

Budget battles loom due to G-R ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and President Reagan are heading for "a long, hot summer of budget battles" — possibly including skirmishes over increasing taxes — following a Supreme Court ruling striking down the key enforcement provision of a new budget-balancing law.

There is agreement on Capitol Hill and at the White House to stick with the statute's annual deficit targets that are supposed to lead to a balanced federal budget by 1991, but how to get there remains a problem.

"With the cover of mandatory cuts removed, we will see if the president and Congress have the guts to make the tough decisions both sought to accomplish by automatic pilot," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

On a 7-2 vote, the Supreme Court ruled Monday that the enforcement provision of the so-called Gramm-Rudman Act — the requirement for automatic, across-the-board spending cuts to meet mandated deficit targets — violated the constitutionally required separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

The court said the law improperly empowered an officer of Congress, the comptroller general, to perform an executive function by ordering specific levels of spending cuts to meet the annual deficit targets.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in the majority decision that "convenience and efficiency" cannot justify an unconstitutional law.

Anticipating the Supreme Court's decision, Congress included an alternative in the balanced-budget law calling for a joint committee of House and Senate budget writers to send a package of cuts to each chamber to meet the deficit target.

Supporters of the lawsaid they would move quickly to restore the provision for automatic cuts by restricting congressional power over the comptroller general, specifically by changing how the official could be removed from office. That would make the office more like the Federal Reserve Board and other government agencies that operate separate from Congress and the White House.

"Those of us who have fought so hard to restore fiscal sanity will not allow Congress to get off the hook on its commitment to balance the federal budget," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, one of the prime authors of the statute along with Sens. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.

But there were legislators, particularly in the House, who said they would block such a move.

Regardless of the outcome of that argument, the larger issue facing

Gramm says court ruling 'bothersome technicality'

SEATTLE (AP) — A Supreme Court ruling striking down part of the law forcing a balanced federal budget is nothing but a bothersome technicality, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm says.

The Texas Republican and co-author of the budget cutting legislation interrupted his family vacation in Alaska to fly here for a news conference at the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

Gramm, a primary sponsor of the budget-balancing statute along with Sens. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., described the high court ruling as focusing "only on a narrow separation of powers conflict," while affirming 95 percent of the law.

In a 7-2 vote, the court found unconstitutional the provision of the Gramm-Rudman law that empowers the U.S. comptroller general to order across-the-board cuts in the federal budget if Congress fails to make the cuts itself.

Gramm says he is not worried about the court's ruling, nor was it unexpected.

"As a practical matter, I don't expect it to make much difference," he said. "In my opinion, it is a bothersome technicality."

The authors of the law wrote a "back-up" enforcement provision in case the provision concerning the

Tax hike final by 4-1 vote

After almost six weeks of deliberation, Deaf Smith County Commissioners elected Monday to increase the county tax rate by 7 percent during a special meeting of the commissioners court held in the courthouse.

Commissioners held two public hearings and four days of budget workshops while contemplating the issue. County Judge Glen Nelson said the commission had looked at dozens of different ways to try to balance the budget, but the increase was inevitable.

The new county budget will be voted on during the next meeting of the commission to be held July 14. Projected expenditures in the new budget total $3,784,095—an increase of $57,112 over the past year's budget.

The rate will go from .40 per $100 valuation to .43. This will be the first increase in the county tax rate since 1980.

"We are not anxious to raise taxes," said Nelson. "We have come to the conclusion that we cannot maintain the services we now have without the increase."

Max Maes, the only county resident attending the meeting, told the commissioners, "I believe the objective of a good manager is to not raise taxes, but to find ways to make do with the present budget. I believe a county-wide vote should be taken."

"During the recent campaign, the candidates said there would be no tax increase," Maes said. "Was all that just propaganda to get elected?" The motion to increase the tax rate passed by a 4-1 margin, with Commissioner Austin Rose being the only one against the increase. Rose stated at an earlier public hearing that he has felt that some departments could have been cut, but the department heads did not agree.

Knives, bats used in scuffle at park

A Fourth of July get together in Veterans Park left two people hospitalized with stab wounds, and another was treated and released after she was hit in the stomach with a baseball bat.

Deaf Smith County Deputies have no suspects in the assaults. "There was just a big fight going on, and I got hit, I don't know who did it," said Lisa Lucero of Clovis following the incident.

Joe Sanchez of Hereford sustained several stab wounds and is in serious condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital. Carey Lucero, also of Clovis, is in good condition at Deaf Smith General.

Sheriff Joe Brown said deputies did not know of the altercation until the victims admitted themselves into the emergency room.

Deputies also arrested two individuals during the past weekend for public intoxication and two warrants were issued for theft of livestock.

The sheriff's office also reported a missing person complaint, three minor thefts, an attempted burglary, two civil disputes, and criminal mischief.

Recent Hereford High graduate Becky Nichols is spending her summer as many others her age are — she's raising money to go to college.

But, in a different way. She's having a garage sale.

Nichols laughed when asked how she got the idea.

"My mother thought it was a good idea and forced me to have the garage sale," she joked.

Money for college isn't easy to come by these days and holding a garage sale can be lots of work, testified Nichols. "But it was mostly old junk we had," she giggled.

Nichols had asked her sister if she'd like to help and explained what the money was going toward.

Her sister also had a garage they could use.

The two worked very hard together to get everything ready for the big sale.

On Monday prior to their garage sale, the two scavenged their parents' storage house to find old clothes, furniture, and an extra bed and dresser.

After gathering all the necessities to complete a good garage sale, the siblings loaded it into their mom's pickup, drove it to the garage and unloaded it.

Tuesday was spent pricing clothes, dishes, appliances and decorative items.

City buys computer for police

The Hereford City Commission elected Monday evening to purchase an $8,763 computer system for the city police department. The bid was from Radio Shack National Bid Center in Fort Worth.

Also during the meeting the commission granted a zoning change request by Kenneth Jeter. Jeter asked the commission to rezone the area at 806 West Park Ave. from an A-Single Family zone to a D-Restricted zone.

