Israelis Slacken Up on Bombardment

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Fighting slacked off in southern Lebanon today as Israeli forces consolidated their control of all territory south of the Litani River except the port of Tyre.

A token U.N. peacekeeping force was waiting to move in when fighting stopped, but U.N. officials in New York said it could be "weeks or months" before Israel heeded the Security Council's demand to withdraw its troops from Lebanese territory.

The Israeli army reported shelling guerrilla positions but said the level of firing had dropped.

Independent observers in Lebanon said the south was comparatively quiet after intensive Israeli bombardment of Tyre and other guerrilla fallback positions north and south of the Litani on Monday night.

A Palestinian communique issued in Beirut said Israeli made two air strikes during the night against guerrilla positions near Tyre and in the Arkoub region, 50 miles to the west in the foothills of Mount Hermon.

Defense Minister Ezer Weisman told a news conference Israel decided not to occupy Tyre, the Palestinians' chief supply port 12 miles south of the Israeli-Lebanese border, "for reasons of population and to avoid more destruction."

Associated Press correspondent Aly Mahmoud reported from Tyre that the guerrillas remained in tenuous control of a nine-mile coastal strip, stretching from the Rashidieh refugee camp south of Tyre to the Litani, 15 miles north of the border.

"We don't have the weapons they have. We are out-numbered," Mahmoud Labadi of the Palestine Liberation Organization said.

Guerrilla fighters in Tyre cursed their Arab and Soviet backers for failing to come to their aid. "Tell our treacherous Arab leaders that we wish our guns were turned on them rather than on Israel," one guerrilla shouted from a trench.

Less than 300 beleaguered guerrilla fighters were holding on to the city and neighboring Palestinian refugee camps.

Israeli troops and tanks seized the approaches to the crusader city from the south, east and northeast. The Israeli navy blockaded the harbor and only the coastal highway to Beirut was still open.

The bulk of the 10,000 guerrillas retreated to fallback positions north of the Litani when the estimated 15,000-25,000 Israeli invaders launched their final offensive over the weekend.

Israel's military chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, said the escape corridor to the north and the Kasmya Bridge over the river were left open "so the people of Tyre won't feel encircled."

The Israeli Cabinet declared Israel would not withdraw from southern Lebanon until it received assurances that the area "will no longer serve as a base for the terrorists and their murderous attacks." Gur said that to be effective, the U.N. peacekeeping unit must keep guerrillas away from the Litani River, Tyre and the border areas.

Lebanon complained to the United Nations about Israeli air and naval bombardments. Its ambassador told the U.N. a list of "hostile acts" his government said Israel committed since the Society Council's withdrawal resolution was adopted Sunday.

Lt. Gen. Ensis Sillasvuo, commander-in-chief of the U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Middle East, flew from Jerusalem to Beirut today to discuss arrangements to deploy peacekeeping units in the south. U.N. sources in New York indicated sizeable forces would not be sent in until the fighting stopped.

Water-Supply Study Completes 1st Year

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The Bureau of Reclamation has completed its first year of studying water supply problems in a five-state region centered in the Texas Panhandle, according to Darrell D. Mach, the bureau's regional planning officer, who spoke to the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Water Committee and other interested persons Monday at Caison Steak House.

The study's objectives, Mach said, are to identify water supply problems and needs in the area overlying the Ogallala ground-water aquifer, determine the quantity and quality of water resources with special emphasis placed on playa lakes, present and evaluate water-supply concepts applicable to the area and to make recommendations for improvements.

Mach showed slides of bureau projects related to water management in the Ogallala region, which includes the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, eastern New Mexico, western Oklahoma, southwestern Kansas and southeastern Colorado.

"The main purpose of this Llano Estacado study is to focus on playa lakes," Mach said. "These lakes are resources that aren't fully being utilized."

He explained ways playa lakes can be better utilized, including drawing the water from several playas into one large lake. "We can hold it there until it is needed."

The study, Mach said, also includes investigation into the proposed expanded use of wind energy.

"We're looking at the possibility of using wind energy to pump this water."

Mach said the Bureau of Reclamation of the U.S. Department of the Interior is concerned that most farmers presently irrigating crops may have to "drop out of agriculture" or turn to dryland farming sometime in the future because of the depleting water supply in the region covered by in the study.

"There's a large body of water down there. It's only a question of economics."

Mach said that the bureau is aware that several studies and surveys have been conducted on smaller scales in the area, adding that information provided from those studies may be of primary

Hospital Board Joins 'Containment' Program

Directors of Deaf Smith County Hospital District, in regular session Tuesday morning, heard a routine operating report from hospital administrator Ron Welty, approved the medical staff report from Dr. A.T. Mims, and adopted a resolution to participate in a statewide "cost containment" program.

Board chairman Dr. Hap Cavness announced that a drawing had been held for listing of names on the April 1 ballot. The names will appear in this order: L.J. Straffuss, Kathryn Acton, Deward Robertson, Frank Zinser Jr.

Straffuss and Zinser are incumbents, while Wanda Hoover is not seeking re-election to the board. The top three vote getters will be elected to two-year terms. Holdover directors are Cavness, Dr. Gerald Payne and Ed Reinauer Jr. Absentee voting, at the hospital, continues through March 27.

Welty reported that utilization of the hospital in February was below the projected activity. Patient days for the five-month period are down 671 from projections. "The hospital's operating revenue is five percent below projections, while expenses are two percent above."

Welty informed the board about a statewide Hospital Cost Containment program which has a goal of holding the line, or reducing, operating costs. The board voted to approve a resolution to participate in the program.

Directors decided to canvass ballots of the April 1 election on Monday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. Attending the board meeting this morning were directors Cavness, Straffuss, Payne, Hoover and Zinser. Also present were Welty, Dr. Mims, and O.G. Nieman of The Hereford Brand.

Question Session

Candidates for the April 1 school board election will field questions from interested members of the public during a meeting sponsored by the Parents-Teachers-Students Organization beginning at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the administration building board room.

School board candidates include James Gentry, Place 1; Jim Arney, Place 2; Clark Andrews and Eunice Gentry, Places 3 and 4; and Paul Ramirez, Place 5.

Incumbents are Gentry, Andrews and Arney. Paul Ramirez was appointed to the Place 7 position to fill the unexpired term of David Pruitt last week.

Campaigning in Hereford

Governor Dolph Briscoe, seeking re-election to the state's highest office, campaigned Monday in Hereford, addressing nearly 200 local people in a hangar at the Hereford Municipal Airport. Briscoe lauded his efforts since he took office in 1972, stated his support of the Dole farm bill, and presented a proposal for tax relief in 1979 during the short rally. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Governor Announces Support Of Dole Bill for Farm Relief

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Governor Dolph Briscoe stated his support of the Dole farm bill being considered by the U.S. Senate while urging the opening of overseas markets to United States agricultural products during a brief campaign stop late Monday afternoon at the Hereford Municipal Airport.

Briscoe, accompanied by his wife Janey and daughter Cele, told the crowd of nearly 200 inside a large hangar that he endorses "the legislation that will provide up to 100 percent parity prices for products to those that reduce production by 50 percent."

The governor said that much of the farmers' troubles lie in the fact that the European Common Market and Japanese markets are closed to American agriculture.

"We need to take a really hard stand with other nations and markets of the world. I have requested that the president utilize his chief trade advisor to open up these markets that are now closed to the American agricultural market."

"There is no way that this nation can continue to bear the large deficit that has existed. The best way to offset the major deficit is to export products."

Only a handful of American Agriculture Movement members attended the governor's campaign visit in Hereford. He said during a brief meeting with the Hereford press that the milk reception he had received from Panhandle farmers Monday in five cities did not surprise him even though Briscoe critics had accused him of offering his support to farmers too late.

"This has been exactly what I expected. I've met with the leaders of American Agriculture and leaders of other farm groups throughout the state and I think my stand has been obvious. I have a very close and personal

City Appoints Jim Neill To Judgeship

Jim Neill was appointed municipal judge for the City of Hereford Monday night during the regular semi-monthly meeting of the city commission.

Neill, municipal judge prior to the tenure of Woodie McDermitt who died in Houston Saturday, will serve in the position until a permanent judge can be chosen from the list of applicants.

City Manager Dudley Bayne told the commission that only two persons had filled out a complete application as of Monday.

"Both of the applicants are city employees. We do need more applicants. I'm surprised no more than that have

Blood Donors Urged To Give

Local citizens are reminded that a special appeal for blood has been made by Joan Bookout, Hereford drive chairman, in the name of Larry Bain, who needs to replace 123 pints of blood at Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo.

The mobile unit from Coffee Memorial will be stationed at the Community Center from 3-6 p.m. Wednesday collecting pints of blood. Mrs. Bookout encourages all eligible donors to report to the Community Center tomorrow afternoon.

Other Hereford residents who have blood debts with Coffee Memorial include Uriel Jurado, 12 pints; Eugene Knox, 8 pints; Mrs. Minnie Clay, amount unknown; Margaret Plummer, 8 pints; and Barbara Fry, 4 pints.

Blood may be given in the name of the above individuals, for blood insurance or for Hereford's general pool.

Wear Doesn't Limit Talents to Pulpit

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Trying to pin down Bob Wear to determine just how he fits in the clerical world is like trying to count the spots on a crocodile's stomach.

Wear, you see, isn't your run-of-the-mill fire and brimstone, pulpit-pounding preacher, and he isn't exactly sure why he feels obligated to teach the Word of God each Sunday at the Central Church of Christ.

