Another attempt set to eliminate repository funds

Rep. Beau Boulter of Texas and Congressman James Weaver of Oregon are planning to submit a House floor amendment Wednesday to delete funding for site characterization for first round sites of nuclear waste repositories until legal matters are settled, according to Tanya Kleuskens, president of POWER, (People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories).

"Hopefully, we'll have Larry Combest's cooperation," said Kleuskens.

A spokesman for Combest's office said today that the congressman would support the amendment out of protest against the Department of Energy's "lack of complying to the letter of the law."

Paul Sievers, public relations representative for Boulter's office said the congressmen want to reduce the funding by 90 percent.

"We're opposed to the way the Department of Energy has taken in implementation of the site selection process. They've taken their whole methodology—threw it out the window, and want to take the whole eastern United States and exclude it from consideration," Sievers claimed.

"The whole way they've run roughshod with the process is ridiculous in our view. They said they were going to take the safest place, but they're way of doing this is not safe, it is not scientific and it is not fair," he said.

"So the congressmen want to stop the process in its tracks and the only way to do that is through funding," Sievers said.

He also commented that the only way to send the DOE a message is through Washington.

"We want the DOE to put down their picks and shovels and go back to the beginning of the process," he added.

Combest also will become a special member of the Science and Technology House Subcommittee today for a hearing on postponement of the search for a second nuclear waste repository site by the Department of Energy.

Trudy Lewis, public relations rep for Combest, said it is a rare privilege to be asked to serve on another committee.

Combest will address his concern about whether the DOE is properly implementing the Nuclear Waste Policy Act and how second site search postponement will affect the first sites begin considered.

Police busy during weekend

Other than arrests made, Hereford police filed six written reports late Saturday, 12 on Sunday and 20 on Monday, according to records at the department.

Offenses on Saturday included three domestic problems, a report of a juvenile throwing rocks at a dog, a possible dog poisoning, and a problem with trash in the alley.

Sunday reports included two complaints of a prowler on Avenue I. Reports were from the 200 and 300 block of that street between 2 and 2:30 a.m.

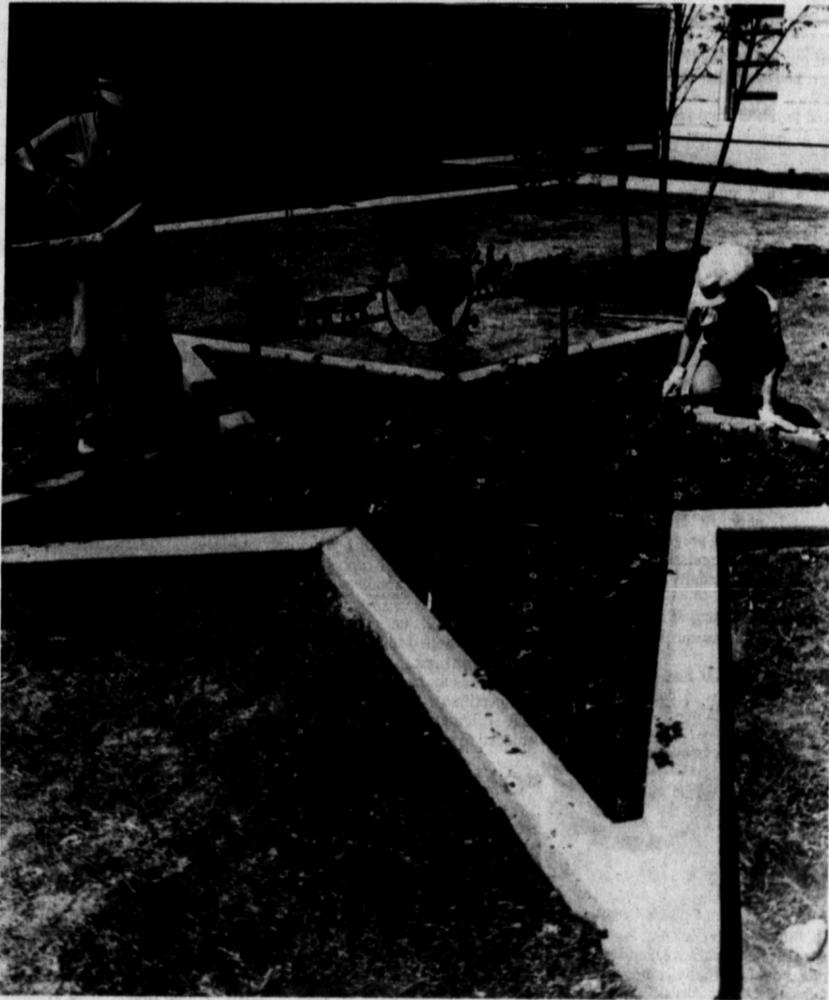

Two thefts were reported Sunday. A purse containing $20 in cash was taken from a car at the Hereford Community Center and $15.95 in fast food was whisked away from a restaurant drive-in window.

Shots were reported fired around 2:30 a.m. in the Community Center parking lot.

Other reports included three domestic disturbances, harassment, unlawful use of turn-lane, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and a hit and run in a private club parking lot.

Monday's reports included two complaints from churches. Police

Audit approved, golf policy amended

Hereford city commissioners approved the city's annual audit, an inter-governmental agreement for an impact study, and a golf course policy change, but voted down a proposal for public officials' liability insurance Monday night.

In the regular meeting at City Hall, Donna West of Brown, Graham and Co. said the city audit found "everything satisfactory" and commissioners accepted the annual audit report with a unanimous vote.

The proposal to create a committee to study impacts a nuclear waste repository would have on the five taxing entities in the county was okayed by the commission, also. The agreement also includes Deaf Smith County, Hereford Independent School District, Deaf Smith Hospital District, and Walcott ISD. No local tax money will be used in the proposal, all funds are to come from state grants. City attorney Earnest Langley said he saw no problems with the agreement.

A liability insurance proposal for the public officials was rejected unanimously due to "too little coverage for too much money," according to Commissioner Bud Eades. City manager Darwin McGill noted that many larger cities have resorted to self insurance due to prohibitive costs of conventional policies.

Hereford High golfers will benefit from a city policy change voted in Monday night. Municipal golf course rules were revised to allow the team to hold Saturday tournaments every other year. Previously, no weekend tournaments by the students were

High Sierra cleans up despite fear of more earthquakes

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) — Californians were warned to brace for more earthquakes as residents recovered from the state's fourth big temblor in two weeks, which damaged every home in one mountain town and shook buildings as far away as Utah.

Despite the warnings, some of the 300 residents of Chalfant Valley, a High Sierra town where all 145 houses were damaged, said they wouldn't leave.

"I like it here," said Nona Roripaugh, 29, a police dispatcher in Bishop, five miles away. "It could happen anywhere, and if it happened in the city, it would be that much worse. Buildings fall on you in the city. Here you go outside and you're OK."

Monday's quake at 7:42 a.m. left 50 people homeless, swayed buildings hundreds of miles away in Las Vegas, Nev., and Salt Lake City, buckled a road, caused rock slides and briefly stranded hundreds of campers. Two minor injuries were reported.

The quake, estimated at 6.1 on the Richter scale, was centered in the High Sierra, 240 miles north of Los Angeles and five miles from Chalfant Valley, which sustained the heaviest damage.

It came one day after a 5.5 magnitude quake and was followed by two strong aftershocks measuring 5.2 and 5.1 on the Richter scale and dozens of smaller aftershocks. Quakes earlier this month shook the Southern California coastline near Oceanside and the desert around Palm Springs.

