Doggone It, Where's Master?

Planning Meet Set Tonight

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor
While local supporters of the farm strike movement are joining in a nationwide effort to prepare for an invasion of Washington D.C. by farmers next week, the national headquarters of American Agriculture in Springfield, Colo. issued a call for the replacement of Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland Tuesday.

Apparently angered by the shortcomings of a meeting between American Ag representatives and Bergland last week in Omaha and subsequent remarks by Bergland concerning the American Ag movement during the national Farm Bureau convention this week, the Colorado strike office issued the following statement:

"For four months, the American Agriculture movement has repeatedly explained the parity concept and reiterated that 100 percent parity is not guaranteed profit, only the opportunity for profit.

"We have consistently made the point that we do not want subsidies, price supports or any program utilizing subsidies or price supports.

"Secretary Bergland is either feigning ignorance of the farm problem and the mood of agricultural producers, or, worse yet, he is so lacking in mental ability that he is really ignorant of the farm problem and the mood of the agricultural producers.

"In either case, the irresponsibility is an injustice to the American people. Secretary Bergland should be replaced immediately with an individual who is viable enough to understand the farm problem and aptly assess the commitment of farmers and ranchers to the American Agriculture movement."

As unhappy spokesmen at the national strike headquarters were leveling their broadsides at Bergland, officials at the Texas headquarters here in Hereford continued to coordinate plans for the trip by the Texas delegation of striking farmers to Washington next week.

As many as 1,000 farmers from the Plainview area have already signed up for the Washington trip, and the local office is staging a planning meeting at the Bull Barn tonight at 7:30 to map out activities for the Washington appearance.

A report on last week's meeting with Secretary Bergland will also be presented by American Ag representatives during tonight's meeting.

Farmers hope to bend the ears of numerous congressional leaders and other officials in Washington during a week of activities in the nation's capitol, with activities scheduled to begin Jan. 18 and continue through Jan. 24.

Tractorcades and picketing sessions will highlight the efforts by farmers to

Chamber To Install Officers

The annual installation dinner for officers and directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is scheduled Thursday at 7 p.m. at Hereford Country Club with O.G. (Speedy) Nieman formally assuming the president's role.

The two posts were approved by the C of C board this week in order to fill the position being vacated by Bob Ginn. New director Ken Rogers was elected as vice president of the chamber, and Dr. Milton Adams was named to fill the one-year unexpired term of Ginn's.

Nieman, publisher of The Brand, will succeed Joe Shollenbarger as president; Rogers will replace Ginn in the vice-president's seat, and Jonny Cloud was re-elected as treasurer.

New directors to be installed for three-year terms are Rogers, Butch White, Dave Hopper and Jerry Payne. Directors with one year remaining are Adams, Mack Tubb, Tom Hamlett and Shollenbarger. Directors with two years remaining include Nieman, Cloud, Paul Abalos and Raymond Schlabs.

Directors who retire from the board are Bud Snyder, Mike Patrick, Lee Umsted and Donald Hicks.

The installation dinner will be an informal event, with no guest speaker or entertainment on the program, according to executive vice president Bob Duckworth.

Krueger Plans Hereford Visit

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, New Braunfels, will appear in Hereford Friday to discuss his candidacy for the U.S. Senate. Krueger, 41, a Democrat, is serving his second term as Congressman for the 21st District.

Rep. Krueger will be at the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas office from 11 a.m. to noon Friday. All citizens are invited to attend the meeting and meet the candidate. He is seeking the Senate seat now held by Republican John Tower.

A native of New Braunfels, Krueger graduated from Southern Methodist University and took his law degree from Oxford University in England. He then served as vice-provost and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Duke University.

Following the death of his father, he assumed supervisory responsibilities in the family-owned Krueger Brangus Ranch in East Texas. Krueger was elected congressman from the 21st District in 1974, then was re-elected with 72 percent of the vote in 1976. At the end of his first term in Congress, he was voted the "most effective" of the 75 first-term Democrats.

Weather forecasting, at best, is a precarious profession - a hit miss deal - and area prognosticators missed today.

Hereford didn't get its snow, though it was predicted, and it doesn't look like moisture is in the offing today or tonight, either.

"Most of it passed through the southeast," Jay Teague, National Weather Service forecaster in Amarillo, said. "There's nothing close to you."

Snow is forecast for some parts of the Panhandle today and tonight, with all of the area remaining cold. One to three inches of snow are possible, Teague said, for some of the area with clearing conditions expected late tonight.

The low in Hereford today was 13 degrees at 12:01 a.m. after a high Tuesday of 25. Today's high is expected to be near 30 with the low tonight in the upper teens.

The warning trend, according to the National Weather Service, will continue through Friday. The high Thursday is forecast to be in the low 40's.

The warmth will be short-lived, Teague said, due to a cold front expected to be in the area by Saturday.

The front early today was off the western coastal areas of the United States, centered over Washington, with movement toward the southeast.

"It'll be here around the weekend," Teague said.

The cold this week has caused problems in Hereford with frozen pipes in several houses and mobile homes.

Supplying gas has not been a problem, however, according to Nicks Fariss, Pioneer Natural Gas manager.

"We don't have any plans to curtail anybody right now. We haven't had any trouble at all in our system."

Fariss said neither cold temperatures nor duration of cold weather are determining factors in curtailment.

"The thing that bothers us most is when we lose some of compressors out in the field. If we lose one of those, which are pumping gas into major pipelines, that's when we get most of our trouble."

"We had a unit down in the very first cold spell of the fall, and we had to curtail Holly Sugar for about a 24-hour period."

Fariss said that as far as Pioneer's customers are concerned, "we could see a long period of pretty cold weather and we wouldn't have to curtail anything."

Tuesday's gas consumption peak was at 7 a.m. Gas usage in Hereford leveled off after 1:30 p.m., according to Fariss.

A few classrooms at Hereford High School today were experiencing uncomfortable temperatures for the second day in a row.

"In several classes on the second floor, we're having heat problems," said Principal Jerry Don George, adding that temperatures in the classes are somewhat chilly but not unbearable and that a maintenance man was working on correcting the situation.

"It's been pretty cool - we just haven't been able to get enough heat. We're going to bleed some of the lines," George said.

Some Panhandle industries have curtailed gas usage, and a few schools have been closed due to the cold weather.

Freezing rain mixed with sleet covered a wide area of the northern half of Texas today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue traveler's advisories for slick streets and highways.

Freezing rain and sleet were reported from the Pecos River Valley eastward to the Red River Valley and in North Central Texas as well as the Hill Country of

Sherry Hoover Chosen As 'Woman of Year'

The coveted "Chamber Woman of the Year" award was presented Tuesday night to Mrs. (Sherry) Hoover as highlight of the annual Chamber of Commerce Women's Division installation banquet.

More than 70 persons braved the sub-freezing temperatures in order to attend the dinner and installation ceremony in the ballroom of Hereford Country Club.

Mrs. Hoover was awarded a silver cup and a bouquet of red carnations by Inez Albright of Big Spring, who was cited as Chamber Woman of the Year during last year's banquet. Mrs. Albright was accompanied by her husband, Bill, who was local Chamber manager for several years. Albright spoke briefly during last night's assembly, citing Hereford's accomplishments through the C of C.

The chief purpose of the Women's Division meeting was the installation of new officers, conducted by Irene McKinster. Donna Vanderzee, 1977 president and mistress of ceremonies during the banquet, relinquished her executive office to Margaret Formby. Also placed in office for the coming year were Mary Herring, first vice president; Carrell Ann Simmons, second vice; LaJean Henry, secretary; Mrs. VanderZee, parliamentarian; Glenda Gerles and Janet Welty, directors.

In appreciation for their service as WD directors, plaques were presented by Mrs. VanderZee to Ruth Black, Georgia Sparks and Berta Ottesen. Also, Mrs. VanderZee was awarded a plaque by Mrs. Formby in citation of her term as WD president.

Special guests in attendance at Tuesday evening's banquet included the following Chamber of Commerce directors: Speedy Nieman, Bob Hamlett, Bud Snyder and Ken Rogers.

Of special interest to the Chamber women were several announcements concerning upcoming community projects. All Women's Division members are needed to help make decorations for the annual Chamber banquet, scheduled Jan. 19 at the Bull Barn, according to Olivia Denning, decorations chairman. The Chamber Women will begin working on decorations at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday,

Roswell Man Charged With Friona Robbery

ROSWELL (AP) — A 25-year-old Roswell man who waived his extradition hearing will be taken to Texas to stand trial in connection with the theft of $20,000 from a Friona, Texas, grocery store, officials said.

Rudolfo Corrella was arraigned Monday before Magistrate Baudelio Ramirez on charges of aggravated assault and automobile theft. He was being held in the Chaves County jail on a $10,000 bond.

The charges stemmed from the theft at knife-point of a car from Arnie Navarez of Roswell.

Navarez was forced to turn over his car keys, clothes and wallet containing $1. He told deputies he had to walk home, about four miles, in his underwear and socks before he could call the sheriff's office.

Ramirez said the New Mexico charges will be held in abeyance until Corrella fulfills his obligations in Texas.

Corrella was being sought on a $25,000 Texas warrant for the robbery of the Friona Piggly Wiggly.

Farmers Blockade Santa Fe Railroad

By The Associated Press

A group of striking Texas farmers threw a blockade of tractors across a Santa Fe Railroad track early today in West Texas between Hale Center and Lubbock. Hale County deputies met briefly with the farmers, but made no arrests. Officers said one train, enroute from Amarillo to Lubbock, was delayed for about an hour.

Santa Fe Railroad officials reportedly planned to meet with the farmers later today.

The scene of the blocked track was about 40 miles north of Lubbock.

The action came as most striking Texas farmers began to organize next week's trips to Washington for a nationwide protest rally. Very little activity had been expected in the state while the farmers prepared for the Washington trip.

Justice Department Accuses Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has accused late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover of accepting special favors and services from FBI employees.

The department also said Friday in a 40-page report that the long-time director took part with other former FBI officials in a pattern of longstanding and widespread abuses of FBI services.

Hoover, who died in 1972 at the age of 77, was said to have accepted favors that ranged from additions to his home to servicing of his lawnmower and snow blower.

Plots of lawn were reset, metal polished, wallpaper retouched, firewood provided and furniture rearranged, the report said. "Employees were on call night and day for this work."

Hoover also got free tax advice from a bureau accountant and members of the FBI's Exhibits Section were called upon to build gifts each year for Hoover on Christmas, his service anniversary with the agency and other special occasions, the report alleged.

Similar and related charges also were alleged against a number of other former FBI officials.

Unemployment Rate Lowest in 3 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent in December, its lowest level in more than three years, the government reported today.

The sharp decline broke an eight-month pattern that had seen the unemployment rate bounce between 6.9 percent and 7.1 percent since last April.

Some 480,000 Americans were removed from the jobless rolls last month, leaving 6.3 million unemployed, the lowest total since the recession in late 1974.

Total employment last month rose by 410,000 to 92.6 million, continuing a steady expansion that has seen 4.1 million persons join the ranks of the employed in 1977.

At 6.4 percent, the unemployment rate in December was nearly a full percentage point below the rate at the beginning of 1977, when 7.3 percent of the labor force was jobless.

Group Stuggles for 'World Peace Through World Law'

World Federalists To Sue Amin

CHICAGO (NEA)—If a majority of nations agree on anything today it is that Idi Amin of Uganda is an imperious thug. Yet this nearly unanimous condemnation has had little effect on the dictator. Neither diplomatic nor popular indignation has stopped Amin's reign of terror and homicide.

Now an obscure private organization has decided to take a crack at the African tyrant. The World Federalists Association has hired an attorney to see if the courts can succeed where international convention has failed. The plan is to lodge a sort of class action suit for humanity against the Ugandan.