"I don't know why I do it. I guess it's just part of my overall desire to be a useful man," said Wear, who readily admits he would rather do something else.

"I've tried to get out of it—and I have two or three times—but every time I get out...."

...he gets back in. "I had no formal training for this type of work. Never did like it. There are many things about it I don't like, but I do like teaching the Word of God to people and helping people and serving."

Bob Wear—writer, businessman, speaker, civic leader, minister. Just don't call him a preacher or stick the word "Reverend" in front of his name.

"The word 'preaching' has had connotations. I never did like preachers or the word. And the word 'reverend' is used to refer to God the only time it's used in the Bible."

"I hope I'm not a stereotyped minister. I've only done the work because it was there and needed to be done."

Wear, 66, is best known for his column, "The Abundant Life," which appears each Friday in The Brand and has been part of numerous newspapers in West Texas. "The Abundant Life" was a television program until three years ago in the Permian Basin. It also is a radio program.

Wear's writing ability is rivaled only by his talent for public speaking. An after-dinner speaker for 30 years, Wear helped organize the Hereford Toastmasters Club, served as area governor for the organization and until recently was president of the local club.

"The purpose of Toastmasters is to provide men the opportunity to develop their skills in the art of communication. But public speaking is just one form of communication. I like all the different forms, but I guess I enjoy television the best of all—it's a unique type of speaking."

Wear moved to Hereford in 1946

Storms May Cause More Oil Spillage

BREST, France (AP) — New storms threaten to break open the wrecked American supertanker Amoco Cadiz and spill the 29 million or more gallons of oil still aboard along the polluted Brittany coast.

More heavy weather was predicted as gale winds and high seas swept the vessel Monday, delaying a survey for underwater rocks so that a smaller tanker can get alongside to pump out the remaining oil.

Capt. Claude Phillips, marine transport manager for Amoco, said the operation is "completely subject to the weather. We cannot risk lives or ships out there."

Environmental experts said the rough weather could have a beneficial effect by moving the oil away from the coastline and helping to emulsify it, thus reducing the concentration, as has happened in some past spills.

The 1,067-foot tanker carried 67.6 million gallons of oil in 15 tanks when it ran on the rocks and broke in two in a storm Friday. Harry Rinkema, Amoco vice president for marine transport, said he was told there was "a huge slick, eight miles long and a mile wide, containing perhaps 50,000 to 60,000 tons of oil, floating out to sea in the English Channel."

Kidnapper Surrenders As Demands Rejected

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — His demands for a lethal dose of morphine unanswered and his hostages gone, a 24-year-old man surrendered to police and ended a tense seven-hour standoff in a suburban bank.

In custody today for investigation of kidnapping and false imprisonment was an unemployed truck driver identified by police as Robert C. Foster.

Shaken but safe were two bank employees — one Foster's estranged wife, Janie, 24, and Phyllis Matthews, 37, assistant manager of the Wells Fargo Bank branch in a Santa Clara shopping center.

They had ducked out a side door Monday night shortly before Foster gave up, police said.

Li. Bernard Doleshel said a third woman, Valerie Kaufman, was found by officers hidden and unharmed in an upstairs room of the bank after Foster surrendered. He said the gunman was never aware the woman was there.

UMW Leaders Present Contract to Members

By The Associated Press
Rank-and-file members of the United Mine Workers are giving few hints on how they will vote on the coal industry's latest proposal to end the 106-day nationwide coal strike.

Local UMW leaders began presenting the proposed 26-page contract to members Monday. All miners were to have seen the contract by Wednesday; voting starts Friday.

The UMW has rejected two offers from the industry, the first of which never got beyond the bargaining council, and miners have defied a federal Taft-Hartley back-to-work order that a federal judge in Washington last Friday refused to renew.

In an interview with The Associated Press in Washington Monday, UMW President Arnold Miller said "it looks a lot better" for ratification this time. He said UMW district leaders "are explaining it better than last time."

Some local leaders agreed with Miller that the new proposal stands a better chance than the previous pact.

'1 Million Stolen From Armored Car

ST. JOVITE, Quebec (AP) — Four gunmen held up an armored car at a roadside diner early today and made off with about "a million dollars," police said.

It was not known whose money was taken in the robbery, but the armored car is owned by Alliance Securite, a private firm which handles most shipments for the province's credit unions.

A provincial police spokesman in this community about 62 miles north of Montreal said two guards were wounded in the incident.

The guards had stopped at the diner for a snack when the gunmen burst in and fired a shot, the police spokesman said. One of the guards was wounded in the chest and another in the arm. A third guard was beaten when he refused to give the gunmen the keys to the vehicle.

The trio "took part of the money...about $1 million" and fled in a stolen truck, the spokesman said.

No arrests have been made, police said.

Police Report

Four adult males were arrested on charges ranging from public intoxication to disorderly conduct Monday night at The Wishing Well dance hall on Main Street.

Lupe Hamer, 210 Norton, reported Monday that somebody had shot out the street lights on 385 by K-Bob's Steak House with a BB gun. Police are investigating.

New Methodist Preacher Makes Holy Week Debut

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The Rev. William McReynolds, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, hopes that a lack of public participation, will not quench the spirit of his first Holy Week in Hereford.

"We're urging the public to attend these services," said Rev. McReynolds, speaking somewhat excitedly since the local celebration of Holy Week will be his first.

Rev. McReynolds replaced The Rev. Jordan Grooms at First United Methodist in mid-January.

"This is the climax of the church clerical year."

A different pastor will speak each day of the services, which began Monday at the First United Methodist. The half-hour services are scheduled through Friday beginning at 12:05 p.m. Civic clubs have been invited to attend the services as part of their regular weekly meetings.

Rev. McReynolds will speak Wednesday at the Methodist church.

The new Hereford pastor pastored churches in Abilene, Amarillo, Idalou, Spur, Lockney, Quanah, Dumas and Sante Fe, N.M., prior to his being assigned to First United Methodist.

Rev. McReynolds was graduated from McMurray College in Abilene and did his post graduate work at Perkins School of Theology in Dallas. His church service in the Northwest Texas Conference has included membership on the Conference Board of Pensions, the Conference Council on Professional Ministries, the King's Manor Nursing Home board of directors and the Wesley Foundation of West Texas State University in Canyon.

He has served as a field instructor for the Perkins School of Theology intern program.

"We've been very warmly welcomed and made to feel at home in Hereford," Rev. McReynolds said. "The people here are friendly, and there seems to be a real fine relationship among ministers."

Rev. McReynolds and his wife, Dorothy, have three children—Mrs. Larry Coffman of Tulia, Russell of Lubbock and Clay, a student at West Texas State University.

Price Urges Declaration Of Disaster Areas Here

PAMPA — Senator Bob Price has urged that every county in the Panhandle, through its emergency board, declare itself a drought disaster county, so that it may apply for Farm and Home Administration (FHA) emergency loans for agricultural producers and businessmen affected by the drought.

Price, who earlier had asked Governor Briscoe to petition the Small Business Administration (SBA) to include the Panhandle in its drought loan program, said he was pleased to learn that the Governor made such a request to the SBA for 102 Texas counties.

If the SBA approves the request, the Panhandle counties which will be eligible are: Armstrong, Bailey, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Crosby, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Donley, Foard, Floyd, Gray, Hale, Hall, Hansford, Harde- man, Hartley, Hemphill, Hock- ley, Hutchinson, King, Knox, Lamb, Lubbock, Moore, Motley, Oldham, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, and Wheeler counties.

Senator Price was concerned that Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties were not included, and he plans to continue to seek aid for those two counties.

Senator Price said that any SBA loans of up to $250,000 would be made at three percent interest up to a 30 year period. After an agricultural producer or businessman becomes eligible for the loan, his property would be appraised, and the loan be based on the evaluation, in accordance with the amount of equity he has in the property.

Price said that so far only three Panhandle counties (Dallas, Knox and Motley) had applied for the FHA loans, but he believed that every Panhandle county will be eligible. To apply for the loan, a county must declare itself a disaster county, and then receive approval of this designation from the State Emergency Board, the Governor, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

ZUNIGA INFANT

Graveside services were held Sunday afternoon in St. Anthony's Cemetery for Josephina Zuniga, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Demetrio Zuniga of Hereford. The Rev. James O'Connor, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, officiated.

Burial was under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

The infant died shortly after birth Sunday morning in Deaf Smith General Hospital.

In addition to the parents, survivors include one brother, Demetrio Jr. of the home; three sisters, Gracie, Lauria and Loria all of the home; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Magdalena Zuniga of Hereford and Mrs. Mary Lou Morales of Hereford.

BRUCE PLUMMER

Services for a longtime Hereford resident, Bruce Plummer, 87, of 238 Ave. E, will be held at 2 p.m. today in Rose Chapel of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home with the Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Plummer died Sunday in High Plains Baptist Hospital, Amarillo, after a brief illness.

Born Dec. 6, 1890 in Clarinda, Iowa, Mr. Plummer married Margaret Gray Feb. 14, 1915 at Gall. They moved to Hereford from Crosbyton in 1919.

Mr. Plummer was a retired carpenter and a Methodist.

He is survived by the widow; five sons, Allen of Portland, Ore., Glenn of Denver, Colo., Ben of Hereford, Edwin of Phoenix, Ariz., and Melvin of Dallas; three daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Francis of Clovis, N.M., Helen Manning of Alexandria, Va., and Marian Lindell of Albuquerque, N.M.; a brother, Victor of Lubbock; and 17 grandchildren.

Is It a Lighter Than Air White Elephant?

