

Hereford Selected as Plant Location

Thermonetics May Build 2 Methane Operations Locally

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Thermonetics, an Oklahoma City-based methane gas and cattle feed operation with a plant in Guymon, Okla., will construct one, and possibly two, plants in Hereford, The Brand learned today.

Jim Samis, Thermonetics president, said today that a $6 million plant will be built in Hereford to purchase manure from area feedyards for the production of methane.

Thermonetics also is considering construction of a plant in Dumas.

"We are further along with Hereford. We're looking at the Dumas area. We feel internally, though, that we're committed to Hereford."

Thermonetics is negotiating for the purchase of land to construct the plant, and those negotiations may determine whether a second operation will be established in Hereford.

"We'll build one or two plants there. There are a lot of unanswered things right now," Samis said.

"I'm not sure we have all the options we require for the purchase of manure. And we're negotiating for some sites that would make a difference."

Thermonetics, which operates three thermo-energy plants in Texas, has only one methane plant — in Guymon, Okla. There are 24 employees at that plant.

Samis said that the larger Hereford plant would need approximately 35 employees, and a second plant would have about the same as Guymon.

"We try to fill most of the positions locally. We'd have to bring in a few people, but not very many."

Thermonetics for the past few weeks has been in contact with Deaf Smith County feedlots considering the purchase of manure, which is used to produce methane. Methane is similar in composition to natural gas.

The Guymon plant sells methane to People's Gas in Chicago, Ill. The gas is manufactured through a process known as anaerobic digestion.

Pollution is not a problem, Samis said. "It doesn't pollute any more than a feed yard."

"This installation in Guymon is actually helpful to the environment. It gives the feedlot a place to sell the manure so it's not left on the ground as long."

"The manure is recycled. It provides a source of energy."

The Hereford plant (or plants) will produce cattle feed and sell it to feed yards at what Samis calls "a very competitive price."

Feed yards who sell manure to the plant also will have first rights to the feed produced by Thermonetics.

The plant also will produce liquid fertilizer in small amounts. "That part of it will be very minor."

Construction on the facility will begin and be completed in 1978, Samis said.

"The Guymon plant isn't up to full operation yet. As far as timing in Hereford, as soon as we have the Guymon plant operating efficiently, we'll be ready to operate the next one."

"We'll be ready in the near future, certainly in 1978."

The reason Hereford was selected as a site for Thermonetics' biggest operation was the large number of feed yards, Samis said.

Elevator Blast Leaves 8 Dead

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) - At least eight persons died Tuesday night when an explosion ripped through a Port of Galveston grain elevator, leaving another 23 injured and eight missing.

Officials had earlier reported 10 deaths.

"There may be others in there and our search goes on," said Galveston Police Lt. D.K. Lack.

An injured man and woman trapped beneath twisted steel and hunks of shattered concrete were rescued early today.

Two victims died at John Sealy hospital and there were six in the Galveston County morgue, Tony Salano of the medical examiner's office said.

Hospital spokesman Don McCoy said 23 persons were treated for burns, including two who were in critical condition.

Firemen worked around some small, smoldering blazes early today that threatened to trigger other explosions and caused officials to close the north end of Galveston Island. "It is still a dangerous situation," said Galveston Fire Chief Hugh O'Donohue.

The force of the blast, which occurred about 8:30 p.m., shattered windows in the downtown section of this port city of 65,000. The waterfront is about one mile from the downtown area.

Two gaping holes were torn in the side of the main elevator, which is 240 feet or 13 stories high. Chunks of concrete the size of automobiles were thrown more than 20 feet. Choking concrete dust and smoke hampered search efforts, overcoming at least 15 rescue workers.

The blast, authorities said, apparently occurred in a tunnel that connected the elevator to a loading dock facility at the Farmer's Export Grain Co., which was formerly known as the Cook Grain Elevator. The facility includes 40 silos and has a capacity of 3.5 million bushels of grain.

The explosion occurred at Pier 33. Two ships were unloading grain at the time and were moved by the U.S. Coast Guard after the blast.

A section of the tunnel had collapsed as if hit by barrage of artillery shells. A railroad switch engine was blown from the track and twisted into a grotesque shape while the track was twisted and snarled upward.

"I saw a flash go up and then there was a big concussion," said a security guard at Todd Shipyards, about a half mile from the facility. "A big glob of fire spread over the top of the building across the way and soot and small fires grew into one massive flame."

"I was talking on the telephone and all of the sudden the house went straight up in the air and plopped back down," said Barbara Agraves, 30, who lives about six blocks from the site of the blast. "It broke most of the windows and knocked out

Begin 'Won't Surrender'

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menahem Begin declared today he "will not surrender" to international pressure to accept Egypt's terms for a peace settlement, which call for a Palestinian state in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

"It is clear to me that we have adopted the correct road to peace... there is no doubt that the only way to peace is the path chosen by the government," Begin told the Israeli parliament, or Knesset.

"We have done our share. We have made our contribution. Now it is the turn of the other side."

While Begin was speaking, about 200 demonstrators from the Israeli town of Yamit, in the occupied Sinai, protested outside the Knesset. The residents fear their town will be in Egyptian territory after Israel withdraws from Sinai.

Speaking in calm, measured tones, Begin outlined for the first time in public the plan for Palestinian self-rule that he presented to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Ismailia Christmas day, including continued Israeli military presence in part of the occupied territories.

While Sadat reported some progress on Israeli withdrawal from Sinai, he and Begin were deeply divided over the Palestinian issue. The Knesset will vote on Begin's plan, and despite some opposition in the ranks of Begin's own Likud Party, he seemed certain to get a majority.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan was at his accustomed seat in the Knesset after a mysterious absence on Tuesday. Israeli press reporters said today he flew secretly to Iran to report to the shah on Mideast developments and seek his influence in drawing Jordan into the peace talks.

In his remarks before the Knesset, Begin clearly implied that the plan made major concessions and was a fitting reply to Sadat's breakthrough visit to Jerusalem last month, where he called on Israel to take "hard decisions."

But Begin added the autonomy plan did not mean Israel was relinquishing its claim to sovereignty over the West Bank and Gaza.

"We have a rightful claim to this part of the land of Israel," he said. "It is our land."

But he acknowledged that both Jordan and the Palestinians had conflicting claims to the same land.

For that reason, Begin said, Israel was suggesting that the question of sovereignty over the West Bank and Gaza remain open until the claims can be resolved.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says Christmas is the time of the year when mother has to separate the men from the toys.

oOo
ANOTHER CHRISTMAS is now history and, with a tidy wife, nothing remains on this Dec. 28 except some ham and turkey and homemade fudge, and—of course—the bills! For most of us, Christmas was joyous enough that it was all worth it. We're reminded of a well-repeated thought by Henry Van Dyke, and we want to publish it for your consideration again:

"How seldom Christmas comes—only once a year; and how soon it is over—a night and a day! If that is the whole of it, it seems not much more durable than the little toys that one buys of a fakir on the street corner. They run for an hour, and then the spring breaks, and the legs come off, and nothing remains but a contribution to the dust heap."

"But surely that need not and ought not be the whole of Christmas—only a single day of generosity, ransomed from the dull servitude of a selfish year—only a single night of merry-making, celebrated in the slave-quarters of a selfish race! If every gift is the token of a personal thought, a friendly feeling, an unselfish interest in the joys of others, then the thought, the feeling, the interest, may remain long after the gift is forgotten."

oOo
AN ARTICLE ON the front page of yesterday's Brand revealed that middlemen have increased their share of the consumer food dollar. Farmers in November received 38.5 cents of each $1 spent for food in retail stores, says the Ag Department, while middlemen got 61.5 cents. The month before, farmers got 39 and middlemen 61 cents.

The government figures revealed the difference is higher when you add meals eaten away from home to the food basket. On that basis, farmers this year are getting only 31.1 cents of each $1 consumers spend on all food and middlemen are getting 68.9 cents.

County Buys Sheriff's Car

Deaf Smith County commissioners Tuesday purchased a 1978 Plymouth Fury for the Sheriff's Office, approved construction of a gas line in Precinct 2 and tabled a request to move voter registration out of the tax assessor-collector's office.

Commissioners met in a routine regular session with County Judge Sam Morgan and Clerk B.F. Cain missing. Both were out of town.

The new car for the sheriff's office will cost $5,845 with trade-in. Commissioners accepted the low bid from Jones Motors over a bid from Orval Watson Ford.

The commissioners court approved construction of a gas line by Kemm Industries in Precinct 2. The line will cross a county road.

Nell Miller, tax assessor-collector, asked the court to move voter registration from her office into Cain's office due to her staff's heavy workload.

Enabling state legislation has given commissioners the option to change the location of voter registration.

Since Cain was out of town, the court tabled the matter until its Jan. 9 meeting.