Gerard Grant, a Jesuit priest who heads the Federalists, says U.S. law permits the suing of foreign governments or individuals in federal courts. "This is where we will start," says Father Grant. His group will enlist the aid of exiled Ugandans to serve as witnesses regarding Amin's activities.

The first goal of the legal action will be to bring economic sanctions against Amin. One-third of Uganda's coffee crop is now in the U.S., for example, and Grant hopes it can be attached. Then, in the name of the Ugandan exiles, the Federalists will try to have Uganda's holdings seized throughout the world.

Finally, Federalists attorney Luis Kutner says he will petition the United Nations to create a world tribunal to judge the case against Amin. Kutner says that if found guilty Amin could be put to death. Father Grant, however, says the Federalists only want the dictator to be judiciously jailed.

Grant says there is no doubt the U.N. has the power and right to bring Amin to justice. He quotes paragraph 6 of the U.N. charter as, in effect, "allowing the five permanent members the right to beat up on the rest of the scoundrels." He means the big nations have enormous regulatory authority over the small.

ON THE FEDERALIST SUIT against Idi Amin, Father Grant says that while violence has been the traditional means of unseating despots, the people of the world

This authority is rarely practiced, says Grant, because America, Russia, France, Great Britain and China seldom agree on nations deserving punishment. Besides, Grant adds, no government wants to create precedents of this sort, because "they are scared of one day being tried by a tribunal themselves."

What the Federalists will attempt to do, then, is to use Amin as a prod to force the U.N. to live up to its stated purpose. Grant says the U.N. "never does the things people hope it will." He claims it is too political to be an effective force for world good. He says an Amin trial would change that.

Not incidentally, an Amin trial would also return the World Federalists Assn. to the center stage of global affairs. And nothing would please Father Grant more. He says the WFA's design of "world peace through world law" is something all the nations in the U.N. would do well to recall and study.

Time was when many nations were studying the Federalists' aim. Earlier in the century, the WFA had believers in virtually every nation. Grant says six European countries went so far as to change their constitutions to allow support of the WFA. In 1945 there were 40,000 Federalists in America alone.

The movement began to fall on hard times after World War II. One reason is that the creation of the U.N. "eclipsed the Federalists' dream. Also, nations divided into East vs. West blocs, and no longer thought of getting together; Father Grant says the WFA lost much financial support when NATO was organized.

Today, the Federalists thrust is a shadow of its history. Gone are the great believers, such as Winston Churchill. The group now has severe financial difficulties, and publicity for its programs is scant. Even the legal maneuvers against Idi Amin have been largely overlooked in the media and by governments.

Still, the Federalists refuse to fade completely away. They maintain a headquarters in Amsterdam, which administers chapters in 40 countries. Denmark's parliament is still almost totally Federalist. Britain has many adherents. A half dozen people in the U.S. Congress are also members of the movement.

Given this enduring spirit, therefore, Father Grant says he wants to funnel it into action: against Uganda's Amin. He works on the proposition at a midtown Chicago office, and in the Jesuit residence at Loyola University. He says the plan is now being implemented, but results may be some years away.

The results are likely to be disappointing. The Federalists are asking law to circumvent national sovereignty. Nonetheless, Father Grant says it's worth a try. Traditionally, violence has been the primary means of unseating despots; Grant says the people of the world hunger for a better way.

Company Must

Reveal Operations

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Houston ambulance company's plan of operation must be disclosed under the Open Records Act after the firm has made the low bid and been awarded a government contract, Attorney General John Hill said Tuesday.

Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman requested Hill's opinion.

The act says trade secrets are exempted from disclosure, but Hill said that would apply in this case only at the time of the bidding for a government contract, not after it had been awarded.

Chapman's department awarded a contract to Greater Houston Transportation to add from all medical facilities to eligible clients within 10 counties surrounding and including Harris County.

security and 2 percent withholding!

Wise old Be could have added one more subject to his list of certainties: that of campaign promises to soak the rich and help the poor.

Shelters or loopholes for the rich you argue? Candidates and voters might do well to read a few statistics put out each year in reports from the Internal Revenue Service. The last report period covers the year 1975 and reveals:

1. Across the board, the average tax payment for all individuals was $2,020, but the average payment for those individuals with income of $50,000 or more was $26,814.

2. Those taxpayers earning more than $100,000 a year claimed a total of $6.5 billion in deductions. Those earning less than $15,000 a year claimed deductions of more than $117 billion.

3. The 1,119 individuals who reported income in excess of $1 million had an average taxable income of $1,570,000 and wound up paying an average tax of $1,011,317 — or roughly 65 percent of their taxable income.

4. Taxpayers with incomes over $50,000 a year represent 11.2 percent of all taxable income, but they pay 20.6 percent of all taxes.

5. The 3.6 million taxpayers with incomes over $30,000 pay 35 percent of all income tax revenue. The 40 million taxpayers with incomes under $15,000 a year pay 25 percent of total collections.

Tax relief is needed for the man or woman on wages and salary, but we can't get it by soaking the rich. There's not enough of them to yield the dollars needed. A little more restraint in government spending and government pensions might provide a more suitable place for relief!

Weather

Central Texas.

Early morning temperature extremes ranged from the low teens in the Panhandle to 66 at Brownville in the Valley.

Some early morning readings included 17 at Dalhart, 29 at Texarkana, and Dallas-Fort Worth, 30 at Austin, 35 at Lubkin, 36 at Houston, 46 at Corpus Christi, 65 at McAllen, 37 at Del Rio, 26 at San Angelo, 46 at El Paso and 17 at Lubbock.

The weather, naturally, was worse elsewhere in the country.

Forecasters promised some relief for the eastern third of the United States today from the cold and wind that has rekindled memories of the bitter winter of 1977.

Meanwhile, a wide band of snow and rain is gathering force in the nation's midsection, portending more problems as it moves eastward.

At least 23 weather-related deaths had been reported by state officials since Monday. In Ohio, three in both Illinois and Alabama, and one in California, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Blizzard-like conditions have been experienced in western New York State the past two days.

The cold in the east came from an Arctic high pressure ridge centered over Missouri Tuesday night which was dragging frigid air down from Canada. It was expected to be over the Carolina coasts by Thursday.

This latest cold spell caused widespread power reductions after demand for heat and light drained utilities. The power drop caused lights to dim and electric clocks to run an average of 27.7 seconds slow, said Commonwealth Edison engineers in Chicago.

The large demand was complicated in some places by coal stockpiles being frozen into solid mountains which workers could not break up fast enough to feed hungry boilers used to generate electricity.

call attention to the poor economic conditions which currently exist in agriculture.

The Hereford strike office has reserved a total of 30 rooms at the Skyline Inn in Washington, only four blocks from the Capitol. The motel will serve as headquarters for the Texas delegation.

Reservations for the trip are being taken at the local office, and a spokesman here reported that those wishing to register should sign up and have one night's lodging paid for by Friday.

Meetings on the American Ag movement continue in many South Plains communities, and on Tuesday, farmers in the Morton area swarmed to the Department of Human Resources office in their community to sign up for food stamps.

They proceeded to Morton schools where they applied for free lunches for their children and protested high school taxes to officials there.

Farmers Arrested

By The Associated Press
Farmers in the American Agriculture protest movement got themselves arrested in Laredo Tuesday and blocked a Campbell Soup plant in Paris as they plotted new recruiting drives.

Laredo police arrested about 40 farmers blocking a meat cold storage plant, saying they were in violation of a law prohibiting the blocking of highways.

Tow trucks were called in to haul off tractors.

After being warned they would be arrested, the protesters voted to keep up the blockade.

So with the district attorney on hand, officers began loading the farmers into paddy wagons for transportation to the police department. There was no resistance.

Water Meeting

Dedicated to Mahon

AMARILLO — The 11th Annual Membership Meeting of Water, Inc., will be dedicated to Congressman George Mahon for his dedicated and outstanding service to the High Plains area, the state and the nation.

The retiring Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, will be honored during ceremonies Feb. 11 at the Quality Inn here. Vernon Congressman Jack Hightower will participate in the ceremonies.

Water, Inc., Executive Director Duncan Ellison said, "As Mr. Mahon concludes his final term of office, we believe he should be recognized for his outstanding Congressional record during the past 44 years. Few people in Washington today have received the bipartisan respect that Mr. Mahon has maintained during his distinguished Congressional career. His peers and constituents recognize him as a true statesman."

The meeting dedication is simply a gesture of our appreciation to Mr. Mahon.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—A potential crisis reared its head during the last legislative session and no doubt the 66th Legislature will see a great deal of the whole animal known as products liability.

Just as doctors and hospitals have been feeling the pinch in malpractice insurance premiums, manufacturers are feeling a bite in product liability insurance.

Difficulty in obtaining coverage and increased costs are in some instances forcing businessmen up against the wall. Without coverage they face financial ruin even with increased prices for their goods.

Because some dangerous and defective products are on the market and others sometimes carry inadequate warnings or instructions, there is a real need for the manufacturer to protect himself with insurance. Likewise, the dramatic increase in the number of suits filed and the huge monetary awards made in some cases have alarmed the insurance industry. We can also point at attorneys who specialize in product liability cases as adding to the increase in suits filed.

Ann Landers Reader Disappointed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I didn't know better, I'd think you hit the bottle occasionally because some of your advice is really off the wall. For example: That wife who imagined her husband is Kirk Douglas when he makes love to her.

According to you it was perfectly "normal" - nothing to be concerned about - so the dumbbell went and told him about her mental substitution!

If a wife has to think about Kirk Douglas when her own husband is right there, the least she can do is keep it to herself. I wouldn't be very flattered if I learned the reason my husband was enjoying himself so much was because he imagined I was Ann-Margret. If he confessed such a thing to me I'd tell him to get lost.

We hear too much these days about switching, swapping, nude shows, and weird sexual practices of every conceivable type. What this country needs is someone to stand up for decency and morality. I thought you were it but I see I was wrong. - Deeply Disappointed

DEAR D.D.: The human mind is such an intricate piece of machinery that no one knows exactly how it functions - or why - particularly in the area of sexual responses.

What turns some people on is a mysterious mix of everything they have ever seen, read, heard, dreamed about, plus assorted bits and pieces that are so private they are shared with no one.

I agree with you that not every person can tolerate complete openness and candor. In such cases it is best to keep your mouth shut. The wisdom lies in knowing the emotional temperament of your partner and behaving accordingly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter. If it helps just one person clean up her act, it will be worth the space.

An open letter to every young girl who is running around with a married man:

So you think he loves you best because he does everything he can to be with you for a few stolen hours.

Where is he on the holidays? Who does he spend his birthday with (and probably yours)? Who did he go to when he was sick? Who did he take when he went on vacation?

Wake up and realize you are throwing away the best years of your life. Instead of having fun with friends your own age, you sit by the phone waiting for him to call and to say he "got away" for a few hours.

Don't you realize you are being used? You're merely a diversion to bolster his ego. If he really wanted to leave his wife for you he would. It's easy enough to do these days.

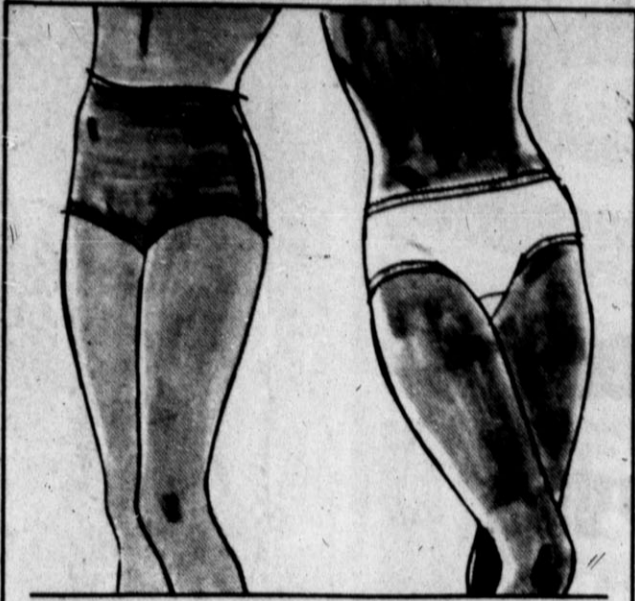

The fact that you are willing to play second fiddle should tell you something about your opinion of yourself. Is it any wonder he has the same opinion of you?

