Ruling May Change Vote Procedure

Carter Invokes T-H Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, declaring the country "cannot afford to wait any longer" for a coal strike settlement, invoked the Taft-Hartley Act on Monday in a first step aimed at forcing the miners back to work.

Carter asserted that negotiations between the striking United Mine Workers union and the coal industry were at an impasse. And the president said he was directing Attorney General Griffin Bell to make preparations for seeking an 80-day back-to-work order under terms of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The strike by some 160,000 UMW members, which enters its fourth month Tuesday, has forced power curtailments and resultant job layoffs in the Midwest and is threatening to inflict further harm on the economy.

The Taft-Hartley Act was passed in 1947 over a veto by President Harry Truman and has been used by presidents on 34 other occasions. Truman himself used it seven times in 1948 when a series of industrial strikes threatened the economy.

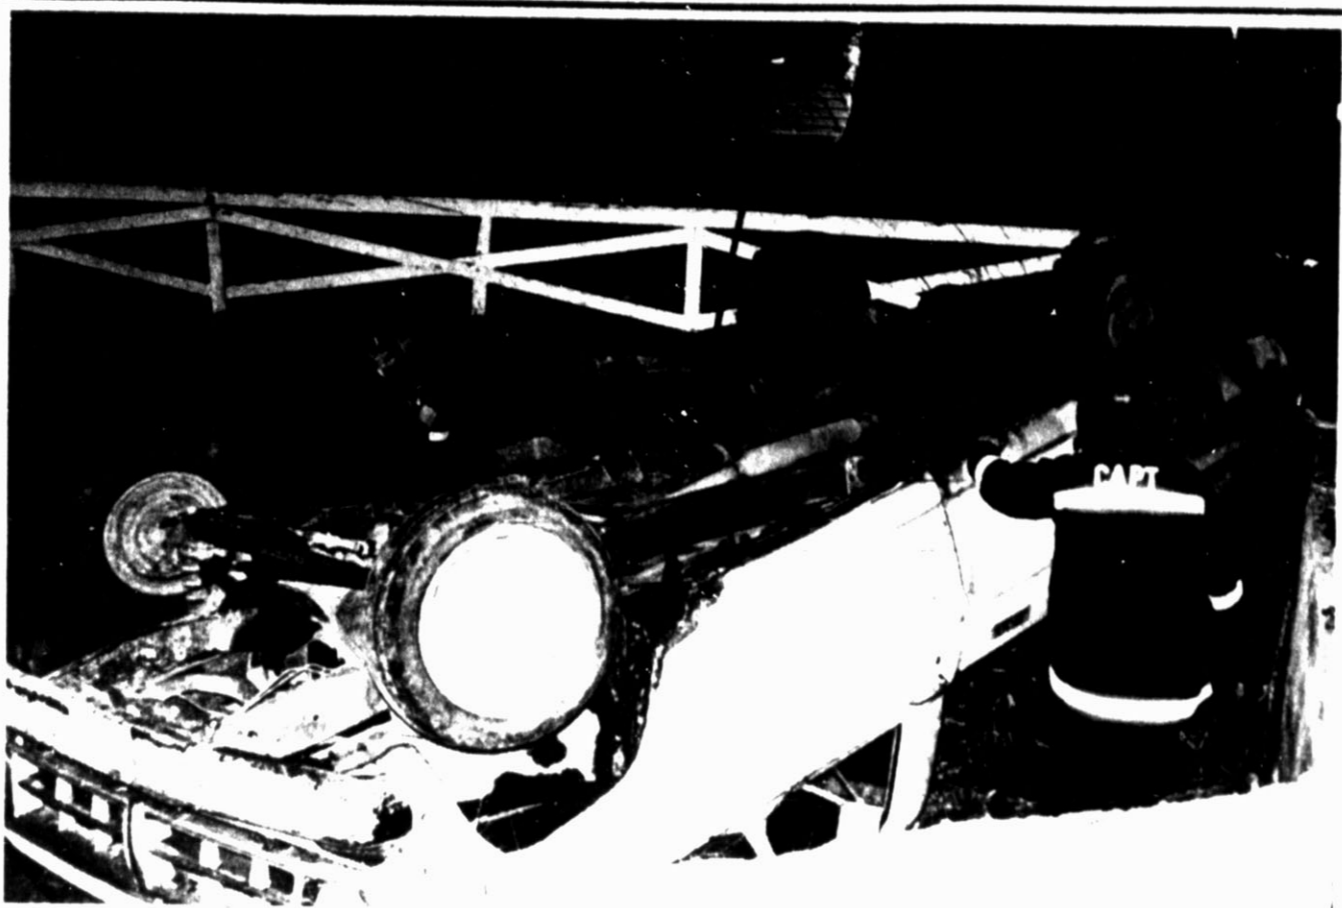

In resorting to Taft-Hartley, Carter said he wanted to make sure the country did not fall victim to "total breakdown of the collective bargaining" process.

Reaction to Carter's announcement came swiftly from the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the industry-wide bargaining group.

"We are extremely disappointed that the UMW members have rejected the contract their bargaining council had agreed to and that the government also considered favorable to the miners," the BCOA said.

"We hope the imposition of Taft-Hartley will be as contemplated by the statute so that the nation may regain badly needed production of coal for the American people," it added.

UMW President Arnold Miller had said in advance of Carter's nationally broadcast announcement that he would comply with Taft-Hartley even though he doesn't like it. He said that if a back-to-work injunction is issued, he will observe it.

Lucky To Escape

Eliseo Martinez Gomez somehow escaped injury Saturday night when the pickup he was driving fell off an embankment at Bradley and Kingwood while he was making a U-turn and flipped onto its top. According to a Department of Public Safety official, Gomez broke out the driver's window with a jack and escaped from the wreckage. "We thought for sure he'd be pinned it," said Dale Cobb, DPS trooper. "He's awfully lucky." [Photo by Doyle Bock]

Hereford School District Eyes Supreme Court Action

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor
and the ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Hereford Independent School District is subject to a federal law protecting the rights of minority voters, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday.

In a decision carrying great impact for Alabama and Texas as well as other southern states covered by the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the court ruled that all entities holding elections within those states fall under the law.

The court voted 6-3 to reverse a ruling by a three-judge court in Alabama that Sheffield, Ala., is not covered by the law. In an opinion written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., it said "the act covers all political units within designated jurisdictions like Alabama."

That includes the Hereford Independent School District, which now may have to change from a place system to at-large procedure of voting before the April 1 election.

The HISD changed in 1974 from an at-large to place system with a majority runoff requirement and, after seeking clearance from the Justice Department under the Voting Rights Act of 1975, was told the change was illegal.