AMARILLO, Texas (NEA) — The national helium storage reservoir is located near here in a field of Dolomite covered over with brittle grass and cattle clips. Depending on one's argument, it is a half-billion dollar monument to (1) brilliant governmental strategy or (2) melancholy federal error.

On the one hand the reservoir assures the nation of an adequate supply of helium for the foreseeable future: 39 billion cubic feet. On the other hand, so what? Helium has some scattered importance in industry and research, otherwise the primary thing it's good for is to inflate blimps and circus balloons.

The reservoir was created in 1961, solely for the purpose of the times. In those days helium was used in the construction of nuclear weapons, and was likewise needed in substantial amounts in the space industry. The 86th Congress ordered a "helium conservation program" to guarantee the element's availability. It seemed like a good idea at the time. Helium is a component of natural gas, and if it's not extracted it is burned away in the kitchens and furnace rooms of America. And since helium consumption was growing at about 15 percent a year in the early 1960's, a reservoir was considered prudent insurance.

As it happened, however, there was a slip twist cup and lip. The U.S. sharply curtailed its space program, and international treaties put a lid on weapons construction. As a result, the need for helium plummeted. For example: the government used 554 million cubic feet of it in 1967, but only 193 m.c.f. in 1971.

So it is that the national helium reservoir here has become something of a lighter-than-air white elephant. R.D. Haynes, general manager of the helium storage program, says the U.S. now has a cube of helium, one-third of a mile to the side, or six times as much as it may consume in the next quarter of a century.

The storage reservoir is a sophisticated facility. It is not, as its name implies, a cavity. Helium is collected (via natural gas) from the microscopic pores of rock formations. To store it, then, it must be forced back into the pores. Haynes says the technology of the stockpiling is considerably advanced. But if the technology of helium conservation is enviable, the economics of it are not. Haynes says the Bureau of Mines borrowed nearly $500 million to finance the helium reservoir, with the idea that profits from increasing sales would be used to pay off the debt. The profits never occurred, and the debt stands.

Haynes says the Bureau of Mines continues to owe $435 million for the storage facility. The interest alone on the sum is $23 million a year.

Dairyman Packages Milk For Long-Term Storage

SUMNER, Wash. (AP) — Curley DeTray says he can't understand all the fuss Eastern researchers are going through to keep milk fresh, since he's been doing it successfully for more than three years.

The process is called ultra-pasteurization, or sterilization, in which DeTray flash-boils the milk, then flash-cools it, killing virtually all bacteria. He claims milk can be stored weeks or months without spoiling, and the flash-method keeps it from tasting as if it's been cooked.

Flash-sterilized milk, which must be refrigerated, has a maximum shelf life of about two weeks — less, if the container is opened fairly soon after packaging.

DeTray runs Valley Fresh Products here, packaging milk

under the Stayfresh label. Besides whole milk, the Valley Fresh line includes 2 percent milk, chocolate milk and carbonyl-flavored milk for an Oregon health food store.

DeTray's customers include Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, the Coast Guard, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the Federal Aviation Administration. He doesn't sell Stayfresh products locally.

His processing room is pressurized, and only filtered, sterile air can get in. Working parts of the packaging machinery are lubricated with steam.

Only one person works in the processing room at a time, and the worker must wear sterile clothing.

"We've got milk that's been sitting outside for three months that's still as fresh as the day we bottled it," DeTray said.

That milk was packaged in a special carton, made of cardboard and lined with foil. The foil makes a tighter package and keeps out the light, providing a three- to four-month unrefrigerated shelf life, although it must be shipped refrigerated because of Agriculture Department requirements, he said.

DeTray pulled a carton out of a cabinet and shook it.

"This one's been in here a while — couple of months — and it's still good. You can tell. If they go bad, they swell up," he said.

And the taste? "It's incredible," said Larry Snyder of Puyallup, taking another sip from the glass. "I think it's actually better than regular milk."

"That's what everyone says," DeTray said. "They say they can't believe it."

SHOPLIFTERS

ATLANTA (AP) — "You are sentenced to write a research paper, make an apology, give two weekends of volunteer service."

Rex Ruff, president of the Georgia Council of Juvenile Court Judges, doesn't think he is doing anything innovative with his sentencing in shoplifting cases. He believes he is simply doing something that makes sense.

And statistics suggest Judge Ruff's approach is working. In 1976, 212 cases of shoplifting came before his court, but as of Sept. 1, 1977, he had dealt with only 87.

Ann Landers Success Defined

DEAR READERS: I promised to print "at some later date" the original, ungarbled version of the definition of Success as it was written in 1905 by Bessie Anderson Stanley. The author's son, Arthur J. Stanley Jr., a senior judge of the U.S. district court in Leavenworth, Kansas, has provided documentation from the Kansas State Historical Society that his mother is indeed the author.

When I first printed the essay in 1966, a reader said it was by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Subsequently, 28 people wrote to say THEY had written it and wanted credit. With pleasure (and a sigh of relief) I set the record straight.

SUCCESS

By Bessie Anderson Stanley

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has enjoyed the truth of pure women, the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world a better place than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a pretty poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given them the best he had; whose life was inspiration; whose memory a benediction.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a good friend who bakes some very special cookies and brings them to my home periodically. A great deal of time and effort go into her cookies. (Not to mention her costly ingredients.) Invariably, she puts these divine cookies in a shoebox.

Even though she uses lots of tissue paper packing I can "taste" the shoes before I even put the cookies into my mouth. I don't want to hurt this woman's feelings but I feel I should tell her. Can you suggest a tactful way?—All Boxed in Columbus

DEAR ALL: Go to the corner hardware store or the Five-and-Dime and buy some plastic containers. Or, do you by any chance save the tins from fruitcakes, candy, etc.? Don't wait until your friend brings over another batch of cookies that taste like shoes. Present her with the containers and tell her the truth. She will consider it an act of friendship.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My cousin, Wilma, age 16, lives in Texas. She has written to say she is coming to visit during the spring vacation. Wilma is a neat girl, lots of fun and has a terrific sense of humor, but she weighs as much as my 18-year-old brother who plays on the high school football team.

Mom says I have to fix her up with some dates or I can't go out when she is here. All the guys I know want to see a picture. I'm afraid to show them what she looks like.

I know it isn't fair to prejudice a girl by her looks, but the guys in Lincoln, Nebraska, are funning about blind dates and I'm in one heck of a spot. Suggest something fast!—Texas Problem Of A Cornhusker

DEAR CORNY: If there's any oil in Wilma's family it wouldn't hurt to mention it. In the meantime, don't try to fix her up with the dudes who have dozens of chicks lusting after them. Pick some of the less-in-demand larger guys. They would probably welcome a fixed-up date.

Gina Griffin Enters Texas State Pageant

Gina Griffin, 13, has been accepted as a candidate-at-large into Texas All American Girl State Pageant. The pageant is scheduled June 12-15, and will be conducted in the Downtown Holiday Inn in Dallas.

Gina will enter the All American Teen Age division with a vocal talent. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Griffin, 200 Ranger Drive.

Gina was first place winner in the Little Miss Hereford Pageant, Miss Junior Hereford division, in 1976.

She attends La Plata Junior High where she is an eighth grader and is a member of the school choir.

The All American Girl Pageant offers five age categories: the All American Tot-ages 3-6; The All American Little Miss-ages 7-9; the All American Miss-ages 10-12; the All American Teen-ages 13-17; and the All American Girl-ages 17-26. The All American Tot, Little Miss, and Miss divisions will compete in street length dress, sportswear, and close-up appraisal.

The All American Teen and All American Girl divisions will be judged on evening gown, sportswear, and close-up appraisal. Except for the All American Tot division, each contestant will perform a three minute limit talent presentation.

A talent winner will be selected from each participating category and will be eligible to advance to the national pageant along with the overall state winners. At the national competition over $5,000 in scholarships and awards will be presented to the winners.

Any persons interested in the state or national All American Girl Pageants may inquire for further information by writing: All American Girl Pageants, P.O. Drawer 1630, Dothan, AL 36301, or call 205/792-4907.

4-H Bean Supper Planned Tonight

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers will stage their annual Bean Supper tonight from 5-8 o'clock in the County Bull Barn in hopes that a large crowd of local citizens will take advantage of the $1 meal.

On this evening's menu will be beans, cornbread, pickles, onions, cherry cobbler, coffee and tea.

Chairmen of the fund-raising project are Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Savage. Proceeds will be used by the County 4-H program to pay for activities such as State 4-H Round-Up, camps and trips.

Members serving on the supervisory committee of the bean supper include Messrs. and Mrs. John Thames, Buel Monroe, Charles Self, Charles Myers, Marvin Finley, Bill West, Bobby Kendrick and Bob Hughes and Mrs. Lynn Jones.

George Warner of George Warner Seed Co. donated the beans and cornmeal for the project.

Legion Dinner Set At Post Home Today

The Hereford American Legion Post and Auxiliary will conduct a birthday dinner tonight on observance of the 59th anniversary of the founding of the American Legion. The meal will be served at 7:30 p.m. and all interested persons are welcome to attend.

Lawrence Carlson is current commander of the local post and his wife is president of the Legion Auxiliary.

Presenting tonight's program will be Bill Serrera, civilian employee of the Air Force in charge of audio visuals and public relations assistant, who will discuss Russia's military build-up in recent years. Serrera resides at Reese Air Force Base.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, March 21, the 80th day of 1978. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1829, an earthquake in Spain killed some 6,000 people.

On this date: In 1685, composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born in Germany.

In 1790, Thomas Jefferson became the first U.S. secretary of state.