Gather up what's left of your self-respect and get out of the back seat and the motel rooms. Find yourself a man who will be seen with you in public - someone you can take home and introduce to your parents.

The life you are living will bring more pain and heartache. Believe me, I know, because I've - Been There

DEAR BEEN: You and thousands of others. Thanks for the testimonial. It's a good one.

Officers Elected By Pioneer Club

Hersford Community Center was the site of recent meeting of Wokan Ki Lo Horizon Club, sponsored by Marsh Cattle Company.

Winter Ski Camp, scheduled Jan. 21-23, was discussed.

Plans for the annual Father-Daughter Banquet, Feb. 17, were made and practice sessions for the Horizon Club are slated Feb. 8 and 15.

The group reviewed the WoHeLo Medallion, the highest honor a Camp Fire Girl can obtain. This program is divided into three parts, including a total of 12 requirements to be eligible for the Medallion. This is a three-year program which must be completed before a CFG member's senior year in high school.

It was announced that the group will go to Westgate Nursing Home next weekend to continue their service project, "Hand in Hand." Also, on Jan. 30, they will participate in another service project, "No Greater Love."

Members present were Jill Davis, Willa Lawson, Jill Paschel, Kelly Killough, Rane Pagett, Cindy Gamez, Ramona Rhodes, Brenda Brown, Rhonda Hallowell, Barbie Koelzer, Deanna Pool, Janet Burdine and Karen Compton.

Sarah Lawson was a guest. Adult leader is Paula Eubanks.

4-H's Selling First Aid Kits

A bake sale held in December as a fund-raising project was discussed by members of Deaf Smith County 4-H Horse Club during a business meeting Monday at the Community Center.

Members also considered another money-making project, the sale of first aid kits, costing $2.50 each. These kits are available now from all club members, who will give one-fourth of the proceeds to Girlstown, USA - and use the remaining amount to send the 4-H'ers to Six Flags over Texas. All donations and community support is appreciated.

Approximately 20 persons were in attendance at the meeting.

The horse club will convene at the Community Center, Feb. 20 for their next monthly session.

Barbs

By PHIL PASTORET

Kids who play "I Spy" never grow up - they continue to play as members of the intelligence community's spook battalions.

Remember back when someone was a good example rather than a "role model"?

You can always tell people who leak secrets by the holes heads.

The officers who will serve during the 1978-79 club year were elected by members of Pioneer Study Club Tuesday during their monthly luncheon at Hersford Country Club.

Mrs. W.C. Hromas was re-elected to the office of president for another term. Chosen to serve with her were Mrs. William Wimberley, vice president; Mrs. Frank Ball, recording secretary; Mrs. C.L. Craig, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herman Ford, treasurer; Mrs. Delmar Sigle, historian; Mrs. Ray Johnson, yearbook chairman; and Mrs. Guy Walsler, Federation director.

Mrs. Ball delivered the invocation and the U.S. Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs. A. Petersen. The salute to the Texas flag was recited under the direction of Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill Sr.

The program which was originally planned was cancelled due to the illness of Mrs. P.B. Sowell. However, in keeping with the program theme "Land of My Dreams," each member described the state or country which she had toured or hoped to visit. A number of sites around the globe were discussed during the impromptu program.

Mmes. Lookingbill, Ball and Wimberley were hostesses during the luncheon. Others present were Mmes. Bonnie Brumley, C.F. Cockrell, P.H. Gilliland, John Heard, O.G. Hill Sr., Tandy Legg, Ted Panciera, Paul Rudd, R.L. Wilson and Roberta Campbell.

Fryers, Eggs, Lettuce On List of Bargains

COLLEGE LISTON -- Attractive prices appear on fryer chickens, eggs, and lettuce at Texas grocery markets, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Grocery shoppers also can expect the following price and quality levels:

FRESH VEGETABLES -- Reasonable prices highlight cabbage, carrots, potatoes, dry onions, sweet potatoes and hard-shell squash. Moderate price items include eggplant, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts.

FRESH FRUITS -- Good-quality oranges are most economical when shoppers let price and intended use determine the size to buy. Texas grapefruit is plentiful and quality is excellent, but quality is slipping on grapes and tangerines. Bananas and apples are good choices both quality-wise and price-wise.

BEEF -- Demand for beef is increasing, with prices the same as pre-holiday prices or slightly higher. However, many markets are featuring some beef cuts - primarily chuck roasts, sirloin and T-bone steaks. Good values appear on ground beef and beef liver.

PORK -- Prices are a bit irregular, although attractive prices show up on Boston butt roasts, end chops, semi-boneless hams, bacon frankfurters and liver. Economical prices appear on quarter-loins cut into chops and rib-end roasts.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES -- Features are less numerous, but there are some specials on fruit pie filling, canned peaches, green beans and pork and beans. FROZEN FOOD COUNTERS -- Leading feature items are a variety of vegetables, orange juice and fried chicken.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: In "sizing up" lamb promotions, check for less expensive cuts, such as riblets - instead of the more expensive leg-of-lamb.

Turkey Increase Expected 4-Her

WASHINGTON (AP) - After declining in 1977, the supply of turkeys is expected to increase in 1978, according to a forecast by the Agriculture Department.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Friday that a survey shows turkey producers in major producing states intend to raise 132.2 million birds this year, compared with 130.3 million in 1977.

"The number of turkeys actually raised in 1978 may vary from growers' intentions shown in this report depending on feed prices, supply and price of hatching eggs and poulters turkeys chicks and prices growers receive for turkeys during the next three months," the report said.

The forecast included an increase of 1 percent to almost 22.9 million turkeys expected to be produced in Minnesota, the leading turkey state.

Others included California, 17 million, down 1 percent from last year; North Carolina, 16.8 million, up 2 percent; and Missouri 10 million, up 2 percent.

Banking on pension funds?

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The professional investment managers who control $445 billion worth of pension funds in this country have become the unwilling targets of a pair of little-publicized congressional investigations.

The notion that having vested rights to pension funds makes workers true owners of industry who hold, control and direct vast amounts of investment capital is "a major, monstrous myth," says Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

Metcalf and Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., each conducting an independent investigation, already have raised serious questions about the philosophy and practices of pension fund managers.

In theory, pension funds usually are controlled either by officials of the company whose money is contributed to the pension plan or by a committee composed of both management and employee representatives.

But they invariably delegate the task of managing the money to bank trust departments, insurance companies or independent financial consultants — and the concentration of economic power within that field is truly mind-boggling.

Bentsen notes that although more than 4,000 bank trust departments handle pension funds, the 15 largest banks in the field control 80 percent of the lucrative business.

Similarly, 1,800 insurance companies manage pension fund assets, but 12 of the biggest firms control almost 80 percent of the business. And a few dozen independent managers have responsibility for another $130 billion worth of pension funds.

Thus, only about 50 institutions and individuals control more than two-thirds of all pension funds. One measure of their financial power lies in the fact that those funds, in turn, hold 20 to 25 percent of all outstanding common stock and 40 percent of all bonds.

One example cited by Metcalf involves the retirement plan for members of the United Auto Workers employed by the Ford Motor Co. Its assets totaled more than $1.35 billion at the end of the last year, with almost $873 million invested in corporate stock.

That stock portfolio included investments of $10 million or more in two dozen major companies. But 11 of the 24 firms favored by the investment managers — all major bank trust departments — were among the corporations classified by the AFL-CIO as being anti-union or non-union firms.

A committee hearing co-chaired by Bentsen earlier this year produced testimony showing that the trust department of one New York bank, the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., controls $15 billion worth of pension fund assets and has invested that money in a highly concentrated manner.

Roy Schotland, a pension fund expert and professor at the Georgetown University Law School in Washington, told the committee that Morgan held more than 5 percent of the outstanding stock of Alcoa, Mead Corp., Allied Stores, United Airlines, Southern Railway, Goodyear, Consolidated Freightways, Burlington Industries and other companies.

"Morgan is merely the big tip of a concentrated iceberg," added Schotland, who listed seven banks as the managers of a phenomenal $63 billion worth of pension fund assets.

They are, in order of their holdings, Morgan, Citibank, Bankers Trust, Chase, U.S. Trust, Mellon and Manufacturers Hanover. All except Mellon, located in Pittsburgh, are headquartered in New York. "This is 17 percent of all pension fund assets in America," said Schotland, "in the hands of seven banks."

Both senators intend to pursue their investigations next year, a course clearly warranted to bring about needed reform of a system best summarized in a forthcoming book, "Takeover," by authors Jeremy Rifkin and Randy Barber.

"The (pension, fund) money does belong to the workers, but in name only...The real control over the use of the fund is not in the hands of the employer, the union that negotiated the fund for the employees or the individual employees themselves."

Auxiliary Elects 1978 President

Preparing for a new year of volunteer work at Deaf Smith General Hospital, members of the Hospital Auxiliary assembled Monday at K-Bob's Steak House to elect a new slate of officers.

Audine Dettman stepped down from two consecutive terms as president, a post which will be filled during the coming year by Olivia Denning. Other officers for 1978 will include Jane White, vice president; Irene Reinart, recording secretary; Lani Walterscheid, corresponding secretary; Lupe Garcia, treasurer; and Mary Johnson, reporter.

In other business discussed during the monthly meeting, it was reported that a wallclock had been donated to the hospital by the Auxiliary. Also, it was announced that the recent blood pressure clinic in Sugarland mall had a good turnout.

The Auxiliary's next meeting will be a noon luncheon Feb. 6 at K-Bob's. All current and prospective members are urged to attend.

Fourteen women were present for Monday's meeting.

Antiques Valued As Investment

COLLEGE STATION — Antiques can provide enjoyment today and outstanding investment tomorrow, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The value of antiques keeps on climbing while new furniture depreciates from the moment it leaves the store, she says.

For an "electric" look that emphasizes a variety of styles and periods, combine antiques with other pieces. They are equally at home in a contemporary or traditional setting.

In shopping for antiques, rely on a reputable antique dealer, who is the consumer's best asset, Mrs. Young says.

In comparing items, look for those that are in good condition, while avoiding excessively refinished pieces.

Also, remember that an antique is anything that was in existence one hundred years before the date of purchase.

Program Initiated Here To Help Aged, Shut-Ins

A telephone Reassurance program is now underway in Hereford. Claudia Roundtree was named coordinator of the program by Green Thumb.

Green Thumb is a work training and job opportunity program. Its purpose is to employ elderly rural persons having limited incomes to carry out community betterment projects and to help the aged, shut-ins, and handicapped.

Mrs. Roundtree explained the telephone reassurance program's purpose is to provide daily telephone contact with Senior Citizens who need the reassurance and security of knowing someone cares about their well-being. Calling or visiting the elderly or the incapacitated who may be living alone will insure their health and well-being. The result may save someone's life which might otherwise end prematurely through capitulation to loneliness and melancholy, or suddenly because of an unattended illness or accident.

She will be calling and visiting Monday through Thursday. If anyone would like to join this program or knows of someone who might benefit from it, Mrs. Roundtree can be reached at 364-5887 or 364-5681.

Convention Discussed By Mothers

The Texas Mothers of Twins convention, scheduled during April in Dallas, was discussed by the local Multiple Miracles chapter Thursday afternoon during a meeting at SWPS Reddy Room.

In other business, club members agreed to have a coffee for prospective members during the month of April.

Chris Maples of Dimmitt demonstrated a line of home products, which are being sold by the club as a fund-raising project.

Others present were Joyce Simons, Betty Shuval and Janice Johnson.