Dr. Dallas Peck, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, wrote Monday to William Medigovich, director of the state Office of Emergency Services, warning that the Sierra area faces more quakes.

"It is our assessment that the region of Chalfant Valley from Bishop north to the Nevada border may experience additional earthquakes similar to the July 21 event during the next several days," Peck said.

A series of smaller quakes that began July 3 and led up to Monday's temblor are part of a marked increase in seismic activity over the last decade that could generate an earthquake of 7 on the Richter scale, he said.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in the strength of the shaking. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects ground movement 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3.

Geologist Alan Ryall of the Center for Seismic Studies in Arlington, Va., said Monday that seismic activity in the area since 1978 has been about 20 times greater than during the previous decade.

Officials said all 145 homes in Chalfant Valley, 10 miles north of Bishop, sustained some damage. Fifty-three mobile homes were knocked from their stands and some were badly damaged. Uninhabitable mobile homes forced about 50 people to seek other lodging, said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Dick Serino.

Farmers worrying about drought creating dustbowl

ILA, Ga. (AP) — Most years, Wesley Chandler has no trouble drawing the water he needs from the Broad River for his livestock and 1,000 acres of corn. But that was before the drought that's turning Dixie into a dustbowl.

"Other years, the pump has no effect on the river, now it takes two-thirds of the water," Chandler said Monday at his farm in northeastern Georgia.

"I went down the other day and there was no water. My neighbor upstream must have turned on his pump at the same time I was pumping. We have to dam up the little streams and make pools so the cows can drink."

If the drought continues and water gets even more scarce, he said, "people are going to start fighting over it. It's going to get real expensive. We may have to start buying it by the gallon, like gasoline."

"It's not going to be a question of watering animals, it's going to be a question of feeding ourselves. In another month it'll probably be a question of drinking water," he said. "How are you going to decide how much water and who gets it?"

Chandler's been able to keep losses in his 102,000-bird chicken house under 100 birds most days because a sprinkler system cools the metal roof. The birds and sprinkler need 60 gallons of water per minute, but the heat has kept the hens laying at a pace well below their ability.

He said he will get perhaps half of his corn crop in, because he irrigated it, but right now he is feeding his cattle the last of his 1985 crop.

"By the middle of fall, we'll be out of feed," Chandler said, adding that he's better off than most.

"We're in a situation where we've got pretty good credit. But I'd say 90 percent of the people around here, if they don't get something in this year, they're out of business," he said.

"We've had disasters in the past. This has surpassed disaster. This is a catastrophe," said farmer Ray Ward, a farmer in extreme northeastern Georgia. "We've been dry since last fall. Nobody's cut any hay.

We weren't able to grow anything."

Neighbors who have beef cattle are selling early because they can't get them feed or water, Ward said.

He said he's lost 80 percent of the corn he planted to feed his 200 cattle.

"I believe the grass, the fescue grass, is dead. I believe the ground is so hard and so dry the root systems will be dead," he said.

Reagan defends South African policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is struggling to retain control of U.S. policy toward South Africa without bowing to growing pressure from Congress for tougher action to punish the white-ruled government in Pretoria.

After weeks of administration efforts to defend a strategy of trying to influence the South African government's racial policies through quiet diplomacy, Reagan was scheduled to make his case today before an audience invited to the White House to hear his first formal address on the issue in nearly a year.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., whose influential Senate Foreign Relations Committee opens three days of hearings today on legislation to impose economic sanctions against South Africa, predicted Reagan's policy would have "a new thrust ... a new urgency and vigor, propelled by both the circumstances as well as the politics."

Death under investigation

Monday's death of Tomasa Pena, 35, is currently under investigation by Det. Randy Williams and Det. Sammy Sanchez of the Hereford Police Department.

The department stated in a press release dated today that preliminary evidence gathered from an autopsy by pathologist Dr. Ralph Erdman suggests that the woman died of complications arising from an injury to the head.

At 12:04 p.m. Monday, a Deaf Smith General Hospital ambulance crew was dispatched to the residence of the deceased in the 400 block of Long St. The crew found no pulse, however, revived her at the scene. She was taken to DSGH where she was treated and later transported to Northwest Texas Hospital where she died a few hours later.

Onion theft subject arrested

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's deputies arrested a subject during the weekend for the theft of onions from Griffin Brand packing shed. Two bags of the produce were reported taken.

Deputies also investigated reports of theft by check, a runaway, three criminal trespassing complaints, a lost or stolen trailer, gunshots in the labor camp, and criminal non-support.

14 arrested by police

Fourteen persons were arrested by Hereford police during the weekend and Monday with 10 of those being alcohol related.

One arrest was for driving while intoxicated, and drunk in control of motor vehicle. Eight of the arrests were for public intoxication. One of those individuals had additional charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, and another had an additional charge of no liability insurance.

Other arrests were on second offense of no liability insurance, on three traffic warrants, on assault warrants and one on two counts of having no driver's license and having an altered vehicle inspection sticker.

Spending committee reviews cuts

AUSTIN (AP) — Barber services could be trimmed and state clergymen may not have a prayer as a result of legislators' efforts to balance the budget.

The House Appropriations Committee today planned a third day of reviewing possible places to save money to relieve the state fiscal crisis.

The Legislative Budget Board staff on Monday continued listing possible places to cut, making it clear, however, that they were offering possibilities, not proposals.

Comptroller Bob Bullock is expected to tell lawmakers later this week that the budget shortfall will be at least $3 billion by Aug. 31, 1987, the end of the current budget year.

The appropriations panel is setting the groundwork for the special legislative session that will begin Aug. 6. The committee will begin voting on cuts after listening to a complete review of the possibilities.

"It's inevitable. There is going to be a cutback in services," said Chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Monday's discussion included talk of eliminating some services at state schools for the mentally retarded and state hospitals for the mentally ill. The LBB staff said $1 million a year could be saved by laying off the 37 state-paid chaplains working in the state schools and hospitals and replacing them with volunteers.

"We have been paying for that?" asked Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston.

The LBB numbers also included cutting barber and beauty services for state school and hospital residents. Cuts in MHMR and the Texas Department of Corrections would be delicate because of federal court orders covering the systems.

Other possibilities include making the Department of Public Safety put more miles on its "pursuit cars" and equipment before replacing them, and cancelling two trooper recruit training programs.

The committee also heard about cuts at the Commission for the Blind that could mean the loss of services for 900 visually handicapped children.

Money also could be saved by delaying the opening of new state psychiatric hospitals in Fort Worth and Houston, according to the LBB staff.

Also discussed was a plan to cut $2 million that had been appropriated to the Department of Human Services to dole out to hospitals that handle a disproportionately high number of patients who can't pay their bills.

Rudd promised that the committee would not approve cuts that would put a burden on local governments.

"We're not going to pass anything back home. This is a state responsibility," he said.

City rationing water again

AUSTIN (AP) — Residents of Austin today began following a mandatory water conservation program, imposed after 100-degree heat and lack of rain drove water use to high levels over the weekend.

"I guess the day we were trying to avoid has finally come," said City Manager Jorge Carrasco, in announcing the controls.

The decision to impose mandatory rationing rules again — as has occurred during the past two summers — was made Sunday after citywide water use topped 155 million gallons daily for the third straight day.

Faith George of the city's resource management department said Austin residents used 161.27 million gallons of water on Saturday. Sunday's high temperature hit 100 degrees, the hottest of the year.

Voluntary water controls went into effect May 1. The biggest difference between those restrictions and the Stage 2 rationing plan is that police can issue tickets for violations.

