

Striking Farmers Move 'Closer to Goal'

By JIM STEIERT
 Brand Farm Editor

Local supporters of the American Agriculture farm strike movement reviewed recent activities, considered the points of a proposal being forwarded to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and discussed plans for a trip to Washington next week during a session last night at the Bull Barn.

Gerald McCathern told the gathering of approximately 100 that the actions of striking farmers have been staged primarily to "reach the conscience of the American people," and added that these efforts have been successful.

"I would say that we have received some $30 million worth of free television publicity since the beginning of the strike on Dec. 14," McCathern commented.

"We are closer to our goal, but we must continue to work. The results of our initial efforts climaxed in the meeting with Secretary Bergland in Omaha last week," he added.

McCathern pointed out that the Omaha meeting served one good purpose if no other.

"Mr. Bergland told us he supported the goals of American Agriculture and also stated that parity prices are possible. He did a complete turnaround at the Farm Bureau convention this week, and then the national strike headquarters issued a statement suggesting that he should resign. Now, Mr. Bergland says he wants a copy of our proposals on his desk no later than Saturday," McCathern stated.

The striking farmers were then presented with a lengthy list of proposals to be forwarded to the agriculture secretary.

The proposals emphasized methods to insure 100 percent parity prices for American agricultural commodities.

Included in the proposals was a provision which would set the price of imported commodities at 110 percent of parity. Funds collected on import duties would go into a special holding fund for the exporting countries, which would allow those countries to purchase American produced commodities at American prices.

A major portion of the list of proposals contained provisions for a production certificate system, which would allot a "fair share per farmer." Farmers would be issued production certificates to meet the projected production needs for the marketing year, and the entire parity in agriculture marketing system would be based upon these certificates.

The list of proposals worked out by American Ag representatives also contained a suggestion that the minimum wage be tied to the price of a bushel of corn.

"We know that a man must have a dollar in his pocket before he can buy our products, and if we help to insure that the minimum wage worker has a fair income, we will be helping our own cause in the long run," McCathern explained.

A lengthy period of questioning accompanied the explanation of the American Ag proposals, with many of the questions focusing on the functions of the production certificate program and provisions for natural disasters and other unforeseen production problems.

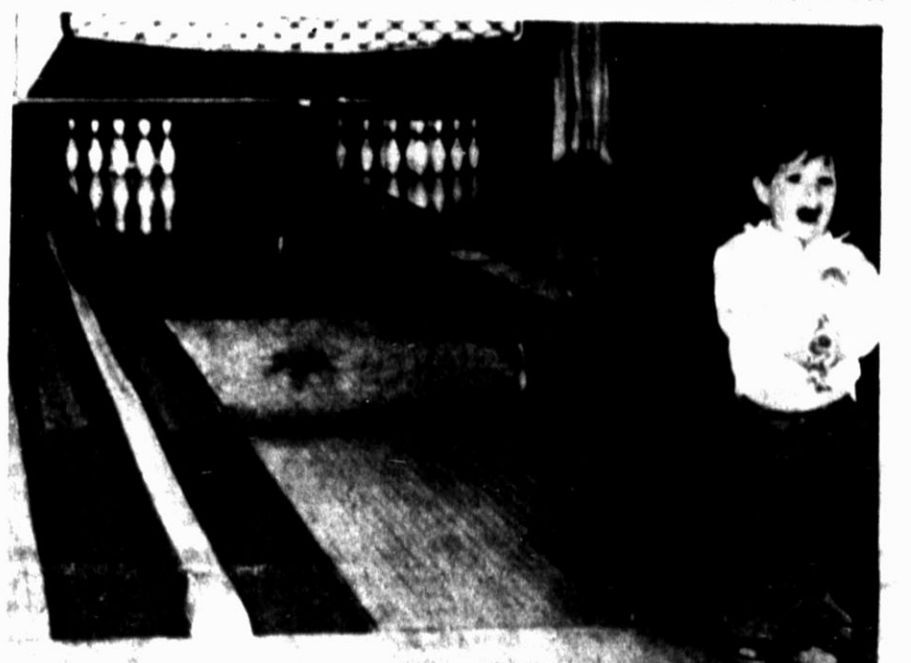

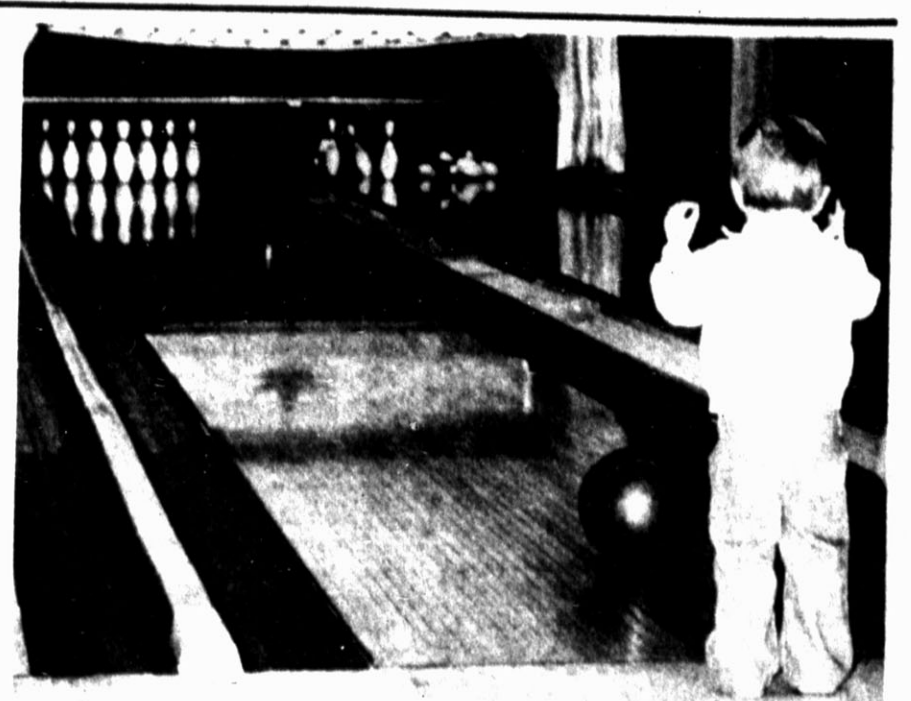

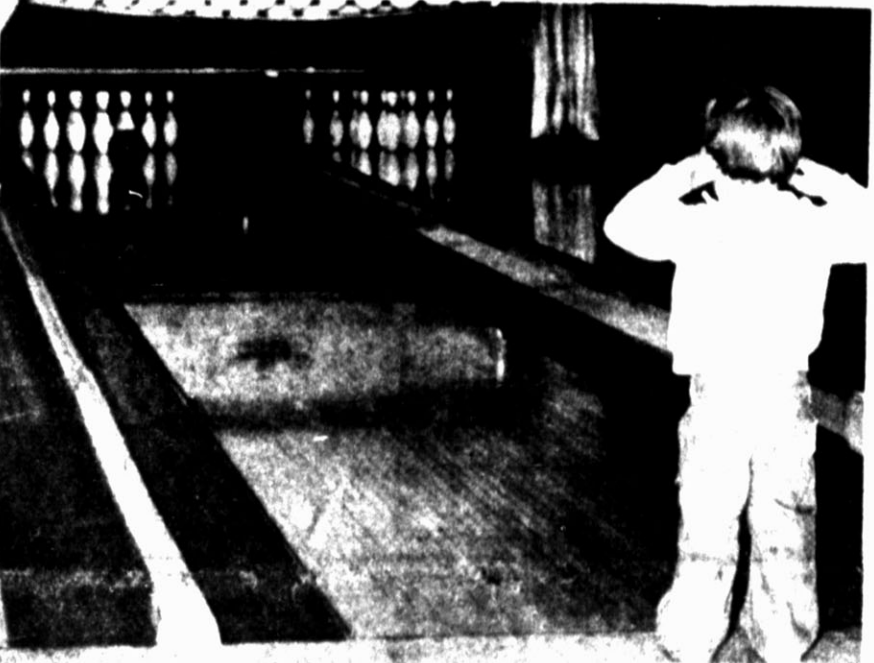

According to McCathern, final details and provisions of the proposals must be "ironed out" before the list is forwarded to Bergland.

Turning his attention to the gathering of strike farmers scheduled for Washington, D.C. Jan. 18, McCathern told his audience, "There has never been anything in U.S. history to compare with what we are about to do, and you will miss something if you don't go."

He explained that individuals in Virginia and Delaware have opened their homes to the farmers who are expected in Washington next week, and added that many farmers are planning to take pickup and camper rigs, and camp out in sleeping bags.

"It is important that the farm strike movement make an impression of unity and strength. We have congressmen to buttonhole and meetings to attend. This could be the step that wins our cause for us, and we need the help of every farmer. We are talking about $54 billion for our industry if we attain our goal of 100 percent parity, and if this isn't worth five days in Washington to a lot of farmers, then we are in trouble," McCathern emphasized.

Seventh Grade Tough, Fascinating for Students

By PAUL SIMS
 Managing Editor

Warning: seventh grade can be hazardous to your health.

Results of a federal study released last week spelled out that warning in so many words, but principals at both Hereford junior high schools say such a statement is a bit strong.

The federal government's health and education experts agree the seventh grade can be rough physically and emotionally for the four million youngsters who pass through it each year.

The study supposedly found that school violence and vandalism peak in the seventh grade. The 12- and 13-year-olds are the most likely to be attacked—and to be the attackers—of all junior and senior high students, the study showed.

The federal health planners pinpoint the seventh grade as a crucial time for youngsters in deciding whether to smoke, according to an Associated Press story released this week on children leaving the sixth grade to become junior high students.

And 62 percent of all seventh graders, according to the study, have at least tried alcohol. In a 1975 survey, more than 11 percent said they were heavy or moderately heavy drinkers.

Seventh graders aren't that bad, claims Pat Hughes, La Plata Junior High principal.

However, both Hughes and Stanton Principal Bill McCarley say the transition students make from elementary school to junior high is the most difficult of their educational years.

"In the seventh grade we have a situation where children go from self-contained classrooms into a junior high situation where they change teachers every hour," Hughes said.