The school district sued the Justice Department. Eight governmental bodies in Texas later were consolidated under the heading "Hereford Independent School District vs. Griffin Bell (U.S. Attorney General)."

The Justice Department will seek injunctions against the eight entities in an effort to force changes back to prior systems of voting.

"We will be seeking injunctive relief with respect to those elections," John MacCoon, trial attorney for the Civil Rights Division of the attorney general's office, told The Brand shortly after Monday's Supreme Court ruling.

MacCoon said the injunctions would be filed in the New Orleans, La., office of John Brown, chief judge of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, instead of a three-judge panel in Dallas which originally had been tabbed to hear the case of the consolidated entities.

"It's still unclear to us what the jurisdiction of the Dallas Court is. It appears to me the Dallas consolidation (three-judge panel) was simply for the purpose of resolving the issue which the Supreme Court resolved with Sheffield."

MacCoon added that the injunction against the Hereford school district would be filed prior to April.

"Our general policy throughout the area where Section 5 (of the Voting Rights Act) applies to enforce it against all elections no matter how close the election is. I thought there would be some tears down in Texas today after this one."

Disagreeing with Brennan were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John Paul Stevens and William H. Rehnquist.

Brennan's opinion specifically ruled that Congress meant to include under the

Both Revenues, Disbursements Total $2.3 Million

City Council Approves Budget

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Hereford city commissioners Monday night approved the city budget for the fiscal year beginning May 1, with expected revenues of $2,301,042 and disbursements of $2,297,354.

Only two guests besides members of the local news media attended the public budget hearing as the commission approved general operating revenues of $2,177,417. Bond interest and sinking revenue for 1978-79 is $123,625.

Disbursements total $2,173,681 plus expenditures of $123,673 for the bond interest and sinking fund.

The tax rate remained $1.10 per $100 valuation with a total estimated tax roll of $637,778 for 1978-79. Collections were estimated at 97 percent or $618,644.

Total taxable property, both real and personal, is estimated at almost $129 million. The assessed total property value is $58 million.

Total bonds outstanding total $1.15 million.

In the current fiscal year, the tax roll in the City of Hereford totals approximately $596,442, with 90 percent of that figure having been collected.

Anticipated revenues include $612,000 for water service, $104,400 for sewer service, $196,800 for trash-collection fees, $405,000 for sales tax, $46,000 for fines, $42,000 for the golf course and $5,348 for lease of the city farm.

Franchise taxes, also listed in anticipated revenues, include $46,400 for Pioneer Natural Gas, $54,000 for Southwestern Public Service, $15,500 for Southwestern Bell, $90 for Hereford Cab

Co., and $4,200 for Hereford Cablevision.

The commission, in adopting the budget, approved monthly raises for all city employees except the city attorney ($400), mayor ($50) and commissioners ($25).

City Manager Dudley Bayne's monthly salary was raised from $1,770 to $1,894. In the administrative position, Bayne will make $22,728 for the year. He also will make an additional $11,040 for working in the water and sewer department.

Salary increases also were awarded to the city secretary, $850 to $1,000 a month; municipal judge $750 to $850; chief of police, $1,210 to $1,300; street department superintendent, $1,140 to $1,230; and water and sewer superintendent, $1,140 to $1,230.

There are 93 total city employees, including those working part-time, with a payroll of $906,380 for 1978-79.

In other business during Monday night's regular session, commissioners: —agreed to handle sick-leave recipients on a case-by-case basis, although most employees are entitled to a total of 10 days.

—authorized bids for a "mini-pumper" for the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department.

—appointed Lloyd Sharp to the airport zoning board as a replacement for Charles Seed.

—approved a hike in golf-cart rentals from $7.50 for 18 holes to $8.50.

New golf course pro Mike Horton requested the increase, which he said was in line with area course fees and would help the Hereford course to pay for a new car fleet within three years.

Farmers Initiate Transport Slowdown

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supporters of the American Agriculture farm strike movement braved high winds and a sub-zero wind chill factor in the wee hours of this morning to take up positions along several West Texas highways and launch what they hope will become a food transportation slowdown.

Artless Edwards of the Hereford strike office reported that a number of farmers from the local area joined other Panhandle farmers at road blocks at Bushland and on the east side of Amarillo.

Farmers used CB radios to ask food-hauling truckers to pull over in the name of parity. However, most truckers, particularly in the South Plains area, kept the pedal to the metal and whizzed on down the road during the first few hours of the attempted slowdown.

"We had fairly good cooperation from the truckers at our road stops near Bushland and Amarillo during the first few hours," Edwards reported.

"Local law enforcement officials told us to go ahead and do our thing as long as we didn't cause any trouble, and several truckers pulled over. The DPS told us the trucks stopped on the roadside constituted a traffic hazard however, and would have to move on. The DPS officers didn't make any trouble for us or anything, and those boys are just doing their job," he added.

Early reports from the Lubbock area indicated a general lack of cooperation from the truckers, although farmers there said they were not discouraged by the first hours of what they hoped would be a nationwide slowdown in the delivery of food products.

The food transport slowdown is a 31 state effort being coordinated in South Dakota.

Striking farmers have vowed a peaceful operation. "We don't want anyone to suffer from this, but we want to continue to make people aware of our problems without hurting them," said Roger Coats of Big Spring.

Local Farmers Tell Of Hidalgo Incident

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Hereford farmers Johnny Jesko, Dale Arho and Jerome Friemel could still manage a smile Monday morning after a harrowing experience at the Hidalgo-Reynosa bridge on the Texas-Mexico border last Wednesday and their resultant incarceration at the Hidalgo County jail in Edinburg.

In fact, all three proudly wore their prisoner numbers on their farm strike caps, and concurred that the farm movement "couldn't have bought all of this publicity for a million dollars."

But each agreed that the violence which occurred last Wednesday when police moved in to clear the bridge "shouldn't have happened in the U.S." And each man had his own story to tell of the incident.

Jesko told of what he saw during the bridge incident, and the imprisonment that followed.

"We were at the side of the bridge when I saw police moving in behind the toll gates on one side and a squad moving in shoulder-to-shoulder on the south side. I was moving off of the bridge and told a policeman who had been trying to talk to us with a bull horn that he might as well be hollering, or else he should fix his bull horn because we couldn't hear it. Shortly after that, the gas hit the road and the cannisters bounced for a long way because there was no one on it. We moved right on down and went through the gas and policemen ran us into an area to the side. Dale Arho was hit after we were in the holding pen, and it was uncalled for. Most of the violence on the bridge was behind me. There was a lot of cursing and hollering. Them boys (police) had a chance to really go at it and they talked nasty as all thunder to us. The police should have noticed that the farmers on the bridge were doing what they were supposed to and they didn't have to get that way with us."

