October Farm Prices Show Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wholesale prices jumped eight-tenths of one percent last month, the biggest increase since April, as farm prices rose for the first time in six months, the government reported today.

After declining a total of 12.5 percent since April, prices for farm products climbed 2.4 percent in October, signaling higher prices ahead at the supermarket.

Higher prices were reported for livestock, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, grains, live poultry and oilseeds.

Also contributing to the sharp wholesale price increase last month were cars and trucks, reflecting the bigger price tags for the new 1978 models.

Wholesale prices are paid by retailers and manufacturers before they reach the consumer, but any price prices eventually show up at retail stores.

The October wholesale price increase was the largest since a 1.1 percent rise in April, at a time when inflation was rising at a 10 percent annual rate.

Food prices were largely responsible for the rapid price increases earlier this year, but as they began to decline last spring the rate of inflation began to slow.

Wholesale prices, which had risen one percent or more for three consecutive months between February and April, rose only four-tenths of a percent in May.

They then dropped by seven-tenths of a percent in June and by one-tenth of a percent in July before rising one-tenth of a percent in August and one-half of a percent in September.

The Carter administration has predicted an inflation rate of about six percent for the entire year, which is regarded as still high but acceptable. In 1976, the inflation rate was 4.8 percent.

Underlining the news of the soaring wholesale prices was another Labor Department report that weekly paychecks of most American workers were $15 fatter last May than a year ago, but inflation destroyed any real gain.

The department said Wednesday that weekly earnings of full-time wage and salaried workers averaged $212 in May 1977 - up $15, or 6.2 percent from May 1976. However, consumer prices rose at about the same pace and eroded the pay raise, officials said.

Economists were expecting a reversal in wholesale farm prices last month after the Agriculture Department reported last week that prices farmers get for their products as they move into the wholesale price chain rose one percent between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

While declining food prices were beneficial to consumers, they were of concern to agricultural officials, who said farmers were considering cutbacks in production to help drive up prices and make up for their losses.

The wholesale price index in October stood at 196.3, meaning that goods that sold for $100 in 1967 now sell for $196.30. Wholesale prices have risen 5.9 percent over the past 12 months.

Finished consumer goods, which are products ready for sale to consumers rose eight-tenths of a percent in October following a rise of four-tenths of a percent in September and, before that, three months of little or no change.

Prices for industrial commodities rose six-tenths of a percent last month following a rise of eight-tenths of a percent in September. New cars and trucks rose two percent and higher prices also were reported for machinery and equipment, lumber and wood products and leather goods.

Not all farm products rose last month, the Labor Department said. Declines were reported for eggs, green coffee, cocoa beans, tea and milk.

Processed food prices jumped eight-tenths of a percent in October after four consecutive months of decline. Prices fell for sugar and roasted coffee, but these declines were offset by higher costs for fats and oils, meats and processed poultry.

In its report on wages, the Labor Department said the median weekly earnings of all full-time male workers were $253 last May, while the median for women was $156. That's about 62 percent of the average for men despite the large influx of women into the labor force in recent years. The sharp difference in wages has shown little change for the past 10 years, the department said.

In a racial breakdown, the government said average weekly earnings of white full-time workers were $217, compared with $171 for blacks.

The median for white men were $259, or 29 percent higher than for black males, whose median wage was $201. However, median earnings of white women, at $157, were only 7 percent higher than those of blacks.

The median is the level at which half the workers earned more and half earned less.

Discrimination Charged in State

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A Justice Department official has told Attorney General John Hill that four state agencies in Texas have discriminated against females, blacks and Mexican-Americans.

The agencies are the Texas Employment Commission, the Health Department, the Human Resources Department and the Merit System

Council, according to U.S. Assistant Attorney General Drew S. Days III.

Days said in a letter dated Oct. 25 that the agencies had discriminated "individually and collectively."

Days said Texas must institute affirmative action programs and compensate those who have been discriminated against.

Texas has 60 days in which to agree to a consent decree, the letter says.

Hill was unavailable for comment.

A copy of the letter was obtained by KTBC-TV reporter George Waldroup from an employee in one of the four agencies.

Days said the agencies engaged "in a pattern and a practice of employment discrimination...blacks, females and Mexican-Americans have been discriminatorily denied promotional opportunities and have been assigned to less desirable positions."

He said the agencies "are using employment screening procedures that have an adverse effect on minorities and females."

Texas must do four things, Days said.

1. The establishment and implementation of hiring and promotional goals for qualified blacks, females and Mexican-Americans in numbers sufficient to overcome the effects of past discrimination.

2. The adoption and implementation of a recruitment program designed to inform blacks, females and Mexican-Americans of job and promotional opportunities within the state and its agencies, and to provide sufficient qualified applicants to satisfy the numerical goals set forth above.

3. The adoption and implementation of objective, formalized employment procedures that will not disproportionately exclude blacks, Mexican-Americans and females in the hiring and promotional process and will allow these minorities to compete on an equal basis with white males.

Absentee Voting Light

Deaf Smith County Clerk B.F. Cain reported today that 24 absentee ballots have been cast for next Tuesday's election for a state senator.

Voters will also accept or reject seven proposed amendments to the state constitution in the election.

Max Sherman resigned his 31st District seat in the Senate, and voters will determine which of five candidates will fill his unexpired term.

Candidates for the position are Amarillo Democrats Bob Simpson, Burk Whittenburg and Mel Phillips, and Republicans Bob Price of Pampa and Jim Brandon of Amarillo.

Cain said that the small number of absentee ballots indicates there will be a light turnout Tuesday.

"Ordinarily, when you have a light turnout before the election, you'll have a light turnout in the election."

"In these off-years and when they have amendments it's always kind of light. If it wasn't for these candidates for the state Senate, there probably wouldn't be any votes."

Cain said that doesn't mean that the amendments are unimportant.

"People sure should vote. These amendments are real important and people should exercise their right. They can't do anything about the amendments if they've already passed them."

Building Permits Climb After 2-Month Drought

A temporary building slow-down in Hereford is apparently reversing itself as the October building permit figure topped the $500,000 mark and boosted the year's new construction total close to $5 million.

October was an active building month with a construction total of $561,300 - higher than the previous two months combined. The September total was $210,350, compared to the August figure of $302,300.

The 1977 new construction total in Hereford is now at $4,866,980.

The 1977 total most of the building figures for the past 10 years, as only three yearly totals since 1967 have exceeded $5 million. New construction was slightly above $5 million in 1970 and 1965, while in 1976 the city's total hit a record $7,473,850.

In October, a total of 31 building permits were issued by the city of Hereford, with 19 new residence starts. The October permits included: Elvaine Walker, residence add-on, $200; Mike Ferguson, residence, $23,000; John Craig, three residences, two at $19,900 and one at $21,400; First National Company, demolition, no building cost; Louie Baros, garage add-on, $1,000; Jose Escobedo, residence add-on, $3,000; H.R. Cocanougher, storage, $500; Hereford Tortilla Factory, storage, $5,000; Albert Cherry, storage, $900; Bonus Builders Inc., 12 residences, all valued at $28,000; Raul Pesina, residence add-on, $1,100; Edd Cardinal, residence add-on, $600; Mike Williams, residence, $43,000; George and Price Builders Inc., two residences, $40,000 and $45,000; Mike Clevenger, storage structure moved-off, no building cost; Leonila Cantu, residence demolished, no building cost; and Randy Arnold, horse barn, $800.

Charges May Be Filed Today In Dimmitt Murder Probe

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says it takes a mighty honest man to tell the difference between when he's tired and when he's just plain lazy.

After giving what he considered an effective political speech, telling the audience what he thought it wanted to hear, and promising to fulfill the voters' demands, the politician looked out at the people and asked confidently, "Now, are there any questions?"

"Yes," came a voice. "Who else is running?"

AGENCIES PARTICIPATING in the United Way of Deaf Smith County are planning a big "garage sale" to give a boost to the lagging campaign. George Pratt, Chevrolet-Olds dealer, offered his facilities for the United Way sponsored sale and the event has been set for Nov. 19. Details will be announced soon.

PRESIDENT CARTER'S so-called energy bill appears to us to be a misnomer. It's a tax bill, not an energy bill. The bureaucracy in Washington seems to think that conservation-not development-is the answer to the energy crisis.

DIMMITT--Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin said shortly before noon today that information may be released on a suspect or suspects implicated in the murder of a 15-year-old Dimmitt girl.

Martin had said earlier this morning that he would have a statement before noon.

"I still need to talk to the district attorney," said the sheriff, who stated

Wednesday that "We need to file charges right quick, I don't deny that."

Roxanne Casas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raul Casas of Dimmitt was pronounced dead on arrival at Plains Memorial Hospital about 8:45 p.m. on Halloween Night Monday. She was the victim of a shotgun blast to the head as she was riding in a pickup truck down a country road northwest of Dimmitt.

Justice of the Peace Marshall Young ruled the death a homicide. Investigating officers said the blast was fired through the right window of the pickup. A second shot was fired into the right side of the pickup's bed, according to officers.

Martin said Wednesday that his office had received a call from a residence near the scene of the shooting concerning alleged harassment from passing motorists.

A Hereford youth recently was arrested, fined $100 and forced to spend a night in jail for alleged harassment at the same residence, owned by Loy D. Stone.

Mrs. Stone, who, along with her husband, is a follower of the WICCA religion, told The Brand this morning that the harassment issue has been blown out of proportion.

"We've never had any problems before," Mrs. Stone said.

"A lawyer had suggested that we not say anything. Then, when one of the news media came out so strong and slanted it as though they're trying to say why haven't these people been arrested, they're so guilty--and they tied it to the church--we've been talking about it."

"We'd rather have the truth out instead of this slanted stuff. We've never Surface of many major streets collapsed. Lightning knocked out electricity in much of the Piraeus area.

Greece Flooding Kills At Least 25 Persons

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - Floods caused by torrential rains killed at least 25 persons in parts of Athens and the neighboring port of Piraeus, and an earthquake shook parts of northern Greece, southern Bulgaria and southeastern Yugoslavia today.

There were no reports of casualties or damage from the quake, which registered between 5 and 6 on the Richter scale.

The rains which caused millions of dollars in damage began in the area of the Greek capital Wednesday and continued until just after midnight.

Congress May Restrict Opening of Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government's practice of opening mail intended for private citizens would come under severe restrictions if Congress accepts recommendations made by a House committee.

The government operations committee said Wednesday the federal authorities should be required to obtain search warrants before opening people's mail.

The panel, reporting on a subcommittee's investigation of the Customs Service's mail-opening program, concluded that the practice should be permitted only under special circumstances specified by Congress.

It suggested Congress start by making it illegal for the government to open any mail without a court-issued search warrant or permission of the sender or addressee.

Rufner Reveals Life At Davis' Mansion

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - A controversial defense witness in the Cullen Davis murder trial resumes his testimony today about drugs, sex, booze and bravos at the defendant's $6 million

Fort Worth mansion.

But, says W.T. Rufner, 36, he was nowhere near the Davis estate on Aug. 2, 1976 when a gunman killed two and wounded two in a midnight shooting spree.

In fact, Rufner testified Wednesday, he did visit the mansion after his love affair with the millionaire defendant's estranged wife Priscilla ended in a springtime 1975 drunken conflict.

Chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes spent the day exposing the violent and lurid episodes in Rufner's life after he moved into the mansion following the Davis' separation on July 31, 1974.

Mrs. Davis, 36, was wounded and a subsequent lover slain in the gunfire that also killed the defendant's 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn and wounded Gus Gavril Jr., 22.

Lombardo Critical After Hospitalization

HOUSTON (AP) - Band leader Guy Lombardo remained in critical condition today at Methodist Hospital.

The hospital did not specify the nature of Lombardo's illness.

However, it was known Lombardo, 75, underwent aneurysm surgery Sept. 23. He reentered the hospital a week ago.

The September surgery involved the resection of removal of an aneurysm or ballooning of the descending thoracic aorta.

Hearst Blasts Courts As Conviction Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Patricia Hearst, disappointed by a reaffirmed bank robbery conviction, says the courts still fail to recognize that her involvement in the crime was the result of her abduction by the SLA.

"Everything that occurred in 1974 was the result of my being kidnapped," she said Wednesday in a telephone call to a newspaper reporter. "Justice demands recognition of that fact."

A three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that the 23-year-old Miss Hearst received a fair trial and upheld her conviction for the 1974 robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco.

Chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey was unavailable for comment, but associate Wayne Smith said the case definitely will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

GENE BOLIN

First Baptist Slates Revival for Weekend

First Baptist Church will hold a unique weekend revival, beginning Friday night and continuing through Sunday night, with the Rev. Gene Bolin of Baltimore, Md., as the featured speaker.