John Faulkner of Lubbock, an insurance salesman from Blue Cross-Blue Shield, asked commissioners for permission to distribute information to all county employees concerning a new life insurance option.

The current Blue Cross-Blue Shield group policy is paid by Deaf Smith County. An employee benefits are cut in half on attainment of age 65.

The option discussed by Faulkner would enable employees to pay policy supplements until they leave county employment or reach age 65. Employees at age 65 — would become fully vested.

The current life insurance policy is for $5,000.

The commissioners approved Faulkner's request, although they emphasized they neither are endorsing or discouraging the option.

To Replace Windshield

The cracks weren't all that large, but they caused Charles Sprouse, 236 Ave. J., to take his pickup to the body shop Tuesday for a new windshield. Sprouse is one of seven vehicle owners in Hereford who sustained broken windows over the weekend.

Three schools and a restroom at Veteran's Park also were targets of vandalism. A 16-year-old male has been charged with 10 counts of criminal mischief in connection with the expensive rash of destruction. (Brand photo)

A 16-year-old Mexican-American male was charged Tuesday with 10 counts of criminal mischief in connection with several broken windows and other vandalism over the weekend.

The vandalism resulted in approximately $3,000 worth of damage, with most of it at three Hereford schools and Veteran's Park.

A restroom facility sustained $666 worth of damage between Friday night

City Collision Injures Four

A pickup-car collision Tuesday afternoon in Hereford sent four persons to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Denice Evans, of 505 Ave. H, the driver of the car, remained in the hospital today after suffering a mile concussion and lacerations. She was listed in fair condition.

Others admitted were Nora Harrison, 78, of Littlefield, Doug Evans, 11, of 505 Ave. H, both passengers in the car; and Ruben Coronado, 16, of Hereford, who was riding in the pickup.

Driver of the pickup was Alonso Cabezuola, 16, of Dawn.

According to Hereford police, the car, a 1972 Ford, was traveling north on McKinley before attempting to turn right onto 6th Street.

The pickup, a 1976 Ford Ranger, also traveling north on McKinley, and the car collided. Both vehicles sustained extensive damage in the accident.

Ms. Harrison, the Evans youth and Coronado were treated for minor lacerations at Deaf Smith General and released.

and Monday morning after someone smashed sinks, commodes and lights with an instrument, believed to be a tire tool according to police.

Johnny Carr, a City of Hereford employee, reported the park vandalism Monday.

An electric meter also was destroyed and someone wrote on the walls in the women's facility with shaving cream.

Jimmy Patterson, Stanton Junior High custodian, reported that 15 or 16 windows were broken at the school. Sometime after 9 a.m. Saturday, 42 windows were broken at Bluebonnet Elementary, and several windows were broken at La Plata Junior High.

Ray Cole, 840 Blevins, reported that someone knocked out the windows of his car Sunday night, while Eddy O'Rand, 803 Brevard, told police someone broke the windows and a mirror in a Mead's Bread truck either Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Waylon Smith, 401 Star, reported that someone knocked out the back window of his 1973 pickup.

Back windows were destroyed in vehicles owned by Waylon Smith, 401 Star and Adriana Condarco, 401 Lawton.

Charles Sprouse, 236 Ave. J., reported Tuesday that the windshield in his pickup was smashed over the weekend.

The juvenile this morning had not been charged with cracking Sprouse's windshield, but police said there probably would be a total of 11 counts of criminal mischief.

The suspect, a 16-year-old former Hereford High student, was released Tuesday to the custody of his parents.

"We're planning on making another arrest today," Detective Vernon Hope said.

Damage to each of the vehicles is expected to be between $125 to $150.

Mexican Shootout Nets 1,300 Pounds

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A shootout between Mexican federal narcotics police and aerial marijuana smugglers resulted in the seizure of about 1,300 pounds of the weed, the head of the Juarez region of the federal police said Tuesday.

Francisco Marin Merez said the gun battle just after midnight Monday lasted several minutes at an uncharted landing strip near Ascencion, a village about 130 kilometers south of Juarez.

Blood stains on one of the 25 bags of marijuana indicated at least one of the smugglers was wounded in the gun battle, Marin said.

He said about seven smugglers were loading marijuana into a twin-engine airplane when Mexican officers, checking the recently discovered landing strip, arrived at the scene.

A barrage of shots were exchanged before the smugglers managed to board the aircraft and escape in a northerly direction, Marin said.

Chrysler To Recall 1.3 Million Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is recalling 1.3 million cars to check possible engine-stalling problems in the biggest recall in its history.

Chrysler officials said they had received 27 reports of accidents associated with the stalling problem on 1975-1976 and 1977 Dodge Darts, Plymouth Valiants, Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volares. There were injuries in seven accidents.

The cars have 255-cubic-inch, six-cylinder engines or 318-cubic-inch V-8 engines.

The Detroit Free Press reported earlier this month that Chrysler discovered the problem in 1976 and told dealers, but did not tell car owners. Chrysler contended the stalling was an industry-wide problem and not related to safety.

However, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration asked Chrysler after the newspaper's story to recall the cars "in the interest of safety."

Chrysler officials said Tuesday there were "a number of people who called after the news stories" and the company had been "somewhat surprised by the breadth of the problem."

NHTSA said it had received about 1,000 complaints and that 52 accidents might be linked to the stalling problem.

$27 Million Reached In Westinghouse Suit

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A $27 million settlement has been reached in a uranium supply suit here between Westinghouse Electric Corp. and Texas Utilities.

The agreement came Tuesday in a $2.5 billion suit in U.S. District Court against Westinghouse.

Texas Utilities was one of 10 utilities or utility groups that sued Westinghouse for abrogating its contract to supply them with uranium when the price of the ore rose from about $10 a pound to $40 a pound between 1973 and 1975.

The company earlier in the long-running lawsuit announced an out-of-court settlement with Alabama Power.

Under an order signed by U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr., Westinghouse agreed to the following terms:

Provide Texas Utilities 470,000 pounds of uranium at the price specified in its original contract with firms for which Texas Utilities is agent — Dallas Power & Light, Texas Electric Service Co., and Texas Power & Light. The average contract price was $11 per pound.

Christmas Credit Shows Increase

DALLAS (AP) — King Credit ruled the nation's Christmas shopping scene in booming proportions this year and there's no letup in sight, says the chairman of a consumer credit reporting firm.

J.E.R. Chilton III of the Chilton Corp. said Tuesday that consumers are "seeking credit with a vengeance." He added that the latest upbeat report shows spending this Christmas will top last year's record levels by more than 10 percent.

Based on the surge in demand we've seen since August, it's going to be months before consumers slow their pursuit of credit," Chilton said. "We now feel comfortable that installment credit will hit $230 billion a year from now, a figure that we previously had not expected until 1980."

Chilton said rising incomes have kept pace with the growth of credit obligations, keeping that ratio well away from any "danger levels."

Regardless of the state of the economy or consumer concerns about the future in general, if they just are confident about their jobs they will take on new credit," Chilton said.

He said he considers his firm's credit report volume a lead indicator of retail sales because he says more than half of retail sales are made on credit.

Texan John White Is Carter's Choice As New Democratic Party Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is naming John White a shrewd and gregarious Texan as his choice to run the debt-ridden Democratic Party as it heads into a congressional election year.

Carter was expected to announce the choice today. He arranged a White House meeting with White, currently deputy secretary of agriculture, and Kenneth Curtis, former governor of Maine, who is quitting as party boss.

The selection of White, 52, a politician in the mold of astute, story-telling former chairman Robert Strauss of Texas, is expected to be formalized at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee on Jan. 21 in Atlanta.

The meeting will follow a Democratic fund-raising dinner — one of several aimed at bailing the party out of the red. Carter has agreed to speak to at least five of the dinners, also designed to help finance congressional candidates in the 1978 elections.

Even before announcing White as his choice, the president began lobbying committee members to accept him. Allen O'Donnell, a national committeeman from Nebraska, said he got a telegram from Carter on Tuesday strongly endorsing White.

O'Donnell said he thinks the committee will go along with Carter's selection.

White, recommended to the president by Strauss, presently Carter's special negotiator for foreign trade, beat out White House appointments secretary Tim Kraft and California party chairman Chuck Mannatt for the top party job.

Kraft reportedly decided he did not want to leave his White House post. Mannatt was at a disadvantage because of his support for California Gov. Jerry Brown in last year's Democratic presidential primaries.

White, who helped draft a new Democratic charter while Strauss headed the party from 1972 to 1977, supported favorite, son Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Texas, during the primaries. But then he worked hard to hold Texas for Carter in the general election.

