Count Shows 65 Senators Favor Treaty

Private Property Seminar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate supporters of the Panama Canal treaties appear to be within two votes of winning final approval following a compromise on the issue of U.S. intervention.

But the outcome of today's vote on the second treaty remained in doubt because at least two senators who endorsed the first of the treaties March 16 were threatening to switch.

An Associated Press count showed President Carter and Senate leaders holding 65 firm votes for the treaty, which gradually turns the canal over to Panama by the year 2000.

In addition, one senator who voted for the first treaty and whose support of the second agreement had been in doubt is now considered a likely yes vote.

If Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., supports the second treaty, Carter would be within one vote of victory on an issue that threatened to hand the president a major foreign policy defeat and further sour his relations with Congress.

To be approved, the second treaty must draw 67 votes if all 100 senators are present and voting. The first agreement was approved 68 to 32.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, spent the last four days seeking a middle ground between competing concerns for Panamanian sovereignty and U.S. rights to keep the canal operating even if it were threatened by internal Panamanian problems.

That issue sparked a demonstration in Panama City Monday during which about 100 demonstrators hurled bottles of paint at the U.S. Embassy. The crowd was broken up by club-swinging national guardsmen.

But while demonstrators were marching in Panama, Senate leaders in Washington were agreeing on a compromise that was accepted by both the Panamanian government and freshman Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.

A statement to be attached to the second treaty would declare a policy of non-intervention in Panamanian affairs while upholding the right of the U.S. to unilaterally keep the waterway in operation.

The amendment, to be voted on today before the final treaty vote, reduces the number of uncertain votes to four, two of whom could switch their previous pro-treaty votes for different reasons.

The four remaining uncertain votes in the AP count are Cannon and Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., and Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va. Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., said Monday night he would vote in favor of the treaty.

Abourezk has linked the canal vote with the natural gas portion of Carter's energy plan. Although he voted for the first treaty, Abourezk said Monday he will vote against the second agreement unless Carter declares his opposition to deregulation of natural gas prices.

That was considered highly unlikely by most Senate observers and Abourezk was considered on Monday as a probable no vote.

Another unknown was Hayakawa, who said last week he is concerned about what he sees as a lack of will in the Carter administration to deter communist aggression in various countries.

Hayakawa, who voted for the first treaty, said he might vote against the second one unless Carter shows a sign of changing foreign policy.

Cupell Appointed City Judge

Jo Ed Cupell, an independent truck driver and former Hereford High School mathematics instructor, was hired as municipal judge for the City of Hereford following a 45-minute closed session of city commissioners.

Cupell replaces Jim Neill, who had been appointed by the commission to temporarily fill the position formerly held by Woodie McDermitt. McDermitt, who was municipal judge for two years, died March 11 following a heart attack in Houston.

The commission studied nine applications before hiring Cupell.

"Everybody knew him and knew he had the qualifications for municipal judge. It was a unanimous decision," City Manager Dudley Bayne said.

The commission, also in closed session, decided to hire an assistant professional for the golf course, with half his salary to be paid by the city and half out of the golf pro's budget.

Bayne said that applications for the position will be accepted immediately.

In other business, the commissioners accepted bids for two garbage trucks, paving around the dining room at the Community Center and a small truck for the golf course.

Cavness Re-Chosen as President

Hospital Board Seats Directors

By O.G. NIEMAN

Editor-Publisher

Three newly-elected directors were seated and Dr. H.A. (Hap) Cavness was re-elected as president of the board when the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board held a regular monthly meeting this morning.

Oaths of office were administered by County Clerk B.F. Cain to two new directors—Kathryn Acton and Deward Roberson—and to Frank Zinser, re-elected to the board.

Zinser was elected as vice president of the board, and Ed Reinauer Jr. was named to secretary. Dr. Cavness also appointed several standing committees.

Main topic of discussion at the meeting was the recruitment of new physicians for the community. Hospital administrator Ron Welty called for the board to initiate a "positive plan of action," after seeking recommendations from the medical community.

Welty pointed out that the hospital board had set some goals on the doctor-citizen ration in 1976 and added that no progress had been made. After lengthy discussion, with the board generally agreeing that some type of program was needed, Dr. A.T. Mims, chief of the medical staff, told directors he would initiate discussion with the physicians in the community.

Cavness announced that the recruitment committee would start developing a plan of action as soon as it hears from the medical staff.

Dr. Mims presented the monthly report from the medical staff, noting that a general discussion was held on employee relations at the hospital. Welty asked for a closed session to discuss the matter, and Cavness announced the session would be held at the end of the regular meeting. The board went into the closed session at 9:15 this morning.

Welty presented regular financial statements and the operations report for the month of March. The report revealed there were 215 patients in March and patient days totaled 942. The hospital showed only a 38.6 percent occupancy for the month. Welty said the operating report indicated the hospital was at about a break-even point for the year.

Krueger Predicts Treaty Vote To Go Against Own Wishes

It is likely that after today's Senate vote on the second Panama Canal treaty, Congressman Bob Krueger, D-New Braunfels, will have suffered his second major disappointment within a week, he told The Brand Monday.

Krueger, campaigning for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room during a swing through the Panhandle-South Plains, predicted that the treaty would pass the Senate in today's vote, which he said would be close.

"It will pass, but it will be close," Krueger said. "It probably will be decided by one or two votes."

Krueger said last week's House defeat of the emergency farm bill was "disappointing."

Krueger voted for the bill's passage.

"I'm tremendously disappointed—it (the bill) seemed to be a reasonable compromise and fair deal. It wasn't ideal, but it would have allowed farmers to make a profit."

"The reason we had a losing vote in the House was a lot of people in the urban areas were told it was an inflationary bill...I think the bill was misrepresented."

Krueger, who said he feels good about his campaign, especially now that the Houston Post in a Sunday front-page article said he has a substantial lead in state-wide polls, took a shot at his Democratic primary opponent, Joe Christie, former state insurance board chairman.

"One of the things the former insurance commissioner has done is he's talked about insurance instead of national issues. As far as issues go, I favor the Panama Canal treaties, I oppose the treaties."

"In terms of style, he's run a campaign of attack rather than addressing national issues. I'd like to avoid that type of campaign."

On other issues, Krueger said: "I think anyone who's concerned about the future of the state of Texas is concerned about our water supply. We certainly know that in this area, the Ogallala reservoir is not being replenished. We're going to have to have the right kind of support from the federal government. I don't think the

Feedlot Operators Make Big Profit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers and feedlot operators who bought light-weight feeder cattle last fall and winter are making their best profits in about three years and Agriculture Department experts say the outlook appears good for some time.

The basic reason is that after taking it on the chin financially for many months the cattle industry has trimmed herd inventories so much that the supply of beef moving to market is much smaller than it was a year or two ago. Also, feed costs have moderated because of the big grain harvests of the last few years.

But expenses of cattle feeders — those who are in the business of putting weight on cattle and then marketing them as beef — are in the process of rising for another reason; higher costs of buying light-weight animals to put in the feeding pens.

This is good news to "cow-calf" producers, the farmers and ranchers who have breeding herds turning out calves to sell to others in the beef production chain. It does, however, cut into the profit margins of those who feed cattle those final months before they are sold for slaughter.

Also, corn prices have risen from their low points of last fall and this means some of the edge will be taken off profit margins at least in the next few months until the 1978 crop situation shapes up.

Even so, USDA economists say in a new "livestock and meat situation" report that during March the net profit of cattle feeding was the best in about three years.

If a Corn Belt producer bought a 600-pound feeder steer last September for $245.10 and, considering all expenses, he would have had $440.13 invested in the animal after feeding it for six months and raising it to a market weight of 1,050 pounds.

To recover all costs of producing this finished steer for sale in March, it would have had to bring $41.92 per 100 pounds on the market.

The actual market price of choice-grade steers at Omaha, Neb., in March averaged $48.66 per 100 pounds or a difference of $6.74 per 100 pounds. This is the "net margin", or, in this case, profit.

Thus, a 1,050-pound steer which started out last September and was fattened for six months at prevailing costs of production would have meant a profit of $70.77 to its seller in March.

Department economists caution that the figures are not absolute and that individual situations can and do vary. The figures, however, are meant to be indicators of what it costs to produce feedlot beef and to show how much money a producer can make or lose under prevailing circumstances.

The $6.74 net margin in March was the biggest profit for feedlot cattle, using the same measurements, since early 1975. James Nix, a USDA livestock economist, told a reporter Monday.

In February, assuming the same six-month interval beginning last August, the net margin was negative, meaning the feeders lost money.

Nix and other experts say that the cattle market outlook appears bright for many months but no one can say for sure how profit margins will hold up.

For example, a 600-pound steer ready for the feedlot in March cost about $312 against $245.10 last September. Corn and some other costs have gone up, too. Thus, according to the report, the March feeder steer next September

Realtor Says Ownership an Important Right

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Private Property Week, says Realtor James Gentry, is—more than anything—a reminder to citizens that there is at least one bright spot in an otherwise afflicted society.

"Many times, we forget the good things about this country because we are made so aware of the bad things. Private Property Week is an effort to remind us that there are many, many good things in this country," Gentry said.