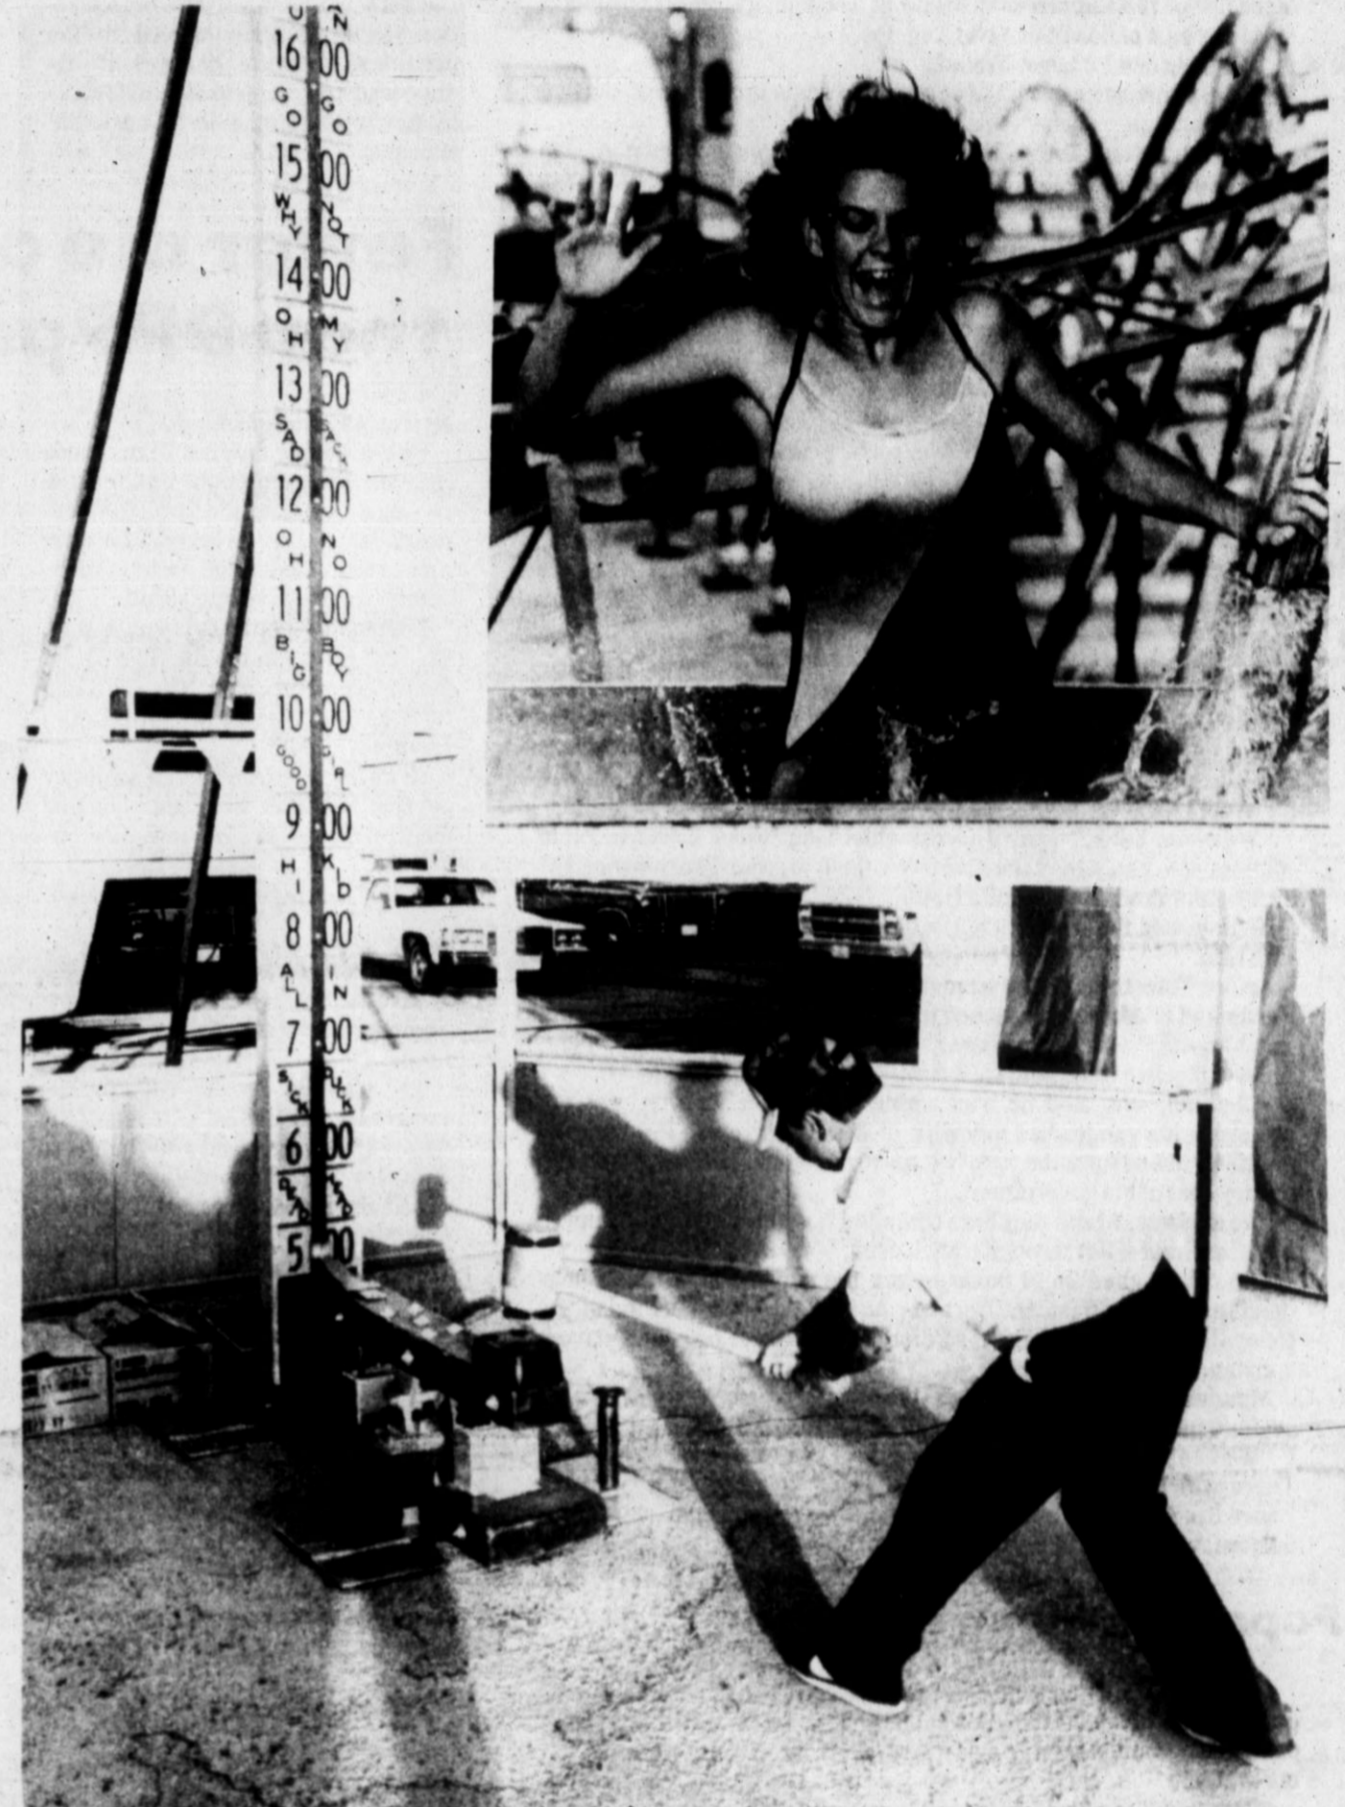

The Planning and Zoning commission previously recommended to not allow the rezoning but the commissioners felt that area will should be developed for businesses.

Commissioners also heard a presentation from Sam Nunnally concerning plans he has for a subdivision to be located 2½ miles north of the city limits. Commissioners told Nunnally that the area would be out of their territorial jurisdiction since it is more than 5000 feet from the city limits.

Commissioners then approved the third and final reading of an ordinance allowing Southwestern Bell to have a franchise in Hereford for a 10-year term.

In other business the commission; -Tabled consideration relating to the erection of a marquee-type sign to be located at the Community Center.

-Tabled the consideration of a proposal for public officials liability insurance.

USDA official says Crunch on farm exports may be winding down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crunch on U.S. farm exports may be winding down, and an era of long-term growth could be at hand, if the signals are correct, an Agriculture Department economist says.

During the 1970s, a time of escalating farmland prices and inflation, the volume of U.S. farm exports increased an average of 8 percent per year. So far in the 1980s, including this year, the amount shipped has declined annually.

Clark Edwards of USDA's

Economic Research Service says the forecasts indicate "the worst may soon be over" for exports, which have become vital to the financial well-being of so many of the nation's farmers.

"The foreign exchange value of the dollar has been dropping against many major currencies, and our commodity prices are closer to market-clearing levels," Edwards said Monday in a new agency report. "Farmers' production costs are stabilizing, and rates of return on investment in agriculture are recovering from reduced levels for many farm enterprises."

Perhaps the most important development for American agriculture — assuming decades ahead without major wars — will be the steady increase in global population, which, according to the Population Institute, has now reached 5 billion people, double what it was in 1950.

"The long-run trend in export

National Quake shakes Southern California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A sharp earthquake shook a wide region of Southern California early today, triggering rockslides and shattering windows, but there were no immediate reports of injuries or heavy damage.

The 2:21 a.m. PDT earthquake measured 6.0 on the Richter scale and was centered 12 miles northwest of Palm Springs, said Dennis Meredith of the California Institute of Technology. Palm Springs is 110 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

"It's a big one," Meredith said. A quake measuring 6 on the open-ended scale is capable of causing severe damage.