The revival will be different in that Rev. Bolin will present his messages in pantomime and drama, rather than by preaching and music alone. Special music will be led by Mark and Ann Marie Wynn.

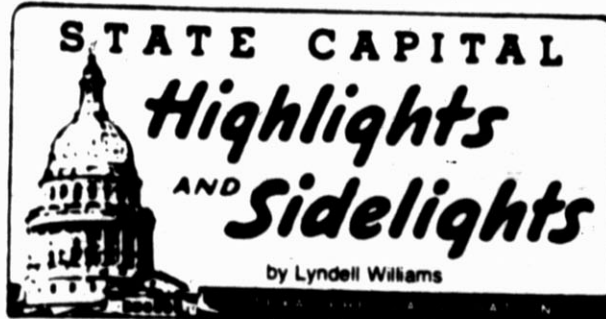

Services are scheduled at 7:30 each of the three nights, and Rev. Bolin will also conduct the regular Sunday morning services at First Baptist Church. Pastor Doug Manning announces that the revival is open to all interested citizens.

Rev. Bolin is currently serving as director of Baptist Campus Ministries for the Maryland Baptist Convention. He is the author of "Christian Witness on Campus" and of many magazine articles. The past summer he went to Zambia, Africa, to conduct a program on campus programs for Baptist colleges.

A graduate of the University of Washington, Bolin earned a degree in speech and communications and later received his master's degree in experimental communications. He formerly held a similar campus ministry post with the Oregon-Washington Baptist Convention, and has served as a consultant to the National Student Ministries in Nashville, Tenn.

Rev. Bolin's presentation is unique in that he goes around the country posing as a clown. He does the clown act in an attempt to communicate the gospel in a modern medium.

"Today's generation is a visually-oriented one. The silence of mine contrasts with the usual concept of preaching as excessively wordy, and thus gives it unique significance," says Rev. Bolin. He points out that the clown has a long history as a Christian symbol. The white face of the clown is the mask of death, but there is always color on the mask to symbolize new life, the resurrection in Christian theology.

AUSTIN—Texans will vote on seven proposed constitutional amendments November 8. Absentee balloting already is underway at courthouses over the state, but interest is light.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe last week gave his endorsement to all seven of the proposals, which range over subjects from administration of justice to taxation.

Amendment 1 would increase the size of the Court of Criminal Appeals from five to nine judges and permit the judges to sit in panels of three to discuss routine matters and speed appeals.

Amendment 2 provides an additional $200 million in veterans land bonds.

Amendment 3 permits trial judges to deny bail to persons charged with felony offenses who have been twice convicted previously, who are charged with a felony while out on bail on a previous indictment or who are charged with a crime involving use of a deadly weapon after previous conviction.

Amendment 4 authorizes tax relief to conserve cultural, historical or natural history resources.

Amendment 5 permits formation of agricultural or marine commodities producers to form associations to promote their products and assess fees to cover costs following a referendum.

Amendment 6 allows the legislature to permit state and national banks to exercise banking and discounting privileges by use of electronic devices or machines.

Amendment 7 reconstitutes the Judicial Qualifications Commission into a Commission on Judicial Conduct and strengthens its powers to deal with erring judges.

Speeding Up

Seventy-four per cent of drivers on state highways are ignoring the 55 miles an hour speed law, and Department of Public Safety Director Wilson E. Speir has urged voluntary compliance.

The insurance industry joined DPS in pleading for a slowdown. Speir said the number of fatalities and major accidents is increasing each week. According to DPS figures, traffic deaths increased from 2,467 at this time last year to 2,675 in 1977.

Jerry Johns, president of Southwestern Insurance Information Service, said more Texas drivers are violating the speed limit than at any time since its enactment, and continued increases in the accident rate (with accompanying insurance cost hikes) are inevitable unless motorists begin watching their speedometers.

Abuse Charged

A five-member investigation team reported 10 cases of patient abuse at Rusk State Hospital including a fatality resulting from a beating by two other patients in a "close supervision" ward.

State Mental Health Commissioner Kenneth Gaver fired the hospital superintendent, Dr. Robert B. Sheldon. The report was turned over to the district attorney of Cherokee County where the hospital is located.

Hereford Bull

their way into plenty? The next time someone tells you the energy crisis can be solved by conserving energy, consider the fact that it may ease the pressure but it won't solve the problem.

Remember this story: The problem is like a small town located near a lake. Only a hundred people lived there. They pumped water from the lake—the only source for several hundred miles. There was plenty of water. The lake was fed by a million gallons a day. Each resident only needed ten gallons a day—a total of 1,000 gallons. The town's industries needed another 1,000 gallons a day to provide jobs.

But the town grew. So did its industry. It still only needed ten gallons a day per person. But there were now 100,000 people. That's a million gallons a day—all the water being fed into the lake. Industry's needs had also increased to provide jobs for the new people.

The level of the lake began to fall. People showed concern. Industry offered to build a pipeline to the next nearest lake. Some of the residents objected. They said we can solve the problem by using less water. Everyone conserved water. The water level held.

But people kept having babies. The town kept growing. However, industry didn't grow because there wasn't enough water. There were no new jobs as the babies grew up. But the new babies used water so the lake started falling again. Finally, industry was asked to build the pipeline. It was too late. Before it could be finished, everyone died of thirst.

That's the way it is with energy. Unless we work to develop new sources now, conservation won't do us much good for the future. Our present supplies will not provide enough jobs then no matter how much we conserve now.

So the next time someone tells you the energy crisis can be solved by conserving energy—set 'em straight.

reports of casualties or damage. Greek seismologists measured the quake six on the Richter scale and located the epicenter in the northern Aegean. The seismological institute in Skopje, Yugoslavia, reported a Richter reading of 5.3 and placed the epicenter about 125 miles northeast of Skopje. BTA, the official Bulgarian news agency, reported a Richter reading of 5 and said the epicenter was about 60 miles southeast of Sofia, near the border with northern Greece.

All agreed that the quake occurred about 4:30 a.m. or 2:30 Greenwich Mean Time.

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. An earthquake of 5 on the Richter scale can cause considerable damage, and 6 can indicate severe damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 7.9.

Two other Dimmitt youths, Carlos Garza, 18, and Maria Trevino, 15, were wounded in the shooting. Garza was treated and released Monday night after

Miss Trevino was reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday after undergoing surgery for removal of the

Carter Tries To Gain Support Among Jews for Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is trying to rally support for his Mideast peace policies in the American Jewish community while warning that "intemperance and partisanship" are a threat to a permanent solution.

But cries by demonstrators Wednesday that the president is "stabbing Israel in the back" and the worries of established leaders over his overtures to Palestinian Arabs indicate he has not succeeded in quelling fear and suspicion.

In what his partisans called "a balanced speech that pulled no punches," Carter told the International Jewish Congress that his commitment to Israel remains unshakable. He said he understands that the Palestine Liberation Organization fans Israel's worst fears by refusing to recognize Israel's right to survive while using terror and violence.

On the other hand he referred to what he called the "legitimate rights" of Palestinian Arabs while saying that he prefers that an independent Palestinian state not be set up on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

"We are proud to be Israel's firm friend and closest partner - and we shall stand by Israel always," Carter told the audience, which 11 times interrupted his speech with applause. His reference to partisanship and intemperance was an apparent retort to Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker, who told the same audience Tuesday that Carter policies are not only jeopardizing Israel's security but are playing "Russian roulette" with world peace.

The emotional high point of the evening came when Carter accepted an elaborate Torah from a 14th century Jewish community in Czechoslovakia.

As he held it in his arms, he said it will be placed on display "where I'll observe it daily as a constant reminder of the spirit of human rights, decency and love."

"It was a very moving thing to see the president of the United States holding the Torah in his own hands," said Hyman Bookbinder, a prominent Israeli supporter in Washington.

Bookbinder said that while he did not agree with every detail, the overall thrust of the address was "one of the most eloquent and encouraging speeches ever made before a Jewish audience about Israel..."

United States To Ban Exports To S. Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States is banning the export of all police and military equipment to South Africa and recalling the U.S. commercial attaché there to review future economic relations with the racially troubled country. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance announced Wednesday.

He said the moves, which include a halt in U.S. maintenance of old equipment, "reflects our national concern" with the recent South African crackdown on blacks and their supporters.

The ban on police equipment tightens the voluntary arms embargo first imposed in 1963 and enhanced last week by U.S. support at the United Nations for mandatory, worldwide arms sanctions for six months.

The United States recalled its ambassador from Pretoria last month for consultations about U.S. policy toward South Africa.

On another subject, Vance welcomed a call by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev for a total ban on all peacetime nuclear explosions.

"By what he announced today we made a major step toward a comprehensive ban agreement," Vance said.

Brezhnev, launching celebrations of the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution, told a gathering in Moscow that the Kremlin is ready to ban all nuclear arms tests "for a definite period."

Vance, reacting at a news conference here, said the United States has been negotiating in Geneva for a ban of four or five years while the Soviets favor "a shorter period of time."

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: In response to a recent "Penultimate Word" column, author Doug Manning received the following letter from Dr. Duffy McBrayer. We thought our readers might enjoy the humorous and clever response.

Dear Doug,
As is frequently the case, I was stirred by my usual stupor by one of your recent "Penultimate Word" articles. The one on "Worry" was especially provocative and I felt that specialization was certainly the logical way to universal worry coverage.

While I may sporadically worry about a decrease in rainfall in Northern China, it's impotent at best. Give this problem to one of our dryland farmers, and there's a man who can put heart, soul and mortgage into it and really get time-effective worry done.

I began to search for my role in this monumental undertaking and, after days of really enjoyable worry, came up with an area which is: (1) far in the future—which is certainly one of the prerequisites for really worthwhile worry because the solution is impossible and meaningless; (2) has an historic basis for concern; (3) an area in which my knowledge is just small enough to be totally overcome by ignorance and superstition.

Here at last! Did I really have it? The ultimate worry? Surely not, I'm not worthy. But, there it was—tachycardia, palma hyperhidrosis, a sense of heightened awareness, and the tune for "when it's right, you know it" pounding in my ears!

ACQUISITION
MADISON, Wis. (AP) - The Elvehjem Art Center says it has acquired through the Humanistic Foundation of the University of Wisconsin a round-topped, fragmentary Egyptian funerary stela. The center says the stela dates from the 19th-21st dynasty, c. 1305-946 B.C.

The stela, which was placed in a tomb, measures over 10 1/2 inches in height and is more than eight inches wide.

In multi-colored neon lights I saw MY WORRY!...The Possible Genetic Consequences of Encounter with Extraterrestrial, Interstellar Beings.

I was absolutely limp from the enormity of it all: (1) It would be years, eons, or maybe never before the event took place; (2) It may be alright to find extraterrestrial interstellar beings, but would you want YOUR sister to marry one? (3) My last formal genetic training was for two weeks as a freshman in medical school and dealt with fruit flies!

Doug, thank you for crystallizing my thoughts. Before I worried about taxes, ineptitude and dishonesty in high places, etc. Now I can put all that aside with the calm assurance that inexorably, others will see the wisdom of "The Manning Method of Effective Worry" (if you will allow me to call it that) and someone will take these areas as their full-time worry.

I was talking with Hazen Woods in Austin about a week ago and he informed me that there is a company in Austin (where else?) that you can hire to worry for you. I asked him to send all the available information to you. This may be the answer for those who want to be supportive but don't want to be involved.

It's time for my worry session now (be still my eager heart), please keep me informed as the movement progresses.

Yours,
Duffy McBrayer

Important 4A Football Games On Tap

By BOB NIGH

Brand Sports Editor

While the Hereford White-faces take the week off there are some important 4A football clashes on tap this week in the area. Crucial games which will go a long way in deciding the respective champions of both Districts 3-4A and 4-4A will be played with the Monterey Plainsmen going after a second-straight playoff spot against the Lubbock High Westerners tonight and the Amarillo Sandies and Tascosa Rebels squaring off for honors in the northern district Friday evening in Amarillo.

The Harris Rating System favors the Plainsmen and Sandies in their crucial matches, with Monterey a 19-point favorite to take the Westerners, and Amarillo High a slim three-point nod over Tascosa.

The Plainsmen are ranked 10th in the Class 4A poll this week with a 157.9 power rating as compared to Lubbock's 181st ranking and 128.3 points. The Sandies are ranked 29th this week with 151.8 points to Tascosa's 148.8, which makes them the number 41 team.

In addition to those two key

4A encounters, Perryton and Borger meet this week in a game which will decide the District 1-3A champion in all probability. The Rangers, led by Brad Beck, have been installed as a five-point favorite to take the win against the Bulldogs. Perryton is 5th in this week's 3A poll with a 153.9 rating, while Borger is 18th at 143.8.