One of the most important, he added, is a person's right to ownership.

"Private Property Week is recognized by Realtors and other persons as a means of reminding all Americans of their constitutional rights concerning the ownership of private property.

"In many countries of the world, a private citizen cannot own property outright. In this country, however, one of the very basic constitutional rights is the right of each citizen to own his own property."

Private Property Week, which started Sunday and runs through Saturday, is not an effort on the part of Realtors to draw attention to their profession, according to Gentry.

"This is not an effort to publicize our profession or pat ourselves on the back. This is just an effort to inform individuals that there are good things about our country and one of them is the right to own property."

Gentry, a Realtor for the last three years after he quit farming, is a member of the Hereford Board of Realtors, a member of the Realtor-Lawyer Committee for the Texas Association of Realtors and a director of Texans for Equitable Taxation.

Gentry, president of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Education, also is an active Lions Club member, a YMCA director and a trustee for the Texas Association of School Boards Group Insurance Trust.

This week he is involved, like every other Hereford Realtor, in Private Property Week, highlighted Monday by a public seminar at the Hereford Community Center.

Inflation, Gentry said, is the most prohibitive factor in an individual's wish to own property.

"But inflation is a part of our economy

Kidnappers Claim Moro Executed

ROME (AP) - A message purportedly from the terrorist kidnappers of former Premier Aldo Moro today announced his executioners and said his body was dumped in a mountain lake.

The statement, bearing the signature of the Red Brigades, said the 61-year-old president of the ruling Christian Democratic Party was executed "by suicide" and thrown into Lake Duchessa, 72 miles northeast of Rome. The reference to suicide apparently was mockery.

Moro, five times a premier and probably next president of the republic, was abducted and his five bodyguards were killed by the Brigades, Italy's most feared urban guerrilla gang, in a Rome street ambush March 16. The kidnappers announced three days ago that he had been convicted in a "people's trial" and sentenced to die.

Police could not immediately confirm that today's communique was authentic. But skindivers flew to the lake in two helicopters and began looking for the body. Officials said fog in the mountains and snow piled 12 feet high were hampering search efforts.

Giuseppe Pisanu, a Christian Democrat member of parliament and a top party leader, said, "We have seen the message that, according to experts, seems authentic. We are going through hours of anguish."

Taxwriters Review Carter Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional taxwriters are plowing ahead with a review of the Carter administration's tax proposals after adopting one presidential "reform" and rejecting two others.

The House Ways and Means Committee decided tentatively Monday to repeal the deduction that taxpayers claim for state and local gasoline taxes.

The repeal would cost taxpayers $1.15 billion when returns are filed in 1980.

At the same time, the committee went against Carter's wishes, voting tentatively to permit taxpayers to continue claiming deductions for state and local sales taxes and for personal property taxes.

The committee arranged to discuss proposed changes in the current system for medical and casualty expense deduction today as it continues work on a new tax bill.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the committee chairman, said he hoped to have work completed on the measure by the first week in June.

Middle-income Americans, millions of whom benefit by itemizing deductions, were clearly on the minds of committee members.

Educators Say Credits Would Segregate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Income tax credits for private school tuition would re-segregate schools and financially injure public schools, several education leaders said Monday.

Leaders of statewide associations of teachers, their bosses and PTA members said Texans should write their congressmen to oppose tax credit bills pending in the U.S. House and Senate.

"It would be a re-segregation of schools in a detrimental manner, supported by the federal government," said Austin school board member Will Davis, immediate past president of the National School Boards Association.

He said private schools have sprung up in both the South and North in response to public school desegregation.

"Private schools would receive these federal monies without any of the civil rights limitations we have applicable to us in the public schools," Davis said.

Davis said the credits would shift federal dollars from public schools to private ones and erode parent and voter support for school district budgets.

Supreme Court Bars

Nixon Tapes Release

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court today barred public release of the 30 White House tape recordings played at the Watergate cover-up trial of aides to former President Richard M. Nixon.

The court's 5-4 decision reversed a 1976 ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that would have made the tapes available to the three commercial television networks, public television and a recording company planning to sell copies of the tapes for home use.

"Considering all the circumstances of this concededly singular case, we hold that the common-law right of access to judicial records does not authorize release of the tapes in question," Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. wrote for the court's majority.

The court's ruling is a major legal victory for Nixon, who persistently challenged the tapes' release as an invasion of his privacy.

Joining Powell's opinion were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun, William H. Rehnquist and Potter Stewart.

All but Stewart were appointed to the nation's highest court by Nixon.

Dissenting were Justices Thurgood Marshall, William J. Brennan Jr., John Paul Stevens and Bryon R. White.

Police Report

A clerk at the 7-11 convenience store, Park and U.S. 385, told police a woman entered the store Monday, bought $1.00 worth of gas and tried to pay with a $50 bill.

The clerk reportedly told the woman walked out of the store without paying for the gas.

Bobby Weaver, 600 Ave. J., told police that someone wrote obscenities on his car with ketchup and mustard.

A one-car rollover resulted in injuries to four persons at approximately 10:30 p.m. Saturday in the 300 block of George.

The driver of the car, Connie Wayne Walker, 400 W. 1st, was uninjured.

Those hospitalized were Georgia Arnett, 17, 233 Greenwood; Bobby Jackson, 21, 400 W. 1st; Carla McAllister, 16, 233 Douglas; and Terry Morgan, 23, 300 Northwest.

A Deaf Smith General Hospital spokesperson said today that all four had been released.

Senate Leaders To Propose Reservation To End Worries

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate leaders will propose a reservation to the second Panama Canal Treaty which they hope will end the threat to approval of the agreements, congressional sources said last week.

The reservation, or condition, will state in firm terms that the United States has no intention of intervening in Panama's internal affairs.

As presently drafted, the reservation would say that no action taken by the United States under the treaties should be interpreted "as intervention in the internal affairs of Panama and will not be directed at the territorial integrity and the political independence of Panama."

The new reservation would be voted on Tuesday, just before the final vote on the second treaty. That treaty would gradually turn over the canal to Panama by the year 2000. The first treaty, to guarantee the waterway's neutrality, was approved by the Senate 68-32 on March 16.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd scheduled a meeting today with Sen. Dennis DeConcini, who authored another reservation. DeConcini's condition upon the treaty would give the United States the right to use military forces to keep the canal open, even if its operations were threatened by problems inside Panama - such as labor strikes.

An aide to DeConcini, D-Ariz., said the senate has not yet seen the proposed reservation meant to offset the impact of his own reservation.

Meanwhile, Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., said he may switch his vote and refuse to support the second treaty unless President Carter signals a switch in foreign policy.

Hayakawa said he is disturbed about communist-supported actions in Rhodesia, the cancellation of the B-1 bomber program and the president's decision not to approve production of the neutron bomb at this time. At a news conference today, Hayakawa said Carter has agreed to meet with him on Monday.

Hayakawa said, "It is possible that I may not vote for it (the treaty)."

The intervention issue has jeopardized the treaty approval for more than a week.

On Thursday, Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio; Floyd Haskell, D-Colo.; and Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., all said that they have doubts about supporting the second treaty without a congressional statement that the United States has no plan to intervene in Panama once it takes over the waterway. And, in still another development, Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said he would reverse himself and vote against the remaining pact unless he is given a more active role in Senate negotiations on energy legislation.

The Senate took Friday off, in part because its members have little more to say before critical votes scheduled early next week.

SOS Boating Course Set For Friday

Skippers Outboard Special, an official U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary safe boating course, will be conducted at the Community Center Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The course is sponsored by the Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Health and Safety Committee.

Instructors will be public education officers of Flotilla 52, Coast Guard Auxiliary, of Amarillo.

The only charge for the course will be $1 for the official textbook, according to Loyd Bowman of Flotilla 52.

"Safe boating is every boat owner's responsibility," said Bowman. "We encourage entire families to enroll, including children who are old enough to comprehend the subject matter and operate a boat. This is a visual course and easy to understand," he added.

Boat owners desiring to enroll for the course may register by calling the chamber office at 364-3333, or they may simply show up for the class Friday night.

Danny Boyer, Health and Safety Committee chairman pointed out that the safe boating course is part of a concerted effort to insure the well-being of local boaters on-area lakes this summer.

The chamber, Coast Guard Auxiliary and Jack's Marine of Hereford have already sponsored two free boat safety inspection clinics this spring to make boaters aware of the safety equipment required for their pleasure craft.

that we all have to live with. And certainly some sectors of the economy have suffered more from inflation than other sectors. In the last few years, for example, construction costs have gone up dramatically.

"This should not prevent an individual from purchasing a home. It MAY result in his purchasing a smaller home than he would have purchased several years ago."

Large or small, Gentry said, a home is "the largest investment most people will ever make and still is one of the best--the values of homes have gone up at a rate whereby an individual can purchase a home and later sell that home, and end up with many more dollars in his pocket than he originally used as a down payment."

In spite of inflation and local farming problems, home buying has not been stifled in Hereford, Gentry said.

"We've noticed, as Realtors, that citizens still place a great emphasis on the purchase of property, regardless of the economic conditions. At any one particular time, the ownership of private property is still one of the best investments a person can make.