The maximum fine is $200, Ms. George said. Carrasco said the city water system has been operating fairly well, but the dry weather forecast coupled with high water use prompted him to impose Stage 2 water conservation measures before problems developed.

The ability to have adequate water pressure for firefighting was a prime concern, Carrasco said.

Naming of IRS chief delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of whether parents should be allowed a tax deduction for a fetus that lives only moments after an abortion is blocking Senate confirmation of Lawrence B. Gibbs to be IRS commissioner.

Because of the abortion issue, the IRS is operating without a commissioner at a time when Congress is writing the final version of a major tax-overhaul plan.

Roscoe L. Egger Jr. retired on April 30. Gibbs' nomination was recommended unanimously by the Senate Finance Committee on June 24.

Senate sources said Monday that Sen. Gordon J. Humphrey, R-N.H., has placed a "hold" on Gibbs' nomination. Allowing a single senator to delay a nomination temporarily is a tradition in the Senate; so long as Senate leaders respect that hold, there will be no vote on confirmation.

Humphrey's office did not return calls when asked to discuss the nomination.

The sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity, said Humphrey had been asked to allow a vote but refused. The sources gave no indication how long the leadership would permit Humphrey to hold up the nomination.

These sources said Humphrey is objecting to a 1973 IRS decision that, under some circumstances, permits a parent to claim a tax exemption for a fetus that lives briefly after an abortion.

Prime minister talks with Hassan

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres arrived under heavy security for talks with King Hassan II, Western diplomats said. Hassan became only the second Arab leader to meet publicly with an Israeli prime minister.

Peres arrived Monday from Israel and flew directly to the king's private airfield near Ifrane, 125 miles east of the capital of Rabat, and the site of Hassan's summer palace, said the diplomats, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

They said the two leaders began talks immediately, but gave no details.

The diplomats said there was no information on the probable duration of Peres' visit, but in Israel reports suggested he was expected back in Jerusalem today or Wednesday.

The reason for Peres' visit was not made public. Moroccan officials declined even to confirm the arrival of Peres' entourage, which included reporters from Israeli radio, television, and newspapers.

English one of few in TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Diane English was smiling. The day before she had delivered seven scripts of her new CBS series to the production company.

"That represents nine weeks of shooting time," she said, "so that means we can breathe a little easier. We won't have to be so frantic."

Miss English is executive producer of "My Sister, Sam," a new fall comedy series from Warner Bros. Television. Pam Dawber stars as a San Francisco photographer who is forced to share her life and apartment with her kid sister.

She was producer and creator of last season's "Foley Square" and previously had written for "Call to Glory," a 1984-85 series.

Miss English is among the few women executive producers in television. Among the others are Linda Bloodworth of CBS' "Designing Women" and Jhanita Bartlett of ABC's "Spenser: For Hire."

Miss English was teaching high school English in her hometown of Buffalo, N.Y., when she decided to try her luck in New York.

She worked as a secretary at WNET and learned to write scripts.

Knapp's duties include operation of the Sarpaulis Mobile Office, which travels throughout the 31st Senatorial District to help the senator solicit input on state and regional issues, listen to constituent problems and update people on the latest happenings in state government.

In addition, Knapp will be responsible for the day-to-day operation of Sarpaulis' district office in Amarillo, a portion of the senator's legislative agenda and representing Sarpaulis at some official functions.

"I'm really looking forward to getting settled in the job and helping the people of this area," Knapp said. "I've lived all my life in the Panhandle, so it means more than I can say to be able to work for the people that live here."

Knapp is a native of Amarillo, a 1977 graduate of Caprock High School and a 1982 graduate of West

After finishing college, Knapp worked one year for Berneta Communications, an Amarillo advertising and public relations firm. Knapp in 1983 was named director of tourism for the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, a position he retained until coming to work for Sarpaulis.

He also spent five seasons performing in "Texas," the musical produced each summer in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. Knapp worked his way up in the production from a back-up singing and dancing role and eventually won the coveted role of Calvin Armstrong.

Knapp and his wife, Angela, have a daughter, Shelby, who is eight weeks old.

Low interest loans available

Approximately $73 million in low interest mortgage loans will become available to homebuyers in Texas beginning, Aug. 18, a Texas Housing Agency official announced last week.

The FHA-insured loans will be offered to eligible low-and moderate-income borrowers at a fixed payment rate of 8.70 percent for 30 years, with a three to five percent minimum downpayment, said Dan A. McNeil, Acting Executive Administrator of the Texas Housing Agency.

The housing agency has established maximum income limits and a ceiling on home prices to direct the program more effectively to households least able to afford conventional interest rates, McNeil said.

To qualify for the program, an individual applicant must have an adjusted gross income for the preceding tax year of $33,000 or less; the combined income ceiling for a family is $42,000. In addition, for homes in most areas of the state, borrowers must be first-time homebuyers or not have owned their principal residence in the past three years.

Borrowers may apply for the funds beginning Aug. 1986, at the time of application, a borrower will be expected to provide the lender with a copy of a valid sales contract on a house, copies of their tax returns for the preceding three years; general credit information; and a fee to cover application processing. Maximum loan and home price limits vary, depending on the location of the home.

Prospective homebuyers may call (512)472-7500 to obtain application information, a program brochure, and a list of participating lenders.

Wedding vow doesn't mean being meek

LONDON (AP) — Sarah Ferguson was quoted today as saying that although she will promise to obey Prince Andrew when she takes her wedding vows on Wednesday, she will not be a meek wife.

"I was thinking of obeying in moral terms, as opposed to physically obeying. But I am not the sort of woman who is going to meekly trot along behind her husband," the 26-year-old redhead was quoted as saying in an interview with the British domestic news agency Press Association.

"When I want to, I will stress a point. When we have a dilemma to resolve or we find ourselves in a situation which needs a decision, then it will be Andrew who will take the lead because he is the man of the marriage. Therefore in that sense, I will obey him at one stage or another," she was quoted as saying.

The news agency said Miss Ferguson and Prince Andrew gave the interview to its court correspondent Tom Corby at Buckingham Palace last week.

Miss Ferguson's decision to promise to obey Prince Andrew when they marry at Westminster Abbey made headlines earlier this month. Princess Diana omitted the traditional Church of England wedding vow to obey her husband when she married Andrew's older brother, Prince Charles, in 1981.

Corby quoted Miss Ferguson as saying she will shut out the world when she arrives at the abbey Wednesday.

"I will be completely and utterly overexcited at the prospect of marrying the man waiting at the top of the aisle," she was quoted as saying.

Corby said 26-year-old Prince Andrew, asked how he expected to feel, replied with a grin, "I have no idea but I will shout the answer to you across the abbey if you want."

Advice offered

NEW YORK (AP) — Drawing on advice of rabbis and other experts, the youth magazine of the Union of Hebrew Congregations, Keeping Posted, offers this advice on how to resist peer pressure:

By using basic principles

Control stressful situations

Stressful situations are inevitable. But with the right tools, stress and burnout can be controlled.

Two Texas Tech University professors have created a stress management tool to help anyone cope with stress in work or personal life.

Arlyn V. Peterson and Gerald D. Parr, professors of educational psychology, special education and instructional technology, developed the self-improvement plan because of increasing stress among educators, but the principles apply to any profession.

Stress and burnout are not the same thing although they have some of the same symptoms, Peterson noted. Stress, either positive or negative, can be a motivator.

Peterson describes burnout as feeling emotionally drained or exhausted. A person suffering from burnout lacks enthusiasm and becomes functionally ineffective. In the United States an estimated 25 percent of the work force, or 52 million people, are probably victims of job burnout, Peterson said.

