Season's First Blizzard Rakes Midwest

By FREDERICK STANDISH
Associated Press Writer

A howling blizzard creeping across the upper Midwest has dumped up to 10 inches of snow, stranding hundreds of motorists and closing stores, industries and schools.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul area braced for high winds and up to three inches of snow by tonight, and travelers' warnings and snow predictions were posted in Minnesota, Iowa and northwest Wisconsin.

The National Weather Service said the blizzard - the worst on record for this time of year - was moving in a north-northeast direction at about 10 mph. The low pressure area fed by cold Canadian air has spun a cold front slicing the nation from Minnesota to Louisiana.

John Graf, meteorologist at the weather service office in Minneapolis, said "very critical" weather conditions would continue through today because of the "sluggish" system.

Blizzard warnings posted Wednesday remained in effect today in northwestern portions of the state. Snowfall had tapered off, but gusty winds blew drifts up to six feet deep.

Most of the storm's punch - with winds gusting to 65 mph - was absorbed Wednesday by western Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and the Dakotas.

The Minnesota National Guard set up emergency shelters Wednesday and looked for people stranded in the hardest-hit areas of the state.

Hotels and motels were crowded Wednesday night.

"We've got strangers... sharing rooms," said Roger Dohrmann, manager of the Costa-Way Hotel and Restaurant in Detroit Lakes, Minn.

A motel owner in Alexandria, Minn., reported turning away at least two dozen people. Guardsmen then turned an armory into a dormitory for weather refugees.

Gov. Robert Ray mobilized Iowa's National Guard to help pluck 150 to 200 people stranded along a 20-mile stretch of highway south of Sioux City. But before the guardsmen arrived, local residents organized a make-shift platoon of snow mobiles and four-wheel drive vehicles and began rescue work.

"We've got a genuine February blizzard in November," said Lyon County Sheriff Craig Vinson. Gusts whipped up to 65 mph.

In South Dakota, a convoy of four-wheel drive vehicles took four hours to crawl 38 blizzard-swept miles between Salem and Sioux Falls to take Daniel Thorne, 22, of St. Paul, Minn., to a hospital after his legs were crushed in a highway accident.

A South Dakota Highway Patrol trooper, who helped in the convoy, said, "When one of us got stuck, the others helped him out and that's the way we made it."

A school bus carrying the Grand Forks N.D. High School girls' basketball team to a game in Jamestown, about 120 miles to the southwest, was pulled from the shoulder of a road after it had been stalled for about two hours.

After the bus was returned to the snow-packed highway, Coach Pat Sullivan said, "It took us 6 1/2 hours to travel 78 miles."

Meanwhile, the cold front spun by the blizzard was being pushed across the Southeast, dropping temperatures in the region.

By tonight, temperatures were to drop into the 20s in north Georgia. Gusty northerly winds also were in the forecast.

Elsewhere in the nation, precipitation was forecast for the Northeast and the Northwest. In higher elevations, some snow was forecast.

Freeze warnings were posted in Kansas and Missouri. Highs today were to reach the 40s with lows tonight in the 20s.

In the Northeast, New Jersey residents began returning to homes they evacuated earlier this week because of floods. But more rain was expected late today for the area.

Light snow was expected in southern Maine and the higher mountains of New England.

Three inches of heavy, wet snow fell on Spokane, Wash., early Wednesday. Officials said traffic on mountain roads was slowed by the snow, which began melting later in the day.

Clear skies opened over most of the Southwest today, after the region was pelted by snow, tornadoes and heavy rains. Seventeen inches of snow fell at Red River's Powder Puff ski area in New Mexico.

THE TRADITIONAL Veteran's Day will be observed by financial institutions and county governmental offices here Friday, Nov. 11. Most federal agencies took a three-day Veteran's Day holiday in October. The banks and savings and loan institutions will be closed Friday, so banking business should be taken care of today. Drive-in windows at both banks will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. today.

AS WAS PREDICTED, less than 25 percent of Deaf Smith County's voters went to the polls here Tuesday to help elect a new state senator and vote on seven amendments to the state constitution. The big surprise, to us, came when voters put Bob Price in the run-off with Bob Simpson.

Both Republican candidates--Price and Jim Brandon--ran strong races. Brandon ran a close second in Deaf Smith County and finished third in the overall balloting. Was it a name identification and popularity factor, a backlash from the performance of a Georgia peanut farmer, or do more Republicans go to the polls when the turnout is low? (Or, none of the above?)

The votes were fairly well distributed here. Simpson got 25 percent, Brandon 24 percent, Price 22 percent, Mel Phillips 19 percent, and Burk Whittenburg 10 percent. If you view the vote totals on party lines, The Demo candidates got 54 percent here and the GOP candidates gained 46 percent.

More than 100 Die in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The casualty toll from Israel's air attack on southwest Lebanon mounted today to more than 100 dead and 150 wounded, most of them civilians, and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said "we regret it very deeply."

But Begin, who summoned U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis to his Jerusalem office to express regrets for civilian deaths in the cross-border reprisal raid Wednesday, told reporters, "we do not apologize for the operation itself."

Lebanese and Palestinian searchers dug deeper into the rubble left by the raiding Israeli warplanes as the Lebanese government announced the death toll had passed the 100 mark.

The governor's office in Sidon, the provincial capital of South Lebanon, also reported 150 wounded in the bombing and strafing of villages and Palestinian refugee camps in southwest Lebanon.

Officials said at least 80 percent of the casualties were civilians and most of them were Lebanese.

The Lebanese government charged that the attack was "over aggression" and said it would bring it to the attention of the U.N. Security Council.

The Syrian government radio accused the Israelis of a "deliberate attempt to further obstruct American peacemaking efforts in the Middle East."

Despite Israel's claim that its air force attacked only Palestinian military targets, foreign correspondents who toured devastated villages and a refugee camp found no evidence of guerrilla positions.

"Why have they killed our innocent babies? The wrath of God on the cursed Israeli pilots!" said a Palestinian woman weeping for nine dead children in the infirmary at the Burj el Shimali refugee camp.

Foreign reporters visited the camp and the ruins of nearby Azzieh, six miles north of the border. They found all 30 houses in the village had been demolished, and 50 huts in the camp had been destroyed.

One resident of the camp, Aly Yacoub, said the toll would have been much worse had the planes come 15 minutes earlier, before people left for work.

The nearby village of Hanieh also was completely destroyed. Survivors said bodies were still buried in the rubble.

Bomb craters 10 yards wide pocked the area, over which survivors said at least a dozen Israeli planes made repeated runs.

"The gates of hell opened and it was as if the fire started to pour down on this place," said 16-year-old Jebel Shebli. "It seemed to be raining fire."

"After a while nothing was left. It was suddenly very quiet, and people started coming out of shelters looking for their relatives and children in the ruins."

The Israeli military command said the raid, the first admitted by Israel in nearly two years, was ordered because the Palestinians in the Tyre area of southwest Lebanon fired at least 18 rockets over a period of four hours Tuesday into the Israeli coastal town of Nahariya.

Only one Israeli, a 35-year-old mother of two children, was reported killed by the rockets Tuesday. But Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, the Israeli chief of staff, said the four-hour span of the attack and

Banks, County Close Friday

Postal service, including mail delivery, will proceed as usual on Friday, but Hereford's banks, savings and loan associations and Deaf Smith County offices will be closed in observance of Veteran's Day.

The closed businesses and county offices will open their doors again on Monday.

The drive-up windows at both Hereford State Bank and First National Bank will be open from 4-6 p.m. today to compensate for the holiday.

City offices and schools in Hereford will not close Friday.

Warm Temps Return To Panhandle

Warmth has returned to the Texas Panhandle today after a cold front gave the Hereford area its first snowfall of the season and dropped morning low temperatures below the 30-degree mark.

High temperatures today were expected to be in the mid to upper 50's, compared to highs Wednesday in the low 40's.

Hereford managed only 40 degrees Wednesday after getting its first snow of the season Tuesday evening when cold weather blanketed the Panhandle.

The cold front, today in the eastern part of the United States, dropped temperatures drastically Tuesday afternoon after Hereford had recorded a high of 59.

Lows this morning in the aftermath of the front included 24 in Amarillo, 27 in Lubbock, 28 in Plainview, 20 in Pampa, Borger and Bushland, 21 in Perryton and 23 in Clovis, N.M. Hereford hit a low of 21 at 6:20 a.m. today, according to KPAN radio and the National Weather Service.

Up to four inches of snow fell in some parts of Amarillo Tuesday, although snow accumulations were light over most of the area.

Low temperatures Friday are expected to be in the upper 20's, with highs to be in the low 60's.

According to the National Weather Service in Amarillo, the area is expected to have above normal temperatures with highs in the upper 60's and lower 70's Saturday through Monday.

Lows should be the middle and upper 30's.

Johnson To Get Farmer Degree

Hereford FFA advisor Bob Ward and Jerry Johnson, a Hereford High School graduate, are in Kansas City, Mo. today for the National FFA Convention.

Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson of the Dawn community, will receive vocational agriculture's highest degree, the coveted American Farmer Degree during ceremonies tomorrow.

Johnson will receive the degree during a breakfast co-sponsored by the Federal Land Bank Association.

Johnson is a 1976 graduate of Hereford High School and a former president of the HHS FFA chapter.

He is presently attending West Texas State University, where he is an agriculture major.

Carter Calls Program 'Slow'

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter said today the nation's unemployment rate has leveled off at 7 percent and that he does not think his economic stimulus program can begin to have a substantial impact before next year.

"It's a tedious, slow process," the president told a nationally broadcast news conference.

Carter said the "general worldwide economic slowdown" is causing unemployment problems in all nations, a situation he said he hopes will improve next year.

Carter noted that the economic stimulus package passed by Congress early this year contains $21 billion for programs designed to reduce joblessness. He said the full amount would not be pumped into the economy until next June.

Carter also said he expects to endorse within a few days a modified version of full employment legislation that has been an issue since the 1976 presidential campaign.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., sets a goal of an adult unemployment rate no higher than 4 percent within five years and would have the government provide jobs for people who couldn't find them otherwise. Carter said he agrees with the concept and his staff is negotiating changes in the details of the legislation.

On the Middle East, Carter expressed concern about "this new outburst of violence" on the Israel-Lebanon border, but he said he is not condemning Israel for what he described as retaliation for terrorist attacks.

"If the provocation was absent, the retaliation would have been unnecessary," he said, then adding that "the bloodshed, in my opinion, will not be stopped until the nations are willing to negotiate."

Carter said that he does not view the misdemeanor conviction of former CIA

Director Richard Helms as a "badge of honor." After Helms had pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge that he failed to testify fully before a Senate committee about CIA activities in Chile, his lawyer described the conviction as an honor. Helms has contended he was upholding his oath to protect CIA secrets.

Carter said the administration's goals in settling the Helms case through plea bargaining were to uphold the law, to uphold the veracity of those who hold high government positions and to protect the security of the nation.

He said those goals were met.

But he said of the Helms conviction: (See CARTER, Page 2)

Clayton Asks House To Consider Pooling

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton asked a House committee Thursday to consider pooling of local government funds, along with general money management.

The committee was drawn from members of the House Appropriations, the Financial Institutions, the Ways and Means and Intergovernmental Affairs committees.

"The study is to include a review of the management of cash balances held outside the state treasury by other state agencies and the possibility of consolidating these funds," Clayton said.

"I also am asking the committee to examine the feasibility of establishment of pooling arrangement for funds of local governments in Texas and assess the relative advantages and disadvantages of providing technical assistance to local governments regarding cash management."

Education Board Question Textbook

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Several members of the State Board of Education challenged a publisher's representative today to show whether his textbook on free enterprise really espoused free enterprise.

"Free enterprise in America," published by Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich, was the most heavily protested work as the board went into the final phase of a $30 million textbook adoption.

The book was recommended by the board's textbook committee.

Norma Gabler of Longview, a longtime textbook critic, singled it out as the only volume she protested out of the 87 submitted to the board by the committee and the state education commissioner for final adoption.