Lloyd's Of London Joins Scandal Case

NEW YORK (AP) - A five-man task force was in Uruguay today trying to unravel a spreading horse switch betting case, while Lloyd's of London, the prestigious international insurance consortium, joined the investigation into a scandal that has shaken the thoroughbred sport.

While Lloyd's announced its intention to appoint lawyers in its behalf "to investigate the possibility of fraud," there were several other developments in the scandal that might involve six horses whose identities were changed to produce longshot winners in some races.

They included: Dr. Mark Gerard, the veterinarian suspended for "possible racing fraud," was ordered reinstated by State Supreme Court Judge Theodore Velsor, pending an administrative hearing today by the State Racing and Wagering Board.

It was reported that State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz' office was watching the case and would file an appeal to stay Judge Velsor's order in the event Dr. Gerard attempted to return to the stables.

John Van Lindt, counsel for the Racing and Wagering Board, who originally had suspended Dr. Gerard, said the veterinarian had told "an outright lie" in filing out an insurance claim.

Another horse was placed under close guard at Belmont Park, the fourth horse prohibited from leaving the track while the investigation is under way.

More Sports Page 8

The five-man task force sent from New York to Montevideo, Uruguay, included: Joseph Mayer, chief investigator for the Racing and Wagering Board; Dr. Manuel A. Gilman, chief examining veterinarian for the New York Racing Association; Alfred Garcia, registrar for the Jockey Club; Norman Lewis, another veterinarian, and an unidentified member of the Nassau County District Attorney's office.

"They will interview any and all people involved," take blood samples of any and all horses involved, and find out as much as they can," Van Lindt said of the investigating team.

Cinzano allegedly was, racing under the name of Lebon, a mediocre performer. The victory by the "ringer," listed at odds of 57-1, triggered the international scandal.

Simpson Trade Out Rosenbloom Claims

BUFFALO (AP) - Buffalo running back O.J. Simpson's dream of playing for the Los Angeles Rams will remain a dream, says Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

Simpson is set to undergo surgery for knee cartilage damage next week and will miss the remainder of the National Football League season.

Many of his friends and teammates have indicated that Simpson, unhappy with the reeling Bills, may retire unless he's traded to a contender near his Los Angeles home.

Rosenbloom, rebuffed when he tried to acquire Simpson before the 1976 season, said he doesn't feel like being frustrated again.

"There's about as much chance of that as there is of you and I flying to the moon without wings," Rosenbloom said Wednesday by telephone from Los Angeles.

"You can dismiss anything about his playing for the Rams. It's much ado about nothing," said Rosenbloom.

When Simpson asked for a trade two years ago, Bill's owner Ralph C. Wilson reportedly asked the Rams for a package that included running back Lawrence McCutcheon.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Senior Lynn Davis and sophomore Wesley Roberts have moved into Texas Christian's starting defensive lineup for Saturday's Southwest Conference game against Texas Tech, say TCU officials.

Davis will start at nose guard, while Roberts will start at defensive tackle.

Evert Rallies; Finals In Doubt

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) - Top-seeded Chris Evert probably won't reach the finals of a $250,000 round-robin tennis tournament being played at the Mission Hills County Club, but she has dispelled any doubts about her physical condition.

Evert bounced back from her first-match defeat at the hands of Dianne Fromholtz and posted an easy 6-4, 6-1 victory over Martina Navratilova in the second round of the rich event Wednesday night.

Evert, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had been out of action three weeks because of a suspected stress fracture in her left leg. She returned by losing to the eight-seeded Fromholtz 7-6, 6-4.

By beating Navratilova, Evert raised her record in the red division of the competition to 1-1. In order for Evert to reach Saturday's finals, Fromholtz has to lose her final two matches. The Australian did not play Wednesday.

In other second-round matches, Kerry Reid of Australia breezed past Betty Stove of The Netherlands 6-2, 6-3 and Billie Jean King of New York turned back Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-3, 6-2.

Evert, helped by two double faults by Navratilova, recorded the only service break of the first set in the fifth game. Navratilova, the Czech expatriate who now plays out of Dallas, won the first game of the second set, but Evert captured the final six games to clinch the match.

Stove and Navratilova were both eliminated from championship competition after suffering their second losses of the competition Wednesday night.

Eight women are competing in the tournament. Every player in each of the tournament's two divisions must play every other player in that division, with the winners of the two divisions meeting in a final match for the $75,000 first prize Saturday.

Fromholtz and Virginia Wade of England are both 1-0 in the red division, Evert is 1-1 and Navratilova is 0-2. Reid and King are 1-0 in the blue division, Turnbull is 1-1 and Stove is 0-2.

Three matches are scheduled Thursday night - Wade against Evert, Fromholtz against Navratilova and Reid against King.

The tournament is sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive Co.

Sale Halted

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) - A jilted suitor for the Boston Red Sox has mounted a ninth-inning rally that halted the sale of the team.

Trustees of the estate of the late owner, Thomas Yawkey, were ready to sell the franchise this week to a group headed by newly-named General Manager Haywood Sullivan and former team trainer Edward Buddy LeRoux, given the title vice president-administration Wednesday.

But an Ohio-based conglomerate stepped in with a law suit claiming the trustees illegally turned down a better offer.

An American League vote on the sale, scheduled for today, was postponed indefinitely on Wednesday at the behest of the Yawkey estate.

A-T-O Inc., of Willoughby, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland says the estate must accept its bid of $18.75 million. The firm, which owns Rawlings Sporting Goods, was one of several unsuccessful bidders.

The Sullivan-LeRoux group, including Yawkey's widow, would pay $15 million - $3 million from Mrs. Jean Yawkey herself.

"A-T-O is still interested in becoming owners of the Red Sox," said a company spokesman. "The matter is in the hands of our attorneys."

Sale of the team, said Sullivan and LeRoux, "was bound to produce a number of problems ... and we are confident this one will also be solved soon."

However, a spokesman for the Yawkey estate, Joseph LaCour, indicated the suit will not be settled before the end of the month.

Announcement of postponement of the AL vote was made by League President Lee MacPhail only 24 hours before the scheduled meeting in New York.

The franchise, meanwhile, will remain under control of the Yawkey estate. Sullivan, promoted to general manager Oct. 24 in a front office purge, will direct the team's selections in the free agent draft Friday in New York.

A-T-O's request for an injunction halting the sale was denied Tuesday by Probate Judge Mary C. Fitzpatrick, but the case was continued.

An AL spokesman said postponement of the league vote was unrelated to a charge by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, that terms of the sale may be illegal.

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett claims Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn is attempting to stop the Rangers from signing free agent outfielder Larry Hise, the focus of a "tampering" charge against a Rangers official.

Kuhn is currently studying testimony offered in a hearing last week on the charge.

Corbett said Wednesday he had talked to Kuhn most of the day. He told newsmen: "They don't want us to sign Hise" but did not elaborate.

Minnesota Twins officials raised the tampering charge after Rangers General Manager Dan O'Brien said at a luncheon that it wouldn't surprise him to see Hise in a Ranger uniform next year.

He jokingly added that money was no problem because the Rangers simply would "ink the printing press."

Cashing in on the canal

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Although party moderates remain deeply uneasy over the Sept. 30 vote of the Republican National Committee condemning the new Panama Canal treaties, GOP leaders have wasted no time cashing in on the action.

On the strength of the resolution adopted by the national committee in New Orleans, Ronald Reagan has lent his name and his considerable drawing power to a GOP fund-raising letter pegged to the canal issue.

The appeal, which was mailed Oct. 21 to some 450,000 potential contributors, represents the Republican party's first attempt to capitalize on the anti-treaty sentiment which is proving such a gold mine for right-wing groups outside the party structure.

With the aid of direct mail wizard Richard Viguerie, a plethora of conservative organizations have been raking in hundreds of thousands of dollars by playing on the Panama Canal issue.

Now the Republican National Committee hopes to do likewise with the help of Reagan, who virtually created the issue last year during his hard-fought primary battle against former President Gerald Ford.

In his letter, Reagan is asking for $2 million in contributions to "defeat those Democrats who vote time and time again to support actions that weaken our national security."

Ironically, GOP Chairman Bill Brock had done his best in New Orleans to head off an official party denunciation of the Canal treaties. But conservatives on the national committee prevailed.

Both the New Orleans vote and the Reagan letter create awkward problems for Ford, who staunchly supports the treaties, and for Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., who will be bucking the official party line if he ultimately votes for ratification. Yet neither man objected to the Reagan fund-raising appeal, apparently believing the GOP's need for money outweighed any personal embarrassment.

And indeed, the Republicans have been hurting financially. As of Oct. 3, the national committee had raised only $6.8 million of its targeted $10.5 million budget for 1977.

Some of the party's fund-raising difficulties have been caused by the success of independent conservative groups, including Reagan's own Citizens for the Republic, in grabbing off donations that might otherwise have gone to GOP organizations and candidates.

But Reagan is being careful to stay within the GOP fold. He is holding off on a Panama Canal fund-raising pitch for his own Citizens for the Republic until after the appeal for the Republican party is well under way.

Furthermore, Reagan has steadfastly refused to step outside the party structure in order to lead a conservative charge on the canal issue, annoying some of his erstwhile supporters by his caution.

The national GOP will be indebted to both Reagan and Ford if it winds up reaching its budget target this year. A mid-September fund-raising letter from Ford, stressing a whole array of "critical issues" apart from the Panama Canal, has proven unexpectedly successful.

The Ford appeal, like the Reagan letter, was mailed to about 450,000 potential donors and had produced over $800,000 in contributions by mid-October, an extraordinary return.

It isn't easy, considering the tensions of last year's primary battle, to keep both Ford and Reagan—and their respective backers—under the same umbrella.

But with some fancy footwork, Brock may yet pull it off—to the financial benefit of the entire Republican party.

Varsity Golf Team Well Underway For This Year

Members of the varsity golf team will include five of the following seven candidates: seniors Mike Hill, Kelly Kitchens, James Lyles, James McDowell and Tommy Weaver, junior Richard Brandon and sophomore Andy Yocum.

The varsity golfers have played five dual matches this fall and are expecting to play at least two more. So far, they have defeated Plainview, Coronado, Monterey and tied with Tascosa. The Herd lost to Monterey once.

Coach Terry Russell said, "I expect the District race to be fairly close this year. Monterey should be the favorite, but should be challenged by defending champion Plainview, Coronado, and Hereford."

Coach Russell commented on each of the players:

"Mike had a slow start this year in tournaments. His best round has been 80 at Plainview. Mike's game has been steadily improving and will be a factor in our success this spring."

"Kelly will not play any this fall as he is playing football and basketball. Kelly has had the second best average for us in District play the last two years and will definitely help our varsity after basketball."

"James (Lyles) has played pretty consistently this fall. His best score this year has been an 80 at Lubbock. We are expecting James to help us this spring."

"James (McDowell) has been the most successful player for us the season as well as the most consistent player. He has been medalist in all but one of our matches with rounds of 77-74-76. James has a lot of desire and determination and will play as important role in our success this year."

"Tommy has been medalist in two out of three matches he has played in this fall. His best competitive round this fall is 75 against Lubbock High and Lubbock Coronado where he was medalist. Tommy is determined to have a good year."

"This will be Richard's first year to letter. His best round is 76 this year against Coronado and Lubbock High. We are looking for Richard to help us this year and next year."

"Andy is the only Sophomore who will play some varsity golf for us this year."

In the last dual match played last Saturday, here, Hereford came in first with 314, Coronado second with 341, and Lubbock third with 387.

The Hereford B-Team was first with 336, Coronado B with 373, and Lubbock B third with 452. The members of the junior varsity team are Andy Yocum, Keith Pagett, Miles Goforth, Curt Beard, and Jeff O'Rand.

More than 1,100 types of nails are manufactured.

Aerospace Classes Off To Flying Start

What is a man with a commercial pilot's license, flight instructor certificate doing in Hereford High School? He is teaching the Aerospace I, II, III, Science Classes. His name is John Claypool.

Claypool teaches Aerospace I, II, III. Aerospace is the study of the history of space. Aerospace II is the ground school portion of aviation. Aerospace III is the flying portion and climax of a three-year course study.

Claypool is one of 74 instructors teaching the ground school portion of aerospace, while there is only one other Texas High School teaching the flying portion (at Denver City).

When asked if he enjoyed teaching this class he said, "Yes, flying is like a religion to me; it's in my blood."

All kinds of students take this course. It is open to any sophomore, junior or senior. The qualifications for Aerospace

III are a Third Class Medical Certificate, and the student also must have taken the Aerospace II class. When students finish the Aerospace III class they have nine hours of flying time and solo status.

Some things taught in class are navigation, learning how to read instruments, the history of aviation, and, at the end of the Aerospace II portion, the student may take the private pilot written exam.