"Regardless of how much our country and our attitudes have changed in the last 200 years, it's still a fact that most people are proud to own property. Most every citizen wants to own a little piece of America."

Commission

A bid of $49,000 submitted by Pak-Mor, Inc., of San Antonio, was accepted for the city packer trucks with side-loaders as the commission rejected a lower bid offered by EMCO, of Plainview.

"We'll get better service and it's a better truck," Bayne said of the Pak-More truck. "It's a better truck due to the heavier construction of the chassis."

The commission accepted a bid of $7,400 from Associated Supply Company for the purchase of a turf-truckster for the golf course, truckster accessories and green-maintenance equipment which includes a sprayer.

A bid of $8,545 from Jake Diel Dirt & Paving was accepted for paving in front of the Community Center dining room, being constructed on the east end of the facility.

The commission passed a resolution adjusting the tax poll and agreed to have the city finance the annual July 4 fireworks festival.

The fireworks will cost approximately $1,300 Bayne said.

Vote

The senator met with Carter on Monday, but said he would not decide what to do until shortly before the final vote.

Cannon voted for the first treaty, but was known to be under extreme political pressures to vote against the second agreement.

Randolph, usually a Carter administration ally, voted against the first agreement, but was considered a possible switch on the second.

After agreement on the intervention issue was reached Monday, DeConcini said the key to compromise was inclusion of a phrase which declares that the United States has the right to keep the canal "open, neutral and secure."

At the same time, DeConcini said, the statement will also include a statement that the unilateral U.S. rights to keep the canal open "shall not be interpreted as interference in the internal affairs of Panama."

The intervention controversy resulted from Panamanian objections to a DeConcini reservation, or condition, attached to the first treaty, giving the United States unilateral rights to intervene militarily even if the canal were threatened by Panamanian labor strife.

Some liberal senators, like George McGovern, D-S.D., indicated they might vote against the second treaty unless the DeConcini reservation was removed.

But an aide to the senator said late Monday that with agreement of the Panamanian government, the compromise reached Monday "was generally acceptable" to McGovern.

Surgeon Feels Crib Death Key Found

BOSTON (AP) - A pediatric surgeon believes he has found a key to "crib death," a mysterious killer that claims the lives of 10,000 apparently healthy infants each year.

Dr. Lucian Leape says susceptible infants may choke to death when overflowing stomach juices touch off a reflexive closing of the vocal cords. He has figured out a surgical way to stop the stomach overflow.

But he has not been able to explain vocal cord "sensitivity," which he says helps close off the cords in some infants.

And he says "we're a long way off" from the next step - identifying patients before they

Leape, of the Tufts New England Medical Center, says one factor in Sudden Infant Death Syndrome is a relatively common condition known as "esophageal reflux."

CPR Classes Offered To Local Residents

CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation) Classes will be held from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. beginning Monday evening April 24 and continuing Tuesday, April 25, at the First Baptist Church, in the young adults department of the Conkright building.

Those who complete both classes will be certified by the American Heart Association, sponsors of the course.

CPR is a method using mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart compression which may be used in cases of electrical shock, heart attacks, choking or anytime a victim's heart ceases to function and or breathing stops.

Three new Resusci-Annes have been purchased for the use of the CPR classes which include two adults and one infant.

Organizations which donated money to acquire the resuscitators that have life like features are, Lions Club and Cattelotown, plus numerous individuals.

The new models have lights that blink on to inform those who are practicing on it if they are using correct or incorrect procedures. It also has a pulse beat and "teeth that will bite, but not hurt, if fingers are placed in the mouth incorrectly," stated John Gilliland, demonstrator of the new Resusci-Annes.

Gilliland will give demonstrations to business and organizations who wish to offer the CPR classes to their employees and members.

To register for the CPR class this month contact Rosie Wall at 364-4374.

"What happened?" (Ages 50-death, minus two minutes)

At the moment, I'm somewhere between "You look fantastic!" and "What happened?" It depends on how far I am between hair appointments.

A friend of mine who is going through her metallic age (silver hair, gold teeth, and lead bottom) hit me the other day with, "You look fantastic!"

"Compared to what?"

"Compared to an antique quilt I have which is five years younger than you."

"Don't be condescending," I said. "There are a lot of advantages to being 'You look fantastic.'"

"I know I'll recognize them immediately when I hear them," she said, "but fill me in anyway."

"I can get in my night clothes at 7:30 every night and no one wants to know if I'm sick."

"I can't write the bank a check for an overdraft and they expect it."

"I can drive a car and talk at the same time and amaze my passengers."

"I can walk into a room on time and get a standing ovation."

"I can be named historian of any club in town."

"I can forget where I parked my car and no one is surprised."

"I can be built like a caftan and everyone thinks I'm hiding something."

"The other day I found a wonderful little cosmetic called 'Erase' to take away the bags from under my eyes. I erased my entire face."

"I know what you're talking about," said my friend. "I said to my husband last night, 'Tonight's the night.' He knew instinctively I was talking about Kojak on TV."

When a recipe calls for several egg whites and you have the yolks left over, you can cook them. To do so, gently drop them into a skillet of hot, not boiling, water and simmer until the yolks are cooked through. Drain the yolks and chill. They're good added to a spinach and bacon salad. They also make a delightful garnish, when sieved, for cooked spinach or another green vegetable.

Ann Landers Counseling Suggested

DEAR ANN: My problem is my parents. I am not a teenager, I am an adult. Mother and Dad have been married over 30 years. They had eight children. Dad has been an alcoholic for the past five years. At least once a week he spends all day and all night drinking until he gets so bombed he doesn't know who he is. Dad joined AA several months ago. It helped a lot for a while, but he couldn't stay with the program.

All of a sudden Mother stopped talking to Dad. She acts as if he's not around. When he speaks to her she doesn't even answer. She never calls him when dinner is ready-- and doesn't let him know when she is going out or when she will be home.

I've talked to Mother about the way she ignores Dad and she says, "He doesn't want to be a part of the family." Dad says, "I'm not in this shape for nothing. Your mother drove me to drink."

Then I suggested a marriage counselor. Mom said, "He has the problem. Why should I go?"

I need outside help with these two characters. I hate to see what is coming.--Stuck In The Middle And Sinking

DEAR STUCK: Your mother should look in the phone book and call Al-Anon--a fellowship for anyone whose life is made miserable because of a drinking problem in the family. Al-Anon has been known to do the job when everything else failed.

Your mother says, "He has the problem"--but I can assure you the problem is as much hers as it is his. Why? Because it has made her resentful and bitter. No woman can possibly enjoy life when her home is an armed camp. Hand her this column, honey.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Orchids to you and to "Canada Mess" for dragging a confidential health problem out of the closet. The gossipy nurse who talked too much about a young couple's 'D treatment at a local hospital should indeed be reported for unethical behavior.

Your readers might be interested to know that 21 national professional organizations, including the American Nurses Assn., American Hospital Assn., and American Psychiatric Assn., have formed the National Commission on Confidentiality of Health Records. This organization addresses itself to the urgent problems of health confidentiality. The sex problems are becoming more complex because, more and more, "third parties" like private and government insurers request personal health information (often for good reason.) Sophisticated computer technology makes it easier to store and retrieve this information.

The National Commission on Confidentiality of Health Records is located at 1211 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, and would welcome letters of inquiry regarding problem privacy.--N.D.S., Executive Director

DEAR N.D.S.: I, for one, did not know the organization existed. Thanks for the information, on behalf of me and millions of others.

CONFIDENTIAL to Too Smart Maybe: No way, dear. Gilbert Highet put it this way in his book on The Joys of Teaching and Learning: "Many people have played themselves to death. Many people have eaten and drunk themselves to death. Nobody has ever thought himself to death."

Plant, Rummage Sale To Be Held Saturday

Plans for the Hereford Garden Club's annual Plant and Rummage Sale, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 22 in the Garden Center, were made by club members Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith. Mrs. Burnie Riley was co-hostess.

In other business, members discussed plans for their annual excursion to Palo Duro Canyon on May 12. Also, Mmes. D.N. Garner, O.G. Hill Sr., Ray Johnson and J.N. Jacobsen reported the recent District Garden Club convention held at Lubbock.

The afternoon's program was presented by Mrs. Hill, who pursued the topic, "Why Plant Texas?" She gave a summary of sound reasons for planting trees and shrubs, placing special emphasis on those species which adapt well to this area.

Mrs. R.L. Ethridge announced that the Arbor Day tree will be planted at the Garden Center as soon as it is received from the nursery.

An arrangement featuring spring shrubs was presented by Mrs. R.W. Mitchell.

Other members present were Mmes. Ben Childers, H.R. Cocanougher, W.C. Hromas, G.W. Newsom, A.M. Stoy, S.S. Williams, Jack Wilcox, R.L. Wilson and Keith Simmer.

Homer Rice Resigns To Become Pro Assistant

HOUSTON (AP) - Any time Rice University President Dr. Norman Hackerman shows up at the school's athletic department, it's usually to name a new head football coach.

It's happened to Hackerman four times in the last seven years, and that was the case again Monday when Hackerman confirmed Homer Rice had resigned as athletic director and head football coach to become a quarterback coach for Cincinnati in the National Football League.

