved from prospects earlier this year, says a new Agriculture Department report.

The report, issued Monday by the department's Economic Research Service, said that would compare with a 1984 net farm income estimate of $29 billion to $33 billion. It sank to a 12-year low of $16.1 to $24 billion.

As used by the agency, net farm income includes a value for inventories held by farmers during the year. Drought and government programs curbed production in 1983, meaning a sharp drop in inventories. With large crops in 1984, the value swung up again.

Looking at prospects another way, the report said 1985 "net cash" income may be in the range of $33 billion to $38 billion, compared with $34 billion to $38 billion expected for 1984. The earlier 1985 forecast was $31 billion to $36 billion.

In this case, net cash income is the difference between gross cash income received from farming and cash production expenses, an indicator of cash flow.

Soviets purchase record amount of corn

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has bought an additional 300,000 metric tons of corn - about 12 million bushels - for delivery through Sept. 30, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Tuesday the latest sale was reported to the department by private exporters, as required by law. No prices or other details were disclosed in the announcement.

However, the department says the latest estimated farm price of corn is $2.69 per bushel. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Thus, the latest sales would have an estimated U.S. farm value of about $32 million.

Purchases for delivery in 1984-85 under a long-term grain supply agreement now total a record of 17 million tons, including 14.1 million tons of corn and 2.9 million tons of wheat.

The previous record year for U.S. grain exports to the Soviet Union was 15.5 million tons shipped in 1978-79.

In the year that ended last Sept. 30, the Soviet Union bought 14.5 million tons of U.S. grain, including 7.6 million tons of wheat, 6.5 million tons of corn and 416,200 tons of soybeans.

China receives cattle

WASHINGTON (AP) - China has formally accepted its first shipment of breeding cattle from the United States, and more are on the way in the near future, says Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

The shipment, 379 Holstein dairy cattle, was flown to China in January and held in quarantine while Agriculture Department and Chinese veterinarians monitored the animals' health. The cattle were released from quarantine on March 5.

"The stringent health and shipment requirements requested by the Chinese presented many difficulties for USDA negotiators," Block said Tuesday. "I congratulate the Republic of China."

Block said a second shipment of 200 registered Holsteins from Wisconsin is scheduled for export to China in the near future. In addition, plans are being worked out to ship two consignments of U.S. breeding swine to China.

Negotiations are continuing, he said, to permit importation of Chinese breeding swine and boar semen into the United States.

Kleberg elected AQHA president

Stephen "Tio" Kleberg of Kingsville, Texas, was elected President and Executive Committee member of the 156,000-member American Quarter Horse Association at its 46th Annual Convention in Dallas recently.

Four previous years' experience on the AQH Executive Committee precedes Kleberg's election as President.

Farm 'Meatout' planned by reform group

WASHINGTON (AP) - Spring arrives on Wednesday, March 20, which also is National Agriculture Day and the first Great American Meatout.

According to the Washington-based Farm Animal Reform Movement Inc., "thousands of Americans" across the nation will observe the arrival of spring "by kicking the meat habit" at least for the day.

"The Great American Meatout (patterned after the Great American Smokeout campaign) is designed to reduce the national consumption of meat and thereby to mitigate the destructive effects of intensive animal agriculture on consumer health, world agricultural resources, environmental quality and animal welfare," the movement said in its announcement.

"Raising animals for food consumes up to 90 percent of our agricultural resources, depletes our topsoil and groundwater, pollutes our lakes and streams, destroys forests and other wildlife habitats, and causes intense suffering to six billion animals annually."

The six billion animals include billions of poultry, including about four billion broilers that are slaughtered each year.

A spokeswoman for the American Meat Institute, which represents the meat packing and processing industries, called the plan and claims by the group "really quite ill-founded and illogical."

The institute's Mary Burnette said Monday that the movement's allegations cannot be supported by evidence, particularly those claims that meat is in some way harmful to those who eat it.

"Our contention is that red meat is really a significant contributor to the nutritional well-being of Americans, and anything that implies anything other than that is really quite misleading and does the public a disservice," she told The Associated Press.