Mayors To Attend City-Problem Seminar

NEW YORK (AP) — Eighteen newly elected mayors, including Ed Koch of New York City, have decided to go to college to learn about the problems of running a city.

They will attend a five-day session at Harvard University Nov. 17-21 to hear lectures by Harvard faculty members and urban affairs experts, the U.S. Conference of Mayors announced.

Wednesday

The mayors' group, which is sponsoring the seminar, said topics will include how to form transition teams, financial management, economic development, citizen participation and labor relations.

Although other seminars have been held for mayors, this will be the first one specifically geared toward mayors-elect or recently elected mayors.

Surprise Witness Tells About Gun

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A surprise witness in the murder trial of Cullen Davis says Stan Farr was secretly dating her and carrying a pistol the week before he was slain.

"He said he needed it because people were after him," Kimberly Lewis, 19, testified Wednesday.

The slender, former college student calmly told the jury she and Farr would rendezvous several times a week during the months Farr was living with the defendant's estranged wife Priscilla.

She said Farr referred to Mrs. Davis as his "investment."

Farr, 30, was killed and Mrs. Davis, 36, wounded in the Aug. 2, 1976 shooting at the $6 million Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

"In fact, our spa is known as the hard-working spa," commented Deborah Szekely Mazzanti, 56, whose 87 staff members serve only 30 men and women guests. Fundamental to the entire operation is the exercise program, she said.

recently on a trip to New York, defending the six or so hours that may be devoted to exercise each day.

"The body needs as much movement as it needed thousands of years ago when our ancestors lived outdoors and had to search for food, and the replacement of food is every bit as important as the expenditure of energy. We show people how to eat properly as well as exercise," she said.

Because she didn't "need another guest at the spa" in Escondido, Calif., Mrs. Mazzanti decided to share her knowledge of the spa in a book, "Secrets of the Golden Door." She and her first husband had founded the first spa in Mexico 37 years ago. It is still thriving.

A mind-body approach begins the day at the spa, she explained.

"They wiggle in bed to greet the body consciously before the alarm goes off — sort of, 'hello, good morning, how are you?' Then they take the body out of bed because it has been lying without movement for so many hours. Everybody should have two minutes available to raise arms and stretch nude in front of a mirror and see their own reflection as they settle into their body for the day," she says.

Exercise — outdoors, in the water, dancing, hiking and so on — is part of a personal activity chart that is prepared each day for a guest.

A typical day might begin at 7 a.m. with a guest taking a three-mile hike. At 8 o'clock she might be having coffee and juice, ready for five more hours of exercise interspersed with a lunch of salad and souffle, beauty massage, yoga. A Japanese, family-style tub bath and massage round out the day.

Exercises at the spa are put on cassettes and choreographed to music so that guests can continue at home. Each guest talks up her own tape. For example, "Raise your arms, Deborah. C'mon now, higher," and so on, as Mrs. Mazzanti illustrated with her own tape which she had with her.

Theorist Challenges Concept of Greek Democracy

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A French Marxist philosopher has touched off a controversy by attacking the classic conception of ancient Greece as the cradle of democracy.

Roger Garaudy, who contends the historical accounts of ancient Greece's triumphs were a "European imperialist invention," first made his comments while in Greece to attend a socialist symposium. His views were then serialized in an Athens newspaper and critically taken up in a new interview by another paper.

"The democracy of Pericles, which was based on the raw exploitation of 400,000 slaves, to me does not differ greatly from today's South Africa," Garaudy said in the interview with Apevmatini.

The newspaper angrily concluded: "So the history of ancient Greece is being turned into a myth. We are lucky they still allow us Sophocles and Euripides. Our progressive friends seem to prefer Greece without any history. Just sunshine, sea, wine and bouzouki music."

Garaudy described Herodotus, the ancient Greek historian, as a bought-off writer.

"Herodotus is someone whose testimony I don't pay too much attention to. He loved money and wrote much when paid well," Garaudy said.

Garaudy, a former member of the French Communist party, did accept, however, that apart from the alleged slaves there was genuine democracy among the rest of the population in the 5th-century B.C. "Golden Age of Pericles."

Greek historians, however, refuse to describe as slaves those who, for example, pulled the enormous marble pillars that built the Acropolis monuments and which stand today as a symbol of the roots of Western civilization. They are described as workers who ate and lived with their superiors.

Greek President Constantine Tsatsos, considered one of the country's most prominent men of letters, in a recent article indirectly replying to Garaudy, attacked such criticism of ancient Greece. He described Marxism-Leninism as "the latest stage of romanticism" and appealed for an international "return to the spirit of Acropolis." He said that era witnessed the most successful balance of all political and cultural trends, peaceably reflected in its art.

Tsatsos has written the prologue to French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's book on democracy.

Garaudy also doubted historic accounts of the 490 B.C. Battle of Marathon and 480 B.C. naval battle of Salamis. In both cases history has it that the far-out-numbered Greeks managed to heavily defeat the invading Persians.

Such events have been held sacred in Western teaching as symbolic of the spirit of democracy and civilization against force and barbarism. Garaudy said the example had been inversely taken to justify Western European imperialism and "protective intervention" in other areas.

Garaudy added that only a minority of ancient Greeks could claim the virtues credited to the era.

At the Battle of Marathon, 30,000 Persians were routed by 10,000 Greeks when their expected support from the sympathizers of a local Greek dictator did not materialize.

Garaudy finally found it acceptable to describe the ancient king and military campaigner Alexander the Great (356-323 B.C.) only as "Mr. Alexander" and said the Chinese civilization of that same time was far worthier of glorification.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN—High level state officials are continuing to express their objections in strongest terms to President Carter's energy program.

While Gov. Dolph Briscoe was lobbying with a House-Senate conference committee in Washington, D.C., for additional production incentives, the Texas Energy Advisory Council unanimously urged the conferees to ditch key presidential proposals.

Briscoe, indignant at White House cancellation of a conference with governors on production matters, charged there is no way the Carter program can meet its goals.

The state council, made up of major Texas officials, meanwhile, advised killing a crude oil equalization tax as a burden on Texas consumers, the economy and state governmental ability to levy the taxes necessary to finance services.

Other features of the resolution included recommendations to reject the House proposal to tax business and utility users of oil and natural gas, adopt the Senate version of natural gas pricing and assign priority in natural gas supply and pricing preferences to gas used for irrigation pumping and crop drying.

The council further went on record for a White House conference to discuss with the president how to achieve his coal production goals consistent with national environmental objectives. And members urged research into agricultural products as possible alternative sources of energy.

Appointments

Gov. Briscoe made two major appointments back-to-back October 28.

He named Steven C. Oaks, 39, Houston attorney, as secretary of state succeeding Mark White who resigned to run for attorney general.

Immediately afterward, he announced the selection of former State Rep. John Poerner of Hondo to succeed Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon who resigned effective December 31. Poerner will take over January 1 and serve until the next general election.

Another major appointment announced recently was that of Harvey D. Davis of Temple as executive director of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Bob Bain, Fort Worth Star-Telegram capitol bureau chief for the last seven years, joined Briscoe's staff November 4 as press secretary. Charles D. "Chick" Morris, who has held the position since April 1976, became director of public information for the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

Hearings Set

Texas Air Control Board held 24 hearings this month to determine what citizens want to do about new requirements in the Federal Clean Air Act.

New amendments will "affect the daily lives of every Texan because of the sweeping changes required in the state's air pollution control program," TACB Executive Director Bill Stewart said.

Hearings were conducted in Waco, Wichita Falls, Bryan, Abilene, Beaumont, Lake Jackson, Dallas, El Paso, San Antonio, Harlingen, Austin, Houston, Tyler, Odessa, Corpus Christi, Longview, Laredo, Texas City, Fort Worth and Victoria during the first week of November.

Other hearings were set for Denison and Texarkana November 10, Lubbock November 14 and Amarillo November 15.

Courts Speak

Negligence of a pathologist who ordered radiation treatment for a man mistakenly diagnosed as lung cancer victim cannot be the basis of a suit against a hospital when the doctor was not an officer or employee there, the Supreme Court held.

In other action, the high court affirmed rulings awarding $80,000 and a $586 a month pension to heirs of a telephone company executive, T. O. Gravitt, who committed suicide.

The Supreme Court also turned down the suit of a suspended Potter County attorney seeking reinstatement following allegations he had taken county property and misapplied funds.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the attempted murder conviction of a Shelby County man based on a faulty indictment.

Attorney General Opinions

A newspaper used for legal notices must meet the requirements of Article 28a of civil statutes, including entry as second class postal matter in the county of publication, Atty. Gen. John L. Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Legislation permitting incorporation of an area with at least 8,000 residents located within the extraterritorial jurisdiction of another municipality is not unconstitutional as a local or special law.

A bill which abolishes the civil, criminal, juvenile and probate jurisdiction of the Reeves County Court is constitutional.

Short Snorts

The State Board of Education will approve the final list of textbooks for adoption at its Saturday (November 12) meeting following a public hearing by the board's committee of the whole Thursday.

The tenth job matching fair to help the unemployed find jobs is scheduled November 19 in Cisco.

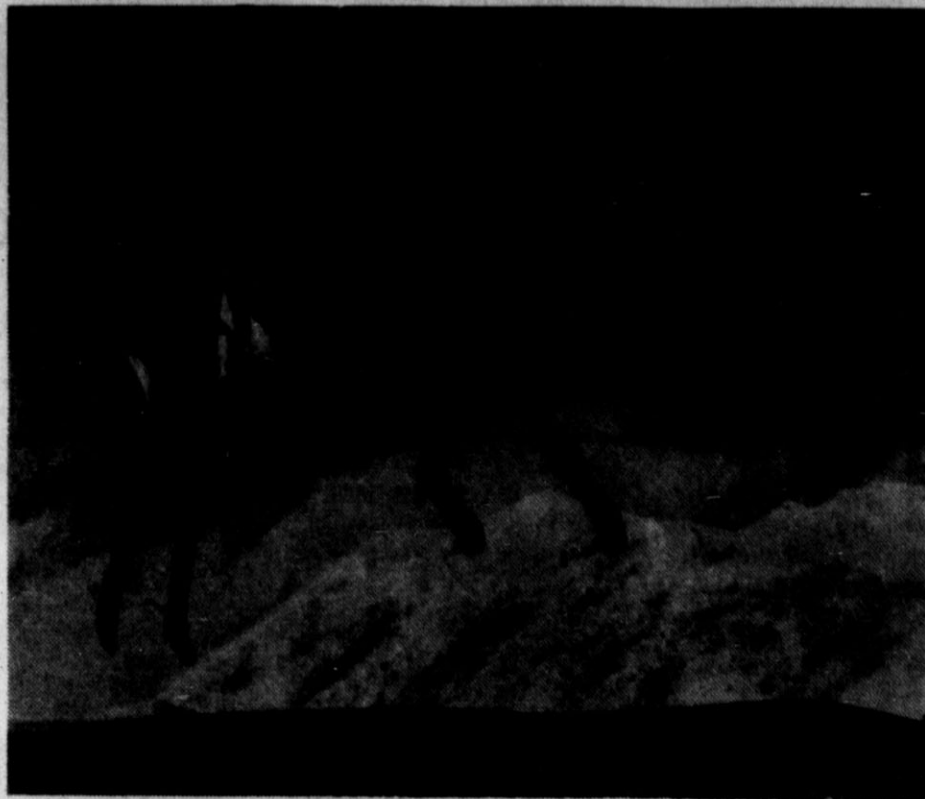

Brooks, Cameron, Hidalgo, Jim Wells, Maverick, Starr, Webb, Willacy and Val Verde counties were designated disaster areas due to economic injury from peso devaluation.

FTC Says Consumers Misled by Advertising

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission, saying consumers are being misled by misleading claims, is beginning a drive against deceptive advertising of home insulation.

"There are about three million people who have bought insulation since January," said one FTC source. "A lot of those people have bought lousy - sometimes even unsafe - insulation."

The program includes warnings to between 200 and 300 manufacturers and suppliers that they could be subject to civil suits and fines of up to $10,000 a day if engaged in such advertising.