The club's next meeting, scheduled at 4 p.m. Feb. 2, will be highlighted by the election of new officers.

Herd Rolls to 105-89 Victory

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

Kelly Kitchens and David Schumacher combined for 54 points here Tuesday night in leading the Hereford Whitefaces over the century mark for the first time this season as the Herd defeated the Levelland Lobos 105-89 in a wild, time-consuming game which was filled with sweeping action when the two squads weren't taking turns at the free throw line.

Kitchens tallied a game-high 30 points in leading the Herd win, with Schumacher putting forth one of his best efforts of the season with 24 points.

Points on the board weren't the only things in abundance in the contest, however, as the game officials kept a tight rein on the two running clubs, and wound up whistling the action dead on a total of 68 fouls.

The visiting Lobos were called down 37 times for personal fouls, and also got tabbed with three technicals along the way. Hereford was close behind with a total of 31 fouls.

Needless to say the two teams fired volley after volley from the charity stripe. The Whitefaces canned 39 of 53 free throw attempts (74 percent), while Levelland hit 29 of 45 (65 percent).

Kitchens, who went into the game with a 24.0 scoring average in 20 previous games, hit 10 of 14 charity tosses (71 percent) for Hereford, and Schumacher was perfect from the line (6-6) along with teammate Kent Ellis, who hit four of four.

Levelland also had a couple of sharp shooters from the stripe in Joe Washington (6-6) and Mike McCann (4-4). Leading scorer Kelly Spurlock, who finished the night with 24 points, wasn't quite as effective, hitting only two of six.

Hereford held a big edge in shooting percentage from the floor in the game. The Whitefaces hit 33 of 52 field goal attempts (65 percent) as compared to 29 of 74 by the Lobos (39 percent). Schumacher had a good night from the floor, hitting nine of 12 shots, while Kitchens canned 10 of 16.

Things got started on the wrong foot for Levelland before the starting whistle had even rung out. Lobo Sam Mitchell was assessed a technical foul during the warmup for hanging on the rim and Kitchens gave Hereford a 1-0 lead by hitting the free throw.

The Hereford senior all-star went on to add 12 more points in the first period to lead the Whitefaces to a 30-18 advantage. It took Hereford's Robert Lee Graves only 12 seconds to register the first of the 68 personal fouls on the night in the period, but the Herd quickly took a 5-1 lead, and never relinquished the advantage the rest of the way.

After hitting 30 points in the initial eight minutes the 'Faces kept pouring it on with 27 more in the second quarter, opening up what was to match their largest lead of the game at 56-36 with :42 left in the first half.

Schumacher scored eight of his 24 points in the second stanza and Herd coach Bobby Decker cleared his bench in an effort to keep the players fresh in the wake of the wide open affair. Kent Ellis, Brent Allen, and Ricky Matchett came off the bench to contribute four, three, and two points respectively in the quarter.

The Whitefaces cooled off in the third period, allowing the Lobos to post a 23-13 advantage in the eight-minute span. The surge closed the gap between the two squads to nine points (70-61) heading into the final stanza.

The Lobos managed to pull to within eight points of the running Herd with 6:21 left at 76-68, but eight unanswered points by the 'Faces put the game out of reach, and the only question left was whether or not the Herd would reach the 100-point plateau.

The score stood 90-77 with 2:46 remaining as Schumacher hit a short jumper, and with just 1:30 left the 6-3 Herd senior hit what turned out to be a four-point play to make it 97-81. Schumacher hit a layup to give the 'Faces a 95-81 lead, and levelland's Rocky Lawless was guilty of an intentional foul, giving Schumacher two free throws, which quickly went through the net.

David Arney made it 99-81 eight seconds later on yet another pair of free throws, and Kitchens got the century honor with just :58 left, connecting on both ends of a one-and-one situation.

Ellis followed a Buzzy Abalos layup with two more free throws, to close out the Hereford effort.

The 105 points was the most by the Herd this season, and matched the same output Hereford had against the Lobos last season in a 105-88 win on November 30, 1976 also in Hereford.

The big win ups the Whitefaces' season record to 13-8 with just a Saturday night date with the Clovis Wildcats left on the slate before the opening of District 4-4A action next Tuesday in Lubbock against Coronado. Levelland fell to 9-5 with the loss.

In wake of the exciting varsity match the previous sophomore and junior varsity games went virtually unnoticed. The Herd sophomores gained a 49-31 win over the Dimmitt "B" team, and the Lobo JV squeaked out a 60-58 win over the Herd JV in preceding matches.

Frank Maes' 22 points led the Herd sophomores to their win, the ninth against three losses this season. Keith Adams added nine points in the win, while Ronald Plummer hit eight, Ernie Suarez six, and Ricky Moreno four.

Lesley Mullins' 18 points led the JV in its loss, with Kevin Bunch contributing 13, Steve Cerda and David Mays 10 each, and Reid Herring seven. The loss dropped the JV to 10-6 on the year.

Mav Girls Fall To Two Opponents

The La Plata junior high girls basketball teams have had a rough time of it late with all three grades dropping consecutive games to Plainview and Canyon opponents.

In games played last week La Plata lost the 7th grade match to Plainview 28-26, the 8th grade game 27-26, and the freshman game 47-34. Then, Canyon fens turned the trick on the Mavericks Monday with the La Plata 7th graders losing 25-20, the 8th graders falling 30-13, and the freshmen losing 49-36.

Last week Kari Walterscheid led the Mav 7th grade with eight points in the loss to Plainview. Backup help came from Stephanie Foster (6), Michelle Clark (5), Marilyn Osborn (4), Lisa Cortez (2), and Dede Robbins (1).

The 8th grade team was led by Amy Schumacher's eight points against Plainview, while Debra Rogers and Brenda Strafuss added six points each. Cathy Lane (4) and Glenna West (2) rounded out the scoring.

Deanette Vigil's 14 points led the freshmen against Plainview while Terri Harkins added eight.

Monday's leaders had Walterscheid scoring seven points for the 7th grade, Strafuss pitching in eight for the 8th graders, and Harkins popping the nets for 20 points for the frosh, including a 10 for 13 stretch at the charity stripe.

The losses gave the 7th grade a 3-2 district record after the first half of play, while both the 8th and 9th grade teams fell to 2-3 with their twin defeats.

Dockery Adds An Assistant

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — New Texas Tech football coach Rex Dockery has added Pat Hodgson, a former all-Southeastern Conference receiver at Georgia and receiver coach for the Bulldogs since 1972, to his staff.

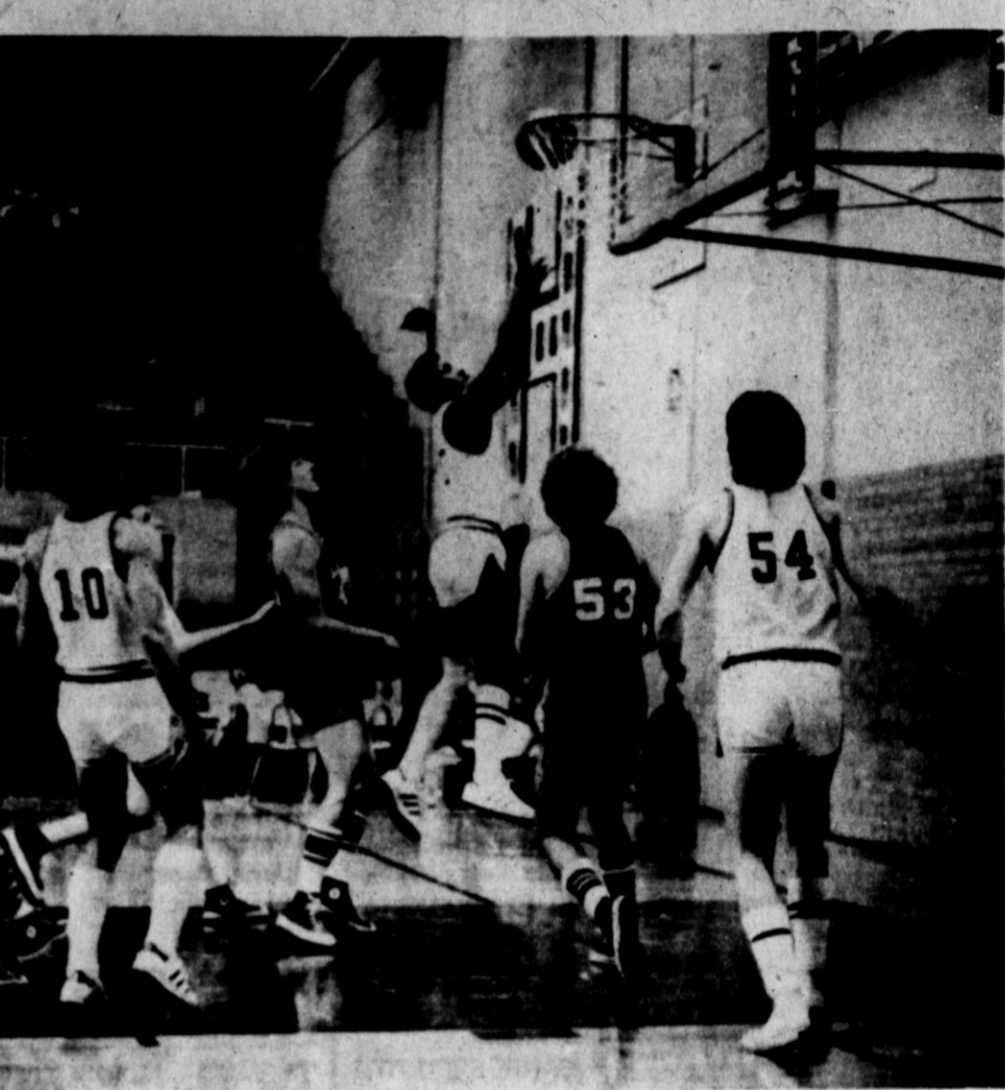

Hodgson, 33, named Tuesday to coach quarterbacks and receivers at Texas Tech, is the seventh coach to be named to Dockery's staff, leaving one position to be filled.

A three-year starter for the Bulldogs, Hodgson graduated from Georgia in 1965. He played two seasons in the National Football League, one each for Washington and Minnesota.

Hodgson has also served as coach of the Georgia freshman team and receiver coach at Florida State. He is a native of Atlanta.

Norm Shoots More; Chicago Beats Lakers

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Chicago Bulls Coach Ed Badger has been trying to get a point across to Norm Van Lier. But the way Van Lier talks, maybe the coach should let the rest of the team in on it.

Van Lier, a playmaking guard who has been averaging a little more than six points a game this season, scored 21 points besides dishing off 13 assists in Chicago's 110-106 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday over Los Angeles.

"We've been trying to get Norm to shoot more," Badger said after the victory, "because when other teams know a guy won't shoot, then they can double team somebody else."

Van Lier, who scored eight of his points in the fourth quarter when the Bulls rallied, agreed he took more shots than usual, "but it wasn't because anyone told me to."

"It's not my fault that when I start a play as the playmaker I never wind up with the ball," said Van Lier. "I don't think the other guys consciously keep me out of the offense, but the results are the same."

In other NBA games, Portland downed New York 126-113, Washington beat Kansas City 123-115, Philadelphia defeated Houston 95-80, Milwaukee whipped Indiana 125-103 and Denver edged New Orleans 115-110 in overtime. Golden State at Cleveland was postponed because of snow.

The Lakers led 104-100 with 2:56 left, but Mickey Johnson scored four points and Van Lier hit a 30-foot jumper to help put the game away and snap a five-game Bulls losing streak.

Jamaal Wilkes had 25 points for the Lakers, and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 16.