Gene Hemphill, an aide to Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, said he had not heard of any Agriculture Department participation or recognition of The Great American Meatout. Block's family farm in Illinois produces hogs for the pork market.

The movement's announcement said "meatout supporters" will be distributing thousands of small folders detailing "the major problems with meat production and consumption" and providing tips on how to quit eating meat.

Ag inspector checking contract irregularities

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department's inspector general is investigating allegations of contract irregularities in handling a so-called ag-in-the-classroom program designed to tell school children about farming.

Several current or former political appointees, including at least one of Agriculture Secretary John R. Block's closest associates, are reportedly under scrutiny by USDA investigators, according to informed sources who spoke only on condition they not be identified.

"There is an investigation involving the ag-in-the-classroom program," John Ochs, an aide to Block said Tuesday. "But since the matter is still under investigation, we'll have no comment until the investigation is complete."

The project began at Block's direction in 1981 to help states set up their own programs to help school children learn more about U.S. agriculture and its contributions to the world economy.

Curricula, exhibits, video tapes, computer programs and other aids are part of the program. A number of outside groups have been contracted to help design material and to assist in coordinating the program.

Within the last few weeks, Peggy Hart, a political appointee who was the program's director, was transferred to the national agricultural library at Beltsville, Md.

Ochs declined to comment on whether Ms. Hart's transfer was related to the investigation.

According to one of the sources, the investigation includes questions about the manner in which USDA contracts were handled in lining up the outside groups, which include the National 4-H Council.

A focus of the probe appears to be the contract for ag-in-the-classroom services provided by the Joint Council on Economic Education, which is located at Northern Illinois University, the source said.

The council reportedly has had a cooperative agreement with USDA since 1979, two years before the ag-in-the-classroom program began.

"The program is an excellent program, and the people involved with the agreement have done an excellent job," said Chris Mosher Wilson, Block's assistant for public liaison who was a prime mover in getting the program started in 1981. "I'd hate to see any of it damaged, just because there was an inquiry."

On conflict of interest

Winans claims he didn't know policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Wall Street Journal reporter R. Foster Winans, charged with securities fraud, testified that he did not know that it was wrong to use advance knowledge of stories to make money.

ment's main witness, stockbroker Peter N. Brant, who worked at Kidder, Peabody & Co., of initiating the scheme in October 1983. Brant, who pleaded guilty to fraud and conspiracy last summer, had maintained that Winans approached him with the plan.

winers. Analysts say that the column can produce sharp, though temporary, swings in a stock's price when it reports on the issuing company's prospects.

night, the Journal said Winans' denial of knowledge of the paper's policy on conflicts of interest contradicted previous testimony by Journal editors Stewart Pinkerton and Richard Rustin.

Merger probably won't affect ABC programming

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dynasty" will still be "Dynasty" and viewers probably will notice no changes after Capital Cities Communications Inc. acquires the larger American Broadcasting Cos. for $3.5 billion, say analysts who see clear sailing for the proposed deal.

The merger, announced Monday, would represent the first time ownership of a major television network has changed hands. The creation of Capital Cities-ABC Inc. must be approved by shareholders of both companies and includes participation by Warren Buffett, one of the nation's richest men.

ABC, which had been a rumored takeover target for months, had been a strong second in prime-time TV ratings in recent years, but slid into third in the current season. However, its daytime TV operations remain highly profitable, analysts say, and it has 214 affiliated stations nationwide.

"I'd be surprised if the viewer is affected at all," Susan V. Watson, a security analyst for Morgan Stanley & Co., said Monday. "This is really more a corporate question. It never shows with the viewer when the (broadcasting) stock goes up or down, and this should be no different."

ABC has television and radio operations and also is involved in publishing, video enterprises, motion pictures and scenic attractions. Capital Cities owns newspapers, TV and radio stations and cable TV systems.

"We just thought it was a natural fit between the two companies," said Thomas S. Murphy, head of Capital Cities. "and we thought we'd have an opportunity to handle the new possibilities coming up in the electronics field better together."