Burnout happens because people have a genetic need for a certain amount of variety, he said. When a routine becomes dull or boring, the person feels trapped and burnout results.

Peterson's tool for managing stress and burnout is based on reality therapy. Reality therapy is a common sense method of helping a person gain more control over his or her life, he said.

"We believe that most people are capable of making appropriate stress-reducing choices if only they will take the time to analyze their situations and determine what they really want," Peterson said.

The self-improvement plan is based on writing down ideas and goals to improve the stressful situation. The first day of the plan should begin with answers to the following questions: What do you want? What are you doing now? What is the result of your present behavior?

On subsequent days of the plan answer the questions: Did you follow your plan today? What excuses did you give for not following your plan? What were the consequences? Review what you want. Review your plan.

"There is something about writing something down that makes it concrete," Peterson said. "The plan is a tool for giving a person more control."

The most important point is to never give up, Peterson said. A person should begin with one plan that deals with one aspect of life. Eventually, a person can have several plans in process at the same time.

Ann Landers

Wrong is righted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I left the military service I kept a dictionary, two ashtrays and some sunglasses. The guilt has bothered me ever since. Some people may think I am silly but I couldn't get it out of my mind.

I have become a Christian and know the Lord wants me to make restitution. So here is a money order for $100 made out to the Air Force. I don't know where to send it but I figured you would. Please mail it to the right place. Thanks and God bless you.--NAME WITHHELD (RENO, NEV.)

DEAR FRIEND: The money order went off today to Gen. Charles A. Gabriel, Chief, U.S. Air Force, The Pentagon, Washington, D.C. along with this letter:

Dear General Gabriel: Enclosed you will find a money order for $100 and a copy of the sender's letter to me. Isn't it gratifying to receive a money order and a letter like this?

Please let me hear from you when it arrives so I can notify the sender. Sincerely, Ann Landers.

P.S. to Reno: Within seven days I received an acknowledgment and a thank-you. The wrong has been righted--and then some.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I liked the way you answered, "A Nymphomaniac." Your recommendation that she get therapy was exactly right. I should know. I've been there. I am a 30-year woman, and there was a time in my life when I averaged a different man ever 6.4 days. (I kept records in case of venereal disease.) I had an overwhelming urge to make love to every man I met and saw nothing wrong with it.

Finally I got sick of myself and went into therapy. I learned that this behavior was the result of low self-esteem and incest that occurred in my childhood.

I have been faithful to the same man for the last seven months which is quite a record for me. I still enjoy sex a lot but I am free of the self-defeating compulsion to hop into bed with every man I meet.

My therapist sent me to a treatment center for alcohol and drug abuse and that helped me clean up my act. Life is so much better now it's unbelievable.

Please keep advising people to try therapy. I am thrilled to be free of all compulsive and destructive behavior. Sign me--RECONSTRUCTED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR RECON: Four cheers for you and five for your therapist.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old high school girl in need of advice. I hope you can help me. I've read several of your columns about teenage sex and the last one got me to thinking.

I don't quite know how to say this, so I'll just come right out with it. I can't seem to say "no" when a guy asks me to go to bed with him. Sometimes I'll even ask him to, if he's good-looking. Soemthing must be wrong with me to get turned on by every good-looking fellow who comes along.

Some of my friends have sex with their steadies but I don't know of anyone else who is as easy to make as I am. (I'm talking four or five different guys a week.)

I need advice before I get into serious trouble.--BUSY AND ASHAMED IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR B. AND A.: You are already in serious trouble and the advice is in the letter just above yours.

I hope you (and anybody else who has this problem) will pay attention. It's almost impossible to cut loose from that kind of behavior without understanding why you got into it.

Look in the Yellow Pages under "mental health" or ask your family doctor to recommend a good therapist.

HHS agriculture students attend annual convention

Twelve Hereford High School vocational agriculture students were among the 5,000 students and teachers who attended the 58th annual state Future Farmers of America convention in Amarillo last week. Three were recognized at the convention for achievement in vo-ag areas.

Dennis Paetzold, a 1986 graduate of HHS, received the Lone Star Farmer degree at the convention. The Lone Star is the highest level of membership that the state association can award to its members.

Robbie Phillips, also a 1986 HHS grad and Hereford Chapter president last year, was recognized as recipient of an $8,000 scholarship given by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo at Thursday night's "Stars of Texas" awards program.

Heath Bell, Hereford Chapter treasurer, received second place in the area of agriculture mechanics for his participation in the agricultural cooperative training program.

Other Hereford students attending the convention were Chris Urbanczyk, chapter president; Rickie Vogel, vice president; Brenda Martinez, secretary; Dale West, reporter; Charles Hund, sentinel; Chris Grotegut, parliamentarian; and members Kelly Wells, Kristi Wells, Cami Struve, and Cindy Meiwes.

The students were accompanied by the two new vo-ag teachers, Kevin Kelley and Bill Binder.

Convention time was spent listening to speakers, awards ceremonies and electing new state officers.

For the second year in a row the nominee from Area I, which includes the Panhandle, won the state president election. Bruce Cobb, of Lubbock Cooper High, was sworn in Friday morning by past president Aaron Alejandro, of Boys Ranch.

Omitting sugar often affects food texture

Foods can be preserved at home with less sugar, but the results may or may not be acceptable to your tastes, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Before trying no-sugar recipes on your produce, nutritionist Marilyn Haggard advises experimenting with small batches first to see if you are pleased with the results.

Recipes for canning fruits call for the addition of sugar or a sugar syrup to maintain the texture, shape and color of the fruit and to improve the flavor, she explains. Omitting the sugar will primarily affect the fruit texture and flavor.

When canning without sugar, the specialist says to use only firm ripe or slightly under-ripe fruit so it won't become too soft from canning. By adding ascorbic acid or a commercial anti-darkening agent, fruit will retain better color.

ing freezer storage as well as fruit that has sugar added.

Berries and fruits which do not darken when exposed to air can be frozen in a single layers on trays and then packed into freezing bags or containers. The fruits which freeze well in this manner are blueberries, strawberries, dewberries, blackberries, raspberries, cherries, plums, dates, grapes, melon balls, pineapple chunks and rhubarb slices.

According to Haggard, light-colored fruits such as apples, peaches and apricots freeze well in unsweetened juice or water to which ascorbic acid has been added to prevent darkening. Light colored juices, including apple, pineapple and orange juice are suitable as liquids to cover frozen fruits.

Since sugar gives sweet pickles and relishes their unique texture and flavor, omitting this ingredient can result in a mushy and less flavorful product, the specialist says.

Haggard says it's also difficult to get good sugarless jams and jellies, since sugar is essential to gel formation, serves as a preserving agent and improves the flavor.

Jams and jellies made without sugar are more like a gelatin product than a true jam or jelly, she notes. The "mouth feel" will be different and the flavor tart.

Even with these drawbacks, the specialist says jams and jellies made with artificial sweeteners, a small amount of sugar or a combination of artificial sweetener and sugar can be acceptable.

In addition, some brands of low methoxyl pectins give instructions for making jellies without any additional sugar. But if this method is used, Haggard recommends using very ripe fruit which has a high concentration of natural sugars.

"If you plan on using artificial sweeteners, add it when the fruit is served," says Haggard. "The heat of processing can cause some artificial sweeteners to become bitter and others to lose their sweetening power."

