Farmers Planning Washington, D.C. Trip

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

If preparations in the Texas Panhandle and on the South Plains are any indication, the nation's capitol will be inundated by an invasion of thousands of farmers supporting the American Agriculture farm strike movement next week.

The farmers are going to Washington, D.C. to protest the current depressed state of affairs in agriculture, and failure by the President or Congress to act on the matter.

They hope to prompt some action on their demands for 100 percent parity prices for all agricultural commodities.

A spokesman for the Hereford American Agriculture office, which serves as state headquarters, reported that approximately 1,000 farmers from the Plainview area and a surrounding 50 mile radius will be making the long trip to Washington.

As many as 300 farmers from the Brownfield area on the South Plains were also reported to be making arrangements for bus and airline bookings.

"We don't have a figure on sign-ups from the Hereford area as yet, because we've been so busy helping to coordinate the activities of other communities, but we plan to get started here right away," the spokesman explained.

The local farm strike office has called a meeting for 7:30 tomorrow night at the Bull Barn for the purpose of planning activities for the Washington trip.

Last week's meeting with Ag Secretary Bob Bergland in Omaha will also be discussed. The meeting is open to all interested individuals.

Another meeting will be held in Panhandle Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Ag Barn. Featured speaker at that meeting will be Tommy Kersey of Unadilla, Georgia.

The Hereford strike office spokesman explained that reservations for the Washington trip are ready being taken here.

"We would like to have individuals signed up and one night's lodging paid by Friday," said the spokesman.

A total of some 30 rooms have been reserved by the local office at the Skyline Inn, in Washington. The facility is located only four blocks from the Capitol and will serve as headquarters for the Texas delegation.

Rooms have been reserved for a period extending from Jan. 17-22.

Farmers are expected to start arriving in Washington on Jan. 17, and are being encouraged to make the trip by truck.

Bergland, FB President Say Strike Not Answer

HOUSTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and American Farm Bureau Federation president Allan Grant have agreed that strikes by farmers will not solve the nation's farming problems.

The two men spoke Monday at the opening sessions of the federation's 59th annual convention.

Bergland said the administration

Board Member Recognized

Hereford Independent School District board member David Pruitt, left, accepts a plaque from James Gentry, board president, following an executive session of the board Monday night. Pruitt, who is moving to Wellington, submitted his resignation during the closed session. The resignation is effective today, and Pruitt plans to move to Wellington to become manager of the Rural Electric Cooperative in that city later this month. The plaque was a memento from all the board members who will accept the resignation at their next meeting. The board will either appoint a replacement to finish Pruitt's unexpired term or keep the Place 7 position vacant until the upcoming election. [Brand photo]

Holder Shows HEW Letter to Board

Bi-Lingual Program 'Deficient'

The bi-lingual education program in the Hereford Independent School District is deficient in that it does not place students on a scale showing language dominance, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has ruled. HISD Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder Monday night presented copies of a letter sent to him by Gilberto L. Herrera, Office of Civil Rights chief of the elementary and secondary education branch of the HEW's regional office in Dallas, to members of the school board of trustees.

The letter, dated Jan. 4, included deficiencies in the HISD bi-lingual program and gave the district 60 days to submit a plan acceptable to the HEW.

The U.S. Office of Civil Rights recently conducted an on-site review of the HISD to determine the district's compliance status under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The review concerned efforts taken by the district to provide language services to students with limited English-speaking ability.

Herrera said the HISD must test students to determine their status (position) on scale to show language dominance.

"We must determine whether or not the children fall into the Spanish-dominance end of the scale to see if they need special instructional programs to offset the Spanish," Holder told The Brand today concerning the second step the HISD has been ordered to take.

"The third step is designing the

Deposits, Savings $110 Million Locally

Despite the economic uncertainty brought on by the low prices of farm products, Hereford's financial institutions continue to show good bank deposits at the end of the year.

Deposits at the two local banks totaled $72,668,359 at the close of business Dec. 30. That was extremely close to the year-end total in 1976 of $72,555,410.

Deposits for Hereford State Bank were inadvertently switched in an article in Sunday's Brand. Deposits were up $2 million to $26,049,682. The 1976 year-end total was $24,189,923. These figures were reversed in Sunday's issue.

First National Bank had a year-end total of $46,618,677 as compared to $48,365,487 at the close of business in December, 1976. The Sept. 30, 1977 deposit total at First National was $42,799,088, and the same reporting period at Hereford State showed deposits of $23,856,908.

Loans at First National on Dec. 31 totalled $39,290,351 compared to $41,737,079 at the end of 1976. At Hereford State, loans totalled $19,508,656 as compared to $14,976,125 the end of 1976.

Savings accounts totals at Hi-Plains Savings & Loans totalled $30,195,326 on Dec. 31. This compares to a total of $25,287,378 at the end of 1976, an increase of almost $5 million.

Share accounts at Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union were reported at $7,737,245 for the end of the year - up slightly from the $7,030,172 total at the end of 1976. Loans totalled $5,870,501 at the close of the year, compared to $5,042,761 at the end of 1976.

Bank deposits and the saving and share accounts of the four financial institutions totalled more than $110 million. A total on local savings accounts at Security Federal S&L were not available.

The Branding Iron Director Lauds HISD Language Program

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Listening to Louis Montano, you would never know he did not go through a program similar to the Hereford Independent School District's bi-lingual education classes.

Montano, who speaks English as well as anybody and does it without a trace of a Spanish accent, is director of the program designed to help Mexican-American youngsters make the transition from Spanish to English as their dominate language.

"I never had a program like this," Montano said. "Both my parents are Spanish. I guess because I grew up with English-speaking friends that English became my dominant language."

Montano, a former Stanton Junior High coach and physical education instructor, left Bluebonnet Elementary School at the start of this school year to take over the bi-lingual program.

He did it so he could become involved in the lives of Spanish-speaking children in all six elementary schools, instead of having, a non-direct involvement at Bluebonnet.

"When I was in the classroom or in a position of authority, it was great, but I realized they needed to have someone looking over them.

"I can influence youngsters more in a position of authority. When I was at Bluebonnet, I could influence 600 kids."

Children in kindergarten through third grade who speak Spanish as a dominant language make the transition to English in the program through bi-lingual teachers.

The program is carried into the fourth grade for youngsters who have not made an adequate transition.

Bi-lingual education is faster and more effective than classes with a mono-lingual instructor.

"If you take a Spanish youngster and put him in a mono-lingual classroom setting, he's, first of all, going to have to overcome the language barrier. Then he's going to have to learn the subject matter," Montano said.

"With a bi-lingual situation, he can not only overcome the language barrier, he can also learn the subject matter."

To comply with integration laws, Spanish-speaking students in kindergarten through third grade also take part in mono-lingual classes and are helped by a bi-lingual teacher's aide.

Mono-lingual youngsters, in turn,

Howling winds and towering seas lashed both the East and West coasts and plummeting temperatures from an arctic storm system left the American midlands ashiver, with more cold and snow expected today.

At least eight weather-related deaths were reported in six states.

There were widespread reports of roads closed from snow, floods or fallen tree limbs and schools were shut because of the cold and snow.

Bitter cold weather steadfastly retained its grip on Texas while snow was forecast for the Panhandle later in the day.

During the pre-sunrise hours, the temperature sank to 9 degrees at Amarillo. In the banana belt of deep south Texas, Brownsville had a 55.

The stars were visible for most Texas Monday night but increasing high cloudiness was building early today over the west and northwest portions of the state. Gulf moisture in the form of low clouds was moving rapidly northward from near Del Rio to Junction to Waco and then back toward the gulf coast.

At 6 a.m. it was 18 at Abilene, 34 at Fort Arthur-Beaumont, Houston and Austin, 44 at Corpus Christi, 28 at Lufkin, 22 at Midland-Odessa, 19 at Texarkana, 10 at Wichita Falls, 16 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 41 at El Paso and 38 at San Antonio.

Panhandle residents should see snow later today as it is forecast to begin over northwestern portions of the state. Light rain or drizzle was expected to move from south Texas northward and there was a possibility of a few thunderstorms over eastern portions late today.

The worst of the storms that battered most of the country Monday hit New England with winds clocked at 69 mph in Boston Monday night and 72 mph on Cape Cod. A radio tower, a church steeple and other debris crashed to the ground in Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

High seas drove aground the 700-foot oil tanker Achilles, carrying 12 million gallons of heating oil, east of Bristol, R.I. The tanker remained intact and some oil was offloaded to try to free it.

In Provincetown, Mass., "The sea came alive five feet over the top of the bulkheads. You can say, literally, there were walls of water," said town officials Ann Phelps. Other officials said state and federal aid will be needed to clean up after Monday's flood.

A concrete deck was ripped from a new hotel and flung across the street, and one Provincetown home collapsed into the sea.

Property damage was high in Maine where the winds sent a raging surf crashing into piers and as high as the second-story of waterfront homes.

Precinct 4 To Sell Equipment

Requests from James Voyles, commissioner of Precinct 4, and the resulting discussion took up nearly a half of Monday morning's Deaf Smith County commission meeting.

Commissioners began the meeting on a disappointing note - nobody participated in their attempt to inspire citizens to attend the meeting in observance of Government Month proclaimed by County Judge Sam Morgan and Hereford Mayor Bartley Dowell.

Signs had been posted on all courthouse exits as a reminder to the public to attend all governmental meetings in Hereford during January and participate in local politics in other ways.

Citizens will have a second chance to participate Jan. 23, when commissioners meet again.

Voyles proposed to the other two commissioners, Bruce Coleman and Alfred Smith (Austin Rose was absent), at Monday's meeting the necessity to purchase the Deaf Smith County Feedlot Road right-of-way for $600 an acre.

Commissioners voted the motion. Commissioners also agreed to allow Voyles to advertise for an employee and to see used equipment in his precinct.