Hackerman simultaneously announced that Ray Alborn, a Rice assistant the past six years, would become head football coach and associate athletic director Augie Erfurth would assume Rice's athletic director's duties.

Rice has not had a winning season since 1963 and posted a 4-18 record in two seasons under Rice, but Hackerman said the Rice athletic program was improved.

"Homer Rice had a positive benefit on the university program," Hackerman said. "I think we've made program and I'm encouraged. We've progressed not from the standpoint of record but of the players Coach Rice recruited."

Rice's departure first was confirmed in Cincinnati Sunday night by Bengals general manager Paul Brown. Hackerman then quickly called a news conference Monday but Coach Rice did not attend to personally give his reasons for leaving.

Rice gave a prepared statement to Erfurth instead.

"Paul Brown has been a father to me in the coaching profession...I could not resist the opportunity he presented to me," Rice said in the statement. "The football program made more progress this spring than any time since I have been here."

Whitefaces End First Half Against Lubbock

The Hereford Whitefaces were on the road today completing the first half of District 4-4A baseball play with a twinbill against the Lubbock High Westerners at Mackenzie Park.

The two teams were battling to stay out of the cellar in loop action, coming into the two-game set with identical 1-5 district marks. For the season the Westerners stand 12-9, while the Herd owns a 7-10 record.

In other loop play today Coronado (3-3 and 9-12) was testing Plainview (3-3 and 14-3) while first-half champ Monterey (8-0 and 18-4) was idle. HHS coach David Ashby was looking to junior Kevin Bunch and possibly senior Chris Hill to start on the mound today.

Hackerman has had a tough time holding onto head football coaches since becoming Rice's president in 1971. When Bo Hagan resigned after four years and a 12-27-1 record, Hackerman first hired Bill Peterson, who remained one year and had a 3-7-1 record in 1971.

Hackerman then gave the job to Al Conover, one of Peterson's assistants, who compiled a 14-28-2 record over four years, leading up to Rice's appointment two years ago.

Now the torch is passed to Alborn, a captain of the Owls'

1961 Sugar Bowl team.

"My No. 1 job right now is to make a smooth transition," Alborn, 39, said. "I'm talking to the players and telling them we are going to keep the continuity that we started under Coach Rice."

Alborn graduated from Rice in 1962 and coached at the high school level until returning to Rice in 1972 as an assistant coach. Erfurth, also a Rice graduate, has been on the Rice staff since 1960 in various capacities, including track coach and business manager.

Bunch owns the single Herd loop win after stopping Coronado 6-5 last Tuesday. Hill, a three-year starter for the Whitefaces, has been hampered of late with a sore shoulder, but was expected to be ready for mound duty today.

The Whitefaces will begin the quest for the second half championship Saturday when they host the Plainview Bulldogs for a twinbill. The Herd also has a single game against Levelland May 2 and a double-header against Lubbock May 6 left on the home schedule this season.

So. Africa Still Not Out of Cup

NEW YORK (AP) - Contrary to previous reports, South Africa is not yet out of Davis Cup and Federation Cup competition. But it may not be long before such action is taken officially.

The International Tennis Federation announced Sunday in Monte Carlo that the apartheid nation had been expelled from both the men's and women's international matches because of its racial policies.

However, Joseph Carrico of Chicago, chairman of the U.S. Davis Cup Committee, said Monday that the ITF's decision was premature, as far as the Davis Cup was concerned.

"The ITF has no authority in Davis Cup matters," Carrico said emphatically. "This is the province of the Davis Cup nations."

"However," he added, "my understanding is that the Davis Cup committee of management was represented at the Monte Carlo meeting, and it is reasonable to expect that the Davis Cup nations might expel South Africa at its meeting in Stockholm July 12.

"But only the Davis Cup nations can do it - not the ITF." In order to ban South Africa, three-quarters of the 97 Davis Cup nations have to vote in favor of the move.

South Africa won the 1974 Davis Cup after Argentina and India refused to play. And protests over South Africa's separation of races have played havoc with the Davis Cup for several years and triggered withdrawals from the Federation Cup, the women's version of the Davis Cup.

"I don't see how the Davis Cup could survive under present conditions," said Carrico. "The American Zone would be completely destroyed. Argentina and other countries wouldn't play. I doubt that we would."

W.E. "Slew" Hester Jr. of Jackson, Miss., president of the U.S. Tennis Association, said he thought South Africa would withdraw from the Davis Cup.

"They represent the only visible problems we have at this time," said Hester.

Herd Fems Qualify 10 For Regional Track Meet

By BOB NIGH Sports Editor

Scoring points in every event except the triple jump, the Hereford High School girls track team scored 149 points in finishing second to Monterey at the District 4-4A Meet held at the Coronado track last Saturday.

The Plainsmen feds topped the loop with 182 points, qualifying seven individuals as well as all three relay teams for the Region I Meet, which will be held at the Texas Tech track this Friday and Saturday.

Hereford also qualified all three relay teams as well as seeing six individuals earn a regional berth. Sophomore Darlene Sanders led the Whiteface charge at the district meet with wins in both the 100 and 220, while juniors Velma Arroyos and Lisa Drake gave Hereford a sweep of the top two places in the 880.

"I thought we'd do a good job, but some of our kids came through better than I expected," HHS coach Roy Shipp said after the meet. Drake's runner-up placing in the 880 was an example. "Lisa was a big surprise," Shipp said. "She was just one of several of the kids who came through for us."

The surprised coach had expected "around 130 points" from his team at the meet. Four firsts (including the 440 Relay), four seconds, two thirds, and three fourths, fifths, and sixths enabled the "Faces to easily outdistance third-place Lubbock, which totaled 71 1/2 points. Coronado finished fourth with 69 1/2 points, while Plainview rounded out the field with 49.

In addition to Sanders, Arroyos, and Drake, Hereford qualified junior Anna Wilson in the shot, sophomore Beverly Nixon in the 80 Hurdles, sophomore Jennifer Griffin in the long jump, and the three relay teams. Members of the HHS 440 Relay team were sophomore Melinda Reinart, junior Tawana Moton, Nixon, and Griffin. The 880 Relay squad was composed of Reinart, senior Joyce Betzen, junior LuAnna Berryman, and Griffin. Betzen, Nixon, Arroyos, and Sanders made up the Mile Relay team.

Arroyos, Sanders, and Nixon eclipsed school records at the meet, and the 440 Relay team and Sanders set new district marks, while Sanders also tied one.

Sanders' 25.5 in the 220 was a school and loop mark, while her 11.6 in the 100 tied the district mark set by Hereford's Debbie Albright in 1976. Arroyos set a new HHS record in the 880 with a 2:22.8, breaking her own record (2:28.0) by over five seconds.

Nixon lowered the school 80 Hurdles mark for the second time this season. She broke the old mark of 11.4 with an 11.3 at Borger, and lowered the record even further with an 11.0 Saturday, good enough for second place.

Wilson heaved the shot 35-4 in placing second in that event, while Griffin leaped 15-8 1/2 in taking second in the long jump, and Drake posted a 2:33.1 in taking second in the 880 behind Arroyos.

Hereford had two tripleclads just miss the cut with third-place finishes at the meet. Lisa Villegas was third in the discus with a throw of 97-7 1/2, while Nixon placed third in the high jump with a leap of 4-8.

Fourth-place finishers for HHS included senior Judy Birdwell in the 440 (63.9), sophomore Kerry Hacker in the 880 (2:41.3), and Villegas in the shot (33-6).

Berryman placed fifth in the 220 in a time of 27.8, while Griffin was fifth in the 100 (12.1), and Moton was fifth in the long jump (14-11 1/4).

Earning sixth-place finishes for Hereford at the meet were senior Rita Soliz in the mile (6:40.9), Betzen in the 440 (64.3), and Moton in the 100 (12.3).

All times and distances registered by the HHS point-winners were season bests according to Shipp.

The Regional Meet this weekend will feature the top two finishers in each event from six districts.

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Chuck Arnason, a right wing for the Cleveland Barons of the National Hockey League, will become a free agent if he is not signed to a new contract by June 1.

Harry Howell, general manager of the Barons, said Arnason will join back-up goalie Gary Edwards on the free agent market this summer, barring a contract breakthrough.

Arnason, who came to Cleveland as part of a six-player trade with Colorado at midseason, had 21 goals in 39 games with the Barons. He had a total of 25 goals and 21 assists in 68 games during the season.

Reggie Crowded At Autograph Session

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) - "A catalogue of memories that helped strengthen many characters," Reggie Jackson scribbled on the fly leaf.

"I wrote every caption myself - this is a compilation of innermost feelings," the New York Yankees' $3 million star added Monday in launching his newest enterprise with an autograph session at a Fifth Avenue book store.

It's "Reggie Jackson's Scrapbook," a slick pictorial autobiography in paperback, price $5.95 marked down temporarily to $4.76.

Advertised in the local papers, the personal appearance drew several hundred admirers - men, women and a flock of kids playing hooky from school.

After signing one book for a thin, 14-year-old ninth grader named Kimi Schaye, Reggie was taken aback when the girl thrust a lined sheet of paper under his nose.

"What's this?" Jackson asked. "Our excuse," the girl replied.