In 1803, the French civil code, the Code Napoleon, was completed.

In 1891, a marriage in Kentucky ended the feud between the Hatfields and McCoys.

In 1918, in World War I, German guns bombarded Paris from 75 miles away.

In 1972, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states may not set one-year residence as a requirement for voting.

Ten years ago: New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said he was withdrawing unequivocally from any race for the Republican nomination for president.

Five years ago: The United States vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for a Panama Canal settlement, terming the U.N. action outside pressure on bilateral negotiations between the U.S. and Panama.

Today's birthday: John D. Rockefeller III is 72.

Mrs. Tripp To Address Pen Women

Mary Kate Tripp, formerly of Hereford, will be the featured speaker for Panhandle Pen Women's today during a meeting at Travelodge West in Amarillo.

Born in Dallas, Mrs. Tripp grew up in Hereford and began her newspaper career with The Hereford Brand. She went to work for the Amarillo Globe-News in 1946 and was named book editor in 1961. A graduate of West Texas State University, she is now Area Editor of the Globe-News.

PPW will meet at 10 a.m. for a reading workshop under the direction of Mrs. John Speer of Amarillo. Mrs. Tripp will speak following a noontime luncheon on the subject, "Looking at Books Through a Reviewer's Eye."

Visitors are welcome. Luncheon is $3.25 and no reservations are necessary.

Supreme Court Agrees To Act On Right To Force Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether public officials suing for libel may force journalists to tell what their thoughts, opinions and conclusions were while preparing a news story.

The justices will review an unprecedented ruling handed down by a federal appeals court last November in a still pending lawsuit by former Army Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert against CBS and others.

The lower court said reporters and editors sued for libel do not have to disclose such information. The justices' eventual decision could carry tremendous impact for all future libel suits filed by public officials or public figures.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The CBS program "60 Minutes," decided to investigate the controversy. The ensuing research led to a Feb. 4, 1973 telecast called "The Selling of Colonel Herbert" in which the truth of Herbert's charges was called into question.

Lando also wrote an article for the Atlantic Monthly magazine about his findings in the matter.

Herbert filed a $44.7-million libel suit against Lando, CBS, "60 Minutes" correspondent Mike Wallace and the Atlantic Monthly, charging that the program and article "falsely and maliciously" depicted him as a liar "and as a person who used the war crimes charges as an excuse for his relief from command."

Herbert said his reputation was destroyed by the program and that he suffered severe financial loss.

In other major actions Monday, the Supreme Court:

- Cleared the way for a new trial in a $46-million lawsuit against Ohio officials over the deaths of four Kent State University students during a 1970 antiwar demonstration.

- Let stand a ruling by the Florida Supreme Court that news reporters are not allowed to secretly record interviews.
- Left intact airline policies that force pregnant stewardesses to take immediate, unpaid maternity leaves, turning aside arguments that such policies represent unlawful sex discrimination.
- Declined to hear an appeal by Carmine Galante, reputed kingpin of organized crime in the United States, that he was denied a fair trial on narcotics charges.

Milk Supports Action Delayed by Adjourning

WASHINGTON (AP) - A slip of the tongue last week when Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland had to abruptly end a meeting of the Commodity Credit Corporation's board has thrown Agriculture Department officials into a tizzy on how to legally raise federal milk price supports.

Bergland had formally begun the meeting about 10 a.m. Thursday and had disposed of one minor item on the agenda when security officers said angry farmers were forcing their way into the building one floor below.

corporation - must give advance legal notice that it plans to meet and take up certain items of business.

Since the meeting was adjourned, the question now is whether the board will have to go through the formal procedure of making an advance public announcement that it will convene again.

Investment Policy Pays Off

NEW YORK (AP) - The open-door policy of the United States toward investments from abroad already is reaping large dividends. But even bigger and better benefits may be in the offering.

At that point Bergland asked his board for a motion to end the meeting. Assistant Secretary Dale Hathaway made a motion to "adjourn" the session and it was adopted. Bergland was quickly escorted out of the building by security officers as about 50 farmers scuffled with guards and flowed into an inner patio.

There is no doubt that the board will meet and approve the April 1 milk price support increase, but just when was anybody's guess at the end of the department's work week last Friday.

Meanwhile, the official action pending by the board has been well-known since March 1, when Bergland told a House committee hearing that he planned to boost milk price supports April 1 to $9.43 per 100 pounds, a 4.8 percent increase from the $9 rate which has been in effect the last year.

In the past five years, direct foreign investments in this country have more than doubled to $30 billion, according to a new report compiled by Bank of America, the San Francisco-based institution that is the nation's largest commercial bank.

The door crushers were evicted by riot police within about 30 minutes, but the CCC board members also had dispersed, leaving several items of unfinished business.

Most important was the final item of the unfinished schedule, a decision to officially approve raising federal milk price supports beginning April 1.

Some of the recent activities have included the $210 million purchase by Societe Imetal of France of a 67 percent stake in Pittsburgh's Copperweld Corp.; Michelin Tire Corp. of France's announced plans to invest $300 million to expand tire production; and Sandoz Ltd. of Switzerland's $190 million acquisition of Northrup King & Co., a Minneapolis agricultural chemical producer.

Since the board officially adjourned the meeting instead of called for a recess and stating that it intended to resume at a later time, there now is a legal snafu on how to proceed.

The $9.43 level will be in effect until Oct. 1, when the department under law will have to review the dairy situation again and decide whether another increase is in order. The law requires milk price support reviews twice a year and calls for an increase to keep prices above a certain level tied to production costs.

KEYS TO RECREATION LEADERSHIP 4-H FIRSTHAND
By Crystal Finley

about it. Hello, I'm Crystal Finley and I'm a member of Argen Draper 4-H Club.

Recreation is a very important part in our lives. We get lots of things out of it but most of all we have fun.

There are four main keys to recreation. Key #1-recreation and what it is, #2-importance of recreation, #3-qualities of a good recreation leader, and #4 how to develop leadership ability.

Key #1: you might say that recreation is what you do when you don't have anything to do. They include games and fun things but they are not considered work.

Key #2: your life can't be all work, you have to have fun. That is why it is important. For meetings you need recreation so it won't get dull and people just get tired of listening and sometimes quit listening.

Key #3: being a good leader is important and there are ten steps in being a leader. Step #1-Show Enthusiasm. Step #2-Plan the program. Step #3-Keep your Head. Step #4-Know the Games. Step #5-Explain Briefly-Demonstrate. Step #6-Use your Voice. Step #7-Overlook Mistakes. Step #8-Have the Equipment Ready. Step #9-Do not do it all yourself. Step #10-Know when to Stop.

Key #4: go other places to learn new things and new games. To lead something you must be seen, you must be heard, and must be understood.

Airplane Crash Still Puzzling

HOUSTON (AP) - Investigators were still puzzled about what caused a twin-engine aircraft to crash and burn during what appeared to be a routine landing at Houston Intercontinental Airport early Sunday, killing the pilot and his passenger.

Killed in the crash were 25-year-old Terry William Lane, a corporate pilot for a restaurant chain, and Judith Nunnery, 28, an air traffic controller at Houston's Hobby Airport.

Authorities said the plane was landing at the airport after a 10-minute flight from Hobby on the city's south side when the crash occurred about 1:30 a.m.

The nose and cockpit of the Beechcraft 90 were destroyed in a fire after the crash, but an autopsy performed by the Harris County medical examiner's office revealed Lane and Miss Nunnery died of skull fractures and chest injuries received before the fire.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators were mystified by the fact that the plane hit the runway in a near-vertical, nose-down position.

Airport manager Bill Backley said it was the first fatal crash on the runways of the airport since it opened in 1969, though some have occurred on approaches.

Boyce Tate, assistant chief air traffic controller at Hobby, said Lane landed at Hobby and waited for Ms. Nunnery to get off work before taking off for Intercontinental. Tate said the woman had been employed at Hobby for about three years.

Of the $30 billion invested in 1976, about 41.6 percent was concentrated in manufacturing, the report said, and nearly 20 percent was invested in petroleum operations. The largest investors were the Netherlands, Canada and the United Kingdom, each with roughly one-fifth of the total.

Though the growth has been substantial, there appears to be a great deal of room left for future investments. Foreign-owned businesses accounted for less than 2 percent of the United States' gross national product in 1976, according to a study by The Conference Board, a New York business research firm.

Bank of America cites three reasons for this rather modest showing. "Companies based abroad frequently have cited labor costs, taxes, and the sheer size of the U.S. market economy as factors that have restrained them from pursuing the advantages of direct investment here," the report states.

These disadvantages have leveled off in recent years, the bank says, leading to the conclusion that investments will continue to increase, possibly at a faster pace.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

It's no use for me to diet. I know that now.

All those years when my knees rubbing together whispered "No, no," but there was a "Yes, yes" in my mouth, I fought the battle.

All those years when I lost ten pounds every Monday (five in my neck and five in my bust), I hung in there.

All those years when I embraced cottage cheese as a formal religion, I gave it my all.

But after yesterday, I have to admit, I'm beaten. I'm fighting the battle alone.

It started in the morning when I faced the refrigerator with my hand over my heart and once again pledged allegiance to hunger. I poured myself a half glass of tomato juice mixed with half a glass of buttermilk and tossed it down. I felt virtuous.

At lunch, I threw down a cup of bouillon and pretended celery was wicked.

I had dinner ready to serve by 3:30 in the afternoon. It was well-balanced and would be totally satisfying. Broiled fish, and oil-free salad, asparagus and an apple.