The equipment includes a Huff 30 loader, a 1967 International truck-tractor and a 1968 Dodge two-ton pickup with bed and hoist.

Commissioners postponed discussion on radio service in Precinct 4. Voyles told the court that reception has been inconsistent and that he plans to talk to a serviceman about improving the setup.

Commissioners passed a resolution to participate in the regional status offender project of Team Resources for Youth (TRY).

Larry Watson, former Deaf Smith County juvenile probation officer and now head of the Potter County TRY organization, notified JPO Phil Sciumbato that TRY must have area participation in the project designed to help problem youngsters in order to obtain government funding.

Justice Brennan Afflicted with Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court's senior member has cancer, the court says, but is undergoing treatment and is given a good chance for survival.

The absence of Justice William J. Brennan Jr. overshadowed actions taken in nearly 300 cases Monday as the high court returned to the bench after a four-week recess.

Brennan, 71, will not return to his court work for 10 days, spokesman Barrett McGurn said. He has been undergoing cobalt radiation treatment for the past two weeks and will continue receiving the treatment for seven more weeks, McGurn said.

Brennan, a Democrat, was appointed to the court in 1956 by a Republican, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He is expected to return to the court in time to join in consideration of some of the cases heard Monday, including an effort by the federal government to keep seven words it considers indecent off radio and television.

Brennan met with no success Monday in an effort to get a federal court order to stop the proceedings in a state court.

About 175 prospective jurors appeared in state court Monday and were told to return for jury selection today.

As part of the federal suit to stop the state court proceedings, Knorpp is seeking $775,000 in damages against Potter County Judge Hugh Russell and District Attorney Tom Curtis, his chief accusers. Russell, before he became county judge, was the special counsel at the court of inquiry probing the county auditing procedures.

Knorpp contended in the federal suit that the removal trial should not be held until he is tried on other indictments, which include perjury, bribery and misapplication of funds. No trial date has been set on those charges.

Russell filed the civil removal suit against Knorpp, alleging Knorpp neglected to return promptly to county coffers those portions of his business trip advances he did not need.

The suit alleges Knorpp made personal use of the funds before reimbursing the county.

Curtis' office is prosecuting the case. As Knorpp filed his suit in federal court, State District Court Judge Arthur Tipps of Wichita Falls, who is hearing the removal case, was asked to sequester the jury.

Egyptian Officials Meet in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) - A group of Egyptian officials comes to Jerusalem today and a group of Israelis goes to Cairo to prepare for the next round of Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations.

The Egyptians will do the advance work for the meeting of foreign ministers Jan. 16, while the Israelis lay the groundwork for a defense ministers' meeting in Cairo beginning Wednesday.

The Egyptians will be greeted with far less fanfare than the group which preceded President Anwar Sadat's historic trip to Jerusalem in November.

No flags deck the streets, and Israelis who were stunned by the sight of Egyptians in their capital two months ago are taking the new conference in stride.

The Jerusalem meeting will be held in the Hilton Hotel and could go on for months. The United States and the United Nations will participate.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance arrives Sunday. Officials said he probably will leave three days later but may stay longer if his mediation is required.

Prison Escapees Sought in Oklahoma

By The Associated Press
Authorities were on the alert today for three escapees from the Oklahoma state prison who have stolen at least two cars and also taken one man hostage.

One of the stolen cars, taken Saturday night at Krebs, Okla., was found by Illinois authorities Monday at Benld, Ill., about 50 miles northeast of St. Louis.

The car was stolen by Danny Parker, 24; Johnny C. Wiggins, 25, and Bennie Highwalker, 19, shortly after they had fled the prison in nearby McAlester, authorities said.

Parker was serving 25 years for kidnapping, Wiggins 10 years for manslaughter and Highwalker five years for car theft.

Parker was now believed to be in Illinois while Wiggins and Highwalker were known to have been at Springdale, Ark., Monday where they took another car.

Sherry Robbins identified Wiggins and Highwalker as the two men who rang her door bell and then pulled a gun when she answered. They tied her up, took her money and her car.

When the trio stole the car in Krebs, they also took C.O. Turner, 50, of Joplin, Mo., as a hostage, authorities said. He was released unharmed Sunday.

Hereford police are investigating weekend vandalism incidents. Somebody over the weekend shot a window at the Soft Water Co., 214 N. 25 Mile Ave., with a BB gun, and air hoses were slashed at Tip Top Oil Co.

Newman Ponders Rise Of Babblenews In Tv Special

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hype is when certain parties seeking millions of dollars wangle free, massive national publicity in a short span of time for a new movie, book, rock group or worse.

It causes Babblenews, where the hypers babble about their wares, do it often and strike everywhere—magazine covers, newspapers, TV.

Fortunately, NBC's scholarly Edwin Newman has pondered the rise of such flatulence. And tonight, he has a one-hour study of it in a show called "Land of Hype and Glory."

After wryly noting the program is "unprecedented, compelling and superlative," he dwells at length on how publicity helped make millionaires out of four distinguished rockers called Kiss.

The are distinguished because they wear face paint, occasionally destroy guitars, breath fire, vomit fake blood and even sing via a sound rig sporting only 40 amplifiers and 150 speakers.

In inspecting this gonzo group and their guru, Bill Aucoin, Newman deftly establishes that suckers are still born every minute, and thanks to hype, many of them are Kiss fans.

The show drags a bit in perusing what Newman calls "hype, literary division," the promotion of a book, why one is pushed and another not, and the frantic big-bucks hustling by agents and publishers alike.

All is redeemed in his short discourse on "blurb words" used to push the goods—like "fantazizing, mesmerizing, terrific, tumultuous, stunning, dazzling, and so on."

He also notes that for some books, blurb words are brought together for "blurb phrases" such as "a voluptuous novel of perilous pleasure," but that blurb phrases really belong to the movies.

Which leads to a study of movie-hyping, particularly a mesmerizing section on a new $27 million sci-fi movie, something about close encounters and how it was publicized in New York.

Lo, there's a dazzling ballroom of tumultuous scribes. Each gets a press kit complete with a tape recorder for recording such tantalizing words as these, from a stunning actress in a terrific movie:

"I thought it was wonderful."

Later, Newman shows a producer of a different movie telling a New York publicity whiz he hired: "that's why we've come to you, because I think you can manipulate the media sufficiently well."

I wish Newman had interviewed a few New York movie critics on the use of blurb words in reviews and if they ever blurb just to get equal billing with the movie newspaper ads.

Gee, if I got a dollar every time they declared a flick "profoundly moving" I'd be in a castle in Ireland and not sitting here "entertaining...perceptive...badly-needed."

You'll enjoy tonight's show—particularly if you always avoid the massively publicized new movie, book or record on that theory that anything with that much hype really must be a turkey.

Bulk of ACS Donations Go Toward Research

"More than 86 cents of every dollar given to the American Cancer Society goes directly for research and cancer control programs," said Ron Smith, president of the Hereford ACS Unit.

He explained that, "Most ACS representatives, including all who make the annual door-to-door visits in Hereford during April, are volunteers."

Nationally for every staff person in the Society, there are 900 volunteers. This very small, highly skilled staff develops and guides the Society's programs of research and cancer control and helps the volunteers in their activities.

In 1977, of every ACS dollar spent, 33 cents went for research, 28 cents for patients and community service, 24 cents for public education, and 14 cents for professional education, for a total of 99 cents channeled into programs. Fourteen cents were spent on management and general expenses. This $1.13 total reflects increased research allocations from the National Society.

"But these figures don't tell the whole story," Smith stressed "People who criticize the Society for not spending more on patient care forget that most of the home services and specialized rehabilitation work is given free of charge by volunteers. Nationally, more than 300,000 cancer patients were helped this way.

"Some other critics erroneously list expenses for publications, films, and meetings as overhead, forgetting that research and service are only two of the Society's three main functions," he said. "The third is education."

"The ACS teaches the public ways to help prevent cancer and detect it early. And the Society keeps the medical community up-to-date on the latest techniques for diagnosing and treating cancer."

MRS. ERCILLIA R. PENA

Services will be at 3 p.m. Thursday for Mrs. Ercillia R. Pena, 57, in Temple Baptist Church with the Rev. Paul Garcia officiating.

Burial will be in West Park Cemetery under direction of Smith & Co. Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pena died Monday. Born in Star County, she moved to Hereford in 1960 from Hart. She was a Baptist.

Survivors include three sons, Juan and Roy, both of Hereford, and Lupe Hamilton of Michigan; five daughters, Orelia Silva and Yvette Pena, both of Hereford; Sophia Cooper of Commerce; Elizabeth Aleman of Charleston, S.C. and Irene Garza of Hamilton, Mich.; a brother, Mutano Radmon of Rio Grande; and 20 grandchildren.

profit year after year," Bergland told the federation, which represents 2.8 million farm families.

"While the nation in its own self interest, has a responsibility to keep agriculture productive and strong, the nation does not have the responsibility of assuming all the risks of farming and to guarantee full parity income."

While lamenting a drop in farm prices while other prices have increased, Grant said striking is not the answer.

"I can understand why some farm and ranch people might feel like quitting and going on a strike at a time when the price of wheat is below production cost as the price of bread rises in the supermarket, but quitting is not the answer," Grant said.

Grant said farmers would lose their decision-making freedoms if the government instituted a full parity program.

A Colorado-based group, American Agriculture, called a nationwide farm strike on Dec. 14 in an effort to force parity, an indicator which theoretically would give farmers favorable purchasing power.

"However much we wish full parity prices, most farmers and farm organizations realize that full parity by government fiat would be a mistake," Bergland said.

"It would mean a government-established marketing system that would be an administrative and bureaucratic monstrosity. Farmers would lose all semblance of independence and would be deprived of all decision-making."

Grant said he is greatly concerned about a growing national protectionist attitude in the U.S. and around the world.