"We have tried to eliminate a lot of the anxiety faced by small children 13 or 14 years old with an indoctrination program at the beginning of the year."

McCarley agreed. "They're going from a self-contained classroom into a departmentalized situation."

"In elementary school, they line them up and march them to the cafeteria. They're pretty well taken care of; those decisions are taken care of."

McCarley called the seventh grade "a trying time" because the student "is faced with a number of decisions that he's not had to make before."

Scholastic immaturity also causes tension for the seventh grader, Hughes said.

"They have to adjust more scholastically between the sixth and seventh grades than any other time between the kindergarten and the 12th grade."

Hughes said that although the age difference between seventh and eighth graders is only a year, the emotional-maturity difference may be greater than in any other period of the students' lives.

"Their bodies, as well as their minds, go through so many changes at this time."

"Another thing is that they're in kind of a state of limbo at home. Parents expect so much out of them now."

The seventh grader is faced with a certain amount of hazing by older schoolmates at the start of the first semester, and for some it may add to the difficulty in adjusting.

Most of the students, Hughes said, take it in good spirits. Some don't like it and tell their parents, who in turn call the principal's office to have it stopped.

Smoking doesn't seem to be too big a problem at Hereford's junior highs, the two principals said.

"All we usually see is a few snuff cans. As far as this national survey goes, I don't have any way of knowing about this smoking thing. We haven't taken a survey."

Wholesale Prices Show Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sharply rising food costs pushed the government's index of wholesale prices up 0.7 percent last month, nearly twice the November increase, the government reported today.

Food prices jumped 1.5 percent in December, marking the biggest rise in seven months and signaling higher prices in the coming months for grocery shoppers.

Changes in wholesale food prices usually show up in retail stores within a matter of a few weeks.

Negotiators Discuss Israel Security

CAIRO (AP) - Egyptian and Israeli military negotiators met today for their second session to discuss Israel's concern for its security.

Israeli spokesman David Kolitz said the joint military committee headed by Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman and Egyptian War Minister Mohammed Abdel Ghany Gammasy would hear a report from the Israeli chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, and then would hold a general discussion.

Weizman and Gammasy at their initial 90-minute session Wednesday reiterated their governments' conflicting demands concerning the 20 Jewish settlements in the Sinai Peninsula.

Egypt's spokesman, Gen. Hassan Kateb, said Gammasy stressed the need for total Israeli withdrawal from Sinai, implying that all Jewish settlers as well as Israel's soldiers must go.

Kolitz said Weizman reiterated the Israeli view that the settlements must continue in existence and handed a written statement to Gammasy because the Israeli delegation was under the impression the talks would begin with formal declarations.

The Egyptians, however, wanted informal remarks. A Israeli source said (See MIDDLE EAST, Page 2)

The 0.7 percent rise in wholesale prices last month compared with an increase of 0.4 percent in November and a rise of 0.8 percent in October. During the summer, these prices had risen only moderately or not at all.

In December report, the Labor Department changed the way it measures wholesale prices to provide what the department said is a more reliable measure of inflation before it hits the consumer.

The new method focuses on prices of finished goods, such as automobiles, furniture, farm equipment and food ready for sale in supermarket.

In the past, the government measured wholesale costs by using the prices of goods in the various stages of the production pipeline - a system that often resulted in a duplication of price changes as a particular product was transformed from raw material to finished product.

The old wholesale price measure, the all-commodities index, showed prices rose last month by 0.5 percent, compared with a 0.7 percent increase in November. The all commodities index will be phased Rogers Named As Chamber V.P.

O.G. (Speedy) Nieman will formally assume the office of president when Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce holds its annual installation dinner at Hereford Country Club tonight.

New officers and directors will be installed at the informal dinner, and they will be recognized at the annual C of C Banquet in the Bull Barn Jan. 19.

Ken Rogers will be installed as vice president, and Jonny Cloud has been re-elected as treasurer. New directors to be installed are Rogers, Dave Hopper, Jerry Payne and Butch White. Dr. Milton Adams will also be installed to fill out the unexpired term of Bob Ginn.

Nieman succeeds Joe Shollenbarger as president, and Rogers will replace Ginn, who announced his resignation several weeks ago because he is moving to California.

out in the coming months as the government emphasizes the changes in prices of finished goods.

Wholesale prices of finished goods rose 6.6 percent in 1977, the Labor Department said. Producer finished goods, which include commodities such as machine tools and farm equipment rose 7.2 percent over the year, while consumer food prices climbed 6.6 percent from December 1976 to December 1977.

Last month, the finished goods index stood at 185.5, meaning that it cost wholesalers $185.50 for the same goods purchased for $100 in the 1967 base period.

The 1.5 percent rise in consumer food prices last month followed two months of smaller increases and, before that, four months of declines that helped hold down retail food prices.

Sharply higher prices for pork, processed poultry and vegetable oil products were largely responsible for the December increase. Prices also rose for fish and dairy products, processed fruits and vegetables and eggs. Declines were (See PRICES, Page 2)

Mrs. Dickson Announces As Candidate for JP

Virginia Dickson, former secretary for Justice of the Peace Glen Nelson, Wednesday filed as a candidate for his position in the upcoming May elections.

Mrs. Dickson, wife of Orval Watson Ford parts salesman Dale Dickson, worked in the JP office from January, 1974 until February 1976.

"I do have the experience. I've participated in the operation of the justice of the peace court. I've done research work for the West Texas Justice of the Peace Association and I have studied the justice of the peace deskbook," Mrs. Dickson said.

"I've also done research work on the justice civil court."

"I'm familiar with procedures in the justice criminal court and justice civil court."

Mrs. Dickson, 36, has been a Hereford resident for 20 years and is a Hereford High School graduate. She is a former member of the Legal Secretary's Association and a former associate member of the West Texas Justice of the Peace Association.

She said working under Nelson is an advantage because "I had a judge who allowed us to question his decisions and we learned a lot - we had to do our own research to find the answers."

Nelson last week joined Ed Coplen in the race for Deaf Smith County judge.

Venue Change Granted In Hawkins Hearing

STINNETT, Texas (AP) - A change of venue has been granted in the trial of Samuel Christopher Hawkins of Amarillo, charged with capital murder in the slaying of Abbe Hamilton, 19, of Borger.

Judge Richard Countiss of Spearman ruled on the request Wednesday but said a new location for the trial will not be known for several days.

Defense lawyers had asked that Dallas, Houston and Corpus Christi be considered.

The judge also ruled he would allow a confession to be admitted and ruled against a request by Hawkins to dismiss his two lawyers.

The change of venue had been expected by lawyers for both sides because the case has been one of several which police tagged as work of the "traveling rapist."

Mrs. Hamilton, an expectant mother, was found stabbed to death in her home on May 3, 1977.

Hawkins is also charged with capital murder in the February 1976 death of Rhonda Keys of Amarillo, whose body was found in a Carson County culvert.

He faces a charge of aggravated rape in Deaf Smith County for a Dec. 8 1976 attack on a Hereford woman.

Demonstrators Protest Death of Publisher

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - Fiery protests, teargas barrages peppered with bullets fired into the air and calls for a mass rally and 24-hour business shutdown swept Managua in advance of the funeral this afternoon of assassinated publisher Pedro Joaquin Chamorro.

Demonstrators wrecked buses, burned cars and at least six buildings, including a Citibank branch, Wednesday night to protest the slaying of Chamorro, an outspoken critic of the Somoza dictatorship who died in a machine-gun and rifle ambush in downtown Managua Tuesday.

Other torched buildings included a Bank of Central America branch and a blood plasma firm, both partially owned by the Somoza family; the customs headquarters, the offices of a construction firm where nearly 1,000 gallons of gasoline were stored and a Renault showroom.

Brother Sues Makers Of Texarkana Film

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) - The brother of the first victim of Texarkana's 1946 "Phantom Killer" has filed a $1.3 million lawsuit against the makers and distributors of a film which allegedly depicts his sister's death.

Mark Melton Moore of Dallas said in the lawsuit that the movie "The Town That Dared Sundown" has intruded upon his physical and mental solitude by bringing back into the public's eye a "tragic and painful segment" of his life. Defendants in the suit are Charles B. Pierce Film Enterprises, Inc. and American International Pictures, Inc.

The 1946 shooting of Polly Ann Moore was the first of four unsolved killings by the "Phantom Killer." Moore fled the suit Dec. 28 in Bowie County, Texas.

The suit also says Miss Moore's death was depicted in the movie "in a particularly bloody and gruesome manner offensive to the public decency and in a manner that was not true."

Moore has asked for $1.25 million in punitive damages and $125,000 for mental and emotional damages.

Briscoe Says Raise For Teachers Costly

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Gov. Dolph Briscoe indicated today that school teachers endorsed his opponent - rather than him - because Briscoe would not support a specific pay raise for teachers. To promise what Attorney General John Hill promised, Briscoe said, would cost far more than $1 billion and would result in reduced state services or the largest tax bill in Texas history.

"My commitment to a better educational system is firm," Briscoe said in a statement. "However, I have not nor will I ever support a specific program of salary increases in return for political endorsement."

Briscoe's statement purportedly was in response to inquiries about the endorsement of Hill by the Texas State Teachers Association, the first time the TSTA has endorsed a gubernatorial candidate.

Police Report

Two more juveniles have been charged with vandalism in connection with recent window breaking and the destruction of the City of Hereford restrooms at Veterans Park.

Three juveniles, ages 16, 16 and 14, have now been arrested in connection with the vandalism, which resulted in more than $3,000 worth of damage throughout the city.

Two other juveniles, ages 16 and 15, were released this week to juvenile probation authorities in Hereford after being charged with recent marble-shooting incidents.

The youths were charged with shooting marbles at windows in the high school cafeteria and Mr. Burger Drive-In, 816 E. Park. A traffic light at Union and Ave. F also was shot.

Tommy Weems, 205 Greenwood, Wednesday reported the theft of a battery from his car.

Police also are investigating a BB shooting of a window at the old Central School. The incident was reported Wednesday.