In Washington, D.C., U.S. Geological Survey spokesman Don Finley said the epicenter of the quake was about 40 miles east of San Bernardino in mountains near the edge of the Mojave Desert.

"Early reports said there was some damage in the epicentral area," he said.

Riverside County sheriff's dispatcher Alex Harris said rockslides closed two highways in the county, and two brushfires may have been caused by the quake.

Rocks tumbled onto State Highway 74 near Hemet, 75 miles east of Los Angeles, and a slide hit Ortega Highway in the desert, Harris said.

Philippine revolt collapses

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A revolt led by an elderly pro-Marcos politician and backed by four generals collapsed at dawn today when the rebels abandoned the luxury hotel they had occupied for nearly 40 hours and surrendered.

"Welcome back," armed forces chief Gen. Fidel V. Ramos told soldiers who had joined the abortive rebellion, shortly after they left the 22-story downtown Manila Hotel.

He then told the troopers to get down on the floor and do push-ups with him.

Arturo Tolentino, 75, the former running mate of ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos, launched the uprising on Sunday by proclaiming himself "acting president." He left the hotel Monday night, followed by two rebel generals, a military spokesman said.

Tolentino, who said he was acting on Marcos' orders, was not around as his vanquished following of 289 soldiers and a few hundred civilians abandoned the hotel he had said would serve as the temporary seat of his government.

The soldiers, whose numbers dwindled to a few dozen in the uprising's last hours, left through a back door.

The rebels gave up 10 hours before the expiration of the 24-hour deadline set by President Corazon Aquino for their surrender. By then, about 1,000 government soldiers had the hotel surrounded from a distance.

Minutes after the rebels left the hotel, dozens of government soldiers pushed their way through the main door, rifles at the ready.

"We are not going to humiliate, punish or embarrass any of you. There will be no retaliation against you," Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile told the surrendered soldiers at a suburban army gymnasium, where he and Ramos met with them.

Pope flies home to Rome

CASTRIES, St. Lucia (AP) — Pope John Paul II thrilled the inhabitants of this lush volcanic island by speaking in the local French patois as he said Mass during a stopover while en route from Colombia to Rome.

After spending seven hours on this eastern Caribbean island where Columbus landed in 1502, the pope was seen off Monday night from Hewanorra International Airport by Prime Minister John Compton.

"Your holiness has shown by this visit that no country is too small or area too remote, no journey too arduous for your concern and your attention," Compton said.