"This negative attitude is generated by industries which have lost their competitive leadership by allowing their plants and equipment to outdated, and by unions anxious to protect worker jobs, even as their wage demands have prices us out of many world markets."

Although it had little effect on the convention, a group of about 500 gay rights supporters demonstrated outside the convention center prior to an appearance early today by singer Anita Bryant, whose anti-gay statements have drawn criticism from gay organizations.

The demonstrators said they were not protesting the appearance by Mrs. Bryant. Ray Hill, a leader of the Houston gay movement, said the demonstration was for human rights.

Several delegates from the farm bureau convention visited the demonstration out of curiosity and, as one said, "Something to tell the folks back home."

participate in bi-lingual classes, helped by a mono-lingual aide.

Montano praised school administrators and teachers for making the program effective.

"We have a real good attitude here from the administrators' viewpoint. I want to compliment elementary school principals - if they didn't have a good attitude...well, they're interested enough to get involved in the bi-lingual program to help the youngsters."

Farmers

tractor, car or pickup, according to the local strike spokesman.

A week of activities is planned during the show of strength in Washington.

A tractorcade and picketing activities will kick off the efforts by farmers on Jan. 18, with another tractorcade and rally on the 19th, and a rally on Jan. 20.

A church service and rally will be held on Jan. 22, and another rally will be held on Jan. 24.

Throughout the period of Washington activities, delegations of farmers will be contacting representatives in Washington to tell the story of a need for improvement in the marketing situation.

programs. The deficiencies concern grades 4-12 since kindergarten through third grade students are involved in a bi-lingual education program.

"We're doing everything necessary in K through 3," Holder said.

"We identify all limited-English-speaking children in those grades, and now we have to expand it into the upper grades."

"Most of our compensatory programs, such as remedial reading and communication skill classes are designed with this in mind."

Holder said the district does not presently use the process contained in the letter.

"We just look at their achievement test scores, and if they're not achieving we have to do something about it. Now we're going to have to approach it from the language-dominance standpoint."

"We just jumped to step 2 without going through step 1. About 95 percent of it is documenting things we've already been doing. We have to go to step 1 in documenting."

Holder said the district probably would ask the Office of Civil Rights for five years in implementing the plan.

The school board Monday also discussed a proposed policy for tax-shelter annuities for HISD employees.

The policy, when it is accepted during the next meeting of the board Feb. 7, will mean that the district will approve payroll deductions for annuities for any program

"And if it weren't for the hard work these bi-lingual teachers put in, not only for the student but in cooperation with their other grade-level teachers, the program would not be a success."

Montano grew up in Amarillo, attending Caprock and Canyon high schools. He has graduated from West Texas State University in 1972 with his degree in education.

Montano, 28, is married and has two children - Melody, age 3½, and Mindy, 2½. Montano said that setting an example is the key to teaching youngsters, both in school and at home.

"I believe, and it might sound crazy, that I was put here for a reason - to help people. The best way I can help people is by teaching the young minds of youngsters the good things in life, behavior and manners."

"If you can touch their lives at a very early age, it can be a very definite influence."

Winter

A 23-year-old man, John Gorman of Medford, Mass., was killed when his car swerved off a rain-slicked road and smashed into a tree.

Alabama reported three deaths. Two duck hunters - Richard Rowe, 24, and Tim Daly, 18, drowned near Athens in the choppy, icy waters of the Tennessee River. Georgia Williams of Montgomery, a blind woman who celebrated her 100th birthday on Christmas, died when her house burned in a fire cause by a wood-burning heater. Temperatures were in the teens and 20s.

Several persons apparently died of exposure. Eileen Olson, a 40-year-old mother of two, was found frozen in a motel parking lot in Madison, Wis. Her husband said she had left home Sunday night to get her car repaired.

Cincinnati police said Rufus Bowman, 29, apparently slipped on ice, hit his head and froze to death outside his apartment building Monday. His clothing was frozen to the sidewalk.

Two-year-old Deneice Herschberger died near Humboldt in central Illinois when she wandered out of her home during the night wearing only pajamas. Her body was found Monday on the front lawn.

Derrek Price, 57, died in his backyard in La Jolla, Calif., when a rain-soaked hill oozed forward and toppled a cinderblock retaining wall onto him.

Storm conditions were worsened in the Northeast by temperatures that dropped 50 and 60 degrees within the afternoon in some places, icing roads for rush hour traffic.

In New York City, roads were so hazardous that a normal one-hour drive from Manhattan to the Forest Hills section of the borough of Queens became a five-hour ordeal.

Two men bottled up in a bus stuck on Queens Boulevard became hungry and jugged up the block to a bakery. They returned with two dozen bagels for their fellow passengers.

The mercury fell from a spring-like 58 at dawn in Central Park to the teens by late evening. Fifteen-foot ocean waves swamp away 25 percent of Rockaway Beach in Queens.

On eastern Long Island, four oceanfront homes collapsed from the winds and tides. Thousands there lost electricity for several hours.

The bitter cold stretched south, chilling Florida with freezing marks as far south as the Everglades, and west across the MidAtlantic and Midwestern states.

Heavy snow warnings are posted from the Great Lakes to New England. Temperatures in the northern plain states were 20- and 30-below zero overnight.

Outside Washington, D.C., where winds gusted to 50 mph, the top three floors of a five-story office building under construction were toppled, sending steel girders and corrugated metal flying.

Temperatures in the nation's capital dropped 20 degrees in an hour Monday morning and were forecast to fall as low as 8 today.

"Persons going outdoors should dress as though their life depended on it. Exposed flesh may freeze within one minute," the National Weather Service said in its forecast for northwestern Pennsylvania.

The predicted wind chill index for that area, which had relieved up to seven inches of snow and was expecting four to six more today, was a bitter 35 to 55 below zero.

Western Maryland had eight inches of snow in some areas. Near Baltimore, police said 15 cars slammed into each other on slippery Interstate 95 Monday after a tractor-trailer jack-knifed.

At least 55 Kentucky school districts were closed today, and Virginia canceled classes Monday in the southwestern area, which was covered by snow as deep as one foot.

Hundreds of travelers were stranded across northern Ohio, where Gov. James Rhodes declared a snow emergency in three counties and sent the National Guard to rescue motorists.

Cleveland-Hopkins airport was shut down because blowing snow cut visibility and made runways hazardous.

In Milwaukee, where the high temperature was zero, 80 cases of frostbite had been treated at area hospitals by noon, and the weather service put northern Wisconsin under a blizzard warning. Up to eight inches of new snow is expected today.

Heavy surf and rain has pummeled the California coast for two days, stirred by an Alaskan storm system. Fifteen miles of highway north of San Diego were under water up to three feet deep.

The exclusive Malibu Colony, home of many film stars, was standbaggered to protect it from pounding waves and rain water tricking down from the hills on its other side.

Fire officials warned residents of a dozen homes in the expensive Pacific Palisades suburb of Los Angeles to evacuate due to the danger of rock and mudslides but most stayed in their homes.

One car was buried in a mud-slide on the Pacific Coast Highway. Its driver was uninjured.

High waves forced the shutdown of the 105-year-old Ventura Pier Monday when authorities noticed pilings and braces along the 1,200-foot structure were loose.

In other business, commissioners: -examined the monthly fire report which included 12 county fires.

-agreed to repair potholes on the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum parking lot.

-decided to sell the small house on the Black property if the Hereford Art Guild is no longer interested in using the house as an art center.

Banquet Honors Aggie Students

Amid familiar maroon and white decorations, signifying Texas A&M University, approximately 100 persons joined in singing the Aggie War Hymn and The Spirit of Aggieland. The setting for this festive occasion was the Aggie Mothers Club annual holiday banquet recently honoring their student sons and daughters and several prospective Aggie students and their parents.

Hilrey Aven read the invocation Thursday evening in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall where the group met for the buffet meal. Mrs. Lynn Pittard's large maroon and white decorated cake which spelled out "Gig Em Aggies" provided dessert for the group.

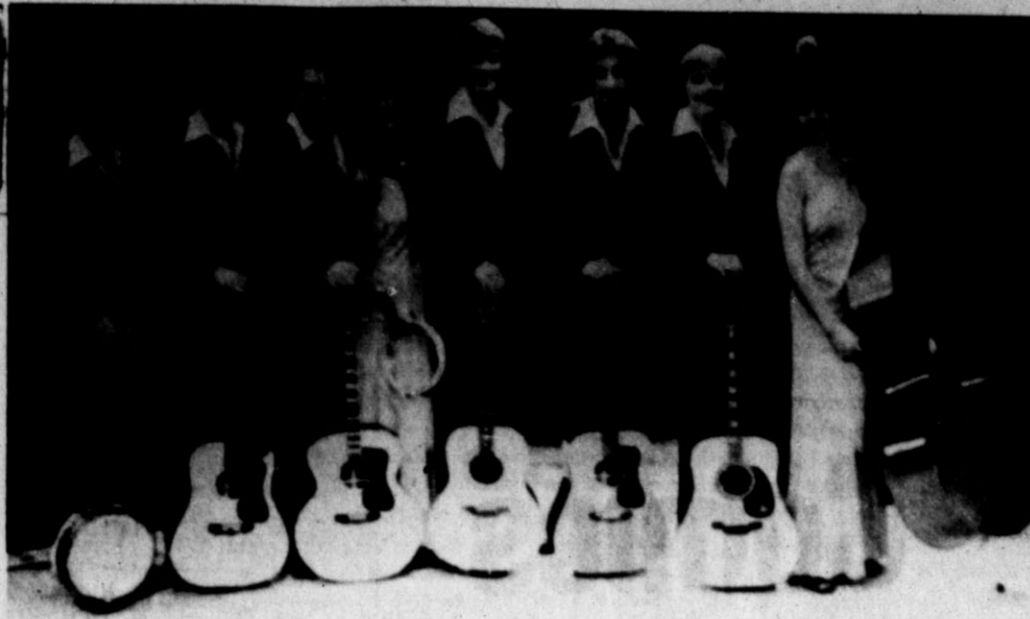

Mrs. Walter Hardin, president of Hereford Aggie Mothers Club, welcomed the guests and pointed out a placard near her which featured miniature portraits of the local Aggie students. She went on to tell the history of the Aggie Mothers Club since its inception by Mrs. H.L. Peoples in Dallas in 1921.