Jesko reported that he was on one of the first buses to reach the jail.

"We got to jail about 2:30 and they put us in a garage area. It was after 10 o'clock before they finished booking all of us in. We just milled around and waited. After a while they put us in a courtyard and Bruce Parr of Friona got us some

The Branding Iron Barrett Satisfied with Council Accomplishments

By PAUL SIMS

Monday night's city commission budget hearing was the last for Frank Barrett who thought, following the meeting, it might be an opportune time to spotlight his accomplishments after 7½ years.

"I'm proud of the fact we didn't raise our tax rate over the years. Even though we raised the appraisal value of property 10 percent last year, we lowered the tax rate," said Barrett, a farmer who has decided to not seek another term to the commission.

"Through the years, I also think I had a good part in acquiring the city farm that took care of our sewer problems. We have a valuable piece of land and it enabled us to take care of a sewer treatment.

"I helped add nine holes to the golf course. It was something beneficial to the town."

Barrett, of course, has been in on a lot of decisions in his more than seven years of involvement with city government. He says the public always has been foremost in his mind in making any decision.

"Whenever we talk of spending money, I want the taxpayer's viewpoint taken into consideration."

Barrett began his tenure on the commission in 1970 when he was appointed to fill an unexpired term. He then was elected three times.

"I'm leaving because any governmental board needs fresh ideas and different viewpoints.

I think that serving on the city commission has been beneficial to me. It makes a better citizen for anyone who serves on a governmental board."

Barrett said that his leaving the commission should not be construed as an indication he is slowing down. He plans to continue tending to his 2,500 total acres in Deaf Smith County, near Springlake, and near Muleshoe.

Barrett, a pioneer in the Deaf Smith County commercial potato business, raises vegetables, alfalfa and grain.

The "retiring" commissioner moved to Deaf Smith County from Idaho in 1940. In Idaho, the Barrett family was active in commercial vegetable growing.

"We were in the potato business in Idaho. We thought that when irrigation was first developed, this area might be developed into a productive vegetable

Bush Says He'll Run For Presidency

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) - It's all or nothing for former CIA Director George Bush.

Bush said Monday he's thinking about running for president and won't settle for any lower elected office. But he said he might consider being secretary of state under a Republican president.

Bush, 53, said he isn't being "coy" about seeking the 1980 Republican nomination for president. He said the race will be tough, with former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan the current frontrunners.

Union Officials Rip Invocation of Act

By The Associated Press

"It ain't gonna work," said one mine union official. Another called it "slave labor." An Ohio miner was even more succinct as he watched President Carter on television invoking the Taft-Hartley Act. "That does it," he said, and walked out.

Similar comments were heard across the coalfields Monday as miners heard Carter announce the first moves to order them back on the 91st day of the United Mine Workers strike, a day in which even harsher power cutbacks were announced in the coal-short Midwest.

Carter named a panel whose job it will be to recommend an 80-day, back-to-work order during which new efforts could be made to negotiate a contract. The panel has scheduled a hearing Wednesday, and a federal judge could be asked for an order that same day.

Administration sources also noted miners who violate a government order might become ineligible for food stamps and that refusal to work could result in fines or jail sentences for local union leaders.

Army staff officers, meanwhile, were reported reviewing civil disturbance control plans, but Pentagon officials said federal troops would be used in the coal strike crisis only as a very last resort.

Davis May Testify In Sheriff's Suit

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - A removal suit against indicted and suspended Potter County Sheriff T.L. Baker drew an amended petition Monday that included as possible witnesses some names that made recent news in Amarillo.

The list included Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis, who was acquitted of capital murder charges in the death of his step-daughter, the jury that acquitted him and the judge that heard the case.

Baker is under felony theft and attempted official oppression indictments.

The amended petition accuses Baker of "gross ignorance and gross carelessness in granting Davis special privileges, special treatment and lack of reasonable security in his confinement during the time Davis was in the custody of Baker during 1977."

It also accuses Baker of violating his duties to shepherd the sequestered jury for the trial. Specifically mentioned were "his official duty not to provide or supply such jurors with liquor and his official duty to have safeguarded such sequestered jurors from personal conversations, contacts...with any persons except those authorized by law or order of the court."

Speck Admits Killing 7 of 8 Young Nurses

CHICAGO (AP) - "Yeah, I killed them. I stabbed and choked them," said Richard Speck, admitting for the first time that, while high on whiskey and heroin, he murdered seven of eight young nurses in a South Side townhouse almost 12 years ago.

Speck, whose account of the July 1966 mass murder was published in today's editions of the Chicago Sun-Times, said the eighth nurse was slain by an accomplice who Speck claimed to have killed later and tossed into a railroad boxcar.

But a spokesman for the Chicago Police Department was quick to discount the existence of an accomplice.

Speck, 36, said in a copyright interview with columnist Bob Greene that he killed his unnamed accomplice, "an effeminate homosexual," because he feared he would testify against Speck.

Speck, convicted of killing all eight nurses, originally was sentenced to die in the electric chair, but the Supreme Court overthrew that sentence. He was resented to eight consecutive prison terms of 50 to 150 years each for the murders.

"If that one girl wouldn't have spit in my face, they'd all be alive today," Speck told Greene in an interview at Stateville Penitentiary near Joliet.

Amarillo Seminar To Explain Trusts

AMARILLO—The proper use of trusts as part of the well-planned family estate will be discussed Monday, March 13, in the third of four estate planning seminars being presented here by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Each program covers a major segment of estate planning so that interested persons can attend all or individual programs. Dr. Ray Sammons, Extension area economist-management, said Jack Little, trustee officer of the First National Bank, will conduct the program on trusts.

The programs are held at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West. There is no fee, and advance registration isn't required, Sammons said.

Attorneys, bank trust officers and certified public accountants join Sammons in presenting the seminars. Participants receive materials which assist them in planning their estates and direct them to additional help for specific questions.

The March 20 topic will be estate taxes.

Marston Runs For Governor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - David W. Marston, the Republican U.S. attorney whose ouster by the Carter administration became a national issue, announced Monday he is a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

The 35-year-old lawyer said he would seek the Republican nomination in the May 16 primary.

He is the fifth Republican to enter the race to succeed Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp, who is barred by the state constitution from seeking a third term.

Marston resigned Jan. 20 after U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell refused to allow him to finish out his term, which would have expired in 1980. Bell said the administration wanted a Democrat in the job and accused Marston, who lost races for the state legislature in 1972 and 1973, of politicizing his office.

The replacement of Marston drew national attention when it was disclosed that Rep. Joshua Eilberg, one of two Democratic Pennsylvania congressmen linked to investigations by Marston's office, had urged Marston's ouster.