ABC chief Leonard Goldenson said, "I feel that the company I built from scratch is in good hands and that it will be carried on, and that's important to me." Goldenson, 79, had headed ABC since 1953 and built the network from a weak third to a challenger for the top spot.

Buffett, 54, a resident of Omaha, Neb., made his fortune, estimated at $665 million, by investing in media operations. The chairman of Berkshire Hathaway Inc., he would put up more than $500 million in exchange for an 18 percent stake in Capital Cities and a seat on its board.

Other analysts agreed that the takeover would not affect programming, which last year included heavily watched Olympic coverage.

"I think initially the operator will be run to stabilize things to keep things running successfully," said J. Kendrick Noble Jr., an analyst with PaineWebber Inc. "I don't think Capital Cities will do much to change programming at ABC."

Fred Anshel, an analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., said he thought changes would be "evolutionary."

"Remember Capital Cities has four (ABC) affiliates and their prime job is to compete with NBC and CBS," Anshel said.

Both Noble and Anshel said the deal would have little trouble gaining regulatory approval.

The two companies said Goldenson would serve as chairman of the executive committee of the proposed new company.

Murphy, 59, Capital Cities' chairman and chief executive officer, would hold the same titles at the new company.

ABC and Capital Cities said shareholders of both companies would consider the deal at their annual meetings in June.

ABC stock closed Monday at $105.75 on the New York Stock Exchange, up $31.25 from Friday. Capital Cities was up $7.50 at $183.50.

Take precautions against Easter egg food poisoning

TEMPLE — The "Easter Bunny" will soon be making his annual spring visit, and the joys of hiding, finding and eating the colorful goodies are already uppermost in young children's thoughts. However, parents may want to take special precautions to help prevent food poisoning from contaminated or spoiled eggs.

Hard-boiled eggs that are cooled in water and not refrigerated can be a source of food poisoning, according to Dr. C. David Morehead, Director of Infectious Disease in the Department of Pediatrics, at Scott and White in Temple.

"Although unbroken and uncooked eggs are remarkably resistant to bacterial invasion," says Dr. Morehead, "the heating process breaks down the egg's natural defense mechanisms and creates an ideal growth medium for bacteria."

Dr. Morehead adds that reports of contamination of whole shell eggs are rare, but cases of staphylococcal food poisoning commonly occur with improper handling and refrigeration of a variety of egg products, such as salads, custards and deviled eggs.