Blazers 126, Knicks 113

Portland extended its home-court winning streak to 40 games behind the 22 points of center Tom Owens, who did all his scoring while spelling Bill Walton. The Blazers' Lloyd Neal scored six points in a third-quarter surge that saw Portland run off 14 straight points and move to an 80-56 lead.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Parker is the first double winner of the Roberto Clemente Memorial Award, presented annually by the Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Parker's 1977 selection was announced Tuesday by Norm Vargo, president of the Pittsburgh writers' chapter and sports editor of the McKeesport Daily News.

The award, which Parker also won in 1975, goes to the Pittsburgh Pirate player who "most exemplifies the standards of excellence" set by the late Pirate rightfielder Roberto Clemente.

Parker, who also plays rightfield, led the National League with a .338 batting average last season.

Mickey Mantle hit 54 homers for the Yankees in 1961, the most ever in one season by a switch-hitter.

Judge Overturns Ban On Girls

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Attacking the "presumption that girls are physically weaker than boys," a federal judge has overturned a ban against girls playing on boys' high school athletic teams in Ohio.

The 12-page decision by Judge Carl B. Rubin of U.S. District Court, which could have nationwide impact, prohibits the Ohio High School Athletic Association from enforcing its rule that "in all contact sports football, wrestling, ice hockey, and basketball team members shall be boys only."

The Yellow Springs Board of Education had sued the athletic association in July 1976, contending its rules were unconstitutional.

Two seventh-grade girls in the school system were prohibited from joining the all-boys' basketball team because of the association regulations.

In his ruling Monday, Rubin said there may be a multitude of reasons why girls would choose not to play contact sports or be on a boys' team. "Reasons of stature or weight or reasons of temperament, motivation or interest. This is a matter of choice."

"But a prohibition without exception based on sex is not. It is this that is both unfair and contrary to personal rights contemplated in the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution," Rubin said.

"Although some women are physically unfit to participate with boys in contact sports," he said, "it does not necessarily and universally follow that all women suffer similar disabilities."

Yellow Springs School Superintendent Edward McKinney said the ruling "opens up a whole new era" in girls sports.

Leah Wing and Amy Underwood, who as seventh-graders were plaintiffs in the suit, now are in the 10th grade and say they have no interest in playing on boys' teams.

Baseball Hopes Rest With Son's Chances

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Carl Lebo has one chance left to make major league baseball, and it's the opportunity he's nurtured for the last 19 years.

It's his son Mike.

"The day my wife was in the hospital having Mike, I went out and bought a catcher's glove, bat and ball for him," Carl said. "I wanted him to have the career I didn't."

Carl Lebo is a computer specialist for a naval depot in Mechanicsburg, Pa., although he really wanted to be a big league ballplayer.

An injury in his first year of minor league ball cheated him of his chance of making the big time, so the next best thing will be watching Mike play for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Mike, 19, was the first pick Tuesday in baseball's 13th winter draft for amateur talent. Father and son had been waiting for this day for a long time.

"Since Day One, the only thing I've wanted to do is play ball," said Mike, a 6-foot-4, 215-pound catcher who was considered the outstanding prospect in this lean crop of amateur athletes. "This is something I've dreamed about all my life."

"This is one of the best days of my life," said Carl, a minor league catcher in the Brooklyn Dodgers' chain in the 1950s.

"I've wanted him to play baseball since that day in the hospital," Carl said. "He's wanted to play, too. But I guess you could say I've guided him a little."

Does Carl Lebo see Mike as a goal he couldn't reach? "Oh, without a doubt," Carl said.

Carl was playing in the low minors for Union City, Tenn., when his arm was injured by a foul tip. "I couldn't pick up my arm, and when a catcher can't throw, a catcher can't play," he said.

Would he have made the major leagues if not for the injury? "There's no doubt in my mind," Carl said.

That same confidence has been inherited by Mike, who dropped out of the University of South Carolina to be eligible for this draft.

"I can safely see myself in the big leagues in two years," said Mike, who spent several days practicing with the Blue Jays last September.

"From an ability standpoint, all of us were convinced he was the best player available," said Elliott Wahle, Toronto's administrator for player personnel. "He's a good hitter with plus power. With professional tutoring, he can be an average defensive player."

The Blue Jays, a second-year club with the worst record in baseball last season, can't afford to throw away first-round draft choices, so they were concerned with Lebo's signability. Wahle said Tuesday he is convinced the Blue Jays will be able to sign him.

"Negotiations have started somewhat," said Lebo by telephone from his home in Middletown, Pa. "And I hope to sign as soon as possible and get it out of the way."

Then he can concentrate on the burden of making the major leagues for two people.

Ron Baxter, Texas' talented sophomore basketball star, puts it this way after the Longhorns' third Southwest Conference victory without a loss.

"We had Texas Tech for breakfast, Houston for lunch and Arkansas would make a nice dinner."

Texas, sparked by Jim Krivacs, Baxter and Tyrone Branyan, defeated Houston, 100-89, Tuesday night to give the Longhorns a 3-0 conference mark and a 11-2 season record.

The Longhorns host undefeated and third ranked Arkansas Saturday night at Austin.

Three conference games are scheduled Thursday, Arkansas at Rice, Texas Tech at Baylor and Houston at Texas A&M.

Krivacs scored 29 points, Baxter 23 and Branyan 22 as the Longhorns snapped an 11-game home winning streak by Houston.

Mike Schultz led Houston with 19 points as the Cougars fell to 0-2 in league play and 10-4 for the season.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons had a ready response when asked if he felt his team had suddenly become a factor in the young SWC race.

"We're 3-0," he replied. "If that's not a factor, what is?"

"But Arkansas has those three great people and they are going to be tough to stop."

Houston Coach Guy Lewis termed the loss by the Cougars "a real good team effort of playing totally uninspired basketball."

after the Legislature voted in July to increase school expenditures by the state, sending most of the money to localities as aid in meeting expenses.

Clayton said 856 districts actually increased their tax collections, 57 held constant and only 153 reduced revenue from property taxes.

He acknowledged that new construction could increase a district's revenue without rises in either rates or assessed valuation of existing property.

But, he told reporters, "they really should have cut total revenue."

Brown Announces For Elected Term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown officially announced Tuesday for an elected term promising he would do all he could "to see that our farmers and ranchers have a fair share of this country's prosperity."

"The cost-price squeeze on our farmers is a real threat to them and to the nation," Brown told a news conference where the reporters were far outnumbered by applauding Brown supporters. "They must have immediate relief or many will be forced out of agriculture."

One of the non-applauding spectators was his Democratic opponent, Rep. Joe Hubenak, Rosenberg.

Brown said Congress, on its return to Washington Jan. 19, must act on the 1977 Farm Bill and "come up with legislation which will assure farmers realistic target prices that will meet their cost of production and permit them to have reasonable hope for a fair wage for their labors."

He said he would support farmers seeking 100 percent parity for their products so long as it was "obtained in the market place, through our free enterprise system."

He stressed that Texas farmers "must have unimpeded access to domestic and foreign markets, free from embargoes, price ceilings and other restrictions to free trade."

Brown, a former administrative aide to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was appointed last year by Briscoe as state agriculture commissioner to succeed John White, who had the job for 26 years.

Clayton made his comments after addressing about 35 persons who turned out for the third annual delegates' convention of Texans for Equitable Taxation, an organization working for lower property taxes.

"I had, in effect, been preparing myself for this important position all my life," Brown said. He cited his education and experience at Texas A&M University, as agricultural agent in Hunt, Kaufman and Caldwell counties, and in the Texas Community Improvement Program.

Brown said the transition in the agriculture department from the White administration has been smooth, efficient and effective.

He said one of his future plans was to start a statewide program called "A Summer with a Farmer or Rancher," where boys and girls from urban areas would be invited to spend time on farms "to see crops grown and harvested, the cows milked, the calves and pigs being born."

Brown said he also would work for "a sensible tax on agricultural land, based on productivity, but he thought it could be done at the 1979 legislative session without a special session, as some farmers want.

Following his announcement, Brown said his $1,500 filing fee which he said was contributed by friends from his hometown of Henderson and Rusk County.

third annual delegates' convention of Texans for Equitable Taxation, an organization working for lower property taxes.

The legislature passed a school finance bill spending $945 million over a two-year period, with $600 million of that amount going to districts to help pay operating costs.

Clayton said schoolmen seem to be happy with the new legislation, at least for the time being.

"I've heard a lot of them say, 'When you meet two years from now, if you just hold the status quo, man we're fine,'" Clayton said.

He predicted to the tax organization that the 1979 legislature again would "have a sizeable surplus in the state treasury," despite the currently forecast surplus of $21 million. "I believe if we are diligent in our duties to the citizens in this state, we can meet in 1979 and finance state government again without additional taxes," he said.

Clayton also said that if a federal judge in Austin rules in a suit now pending that intangible property such as stocks, bonds and jewelry must be taxed, the state constitution probably will have to be amended to make such items non-taxable.

He explained such items are virtually impossible to locate and assess.

"If it were simple to do, we would have started by now," he said.

Analyzing financial problems of school districts, Clayton said a major one along the Rio Grande is the influx of children of illegal aliens.

He said the children were "using my and your tax dollars to educate themselves."

Treatments Improving For Childhood Cancers

Aggressive new treatments that combine surgery, anti-cancer drugs and radiation are now providing good news in treating childhood tumors.

"The progress is truly astounding," says Dr. Margaret P. Sullivan, professor of pediatrics at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston.

For virtually every major form of childhood cancer, significant improvements in treatment have been made in recent years, she notes.

"Whereas 10 or 15 years ago only about 5% of the children with leukemia were being cured, today 50% or more will have a 5-year survival without disease and possibly be cured," she explains.

The same kind of progress can be seen in solid tumors. Once something like 30-40% of children with Wilms' tumor (a kidney tumor) might have been cured by surgery or radiotherapy, but now, with improved treatments and earlier diagnosis, perhaps 70% of the children can be cured, she says.

"Even in the treatment of osteogenic sarcoma (a bone cancer) which was thought to be one of the most resistant tumors that we dealt with," she adds, "there is a substantial cure rate at the present time, and we are talking about a treatment that is evolving and will probably be better in time."

Significant improvements such as these come as no surprise at major cancer research and treatment centers throughout the country where in the last 10 years an intensive war against childhood cancers has been underway.

What has contributed most to the improved cure rates? "I would have to say not enough credit can be given to the team approach to treatment where the surgeon, chemotherapist and radiotherapist work together and sequence their treatments or sandwich them in for greater effectiveness," says Dr. Sullivan.

Historically, she notes, each medical specialty acted more or less independently and the patient's treatment often depended on whether he or she was referred first to a surgeon, radiotherapist, or chemotherapist.

Today, in major cancer centers throughout the country the team approach is demonstrating that specialists working together and carefully planning each patient's specific treatment can greatly improve the chances of a cure - not only for childhood cancers, but all cancers.

Major developments in the field of chemotherapy also share much of the credit for dramatic improvements in treating childhood cancers, says Dr. Sullivan.

When combining two or more drugs, scientists often find the drug combination is more effective than if each drug was used separately. Ideally, combinations of drugs will intensify the benefits of each drug without increasing the disadvantages or side effects - thus making it easier to destroy cancer cells with minimal damage to the normal, healthy tissue.

The decision meant rates would remain $193 million below those requested by insurance companies and $112 million below original board staff recommendations—based on about $1.1 billion in annual private passenger car premiums. Board actuaries originally recommended

AUSTIN — New federal judgeships may be raising on Texas if a court bill passed by the U.S. Senate and approved (in slightly altered form) by the House Judiciary Committee becomes law.

Both versions of the legislature would create more than 100 new federal district courts and 35 additional circuit judgeships.

A 10.1 per cent hike, after the industry last summer asked 17.4 per cent more. A special rate consultant to the regulatory agency later suggested 1.8 per cent was adequate. Meanwhile, State Farm Insurance Company announced its profits justified a rebate of $7.5 million in excess premiums to state car owners.

ing messages offering a $5,000 bounty for killing a non-white who attacks a white.