She points out that fruit can also be frozen safely without added sugar, but will not maintain its quality dur-

DR. GOTT See specialist about discharge

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 50-year-old woman in good health. Six months ago I began to experience rectal bleeding and a mucous rectal discharge. A barium enema, sigmoidoscopic exam and colonoscopy failed to show the cause. The doctors offered no explanation of the symptoms, which still continue daily. (I might add that my mother died of colon cancer.) Where should I go from here?

DEAR READER — The bleeding and mucous discharge must be coming from somewhere. Therefore, despite the tests you have had, the doctors have been unable to diagnose the source. I advise you to wait a few weeks, and if the symptoms continue, consult a gastroenterologist. You may need another colonoscopy exam to pin down your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 32-year-old man, and for the past three years I've had increased fatigue and soreness in my joints. The soreness is worse after weekends, when I drink every day. My doctor can find nothing wrong except slightly high uric acid and high blood pressure. Xanax doesn't seem to help. What additional tests should be done?

DEAR READER — You may be suffering from fatigue, soreness and high blood pressure that result from your weekend activities or from the alcohol you drink then. Rather than having further tests or using Xanax (an alcohol-substitute tranquilizer), I suggest that you stop drinking altogether. If, after several weekends of abstinence, you continue to have symptoms, check with your doctor again.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been taking thyroid medicine for several years, but I still gain weight although I only consume 500 to 1,000 calories a day. Is that too much? I want to find another doctor. Should it be an M.D. or a specialist?

DEAR READER — Some people have a tendency to gain weight even if they eat 500 to 1,000 calories a day. This unusual situation may be due to a unique metabolic alteration having nothing to do with your thyroid gland. I advise you to see a doctor in internal medicine or make an appointment in the metabolic clinic of a large hospital.

To give you further information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How can I get rid of psoriasis?

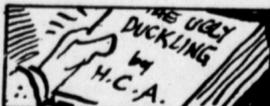

DEAR READER — Psoriasis is a chronic skin condition of unknown cause that is sometimes difficult to treat. I believe that you should be under the care of a dermatologist, who might try certain creams and shampoos, ultraviolet-light therapy or a new form of treatment using methotrexate (an anti-cancer drug).

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the purpose of the bumps that appear on a woman's areolas? My husband says they are pimples, but I believe they serve some purpose in breastfeeding.

DEAR READER — The areolar glands are large oil glands surrounding each nipple. Your husband's interpretation is incorrect; the glands secrete an oily substance that protects the nipple during nursing. They are functional and normal, and are not bumps due to infection.

Rangers get doubled up by Yankees 8-4

By JOHN NELSON
AP Baseball Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — At the start of the season, Mike Pagliarulo really didn't know what he could accomplish by playing every day because he had never played every day.

By the middle of May, however, Pagliarulo had earned the starting third-base job for the New York Yankees, and Monday night, he hit his 23rd home run of the season. That tied him with Jose Canseco of the Oakland A's for the American League home run lead.

Pagliarulo's homer, a three-run shot in the first inning, helped the Yankees build an early lead en route to beating the Texas Rangers 8-4. Rickey Henderson and Mike Easler also hit home runs to help make a winner of rookie Doug Drabek, 2-2.

"I never really have set any goals for myself, because I never had a chance to play regularly," Pagliarulo said. "Besides, if I had set a goal to hit 20 or 25 home runs this season, I don't think I'd have 23 now."

"Next year, I don't want to say I'm going to hit 30 or 35. I might hit more."

The Yankees built a 5-1 lead after two innings and chased Rangers' starter Bobby Witt, 4-9, in the third inning, although they failed to add to their lead after leaving the bases loaded. Witt threw 91 pitches in 2 2/3 innings while walking five.

Rangers Manger Bobby Valentine admitted, "It gets to me." In all, five Rangers pitchers walked nine Yankees.

But, he added, "I haven't lost patience with him (Witt). I just have to get him to the point where he can maintain his confidence level. He came so close to getting out of it tonight."
Drabek allowed eight hits and four runs in his outing, unspectacular but a welcome relief for Manager Lou Piniella's bullpen.

"It was a gutsy performance," Piniella said. "He gave us 6 2/3 (innings). We needed it because we were short in our bullpen. Bob Shirley was lmy long man, and he started yesterday. ... If we go anywhere in the second half, Drabek and (rookie pitcher Scott) Nielsen are going to have to pitch well."

Larry Parrish had three hits and an RBI for the Rangers, while Easler scored three times, walked twice and had two hits, including his leadoff homer in the seventh.

Henderson led off the game with his 16th homer of the season for the Yankees, and Pagliarulo later hit a three-run homer in the inning to make the score 4-0. Parrish hit an RBI double in the Texas second, and Claudell Washington drove in New York's second-inning run with a single, making the score 5-1.

The Rangers cut the lead to 5-3 with consecutive two-out homers by Don Slaught and Steve Buechele in the fourth. Slaught's was No. 9, a career high, while Buechele's was No. 13. The Rangers cut the lead to one run on Pete O'Brien's RBI grounder in the fifth, but the Yankees scored twice more in the bottom of the inning.

Consecutive singles by Easler and Winfield and a walk to Pagliarulo loaded the bases. Butch Wynegar hit a sacrifice fly, and Willie Randolph drove in a run with a single. Easler hit a 1-1 pitch from Dale Mohorcic over the right-field wall to lead off the seventh. It was his eighth homer but first at Yankee Stadium since May 26.

"I'm not surprised, but I'm very happy about Pags," Piniella said. "He hit 19 last year, and he platooned all year. The way he's going now, he has a chance to lead the league."

Woman likes playing in men's basketball league

By BRIAN TRUDELLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Lieberman sometimes feels more like the star of a carnival sideshow than a basketball player.

"She walks, she talks, she crawls on her back," Lieberman joked after a recent game.

"She was brought in for publicity," admitted Harry Gilligan, president and general manager of Lieberman's team, the Springfield Fame of the United States Basketball League. "But she can do certain things."

"She can shoot ... as well as anybody on the team," Springfield Coach Henry Bibby said. "She can be a leader. When she's on the bench, she always pulling for her teammates, shouting instructions."

Lieberman, once a dominant player in the women's collegiate ranks at Old Dominion, is midway through her first USBL season. Even with her publicity value, she receives no special treatment from teammates or opponents.

"I use her as I see fit," Bibby said. "I don't have any pressure to put her in or take her out. She's like anybody else. If she's playing well, I keep her in. If she's not, she sits."

Much of the time, she sits. She averages 15-18 minutes playing time and three points a game.

"They beat the hell out of her," Fame guard Andre Patterson said of the opposition. "It's sort of a male pride kind of thing. It's like 'I'm not going to let this girl show me up.'"

"She gets treated just like everybody else," Gilligan confirmed. "We give her a little more time off the court, but that's because she has so many more interviews and commitments."

Before and after every game, she answers reporters' questions, poses for photographs and signs autographs. And she is a draw. A near-capacity crowd of 1,120 showed up when Springfield played Staten Island, a team that averages 450 per game.

"Everywhere I have gone, the reaction has been positive," Lieberman said. "This is fun. I'm not doing this for the money."

The 28-year-old rookie is reportedly making $10,000 for the three-month season, the maximum for a player in the summer league, but she takes home a lot more from other ventures.

She still receives $60,000 a year from a contract with the Dallas Diamonds of the defunct Women's Basketball League, has two sporting goods stores in the Philadelphia area, real estate in Dallas, endorsement contracts and a nutritional food company.

"I play basketball for fun," she says. "When I go out there, it's like me and nine of my best friends. You see me smile, I've got no phone calls to answer."