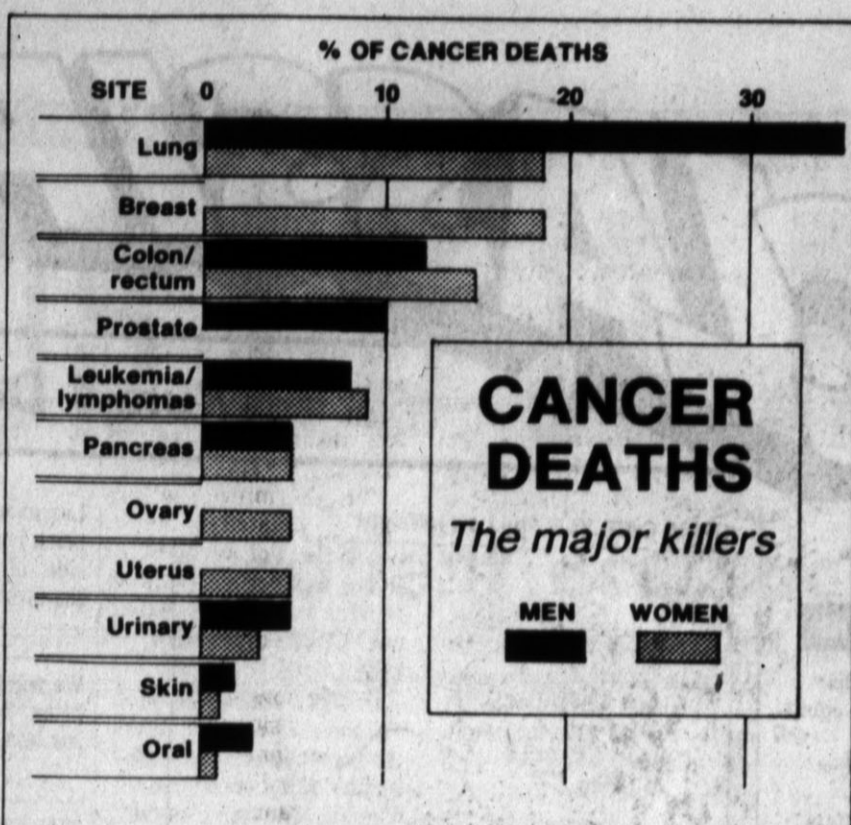

"The bacteria can be transmitted to the cooling water or the egg by a cook with unwashed hands or by storing eggs at room temperature for more than 24 hours," notes Dr.

Morehead.

Symptoms of staphylococcal food poisoning may include vomiting, abdominal pain and diarrhea within 12 hours after eating the eggs.

"We recommend that cooked eggs be handled as aseptically as possible," stresses Dr. Morehead, "and that they be properly refrigerated until they are consumed."

In Canada, legal public holidays in all provinces are: New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day (Monday preceding May 25), Canada Day (July 1), Labor Day, Remembrance Day (Nov. 11) and Christmas Day. They also celebrate Thanksgiving on the second Monday in October, and all provinces except Quebec observe Boxing Day on Dec. 26.

Study providing doctor profiles

The average age of Texas physicians involved in patient care is 45½ years, according to a study by the Texas Medical Association.

And of the 26,796 physicians licensed and practicing in Texas as of September 1984, 43 percent had graduated from Texas medical schools.

Information about this study of physician manpower and medical education appears in the March issue of Texas Medicine, TMA's journal. This first in a series of annual reports provided this profile of Texas physicians:

—Thirty-eight percent graduated from U.S. medical schools outside Texas and 19 percent from foreign medical schools.

—Among the 11,426 Texas graduates, the school with the largest representation was The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston with 4,323, or 38 percent.

—The physician total includes 25,481 MDs and 1,315 doctors of osteopathy. Forty-six percent of these licensed physicians were in primary care specialties—family practice, internal medicine, pediatrics, obstetrics, and gynecology.

—Specialties with the lowest median physician age were immunology, 35; emergency medicine, 36; legal medicine, 36; adolescent medicine, 37; neuropathology, 38; obstetrics, 38; nephrology, 39; oncology, 39; and infectious diseases, 39½.

—Specialties with relatively high median physician age with abdominal surgery, 63½; nutrition, 63; gynecology, 62; public health, 61; geriatrics, 60; otology, 59½; and blood banking, 59.

Pioneer Round-up set in Plainview

The Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has announced Saturday, May 18 as the date for the 1985 Pioneer Round-Up. This will be the 57th year the Club has sponsored this annual event, according to Nancy Bubliss, president of the sponsoring club.

The Pioneer Round-Up was started as a method of honoring pioneers of this area. This continues to be one of the purposes of the event, but in addition, it has become an entertainment feature for people of all ages in Plainview, Hale County and surrounding areas.

Miss Bubliss has appointed committees for the Round-Up and chairman of each committee is as follows: program, Doris Washington; dance, Helen Pemberton; tickets, Alice Doyle; door, Lou Ella Scarborough; registration, Allene Wallace; parade, Betty Gonzales; foods, Jean Wood and Pat Ray; country kitchen, Mildred Tucker; concessions, Helen Harper; serving, Doris Henderson; float, Dorothy Morton; reception, Pat Kelly; housing, Nancy Bubliss and publicity, Jo Ann Clements.

"Footsteps of the Past" has been chosen for this year's Round-Up theme and activities will be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center on the south edge of Plainview. The reception will be held in the meeting room at the Center and pioneers will gather for this at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning.

The traditional Pioneer Round-Up parade will roll at 2:30 p.m.

The Saturday evening's program will begin at 6 when the chuck wagon supper will be served in the large assembly room at the Agriculture Center with the program to follow.

A square dance will conclude the day's activities.