The state federation, organized in 1928, now contains 56 local clubs with more than 4,000 members. The Hereford organization began in 1972 with nine members and now has 34 members with two associate members.

Mel Holubek, president of the Tierra Blanca Aggie Club here in Hereford, with the assistance of students Bob Hardin and Wes Klett, presented two movies on Texas A&M University. The first, "That Certain Spirit", narrated by Richard Quinn, portrayed A&M University from its beginning in 1876 to the present bustling academic headquarters with more than 30,000 students. The second film showed the Aggie Marching Band performing on the university's Kyle Field.

Prospective students honored at the banquet were: Charles Berryman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berryman; Jimmy Bodkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bodkin; Jason Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark; Cindy Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford; Lee Kindsfather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kindsfather; James Earl Lyles, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyles; David Walterscheid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid; Peter Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Don Brown of Adrian, and Randy Lloyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd also of Adrian.

Star Attraction

The New Christy Minstrels drew a capacity crowd to the local high school auditorium Saturday night as they performed for members of Hereford Community Concert Association. After the well-received performance, the Minstrels and the CCA membership gathered at Caison Steak House for an autograph session. The CCA roster includes several headline performances this spring, including the Hungarian Folk Ballet and Gypsy Orchestra, who will appear here Tuesday, March 14.

Chamber Women's Banquet Tonight at Country Club

Completing business lingering from 1977 and initiating a new year of projects, the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division will conduct its annual installation banquet tonight at Hereford Country Club.

In addition to the installation of new officers, Donna Vander-Zee, 1977 WD president, will present a summary of the past year's accomplishments, citing the work of various project chairmen.

Highlight of the evening will be the announcement of the 1977 "Chamber Woman of the Year," who has been nominated by her fellow WD members and chosen by a select group of judges. Presenting this year's award will be the 1976 recipient, Inez Albright, who now resides at Big Spring with her husband Bill, who was executive vice president of the local C of C for a number of years.

Margaret Formby, who has served in the capacity of vice president during the past year will advance to the office of president during tonight's installation. Taking positions with her will be Mary Herring, first vice president; Carrell Ann Simmons, second vice; La Jean Henry, secretary; and Janet Welty and Glenda Gerles, directors.

This evening's special program will feature noted Amarillo artist Danny Gamble, who will present an art demonstration for the benefit of the WD members and guests. One of Gamble's original paintings will be given as the door prize.

The Women's Division is extending an invitation to all women in the community to join their ranks for the betterment of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. Yearly membership costs $10 per person. Further details can be supplied by Margaret Formby or any WD member.

Secret Meetings
Ellie and Marvin
Have been having secret meetings twice a week
For the past six months
But have thus far failed to consummate their passion;
Because,
While both of them agree
That marital fidelity is not only unrealistic but irrelevant,
He has developed sharp shooting pains
In his chest, and she's got impetigo, and

He's got pink eye.
Ellie and Marvin
Drive forty miles to sneaky luncheonettes
In separate cars
But have thus far done no more than heavy necking
Because
She's developed colitis, and
He has developed these throbbing pains in his back, and She has started biting her nails and He's smoking again.
Ellie and Marvin
Yearn to have some love in the afternoon at a motor hotel
But have thus far only had a lot of Coffee

Because,
He is convinced that his phone is being tapped, and
She is convinced that a man in a trench coat is following her, and
He says what if the motor hotel catches fire, and
She says what if she talks in her sleep some night, and
She thinks her husband is acting suspiciously hostile, and
He thinks his wife is acting suspiciously nice, and
He keeps cutting his face with his double-edged razor, and
She keeps closing her hand in the door of her car, so
While both of them agree that guilt is not only neurotic but also obsolete,
They've also agreed
To give up
Secret meetings.

Mrs. Mims Describes Romanian Concert Tour

Mrs. A.T. Mims was the guest speaker Friday morning for members of Garden Beautiful Club, who met in the Community Center for a special program on the Chamber Singers' trip to Romania this past summer.

Mrs. Mims, who is a member of the Chamber choir, explained that the local singers were one of a few adult groups invited to represent Friendship Ambassadors, a nonprofit organization which promotes international friendship through music.

Complementing Mrs. Mims' program were films of the picturesque countryside in Romania, where the government has a strong beautification program. The speaker related that part of the Chamber Singer's traveling expenses were paid by Friendship Ambassadors and the Romanian government.

Preparations Begun For Antique Sale

Members of L'Allegre Study Club began work on their annual Antique Show and Sale, scheduled Feb. 3-5 at the Community Center, during a meeting Thursday morning at Hereford State Bank.

Jode Skiles, who is chairman of this year's show, distributed tickets, which will be sold at $1.50 each by club members. The tickets will give the buyers access to the E.B. Black home, as well as the antique extravaganza. Proceeds of the project will be spent to buy new porch columns at the Black residence, which is an adjunct to the County Museum.

L'Allegre members plan to assemble this Saturday at McDonald's Restaurant after an antique car parade in promotion of the upcoming antique show. Tickets will be on sale at this time, as well as throughout the coming weeks.

Selsey Metz presided in the absence of Janette Caviness, club president, for a brief business discussion. It was announced that the club's next regular session will be Jan. 19 in the home of Marlene Farley.

Kathy Moore and Carmen Flood were hostesses to Kathy Allison, Mrs. Farley, Kitty Gault, Vickie Green, Rosie Griffin, Jane Gulley, Maarki Hutto, Judy McCarter, Mrs. Metz, Sondra Reinauer, Naomi Schroeter, Mrs. Skiles, Ella Marie Veigel, Linda Warrick and Naomi Walker.

CHOOSING A DOCTOR
To insure satisfaction in medical services, consumers need to spend as much time and energy choosing a doctor as they would in choosing a car or apartment. Miss Claudette Mitchell, assistant county extension agent advises.

Picking a name out of the yellow pages may be easy, but doing some "comparison shopping" for a doctor will insure that you find a doctor who meets your needs and who is one you can communicate with, she says.

Probably the most important doctor is the family doctor, because he or she is the first to diagnose the nature and severity of a problem.

If necessary, the family doctor will advise seeing a specialist.

To find a family doctor in a new town, get names and recommendations from your present family doctor, the local medical society, a local accredited hospital or friends who have doctors they like.

The next step is to call the doctor's office and talk with the staff.

Ask the receptionist if the doctor is accepting new patients.

Also, ask whether the doctor has a specialty, and, if so, ask if he has certification to practice his specialty.

Ask about the doctor's office hours and how far in advance an appointment must be made.

Ask if the doctor makes house calls and what arrangements are made for afterhours coverage.

Ask what his fee is for a routine office visit, a hospital visit, a physical examination and a house call. Ask what the usual billing procedure is.

Other questions to ask are these:

Does the doctor practice in association with other physicians? What are their specialties?

Is the office a medical arts building equipped to do chest x-rays, electrocardiogram, pap smear, throat culture, and urinalysis.

To which hospital does the doctor admit patients? Do patients have a choice of hospitals if the doctor is affiliated with more than one?

After questioning several doctors or their receptionist, select two or three that have qualifications and offer the kinds of services you prefer.

Because doctor-patient communication is of major importance, arrange an office visit with these physicians, and talk with them about your expectations and needs. Expect to pay for this office visit.

In the doctor's office notice how efficient and orderly the office staff is. Are they courteous and helpful?

The length of your wait should probably not be used as a primary factor in evaluating the quality of medical care you will receive.

As you talk with the doctor, evaluate how well you can communicate with each other. The ability to communicate well is the most important factor to consider when choosing a doctor, Miss Mitchell says.

Even if a doctor falls short on other considerations, place your sense of trust and confidence above all else, the agent says.

Carter Narrows FBI Choices

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter appears to be narrowing his list of possible choices for FBI director to two federal judges from the Midwest, although other candidates cannot be ruled out yet, a Justice Department source says.

The source, who did not wish to be identified, said the long search to replace Clarence M. Kelly as head of the FBI has in recent days focused on U.S. District Judge Frank J. McGarr of Chicago and federal appellate Judge William H. Webster of St. Louis.

McGarr, 56, appointed to the bench by President Richard M. Nixon in 1970, met with Carter and Attorney General Griffin Bell at the White House on Monday, a Justice Department spokesman, Robert Harvel, confirmed.

Webster, 53, a former U.S. attorney in Missouri who became a federal judge in 1971, was to meet with Bell and probably Carter on Wednesday. The Justice Department source said no other such meetings are planned.

Kelley, who had been scheduled to retire at the start of the year, has agreed to remain at the $57,000-a-year post until Feb. 15. It is known that Bell has hoped to find a replacement before Congress reconvenes Jan. 19.

The attorney general two weeks ago told the Los Angeles Times that he had submitted 10 names to Carter and was told to pursue the matter with four of the candidates.

Administration sources confirmed that three of the four were McGarr, Webster, and James F. Neal, the former Watergate prosecutor who now is in private law practice in Nashville, Tenn. The name of the fourth person was not available.

Neal, reached by telephone Monday night, would not confirm or deny published reports that he had turned down the job because he had not wanted to commit himself for a 10-year period as the president had asked.

Carter's first choice to head the FBI was U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson of Montgomery, Ala., also a favorite of Bell, who "himself was a former federal judge. However, after being selected last summer, Johnson in November asked that his name be withdrawn because he was having trouble recovering from surgery.