"We expect most people to voluntarily change their conduct," said one FTC lawyer. But he said the commission is prepared to subpoena records and initiate civil suits if violations persist.

The commission also is expected to approve within a few weeks a new trade rule which, for the first time, would require the disclosure of substantiated "R-value" ratings both in advertising and packaging. With time allowed for necessary hearings and comments, the rule could be put into effect in about a year, an FTC spokesman said.

The R-value is the measure of insulation's ability to prevent heat from escaping. Many manufacturers have voluntarily placed the ratings on packaging.

But the FTC says some R-values are highly exaggerated while others are based on Laboratory test conditions instead of normal use. Claims of energy savings, the FTC says, must be "ordinarily attainable" in the area where the advertising is disseminated.

Since last April, when President Carter proposed a tax break for homeowners installing insulation, demand has skyrocketed and major producers have been hard pressed to keep pace.

At the same time, scores of new, small companies have entered the market, particularly in the production of cellulose insulation where the initial investment is relatively low.

Three major manufacturers of fiberglass insulation testified before Congress last week that a shortage of insulation was expected for another three years and that all suppliers are using allocation systems because they are unable to meet demands.

Patrick Kelly of the FTC's consumer protection bureau said those kinds of market conditions make the industry a target for marketing and advertising abuses.

The major evidences of abuse, he said, involve exaggerated R-values. But some producers also are not giving adequate warning of possible safety hazards, such as the highly flammable nature of cellulose products not treated with special fire retardants.

"We know enough that we think that there are major problems. The market conditions are right, and we see the evidence," said another FTC official.

FTC officials have declined to say how large a budget will be devoted to the drive. The officials also declined to name any companies as violators, saying only that the investigation is industry-wide.

1,000 Pensacolans Escape from Ammonia

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - At least 1,000 people were evacuated from their homes after deadly ammonia gas seeping from a train derailment killed a doctor and critically injured his wife and two children.

The evacuation was ordered Wednesday night as the poisonous gas spread through neighborhoods here and into Santa Rosa County two miles across Escambia Bay. Twenty other persons were treated at three hospitals.

The evacuees were taken to the Bayview Community Center, the Army Reserve Armory and the Ferry Pass United Methodist Church.

Dr. John Thorshow, 38, a pathologist at West Florida Hospital, died after the gas swept over his home, about 40 yards from the tracks.

Reported in critical condition were his wife, Lloyd, 38; their daughter, Daisy, 4, and son, Gangee, 16 months.

The Thorshovs had moved to the Pensacola area in September. A "Sold" sign was still nailed to a tree in the unsodded front yard, where the body of the family's calico cat lay.

A few yards away, firefighters poured water on hissing gas escaping from a ruptured 33,000-gallon Louisville - Nashville tank car. Two other tank cars developed smaller leaks after the derailment of 25 cars. Eight cars carried ammonia.

Most of the injured were released after treatment, but Tim Strebel, 14, was hospitalized after he broke his leg trying to help his grandparents escape the toxic gas cloud.

Angry city and county officials refused to allow the railroad to move the derailed cars until federal investigators arrived.

"It verges on criminal negligence for federal agencies and other concerned people in the railway administration not to respond to this," snapped County Administrator Joe Mooney, who said another L&N train had spilled ammonia in downtown Pensacola about three weeks ago. "I don't know what it takes to get their attention."

City Councilman John Fren-

kel called for a ban on rail traffic through the area until the L&N proves its tracks are safe. There are several large chemical plants in the Pensacola area, and chemical shipments are common.

"Unfortunately, nothing really happens until someone is killed," Frankel said.

Police Arrest Mexican Group

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) - Four persons allegedly belonging to the 23rd of September Communist guerrilla group were killed by police in three separate gun battles, officers said today.

A spokesman for the Juarez Police Department said the first firefight erupted Tuesday in a residential neighborhood when three persons fired on a patrol car carrying two officers.

Police returned the fire, killing a woman, Isela Quinones Arvizu, 28, officers said. They said 23rd of September literature was found on her body.

The two other persons involved in the attack fled, police said.

The second incident occurred Wednesday morning when about 30 officers, acting on a telephone tip, raided a house believed to be a guerrilla stronghold.

The officers were met with gunfire, and several persons fled as they approached, the spokesman said.

Police said Marina Alejandra Herrera Flores, about 28, and Carlos Dorado Lopez, about 33, were shot to death. Police said Miss Herrera Flores was shot as she emerged from the house with a two-year-old child in her arms.

The spokesman said he didn't know whether the woman was armed when she was shot.

Police said the child was being cared for by authorities while its identity and relatives are being sought.

Police said 5,000 copies of the guerrilla group's newsletter were found in the house.

The third incident occurred late Wednesday when police raided another house.

Police said they were again met by gunfire, and that several persons managed to escape.

Officers said a gun battle ensued and that Salvador Vazquez Teran, whose age was uncertain, was shot and killed. Police said they found a .45-caliber pistol on Teran, and that a quantity of guerrilla literature was seized.

The spokesman did not say how police knew about the house.

The 23rd of September Communist League takes its name from the date of an attack on a military barracks in the state of Chihuahua more than 10 years ago.

Trade Act Provides 250,000 with Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. stunned Ohio's Mahoning Valley with a September announcement closing its steel mill and laying off 5,000 workers, the Labor Department quickly made special help available to the workers.

The Youngstown workers joined 250,000 other American workers nationwide who have been declared eligible for cash and other assistance under the Trade Act of 1974 because they lost their jobs as a result of competition from increased imports.

Among them are workers who made shoes in Massachusetts, automobiles in Detroit, bras and girdles in New York, aircraft engines in California, tennis rackets in Missouri and netted shrimp off the Texas Gulf Coast.

Edward Soda, a Lackawanna, N.Y., steelworker laid off in 1975, is one of them. He says the money kept his family off welfare.

The federal program is called "trade adjustment assistance." Workers call it "burial insurance," but are happy to get it.

For workers displaced by imports, the money, when combined with state unemployment checks, give most of them 70 percent of their former wages for as long as 52 weeks.

"Without the money, I think I would have lost my house," says Soda, a 37-year-old father of four with 18 years' seniority in Bethlehem Steel Corp. mills. He was rehired in 1976 and worked several months before being laid off again last summer.

The Labor Department is considering trade adjustment assistance for the Lackawanna workers but Soda apparently hasn't worked long enough at his new job to qualify for federal assistance a second time.

He says his family may have no choice but accept food stamps and other welfare payments once his unemployment insurance runs out.

Trade adjustment assistance is one of the government's fastest growing programs, having paid out $286 million to workers since the current program began in April 1975. The total is rising as more petitions for aid are filed and approved almost daily.

Among industries with large numbers of workers receiving this type of financial assistance through Sept. 30, the leaders are transportation equipment large autos, with 63,454 employees; primary metals-steel, copper, 57,353; apparel, 34,787; electrical equipment, 28,957; leather shoes, 24,191; and fabricated metals, 22,641.

Organized labor generally has supported the program because of the financial help it offers workers, but says the program shouldn't be considered as the answer to the nation's growing trade problem. The unions have joined with business in demanding import quotas and other protectionist legislation to curb alleged unfair foreign competition.

Trade Adjustment assistance has been around in a moribund way since 1962, but it has only sprung to life since the benefits were enlarged and the requirements softened as a result of the 1974 Trade Act.

In the 13 years of the old law, 40,000 workers received benefits totaling $80 million. In the 30 months of the new program, 840 petitions covering 255,608 workers had been certified for assistance payments. Another 1,009 petitions involving 312,148 workers were denied.

The Labor Department has a backlog of more than 450 petitions covering thousands more workers, and officials say the pace is accelerating.

"We don't know exactly why," says Marvin Fooks, who directs the program. He explains that part of the reason is because of rising imports, but "it could be that more people are becoming aware of the program and are filing for benefits."

An American teacher of Hebrew in a Minneapolis school replaced earlier this year by an Israeli immigrant wrote the Labor Department asking if he was entitled to benefits. He wasn't.

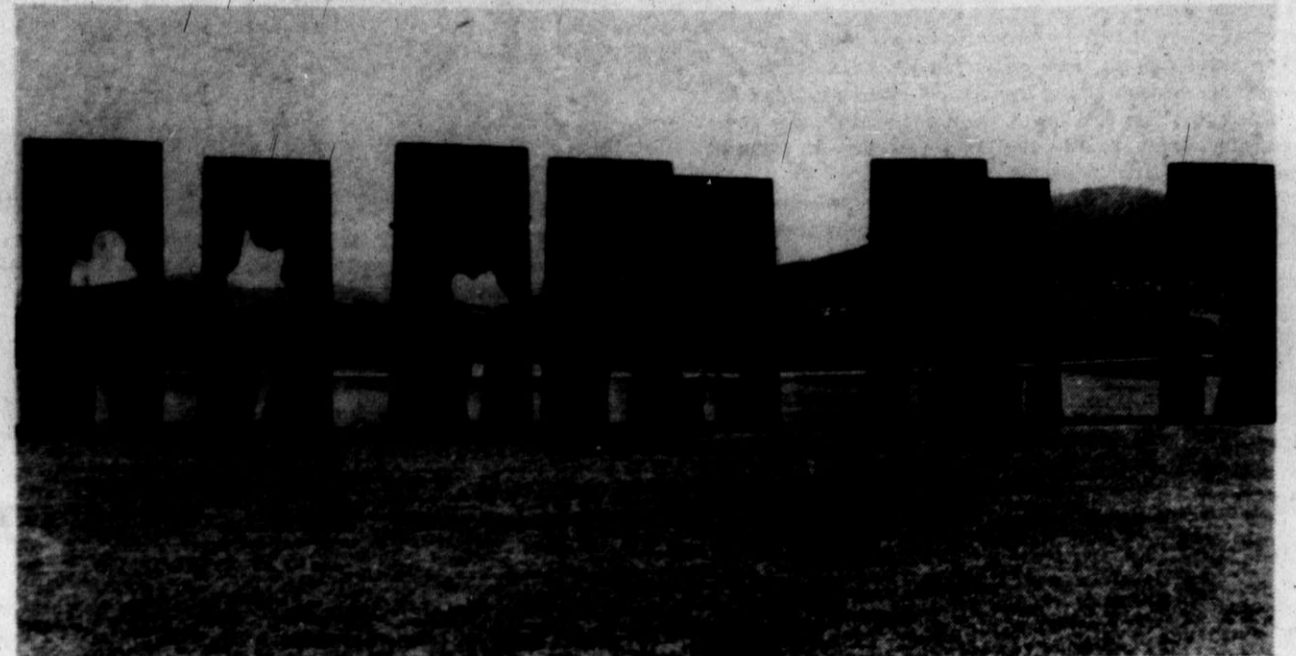

The same question was raised by schoolteachers, bus drivers and an automobile dealer in White Pine, Mich., after the government approved trade adjustment benefits for the town's miners who lost their jobs because of rising copper imports. The teachers and others in the town weren't eligible because the law requires that workers show that increasing imports were a direct cause of their layoffs.

President Carter and Congress are considering proposals that would liberalize the program to take into account the large numbers of service jobs - such as the teachers and bus drivers in White Pine - or those involving the production of component parts that are lost when imports of autos, steel, clothing and other finished products pose problems for American industries.

Among the proposals are ones to reduce interest rates on loans to companies hurt by imports, increase retraining allowances for workers, ease eligibility standards for communities and provide technical assistance in such areas as marketing and styling products to help make them more competitive with foreign goods.

Payments under the current trade adjustment assistance program amount to 70 percent of a workers former weekly wage, but not more than the national average weekly manufacturing wage of $208. The amount paid by the states in weekly unemployment insurance is deducted from the total.

The law also provides for retraining, job-search and even relocation expenses, but the Labor Department said only a relative handful of the 255,000 workers certified for benefits have taken advantage of these aspects of the program. Critics of the program say that job training and placement is often ineffective and, in many states, is seldom made available.

Swallowed Objects Removed From Stomach With Magnets

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A potholder magnet inserted in the end of a rubber tube is an ideal instrument for the removal of bobby pins, needles or nails from the stomach, according to two local radiologists.