After the Aerospace III portion he may take 30 more hours for a total of 40 and then the student may take a check ride with a qualified FAA examiner and get his or her private pilot license. After that, the opportunities are unlimited -- the student may get his multi-engine rating. After that, he may get his Airline Transport Rating and become an airline pilot.

To take the Aerospace III portion, the student has to have a Third Class Medical Certificate and pay one hundred seventy dollars for nine hours of instruction, enough to solo.

Besides Aerospace Claypool can also teach math, English and drama.

Gong Show

Viewed By Round Up Staff

Hereford High's annual staff had its own "Gong Show" to kick off this year's selling of the Roundup today.

There were a number of different skits, talents as well as other forms of entertainment.

The purpose of the assembly was to entertain the students and to kick off the Roundup sales drive for the '78 yearbook. The goal for the '78 Roundup staff is to present as many students as possible in the book.

College Night was Monday, October 17.

Mrs. Braddy, senior counselor, said that it was very important for the seniors to attend. She also said that it was never too soon for juniors and sophomores to look toward the future.

All Students need to be thinking about what type of school they would like to attend after they finish high school.

There were approximately 40 colleges and universities repre-

Girls To Begin A New Season For Basketball

Coaches for the Hereford High School Girls Basketball Program for the 1977-78 year are Roy Shipp and Gail Barnes.

This year is the second year for the girls to be playing basketball in Hereford. The basketball program this year will include a junior varsity and a sophomore schedule.

Last year the girls played six-on-six and were limited to half court. The rules were changed for the current season and allow full court. Five-on-five will be played with rules identical to the boys.

The schedule for this year will include games with Canyon, Amarillo High, Tascosa, Palo Duro, Caprock, Pampa, Borger, Perryton and Plainview.

Their district for the 1977-78 season will be the same as the boys: Lubbock High, Monterey, Coronado, Hereford and Plainview.

Coach Shipp's outlook is promising, since this is only the second year the girls have ever played basketball.

Students Recall Childhood Days

Hereford High School students remember past childhood days when they attended a Kiddie Day assembly.

During the assembly, several prizes were awarded. Among these were FBIA lollipops contest prizes, awarded by Viola Padilla and Nan Rodriguez.

Student and Teacher of the six weeks were announced by Lee Kinsfather. Receiving those honors were Vivian Martin, David Walterscheid and Marcus Phillips.

The highlight of the program was when Kiddie Day King, Steve Fortenberry and Kiddie Day Queen, Tonya Black, were crowned. Their crowns were a blue Mickey Mouse hat for Steve, and a yellow one for Tonya. They remained at their thrones for the remainder of the assembly.

Steve Fortenberry, president of HHS said they learned a lot from their first assembly.

Though, it was not as organized as he would have liked it, the things he learned will help him out in future assemblies.

Other presentations include a skit presented by the acting group, "One the Edge" consisting of Mark Priest, Billy Bayne and Tim Ruland.

A piano selection presented by Doug Strange, and songs performed by Brenda Tackitt, Debbie Byers and Donna Riley also were included in the program. A tribute to the music group Blue Oyster Cult, presented by Mike Trolinder, David Granadoz and Mike Harris was also included. The cheerleaders and drill team helped to bring back pleasant memories.

Awards, presented by the HHS Student Council for best dressed were given to Mona McNanny, John Bullard and Mrs. Bonnie Weurllein.

Building Trades Builds Futures

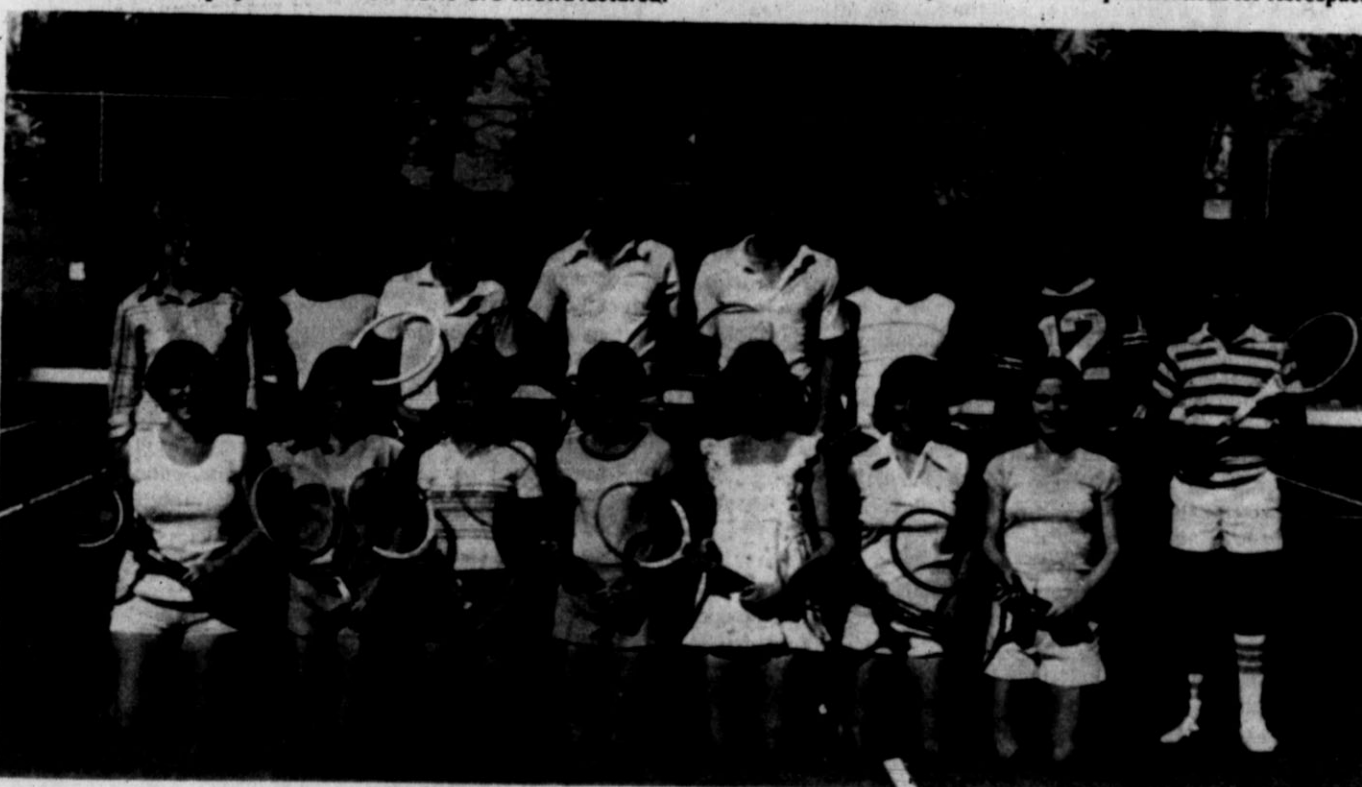

Rex Manley teaches building trades.

Some of his classes' past projects were the power mechanics shop at Stanton, a Warehouse shop behind the bus barn, an addition to the fieldhouse, and a class room building by Shirley School.

There are 27 students in the class. In the spring, they will compete in the district and state VICA contests in bricklaying and carpentry. Some of the students wanted to take building trades because they want to be carpenters and bricklayers.

The students learn a great deal about house construction and repair. Some will go in construction professionally.

The boys will be better prepared to repair their own houses. Manley said that he was also spending a great deal of time teaching the boys leadership in their club work. Manley also said that the class seemed to be improving each year, therefore they are able to take on more complicated work.

Students Decorate Cake

Two classes, as part of the special-foods program, learned how to decorate cakes.

The class is open to sophomores, juniors and senior boys and girls.

The Sweet and Fancy Club taught the course. Mrs. Lynn Pittard, president of the club, and Mrs. M.D. Henson were the instructors.

The classes learned the basic techniques of making borders, roses and writing. Then the students decorated and designed their own cakes.

The special-foods class has four boys and 38 girls. Layman said that the boys seemed just as interested as the girls.

The special-foods course lasts one trimester and during one week out of that they decorate cakes.

The other happenings during the trimester include learning how to entertain and give parties, preparing a buffet and preparing special dishes.

Baylor Takes Turn At Blasting Refs

By The Associated Press

Elgin Baylor, coach of the New Orleans Jazz, was well aware of the National Basketball Association's policy against verbally assaulting referees.

But Baylor did not flinch in taking his best shots at what he considered some poor officiating Wednesday night in the Jazz' last-second 104-102 loss to the Kansas City Kings.

"That was atrocious," Baylor said angrily about the work of referees Jack Madden and Tommy Nunez. "I think if something was said more often, they would be more cautious with their jobs."

Baylor was particularly incensed about an offensive foul called against Truck Robinson with six seconds remaining and the score 102-102. He felt the foul should have been against Kansas City.

After the controversial call, Kansas City's Lucius Allen hit a 10-foot jump shot with one second left, giving the Kings the victory and ending New Orleans' five-game winning streak.

Richard Washington led Kansas City with 22 points. New Orleans' Pete Maravich scored 33.

In other NBA games, the Atlanta Hawks whipped the Detroit Pistons 102-89, the Chicago Bulls edged the Philadelphia 76ers 103-102, the Buffalo Braves downed the Denver Nuggets 104-100, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Boston Celtics 104-101, the Los Angeles Lakers topped the New Jersey Nets 107-102, and the Seattle SuperSonics outlasted the Indiana Pacers 106-104 in overtime.

Hawks 102, Pistons 89
The victory gave the surprising Hawks a 5-1 record, their best start since the franchise shifted from St. Louis to Atlanta in 1969, and moved them into first place in the Central Division, a half-game ahead of New Orleans.

Ron Behagen, who suffered a broken nose in a collision with teammate John Drew while rebounding during the fourth period, led Atlanta with 22 points. Drew had 20 and Detroit's Bob Lanier scored 29. Lanier also suffered muscle spasms in his right eye and said he was seeing double. He was to be examined by an eye specialist today.

Bulls 103, 76ers 102
Artis Gilmore scored 30 points, including the go-ahead basket late in the fourth quarter, as the Bulls handed the stumbling 76ers their straight loss and fourth setback in six games. George McGinnis' 21 points paced Philadelphia, the losing finalist in last season's playoffs.

Braves 104, Nuggets 100
Randy Smith scored 32 points, Billy Knight had 23 points and 12 rebounds and Swen Nater collected 14 points, including two clutch baskets in the final two minutes, and 14 rebounds, helping Buffalo end a four-game losing streak. Rookie Anthony Roberts led Denver with 20 points.

Cavaliers 104, Celtics 101
"We've got problems," Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn said after his slumping Celtics suffered their sixth loss in seven games overall, but their first appearance of the season at Boston Garden. Walt Frazier led Cleveland with 22 points, while Jo Jo White was high for the Celtics with 20.

Lakers 107, Nets 102
Rookie James Edwards scored 22 points and grabbed nine rebounds and another rookie, Norm Nixon, tallied nine of his 16 points in the final period, including seven in the last 1:18, lifting the Lakers past the Nets, despite a 39-point showing by New Jersey rookie Bernard King.

SuperSonics 106, Pacers 104
John Johnson's baseline jumper with 21 seconds remaining in overtime boosted Seattle over Indiana. Gus Williams came off the bench and paced the Sonics with 27 points. Indiana's John Williamson scored 36.

Brazile Has Respect For Payton

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston linebacker Robert Brazile compares playing football against his old college roommate Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears with a game of checkers between the former Jackson State stars.

In both games someone is likely to get crowned.

"If I make a wrong move in a checkers game, he'll try to beat me," said Brazile, who'll try to slow down the NFL's leading ground gainer Sunday when the two teams meet in the Astrodome. "It's the same out here on this field but it's more of a physical and mental thing."

Payton, who rushed 205 yards against Green Bay last week to take over the National Football League rushing lead with 858 yards, doesn't think his friendship will get in the way against Brazile.

"The type of respect that we have for each other is such that if Robert got out there and I came his way and he did anything but try to knock me crazy, I would think less of him for it," Payton said.

"On the field he has the job of trying to contain me and I occasionally will be trying to block him and other times get around him."

Touche, says Brazile. "I know there are times when he's going to have to block me and he's not going to pull up and when I have to tackle him I'm DEFINITELY not going to pull up."

Brazile and Payton both blossomed into first-round pro draft choices while at Jackson State and also became close friends.

"There were about four families of us that were real close at Jackson State," Payton said. "We'd go to rock concerts together on weekends."

Brazile started his career at Jackson as a tight end but quickly changed to defense.

"I couldn't stand to play tight end in the pros," Brazile said. "I've seen too much of what they have to put up with. My temperament wouldn't allow me to play offense here. I like to inflict the pain instead of take it."