Krueger to Visit Friday Morning

Congressman Bob Krueger of New Braunfels will be in Hereford Friday in the interest of his candidacy for the U.S. Senate, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Traveling by private plane, Rep. Krueger will arrive from Tulsa about 10:15 a.m., visit briefly around town and then hold a public meeting from 11 to noon in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building. He will continue to Dumas and Borger after visiting here.

Krueger, 41, was elected as a representative of the 21st

District in 1974 and re-elected in 1976. A graduate of SMU, Krueger took his law degree from Oxford University in England. He served as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Duke University, the youngest dean in the history of the university.

Following the death of his father, Krueger assumed supervisory responsibilities in the family-owned Krueger Brangus Ranch in East Texas. At the end of his first term in Congress, Krueger was noted the "most effective" of the 75 first-term Democrats.

Seventh Grade

McCarley said.

"I don't think any of us are naive enough," Hughes said, "to believe that young people don't smoke. But we've not been faced, at least on this campus, by a large number of smoking young people."

Beginning junior high is embarking on an adventure for 13-year-olds, Hughes said, adding that seventh graders are caught up in the fascination of being teenagers.

"Junior high school is a situation they've been looking toward for two or three years. It's a fantasy-type thing for sixth graders.

"For one thing, he forgoes all the extracurricular activities he will be involved in."

McCarley said, "It's a period of adjustment. When you talk about trauma, that's a little bit strong. Nine out of 10 like it and wouldn't want to go back to what they had."

"Everybody likes to grow up."

referred to efforts mounted by cotton producers on the South Plains, with upwards of 1,000 farmers from those areas already signed up to travel to Washington.

Only a small proportion of those farmers attending the Wednesday night meeting indicated that they intended to make the Washington trip.

"We're going to Congress with something that is fair, and that they cannot help but listen to. This could be the turning point for our movement," McCathern stated.

The meeting concluded with a plea for funding for the local strike office. An office spokesman reported that the American Ag movement has spent $20,000 since the strike office opened in Hereford, and added that funds will probably be depleted when bills are paid at the end of the month.

Greg Rystad of Hereford, who has served as a press coordinator for the strike movement during its early phases, told the farmers present, "You guys have helped to get this whole thing started. Other areas of the country sat back and watched how you went about doing things first, and now they have joined in the effort. I think you are to be congratulated on the manner you have carried things off, but now is not the time to quit. "We've still got a little way to go."

Following a plea for funds, a member of the audience stood and informed the gathering of farmers that he was holding $500 in donations he had gathered for the local office, and added that he would have an additional $1,000 by the end of the week.

"You fellows can't let this effort die. If you're going to let your office fold up, you might as well shut down now," he remarked.

they demanded withdrawal of the written statement, which said Israel and Egypt would "examine arrangements for continued maintenance of the Israeli settlements." Despite the awkward movement, Kaleb labeled the first round "constructive."

The newspaper Al Gomhouria reported that U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts met with President Anwar Sadat in Aswan Wednesday and delivered a message from President Carter containing "several ideas and suggestions" concerning the start of the Egyptian-Israeli negotiations.

The paper did not elaborate on these ideas and suggestions. But it said Carter assured Sadat that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will play an active role to bridge the gap between Egypt and Israel during the meeting of the Israeli and Egyptian foreign ministers opening in Jerusalem Monday as companion negotiations to the talks between the defense ministers.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will not attend the Jerusalem meeting, a spokesman in New York said, but he refused to confirm an Israeli report that Israel had been informed Waldheim would not be represented at the foreign ministers' meeting. Gen. Ensis Silasvuo of Finland, the chief of the U.N. peacekeeping organization in the Middle East, represented Waldheim at the preliminary Egyptian-Israeli talks in Cairo last month.

The chief issue at the Jerusalem talks will be the Arab demand for a Palestinian state made up of the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, which Israel has occupied since the 1967 war. Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin has offered the Palestinians limited self-rule with Israeli troops remaining at strategic posts and sovereignty to be decided later.

Prosecutor Seeks Contempt

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - A Cameron County prosecutor, Joe Handley, has filed a motion seeking to hold the director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs in contempt of a court of inquiry probing alleged misuse of federal manpower program funds. State District Judge Darrell Hester said Wednesday in court that there is a "very strong possibility" that Ben McDonald will be indicted for withholding evidence. A hearing on the motion for contempt was recessed by Hester this morning to allow McDonald's lawyer to get to the court. The motion seeking the contempt charge states that McDonald had been ordered by the court to produce "all files, accounts, records and writings of every nature whatsoever relating directly or indirectly" to the probe.

Ann Landers Blood Pressure

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Who appointed you the world authority on everything? I'm so mad as I write this letter that my blood pressure must be up 40 points.

You told a mother of six who said she enjoyed every minute of raising her six children, that she had a very poor memory. How do YOU know? Do you have a magic pipeline into other people's heads? Maybe she DID enjoy every minute of those years when she was raising those six kids.

We have four children and the fifth is expected in a few weeks. I can hardly wait till the baby gets here. Our youngest is now three and it will be wonderful to have a baby in the house again.

Every stage of raising children is different - and no two children are alike. I have enjoyed every minute of being a parent, so now you can call me a liar, too. - Mad Dad in Bridgeport.

DEAR DAD: I'll admit you had me fooled for a minute. Your testimonial for motherhood is the first I've had from a father. How marvelous that you have loved every single minute of being a parent. And now I'd like to hear from your wife.

DEAR ANN: Well, you blew it this time. You were wrong to tell "Mad in Unionville" to feed that chain letter to a goat. You said yourself, "Chain letters are illegal - nothing but a racket." How then do you expect people to put an end to these con games if they just ignore the perpetrators and let them get away scot free to continue their games, eventually stealing money from the naive (or stupid, if you will)? All too often the victims of these schemes are the ones who can least afford it - the elderly.

You should have told "Mad" to bring that letter to the attention of the postal authorities and cooperate in seeing to it that the creeps who started the chain are brought to justice with hefty fines and sentences.

Con artists are in the business for one thing - MONEY. Hit them where they live - in the pocketbook. It might not put them out of business permanently, but at least they'll think twice before they start another game. - Mad At You in Terre Haute

DEAR MAD: You are right. Feeding chain letters to goats is no solution.

Your advice was better than mine by a long shot. I'd love a vacation. How'd you like to write the column for a week? (P.S. I'm only kidding. Nobody has - or ever will ghost for Ann Landers.)

DEAR ANN: If you tell one more young girl to give up her baby born out of wedlock, I'll go through the roof.

How can you be so cruel? Why don't you understand that the baby is probably all that girl has left in the whole world? I know, it happened to me. A social worker talked me into giving up my son 14 years ago and I've cried myself to sleep every night since then. Whenever I see a teenage boy on the street I wonder if he could be mine.

My life is empty. Had I kept my child, my life would be full. You are wrong and I hope you'll admit it. - Dead Violet

DEAR FRIEND: The social worker gave you good advice. You should be grateful. A woman who has cried herself to sleep every night for 14 years would probably have raised a child with a million problems.

Now that all the kids are in school and you're bored to death with nothing to do, but you don't really want a job, how about doing some volunteer work in the community? It doesn't necessarily take much time, and it gives a whole lot of satisfaction to know you're doing somebody some good.

These organizations are in need of your help and care now:

Vegetable Supply To Improve This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumers can expect a larger supply of most fresh vegetables this winter, according to the Agriculture Department.
 The department's Crop Reporting Board said Friday that commercial vegetable growers have stepped up plantings of winter vegetables from last year. Production was forecast at 34.6 million hundredweight, up 19 percent from 29.1 million hundredweight harvested during the first three months of last year.
 The board said the forecast covers 13 vegetable crops produced for the fresh market.
 According to the report, there will be more of the following this winter: snapbeans, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, sweet corn, eggplant, escarole, green peppers, spinach and tomatoes.
 In addition, during the year, special resource people within the county will teach Grooming A to Z and Verstile Meals as part of the 1978 programs, Mrs. Shipp added.
 Also, the agent herself will teach several programs for club leaders—who, in turn, will repeat the programs to their

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

You've heard me talk a lot about Mayva throughout the last 13 years.
 We're like those two girls on the Bell Telephone commercial who knew one another in gym shorts and still can get on the phone and talk non-stop for $15.60 without ever scratching the surface.
 Mayva is one of those rare friends. She never goes on a diet when I am fat. Never has a good time at a party to which I haven't been invited. Her kids were always bleeding from sibling attacks. She always delivered her babies with greasy hair.
 The things we've shared over the years...the time I asked my pediatrician what temperature was considered normal on a rectal thermometer and Mayva said, "That sounds like a reasonable question."
 The time her husband gave her 1/2 hot water heater for her birthday and I advised, "Leave him before there are children."
 The negative of a picture I have of her in high school at the beach with a towel around her head that she would kill for.
 The time she talked me into spraying my sofa black and you could do everything but sit on it.
 The time I autographed my first book in a department store and she was the only one who showed up.
 We've always been like that old movie with Miriam Hopkins and Bette Davis.
 The creep never mentioned she was going to become a grandmother.
 I had to hear it from her son in a note. Mayva will be an insufferable grandmother. I know she will. You won't be able to carry on a conversation without her whipping out a billfold bulging with cuteness. Her letters will be one dreary page after another of cute sayings, first air bubbles, and babysitting stories.
 If she thinks I'm going to call her on the phone and blow $15 or $20 talking about her grandchild grabbed her finger and wouldn't let go, she's crazy.
 I called her on the phone yesterday. "So! You finally manipulated everyone into making you a young grandmother. When is it due?"
 "May, I've got pictures already."
 "I hope you have a permanent rainbow over your white sofa from damp diapers."
 "I'll let you hold the baby."
 "Mayva! I love you!"

Lone Star Club Makes Donation

Members of Lone Star Study Club, who met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Sue Henslee, voted to contribute to the American Heart Association.
 In other business, Lucile Naylor was accepted as a new member. Also, a letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Gaston Baer, who expressed her gratitude for the club's concern during a recent illness.
 An invitation was received from L'Allegria Study Club, which will stage its 5th annual Antique Show and Sale at the Community Center Feb. 3-5. A special highlight of this year's show will be the public's first opportunity to tour the E.B. Black home, which has been restored since it was given to the County Historical Museum.
 It was announced that Jan. 30 is the date of the Deaf Smith County Women's Forum luncheon, to be held in the Community Center.