Jackson perused the scrawl, which said: "Mr. Stanfield: Due to a previous engagement with Reggie Jackson, Kimi, Tracey and Michelle were absent

4-17-78." Reggie smiled and signed. "For my teacher," Kimi beamed. "That ought to do the trick."

There were scores of tykes, some wearing Yankee pin stripes and helmets in the block-long queue that kept Jackson's left hand busy well past the hour allotted for the occasion.

Gregory Hairston, another ninth grader in a Yankee batting helmet, was first in line, having shown up at 8 a.m., four hours before the scheduled signing ceremony.

One lady gave her name, and Reggie looked up quickly. "You're from Connecticut," he said. "Thanks for your telegram."

"I was surprised," said Pat Link of Bridgeport, Conn., afterward. "I sent him telegrams before the fifth and sixth games of the World Series and another one this year when the team opened the season in Arlington, Texas. I was amazed he remembered. Maybe he doesn't get many telegrams."

The book is 120 pages of "Jaxabilia" - a self-portrait of the game's most talked-about personality, covering the spectrum from childhood to those three Ruthian home runs that won the 1977 World Series. As a kid: "I was a bad actor - a mischievous kid who stayed in trouble. I broke windowpanes, put mud on people's car windows. I didn't steal or rob, just a mischievous kid."

On Charles O. Finley: "A tremendous innovator. . . old-fashioned grit. . . his failure was failure to relate to people."

On leaving the Oakland A's: "It was a very lonely walk from the clubhouse to the car. . . Tears were shed. . . It was like breaking away from a family."

On Alvin Dark: "He helped me find an inner peace." On George Steinbrenner: "I was his project. . . his idea, his decision, his money. . . he struck with me."

On his clash with Billy Martin: "It was part of a bad dream. . . The media made both us brawlers, tried to pit us against each other."

On first visit to Baltimore as a Yankee: "They threw beer at me, they hung a Black Sambo in right field. They threw bananas, stones, firecrackers, eggs and apples. . . My family could not go to the ball game because of fear."

Reflection - Jackson to Jackson: "They call you a mercenary. You're not human - you're a selfish, egotistical, one-way person and that is the way they treat you. Why? Because you believe in yourself."

Rogers Repeats Marathon Win

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) - Bill Rodgers put another trophy on display in his local sporting goods store today after winning the Boston Marathon in the closest finish of the classic's 62-year history.

"What was unique about this race was that I had a guy on my tail right to the finish line," the 30-year-old former school teacher said Monday after winning the Boston Marathon in 2 hours, 10 minutes, 13 seconds, only 18 seconds off the course record he set in 1975.

Rogers wasn't kidding. He was actually chased to the finish line by unheralded Jeff Wells, a 23-year-old seminary student from Dallas. Wells charged home in 2:10.15.

"I'm grateful to God, but I should have pushed more," Wells said without disappointment over his vain bid to overtake Rodgers. "I can't be disappointed. In fact, I'm just grateful that I finished second."

Rogers, winner of four marathons last year, although he was forced to drop out after 18 miles in Boston, wore down his chief rivals in the field of 4,212 starters in the 26-mile, 385-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston run.

The victory gave Rodgers victories in the three most important world marathons in the past seven months. He previously won the New York City Marathon last October and he won at Fukuoka, Japan in December.

Frank Shorter, the 1972 Olympic marathon champion and the 1976 runner-up in Montreal, was the first to wilt Monday, falling back halfway through the race, finally settling for a 23rd-place finish in 2:18.15.

Finland's Eda Tikkanen faded on the three hills, including famed Heartbreak Hill about six miles from the finish, but hung tough and finished third in 2:11.15.

Wells moved up from sixth place at the halfway mark and just missed catching Rodgers with a blazing finishing kick in the last few miles.

Jack Fultz, former Georgetown star and winner of the 1976 Boston run, was fourth in 2:11.17, followed by Randy Thomas, a Rodgers protege, in 2:11.25, and New Zealand's Kevin Ryan, who tied to keep pace with Rodgers for 17 1/2 miles.

"I'm super pleased," Rodgers said after becoming the first American to win Boston twice since World War II. "I'm happy. At the finish I didn't know if I would make it. It was a tough pace. I was really hurting. It was just about the hardest marathon of my life."

Rogers was cheered on by countless thousands who jammed streets for the entire route. He blew kisses to a huge gathering at the finish line as he was crowned with the traditional laurel wreath by Mayor Kevin H. White.

However, his biggest salute was given to friends outside his sporting goods store about four miles from the finish.

"I've never been cheered like that before," Rodgers said. "It made me very gung ho. I had a built-in advantage."

Gayle Barron of Atlanta was the first finisher among the field of more than 200 women. Her time was 2:44.52.

Indians Southpaw Shuts Out Rangers

CLEVELAND (AP) - Cleveland Indians' left-hander Rick Waits is hoping to be something of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde this year as he gets his first chance to be in the regular starting rotation.

After firing a two-hitter at the Texas Rangers in Monday night's 6-0 Indians victory, the usually easy going redhead said, "I want to be cockier, be aggressive against other teams.

"I want to overpower them instead of waiting to see what happens. It's something I've worked on all winter. And, tonight, I just decided I'd go out there and at least for three innings I'd just rear back and try to strike out everybody."

"In the past I've tried to be pretty or pitch to spots, work on the hitters. I'm trying to change that an really go after them. It's kind of a change of personality," Waits, 1-0, added.

The toughest inning he had was the first as Mike Hargrove led off with a bunt single on which the pitcher failed to cover first base. "I might have been able to field the ball and beat him to the bag," Waits said. "But I just didn't get over there quick enough."

Hargrove was out on a fielder's choice grounder by Bert Campaneris, who promptly stole second base. After a strikeout by Al Oliver, slugger Richie Zisk came to the plate.

On a pitch to Zisk, Campaneris broke for third and appeared to have the base stolen. But Zisk was called out for interference as catcher Ron Pruitt's throwing arm somehow made contact with Zisk's bat.

That ended the threat and Texas didn't get another hit until Toby Harrah singled off third baseman Buddy Bell's glove with one out in the seventh. The Rangers got only one more runner as far as second.

Texas Manager Billy Hunter, whose team has not lost six straight games, was upset by the interference call that took the Rangers out of a scoring situation.

"At first, plate umpire Bill Haller said that Zisk did not get out of the way of the catcher. And I said he didn't have to. Then, in the fourth, Haller said Zisk was standing on homeplate and he interfered with the throw. There's no sense with the throw. There's no sense filing a protest if he's in the batter's box," Hunter said with a resigned shrug. "We're making the little mistakes and little mistakes are magnified 1,000 times when you're not hitting."

Pruitt, who's a relative novice behind the plate, said, "I just thought Zisk was called out because the ball hit the bat. It had never happened to me before and I thought that was the ruling. I don't know where he was standing."

The Indians, who broke a four-game losing string, came up with all six runs - five of them unearned - off Texas starter Jon Matlack, 1-2, in the sixth inning. The big blow was a three-run homer by Pruitt, back in the lineup because of a broken ankle suffered by Bo Diaz over the weekend in Kansas City.

"Matlack was just not getting the ball over," Hunter explained. "Just before Pruitt's home run, he said he felt alright. He definitely got the ball over against Pruitt."

The teams were to meet again today with Mike Paxton, 0-1, going against Dock Ellis, 1-1.

Spurs Need Dandridge

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -

The hot-shooting San Antonio Spurs, led by the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, George Gervin, go after victory No. 2 tonight in their best-of-seven playoff series against the Washington Bullets.

The Bullets are hopeful the return of 6-foot-6 forward Bobby Dandridge to their lineup can improve the team's outside shooting and its bench strength.

Dandridge, who suffered a pinched nerve in his neck last week in a first-round playoff game against Atlanta, worked out here Monday afternoon and said he fully expects to be back in action tonight.

The Spurs grabbed a 1-0 edge in the series Sunday by whipping the Bullets 114-103 off the hot shooting of Gervin, who canned 35 points, including 25 in the second half.

The Spurs, second in the NBA in scoring, hit 51 percent of their field goal attempts while the Bullets, missing frequently from outside, struggled to put 39 percent of their shots in the hoop.

"We're a much better shooting team than that," said Washington Coach Dick Motta as the Bullets practiced Monday. "We missed some nice shots - some we normally would make."

"You can't win an NBA playoff game shooting 39 percent, especially against a good team on their court," he added.

NEW YORK (AP) - Right-hander Bob Forsch of the St. Louis Cardinals, who pitched the first no-hitter of the season, the first of his career and the first in a St. Louis ballpark in 54 years, has been named National League Player of the Week for the first full week of the 1978 season.

In making the announcement Monday, NL President Chub Feeney said that Forsch was cited for his masterful pitching performance Sunday against Philadelphia, blanking the Phillies 5-0. Forsch's no-hitter was the first in the National League since San Francisco's John Montefusco hurled one in September 1976 and the first in a St. Louis park since Jesse Haines of the Cardinals shackled the Boston Braves on July 27, 1924.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Montclair State's Carol Blazejewski, the most prolific scorer in women's college basketball history, heads a 15-member All-America team named by the National Scouting Association.