In addition to his prowess as a runner, Payton also has a reputation as an outstanding blocking back. Brazile thinks he knows why.

"At Jackson State we were taught that you don't play a certain position," Brazile said. "You just played football. I even played free safety for a while."

"And there were times when the offensive backs would be blocking head on with the defensive line."

Brazile expects the Oilers defense to put in another good performance against the Bears, who like the Oilers, have a 3-4 record. His personal game plan is the same, keep 'em guessing.

"I like to play what I call an offensive defense," Brazile said. "That's where we've got the offense guessing what we're going to do and not us trying to guess what they'll do."

Your move, Walter.

Yeoman Rates Earl Up With Blanchard

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston Coach Bill Yeoman, whose Cougars must face the No. 1-ranked Texas Longhorns and Earl Campbell Saturday, could act as an advance man for Campbell's Heisman Trophy campaign.

While UT publicists have preferred to let Campbell's actions do the talking, Yeoman is unrestrained in his praise of the Southwest Conference's leading rusher.

Yeoman, asked to rate Campbell with the best runners he's seen, placed Campbell in a category with his former Army teammate Doc Blanchard.

"He Blanchard was a freak in his time," Yeoman said. "I've watched people fall off of Blanchard just like I've seen them fall off of Campbell. I don't think there's any question that everybody realized this young man is the best to come out of Texas high schools."

Houston will find out just how good Saturday afternoon when the Cougars host the Longhorns in Rice Stadium before an expected crowd of 70,000. Only 2,000 standing room tickets remain to be sold prior to the 2 p.m. kickoff.

Campbell could easily move into the top 10 among National Collegiate Athletic Association career rushing leaders against the Cougars.

Campbell currently is 12th on the all time list but could replace Arizona State's Woody Green in the No. 10 position if he gains 41 yards in the Houston game. Campbell is averaging 145.0 yards through seven games this season.

Yeoman also compares Campbell more favorably with former UH star Paul Gipson, a star of the 1968 season when Houston and Texas battled to a 20-20 tie in Austin.

"Earl has similar capacity to what Gipson had, just more of it," Yeoman said. "Paul weighed about 198 and Campbell is 220. Paul had about speed and this guy is similar and he has strength."

Although the Cougars embarrassed the Longhorns 30-0 last year to end Texas' 42-game home winning streak, new coach Fred Akers has turned the Longhorns' fortunes around.

Saturday's game will be played in Rice Stadium instead of Houston's home field, the Astrodome, under a stipulation placed on the Cougars when they were admitted to the SWC.

Championships Sound ABC Claims

By TOM SEPPY

AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The concept of The U.S. Boxing Championships televised by ABC last spring was sound, network officials say.

But fight people saw the tournament as a chance to make a fast buck, a House communications subcommittee was told Wednesday.

Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports, made the argument before the panel, which is probing the relationship between the three television networks and sports.

However, Arledge received little support from some members of the committee for ABC's actions to prevent the public from being deceived. The telecasts of the tournament were suspended by the network last spring.

"We have to begin to wonder how much profit plays a role in the decision whether a sports program goes on the air," said Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass.

Arledge was scheduled to testify before the subcommittee again today but the panel's investigation into the Don King-promoted tournament has ended. The ABC executive was to be questioned about the network's advertising policies and possible conflicts of interest, such as its exclusive contract with Olympic boxer Sugar Ray Leonard.

Robert Wussler, the president of CBS Sports and former president of the network, was scheduled to follow Arledge as the committee moved its investigation to the CBS "winner-take-all" tennis matches in which both competitors received money for participating.

A subcommittee staff report says the top officials of CBS Sports "sought to mislead the public as to the nature" of the four matches involving Jimmy Connors and Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Manuel Orantes and Llie Nastase in the series over a period of two years.

The staff report also said CBS may violated several sections of the Federal Communications Act in its failure to acknowledge promotional considerations during the telecasts.

Restaurateur Finds Time To Mother Five Children

By DIANNE BANNER
Brand Staff Writer

Amidst the hubbub of remodeling her home, raising four children, adopting another and managing a restaurant, Mrs. Pete Lopez presents an air of serenity.

Mrs. Lopez believes in raising her children in a religious atmosphere. The Lopezes are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, where the active mother attends prayer groups. She is also a member of the newly-organized Women's Aglow.

Mr. and Mrs. Lopez, who are owners of El Toro Restaurant, started the business with hopes of someday building a large foster home on land which they own in Ruidoso, N.M.

The couple have had several foster children. Ten-year-old Paul Gutierrez who is their only foster child to remain with them for a number of years, is in the process of being adopted by the Lopez family.

When asked if the clan had any special family projects they enjoyed Mrs. Lopez commented, "I like to take all of my children bowling. And I try to attend as many activities of theirs as I can. I hardly ever miss a football game of Todd's."

Todd is the oldest of the group of five. He is twelve years old and a seventh grader at Stanton Junior High School. Michelle, who likes to sew often with her mother, is a sixth grader at St. Anthony's Parochial School. She is eleven.

Paul is in the fifth grade at Shirley Elementary School. He and his brothers Todd and Fernando enjoy tackling their human football, Mrs. Lopez.

"I'll be walking through the house and all the sudden, the three boys make a run for me and tackle me."

Fernando is the youngest of the boys. He is four years old and attends preschool classes at Shirley Elementary.

Last but not least is one-year-old and gleeful brown-eyed Kimberly.

Mrs. Lopez's sister, Marcella Soliz, helps her by working at the restaurant.

"Since Pete will be out of town next week, I'll be doing all of the cooking," Mrs. Lopez replied. "It is really odd because Pete doesn't like to cook for our kids. We go out many times a week and eat at other restaurants."

Lopez prepares most of the food at El Toro.

Mrs. Lopez would like to share two of her favorite recipes:

TAMALE CASSEOLE

Brown in a frying pan:

1 lb. ground beef

1 tbs. flour

Soak one chili pod in 1/2 cup water for 10 min. Chop finely in blender. Add to beef with 2 1/2 cups of water, bring to boil. (Instead of chili pod, one can substitute 1/4 cup of chili powder.)

In a casserole pan place one can of tamales and top with chili mixture and cheese. (Fresh tamales may be used in place of canned tamales.)

Cook for 20 minutes at 350 degrees.

FRESH APPLE CAKE

Blend together in mixing bowl:

1 cup oil

1 1/4 cup white sugar

2 eggs

2 cups grated apple

2 cups flour

1 tsp. salt

1 cup nuts (optional)

1 tsp. vanilla

Bake for one hour at 350 degrees.

Auxiliary Slates Pancake Supper

Plans for a family pancake supper were discussed by members of the American Legion Auxiliary Tuesday night during a meeting at the Legion Hall.

With Mrs. Laurence Carlson presiding, members scheduled the pancake supper, which is held annually for legion members and their families, at 5-8 p.m. Nov. 11. Also, Auxiliary members agreed to slate the Legion's Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 15.

In other business, delegates were chosen to attend the convention Nov. 5-6 at Vega. Chosen to represent the local chapter were Betty Jo Carlson, Clara Trowbridge, Pet Ott, Argen Draper and Troyce Hanna.

It was motioned and approved that funds be donated to the Chamber of Commerce's Christmas lighting program this year. Also, a reminder was issued concerning the upcoming election on Nov. 8.

Roll call was answered by 15 members after the prayer was delivered by Mrs. Ott.

Victor Cantu was introduced as the program speaker and related his experiences in attaining U.S. citizenship.

The resignation of Ann Freeman, who was recommended to serve as Lodge Deputy for 1978, was regrettably accepted. Lydia Hopson was elected to fill that vacancy.

Expressions of appreciation were extended by Mrs. Mathes to those individuals and committee members having parts in staging the Halloween Carnival recently. The carnival was described as "great fun" for those in attendance.

A reminder was issued to lodge members that a quilt is in the frames awaiting completion at the IOOF Hall.

Verna Sowell was hostess for the evening fellowship. Others present were Mrs. Mathes, Ursalee Jacobsen, Mrs. Hopson, Ada Hollabaugh, Merl Bridges, Mrs. Freeman, Gene Bishop, Martha Bridges, Susie Curtisinger, Peggy Lemons, Helen Sowell, Frances Parker and Faye Brownlow.

Betty Rice Named Artist of Month

Crediting her artistic attempts to her mother's and sisters' help, Betty Rice is being featured as artist of the month for November at Deaf Smith County Library.

Mrs. Rice's pictures of landscapes and birdlife, painted in oils and acrylics, are now on display at the library and the public is invited to view the collection.

Beginning to paint with acrylics only three years ago, Mrs. Rice has studied oil painting under Jon Birdsong, an Amarillo artist who is a former resident of Hereford. She has also taken lessons from Estelle Billington, Lois Goforth and Audrey Taylor, all Amarillo artists.

Local artists who have instructed Mrs. Rice include Travis McPherson and Eunice Petersen. She recently completed a class offered by David Slade in South Fork, Colo. Slade has a reputation for being "the fastest brush in the West."

A real estate broker, Mrs. Rice resides at 405 Jowell St. She is a member of First Baptist Church, several prayer groups, Hereford Art Guild and Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club.

Ann Landers

Expectant Mother Worries

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in my seventh month of pregnancy and because of my husband's attitude I feel as if I have been carrying this baby for a year. He has shot off his big mouth to everyone who will listen that if I don't have a boy he will leave us both at the hospital.

Everyone laughs it off and so do I, but it really does hurt. Ann, if I should have a girl I will feel as if I have failed him. To make matters worse, his two brothers' wives have had three girls apiece and they say they are "through." I'm afraid my in-laws are counting on me to have a son, although they have been gracious enough to say it doesn't matter.

Please give me something to hang on to—a few words of wisdom and emotional support. I am—Plenty Shaky

DEAR P.S.: These clatter-traps who specify a preference are a strange breed of jackasses for which there is no known cure. If your husband was the King of Siam, he might have a throne problem. What's eating your clown?

It never fails—husbands who advertise they want sons always wind up nutty as fruitcakes over their daughters. If you have a girl I'll bet you a blue bootie against a pink rattle that he'll follow the pattern.

ANN LANDERS: You are nuts. In a column that appeared recently you said, "It is good manners to phone or write to a hostess after you have attended her party." Then you added, "But don't be too hard on the lady or socially imperfect. Not everyone knows all the fine points."

What a lot of banana oil! I have never left a party without saying thank you to the hostess. One of the fine points of being cultured is learning not to overdo things.

People who say "Thank you" three times at the door, then telephone the next day or feel compelled to send a written note are just plain insecure. I hate these boot-licking, ankle-kissing types...and I'll bet you are one of them.—Glad I Said It.

DEAR GLAD: I feel sorry for you—and all the other cold fish in the world—so "controlled," reluctant to appear too friendly or eager to please, afraid of expressing a warm thought or a tender emotion for fear you might expose too much of yourself.

The person who writes or phones to say thank you for the lovely evening is neither insecure nor obsequious—and every hostess appreciates such messages.

DEAR ANN: I am a guy, 17. My girl Rita is 15. Mom invited her to dinner Sunday. My aunt and uncle were invited, too. He is a minister but not one of those square types. Real neat. His wife is OK, too.

After dinner Rita came over and sat on my lap. We weren't making out or anything like that. She was just sitting there. My mom didn't say anything but she gave me one of those looks I know so well. This morning she told me Rita should have had better sense than to sit on my lap in front of company and I should not have let her do it. I think mom is wrong. Do you?—Jeff

DEAR J.: No. She's right. What's the problem? Are you short of chairs in your house? A young lady who visits in her boyfriend's home should maintain dignity—and this means no lap-sitting.

I never go to a college reunion that I don't come away feeling sorry for all those paunchy, balding jocks trying to hang onto youth.

I feel sorry for the men too.

Mayva and I always sit together. We seem to be the only two in the class who have fought the battle of middle age and won.

"How do we do it?" I whispered, watching the class of '49 dance away in merciful darkness. "I feel like Marie Osmond at a Prune Festival."

"I know what you're saying," said Mayva. "Look at Ginger Horwich. Can you believe she's wearing glasses this thick? Blind as a bat."

"Where?" I asked, digging in my purse and holding my bifocals to my nose like a lorgnette.

"And what about Marci Miller? Who is she fooling with that caftan?"

"Mayva, as I have always said, 'You show me a woman in a caftan and I'll show you a lot of fat that doesn't fit.' Incidentally, isn't that caftan a lot like yours?"

"No," said Mayva irritably, "mine has no waist. Oh my goodness, would look at who just came in. Mary Moosebaum with hair as white as the driven snow. Who does she remind you of?"

"Thomas Edison."

"Exactly. Of course, we shouldn't laugh. Someday our hair will start to turn and we'll no longer be..."