As party chairman, White will inherit the headache of party indebtedness, reduced during the Curtis tenure from $3.8 million to $2.5 million. According to party treasurer Joel McCleary,

Sounds in Chimney Not From Santa

HOUSTON (AP) — The man was in the chimney but he apparently felt it was not the time to say, "Ho, ho, ho."

Scott Sullivan, 29, was surprised Tuesday when he heard someone talking in his fireplace.

"Hey, anybody out there? I'm in the chimney," a man said.

Sullivan said the man then explained he had climbed into the chimney to burglarize the house but got stuck.

The fire department was called.

"They didn't believe me, so I called police," Sullivan said.

The police didn't believe him either, Sullivan said, but decided to investigate after telephoning back to confirm the report.

Investigators arrived and then summoned firemen who removed a 20-year-old man, covered with soot, from the chimney.

"I was just walking along and thought I'd climb in and try to burglarize the house," the man told investigators, adding that he had never tried anything like it before and had no plans to try again.

Police said burglary charges would be filed.

Thirty four persons died in traffic accidents over the long Christmas weekend, but the figure was seven short of what Department of Public Safety officials had predicted.

DPS spokesman Jim Robinson said the department had estimated 41 fatalities, 11 percent more than the 38 persons who died on highways during the same time last year.

Among the latest reported deaths:

A New Mexico woman, 54-year-old Margaret S. Davis of Vaughn, who was killed Monday afternoon in a two-car wreck on U.S. 290, seven miles east of Sheffield.

A teenager from Rankin, 15-year-old Tony Lynn McKenzie, died Monday night west of his hometown, when his motorcycle and a pickup collided on Texas 329.

A Central Texas resident, 18-year-old Albert Louis Mena of Satin, died in a one-car rollover last night on Texas 6 north of Marlin.

Social Programs Take One-Fourth of GNP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social programs, both private and public, now take more than a quarter of the gross national product, double the figure of 25 years ago.

But despite the big increase, a new study on American life says, Americans are showing greater support for putting dollars into social programs.

In 1977, 53.8 percent of Americans polled said too much was going to welfare programs, two years later, only 45.2 percent of the group felt the same way.

At the same time, a majority of Americans said they placed higher priorities on improving national health care, dealing with crime, protecting the environment and improving education and social programs.

These are some of the findings in Social Indicators 1976, a 564-page volume of graphs and charts put together over a four-year period by Dennis F. Johnston, a Commerce Department sociologist and his team of statisticians.

Commerce Secretary Juanita Krepps said the document is designed to make it easier for Americans to decide what progress the country is making or failing to make toward the common goal of improving our lives.

The report spans subject matters ranging from trends in U.S. health improvements to what Americans are spending to live today compared to 30 years ago.

It offers the obscure — one table is titled, "Selected Characteristics of Persons Doing Volunteer Work, 1965 and 1974" — to the obvious — noting that 37.4 percent of people not registering to vote say they aren't interested in voting.

One table measures membership in the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts membership in both is down from 1970.

The department also offers a disclaimer warning against "unwarranted conclusions as to cause-and-effect relationships or unwarranted inferences as to the reasons for the observed differences.

A few other indications of changing American life listed in the report:

The amount of leisure time available to Americans increased 11 percent between 1965 and 1975, but time devoted to family care declined nearly 25 percent. Time spent working changed little.

In 1960, some 28 percent of the population listed television watching as a favorite leisure activity. By 1975, the figure had jumped to 46 percent.

Americans are dying for different reasons than they did 10 and 25 years ago. Deaths from heart attacks and strokes are down. Deaths from suicide, murder and cirrhosis of the liver — commonly associated with alcoholism — are up.

The median income of all American families, taking inflation into account, had nearly doubled in the 1970s compared to the 1940s. Minority groups did even better, making 2.4 times as much per family for the same time comparison.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just moved into this lovely apartment and was happy as a lark until about a week ago. From the first night I have been bothered by obscene calls that begin about 1:00 a.m. and go on for at least an hour.

I have no idea who is doing this to me. First I tried to be polite and reason with the nut. Then I got mad and really let him have it. Last night I threatened to call the police and have my line monitored.

Food Bargains Include Chicken, Fruits

COLLEGE STATION — Mid-holiday food bargains at Texas grocery markets appear on fryer chickens, citrus fruits, some dairy items — and onions and potatoes, reports Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY — Fryer chicken prices are down slightly, and some markets offer them as "features." Mid-holiday turkey prices are slightly higher than they were before Thanksgiving and hen-turkey supplies are short due to heavy demand at Thanksgiving. However, a few stores are featuring all sizes.

FRESH FRUITS — Tangerines and tangelos are at their peak. Temple oranges are just starting their season, so expect improved supplies in the next two weeks. Navel oranges are improving in supplies and prices. Grapefruit quality is outstanding — with moderate prices.

Other good fruit choices are grapes, bananas, apples, pears and avocados.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Onions and potatoes are the best buys. Look for firm, or hard, dry onions with small necks, and choose well-shaped potatoes that are free from defects, sunburn (greening) and decay.

Fresh corn has attractive prices for this season of the year.

Other economical buys are hard-shell squash, sweet potatoes, carrots, cabbage, broccoli, celery, rutabagas and cooking greens.

DAIRY COUNTERS — Special prices appear on milk, half-and-half, sour cream, yogurt and a variety of cheeses.

BEEF — Chuck cuts are "features" in some markets. Other attractive-price items are ground beef, round, sirloin and rib steaks. Rib roasts, however, have higher-than-usual prices due to heavy demand.

PORK — Supplies are down, so prices are higher than forecast for this time of year.

However, scattered features are Boston butt roasts, quarter-loins cut into chops, rib-end roasts and chops, liver, smoked picnics and ham portions, frankfurters and bacon.

FROZEN FOOD COUNTERS — Frozen fish packs offer wide selections, easy preparation and economical protein food choices.

HOLIDAY WATCHWORDS: A two-part plan to stretch the 1978 food budget makes an economical New Year's Resolution? Know "why" when you buy, and use leftovers to protect the food budget.

Seaman Harris will be assigned to Guam, where she will work in Navy communications.

Water Lethal When Mixed With Power

COLLEGE STATION — Using electricity safely means staying "dry" — and following other precautions, warns Dr. Carolyn McKinney, a family resource management specialist.

In touching an appliance, or to switch it "on" or "off," make sure hands are dry, and stand in a dry place.

Wet hands or a puddle of water on the floor make it easy for electricity to travel through a person, the specialist says.

Dr. McKinney is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Following the same rule, do not touch an appliance at the same time you touch water or plumbing or any metal object, the specialist cautions.

For example, reaching for a dish in a sinkful of water while touching a toaster is dangerous, she explains.

Also, while in the bathtub or shower, do not operate electrical appliances, such as hair dryers and radios, she says.

When it travels, electrical current "seeks" the path of least resistance, and electrical current will travel to water — through a person if allowed to do so. However, safety precautions in use at all times can prevent that, Dr. McKinney adds.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING SALES

December sales on children's clothing mean a bargain only if the clothes are comfortable and fit well, allow for some growth, are durable and easy care.

(MISS) Claudette Mitchell, county extension agent.

These sales can offer good buys on children's clothing, especially cold weather fashions, including coats, hats, boy's suits and shoes as well as general clothing items.

Check these features for comfort and good fit:

-Neckline does not gape or bind.

-Shoulders are wide enough for free arm movement.

-Sleeves are roomy and will not pull out with strain.

-Shirts and blouses are long enough to tuck in at the waist and stay tucked in.

-Pant legs are short enough so the child won't trip on them.

-Fabrics are soft, not stiff or scratchy.

-Elastic at the waistline are wrist is not tight enough to cause red marks on the skin.

Look for these growth features in children's clothing:

-Deep hems in skirts, pants and sleeves can be lengthened as a child grows taller.

Remember to use decorative stitching, rick-rack or trim to hide marks from the old hem if necessary.

-Wide seams at the center back of pants allow adjustments in width.

-Two-piece garments usually have more room for growth than one-piece items.

-Adjustable straps and waistbands allow for increasing sizes.

-Garments without a definite waistline can be worn longer than those with fitted waists.

-Stretchy fabrics and knitted garments have "give" to allow for growth.

-Elastic waistbands on skirts and pants provide room for growth.

For durability and care check for these features:

-Wide seams that will not ravel or pull out, or on knits, narrow seams that are stitched and overcast securely.

-Double stitched seams at pants' crotch or arm holes for strength.

-Reinforcements or patches on the knees and elbows of clothes that receive hard wear.

-Evenly stitched buttonholes.

-Reinforcement stitching, such as bar tacks, at points of stress, at pocket corners and the ends of flys.

Check the labels and hang tags for terms like "machine washable, permanent press, soil release, little or no ironing, crease resistant and stain resistant."