Carter at a nationally televised news conference acknowledged that Eilberg had telephoned him urging Marston be replaced by a Democrat. Marston's successor hasn't been chosen.

1965 law all government entities within states in its definition of "political subdivisions."

Sheffield officials had argued successfully in the lower court that a "political subdivision" under the law is one that registers voters and such duties in Alabama as well as in Texas are handled at the county level.

Monday's decision rejected that interpretation of the law.

In 1975, Sheffield officials decided to switch from a commission form of government to a mayor-city council system. The city advised the Justice Department of the proposed change, and won federal approval for the holding of a public referendum on it.

The city's residents voted in favor of such a change, and plans were made to elect council members in an at-large

He indicated that the farmers were put in cells during the day "so the folks outside couldn't see what we were doing and we couldn't see them."

According to Jesko, the local radio station kept broadcasting reports that the farm strike had been broken.

"It buffaloed the whole place down there when all of those other farmers started arriving. We got word on all the farmers that were coming down to help and it cheered us up. The boys inside held together real well. There was a 15 or 16 year old farm girl over on the women's side, and she stayed in the full time with us," he said.

Despite the incident at the bridge, Jesko had praise for the Hidalgo County jailer.

"We had wonderful treatment from him. He was about the best man we could ask for. He was trying hard to get us out. He didn't want us there."

Jesko reported that the crowd of supporting farmers outside the jail was a "sight to behold" when the jailed farmers marched out as a group.

Asked what he felt the Hidalgo incident had accomplished for the farm strike, Jesko replied, "We proved Saturday that a peaceful demonstration could be held, despite what the authorities had said to the contrary. We accomplished our goal and more... The people down there are starting to buck the system a little more now."

Artho had a tale of personal injury to tell, and also spoke of observing other farmers as they were hit by billy-club toting police.

"They were still hitting us when they moved us into a holding pen area with a chain-link fence around it," said Artho. "One of the police poked me in the back with his stick. It hurt and I turned around and grabbed the cop's stick. Another cop hit me hard on the elbow then. That's when I realized that something serious was going on."

Artho reported that he also viewed an incident in which a farmer leaving the bridge was hit repeatedly by police officers.

"We were coming down off of the bridge and there was a little curb there. It was hard to see it with so many people bunched up. I nearly fell over it myself. I saw Marion Snell of Akerly fall over the curb. He fell into some police. They took him to the ground and worked him over. Another man, Tony Humphries, was handcuffed to the bridge rail and city government already is in effect. Now, presumably the city will be to submit its at-large election system to the Justice Department or a three-judge court in Washington for approval.

If approval is not granted, the at-large voting system will have to be changed.

The decision may have a major impact on the political power of Mexican-Americans in Texas as well.

Al Perez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund said the decision means that more than 1,200 cities, 1,475 school districts and 2,900 special districts in Texas are covered by the Voting Rights Act.

"We just kept moving," he explained.

"What was frightening was that we were suddenly caught between two lines of riot police. The DPS was on one side and police and sheriff's officers were on the other. They had masks and clubs, and it was unnerving to see them coming at us. The only escape there was an area surrounded by a chain link fence and we went in there. They kept shoving and hitting at us. It was fortunate the wind was in our favor and we didn't get any heavy dosage of gas. Everyone was on the sidewalk on the bridge when the whole thing started. They had asked us to move over there. I don't know why they kept working over certain individuals once they got us in the holding pen, but they did. An emphysema victim was knocked down and the gas injured him. He was taken to a hospital and came back to the jail later. He was walking just fine before the bridge incident, but after he got back from the hospital, he had to hold onto someone else in order to walk, and then he just shuffled along. It was a pitiful sight."

Artho reported that he also viewed an incident in which a farmer leaving the bridge was hit repeatedly by police officers.

White Employees May Sue Companies for Discriminating

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court Monday let stand a lower court's ruling that white employees may sue an employer for alleged discrimination against blacks.

The justices refused to review an appeal from a Nashville, Tenn., company contending that the Congress never intended the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to allow lawsuits by persons not directly affected by the alleged bias.

While the court's action sets no national legal precedent, it does settle the matter, at least for now, within the judicial circuit that encompasses Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Last June, the justices let stand also a similar decision in a California case that now is binding on courts in the judicial circuit that includes California, Alaska, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Guam and Hawaii.

In other major actions Monday, the Supreme Court: Decided that Indian tribes do not have the legal authority to prosecute non-Indians for crimes committed on tribal reservations.

Ruled that states are preempted by federal law from limiting the size of oil tankers using their territorial waters.

Agreed to review a lower court's ruling striking down a portion of Pennsylvania's abortion law as unconstitutionally broadening the state's role in a woman's decision to terminate a pregnancy.

Said it will decide how much discretion federal agencies have in disclosing information under the Freedom of Information Act, particularly materials concerning businesses and industries.

In 1972, the Supreme Court handed the minority civil rights movement a significant victory, when it ruled that white tenants alleging the loss of benefits from interracial associations have "legal standing" to sue under one section of the Civil Rights Act.

The court now has twice side-stepped the question of whether sections of the 1964 law dealing with employment assure the same broad right to sue.

Cecile W. Wade, a white woman, complained to the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 1970 that the Bailey Co. of Nashville had discriminated against her because of her sex and then fired her when she told of plans to file a discrimination complaint.

Fifteen months later, Mrs. Wade amended her complaint to include the statement that "the company fails to recruit and hire Negro females because of their race."

Bailey, which sells, services and rents forklifts and other material-handling equipment, employed fewer than 60 workers at its Nashville headquarters at the time.

With branches in Chattanooga and Johnson City, Tenn., and Dalton, Ga., Bailey employed a total of about 100 persons.

An EEOC investigation showed that the firm was not guilty of sex discrimination against Mrs. Wade, but the EEOC decided that the firm had discriminated against blacks.

While Nashville's population was about 20 percent black, only 4 percent of Bailey's Nashville workforce was black, and those two persons were in low-paying utility or shop jobs.

After conciliation failed, the EEOC sued Bailey on charges of racial discrimination in employment, a violation of the Civil Rights Act.

A federal trial court dismissed the suit, however, after ruling that the commission could not use Mrs. Wade's complaint to find racial discrimination because Mrs. Wade never alleged that she was the target of such bias.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed that ruling, deciding that the Supreme Court's 1972 ruling on housing discrimination applied to on-the-job bias as well.

In urging the justices to leave the finding intact, the Carter administration argued, "Indeed, the purpose and effects of the Civil Rights Act in the employment field are identical to the purposes and effects...in the housing field."