"Henna No. 4 Hey, look at the next table. It's the class success, Barbara Judson, our newly-elected Senator. They're sure making a big fuss over her, but I respect her. If you have to work to make ends meet, you have to work. Besides, it might lead to something big. At least she's not like Paula Pringle."

"That vicious old broad," said Mayva. "Never has a kind word to say about anyone. I'm going over and tell her how much I've missed her."

As Mayva left the table, I couldn't help remarking to my husband, "Mayva looks old. Wonder how long it will take me to start showing my age?"

Good Health Habits Cut Medical Bills

COLLEGE STATION—"Try spending less for better health," suggests Carla Shearer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Last year the country spent $120 billion -- $550+ per person -- on personal health care, the specialist says. Here are some tips that could help cut down on medical bills:

1. Strive for and maintain a sound, healthy body. This includes a good diet, exercise, adequate rest, daily flossing and brushing of teeth, and good personal hygiene.

2. Have regular dental and medical (including vision and hearing) check-ups. How often these checkups need to be scheduled will depend upon an individual's health and the advice of the medical professionals.

3. When there is a health problem, see a doctor as soon as possible. A delay in treatment can result in more serious problems.

4. Learn the basics about treating minor illnesses at home and first aid practices.

5. Follow the doctor's orders.

Many people will pay for an office visit with the doctor but not follow through with the prescribed treatment.

6. Be prepared with adequate health insurance. Compare the insurance plans and determine what coverage would be best for you and your family. Keep the insurance dated.

7. Keep the whole family fully immunized against communicable diseases.

8. Keep medical records of all health-related experiences. This will help you at tax time and will provide information on your medical history for the doctor.

9. Prevent accidents in the car and at home by following safety rules and periodic checks of the car and the home for any potential accidents situations. Make sure that the whole family knows what to do and how to escape the house in case of fire.

10. Take advantage of free or low-cost health services that may be in your community. These often include well-baby clinics, immunizations, and screening tests offered periodically by health organizations.

The festival features German sausage, sauerkraut, home made bread and all the trimmings, with dinner being served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Cost of the meal is $3.75 for adults.

Following the wurst dinner, which has become a popular Panhandle-area attraction in recent years, the Tiny Lynn Band will play for a dance at the parish hall.

The dance will be held from 8-12 p.m.

Wa Can Ki Ya Camp Fire group met Tuesday at 704 Plains for their regular meeting.

The group worked on their craft projects for the autumn Arts and Crafts Festival.

An outing to Palo Duro was planned for the near future. Committees were appointed to see about the food, games and transportation. The girls worked on Indian name symbols.

Stacy Kirkpatrick served refreshments to the following girls Penny Tubb, Kim Bridwell, Leslie Birdwell, Joy Baker, Mary Ruth Hamman, Debbie Avent, Patti Perez and Shari Buckner. Mary Joe Hamman is the leader.

Personal Spending Plan Erases Budget Problem

COLLEGE STATION--To know where your money goes, devise a Personal Spending Plan, suggests Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Make decisions about what you need, what you dream of, and exactly where you want your personal spending plan to lead, the specialist says.

Ask yourself these questions: 1. What are your goals? The first step in making a spending plan is to set goals. These must reflect your family's needs and be realistic in relation to present and future estimated income. Decide which goals are most important.

Revival Begins Friday

The Rev. Gene Bolin, director of Baptist Campus Ministries for the Maryland Baptist Convention, will be guest evangelist this weekend during a revival at First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of the First Baptist congregation, invites the public to attend revival services, to be held each evening, Nov. 4-6. The morning worship service on Sunday will begin at the regular time of 11 a.m.

Rev. Bolin will conduct unique services using drama and mime to present familiar themes.

Rev. Bolin's wife, Francis, is an area specialist in early childhood education for the Baltimore County School System in Maryland. She will lead a conference for preschool and elementary department Sunday School teachers during the revival.

Mrs. Bolin is the author of the basis book on early childhood education for the Baptist Sunday School Board.

First Aid

Course Saturday

The multi-media first aid course, which was to have been held earlier this week, was postponed and will be held from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday in the Library's Heritage Room.

The eight-hour course is open to the public and the only fee will be the cost of an instructional booklet, priced at $2.90.

Joyce Blasingame will be the instructor.

Persons planning to attend are asked to bring sack lunches for Saturday's first aid course.

Betty Henson is executive secretary of the local Red Cross, sponsor of the course.

Birthday

Celebrated By Resident

Gladys Miller, 428 Star, was honored in her home Sunday with a birthday dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Miller, son and daughter-in-law of the honoree came from Odessa with their children, Whitney and Erica to spend the day. Also attending the dinner was Mrs. Miller's daughter Joy Dones and her son Brent, both of Lubbock.

2. What is your income for the planning period? This money may come from a job (include only take-home pay), life insurance benefits, pension payments, etc. If your income is irregular, consider making two estimates. Plan first on the basis of the low income figure and then consider how you would use additional income.

3. What are your "fixed" expenses? "Fixed" expenses include basic necessities and any regular monthly payments for which you are legally obligated. You will probably include items such as rent or mortgage payments, installment contract payments, basic expenditures for food and utilities and insurance premiums.

4. What amount remains for discretionary spending? Money left after step 3 can be used for additional expenditures for basic items, for other needs and for wants or for savings.

5. How does your spending compare with your Plan? This comparison helps you locate imbalance and make revisions.

Your financial record book could be a loose-leaf notebook or a record book from the variety store. If this is your first budget and expenditure record, you may want to set up a 3-month trial plan.

When you see how your plan works, you can revise it to cover a longer period.

Survey Classifies Types of Fathers

COLLEGE STATION — Recent studies put fathers into categories, says Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Fathers can usually be described as "expressive" leaders, detached providers, patriarchy, or autocrats," reports the specialist.

A San Diego County study looked into 1500 households and found that of the children studied, 75 percent lived with both natural parents; 15 percent with mother only; nine percent lived with the mother and a step-father; and one percent lived with the father only.

Expressive leaders are "warm and involved," say their families. These fathers enjoy interaction with their children and are concerned with family harmony. Their children have good attitudes and do well in school. The fathers tend to value both parents' and child's view point of view. Expressive leaders are not prevalent among step-fathers.

The detached father has little to do with his children, except during weekend outings or family vacations. This father usually has an upper-middle class occupation, good education, and income. He feels he is concerned about his children and their cultural and intellectual life. His children tend to do well in school.

The patriarchal father rules over his family with a strong moral and religious philosophy. His family is active in church and committed to the father's control over family matters. Patriarchs are most prevalent in large families. The children tend to do poorly in school and exhibit an anti-social behavior.

Finally, the autocratic father demands family achievement and organization. The children view their father as punitive, authoritative, and master of the house.

New Minimum Related to 1938

NEW YORK (AP) - In 1938 the minimum hourly wage was 25 cents. In 1978, because of legislation signed this week by President Carter, it will be $2.65 or 10 times the dollar amount of 40 years ago.

Now divide by four. The answer, in terms of purchasing power, is about where the minimum wage stands in relation to that 25 cents of 1938. Using a standard measurement, the 1957-1959 dollar, buying power was about $2 in 1938, less than 50 cents in 1977.

"The impact on our economy will be very beneficial," said Carter during a White House ceremony. "All that ever came" of earlier increases, he said, "is a little better way of life."

Carter said the newest increases, to $3.35 an hour by Jan. 1, 1981, will put $9 billion into the pockets of America's low-wage workers. He didn't mention inflation.

Neither, apparently, was much mention made of the critics who believe the minimum wage itself feeds inflation and thus in part defeats its goals.

The poor, who must spend all their money on necessities, are most hurt by inflation.

The minimum wage, aimed at redistributing more of the nation's income into the lowest income brackets, remains controversial, no matter how democratic its goal.

Among the defenses: it is required to help provide the unskilled with the necessities of life, it furthers the cause of more equitable income distribution, it strengthens democracy, it primes the economic pump.

While the goals are noble, one commonly misunderstood aspect of the situation is how the money is taken from workers by dollar erosion almost as fast as they get it.

Business expenses, that is, are simply passed on through as price increases. Some of the expenses might be absorbed if productivity rises, but history shows productivity doesn't rise by making unskilled labor more costly.

Instead, the greater the number of unskilled the less likely are productivity gains to be realized, an economic phenomenon demonstrated during every recent business cycle.

Productivity increases are a product of human skills and the wise use of capital and technology that lower production costs, allow goods to be sold for lower prices and still leave excesses to be distributed to workers and shareholders.

To raise productivity - call it efficiency - requires capital.

The capital expenditure to create one job varies from industry to industry. In chemicals it might be hundreds of thousands of dollars, in others only a small fraction of that. Some authorities say the average is $50,000-$75,000.

Therefore, says business, to create jobs we must have lower taxes. We must encourage savings. We must reduce inflation. And we must invest the ensuing benefits in a larger production plant.

"Almost everyone concedes that the problem with selling the story lies in the suspicions of rank-and-file Americans that fat cat industrialists are serving their own interests rather than those of the nation."

But the alternative, say supporters of this argument, is to give some people more of the pie without cutting into the piece that's supposed to go to their neighbor.

It can't be done, of course. It's an illusion, like inflated dollars. And those on the minimum wage know it better than anyone else.

New State Baptist President Asks for Racial Tension Ease

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A former missionary in Africa, the newly-elected president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, says better relations are needed with black and Mexican-American Baptist churches.

The appeal was made by the Rev. Dr. Milton Cunningham, pastor of the Westbury Baptist Church of Houston, who was elected by acclamation Wednesday during the annual convention of the Texas Baptists here.

Cunningham, whose church has several black and Mexican-American members, said his service in Africa gave him a greater sensitivity toward different races and he said one of his priorities would be promoting better relations between Baptist churches.

Messengers to the state convention also approved a record budget of $28 million, $2.5 million higher than last year's package.

In the convention sermon, Dr. Browning Ware, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Austin, said Texas Baptists are still falling short in dealing with members of other races.

"Our relationship with other races was marked by apathy until the 1954 Supreme Court decision," he said. "In response, we first resisted; then conformed and now rest on our modest laurels."

Ware said the Baptists, who have a new evangelistic program, "Bold Missions," never have been bold about evangelizing among blacks and Mexican-Americans.

"Will we wait until Texas elects a Mexican-American governor before becoming bold missionaries among those who elect him?" he asked.

Cunningham said the current "Bold Missions" evangelism program has challenged Southern Baptists more than any other such endeavor and that will be his highest priority as president.

Also on Wednesday, Edward Schmeltekopf, pastor of First Baptist Church in Burleson, was elected first vice president of the two million member group and Jimmie L. Heflin, pastor of First Baptist Church in Nederland, was chosen second vice president.

Evangelist Billy Graham told a Wednesday afternoon news conference at the convention that the United States is headed toward "forms of decadence," which could only be headed off by active Christians.

Graham also said he does not plan to monitor financial aspects of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association in Minneapolis, which has been accused of secretly operating its World Evangelism and Christian Education Fund.

Graham said the fund has never operated secretly, pointing out that a news conference, called several years ago to announce the fund, described its intent and purpose.

Judge Was Wrong Says Green Lawyer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The judge in Billy Ray Green's public lewdness trial erred in not asking the jury if Green knew the peep-show booth in which he allegedly committed an act of oral sex on another man was a public place, Green's lawyer argued Wednesday.

The law requires the state to prove the defendant knew the place was public, Bob Smith, former Travis County district attorney, told the Court of Criminal Appeals.

After the argument, Smith told a reporter there is no question that the trial judge misstated the law in his charge to the jury because a person obviously knows when he is committing a sexual act and that "knowingly" must apply to his awareness of whether the place where it is done is public or private.

Green, district attorney in Palestine, was convicted of performing the act in a curtained booth in Mr. Peep's Adult Bookstore last Jan. 18. He was fined $400 and given a one-year probation sentence.

Recently, an East Texas jury deadlocked in a disbarment suit brought against Green by the State Bar because of the public lewdness conviction.

"You can knowingly commit an act of deviant sexual intercourse all day and not commit an offense," Smith told the appeal court. The new penal code requires proof the act is knowingly performed in a public place or with reckless disregard for whether others are present who might be alarmed, he said.

Judge Truman Roberts asked Smith if he was saying a building might be a public place but that areas of it, such as a storeroom, might not be public.

Smith said yes. And he argued that the front section of the store was a public place but that the curtained peep-show booths in back were not.

Travis County Attorney Jim McMurtry argued that the entire store was a public place.

"There was no admission charge. No IDs were required. No membership. No doors except the front door. The curtains on the booths were to prevent light from entering, not people," McMurtry said. "Mr. Green himself stated he entered six of the booths and in two of them witnessed deviant acts." McMurtry asked for permission to file a supplemental brief in the case. The court granted permission.