It may be fun, but it is tough on the ego going against accomplished male players night after night in the USBL.

"It's called humbled," Lieberman said. "I recently went out to a basketball camp in Montana and I played against some guys out there where I totally dominated for 40 minutes. After the game I said, 'I want to thank you guys. I needed this for my ego.'"

Lieberman, incidentally, isn't the first woman to play pro basketball. Penny Ann Early broke that barrier in 1968, playing one second for the Kentucky Colonels of the old American basketball Association. Early's appearance was strictly for publicity. In fact, she wasn't even a basketball player. She was a jockey trying to get riding assignments at Churchill Downs.

Lieberman is a basketball player, and she hopes she gets more time to prove it.

"I've got three things going against me: I'm female, I'm 5-10 and I'm white," Lieberman said. "I've told Henry he's got to give me minutes so I can prove myself. Maybe I can juggle on the bench, anything."

8-7 over Expos

Astros win by one run again

HOUSTON (AP) — Once again, it seemed as if the Houston Astros were down for the count, but they roared back to take their third straight one-run victory in the final inning with what has become a season-long resiliency.

In their fourth straight win, the Astros (51-42) took over first place in the National League West with a two-run ninth-inning rally that produced an 8-7 victory over the Montreal Expos Monday night in the Astrodome.

Despite poor relief pitching that has a combined ERA of 10.34 since the All-Star Game, the Astros have compensated with 11, 18 and 16 hits over the past three games.

Monday, the Astros had three RBIs each from Glenn Davis and Jose Cruz, who knocked in the winning run with no one out as Houston wiped out All-Star Montreal reliever Jeff Reardon (6-5) with four hits in the ninth inning.

Davis knocked in the tying run as he reached his spring training goal of batting .285 to go with 65 RBIs and 20 home runs.

"Early in the year, we rode on their (relievers') backs, but we've been able to pick them up a lot lately. That's the sign of a championship club," Davis said.

"Glenn had a big night, and (Billy) Hatcher and Cruz each had four hits," Houston manager Hal Lanier said. "We're getting enough run production to compensate for the bullpen."

Houston went ahead as a result of doubles by Hatcher and Cruz in the first and fourth innings that chased Montreal starter Dan Schatzeder.

By the middle of the seventh, Montreal had surged back for a 7-6 lead because of three RBIs each by Tim Raines and Andre Dawson.

First baseman Wayne Krenchicki scored he would-be winning run by opening the eighth inning with a single off eventual winner Charlie Kerfeld (7-1). Krenchicki was sacrificed to second by Dann Bilardello and scored on shortstop Craig Reynolds' throwing error.

"It's easy to get depressed and give in when you get behind," Davis said.

But former Cincinnati Red Krenchicki knew the Astros wouldn't give up. "They always played us tough when I was with the Reds," Krenchicki said. "They're making their hits count, and with their speed they can steal bases and be in scoring position in a hurry."

Montreal manager Buck Rodgers lamented, "The Astros tried to give us the game, but we just wouldn't take it."

However, Houston second baseman Bill Doran knew the Astros weren't that charitable.

"It's a plus," Doran said. "Everytime you bounce back, you start thinking that you're never out of it. That way, you feel you can always come back."

Babe Ruth all-stars win two state tourney games

The Hereford Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League 14 and 15-year-old all-stars won their first two games of the West Texas state tournament in Levelland, and will play Andrews at 6 p.m. tonight.

Hereford walloped Levelland Brown 27-0 in a five-inning game on Saturday night, and then defeated Levelland Blue 7-3 on Sunday night.

A victory tonight would put Hereford in the championship game at 6 p.m. Thursday.

The Hereford all-stars jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the first inning Saturday against Levelland Brown. Jason Scott hit a three-run homer in the inning.

Other home runs by Hereford batters were a three-run shot by Robby Collier in the third inning, and a two-run homer by Roger McCracken in the fourth inning.

Leading batters for Hereford were Scott and Glenn Parker. Parker went four-for-five and scored five runs, and Scott was three-for-five with five runs scored.

Robby Collier had three hits in four at-bats, including a double as well as his home run. He scored four runs.

Keith Brown was two-for-five with three runs scored, and Pat Mercer went two-for-four.

Hereford used three pitchers in the game. Scott pitched two innings, striking out four and allowing no hits.

Fidel Ceballos then pitched two innings, also allowing no hits and striking out three batters. Clint Cotten pitched in the fifth inning, recording two strikeouts and giving up two hits.

On Sunday night, Hereford led 1-0 in the top of the first inning. Brown singled, stole second, went to third on an error, and was batted in by McCracken who singled.

Levelland Blue moved ahead 2-1 in the bottom of the first inning. The second and third innings were scoreless for both teams.

In the top of the fourth, Hereford scored a pair of runs. McCracken walked, Robby Collier singled, and Mercer hit a two-run single.

Levelland Blue tied up the game 3-3 in the bottom of the fourth.

Hereford produced a three-run rally with two outs in the top of the fifth inning. Parker walked with two outs, and Scott singled.

McCracken hit the ball into right field. Parker scored on a throwing error by the Levelland Blue rightfielder. Scott moved on to third base, and on another throwing error, Scott scored.

Robby Collier then reached base on an error, and McCracken scored on the error.

Hereford's other run came in the sixth inning. Ceballos walked with two outs, stole second, went to third on an error, and scored on an RBI single by Brown.

Pitchers for Hereford were Scott for five innings and Ceballos for two innings. Scott allowed three hits and had six strikeouts, and Ceballos struck out three and gave up one hit.

Hereford had eight hits compared to four by Levelland Blue. Levelland Blue committed nine errors, and Hereford committed two errors.

In the third inning, Hereford pulled what might be called a trick play. Levelland Blue had runners on first and third.

The Levelland runner at first attempted a steal. Hereford's catcher threw as if he was aiming for second base, but rifled the throw instead to the pitcher.

That fooled the baserunner at third, who took off for home plate. The Levelland runner was thrown out at home plate.

BASEBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers left fielder Franklin Stubbs, who hit .375 with a pair of home runs and two doubles, was named the National League's Player of the Week, the NL announced.

Stubbs, who also drove in five runs including one game-winner, beat out teammate Steve Sax, and Mike Schmidt and Juan Samuel of the Philadelphia Phillies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Tigers right fielder Kirk Gibson, who hit .353 and drove in six runs, four of them game-winners, was named the American League's Player of the Week, the AL announced.

Gibson had a .529 slugging percentage to go along with his 6-for-17 week. His four game-winning RBI all came against the Texas Rangers. It was the third time this season he was named Player of the Week.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bo Jackson of the Memphis Chicks was named Southern League player of the week as he rebounded from a slow start in his pro baseball career.

Jackson, a Heisman Trophy winner as a football player at Auburn, collected 11 hits in 26 times at bat in his past eight outings with the Chicks, including three triples and three home runs. Jackson is hitting .211 for his 20 games as a professional, with 15 hits in 71 times at bat. He has 32 strikeouts.

Take the Clara Johnson Test.

In Alamance County, North Carolina, Honda lawn mowers are assembled from the wheels up. Then, each mower must pass rigid quality control standards before we ship it.

The final test is a critical performance check to ensure easy starting. We call it the Clara Johnson Test. At the end of the assembly line, each mower is started or it doesn't ship.

Come in and give the whole line of Honda mowers the Clara Johnson Test yourself. Each one will start easily, or it wouldn't be a Honda.

USDA issues pamphlets on proper diet

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers concerned about how diets may affect health can get seven new leaflets prepared by the Agriculture Department to help them eat the varied, balance diets recommended by government nutrition experts.