The pope came to St. Lucia from the steamy city of Barranquilla, Colombia, where he urged that South American country's guerrillas to lay down their arms and heed a government truce plan in exchange for participation in the political system.

It was the final stop on John Paul's seven-day pilgrimage to predominantly Roman Catholic Colombia, which took him from the Latin American nation's cities to a poor fishing village on the Pacific coast.

Residents of St. Lucia, a 238-square-mile island in the Windward chain between St. Vincent and Martinique, came out in droves to welcome the 66-year-old pontiff.

Many dressed in their Sunday best and used colorful parasols to protect them from the sun.

All 2,000 hotel rooms on the island were sold out, and some travelers hoping to hear the pope sailed all night from neighboring islands.

The pope's visit to St. Lucia was his fifth to a Caribbean country. He previously traveled to the Dominican Republic twice and to Haiti and Trinidad and Tobago. He also visited Puerto Rico in 1984.

Waldheim controversy continues

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Kurt Waldheim today took office as president of Austria, the victor in a bitter election campaign marred by allegations he was involved in war crimes while serving in the German army in World War II.

The former U.N. secretary general was elected June 8 after a bitter campaign marked by allegations that he was involved in war crimes as a German army officer in the Balkans, that he knew of deportations of Jews to concentration camps and that he lied about it all.

Waldheim acknowledged serving in German Army Group E, which took part in murderous reprisals against civilians, but has repeatedly denied any personal wrongdoing.

In a speech prepared for his inauguration, Waldheim called for national reconciliation and said, "I consider myself from this hour on as the federal president of all Austrians."

In the address, Waldheim declared, "The 'Never Again' sworn atop the rubble of the Second World War by Austrians referred then and refers today too not only to the horrors of the Holocaust but also to the frightening frame of mind that caused it: anti-Semitism."

"It must, therefore, be our intention that is renewed every day, to consider and treat each of our fellow citizens as brother and sister — regardless of which race, which religion and which conviction he holds," Waldheim's speech said.

"He not only lied to us, he lied to the world," said Leon Seolis, a 79-year-old Austrian who joined a demonstration Monday against Waldheim near the State Opera in Vienna's downtown tourist district.

Seolis, one of the oldest among the mostly young protesters, held up a sign saying "No To The War Criminal President."

The demonstration, which drew about 1,000 people, was the biggest protest against Waldheim in Austria since the allegations surfaced in late February.

Cattle auction company ordered halt in business

WASHINGTON — Western Stockyards Corp., an auction market at Amarillo, Tex., has agreed to a suspension of business and a $25,000 civil penalty, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official announced. The suspension started Sunday.

The firm, which does business as Amarillo Livestock Auction Co., draws trade from western Oklahoma and eastern New Mexico, as well as the Texas Panhandle.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said the firm agreed to the penalties to settle charges it endangered payment to its customers by having shortages in its custodial account.

As a part of the settlement agreement, the market was suspended for two weeks and thereafter until it shows that the custodial account shortages have been corrected.

Jones said a supplemental order will be issued terminating the suspension when the firm shows the shortages have been corrected.

In agreeing to the penalties, Western Stockyards neither admitted nor denied the charges filed by USDA in February under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

Fewer die on roads than DPS predicted

By The Associated Press

Fewer people died on Texas roads than the Department of Public Safety had predicted for the Independence Day weekend because more responded to the state's traffic safety program, officials said.

During the count between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Sunday, 41 deaths were reported. The DPS had forecast 45, agency spokesman David Wells said.

He noted, however, that a majority of the victims had not buckled themselves in as the law now requires.

Texas' first-quarter traffic death rate declined 1 percent from last year, and that trend is continuing, he said. "Hopefully, people are being more careful."

In this year's reporting period, nine fatalities were motorcycle-related, more than usual, Wells said. Almost none of the victims wore helmets.

Twelve people died in single-vehicle crashes, seven in head-on collisions and four in auto-pedestrian accidents.

He added that 14 of the 41 accidents occurred on U.S. or state highways, 11 on city streets and seven on interstate highways.

comptroller general was struck down.

The stand-by version calls for the Congressional Budget Office and the Office of Management and Budget to compute projected deficit figures based on the congressional budget, Gramm said.

"It would be a straight up or down vote on a number (the amount of the deficit)," following an expedited two-hour debate, he said.

If the figure is higher than the target mandated in Gramm-Rudman, and is ratified by Congress and the president, the across-the-board spending cuts automatically would then go into effect.

"I am confident Congress can meet the (deficit) targets without an across-the-board cut," he said.

The budget law calls for Congress to meet a deficit target of $144 billion for the 1987 fiscal year. Congress adopted a fiscal 1987 budget with a projected deficit of $142.6 billion just before its two-week Fourth of July recess.

Gramm says he plans to introduce legislation he calls "Gramm-Rudman-Hollings II" that would reaffirm the law by striking the part of the 1921 law allowing Congress to fire the comptroller general, making the position virtually independent.

"The comptroller general would still have tremendous independence," similar to that of agencies like the Federal Reserve Board, which operates separate from Congress and the president, he said.

17 permits issued

The City of Hereford issued 17 building permits worth a total of $110,300 during the month of June. The largest permit issued was for the renovation of the Hereford High School, valued at $60,000.

So far in 1986, the city has issued 87 permits worth a total of $829,550. That is down from last year's 78 permits to date valued at $5,606,950.

RULING

Congress is how to make good on the $144 billion deficit target for the 1987 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

"The court said today, no more gimmicks, no more tricks, no more easy answers. Congress must do its job, and it cannot give its responsibility away," said Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., the chief plaintiff in the court case.

In a statement issued by the White House, the president kept up his pressure on Congress to do something about deficits, saying, "The Supreme Court's decision today brings the focus of compliance with the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction targets back to we had left in the garage after moving all the stuff in. And it was hot, too," Nichols said.

Dodging furniture and other large items to be sold, the girls priced everything in sight for the following two days.

The older sister came to The Brand and placed ads while the younger sister made signs to post around town for advertisement.

On Saturday, the day of the big sale, the two were up and ready at 6:30 a.m. Nichols went to her sister's house and the garage door finally was raised after a week's preparation to begin the sale.