Serve cooked foods hot—140 degrees F.—to prevent poisoning by Clostridium perfringens, warns Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Wildcats win 78-72

Kitchens' 39 Not Enough

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

A career-high 39-point productive by Kelly Kitchens wasn't enough to offset a drastic height advantage by the Clovis Wildcats Tuesday night, and the Hereford Whitefaces fell to the host club of the Clovis Holiday Tournament 78-72 in opening-round action.

Kitchens showed the New Mexicans in attendance his personal brand of "Texas" basketball in scoring the game-high 39 points, 25 of which came in the second half and helped a Herd comeback that slimmed down a 23-point Wildcat lead to the final six-point difference.

Hereford was playing without the services of 6-3 post David Schumacher, and Clovis took advantage of seven players 6-4 or better to open up a wide lead in the middle periods of the game.

The visiting Whitefaces opened the contest hot and led for most of the quarter. The Wildcats finally took a 13-11 lead at the 2:12 mark, and never lost the advantage again.

Clovis went on to post a 26-18 lead after the first period, and increased the gap to 46-32 at intermission. Sharpshooter Nelson Franse matched Kitchens' 14 first-half points in guiding the 'Cats to a 44-28 lead before the 'Faces closed the gap a little just before the buzzer. Franse finished the game with 24 points to lead the Wildcats.

Kitchens had able backup through the first 16 minutes with Robert Lee Graves adding seven points, Jackie Mercer five, and Brent Allen four. But, it was all Kitchens in the final two stanzas for the Herd.

Mercer added five points in the final two quarters, and five other Whitefaces contributed two points each.

The Wildcats opened up a 23-point bulge at 64-41 with 1:33 left in the third quarter, but Kitchens hit seven quick points and Mercer added a layup with 18 ticks left to cut the gap to 66-50.

The lead slipped to as little as seven points (73-66) before Clovis moved in front by 12 at 78-66, and the Herd scored the final six points of the game. Steve Cerda got the final points of the night on a layup following a flour-length feed by Kitchens.

The loss drops the Whitefaces to 10-7 on the year, and put them into a consolation bracket game against Albuquerque Sandia, a 63-57 loser to Lovington in the first round Tuesday, at 1:30 p.m. (MST) today.

The Wildcats will meet Lovington at 8:30 p.m. (MST) tonight in winners' bracket play. The other semifinal game pits Pampa, an 80-61 winner over Farmington, against Alamogordo, which defeated Portales 53-52 in opening round play.

The other consolation game pitted Portales against Farmington at 3:30 (MST).

Celtics Send Scott To Lakers for Pair

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Next season is now for the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers, past rules of the National Basketball Association with fast-fading playoff hopes.

"We're trying to make more deals to change the club around," said Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach Tuesday after trading star guard Charlie Scott to the Lakers for suspended forward Kermit Washington and former Celtics guard Don Chaney.

Los Angeles Coach Jerry West declared that the acquisition of Scott "marks the beginning of our second season."

The Celtics, 10-22 and losers of six straight on a nightmarish West Coast road trip, and the Lakers, at the bottom of the NBA's Pacific Division, have struggled despite lineups studied with former all-stars.

"We're just going to take our chances," said Auerbach. "We haven't been doing anything with Scott, so you might as well try something else."

"Washington is the key," said Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn, whose own job is in jeopardy. "He's a board banger who can help out center Dave Cowens."

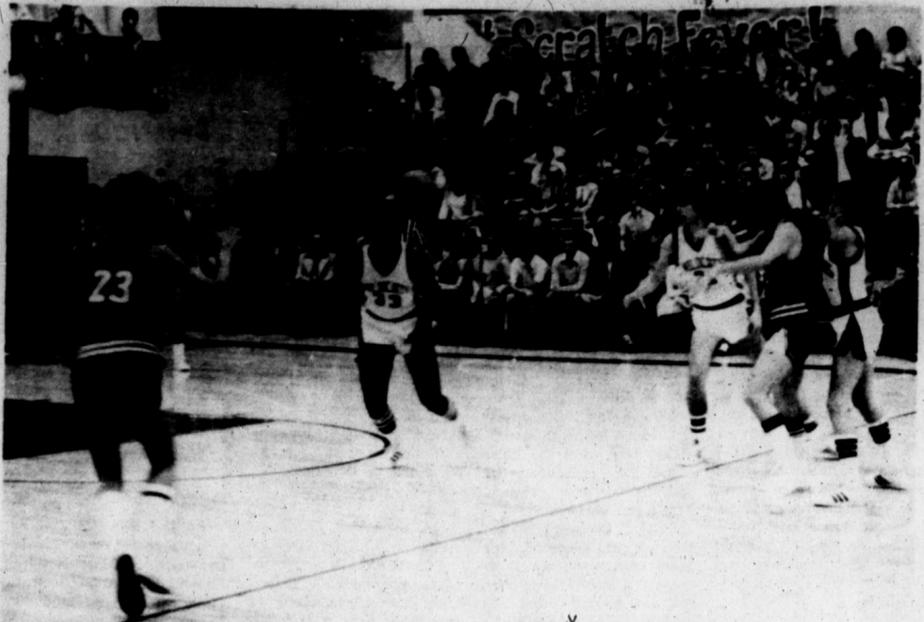

The 6-foot-8 Washington, however, is suspended at least until Feb. 9 for punching Houston's Rudy Tomjanovich in a game this month. Because Tomjanovich is expected to miss the rest of the season with a broken jaw, NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien may extend Washington's suspension - which also included a record $10,000 fine.

Auerbach said he had no contact with O'Brien before the trade was made.

Los Angeles General Manager Bill Sharman said Scott "is exactly the type of player the Lakers needed."

The 6-foot-6 former All-American at the University of North Carolina averaged 22.2 points per game in six previous NBA seasons and played in three All-Star games.

He has been erratic this season but averaged 16.5 points, second on the Celtics to JoJo White, his former backcourt mate.

Hoyas Upset Holy Cross

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Wherever Georgetown's basketball team plays, some wise guy in the crowd will undoubtedly ask the musical question, "What the heck's a Hoyas?"

George Blaney has the answer today.

"They're a Top Twenty team, no doubt," says the Holy Cross coach. "They've been in the NCAA playoffs two of the last three years. I'd say you have to be pretty good to do that. As far as we're concerned, they're one of the toughest teams for us to beat."

Since the early 1940s, the Hoyas haven't really been among the nation's prestige teams - but Coach John Thompson is working on that matter in the Holiday Festival Tournament.

Generally considered in pregame assessments to be the darkhorse of the tourney in New York's Madison Square Garden, the Hoyas are now in the running for the championship after Tuesday night's crushing 79-65 triumph over 12th-ranked Holy Cross.

The Hoyas will play for the title Thursday night against Alabama, a 68-65 victor over Princeton in the other first-round game.

"They really do play well against us," said Blaney, who has now lost three straight games to Georgetown. "Tonight, they took our game away. Our game is driving for the basket and passing - and they stopped it. You have to give Georgetown credit for that. They did a heckuva job defending us. We came in here with a good reputation - but I guess that's a little tarnished now."

After the Hoyas surprised the Crusaders, Alabama defeated Princeton in a game that was no surprise - the Tide's mercurial speed overcoming the 'Tigers' patient, textbook style.

"We prepare harder to play

Princeton than any other team outside of the Southeastern Conference," said Alabama's Reggie King. "They're a tough team to get ready for. They do so many things well."

In another tournament, fifth-ranked Marquette won its own Milwaukee Classic for the 10th straight year with a 65-56 victory over Texas. Jerome Whitehead's 21 points paced a balanced Warrior offense.

"I said last night we would have to go inside to beat Texas, and we did," said Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds. "You've got to get a big guy like Whitehead inside and you've got to go to him."

The Longhorns hurt themselves with a poor shooting night, hitting only 32 percent of their floor shots.

In the Rainbow Classic in Hawaii, No. 13 Providence won an opening-round game with a 70-59 victory over Lafayette behind Dwight Williams' 25 points. The triumph was the 200th in Coach Dave Gavitt's career.

Indiana, the nation's 15th-ranked team, whipped Jacksonville 69-59 and Florida rolled past St. Bonaventure 88-75 in opening-round games of the Gator Bowl Tournament in Jacksonville, Fla.

Mike Woodson's 21 points and aggressive rebounding by his teammates earned the Hoosiers their victory. Florida defeated the Bonnies behind Larry Brewster's 22 points.

Ernie Cobb scored 26 points as Boston College defeated Oklahoma 77-71 and Blake Taylor's 31 points rallied Arizona State over Oral Roberts 82-66 in opening-round action of the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City.

Kansas State whipped Colorado 82-72 behind Curtis Redding's 30 points and Brian Banks scored 24 to spark Nebraska to an 82-72 victory over Oklahoma State in the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City.