Like Johnson, both Webster and McGarr are Republicans.

Born in St. Louis, Webster is a former president of the Missouri Association of Republicans. He was named U.S. attorney in 1960 and to the federal bench by Nixon in 1971. Two years later Nixon named Webster, who has a reputation as a diligent judge with an authoritative manner, to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

McGarr was an assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago in the 1950s and for a year was the first assistant state attorney general in Illinois before being named to the federal bench in 1970.

Paul Harvey News

Autumn of Liberty

More than 20 years ago I wrote a book called "Autumn of Liberty," which warned against the creation of an even-larger government. The book was applauded, saluted and awarded - but its warning was largely ignored.

Now maybe it's too late.

The U.S. economic system of competitive capitalism is slipping.

Economically, our country has fallen behind per-capita productivity of Sweden, Japan and Germany.

Other countries outrank us in essential new capital investment, largely because American businesses - more and more - must divert personnel and resources and time to (ital) working for the government (unital).

The paper work which government requires of General Motors adds $200 to the cost of every new car. GM has on its payroll 22,300 persons whose only task is to satisfy the government's insatiable appetite for "reports."

American businesses, large and small, are suffocating under a paper avalanche.

President George Dodds of radio station WGGH in Marion, Ill., says he spends two months of every year working on federally required paper work.

Who is responsible for this overregulation?

Mostly, unelected bureaucrats in government regulatory agencies. Last year they issued a record 60,221 pages of proposed and final regulations, each of which is as much "the law" as though it had been voted by Congress.

You and I have considered from time to time the other side of this coin - that some American individuals and businesses by their lack of self-discipline are inevitably inviting more and more government snoo-pervision.

But in this instance we are considering the unjustified, unnecessary strangulation of once-free enterprise by government officials, government inspectors and government regulators who may have no managerial experience and who certainly have no managerial responsibility - yet they arrogantly exercise more and more say-so over the life-and-death of American businesses.

If you give any bureaucrat authority, in order to justify his continuing employment he has to exercise that authority.

The more paper work he commands, the more important he can make himself appear at appropriation time.

Rich DeVos and Jay Van Andel of Amway have expressed fear that we are "backing into a bureaucratic police state."

It is interesting that one article of the indictment against George III contained in our Declaration of Independence says: "He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

Once we considered that degree of domination by a central authority so intolerable that we went to war over it.

Texas Leaders 'Colorful Bunch'

"The presidents and governors of Texas have been a colorful bunch," according to a book published this week.

THE TEXAS GOVERNOR, by University of Dallas history professor June R. Welch, tells stories of the four presidents of the Republic and the thirty-nine men and women who governed the State.

"Even ignoring 'old Sam Jacinto' - and how could one be ignored who stood well over six feet tall and wore high-heeled boots and a great hat topped by a long plume - they were adventurers, Indian fighters, soldiers, poets, physicians, merchants, and lawyers."

THE TEXAS GOVERNOR is Welch's tenth book. His THE TEXAS COURTHOUSE has become a fixture in law offices and his textbook, TEXAS: NEW PERSPECTIVES, is used in the high schools of more than 500 Texas school districts. Two of his books are novels, AND HERE'S TO CHARLEY BOYD and DAVE'S TUNE; the other deal with history of Texas.

Filling a long-standing need for a single volume about the men Texans have chosen to lead them, THE TEXAS GOVERNOR notes that the first president, David G. Burnett, came during Spanish times and lived outdoors with the Comanche for two years while recovering from tuberculosis. His predecessor, Provisional Governor Henry Smith, died in a California mining camp where he was prospecting for gold.

Upon the admission of Texas into the Union, James P. Henderson was elected governor. When the Mexican War began Henderson became a general in the United States army. He turned his office over to the lieutenant governor and led the Texans into battle. After combat in Mexico Henderson became governor again. He was a United States Senator at the time of his death. Henderson County was named for him.

THE TEXAS GOVERNOR, which is priced at $13.95 is a 200 page, hardbound coffee-table sized book. It is the eighth volume published by G.L.A. Press of Irving, Texas.

Other governors who had counties named for them include George Wood, who never wore socks, and Peter Bell, soldier, Texas ranger, and spiffy dresser. Bell, after two terms as governor, was elected to Congress. In Washington he met a North Carolina lady who so completely captivated him that he never returned to Texas although he lived another 41 years.

The author, June R. Welch, is a native of Gainsville. He is chairman of the history department at the University of Dallas and holds degrees from Texas Christian University, the University of Texas at Arlington, Texas Tech and George Washington University.

Mondale Says Carter Listening

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale says the Carter administration will be sensitive to the needs of the West as it seeks solutions to the problems of energy development, water resources and other issues.

"We want to develop the understanding, the trust and communication that permit us to serve the citizens of these states effectively," the vice president said as he began a seven-state western trip.

Mondale said he would be listening to problems and seeking suggestions today in meetings with Indians, businessmen, politicians and community leaders in stops here, in Utah and in Colorado.

The administration has been widely criticized in the West for policies that critics say show a lack of understanding of the region.

Arriving at Kirtland Air Force Base here Monday night, Mondale brushed aside any suggestion that the West is hostile territory for the administration.

"We don't sense hostility, but a common sense concern about solving this country's problems," he said at a brief news conference.

Earlier in the day, on a flight from Washington, Mondale told reporters his five-day trip would focus on seeking suggestions to the problems of water, timber, coal leasing, cattle grazing, farming and energy development in the region.

In reaching decisions on these issues, Mondale said, "We want to work it out in a way that is fair and responsive to the citizens of this area."

He said that "we do not come locked in on a series of policies," but gave no indication of any change in previously announced decisions.

Some of the harshest criticism has focused on administrative decisions involving water, such as President Carter's proposals to cut off federal funds for some water projects and proposed regulations to enforce a 1902 law limiting the size of farms eligible to receive water from federal irrigation projects.

Mondale said some of the criticism is the result of the western drought "that created a lot of anxiety that would have been directed against any administration."

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, traveling with Mondale, said the administration also is the victim of some misconceptions in the West. He said one example is a persistent and incorrect rumor that the administration is trying to engineer a federal takeover of state water rights.

After meeting today here and in Salt Lake City, plus an address to the Utah legislature, Mondale flies to Colorado to prepare for a tour Wednesday of the energy boomtown of Craig, about 200 miles west of Denver.

During the five-day trip, the vice president also will stop in Montana, Idaho and Washington, before flying to Nevada for a meeting Friday with 13 western governors.

Ballet Auditions To Be Jan. 15

LUBBOCK--Auditions for Lubbock Civic Ballet will be conducted at 2 p.m., Jan. 15, in room 108, Texas Tech University Women's Gym.

All persons who are age 13 and over and interested in dance are invited to audition, according to Diana M. Moore, artistic director of Lubbock Civic Ballet and chairperson of the Texas Tech Dance Division, and Luke Kahlick, Texas Tech faculty member. Guest choreographers also will teach dance students.

Dance company members perform in a musical comedy production in April and a dance concert, featuring classical ballet, modern and jazz dance, in May.

The company has 20 dancers, many of whom are Tech dance majors and students, said Moore.

Performances for 1977 included "An Evening of Dance and Percussion" in December and "Dawn of New Hope" in November, directed by guest choreographer, Marnie Rowe.

director of the Atlanta Ballet Chamber Ensemble.

The company also performed at the State Fair in Dallas and gave a lecture-demonstration at Dunbar High School.

The Texas Tech Dance Division and the Lubbock Civic Ballet will co-sponsor a summer dance workshop, June 5-July 1.

The four-week workshop will conclude with a performance of faculty and workshop participants.

Suit Results Over Beers

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the beginning, there was only LITE beer.

Then came LIGHT and LYTE. And next came lawsuit.

The suit was filed by Miller Brewing Co. to protect its trademark on LITE as a name for reduced-calorie beer.

The Supreme Court on Monday let stand a lower court decision that LITE is simply a misspelling of a generic term and cannot be a trademark.

Miller had sought to overturn the appeals court ruling that gave G. Heileman Brewing Co. the right to sell LIGHT beer.

The suit against Heileman is one of 10 filed by Miller against other brewers, who use the names LYTE or LIGHT. The other trademark-infringement suits named Schlitz, Genesee, Peter Hand, Anheuser-Busch, Pittsburgh Brewing, Erie Brewing, Olympia, Rheingold and Rainier.

At vending machine prices, cigarettes are not only dangerous to your health - they'll prove absolutely fatal to your pocketbook.

One question that's always completely unnecessary is to ask for trouble.

Pioneering, '70s style: Having to entertain yourself with a book because the TV goes Fritz when no repairman is available.

Manpower Funds Show Bad Handling

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Previously secret audit and evaluators' reports show poor handling of federal manpower funds by the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs, whose director is charged with forgery.

The migrant affairs office's management of comprehensive Employment Training Act CETA money was the subject of an audit report issued to the Texas Department of Community Affairs in August.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO ALL PERSONS HAVING CLAIMS AGAINST THE ESTATE OF DICK WALKER, DECEASED

Notice is hereby given that original Letters Testamentary upon the Estate of Dick Walker, Deceased, were issued to me, the undersigned, on the 3rd day of January, 1978, in the proceeding indicated below my signature hereto, which is still pending, and that I now hold such Letters. All persons having claims against said estate, which is being administered in the County of Deaf Smith, are hereby required to present the same to me, respectively, at the address below given, before suit upon same are barred by the general statutes of limitation, before such estate is closed, and within the time prescribed by law. My residence and mailing address is: 348 Centre Street, Hereford, Texas 79045, being in the County of Deaf Smith, State of Texas.

DATED this 3rd day of January, 1978.
Rubye Casebeer Walker, Independent Executrix of the Estate of Dick Walker, No. 2759 in the County Court of Deaf Smith County, Texas Sitting in Matters Probate 136-1c

Evaluators for the department had submitted their own review in June.