"People started coming in right at 8 a.m. when we first opened," Nichols said. "The furniture sold right off and people came in steadily until 2 p.m. when it slackened off until about 6 p.m. when we closed."

She said that on Sunday there were just a few people in and out, business wasn't as hectic as it was on Saturday.

Nichols' garage sale netted her $347 which she put in her college checking account at the bank.

It afforded the excited young girl a shopping spree for school items. "I bought a comforter for my dorm room, a hairdryer, and some clothes for college. The rest of the money is going toward my books and tuition," she reported.

The two sisters and the mom packed away the unsold merchandise and took it to Goodwill the following Monday.

Nichols is presently working at her mom's business and after spending a week with her cousin-dormmate she will be looking for other creative money making projects while trying to find a conventional job.

growth over the past three decades averaged about 3 percent per year," Edwards said. "If we can manage to get back on that track — and it appears that we can — agriculture's recovery will be hastened."

Although Edwards thinks farmers will continue to see "temporary strains" in the future as they have in the past, he said those need not lead to prolonged periods of either surplus or shortage.

The recovery of lost export markets, however, will make American farmers more dependent on foreign buyers — and more vulnerable to future price swings of foreign origin.

"By the year 2000, around half of U.S. harvested cropland could be producing for export markets, up from an average of 36 percent in the last five years," Edwards said. "The livestock sector could also become more involved in exports, reducing its insulation from foreign market swings."

Why, with such risks apparent, should the United States push so hard for a greater share of the world agricultural export market? Perhaps, he said, because the alternatives are less appealing.

Court refuses to kill Texas sodomy law

By DOUG CRICHTON Associated Press Writer

The U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to strike down a Texas law that makes "deviate sexual intercourse" a crime proves that states have the right to legislate, a prosecuting attorney said.

Potter County District Attorney Danny Hill of Amarillo, who took over the state's appeal after Attorney General Jim Mattox dropped it, said Monday that he was "elated, relieved" by the high court's ruling.

He also said the ruling "opens the door for us to teach our children the difference between right and wrong, instead of having to say it's wrong, but society condones it."

All but one justice rejected a Dallas homosexual's argument that the law violates gays' privacy rights and is "therefore unconstitutional. They also turned down appeals from Texas officials over the law's procedural aspects.

The court upheld a Georgia law last week making homosexual and heterosexual sodomy a crime, ruling that it did not violate any constitutional right.

Although the Texas law applies only to homosexuals, it is similar to Georgia's in that it defines deviate sexual intercourse as "any contact between any part of the genitals of one person and the mouth or anus of another person."

Donald F. Baker sought to have the law overturned even though he was not prosecuted for homosexual conduct.

"The war goes on," Baker, 38, said Monday. "This case has provided us a forum to discuss the homosexual question, and the process of social changes is debate, then reform."

He added that "there is nothing more we can do within judicial system at the moment, but it will come up again. We will work more intensely within state courts and state legislatures."

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the Texas law last August. It said the ban on deviate sexual intercourse is justified by "the strong objection to homosexual conduct which has prevailed in Western culture for the past seven centuries."

The appeals court also rejected arguments by Texas prosecutors over who has the right to defend and challenge the state law in federal court.

Mattox said his office has the exclusive power to represent the state's interest in such cases. District attorneys in Texas said Baker had no legal standing to file his suit.

Ann Landers There is help for depression

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Life to me is a joy, but until I got relief from a new antidepressant drug three years ago, it was just plain hell.

I suffered from severe depression off and on for a number of years, saw seven psychiatrists, was hospitalized three times and took a number of prescribed anti-depressant drugs, with no lasting relief.

Although I was very much loved by my family and friends, I considered suicide many times. Being severely depressed should not be confused with feeling blue or down in the dumps. The agony of depression is acute and searing. The pain is unrelenting.

Many depressives can function adequately during the day. They do not reveal their anguish to family or friends. They are ashamed to be so inadequate when everyone around them seems well-adjusted and able to cope. When night comes they go into the depths of despair.

When a depressed person commits suicide the family should not feel guilty. It is unlikely that the suicide occurred because that person felt unloved. Chances are that he or she simply wanted to put an end to the excruciating pain that had become intolerable. Death is a depressive's ticket out of hell. Please tell your readers who see themselves in this letter not to give up. There is help if they will seek out the right doctor.—JOY AT THE END OF THE ROAD

DEAR JOY: Thank you for giving me another opportunity to tell depressed people once again that there IS help for most of them if they seek it out.

A psychologist or a therapist may be able to diagnose depression but only a psychiatrist can prescribe drugs. The patient must be carefully monitored by a psychopharmacologist to make sure the dosages are correct and no undesirable side-effects result. As I said, medication does not work for everyone. But when it DOES work, it is, as you signed yourself, "Joy at the End of the Road."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I didn't care for your reply to "Minneapolis Punk." If you are fair you will print this letter.

I agree with you that a purple Mohawk, a safety pin through the nose and a three-pound cross hanging from one ear isn't going to solve the world's problems, but what's wrong with looking that way if you want to?

I am not actually a punker, but I do have my own way of dressing. It's sort of late '60s with a little '80s thrown in. The way I look is an expression of my individuality. I am making a statement. I am saying, "I want to be me."

Whether you're a punker, a biker, or a left-over hippie trapped in a time wrap, it shouldn't matter. Freedom to be yourself is what a democracy is all about.

One of the things I don't like about "The Establishment" is the way they conform. They all look alike in their 3-piece suits, wing-tip shoes, designer haircuts, carrying leather briefcases. I have never read any criticism about THEM but I've seen a lot of unfavorable stuff about us.

I bet my cousin this letter would never appear in the paper. Here's one bet I would like to lose.—METAIRIE, LA.

DEAR MET: Pay up. You lost. And thanks for writing.

The first woman to see her son inaugurated for a second term as president of the U.S. was Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

State U.S.S.S.A. Pee Wee competition in Lubbock

Girls' all-stars place 2nd in tournament

The Hereford All-Stars from the Kids Inc. girls' minor league placed second in the Pee Wee girls' division of the state U.S.S.S.A. tournament in Lubbock last weekend.

Girls ages 12 and under competed in the teams in the Pee Wee division of the tournament.