In other action, 11th-ranked Cincinnati edged No. 18 Florida State 77-75 on Steve Collier's 25-foot jumper at the buzzer, extending the Bearcats' home court winning streak to 69; Buster Batheny scored a career-high 34 points to lead Utah over Weber State 98-88; Joe Kyles ignited a second-half rally to power Mississippi over Southern Mississippi 64-60; Vinnie Johnson and Arthur Edwards Combined for 51 points to lead Baylor over Drake 97-87 and Creighton, playing its first Missouri Valley Conference game in 26 years, nipped Wichita State 71-70

Holland Steals Stage; Chicago Whips Blazers

It was one of those "Struggles of the Titans": The Portland Trail Blazers and center Bill Walton against the Chicago Bulls and Artis Gilmore. A share of first place was on the line in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, since the Denver Nuggets were idle and the Bulls were only one-half game behind.

The battle between Artis Gilmore and Bill Walton is always a great matchup," observed Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "Nobody gets the better of each other. They simply equalize each other."

But while Gilmore collected 25 points and 21 rebounds to 15 points for Walton, the defending champion Trail Blazers made something of an oversight. "The key tonight was that we did not stay with Chicago's Wilbur Holland."

So Holland - with everyone watching Walton and Gilmore - scored 12 points and helped the Lakers and a 12-game losing streak in Oakland with their victory over Golden State.

Derek Dickey scored 18 points and Rick Barry just 10 for the Warriors, who were held to their lowest point total of the year.

Bucks 108, Braves 105

David Meyers and Marques Johnson, college teammates at UCLA, combined for 44 points to carry Milwaukee past Buffalo.

Johnson had 28 points while Meyers scored seven clutch points in the final five minutes to carry the Bucks to victory.

Jazz 113, Cavaliers 102

Pete Maravich amassed 42 points and Truck Robinson added 25 points plus 20 rebounds to carry New Orleans past Cleveland, ending a seven-game Jazz road winless streak.

Lakers 121, Warriors 82

History Will Accompany Vikings Against Cowboys

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - History will be tagging at the purple and white jerseys of the Minnesota Vikings this Sunday when they square off against the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football Conference championship game.

Both teams qualified for the final step toward the Super Bowl by beating first round opponents Monday. Dallas crushed the Chicago Bears 37-7, while the Vikings trimmed Los Angeles 14-7.

Actually, the Vikings got an early start on history in the game at Los Angeles. The Rams have become whipping boys for the Vikings in playoff contests and twice since 1969 have been a direct link for Minnesota into professional football's biggest extravaganza.

More importantly, perhaps, is the Vikings tradition in NFC championship games - they've never lost with visions of the Super Bowl dancing in their collective heads.

In addition to beating the Rams twice, and Cleveland back in 1969, Minnesota has also defeated Dallas in 1973, 27-10, in one of the Vikings' best-ever games. That game, incidentally, was played in warm, flat Texas Stadium, site of this week's matchup.

Trips to the Super Bowl have become the exclusive property of the Vikings and Cowboys in the NFC, it seems. Since 1969, when Minnesota won its first NFL championship, only two other teams - Baltimore and Washington - have represented the conference in the Super Bowl, one each. In the last five years however, either Dallas or Minnesota has gone, with the Vikings going four times if they win Sunday.

Although the Cowboys are generally considered the superior team in the NFC and upwards of 11-point favorites to beat Minnesota, Dallas coach Tom Landry is not taking the Vikings lightly.

"That would be foolish," he says. "They've been to four Super Bowls with the same people. They have some older players who understand the pressure of playoff situations."

Landry also must be aware that Minnesota has defeated Dallas the last two times the two teams have played in Dallas, in the 1973 NFC championship game, and 23-21 during the 1974 season.

"It's a toss-up game," he insists. "Everybody is in the same boat when you get into the playoffs."

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach says he doesn't see how the Vikings can help but miss Fran Tarkenton, who broke his leg Nov. 13 against Cincinnati.

"Down deep I think Tarkenton was an all-time great quarterback," said Staubach. "You just can't lose a Tarkenton and be a better team."

Entry Bobby Lee, and another bit of history.

The last time Lee, 32, started for Minnesota against the Cowboys was in a 1971 playoff game in Minnesota on Christmas Day. The Vikings, who had used three different quarterbacks during the 1971 season, lost 20-12. Lee was replaced in the third quarter and the following year Minnesota traded for Tarkenton.

Lee played out his option in 1972 and spent the 1973 and 1974 seasons with Atlanta. He was required in 1975 as a backup to Tarkenton, but Landry, for one, doesn't underestimate the red-haired quarterback from Pacific.

"Tarkenton could do more things, but Lee is very adequate," Landry said. "He is a veteran and a professional."

If history isn't enough to get the Vikings past Dallas Sunday, maybe revenge is. It was in the 1975 playoffs, remember, that Staubach's "Hail Mary" touchdown pass to Drew Pearson gave Dallas a 17-14 victory and killed Minnesota's third consecutive Super Bowl appearance hopes.

The Vikings felt they had their best team ever that year, just as Dallas does now. Minnesota would like nothing better than to return the favor this Sunday in warm, flat Texas Stadium.

Staubach said "It's most important that you play with confidence in the playoffs. That's a big plus. Physically we had been getting the job done; now we have it mentally."

Staubach admitted he was a little surprised by Los Angeles' 14-7 loss to the Vikings in the slop and mud.

"Before the game, I thought personally that LA would win but our coaches were not as surprised," said Staubach. "Minnesota has played tough football other than the Oakland game."

Staubach, who completed the famed "Hail Mary" pass to Drew Pearson that doomed the Vikings in the final seconds of the 1975 NFC title game, said

Roger Says Pokes In Great Frame of Mind

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach said Tuesday the "state of mind" of the 1977 Cowboys rivals that of the Super Bowl champion team of 1971.

"When we had that streak going in 1971 we just believed we were going to win," said Staubach. "That's the way this team is right now...a great frame of mind."

"This is a young team and plays every game with a lot of intensity," said Staubach, who takes the Cowboys into their sixth National Conference title game Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

"We are a much better team than we were when we beat Minnesota earlier in the season."

Dallas downed the Vikings 16-10 in overtime but since then Minnesota has lost quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running back Brent McClanahan.

"I don't see how Minnesota can be any better because down deep I think Tarkenton was an all-time great quarterback," said Staubach. "You just can't lose a Tarkenton and be better."

Staubach said there was "no way" Dallas would low-rate the Vikings because they had a 9-5 regular season record.

"We don't have all that many veterans on our team," said Staubach. "We are hungry. We've knocked off better teams and we've been beaten by worse."

Staubach concluded "The Vikings have showed a lot of class. I bet only they and some of their fans thought they would beat LA. Everybody thought they were dead."

Staubach, who quarterbacked Dallas to the Super Bowl XI title, said "I'm certainly not even thinking Super Bowl. People call me for tickets and I won't even talk to them."

Meanwhile, "anaerobic" exercise puts stress on the body, increasing its ability to use oxygen, because the body is operating at an oxygen deficit.

"The extra stress forces the body to release energy that had been stored in the muscle tissue," explains Spino, also the author of two books: "Beyond Jogging," and "Running Home: The Body-Mind Family Fitness Book."

Therefore, Spino suggests running - any kind of running, even in place - as a start to conditioning. "But to maintain a good level of health," he maintains, "anaerobic exercising, three or four times a week, is required."

Spino suggests other exercises - bike riding, running in the surf and jumping rope - as supplements to running.

And he says it is necessary to meditate twice a day for five minutes each time to enhance the physical-fitness program. Spino says those "mental techniques help people get into awareness, concentration and imagination."

Run Don't Jog Teacher Says

By BERT ROSENTHAL

NEW YORK (AP) - Jogging, a craze that has swept the nation during the past few years, is a waste of time.

Instead of jogging, run, advises Mike Spino. Be a free-spirited runner.

The 33-year-old Spino is a physical culturist, who not only practices what he preaches, but teaches it. Spino is the director of the Esalen Sports Center, whose major branch is in Big Sur, Calif.

"The main thing wrong with jogging is the pace," explains Spino, who attended Syracuse University on a track scholarship from 1962-66 and set school records - at the time - of 4:00 for the mile and 9:12 for two miles, and in recent years has run in a handful of marathons.

The deep-thinking, fast-talking Spino says that by definition, jogging is running a mile in more than 7 1/2 minutes.

"To do your body any good," he says, "it is necessary to run both slower and faster than that - and vary the rhythm."

Since running increases the flow of oxygen in the blood-stream and to the brain, "it takes more than a jog to do it," says Spino.

"When you jog," he made the announcement of his appointment. "This has been my goal since I became an assistant coach in the NFL 11 years ago. I think the years of preparation I've had will serve me well."