Both groups analyzed handling of CETA funds not only by the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs GOMA but also by organizations with which it had contracts to provide job training for migrant farm workers.

Ben McDonald, director of the department of community affairs, released the reports Monday.

The reports showed that: At one time, the migrant affairs office held CETA grants totaling $2.45 million but had signed subcontracts totaling $2.8 million - an over-obligation of $350,000.

Endorsements on some paychecks issued by certain job training programs receiving CETA money from the office of migrant affairs did not match those of the persons to whom they were made.

Auditors found GOMA and its manpower training subcontractors made questionable expenditures totaling $1 million. This represented more than a fifth of the $4.65 million in grants audited.

the money.

Federal money earmarked for a bachelor's degree program for mostly low income adults at Juarez-Lincoln University in Austin was used to pay salaries of GOMA staffers.

The audit was done by Stanley, Wade, Durio & Co. of Austin.

McDonald asked GOMA in June to take immediate action and report what it did to eliminate the over-obligation of funds found by his evaluators. He also gave GOMA until June 23 to respond to the evaluators' other findings.

"We've continually requested it and have been told, 'We're working on it,'" McDonald said.

Because GOMA never responded to either report, McDonald had refused until Monday to release them - perhaps violating the Texas Open Records Act.

Rogelio Perez, GOMA director, and Joaquin Rodriguez, its chief of programs, were charged in Brownsville last week with forgery. They invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned in State District Court Judge Darrell Hester's court about a CETA grant to a job training program started by Don Gray, business manager of a Harlingen plumbers union local.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe suspended Perez and Rodriguez after they took the Fifth.

Gray and his brother, Clarence, were charged with five counts of felony theft. Grants covered by the audit and the community affairs evaluation did not include the one controlled by the Gray brothers since it had not been made during the periods covered.

Briscoe's chief legal counsel, former Sen. Don Adams of Jasper, is acting as GOMA director.

McDonald said he has asked Stanley, Wade, Durio to make a new "in-depth audit" of all GOMA programs and those of its subcontractors.

Last summer's Stanley, Wade, Durio audit, covering Feb. 13, 1975, to Jan. 31, 1977, found problems ranging from technical violations of CETA requirements to possible crimes in job training programs funded through GOMA.

Auditors said they found phony endorsements on 18.2 percent of the paychecks issued by Lubbock-based Llano Estacado Farmworkers of Texas and 14 percent of those issued by the Texas Migrant Labor Council, Inc., of Laredo.

In those programs, plus Community Action Resource Services, Inc., Tom Green County Community Action Council, and Central Texas Opportunities, Inc., of Coleman, "someone other than the counselors should occasionally deliver the payroll checks to the participants," they said.

Time sheets for a participant in one program had forged signatures, community affairs evaluators found.

"Although no payroll checks were forged, the documents leading to the payroll checks and verifying them clearly were. It would appear that steps should be taken to guarantee that such forgery of records does not occur in participants' records in the future," they said.

The auditors questioned a $4,331 check written to Domingo Lopez in 1975 for services he had contracted to perform for GOMA but had not yet performed. Lopez now is a GOMA employee.

Auditors said that even though CETA money can't be used for entertainment, a migrant program at St. Edward's University in Austin spent $3,641 to take participants and their parents to Six Flags Over Texas.

Community affairs evaluators found a CETA grant given to Juarez-Lincoln University in Austin was paying the salaries of four persons - including lawyer Susan Allen - who were, in effect, employees of GOMA.

"This is inefficient in terms of personnel functions such as recruitment, hiring, supervision and payroll.... These four positions should be paid for under the GOMA administration contract or from general revenue," the evaluators' report said.

Miss Allen, who was subpoenaed to the Brownsville court of inquiry, now says she works for GOMA. But suspended director Perez says she is an employee of the Texas Migrant Council, Inc., a CETA subcontractor.

U.S. Shows No Confidence In Government, Say Statistics

WASHINGTON (AP) - Recession of Congress are supposed to be opportunities for members to get to know their constituents better and find out what is on their minds.

When they return from the current break between sessions, the lawmakers will find a prodigious piece of homework on the American people done for them by the Commerce Department.

From the 564-page mass of statistics the department published at year's end it is possible to extract evidence that:

- Most of the population doesn't have a great deal of confidence in its government.

- Americans are worried about crime and drugs. Many are afraid to walk alone at night.

- Yet Americans, on the whole, may be getting calmer. - Urban dwellers spend more time sleeping than doing anything else.

- Most people express great satisfaction with their family life. Yet divorcees keep increasing, although nearly half the respondents to a poll think they should be harder to get.

- The great majority like where they live.

- Compared with citizens of other Western countries, Americans are fairly moderate drinkers.

- They are not the most dangerous drivers in the world, though by no means the safest.

- Their eating habits have changed, but not altogether for the better.

- More than half of a sample questioned liked their jobs and rated a feeling of accomplishment ahead of income.

- The governmental authors of the big book, much of which consists of brightly colored charts, caution against following its statistics out of the window and do not contend all are of equal quality. Beside the usual agency statistical sources, they drew on a wide variety of private surveys, studies and opinion polls.

A 1976 poll found only 14.1 percent expressing "a great deal of confidence" in Congress. At that, the legislative branch ran ahead of the executive, which scored 13.9 percent.

Among citizens who did not register to vote, 37.4 percent said they were just not interested, and another 9 percent that they disliked politics, didn't prefer any candidate or thought their vote wouldn't matter.

Responding to a 1974 poll, 45 percent said they were afraid to walk alone at night. By big majorities, respondents wanted more public money spent to reduce crime, though the courts were too lenient or criminals, favored the death penalty for murder and mandatory permits for possession of guns.

Between 1960 and 1974, production of handguns increased from 603,000 a year to 2.3 million. Among 17 developed countries the United States had far and away the highest rate of homicides and international injuries: 8.3 per 100,000 population. Second-place Finland had 2.6.

But the United States was fifth in deaths attributed to motor vehicle accidents. Its rate of 26.5 per 100,000 population for 1973 was exceeded by Austria, Belgium, Australia and Italy.

Surveys in the early 1960s found 3.5 percent of men and 7.9 percent of women reporting they had nervous breakdowns. By the early 1970s the figures were down to 2.6 percent for men, 5.4 for women.

Urban Americans surveyed in 1975 reported spending more time sleeping - 54.7 hours a week - than in any other one activity. They slept about 1 1/2 hours a week more than they had a decade earlier, spent about half an hour less on their job and devoted about five hours less to family care. Leisure time went up 3.5 hours, to 38.5.

In 1976, 52.1 percent said they were very satisfied with their jobs. When asked to choose between aspects they liked, more than half cited work that was important and gave them a feeling of accomplishment. Income came in second and promotion third.

Only 3 percent of home owners and 5 percent of renters questioned in 1974 said they wanted to move.

In surveys from 1973 to 1975, at least three-fourths expressed great satisfaction with their overall family life, but only about two-thirds reported specifically that their marriages were very happy.

Although divorces increased from 390,000 in 1953 to 997,000 in 1974 by 1975 nearly 49 percent of respondents said they thought divorces should be harder to get and only 30 percent that they should be easier.

Americans in 1969 consumed beverages equivalent to 5.9 liters of pure alcohol per person. This was exactly one-third the per capita consumption in France and less than the per capita consumption in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, West Germany, Italy or Great Britain.

American eating habits shifted perceptibly between 1960 and 1976. We ate more meat, 197.5 pounds per capita versus 160.9 more fish and poultry; less dairy products, especially milk and cream; less fresh produce and fruits and more sweets.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Tuesday, Jan. 10, the tenth day of 1978. There are 355 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1946, the first General Assembly of the United Nations convened in London.

On this date: In 1776, the American revolutionist, Thomas Paine, published his influential pamphlet, "Common Sense."

In 1889, France established a protectorate over the Ivory Coast in Africa.

In 1920, the League of Nations was established as the Treaty of Versailles went into effect.

In 1928, one of the chief architects of the Soviet Union, Leon Trotsky, was ordered into exile.

In 1942, Japanese invaded the Dutch East Indies in World War II.

In 1969, Sweden became the first Western European country to announce it would establish full diplomatic relations with North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: Sweden was granting asylum to four American sailors who had deserted in Japan the year before, saying they opposed the Vietnam War.

Five years ago: It was reported that President Richard Nixon planned to end mandatory wage and price controls except those involving food, health and construction.

One year ago: Forecasters told a meeting of the National Retail Merchants Association in New York that 1977 would be a good business year but not a boom year.

Today's birthdays: Opera baritone Sherill Milnes is 43 years old. Actor and dancer Ray Bolger is 74. Fashion designer Donald Brooks is 50.

Thought for today: Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun - so Tse-tung, Chinese Communist leader, 1893-1976.

Cigarette Taxes Up By $517,000

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - State cigarette taxes rose by $517,342 last month compared with December 1976. State Treasurer Warren G. Harding said Monday.

The taxes totaled $24,359,528. For November, the total was $23,704,130.

Health care has been the prime growth industry of the early 1970s. The Conference Board observes. Spurred by Medicaid, Medicare and the expansion of employer-financed health insurance programs, its employment rate has been higher than that of any other industry.

AHS Girls Win

Herd Game Plan Fails

By BOB NICH
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces girls followed coach Roy Shipp's game plan Monday night against Amarillo High in shutting off the inside route to the basket, but the Sandies took advantage of the loose perimeter to score a 37-32 win over the 'Faces with Kim Vinson leading the way with 12 points.

"We played very well defensively," Shipp said. "We shut off their big girls inside, but they hit their outside shots well, and that was the difference in the game."

Hereford's Tammy Heard scored a game-high 16 points in the loss, which dropped the Herd to 3-3 in district play and 6-8 overall. Denise Albracht added eight points, with Sheri Whitaker and Penny Whiteside scoring four each.