In the championship game Sunday, the Hereford All-Stars suffered a narrow loss of 11-10 to the Cardinals of Lubbock.

On Saturday, the Hereford All-Stars began the tournament with a 9-6 win over the Amarillo A's. After losing to the Buster Browns of Lubbock 17-2, the Hereford All-Stars defeated the Oakdale Eagles of Lubbock 15-12.

The Hereford All-Stars then won a pair of games on Sunday to advance to the championship game. Hereford walloped the Amarillo A's 17-1, and took revenge against the Buster Browns, 10-4.

Three members of the Hereford All-Stars were named to the all-tournament team—Claudia Ramirez, Veronica Casarez, and Kathy Hernandez. Twelve girls from the top four teams were selected to the all-tournament team.

Other members of the Hereford All-Stars are: Minerva Salazar, Brandie Webb, April Roddy, Sally Moreno, Kelley Whitaker, Michelle Brock, Vanessa Gonzalez, Jeanette Flores, Cindy Streun, Rachel Zepeda, Michelle Liscano, and Christie Burkhart.

Coaches for the team are Julian Zamora, Carlos Ruiz, and Patsy Webb. Alternate members of the all-star team are Veronica Nava, Samantha Cottrell, and Rene Hernandez.

In Sunday's championship game, Hereford led the Cardinals of Lubbock 3-1 after one inning of play. Hits for Hereford in the first inning were a singles by Minerva Salazar and Brandie Webb, a double by April Roddy, and a single by Veronica Casarez.

The Cardinals moved ahead 7-3 in the top of the third inning, but Hereford regained the lead in the bottom of that inning, 9-7.

Salazar led off the third inning with a double, and six others hit singles—Claudia Ramirez, Kathy Hernandez, Casarez, Sally Moreno, Kelley Whitaker, and Michelle Brock.

Hereford increased its lead to 10-7 in the fourth inning when Jeanette Flores doubles and scored on a single by Ramirez.

Hereford failed to score the rest of the regulation innings, including the fifth inning when the bases were left loaded. The Cardinals tied up the game 10-10 with one run in the fifth and two runs in the sixth.

In the top of the eighth, the Cardinals scored the winning run. Hereford failed to get any runners on base in the bottom of the eighth.

The Hereford All-Stars, in their first tournament game on Saturday, trailed the Amarillo A's 2-0 after the first inning. Hereford tied the game in the second inning with a solo home run by Casarez, and a run scored by Moreno, who had singled.

Casarez scored in the fourth inning to put Hereford ahead 3-2. Hereford then increased its lead 9-2 in the top of the fifth inning.

The order of hits in the fifth were singles by Flores and Salazar, a double by Webb, a triple by Roddy, and singles by Hernandez, Casarez, and Moreno. The Amarillo A's scored their other four runs in the bottom of the sixth.

In the 17-2 loss to the Buster Browns, the Hereford All-Stars scored both of their runs in the first inning. Hits for Hereford were a double by Webb and singles by Ramirez, Roddy, and Hernandez.

The Hereford All-Stars rallied for seven runs in the seventh inning to defeat the Oakdale Eagles 15-12.

The Eagles held an early lead of 3-0 in the first inning. After three innings, Hereford trailed 4-2.

But after five innings of play, Hereford held a lead of 8-7. Hereford hits in the fifth inning included a double by Brock, and singles by Gonzalez, Webb, Ramirez, Hernandez, and Moreno.

The Eagles held a 9-8 lead going into the seventh inning. Hereford's seven runs in the seventh inning were scored with five hits, all singles. Those who hit the singles were Webb, Ramirez, Hernandez, Casarez, and Brock.

In the Hereford All-Stars' big 17-1 victory over the Amarillo A's, Hereford led 6-0 in the first inning. Hits for Hereford in the first inning were doubles by Webb and Whitaker, and singles by Ramirez, Hernandez, Brock, and Gonzalez.

Hernandez, Casarez, and Moreno began the third inning with three straight singles to score a run for a 7-0 Hereford lead.

Hernandez began the fifth inning with a double, and Casarez, Moreno, Brock, and Gonzalez each hit singles, followed by a double by Flores. Four runs were scored to make the Hereford lead 11-0.

In the sixth inning, Hereford added six more runs. Roddy singled, and then three straight doubles were hit by Hernandez, Casarez, and Moreno. Brock then hit a triple, and Flores added a single.

In Hereford's 10-4 victory Sunday over the Buster Browns, Hereford led 3-0 in the second inning. Casarez hit a two-run home run for the first two runs, driving in Hernandez ahead of her, and singles by Moreno and Brock led to the third run.

Singles by Salazar and Hernandez, and a double by Moreno helped Hereford score four runs in the third inning for a 7-2 lead.

Salazar hit a leadoff home run in the fifth inning, and Ramirez tripled and scored, making the lead 9-2. Casarez hit a leadoff home run in the sixth inning for Hereford's final run of the contest.

Astros trounce Expos, 12-1

By The Associated Press

Montreal's Tim Lincecum joked about having a stiff neck from watching baseballs sail over his head into the stands for home runs.

"There's been a lot of them (homers) in the last two days," Lincecum said Monday night after the Houston Astros mauled the Expos 12-1.

Lincecum saw three balls go sailing over the fence Monday night — one day after Atlanta slugger Bob Horner became the 11th major leaguer to hit four homers in a game.

Houston's Glenn Davis took over the NL lead in home runs with a pair Monday night, giving him 19 for the season. Kevin Bass added his 13th of the season and first-ever career grand slam in the ninth.

The Astros also got a superb performance from pitcher Mike Scott, 9-5, who struck out seven to increase his major league leading total to 158 as he registered his third consecutive win.

Davis batted before Bass and he almost drilled his third homer of the night, barely missing the foul pole.

Bass, however, cleared the bases when he launched a Dan Schatzeder fastball on the inside of the plate into the seats.

The Astros and Expos traded runs in the second inning but Davis got to Expos starter Dennis Martinez, 0-1, in the third with the first of his two homers — a two-run blast that left

Davis connected again off Martinez in the fifth with two men on, marking the second time he's homered twice in a game this season.