Rutigliano, who comes to the Browns from New Orleans, where he was a receiver coach, succeeds Forrest Gregg, who resigned under pressure on Dec. 13 with his team one week away from its final record of 6-8.

Rutigliano said his first order of business will be to familiarize himself with the Browns' organization and assemble a staff, adding: "The coaches we get will be very, very important. I want coaches who are great teachers."

Hearing Today On Suit by Players

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Three University of Arkansas football players withdrawn from the Orange Bowl game by Coach Lou Holtz will seek reinstatement today in a federal court hearing here.

The hearing was scheduled for 9 a.m. today before Federal Judge Terry L. Shell.

Attorney John W. Walker of Little Rock filed a lawsuit Tuesday on behalf of running backs Ben Cowins and Michael Forrest and flanker Donny Bobo. The three were suspended by Holtz last week for an alleged dormitory incident in Fayetteville involving a woman.

Walker requested a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction requiring Holtz to use the three in the post-season classic in Miami against the Oklahoma Sooners.

"We won't know until the hearing what's going to come of it," David Stewart, an attorney for the university, said at Fayetteville.

Walker asked the court to find that Holtz' decision to suspend the three "was not based upon any criminal charge or infraction of any university rule or regulation and that it was based upon a personal whim of the defendant Lou Holtz, which may be based upon racial considerations."

Athletic Director Frank Broyles and the university's board of trustees also were named as defendants in the suit.

Walker asked for an injunction requiring the defendants to implement fair rules and regulations concerning student conduct which must be applied fairly and equally without racial considerations."

He also requested an injunction requiring the school to "provide special assistance, counseling and other assistance to black athletes on the same basis as they are provided whites."

Walker alleged that since 1969, the university has recruited numerous black athletes and that the school has been "callous and cavalier" in affording black students equal opportunities and advantages.

"The result has been that of the more than 25 black athletes who have used their total athletic eligibility, on information and belief, only one has graduated."

"In any case, a far lower percentage of black athletes complete the education program than whites," Walker alleged.

Saints Assistant New Browns Coach

CLEVELAND (AP) - Sam Rutigliano, who equates successful coaching with good teaching, has become the fifth coach in the Cleveland Browns' 27 years in the National Football League.

Rutigliano, his expressive, angular face framed by straight black hair and looking dapper in a conservative vested suit, said: "I think a successful football team is a great melting pot. There is a tremendous chemistry involved. I think you must have the proper chemistry between the management, coaching staff and the players."

"I've always dreamed of being a head coach in the National Football League," Rutigliano added moments after Browns owner Art Modell made the announcement of his appointment. "This has been my goal since I became an assistant coach in the NFL 11 years ago. I think the years of preparation I've had will serve me well."

Rutigliano, who comes to the Browns from New Orleans, where he was a receiver coach, succeeds Forrest Gregg, who resigned under pressure on Dec. 13 with his team one week away from its final record of 6-8.

Rutigliano said his first order of business will be to familiarize himself with the Browns' organization and assemble a staff, adding: "The coaches we get will be very, very important. I want coaches who are great teachers."

Business Lunch Deduction Hurdle in Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's one thing you can say about the three-martini lunch. But after all that gin, you tend to forget what it was.

Oh, yes. It was that the phrase itself carries a certain ring of wickedness, which makes it a political plus as President Carter tries to put at least a taste of reform into his $25 billion tax cut proposal.

Feed everybody in the office three martinis at lunchtime and there won't be much work done in the afternoon. So how can Congress object to knocking off that kind of business tax deduction?

It can, has, and almost certainly will again.

Indeed, one knowledgeable congressional tax hand says the business lunch deduction may be the biggest stumbling block to approval of the new Carter tax bill.

Three martinis makes a neat slogan, but it's usually not a three martini lunch. Sometimes it's a Bloody Mary, or a beer or the white wine the Carters serve at the White House these days. Sometimes it's dry.

What is at issue is the deductibility of business lunches, wet or dry. The Carter bill will propose that only half the cost of these lunches be deductible as business expenses.

That could make it a one-and-a-half martini lunch, but never mind. The real issue isn't drinking at lunch. It's buying lunch for a customer, a client or a news source and writing it off as a tax deductible expense.

Carter is not the first president to tackle that issue, nor the first candidate to build a slogan around it.

John F. Kennedy sent Congress a tax bill on April 20, 1961, recommending strict limits on business deductions for expense account entertainment. "These measures will strengthen both our tax structure and the moral fiber of our society," he said.

Kennedy's Treasury Department said the bill would have permitted limited deductions for the cost of food and beverages "consumed in the course of conducting business...."

The administration recommended limits of $4 to $7 a lunch. There was no mention of martini quota. Nor did the bill get passed.

All of that was 16 years ago.

By now, $4 to $7 is about enough to entertain a customer or two at a hamburger stand. And forget the martinis.

Sen. George McGovern went after the deductible business luncheon with a vengeance when he ran for president in 1972. The Democratic nominee had a standard line, part of almost every speech:

"There is something fundamentally wrong with a tax system that permits a corporate executive to deduct his $20 martini lunch, while a working-man cannot deduct the price of his bologna sandwich."

Sometimes, but not often, he switched the sandwich to tuna-fish. Since McGovern got clobbered, it really didn't make much difference what kind of sandwich it was.

Now, after eight years during which Republicans ran the White House and, like the out-of-office Democrats, enjoyed expense account lunches, President Carter is making his move.

"A business executive can charge off a $50 luncheon on a tax return and a truck driver cannot deduct his $1.50 sandwich," he complained during the campaign.

That's McGovern, adjusted for inflation, minus a bologna sandwich, but with the martini slogan soon to follow.

businessmen and union leaders is ready to fight on the issue of tax-deductible entertainment. A congressional tax expert said businessmen see it as only a first step in taking away their deductible perks-like first-class air travel and hotel suites where a smaller room would do.

Hotel and restaurant operators are worried about the impact on their business if entertainment deductions are out sharply. Labor unions representing waiters, service employees and the bartenders who make those martinis-are likely to line up against the change, too.

They're worried about the impact on jobs.

So the administration will have a fight on the issue. It may be that White House lobbyists can change some minds by inviting selected congressmen to lunch. White wines, of course.

Space Agency Rejects White House Request to Investigate UFO's

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. space agency has rejected a White House request to reopen a government probe into unidentified flying objects, saying it would be "wasteful and probably unproductive."

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it stands ready to analyze any "bona fide physical evidence from credible sources" - evidence that it said has never been found.

The rejection was made in a letter sent last week by NASA Administrator Robert Frosch to Dr. Frank Press, President Carter's science adviser. Press said he accepted NASA's conclusions and did not plan to pursue the matter further.

In 1969, the Air Force closed the government's formal UFO investigation, called Project Blue Book. After 22 years of study and considerable expense, the Air Force concluded that, in the absence of significant findings, continuation of the project was unwarranted.

In a letter to Frosch last July, Press asked that NASA become the government's focal point in a "national revival" of interest in reports of UFO sightings. He recommended that the agency establish a small panel of inquiry.

Press said there was an upsurge in letters received by his office asking about UFOs, especially from young people. He said his staff was too small to answer them and assigned the job to NASA.

Many of the recent letters, averaging two or three a day, have been prompted by the new UFO movie, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." Several demand that Carter make good on a campaign promise that if there were any secrets about UFOs he would flush them out.

Carter reported in 1973, while governor of Georgia, that several years earlier he had seen a UFO in the form of a "glowing light" in the night sky. "I don't laugh at people anymore when they say they have seen UFOs because I've seen one myself," Carter was quoted as saying.

Frosch wrote Press that a NASA technical committee had carefully considered establishing a UFO panel. "I do not feel that we could mount a research effort without a better starting point than we have been able to identify thus far," he added.

"I would therefore propose that NASA take no steps to establish a research activity in this area or to convene a symposium on this subject.

"There is an absence of tangible of physical evidence available for thorough laboratory analysis... To proceed on a research task without a disciplinary framework and an exploratory technique in mind would be wasteful and probably unproductive."

Frosch said he did not intend to indicate in his letter that NASA "has come to any conclusion about these phenomena as such. Institutionally we retain an open mind, a keen sense of scientific curiosity, and a willingness to analyze technical problems within our capability.

"If some new element of hard evidence is brought to our attention in the future, it would be entirely appropriate for a NASA laboratory to analyze and report upon an otherwise unexplained organic or inorganic sample," he added.

Secretary Willing To Testify About Park

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressman's secretary, accused of perjury by the House ethics committee's special counsel, is willing to testify before the panel on what she knows about a card file containing the name of South Korean businessman Tongsun Park, her attorney says.