The association will conduct the first player draft for the new pro Women's Basketball League.

Blazejewski, who averaged 38.6 points per game during the 1977-78 season, raising her career total over 3,000, was awarded the Wade Trophy as the nation's outstanding women's player.

ONE YEAR AGO

Sports enthusiasts, particularly bowlers, in the Hereford area will get a break in June this summer when the local bowling alley is re-opened under new management. The alley, owned by Tommy Bowling along with a group of investors, will appropriately be called "Bowling's Bowl." It is expected to open around the first of June, Bowling said in making the announcement. The alley will be completely renovated according to Bowling, with machinery to arrive for installation around the first of May. The alley, located on 25 Mile Avenue, will contain 16 lanes. Bowling indicated that leagues would be formed in the Fall. He added that announcements as to the manager, hours of operation, and cost of play would be released at a later date.

TEN YEARS AGO

Taking time out for the rest between district and regional track meets proved to be a fruitful occasion for the Hereford Whiteface cindersmen when they traveled to Andrews for the Mustang Relays....It seems everywhere you look in Deaf Smith County these days there is some type of construction going on. The new Family Medical Clinic is framed in the construction of a new pharmacy, both in west Hereford along the Harrison Highway; the work is also being done on a new road just east of La Plata Junior High in northwest Hereford and the Hereford Municipal Airport a new hanger is under construction. Also, just east of the city near U.S. 60 there is a major gas company taking a pipeline through the county.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A tornado Saturday afternoon at about 4 p.m. destroyed a two-car garage on the W.E. Holcomb farm three miles north of Summerfield. The garage, which was valued at about $500, had been just recently completed. Hereford voters Tuesday named Henry Sears as Mayor. Wayne Edwards and D.C. Kinsey, councilmen. The election was the first to be held under the new City Charter form of government and although the three were unopposed on the ticket, 150 votes were cast in election.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Final preparations are being made for the big J.C. Sanders cattle sale of Anxiety 4th Herefords. The sale will take place at the Hereford Sales Pavilion on April 25th, beginning at 1:00 p.m. Mr. Sanders, in introducing Springvale 1298173 says: "Springvale is a bull I am sure that will meet the approval of the most particular Hereford breeder who appreciates a Hereford bull with a good head and horn, plenty of size and bone, a soft mellow curly coat of hair and a pedigree that represents some of the best cattle of the Hereford breed. Practically every cow offered in this sale will have a calf standing by her side and I am sure you will be convinced of real quality when you see them."

Bergland Takes Shot at Markets

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland likes to take a swing occasionally at the farm commodities markets which he confesses puzzle him with their price reactions to seemingly trivial events.

Bergland jabbed them again last week when he held a news conference at a meeting of the American Agricultural Editors Association here.

"Unlike the stock market where most investors are skilled, professional portfolio managers, the commodity markets are influenced by rumors and hearsay," Bergland said.

The primary target in this case was the Chicago Board of Trade and its futures markets which involve the buying and selling of grain and other commodities for delivery at a future time.

Last Nov. 13, Bergland said, the corn market "went up three cents that morning because the sun shone through the clouds over Chicago," and caused traders to react.

"That had little or nothing to do with the supply or demand for corn, but it's symptomatic of the kinds of things that can get under way," Bergland said.

Another example is the recent reduction in Brazil's soybean crop because of bad weather, he said.

"I am amazed at how a relatively small change in the crop prospects for soybeans in Brazil can send that Chicago soybean market into a panic," Bergland said. "The difference of half a million tons, 20 million bushels, more or less, in Brazil, and that market goes wild. Why, they spill more than that in Illinois."

Bergland, who removed his coat and was obviously enjoying his shirt-sleeved talk with the Farm magazine editors, returned later in the news conference to the subject of markets when he told about plans to buy 200 million bushels of wheat from the open market to use as a U.S. food reserve to help in case of foreign hunger emergencies.

A bill is in Congress now which would give Bergland the specific authority to create the reserve. However, he has acknowledged that he has had the legal authority all along to buy the grain and keep it for that purpose until Congress gives him formal approval.

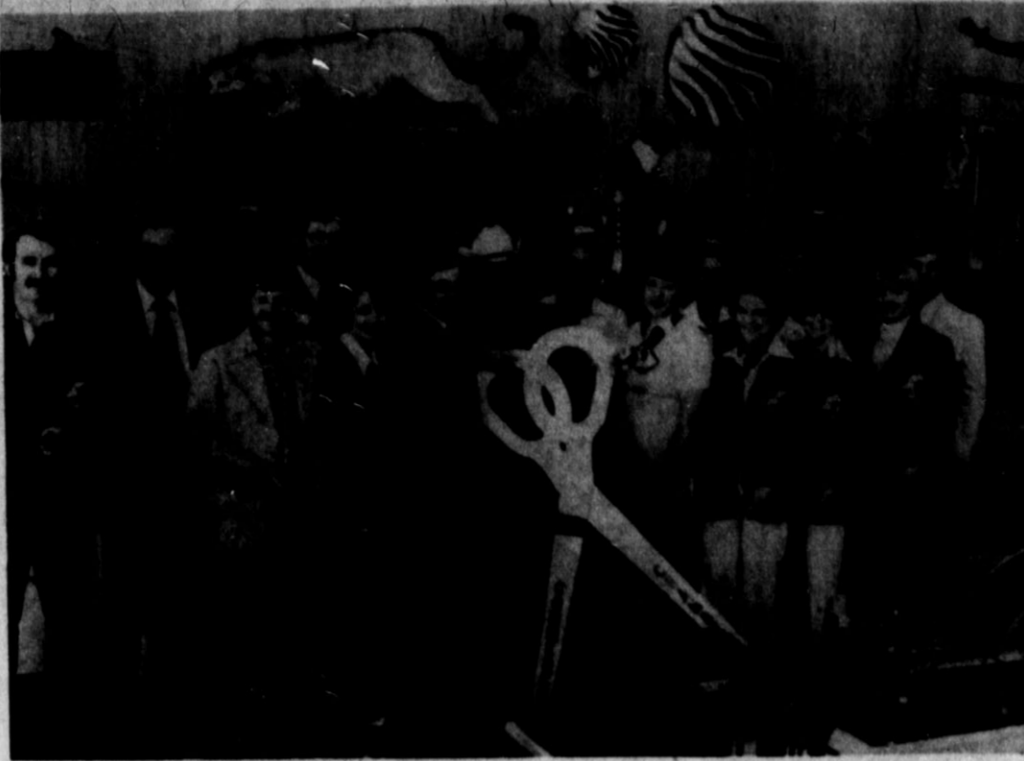

By delaying since the international reserve was announced last summer, wheat prices have gone up appreciably. That means the 200 million bushels Bergland intends to buy will cost about 40 percent more than it would have last August. But Bergland told the editors that he is not saying when he will buy the grain and that those who speculate on commodity markets should be careful.

"I'm just telling people in the gambling business, 'you'd better not get yourself very short committed to selling very long because I'm coming at you.' So no one dares sell because they don't know when I'm going to buy, and I'm not going to tell," Bergland said.

"That means that markets are going to continue to show some signs of strength," he said.

Today's senior citizens are low on the U.S. totem pole in income, mobility and political power. A key reason could be their lack of education, according to a Conference Board analysis. Nearly 60 percent of the U.S. population over 65 stopped school at the end of the eighth grade. In contrast, some 80 percent of those between 25 and 64 have had one or more years of high school.

Ribbon Cutting

Reese Lawson and Mike Bradford have announced the opening of L&B Enterprises, 700 E. Park, a general-merchandise store and the site of a Hereford Mustangs ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday. The store is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and stocks "all kinds of things—tools, clothes, jewelry, arts and crafts" according to Lawson. (Brand photo)

Broadcasters' Head Fears Consumer Laws

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Not long ago, federal agencies such as the Federal Communications Commission often were accused of being a bit too cozy with the industries they regulate.

Is it unfair to say the broadcast industry now worries that the federal regulations may get too cozy with consumer activists?

"That certainly is the fear we have, yes," said Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Last week, in a speech to NAB members, he voiced concern that "informal alliances appear to be forming among supposedly independent regulatory agencies and branches of government."

Public-interest lawyers who previously "were formenting petitions to deny" broadcast licenses in many cities now hold top and mid-level posts in government and regulatory agencies, he said.

Wasilewski described them as "informally bonded together by the cement of philosophical agreement." He said all this in a speech at the annual NAB convention in Las Vegas, Nev.

After the talk, he was asked what sort of climate he feels this "informal alliance" of former public-interest barristers may create in official Washington.

It's "a climate of change," he said, and "the worry on the part of the broadcast industry concerns what this change is going to be."

He cited something the NAB opposes: a Federal Trade

Commission proposal to limit TV commercials aimed at kids and ban the ads that tout highly sugared food products.

"It's a wonderment," said Wasilewski, "about what'll happen if the FTC succeeds in removing certain ads for children."

"Will the FCC then step in and say, 'Although those ads are precluded, you're still obligated to carry children's programs even though you lack the financial support you had before?'"

He meant the revenue from the sugar-food ads that now appear on Saturday morning shows for children on television.