Justice Department lawyers said, "As the court below stated, the loss of benefits from the lack of interracial associations is as real at work as it is at home because inter-personal contacts occur in both places."

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, March 7, the 66th day of 1978. There are 299 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1936, Adolf Hitler ordered his troops into the Rhineland, breaking the Treaty of Versailles and the Locarno Pact.

On this date: In 1573, war between Turkey and Venice was ended by the Peace of Constantinople.

In 1926, the first successful trans-Atlantic radio-telephone conversation took place between New York and London.

In 1941, British soldiers invaded Italian-occupied Ethiopia during World War II.

In 1945, also during World War II, the U.S. 1st Army crossed the Rhine River south of Cologne, Germany.

In 1965, Alabama state troopers used tear gas at Selma to break up an attempted civil rights march to Montgomery. In 1970, darkness spread from southern Mexico to the maritime provinces of Canada as the moon eclipsed the sun.

Ten years ago: Twenty people were killed when a Greyhound bus and an automobile collided on a highway in the Mohave desert.

Five years ago: New York Mayor John Lindsay, ending months of suspense, announced that he would not seek re-election for a third term.

One year ago: Saudi Arabia announced it would give $1 million in aid to black Africa.

Today's birthday: Composer Maurice Ravel, 1875-1937.

4-H Firsthand

4-H PROGRAMS BUILDS LEADERS

There are five keys to successful leadership.

A good leader believes in people, encourages them and gives them responsibility.

The leader also acts as a talent scout and develops a positive attitude toward getting things done.

Anyone who is willing to tackle a job that requires cooperating with others can learn to be an effective leader.

This is where the 4-H program comes in-it can help youth become effective leaders, says Claudette Mitchell, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The national 4-H leadership program, supported by Reader's Digest, stimulates young people to become leaders through a variety of learn-by-doing activities. These activities help turn girls and boys 9-19 into the creative, inspiring individuals that others just naturally want to follow.

As a first step, 4-H members gain self-confidence by becoming experts at something, whether it's baking a cake, fixing a bike or playing a game. Then, they share their expertise with others through demonstrations, speeches and exhibits. Soon they are serving on committees and holding offices in their 4-H clubs. Or, as junior and teen leaders they are assisting younger 4-H'ers with their projects.

Finally, leadership skills learned in 4-H are carried over into the larger community. Nine national 4-H leadership winners reported activities that ranged from spearheading local charity drives to organizing leadership conferences for inner city teens to chairing a county youth committee for a congressional candidate.

Each national winner received a $1,000 scholarship donated by Reader's Digest. The high ranking girl and boy won silver trays presented in the name of President Jimmy Carter.

Other recognition for program members includes an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago for one 4-H member per state, and up to four medals of honor in each community.

Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program, and awards are arranged by National 4-H Council.

Ann Landers Non-Smoker Disturbed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For over 35 years, I have emptied ashtrays and washed them. I am allergic to smoke, but that doesn't seem to bother my husband or many of our relatives and friends. I can turn blue before their eyes, choke, gasp and nearly pass out. They go right on smoking.

I told my husband a few weeks ago that I refuse to empty or wash another ashtray. I am sick of dumping stinking cigars and cigarettes, picking up butts from the floor of the garage, the patio, pool areas, the lawn and even the living room rug.

So now I am treated like the offender because I have taken a stand. My chauvinist pig says cleaning ashtrays is part of "housekeeping." Is it? Even if it makes me sick? I need a yes or a no from you. If you aren't on my side, please don't answer. I already have more trouble than I can handle--Asphyxiated

DEAR PHYX: I am on your side, but I don't think it's going to make a shred of difference to the chauvinist pig. Something tells me the trouble in your house goes deeper than ashtrays. Have you considered discussing the entire situation with a professional? Please do.

DEAR ANN: I realize the War Between the States is over, but I was really bugged by that Virginia gal who hates Pennsylvania. I came from Pennsylvania to the Washington-Virginia area 19 years ago as a bride. If my husband and I weren't so much in love we never would have made it.

Wherever you go in northern Virginia you have to stand in line either to buy it, return it, or try to see it. I've shopped the same stores for years and very few clerks remember me or show any interest in giving me (or anyone else) decent service.

If I had my druthers I'd druther be anywhere but here.--Washington Post Reader

DEAR READER: No Matter where you'd druther be, you ARE in Virginia--and so are lots of other people who tell me they love it. For your own peace of mind, I hope you will make a positive effort to adjust. It must be awful hating where you live.

DEAR ANN: The girl I'm going to marry (she's 24, I'm 23) admitted to one serious love affair before she met me. She has gone with several guys but had only one real sweetheart. The problem: She won't tell me who it was.

I've told her all about my past and held nothing back--including names and places. Is she playing fair?--Clean Slate Wanted

DEAR BIG MOUTH: Just because you came up with the names and numbers of all the players doesn't mean your fiancée should do the same. She has confessed there was someone before you, now quit nagging for details. It ain't gentlemanly.

$1.4 Million Suit Filed by Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) - A 1.4 million damage suit has been filed by the Houston Rockets against the Los Angeles Lakers in connection with the injury of Rocket forward Rudy Tomjanovich.

Tomjanovich, the Rockets captain and leader scorer at the time, suffered multiple facial fractures Dec. 9 when he was punched by Kermit Washington during National Basketball Association game. Tomjanovich was lost to the Rockets for the season.

The U.S. district court suit, filed Monday, seeks $700,000 to cover what it called the team's losses and another $700,000 punitive and exemplary damages for the loss of Tomjanovich.

Since Tomjanovich's injury, the Rockets have lost 27 of 41 games and dropped into the cellar of the NBA Central Division.

Washington received a 60-day suspension and was fined $10,000 by NBA commissioner Lawrence O'Brien. Prior to the expiration of the suspension

Washington was traded by the Lakers to the Boston Celtics. O'Brien had advised Houston Feb. 8 he would not take part in disposition of the dispute between the two teams.

"I think we're asking for an amount of money that is extremely fair," said Rocket president and general manager Ray Patterson.

The Rockets said in the suit that Washington's punch was "malicious and intentional assault and battery."

The suit alleged the Laker franchise was responsible for the consequence of Washington's action, because Washington was acting as an employee of the Lakers when he slugged Tomjanovich.

It said the Lakers knew Washington to possess violent tendencies and that he had a history of fighting with members of the opposing team and his own teammates. It alleged the Lakers did not take proper measures to control Washington's actions on the court.

Patterson said the $700,000 in monetary losses asked for in the suit would cover Tomjanovich's salary believed to be near $200,000 as well as that of Alonzo Bradley, who signed a contract as Tomjanovich's replacement.