The pamphlets, ranging from four to 12 pages each, cost $4.50 for a set of seven. Consumers are offered supplemental information to help them follow the seven basic dietary guidelines issued in 1980 and updated last year by the departments of Agriculture and Health and Human Services.

Rodney E. Leonard of the Community Nutrition Institute, a private, non-profit consumer group in Washington, applauded the USDA's new information kits.

"They're very good," Leonard said. "It's the sort of education support that's needed to encourage the wider use of the dietary guidelines. If we had done it sooner, we would have been better off, but it's good to have them now."

Asked about the $4.50 price for "minibulletins," as USDA called the pamphlets, Leonard laughed, "It's like everything else — we've got the product, now we can haggle over the price."

Each of the pamphlets deals with one of the seven basic guidelines, which are:

- Eat a variety of foods.
- Maintain desirable weight.
- Avoid too much fat, saturated fat and cholesterol.
- Avoid too much sugar.
- Avoid too much sodium.
- If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation.
- Eat foods adequate in starch and fiber.

Carole Davis, chief of guidance and education research in the department's Human Nutrition Information Service, said the minibulletins provide information on food composition, food labeling, modifying recipes and menus, and practical ways to follow the guidelines in planning, purchasing and preparing foods.

Each pamphlet also includes a self-assessment quiz or activity to involve readers with the information and encourage them to apply it to their own food practices, she said.

"The tips and recipes in each minibulletin consider all of the guidelines, so you won't find yourself neglecting one to follow another," Davis said. "The guidelines all work together for a healthful diet."

The pamphlets include more than two dozen recipes that provide ways to follow all of the dietary guidelines, she said. Developed by USDA nutritionists, these recipes range from dips to entrees to desserts. Nutrition information accompanies each recipe.

A second set of pamphlets will be issued next year and will provide further ways to follow the dietary guidelines. The second set will cover shopping, menu planning, food preparation, eating out, bag lunches, desserts and snacks and meals in minutes.

The first set can be ordered for $4.50 each from: Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20250, or from S. Woods, Department 187P, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Refer to stock number 001-000-04467-2. For telephone orders from GPO, which accepts VISA or MasterCard, call 202-783-3238.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wild relative of corn called eastern gamagrass has undergone a sex change that an Agriculture Department scientist says could one day mean a new grain crop for farmers.

In one of the changed grasses, male flowers have turned female and started producing seed, the department's Agricultural Research Service said Monday. Gamagrass grows in the southeastern states and Mexico.

Chester L. Dewald, an agronomist with the agency's Southern Plains Research Station, Woodward, Okla., said, "Our research shows that with both the male and female parts producing seed, production on each seed head has increased by about 2,500 percent."

Dewald said that because eastern gamagrass seeds have a protein content even higher than corn, it could become a nutritious grain crop for livestock and people.

"We have a long way to go before we finish breeding the grass to benefit humans and animals, but it can definitely be done," he said.

The variant gamagrass, which has a stalk and leaves resembling corn, originally showed up in a nursery at USDA's plant materials center operated by the Soil Conservation Service. Robert Dayton, who was manager of the center at the time, had planted what he thought were normal eastern gamagrass seeds.

But as the plants grew, Dayton recognized that one of them was different from the rest and contacted Dewald in Oklahoma, who later found the variant growing wild in Ottawa County, Kan.

Gamagrass's sexual change, Dewald said, probably resulted from a sudden mutation — the replacement of one gene or group of genes for another.

"We think the mutation is a throwback to when all flowers on the plant performed both functions," he said. "The gene or genes that ordered all parts to do both jobs had been lying dormant for years and just began controlling the plant again."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of farm-raised catfish in June totaled 16 million pounds, up 1 percent from June 1985, according to a monthly report by the Agriculture Department.

The average price paid to producers for live catfish delivered to plants last month was 68 cents per pound, down 9 cents from a year earlier, the report said Monday.

Where has all the wilderness gone?

FAIRFAX STATION, Va. (AP) — "A jug of wine, a loaf of bread — and thou beside me singing in the wilderness — Oh, wilderness were paradise enow."

Centuries ago, poet Omar Khayyam knew how to enjoy the wilderness.

But where might a traveler enjoy these paradises today, on earth?

Some are in America's national parks. Or the Rocky Mountains, Maine. The Southeastern United States. They are there for the looking — and enjoying.

Over the years, "Andrew Harper," editor and publisher of the travel newsletter "The Hideaway Report," has listed idyllic, out-of-the-way places he considers the best wilderness spots. ("Harper" is an alias he uses to protect his traveling objectivity.)

"In our nomadic search for solitude, we occasionally uncover retreats where the delicate balance between man and nature tips toward the side of the untamed," he writes. And, though fast disappearing, he says, they do exist, hideaways that are "far from fancy, but they are worthy of a visit by those who are interested in the simpler pleasures of life, like birding, wildlife photography, beachcombing-shelling, riverboat rides and naturalist-like hikes."

Among them:

— Harrah's Middlefork Lodge near the Salmon River in central Idaho. This is a luxurious — read: expensive — resort in the "River of No Return Wilderness Area," accessible only by charter plane from Boise, Idaho.

— Wakulla Springs Lodge, Wakulla Springs, Fla. A registered natural landmark, it has a lodge in the midst of 4,000 acres of forest. A jungle cruise boat offers glimpses of native alligators, snapping turtles, wild turkeys, black bear and more than 150 species of fowl.

— Safety Harbor, Fla. For the finest in shell collecting and birding. Off the "other," Lee Island Coast of Florida, near Fort Myers.

— Tall Timber, near Durango, Colo. "Enchanting luxury wilderness retreat in an awesome mountain setting, accessible only by narrow-gauge train or helicopter out of Durango. Twelve aspen-shaded guest suites in modern furnished chalets."

— Jenny Lake Lodge, Grand Teton National Park. Wilderness enclave at the edge of an alpine meadow near a crystalline lake, featuring doorstep hiking trails, riding stable and trout streams.

— Shepp Ranch, near Boise, Idaho. Wilderness ranch along a remote bank of the Salmon River, reached only by jetboat or charter plane. Emphasis on whitewater rafting, horseback trips and nature hikes.

— Lone Mountain, Mont. Guest ranch near Yellowstone National Park, its summer pursuits center on horseback rides, wilderness pack trips, and guided nature walks. Superb, Harper notes, for cross-country skiing as well.

— Wilderness Air Vacations, Brunswick, Maine. John James' company specializes in tailoring wilderness itineraries in the northwoods country of Maine, "for Easterners desiring a taste of Alaska — only closer to home."

— O.A.R.S. for those rafting trips in the Grand Canyon. Write to O.A.R.S., Box 67, Angels Camp, Calif. 95222.

— For bicycling trips and tours, Harper recommends Country Cycling Tours, New York, N.Y., and Vermont Bicycling Touring, Bristol, Vt.

The "Y's Way to a Healthy Back" has a session beginning this week at 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Other sessions will be Sept. 2-Oct. 9 and Oct. 14-Nov. 20. Pre-registration is suggested so a needs assessment may be made.

More information is available at 364-6990.

Registration being held

Registration is now open for a six-week pregnancy exercise program which starts next Tuesday at the Hereford YMCA. The classes will be at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Member fees are $20 and non-members are $30. Nancy Beltran, an R.N. at Deaf Smith General Hospital, will be the instructor.

The program is specially designed for pregnancy with intensity level geared for conditions during pregnancy. Jarring and jumping movements have been eliminated.