"It's this type of thing, a Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance kind of situation" that worries broadcasters, the NAB chief said.

His organization represents CBS, NBC, ABC and 4,500 radio and 550 TV stations. He was asked if, should the Federal Trade Commission's proposals be adopted, the NAB will go to court to battle them.

"Yes, we'll be involved" in any legal action, he said.

Despite worries about the regulators of broadcasting, he says he found nothing disturbing in the premiere speech of the new FCC chairman, Charles D. Ferris, at the finale of the NAB convention.

Ferris vowed independence, advocated less regulation, called for more responsibility by broadcasters and emphasized he'll be even-handed with broadcasters and consumers alike.

He put the broadcast industry on notice that his agency's "only constituency is the public" and said "no industry we regulate will be regarded as a 'constituent.'"

Wasilewski, whose constituency is located at 5,050 stations and three networks, nonetheless later praised the FCC chairman's speech as "very well-balanced and good."

Christians Don Stars In Response to Nazis

NEW YORK (AP) - With pockets of new Nazis pressing to parade their anti-Jewish emblems, many Christians plan to resort to an old Danish tactic. They'll wear the yellow Star of David.

It was the so-called "badge of shame" that Jews were required to wear under the Hitler regime, marking them for degradation and potential extermination.

But extensive arrangements were being made for Christians across the United States to wear it this week as a "badge of honor."

It will be a "witness of their solidarity with Jews," says the Rev. Donald W. McEvoy, program director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He adds it also will be a "symbolic declaration that Jews will never again stand alone and be victimized by the Nazi ideology of persecution and genocide" and a mark of Christian-Jewish friendship.

Although a Nazi group has been temporarily stayed by a court from a march in the Chicago suburb of Skokie, Ill., April 22, it still could come after a delay. Similar demonstrations have occurred elsewhere.

In any case, Christian groups in more than 100 cities report they're organizing events to affirm opposition to the anti-Jewish, anti-black views of Nazism as utterly contrary to Christianity.

Christian ties to Judaism will be conveyed in part by wearing the "star" - a tactic derived from Nazi occupied Denmark in 1943 when all Jews there were ordered to wear it as required by the Nazis.

But the late Danish King Christian reportedly told the Nazi administrators: "If the Jews are required to wear the yellow star, I and my whole family will wear it as a badge of honor."

As a result, the Nazi order was withdrawn and Danish Jews never were forced to wear the star. But ever since, for Christians to wear it conveys strongly their support and alliance with Jews.

"Whether or not the swastika is paraded in Skokie, that ideology is current in this country and Christians are going to display their opposition to it," says McEvoy, a Christian Church Disciples of Christ minister.

The observances began Sunday, April 16, with a large open-air worship service in Skokie led by Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish clergy.

Related services are planned that day elsewhere, such as at New York's Riverside Church, with some churches to distribute the "star" at special services Thursday, suggesting members wear it to work or school through the week.

The events are to culminate Saturday, April 22, with "solidarity walks" in many cities and towns. "We intend to make it a national day of Christian-Jewish solidarity," McEvoy says.

In most cases, Christian congregations wearing the star will walk in a body to a nearby synagogue, usually at about the end of closing Sabbath services, with Jews and Christians then joining in services memorializing 6 million Jews slain under Nazism.

That holocaust also was being depicted in a four-part NBC television dramatization April 16-19.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Train, don't strain

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 17-year-old boy of average height and weight. Recently I became interested in body building. I plan to build my muscles up a lot. Do certain types of foods have to be eaten to build muscles? If so what kinds? In an article I read about body building a man said he was told by his doctor that he was working his way to a heart attack.
Can body building cause this?
If so why? How often should one work out?

DEAR READER — Considering the fads about eating that surround body building it might be proper to say that a person on such a fad could be eating his way to a heart attack. Some body builders mistakenly think you have to eat rich foods that contain a lot of fat and to restrict your endurance activity such as running.
That is not necessary and is foolish.

Health Letter number 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control, to give you more details on the diet and muscle building. It will also provide information on how often you need to work out. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

No, you don't need to eat a lot of high-priced protein foods to accomplish body building. Just keep in mind that the body breaks food down and reassembles it for growth or uses it for energy.
If you want to grow a pound of lean muscle the best food for it is a pound of lean meat, such as round steak.
If your body is stimulated by exercise to increase its muscle size one pound and you eat a pound of lean round steak, the body will use that muscle protein from beef to build your muscle protein.
The proteins in beef or muscle from any animal are about the same as the protein in your body muscles.

At your age you need about 56 grams of protein a day and there are 100 grams of protein in each pound of muscle you grow. All of which means if you consume 100 grams of good protein a day from milk, or dairy products and from the meat group you will be getting plenty of protein to build all the new muscles your exercise program can support.

The other requirement
then is to eat enough calories so you won't need to use the protein in your food for energy to run your body. You can get those calories from vegetables, fruit or cereals so you can eat a good wholesome balanced diet for your program without resorting to fads or supplements.
I'm sending you The

In general you need to work out about every other day, or three days a week with a day of rest between work out days. And the most important feature of your work out is to select the right weight, one you can lift easily three times in succession but have difficulty lifting nine times. By progressively increasing the weight you have to lift you can stimulate your muscles to increase in size.

I have some reservations about how much lifting you should do at your age. I prefer for people to wait until the skeleton matures to do really heavy lifting. That means you should not try lifting weights in excess of your own body weight.
You'll end up with a better body if you don't do too much too soon. And remember you should train — don't strain. The end result is a lot more satisfactory.

Activity Room Occupies Space Normal For Den, Living Room And Dining Room

PLAN FOR A NARROW LOT

FEATURE HOMES
© By W. D. Farmer
The separate foyer directs traffic to the bedroom wing or activity room. The activity room is an enormous 15'6" by 21', and has larger appearance by illusion due to vaulted ceiling. The fireplace is at the end of the room allowing enough distance for furniture placement to avoid excessive direct heat.
The dining room is sized for dual use, that is, for family and/or guest accommodation and is provided with glass sliding door access to terrace.
The U-shape kitchen is well-planned and includes built-ins.
Extra counter-top and cabinets are on opposite wall. Adjacent to the kitchen is the laundry area and double garage entry.
There are two bedrooms on the first floor, each with access to private powder room and dual tub compartment.
Clothes and linen closets are exceptional.
The basement stair is directly from the foyer. The lower level can be developed in a variety of ways. The designer has chosen a large playroom with bar and half bath and undeveloped basement and storage space.
The exterior Early American style is enhanced by cupola over garage, vertical sliding, divided and diamond-lite windows and stone wainscot.
The plan is Number 350. It includes 1,342 square feet on the main floor with 663 square feet of finished basement. For further information write W.
D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463,
Atlanta, Ga. 30359.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

Wants to frame a puzzle

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I hope some of the readers can tell me how to prepare a 1,000-piece jigsaw puzzle for framing. — R.M.
DEAR R.M. — I am sure some reader will come up with a better solution but you could cut a piece of plywood or very heavy cardboard to the size of the finished puzzle, cover with an all-purpose glue and then an inter-locking puzzle might slide right onto it.
I would weight it all down until very dry so it would be completely flat. It seems it would then be ready for framing. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To help sluggish drains work better put one-fourth cup baking soda in the drain and then one-half cup vinegar. Close, if possible, for 10 minutes and then run the water. — GRANDMA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who like to dry their clothes outside when it is all possible. To avoid sorting socks twice hang both socks close together and when dry roll each pair together as you take them from the line.
Before painting wooden knobs poke holes in a stack of newspapers and insert the screw bolts in the holes. Screw on the knobs and you are ready to brush or spray paint the knobs. — JOAN

DEAR POLLY — In order to retain the shape and firmness of a mattress it is a good idea to flip it head to foot and from one side to the other on a regular basis. To remind each of us I have sewn a tag on one corner of each mattress pad and on it have written in indelible ink "Flip me". — L.L.

Sophia Loren Faces Charges Of Illegally Exporting Art

ROME (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren, already named as an accomplice in her husband's currency-transfer case, was charged last week with illegally exporting art objects worth more than $3 million.

Rome Prosecutor Paolo Dell'Anno, investigating the financial status of Miss Loren and her husband, film producer Carlo Ponti, also accused the 43-year-old actress of establishing unspecified funds abroad without informing Italian officials.

The prosecutor revealed that American actress Ava Gardner and Irish actor Richard Harris have been charged in connection with the Ponti case. He said they were named for allegedly accepting payments in dollars rather than Italian lire for work done in Italy. In all, more than 20 persons have been charged in the case. Most are bank officials.

On April 1, Dell'Anno announced an arrest warrant had been issued for the 65-year-old Ponti, producer of France does not allow extradition of its citizens for trial in another country, but court sources said Ponti could be tried in absentia.

The Milan newspaper Corriere della Sera reported earlier that the couple's remaining real estate and art collection, estimated at $45 million, have been confiscated by prosecutors pending the outcome of the case.

The prosecution claims Ponti transferred most of his fortune abroad — reportedly to France, Switzerland and Liechtenstein — through his production company, Champion.