Lawyers for California Pro Sports Inc., the corporation which operates the Lakers, have 30 days to answer the suit. Unless an out of court settlement is reached, the case is not expected to come to trial in U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals' court for 18 to 24 months.

Tomjanovich and his wife, Sophie, filed a damage suit against the Lakers Dec. 29 but did not specify the amount of damages sought. The suit, filed in state court, has been removed to U.S. district court.

Tomjanovich underwent three hours of surgery in an Inglewood, Calif., hospital following the incident. His injuries were listed as fractures of the nose, jaw and skull, facial lacerations, brain concussion, loss of blood and leakage of spinal fluid from the brain cavity.

Plainview JV Wins Pair From 'Faces'

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

While the HHS varsity baseballers try to get their season underway today at Dumas, the Herd JV got the jump on their varsity counterparts with a double header Monday at home against the Plainview Bulldogs. The 'Dogs spoiled the Herd's debut, however, with 11-5 and 3-0 wins as temperatures dropped steadily throughout the afternoon.

Eddie McAlister withstood a rally by the 'Faces in the fourth inning of the first game Monday, and his teammates added three insurance runs in the fifth inning for the 11-5 win. McAlister gave up three hits to the Whitefaces during his stint, including a towering double by HHS catcher Donald Weemes in the first, which led to Hereford's initial tally.

Hereford hurler Lee Schultz had a rough first frame, giving up five runs to the Bulldogs; who collected two hits and were aided by two Herd errors and three bases on balls.

Weemes tallied a run for the 'Faces in the bottom of the inning after a smash to the hole in right center. Joe Walker sent the HHS backstop home with a slow roller through the middle of the infield.

Plainview made it 7-1 in the second without getting a hit off of Schultz. A walk, a stolen base, an error, and a wild pitch were enough to plate two Plainview runners.

Neither team scored in the third inning, but McAlister suddenly got wild in the fourth, walking four of the first five Herd batters. A Bulldog relief pitcher came in to quell the rally, but not before the 'Faces had closed the gap to 8-5. Schultz helped his own cause with a run-scoring single, and another run scored when Jeff Hazlrigg took a McAlister pitch in the side.

The Bulldogs shook Schultz for three hits and the same number of runs in the fifth inning to put the game away. The 'Faces went down in order in their half of the frame.

In the nightcap Joe Walker held the Bulldogs at bay for four innings before Plainview finally

HHS Golfers Grab District 4-4A Lead

The Hereford Whitefaces find themselves in the District 3-4A golf driver's seat today after combining for a 317 total in Lubbock Monday in the weather-delayed first loop round. The Herd, paced by James McDowell's 78, leads second-place Coronado by seven shots after the initial round.

"We played pretty well," a happy HHS mentor Terry Russell said after the day's outcome. "We kinda lost it over the last few holes since we haven't been able to play much due to the weather, but it was our best score at Meadowbrook since I've been here."

The Whitefaces are coming off a runner-up placing at a Roswell, New Mexico tournament and a third-place finish at the Lubbock Invitational. McDowell's 78 placed him in a tie for second place in the individual medalist race with Coronado's David Groom. Monterey's Cliff Baggett holds a one-shot lead over the duo with a 77 Monday.

"Those big, rolling greens at Meadowbrook always give us trouble," Russell said. "We had all of our players hit the greens well, but we used a lot of putts."

The Whitefaces will attempt to enlarge the lead at Plainview this Friday. "If we can win at Plainview then we'll be sitting in pretty good shape," Russell said. "We went into the season with a goal of winning four of the six district tournaments, and if we do we should have a lock on winning it."

In addition to McDowell's 78 Hereford got a 79 from both Mike Hill and James Lyles, while Kelly Kitchens carried an 81 and Tommy Weaver finished with an 84.

The Herd JV also played Monday, but struggled to a 359 team total. Herd JV scores included Miles Goforth, 87; Bill Kirk and Randy Marrs, 89; Keith Pagett, 94; Curt Beard, 95; Dee Haigrove, 97; and Jeff O'Rand, 99.

Kentucky Still Atop AP College Rankings

By GARY MYERS
AP Sports Writer

For the first time in a month, a No. 1 team has managed to hold onto its ranking for two consecutive weeks in The Associated Press college basketball poll. The Southeast Conference champion Kentucky Wildcats remained at the top of the latest and next-to-last balloting of sportswriters and broadcasters.

In the voting, which reflects games through Sunday, Kentucky, 24-2, received 37 of the 52 first-place votes cast, and a total of 994 points. The Wildcats beat Georgia and had an easy time with Nevada-Las Vegas in action last week.

UCLA held onto its runner-up spot, collecting 11 first-place votes and 926 points. The Bruins defeated cross-town rival Southern Cal and cross-country rival Michigan to improve their record to 24-2.

Marquette remained in the No. 3 position. The defending NCAA champion Warriors netted a pair of first-place votes and collected 826 points. Marquette defeated Butler and squeezed past Detroit and enters the tournament with a 24-3 record.

The remainder of the Top Ten bears little resemblance to last week.

DePaul jumped from sixth to fourth. The Blue Demons collected one first-place vote and 605 points. DePaul, 25-2, defeated Valparaiso and Illinois State in action last week.

New Mexico also moved up two spots, improving to the No. 5 position. The Lobos received 566 points and upped their record to 24-3 with two wins.

Michigan State moved from ninth to sixth with two Big Ten wins. The Spartans, 23-4, received 456 points. Arkansas, which was No. 1 three weeks ago, plummeted from fourth to seventh after its 70-69 loss to Houston in the Southwest Conference post-season play-offs. The Razorbacks enter NCAA play with a 28-3 slate.

Duke made the most significant improvement of the week. The Blue Devils leaped from 15th to eighth after capturing the Tough Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. Duke, 23-6, received 382 points.

Kansas dropped from fifth to ninth after losing to Kansas State in the semifinals of the Big Eight tournament. The Jayhawks, 24-4, received 379 points.

Notre Dame rounds out the Top Ten, dropping from seventh. The Irish lost to Dayton in its only action of the week and finished the regular season at 19-6.

North Carolina is at the top of the Second Ten. The Tar Heels are followed by Louisville, Florida State, Houston, Utah, which received one first-place vote - Texas, Illinois State, Syracuse, Detroit and San Francisco.

Eleven of last week's Top Twenty teams lost, and thus, only Kentucky, UCLA and Marquette held onto last week's ranking.

Georgetown and Providence dropped out after losses in the ECAC tournament. They were replaced by Houston - which knocked off Arkansas and Texas in winning the SWC tournament -- and San Francisco.

Lucchesi Just Wants 'Justice'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Twelve months and a thousand nightmares later, Frank Lucchesi finds it hard to forgive and forget.