At 4:00 p.m. I looked at the dinner again. It looked pale, so I surrounded it with a fruit salad with coconuts in it.

At 4:30, with nothing to do, I rolled out a pan of biscuits to pop into the oven.

By 5:00, the asparagus looked naked without a sauce, I opted for a Hollandaise.

By 5:30, I was furious. How dare me husband be late and force me to obesity? I added whipped potatoes to the meal.

By 5:45, as I stood watching the driveway, I got a horrifying feeling. How could you possibly serve dry whipped potatoes? I added a pan of gravy.

By 6:00, the fish looked terminal. I decided to get my husband's mind off the small main course by giving him a robust appetizer. I rolled out those little butter, cheese and flour things stuffed with olives and popped them in the oven.

By 6:15, I sliced the apples and covered them with a pie.

At 6:30, my husband walked into the kitchen. "I'm home!" he shouted brightly.

"You animal! You don't care about other people at all. How they look. How they feel about themselves. If I go to my grave with pantyhose around my hips, let it be on your conscience!" He pretended he didn't know what I was talking about.

Spear Reports Wrecks on Rise

DALLAS (AP)—The head of the Texas Department of Public Safety reported Monday that Texas motorists set an accident death toll record in 1977.

"Speed is a pervasive problem and it is one which continues to worsen," Col. Wilson E. Spear, DPS director, said in remarks prepared for the annual conference of the Texas Safety Association.

"The most prevalent contributing factor in fatal accidents is speed over the limit or speed too fast for conditions," Spear said.

He said that DPS statistics on 1977 traffic fatalities, just completed last Wednesday, show that "we killed 3,698 people last year—a 14 percent increase from the 3,230 deaths reported in 1976."

He said the 3,698 deaths also exceeded the previous record of 3,692 reached in 1973, which was the last year of the 70-mile speed limit.

There were 504,001 motor vehicles accidents last year in Texas compared to 479,203 in 1976.

The injury total is still tentative but is expected to be more than 105,300, compared to 96,348 in 1976.

"The economic loss from traffic accidents in Texas last year was approximately $1.7 billion," Spear said.

Spear stressed that violations of law, particularly speeding, figure in almost every accident.

At the end of 1973, with the 70-mile limit still in effect, the average speed on Texas highways was 63.5 mph. This fell appreciably in 1974 during the energy crisis, but began to rise soon afterwards. In 1976, the average speed was calculated to be 58.2 mph and by the end of 1977 the average had risen to an even 60 mph.

"Today," Spear said, "some 79 percent of all motorists are driving over 55. On the rural interstate highways, the percentage exceeding 55 is even higher. This lack of discipline on the part of drivers alarms me considerably, because the evidence demonstrates that substantial numbers of lives could be saved with only a moderate reduction in speed."

Spear said law enforcement officers are working harder than ever but have been unable to stop the speed trend. There were 1.1 million traffic arrests made by DPS troopers in 1977, including 774,240 for speeding. This compares with just 307,524 arrests in 1973 under the 70-mile limit.

Three unions are fanning the flame. The Teamsters, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the United Auto Workers. Each of these would like to unionize office workers.

In Chicago there has been since 1973 an association of office workers calling itself WE—Women Employed—secretaries, clerks, technical and semiprofessional employees in about 100 Loop businesses.

The first objective of WE was to combat discrimination in employment; that issue won the organization its original following.

One of WE's early targets, the Harris Bank, says these women of WE play rough, that they descended on the bank's personnel office with nonnegotiable demands, punctuated with obscenities, and departed with a threat to "cause trouble."

And they did.

They filed sex-bias charges with the Treasury Department, complained to a Senate committee and now have the Department of Labor investigating the bank.

Meanwhile, WE recently sent 25 members with placards to march in the bank's lobby.

But while these confrontations appear to be leading yet," Carr said.

The smaller cities are scrambling to keep pace with the unexpected dents into their pavements and their budgets.

"Of course, we didn't dream. We didn't have it in the budget," said Ike Fennell, Paris street superintendent. "We might have to slack off on some of the other repairs if we can't make it reach."

"We patch every day. It'll take a pretty good while," Fennell said. "We run sometimes three patching crews a day."

In East Texas, F.B. Thurman of Tyler said his budget is "getting eaten up."

Potholes Cost Officials Fortune

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer

Potholes in the streets and highways of the northern sections of Texas do more than jar passing vehicles. They also cost money.

State and municipal street and highway officials in affected areas are busily studying budgets to find ways to pay for repairing the damage done this past winter.

The potholes were caused by freezes and thaws that swelled and then contracted the surfaces of the roadways.

Potholes, the most visible reminder of a harsh winter, would not have been so bad if temperatures had hovered on one side or the other of the freezing mark.

Mark Goode, in charge of Texas Highway Department operations, said, "The roadway system in the south was not as severely affected as the north."

"Dallas was as severe if not worse than anything I recall," he said. "All of the north was quite severe."

Hard-pressed Dallas street maintenance supervisor John Murphy, who estimated the cost of pothole repairs at $600,000, said all of the axle-jarring holes should be at least temporarily filled within the next few weeks.

"The problem that really caught the Dallas area was an intense increased number of freeze-thaw cycles. It tore us up," he said. "I've got a gut feeling we had about 30 freeze-thaw cycles."

Ray Carr, an assistant superintendent in Fort Worth, estimated the city has already spent $225,000 for temporary repairs, with work slated to continue into the summer.

"We've got some money set up for repairs such as this. Whether that will cover all of it or not, we haven't determined

GAS STATION OF TOMORROW?
NEW YORK (AP)—Tomorrow's gas station will be self-service, with big "pumpers," larger though fewer in number than those of today, and more appealing to the eye, believes William Olcott, chief editor, National Petroleum News.

Olcott sees hoses being positioned overhead and motorists reading gallons and prices on more sophisticated electronic readout displays.

Instead of cash, he expects that payment will be made through a type of credit card that also unlocks the pump to allow gasoline to flow.

'Work', Anyone?

And another thing: Am I the only person left on earth willing and happy to type for a living?

I spend at least eight hours every day at a typewriter—and I've done so happily and without resentment.

Yet, one after another, potential employees in my office insist "I don't want to get stuck with a typing job!"

It's those so-called "ladies' magazines" which are brainwashing women with the notion that anything less than being chairperson of the board is somehow undignified and unworthy of their liberated talents.

Newspaper and magazine articles galore are designed to inevitably to further unionization of women in white collars, their valid grievances—against discrimination, for example—are being discredited with nit-picking proclamations against "fixing the boss' coffee" and that sort of thing.

But for those of us whose professional careers require "thinking with our fingers," it is the emerging resentment of the typewriter that is most distressing.

embarrass women who take job-jobs.

In my small office, all of us have to do some typing; me more than anybody.

And heretofore we have never felt sorry for ourselves nor discriminated against nor in any way "inferior" as a result.

Any job is likely to become monotonous from time to time, but on those days we just try to think of all the girls who turn away—who are depending on us for their unemployment pay—and we just keep on keeping on.

Trial Recordings Nixed in Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday let stand a ruling by Florida's highest court that reporters are not allowed to secretly record interviews.

The justices refused to review an appeal by Miami television station WCKT and the Miami Herald to strike down a Florida law that prevents such recording.

The appeal missed by only one vote of being granted full review. The votes of four members are needed, and Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Harry A. Blackmun voted to hear arguments in the case.

The Florida Supreme Court last October ruled that the state law, passed in 1974, was constitutional.

Essentially, the law prohibits, under threat of criminal sanctions, the filming or recording of any conversation without the prior consent of all persons taking part in the conversation.

Until 1974, Florida's law banned recording of conversations in which no party to them gave consent—wording similar to federal laws against wiretapping and other electronic bugging.

After the law was amended by the Florida Legislature, WCKT and the Herald sued, charging that the amended law violated their free-press rights and interfered with investigative reporting techniques.

Finding that "many stories of great public interest could not have been published save for the use of concealed or unannounced electronic recording devices," a state trial judge declared the law unconstitutional.

State Attorney General Robert Shevin appealed to the state Supreme Court, which reversed Stone's ruling.

"Hidden mechanical contrivances are not indispensable tools of news gathering," the state Supreme Court said.

Finding that "many stories of great public interest could not have been published save for the use of concealed or unannounced electronic recording devices," a state trial judge declared the law unconstitutional.

State Attorney General Robert Shevin appealed to the state Supreme Court, which reversed Stone's ruling.

"Hidden mechanical contrivances are not indispensable tools of news gathering," the state Supreme Court said.

Catholic Joins Anti-Prison Group

EDINBURGH, Texas (AP)—A member of an area Roman Catholic diocese commission has joined a prison reform group's effort to delay construction of a state prison near here.

Francisco Briones, executive director of the Church and Society Commission of the Brownsville diocese, warned Monday against hasty action on the proposed prison.

"We should not be rushed into such a far-reaching endeavor without measuring the consequences it would have on the lives of the people," Briones said at a news conference.

At the conference, Charles Sullivan of the Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants blamed the Texas Department of Corrections for over-estimating the potential economic effects of the prison.

"Prison towns in Texas are very much poverty stricken. There are not going to be any local merchants making money," he said. A final decision on the purchase of property for the facility is to be made March 28.

While TDC officials and local businessmen have said the prison would bring 200 jobs to the area, Sullivan said "half, maybe" of the posts would go to local residents.

Falsely Jailed Man Seeking Restitution

EVERETT, Wash.—(NEA)—David Webb's ordeal began in the spring of last year. Two women had been raped, and the 29-year-old part-time bartender matched the description of the perpetrator. He was arrested and jailed on a cloudy 29th of April.