Exercise during pregnancy improves energy levels, helps maintain muscle tone, and protects against back pain and injury.

Physician's approval is required. For information, call 364-6990.

POLLY'S POINTERS It's easy to make crystal-clear ice

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — How can I eliminate the unsightly flakes and specks that come from my ice cubes when I serve ice water? The last time I had guests I bought new ice cube trays, but there were still specks from the melting ice. Help! — SUE B.

DEAR SUE B. — Although you don't exactly describe these flakes and specks, my guess is they're white flecks. These are probably minerals in the water that solidify out of the water when it freezes, and then appear in drinks when the ice melts. Boiling water before freezing it into ice may help somewhat, but to get really crystal-clear ice, you'll have to buy distilled water for making ice.

If it's any consolation, the specks and flecks are harmless and probably go unnoticed by your guests. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My little boy can go through the knees in a pair of blue jeans in two months. After accumulating a half dozen pair with holes in the knees, I started sewing on patches. When I came across an old pair of his jean cutoffs, I removed the back pockets and used them for patches on the knees of newer jeans. The pockets are already hemmed and look really cute. — L.J.

DEAR POLLY — One day a big spill of coffee occurred close to where I had a box of disposable diapers. The spill was immediately soaked up by a diaper placed over it and the coffee did not stain our carpeting. I had remembered the diapers were very absorbent, so I turned one over and used it on the spill. — JANI

Turn old clothes, sheets and towels into new useful items with the Pointers in Polly's newsletter "Recycling Clothes and Linens." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title.

DEAR POLLY — Sometime ago, a reader wrote in regarding cracks in the middle of her cheesecake. Here is a sure-fire method that I recently acquired from my neighbor, Dorothy. Add two to three tablespoons of cornstarch to the batter while beating all the ingredients together. If using an eight-inch spring form pan, use two tablespoons cornstarch; if using a nine-inch or larger springform pan, use three tablespoons of cornstarch. If this is printed in the column, I will surely split the Polly Dollar with my friend, Dorothy! — GRACE

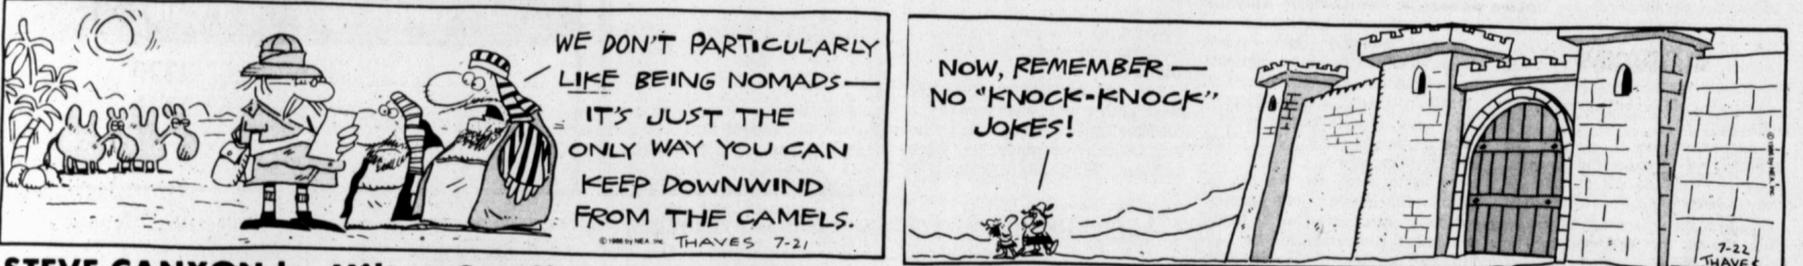

The first newspaper printed on a train was the Weekly Herald, a single sheet, printed on both sides. It was issued by Thomas Alva Edison and the first known issue was dated Port Huron, Michigan, February 3, 1862.

McKinney feed store a step back to 19th century

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) — A few blocks east of the historic courthouse square, just on the other side of the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, are five functioning acres of 19th-century Texas.

Here, around the grain elevator that has been functioning daily since it was built in 1984, is a grain mill and livestock feed store operation that is run in essentially the same way and in the same rural atmosphere of nearly a century ago.

Collin County may be growing and developing, but Poe Feed and Milling hasn't changed much. The way manager Gene Wells sees it: "The animals we're feeding don't change much."

"Our primary service now is horse feed," says Wells, who has worked here 17 years. "The metroplex is covered up with horses."

Ben Hill and J.W. Webb would probably be impressed. Every day, feed is prepared and sold to area feed stores and individuals, some of it in bulk, some in bags. Hill and Webb were the fellows who put in the grain elevator 92 years ago.

For the first half century, it was primarily a grain storage and processing operation. Then, in 1943, Bill Dungan bought the place, installed the mill and began bagging the feed in burlap bags.

Compared with the first 50 years, the last 40 have been utter turmoil. First, Bob Wallace bought the mill in 1956 and began partial bulk sales again. Carroll Shelton took over in 1969; Don Poe bought it in 1982.

Somewhere along the way, paper replaced the burlap and the size of the bags was reduced from 100 to 50 pounds.

Poe's plan for the business is clear. "We don't intend to change much," says the 47-year-old Wimsboro farmer who commutes 170 miles roundtrip each day. "We like it the way it is."

This is the way it is: Just south of the small brick building which houses the business offices is the 90-foot grain elevator. It's built of two-by-six-inch oak slabs which have been covered with corrugated tin. Even the bins are wooden, and the elevator can hold more than a million pounds of grain.

"You won't see any more elevators like that," Wells says.

During the day, 18-wheelers bearing corn from Nebraska and oats from Minnesota arrive and dump their loads into the elevator's underground holding pits. Nearly all of the grain comes from out of state.

The grain is cleaned as it passes through a series of screens in the elevator, then is sent through the screwlike auger system into the next structure where it is mixed with other grains to make feed.

John Warden is general foreman of the mixing process. He's 49 now, was 18 when he came to work here. "It gets to be home when you've been here this long," he says.

Warden stands before a panel that controls the flow of grains to the scale bin. He reads the massive dial on the springless scale, then pushes buttons that ship the appropriate grains to mix No. 10 horse feed.

"It's noisy and dusty in here, but it's not bad enough for the workers to wear masks or capris. The floor is concrete; the walls, tin. Temperature is the primary problem. It's an icebox in here in the winter," says Wells.

Warden mixes 5,000 pounds of feed at a time. Then it's emptied into 50-pound sacks. The sacks must be manually loaded onto fork lifts, which carry them to a 7,500-square-foot warehouse.

It's an ancient, simple process. "We don't make feed for monkeys or chinchillas, so it's pretty basic," says Wells.

Materials and the means of transport are about all that has changed. Steel has replaced wood. Trucks have replaced wagons.

Hoisting a 50-pound bag of feed onto his shoulder, Wells says. "This part of the business, the manhandling of the bags, never changes."

Not like Collin County. "McKinney was primarily an agricultural area for many years," says Wells. "Now there are lots of commuters who work in Dallas and live here. Still, they want a horse, cow and some chickens on their five acres."

German composer Ludwig von Beethoven died in 1827.

More than 1,400 people died in 1913 in floods that swept through Ohio, Indiana and Texas.

ONE BURGLARY EVERY 8 SECONDS

Every 8 seconds. That's how often burglars walk away with thousands of dollars of merchandise from people's homes - adding up to more than $3 billion of stolen possessions each year.

"Burglar-proof Your Home" is a new brochure from USF&G Insurance that can show you how to protect your home from burglars. It's important information you need, and it's free.