Drs. George M. Himadi and Gary L. Fischer of North Carolina Memorial Hospital suggest that this easily assembled device can be used for the removal of elongated foreign bodies frequently swallowed by children. And the technique often makes surgery unnecessary, the radiologists say.

The physicians recently used the magnet taken from a common kitchen potholder to remove a bobby pin from a child's stomach. The tube was passed through the child's mouth into the stomach where rapid contact was made with the foreign body under fluoroscopic control. The pin was removed easily within two minutes.

Although they have never tried it, the radiologists feel the same tube and magnet could be effective for removal of objects from the windpipe or bronchi.

Liquid Protein Book Author Claims Treatment Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The doctor whose book popularized the liquid protein "last chance" diet says his method is still the only effective treatment for obesity, despite government claims that it played a part in the deaths of 10 women.

Dr. Robert Linn, the 43-year-old osteopath whose diet book has sold two million copies, said Wednesday he agrees with the Food and Drug Administration that people who embark on his diet should be watched closely by physicians for potentially dangerous complications.

But he said the health risks of obesity outweigh the dangers of the so-called "protein-sparing fast" if it is properly monitored.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy told a news conference Wednesday that government health authorities have "every reason to believe that the liquid protein diet was at least a contributing factor or a cause" in the sudden heart attack deaths of 10 women under age 45.

"We expect to find others," he said. "We only have what we're afraid may be the tip of the iceberg."

Kennedy urged weight-conscious consumers not to go on the liquid protein diet without close supervision by a doctor skilled in its use.

And those now on it, he said, should "get themselves into the hands of a physician" who can spot signs of danger.

Kennedy said warning labels will soon be required on liquid protein bottles. If evidence against the substance continues to mount, he said, "We will use every regulatory tool at hand to get it off the market."

After the news conference, Linn said in a statement issued by his office that he has had no deaths in his own practice, "and further, I understand that when using this obesity treatment properly, several hundred doctors treating several thousand patients have had no deaths."

He also maintained that no other effective treatments exist for the clinically obese, which he called a serious medical problem for one out of every four Americans and "a major risk factor in a number of life-threatening diseases."

He said the FDA's public warning should have a positive benefit, saying the main problem appears to be "with patients monitored minimally by physicians."

Kennedy said, however, that even medical supervision doesn't guarantee the diet is safe. The commissioner said all 10 of those who died after months of modified fasting were under a doctor's supervision.

"Fad diets for weight reduction come and go," the commissioner said. "Most are safe enough for use for short periods by the general public. But the liquid predigested protein diet has real potential dangers."

Drs. George L. Blackburn of Harvard Medical School and Theodore B. Van Itallie of Columbia University, who participated in the news conference as FDA consultants, said the radical diet should be used only to treat the "morbidly obese," people whose excess weight may cause or complicate other serious medical problems.

Slopes of Hawaiian Volcano Being Tested as Vineyard

HONOLULU (AP) — The slopes of the world's largest dormant volcano are the site of a vineyard that could produce one of Hawaii's first inroads into the table grape and wine market.

The slopes of Mt. Haleakala, meaning "house of the sun," have been good so far to Emil Tedeschi and C. Pardee Erdman, who have finished one season of small-scale test marketing of table grapes from the island of Maui.

"The stores kept calling in for more," said Erdman, a Princeton graduate who owns the 22,000-acre Ulupalakua Ranch where the vineyard stands.

As for wine, it will take four to five years of production and aging before it's ready for sale. The winemakers predict the product will be first-class.

"We're after quality, not mass production, because our acreage is limited," said Tedeschi, a native of the wine country of Napa Valley, Calif., and president of his Tedeschi Vineyards, Inc.

Adds Erdman, "We're trying to make the best wine we possibly can. We're not trying to produce a world-renowned wine."

For the past three years, the businessmen have studied 140 grape varieties on seven acres of the volcano slope.

The vineyard is expected to expand ten acres per year for the next three or four years, said Erdman, who supplied the working capital as well as the land for the project.

Target year for full commercial production of the wine is 1982, and Erdman believes the local market will be ready.

"People in Hawaii are becoming more accustomed to wine and are developing a palate. For a few cents more, they'll find our wine is well worth it," he said.

From the local market and restaurant trade, the winemakers hope to expand wine sales to tourists and mainland United States outlets.

While the wine is aging in century-old, stone milk-house the bills keep piling up.

Auerbach Plans Some Surprises for Team

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

"If any of you guys don't feel like playing, you can pack your bags and get the hell out."

That was the gist of the message delivered by Boston Celtics president and General Manager Red Auerbach to his club in a closed-door meeting following Boston's 129-114 loss to the San Antonio Spurs Wednesday night, according to one of the players who sat through the tongue-lashing.

The loss, the Celtics' eighth in nine starts, ties them with New Jersey for the worst record in the National Basketball Association.

Coach Tommy Heinsohn, who huddled with Auerbach after the game, is ready to shake things up.

"I think you are going to see some surprises," Heinsohn said. "We've got to start making some major changes."

One move could involve more playing time for top draft choice Cornbread Maxwell at forward, where Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks have been inconsistent.

But according to Celtics center Dave Cowens, it's all a matter of intensity.

"We've got to start going on a suicide mission," he said. "We've got to get mad, start intimidating and playing harder. It was just embarrassing to be out on the court tonight."

San Antonio led 87-80 going into the final period, then buried the Celtics with a 42-point quarter.

In other NBA games, the Buffalo Braves beat the New York Knicks 124-113, the Philadelphia 76ers trounced the New Jersey Nets 130-107, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Houston Rockets 127-107, the Denver Nuggets edged the New Orleans Jazz 115-112 and the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Indiana Pacers 132-129.

Braves 124, Knicks 113
Buffalo erased a five-point halftime deficit behind reserves Bill Willoughby and Jim McDaniels, who combined for 15 points in the second half.

Willoughby, playing only his fourth game of the season, hit three baskets in the last three minutes of the third quarter as the Braves went on a 12-6 spurt to go in front. Then McDaniels, a backup center averaging 14 minutes a game and shooting 22 percent, scored five straight points at the start of the fourth quarter and sank all three of his shots.

Billy Knight led Buffalo with 30 points, 23 of them in the first half. Forward John Shumate added 26 and held former Brave Bob McAdoo to 18 points for the Knicks.

76ers 130, Nets 107
Philadelphia remained unbeaten under new Coach Billy Cunningham, winning its third in a row as Julius Erving scored 19 points and Darryl Dawkins 16. The Nets' George Johnson led all scorers with 20 points, but 14 of them were in the first quarter.

The Sixers took the lead for good midway through the second period and built it to as much as 27 points in the fourth quarter.

"Philadelphia was awesome," said Nets Coach Kevin Loughery. "We did not want to get into a running game with them. We wanted to slow down the tempo, but just could not manage it."

Pistons 127, Rockets 107
Chris Ford, who lost his starting job to Ralph Simpson, ending a string of 152 consecutive starts for the Detroit guard, came off the bench to score six points and spark a second period burst that carried the Pistons from a 35-32 deficit to a 51-43 lead. The Rockets never caught up.

"The pay is the same for me whether or not I start," said Ford.

Before 1967, geldings were not eligible to run in the Belmont Stakes.

Bowling Limelights

Anna Stindt rolled to 91 pins over her average to win Star of the Week laurels in the Earlybirds league this week. Mickey Bronniman, meanwhile, continued to head individual performances with the high game of 191 and the high series with a 508 (Tied by Judy Mitts).

Bronniman just clipped Denise Kelly (190) for the single-game honor, while Mitts was third with a 186. Mitts led both categories in handicap action, however. She had a 219 game and a 607 series to lead the way.

Earning splits this week were Paula Eubanks, 5-10; Debbie Holmes, 4-9; Sharon Edwards, 5-6; Nancy Carlisle, 3-10; Linda Edelman, 5-8-10; Betty Hughes, 7-9; Beverly Durham, 6-7-10; Ellen Morgan, 2-7; and Martha Bridges, 4-7-8-10.

B&R Welding holds an eight-game margin in the team standings this week with a 46-10 record. Gilliland-Watson is second at 38-18, while Grain Handling and Walco International are tied for third at 30-26.

Bobby Weaver and Alice Lueb hogged game and series honors in mens' and womens' play respectively. Weaver rolled a 226 high game enroute to the top mens' series of 596, while Lueb had the womens' tops with a 199 and 537 respectively.

National Life Insurance and Hereford Glass both swept to four team victories to lead them play.

Troy's Sweet Shop is the league leader this week with a 28-8 record, ahead of runner-up Hereford Janitor Supply's 22-14 mark. Hereford Glass is third at 21-15, with Vance Hall fourth at 20½-15½. Stevens Welding and The Service Co. are next with 20-16 records each.

Harris, Hamilton Get Mixed Honors

Lora Harris and Roger Hamilton were named star bowlers in the Thursday night mixed league this week. Harris improved her average two pins, while Hamilton rolled a 620 handicap series.

Former Herd Star Honored

Veterans Johnny Gann and Wayne Schumacher have been named offensive and defensive fighting Texans of the week by Tarleton Texan head coach Buddy Fornes.

Gann, a 6-1, 185 senior quarterback from Gatesville, completed 15 out of 27 passes for a total gain of 272 yards and three touchdowns against Sul Ross last Saturday.

That upped the veteran's average from 39 to 42 percent for the season and gave him a total seven game passing gain of 903 yards for the season. Schumacher, a 6-1, 195 senior linebacker from Hereford, was instrumental in holding the Lobos to only 46 yards rushing for the afternoon. He was credited with six tackles and one assist for his efforts.

Both men will be honorary team captains this week and will be honored with a plaque at the Stephenville Optimist Club noon luncheon meeting on Wednesday.

Simpson Surgery Goes Well

BUFFALO (AP) — Star running back O.J. Simpson's first-ever bout with a surgeon's knife went well, the Buffalo Bills said Wednesday.

Simpson underwent surgery for cartilage damage to his left knee, the first time the famed 31-year-old runner has needed surgery.

Dr. Joseph Godfrey, the team physician who performed the operation, said it was "a straightforward cartilage operation with no ligament involved."

Simpson, 31, is expected to be hospitalized for about a week and to be on crutches for about 10 days after that, said a Bills spokesman.

Trophy Shoot Planned

The Hereford Gun Club will conduct a turkey shoot Sunday at the club range, located just east of the Hereford Municipal Airport.

Entry fee will be $2.50 for a five shot round of trap and winners will be awarded turkeys, hams and beef certificates.

Competition will get underway at the club range at 2 p.m. according to Nancee McClendon, club president.

Quarterback Matt Cavanaugh of the University of Pittsburgh is a dean's list student in liberal arts.

BAYLOR

WACO, Texas (AP) — Sophomore Greg Wood, who led Baylor to its only points in a 35-9 drubbing by Arkansas last week, will start for the Bears against Rice on Saturday, says Bears Coach Grant Teaff.

Wood will replace freshman Scott Smith. Teaff said he made the change because Wood had a "fine week of practice" and made a good showing against the Razorbacks.

Teaff said the switch "is not a reflection on Scott's performance, but we have a policy of whoever looks the best in practice will start."

Running back David Seaborn is still doubtful for the Rice game because of rib injuries suffered against Arkansas, while Steve Brothers was moved to the secondary to replace Scooter Reed.