He was not guilty; three members of his family insisted that he was home in

Webb believes his scribbles to God were read on high. Whatever the case, a miracle of sorts did occur. By chance he befriended an inmate from another prison, who, also by chance, knew a third convict who turned out to be responsible for the rapes that had relegated the luckless Webb to the lockup. The third man eventually confessed to authorities. The Webb will always be paying for the crimes he didn't commit: "He had a record, remember. And people now know his name. I'd be surprised if he found a job very soon."

Webb says he wants compensation for the entire burden. But it may not be easy to come by. Although overturned convictions are not uncommon in the American judicial system, and unknown thousands of people have been in Webb's predicament, neither federal nor state governments give restitution freely.

In Washington state, for example, there is no appeal process for compensation. There is a system that compensates victims of crime, but not victims of circumstance. Webb's lawyer, Dick Swanson, says the judicial apparatus is structured to admit mistakes, when necessary, but not to pay for them.

Webb can't even sue the prosecuting attorney. Not with any hope of success, anyway. A spokesman for the American Bar Association says that as long as prosecutors stay within the bounds of their sworn duties, they are generally immune from any liability for mistakes, oversights, or excessive pursuit.

Webb does have one chance. The state legislature. Attorney Swanson says he will try to convince the lawmakers to enact a private bill for the relief of his client. Five years ago Washington legislators granted $100,000 compensation for a pair of wrongly convicted men; Swanson says they should do it again, now.

Meanwhile, though free, David Webb is not yet clear. He is broke, supported by his mother, and without prospects. The judge has restricted his movement and contacts. Some police detectives still believe he's guilty, and at least one neighbor says she would not like to be caught alone with "that person."

Webb says he hopes for the best, but worries just the same. Even if the state does grant compensation, he knows, it quite obviously will not be able to give him back everything.

Webb says he is not particularly bitter about the experience... Yet there is one thing that haunts him: the financial loss of the 10-month affair. He says he spent everything he had on the trial, $2,700. Besides this, his mother contributed an additional $5,000 to support his defense...

bed at the time of the crimes. Nonetheless, the evidence was against him. Shortly after arraignment, Webb was placed in a police lineup and the rape victims, night clerks in convenience stores, swore that he was the one.

The miscarriage of justice was swift. Webb had already served time in prison for other crimes. Besides this, he flunked a polygraph test regarding the rapes. A tough jury found him guilty after four days of trial and he was sentenced to serve up to 50 years in prison.

Webb was removed to the Walla Walla penitentiary (it's double bad, inmates say), and put with three other men in a 10 foot square cell. One of the first things he did was buy a Bible; "I am in Walla Walla state prison," he wrote on one page, "and am facing a life sentence for crimes I didn't commit."

Yet there is one thing that haunts him: the financial loss of the 10-month affair. He says he spent everything he had on the trial, $2,700. Besides this, his mother contributed an additional $5,000 to support his defense, and several hundred dollars more to keep him in cigarette money in prison.

Then there was the potential income that Webb lost in jail. He was earning $100 a week as a bartender, and expected to double it last summer as an orchard field worker. "When you add it all up," he says, "it's $8,000 for the trial and at least $5,000 in lost wages. That's a grand total of $13,000."

Actually, the real total is higher. No figure can be placed on the costs to Webb's reputation, for instance. A local judge says court was then satisfied that no co-game collusion was involved. On Feb. 3, after 302 days of incarceration, Webb was released.

Webb says he is not particularly bitter about the experience. Even though he bears almost no resemblance to the actual rapist (the confessed man is 10 years older and bald), and though one of the rape victims now says she was in error, Webb believes his conviction and imprisonment were honest mistakes.

Yet there is one thing that haunts him: the financial loss of the 10-month affair. He says he spent everything he had on the trial, $2,700. Besides this, his mother contributed an additional $5,000 to support his defense, and several hundred dollars more to keep him in cigarette money in prison.

what this to be a prison town?" he said, adding that other prison towns have an atmosphere of "misery, bitterness and depression."

Rain was considered a delicacy by Persians and Egyptians more than 4,000 years ago. In 1000 B.C., Israel's King David once accepted rain as payment for taxes.

The San Joaquin Valley in California, an area that is about 50 miles wide by 240 miles long, produces more rain than anywhere else in the world, according to National Geographic.

The Lighter Side

LITTLE COMPTON, R.I. (AP)—Car Haffenreffer is having little luck leasing some prime ocean-view property for $1 a year. The deal has some catches.

Haffenreffer's property is the Sakonnet Point Lighthouse, a 94-year-old tower sitting on a rock in often-turbulent waters at the mouth of the Sakonnet River.

The lessee would be responsible for both liability and upkeep, and Haffenreffer says it's a never-ending battle to protect the metal housing of the light-house from rust.

He said he's had the lighthouse painted twice since he bought it in 1961 and that the total cost was more than $5,000.

The other problem is the tower's location. Even a boat trip to the lighthouse is an adventure, according to Haffenreffer, who says "you are taking your life in your hands" if you try to reach it in rough seas.

The $1-a-year offer still stands.

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry O. Dormann could have taken his wife out in any of his three Rolls-Royces to celebrate her birthday.

Instead, he rented a double decker bus and a driver for $150 and had his wife, Alice, picked up in front of the Metropolitan Museum on Sunday, a short distance from their home.

The couple and their two teen-age children rode to a delicatessen in lower Manhattan for hot pastrami sandwiches. Then they boarded the English bus for a trip to an ice cream parlor at Madison Avenue and 79th Street where they had coconut cones.

"Every year I try to do something special for her," said Dormann. One birthday, he arranged for Emmett Kelly, the clown, to present a gold rose he had bought at Tiffany's to Alice during a circus performance.

"I think every woman should have a husband like mine," said Alice.

Pope Paul III, Cancels Activities

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI, suffering from a prolonged bout of the flu and a persistent fever, has canceled most of his Easter Week activities, the Vatican announced Monday.

The 8-year-old pontiff is taking antibiotics to overcome the illness, said the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, the Vatican's spokesman.

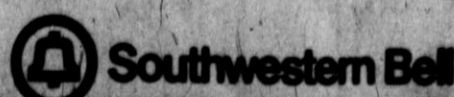

For the first time in his 15-year pontificate, Pope Paul skipped Palm Sunday Mass, although he appeared at his window and gave his usual noon blessing. Panciroli said the pontiff will also miss his general

Longhorns Meet Wolfpack In NIT Finals Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) - Sure, there were more important things to think about Monday morning. But Texas Coach Abe Lemons was interested in breakfast first.

"It was $4.95 for two eggs," moaned Lemons. "I asked to see the chicken because I didn't think there was any chicken worth $4.95 for laying two eggs."

Lemons won't have to put up with New York prices much longer. The National Invitation Tournament basketball title will be contested Tuesday night between his Longhorns and the Wolfpack from North Carolina State.

"I think we've got to be the surprise team," said Lemons. "When we lost by two to Houston in the Southwest Conference playoffs, I thought the season was all over for us. Now, here we are, risen from the dead."

They are challenging for the NIT crown after a 72-58 victory over Temple, a 67-48 triumph over Nebraska and Sunday night's 96-76 thrashing of Rutgers. That gained the 25-5 Longhorns the right to meet the 21-9 Wolfpack at Madison Square Garden.

Lemons doesn't know what to expect from North Carolina State and doesn't seem to care.

"I never scout an opponent," Lemons maintained. "How smart can I be? I've never written a book."

"Scouting means nothing. If you play to your strength, you don't have to worry about anything. There are times when you're going to lose. No matter what the heck you know about a team, they're going to beat you. There are going to be nights like that, when they're just better than you."

"And very frankly, coaches don't contribute that much to a team's success. If you've got self-motivated people that are talented that's all you need."

"And very frankly, coaches don't contribute that much to a team's success. If you've got self-motivated people that are talented, that's all you need."

Then he addressed the media at the NIT luncheon: "You people are doing your job because someone thinks you're the best at it. I'm doing mine for the same reason. That's why they hired me."

The referees mean more than the strategy, says the Texas coach.

"They're the ones that dictate the game, not the players. If they let you play, you can play a certain way. Some games you can stand in the lane all night and they won't call three seconds. Some games you can hit a guy in the nose and not get called. Another time you get thrown out of the game."

Lemons' Longhorns meet a North Carolina State club that reached the finals on an 82-70 victory over South Carolina, an 84-77 victory over Detroit, and Sunday night's dramatic 86-85 overtime triumph recorded on a 40-foot "throw it up and hope shot" by Clyde Austin.

"When I saw them running up the court," recalled Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan, "I looked up and said, 'God, it's even 'em up time.' All you want to do with a shot like that is get it off."

Austin got the shot off, the ball swished through the hoop and the Wolfpack was a one-point winner.

Irish Gravy Gets Thicker With Win

By The Associated Press

Of course, the phones were ringing off the hook at the Notre Dame Athletic office from the minute it opened at 8 o'clock in the morning. There was the matter of thousands of people asking, "Do you, by any chance, at all, have tickets for the NCAA semis and finals in St. Louis?"

There are 1,200 tickets allotted each team in the "final four," said Digger Phelps, who guided the sixth-ranked Irish to an 84-64 rout of No. 3 DePaul Sunday and earned the right to meet Duke in the NCAA semifinal next Saturday. "Thanks to 14 kids, it's a reality. All we've been living for is this moment. The rest is gravy."