SCHERR NAMED NEW YORK (AP) - Samuel Scherr has been named president of the American Crafts Council.

Barbara Rockefeller, chairman of the council's board of trustees, said Adele Greene and Robert Peterson had been named trustees of the council.

Carter Resists Effort To Lift $3,000 Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is resisting a congressional move to let persons over age 65 earn as much as they wish without losing some of their Social Security money.

Joseph A. Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Wednesday that only 1.3 million of the 22 million U.S. retirees would benefit from the proposal.

Califano's protest was prompted by a move in Congress to eliminate the $3,000 ceiling on wages that Americans over 65 can be paid without having their Social Security checks reduced.

He said the legislation would serve only "a privileged minority" while placing new burdens on working men and women.

Last week, the House passed a bill that would phase out the ceiling by 1982. The Senate began considering its version of the Social Security bill Wednesday.

The Senate Finance Committee proposed raising the ceiling to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979. But Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and other senators plan to offer an amendment to eliminate the ceiling by 1982.

In a letter attacking the amendment, Califano told senators it would "benefit most the wealthier citizens among our elderly."

Advocates of the change argue that it would reward elderly persons for their industry and help low-income retirees to keep pace with inflation.

They also contend that if more people over 65 worked, the additional taxes paid would more than offset the extra $3 billion a year that the Social Security Trust Fund would have to pay out in benefits if the current wage ceiling were eliminated.

The Social Security Administration says the 1.3 million retirees who would be affected include 800,000 persons whose benefits were reduced this year because they earned more than $3,000 and another half million who lost all benefits. Some 54 percent of the 1.3 million earned more than $10,000 and 17 percent earned more than $20,000.

There is no ceiling on earnings by persons 72 or older, who represent 11.3 million of the retirees. Persons between 65 and 72 lost $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 earned.

Savage Released After Jail Stint

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Elroy Savage, 28-year-old carpenter, is heading back to Amarillo after spending five months in jail for a crime he did not commit.

Savage says he bears no grudge "as long as I'm out, but I'm glad I finally did get out."

Savage was arrested after Leslie Stephens of Austin pleaded guilty last spring to taking part in a scheme to fraudulently cash a federal check for $196.50 at the City National Bank. Stephens said Savage was his accomplice.

However, according to Savage's lawyer, Ned Granger, when Stephens was placed again in the Travis County jail last month on another charge he saw Savage for the first time and saw he was not the accomplice. Stephens offered to testify for Savage.

The district attorney's office dismissed charges against Savage after a handwriting analysis showed he had not signed the forged check.

Granger said Savage became involved because he had lost his driver's license last February in Taylor. The license was used as identification by the man trying to cash the federal check and was left behind when the man fled when questioned.

Swordfish Abound Just off Florida

ALICE TOWN, Bimini (AP) - Ernest Hemingway wanted all his life to catch a swordfish. He never did. And now, biggame fishermen have discovered that the huge billfish was always here - at this fishing paradise only 50 miles from Miami.

Back in the 1930s, Hemingway would check his 39-thread line, 12-0 reels, heavy splitbamboo rods. Make sure there was a good stock of hard liquor aboard his 40-foot Pilar and sail from here into the Gulf Stream after the "big ones."

Tough to catch and even harder to boat, the swordfish offers a true challenge to all fishermen.

"I caught one a while back that went 210 pounds," said Bill Garcia, manager of the Bimini Big Game Fishing Club.

Swordfish went undiscovered here for so long because most of the big-game fishermen who come to this island are the affluent and the retired. They're up early in the morning, fish until about 4 p.m., exchange a few tales while sipping a refreshing beverage at dockside under the shade of some coconut trees and then it's early to bed for the next day's adventure.

Unlike hunting for other big-game fish here where you troll or bottom fish in depths of as much as 1,000 feet during the day, the swordfish is caught at night as you let your boat drift in the stream.

Garcia says the best bait is a medium to large squid with a tube filled with chemical-producing light tied above the bait. But, whatever your secret is to get that big one - the fish are here, abundant and in trophy and record size.

The island's first swordfish tournament is being planned.

Most who fish here will agree that costs are slightly higher than one's favorite fishing hole back home.

A 30-35 foot boat for four anglers runs about $250 per day. A small, powered, open skiff costs $60-$80 a day. And a fishing guide to accompany you if you have your own boat runs $25-$30 daily.

But as Garcia explains, where else can one leave the dock and 10 minutes later be trolling for a fish that may weigh up to 1,000 pounds.

APPLE APPEAL NEW YORK (AP) - For centuries apples have been associated with Halloween celebrations.

"Maybe it's because apples ripen at Halloween time, and were sacred to the early Druids," says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. "They also figured in the Roman equivalent of Halloween, a festival honoring Pomona, the goddess of fruits."

The Halloween game of bobbing for apples or biting at apples suspended by a string originated generations ago in Ireland, Scotland and parts of England, according to Miss Hopkins. Sometimes a riskier variation was played by fixing an apple and a lighted candle at opposite ends of a suspended stick. The stick was rotated and the object was to bite the apple without getting burned by the candle.

Califano Rips SS Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Joseph A. Califano Wednesday attacked a proposed amendment to eliminate the current $3,000 ceiling on how much retirees can earn annually and still draw full Social Security benefits.

He said such a step, which the House has already approved, would "impose additional taxes on working men and women to enhance the position of a privileged minority — 1.3 million of the nation's 22 million retirees."

More than half the new benefits would go to persons earning more than $10,000, the secretary of health, education and welfare said in a letter to members of the Senate.

Califano praised the Senate Finance Committee's version of the Social Security bill. But he said the Carter administration opposes the panel's proposed increase in the retirement wage ceiling to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979.

He said the administration backs the committee's plan to raise the wage base higher for employers than for employees, and noted that employers can deduct up to half of their Social Security payroll taxes as a business expense while employees "receive no comparable relief."

He also endorsed a proposal to give non-profit employers a tax credit on Social Security payroll taxes.

Califano made his comments as the Social Security legislation was sent to the full Senate by the Finance Committee.

Republicans challenged what they called the panel's "soak the businessman" approach in having employers pay the first time pay more into the Social Security system than their employees do.

I Had a Dream

I had a dream.

There was this elegant hotel—shiny new—settled into a picturesque, manicured landscape of trees and flowers and fountains.

Gracious lobby, exquisitely furnished. Deep chairs. Deep-pile carpets, custom-sculpted in colors to complement and to flatter.

The crystal chandeliers sparkled, illumined long corridors lined with reproduced master-works.

Each suite named for a President.

I had a dream...

That I awakened in one of those lavish and lovely suites. The designers had anticipated every need and every desire.

TV and lighting controls alongside the wide bed; huge, marble Roman bath with whirlpool. And can you imagine this? TV recessed in the bathroom ceiling!

I had a dream...

That I luxuriated in that bath, slept in that bed, awakened to find my bath towel electrically pre-warmed...

Then I strode the long hall toward the colorful, cheerfully appointed coffee shop off the lobby, seated myself at a perfectly pre-set table. But I was all alone.

Perusing the menu I contemplated the appetizing offerings and chose—and waited.

From the kitchen no bouquet, no sound. I was alone—almost.

A man was approaching from the lobby entrance. "I'm the manager," he said. "Can I get you some coffee?"

"No hurry," I said. "I can wait for the kitchen crew to arrive."

"I'm afraid," the manager said, "they won't be in until later and perhaps not at all today. They do miss some days."

"A bellman, perhaps, could help?" I suggested.

"We've had no bellman," he said, "no bellman for some time now."

I had a dream...

That with, at breakfast I made my way back to my rooms, packed for travel, returned to the lobby—lovely and spacious, such beautiful decor.

The lone manager is there to check me out and wish me well.

How will he continue to manage, I asked, to serve and to sweep and to tend the phone and everything?

He would do what he could, he said.

On my way out the morning newspaper was displayed in a locked machine. The headline said: "Unemployment, 6.9 percent."

That was no dream at all. It was real-life true. It actually happened precisely as I have described it—somewhere during my recent travels. And it was sad.

Somehow, I knew that before many more mornings visitors would approach handsome portals and, where the discreet sign now says "HELP WANTED," they'd be greeted by a locked door.

Beyond which, empty elegance—waited to be gutted by vandals.

Court Won't Let Man Sue Fort Worth

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Donald Pack cannot sue the City of Fort Worth for injuries sustained in its employment, the Texas Supreme Court said Wednesday, because he signed an agreement to substitute benefits in a retirement fund for his right to sue.

Pack was injured in a fall. The agreement says "it is expressly provided that no member of the Employees' Retirement Fund of the City of Fort Worth shall have the right to sue said city for total disability sustained in line of duty, as heretofore defined, and by virtue of becoming a member he or she accepts the benefits provided by the fund."

The high court said it decided the case on this point and further said it was not necessary to reach the question of whether the city's ordinance establishing the fund and the agreement form violates the state constitution.

The constitution says, "All courts shall be open, and every person for an injury done him, in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have a remedy by due process of law."

SANTA ROSA, Tex. (AP) — Residents of this impoverished Rio Grande Valley town have been advised to boil all their drinking water after state officials declared the water not fit to consume.

"The Department of Health people found some bacteria and algae in our water and it disturbed them quite a bit," said Santa Rosa Mayor Joe E. Cameron Wednesday. "Nobody here has ever gotten sick from the water but the bacteria they found could cause diarrhea."

Last week, Cameron fired off letters to local and national politicians — including Sen. Edward Kennedy — pleading for some federal funds to help Santa Rosa correct its "salty, stink-tasting" water.

"Our whole water system is 20 years old and like I've been telling the people, it's got to be fixed and we just don't have the money to do it," said the mayor.

"I don't see why the government can't help us. They throw millions of dollars down the tube every day for programs that don't help as many people as a new water plant would help us."

Santa Rosa has a population of 1,466 with a per capita income of $1,268, according to the latest census reports, said a city official, who added, "99 percent of the population is Hispanic and that's a conservative figure."

Cameron said men began working today at the town's water settling plant to "clean the thing up. This happens when you don't have the money to hire the people to take care of it."

"We have a firm coming over this afternoon to install a new chlorinator which will cost a bunch," he continued. "We'll have to take some of the money we were going to use to retire some city bonds and spend it on the water plant. The bond people will just have to wait."

Last month, the town was cited for 12 violations by the Texas State Department of Health Resources because of its water.

"The state will not approve another water well and the present one will not satisfy the state standards," a Santa Rosa city official said last week. "It's not like we're not trying to help ourselves but we just don't have the tax base to fund a new water plant. And water without sewage is like talking about an arm of a man — they go together."

Mayor Cameron said the city needs about $350,000 to rejuvenate its water system.

"I gave at the office"

Good for you! When you give to the United Way at the office, it's no cop-out. It's something to be proud of. It stands for something. And it makes a lot of sense. It's the best, and the most economical way to give. United Way means efficiency, accountability, and intelligent allocation of your money, too. When you give at the office, you're helping to ease people's pain and misery. In all its forms wherever it's found and no matter who it's found in. In one way or another, all 12 agencies of the United Way are set up to do just that.

United Way agencies operate to provide important health and social services to anyone who needs them. Help with problems of family stress and alcoholism. With children's needs and problems and disaster-related needs. The list goes on and on... 12 agencies worth. The help United Way agencies give is available to everyone, regardless of race, creed or color. Or income. Say proudly, "I gave at the office."

Parity Still Lowest Since 1933

Farm Prices Rise One Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm prices of grain, livestock and some other commodities rose last month, ending a four-month decline in the government's farm price index, at least temporarily.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that prices overall rose an average of 1 percent between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15. Even so, prices still averaged 1 percent below a year ago, officials said.

Farm expenses, meanwhile, held steady during the month but were up 5 percent from Oct. 15, 1976, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

Higher prices for oranges, cattle, lettuce, wheat and dry edible beans contributed most to the gain last month. But lower prices for soybeans, eggs and cotton partially offset the increases for other items.

The farm price index began declining with a 5 percent drop last June 15, followed by another 2 percent decline in July, 3 percent in August and 1 percent in September.

Officials said the parity ratio as of Oct. 15 was 64 percent, unchanged from the two previous months as revised. According to department records, 64 percent is the lowest for the indicator since it was 55 percent in March 1933, in the nation's worst economic depression.

Theoretically, at 100 percent the ratio indicates that farmers have the same purchasing power their forebears had in 1910-14 when costs and prices were said to be in step.

Beef cattle averaging $35.40 per hundred pounds were up from $34.80 on Sept. 15. Hogs dropped to $39.90 a hundred-weight from $40.20 in mid-September.

Wheat averaged $2.26 a bushel at the farm nationally, up from $2.17 on Sept. 15. Corn was $1.61, up 2 cents a bushel from a month earlier.