"It's not that I want a pound of flesh - I want 175 pounds of justice," the fatherly, mild-mannered ex-manager of the Texas Rangers says, recalling the beating he took from an outraged Lenny Randle a year ago.

The 51-year-old descendant of Italian immigrants, a baseball man for half his lifetime, has lost his job as manager of the Rangers. Owner Brad Corbett has kept him on as a trouble shooter.

He contends he still is plagued by injuries lingering from the attack. His family has suffered from worry. His two small children have been subjected to embarrassment at school. His professional future is clouded.

The widely publicized incident occurred at a spring training game last March 28 while Lucchesi's Rangers were in Orlando, Fla., to play the Minnesota Twins.

Lucchesi had named young Bump Wills, rookie son of speedster Maury Wills, to start at Randle's old position at second base.

"There was nothing personal in it," Lucchesi explained. "I had conferred with my coaches. They were unanimous that Wills, because of his youth and speed, should be given a shot because of his facility in making double plays."

"Randle came up to me in the dugout and said he'd like to talk to me in private. The next thing I knew I woke up in the hospital."

Randle was fined $10,000 and suspended for a month. Subsequently he was traded to the New York Mets where he proceeded to play outstanding baseball, express regret over his impetuous action and throw himself wholeheartedly into religious of this seeming

Bibby's Future Still in Limbo

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Jack Billingham is a Detroit Tiger but Jim Bibby may or may not be a Cleveland Indian.

The Tigers, seeking to bolster their pitching, acquired the 35-year-old Billingham from the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for two minor leaguers - outfielder John Valle and pitcher George Cappuzzello.

So barring another trade, Billingham knows which uniform he'll be wearing this season. Bibby, however, isn't at all sure.

"I have no preference about which team I go to," the righthander said Monday after he was declared a free agent by an arbitrator in a grievance he filed over the Indians' late payment of a bonus.

For openers, the Philadelphia Phillies are interested in Bibby, who was 12-13 with a 3.57 earned run average last season as both a starter and reliever.

Texas officials indicated that they, too, were interested in reacquiring Bibby, whom they traded to Cleveland on June 13, 1975, along with Rick Waits and Jackie Brown for Gaylor Perry.

Waits is still an Indian but Perry is a San Diego Padre. Brown recently was released by the Montreal Expos and Bibby...well, who knows? He might even wind up back in Cleveland.

Gabe Paul, president of the Indians, said the club would make an attempt to re-sign the pitcher.

help our starting rotation." Billingham was a lifetime 119-95 record but was only 10-10 last year with the Reds, plus a sky-high 5.22 ERA.

An old baseball axiom is that you never have too much pitching so the Kansas City Royals are keeping a close eye on Steve Busby, the one-time ace of their staff who has missed almost two full seasons with arm trouble.

Another hurler attempting a comeback is Larry Dierker of the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-6 during an injury-plagued 1977. Dierker surrendered a two-run homer to Roger Freed during an intrasquad game but Manager Vern Rapp said he thought the right-hander "threw harder than at any time last season."

In other training camp news: Three Baltimore Orioles were injured. Third baseman Doug DeCinces suffered a broken nose on a bad-hop grounder and will be out for at least a week, outfielder Andres Mora sprained an ankle and pitcher Don Stanhouse aggravated a pulled muscle on his left side.

Toters, Vega, and Bad Company were winners in the first round of play in the YMCA Men's Basketball League Championship Tournament Sunday at the high school gym. Toters, the defending league champion, ripped the Steam Rollers 106-39, while Vega got a 2-0 forfeit win over the Midnight Cowboys, and Bad Company etched out a 53-45 victory over HBP. Brand X, a forfeit winner over Cheap Trick, will join the three winners in second round championship play next week.

Next week's slate has Toters playing Vega at 1 p.m., Brand X meeting Bad Company at 2 p.m.; and the Steam Rollers playing the Midnight Cowboys at 3 p.m. and HBP facing Cheap Trick at 4 p.m. in loser's bracket play.

Toters got five players in double figures in racing past the Steam Rollers 106-39. The 100-point plus production was

Texas Bleeding Self Says Official

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - "Texas," Sam Houston once said, "could exist without the United States, but the United States cannot, except at a very great hazard, exist without Texas."

"Amen, brother," chairman Mack Wallace of the railroad commission is wont to say. Wallace and commissioners Jon Newton and John Poerner are shuttling from Austin to Washington preaching an oil and gas sermon that says "what's good for Texas is good for the nation."

Q: Does Texas have any friends on energy outside of its own congressional delegation? A: The natural gas deregulation issue was very close, but I don't view the situation as Texas needing friends. I view the situation as far more serious. I think the country needs analytical leaders who can lay aside the short-term demagogic statements about the production of energy and develop a base on which we can build national security.

Q: How much has commission business with Washington grown in your four years on the commission? A: Tremendously. We communicate on a daily basis, most.

Secretary of Interior. Q: What's your chief gripe about the federal bureaucracy? A: They are unable to make a decision.

Q: How have you been treated personally? A: With the same degree of respect as any other public official. Your reputation as a railroad commissioner proceeds you.

that your tying the development of oil and gas to national security is "crying wolf?" A: What do they call the evidence of the wolf at the door? Fifty billion a year in foreign crude oil payments? I see one-third of the world's known oil reserves joined to Russia by a land bridge. If they want to call that crying wolf, then so be it.

Q: How much has commission business with Washington grown in your four years on the commission? A: Tremendously. We communicate on a daily basis, most.

Dutch Soccer Sensation May Become 'Futbol's' Next Pele

By Arturo Gonzalez Jr.

BARCELONA, SPAIN—The sad soccer gossip here in this hotbed of Spanish futbol — soccer to the Americans — is that the Dutch diamond named Johan Cruyff will, in mid 1978, replace the just-retired Brazilian superstar, Pele, on America's soccer fields.

The angular, 140-pound Dutchman is due to finish his $2-million, three-year contract here in May, just as the American professional season grinds into gear. The New York Cosmos, flagship of the 18-team North American Soccer League, are making no bones about the fact that they'd dearly like to hire this explosive Amsterdamer as heir to the superstar mantle just laid to rest by Pele.

For the record, Cruyff insists that he's going to "retire," having become Spain's most glamorous sports hero since the mator El Cordobes. A frequently damaged knee and a rib cracked over the Christmas holidays in a Spanish league game have undoubtedly slowed up the taciturn center forward.

But few experts close to the sport think Johan is really about to hang up his boots for all time. They remember that Pele, too, was officially "retired" when five million Warner Bros. greenbacks persuaded him that he had three more exciting North American seasons in those aging Brazilian legs. Insiders insist that the flashing of a few million dollars might well rejuvenate the tired Cruyff, who is six years younger than Pele.