Whitaker also led the Herd in rebounding in the game with six of the team's 20 total. Amarillo grabbed 24 rebounds. "We did well on the defensive boards, giving them at most two shots under the basket at one time," Shipp said.

Heard, Albracht, and Marie Schilling hauled in four cars each in the game, while Whiteside and Debra Rogers collected one apiece.

Amarillo led by one point after each of the first two periods; 9-8 after the first, and 15-14 at the half. A third-quarter surge by the Sandies threw the lead to 27-20 after three stanzas, and a two-point margin by the Herd in the final eight minutes closed the gap only a little.

The Sandies earned the win at the free throw line with both teams hitting 14 field goals apiece. Amarillo hit nine of 21 free toss attempts, while Hereford canned four of eight.

Following Vinson for Amarillo were Dale with eight points and Bennett with seven. The two had combined for 26 points against the Herd the last time the two clubs met.

In the junior varsity game Monday night Amarillo cruised to a 35-19 win. Darlene Sanders led the way for Hereford, which fell to 2-4 and 3-9 respectively, with 11 points. Beverly Nixon added four points, while Jennifer Griffin added three, and Tania Willson one.

Stopper

While Denver linebacker Tom Jackson, shown here tackling Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, earned all-pro honors this year, the feeling among many veteran observers is that he is not especially effective against the run. The test will come on Super Sunday when Jackson will have plenty of opportunity to stop Dallas' Tony Dorsett. [NEA photo].

La Plata Boys Sweep

The La Plata Mavericks scored an easy sweep of three basketball games against teams from Canyon here Monday.

La Plata took the 7th grade battle 40-34 in the closest match of the day as the Maverick 8th graders swept to a 55-14 win even without top scorer Alan Wartes, and the Mav frosh rolled to a 55-32 victory.

Steve George and Sammy Velasquez scored eight points each in leading the 7th grade win. Kerry Beard, Alfred Ball, and Ricky McCracken all pitched in six points.

La Plata led 7-4 after one period and 15-14 at the half before Canyon came back to notch a 24-23 lead after three stanzas. The Mavericks scored a 17-10 advantage in the final six minutes, however, to register the victory.

The 8th grade battle was a near farce as La Plata took 9-4 and 21-6 leads after the first and second periods. Aubrey Richburgh (17 points) and Don DeLozier (13) led the way for the Mavericks, who stretched the lead to 40-8 heading into the final period.

The Mavericks were playing without scoring machine Wartes, who is sidelined for a few days with a knee injury.

The freshman game was clearly a La Plata runaway until the fourth quarter when Canyon scored 20 of their 32 points.

John Josseland scored 12 points and Jeff Flippo added 10 more as the Mavericks walked to the win.

La Plata led 17-2 after one period and held a 32-4 lead at the half. The fourth period saw the Mavericks ahead 42-12, but Canyon posted a 20-13 margin over the Maverick subs to close the gap somewhat.

In other local junior high action Monday the Stanton girls hosted Canyon teams with the Dogie 7th grade getting their first win of the season, 30-21, and the Stanton 8th and 9th grade teams losing.

Tiffany Dirks scored eight points in leading the 7th graders to their initial win. Violeta Vlades, Barbara Brown, and Rosie Garcia all pitched in six points, while Angela Brown scored three.

Stanton lost the 8th grade battle 32-27 despite a 16-point outburst by Lori Albracht. Teresa Brown added six points to the losing cause, while Lori Warren contributed four and Joyce High one.

The freshman game went to Canyon 51-41 with Louise Mays leading Stanton with 19 points. Connie Huffaker added 15 points in the loss, while Corina Suarez closed out the Dogie scoring with seven points.

Games today involving local junior high teams have the Stanton boys' teams visiting Canyon.

Y Basketball Play Begins

The local YMCA mens' basketball league began play Sunday at the high school gym, and Toters successfully opened defense of its loop title with a 71-52 win over Brand X to highlight the action.

Toters got 15 points from ex-West Texas State star Brad Schreck in rolling past Brand X in the league opener. Mike Simpson led the losers with 14 points, while Dennis Doty added 12.

Backing up Schreck for Toters was Wallace Hill, who canned 10 points.

In other games Sunday Vega took a 2-0 forfeit win over the Midnight Cowboys after the latter failed to fulfill an officiating requirements, HBP slammed the Steam Rollers 73-11, and Cheap Trick slipped by Beacon Bad Company 48-45 on some late free throws by former Herd stand out Mike O'Rand.

John Burkhalter scored 20 points, and Ron Welty chipped in 17 more as HBP raced past the Steam Rollers. Mike Page gave the winners a third player in double figures with 10 points.

O'Rand finished the day with 19 points in leading Cheap Trick to their win. Kenneth Mercer and Bill Fraser each added 10 points in the victory, while Dick Kirkpatrick led Beacon Bad Company with 11 points.

A 10-point advantage in the final stanza provided the impetus for the win for Cheap Trick after BBC led 11-6 after one period, 20-16 at the half, and 33-26 after three stanzas.

The league will take the week off next Sunday due to the Super Bowl, and will resume action January 22. The schedule for that date has Cheap Trick meeting HBP at 1 p.m., the Midnight Cowboys playing Beacon Bad Company at 2 p.m., the Steam Rollers playing Toters at 3 p.m., and Brand X challenging Vega at 4 p.m.

There's nothing like a team that runs itself. You'd have thought Kentucky Coach Joe Hall might just go on vacation or sit back and watch.

"We played with a lot of confidence. Our players played smart but did a lot of things on their own," Hall said after top-ranked Kentucky pounded Southeastern Conference rival Auburn for a 101-77 college basketball victory Monday night.

It was a road show for the Wildcats, and forward Jack Givens scored 25 points while Turman Claytor and Rick Robey combined for 33 more to give Kentucky its 11th in a row.

"We just keep playing our game," Hall said. "We don't try to work on stopping what an opponent does. We just play sound defense and play our game. This has been a good road trip...Our players tired more easily tonight. Everyone seemed tired, but they took themselves out when they got tired."

In other contests, No. 3 Arkansas beat Missouri-St. Louis 87-65, No. 2 Marquette rolled over Missouri 70-52, No. 17 Providence defeated Brown 76-58, La Salle beat Hofstra 97-87 and Duke downed Lehigh 105-63.

It was Niagara over Cleveland State 85-82, St. Francis-Pennsylvania over Morgan State 69-68, St. Francis-New York over Robert Morris 107-90, Southern Illinois over Drake 72-69, New Orleans over Oklahoma City University 76-72, Wichita State over New Mexico State 71-70, Louisiana over Tennessee 121-87 and Jackson State over Grambling 109-79. Auburn trailed all the way against Kentucky, but pulled to within 10 when Stan Pietkiewicz hit a long outside shot to make 77-67 with 7:44 left to play.

Kentucky snapped back with 10 consecutive points on four Robey free throws and a tip-in. Robey finished with 20 points while Claytor, a guard, had 17. "Man, they were too much for us," said Auburn Coach Bob Davis. "The more they came off the bench, the better they got. We got several people hurt and had no chance.

"They're too good for us to play when we are well. They jumped on us quick and got us down 12. They sure are No. 1."

Ron Brewer led Arkansas with 24 points and Sidney Moncrief added 21 to give the Razorback's their 13th victory in a row.

Tech Slips by TCU

By The Associated Press
The Arkansas Razorbacks, who have waltzed through 13 consecutive opponents this season, have found more believers in the Missouri-St. Louis basketball team.

"Arkansas can go all the way," said Roland Nash, who led the Missouri team in scoring with 19 points Monday night. But Arkansas still smothered the visitors 87-65 as Ron Brewer scored 24 points.

"I'll be cheering for them in St. Louis for the NCAA finals in March," Nash added.

Head Coach Chuck Smith said, "You have to work for every point against the Razorbacks. I would like to see them in the final four in St. Louis in March.

"I'd be one of their fans," he said.

In other action, Southern Methodist 5-7, with Reggie Franklin scoring 19 points, beat Rice 80-65 Monday night. It was the second straight Southwest Conference victory for the Mustangs while Rice slipped to 1-1 in league play and 3-8 overall.

"Rice is physical as hell," said SMU forward Jeff Swanson, who scored 17 points, snared 11 rebounds and also caught an elbow in the ear. "Yes, you worry about an injury in a game like this. There were some accidental elbows."

Rice committed 24 fouls in the game, giving SMU the opportunity to sink 22 charity shots out of 34 attempts. Through 11 games, the Owls have committed 293 fouls and have had 11 players foul out.

Texas Tech evened its conference record at 1-1 with a 69-56 win over Texas Christian as Mike Russell led the attack with 14 points. Five Red Raiders scored in the double figures.

In Waco, Baylor notched its first SWC win, a 77-61 thrashing of Texas A&M. Wendell Mays connected for 19 points for the Bears, who are 1-1 in league play and 7-5 overall. The Aggies are 0-1 and 7-4.

Leading the Aggie attack was Carl Godine with 16 points.

"I'm not a zone coach," said Jim Haller of Baylor "but assistant Tommy Newman scouted the Aggies a couple of weeks ago and said we should play zone. It clogged up their passing lanes and helped keep our guys in the game."

ATLANTA (AP) - Major league baseball's home run king, Henry Aaron, blames his week-long hospitalization on exhaustion and says he's relieved to hear doctors tell him he has "the heart of a 19-year-old."

Aaron was to be discharged from Piedmont Hospital today, a week to the day after he checked into the hospital for treatment of chest pains.

Doctors said they found no evidence that Aaron, now an Atlanta Braves' vice president, suffered a heart attack or any other heart ailment.

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Clubs' Bengals Touchdown Club has named specialty-team captain Tony Davis as its "Player of the Year."