Officials said that vegetable prices at the farm rose 7 percent during the month, led by higher prices for lettuce, sweet corn and cabbage.

Fruit prices rose 26 percent including a sharp gain for oranges which averaged $5.26 a box, up from $3.08 in mid-September.

Dry edible beans, at $22.20 per one hundred pounds, were up from $13.80.

WIFE Group Will Elect Officers

Officers of the Hereford WIFE (Women Involved in Farm Economics) chapter will be elected Nov. 9 following an information meeting here Monday.

Vickie Watson and Linda Kemper of the Tulia chapter spoke to some 35 local farm wives on the organization during a meeting at the community center Monday morning, explaining that WIFE is functioning in nine states and has acquired a membership of 5,000 in ten months.

A nominating committee was organized and met today at the home of Mrs. Duane Cassels to select officer candidates.

A meeting to elect the officers will be conducted at the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Flame Room Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m.

A member from the Tulia chapter will also be on hand to address women attending this meeting.

During Monday's meeting, Mrs. Watson invited local women to attend the Tulia chapter's next meeting, which will be conducted Tuesday, Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Tulia Memorial Building.

Bob Close will speak on new amendments to the Texas Constitution and the Tulia ASCS office will present a program on the new farm bill and how it will affect farmers.

FB Resolutions Committee Meet Is Scheduled

WACO — The 41-member Texas Farm Bureau Resolutions Committee for 1977 will meet Nov. 7-9 at the Waco Convention Center to formulate tentative resolutions to be presented to voting delegates at the TFB convention Nov. 27-30 in Houston.

The first general session of the committee will be at 1 p.m. Monday, Nov. 7.

Comprised of three Farm Bureau leaders from each district, the chairman of the TFB Young Farmer and Rancher Advisory Committee, and the Committee chairman the group will be charged with sifting through hundreds of recommendations from county Farm Bureaus on state and national issues and developing tentative resolutions reflecting the consensus of thinking of the county recommendations.

TFB Vice President Henry Burton of Lufkin is chairman of the committee. TFB Director for District I Jack Osborne of Pampa is vice chairman, and T.L. Roberts of Wills Point, is secretary. TFB directors for odd-numbered districts serve on the committee this year.

Export Values Hit New High Despite Decline in Grain Income

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although the value of wheat and corn exports dropped sharply last fiscal year, larger sales of other commodities such as soybeans, cotton and meat helped boost the total value of U.S. farm exports to a record $24 billion.

The final figures, released by the Agriculture Department on Monday, showed the value of grain and feed products dropped 16 percent to less than $10.2 billion in the year which ended Sept. 30 from almost $12.2 billion in 1975-76.

But the decline was more than offset by a jump in the value of other categories. For example, the value of oilseeds, mainly soybeans, and their products rose 37 percent to more than $6.4 billion from about $4.7 billion in 1975-76.

Exports of livestock and livestock products - not counting dairy and poultry items - rose 19 percent to almost $2.2 billion last year from less than $1.85 billion in 1975-76.

Officials said that it was the first time export values of livestock products exceeded imports.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said in a statement that "the outlook is for a decline in value" of farm exports in the current fiscal year. Earlier, department experts said a 5 to 10 percent decline is possible in 1977-78.

Bergland said USDA "has taken several steps to sharpen its export effort" in the future, including a look at possibly increasing Food for Peace spending and new ways to offer export credit packages so that foreign countries can buy more U.S. farm products.

Bergland attributed the decline in last year's wheat exports to drops both in the quantity of grain shipped and in the prices paid for it. The lower feed grain value was blamed on lower prices.

Telephone Bill Example Of Farm Cost-Price Squeeze

WASHINGTON (AP) - The main reason farmers complain these days about their financial situation is that the things they buy cost more while the things they sell bring in less money.

Take monthly telephone bills and the price of wheat.

The Agriculture Department says that the average phone bill of farmers this year was $9.62 a month for local service, a 7 percent increase from $9 a month in 1976.

Meanwhile, according to the department's latest monthly price report issued Monday, wheat at the farm nationally on Oct. 15 brought farmers an average of $2.26 a bushel. A year ago, wheat was $2.59 a bushel.

Thus, as their telephone bills climbed 7 percent, wheat prices dropped almost 13 percent.

While the telephone, and wheat comparisons may not be precise economic indicators, they do illustrate what most farmers have experienced in a cost-price squeeze in recent years.

Going further back to Oct. 15, 1974, wheat averaged $4.98 a bushel at the farm nationally. That was a 14.9 percent increase from $4.22 a bushel a year earlier.

Farmers' telephone bills in 1974 averaged $7.16 a month, an 11 percent increase from 1973, according to department records. Wheat prices gained more than phone bills that year.

In 1975, however, wheat averaged $4.02 at the farm on Oct. 15, a decline of more than 17 percent from the $4.85 farmers got the year before. Phone bills in 1975 rose to $7.90 a month, a 10 percent increase.

Last year, wheat on Oct. 15 was $2.59 a bushel, a drop of more than 5 percent from the same date in 1975. Phone bills in 1976 averaged $9 a month, a gain of 14 percent from the previous year.

Thus, according to department figures, wheat prices as of Oct. 15, had dropped more than 53 percent from what they were three years ago.

Telephone bills in the same three years rose more than 34 percent.

Put another way, a farmer three years ago could pay his monthly telephone bill with about 1.5 bushels of wheat. Last month, it took almost 4.3 bushels.

Dairies Could Use Solar Heat

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says solar heating can be used efficiently by dairy farmers to heat milking parlors.

"Dairy farms require large amounts of fairly low-temperature heat, which solar energy systems are well suited to provide," the department's Agricultural Service says in a new pamphlet.

The report, issued Tuesday, says researchers have been encouraged by results during solar energy tests in the first year of a four-year project for looking at solar energy in dairy production.

For example:

"Solar heating can supply most of the hot water needed in milking parlors; that is, it can supply all the water for preparing the cows and about half the energy needed to heat the water to higher temperature for cleaning equipment.

"Solar energy can provide most of the heat required to warm the working area during cold weather.

"A solar energy heating system can be installed by a farmer using readily available materials for about $4,000, and the system should pay for itself in approximately five years and operate indefinitely."

Cutting Horse World Finals Now Underway in Amarillo

AMARILLO — With nearly $40,000 up for grabs, top cutting horses from across the country are in Amarillo to compete in the National Cutting Horse Association's (NCHA) World Championship Finals.

The dates are today through November 5 at the Tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Amarillo.

One hundred horses are expected to compete and each of their owners will be paying a $200 entry fee to enter. The Agri-Business Committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the event, is adding $20,000 to the contest, making it one of the richest cutting events in the history of the NCHA, according to Jim Reno, NCHA President.

Often described as "poetry in motion," cutting horses attempt to cut out a cow from a herd of cattle and keep the cow from returning to the herd. Quickness, agility and "cow sense" are needed by the horse to successfully compete in the fast-paced action.

Two divisions will be held at the Finals, the "open" division for any competitor and the "non-pro" division restricted to riders who do not train or show cutting horses for pay; other than premium money.

Two go-rounds will be held for each division with the top twelve advancing to the finals. Non-pro finals are scheduled for Friday, at 7:30 p.m. The open finals will be held at 7:30 Saturday evening.

A new system of judging the contestants, termed Olympic style, will be instituted at the show. Five judges, each working independently, will score each contestant between 60 and 80 points with 70 denoting an average score. The high and low scores will not be counted in the final computation of the score, said Zack Wood, NCHA Executive Secretary. "The Finals is the last cutting of the NCHA point year, and the 1977 World Champion Cutting Horse will be decided in Amarillo," Wood said.

We have been advised by the Texas Department of Health Resources that our water system failed to meet the microbiological maximum contaminant level of their Drinking Water Standards, as well as those of the Environmental Protection Agency-National Interim Primary Drinking Water Regulations.

Water samples analyzed by the State laboratory showed that the water from our system had failed the limits set by Federal and State Regulations for coliform bacteria. The limit is one coliform per 100 ml as the average of all routine monthly samples collected. The coliform organism is an indicator of contamination and is not harmful to itself.

It should be noted that only this one sample out of the 240 samples collected during the past year was found to contain coliform organisms. Two additional samples were collected at the same source within a weeks time and no coliform organisms were found. The bad sample was probably caused by improper sampling techniques. This notice is required by the Environmental Protection Agency.

City of Hereford Water Department 89-3c

Nos has avisado el Departamento de Recursos de Salud del Estado de Texas que nuestro sistema de agua no cumple con el nivel maximo de contaminacion microbiologica asegn las reglas estatales para Aguas Bebederas, lo mismo que las reglas nacionales de la Agencia de Proteccion Ambiental-Reglas Nacionales de Aguas Bebederas.

Las muestras analizadas por el Laboratorio Estatal enseno que nuestro sistema de agua no cumple con las reglas federales y estatales acerca de bacteria coliformo. El limite es un coliformo por cada 100 ml. como el promedio de las muestras que se juntan mensual. Los organismos de coliformo es uniranente una indicacion de contaminacion pero no es danoso.

Se debe notar que solo una muestra de 240 que se juntaron durante el ano se hallio que contenia organismos de coliformo. Dos muestras mas fueron encontradas en la misma parte durante una semana pero no hallaron organismos de coliformo. La muestra mal fue debido a manera impropia en sacar muestras.

FAKE ART

DETROIT (AP) - "Fake" may be a bad word to art museums and collectors, but it's going to put money in the till of the Detroit Institute of Arts. Capitalizing on the public's interest in spurious art, the Institute is planning a display of famous fakes as a fund-raising promotion. The Institute of Arts, which houses some of the finest examples of genuine art in the nation, will stage a one-night display Nov. 3 of fabulous phonies, with tickets for $12.50 and $25 entitling patrons to see Orson Welles' "F-For Fake," a movie about art forgery.

Spring-Flowering Bulbs Need to To Be Planted

COLLEGE STATION - Buy spring flowering bulbs now while nurseries and garden centers have a wide selection, suggests a landscape horticultural Extension Service.

"Selecting bulbs early will give you a wider choice of colors and flower types and will also improve your chances of successful plantings since bulbs will still be fresh," says Everett Janne. "Bulbs will dry out after a while and won't do as well. Also, planting them late will not give them time to develop a good root system before cold weather arrives."

The horticulturist suggests planting daffodils and crocus as soon as they become available.

However, for best results tulips and hyacinths should be chilled in a refrigerator from now until mid-December before planting.

"Pre-cooled bulbs are frequently advertised, but unless the bulbs are kept in cold storage, the normal temperature in most garden stores can negate the effect of the pre-cooled period," notes Janne. "Also, if tulips and hyacinth bulbs are planted before mid-December, warm soil temperatures can nullify the treatment. Without the chilling effect the performance and flower quality will be poor and the stems will be extremely short, often not coming above the soil."

For best results the horticulturist suggests locating the bulb bed in full sun in well-drained soil or in a raised bed. To prepare the bed for planting, till the soil a week or so before planting time and incorporate plenty of organic matter. Also add about two pounds of a complete fertilizer high in phosphorus per 100 square feet of bed.

"The most effective flower display can be obtained by massing a group of bulbs of one variety and color," points out Janne. "Plant bulbs about four inches apart and place the base of the bulb at a depth that is about three times the diameter of the bulb. Soak the bed thoroughly after planting and then wait for the spring magic."

In many areas of the state bulb beds can be over-planted with pansies for winter color until the bulbs begin to bloom. The flower stalks of the bulbs will push up above the pansies; then as the bulbs die back the pansies can take over the show until spring arrives.

Daffodils will reflower year after year, but tulips and hyacinths should be considered as annuals in the South and replanted each fall, adds Janne.

Hill Proposes Six Point Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Atty. Gen. John Hill, a candidate for governor, proposed a six-point plan Wednesday that he said could cut utility bills by at least 20 percent.

Hill spoke at Trinity University and toured the school's solar energy research project.

His proposals included: -Repealing the four percent state sales tax on utility bills and giving the cities the option of knocking off the one percent local tax.

-Making certain that state regulatory bodies "crack down cost" that might be used in figuring rates.

-Beefing up regulatory agencies and getting their workers into the field, auditing fuel costs.

-Reducing the 7 1/2 percent natural gas severance tax, and putting a flat rate on all gas, regardless of price.

-Getting serious about conservation.

-Considering "peak-load" pricing where people who use utilities when demand is lowest get lower rates and save money.

"My message today is simple," Hill said. "We can't bring back the good old days of really cheap utility bills. But we don't just have to suffer through the bad new days. With real leadership for a change, we can cut our utility bills."

FISH EXPORTS

Principal buyers were Spain, Italy, Israel, France, West Germany and Greece.