Paul Harvey News

Another 'West Side' Story

Bounty hunters are roaming the back yards and alleys of West Side Chicago.

These hunters are armed with baseball bats.

Whenever you hear the unemployed protest that they are not "qualified for available job openings," you have to wonder why our cities don't require them to do some kind of cleanup work - for which anybody is qualified.

Chicago is on a rat hunt. Alderman Frank Stemberk of the 22nd Ward has offered a bounty - a dollar a head - for every rat brought in dead.

Chicago has had a rodent control program for six years. Some 50,000 pounds of gas have been pumped into rat holes. Thousands of rats have been eliminated - asphyxiated underground or killed when they came up for air. Rat traps have been distributed free.

Nonetheless, rats still outnumber people in Chicago and have been known to jump into baby carriages and bite infants.

Alderman Stemberk caught 20 in his own back yard.

In movie theaters it is not uncommon to "feel them" running over your feet and to see them scurrying up and down the aisles.

They infest the entire city, not just the slum neighborhoods. Exterminators guesstimate that there are a million rats in the Loop and 3 million more in neighborhoods - including the fashionable Gold Coast lake-front neighborhoods.

They are disease-carrying rodents which can get as big as rabbits.

The city's department of streets and sanitation has 26 full-time crews doing nothing but rat hunting. However, says assistant commissioner Louis Farina, "We would have 700 crews working around the clock and they wouldn't be enough."

Rats compete to survive. Thus, as their numbers compound - one rat can have 15,000 descendants in one year - they inevitably overcrowd and overflow populated areas.

Living in ever closer proximity to humans, they lose their fear of humans. That is when you begin to hear of rat bites and rat attacks.

Rat bites treated by Chicago hospitals have increased 60 percent in six years.

Discouraging to the city's exterminators are the neighborhoods where garbage is tossed casually into streets and alleys.

As is, many of the householders who are responsible for the most complaints are those who are doing least to effect a cleanup.

This is part of Alderman Stemberk's motivation in soliciting money from local businesses to help finance his bounty hunt.

Bangkok, Thailand, largely resolved a similar problem by spreading the word that rodents were good eating.

PRPC Gets

$5,600 Grant

From LEAA

AUSTIN -- Governor Dolph Briscoe has approved a criminal justice grant affecting Deaf Smith County.

Panhandle Regional Planning Commission is recipient of the $5,643 grant for law enforcement technical equipment throughout the region, including the Deaf Smith County sheriff's department.

The grant was among 83 approved by Briscoe statewide from Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds under the Crime Control Act of 1976.

Savings Bonds

Sales Total

$169,000 in DSC

Sales for the 10-month period ending in October of Series E and H United States savings bonds in Deaf Smith County totaled $168,996.

The total is 84 percent of the 1977 sales goal of $200,000 in the county, according to Jim Sears, First National Bank president and county bond chairman.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $30,173,210, which sales for the first 10 months of the year totaled 240,081,441.

Cotton Farmers Win Suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Three Howard County cotton farmers Wednesday won a $246,292 supreme court judgment that they had the right to pull out of a cotton contract in 1973, a year of soaring prices for the fiber.

Without writing a new opinion, the court said it could find "no reversible error" in a decision of the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals.

A Lubbock jury also had ruled for the farmers - Jack Wolf, James Barr and David Barr - in their suit against Plains Cotton Cooperative Association.

The American Cotton Shippers Association considered the case so vital that it filed a "friend of the court" brief urging the high court to enforce the cotton contracts.

According to the civil appeals opinion, the farmers agreed orally with Alvin Hill, a Vincent ginner and agent for the cooperative, to sell their crops to Plains. But when the written contract was presented, they refused to sign.

The court said Hill and a Plains official, Bert Kyle, then told the farmers they were bound anyway by their oral agreements but could escape from the contracts by giving 30 days' notice.

Wolf and the two Barrs signed the contracts in April 1973 without reading them. During the summer cotton prices rose to twice the amount stated in the contracts.

When they tried later to give 30 days' notice and get out of the contracts, Plains said there was no such escape clause. They filed suit in September to cancel the contracts, but delivered their cotton in February after Plains obtained an injunction.

The farmers then sued for the difference between the price paid by Plains under the April contracts and the market price for cotton on the date they delivered their crops to the cooperative.

Plains said the farmers were negligent in not reading the contracts.

But the court of civil appeals said this did not matter.

"We have concluded that a party's own negligence should not bar him from seeking equitable relief from a contract executed in reliance upon the false representations of the other contracting party," it said.

The court said the farmers' "mistaken belief...that their cotton was already sold for the contract price under their oral agreements" justified canceling the contracts.

"It is our opinion that the mistakes found in this case which were brought about by misrepresentations of the defendant and its agent were ample grounds to afford the plaintiffs the farmers relief from the contracts which they would not have signed except for such mistake," it said.

The cotton shippers association said in its brief that Hill, the Plains agent, had told the farmers exactly what the contract said - that the escape clause applied only in case of proven "hardship."

It said the farmers merely were seeking a windfall profit at the expense of Plains, which was locked into sales contracts with textile mills at prices fixed earlier in the year.

Confession Invalid Claims Vanderbilt

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Former Amarillo police officer Jimmy Paul Vanderbilt "confessed" to the shooting slaying of Katina Moyer only after the district attorney promised not to seek the death penalty. Vanderbilt's lawyer argued Wednesday.

Jim Brown of Canyon told the Court of Criminal Appeals Vanderbilt's death sentence should be reversed because District Attorney Tom Curtis broke that promise.

Curtis denied that, saying Vanderbilt knew the deal had been "vehemently called off" before Vanderbilt made an oral admission of accidentally shooting the 16-year-old daughter of former State Rep. Hudson Moyer.

Vanderbilt refused to sign notes written by a police officer after making the oral statement because they did not contain the promise not to seek the death penalty.

Four and half hours later, at 3 a.m. April 11, 1975, Vanderbilt signed a written confession that contained the promise. But the defense got the trial judge to exclude that confession because Vanderbilt had been in custody nine hours at the time he signed it and had been allowed to confer with a court-appointed lawyer only after making the oral statement.

The trial judge allowed the oral admission to be introduced into evidence because it led to a "fruit of the crime" - a bullet with a hair fragment on it.

But Brown said the bullet never was connected with a murder weapon, and the state's own expert witness testified the hair fragment was "similar" to Miss Moyer's hair.

Presiding Judge John Onion asked Curtis why the murder weapon was not introduced.

Curtis said it was too closely tied to the written confession, which he knew might be excluded at the trial. Vanderbilt gave a different story about what happened to the .357 magnum pistol in the oral statement - that he had taped it under the fender of a car with Oklahoma license plates - than he did in the written confession - that he put it in the garage of a neighbor.

In his written confession, Vanderbilt says he only intended to frighten Miss Moyer into agreeing not to turn him in on a kidnapping charge when she tried to jerk away from him beside a county road in Potter County. The bullet entered the back of her head and exited the front. Officers later found it 250 feet away in a pasture.

Triple Damages Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Foreign nations can sue for triple damages when alleging that they were the victims of American companies who violated antitrust laws, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The court, voting 5-3, decided that a foreign government is a "person" under language of the 64-year-old Clayton Act, a major U.S. antitrust law.

The decision upholding a ruling by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is a legal victory for India, Iran, the Philippines and South Vietnam - nations wanting to sue six major U.S. drug companies.

It also may be a significant victory for U.S. consumers. "If potential antitrust violators must take into account the full costs of their conduct, American consumers are benefited by the maximum deterrent effect of treble damages upon all potential violators," Justice Potter Stewart said in writing for the court.

Stewart noted that depriving foreign nations the right to sue under antitrust laws could encourage illegal conspiracies which might raise worldwide prices - thus contributing to American inflation.

The case acted on Wednesday stemmed from a 13-year-old storm of suits charging that the six drug firms conspired to drive up the price of tetracycline, an antibiotic patented in 1955, by using various monopoly practices.

The firms named in the suits are Pfizer, Inc., American Cyanamid Co., Bristol-Myers Co., Squibb Corp., Olin Corp., and the Upjohn Co.

The companies were sued by scores of individuals, all 50 states, the federal government and nine foreign countries.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

John K. Galbraith

"It had a level of intellectual and political competence that was sub-zero. It would make you yearn for the political sophistication of The National Enquirer."

— Economist John Kenneth Galbraith, commenting on "Quest", a political journal that was circulated in India in 1961, published by the C.I.A.

"She went to see The Strangers and came back a changed person. I suppose I should have played the stern father, but I like punk. But Heather's very loyal. She likes our music, too."

— Paul McCartney, whose

14-year-old daughter Heather has shorn her hair and taken to wearing safety pins.

"We understand how an organism can build molecules although the largest of them is far too minute for us to see, even with a high-powered microscope. Yet we do not understand how it builds a flower or a hand or an eye, all of which are plainly visible to us."

— Nobel Prize winner Francis H.C. Crick, writing in the newly published "Encyclopedia of Ignorance," a compendium of all man does not know in the sciences.

"People live by myths. And we are hard-put to abandon them. Symbolically and culturally, these holiday vacations are times of gratitude, closeness and warmth. Yet so many of us sit thinking about what might have been or how our expectations have not been met."

— Dr. Aaron T. Beck, professor of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania, on the 20 percent increase in attempted suicides during the winter holidays.

"Corporations are and must be accountable. The measures of accountability to any one group or to government, including the prerogatives of the corporation and its shareholders, will only be accommodated when an honest recognition is made of the legitimacy and interdependence of all these groups — when the public regains trust in business, when business regains its trust in government, and when the goals of all, once defined, are reached together."

— Fred T. Allen, chairman of the board of Pitney Bowes Corp., on corporate accountability.

"Rape and incest (don't represent) much of a loophole because the number of resulting pregnancies is relatively slight. I think a woman is entitled to an abortion, and if she can't afford to have one of her own, the federal government should help pay for it."

— Sen. Robert Packwood (R-Ore.) who voted against the Senate majority on the issue of Medicaid-financed abortions.