The high court sustained lower court rulings which prevented trial of a $1 million suit by widows of men who died at the San Angelo sewer plant in 1973 after being overcome by gas.

A Mills County man is entitled to a new divorce hearing since he could not get a transcript of the original proceeding, the Supreme Court found.

The Supreme Court twice refused to interfere with a recount of a Panhandle State Senate District 31 runoff after Secretary of State Steve Oaks ordered it.

A Waco intermediate court's decision that may force an insurance company to pay $11,500 on a burned rural house in Navarro County which witnesses said was worth no more than $3,000 will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

AG Opinions

The State Board of Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies must release to the press documents concerning some of its investigations, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In another recent opinion, Hill concluded property leased by cities to private manufacturers are taxable to true owners where the cities never legally acquired ownership interests.

Ten of the district courts recommended by the Senate would be assigned to Texas. The Senate bill further recommended splitting the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, to provide a new Eleventh Circuit for Texas and Louisiana, and that would mean still more appellate judges for Texas.

The House committee bill would set up 110 new district courts, allocating nine of them to Texas.

Under the Senate bill, Texas' big southern district could get five district courts. The same district would get four in the House version. Both bills would provide three district courts for the northern district and one each for the western and eastern districts.

New courts mean a major patronage plum for President Carter — and Democratic U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen who will recommend appointments of Texas judges to the president.

A long list of applicants for the expected lifetime, $54,500 a year prestige appointments already is emerging—many of the hopefuls well-known Texas political names.

But under Bentsen's theory of "merit appointments," the best judicial appointees are the best qualified lawyers available.

Land Sale Set
A lease sale next month of nearly 750,000 acres of state-owned land may bring another $7 million to the state's public school fund.

The School Land Board has advertised for bids February 7 on the lands, which include 510,000 acres in the Gulf of Mexico.

The state leases the land to oil companies and individuals for a minimum of $25 an acre, plus a one-fifth royalty on any production.

Good Industry Year
Preliminary statistics indicate 1977 was a banner year for industrial development in Texas.

More than 210 companies announced plans for a Texas location last year, with a month yet to be accounted for. And plants are hiring more people.

While plants locating in 1976 hired an average of 38 people, the same plant in 1977 employed 54.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—The past four years have seen great strides in consumer protection in Texas.

Passage of the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act has given our Consumer Protection Division attorneys and district and county attorneys the tools for vigorous and effective enforcement programs. From May 21, 1973, through December of 1977, the 390 legal actions taken by our office on behalf of consumers have resulted in $335,373.31 in civil penalties collected for the State, while defrauded consumers have received $2,555,037.33 in restitution and other economic benefits.

Furthermore, our attorneys and complaint analysts continue to handle an ever-increasing consumer complaint caseload. In processing the 58,186 complaints we have received during this period, we have assisted Texas consumers in recovering an additional $4,250,432.79 in restitution without having to go to court.

To some, the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act has been a little too effective. During the past session of the legislature, several proposals were introduced to weaken the Act. However, with the support of business, consumer, and labor groups, a compromise bill passed the legislature that actually strengthened it.

This Act has been used on behalf of consumers in our nursing home investigations and in cases involving Medicare fraud, among many other types of cases. Most experts agree, though, that the best consumer protection is consumer education. All the laws in the world cannot adequately protect those who lack the most rudimentary skills of the marketplace.

According to a 1975 University of Texas study, 25 percent of all Texas adults are either incapable of conducting simple business tasks, such as properly filling out a check, or are doing so with great difficulty. The study indicates that nearly 2.5 million Texas adults are incompetent in such basic consumer skills as being able to figure out their change from a $20-bill when looking at a cash register receipt. More than 1.5 million Texans have difficulty figuring how much is deducted from their pay checks—even with the numbers in front of them.

Consumers will never be able to protect themselves adequately from unwise purchases or deceptive sales practices if there is not a strong commitment toward providing consumer education. Our efforts in this column have been directed toward informing Texas consumers of their rights and alerting them to types of frauds to guard against.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys will continue to enforce the law vigorously on behalf of Texas consumers and the Texas business community. If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll free: 1-800-252-9236.

Denver Secondary Feels It's Ready for Cowboys

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - You could almost see the instant replay unfolding behind Louis Wright's eyes - Roger Staubach pump-faking to Drew Pearson, suckering Bobby Bryant out of position, then hitting Golden Richards at the goal line for a 32-yard touchdown.

Wright, Denver's left cornerback, smiled at the thought of Bryant, the Minnesota defensive back, being faked out of his socks, of the Vikings' secondary stars getting burned so badly.

"They're a little slower. They're a little older. They're ... well, we're not gonna get burned like that," Wright said. His comment encompassed the entire Denver secondary that will be trying to shut off Richards, Pearson, Butch Johnson and any other Dallas receivers who might wander into its territory on Super Bowl Sunday.

"I figure they're going to stick mostly with the short stuff. If they try and go long on us too much, we're probably gonna end up hurting them a lot more than they hurt us," Wright said.

In the last regular-season game, quarterback Roger Staubach neatly sliced up the Denver defense, hitting 15 of 20 passes including touchdowns covering 22 yards to Preston Pearson and 7 yards to Robert Newhouse in a 14-6 Dallas victory.

That didn't impress Broncos safety Bernard Jackson.

"That game, y'know we didn't have a whole lot to gain," he said. "I mean, we'd already won the division, we already were assured of the home field in any games we played. So maybe the intensity wasn't there the way it could have been."

"But it'll be there this time." Jackson also downplayed the Cowboys' complex multiple-formation offense. "When they snap the ball," he said, "there's only so many things a body can do. They might jump around a lot in the backfield, but I don't think that's going to distract us all that much."

Richards, however, disagreed with Jackson's assessment. "If they know that we can run half a dozen different plays off one set formation and we've got a whole bunch of different sets, then they're got to have a lot of things running through their minds. Y'know, like, 'If they were successful with that last time, are they gonna run it again or are they gonna run a variation?'"

"I think maybe his Jackson's view is just a little bit too simplified."

And what of the Bronco offense?

"Their defense seems to be their offense," said Waters. "That is, the offense sort of sits back until the defense gives them the ball in good field position with a fumble recovery or an interception. Then they go in and score."

It almost sounded as if Waters was underrating the Denver attack. Granted, it was 10th in the American Conference, but numbers like that can be deceiving, cautioned Jack Dolbin, the wide receiver who plays opposite the more highly publicized Haven Moses.

"People tend to discount our offense," said Dolbin. "But we get the job done. Like, there was the game in San Diego. We were down with two minutes to go and had to go 80 yards to win - and we did. Or the Oakland game for the AFC title when we knew we needed two first downs in the last few minutes to win it - and we got 'em."

"Anybody who underestimates our offense may be sorry he did."

And Dolbin certainly isn't underrating Dallas' deep defense. "Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters have got to be about the two toughest safeties around," he said. "They're real good intimidators and real hard-knockers. And it's not just them."

Benny Barnes and Aaron Kyle are no slouches. There are four real good tacklers back there."

And how can Denver hope to penetrate it?

"If Dallas overloads a bit on Haven," Dolbin said, "I think that'll leave me open in enough one-on-one situations."

In the Denver-Dallas game barely a month ago, Moses caught just one pass for 7 yards while Dolbin caught five for 85. The difference was that young, scrambling Norris Wesse, not placid veteran Craig Morton, was running the Denver attack. Morton sat out all but the first three offensive plays for the Broncos.

"I didn't play my best. Very few of us did in that game," said Moses. "This one is going to be different."

Asked if Denver might try to come up with a few new wrinkles for its offense to match the complexities of the Cowboys' attack, Moses replied:

"I guess not. Whatever got us here I think'll be good enough for one more game."

Meyer Ousted, McCulley Hired

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Ken Meyer is out and Pete McCulley is the new man on trial as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers.

"When you hire an assistant coach as head coach, you put him on trial because he doesn't have a track record to consider," the 49ers' Joe Thomas said Tuesday in announcing the coaching change.

Thomas, vice president and general manager of the National Football League team, hired Meyer last spring soon after Monte Clark had been fired by the 49ers' new owner, Edward DeBartolo Jr. Meyer came from the staff of the Los Angeles Rams and McCulley was a Baltimore Colts assistant four seasons before going to the Washington Redskins last year.

"He's not new to me and I'm not new to him. I know what he

Collins Sees Football As Route Out of Poverty

BLOOMING GROVE, Tex. (AP) - They say Milton Collins is the next Earl Campbell, but don't tell him that. He just wants to be Milton Collins.

But like Campbell, the Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Texas, Collins sees college football, and perhaps the pros, as a way out of the poverty of rural Texas.

He was the seventh of 11 children born to Freddie Mae and Alvin Cecil Collins in this farming community about 50 miles southeast of Dallas.

The family lived for years on the $90 a month Alvin Collins brought home from his job at the grain mill.

At age 12, Milton saw his diabetic father, who was legally blind, fall dead on the living room floor of a heart attack. He remembers the beans and cornbread meals and the rabbit hunts without a firearm.

Today, the 18-year-old running back could just about write his own ticker considering the way the college recruiters are beating a path to his door.

At 6-1 and 235 pounds he eclipsed the 100-yard rushing mark 26 times, the 200-yard mark eight times and 300 yards once in three seasons. He rushed for 4,955 yards with an eight-yard per carry average.

But Collins says he's not for sale. He's never had cars or clothes or money, so he can do without them now.

There's been a constant flow of recruiters and alumni down the unpaved road to no-name street, the last house on the left, the one with the rickety front door.

Last week, Mrs. Collins says a man in a business suit, who identified himself as an alum of a Southeast Conference school, offered to build her a new house "with carpeting" in return for Milton's signature.

"I told him he'd better not say that to Milton," said Mrs. Collins. Last week Collins cut that school from his priority list that has been narrowed to Texas, Texas Tech and SMU.

"I found out a long time ago that I can do without money," said Collins. "I got here because of my mother, not money. My mother went through unbelievable stuff raising all the kids. When a coach tells me he'll give me so much money, or so many things for signing, I tell them I cannot be bought."

"When I was a kid we had nothing but beans and cornbread and sometimes on weekends we had a little meat. I will tell those people the same quote that Earl Campbell uses. Two hundred years ago the black people were slaves. Today you cannot buy me."

On the first day of summer workouts last year, every SWC school had a representative at this Class A team's practice field.

Until the recruiting season Collins had never traveled outside his hometown except for out-of-town games on the school bus.

There apparently is some resentment in this town of 740, which also serves as bedroom community for Dallas that Collins did as well as he did on the football field.

"There's a lot of people here who didn't think a black boy should be carrying the football that much," one resident said. "Despite how great Milton was, and despite how smart he is, there were a lot of people in this town that wanted very little to do with him."

But folks around here take their football seriously. Head Coach Greg Bailey, after a 10-2 season this year, turned in his resignation when the season ended and says he's not sure if the school board would have voted him back or not.

In two of the three previous years the school board vote had been 4-3 in Bailey's favor.

Collins says he'll miss Blooming Grove, but looks hopefully to the paved roads ahead.

"It's been a good place to grow up," he said. "But I don't think I'd like to live here."

SF Surprises Irish

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Call it revenge for San Francisco. Center Bill Cartwright did.

After the Dons had upset fifth-ranked Notre Dame 79-70 Tuesday night, Cartwright was willing to admit that, yes, there was a motive other than victory involved.

It goes back to last March 5, when the Dons were riding a 29-game winning streak and cruising atop the college basketball rankings. That Saturday at South Bend, Ind., the Fighting Irish upset San Francisco 93-82 for the only blemish on the Dons' regular season record before Nevada-Las Vegas beat them in the first round of the NCAA Far West regional.

"This game was a little bit revenge," said Cartwright, "and a little bit to prove we're among the top teams in the country."

San Francisco had been ranked 19th in this season's poll until last week, when they dropped from the ratings.