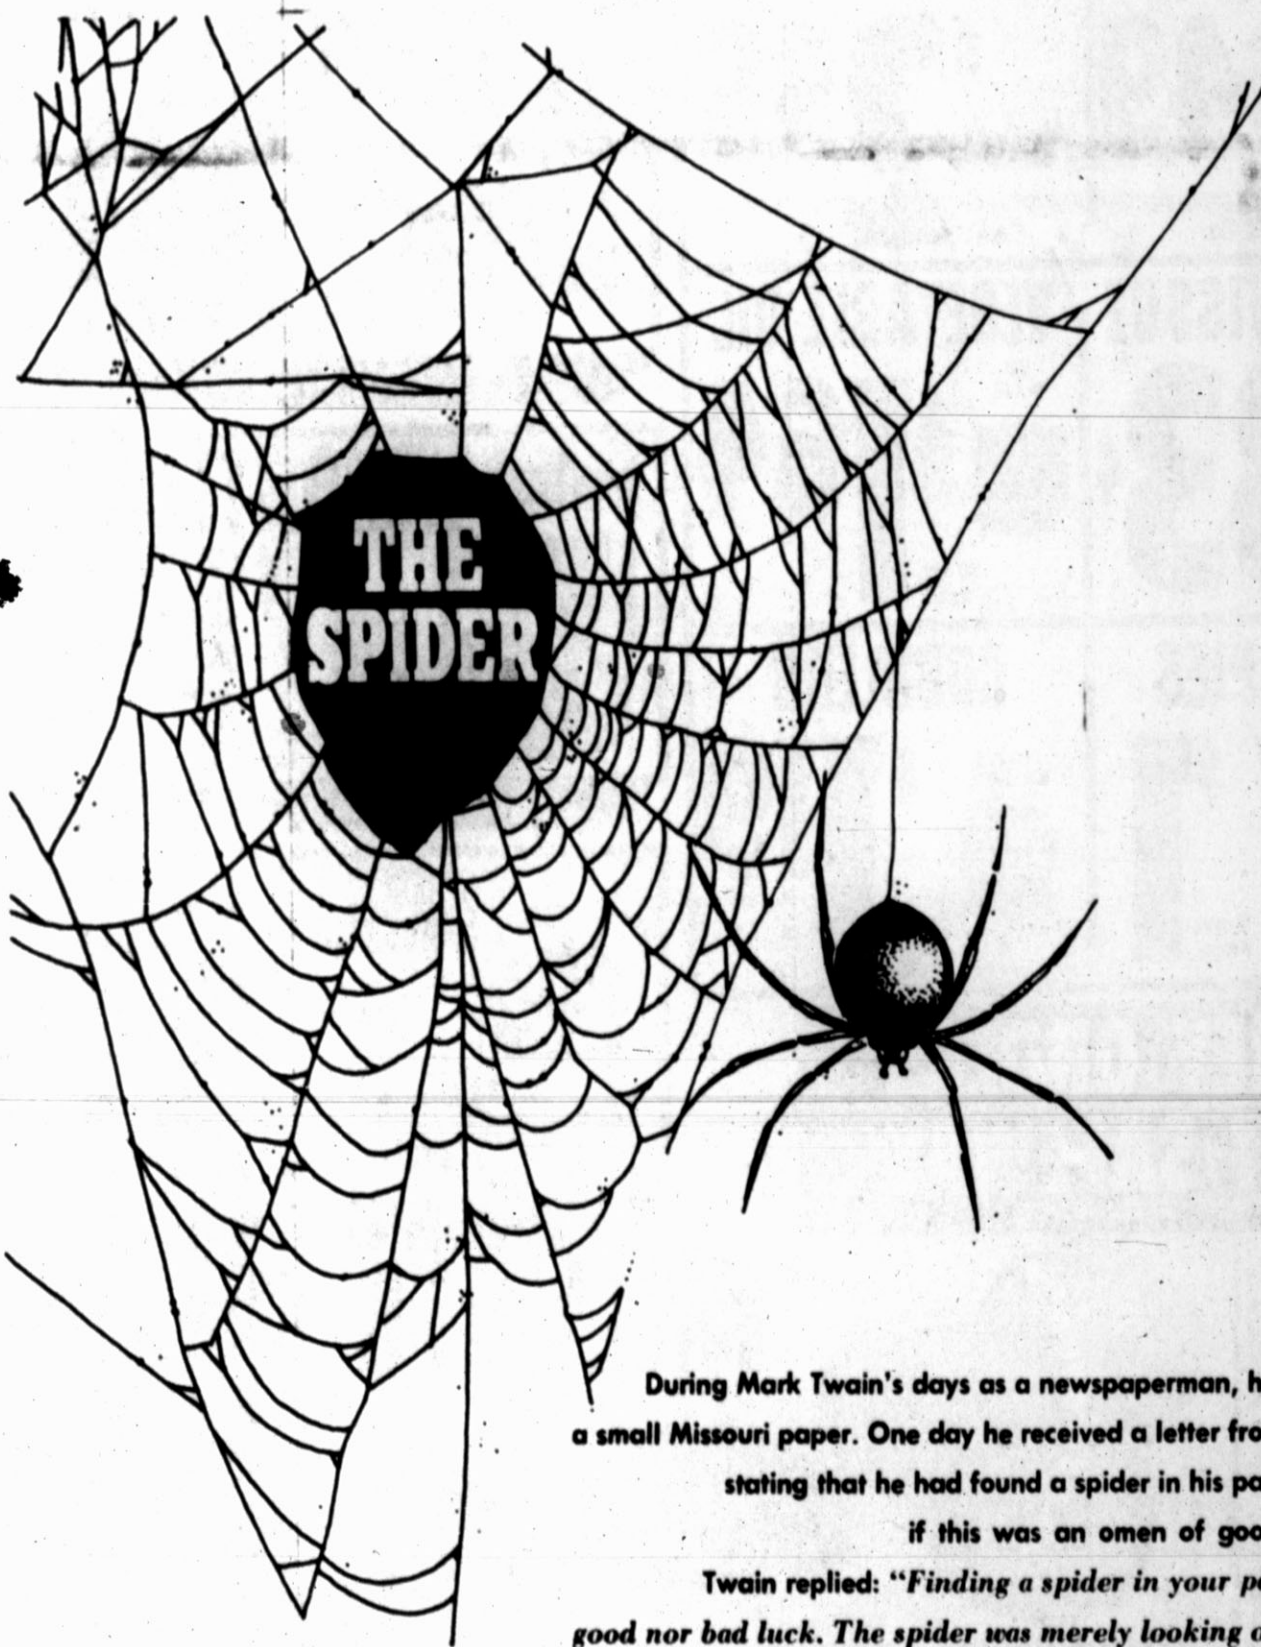

TCU

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defensive tackle John Ferguson may miss Saturday's Southwest Conference game against No. 1-ranked Texas because of a bruised shoulder, says Texas Christian Coach F.A. Dry.

Meanwhile, Dry said Wednesday that injured offensive guards Frank Hartman and Jim Blackwelder have returned to practice and will probably play against the Longhorns.

Blackwelder and Hartman started against Houston two weeks ago, but missed last Saturday's game against Texas Tech.

What it comes down to tonight when the Hereford Whitefaces travel to Lubbock to close out the season against District 4-4A champion Monterey is one team playing for the proverbial "pride" of knocking off the champ, and one team trying its best not to look ahead to the playoffs.

The Plainsmen have done what most of the experts said they would do this season by winning the league championship, and they will trek to Amarillo November 18 to meet the Tascosa Rebels in the bi-district playoffs.

Hereford, on the other hand, has sagged to a 3-6 mark after beginning the season with successive wins over Pampa and Palo Duro, and lost the chance to make the final encounter mean something when Lubbock High stole a 21-17 come-from-behind victory over the Herd two weeks ago.

The Plainsmen own a sparkling 21-1 record over the past two seasons with a trip to the state semi-finals included, while the Whitefaces own a 6-13 mark over the last two campaigns.

Still, as all football fans know, past records can mean nothing when two teams meet the gridiron.

The season-ending battle for the Herd could be one of the most exciting offensive shows a HHS team has played in several seasons, for on the field will be the top two offensive teams in District 4-4A. The Plainsmen hold the top spot with 2,569 yards in nine games, while the Herd is but a notch back with 2,274 yards.

Defense is where the two teams are miles apart, however. Monterey has been the stingiest team in the loop, allowing only 1,845 yards to nine foes, while the Herd has given up 2,612 markers to rank fifth and last in the district in that category.

Individually the spotlight will be on Hereford junior Paul Bell and Monterey senior Ron Reeves. Bell leads the district in rushing with 1178 yards on 234 totes, and Reeves, last year's most valuable player in the loop, leads the pack this year in scoring with 102 points, passing with 743 yards, and total offense with 1516 yards.

Bell ranks second in scoring behind Reeves with 66 points. Reeves' counterpart at the signal-calling position, Kelly Kitchens, has 284 yards rushing, and ranks just behind Reeves in passing yards with 599 markers while completing 45 of 112 attempts. (Reeves owns a 45 of 122 mark).

The Plainsmen and Whitefaces have a handful of the league's top receivers also with Hereford tight-end Greg Brockman the current leader with 18 catches for 241 yards. Eric Voyles leads Monterey receivers with 15 snags and 279 yards.

Kitchens also aims at split-end Robert Graves and wingback Chris Hill when going to the air. Graves and Hill both have nine catches to their credit with Graves ahead in yards 159-115. Chuck Perry, six catches-129 yards, ranks behind Voyles for MHS.

The Plainsmen will be using the game as a warmup for their bi-district matchup against Tascosa at Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium a week from tomorrow.

The Plainsmen were far from a powerhouse in the playoffs last year, beating Amarillo High 7-3, El Paso Coronado 10-8, and Arlington Sam Houston 7-3 before falling to Temple 35-0.

The Rebels will not be easy, either. It's been nine years since Tascosa earned a shot at the playoffs. The District 3-4A champs went 9-1 this year and are coming off a 33-14 shellacking of favored Amarillo High in their loop showdown.

Louisville Clips Czech Cage Team

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Rick Wilson scored 25 points to lead the University of Louisville Cardinals in a 96-to-82 exhibition basketball romp over a visiting Czechoslovakian national team.

Cardinal Coach Denny Crum said, "The whole game was ragged," but all five Louisville starters were in double figures Wednesday night and the Czechs led only once, 12-10 with 14:33 to go in the first period.

Louisville raced to a 30-16 lead with 9:57 left in the period and expanded it to 56-34 at the half.

Sophomore Darrell Griffith added 21 points for Louisville. "I thought Griffith was the best player," said Czech Coach Jan Kolae. "He's very fast. Good jumper."

The Czechs were led by Kamil Brabemec with 23 points and Pavel Bojanovski with 17. The Czechs, 2-2-1 in their tour of the United States, played without Jirka Pospisil, who was injured. "He has a cast on his right arm," said Kolae.

Louisville, which opens its season Nov. 30 at Providence College, shot a sizzling 57.1 percent from the field, hitting 44 of 77 shots and outrebounding the Czechs 35-34. The Czechs shot 52.3 percent from the field, hitting 34 of 65 field goal attempts.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It now appears that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Jabbor Los Angeles Lakers will return to action exactly one month after being injured in the team's National Basketball Association season-opener.

Abdul-Jabbar had the cast removed from his right hand Wednesday and he will probably be able to play Nov. 18, the team announced.

BYU Quarterbacks Show Similarities

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -

Brigham Young quarterback Marc Wilson is so much like his injured predecessor Gifford Nielsen that listing differences between them amounts to hairsplitting.

Both have started four games this season for 13th-ranked BYU. Both are 6-foot-5 and 195, adept at other sports, devout Mormons, married to former cheerleaders, good students and want to play pro football.

Statistically it's more of the same. Before he was lost for the season with a knee injury, Nielsen led the nation in passing, completing 98 of 156 passes for 1,167 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Wilson has hit 92 of 156 passes for 1,515 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Last week against Utah, Wilson passed for five touchdowns and a National Collegiate Athletic Association single-game record of 571 yards.

That earned him The Associated Press Back of the Week honors for the second time this season. The first was in his initial start when he threw seven touchdown passes against Colorado State. Nielsen won the honor once.

"They are the kind of kids; the old cliché goes, you would like to take home and have as your own son," said BYU Coach LaVell Edwards.

But there are differences between Nielsen, a senior from Provo, Utah, and Wilson, a sophomore from Seattle, Wash. A paragon of accuracy, Nielsen threw only three interceptions this year. Wilson has dished up 12, six in a long afternoon against Wyoming.

"Marc is a little quicker and stronger than Gifford," Edwards said. "I think Marc has a little stronger arm, but obviously he doesn't have the experience Gifford has."