"We are a vast army of Soviet unemployed, thrown out of the gates of Soviet enterprise for attempting to exercise the right to complain, the right to criticize, the right to freedom of speech... We undertook to offer publicly critical remarks against the plundering of socialist property, bad conditions of work, low pay, high injury rates... leading to waste and low quality production."

— From an open letter signed by 72 Soviet workers.

"My credibility is involved in this. After all, letters with my name on them have gone all across the country asking for money to help fight the treaties. Now we discover that the money raised by these letters will not be used for that purpose. And worse than that, we discover that the national party has no plans to campaign against the treaties."

— Ronald Reagan, who has forbidden the Republican Party to use his name for fund-raising.

Wheat Payments Lag Behind Original Government Timetable

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government payments to wheat farmers are lagging behind the Agriculture Department's original timetable but are expected to be completed within about a month.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Monday that about $773.5 million was paid to wheat farmers by Jan. 5, slightly less than two-thirds of the $1.2 billion growers are expected to receive.

These payments will help relieve the tight credit crunch facing farmers and rural lending institutions," Bergland said in a statement.

The money is due wheat farmers as "deficiency payments" under farm law for their 1977 wheat crop because market prices fell below a target price of $2.90 a bushel last year.

Under the program, if the average market price of wheat in June, July, August, September and October is less than the target, payments are made to make up the difference between the target price and the market price - or the loan rate, whichever is higher.

The five-month average was $2.10 a bushel. Thus, the payments are based on the loan rate - $2.25 a bushel - which is the amount farmers can borrow from the government by using their grain as collateral. The deficiency payment, therefore, is 65 cents a bushel.

A spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said it was initially hoped that nearly all the payments could be made by the end of 1977. However, he said county offices which handle the checks for farmers have had a larger work load than expected.

Another reason, he said, is that apparently some farmers have intentionally delayed applying for the payments until after Jan. 1, so that the subsidies can be counted as income for 1978 instead of last year.

About 2 million wheat producers are eligible for the 1977 payments. The $773.5 million paid as of Jan. 5 went to

Mahon Approves Goal Set by Striking Farmers

Congressman George Mahon stated that he supports the objective of the American Agriculture movement to improve farm income and ease the agricultural crisis.

In a prepared statement he said, "Hundreds of farmers and citizens generally have sought my views and advice in regard to the farm strike. For 43 years in Congress, I have championed the cause of 100 percent parity for farmers. I continue to support the objective of full parity and I applaud the efforts now being made to dramatize to the entire nation the plight of the farmer when many are threatened with total disaster as a result of the enormous inflationary rise in the cost of production and the inadequate price available to the farmer for his production. Quick action by Congress and the Administration is urgently required to meet the agricultural crisis."

Continuing, Mahon said, "I am convinced that when Congress reconvenes, action will be taken to improve the present intolerable situation. I have joined with farm groups and colleagues in an effort to evaluate the possibilities and opportunities for remedial action."

I have pledged my wholehearted assistance to farmers and representatives of farm groups who plan to visit Washington on or about January 19, when Congress reconvenes. I am confident that members of Congress from farm districts will do everything in their power to help farmers make their visit as effective as possible. In my opinion, the most effective approach would be through a series of Washington meetings with appropriate officials. Ways and means must be found to enable the visiting groups to see the right people in the Executive and Legislative Branches of the government, and I shall work toward that end."

In conclusion, Mahon said, "I urgently suggest that farmers planning to come to Washington from Texas and throughout the Nation coordinate their efforts in order to maximize the opportunity to see the officials who can be most helpful to them in achieving results."

"I told him that we would appreciate it very much if he would take a real strong stand for the farmer instead of being a champion of the consumer, and he agreed with me," Chaloupka said. "He understands our problems, and it's nice to talk with a farmer who heads up the Department of Agriculture."

Letter to the Editor

'Strike' Attention Getter

January 1, 1978

Dear Editor,

We are not violent people, and we, like millions of other farmers, do not like the word "strike". However, we have given in to the usage of the word, because this seems to be the only word that can capture the attention of the public.

It is time that the American farmer finds out for himself, just exactly how he is being "used" by our government. We produce the ONLY thing that people absolutely CANNOT live without, and yet, we are the only business in America that cannot set a price for their product. We have to take what the buyers will give us. We are allowing the Chicago Board of Trade (people who probably don't even know a kernel of corn from a grain of wheat!) to TELL us what they will give us for the food we produce. No other business would stand for such an outrage! And yet, as I said previously, - OURS is the only product that people cannot live without. It seems to us, that the farmers should have the Chicago Board of Trade by the nose, instead of vice versa!

Many people have the mistaken idea that 100 percent parity would cause a spiraling inflation. The truth is quite the opposite! Statistics prove that economy has been at its best when the farmers were drawing close to 100 percent parity.

Another mistaken idea that some people have, is the opinion that 100 percent parity would raise greatly the price of food. This is NOT true. It would raise the price of food by only 2 percent. Farmers cannot survive the losses now forced upon us by low prices, - when we are compelled to give up farming as a way of life, farms will be taken over by Corporate farming. THIS is when we WILL see food prices increased by 15 percent to 25 percent! We are trying to prevent this from happening. We are working FOR the American people, and not against them.

At the present time, labor is getting 160 percent of parity, while farmers are getting 63 percent. Why should we be on the losing end, - when it is our food that sustains life?

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. David Albus

Clark Wants Review Of Grain Elevator Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, wants a special task force to "thoroughly review" the federal government's grain elevator safety explosions which have killed more than 50 persons.

Clark, a member of the Senate agriculture committee, asked for the interagency task force Monday in letters to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall.

The two departments should set up the task force "to thoroughly review current legislative authorities and administrative structures and practices relating to elevator safety," Clark said.

"This review should be conducted in cooperation with the states and the trade, and it should be mounted and completed as quickly as possible," he said.

"I feel this step is necessary because the current diversity and complexity of the elevator safety effort appears to have created a great deal of confusion of the question of exactly who is responsible for what," Clark said.

Currently, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in the Labor Department and the Agriculture Department share certain responsibilities regarding elevator safety.

"To complicate the picture further, these various responsibilities are in many cases carried out cooperatively with state agencies, and there appear to be considerable differences in the way safety efforts are carried out in the different states," he said.

Clark also urged that the two departments "begin working more closely with the trade and the universities to establish a clearing house for information" about grain elevator safety problems.

Bergland Promises Action On Farm Income Depression

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Texas Farm Bureau President Carroll Chaloupka said that Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has promised a number of actions to help alleviate the current farm income depression.

Chaloupka, a beef and grain producer from Dalhart, met Jan. 5 for an hour in private audience with the Agriculture Secretary in Washington.

The Texas farm leader said Secretary Bergland promised to move on a number of fronts - including increased farm credit, expanded dollar exports, more food for peace shipments, and changes in the meat import law - to help farmers and ranchers during the present income crisis.

"Secretary Bergland felt that the best way out of our current problems would be expanding farm exports and the movement of surpluses overseas under Public Law 480, the food for peace program," Chaloupka said.

The TFB president said Secretary Bergland promised his administration would do everything within reason to make available Farmers Home Administration loans to keep farmers in business.

Chaloupka said that Bergland agreed to have the U.S.

Department of Agriculture work with Farm Bureau and other organizations to expand dollar sales abroad. The secretary reported that the United States is now working to lower tariff barriers on American beef coming into Japan.

Under Public Law 480, American farm products - primarily surplus grain - is moved to needy nations on a subsidized basis. Chaloupka said Secretary Bergland agreed to step up such shipments.

Administration Holding Back Barley, Sorghum Payments

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The Carter administration has been asked to release some $600 million in payments, due U.S. farmers on 1977 barley and grain sorghum, being held up by the White House. The request was made by Tony T. Dechant, President of National Farmers Union.

While the exact dollar amount of deficiency payments to grain sorghum producers is not known, Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman stated from Waco that "about $200 million of the estimated $600 million would come to Texas since we are the number one grain sorghum state in the nation."

"Grain sorghum producers should be receiving around 25 cents to 40 cents per bushel, depending on the final determination of the national average market price in February," said Naman. "Instead, the President's economic advisers are trying to slip out of the payments by saying that the target price should be based on grain sorghum's feed value relationship to corn. It was the intent of Congress and the Secretary to set a grain target based on cost of production and nothing else."

Secretary Bergland had intended to issue the payments in line with his commitment to the Congress at the time of the passage of the Farm Bill, but the payments had been recently held up for review by Charles L. Schultze, Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and other unnamed White House officials.

"It was clearly the intent of the Congress that the payments should be made in the manner proposed by Secretary Bergland," Dechant said. "To fail to do so now would be to break faith with farmers and to undermine their hopes that the 1977 Agricultural Act will be used to remedy their currently low prices and income."

"All the fine pronouncements by White House and USDA officials about how the 1977 Farm Law is going to be of benefit to farmers can hardly sound credible if the executive branch is going to withhold program payments authorized and directed by the Congress," he said.

Dechant noted that last September when the Farm Bill was signed he had characterized it as a "weak bill," if supports were to be at the rock-bottom minimums in the legislation. He observed, however, that there is broad authority to support farm commodities as high as 90 to 100 percent parity "if there is a will to do so."

"But, if these barley and grain sorghum target payments are impounded, it will appear to be a shocking indication that the administration is not willing even to observe the intent of the law."

Payoff Near for Lee Trevino

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PHOENIX (AP) — A year ago, Lee Trevino was wondering, questioning whether he'd ever again play competitive tournament golf.

Now he's simply wondering when he'll win again. When it does happen — and it's almost inevitable that it will, perhaps even this week in the $200,000 Phoenix Open — he'll have earned it.

He's paid the price — in patience, practice and pain. "When something like that happens," he said of the serious back surgery that threatened his career late in 1976, "naturally you wonder if you'll ever play again."

But Trevino, who hides a Marine toughness beneath a fast-talking, quick-quipping exterior, fought his way back slowly and painfully. "It's not there yet," he said of the golf game that triggered his rags-to-riches story and has become a part of the American legend, "but it's coming along.

It won't be long before it's as good as it ever was." He made a breakthrough in the Canadian Open last year, capping one of golf's great comebacks. And that, he said, was just the start.