Gerald Walpin, attorney for Bonnie Robinson, said the secretary to Rep. Lester Wolff has "offered to testify before the committee as to all matters and to allow the committee to decide on the basis of that testimony whether she's testifying truthfully."

Special Counsel Leon Jaworski said Tuesday that Mrs. Robinson committed perjury when she denied removing Park's card from the New York Democrat's office files.

He also accused her of violating House rules and impeding the committee's investigation of alleged South Korean influence buying by Park and other South Koreans.

Mrs. Robinson was given 21 days to formally answer the allegations. She is entitled to a committee hearing before any recommendation for punishment.

Walpin, reached in Chicago, said his client had been denied the right to correct her Dec. 13 testimony even though she asked to do so "within a day of the time she testified."

He admitted Mrs. Robinson "did not testify fully in all details in regard to all matters," but added "There is no evidence whatsoever that she removed the card from the file."

Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., a committee member, said the panel approved proceedings two weeks ago that could lead to a recommendation of disciplinary action by the full House.

He said the action would include turning the information over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

Caputo said Wolff and other members of his staff testified that Mrs. Robinson removed Park's card from files but later put it back.

Jaworski said Mrs. Robinson told investigators she had never seen a Tongsun Park card in the file, that no one else had discussed the card with her and that no one had removed or destroyed the card.

Caputo said he believes the committee approved disciplinary proceedings partly to warn congressmen's aides not to lie "out of a sense of loyalty" to their bosses.

Wolff has not been accused of involvement in the Korean scandal, and Jaworski's statement said only that Tongsun Park's name, address and telephone number were in an office card file.

But the statement also said the panel is investigating "the relationship, if any, of Tongsun Park to members of Congress, including Rep. Lester Wolff, including the existence of any telephone calls to and from Tongsun Park and visits by Tongsun Park to the congressional offices of Rep. Wolff."

Wolff, chairman of the House Asian affairs subcommittee, said, "I feel genuinely sorry for Bonnie." But he added the complaint against her "neither relates to me nor to any action taken by me."

Wolff said the card file "contained an entry for Tongsun Park" and added, "Mrs. Robinson allegedly denied knowledge of the card."

Recordings Approved For Trial

HOUSTON (AP) - Video and sound recordings made by police may be used in the trial of the parents of Joe Campos Torres on charges of resisting arrest.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell said Tuesday, "I think the Torreses have received sufficient publicity. I'm not going to discuss it."

The chiefs did say videotaping "does have a lot of potential and I intend to exploit this potential. You don't have to take anybody's word for what happened."

Joe Luna Torres and his wife, Margaret, were arrested Oct. 8 after a scuffle in front of a pool hall.

They are the parents of Joe Campos Torres, whose body was found in Buffalo Bayou last May. Two former Houston policemen were convicted of negligent homicide, and the jury gave them probated one year sentences.

Four officers involved in the incident are to go on trial Jan. 16 in federal court on charges of violating the civil rights of the 23-year-old Torres.

The arrest of the Torres couple came shortly after a demonstration of 200 persons protesting the probated sentences given the two former officers.

Their trial has been set for Jan. 13.

A police official said the Torreses were first videotaped as they were booked into jail. During interviews later, tapes also were made.

Al Levin, an assistant city attorney, said the tapes are legal and "He Chief Caldwell wanted to be sure those people the Torreses were handled in a very careful, proper manner and he wanted to be sure no future problems would occur."

Percy Foreman, the couple's attorney, said he knows the Torreses were taped, but does not know the details of the tapes. And, Foreman said he doesn't believe the law is clear on whether taped confessions can be used as evidence in Texas courts.

Joe Luna Torres claimed he was beaten during his arrest.

Chief Caldwell said he would like to take the video-sound recording idea beyond jail interviews. He said he is considering placing small sound recorders on the belt of all officers.

The chief also said he would someday like to issue small video cameras to officers working in teams so that both sound and video recordings of arrests could be made.

"It is the closest thing to having a jury present at the time the case occurs," he said.

Hawks Had Knack For Making Stars

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Howard Hawks guided Gary Cooper to his first Oscar in "Sergeant York" and helped launch the careers of such stars as John Wayne and Laurence Olivier. But his own reputation with film critics was tarnished by his fondness for westerns and his simple credo: "Don't Annoy Audiences. Entertain Them."

The director did just that for 60 years, and at his death at age 81 was planning another western.

Hawks, who created such classics as "Scarface," "To Have and Have Not" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is to be buried Thursday after memorial services in Beverly Hills.

He died Monday night of complications from a fall he suffered at his Palm Springs home several weeks ago. Hawks suffered a concussion and was later confined to a wheelchair. He never recovered.

In 1941, he was nominated for an Academy Award for "Sergeant York." Cooper won for best actor, but Hawks lost.

In 1974, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which had virtually ignored him, gave Hawks a special Oscar for his work as "a master American filmmaker whose creative efforts hold a distinguished place in world cinema."

Hawks' fondness for westerns irritated American film critics, who saw him as an anti-intellectual.

But he did not care. He numbered such films as "Rio Bravo" and "El Dorado" among his best.

"Every time a man who is a first-rate director goes after a western, you come out with a pretty good picture because a western's good entertainment," he said. "It's dramatic."

His credits included dramas - "To Have and Have Not" and "The Big Sleep" - and zany comedies - "Bringing Up Baby," "Mail Order Bride" and "His Girl Friday."

He also had an uncanny knack for developing top stars.

He cast George Raft as a gangster in "Scarface" in 1932. When Raft became nervous, Hawks told him to flip a coin - it became Raft's trademark.

For the same film, Hawks plucked Paul Muni from the Yiddish theater and starred him as gangster Al Capone.

When he saw model Laurence Olivier on a magazine cover he summoned her to Hollywood only to find she had a squeaky voice. He ordered her to lower it. The actress went to a deserted hillside, screamed herself hoarse and returned to become the husky-voiced siren in "To Have and Have Not."

In real life, Hawks drove race cars, bred horses, fished with Ernest Hemingway, hunted with Gary Cooper and wrote scripts with William Faulkner. He married and divorced three times and once headed a motorcycle club whose members included Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck and Clark Gable.

Hawks is survived by daughters Barbara and Kitty, sons David and Greg and four grandchildren.

He was married three times - to Athol Shearer, sister of actress Norma Shearer, to Nancy Gross and to Dee Hartford. All the marriages ended in divorce.

Colby Defends CIA Propaganda Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former CIA Director William E. Colby testified Tuesday that he agrees with new restrictions on the agency's use of journalists abroad but opposes additional limits.

Appearing before the House Intelligence Committee, Colby said, "I strongly recommend that we not establish a blanket prohibition against any relationship whatsoever between American journalists and intelligence services."

New regulations, established by CIA Director Stansfield Turner, prohibit the agency from initiating relationships with journalists in most cases, but Colby said they still allow newsmen to volunteer information about what is going on in a foreign country.

Asked if he agreed with the regulations, Colby said he did. But he added that one danger with the rules is that other groups might also "clamor to be included in this charmed circle" which cannot be approached by the CIA. He did not specify which groups might seek such status.

Colby was asked by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., who presided at the committee hearing, whether he thought the regulations had "gone about as far as they can go." Again, Colby said he did.

Colby also said he did not think the use of foreign journalists by the CIA should be prohibited. He said other nations make use of them in the United States and added, "I don't believe in unilateral disarmament."

Colby conceded that in a few instances false stories had been planted in the foreign press, but said that in some cases such a story eventually "becomes a real fact."

He gave as an example stories exaggerating the strength of a small resistance group, which then becomes stronger and is able to carry out a successful coup.

"In other words, if you do the job well, it becomes true?" Aspin asked.

"Yes," Colby answered. "I am not sure that is what we want to have happen," Aspin said.

About 15 men and women wearing red, white and blue eyeglasses and identifying themselves as "Yippies" sat or stood in the hearing room during Colby's testimony. Some of them held signs, reading "Beware of War Criminal" and "There is Blood on that..."

Witness.

Colby testified that intelligence areas of cover are few and...many CIA officers are all too easy to identify.

"The melting ice floe of adequate cover has already led to the tragic death of one of our officers and the frustration of the work of a number of others," Colby said.

Foreign journals and news media, he said, were an obvious means of overt influence.

Colby defended the agency's propaganda efforts as contributing "to the cohesion of freemen" during the time when the communist world was conducting massive propaganda campaigns.

He also discounted the argument that ending CIA contact with newsmen would free U.S. journalist abroad for suspicion of working for the CIA.

"Foreign nations, and especially hostile foreign nations, are not apt to believe protestations that our journalists have no intelligence relationships, however, firmly we declare them," he said.

Colby noted that banning CIA contacts with the Peace Corps has not ended expulsions of Peace Corps workers.