Edwards said Wilson is the softer-spoken of the two. "He has worked on his confidence and leadership, and probably has had to work on them more than Gifford, who seems to have them as innate qualities," Wilson agrees.

"In a year or so, maybe I can

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

The other night as my husband and I readied for bed, he said, "Are all the cars in?"
"The VW is spending the night at a friend's house," I said.
"The Pinto had a bad night and is getting a tune-up, and the gas guzzler is cranking for an emissions test."
"What time does the van want to get rolling in the morning?"
"Early, he's meeting the jeep at the garage."
I turned to him. "When did we start speaking automotive fluently?"
He thought for a moment. "That's all we talk about anymore, isn't it?"
I nodded. "What's happened to the American family? Our daughter never says hello anymore. All she ever says is, 'My transmission sounds funny.'"
"When was the last time our son ever sat down and discussed anything except his loose tailpipe?"
"Our entire life revolves around insurance rates, repairs, payments, estimates and oil change. We never say anything meaningful anymore."
"All our friends do it...at least the ones with teenagers. Do you realize we spent the entire weekend discussing battery warranties and special insurance discounts?"
"Yeah, incidentally, we would look into the company that offers a discount if a kid is kind to his mother and doesn't bite his nails!"
"There you go again," I said. "I'm sick of being just another pretty Mustang. I want this family to have some identity again."
Just then our son stopped by the bedroom. "Can someone give me a ride to the service station tomorrow? I need a tune-up."
"You look thin," I observed.
"Speaking of weight, Dad, what oil should I use?"
"Talk to me, son, I'm your mother. What have you been doing lately?"
"I cleaned up spark plugs, retuned my tires, and I think I've met the motor I want to spend the rest of my life with."
Our daughter joined us. "Aren't you going to speak to your sister?" I asked irritably.
"You're idling a little ragged."
She looked at him suspiciously. "What do you want? You only talk nice to me when you want something."

Ann Landers Troubled Teen

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is the way most of the teenagers in the country feel. Not just me. Please print it, Ann, and let your teen readers check themselves out. I know I am right.

I'm sick of this house.
I'm sick of this town.
I'm sick of being under my parents' thumb.
I'm sick of being treated like a baby.
I'm sick of being lonely even though I have lots of friends.
I'm sick of this lump in my throat that's been there a long time.
I'm sick of almost running away from home but losing courage at the last minute.
I'm sick of the authorities who don't know the wonders of pot but keep screaming about how harmful it is.
I'm sick of not being able to cry.
I'm sick of needing to be somebody and knowing I never will.
I'm sick of wanting revenge against people who have hurt me.

I'm sick of wondering if I'm really insane. — A 16-Year-Old Girl

DEAR 16: You ARE sick and I hope you get some help soon. Many teenagers resent being under their parents' thumbs and being treated like babies. Some are lonely and don't like the town they live in — or even the house. But when you talk about that lump in your throat, the wonders of pot, not being able to cry, and questioning your sanity — these are danger signals.

See your school guidance counselor or check the Yellow Pages for the mental health facilities in your city. You need help.

DEAR ANN: I was recently told I have a debt to pay and I'd like to do it through your column. I feel that many wives, like myself, owe a similar vote of thanks.

Thank you, "Other Woman," for making my marriage and family life possible. Because of you, my husband makes very few emotional or sexual demands on me. He treats me well, is a good husband and he's there when I need him. He also provides me with all the necessities of life and many luxuries.

Neither dignity nor pride could give me the comfort I get from referring to him as "my husband." You sooth and comfort him and he comes home relaxed and smiling. — Smug, But Grateful

DEAR SMUG: If you're content with such duplicity it's all right with me. Sounds like your husband has a pretty cozy setup.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I realize you took an oath—"no more letters about how to hang the toilet paper"—but please print one more.

The manager of the Minneapolis Athletic Club must be a faithful reader of your column. Recently I noticed that he thoughtfully installed double racks for toilet tissue — one roll is set up so the paper unwinds upward and over. The other roll comes down next to the wall. I guess he wants no more complaints. — Also A Morning-sider

DEAR MORNINGSIDER: What a nifty compromise! Thanks for letting me know what's happening in one of my favorite cities.

Fall Foliage Brightens East Texas

COLLEGE STATION — Colorful autumn leaves are a handiwork of Mother Nature — they result from chemical changes that take place as trees prepare for winter.

"The key to colorful autumn leaves is the chlorophyll that uses light energy in a process called photosynthesis," points out Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "In this process the chlorophyll is busy combining carbon dioxide, water and energy to manufacture sugar and give off oxygen. As the growth processes slow down and the tree prepares for winter dormancy, the chlorophyll is no longer needed so it breaks down and loses its green color. This reveals the undergarment of gold, red or other colors that have been hidden by the green all summer."

Gold and red colors are due to yellow, orange or red pigments called carotenoids that assist chlorophyll in trapping light rays for energy, explains Janne. In some trees, the maroon-red and purple pigments called anthocyanins are also in leaf cells and give the final color just before the leaf falls. Depending upon the pigments present, there can be all ranges of combinations of colors, or as in some trees, there is only one color. Oak leaves, for example, usually turn either brilliant reddish brown as with the Texas or Shumard oak or just an austere brown as with the post oak.

"The timing, intensity and type of coloration is determined by the genetics of a plant species, its physiological condition, and the availability of certain nutrients," adds Janne. "Eventually the aging process runs its course and there is little active material left in the leaf tissue except the tannins which form the brown color indicating no further life within the leaf cell."

For a panorama of fall color, the horticulturist suggests leisurely drive through East Texas to enjoy the brilliance of such trees as sweetgums, red oaks, maples and blackgums.

According to the Oriental Zodiac, 1977 is the Year of the Snake. A snake year occurs once every 12 years.

Lawyer Seeks Energy Position

WASHINGTON (AP) - A lawyer who represented the oil and gas industry testified Wednesday there will be no conflict of interest if he is confirmed by the Senate for a key job in the Department of Energy.

Lynn R. Coleman appeared before the Senate Energy Committee, which is considering President Carter's nomination of Coleman to become general counsel of the department.

Coleman said experience in representing various oil and gas-related firms "has sharpened my judgment, but I do not believe it has affected my independence or objectivity."

Coleman and former Texas Gov. John Connally are partners in the Houston law firm of Vinson & Elkins, which represents some of the major oil companies.

Committee chairman Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said he did not question Coleman's ability to break with his former ties and act objectively, but was concerned with the public appearance of a potential conflict of interest.

"I think the problem we face...is whether in light of your association with the law firm, you can credibly perform your job," Jackson said.

Other critics such as Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., are firmly opposed to the nomination.

Referring to Coleman as an oil industry lobbyist, Proxmire said in a statement: "Once again, the Senate is being asked to accept, as a high-ranking official in a federal energy agency, yet another nominee whose professional career has been dedicated to the furtherance of the private interests of that industry."

Proxmire is not a member of the energy committee, although some senators who are have also questioned the nomination.

One supporter, Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said it is natural for lawyers who have specialized in oil and gas industry work to take jobs with the new department. "It will be an outrage if the committees denies him this nomination," Johnston said.

In his testimony, Coleman, 38, pledged to disqualify himself from any issue before the department in which Vinson & Elkins represented an energy company.

"That prior association will not influence me in any way," he said.

Coleman said that in 12 years with the law firm he personally represented mostly small oil and gas producers and pipeline companies, often in opposition to the seven largest producers.

For the past three years, Coleman said, he has worked in the firm's Washington office representing Puerto Rico. In that role, he said, he handles one case in direct opposition to subsidiaries of the seven biggest oil firms.

Coleman said his understanding ing with the way the oil companies operate probably will make him more competent to deal with them.

The law setting up the new department has provisions for preventing conflicts and Coleman, said, "I think those procedures are adequate to insulate me from any conflict of interest."

Democratic Sens. Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio and James Abourezk of South Dakota also have raised questions about the nomination. Jackson said Coleman would be recalled for a second appearance before the committee takes any action on the nomination.

GM Wins Retrial In Suit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - General Motors Wednesday won a retrial of a Houston man's $1 million products liability suit because the original jury was denied details of an out-of-court settlement with another party.

The decision could have far-reaching effects on other cases in the growing field of suits against manufacturers for alleged product defects.

A jury awarded Curtis Lee Simmons $1 million after finding that GM had installed defective glass in the front door windows of his 1962 Chevrolet. Simmons was blinded when the glass exploded in a collision with a truck.

The catch was that Simmons settled out of court with the truck's owner, Feld Truck Leasing Corp. and its driver, Hestle Andrew Johnston.

Simmons was paid an undisclosed amount of money by Feld and agreed, in return, not to sue Feld and Johnston.

Under the settlement, Feld would get half of every dollar Simmons received from GM until Feld had been paid $200,000. Johnston and Feld were allowed to present testimony about the accident even though they would benefit from a verdict against GM.

The high court reversed the verdict for Simmons - which had been reduced to $500,000 by the Houston Court of Civil Appeals - because the judge overruled GM's attempts to tell the jury of the settlement.

"It was not an ordinary settlement. By its terms, Feld acquired a direct financial interest in Simmons' lawsuit," the court said.

The court also agreed with the appeals court's finding that GM wasn't solely to blame for Simmons' blindness, since Johnston - after all - had run a red light and smashed into his car.

Because of the settlement, the court of civil appeals had reduced Simmons' judgment against GM by half, saying Feld and Johnston were not entitled to anything from GM.

Court Says Conviction Should Be Reversed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed Wednesday the 1961 double murder conviction of Edward Otho Hagan of Nacogdoches County and ordered a restitution hearing for Delbert Thompson in a San Patricio County conviction for failure to stop and render aid.

The court said Hagan should have been given a separate hearing on his sanity.

He was accused in the slaying of Zouira F. Hagan, the widow of his deceased uncle, and her sister, Mrs. Hagan was pistol whipped, then shot.

Texas law at that time allowed separate sanity hearings, but Hagan's lawyer did not request one. The lawyer later said the doctors who testified at the trial on Hagan's alleged incompetency did so without pay and he feared they would be unwilling to testify twice.

A U.S. Supreme Court decision five years later said separate sanity hearings must be held when the evidence raised that issue. The court also said the decision should be applied retroactively.

The evidence showed Hagan's face had been paralyzed since he suffered an injury at birth. A horse kicked him in the head at age eight months. He suffered injuries in a fall from a horse at age 14, experienced blackout spells, was disoriented, sometimes jumped up and fell on his face, and covered himself with a blanket in summertime and cried with pain.

Hagan was sent to a Dallas sanatorium in 1954 for two weeks, later was convicted of rape, sent to Huntsville and then to the state mental hospital at Wichita Falls.

He suffered epileptic seizures in 1960. Brain wave tests showed abnormalities in his head. Psychiatrists testified he had a mental age of 11 years and eight months and scored 83 - dull normal - on an IQ test.

Doctors said they had warned his mother he was dangerous to himself and to others.

The jury at Hagan's murder trial found him sane at the time of the offense and also at the time of the trial.

A Huntsville jury two years later found him insane, and he was sent to the Rusk State

Court Says Pickup Not Automobile

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - An East Texas couple paid for extra insurance coverage that would increase benefits for their survivors if they happened to die in an auto accident.

Leon and Mary J. Martin died from injuries received in a Christmas Day, 1975, crash in their camper-type pickup truck.

National Life and Accident Insurance Co. refused to pay, saying a pickup is not an automobile, and the Texas Supreme Court agreed Wednesday with the insurance company.

The Martins each had $6,000 in additional coverage if they lost their lives in an automobile accident. The policy defined automobile as a four-wheeled passenger vehicle "exclusively of the pleasure car type."

A district judge in Gregg County said the definition was ambiguous but broad enough to include a camper. But the Tyler Court of Civil Appeals threw out his verdict in favor of the Martin's estate.

"There is no evidence that the truck in question was 'constructed and intended to be used solely for pleasure'...but the evidence reveals only that this particular vehicle was being used solely for pleasure."