"After you've played the tour for a while, you get antsy at home," he said. "You want to get out there and get after 'em. I was home for a month and I couldn't wait to get back out here. I love it. I absolutely love it. I want to be out here for a long, long time. I want to be here when I'm tripping over my beard." It isn't easy. He achieved a solid fourth-place finish last week in the tour's 1978 kickoff event, the Tucson Open, and ranks high among the list of favorites in the strong field that got started today on the 6,726-yard, par-71 Phoenix County Club course.

Other standouts in the line-up that includes 19 of the top 20 money-winners from 1977 are Tom Watson, the Player of the Year and a winner at Tucson; U.S. Open champ Hubert Green; PGA title-holder Lanny Wadkins and brother Bobby, who chased Watson to the Tucson title; defending champ Jerry Pate; Hale Irwin; Ray Floyd; Ben Crenshaw; Tom Weiskopf; Johnny Miller, and Arnold Palmer.

CBS-TV will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Matlack Claims Mets Still Owe Him Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran pitcher Jon Matlack says the New York Mets, who traded him last month to Texas, still owe him money. The Mets deny it and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says he's looking into it.

Matlack and his attorney Richard Moss contend the Mets owe the left-handed pitcher a bonus that was written into his contract. The amount reportedly is $100,000 and would cover 1978 and 1979.

Matlack began a three-year $450,000-plus contract with the Mets in 1977. Matlack's attorney filed a default notice by telegram to the Mets.

"If the provisions are not lived up to and the bonus not paid, it is our position Jon will be a free agent in 10 days," Moss said Wednesday.

Matlack, however, emphasized that the dispute would not affect his role with the Rangers, although he would like to get it settled before reporting.

"I am happy with the trade," he said. "If the Mets meet their agreement, I will go down to Texas Jan. 20 to meet their people."

The Mets, meanwhile, contend Matlack did not earn the bonus, and they say there is no written agreement between the club and Matlack that promises a bonus.

"There is a dispute between Matlack and the club over some bonus provisions," said a Mets spokesman. "There was an understanding that Matlack's contract would be torn up last year and a new one offered if he fulfilled certain conditions."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, said "regardless of what Mr. Donald Grant Mets president or Joe McDonald Mets general manager say, the promises were made in writing." Miller said the club, however, had refused to give Matlack a copy of the agreement.

"Regardless of what Mr. Miller says," Grant replied, "there is no agreement in writing between their party."

Kuhn's office said the matter had been on the commissioner's desk for almost two weeks. "I'm still trying to get some clarification as to what assurances were made," Kuhn said.

"I'm aware of the problem and have been discussing it with the Mets and with Mr. Moss for more than a week."

Last year, Matlack, troubled by a shoulder injury, had a disappointing 7-15 record and a 4.21 ERA.

Business-Like Coach Downplays First Win

By The Associated Press
It was a sweet victory for Tom Sanders, but he didn't have time to really savor it.

"This is no time for reflection — this is a time for business," said the rookie Boston Celtic coach after gaining his first National Basketball Association victory, a 91-88 decision over the Houston Rockets Wednesday night.

Sanders called his initial victory "a great win, but nothing particularly symbolic. It was just a win we needed," he added, "that's all."

Sanders' lack of romanticism is understandable. He is attempting to resurrect a Boston team that is off to one of its worst starts in history. The Celtics had lost nine of 10 games in a disastrous road trip, including two under Sanders after he took over the club from Tom Heinsohn last week.

Wednesday night, Dave Cowens displayed some of the fire-power Sanders needs to bring the Celtics back to respectability. Playing 46 minutes, Cowens scored 18 points, and had 12 rebounds and nine assists. He also did a terrific defensive job on Moses Malone, Houston's high scorer.

In the other NBA games, the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Detroit Pistons 106-100; the Golden State Warriors trimmed the New Jersey Nets 103-92; the San Antonio Spurs hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 130-106; the Kansas City Kings whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 102-94; the Phoenix Suns routed the New Orleans Jazz 142-99 and the Atlanta Hawks turned back the Washington Bullets 100-95.

Sonics 106, Pistons 100
Paul Silas and Fred Brown came off the bench to lead Seattle over Detroit. Silas pulled down 15 rebounds after Seattle's rookie forward Jack Sikma got in early foul trouble. Brown scored 19 points.

Warriors 103, Nets 92
Phil Smith scored a game-high 31 points, including nine in the final four minutes, to lead Golden State over New Jersey. With the score tied at 86, Smith hit a three-point play to put the Warriors ahead to stay. Rick Barry then hit a jump shot and the Nets never got closer than five points the rest of the way.

Spurs 130, Bucks 106
Larry Kenon and George Gervin combined for 47 points and San Antonio blistered Milwaukee for 43 second-quarter points to sweep past the Bucks. Kenon finished with 24 points and Gervin added 23 as San Antonio won its third straight game.

Kings 102, Lakers 94
Sam Lacey scored a season-high 20 points and Ron Boone hit eight free throws at the end to lead Kansas City over Los Angeles and snap the Kings' nine-game losing streak. Kansas City, winning for the first time under interim Coach Larry Staverman, took an 82-81 lead on a jumper by Scott Wedman with 6:37 to play.

Suns 142, Jazz 99
Walter Davis' 24 points led eight Phoenix players in double figures as the Suns drubbed New Orleans. Paul Westphal was second highest scorer for the Suns with 20 points although sitting out most of the third quarter and all of the fourth quarter. Rookie Alvin Scott, with a career-high 16 points, was also among the Suns' leading scorers.

Hawks 100, Bullets 95
John Drew matched his season high of 35 points to lead Atlanta past Washington. Charlie Criss, playing despite a painful injury to his right thumb, hit a 20-foot jumper from the corner and two free throws in the final 28 seconds to clinch the game for the Hawks.

Fems at Home

The Hereford Whiteface girls take to the court tonight against the Caprock Longhorns as local teams face a full slate of basketball contests. Teams from both junior highs will also be in action today.

Hereford is now 6-8 on the year after a loss to Amarillo High Monday night, a game which saw the Herd play "very well defensively" according to coach Roy Shipp.

The game also dropped the 'Faces to 3-3 in the district.

In junior high play today the Stanton and La Plata boys travel to Plainview to take on Coronado and Estacado teams respectively, and the Maverick and Dogie girls are at home against the same schools.

Junior high action begins at 4 p.m. at the Stanton and La Plata gyms. The Herd junior varsity girls will play at 6 p.m. in a match against Caprock just prior to the varsity encounter.

Wolfpack Coming Together

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The North Carolina State basketball team is the surprise of the Atlantic Coast Conference this season — but no surprise at all to Coach Norm Sloan.

"I've said over and over again that we would be good," Sloan says. "It's just that we've come together quicker than expected."

The latest team to be surprised by the resurgent Wolfpack is Maryland, an 88-82 victim Wednesday night.

That was the 11th victory in 12 games for a team that was theoretically not one of the ACC powerhouses this year.

"The team is playing hard and I'm really happy where we are," said Sloan, whose 16th ranked club is undefeated thus far in two ACC games. "But it's still a long, long way to go."

Maryland, on the other hand, was characterized in preseason estimates as one of the challengers for the ACC title. So far, though, the Terps look like one of the also-rans, losing for the third time in as many ACC games.

Hawkeye Whitney scored 18 points and Tony Warren added 17 to lead the North Carolina State offense. Greg Manning's 20 points topped Maryland.

Elsewhere among the nation's ranked teams, No. 8 Syracuse defeated Penn State 83-77; No. 10 Kansas trimmed Oklahoma State 69-57; No. 13 Holy Cross outscored Assumption 97-90; No. 14 Providence whipped St. Joseph's, Pa., 76-69; 15th-ranked Virginia stopped Delaware 71-59 and No. 17 Georgetown edged Navy 56-53.

Elsewhere, Duke defeated Clemson 107-85 behind Mike Gminski's 28 points; Brian Johnson and Emmett Lewis teamed for 31 points to lead Colorado over Nebraska 73-64; Oklahoma defeated Missouri 73-70 as Cary Carrabine hit four free throws in the final six seconds of overtime; George Johnson's 21 points triggered St. John's past Fordham 97-56; Glenn Hagen hit a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer to give St. Bonaventure a 70-68 overtime victory over Wisconsin-Milwaukee; John Long's 28 points paced Detroit over Iowa 84-79 and Iowa State trimmed Kansas State 82-77 as Andrew Parker pumped in 27 points.

Mrs. Vincent de Roulet, daughter of the late Joan Shipman Payson, is president of the New York Mets. Her two daughters, Whitney and Bebe, work in the club's public relations department.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Keeneland's January Horses of All Ages Sale has concluded with a record established for total receipts.

The three sessions of the 1978 sale featured the sale of 810 horses and 31 stallion shares for $8,150,300, breaking the 1977 record of $5,208,500 for 570 horses and 17 stallions.

ATLANTA (AP) — Goaltender Daniel Bouchard has been hospitalized with influenza, the Atlanta Flames announced.

A spokesman for the National Hockey League team said Wednesday the Flames recalled goaltender Michel Belhumeur of Tulsa of the Central League.

The spokesman also said that defenseman Dick Redmond is out with a bruised shoulder suffered in the Flames 5-2 win over Toronto Monday night.

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Minor league defenseman Darcy Regier was sent by the Cleveland Barons to the New York Islanders Wednesday to complete a four-player trade.

The Barons traded center Wayne Merrick and a player to be named later to the Islanders Tuesday in exchange for winger J.P. Parise and defenseman Jean Potvin.

Regier played 15 games for the Barons this season, coming up with no goals and one assist and accumulating 28 minutes in penalties.

In the 1966 World Series, the Brooklyn Dodgers knocked Yankee pitcher Don Larsen out of the box in two innings in the second game. Three days later he pitched a perfect game against them.

There have been 79 World Series games played in New York's Yankee Stadium.

In 1950, Early Wynn of Cleveland, Indians led the American League — earned run average with a rather high 3.20.

Script Promises A Super Super Bowl

 Dallas' Defensive Line Should Dominate *****

By Murray Olderman
NEW ORLEANS, La.—(EA)—For eight out of nine years, or ever since an ex-ot room hustler from Bear Falls, Pa., known as Joe

Willie Namath, defied the cognoscenti, the American Football Conference and its predecessor, the American Football League, has dominated professional football's extravaganza, the Super Bowl.