AP Top Eight Stay Put

By The Associated Press

What does this week's Associated Press Top Twenty college basketball poll have in common with last week's? If the order looks vaguely familiar, it's because the top eight teams combined for an undefeated week and stayed put.

And for the third consecutive week, No. 1 Kentucky was a unanimous choice for the top seat. The Wildcats improved their record to 11-0 with easy wins over Vanderbilt, Florida and Auburn, collecting all 46 first-place votes for 920 points.

Runner-up North Carolina, 12-1, won twice but had a scare before beating Clemson in overtime. The Tar Heels accumulated 737 points in the balloting.

Third-ranked Arkansas, 13-0, remained unbeaten by crushing Hofstra, Houston and Missouri St. Louis and picking up 693 points. Defending NCAA champion Marquette, 10-1, won three times and solidified its hold on the No. 4 spot with 594 points.

No. 5 Notre Dame, 522 points and a 7-2 slate, was idle.

No. 6 Indiana State, 10-0 and 480 points, and No. 7 UCLA, 11-1 with 463 points, both chalked up a pair of convincing wins in holding their positions.

Eighth-ranked Syracuse completed the undefeated week by the top eight with a 94-84 win over North Texas State. The Orangemen are now 11-1 and received 342 points. The eight teams started off the new year with a perfect 16-0 record.

Louisville jumped a notch to No. 9 with 325 points, ending Cincinnati's 69-game home court winning streak in the process. The Cardinals shocked the Bearcats 78-75 at the Riverfront Coliseum.

Kansas broke into the Top Ten, climbing from their No. 14 position a week ago. The Jayhawks jumped over Nevada-Las Vegas, Indiana, Cincinnati and Virginia, all of whom went down to defeat last week. Kansas nipped Missouri in its only action of the week.

Nevada-Las Vegas headed the Second Ten, followed by Michigan State, Holy Cross, Providence, Virginia, North Carolina State, Georgetown, Indiana, Cincinnati and DePaul.

Michigan State made the biggest jump of the week after debuting last week as No. 18. Cincinnati fell the furthest, dropping from No. 2 after suffering two losses in three games. Newcomers are North Carolina State, 10-1, and DePaul, 11-1. They bounced No. 16 Maryland, a two-time loser, and No. 19 San Francisco, which has lost once.

Bronco Turnaround Credited to Ralston

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Few teams suffered more in the 1960s bidding war between the fledgling American Football League and the established National Football League than the Denver Broncos.

In their first 10 seasons, the Broncos managed to sign only one of their first-round draft choices - Floyd Little in 1967.

Other quality draftees who were signed, such as Curley Culp, were subsequently traded in ill-advised deals.

Denver's play during those years was as inept as its system of acquiring players.

Then came the merger in 1970, and the Broncos' fortunes soared. Suddenly, the team was not only signing its high draft picks, but selecting future All-Pros as well.

The 1977 Denver team which meets Dallas in the Super Bowl next Sunday was put together largely in the past seven years by a series of exceptional drafts and some shrewd trading. Much of the credit for that turnaround has to go to John Ralston, whose five-year tenure as head coach and general manager ended last January when he resigned in the face of the bitter player revolt.

Four straight No. 1 picks - tight end Riley Odoms, running back Otis Armstrong, linebacker Randy Gradishar and cornerback Louis Wright - became either All-Pros or Pro-Bowlers or both.

So did defensive end Lyle Alzado, a fourth-round pick in 1971 from Tiny Yankton College in South Dakota, and linebacker Tom Jackson, a fourth-round choice in 1973 from Louisville.

Rick Upchurch, the standout kick returner and wide receiver, was still another fourth-round selection, in 1975.

Of the Broncos' 22 starters, 14 were drafted by Denver. Trades produced several key performers as well. The acquisition of Craig Morton in a straight-player swap with the New York Giants was a steal. Morton was the AFC's second-leading passer this year in guiding the Broncos to a 12-2 regular-season record and into the Super Bowl. Steve Ramsey, who went to the Giants in the deal, is selling real estate in Dallas.

Haven Moses, the smooth wide receiver who combined with Morton to star in last week's 20-17 playoff victory over Oakland, was another Bronco obtained via trade.

Stability in the offensive line and secondary in 1977 came from there other trades-tackle Andy Maurer, center Mike Montler and safety Bernard Jackson.

Lions Fire Hudspeth

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Amid rumors that ex-San Francisco 49ers Coach Monte Clark is about to come aboard, the Detroit Lions have staged a long-awaited house cleaning and axed Tommy Hudspeth and his entire eight-man coaching staff.

Hudspeth was the fifth Lions' coach in seven years.

Lions' owner William Clay Ford announced the firings late Monday, less than a month after his team wrapped up its second straight 6-8 season. Detroit finished in third place in the National Conference Central Division behind the 9-5 records of Minnesota and Chicago.

"I wish 'em well," Hudspeth said jovially after Ford and General Manager Russ Thomas informed him he and his staff were fired. "I have no comments on the team or any of that. I just hope everything works out great for the Lions."

The rumors that Clark would get the job surfaced a week ago. Clark, who resigned last Three free agents also are starters. Wide receiver Jack Dolbin tried out in 1975 after a standout season with the Chicago Fire, a World Football League franchise which folded that year.

The other two free agents are members of Denver's stunning linebacker corps-Bob Swenson and Joe Rizzo. Swenson was overlooked in the 1975 draft because he played at defensive end at California and few scouts projected him as a pro linebacker. Rizzo originally was drafted by Buffalo, but he was coming off knee surgery and failed to pass the Bills' physical. He later came to Denver and hooked up as a free agent.

All Ford would say Monday was that "the Lions plan to name a new head coach in the near future."

Another name mentioned as a possible replacement was Los Angeles Rams head Coach Chuck Knox, a former Lions assistant. Knox had no comment about the Hudspeth firing.

"I don't know anything," Knox said. "I haven't talked to anybody."

Untouched in the purge was General Manager Russell Thomas, a target of frequent criticism when the team's ho-hum performance is mentioned. The last time Detroit made the playoffs was 1970.

Thomas met with Ford and the two informed Hudspeth of their decision.

Just a little drop will do you

Many kids not getting vaccinated

Draw a line to these things in the picture.

All it takes is a few visits to your doctor.

Or you can go to a Public Health Department where it's free.

Just a few drops, that's all you need.

Then you don't have to worry about polio for the rest of your life.

"It's just plain silly not to be protected," one doctor told The Mini Page.

Yet, a lot of parents aren't taking their kids to get vaccinations.

In most states, there is a law that you can't go to school unless you are vaccinated.

Many adults wait until then to take their kids.

That wait could be too late.

SCOOP SAYS:

DON'T WAIT TO VACCINATE

Open wide! A little boy opens his mouth. In go the drops. Polio is a disease that can cripple or even kill. It begins its attack in the intestines. That is why you swallow the vaccine.

The shots and what they do for you . . .

You don't have to have the measles or the mumps.

Your parents most likely had these diseases.

But then vaccines were invented.

Now all you have to do is have the shots.

But many kids aren't getting them.

You can help by reminding adults of the shots they forgot.

(Parents will have to check with their doctor to see what is needed.)

DPT

All three vaccines are put together into one shot.

D is for diphtheria (dif-THIR-e-ah), a disease of the throat, tonsils and lungs.

P is for pertussis (per-TUS-sis), a word that doctors use that means whooping cough.

T is for tetanus (TET-ah-nes), a disease that effects your swallowing and breathing.

MMR

This is another three-in-one shot.

M is for measles. This is the 7-day kind that can make you very sick and cause lifetime problems.

M is for mumps, a disease that causes cheek and neck glands to swell. Mumps can cause deafness.

R is for rubella, the 3-day German measles. This is not so bad for kids, but it's dangerous for the babies of mothers who are expecting.

Vaccination Schedule

This schedule is for kids who missed their shots when they were babies. It is for boys and girls from 15 months through 5 years.

Schedule	Vaccination
First Visit	DPT - Polio
1 Mo. Later	Measles Rubella Mumps
2 Mo. Later	DPT - Polio
4 Mo. Later	DPT
6-12 Mo. Later or Preschool	DPT - Polio
Every 10 Years	Td (Adult)

Every 10 years adults should have a Td shot (Tetanus and diphtheria).

Look What Mama Built

Look at the picture. Flamingos are big birds.

They make nests by building a mud hill.

Then they scoop out the middle and lay an egg on top.

This keeps the egg from rolling out.

-Then look what happens!

Science Mystery?

MYSTERY: What kinds of things are attracted by magnets?

FINDING OUT: Collect at least 10 different things (glass, paper, metal and other small objects). Make two piles.

1. Those you think will be picked up.
2. Those you think will not be picked up.

Now test your guess.

How many things did you get right?

Are all types of metal objects attracted to magnets?

CLUE: Not all types of metals are attracted. Things that are made of iron or have iron in them are.

A few rules that help—

One doctor has said that we can add years to our lives by:

- exercising every day
- watching our weight
- eating breakfast
- not snacking between meals
- getting from 7 to 8 hours of sleep
- not smoking

Take a deep breath. The doctor is checking the boy's chest. If he grows up to be a non-smoker, he will be a lot healthier.

What happens when you smoke

Just one puff:

- lowers the temperature of your skin
- upsets the flow of blood and air in and out of your lungs
- speeds up your heartbeat
- stops the action of the cilia.

(Cilia are tiny parts in your lungs that work like brooms. They keep your lungs clean and sweep out the germs and dirt.)

Many teachers are talking to young kids about not smoking.

They hope the children will grow up to be non-smokers.

Many kids are talking to their parents. They want them to quit smoking.

The American Lung Association uses kids in ads about not smoking.

The kids give messages about the dangers of the habit.

Have you seen this little girl in an ad about not smoking? She says, "Smoking is childish at any age."

This is National Smoking Education Week sponsored by the American Lung Association.