Houston Citizens Like Idea of Conservation

NEW YORK (AP) - In energy-conscious Houston, the voters don't think enough is being done about the nation's energy problems, but they support expanded energy production and conservation as ways to alleviate the problems, an Associated Press-NBC poll shows.

Interviews with more than 1,800 voters as they left the polls Tuesday found that the city's traffic congestion and rapid growth are crucial issues for one of the nation's fastest growing and least planned metropolitan areas.

Houston voters clearly are concerned about the impact its problems will have on the city's future as a place to live.

Voters gave their city extremely favorable ratings as a place to live today, with 83 percent rating Houston as excellent or good. But asked to rate the oil capital as a place to live five years down the road, the approval rating drops by 20 percent to 63 percent.

Of those interviewed, 78 percent said that not enough is being done to solve the nation's energy crisis.

The Houston finding paralleled in New Jersey, Virginia, New York City and Cleveland, where AP-NBC election day polls were also conducted Tuesday.

Given a list of possible personal actions to help the energy crunch, about a quarter of the Houston voters said they should urge public officials to encourage the additional production of energy. That's not a surprising finding in a city linked so closely with the petroleum industry.

But Houston's voters were also as conservation conscious as other areas - with about another quarter of the electorate saying that conserving energy by reducing driving was their choice.

One out of five persons say they use too much fuel for heat or air conditioning, and about 13 percent of the voters say they also should cut down on use of home appliances.

These findings of the ways to help solve the nation's energy problems again are similar to those in the other areas surveyed on Tuesday.

The push in Houston for less driving can be explained in looking at voter responses to a question concerning city traffic snarls.

Traffic congestion was the top problem mentioned by the voters, with about a third labeling it their top concern. This was followed by 30 percent who said crime was their major concern.

In answer to another question, 41 percent of the voters said traffic in the sprawling-out oil city is worse than in other cities.

Eighty-one percent said they favor developing a mass transit plan, with only nine percent opposed.

Asked to rate Houston as a place to live, 37 percent gave it an excellent mark, and 46 percent gave it a good rating. Only 12 percent said Houston was just a fair place to live, and 3 percent gave it a poor rating. Almost three-quarters of those interviewed said they are not considering moving out of the city. About 18 percent said they were considering such a move. The remaining 10 percent said they were not certain.

In terms of both the overall ratings and the possibility of moving, Houston received the most positive reaction from its voters, when compared to the results of the election day polls in New York City and Cleveland.

In simple surveys of this nature, the results can vary from the actual opinions of the voters because of variations in the sample due solely to chance.

Holiday Costumes Express Spirit

COLLEGE STATION - Capture the holiday spirit with fashion fantasies and favorites, says Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Popular fabrics include suede-type cloth, cashmere, challis, velvet, and handspun polyester. Express your feelings in tailored, peasant, fantasy or soft, feminine creations. They are all great this season.

Pleats and tucks make a strong fashion statement for holiday dressing. They go in all directions and appear everywhere. They decorate sleeves, collars, and jabots. Crystal or knife pleats radiate into beautiful long or short dresses and skirts.

Shirring, ruffles, trims, lace and embroidery also provide interest, especially on yokes.

Colors range from winter whites, to shaded pastels, to the brightest brights. Brights in combination make the biggest splash.

Styles include peasant dresses and blouses, cow-necked blouses, sweaters, and ankle-tied soft pants. The holiday scene will show butterfly or cape sleeves, drawstring or belted blouses, tiers, and the Victorian look.

Prints generate fabric interest and have special appeal when several print designs are combined in one garment, the specialist says, and muted challis prints provide a soft, traditional, almost nostalgic feeling.

Add a little holiday glitter with silver or gold threads woven into sheer fabrics or added as topstitching on shiny fabrics, such as satin. A glitter chiffon fantasy blouse paired with a skirt or pant of luxurious fabric is sure holiday dynamite.

Set the stage for your holidays in the spirit—and in fashion.

The turtle figures in many creation myths, such as those of India, North America, Japan and China. In ancient Hindu beliefs, Vishnu, in the guise of a great turtle, supported the universe.

The tuatara is the only living representative of a once widespread group of "beak-headed" reptiles. Full-grown tuataras have been known to live more than 75 years.

No 'Majority Rule' in US

The United States is demanding that other nations allow "majority rule."

We are demanding that the "majority" be allowed to rule in South Africa and Rhodesia. We call it a matter of "social conscience," that the "majority" must prevail.

I don't get it. The majority most certainly does not prevail in the United States.

Seventy-six percent of the American people do not want to give away the Panama Canal—but we will.

Seventy-seven percent of Americans of all ages think public school children should be allowed to pray in school—but they can't.

Seat belts, 55 mile-an-hour speed limits and foreign aid—put to a vote by public opinion pollsters—are always voted down.

Yet our federal government continues to do as it wants.

Whatever happened to "government by the people"?

This arrogant, autocratic thumbing of the official nose at what we, the people, want is doing a lot more harm to a lot more people than saccharin or Laetrile ever will.

The majority of the American people do not want pornographic movies, do not want the metric system and certainly do not want members of Congress voting generous pay raises for themselves.

Yet all these things come to pass at the behest of a government which insists that it knows better than we do what's good for us.

It is our government's position that an elitist group of unelected bureaucrats has the authority to dictate to the majority.

If that's a fact, then in the name of all that's consistent let's stop preaching to the Rhodesians and the South Africans or the Russians. Because they feel precisely the same way.

Whenever pollsters put it to a vote in the United States, we the people are overwhelmingly opposed to illegal immigrants usurping American jobs, to taxes so complicated we must employ accountants, to allowing known sex criminals to run loose...

Yet they are and they do!

Americans vote two-to-one for capital punishment but some individual state government seek to veto it.

Most Americans oppose daylight saving time, yet are required to accept and adopt and adapt.

Americans are 84 percent opposed to discrimination against blacks, or whites, yet educators and employers are now court ordered to ignore white rights.

Ninety million workers are the majority but 13 million shirkers are getting the gravy.

This is "majority rule"? Come now!

If the "majority" ruled in the United States, our youngsters would all be going to neighborhood schools!

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Ground Workers accepted 10 percent pay increases and agreed to return to work Wednesday after a four-day strike against Aero Mexico, the government-owned airline.

A company spokesman said flights would resume at 3 p.m. EDT. The airline carries 15,000 passengers a day on 150 daily flights to 42 cities in Mexico and to New York, Miami, Los Angeles, Tucson, Houston, Madrid, Paris and Latin American cities.

Two ground workers' unions had demanded raises of 20 to 25 percent on wages ranging from $155 to $331 a month. The settlement, mediated by Labor Department officials, conformed with government anti-inflation guidelines that call for limiting wage increases to 10 percent.

Mexican ground workers remained on strike against Pan American World Airways, Eastern Airlines, Varig Brazilian Airlines and Nicaraguan Airlines. They are seeking 14 to 20 percent wage hikes.

Privately owned Mexicana, Mexico's second major airlines, was shut down for 12 hours last week but resumed flights after the ground workers accepted 14 percent increases.

Islands, and the Middle East is still in effect. This means mail moving by ship to these destinations will not be accepted at post offices. Surface mail from these areas to the United States is also embargoed.

Air mail moving from the United States to these destinations or mail coming to this country by air from these areas is not affected. The Postal Service stands ready to handle mail by air to and from these destinations.

'Farm Line' To Gather Input On Energy Conservation Nov. 16

SPRINGLAKE — K.B. Parish, Springlake area National Director for the Agriculture Council of America announced that ACA in conjunction with the Alliance to Save Energy will conduct a "Farm Line" phone-in program to gather information on the topic of energy conservation. Farmers and local businessmen are urged to cite their personal experience by calling ACA's toll-free number (800-424-9881) on Wednesday November 16th between noon and 4 p.m. E.S.T. A total of 12 lines will be available to callers anywhere in the continental U.S.

The ACA leader said that representatives for the Alliance to Save Energy, a private and non-political organization working to build increased energy conservation awareness, will answer the phones and speak with callers. The panel of experts will be headed up by Congressional leaders, including Senators Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), Richard Lugar (R-Ind.) and John Heinz (R-Penn.); as well as top spokesmen for the Administration and industry.

"Farmers and those involved in agribusiness can make a significant contribution to the cause of energy conservation by sharing their own experience," commented Carla hills, a Co-Chairman for the Alliance to Save Energy. "We hope as many different people as possible from all across the country will participate in this effort to improve national energy efficiency."

Each caller will be asked to respond to a special questionnaire designed to collect information on conservation methods and how these guidelines and principles can be applied to non-farm uses. The results of this survey will be evaluated by the Alliance and be presented to President Carter and other top decision-makers in the Administration and Congress who deal with the issue.

"Farmers - who only consume about three percent of the total energy used in the United States - have set an example of energy efficiency for the whole nation to follow," remarked ACA Chairman Dale Hendricks, a dairy producer from Bloomfield, Iowa.

"They have observed prudent conservation measures and been most innovative in the search for alternate sources of energy. The purpose of this Farm Line is to draw upon this expertise."

ACA operates the Farm Line program periodically to provide a forum for discussion to let people at the local level discuss major agricultural issues with national leaders in Washington. As a non-political and non-lobbying organization ACA does not advocate any particular position or view; the opinions expressed via the Farm Line are strictly those of the participants. During the last phone-in program on October 5th, about 400 farmers called to voice their opinions on the new Farm Bill and economic situation in agriculture.

The Agriculture Council of America, formed in 1973, is made up of individual farmers and ranchers nationwide, farm and commodity groups, and companies that supply the farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

The Alliance to Save Energy was formed in the spring of 1977 as a bi-partisan, non-profit effort to heighten national awareness that America faces serious energy problems over the next quarter century, that energy waste is great and avoidable, and that Americans can make a far more productive use of their heretofore wasted energy, which often results in a savings of their dollars while contributing substantially to the nation's future well-being.

Friona Industries Nets 27 Cent Per Share Income

FRIONA--Friona Industries, Inc. achieved net income of $333,000, or 27 cents per share, on revenues of $15 million for its first quarter ended September 30, 1977. Company-owned cattle and custom feeding accounted for a substantial majority of the profits.

This compared with a loss of $177,000, or 14 cents per share, on revenues of $13.1 million in the same quarter of the prior fiscal year.

"An acceptable level of cattle prices made it advantageous to market grain-fed cattle at a profit, and feedyard occupancy was higher than in the same three months of 1976," said A.L. Black, Vice President.

"The retail sale of animal health supplies, transportation and steel fabrication activities also produced higher pre-tax income than in the first quarter of last year," he explained.

Commercial feed and grain operations had very minor pre-tax losses.

About 15,000 head of company-owned cattle were marketed during the quarter, providing pre-tax income of about $337,000. In the same quarter of last year, about 13,000 head were sold for a pre-tax loss of approximately $463,000. The inventory of company-owned cattle at September 30, 1977, was about the same as when compared to the same date in 1976.

"With the slight improvement in cattle prices over the past six months, livestock raisers have become more willing to place cattle in feedyards," said Black.

Occupancy at the Company's three feedyards averaged 50 percent in the first quarter. This was up from an average 39 percent in the first quarter of 1976.

"The tonnage of commercial feed sold was up about 10 percent from the same period of 1976, but gross profit margins decreased," stated Black.

"Practically all of the grain handled during the quarter was utilized by the company," he added.

"If cattle prices maintain the level of the past few months, we would expect continued profitability in all lines of our business," commented Black.

In September, the Company's Board of Directors voted to increase the quarterly cash dividend on its common stock to 7½ cents per share. The prior rate had been 5 cents per share.

A tragic event occurred at the company's corporate headquarters on Monday, October 3, when John G. Carrothers died of a heart attack in his office.

Carrothers was one of the founders of the company and had served as chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer during the entire life of the Company.

He was a pioneer in the feedyard business and a nationally known leader in the cattle industry.

Life Of Former Ag Secretary Busy But Much Quieter Now

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - The political storm clouds that drove him from office aren't swirling around Earl Butz these days.

Life for the former secretary of agriculture is almost as busy, but much quieter. No longer hounded by the critics of his days of influence in the White House, he travels around the country and uses his own radio program to preach the gospel of conservative government.