All local and area people are invited to this Pioneer Round-Up for an evening of entertainment and to honor those pioneers who came to this country many, many years ago.

Gibraltar

In 1966 Spain called upon Britain to give "substantial sovereignty" over Gibraltar to Spain, and then imposed a partial blockade. In 1967, 12,138 of the island's residents voted to remain under British rule. Only 44 were for returning to Spain. A new constitution then gave the island residents more control of domestic affairs.

Patient ecstatic over finding siblings

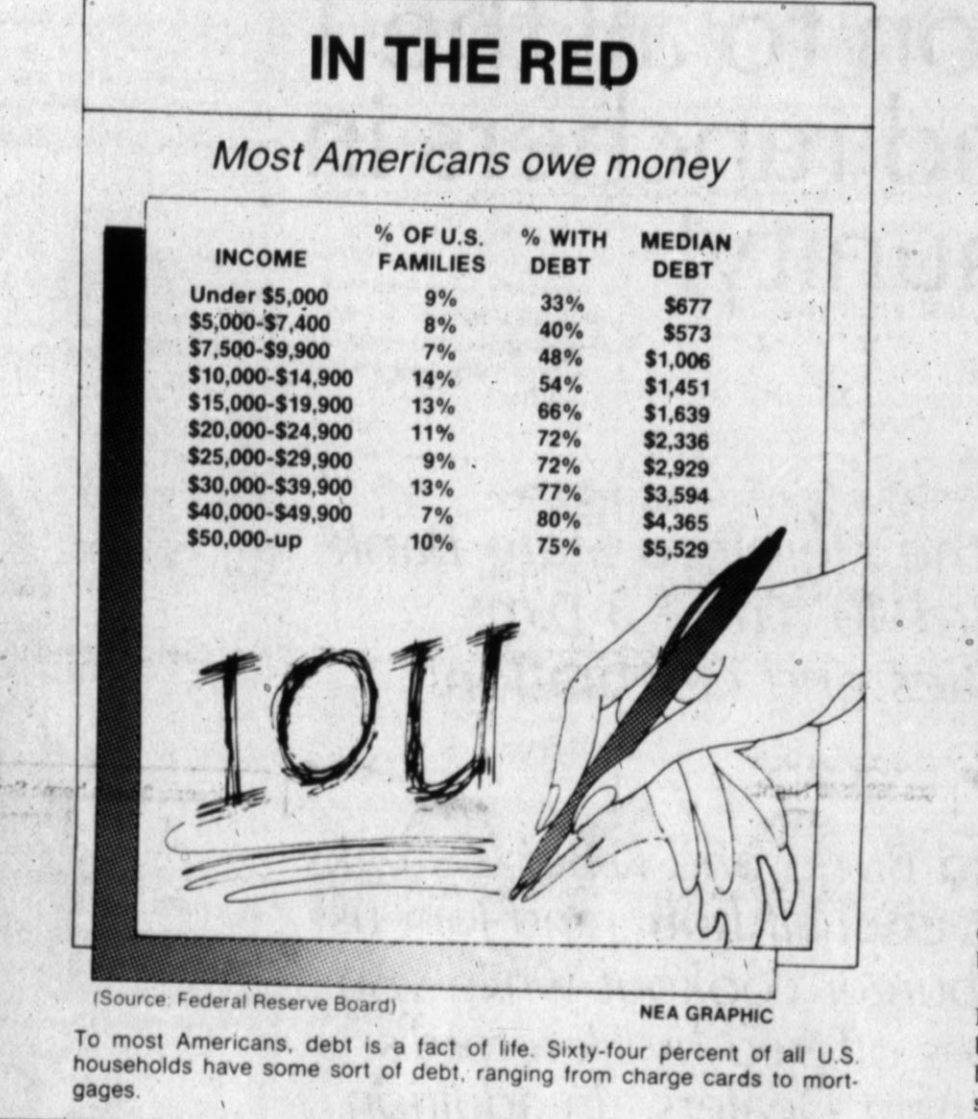

HOUSTON (AP) — A 24-year-old leukemia patient who was adopted as an infant was "ecstatic" to learn he may have two siblings who might save his life with a bone-marrow transplant. Steven Akin, a patient at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, learned Tuesday he may have a natural sister in Wisconsin and a brother in Chicago. "My doctor is just as excited as I am about this," said Akin, of Victoria, Texas. "He's wanting to get them here and have them typed along with my blood to see if we match up."