On the 10th year, in the Superdome here on Jan. 15, it will end.

That doesn't mean the AFC still doesn't produce the better grade of teams overall in the National Football League. It simply means—at least, that's my prediction—the Dallas Cowboys will beat the Denver Broncos in a fine football game, 20-16, and prove definitively that for now at least they are the best team in the sport.

It's significant that the Cowboys, who are making their fourth appearance in the Super Bowl (a record equalled only, surprisingly, by the Minnesota Vikings), were also the last National Football Conference to win one of the classics, trouncing the Miami Dolphins, 24-3, on Jan. 16, 1972.

A dozen players from that Super Bowl championship contingent are still active on the 1978 Cowboys—among them such key performers as quarterback Roger Staubach on offense and safeties Charlie Waters and Cliff Harris on defense, all of them all-pros.

The Broncos, the surprise squad of the 1977 pro season, had never in their history been to a playoff game before this, let alone an overwhelming spectacle like the Super Bowl, with its tremendous focus of pressure. Only two of the Bronco players—veteran quarterback Craig Morton, an ex-Cowboy, and placekicker Jim Turner, who kicked three field goals that were decisive in Joe Willie Namath's glory game of 1969—have had any previous exposure to this kind of concentrated hoopla.

But experience won't be the decisive factor. The Cowboys, for offensive and defensive balance and, equally important, for basic squad depth, are a better team than the inspirational Broncos, who benefitted from the driving leadership of their new coach, Red Miller, an unusual comeback from their born-again quarterback, Morton, and an opportunistic defense that turned around many of their big games.

This is how the high drama, for that is what each Super Bowl game has become, will unfold: The casts for Super Bowl XII

OFFENSE

Wide Receivers:
Dallas
Drew Pearson, Golden Richards, Butch Johnson
Denver
Haven Moses, Jack Dolbin, Rick Upchurch
Comment: Edge to Cowboy cast. Pearson close to best in game. Richards, Johnson alternate carrying in pass situation. Moses only real threat Broncos have and he can be covered deep.

Tight Ends
Dallas
Billy Joe Dupree, Jay Saldi
Denver
Riley Odoms, Randy Egloff
Comment: Standoff because Saldi is much better backup than anything Broncos have. Odoms more dangerous receiving threat than DuPree, leading Bronco catcher, but they're about even as blockers.

Offensive Line
Dallas
Ralph Neely, LT, Herbert Scott, LG, John Fitzgerald, C, Tom Rafferty, RG, Pat Donovan, RT
Denver
Andy Maurer, LT, Tom Glassic, LG, Mike Montier, C, Paul Howard, RG, Claude Minor, RT

Comment: Both teams stronger on right side, with an edge to the Broncos because that's the direction they run when they need the tough yards. Centers are both solid. Dallas gets the nod for reserve strength, with Burton Lawless, Rayfield Wright.
Quarterbacks
Dallas
Roger Staubach, Danny White
Denver
Craig Morton, Craig Penrose
Comment: Despite Morton's gutsy performance in '77, Staubach is far superior in skills and leadership. He could dominate the game. White, in fact, better than anything Broncos have.

Running Backs
Dallas
Tony Dorsett, Robert Newhouse, Preston Pearson, Doug Dennison
Denver
Otis Armstrong, Jon Keyworth, Rob Lytle, Lonnie Perrin
Comment: Dorsett's most exciting back on field, but for depth, consistency the Broncos' contingent is better. Quartet is interchangeable, and add Jim Jensen. Armstrong, in off year, might thrive in Super Bowl environment. Pearson a receiving threat.

Placekickers
Dallas
Efrén Herrera
Denver
Jim Turner
Comment: Herrera turned erratic late in season. Turner wasn't so hot either, but he's more experienced and likely to hold up better under pressure of Super Bowl.

Bowl. Perrin kicks off for Broncos.

DEFENSE

Defensive Linemen
Dallas
Edgar Jones, LE, Jethro Pugh, LT, Randy White, RT, Harvey Martin, RE
Denver
Barney Chavous, LE, Rubin Carter, NG, John Grant, NG, Lyle Alzado, RE
Comment: The Cowboys' famous "flex" against the Broncos' three-man front. Dallas superb against rush, and has jacked up pass rush dramatically this year with Randy White, who makes things happen. Denver smartly alternates units to assure freshness, using Grant, Paul Smith, Brian Manor as subs. Alzado over-running Neely could be crucial up-front battle. Overall edge to Dallas.

Linebackers Dallas:
Tom Henderson, LLB, Bob Breuning, MLB, D.D. Lewis, RLB, Mike Hegman, OLB
Denver
Bob Swenson, LLB, Joe Rizzo, ILB, Randy Gradishar, ILB, Tom Jackson, RLB
Comment: All-pro acclaim went to Jackson, Gradishar, but Henderson best linebacker on field. Can run at Jackson. Both units very active against pass. In pass situation, Broncos often sub another lineman, Grant, for Rizzo. Cowboys have better depth.

Defensive Backs
Dallas
Benny Barnes, LCB, Aaron Kyle, RCB, Charlie Waters, SS, Cliff Harris, FS
Denver
Louis Wright, LCB, Steve Foley, RCB, Bill Thompson, SS, Bernard Jackson, FS
Comment: Except for Wright at one corner, it's Cowboys all the way, though Bill Thompson at strong safety matches off well against Waters. Dallas can go to six-man deep defense with Mark Washington, Randy Hughes. Even have Mel Renfro. Broncos would be in trouble if they got any injuries. Harris is dominating free safety.

Passers
Dallas
Danny White
Denver
Bucky Dilts

Comment: White gets little more distance, but Dilts has been uncanny in coffin corner. White the better athlete, too.
Kick Returns
Dallas
Butch Johnson, Tony Hill
Denver
Rick Upchurch, John Schultz
Comment: None more dangerous than Upchurch, who can break game open. But Johnson, Hill aren't bad. Overall, Cowboy special teams feature better athletes, which can be important factor in game.

THE SCRIPT FOR SUPER BOWL XII
Because of the prestige and money at stake—an ultimate $32,000 to each member of the winning team—Super Bowls have tended to be conservatively played. The Cowboys shouldn't fall into that mold because Tom Landry is astute and innovative and, with Tony Dorsett in the lineup, can grab up big gulps of yardage in single plays.

The Broncos lean to a more conservative offense, but Red Miller, who alternates his running backs to call the plays, must realize it's going to be tough to run against that Dallas flexed front four and should put the ball up in the air early to get the Cowboys off balance.

I look for Randy White to be the pivotal figure in getting to Craig Morton and disrupting the Denver offense. Harvey Martin got the publicity for his 23 sacks this season, but White in the middle makes things happen.

Morton will not try to throw in the center of the field because there is no better pair of safeties in the game than Waters and Harris. Unless Armstrong has a strong comeback effort after a desultory campaign, I can't see the Broncos moving the ball consistently.

On the Denver side, Lyle Alzado and Rubin Carter can be the pressure forces to keep the Cowboys in check. When Dallas goes to the shotgun in passing situations, Carter can be disruptive playing on the nose of center John Fitzgerald.

The Cowboys running game will be designed to spring Dorsett and Newhouse on quick traps because it's tough to run wide against the pursuing Broncos.

Denver's big hope is an early turnover and a quick lead. If they have to play catchup football, I think it'll all be over in the first half.

When the Cowboys control the game early, as they did against Chicago and Minnesota in the playoffs, they're almost impossible to contain.

That's the way I think it'll happen. Dallas will score first and set the tempo for an eventual victory. And a return to respectability of the NFC.

Pugh May Retire

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Several years after Sunday's Super Bowl, Jethro Pugh will be one of the hottest trivia sports questions in professional football.

The Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle says he is retiring after Super Bowl XII against the Denver Broncos, barring some major medical breakthrough that will cure his ailing back.

The trivia questions? Well, let's start with the victim of a block that gave an offensive lineman the catalyst to write a book.

Also, who played in the most National Football League playoff games?

The answer is, of course, Pugh.

Pugh was never All-Pro or made the Pro Bowl. But he was the steadiest of performers who was overshadowed by the retired Bob Lilly, his counterpart on the right side of the Dallas Doomsday Defense.

"I think I've given more than I've received," said Pugh. "I believe this one the Super Bowl will do it. I've been around 13 years and lucky to be on a playoff team in 11 of them. I've banked over $100,000 in playoff money and wished I still had it. But it has been a good career and I'm getting to be an old man."

Pugh, drafted by the Cowboys out of Elizabeth City State, was the prey of offensive lineman Jerry Kramer's block in Green Bay's 1967 "Ice Bowl" victory over the Cowboys in the NFL title game.

Kramer later wrote a book about his days under the late Packer Coach Vince Lombardi. Pugh was pictured in hundreds of photos as the man under Kramer's effort, which cleared quarterback Bart Starr for the game-winning touchdown.

"When I have a nightmare, it usually has that play in it," said Pugh. "The field was so slick, we couldn't dig in. It (all the publicity) has been a little unfair, but that's the way it goes."

Pugh said: "I've got a lot of good memories and would like to leave on a high note. There have been some wonderful moments like the Super Bowl VI win and our 'Hall Mary' victory over Minnesota two years ago on that last-second pass. I just wished I hadn't helped Jerry Kramer sell so many books."

Asked if he would "unretire" like so many players do in the summer before football season begins, Pugh said, "I don't think so. My health would really have to improve."

Pugh will have played in 22 NFL playoff games—two more than George Blanda or Lee Roy Jordan.

Morton Hoping Dallas Blitz Active Sunday

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—When Denver quarterback Craig Morton barks out the Broncos' signals in Sunday's Super Bowl, he'll also be hanging out a sign: "Blitzers Welcome."

The man who spent the first 94 of his 13 National Football League seasons in a Dallas uniform would be delighted to see a bunch of Cowboy defensive backs and linebackers roaring in on him.

"Dallas doesn't blitz very often and I don't expect they'll do it any more than usual this time," he said. "But I'd like nothing more than to see safeties Charlie Waters and Cliff Harris and maybe one or two others trying to climb into my lap, 'cause if they do, that mean's there's single coverage out there, that someone's isolated one-on-one."