After seeing Notre Dame's record drop to 7-3, Fighting Irish Coach Digger Phelps felt that might change.

"Personnel-wise," he said, "San Francisco is as good as any team we've faced this year. If they keep their heads and play like they did tonight, they can beat anybody in the country."

They beat Notre Dame with a strong rebounding effort, pulling down 39 to 25 by the Irish.

"Notre Dame is so big and strong, we had to have a great sustained effort by everybody on the boards," explained San Francisco Coach Bob Gaillard after the Dons raised their record to 10-4.

Cartwright and James Hardy hailed in nine rebounds each, and Doug Jemison and Winford Boynes had eight each.

Jemison also scored three baskets in the 10-point second-half spurt which capped a 16-2 run and carried San Francisco to victory. Cartwright led Dons scorers with 20 points while Don Williams had 17 for the Irish.

Elsewhere in games involving ranked teams, No. 19 Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 66-55 and No. 20 DePaul beat Eastern Michigan 91-83.

Meanwhile, Rutgers bested William & Mary 79-71. Princeton downed Seton Hall 70-58, Penn blasted the Citadel 103-73 and East Carolina topped St. Peters, 90-77.

Gaillard says he expects his team to reach full stride in about 10 days, and Coach Gale Catlett of Cincinnati feels the same way. After Cincinnati raised its record to 10-3 by beating St. Louis, Catlett said, "My goal all year has been for our team to peak between the middle of January and the end of the month. We're pretty close to that schedule."

But winter is reaching a peak of its own, as evidenced by the 52-degree temperatures on the basketball court at Cincinnati's Riverfront Coliseum.

"It was as cold as I've ever seen a basketball game played," said Billikens' Coach Ron Coleman, "but it was the same for both teams. It was just too cold for basketball."

The St. Louis shooting was equally frosty. The Billikens scored just six points in the last nine minutes.

Dave Corzine scored 26 points and Joe Ponsetto added 25 to help DePaul overcome a career-high 28-point performance by Ken Harmon and down Eastern Michigan.

Oliver Mack started an 18-2 streak and led the scoring with 26 points as Eastern Carolina overpowered St. Peters. Penn scored the first 13 points of the game and Keven McDonald led the way with 18 points as the Ivy League leaders crushed The Citadel.

Frank Sowinski scored 21 points to lead Princeton past Seton Hall in the teams' first meeting in 31 years. James Bailey scored a career-high 43 points and collected 13 rebounds to lift Rutgers over William & Mary.

Cornell's scheduled visit to the University of Rochester was postponed for a week "because of the weather. Cornell can't get up there," a spokesperson said.

ATLANTA (AP) - Delta State University's first female basketball recruit, Lusia Harris Stewart, was awarded the first Broderick Cup Tuesday as the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women's outstanding woman athlete of the year.

The 6-foot-3 center led the Mississippi school through four years of basketball. She also scored the first basket in women's Olympic basketball and led the U.S. Olympic team to a silver medal in 1976.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Strings who had the worst record in World Team Tennis last season, have obtained the rights to Chris Evert from the Phoenix Racquets.

The Strings hope to sign Miss Evert, the top woman player in the world, to a 1978 contract, a spokesman for the Los Angeles WTT club said Tuesday.

Carter Won't Recommend Pentagon Budget Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - According to the White House, President Carter already has met his promise to cut defense spending by $5 billion to $7 billion. By Republican accounting he hasn't. Either way, he is about to recommend a substantial increase in the Pentagon budget.

There are numbers to support both cases. And there are more numbers with which the administration can maintain that, even as spending goes up, Carter is standing by his commitment to rein in defense spending.

Behind the figures there is evidence of the distance between the view from the campaign platform and that from the White House. Few items in Carter's catalogue of campaign promises have been cited more often than this, prior to the Democratic National Convention:

"Without endangering the defense of our nation or our commitments to our allies, we can reduce present defense expenditures by about $5 billion to $7 billion annually."

That seemed clear and simple enough. But Carter later said he couldn't foresee precise budget figures, and that what he had in mind were reforms and efficiency measures to save about 5 percent of defense spending, whatever the total figure.

But his more specific pledge was logged in the White House catalogue of his campaign promises.

When Carter presented his amendments to Gerald R. Ford's final budget, he recommended cuts of about $2.8 billion in defense spending authority, to a total of $120.1 billion. He said there had been little time to work on those recommendations, and added that a major review of defense programs would be reflected in his own budget this year.

At the Republican National Committee, which is keeping book on Carter's campaign promises, GOP scorekeepers marked that one broken.

But the defense budget Carter recommended was pruned again in Congress. "The Carter budget is about $117 billion as approved by Congress," the White House said, in listing fulfillment of the campaign pledge as one of the accomplishments of his first year in office.

Now Carter is about to present his own defense budget for the year beginning next Oct.

1, and it will be about $126 billion.

"The defense budget that I will be submitting to the Congress later this month will provide for real increases in U.S. defense spending, more than compensating for the effects of inflation," Carter told the NATO Council on Jan. 6.

He said U.S. forces in Europe will be increased by more than 8,000 men over the next 18 months, "and we will substantially improve our reinforcement capability."

The troop increase had been planned for some time.

While the new budget will be about $9.3 billion higher than the current one, it also is about $9.4 billion below the level Ford had projected.

Ford had forecast a defense budget reaching $135.4 billion in fiscal 1979, and the administration can cite that evidence that Carter has kept his commitment to rein in spending.

But whatever the budget might have been without Carter, his proposed increase will be real and substantial. The demands behind it are more important now than that campaign pledge.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, cites a major one, saying the Soviet Union has built up its forces in Europe and the United States must respond.

"...Over the last decade or so, in part as a consequence of the strains in our economy and in our defense budget of the Vietnamese war, the Soviet Union has relatively improved its military position in Europe, particularly on the conventional level," Brzezinski said Sunday on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation."

"We will compensate for that relative improvement, and we expect our allies to do likewise."

Social Security Questions Asked

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Jim Talbot, District Manager, Social Security Administration, P.O. Box 7000, Amarillo, Texas 79109. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

Q. I was eligible for Medicare 2 years ago. At the time, I didn't want the medical insurance part of Medicare, but I've since changed my mind. Isn't there a special enrollment period when I can sign up for it?

A. Yes. There is a general enrollment period in the first 3 months of each year. The enrollment is January 1 through March 31, 1978. If you sign up for medical insurance during a general enrollment period, your protection won't start until July 1 of the year you enroll, and your monthly medical insurance premium generally will be 10 percent higher for each year you could have been enrolled but weren't.

Q. Our daughter was killed in an auto accident 2 weeks ago. She was our sole source of support. Can my wife and I get social security benefits on our daughter's work record? My wife is 62 and I'm 63.

A. Dependent parents 62 or older may be eligible for social security survivors benefits if their deceased son or daughter had worked long enough under social security. You should contact a social security office. The people there will check your daughter's record to see if she had enough social security work credits for you to get benefits.

Q. Why is that wife with children can get benefits if her husband dies, while a wife without children can't until she's age 60? Either one may be dependent on the husband's earnings for support.

A. Generally a woman with children is needed in the home, and the benefits make it possible for her not to have to work and thus care for her children. Women without children aren't so encumbered and usually find it easier to work.

Time Ran Out For Father

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) - Simon Peter Nelson, accused of murdering his six children, was optimistic to the end that he could save his faltering marriage, says his work supervisor - "but time ran out."

Michael Weldon said Nelson, 46, "had turned over a new leaf for 1978," and as one of his last efforts to patch his relationship with his wife, Ann, sent her a bouquet of flowers with a card.

The 270-pound Nelson was indicted Monday by a Winnebago County grand jury on charges that he beat and stabbed his children as they slept. He will be arraigned today in Circuit Court.

Earlier in the day, Nelson appeared before Circuit Judge David Smith to hear the charges against him. A public defender was assigned as his counsel.

A funeral home spokeswoman said about 20 persons, most of them relatives, attended a memorial mass for the children Monday.

The children, Jennifer, 12; Roseann, 5; Simon, 10; Andrew, 8; Matthew, 7, and Davis, 3, will be buried Wednesday in private services at Calvary Cemetery.

Weldon, who was Nelson's supervisor at an employment agency, said in an interview that a few hours before the slayings Nelson seemed hopeful his marriage could be salvaged and asked for a salary advance and time off so he could go to Milwaukee to try to talk his wife out of filing for a divorce.

Mrs. Nelson left the couple's Rockford home Thursday night and was staying in a Milwaukee motel, authorities said.

Weldon said Nelson told him that his wife and children "meant everything to him." But when it appeared that the marriage might end "something must have snapped," said Weldon.

"His wife came from a wealthy family. She was slim energetic and always looking to achieve. Pete was always striving to become the success her father was, but never reached that point. He was never the provider that he thought he should be," Weldon said.

"He said the whole thing started to come to a head over the weekend before and that Ann had set down rules," said Weldon. Among the conditions Mrs. Nelson set, Weldon said, were for Nelson to stop drinking, lose weight, shave his beard and trim his hair.

'No Conflict' People Picked for Positions

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) - What this country needs said Edward David, is men of vision - dedicated, imaginative, innovative people who are willing to risk fortune and personal well-being to achieve a goal.

What this country is getting, he said, is regulation, planning, centralization. Bland, "no conflict" people are chosen over more controversial, innovative people. Technology is thwarted.

Said David: "It is becoming more difficult to put knowledgeable, dedicated people into critical slots, particularly in government." The absence of conflicts, he said, is deemed more important than ability.

David, former science adviser to President Nixon and now president of Exxon Research and Engineering Co., is one of a growing fraternity who fear the misuse and distrust of technology is endangering our future.

Many people have an unwarranted fear of technology as costly and dangerous, said David. Governmental decisions involving it often are made by non-technologists. Business sometimes overmanages it.

The dangers of technology are exaggerated, said David. "The only proven danger from a microwave oven is heat," he insists. An automobile driver incurs more risk than a person living near a nuclear power plant, he argues.

And costly? Isn't it through technology that we lower production costs? Hospital use of the C.T. scanner has been limited as too costly. Says David: If we permitted mass production the cost would dive.

In government, said David, the conflict-of-interest syndrome is like a disease, often discrediting or ruling out the most qualified and experienced people.

The nation seems to be losing its taste for excellence and dedication," he wrote recently. "We are opting for bland, stodgy, marginal competence." Innovation, as a consequence, deteriorates.

Speaking at a recent meeting on technology and society, hosted in Erie, Pa., by the Lord Corp., David stated flatly that the Federal Drug Administration had damaged innovation in the drug industry.

"If you look at the number of new drug introductions before the 1962 hearings and make a plot against time, you find there was a steep decline in new drug introductions shortly afterward," he said.

"It is now down to relatively few per year in the United States, whereas before the law it was on the order of 25 to 30 per year," said David, who feels governmental "cures" often cause problems instead.

Business, so dependent upon technology, sometimes thwarts it too. "We all know that creative research requires license, for it is uniquely an individual effort requiring personal inspiration," he wrote recently.

But overplanning and overmanagement in business are perhaps of the same genre. An early cash flow analysis, for example, can be deadly to a creative process whose payoff, if any, is far in the future.

Attempts to plan the root stages of the innovative process, David believes, "can destroy the very ingenuity they seek to manage."

The roots of David's thinking - he has a doctorate from MIT - are fed by practicality and philosophy. He believes the country's future depends on people of vision and creativity. He believes freedom is involved also.

The climate that promotes innovative change, that seeks out new solutions to old problems and which establishes new markets, demands that people be given free choice, he believes.

He scores as "central to the problem rather than the cure" the notion that the citizenry must be protected against itself. "Citizens are best able to protect themselves," he said with finality.

Grain Bin With Corn Explodes

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. (AP) - A grain bin containing an estimated one million bushels of shelled corn exploded early Tuesday, scattering corn and debris over a wide area and knocking out power to 50 homes.