Martinez accidentally hit Davis with a pitch in the second and said later it wasn't a good idea. "It looked like I woke him up when I hit him," said Martinez. "I don't think I should have done that."

Track Meet Medalists

Hall of Fame catcher Mickey Cochrane had his big league career ended prematurely at the age of 34 in 1937 when he suffered a fractured skull after being hit in the head by a pitched ball.

When Tom Browning of the Cincinnati Reds won 20 games in 1985 he was the first rookie to go that high since Bob Grim of the 1954 New York Yankees.

The "catcher" in cricket is called the wicket-keeper.

New monitor aimed at helping cancer patients

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Doctors waging the war against cancer with implanted radioactive pellets soon may have a sophisticated tool that will make it possible for them to better control the powerful weapon.

Tiny sensors inserted along with the pellets will allow the doctors to keep tabs on the amount of radiation the patient gets in the treatment.

"What we're going to do is get a better picture of the radiation during these implants," said Dr. Charles A. Kelsey, chief of biomedical physics at the University of New Mexico Cancer Center and one of two developers of the use of the radiation sensing field effect transistor — RADFET — for implants.

Dr. Robert C. Hughes, supervisor of Sandia National Laboratories' microsensor division and the other developer, said Sandia researchers have found a way to adapt the radiation sensor as a dosimeter and mount it inside a standard medical catheter, or tube, only 0.8mm, or three-hundredths of an inch, in diameter.

The small catheters are used to implant radioactive pellets in patients to treat certain types of cancer.

Kelsey said pellets can be implanted anywhere in the body, but most frequently treated are tumors in the cervix, rectum, prostate, breast, head and neck. He said that about four dozen such operations are performed in Albuquerque each year.

Currently, radiation doses are determined by computer modeling and calibration of radiation sources. But the dosimeter would allow direct monitor for each individual patient.

"The calculations are pretty good, but this will give us a better indication," Kelsey said.

Kelsey and Hughes said the dosimeter could become a significant medical tool because of its small size, flexibility and ruggedness make it convenient for directly monitoring radiation doses in previously inaccessible parts of the body.

Kelsey said the developers hope that by the end of the summer, they will have gathered all of the information required by a university committee which reviews the use of any new devices in human beings.

The committee usually acts very quickly, in two or three weeks, he said.

"Maybe by the middle of the fall we could be working in patients," he said.

If tests in patients prove the dosimeter is useful and safe, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration would have to approve it before it could be marketed as a standard medical tool.

The researchers said the device would allow doctors to monitor and thereby control the radiation rate and cumulative dose to make sure a patient gets the maximum benefit from the treatment and to minimize or eliminate side effects.

The dosimeter would be used when doctors irradiate part of the body after the removal of a cancerous lump to make sure any remaining cancer cells are killed.

Surgeons penetrate the tissue with hollow metal catheters through which plastic catheters smaller than 2mm in diameter are threaded. Inside the plastic catheters are the even smaller 0.8mm plastic catheters containing the radioactive pellets, or seeds.

One of the smaller plastic catheters also would contain a radiation sensing monitor — something not possible with the dosimeters now available commercially.

The metal catheters are removed, but the plastic ones remain for the duration of the treatment, which Kelsey said usually runs two to three days.

Once the RADFET is in place, it can be used immediately to determine if the dose rate calculations for the number and position of the radioactive seeds are correct, the researchers said.

The researchers also said that because the sensor can be placed anywhere the radioact'v'e seeds are placed, the patient would not face additional surgery.

The sensor can be connected via tiny wires running out of the catheter to a 5-volt battery source, and the accumulated dose is read out during treatment. The dosimeter also can be disconnected from the battery during treatment and the accumulated dose can be read after irradiation is complete.

Kelsey said the readout device, which is about the size of a television remote control, gives doctors a digital numerical readout that they can use to determine the dose.

He said there may be some other medical applications for the dosimeter, but researchers are taking one step at a time and attacking the most immediate need.

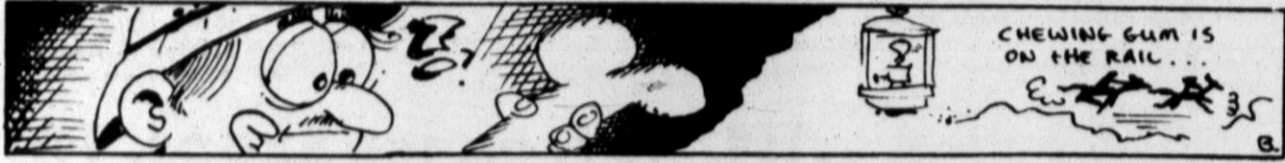

Hughes said there's been a lot of interest in using the tiny dosimeters for measuring radiation dosage for nuclear power plant workers or others who work around radioactive materials. The RADFET can measure dosage as it is received and cumulative dosage and can produce a permanent record.

"The thing is so small it could go in as just another function of a wristwatch," he said. "It would tell you your accumulated dose over the years; also dose rates.

"So if you happened to live in Chernobyl and your government was not telling you what was going on, you could look at your wristwatch," he said.

The miniature radiation sensors originally were developed at Sandia for use in weapons. The idea of using the dosimeter in medical implants arose from a seminar Kelsey gave at Sandia as part of a series given alternately by Sandia and UNM researchers.

"I had been doing research on radiation sensing FETs, and asked him how would he like one as small as the head of a pin, that could piggyback on radiation technology, implanted in the body to keep track of radiation dosage," Hughes said.

Ancient drawings on stone and bone prove that horse racing is at least 3,000 years old.