And that kind of situation is Morton's meat. He's a master of the dump-off pass and, occasionally, of the pinpoint bomb when it's man-to-man 30 yards downfield. He'll never run the ball, save for a rare bootleg down around the opposition goal line or a scramble when his protection breaks down.

Pressure, linebacker D.D. Lewis said, could be the difference in the game. "Pressure, a lot of pressure, that's what we need. We feel Morton's not that good under pressure," Lewis said. "So we're going to keep coming at him. Not everybody, you understand. Just all the time."

"And we're going to have to disguise our defense a lot," he added. "He's real smart at reading defenses, at knowing where and when they're coming."

So is Roger Staubach, Dallas' starting quarterback since he finally beat out Morton for the job midway in the 1971 season. Roger the Dodger is one of the game's most adept running quarterbacks, occasionally calling his own number in a scrimmage-line audible when he thinks good yardage is available up the middle.

"He's got more than just one dimension. He's not like Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler. Stabler won't run very often and he's got such a huge line in front of him that he really doesn't have to. So you know where he's gonna be on almost every play," Chavous said.

"But Staubach—he can take off on you almost any time. If we lay too far back or get too spread out, he can be up the middle in no time."

In fact, added Broncos linebacker Joe Rizzo, Staubach would rather take off and risk a collision with a lineman or linebacker than take a loss. "I don't think he's willing to accept a conventional sack if he thinks there's any possible way for him to run for the yards he needs," Rizzo said.

But Rizzo also believes if Staubach tries to scramble for yardage against the Broncos, he's going to be brought up short-quick. "If he tries it, he's not gonna get more than maybe four or five yards, not with four linebackers gunning for him."

Staubach wouldn't say whether he plans to run more or less than usual, but he did acknowledge that the Cowboys' running game in general would have to be in to form. "If you run the ball well, you can beat the 3-4," he said of Denver's defense.

NFL Coaches Playing Musical Chairs Game

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Tom Landry and Red Miller, the Super Bowl coaches, will be around to whistle at their teams for another season, but few other members of the profession can be so secure.

If a man like Chuck Knox, who was 5-for-5 in getting his Los Angeles Rams in NFC Division title, can be gentle pushed out for not winning enough, then who can feel safe?

Knox, whose five-year stint with the Rams produced 54 victories in 70 games but no Super Bowls, left the club and signed a multi-year contract with the Buffalo Bills Tuesday night. The surprise signing came one week after Knox had reached a five-year agreement with the Rams.

Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom soured on Knox for the team's failure to win the big playoff game—the latest post-season loss was a 14-7 upset to Minnesota—and for its conservative offensive philosophy.

Knox realized his days in Los Angeles were probably numbered when Rams management met with earlier this week with Don Coryell, the estranged coach of the St. Louis Cardinals whose contract extends through 1980 but whose heart doesn't have the same commitment.

At the moment, the Los Angeles job is the only vacancy among the 28 National Football League teams. If the disenchanted Coryell and the Rams do marry, the Cardinals would extract a divorce settlement—namely a No. 1 draft choice, according to Joe Sullivan, the Cards' director of operations.

Knox' hiring by the Bills was the fifth by an NFL club since the regular season ended a month ago. Other new head coaches are Marv Levy at Kansas City; Sam Rutigliano at Cleveland; Pete McCulley at San Francisco; and Monte Clark at Detroit. Clark was given the job Wednesday and McCulley got his new playbook on Tuesday.

Lost in the shuffle were Tom Bettis at Kansas City; Forrest Gregg at Cleveland; Ken Meyer at San Francisco; Tommy Hudspeth at Detroit and Jim Ringo at Buffalo.

These new coaches can be considered safe for one year—no matter how long their contracts are—and thus fit into the NFL's secure coaches category. Included in this group are Tom Landry-Dallas, Red Miller-Denver, Ted Marchibroda-Baltimore, Chuck Fairbanks-New England, Walt Michaels-New York Jets, Dick Vermeil-Philadelphia, John McVay-New York Giants, Chuck Noll-Pittsburgh, Bum Phillips-Houston, Bud Grant-Minnesota, John Madden-Oakland, Tommy Prothro-San Diego, John McKay-

Tampa Bay, Leeman Bennett-Atlanta and Jack Patera-Seattle. Until they get axed and then fall into the category of coaching victims, several coaches are in limbo, knowing they are in immediate danger and, if they make it to the 1978 season, probably must win quickly.

In limbo are these coaches: Hank Stram at New Orleans, Bart Starr at Green Bay and Bill Johnson at Cincinnati.

Another category—coaches who seem discontented with their present jobs—includes Allen at Washington, Don Shula at Miami and Jack Pardee at Chicago.

It's unlikely, however, that any of these three men would give up a job without having another one in his pocket.

From 1967 to 1977 the average weight of guards in the Big Eight Conference jumped 38 pounds from 196 pounds to 234.

ANGRY BADEN RESIDENTS Guard Against Killer
BADEN, Pa. (AP) - Police consult computers. But people in this steelmaking region are turning to simpler hardware to protect themselves from a killer who has slain seven of their neighbors:
"I own plenty of guns. If that son of a bitch comes around, I'll blow his head off," Mike Honzak, 61, said before his shift at a steel mill across the icy Ohio River.
The modest homes in this wooded hillside community took on postcard prettiness with this week's heavy snowfall.
Chimney smoke rises from a yellow frame home on McNair Street, but it is empty. Police, not the homeowners, keep the furnace burning. John Shelkons, 56, a steelworker, was killed by a shotgun blast in his home early Saturday.
His wife, Kathryn, 48, is hospitalized in fair condition after being beaten and apparently left for dead.
She later gave police a description of the assailant - 6-foot-2, 210 pounds, 25 years

Replacer Attorney Draws GOP Criticism
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's decision to replace another Republican U.S. attorney is drawing heavy fire, including a charge by two GOP senators that Carter reneged on a pledge to keep politics out of Justice Department appointments.
The administration said this week it will replace David W. Marston, the aggressive U.S. attorney for eastern Pennsylvania who has gained key convictions of politicians and reportedly is investigating further cases involving both Democrats and Republicans.

Reporter Murderers Expected Death Penalty
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Two men sentenced to the gas chamber for the June 1976 murder of newspaper reporter Don Bolles said they expected the death penalty.
"We were expecting it. There hasn't been anything fair in the trial. I was basically prepared," said contractor Max Dunlap, 48, who along with plumber James Robison, 55, was sentenced to die "by lethal gas" in the Arizona State Prison's gas chamber.
Shortly after sentence was passed by Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson, Robison told reporters, "It was no great shock. The verdict was consistent with the rest of the trial."
Dunlap and Robison accused Thompson of conducting an

Carter Son, Daughter-in-Law Get White House Photos Published
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's youngest son Jeff and daughter-in-law Annette have found a slick-paper outlet for their photographic skills, right at the White House.
Jeff and Annette, who abandoned earlier plans to peddle some of their around-the-home photos commercially, are well represented in a new government-financed publication entitled, "The White House... it's your house, too."
The 16-page, full-color publication was designed for distribution to children who write for information about the White House and the Carters.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's decision to replace another Republican U.S. attorney is drawing heavy fire, including a charge by two GOP senators that Carter reneged on a pledge to keep politics out of Justice Department appointments.
The administration said this week it will replace David W. Marston, the aggressive U.S. attorney for eastern Pennsylvania who has gained key convictions of politicians and reportedly is investigating further cases involving both Democrats and Republicans.

Reporter Murderers Expected Death Penalty
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Two men sentenced to the gas chamber for the June 1976 murder of newspaper reporter Don Bolles said they expected the death penalty.
"We were expecting it. There hasn't been anything fair in the trial. I was basically prepared," said contractor Max Dunlap, 48, who along with plumber James Robison, 55, was sentenced to die "by lethal gas" in the Arizona State Prison's gas chamber.
Shortly after sentence was passed by Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson, Robison told reporters, "It was no great shock. The verdict was consistent with the rest of the trial."
Dunlap and Robison accused Thompson of conducting an

Carter Son, Daughter-in-Law Get White House Photos Published
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's youngest son Jeff and daughter-in-law Annette have found a slick-paper outlet for their photographic skills, right at the White House.
Jeff and Annette, who abandoned earlier plans to peddle some of their around-the-home photos commercially, are well represented in a new government-financed publication entitled, "The White House... it's your house, too."
The 16-page, full-color publication was designed for distribution to children who write for information about the White House and the Carters.

Tower Seeks Re-Election In United States Senate
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, formally announced for re-election Wednesday saying his record on Congress will bring him victory in November.
"Issuewise, I think I reflect the majority view in Texas," Tower said at the start of a three-day announcement campaign trip throughout Texas.
Tower told a news conference following the announcement rally that he doubted President Carter would be effective in determining the outcome of the Senate race in Texas - "either consciously or wittingly."
"The administration policies have found very little favor in Texas," he said.
Tower flew from Austin to Arlington, then on to Houston, Tyler and Wichita Falls, Thursday he planned to visit Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa, and El Paso. Friday he completes the campaign trip with visits to San Antonio, Corpus Christi, and Harlingen.
At the Austin rally a large crowd of supporters was entertained by a jazz band and was served coffee and doughnuts before Tower and his family appeared. He was introduced by former ambassador to Australia, Edward Clark, an Austin attorney.
Tower was first elected to the Senate, as a successor to Lyndon B. Johnson, in a special election in 1961. He is chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and ranking Republican on the Senate Armed

Snatching Conviction Overturned
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday overturned a San Antonio purse-snatching conviction because the indictment did not place a value on the purse and its contents.
The decision freed Kenneth Dale Carter, who had pleaded guilty to theft and was assessed a 10-year prison sentence.
Carter's lawyers did not raise the indictment issue but the court said it required "consideration in the interest of justice."
"It is well established that the value of the property must be alleged if it affects penalty," the court said.
It cited Texas statutes that prescribe varying penalties depending on the amount of money stolen, ranging from just a fine to 20 years in prison.
The indictment, therefore, "does not show whether the offense was a misdemeanor or felony," the appeals court said.