Proposals Would Cut Federal Air Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jetting off to your favorite American resort next year may be considerably cheaper under new government proposals that would cut away federal regulations and let airlines slash their ticket prices by as much as one-half.

The radical shift proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board on last week would allow the reductions without the board's advance approval. Current price ceilings would remain in effect.

The airlines also could hike fares back to current ceiling prices, or anywhere in between, without approval if they found them financially unsound.

The rule, which probably could not go into effect until 1979, is expected to set off a price war and provide passengers with a permanent fare reductions unlike the current bargain packages that are of limited length and come with strings attached.

Regular coach fare between Washington and Boston, for example, is now $59. The run is one which consumer experts see likely to feel the maximum cut - reducing prices to $29 or $30.

Transcontinental travel is another likely prospect for cut rates.

Round trip tourist fares between New York and Los Angeles are $426. A flight from Chicago to Miami now costs $240. Both are expected to be shaved by nearly 50 percent if the new rule stands up.

The potential rate cuts would apply to normal service on regular schedules, and unlike the current bargain packages they would not require advance ticket purchase or trips of certain duration.

Under present rules airlines must file domestic rate changes, along with a stack of legal briefs, 45 days in advance of their effective date. Under the new system, a reduction by up to 50 percent could be imposed automatically.

Fares now are set by the board, pegged to market conditions, including miles traveled, airport landing fees and a profit margin of about 12 percent, and are applied uniformly to airlines in the same market.

The board would reserve the right to suspend new fares but said this would be done only "in unusual circumstances."

The luxury-minded would also get a break under the proposed rule with the removal of federal requirement of a substantial differential between first class and coach prices.

The rule proposal is subject to a period public comment before the board begins final consideration. Comments may be filed through May 10 and responses to these through May 22.

Then the board will study the comments and promulgate a final rule. This, too, will be subject to the filing of objections. CAB sources indicate the whole process could take the rest of this year, but they say the proposal is expected to be adopted.

Desai Claims Device Lost

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Prime Minister Morarji Desai said Monday that a nuclear monitoring device was lost in the Himalayas in 1965 during a mission carried out jointly by the United States and India "with the approval of the highest political level of the government of India at the time."

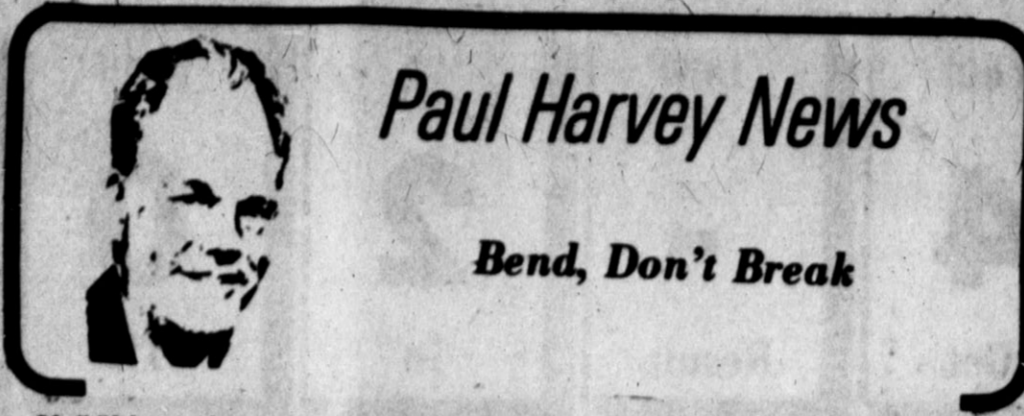

But the prime minister told Parliament there should be no cause for alarm about possible radiation poisoning.

In a 1,200-word report to Parliament, Desai confirmed the basic details of an American magazine story published last week which outlined super-secret expeditions into the world's highest mountains in the 1960s to plant devices to monitor missile development in China.

The device's power unit, containing two to three pounds of plutonium-238 in "leaktight capsules," was left behind in a blizzard about 23,000 feet up Mount Nanda Devi, Desai said. It could not be found the following spring because of an avalanche, he said.

"It is unfortunate that nature intervened to prevent for the future, as we now find it, a continuing source of apprehension and anxiety," Desai said. "However, as far as I see, no cause for alarm on grounds of health or environmental hazards exists."

He said the government was appointing a committee of scientists to study and seek expert advice for protection against potential hazards.

Bend, Don't Break

Of all life's experiences what would you think most depletes the survivor?

Of all the distressful situations that may arise in a lifetime, which would you figure takes the most out of you? Going to jail? No. Going to war? No. Fired from your job? No. Pregnancy? No.

There is an enormous literature on the subject of "stress," but the intellectual fountainhead of this research since World War II is Dr. Hans Selye of McGill, University, Montreal.

He has defined in physiological terms "what stress is."

His two volumes on the subject are highly respected texts though largely nontechnical: "The Stress of Life" and "Stress Without Distress." Selye has been able to articulate in lay language the scientific basis of all conventional wisdom we now have on the subject of stress.

Harvard's Prof. Herbert Benson, taking up where Selye leaves off, prescribes the now generally accepted stress response: self-induced relaxation.

Though some narrow cults have emerged from Benson's "General Adaptation Syndrome," the self-induced relaxation he recommends need not be nearly so complicated as some of the practitioners are trying to make it.

These two scholars, in their exhaustive stress related research, reached similar conclusions about which problems are hardest for us to face up to. Just knowing this can be important in preparing a response that might save your sanity or your life.

A scale has been prepared by Holmes and Rahe which they call "the social readjustment scale."

They have made a list of those "life events" that really "wring you out" emotionally—the worst first.

What happens to us under stress—the cardiac speedup that floods our muscles with extra hemoglobin—was a lifesaver in the days when men needed that "fight-or-flight response" to a marauding saber-toothed tiger or a hostile neighbor.

But today's stressful situations—usually social, economic or professional—cannot be resolved with either "fight or flight" and so our blood pressure and catecholamine levels are left chronically elevated and unrelieved, creating a deleterious strain on the heart.

So learning to relax—not with booze or pills but with exercise and a warm bath—can relieve crisis situations.

Now—what of all life's experiences puts us under the greatest sustained strain? Number one is the death of a spouse. Ten times more widows and widowers die during the first year following the death of a spouse.

The second most difficult stress experience? Divorce.

Briscoe Musters More Endorsements

By The Associated Press
Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe has a wide lead over Attorney General John Hill in endorsements by daily newspaper.

A check by the Associated Press of state campaign headquarters showed last week that Briscoe has seven endorsements, compared to only one for Hill.

In all, thirteen daily newspapers have taken sides in the Democratic governor's race and the race for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

Briscoe has been backed editorially by the Abilene Reporter-News, the Houston Chronicle, Galveston News, Wichita Falls Record-News, Laredo Times, Del Rio News-Herald and the Port Arthur News.

Hill has been endorsed in the governor's race by the Kilgore News Herald.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, has been endorsed by the Abilene Reporter-News, the San Angelo Standard-Times, the Dallas Times Herald, and the Snyder Daily News in his race for the U.S. Senate nomination. His opponent, Joe Christie, has been endorsed by the El Paso Times, his hometown newspaper.

Christie says he will leave it up to the appropriate committees in Congress whether Krueger has showed "whole-sale and cynical disregard for the regulations of the House" by using 11 of his congressional employees in his campaign. Christie said last year the 11 employees received federal salaries totaling $73,952 during the time the Krueger campaign reimbursed them for $6,416 in travel expenses.

Krueger said he will travel into virtually every region of Texas the next nine days on a campaign trip that will touch the Gulf Coast, Panhandle, Central Texas, East and West Texas and the far south region of the state. Traveling to more than 35 cities, Krueger will take part in a "mini-car caravan" that began Friday in Dallas and went on to Orange and Beaumont.

Hill took part in the organization of "The 200 Women," a group made up of 200 women who have given at least $100 each to Hill. Organizer of the group was Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards of Austin.

Speaking at a news conference at Houston, Briscoe said "Mr. Hill poses as a candidate for the times when in reality he is a throwback. His style of politics is to attempt to answer every problem with more problems and more government. This has been disastrous to other states."

Civiletti Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Judiciary Committee Friday approved the nomination of Benjamin R. Civiletti to be deputy attorney general.

The panel also agreed to meet next week to consider Republican demands for a special prosecutor who would investigate the dismissal of David Marston as U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

The vote on President Carter's nomination of Civiletti, now an assistant attorney general and acting deputy, as the No. 2 official in the Justice Department was 10-2, with Republican Sens. Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming and Paul Laxalt of Nevada voting against confirmation.

The vote sends the nomination to the full Senate for approval.

Wallop said he voted against Civiletti because he questioned his credibility, had doubts about his commitment to equal justice and was not satisfied that he was a competent administrator.

He said his doubts about Civiletti's credibility arose from conflicts between his testimony and that of other witnesses. Specifically, he recalled that Russell T. Baker Jr., now acting assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, said in an affidavit that he told Civiletti last Nov. 25 that an investigation of Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., was "alive," but Civiletti said he had no recollection of Baker ever discussing the Eilberg case with him.

Although both Civiletti and Baker downplayed this difference in their testimonies, Wallop said it appeared to him to be "much more than a mere conflict in memories."