The rest also is pressure and emotion and sellout crowds and national television audiences as Notre Dame — national college football and fencing champions already this year — goes for its third title of 1978.

Senior forward Dave Batton noticed the pressure's effect Sunday, when Phelps let his reserves finish off DePaul in the Midwest Regional final.

"To show you how emotional Digger was, when he took us out, he was crying," said Batton. "That shows a lot of man if he was that emotional."

Then if the 23-6 Irish end up winning the title, they might need to have a stretcher on standby at the St. Louis Checkerdome.

First, however, there is 26-6 Duke. The seventh-ranked Blue Devils downed Villanova 90-72 in Sunday's East Regional final.

"We set the tempo right from the opening tip," said Duke center Mike Gmiski. "We came out smoking. We got our running game going. I can't remember when we came out as fired up. There was no way we were going to be denied this trip to St. Louis."

Neither were the first-ranked Kentucky Wildcats 28-2, and

No. 5 Arkansas Razorbacks, 31-3.

"We'd prefer to play Kentucky rather than Michigan State," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "You know there's certain ball clubs you play better than others."

Kentucky defeated Michigan State 52-49 on some clutch shooting by Kyle Macy in Saturday's Midwest Regional final. The Razorbacks bested upset-minded Fullerton State 61-58 in the West Regional to set up Saturday's confrontation.

Arkansas plans to use its speed against the Wildcats.

"We're going to have to run the ball on them because they're so big and physical," said Sutton. "Quickness-wise we're going to have the advantage on them."

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) - The purse for the eighth running of the Golden State Derby, the quarter-horse event scheduled April 23 at Bay Meadows, will be more than $300,000, it was announced.

Spencer Childers, president of the Peninsula Horse Racing Association, said Monday the record purse was assured when two owners made their horses supplementary nominees for the 440-yard test for 3-year-olds.

One of the nominees, Jennifer Jet, won a $175,000 stakes race at Los Alamitos earlier this year. The other new nominee was Maggie's Fleet.

The two owners paid $19,600 each to supplement their horses.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) - The Chicago White Sox have released veteran pitcher Bruce Dal Canton.

The White Sox said Monday that Dal Canton, a 35-year-old knuckleballer, is free to make a deal for himself. However, if he is not signed by another team, Dal Canton will be offered a job in the Chicago minor league system, the team said.

Dal Canton pitched for Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Atlanta before joining the White Sox last year.

Rodeo Stock Contract Let

Jack Andrews, rodeo director for the Fourth Annual G.R.A. sanctioned Professional All Girl Rodeo in Hereford announced Saturday that Flying "J" Rodeo and Cattle Company will produce this year's show.

Johnny Ackel, the stock contractor who submitted the most competitive bid, named G.R.A. secretary treasurer Lidia Moore as rodeo secretary and time keeper for the three day show scheduled for August 25-27.

Andrews also said that there would be several special events during the rodeo including a girls calf scramble, a wild mare race, and other events for spectators to enjoy. The Hall of Fame Rodeo committee is still accepting bids from clowns and bullfighters. The deadline for submitting those bids is April 3. Those interested in bidding this year should write the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage center at Box Hereford, Texas.

Mens' Tourney Down to Four

While the NCAA basketball tournament drew down to the final four Sunday, the local YMCA mens' basketball league did likewise with a trio of games in its championship postseason tournament.

Vega pushed into the finals of the tournament with a 56-51 win over Bad Company in the winners' bracket finale, while Toters and Brand X kept their hopes alive in losers' play.

continue April 2 with Brand X meeting Toters at 1 p.m. and the winner of that game then playing Bad Company at 2:30. Vega will then play the winner of that contest the following week for the tourney championship.

The tourney winner must face Toters, the round robin winner, for the league championship.

SWITCH TO DEFENSE

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Defensive back Nolan Cromwell of the Los Angeles Rams played quarterback in his college days at the University of Kansas. He was asked about making the switch to defense in the pro game.

"It took a psychological adjustment to go back to thinking defensively," he said. "You sort of have to rearrange it in your mind. Of course, I was lucky in that I played in the defensive backfield my first two years at Kansas before switching to offense as a junior."

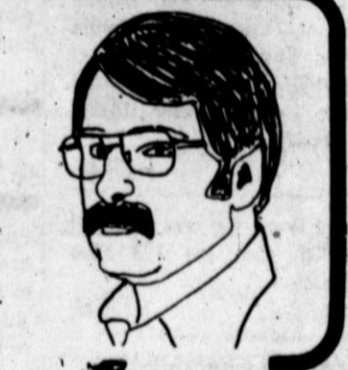

Brand X overcame a late scare to defeat Cheap Trick 45-41, while Toters trounced the Midnight Cowboys 74-43. Mike Simpson and Dennis Doty tallied 10 points each in leading Brand X to its win. Mike O'Rand's 18 led the losers.

Jim Laxon scored 21 points and Jay Hoffman added 18 more as Toters axed the Midnight Cowboys, who were topped by Ross' 11 points.

In the winners' finale Vega crept to a 24-23 lead over Bad Company at the half, and kept the lead at one through the third stanza as both teams scored 11 points. A 21-17 advantage in the final 10-minute stanza provided the impetus for the victory.

Vega was led by Larry Richardson and Ronnie Fangman with 13 points each, while Roy Martinez 13 led the losers.

The league will take a break for Easter next Sunday and will Shorty Roark became the latest local golfer to accomplish a hole-in-one when he knocked a three-iron shot into the cup on the 175-yard ninth hole at the Pitman Municipal course here Sunday.

Roark had plenty of witnesses for his feat. Playing with him were Jerry Payne, W.C. Russell, Emory Brownlow, and Virgil March.

Roark was presented with a new putter compliments of Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac for his feat. Local pro Mike Horton made the presentation.

Well, another year has come and gone and the Annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Super Sports Weekend is again history. The weekend was blessed with unusually good weather considering the harsh winter just passed and the always present threat of high winds.

Thursday and Friday were near perfect weather-wise, while Mother Nature let us know she was still around Saturday with a rise in wind speed for the boys' version of the track meet and final rounds of baseball and golf play.

From comments heard around the scene we can be proud of the fact that our track meet is one of the best-organized and run events on the slate each spring. Congratulations are in line for C of C president Speedy Nieman and sports committee chairman Tom Simons for a fine show.

While the HHS track teams were under the weather somewhat due to key injuries and didn't fare as well as had been hoped, the Whiteface baseballers broke loose to win the local tournament, scoring 32 runs in three games along the way.

The baseball team, under new coach David Ashby and assistant Mickey Miller, has already won just one game less than they won all last year when they finished with a 6-22 mark. The Herd stands 5-2 currently, and both losses were one-run affairs to Caprock.

The Herd will be trying to make it five in-a-row today when they play in the Pampa Invitational, which was moved back due to nasty weather up north a few weeks back.

The team will take an eight-day rest following the tourney today, and will conclude the non-district slate at Borger March 30 (Excluding a solo contest against Levelland May 2 at the break of loop play).

The Whitefoaces will begin District 4-4A play in Plainview April 4 and will be at home against Monterey April 8.

In the midst of all the local activity the past weekend Hereford gathered an honor from the recent basketball season when Tammy Heard was named to the second team of the all-district cage squad.

Heard, an integral part of the HHS girls' team, was part of the team selected by the coaches of the nine-team league, which played five-player basketball least season. The league didn't play in the University Interscholastic League, which used the six-player format.

second team by Borger's Mary Ann Line, Kim Laird of Plainview, Caprock's Sheila Lamb, and 'D' Conway of Pampa.

Coach of the year honors went to Caprock's Marcia Shield-knight.

While we're passing out pats on the back, let us congratulate Brand outdoors editor Jim Steiert for his second-place award in the AP Managing Editor's contest announced Sunday.

Jim's accomplishment put the Brand "on the map" within the membership of the AP newspapers, and we feel that the award was very much earned. He's not only a pleasure to work with, but there's no one we'd rather be with when working a playa lake looking for duck or hiding under a blind waiting for those majestic geese to float over within range while he draws them nearer with his magic call.

In 1974, Randy Morgan of the Samford basketball team hit on 23 consecutive field goals over a span of three games.

The New York Yankees have been in nine world series sweeps, six on the winning side and three on the losing.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

SWISS CHALET styling highlights the interior of this two-story house. Plan HA1026C by Derick B. Kipp offers a vaulted living room, family room, large kitchen, dining room and lavatory on the first floor, and three bedrooms and two baths on the upper level. This home has 1,196 square feet on the first floor and 640 square feet upstairs. To obtain more information, write to the architect—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 48 West 48th St., Room 505, New York, N.Y. 10036.

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM DEAR POLLY — How do you take creases out of a flannel-backed plastic tablecloth? — G.E.C. DEAR G.E.C. — Have you tried spreading your cloth out flat, covering with a clean cloth and then pressing with a warm iron? Leave flat until it is cool. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns ladies' blouses or slack tops and men's sport shirts. These are worn open at the neck and the part that turns back usually has such a narrow facing that the wrong side of the material shows. This does not look very good. — MRS. H.L.N.