No one was reported injured in the blast at the Seegers Grain Co. in an unincorporated area northwest of Crystal Lake.

Authorities speculated that a buildup of pressure and heat touched off the explosion in the 40-foot-tall bin and elevator.

A Commonwealth Edison spokesman said power was expected to be restored to the 50 homes this morning.

Authorities learned of the explosion only after local residents called police complaining of hearing a loud blast and having power failures.

Police found the more than $2 million worth of corn and remains of the bin scattered over a large area.

Park Won't Answer Questions on Testimony

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Tongsun Park signed an agreement today to tell U.S. Justice Department investigators and American courts everything he knows about the Korean payoff scandal on Capitol Hill. But he refused to tell reporters whether he would testify before congressional committees.

Justice Department prosecutor Paul Michel said he and other investigators from Washington will start interrogating the Korean rice dealer Friday morning, using a lie detector. He said they hoped to conclude the questioning in about 10 days.

Park signed a memorandum pledging to divulge the full truth about his dealings with past and present members of the U.S. Congress during a meeting at the U.S. Embassy with Acting Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti.

The document pledges Park to answer the questions of U.S. investigators in Seoul and, if required, in American courts in return for full immunity from pending criminal charges against him.

Emerging from the 20-minute meeting, the gray-suited, 42-year-old Korean businessman told reporters he decided to co-operate with the American investigation to foster the friendly relations between the two countries.

"It's my intention....that I should do my level best to co-operate with all parties concerned," he declared. But when asked if this meant he would testify before U.S. congressional committees investigating the scandal, he replied: "I won't answer that question now."

Leon Jaworski, special counsel to the House Ethics Committee, has threatened "grave consequences" if Park refuses to testify before his panel. This apparently was a repetition of the previous threat to halt American aid to Korea which produced the agreement to have Park testify in the courts.

About 20 former and present congressmen have acknowledged they received money or other gifts from Park but denied any wrongdoing.

American-Korean relations were strained after Park refused to go back to Washington to face trial in federal court on 36 counts of bribery, mail fraud and other charges in connection with his alleged influence-buying on Capitol Hill.

Woman Contends She Married Hunt in 1925

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Only a blank spot remains where there once was a record showing that a marriage license was issued to Frania Tye Lee and a man named Richard Hunt, a court archives expert testified Tuesday.

Mrs. Lee contends that "Richard" actually was oil billionaire H. L. Hunt and that he was bigamously married to her. She now is in federal court trying to get a piece of the late billionaire's estate.

Bruce A. Singleton, assistant director of archives for the clerk of court's office in Hillsborough, Fla., testified that someone apparently cut a page out of a courthouse record book. The page, he said, contained an entry showing that the marriage license was issued.

But Singleton said it did not show that a marriage actually took place and was, in fact, stamped with the word "void." He said that attorneys for both sides in the dispute have copies of the page which disappeared in late 1975 or early 1976.

Mrs. Lee, who is 73 and lives in Atlanta, Ga., contends that she married Hunt in Florida in 1925 but discovered in 1934 that he also was married to another woman. She wants half of the money Hunt made between 1924 and 1934 plus half of the fruits that have subsequently sprung from those riches.

She claims that H.L. Hunt was the father of her four children.

One of those children, Hugh Lee Hunt, 43, of Alexandria, Va., testified Tuesday. He told the court that when he was a teen-ager his mother told him to "respect and honor Hunt as my father and he would take care of us."

Hugh Hunt testified that his mother became upset in 1974 after reading a book that Haroldson Lafayette Hunt, one of the world's richest men, had written about his early life.

"He was never supposed to deny our family existed," he said.

At issue in the fight are the technicalities of whether H.L. Hunt and Frania Tye were legally married, since Hunt already had a wife in 1925, and whether Frania relinquished any claim on the Hunt estate by signing a financial settlement in 1942 that gave her $100,000 and $2,000 a month.

There was no doubt H.L. Hunt regarded himself as the father of Frania's four children.

Ray Lee Hunt, Dallas, president of Hunt Oil Co. and executor of the estate, testified that he and others in Hunt's public family always accepted as half brothers and sisters the four second family children: Hugh, Haroldina, Howard and Helen.

Hunt's will bestowed upon each of his children one-fourteenth of his Louisiana estate.

Lawyers for the Hunt estate contend that Frania and H. L. Hunt settled their marriage dispute with a financial agreement.

A New Orleans woman, Martha Kreeger, testifying by deposition because she was too ill to attend the trial, said she and Frania were friends and Hunt offered her $10,000 to use her influence to get Frania to accept a settlement.

Mrs. Kreeger said she told Hunt she understood he had bought off most of Frania's friends, "but my friendship is not for sale."

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Kreeger said she believed that Frania did not file suit earlier because she was still in love with Hunt.

The trial is expected to last a week or more.

Term Criticized By Power Company

DALLAS (AP) — Use of the term "illegal" in describing Texas Power & Light Co.'s non-compliance with air quality standards has been criticized by firm officials.

A court settlement that put TP&L at the top of a national list of utilities that paid penalties for non-compliance in 1976 was not a product of illegal activities, Jerome Davis said Tuesday.

"We resent the use of the term illegal," Davis said. "It's a misnomer."

Some media accounts described the Environmental Action Foundation's report as referring to illegal activities.

The report found TP&L's $91,667 paid in penalties the highest paid in 1976 by any of the nation's 100 largest electric utilities.

Texas Attorney General John Hill described the dispute as a "disagreement" between the state and several power companies," Davis said.

When air quality standards were put into effect, TP&L ordered equipment that would comply," Davis said.

"The equipment did not operate up to expectations and left us in non-compliance," he said. "The air standards were also upgraded, and that's the part we felt inclined to disagree with."

"We have since agreed it would not be in the past interests of our customers to pursue it at this time."

The dispute involved lignite operations at several TP&L plants.

Texas Taxes

By BOB SULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN — "How do I go about getting a Tax Exempt Number?"

Of the thousands of taxpayer questions fielded weekly by the State Comptroller's Office, that is one of the most frequently asked.

The State Sales and Use Tax Law does, of course, provide exemptions for religious, educational, charitable and other groups whose tax-exempt status is authorized by law.

Exemptions also are authorized on otherwise taxable items that are used in prescribed ways, such as tractors and implements used by a farmer or rancher exclusively for the production of food.

A number is not issued to groups or individuals who are qualified to make such tax-exempt purchases, however. Instead, the buyer simply signs an Exemption Certificate.

This Certificate certifies to the retailer that the person making the purchase is doing so in behalf of an organization that is indeed tax-exempt.

In the case of a farmer or rancher, the purchaser is certifying that he will be using the items purchased only for the tax-exempt purposes allowed.

(The retailer should have blank Exemption Certificates on hand, but to be on the safe side, you might pick up one at the State Comptroller's Field Office nearest you).

You are not required to sign a separate Exemption Certificate for each tax-exempt purchase, but every retailer you do business with is required to have at least one such certificate for you on file.

For example, if you make a lot of tax-exempt purchases at Joe's Hardware Store, you need to sign an Exemption Certificate only once at that location. Joe then will keep the Certificate on file for record-keeping purposes.

If the retailer making the sale has any doubt about the tax-exempt status of your organization, he may ask for proof.

A letter from the Comptroller's Office certifying that the organization is tax-exempt will furnish the proof needed or the nearest Comptroller's Field Office may be contacted to confirm exempt status.

Men Convicted Of Slaying Reporter

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two men convicted of first-degree murder in the June 1976 car-bomb slaying of newspaper reporter Don Bolles were sentenced to death Tuesday.

Max Dunlap, a 48-year-old Phoenix contractor, and James Robison, 55, a plumber from suburban Chandler, were found guilty Nov. 6 of murder and conspiracy in the bombing. Prosecutors asked that they be sentenced to death.

The death of Bolles, whose reporting specialty for the Arizona Republic was crime, brought a team of broadcast and newspaper reporters and editors to Arizona to investigate organized crime.

Their report was issued in May.

Extensive 1980 Census To Also Be Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1980 census, which will cost four times as much as the 1970 census, will be "the world's largest data collection effort," the Census Bureau director says.

Manuel D. Plotkin said that because the bureau is making a special effort to count precisely the number of persons in minority groups, the 1980 census will cost more than $4 per American compared with $1 per person in 1970.

The 1970 census measured a population of 204 million and cost $218 million, census officials said. The 1980 census is expected to count 220 million Americans and cost an estimate $900 million.

Plotkin said the 1970 census undercounted the number of Americans by 2½ percent, or 5.3 million persons. Of these, an estimated 3.4 million whites and 1.9 million blacks were not counted.

The bureau plans to hire 200 field workers — 10 times more than in 1970 — specifically to help minority groups complete the forms.

The census, whose constitutional purpose is to determine the apportionment of seats in the House of Representatives, is taken every 10 years.

It not only counts the number of people in America, but also records such information as sex, race, marital status, number of children, occupation, educational background and housing facilities. The 1980 census for the first time will ask about income and ethnic background.

One of the biggest uses of the information is to determine from population breakdowns and economic data how federal money should be distributed to states and local communities.

"We're under more pressure now to get more precise information because there are more government programs, and the allocation of federal funds for these programs is tied to the census," Plotkin said in an interview.

The 1980 census, the 20th conducted by the federal government, will also reflect change in American life over the past decade.

In recognition of the fact that many more women are working and contributing to the family income, it will not ask that one person be designated the "head of household," traditionally assumed to be a male breadwinner with wife and children.

Questions will be asked about persons' relationship to each other, and there will be a space for roommates or partners to be listed, allowing the government to count how many unmarriages live together.

Besides the interest of federal, state and local governments in census figures, industry and business leaders also pay close attention to changing age distributions. "For many groups, like the baby-food market, the teen-age market, the senior citizen market and the homeowner market, it is of vital importance what changes are occurring in different age groups," Plotkin said.

Around April 1, 1980, every American household will receive a census form by mail. The short form, which 80 percent of the households will receive, has 19 questions and takes about 15 minutes to complete. The long form, which the other 20 percent will receive, has about 75 questions and takes about 45 minutes to complete.

Under law, there is a fine of up to $100 for willfully neglecting to complete the census form. The government pays the mailing costs.

Russians Launch 2 Cosmonauts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Tuesday rocketed two cosmonauts into space to rendezvous with two colleagues who have already spent a month abroad the Salyut 6 space station, Tass reported.

Successful docking of the new cosmonauts would mark the first time four men have been placed aboard a Soviet space laboratory at the same time.

The Soviet news agency said cosmonauts Vladimir Janibekov and Oleg Makarov blasted off in Soyuz 27 at 3:26 p.m. Moscow time 8:26 a.m. EST. Already aboard Salyut 6 are flight commander Yuri Romanenko, 33, and flight engineer Georgy Grechko, 46, who were fired into orbit in the Soyuz 26 spacecraft Dec. 10 and linked up with Salyut 6 the following day.

Grechko took a walk in space Dec. 20 to check the space lab's docking ports and reported them in good working order.

If the Soyuz 27 flight follows previous patterns and the docking maneuver is successful, Janibekov and Makarov should join the other two late Wednesday. Janibekov, an air force lieutenant colonel and commander of the spaceship, is making his first space flight, while Makarov, a civilian and flight engineer, flew before on Soyuz 12 in 1973.

Tass said after the docking the four cosmonauts would carry out joint research and experiments.

The agency said Soyuz 27's systems were functioning normally and the two new cosmonauts were feeling well.

The last time the Soviet Union had four men in space was in October 1969 when they flew in three differ spacecrafts, Soyuz 6, 7, and 8, and carried out joint maneuvers, including docking of two of the spacecraft.

Three U.S. astronauts spent 28 days aboard Skylab in May 1973 and later were joined by a three-men relief crew in a mission that lasted nearly two months.