Another clue to Johan's probable North American debut in 1978: Cruyff has surprisingly refused to play with the Dutch national all-star team when it takes part in the World Cup, an epic, 16-squad competition held every four years, televised worldwide, which soccer nuts consider to be much more important than the Olympics. He captained the Dutch at Munich in 1974 when they lost the hotly-contested final to West Germany.

"Only a personal appeal from our Queen Juliana might change my mind," reveals Cruyff. "But she won't do it. Therefore, there is no reason to talk anymore about things that are absurd. I have made up my mind and I stay with the decision. There are many personal reasons for it."

Probably the most compelling reason: Cruyff's grim realization that he is target number one for the kidnap and murder-minded Montonero urban guerrillas who have sworn to use incidents during the World Cup as a propaganda vehicle to call attention to political injustice in Argentina. Already, the terrorists stage an average of two deadly incidents a day. The wary Dutchman doesn't warm to the thought that there may be cross-hair sights trained on him from the Argentinian stands. Only recently, he found a kidnapper in his Spanish home and was slightly injured in the ensuing tussle, during which the intruder broke free and fled.

Wouldn't it be a coup, though, if U.S. soccer were to unveil the world's best player in American competition while lesser players from the rest of the world are flailing away at the World Cup in Buenos Aires?

The public relations potential alone has American sports TV execs licking their lips in anticipation. And there's a rags-to-riches angle, too: Cruyff's mother used to clean the steps of the Ajax Club in Amsterdam where Cruyff was first to achieve playing fame.

What kind of a player would U.S. soccer and Cosmos coach Eddie Firmani be inheriting from the Olc World? Cruyff has been called the "Before" of Charles Atlas poster, he's that slightly built. But Bobby Robson, an English manager whose team was recently ripped apart by Barcelona, says "Cruyff is simply magnificent. He may have cost Barcelona a million pounds, but for my money he's unbought. He proved to me he's the best in the world. It seems incredible to me that he wants to retire when he still has at least four great years left in him."

Coach Danny Blanchflower from Ireland, himself a world-class player, says enviously, "Cruyff can find space, and make space, better than any other player in the game today." Russ Osman, a player who has spent several games floundering in the Dutchman's wake, groans, "It's his ability to think quickly and see possibilities at top speed which most amazes me."

America Bound?

Johan Cruyff (right) with Pele and Belgian star Paul Van Himst. Observers believe Cruyff, the world's best player, will follow the Brazilian's lucrative path to New York.

Sometimes, he shows his annoyance at his own team because they can't think as quickly as he does. His speed is terrifying. You can be chasing him, thinking you're both going flat out, when suddenly he goes into over-drive and pulls, clear of you and everyone else on the field.

There can be little doubt that the surging North American league can use a world class star of Cruyff's caliber. The professional game in the U.S. still suffers slightly from the stigma of being considered a haven for over-the-hill ham-and-eggers from Europe teaching their tired tricks to raw and unskilled American kids. Cruyff playing in the U.S. league changes all that. Whatever his price tag he could be the biggest bargain between the Dutch and the Americans since Peter Stuyvesant bought Manhattan island from the Indians for $24 worth of baubles and beads.

Mideast, West Toughest Regions

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Loaded with such heavyweights as Kentucky, UCLA, Arkansas and Marquette, the Mideast and West regionals have emerged as the super powers of the 1978 NCAA basketball tournament.

Nine of the first 11 teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty landed in the Mideast and West. The East and Midwest regionals, in contrast, contain only five members of the Top Twenty.

"There is real strength in the Mideast and West regionals," conceded Wayne Duke, Big 10 commissioner and NCAA basketball committee chairman, in announcing the pairings and at-large berths for the 32-team tournament.

Defending champion Marquette, Southwest Conference co-champion Arkansas, Big Eight titlist Kansas and Metro State power Florida State were among the 11 at-large teams picked by the six-man committee, whose task this year, Duke said, was "the most difficult it has ever been."

Among the notables left out were No. 12 Texas, which tied Arkansas in the SWC; No. 16 Detroit and No. 17 Georgetown. The committee chose 11 at-large teams and five squads received automatic berths but were seeded as at-large entries.

The four at-large berths in the West Regional went to North Carolina, 23-7; Arkansas, 28-3; Kansas, 24-4, and Fullerton State, 21-8.

Marquette, 24-3; Syracuse, 22-5; Providence, 24-7, and Florida State, 23-5, were picked to fill out the Mideast Regional.

In the East Regional, the committee picked Indiana, 20-7; St. Bonaventure, 21-7; Rhode Island, 24-6, and LaSalle, 18-11.

At-large entries in the Mideast Region are DePaul, 25-2; Notre Dame, 19-6; Utah, 23-5, and St. John's, N.Y., 21-6.

The three Eastern College Athletic Conference regional champions — St. John's, Rhode Island and St. Bonaventure — were automatic qualifiers but seeded as at-large teams, as were Fullerton State, the Pacific Coast A.A. titlist, and LaSalle, the East Coast Conference champion.

Automatic qualifiers were seeded based on their conference's tournament record the past five years and at-large teams were seeded according to their won-lost records this season.

Mysterious Ailment Suddenly Hits Spinks

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Spinks was suffering from a rib injury when he won the heavyweight crown from Muhammad Ali, the new champion's lawyer says.

Milton Chwasky, Spinks' attorney, disclosed Monday the rib cartilage injury and said it might prevent him from fighting in the near future.

"Before the fight, I didn't know about a rib injury because I wasn't involved in training," Chwasky said. "After the fight, he had a rib injury."

The 24-year-old Spinks took the title from Ali on a split decision in Las Vegas, Nev.,

Feb. 15. The injury reportedly occurred before the bout.

"I just found out about the extent of the injury today," Chwasky said. He said Spinks would be examined later this week by Dr. James Nicholas, a noted sports physician.

However, Spinks was seen dancing in the wee hours at a New York discotheque Feb. 23 with no apparent sign of an injury.

The announcement of Spinks' injury came a day before a reported meeting between Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, Inc., which has the promotional rights to Spinks' next three fights, and Bob Biron, manager of challenger Ken Norton, for a Spinks-Norton bout in May or June. Biron has agreed to a title fight for which Norton would get only $200,000.

CBS has the television rights to Spinks' first defense against anybody but Ali for a $1.55 million package, of which Spinks would get $1.05 million.

However, Arum wants to rematch Ali and Spinks for a more lucrative closed-circuit television presentation and is trying to convince Norton to wait until the fall for a title shot.