DEAR POLLY — Those of us with pierced ears are often left with an odd earring. I find such an earring is great to put on a scarf to keep it in place around the neck. — ESTELLE

DEAR POLLY — Fran recently asked for help with car grease stains on solid colored polyester fabric. I have had very good results by simply rubbing corn starch into such a spot. Press with a warm steam iron and then brush away the excess. The garment usually shows no trace of the corn starch. — CONNIE DEAR POLLY — Do tell Fran to keep a bottle of turpentine in her laundry room to have ready for heavy grease stains. It does not damage permanent press fabrics. Rub it on gently and if the stains are very bad, rub liquid detergent over this and toss in with your load of clothes. All the odor disappears after drying. I have done this for years and it has not damaged anything to date. — GRACE

Tablecloth is creased

DEAR POLLY — Put one section of the newspaper, folded in half, in the bottom of your cat's litter box before putting the litter in. You'll find cleaning the box is much easier and quicker. — JUDITH

DEAR POLLY — Those who want more quilts can make one with two sheets and an old blanket. All must be cut to the same size. Then sew one sheet to the blanket. Place the other sheet against the sheet side of the sewed together piece. Stitch all around except for a small place at one end and then turn. The sheets will be the two outside of the quilt. Hand stitch the open end. Put a few quilt knots in the quilt and you have a heavy duty, inexpensive quilt. — SUSAN

Troubling test results

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 48-year-old woman. I'm a teacher and do not smoke or drink. I exercise by riding my bike a mile a day and have no real mental stress.

A year ago my cholesterol was 240. After a few months on a very strict 1000-calorie, low cholesterol diet and losing 22 pounds with the diet and exercise my count was 250. Since then I have kept my cholesterol intake quite low but have gained back 12 of the 22 pounds I lost. I eat very little meat, pork about once a month and steak about once a week with fish and chicken once a day in small amounts.

I don't use saturated fats and use only corn oil and polyunsaturated margerines. After a year of this my count was 255. Could you give me some information on how serious this is? What are my chances of a complication such as a stroke or a heart attack? What do you suggest I try next? DEAR READER — I suggest you relax but don't go to pot...fat-wise. Office and many laboratory tests of cholesterol tend to be about 10 to 15 percent higher than the values used from epidemiological research studies. So your value by research methods might be closer to 220, which means a minimal risk for a woman with normal blood pressure who doesn't smoke.

You are following the right pattern in general with your diet, but you should try to stay lean and avoid increasing your fat deposits for a large number of health reasons.

Those variations in your cholesterol levels are all within the range that you might expect with different tests.

To give you a summary of what diet you should be following I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atheros-

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am interested in your opinion of the benefits of honey to the general health of a body, and especially the part which honey may play in developing a stronger and healthier heart. I have heard of various benefits that are derived from the consumption of honey, but I would like a medical opinion of its value.

DEAR READER — Special health benefits from honey are folklore and not facts. The simple truth is that honey contains no significant amounts of vitamins or minerals. It is almost all sugar and water. The sugar in honey is fructose and glucose. The only difference in the honey sugar and table sugar is that fructose and glucose are chemically combined in table sugar. This is changed in the small intestine where enzymes convert table sugar to the same single sugars, fructose and glucose, that are naturally in honey.

Honey contains a carcinogen, meaning it may stimulate the formation of cancer, although there are no identified cases of cancer from the use of honey. Dr. Thomas H. Jukes cited this in a recent review in the New England Journal of Medicine (August 25, 1977) and the original report was from Science. The carcinogen comes from the pollen used in making honey.

So honey, a natural food, like some other food substances of so-called synthetic origin, is not completely perfect. Honey is no different in this regard than sugar. When calories have to be limited all sweets need to be limited. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Kent Ellis (3) seems a bit miffed as teammate John Wagner (8) accepts the championship trophy of the Hereford baseball tournament from HMS cheerleader Staci Payne Saturday. The Herd teamed to win three games in the tournament, raising their season record to 5-2 as they headed into a tournament in Pampa today. The four-team tournament is a one-day affair, and included the Herd and host Harvesters as well as Dumas and Berger, all of which played in the Hereford event last weekend. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh).

Foreman Cites Religion For Fight Motivation

HOUSTON (AP) - Former heavyweight champion George Foreman prefers to talk more about Jesus than boxing these days and he says that's the real reason he's coming out of retirement to fight again.

Foreman, a product of Houston's tough Fifth Ward, says he became a "born again" Christian in his dressing room March 17, 1977, shortly after losing to Jimmy Young, and gave up boxing to preach about Jesus.

Now, after a year away from the ring during which he did no training, an overweight Foreman says he's returning to the ring to praise Jesus.

Foreman will use the money he earns in the ring to build two churches, one in Los Angeles and another in New York, he said Monday in a copyrighted article in the Houston Chronicle.

"I want to call it the Church of Our Lord Jesus Christ," Foreman said. "And there won't be a gymnasium attached to them either."

Asked if he thought he could again become heavyweight champion, Foreman said "I don't know. Once I get into fighting again, I'm going to train. But I definitely don't have any more hatred in me. If I ever had a killer instinct it's dead now."

Foreman said it would be hard to return to boxing. "I'm a year older now," he said. "I'm 29. Guys are going to give me a hard time now, they're really going to whip me, brother."

Foreman said he would use boxing to get peoples' attention and then tell them about Jesus.

"God has not ordained me, but He did give me some bait to catch fish with," Foreman said. "Ever since I came out of the ring, I've been using George Foreman for Jesus and I'm going to continue to use George Foreman for Jesus."

Asked how he views the religious beliefs of World Boxing Association champion Leon Spinks, Foreman said "You can't ask God to help you win a fight. He's Spinks got to learn that. God's with the man that lost, even more than with the one who's winning."

Foreman called former champion Muhammad Ali's Muslim religion watermelon food.

"They eat watermelon food, just like any false religion," Foreman said. "You get your belly full of watermelon, you feel real good, you walk around the corner and relieve yourself and you're empty again. Well, that's what all this Muslim religion stuff is, watermelon food."

Foreman says he hasn't seen any boxing since he left the ring.

"I don't read the papers," Foreman said. "But I pick up more out of the wind. You'd be surprised. When the last guy I fought, Jimmy Young, fought the top contender, I think it was Ken Norton, it was almost a month before I found out."

Allen Sees Kentucky As NCAA Favorite

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Since Sonny Allen is 0-5 against three of the final four in the NCAA basketball playoffs in St. Louis, the Southern Methodist basketball coach qualifies as something of a shell-shocked expert on the possible winner.

His choice? Kentucky. SMU took a 110-86 thumping at Kentucky in the opening game of the season. The Mustangs later lost to Duke 91-67 in Dallas and to Arkansas three times.

"Kentucky is really a tournament-experienced team," said Allen. "They have four seniors who got to the final four as freshmen and lost to UCLA. As sophomores, they won the NIT (National Invitational Tournament) and last year as juniors they got beat in the Eastern Regional finals by North Carolina."

Allen said the Wildcats were "the most physical team in college basketball. And they have that great Kentucky tradition which can be a big factor in tournament play."

They've won four national titles."

Arkansas rates a chance from Allen.

"Arkansas is certainly capable because they've won more games than any team in college basketball," said Allen. "They also are tournament experienced but not like Kentucky. They have trouble against the press but Kentucky is more of a half court defensive team. Arkansas can handle a half court press."

Allen said Duke is "playing great basketball even if they are the youngest to make it into the final four. They are a big surprise. Nobody expected them to be anything this year. They are a very intelligent team. They are young but smart. They have that enthusiasm and desire."

He added "I've seen Notre Dame so much on television I feel like we've played them. All that TV exposure is like a tournament atmosphere. It should help them."

"All in all, the final games should be great but Kentucky should prevail," he added.

HOGAN NICKNAMES

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - It is doubtful if any sports personality had as many nicknames as the great golfer, Ben Hogan. He was called, at various times, Bantam Ben, Mighty Atom, Mighty Mite, The Hawk and in Scotland, "The Wee Ice Man."

Hogan was a legend for his intensity in competition and for his dedication to practice. His philosophy of golf was a simple one. "Golfers aren't born," Hogan observed, "they're made." In the 1940s and 1950s he dominated the game so completely that golf historians refer to that period as "The Hogan Era."

When a cyclone struck Calcutta, India, on Oct. 5, 1864, it caused the deaths of 70,000 persons.

Ice Fisherman Just Wants To Reach Century Mark

By SETH MYDANS

KHABAROVSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) - Ivan Petrov is an old man with one love and one ambition. He loves to sit on the frozen Amur River and fish through a hole in the ice, and he wants to live to be 100.

Although he rarely catches any fish, he believes his pastime will help him realize his ambition.

Petrov, who is now 70, is one of a dozen regulars who gather at this bend of the Amur, and one of thousands throughout the Soviet Union who spend the bitterest days of the winter hunched over fishing holes, sipping hot tea and dangling the two-pronged hooks of the ice fisherman.

No day is too cold for Petrov and his friends in this far-east Siberian city where winter temperatures drop to 50 degrees below zero. It is the cold wind, blowing up the river from China, that is their enemy, and against it the fishermen here build little roofless igloos that form their outdoor winter homes.

A decade ago Petrov retired from his job as a schoolteacher, and since then, he said, his goal in life has been "to live to be 100."

Asked about his strategy for living so long, Petrov simply held up the wooden fishing handles from which he dangles lines through holes on either side of him.

Each morning, Petrov walks from his home in downtown Khabarovsk to his igloo on the river, chops away the ice that has formed in his holes overnight, and baits his hooks with slices of a small fish he carries frozen in his coat pocket.

Then, sitting on a small sled with his felt-booted feet straight out in front of him, he begins gently twitching his lines, which dangle down to just below the 2-foot-thick ice. Depending on the weather, he and his friends stay from two to six hours a day, rarely catching more than a fish or two.

"The river is getting fished out," Petrov said. "There's dirty water coming from the city."