The two possible siblings are Barbara Davis, 28, of Green Bay, Wis., and her brother, John, 23, of Franklin Park, a Chicago suburb, said Barbara Gonyo, president of Truth Seekers in Adoption. Truth Seekers, a non-profit group that specializes in reuniting families separated by adoption, announced the discovery but it has yet to be confirmed. Ms. Gonyo said both are willing to travel to Texas to see if they are compatible for the bone-marrow transplant Akin needs. John Davis said he planned to leave today. Akin said he was "ecstatic" upon hearing the news.

"There's a good chance that one of them will match, but I'm not going to be impatient," Akin said. "I'm just very thankful." Akin was diagnosed as having leukemia in 1983. Doctors say his chances of survival are small without a marrow transplant from a sibling. Tests on two known siblings, including Akin's twin sister, showed their marrow was incompatible. His search for other brothers and sisters has been widely publicized and was the subject of a Chicago television report Monday of his plight. John said he talked with Akin for the first time Tuesday and described the conversation as "a very moving experience." "I've never talked to him in my life and now it seems as though we've known each other all along," John said. He said he knew he had sisters and a brother but didn't know where to begin to contact them. Ms. Gonyo said she talked with Ms. Davis, who was raised by a foster family. "She was excited and thrilled to help," Ms. Gonyo said. "She talked with Steven. They're so happy with each other."

Ms. Gonyo said she is convinced the two are Akin's siblings. "All the facts checked," she said, adding that John knew their mother's middle name, which was not publicized. The siblings were located, Ms. Gonyo, after the mother-in-law of one of Akin's sisters saw a television report Monday night. That sister, Lillian, has died. Lillian had been in touch with Barbara Davis, Ms. Gonyo said. In January, Akin obtained legal access to adoption records in Texas and found he had two older siblings believed to have been put up for adoption in Chicago in 1957. He contacted Truth Seekers, among other groups, and the group spent five days looking for Akin's birth mother. Truth Seekers located an uncle Monday through the mother's birth certificate, Ms. Gonyo said, and he identified Akin's three sisters as Lillian, Barbara and Alice.

Akin said his natural mother, Mildred Davis, would be 57 now, while his father, John, would be 62. He said records showed they were married in Chicago in 1953 and put two children up for adoption in the city four years later.

Export ban affects Chihuahua ranchers

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A government ban on cattle exports imposed to remedy a Mexico City meat shortage threatens a $40 million a year industry in this sprawling border state. Yet, a federal official here says Chihuahua beef never was shipped to the nation's capital. "This prohibition will affect Chihuahua more than any other state," says Roberto Valdez Lopez, state head of the federal Agriculture Department's cattle development office. "Since the 1940s, the focus here has been on exportation," he said. "The problem in Chihuahua is the arid land. We don't produce grains to fatten cattle for slaughter. Chihuahua, the largest of Mexico's 31 states, is bordered to the north by New Mexico and Texas and is the nation's No. 1 cattle exporter. Nearly half its 154,000 square miles — the portion used largely for cattle raising — is desert land. Chihuahua ranchers exported about 70 percent of the 238,000 male calves produced last year to the United States — mostly to Texas, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma — bringing in an estimated $44 million. Another 25 percent went to Mexico's northern border states of Sonora, Coahuila and Nuevo Leon where land and climate conditions are more conducive to growing feedcrops. The federal government halted cattle exports in early January and authorized the importation of several thousand head of cattle from the United States and Guatemala after residents of Mexico City and some cities in Durango, Puebla, Tabasco and Chihuahua found their meat market shelves bare. Although the government attributed the shortage to an undersupply of beef, the three-week crisis seemed to stem also from a boycott by meat retailers who complained wholesalers were charging more than authorized price. In the Mexico City area, 14,000 meat markets went on strike temporarily to protest the high prices. But Valdez says the ban makes little sense and Chihuahua ranchers are furious with their government for "making a decision without knowing the specific conditions of this state."