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM 'THE WHIPPING POST'

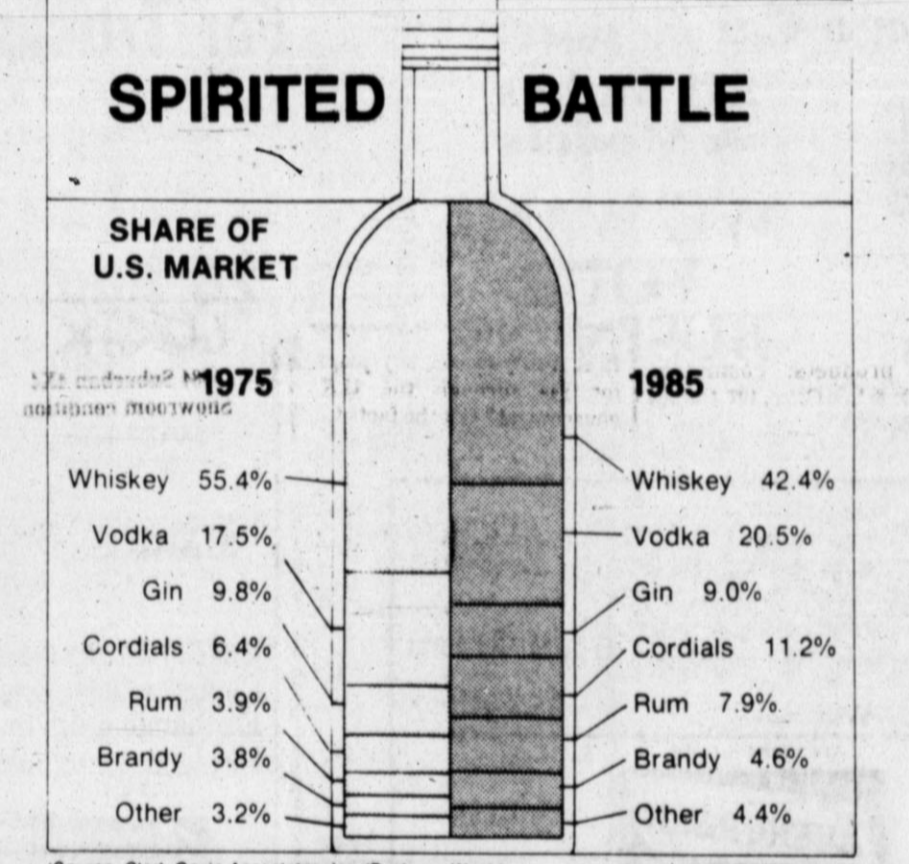

"One day" (said Paul) "after my return to Jerusalem, while I was praying in the Temple, I fell into a trance and saw a vision of God saying to me, 'Hurry! Leave Jerusalem, for the people here won't believe you when you give them My message.' " "But Lord," I argued, "they certainly know that I imprisoned and beat those in every synagogue who believed in You. And when Your witness Stephen was killed, I was standing there agreeing—keeping the coats they laid aside as they stoned him." But God said to me, 'Leave Jerusalem; for I will send you far away to the Gentiles!'" The crowd listened until Paul came to that word, then with one voice they shouted, "Away with such a fellow! Kill him! He isn't fit to live!" They yelled and threw their coats in the air and tossed up handfuls of dust. So the commander brought him inside and ordered him lashed with whips to make him confess his crime. He wanted to find out why the crowd had become so furious! As they tied Paul down to lash him, Paul said to an officer standing there, "Is it legal for you to whip a Roman citizen who hasn't even been tried?" The officer went to the commander and asked, "What are you doing? The man is a Roman citizen!" "Yes, I certainly am." "I am too," the commander muttered, "and it cost me plenty!" "But I am a citizen by birth!" The soldiers standing ready to lash him, quickly disappeared when they heard Paul was a Roman citizen, and the commander was frightened because he had ordered him bound and whipped. Acts 22:17-29

Higher rates bog down mortgage refinancing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Homeowners lured by low interest rates are seeking to refinance mortgages at such a feverish clip they are bogging down the system and facing long delays and higher-than-anticipated interest rates. California, the nation's biggest market for residential mortgages with 28 percent of the business, is feeling the pinch the most. "Some of our members are doing 300 percent more business this year than last," Lee Anne Mathews, spokeswoman for the Sacramento-based California Mortgage Bankers Association, said Monday. "It's just more than anyone anticipated, and we weren't ready to handle it." But the problem is being felt elsewhere, as well. "It's causing a lot of problems," said Roman Olesycyak of Earl Keim Realty Inc. in the Detroit suburb of Livonia. "Deals are falling apart because it takes too long to get them closed and people get frustrated." Nationally, lenders this year expect to process new loans and refinancings worth about $400 billion for residences of up to four units, compared with $246 billion last year and $210 billion in 1984, according to the national Mortgage Bankers Association, based in Washington, D.C. Loan officers, appraisers, title insurers and credit verifiers are stretched to their limits, and still the time it takes to get a mortgage has swollen from the usual 30 to 60 days to as much as 120 days, officials said. More typical, in recent months, is 80 to 90 days. Trying to parlay the problems into more business for itself, one lender, Beverly Hills-based Great Western Savings & Loan Association, issued a release saying that despite delays elsewhere, it was able to process loans in an average of 41 days. "Understandably, consumers are none too happy about it when it means they have to pay higher interest rates," said Warren Dunn, a bankers association spokesman. In many cases, the delay has meant homeowners faced interest rates as much as 1 percent higher in the end than what they anticipated when they applied. "In a lot of cases, people could no longer qualify under the higher rates, and the loans just fell through," Ms. Mathews said. Other times, rising rates made refinancing less lucrative — or not worth it. Homeowners refinancing when the difference between what they are paying and what they could be paying is enough to make it worth incurring $2,000 to $3,000 in refinancing costs. For instance, Aziz Rastegar, 50, a business consultant from suburban Santa Monica, was enthusiastic about refinancing in February when interest rates were 9.5 percent, compared with the 13 percent he was paying. But as his application worked its way through the logjam, the interest rate climbed to 10.5 percent. "Some in the industry attempted to offer (interest-rate) commitments based on application date, and that turned out to be a disaster for them," said Michael A. Durkin, chief lending officer for the nation's second-largest thrift, Stockton-based American Savings & Loan Association. Nationally, interest on traditional 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages dipped to 9.5 percent in April — the lowest in about eight years. Rates jumped last month to near 11 percent but have since fallen off to about 10.5 percent.

ONE BURGLARY EVERY 8 SECONDS

Every 8 seconds. That's how often burglars walk away with thousands of dollars of merchandise from people's homes - adding up to more than $3 billion of stolen possessions each year.

"Burglar-proof Your Home" is a new brochure from USF&G Insurance that can show you how to protect your home from burglars. It's important information you need, and it's free.