At 68 - "I'm a young 68, a vigorous 68, but I'm 68" - Butz still appears hearty and relaxed, just as he did even in the days when his brand of humor sent tremors through Republican administrations in Washington. He is still quick with a joke and still adamant in his defense of private enterprise.

If anything, the difference in his life today is reflected in his surroundings. Rather than a plush Washington office, Butz now works out of a modest room in Purdue University's Department of Agricultural Economics.

The only evidence of his days in Washington is a large color photograph of Butz, former President Gerald R. Ford and three other men relaxing in shirtsleeves aboard Air Force One. It is autographed by Ford to a "super secretary of agriculture."

This is where Butz works, only about 10 hours a week, as dean emeritus of agriculture at Purdue, "which means I'm in retirement, which means I'm not getting paid anything."

Butz spent almost 31 years of his life here as a professor, department chairman and dean, and it is here that he seems most at ease.

A year away from the daily crises and crowded schedules of Washington, Butz teaches an occasional class, criss-crosses the country speaking to business, civic or political groups or does what he always said he intended to do when he retired - spend time with Mrs. Butz.

Finding time to spend with his wife, he said, "is still a problem." He probably spends more time on the road now than he did when he was secretary of agriculture.

He said 200 would "be in the ball park" for the number of speeches he has made in the last year, and he's accepting probably no more than a quarter of the invitations.

He is paid for most of the appearances, the exceptions being Indiana groups "who are used to getting me for free in the state for 40 years."

Honorariums for Indiana speeches, ranging from $100 to $1,000, are donated to the Earl Butz Scholarship Fund for Purdue agricultural students. Money for out-of-state appearances, varying up to $3,000, "is something else. They belong to me," Butz said.

Butz believes he is more in demand because of the circumstances surrounding his resignation in October 1976.

He insists he's not bitter about the way he left Washington - amid a hail of controversy stirred by the disclosure that he had made an off-color racial remark on a flight back to Washington from the Republican National Convention in Kansas City.

His only mistake, he said, was telling it in the presence of John Dean, formerly President Richard M. Nixon's aide, whose testimony before a Senate committee exposed the Watergate coverup. Dean was writing a story on the convention for a national magazine.

In retrospect, Butz said that controversy "had a plus bearing. It made a martyr of me," especially in the Farm Belt.

Butz worries that the Democratic-controlled Congress and the Carter Administration are moving backward, building up reserves again, cutting wheat production 20 percent and withdrawing from the world markets. Those actions, Butz is convinced, will eventually depress farm prices again.

He is spreading his message not just in speeches, but in a daily five-minute radio program syndicated out of Los Angeles by the same firm that handles Ronald Reagan's show. In the first month, Butz said, his program was picked up by 50 stations.

The pattern - speaking tours, political fund-raisers, a radio program - is one followed by many, such as Reagan, pursuing higher ambitions.

Butz denies that's his aim, saying, "I'm just running for good government."

He acknowledged, however, some pressure for him to run for Congress from Indiana's 2nd District, a predominately rural area now served by Democrat Floyd J. Fithian. Former President Ford called recently, pushing the idea at the suggestion of Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bowen, but Butz said he refused.

"To be a freshman congressman in a lopsided minority party would be strictly anti-climatic," he explained.

NCA Referendum Plan May Take Months To Accomplish

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new plan by the National Cattlemen's Association to change the law so it will be easier to gain approval for a national beef promotion program may take many months to carry out.

Even if the association succeeds in getting Congress to change the law, the normal rule-making process by the Agriculture Department would require several months before a new vote could be taken.

The maneuvering involves the Beef Research and Information Act, which was put into effect in May 1975. It provides that, if approved by two-thirds of the cattle producers who vote in a referendum, a system of check-offs can be put into effect to pay for projects aimed at promoting beef.

In a nationwide referendum conducted by the department last June 6-17, 231,027 votes were cast. Of those, 130,386 or 56.4 percent were in favor of the program and 100,641 or 43.6 percent were against.

The association's board of directors at a recent meeting in Denver decided that an attempt will be made through new legislation to change the 1976 law so a program can be put into effect if approved by a simple majority - more than 50 percent - of those voting in a new referendum.

But the press of congressional business virtually rules out action on changing the law this year. Thus, even if an amendment is successful by next spring, it could be late in 1978 or possibly 1979 before another program is set up by the Agriculture Department and a vote taken on whether to carry it out.

As presented last summer, the plan would have raised an estimated $30 million to $40 million a year from assessments of up to three-tenths of 1 percent of the value of all cattle sold.

The check-offs or assessments would have been mandatory, but producers who did not want to participate would have been able to get refunds. The money raised would have paid for research and promotion projects aimed at increasing beef consumption.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland was cool to the idea, particularly spending money on consumer advertising. He is not expected to support an effort to change the law to make it easier to approve a check-off program.

Nurses' Group Urges Change

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — There is a serious shortage of health care practitioners and facilities in rural areas of the United States. On that subject, both the American Medical Association and the American Nurses' Association agree. On how to solve the problem, however, they disagree.

Dr. John Budd, president of the AMA, says that medical schools try to help alleviate the shortage by accepting more students from rural areas, hoping they will eventually go back home to set up their practices. He concedes, however, that this has not had much impact.

"The problem is that people — and that includes doctors — just don't want to live in rural areas," he said.

But Anne Zimmerman, registered nurse and president of the nurses' group, offers a different solution.

"Doctors may not want to live there, but there are plenty of nurse practitioners willing and able to practice in rural areas — if they were allowed to receive reimbursement privileges that doctors now enjoy," she says. "Payment for nurses through private and public programs could improve health care in under-served areas."

Vegetables for small families can be grown in tubs, making it unnecessary to water a large garden area.

Consumer Protection

It's The People Vs. Big Business

"Every day hundreds of federal agency decisions are made in regulatory proceedings which affect us consumers. Yet the Federal Trade Commission reports that industry representatives outnumber consumer representatives by 100-to-one at these proceedings."

business names to this list too. But again space is limited.

Now, I repeat the question. Whose side are you on? Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) compares the issue to a "David and Goliath" battle. As chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, he knows that the public interest (consumers, that is) is not properly represented before federal regulatory agencies.

Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), in an impassioned speech in the Senate (April 6, 1977), put it that "all consumers suffer the indignities of second class citizenship." He noted particularly that we, the elderly and those on fixed incomes, are hit hardest when there's no consumer protection. Notice something? This is no Democrat vs. Republican hassle. It's a straight case of the "People" vs. "Big Business."

My own congressman has in the past voted for consumer legislation. This time he's for big business. He stands behind Leon Jaworski, who warns in the press and on the radio that the Consumer Protection Agency would create a "consumer czar" to represent us. This is untrue.

Jaworski is on retainer as an advocate for the Business Round Table. His memorandum to the media fails to point out that the bill gives the Consumer Protection Agency neither political nor regulatory power. All it can do is to advocate before the regulatory agencies. Occasionally it can require agencies to defend the soundness of their rulings in court. This is czarism?

The representative from my neighboring district is also opposed to the bill in its present form. He objects to the fact that "labor" and "agriculture" would not be covered under this consumer legislation.

I can't see the connection of the bill with labor controls. But I agree that agriculture, dairy products and fresh fruits and vegetables should be controlled. This is, therefore, not a perfect bill.

We consumers will settle for strong control of canned and packaged foods. From our standpoint, exclusion of agricultural control is no reason to vote against all consumer protection.

This bill will give us consumers representation. Every day hundreds of federal agency decisions are made in regulatory proceedings which affect us consumers. Yet the Federal Trade Commission reports that industry representatives outnumber consumer representatives by 100-to-one at these proceedings.

It's important for us senior citizens to note that both the House and the Senate Committees on Aging are strongly for the establishment of a Consumer Protection Agency. Rep. Tom Downey (D-W. Va.) speaks for us seniors directly. He says, "As I've seen in my work on the House Select Committee on Aging, senior citizens are often the first to be hurt by unscrupulous businesses."

If Downey needs a list of such businesses, he can get one. It will start with nursing homes, run through to hearing aid ripoffs, pharmaceuticals, utility bills and cans of food with more water than substance. It will include nearly everything we seniors buy.

Now, if I've made my case for a Consumer Protection Agency, we seniors must get to work. This is the first consumer bill that has presidential support. In fact, President Carter appointed Esther Peterson (a board member of the National Consumer League) as his special assistant for consumer affairs with a bill like this in mind.

Please, everybody, get three envelopes ready. Address one to your congressman. Address the other to your U.S. senator. The Senate bill is S-1282. The House bill is HR-6805. You demand that your representatives vote "yes" on these consumer agency bills.

Hold it! What about the third envelope? Use it to get your out of state friends to support the Consumer Protection Agency.

There's an organization called Congress Watch. They've set up a list of federal legislators who may defeat the bill unless we seniors stop them. It's called the "Target" List - Nickel Campaign. Get this list. Alert your friends in other states to write to their legislators. The address of Congress Watch is 133 C Street, SE, Washington, D.C. 20003.

It's not just a question of prices. A Consumer Protection Agency will fight for improvement in the quality, the safety and the health value of what we elders need.

We seniors must go on the war path. Big Business, here we come!

Annexation OK For Paige

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Bastrop school trustees won their legal fight with Giddings trustees Wednesday to annex the Paige Independent School District in Bastrop County.

The Texas Supreme Court affirmed an Eastland appeals court ruling that Paige voters are not entitled to a consolidation election.

Giddings is in Lee County.

The crucial question was whether the posting of a notice by Bastrop trustees to discuss annexation before a petition was submitted by Giddings trustees to County Judge Jack Griesenbeck gave Bastrop exclusive jurisdiction over the matter.

The notice was required by Texas' Open Meeting Law.

Court records show that president Olan Voigt of the Bastrop board filed with the county clerk a notice of an emergency hearing to discuss annexing the Paige district at 4:45 p.m. May 18, 1976.

The hearing was set for 10 a.m. May 19, and Bastrop trustees voted at that meeting to annex the Paige ISD.

Voigt testified that when he filed the notice and had it posted he was aware that a petition was being circulated in the Paige district for a consolidation election with Giddings ISD.

At 8:36 a.m. May 19 - nearly 1 1/2 hours before the Bastrop trustees met - Griesenbeck received a petition requesting the Paige consolidation election.

Fed Employees On Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) - A computer check of welfare rolls in 20 states, including Texas and Arkansas, and the District of Columbia has turned up 26,334 current or recent federal employees who also get welfare, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Wednesday.

Califano said the government is now checking payroll records to learn the employees' earnings and will refer cases to state and local officials for further action.

Many of the federal workers may be eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children because they are low-paid and have large families.

A pilot project in the District of Columbia found that about 41 percent of 216 HEW employees listed on welfare rolls were ineligible or were receiving too many benefits. Some 34 percent were on the list due to computer error, and 5 percent were receiving the right amount or were underpaid. Twenty percent are still under investigation.

The names of 1.8 million federal employees were checked against welfare rolls in the 20 states and the District. About 8.2 million of the 11.2 million AFDC recipients live in those 21 jurisdictions.

The 26,334 included 13,354 current federal employees and 12,980 who recently left the government.

Califano, at a news conference, defended his project designed to thwart welfare fraud against charges that it is an invasion of Americans' right to privacy.

He said there are safeguards to protect the information against misuse by federal or state agencies.

Califano said he believes "our efforts to clean up the welfare rolls should begin at home."

He said HEW hopes to make arrangements with the Department of Defense within the month to check all military personnel for possible welfare abuse. He also said HEW is encouraging state and local governments to compare their own payrolls with welfare rolls, and will crosscheck welfare records of neighboring states "to identify individuals who may be receiving benefits in two or more states."

The areas checked were: Arkansas, California, Colorado, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York City, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, Washington, and the Norfolk and northern areas of Virginia.

Ferdinand Magellan's expedition sailed from Spain in 1519.

Bank failures in New York City caused a financial panic in 1873.

Alexander Laing became the first European to reach Timbuktu in 1826.