The Agriculture Department, meanwhile, is studying methods for Chihuahua ranchers to fatten their own animals for sale within the country. But Valdez says results may be a long way off and ranchers are pressing for a lift of the ban. "It's the general clamor. All the cattle raisers have spoken to government officials," he says. "The border will open again but the quantity authorized will definitely be less." Valdez says Chihuahua ranchers still are making some money by exporting longhorn steers — a feisty breed raised in the Sierra Madre mountains and sold in the United States for use in rodeos. Last year Chihuahua exported 8,793 head for an estimated $3 million.

Ending Pennsylvania's state-store system "could conceivably have a domino effect" on other states with liquor monopolies, according to Paul Dufek, vice president of the liquor control association in Alexandria, Va. Most of those liquor control systems have been operating since shortly after Prohibition ended. Retailers and wholesalers, sensing a potential new market, are following developments closely. Pennsylvania's state-store system is the nation's largest buyer of alcoholic beverages, purchasing $410 million in wine and spirits a year. Dismantling the Pennsylvania system would set a precedent; no state-run liquor store system has ever been abolished. The legislative battle here is drawing a "considerable amount of attention" nationwide because Pennsylvania is the largest of the 16 states that operate government-run liquor stores, said Ted Harris, a spokesman for the National Alcoholic Beverage Control Association. Some of the steel mills have closed and many of the coal mines have been abandoned. But the 711 state-operated liquor stores are still in business. However, if it were up to Republican Gov. Dick Thornburgh, the state stores would become part of Pennsylvania's past. "I just think we've reached the point where a state-run retail outlet is unacceptable," said Thornburgh, who calls the system corrupt, mismanaged and archaic. He has drafted a detailed plan to return the retail outlets to the private sector over a five-year period. The governor and other foes of the state liquor system have a unique opportunity to change or obliterate it this year. Under state law that calls for the periodic review of government agencies, the Liquor Control Board, which runs the state stores, will go

Governor tries to abolish state run liquor stores

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Ever since Prohibition ended in 1933, state-run liquor stores have been as much a part of Pennsylvania's landscape as the steel mills along the Monongahela River or the anthracite mines of the state's coal-laden mountain ridges. Some of the steel mills have closed and many of the coal mines have been abandoned. But the 711 state-operated liquor stores are still in business. However, if it were up to Republican Gov. Dick Thornburgh, the state stores would become part of Pennsylvania's past. out of business at the end of the year unless the General Assembly acts to extend its life. THE GOOD NEWS IS FOR EVERYBODY
Anyone who calls upon the name of the Lord will be saved. But how shall they ask Him to save them unless they believe in Him? And how can they believe in Him if they have never heard of Him? And how can they hear about Him unless someone tells them? And how will anyone go and tell them unless someone sends him? That is what the Scriptures are talking about when they say, "How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the Gospel of peace with God and bring glad tidings of good things." In other words, how welcome are those who come preaching God's Good News! But not everyone who hears the Good News has welcomed it, for Isaiah the prophet said, "Lord, who has believed me when I told them?" Yet faith comes from listening to this Good News—the Good News about Christ. But what about the Jews? Have they heard God's Word? Yes, for it has gone wherever they are; the Good News has been told to the ends of the earth. And did they understand that God would give His salvation to others if they refused to take it? Yes, for even back in the time of Moses, God had said that He would make His people jealous and try to wake them up by giving His salvation to the foolish heathen nations. And later on Isaiah said boldly that God would be found by people who weren't even looking for Him. In the meantime, He keeps on reaching out His hands to the Jews, but they keep arguing and refusing to come. Romans 10:13-21

Agriculture

- Thank you for providing one out of every five jobs, by buying supplies and generating commodities for processing and marketing.
- Thank you for feeding 76 people for every (one) person working on a farm or ranch. Only 10 years ago you were producing for 29.
- Thank you for accounting for more than 20 percent of the nation's gross national product.