"This ostrich-like tendency to pretend that journalists can be purified" by a total separation from CIA bears a strong similarity to Secretary of State Henry Stimson's closing of a code-breaking unit in the Department of State in the 1920s with the comment that "gentlemen do not read each others' mail," he said.

"Secretary Stimson presumably believed that he lived in a world of gentlemen. But when he became Secretary of War a few years later, Mr. Stimson was reading as much Japanese mail as he could obtain..."

At The Library Political Background Forms Basis for Book

The story about a man who served as Democratic Doorkeeper to the House of Representatives for 28 of his 42 years is related in one of the two books being suggested this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

"Fishbait" by William (Fishbait) Miller tells of all the happenings he has witnessed involving the men and women known as Congress.

The author reveals the personalities and actions of the President, his staff and their lives.

The mixed emotions of each chapter will catch the reader's and make one laugh or cry while finding out what really goes on "behind closed doors."

Also suggested for reading is "Full Disclosure" by William Safire. The novel tells about a future President who faces hardships as well as accomplishments and sorrow.

The author explains how the forty-first president learns to cope with a tremendous crisis without letting the country fall to bits and pieces.

Deaf Smith County Library is open free to the public from 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. other weekdays and until noon Saturday.

FISHBAIT
By William (Fishbait) Miller
He announced Presidents to Congress and to television audiences of millions by intoning, "Mistah Speeah, the President of the United States." He was the source Jack Anderson went to for exclusive stories when Anderson was trying to prove he was capable of taking over Drew Pearson's column.

He was criticized for "Manhandling the President" when he kept Gerald Ford from falling.

He locked the entire House of Representatives in their chamber for one whole night.

He made Bella Abzug take off her hat.

He's William "Fishbait" Miller, and for 28 of his 42 years on Capitol Hill (1933-1975) he served as Democratic Doorkeeper to the House of Representatives. Speaker John McCormack said of Fishbait, "The Doorkeeper does more work accidentally and achieves more accidentally than the Clerk of the House and the Sergeant-at-Arms combined."

Supervisor of 357 House employees and in charge of a budget of $3 million, Fishbait's duties ranged from mother hen to the high and mighty to errand boy and hatchet man. When he arrived with a message for a congressman it had the power of the leadership behind it. He was there-in the smoke-filled rooms of the conventions where Presidents were made, in the nooks and crannies of the Capitol separating fighting congressmen, witnessing lengthy debates on the floor of Congress on topics ranging from flower arrangements to the format of the impeachment hearings for Richard Nixon.

Now he is here with you-telling everything he knows about that teeming, scheming, scuffling, and struggling body of men and women known as the Congress. Who drinks? Who doesn't? Who are the great womanizers? Who live like kings on Capitol Hill? Who are the practical jokers? Who are the sadistic? Who are the "Five Sisters" because of their religious ardor? And speaking of sisters, how angleic are congresswomen?

All this and more is revealed in this sometimes touching, often amusing, always surprising peephole view of life as it is truly lived on Capitol Hill.

FULL DISCLOSURE
By William Safire
What would happen to this country if the President seemed to be unable to carry out his powers and duties? What if the forty-first president, while meeting in Russia with Soviet leaders in the mid-1980's, were blinded in an assassination attempt? How would he cope with not only the intentional crisis but the pressure at home to resign-while trying to adjust to his blindness?

These questions are only a few that are explored in this fast-paced political novel about what a sudden shock can do to men and women at the center of action. Here is a serious examination of the kind of crisis that overcame the Woodrow Wilson Presidency, and may indeed consume a future administration, if a cabinet felt duty bound to force the President to step aside under the yet untried Twenty-fifth Amendment.

FULL DISCLOSURE is also a love story of a cool and detached young widower President made dependent on the people around him in ways he never would have imagined, desperate to prove himself as a political leader and as a man.

The novel can be read on many levels: as and exciting

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Dec. 28, the 362nd day of 1977. There are three days left in the year.

On this date in 1836, Spain recognized the independence of Mexico.

On this date:
In 1846, Iowa was admitted to the Union as the 29th state.
In 1856, the 28th American president, Woodrow Wilson, was born in Staunton, Va.
In 1869, William Sempole of Mount Vernon, Ohio, was granted a patent on chewing gum.

Terrorist Explosion In Paris

PARIS (AP) - A violent early morning explosion wrecked the Paris apartment of a French magistrate Tuesday. It was the latest in a string of terrorist attacks that have left police puzzled since there is no clear pattern of objectives.

There was no indication who might have planted the explosive which destroyed the apartment of Judge Louis Zollinger in the fashionable 16th district of Paris. No one was occupying the apartment at the time.

A fancy food store, a luxury night club, a suburban railway station, the Corsican vacation home of a former deputy, and a union headquarters in Cambrai were among the 16 targets that have been damaged by bombs in the past 8 days.

The ministry of interior has listed 548 attacks by explosives in 1977, compared to 480 in 1976.

Three persons have been slightly injured in the series of nighttime attacks during the past week. Property damage was obviously the sole objective.

In only two cases have any organizations claimed responsibility for the attacks. The clandestine Corsican National Liberation Front has said that it organized the bombing of the railway station in Villepinte, 10 miles northeast of Paris, Monday morning, and the explosion which levelled the Corsican vacation home of Alain Griotteway, a veteran Paris politician.

Mother Stabs Daughter, 'To Suck Blood'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - "Mommy stabbed me," 5-year-old Myeeshia Moore said from her hospital bed. "She put me on the bed and told me she was going to suck my blood."

Police arrested the girl's mother, Carla Moore, 30, Monday night on charges of attempted murder, assault and weapons offenses.

Investigators said Mrs. Moore, a substitute teacher in the Philadelphia school system, told them she plunged a butcher knife into her daughter's stomach "to drink her blood" but gave no reason for her action.

The child was reported in critical condition at Germantown Hospital following surgery.

Police said Mrs. Moore told neighbors her little girl was sick. They found the child in a pool of blood in a second-floor bedroom.

Police said Mrs. Moore told detectives who arrested her she had been drinking all day. Her dress was stained with blood.

Police said they did not know whether she had consumed any of her daughters blood.

Carter Picks McIntyre As New Budget Chief Director

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter announced Tuesday he will nominate acting budget director James T. McIntyre Jr. to replace Bert Lance, who resigned as budget director during a controversy over his banking practices.

McIntyre, 37, had supervised day-to-day budget operations as Lance's deputy in the first months of Carter's administration while Lance served as the president's close adviser and ambassador to the business community.

When Lance stepped down on Sept. 21, McIntyre became acting director of the Office of Management and Budget and guided preparations of the administration's 1977 budget.

Carter, who made the announcement personally, must wait until Congress returns from its holiday recess before submitting McIntyre's name to the Senate for confirmation.

McIntyre served as budget director in Georgia while Carter was governor, but he has never been part of the White House inner circle. In recent weeks, however, the soft-spoken administrator has gone on speaking tours and announced budget policy and has been praised publicly by Carter several times.

McIntyre took over many of Lance's duties while Lance was defending his banking activities in news conferences and congressional hearings.

Armed with volumes of financial records and aided by lawyers, Lance responded to criticism of his bank overdrafts, loans, and use of aircraft at two Georgia banks he once headed.

However, Lance finally returned to Georgia to deal with his personal financial problems. He still faces inquiries from the Justice Department, the Securities and Exchange Commission and other agencies.

McIntyre has not swerved from commitments by Lance and Carter to balance the budget by 1981.

Other top administration officials have retreated somewhat from this pledge, but the fiscal 1979 budget that McIntyre will unveil next month will contain figures to show how that goal can be met.

McIntyre has slashed deeply into budget requests from several agencies to hold the increase in real budget spending to 2 percent, meaning a budget of about $500 billion.

If confirmed by the Senate, McIntyre will continue to supervise 672 employees, help set government spending targets and reorganize the bureaucracy.

Some pressure had been placed on Carter to name a budget director earlier this month when Sen. William F. Proxmire, D-Wis., said McIntyre may have been serving illegally.

Proxmire cited on Dec. 15 a law prohibiting anyone from serving more than 30 days in an acting capacity in an executive position requiring Senate confirmation. However, budget officials said McIntyre had been confirmed as a deputy and that the law did not apply.

UT President Undergoes Surgery

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - President Lorene Rogers of the University of Texas returned here Tuesday, seven days after undergoing surgery in Houston for uterine cancer. She will recuperate at her home.

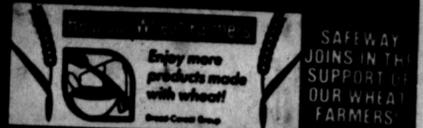

Officials at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute said the cancer was in an early stage and was confirmed to the uterus.

They said she was released three days early, because she was recovering so rapidly.
